KNOX CHURCH SERVICES

Morning Service — God's Secret Place.

Evening Service—Eighth sermon on the Beatitudes. 7th Beatitude. "Peacemakers and the Children of God."

Mrs. Lowms of Toronto was here a few days this week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Sawell.

Mr. David Atkins returned home last Monday after several weeks spent with relatives in Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. Maynard Shelton has purchased the garage business of A. E. Morden, taking possession last Wednesday.

Mr. Peter Mitchell has secured the contract for re-decorating the interior of the Plains Road Methodist church.

Miss Vera Nicholson returned home this week from Toledo and Detroit where she has been spending a few weeks with friends.

Miss Emily Sommerville, soprano, of Hamilton, will assist at the Recital to be given by the pupils of Mrs. Wright in the Methodist Sunday school room on the evening of Dec. 15th.

The St. Thomas R. C. Church will hold their annual Christmas Tree entertainment on Thursday evening, Dec. 23rd in the Assembly hall of the church. A choice program is being prepared for the occasion.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. of the Methodist church will be held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Person on Wednesday, Dec. 8th at 2.30 p. m. A good program has been prepared, and a full attendance of members is desired.

The Scotch concert at the Presbyterian church last Tuesday evening was one of the best of this year's entertainments, and a grand success. There were no disappointments, the large choir of over 30 voices, the Harmony Quartette and the Orchestra from Westminster church were there with the goods. It is hoped Waterdown will have the opportunity of again hearing these Scotch singers in the near future.

Miss Isabel Mitchell, formerly of the High school staff here, has accepted a position with the Annprior school and left on Wednesday morning of this week to commence her new duties. About a month ago Miss Mitchell accepted the Annprior school at a salary of $1500. The Waterdown board in dealing with her resignation decided to offer her $1400 to stay, which she agreed to accept providing the Annprior board would release her from her agreement with them. This they refused to do, consequently she had no alternative but to go to Annprior.

On Tuesday evening the pupils of the High school gathered in the school room of Knox church and surprised Miss Mitchell by presenting her with a nicely bound book and $10 in gold as a token of their appreciation for her faithful untiring efforts as their teacher for the past two years.

Tooth Brushes are like babies—everybody wants their own—Batchelor the Druggist has enough for all.

Grace Church Bazaar

One of the most successful bazaars in the history of Grace Church was held in the Parish hall of the church on Wednesday last. Considering the state of the weather the attendance was very gratifying.

The hundreds of useful articles offered for sale were rapidly bought by the visitors. With returns all in the handsome total of $260 was realized from the sale of goods and evening concert.

The concert which was also held in the parish hall in the evening was largely attended. The Rev. Mr. Leake occupied the chair, and the following excellent program was presented.

Chairman's Address.

Piano Duet Miss Connie and Mrs. Davidson

Violin Selection Mr. Geo. Potts

Vocal Solo Miss A. Eager

Recitation Miss Myrtle Atkins

Piano Selection Miss Muriel Feilde

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church packed and shipped this week to an Alberta Indian Mission three bales containing second hand clothing, new underwear stockings, and five good warm quilts which the ladies pieced and quilted during the past year. The bales were valued at $193. Mrs. Poole's Sunday School class sent one quilt, and the Mission Band two quilts besides other clothing, books, dolls, etc., making another bale valued at $15.25.

Hold-Up on Snake Road

While on her way to market last Saturday morning about six o'clock Mrs. John Rankin was stopped by three men in an auto on the Snake road, near M. J. Crane's farm, and ordered to get out of the democrat in which she was riding. One of the hold-up men, who wore a white handkerchief over his face, held a gun against Mrs. Rankin's side while he searched through her pockets, securing 51 cents, fortunately all the money she had with her at the time. She was then told to get back in her rig and drive on, being warned not to make any noise. The car with the three men later returned to Hamilton, passing Mrs. Rankin near the Jewish cemetery.

The Snake road furnishes idea grounds for highwaymen. This is not the first hold-up to take place on this road and it will not be the last, especially now days when every farmer is supposed to be a millionaire.

