GIRL SAVES BABE FROM THE FLAMES

School Teacher Rushes into Blazing Home and Emerges, Fainting, With Infant.

Minneapolis, March 9.—With the thermometer at zero, and clad only in a night dress, Miss Cryll, teacher of the school at Huska Lake, Minnesota, rushed into a burning house early yesterday morning, and at the risk of her life brought from the house the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Whitney.

When she reappeared in the street with the child clasped in her arms, her hair, which had been badly burned by the flames, was the only covering she had.

Miss Cryll boarded at the Whitney home. When the fire broke out, she in company with Mr. and Mrs. Whitney, rushed into the street, forgetting the child. Suddenly above the roar of the flames the cries of the child were heard.

Miss Cryll recovered her presence of mind instantly and darted into the building, from which the flames were bursting. How she fought her way to the child the young woman does not remember, but she kept on in spite of the fact that her night dress was burning off, and the flames cooked her delicate body. Her hair, she pulled in front of her face and was thus enabled to breathe. When she reappeared with the child clasped to her bosom and fell fainting in the street, she was immediately lifted and taken to a neighbor's house, where she received attention.

GENERAL BOTHA WILL VERY LIKELY SURRENDER

But Steyn and De Wet Propose to Conduct a War of Revenge—The Negotiations With Botha Urged on by His Wife.

London, Saturday, March 9.—The negotiations between Lord Kitchener and Gen. Botha are in abeyance, says the Pretoria correspondent of the Times, wiring Wednesday, pending an answer from the British government. The Daily Chronicle, referring to the armistice at Pretoria, says:—"We learn that the untiring agent in bringing about the negotiations was Mrs. Botha, who was deeply affected by the hopeless plight of the Boers, and did her utmost to induce her husband to accept the British terms. Unfortunately the meeting of Feb. 27 was limited by Gen. Botha's request to know Lord Kitchener's terms. Lord Kitchener replied that a general amnesty would be granted to all who surrendered, as well as to all prisoners, except those Cape Dutch, who, being British subjects, had actively fomented Boer resistance. General De Wet and Mr. Steyn were, however, expressly excluded from the amnesty. Lord Kitchener further promised that if peace were concluded, the government would assist in rebuilding the farmhouses and other buildings destroyed under military exigencies, would reimburse the lawful owners, and would help them stock their farms. Those guilty of acts of treach-ery would be excluded from the benefits. Gen. Botha appeared satisfied with the conditions, and the armistice being arranged, he proceeded to consult his officers, a vast majority of whom accepted the terms.

De Wet and Steyn both remained irreconcilable. They declined any terms, De Wet adding that on his part the war had become one of revenge, and he intended to do all the mischief he could.

It is probable that the original armistice of a week has been extended. It is believed that the remainder of Gen. Botha's officers have now been won round, and that he is likely formally to submit to Lord Kitchener on March 11, when his forces will surrender to Gen. French.

According to our information, Lord Kitchener's dispositions made the speedy capture of Gen. Botha's forces quite certain. Gen. Botha frankly accepted the situation, and was treated by Lord Kitchener at both interviews with the greatest consideration." A Cape Town despatch says:—Five hundred Boers surrounded 50 of Driscoll's scouts on March 2 at a Kraal near Doornburg. The scouts held out for a day and night before relief reached them. The Boers captured 17.

LIFE LIKE BIG BATTLE

Where Angels of the Lord Encamped Around the Re-deemed.

Evangelists Crossley and Hunter Continue Their Successful Meetings.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, Crossley and Hunter preached to a fairly large audience last evening. These meetings are continually growing in interest and power and are becoming more attractive every night.

Mr. Hunter chose as a topic for his remarks the 32nd Psalm. He gave a touching appeal to all those who have not accepted Christ as their savior. "In this Psalm," said he, "we read that the Psalmist is in great distress of mind. He reminds me very much of a certain government official who once came to me and told me he had something on his conscience that he wished to tell to some confiding person. He said that for a long time, and at the time of speaking, he had an uncontrollable desire to commit suicide. We knelt down in his office," continued Mr. Hunter, "and there and then he found Christ. It is often that way with us. We long for some one in whom we have confidence, in whose sympathetic ear we can tell of our sins. God, however, is the only one who can forgive us our transgressions, and we should never be backward in confessing to Him. There are, however, some sins that we commit that it was never intended they should be told to any human being. These confessions are for God alone. 'Thou art my hiding place,' says the Psalmist. Surely if we trust in Christ, we are as safe in Chatham as we would be before the Great White Throne. We are as pilgrims going out into the world and Christ should be our guide. One of the qualifications of a guide is that he should know the way. Another is that he should be able to protect. Christ is well adapted for this duty in both these respects."

The last thought Mr. Hunter brought forward was that, "The Angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear Him." He described the scene as a battlefield on which were a circle of tents where were encamped the Angels of the Lord. All those who were within this circle had nothing to fear and could rest in peace.

Mr. Crossley's sermon was based on the words, "Search the scriptures." He emphasized the fact that the Bible was practically a library of 66 books and in order to enjoy the things that are contained therein you must read it one look at a time. "Some people," said he, "doubt their personal purity because they find it a task to read their Bibles. They find their readings uninteresting and unprofitable. In order to avoid this, we must read the Bible, first carefully, then reverently, not in a cursory manner but with the remembrance that it is God's word and not man's. Then we must read intelligently with a desire to learn, and not with a desire to criticise and we must read investigatively."

Then also we should read the Bible prayerfully and trustingly; trusting because it is the word of God and the Bible says, "The scriptures cannot be broken." We should also read it understandingly. This knowledge is gained largely by experience. We should also read repeatedly, every day, and savingly and we need food for the spirit as well as for the body and this spiritual food is only to be found in the word of God. Mr. Crossley closed his sermon by singing a number of songs which bore reference to his text.

All through the service the best of order was maintained and the audience seemed greatly impressed.

CIVIC DEBENTURES MUST RUN THEIR FULL TERMS

The Finance Committee Seem to Think the C. C. I. Expenditure Rather High.

The civic finance committee met yesterday afternoon in Harrison Hall. Chairman Stone and Ald. Cowan were present. Ald. McGee being out of the city. The city clerk asked the committee if the terms of years for local improvement debentures should remain the same. At present local improvement debentures were issued as follows:—Sewers 20 years, granolithic walks 15 years and plank walks 10 years.

Ald. Stone said that the large debenture debt at present carried by the city was the only thing against shortening the time.

Ald. Cowan wanted to know, if, when any waterworks or gas pipes were to be put in, on King St., the granolithic walks were to be torn up. He thought that the owners of property should be compelled to tunnel from their own cellars. This would be easier and better than pulling up the sidewalks as had been done in front of Donihue Martin's place.

It was decided to call the attention of the board of works to this. In regard to the account of Newsome & Co., $7.50, for stationery for the city solicitor, the committee will recommend no action.

THE RENT RATE HIGH.

The annual financial report of the C. C. I. was taken up. The total expenditure was $9,754.43, which Ald. Cowan figured to be at the rate of $48.777 per pupil. (Despite the statements to the contrary, the finance committee found that the C. C. I. board had overdrawn their estimate $104.17.)

Ald. Cowan wanted to know if there was no limit to the amount the C. C. I. board could spend.

Ald. Stone said that there was none. It would, however, be a good idea to get a list of the salaries paid the teachers.

The request of the Single Tax Association for assistance in petitioning the Legislature, was considered. The chairman said that the idea of the association was that the land should bear all the taxes.

Ald. Cowan—Well, improvements do regulate the value of the land.

Ald. Stone—I don't think a man should be taxed for improvements to his house which adds to the appearance and not to the usefulness of the building. When he improves the appearance of his house he embellishes the city also.

The agreement with the Chatham

Mineral Water Co. was discussed. It provides that the right to pipe the streets and exemption from taxes. The council of 1900 entered into the agreement and the finance committee had to do was to see that it was all right.

Ald. Cowan thought the franchise should be for 20 years, and not for ever, but he did not think it would be right to spoil the prospect of getting the baths by raising an objection now.

No action was decided on in regard to the request from St. Thomas for financial assistance in the building of a monument to the late Queen in the railroad city. Ald. Cowan said that any money Chatham had to spend in such monuments would be erected in Chatham.

SCHEMES A SWEEPING ONE

For the Reorganization of the British Army.

The Force to be increased by 126,000 men in addition to 45,000 Volunteers.

London, March 9.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Brodrick, Secretary of War, prefaced his introduction of the army estimates for 1901-1902 by saying that the war in South Africa had brought to light many faults even in those portions of the army system which were believed to be best. He complained of the scanty and reluctant support that the government's proposals for strengthening had received in the commons. Mr. Brodrick then proceeded to divulge the war office proposals, which contemplate the ability to send abroad three army corps, with a division of cavalry, in all 120,000 men, and at the same time to have a sufficient force for home defences. The War Office proposals further contemplate that the country be divided into six districts, each district representing an army corps, and each commanded by an officer who had commanded troops in time of war. The artillery was obviously insufficient, and the field artillery must be supplemented by heavier guns. The army must be provided with a much larger body of mounted men and transport and the musketry drill needed improving. It was a question between the voluntary and compulsory systems. He adhered to the former, under which 140,000 men had offered themselves for the war. Compulsion would therefore be like applying the spur to a willing horse, and would be disastrous. The government could not hope to get rid of European engagements. It could not shut out the possibility of having to despatch forces to defend the British possessions abroad.

PROPOSED REORGANIZATION.

Mr. Brodrick then entered into details concerning the proposed reorganization of the army. He said the object of the government in dividing the country into six districts was to centralize the responsibility and decentralize the administration. The three army corps to be entirely composed of regulars, would be stationed at Aldershot, Salisbury, and in Ireland. The other three army corps, to include six battalions of militia and volunteers, would be stationed at Colchester, York and Edinburgh. The government, in addition, proposed to raise eight battalions for garrison duty, from men about to enter the re-

A CANADIAN LLOYDS.

The statement that Mr. Clergue and other capitalists have approached the Dominion Government for the purpose of establishing a "Canadian Lloyd's," will no doubt raise the query in many minds as to what such a scheme involves.

In the Old Land "Lloyd's" consists of a set of rooms on the first floor of the Royal Exchange, London, frequented by merchants, shipowners, underwriters, etc., for the purpose of obtaining shipping intelligence and transacting marine insurance. One large room, with small rooms attached to it, is set apart for the use of underwriters, and there two enormous ledgers, he constantly open, the one containing the list of vessels arriving at the various ports, the other recording disasters at sea. There is a most complete system for securing marine information from all quarters of the globe and a statement by "Lloyd's" is regarded as final with regard to shipping matters. Fees are of course charged.

VICTORY FOR MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

The county council elections last week in London, England, resulted in an overwhelming majority for the Progressive party, which is pledged to municipal ownership. The water, gas, electric light and transportation of the World's metropolises are under the control of a vast number of companies who have monopolies in their districts, and who in the past have blocked every effort at reform. The Moderate party which has been backing these corporations has been swept out of sight by the householders. The Progressives are pledged to acquisition of the water works plants or the establishment of new municipal plants. The council already owns a number of the street car lines, and will proceed to the construction of numerous new ones in an endeavor to give London adequate transportation. The council has always undertaken the construction of model tenements for housing the poor, which will greatly increase building operations. After years of municipal lethargy, London has suddenly awakened to the inauguration of a sweeping advance.

The inaugural show at Washington was very good in its way, but wait till King Edward's coronation comes off.

Lord Wolsey says he has tried the British military system for five years and has found it wanting. The Boers made the same discovery in a much shorter time.

Lord Roberts publicly commits himself to the statement that he "had never heard of a single complaint of a British soldier being rude or behaving improperly to a Boer woman," and the world is likely to believe him, for teller.

Donald R. Farquharson has been appointed collector of customs at Chatham, Ontario, in succession to the late Rufus Stepienew. The appointment was made within one week after the death of the late incumbent. If government appointments were always made with equal promptitude it would be better for all parties concerned.

The Expositor thus mildly intimates its disgust at the delay of the troubling Ross government in filling the Human registration, now years vacant.

Captain Pearson, a prominent Australian, who made a tour of this country last year, pays this tribute to Canada: "I wish to say here that during the fortnight I was in Canada I did not see a drunken man or a bad woman. I did not see a beggar, or a badly dressed person. I found the Canadians the most courteous and hospitable people I ever came across. The officials on railways and tramways do not think it lowering to their dignity to be polite, as they do on our government railways."

The most striking feature of McKinley's second inauguration was the great military pageant. This feature was both significant and appropriate as marking the beginning of a new era for the republic. The pursuit of happiness was the ideal of the old republic; the pursuit of anything that can be captured is the ideal of the new.

Over in Tipton, Indiana, a man was about to be lynched for brutal assault on a young girl, when it was discovered that he was a white man and was wealthy. Immediately a regiment of soldiers turned out and the police fell over each other in their mad rush to his assistance. The lynching was postponed indefinitely, and probably the next thing we hear the man will be running for office.

Shr. Wilfrid Laurier has given notice of a bill to amend the Alien Labor Act, which may amount to something more than a pame. The amendment, it is understood, will apply against

Scrofula

Is a disease as old as antiquity, and as young as the newest born infant.

It has infested the blood of humanity from ancient times down to the present minute.

It is hereditary or may be acquired. It appears in swollen glands, scrofulous sores, hip disease, boils, pimples, eruptions, and, as believed by high authorities, even in the forms of catarrh and rheumatism.

It can be cured by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla faithfully and persistently. We know this, because Hood's Sarsaparilla has done it.

It will cure you if you give it a trial. You should begin to take it today.

Hip Disease—"I suffered from hip disease; had 5 running sores; used crutches and each winter I was confined to my bed for weeks at a time. Hood's Sarsaparilla has accomplished a perfect cure—saved my life. I have a good appetite and feel strong and well." ANNE ROSS, 49 Fourth St., Fall River, Mass.

In Her Eyes—"My little girl had scrofula and sores appeared in her eyes. A few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla entirely cured her and she has never had scrofula since." Mrs. HOWARD PORK, Alpha, Oregon. N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

Residents as well as citizens of the United States, and will not permit the hiring of alien labor by advertisement. The law may be put in operation either by the provincial attorney-general or by county judges. It is to be regretted that the unneighborliness of our neighbors renders such an act necessary; but perhaps stringent law strictly enforced would be the best means possible of bringing our friends to a better state of mind. The export duty on Ontario logs, which has shut up the Michigan saw mills, has been the means of bringing a good many Americans to see the lumber tariff in a different light.

DONNELLY'S PRETTY WIT.

They are telling this good story of the late Ignatius Donnelly. He was once rudely interrupted in the course of a political speech by a head of cabbage thrown from the audience. "Gentlemen," he said mildly, "I only ask your ears; I do not care for your heads."

WAR WITH JAW AND PEN.

Mr. Cannon declared in the house the other day that when our navy is completed it will be the largest in the world except that of Great Britain, who is no menace to us because Canada is a hostage against a war with that country—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Cannon would likely find Canada a warm hostage. He might spend some leisure time figuring out the problem; if 60,000 Boers keep the best organized and equipped army in the world busy for a year, how long would it take General Shafter, reinforced by a consignment of embalmed beef, to whip 600,000 Canadians to a standstill?

COLD.

The quickest relief, for a cold, is by Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

We all have colds, you can try it and see. You will find the edge taken off in a night; and, in three or four days, you'll be wondering whether that cold amounted to anything anyhow.