Millgrove W. I. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Millgrove Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. E. Cummins. The meeting was opened by singing two verses of the Maple Leaf, after which the minutes of the previous meeting was read and the roll called.

A letter was read from the Navy League acknowledging donation.

A discussion followed on the advisability of placing a piano in the school library for use of school children while taking music lessons, and in order to have money on hand for this cause it was decided to have a concert in January.

Mrs. Ken. Cummins gave an instrumental solo, after which Mr. Anson Smith gave a reading on the habitant of Quebec. Mrs. Clifford a demonstration on crocheting, explaining the different stitches and their abbreviations. Mrs. Markle made the demonstration lesson so plain and helpful that the ladies expressed the wish that she give another lesson during the winter when the younger ladies will bring their difficulties.

Anyone wishing to help the blind can do so by buying their brooms, a number of which are still on hand from the October shipment. These are in charge of Mrs. Ed. Cummins.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Robt. Smith on Wednesday, December 29th.

SENSATIONAL SPEECHES.

Sir Auckland Geddes Reads Industrialism a Lecture.

The Canadian Bar Association owes its origin and rapid growth chiefly to the fostering care of Sir James Aikins, who, being impressed with the utility of the American Bar Association, has devoted his energies to creating a parallel organization in Canada. At the recent meeting held Ottawa, two very sensational addresses were delivered which will have echoes up and down the land for some time to come.

Mr. W. E. Raney, the Attorney-General of Ontario, in moving a vote of thanks to Lord Cave seized the opportunity to condemn the main reasons urging this change: firstly, it is quite inconsistent with our new claims to full national status that Canadian courts should not be good enough to interpret laws made by Canadian legislatures; and, secondly, the heavy expense of Privy Council appeals imposes an unfair handicap upon poorer litigants and often forces inequitable settlements. Mr. Raney's daring venture was backed up by Mr. W. D. Gregory and received support from an unexpected quarter in Mr. R. B. Bennett. Naturally the Attorney-General brought down upon his head the stern disapproval of most of the delegates, though he probably reflects the opinion of a large majority of the general public. Sir James Aikins and other leading legal lights were obviously pained, but wisely held their peace and it was left to Mr. Hartley Dewar to make common cause with an unbending Tory, Mr. White of Pembroke, in expressing angry horror at what they considered the disloyal and improper proposals of the Attorney-General.

But if Mr. Raney behaved with impropriety, his crime paled its ineffectual fires beside the misdeeds of Sir Auckland Geddes. In Britain Sir Auckland is classified as a Tory and an Ambassador is supposed to have no political or economic opinions. But to the astonished association he delivered a speech which had a flavor of earnest radicalism, and while it gained him many fresh admirers, lost him some old ones. Consider the irony of the situation. Here has the Labor Department been spending funds on pamphlets seeking to prove that the country is honeycombed with Bolshevist agitation. And now along comes Sir Auckland and tells his audience in categorical terms that denunciation of agitators is about as profitable a pastime as swatting mosquitoes, and that just as malaria cannot be got rid of until the swampy pools in which the mosquitoes breed are drained, so industrial unrest will continue till industry is humanized and intelligent and drastic readjustments of the existing system come to pass. He also brushed aside the theory that democratic unrest is merely a temporary aftermath of the war and will soon subside. Sir Auckland knows better and gave a moving account of his discoveries as Director of Recruiting in Britain, which apparently made him a reformer. Without undue emotion he narrated how he found on every side terrible evidence of the evil effects of unbridled industrialism, the physical ill-being of millions, the ghastly overcrowding, the destruction of home life and the reduction to mental stupor produced for multitudes by the dull task of minding soulless machines. His measured indictment of industrialism will not secure him an early invitation to address the C. M. A. in session. But his speech made a deep impression upon his audience. He spoke with a Calvinistic force and sincerity and obviously has not only thought deeply and clearly upon all current problems but he also claimed for himself complete freedom of utterance when the opportunity to strike a shrewd blow for sane progress offers.

Exhibition Trains.

An exchange of exhibition trains for showing in one country the products of another is a recent trade-extension project that is attracting attention in Canada. The Canadian National Railways have arranged for the transportation of exhibits of French goods through Canada, and Canadian manufacturers will be able to secure a similar exhibition of their goods on a train that will be taken through the principal cities of France.

Manitoba.

The Province of Manitoba covers an area of 251,832 square miles, of which 178,000 square miles were added in 1912. The added territory, known as New Manitoba, contains 424 miles of railroad, 332 miles of which have been built by the Canadian Government to connect the grain fields of the northwest with the Hudson Bay.

Carrier Pigeons in 1099.

According to the poet Tasso, carrier pigeons were employed for the transmission of messages during the siege of Jerusalem in the year 1099.

An Ode from the North
On the Douglas Hunting Party

By H. A. Soper, of Hamilton

It was in the fall of nineteen hundred and twenty, Settlers wrote down and said deer were plenty, So a gang from West Flamboro decided to go To a town in the north near Orville P. O.

Now this crowd was a motley crew, Five of the Shepards and of Hopkins two, Three were named Douglas and yours truly, And cook Frank Stock who at times was unruly.

Now Garwood Sheppard was a goodly man, He was built on the Moody and Sankey plan, But when he missed a shot in the clear, He swore to the boys it never was near.

I'll tell Charlie Sheppard in the spirit of fun, You can't shoot deer with an empty gun, But that's most peculiar as I have heard people say, There's been many a person shot that way.

Now Jake Sheppard is our puncher of dogs, Who takes them through swamps and out over the logs, He feeds them in the morning and at night time again, I reckon him one of the best of our men.

Haskin Sheppard is the next in line, Who always takes two fish at a time, Writes a letter home to his wife every day, If he didn't do that he couldn't have come away.

Next Morley the kid in his buckskin shirt, Which I hope soon to see covered with dirt, Or blood of a buck and doe, For I am sure if he saw them down they'd go.

Now we come to the Douglas party, Frank the Captain is still quiet hearty, But when he missed a deer with his worn out rifle, Made him mad as a jockey whose horse threw a stifle.

Then grey headed John who's a good old scout, For he always lugs an old shotgun out, But if he ever leaves his runway again, He'll spend the night in the dog house pen.

Give him a Safety Razor. Batchelor has the slick kind.

Now comes big fat Ernie, oh how he can snore, You would almost think it was a lion's roar, But if the boys get another wild goose by chance, His wife will have to put a gusset in his pants.

Jim Hopkins is the secretary of this camp, Who only brought up one chimney for the lamp, Left his nice chicken lunch for the train crew as well, When he gets back home he'll sure catch 'em all.

Then there is Will Hopkins who is a good fellow too, There is hardly a thing he cannot do, Except when he is out taking a burf He can walk around a tree but not the squirrel.

Frank Stock the cook on going to bed, Is sure to bite on "That's what I said," But on making pies he sure is a prince, He hands out apple the boys swear they're immense.

For what yours truly has said I am sure they'll not mind, For is it only the work of a deranged mind, It was only got up to have some fun in the camp, Now hold your ace, Morley, till I grab the lamp.

P. S.

In Memory of the Absent Members
Fred Binkley's the first I'll put down in our log, Who would never let on what became of his dog, Till the gang met a guy coming up on the train, Who swore he paid Fred twenty dollars for the same.

Then there is John Poole who at hunting was lax, Who stayed home this year to collect Flamboro's tax, For one day when a deer near his runway ran around, He pumped seven loaded shells out onto the ground.

A Painter of History.

Mr. Robert Harris, C.M.G., who died in Montreal recently, had a long and distinguished career, chiefly as a figure and portrait painter. One of his best known works was "The Fathers of Confederation," executed under a commission from the Dominion Government. It contained the figures of thirty-three Canadian statesmen, and was regarded as an accurate representation of them and of great historical value. Unfortunately this painting, which hung for many years in the lobby at the main entrance to the House of Parliament, Ottawa, was destroyed in the fire. Among the offices which he held were President of the Royal Canadian Academy, 1893-1906; president of the Ontario Society of Artists and Director of the Art School, Montreal Art Association, 1883-87. He was created a C.M.G. in 1902.