That's relief. If you tackle it quick, the relief is quick and complete, if you wait till the cold is in full possession of head and lung, why, of course, the relief is quick if it comes in a week.

A little emulsion won't clear and restore your whole breathing-machine in a minute; don't be looking for miracles.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like. SCOTT & BOWNE, Toronto, Canada.

OUR EDUCATION METHODS BEHIND THE TIMES.

The backwardness of Ontario in adapting her educational system to the needs of the times, is a matter for deep concern. Our industrial methods have kept up with the movements of the age, while our school system is practically as Egerton Ryerson left it thirty years ago. In methods of teaching a great advance has been made, but the subjects studied by our children are the same as those which served their grandfathers. We cannot expect to maintain our place among the nations, if we neglect to amend an obsolete system of popular education.

JEALOUS GIRL

BETRAYED HIM

Kneisel, the Noted Bavarian Bandit and Robber, in the Hands of the Authorities.

Berlin, March 9.—Kneisel, the notorious robber, upon whom an Anglo-phobia newspaper lately suggested the emperor should confer the decoration of the Black Eagle because his majesty had bestowed that decoration upon Earl Roberts, has been the victim of a Dehlah's treachery, and has been captured. He is a Bavarian bandit, who is charged with several murders. He eluded the gendarmes and troops for six months, and shot two of them. All the peasants resisted the bait of 1,000 marks offered for his capture and they aided him with food and shelter even after several of them who were discovered helping the outlaw were severely punished. Kneisel disappeared a few weeks ago, and it was thought that he had crossed the frontier, but last Sunday he suddenly appeared at a lonely farmhouse near Gelsenhofen. He was heartily received and feted. The villagers arranged an evening dance and drinking bout in his honor. During the evening, however, he managed to arouse the jealousy or anger of a young village girl, who, for revenge, went to the nearest police station and betrayed him. Police from Munich and Augsburg were summoned and surrounded the farm. In the morning the farmer and his wife were arrested for assisting Kneisel, who remained alone inside the house and refused to surrender. The police then furnished the house for an hour at which they secured it. The bandit was found in a small room. He immediately fired a revolver at the policemen, but failed to hit any of them. He was captured by the fire-wounded Kneisel in the stomach and arm, and smashing one of his wrists. He was bound and taken to Munich, where he was placed under guard in a hospital.

SENSATIONAL DOINGS THERE.

Lurid Pictures of the Inferno Drive Penitents to Seek Absolution.

Chicago American. An old-fashioned fire and brimstone sermon, delivered with all the colorful light effects that the powerful oratory and fervid metaphor of "Evangelist" E. A. Ferguson could throw about it, enlivened the noon session of the holiness convention at the First Methodist Church yesterday.

Preceding this sensational discourse Brother Ross stepped to the edge of the platform and made his customary announcement of hymn books and works of a religious nature being for sale for those who desired to purchase. He said the proceeds of these sales would be devoted to stum work.

Warning up to the subject of stum work, Mr. Ross became carried away by his ardor and delivered some scathing criticisms of local churches. "The average church in this city," he said, "is doing nothing for the poor, the abandoned and the down-trodden. It is run by laymen and capitalists and the end is to obtain more capital for fine linings and other things which in nowise carry out the work of God." "The back-sliding preachers and ministers of the various congregations here need the sanctification of holiness fully as much if not more than the average sinner."

When Mr. Ross had finished Brother Ferguson, the railroad evangelist, took the floor and for the next three-quarters of an hour he painted some hideous pictures of hell for those in all the vivid colors with which the imagination of the speaker could clothe them.

PICTURE OF THE INFERNO. The evangelist depicted a series of bodies writhing in the endless torment of damnation. He told of lakes and rivers of unquenchable flame, of horrid torments whose dreadfulness was past the power of human understanding, of devils fighting one another, and of the awful despair of the damned souls who were doomed to suffer for all eternity.

To illustrate his sermon, Mr. Ferguson gave personal experiences of flesh-bed scenes of godless men to which he had been a witness, and then he invited his hearers to come forward and be saved.

There was a rush of penitents. The Mr. Ferguson session, for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1900, which will certainly prove most satisfactory to the policy holders. We see, owing to the strong financial standing of the company that they were enabled to grant a refund of 20 per cent. on all monies received for premiums on the Mutual Plan. Those wishing to insure in this reliable company may call on Frank P. Weldon, who is agent for Chatham and vicinity. Office, Seane's Block.

On Calais Sands a little space Of silence, then the plash and spray The sound of eager waves that ran To kiss the perfumed locks astray. To touch these lips that ne'er said "Nay,"

To tally with the helpless hands, Till the deep sea in silence lay On Calais Sands!

Between the blue and the may She waits her love from alien lands; Her love is colder than the clay On Calais Sands.

A PROPOSED TREATY

Between the Pulpit and the Printing Press.

RE-ENFORCEMENT OF RELIGION

Dr. Talmage Makes a Vigorous Plea for a Warmer Friendship Between the Church and Those Connected With the Press—Each Needs the Other's Help.

Washington, March 8.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage calls for a warm friendship between those who preach the gospel and those who make newspapers, the spoken word and the printed word to go side by side; text, Luke xvi, 8, "the candle which is hid under the bushel." The children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light.

Sacred stupidity and solemn incompetence and sanctified laziness are here rebuked by Christ. He says: "The children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light." The children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light.

A marked illustration of the truth of that maxim is in the slowness of the Christian religion to take possession of the secular printing press. The opportunity is open and has been for some time open, but the ecclesiastical courts, and the churches, and the ministers of religion are for the most part allowing the golden opportunity to pass unimproved.

That the opportunity is open I declare from the fact that all the secular newspapers are glad of any religious facts or statistics that you present them. Any animated and stirring article relating to religious themes they would gladly print. They thank you for any information in regard to churches. If a wrong has been done to any Christian church or Christian institution you could go into any newspaper of the land and have the real truth stated.

Dedication services, ministerial, ordination and pastoral installations, cornerstone laying of a church, anniversary of a charitable society, will have reasonable space in any secular journal if it have previous notice given. Why, then, does not our glorious Christianity embrace these magnificent opportunities? I have before me a subject of first and last importance: How shall we secure the secular press as a re-enforcement to religion and the pulpit?

The first thing toward this result is cessation of indiscriminate hostility against newspaperdom. You might as well denounce the legal profession and the medical profession because of the quacks or the merchandise because of the swindling bargain makers as to slandering newspaperdom because there are certain editors and certain reporters. Books on diseases of men free.

Knutson, the inventor of the art of printing, was about to destroy his type and extinguish the art because it was suggested to him that printing might be subverted by the service of the devil, but afterward he bethought himself that the bright use of the art might more than overcome the evil use of it, and so he spared the type and the intelligence of all following ages. But there are many to-day in the depressed mood of Gutenberg, with upturned hammer, wanting to pound to pieces the type, who have not reached his better mood, in which he saw the art of printing to be the rising sign of the world's illumination.

If, instead of fighting newspapers, we spend the same length of time and the same vehemence in making their help in religious directions we would be as much wiser as the man who gets consent of the railroad superintendent to fasten a car to the end of a rail train, shows better sense than he who runs his wheelbarrow up the track to meet and drive back the Chicago limited express. The silliest thing that a man ever does is to fight a newspaper, for you may have the force for utterance perhaps for one day in the week, while the newspaper has the floor every day in the week.

I know what I am talking about, for I can draw on my own experience. All the respectable newspapers, as far as I know, are my friends now. But many of you remember the time when I was the most continuously and meanly attacked man in this country. God gave me grace not to answer back, and I kept silence for ten years, and much grace was required. What I said was perverted and twisted into just the opposite of what I did say. There were millions of people who believed that there was a large sofa in my pulpit, although we never had anything but a chair, and that during the singing by the congregation I was accustomed to lie down on that sofa and dangle my feet over the end. Living New York correspondents for ten years misrepresented our church services; but we waited and people from every neighborhood of Christendom came there to find the magnitude of the falsehoods concerning the church and concerning myself. A reaction set in, and soon we had justice, full justice, more than justice, and as much overpraise as once we had underappreciation, and no man that ever lived was so much indebted to the newspaper press for opportunity to preach the gospel as I am. Young men in the ministry, young men in all professions and occupations, wait. You can afford to wait. Take rough misrepresentation as a Turkish towel to start up your languid circulation, or a system of massage or Swedish movement, whose pokes and pulls and twists and thrusts are salutary treatment. There is only one person you need to manage, and that is yourself. Keep your dispositions sweet by communion with Christ, who answered not again, get society of genial people and walk out in the sunshine with your hat off, and you will come out all right. And don't join the crowd of people in our day who spend much of their time in damaging newspapers.

Doctors Like It.

For over twenty years Vapo-Cresolene has received the unqualified support of the medical profession; we feel very proud of this. Physicians everywhere realize the importance of this direct way of treating all throat affections. Put some Cresolene in the vaporizer, light lamp beneath, and then breathe-in the healing and germ destroying vapor. It is the doctor's prescription now for whooping cough, frequently curing it in a few days.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a life-time, and a bottle of Cresolene, complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 50 cents and 25 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. Vapo-Cresolene Co., 110 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

Again if you would secure the secular press as a mightier re-enforcement of religion and the pulpit, extend widest and highest Christian courtesies to the representatives of journalism. Give them easy chairs and plenty of room when they come to report occasions. For the most part they are gentlemen of education and refinement, graduates of colleges, with families to support by their literary craft, many of them weary with the push of a business that is precarious and fluctuating, each one of them the avenue of information to thousands of readers, their impression of the services to be preached to journalists and probably by not one. Of all the prayers offered for classes of men innumerable the prayers offered for the most potential class will be so few and rare that they will be thought of as prayers for the few.

There are many journalists in our church memberships, but this world will never be brought to God until some revival of religion sweeps over the land and takes into the kingdom of God all editors, reporters, composers, pressmen and newsmen. And if you have not faith enough to pray for that and toil for that you had better get out of our ranks and join the other side for you are the unbelievers who make the wheels of the Lord's chariot drag heavily. The great final battle between truth and error, the Armageddon, I think will be fought with swords and shells and guns, but with pens-quill pens, steel pens, gold pens, fountain pens, and before that the pens must be converted. The most divinely honored weapon of the past has been the pen; prophet's pen and evangelist's pen and apostle's pen, followed by editor's pen and author's pen and reporter's pen. God save the pen! The wings of the Apocalypse angel will be the printed page. The printing press will roll ahead of Christ's chariot to clear the way.

"But," some one might ask, "would you make Sunday newspapers also a re-enforcement?" I have learned to take things as they are. I would like to see the much scoffed at old Puritan Sabbath come back again. I do not think the modern

What a useful life and what a glorious departure was that of the most famous of all American printers, Benjamin Franklin, whom I find in the penury of their resources have often fraudulently claimed as their own, but the printer who moved that the Philadelphia convention be opened with prayer, the resolution lost because the majority thought prayer unnecessary, and who wrote at the time he was viciously attacked, "My rule is to go straight forward in doing what appears to me to be right, leaving the consequences to Providence," and who wrote this quaint epitaph showing his hope of resurrection, an epitaph that I hundreds of times read while living in Philadelphia:

"The body of Benjamin Franklin, printer, like the cover of an old book, its contents torn out and stripped of its lettering and gilding, lies here food for worms. Yet the work itself shall not be lost, for it will (as he believed) appear, once more in a new and more beautiful edition, corrected and amended by the Author."

That Providence intends the profession of reporters to have a mighty share in the world's redemption is suggested by the fact that Paul and Christ took a reporter along with them, and he reported their addresses and their acts. Luke was a reporter, and he wrote not only the book of Luke, but the Acts of the Apostles, and without that reporter's work we would have known nothing of the Pentecost and nothing of Stephen's martyrdom, and nothing of Tabitha's resurrection, and nothing of the jailing and unjailing of Paul and Silas, and nothing of the shipwreck at Malta. Strike out the reporter's work from the Bible and you kill a large part of the New Testament. It makes me think that in the future of the kingdom of God the reporters are to bear a mighty part.

And the men of that profession are going to come in a body throughout the country. I know hundreds of them, and a more genial or highly educated class of men it would be hard to find, and, though the tendency of their profession may be toward skepticism, an organized, common sense gospel invitation would fetch them to the front of all Christian endeavor.

Most of the pencil and pen in all departments, you need the help of the Christian religion. In the day when people want to get their newspapers at 2 cents and are hoping for the time when they can get any of them at 1 cent and as a consequence the attaches of the printing press are by the thousand ground under the cylinders you want God to take care of you and your families. Some of your best work is as much unappreciated as was Milton's "Paradise Lost," for which the author received $25, and the immortal poem "Hohenlinden" of Thomas Campbell when he first offered it for publication in the column called "Notices to Correspondents" appeared the words: "To T. C.—The Lines commencing, 'On Linden when the sun was low,' are not up to our standard. Poetry is not T. C.'s forte."

O men of the pencil and pen, amid your unappreciated work you need encouragement, and you can have it. Prayers of all Christendom, editors, reporters, composers, pressmen, publishers and readers of that which is printed, resolve that you will not write, set up, edit, issue or read anything that debases body, mind or soul. In the name of God, by the laying on of the hands of faith and prayer, ordain the printing press for righteousness and liberty and salvation. All of us with some influence or sway will help in the right direction, let us put our hands to the work.

Sunday will turn out to be your grandfathers and grandmothers under the old fashioned Sunday.

To say nothing of other results. Sunday newspapers are killing editors, reporters, composers and pressmen. Every man, woman and child is entitled to 24 hours of nothing to do. If the newspapers put on another set of hands, that does not relieve the editorial and reportorial room of its cares and responsibilities. Our literary men die fast enough without killing them with Sunday work.

All things are possible with God, and my faith is up until nothing in the way of religious victory would surprise me. All the newspaper printing presses of the earth are going to be the Lord's, and telegraph and telephone and type will yet announce nations born in a day. The first book ever printed was the Bible, by Faust and his son-in-law, Schoeffer, in 1460, and that consecration of type to the Holy Scriptures was prophesy of the great mission of printing for the evangelization of all the nations. The father of the American printing press was a clergyman, Rev. Jesse Glover, and that was a prophesy of the religious use that the gospel ministry in this country were to make of the types.

Now, as you all have something to do with the newspaper press, either in issuing a paper or in reading it, either as producers or patrons, either as sellers or purchasers of the printed sheet, I propose on this Lord's day a treaty to be signed between the church and the printing press, a treaty to be ratified by millions of good people if we rightly fashion it, a treaty promising that we will help each other in our work of trying to illumine and felicitate the world, we by voice, you by pen, we by speaking only that which is worth printing, you by printing only that which is fit to speak. You help us, and we will help you. Side by side be these two potent agencies until the judgment day, when we must both be scrutinized for our work, whether it be for blessing or for cursing. The worst of men in that day will be the minister of religion and the editor if they wasted their opportunity. Both of us are the engineers of long express trains of influence, and we will run them into a depot of light or tumble them off the embankments.

What a useful life and what a glorious departure was that of the most famous of all American printers, Benjamin Franklin, whom I find in the penury of their resources have often fraudulently claimed as their own, but the printer who moved that the Philadelphia convention be opened with prayer, the resolution lost because the majority thought prayer unnecessary, and who wrote at the time he was viciously attacked, "My rule is to go straight forward in doing what appears to me to be right, leaving the consequences to Providence," and who wrote this quaint epitaph showing his hope of resurrection, an epitaph that I hundreds of times read while living in Philadelphia:

A Positive Woman.