The Cannon Tells Its Story

One day some birds were resting on the cannon. It was telling of its adventures and I heard what it said.

"One day I heard someone digging all around under me. I wondered what it was. Alas, I found what it was. They were digging me out of my home in the ground. Then they took me to a factory in Germany and they put me in a hot fire and melted me and made me into a cannon. War was on between Germany and Britain and they took me up to the front lines. I tried to do my duty for my country, and I saw many sad sights. I saw dead horses and men and guns blown to pieces. I surely was frightened when I was first taken up to the lines. I was not there long before the war was over. One day they sent me to a little village called Waterdown, and placed me by the flag-pole in the school yard. The children pass me on their way to school. The women and men come to see me, and they think of the brave deeds that have been done. I have one friend and that is the flag-pole."

Cecil Wilkinson, Sr. III class.

The Cannon Tells Its Story

"I was found in a very large iron mine. I was taken away to a smelting works. When I got there I was tumbled in a large pot. Then I was cooled off and found I was made into a cannon. I was sent out in the trenches and tried to fight as hard as I could for the Germans, but at last I was captured and sent over to France. Then I had to fight for the Canadians, which I did not like very much. When the war was over I was sent over to a little village called Waterdown, and there I was drawn down to the school yard behind a truck. They left me by a flag-pole. On Halloween I was moved down to the front of the school and their I told this story to the boys."

"Reds" Like Canada.

All that remains of the Finnish Foreign Legion, which, under British leadership, fought the Germans on the Russian frontier, but would not fight the Bolsheviks because they were revolutionaries themselves, want to come to Canada. Away up in the Baltic are these would-be Canadian citizens, who helped the allies against the Teutons, but have been a problem ever since. These are strange allies since the legion was recruited from none other than former members of the Finnish Red Guard who were expelled from their country after the last change of Government there. Men without a country, they were formed into a foreign legion, 14,000 strong, and under British and Canadian officers did good work against the Germans, who tried to cross the Russian frontier to reach Murmansk. After the armistice, however, they refused to fight the Bolsheviks. They were all but Bolsheviks themselves. Through the efforts of Britain most of the legion was finally repatriated, but there was a certain element too steeped in revolutionary ideas for the Finnish Government to allow re-entry. They were blacklisted men. They were formed into details and placed under Lieut. T. S. Wetton, of Winnipeg, a Canadian who went out with the Siberian force as an officer in the Devonshires. Wetton protests they are not Bolsheviks, although a little radical in tendency. He says they are anxious to come to Canada, and he has made representations to the Dominion immigration authorities in that respect. However, it is scarcely likely that Canada will see the matter in the same light. Wetton's following are the very cream of Finnish revolutionism, Oskari Tokol, former Red Prime Minister for Finland, being an N.C.O. and a number of other prominent wavers of the red flag ranking as mere privates.

"Autumn" or "Fall."

Both are correct, "autumn" being rather more classic and generally used in England, while "fall" is now distinctly American and more expressive in its reference to the time of falling leaves. In England, the autumn is still sometimes called "the fall of the leaf." An English writer says: "Fall is better on the merits than autumn, in every way; it is short, Saxon, picturesque; it reveals its derivation to everyone who uses it, not to the scholar only, like autumn; and we once had as good a right to it as the Americans, but we have chosen to let the right lapse and to use the word now is no better than larceny." But if "fall" is more expensive, "autumn" has sanction of long usage and classical approval. The poets all give it the preference. Different ones speak of "conghial autumn," and "yellow autumn, weather with nodding corn."

Prince an Indian Chief.

"Dawn of Day" is the latest distinctive title to be conferred upon the Prince of Wales, who was invested with a chieftainship in the Six Nations (Iroquois) in the course of five hours spent in Brantford. At the Mohawk chapel the prince signed the register which contains the signatures of his grandfather and great-uncle, the name of Connaught, and was particularly interested in the Bible presented to the Six Nation Indians by Queen Anne. The women of the tribe requested that he convey to his royal mother the Queen an address from them. The prince unveiled a bronze tablet inscribed with names of the 36 members of the Six Nations who died overseas.