A woman has a right to be positive on matters which are matters of personal knowledge and experience. Every woman who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for diseases of the womanly organs is positive as to its wonderful curative value, and confidently recommends it to similar sufferers.

Women who suffer from inflammation, ulceration, female weakness, or nervous diseases caused by disease of the womanly organs will find a complete cure by the use of "Favorite Prescription."

"Several years ago I suffered severely from female weakness, prostration, and menorrhagia, and used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with splendid effect," writes Fannie Shelton, of Washington, Iowa. "Glad I have not needed it for a few years past, but if I should have any return of the old trouble would surely use 'Favorite Prescription.' I have recommended it to a number of my ladies friends, and they tell me to try a bottle, and if they are not benefited by it I will pay for the medicine. In every case they have spoken in praise of it."

MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG AND SICK WOMEN WELL.

imploring God to hasten the consummation. In a ship with hundreds of passengers approaching the South American coast the man on the lookout neglected his work, and in a few minutes the ship would have been dashed to ruin on the rocks. But a cricket on board the vessel, that had made no sound all the voyage, set up a shrill call at the smell of land, and the captain knowing that habit such insect, the vessel was stopped in time to avoid an awful wreck. And so insignificant means now may do wonders, and the scratch of a pen may save the shipwreck of a soul.

Are you ready for the signing of the contract, the league, the solemn treaty proposed between journalism and evangelism? Let is be a Christian marriage of the pulpit and the printing press. The ordination of the former on my head, the pen of the latter in my hand, it is appropriate that I publish the banns of such a marriage. Let them from this day be one in the magnificent work of the world's redemption.

Some statisticians, in emulation of Lombroso perhaps, has been figuring out the habitual employment of convicts. He concludes that more men and women whose employers are the national, state or municipal governments fall into evil ways and come to untoward ends than those who work for private individuals or corporations. A very large proportion of the men and women who have been hands of public moaners seem to yield to the constant temptation and begin to speculate, and some cynic avers that speculation is the corollary on speculation. As a matter of fact, most of the big and little thieves who confess how they were led to take money that did not belong to them declare that speculations of one sort or another brought them eventually behind the bars.

Speculation and Theft.

An instance of the humor which the civil war called forth, says Youth's Companion, is found in a story told of old Parson Helton, a Baptist preacher of Tennessee.

He had eighteen sons, sixteen of whom were in the Union army and two in the Confederate.

When the old minister had reached his eighty-eighth year some one, who did not know about his sons' views, asked him where his sympathies lay during the war.

"My sympathies were with the Union by fourteen majority," said the old man.

Duration of the Victorian Era.

The Victorian Era has taken its place in history. It dawned at 20 minutes past two on the morning of past six on the evening of June 20, 1837, and closed at half-past 22, 1901, says St. James' Gazette. It lasted 23,223 days, 357,383 full hours, 33,443,170 minutes and 2,006,590,200 seconds. All but 546 hours of it were in the nineteenth century.

PROF. HEMSTREET COMING.
The peerless Hemstreet, mind reader and hypnotist, will open an engagement at Northwood Hall Wednesday, March 13, part of the receipts going to the Donegan monument fund. Admission 10 and 20 cents. Prof. Hemstreet comes to Chatham well recommended, as the following item from the Winnipeg Northwestern will prove: "The peerless Hemstreet, mind reader and hypnotist, has been creating a sensation at the Grand Opera House this week, with his wonderful entertainment. The mind reading was without question the best ever seen here. He gave a very interesting exhibition of telepathy, performing most wonderful tests without coming in contact with his committee. Hypnotism followed and it may be said at this point that the fun commenced. The audience, which packed every part of the house, fairly went into convulsions over the tests. He certainly gives the funniest entertainment ever given in this city, and while mirth provoking in the extreme, but a single feature savored of vulgarity, and the ladies were as enthusiastic in their praise of the performance as the gentlemen."

"Way Down East" with its realistic New England snow storm, the sole invention of Joseph R. Grier, has created more comment in the far Western States than any effect used in connection with any theatrical production probably ever known before. Those who attended the performance the second time are said to have been so carried away by the realism of this effect that they would actually bring their coats and wraps to the theatre.

J. C. PATRICK ARRESTED

He was a Private Banker at Wheatley and Essex.

The Farmers Around There Anxious to get their Money—He is Accused of Fraud.

Essex, Ont., March 9.—J. C. Patrick, proprietor of private banks at Essex and Wheatley, was arrested yesterday by Constable Sessions on information laid by several Waplessee farmers, and was taken to Windsor jail. It is alleged that he has been in financial straits for some time and has been holding meetings with creditors. The information charges fraud in misrepresenting his capital.

J. D. Amerson, of Essex, but now of London, was his partner. They had been doing business with the Standard Bank of Chatham. It was a private banking business, and farmers represented the bulk of the parties whose money was handled and in the branch bank at Wheatley, Anderson stepped out about six months ago. Patrick continued the business for a time but finally decided to retire, and has become a general agent, with headquarters in London, for the New York Life Insurance Co. For the last four months a receiver has been in possession of the two banks.

NOT A STANDARD CUSTOMER.
In an interview with The Planet, Manager Schofield said, "J. C. Patrick & Co. were never customers of ours, but Anderson, Patrick & Co. were."

"When I was in England last summer the firm dissolved and on my return went to Essex. All the other creditors assented to the transfer of their accounts, but the bank declined and recognized the account of Anderson, Patrick & Co. as closed, and declined to open a new account. At that time the company owed the bank $30,000, all of which was fully secured, and the amount is now in the neighborhood of $14,000. We still therefore have several thousand dollars of collateral security to hand back when paid, and this will go towards paying depositors' claims."

"Mr. Patrick had at the time he opened the business a nominal surplus of $140,000. The bank had nothing against his character nor against the security and the only reason for refusing the account was the view taken that Mr. Patrick's experience was too limited to make him a successful monetary master, as he has been subsequently proved."

WILL RUSSIA PROVOKE WAR

She Appears Determined to Hold on to Manchuria

While Great Britain and the United States Insist She Shall Give It Up

London, March 9.—A crisis has arisen in the far eastern affairs, which, in the opinion of the British Government, which originally turned the eyes of the world towards the Orient. In this crisis secret negotiations are going on between the United States and Great Britain with a view to thwarting what both Governments appear to consider a determined attempt on the part of Russia to plant herself permanently in one of the richest tracts of the Chinese Empire.

The conference held Wednesday between Lord Lansdowne, the Foreign Secretary, and Sir Charles Stewart Scott, British Ambassador at St. Petersburg, by Count Lansdowne, and asking the United States if they were prepared to take joint action of such a decisive nature that Russia would have no alternative but to recede from her position.

The significance of the present phase can only be appreciated by those cognizant of the historic attitude of the British Government hitherto regarding Russian action in China. Within the last few days all this has changed. What a world of two ages was pronounced only in line with Russia's usual policy is now termed "a grave and serious state of affairs."

Lord Lansdowne using every effort to bring the powers into line in order to present to Russia such a menacing front that, without any ambiguity regarding temporary or other occupation, she may give up all designs upon Manchuria.

WHY SO MANY FAIL

The Reason so Many Catarrh Remedies are Unsuccessful.

There are few troubles for which there are so many remedies and so called "cures" as for catarrh and it may be added there are few diseases so difficult to really and permanently cure.

Inhalers, sprays, powders and douches are all applied locally and give temporary relief, often for only a few hours, and it is doubtful if anything like a real cure of catarrh was ever accomplished by the use of local applications.

Catarrh is a constitutional disease, it is in the blood like rheumatism and to cure it requires an internal medicine to act upon the blood, to drive out the catarrhal poison from the system entirely, and anyone can readily see that a saline or powder or inhaler which simply clears off the mucous membrane of the nose and throat can have no effect on the real cause of catarrhal disease.

The remarkable success of the new catarrh remedy, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, is because it drives out of the system through the natural channels, the catarrhal poison, the germs of grip, bronchitis and consumption and cures the hacking, spitting, and gagging, because the excessive secretion is no longer supplied when the blood is made healthy from the regular use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

The remedy is in the form of large 20 grain lozenges, pleasant and palatable, composed only of wholesome antiseptics and so safe to use that little children use them with perfect safety and benefit if the little one is suffering from colds, croup or cough from any cause.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have been on the market scarcely one year, yet they have met with such popularity and success that druggists everywhere in the United States and Canada now have them in stock and report a continuous demand.

OUR SPORTS MADE A HAUL

Came Home With all Kinds of Wealth

From a Cocking Main in Detroit—A Description of the Affair.

Chatham sports made a large haul in Thursday night's cocking main near Detroit. The Canadian birds won eight straight battles and the main, and one Maple City man alone is said to have cleared over $500 in the betting. D. M. Pomeroy, of Parkersburg, West Virginia, a leading oil producer, gives this account of the affair to the Detroit Tribune:

"The main was one of the best that was ever fought to my knowledge. If the Detroit and Windsor boys had been game they would have been able to separate us from much more money than they did. As it is, I do not think that the local crowd got more than $5,000 or $7,000 from us. As a matter of fact they would not let me lose my money. Of course, after they won the main it seemed useless for us to bet, and after the eighth battle we quit."

The local crowd took the eighth straight, but twice the battles were won by lucky streaks. In the second and fourth battles the eastern cocks disoriented their legs in making vicious jumps at opposing birds, and as a result they could do nothing thereafter but lie on the tumbler and allow the other birds to jab their steel gaffs into their helpless carcasses. The strikers would make a game attempt to respond, but could not come up to the mark, and each time the cruel steel gaffs caught into the flesh they would be separated, only to be set at one another again until the sorely wounded bird refused to make an effort to defend itself. In both these cases the foreign bird seemed to be winning the battle, but put its leg out of joint just when it was about to make the winning fly.

The different battles, it is said, were most fiercely contested, and the poor cocks bled from a number of wounds where the sharp steel gaffs penetrated their flesh. Feathers flew and the crowd howled with delight at every fly. When the cocks were caught and the handlers released them after their fight it was a disgusting sight to see them try to relieve them by sucking the blood out of their throats and blowing stimulants into the bills.

The Canadian birds were the best of course, but those of the eastern men seemed to have got stale during their stay in the city.

SUNDAY SERVICES

International Bible Lesson for Tomorrow—Jesus and Caiaphas—Matt. xxvi, 57-68.

Behold our great High Priest, Jesus, before an earthly high priest and Jewish ecclesiastical council on trial for His life. Mark what justice can be had from blinded religious men having the Holy Spirit. The whole trial was a religious mockery and illegal according to the laws of Moses. They heard witnesses for one side only, and when Jesus spoke of proper witnesses He was spit upon, struck, blindfolded, taunted and mocked. The trial of Dreyfus raised worldwide protest, but the trial of Jesus—none. Put under oath by Caiaphas, He declares Himself the Christ, the Son of God and the Son of Man, who will sit at the right hand of power, coming in clouds to judge His judges. "Sinner, what will you do when He comes?"

VIGOROUS OLD AGE

OBTAINED THROUGH THE USE OF DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Mr. William Gray, of Newmarket, Tells How He Became Hale and hearty at the Advanced Age of Seventy After Having Suffered Great Torture from Sciatica and Rheumatism.

From the Express, Newmarket, Ont.: Mr. William Gray, who is well and favorably known in the town of Newmarket and vicinity, is rejoicing over his release from the pains of sciatica and rheumatism through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A reporter of the Express called upon him for the purpose of obtaining particulars of the cure of Mr. Gray.

"About two and a half years ago I was seized with a very severe attack of rheumatism. The pain in my limbs was so bad that I could not get up. At times the trouble was seated in my knees, then in my hips. For nearly a year I suffered along, working as best I could, in the hope of being able to overcome the disease. During the day the pain was less severe, but at night it was just as bad as ever. To increase my torture, I caught a cold which resulted in an attack of sciatica in my right leg. If I walked a short distance I would be seized by sharp pains in the hip joint, and I could not get up. I was beginning to think that I was doomed to suffer the rest of my life with this trouble, and I advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took his advice and procured a supply of the pills and began taking them according to the directions. Before the third box was finished I noted a change for the better, so I continued the use of the pills till I had taken ten or twelve boxes, when my trouble had entirely disappeared. To-day I am free from pain and feel that life is worth living, even at the ripe old age of seventy. I can now do a day's work with many men who are twenty years younger than I. I thank God for my restoration to health through the agency of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I trust other similar sufferers will give them a trial for knowing what these pills have done for me. I am sure that they cannot fail to be as beneficial to others similarly afflicted."

If the blood is pure and wholesome disease cannot exist. The reason Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure so many forms of disease is that they act directly upon the blood and nerves, thus reaching the root of the trouble. Other medicines act only on the symptoms of the trouble, and that is the reason the trouble always returns when you cease these medicines. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make permanent cures in kidney troubles, rheumatism, other blood diseases, and kindred diseases. But be sure you get the genuine which bear the full name Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People on the wrapper around every box.

CHAMPIONS THE LATE ENGINEER

Mr. Merrifield Writes The Planet Protesting Against his Summary Dismissal.

To The Planet.—Many people who are at least generally supposed to be perfectly rational, often do what we ordinary persons consider very queer things. But I suppose this fact merely emphasizes the rule that "Genius always have one room, in the upper story, to let."

At least this is the opinion of a great many of your readers regarding the actions of our aldermen, so far, this year. Of course it would be a give-away on we electors if we permitted the impression to prevail for a moment that we had not elected the most "Simon Pure" municipal government we had to conduct our city affairs during 1910. But here is where the Genius Break comes in. About the first thing they had to consider was the action of the chief of the fire department in reference to a drowning accident—whether he had made any reasonable exertion to effect a rescue. It was shown that he, the chief, was a tough, old, and a number of long ladders, had arrived at the scene of the accident some time before the man sank, yet he never made the slightest attempt to save the man, not so much as to unload a ladder, but quickly drove back to the fire hall.

Now, the most of us think he might have ordered the men to attempt something. He might at least have done as the captain who said to his men, "My hearties, there's a tough fellow here, you fight like heroes till your powder's done, then run; as I'm a little lame I'll start now; but he didn't. So our aldermen punished him by reducing him to an easier position."

The next serious question for their consideration was in reference to a faulty connection made in a pipe laying contract, which cost the city the loss of $35. The contractor said the engineer told him to make the connection in the way he did. The engineer had given no instructions as to the connection, as he supposed the city had appointed a competent inspector to look after such work. However, the result was the engineer was left out of a job. Now, what we ordinary people want to know is, did the faulty joint make money for the contractor? And also, what benefit could the engineer be expected to derive that he should advise the fault to be made? Then, again, if the loss of $35 causes the dismissal of the engineer, and the not attempting to rescue a drowning man does not cause the dismissal of the fire chief, are we to conclude that in the opinion of our aldermen a man's life is not worth $35? And does it mean that if one of their own families was in the water they would take the same view of the matter?

No doubt if it had been one of themselves it would have been like the case when an Irishman had, after a desperate struggle, managed to bring a drowning man to land, the gentleman after he came to, handed his rescuer two English shillings. Pat looked at the man, then at the shillings, then handed him back one of the shillings, remarking, "by the looks of yez, beorra, ye've overpaid me for the job."

Mr. Elizer, the aldermanic action on these two matters reminds me of Mrs. Martington's scriptural quotation—"they strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel."

Allow me to mention a little matter that came under my observation at the beginning of the laying of the concrete foundation for the King street pavement. I happened to be going to the post office shortly after they had commenced putting in the crushed rock and gravel. I heard Messrs. Stanton, the inspector, and Lynch having some words. Mr. Stanton took some papers out of his pocket and said, "All I ask of you is to fill these specifications, and you will have to do so as far as I am concerned."

Mr. Lynch walked over to the crowd near me and in a low voice said

Dr. A.W. Thornton : : : Dentist

to these around: "I know how to handle these holes!"

The work stopped for a time. I afterwards asked Mr. Stanton what was done about the dispute. All he said was, "It is a thankless job trying to get work done according to specifications, and then be overrode by the board of works." I naturally asked myself if the then board of works were the "holes" referred to I mentioned that to show the difficulties engineers and inspectors have to contend with.

It strikes me as an axiom, or, self-evident proposition, that it is a sure sign the engineer is looking after the interests of the municipality when the contractor kicks against the specifications; and a bad sign for those interests when the board of works joins in with the contractor against the engineer.

THIS WOMAN WAS REAL MAD

She Bought Chief Young at a Late Hour and Vowed Vigorous Vengeance.

"Is the Chief in?" energetically enquired a woman who looked real mad as she stood on the steps of that officer's residence last evening. "When will he be in?" was her response to an answer in the negative. "Oh, between 10 and 11 o'clock."

"Where can I get a policeman?" queried the frantic female without waiting for a breath, and husily she continued, "I want a policeman to get my mail. I wrote a letter to my sister, addressed and stamped it, and then my children snatched it from me and gave it to my husband. I am going to have my mail."

Then the woman started madly off down town bareheaded and striding majestically through the rain as only a woman who is real mad can stride. As she went, she volunteered the information that she was going to leave her husband, anyway, "because he always acted so mean and had such contemptible ways."

A LONDON CRIMINAL.

THE FOG THIEF AND HOW HE PLIES HIS PECULIAR TRADE.

He Operates Boldly Both in the City, and on the Thames—Carries Off His Plunder From Vans and Cabs Shrouded in the Dense Gloom.

Thousands of thieves long for fog with a great longing. Incredible as it may seem, property worth tens of thousands of pounds is every year stolen from vans and lorries alone in London streets. Quite nine-tenths of this property disappears during fogs.

The leaders of the fog thief gangs usually have some little capital to start with. One of them affects to be a cartage contractor on a small scale. He takes very quiet premises that have a high boarding round and that are not overlooked. If he has plenty of cellars, all the better. He has at least one smart trap and horse and two or sometimes three rogues to go with it.

It is during the late foggy afternoons and early evenings of winter that the hauls are made. Streets with warehouses—and not shops that are lighted brilliantly and early—on each side and that are often congested with traffic are mostly chosen. The small and smart though dingy and inconspicuous looking trap plunges into the thick of the traffic. It soon, in the gloom and murk, places itself immediately behind a van or lorry piled with packages of various kinds.

The men in the quick trap are all on the alert. One of them, a man chosen for his immense physical strength, goes to the head of the pony on some pretext. He soon has a package down from the van in front. He is provided with sharp cutting instruments, and he has a powerful piece of strap with a hook at one end. If there is a boy sitting behind the van, the men in the trap contrive to get him down by diverting his attention. Even with a view to distracting the possible attention of carters, the thieves generally get up an altercation, or "barney," among themselves or with others. They are men of colossal impudence and powers of abuse, and all attention becomes riveted upon them. In one case not far from Farringdon street last December they carried off one parcel of furs worth £700, the value being temporarily blinded, as alleged, by a lad with the thieves blowing some snuff into his face from a pea shooter and then disappearing.

One of the most notorious of these fog thieves was a little young fellow who crept along the back of a pony to its head, American jockey fashion, and hooked what he could from out of the van in front. The great hauls of these men are when they follow cabs and private carriages from a railway station. In such cases they generally use two traps and horses. A cab is marked that has apparently valuable luggage on the top. This is followed till some dark street is reached where the way is narrow or congested; then the driver of one of the traps, that has a very swift pony harnessed to it, deliberately drives across the head of the cab or carriage horse.

Of course there is an angry altercation, and while this is going on the thieves on the other trap have got into the immediate rear of the luggage-laden vehicle. One of the thieves goes along his horse's back and lifts the luggage down.

One of the hauls effected last winter in this way worth £8,000 and was the property of Mr. de Silva, Argentine millionaire. The robbery took place not far from St. Pancras church just before the shops were lighted up.

As the summer sun brings forth myriads of living creatures, so does a Thames fog bring out upon the dark and apparently deserted river a vast horde of thieves. At least a dozen of the wharf and lighter owners complain of losing from their respective wharves as much as from one to six hundred pounds' worth of coal alone every year.

The reader can learn at any riverside house frequented by tough men that there are scores, literally scores, of bargees on the river that have never bought a pennyworth of coal for great numbers of years. The Thames police would tell that same reader that men have retired on competence who have been reported to have made their whole fortune out of coal stolen with impunity of the river.

The police are helpless over the vast expanse of river and in the labyrinthine backwaters. If they raid one of the pirate boats in the gloom and darkness, the spoil is turned out to the bottom of the river in a trice. If this sort of thing can be done to such an extent with a commodity like coal, it may be imagined what befalls other valuable property on wharves or in lighters.

The fraudulent picker up of the river blesses the fog. The picker up is a man who notices that certain barges with valuable cargoes are moored in such a way that, if they broke loose, they would entail vast expense. The picker up sees that these barges do break loose. That part of his work he does in dead secret. And then, making plenty of noise about it at this stage, he rescues from danger the very barges that he has set adrift and sends in a heavy salvage claim.

NIGHT COUGHS

Don't you dread to have night come? The children cough so hard. And how many things have you tried? A great many, certainly. They don't seem to reach just the place. But you can reach it exactly by using Vapo-Cresolene.

You put a little Cresolene in the vaporizer cup, light the lamp beneath, and let the children breathe-in the vapor. The throat is soothed, all inflammation is allayed, congestion is relieved, and sleep is not disturbed. Continue this each night until a cure is effected, which will be in a surprisingly short time. Remember it's harmless to the youngest child. There isn't any trouble of the throat or lungs that cannot be relieved with Vapo-Cresolene. It always does good. And for whooping-cough it is the one great specific. Doctors everywhere endorse it.

S. H. MURPHY, M.D., Glenville, N.Y.—"I have used the Vapo-Cresolene in all cases of whooping-cough of long standing, with marked relief in twenty-four hours, and entire cures in from three to five days. I have also used it in nasal catarrh, bronchitis and pharyngitis, catarrhal and diphtheritic, with great benefit. It is of great value in diphtheria."

THE DELTOID MUSCLE.

It Plays a Prominent Part in the Tailor's Business.

"It is a rare thing," said the talking man, "to find a merchant tailor who can get a 'perfect fit' in the clothes he makes—so rare, in fact, that I have sometimes thought that tailors, of all artisans, knew least how to do their work right. Yet the tailor, or the cutter, rather, is not always to blame, for a perfectly cut garment may be often set askew by a careless maker who by a crooked seam or a slight departure from the line set for his needle may throw the whole thing out of plumb."

Still, a good tailor ought to know when a garment fits and should either be able to correct its unfitness or not let it leave the shop. Speaking of the cutting part, I remember an incident that occurred once at a convention of cutters held in Cincinnati. The subject for discussion was the cutting and fitting of garments, and a testy old Scotchman had the floor. He said in effect that if a coat were cut to set right upon the deltoid muscle the wearer would always find it comfortable and well fitting.

"In fact," said he, "the deltoid muscle determines the fit of a coat." "Will the gentleman state what and where the deltoid muscle is?" asked a cutter on the other side of the chamber.

"The Scotchman turned on him sharply." "Sir," he said angrily, "do you claim to be a cutter and not know where the deltoid muscle is located? Don't you know, sir, that a knowledge of the human anatomy is as important to the tailor as it is to the surgeon? Do you expect to cut a garment to fit an object whose every line and curve you do not know? You might as well try to fit a plug to a hole without knowing the size of the hole. No, sir, the gentleman will not state what and where the deltoid muscle is. It is your duty, sir, to know the deltoid muscle, not mine to instruct you."

"The discussion ended there, simply because there was nobody present to carry it on, for I don't believe a man in the place except the old fellow knew anything about deltoid muscles. I know I didn't, but as soon as I got to a dictionary I looked it up. Later I gave the matter some study, and I found that the Scotchman was right."

FURIOUS RIOT IN PORTO RICO.

San Juan Mob Besieged American School Superintendent in a Public Building.

San Juan de Porto Rico, March 8.—A serious riot occurred here yesterday. At six o'clock in the evening five hundred men, armed with clubs and stones, gathered in front of the American school building. The mob, shouting and singing, began to throw stones at the building. The school superintendent, Mr. J. H. Armstrong, was in the building. He was surrounded by the mob and was being pelted with stones. He was rescued by a detachment of the United States Marine Corps. The mob then turned on the building and began to throw stones at it. The building was set on fire. The fire was extinguished by the Marine Corps. The riot was then dispersed.

Four hours previous to the rescue of Mr. Armstrong, the city had been described by a riotous crowd of probably 1,500 persons, who shouted, "Down with the Americans!" and similar cries. The excitement originated in a trivial incident involving Supt. Armstrong, and illustrating the excitable nature of the Porto Ricans. The superintendent reprimanded a girl of ten years of age for disobedience and for not having her hair combed. She then ran to the front of the school room. Her dress caught in a desk and was torn and the girl reported to her mother that she had been kicked and abused. This excited the girl's mother and sensational stories were circulated with the result that when the school children were dismissed a number of boys gathered to-day and paraded the streets.

They were joined by many loafers and full-grown men, and it became necessary for the police to escort Supt. Armstrong from the school house to his home. The superintendent and the policeman were stoned as they passed through the streets.

and as the crowd constantly increased in size, the Americans sought refuge in the Intendencia building. A number of persons from the crowd succeeded in entering the building, but were ejected by the employees and others.

By 5 o'clock affairs had assumed such a threatening aspect that Gov. Allen ordered the mayor to disperse the mob, notifying him that he should ask for government assistance if he was in need of it. The mayor, however, paid no attention to the governor's notification.

At 6:30 p. m. the offices were closed, and Martin C. Brumbaugh, the commissioner of education of Porto Rico, asked for police protection for his office and hotel.

A treasury clerk, who was one of the men who ejected the rioters from the Intendencia, was attacked, stoned and disarmed by the mob.

LIFE GUARDS

The Life Guards are two regiments of cavalry forming part of the British household troops. They are gallant soldiers, and every loyal British heart is proud of them. Not only the King's household, but yours, ours, everybody's should have its life guards. The need of them is especially great when the greatest foes of life diseases, find allies in the very elements as colds, influenza, catarrh, the grip and pneumonia do in the stormy March. The best way that we know of to guard against these diseases is to strengthen the system with Hood's Sarsaparilla—the greatest of all life guards. It removes the conditions in which these diseases make their most successful attack, gives vigor and tone to all the vital organs and functions, and imparts a genial warmth to the blood. Remember the weaker the greater the exposure to disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the system strong.

—Scrofula in the blood shows itself sooner or later in swellings, sores, eruptions. But Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cures it.

NO PAIN, TRIFLING EXPENSE

A Simple, Harmless Remedy For the Cure of Piles.

A person contracts a cold, pneumonia, rheumatism and pleurisy from exposure; dyspepsia and liver troubles from dietary errors and the causes of most diseases are easily traceable, but although piles and rectal troubles are common as any of these, the cause is obscure.

Violent exertion, as in lifting, sometimes produces them and a sedentary occupation is by some supposed to be predisposing cause, but as a rule piles and rectal troubles appear without apparent provocation.

There are many saves and ointments which give temporary relief and when these fail the patient, if he can afford the expense and is willing to take the risk, has recourse to a surgical operation. But there is one remedy which gives immediate relief and the regular use of which will bring about a permanent cure and that is the well known Pyramid Pile Cure.

In long standing cases the Pyramid has proven to be the only cure except a dangerous and exceedingly painful surgical operation, and its advantages over any kind of operation are many, as it is painless, causes no interference with daily occupation, and being in the form of a suppository is always convenient and ready for use.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is an effective combination of soothing oils and antiseptic acids. It contains no cocaine nor nerve destroying opiate and unlike most pile cures, contains no bi chlorides or mercury nor any injurious drug of any kind.

All druggists sell the Pyramid Pile Cure at 50 cents for a complete treatment of the suppositories.

A little book on cause and cure of piles will be mailed free by addressing Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich.

HE GREW HOMESICK.

Becoming tired of exile from all the comforts of his home in Anderton, James Allen, Jr., crossed from Detroit to Windsor Thursday morning, and underwent himself to Detective Campeau and Mahoney, to appear on the charge of abduction. Allen is said to have assisted Mrs. Margaret Myers, of Detroit, in the kidnapping of Joseph White at Amherstburg. The prisoner is only 18 years old. He was brought before Magistrate Bartlett, and the charge was read to him. Bail was accepted for his appearance next Wednesday, when he will be given a preliminary hearing. The abduction of Joseph White occurred on July 9 last, when he was about the age of 18. He was taken by his mother, Mrs. Myers, and brought to Detroit. Mrs. Myers is the wife of a man named White, who is a nephew of the prisoner of that name in Windsor. After securing legal separation from his wife, Mrs. Myers, James Allen, Jr., an architect, of Detroit, who was formerly chief of police of Amherstburg, has been anxious to have his son return and face the charge of abduction. At one time the warrant was issued young Allen—detained, and has since resided in Detroit and Cleveland. It was the urgent request of his father that induced him to return.

He was committed by Judge Houston subject to examination by the doctors. Mrs. Evans when she learned that her husband was to be sent home to-day, came to the city and told her troubles to the Methodists of Tilbury and Quinn are preparing for a great banquet, on the occasion of the burning of the mortgage against the parsonage and church. ### Society People.

A society woman—and a man for that matter—do a great many things imprudent for their health. Take the matter of dress, for instance, or rather the lack of dress right over the most vital organ of the body—the lungs. A little cold results. The throat and bronchial tubes become congested and inflamed, and then the bacilli of consumption can start right away. Pneumonia or consumption results and that is another story if you don't take Powley's Liquefied Ozone.

A society people would only take a good hot dose of Powley's Liquefied Ozone before retiring, they would have no cold. If they have pneumonia or consumption, because its antiseptic properties will almost invariably cure these diseases. Then the condensed oxygen builds up the system. Can you afford to be without Powley's Liquefied Ozone?

$1.00 and 50c a bottle, at all druggists. Write the Ontario Co. of Toronto, Limited, 40 Colborne street, Toronto.

AT THE THEATRE.

Last evening Manager Cairns presented at the Grand the third number of the Lyceum Course—an admirable bill of fare which was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience present.

The program was presented by the Hammer Ladies' Mandolin Orchestra, under the direction of G. Arthur Depew, assisted by Sam L. Slade, bass; Miss Florence Woolfenden, mandolinist, and Lewis E. Vicary, reader. All contributed much to the enjoyment of the evening and proved themselves artists in their respective lines. The entertainment as a whole was thoroughly appreciated.

A THOUGHT.

True worth is in being, not seeming—In doing each day that goes by—Some little good—not in dreaming Of great things to do by-and-by.

For whatever men say in their blindness, And spite of the fancies of youth, There's nothing so kindly as kindness, And nothing so royal as truth.

—Alice Cary.
