Wish to call your attention to the fact that

205 King St., Brockville,

IS THEIR PLACE OF BUSINESS.

Winter is drawing near, and the cold weather creates a demand for

GOOD WARM CLOTHING.

Scores of ladies will be in town the next few weeks, and on their way in they will be wondering where they will buy their new dresses or mantles or whatever it may be for the LEAST POSSIBLE MONEY,

And we certainly think we can set your mind at rest as to this matter. We are in a position to supply your demand for Dress Goods, Mantles, Gloves, Hosiery, Ribbons, Laces and Staple Goods of all kinds. To better appreciate what we've done, just come and spend a little time with our large assortment at 205 King street. Don't neglect it, and afterwards say you were not told of the exceptional chances offered to spend your money for fall goods wisely and judiciously. LEWIS & PATTERSON.

THE RAILWAY.

What is regarded as a well-founded rumor is to the effect that the New York Central and Hudson River R. R. have purchased a controlling interest in the Utica and Black River R. R., and will assume control of that road on the first of December. It is further rumored that the same company are negotiating for the possession of the Brockville and Westport R. R., with a view of continuing it through to the Sault to connect with the Northern Pacific road, which is now nearly completed to that point. From our own private correspondent at Lyn we learn that the work between Lyn and Brockville has stopped, and that the B. & W. company have been granted running powers over the Grand Trunk for this winter. Should these rumors prove correct there is a fair prospect of the B. & W. R. becoming a connecting link of one of the greatest roads on this continent.
Should the open weather continue for ten or fifteen days longer the grading will all be completed between Lyn and Westport, when the work of building the bridges and trestle work will be pushed rapidly forward. A large quantity of ties have been delivered at Lyn, and the rails for the entire line are already on the ground, some at Lyn and the rest at Newboro.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

The Reporter from now until the 1st of January, 1889, for $1.

Phil Wiltse has a No. 40 Sultana and a good stead Alaska coal stove, at good as new, for sale cheap. Having put in a furnace he has no further need for them, and they will be sold at a bargain.

Kingston Business College has eight teachers employed, three more than last year. Send for free calendar.

An entertainment under the auspices of the choir of the Methodist Church takes place this evening in the lecture room of the church. Admission 15c.

We understand that Coleman Wiltse has purchased the residence of Mr.
Fred. Blanchard, at the foot of Schofield's Hill, Brockville, which he is having fitted up, with the intention of shortly removing there.

The thanksgiving service in the Methodist Church on Thursday evening was well attended. The pastor preached a fine sermon, and Psalm xxiv., given as an anthem by the choir, was both appropriate and well rendered.

The amateur "Sals" who paraded Main street between nine and ten o'clock last Thursday evening made considerable noise. The vocalists were lusty and willing, and the beating of the drum was not so slack, for an amateur.

Messrs. McIntyre & Copeland have been in town during the past few days superintending the fitting up of the new photograph gallery in the Central Block. They expect to have it ready in about a week. It is rumored that our two handsomest men have leased the "masheen" for the pictures in the new gallery.

PHIL WILTSE, FARMERSVILLE.

A few weeks since, the Reporter contained a description of the enlargement of Mr. Phil Wiltse's immense dry goods emporium, Far-mersville. A recent call, however, of a Reporter representative showed how inadequate the description was to convey a conception of the fulness and character of the stock and the complete equipment of the establishment. The store is arranged to meet the requirements of the most exacting and discerning patron.
A wide choice is offered in staple and fancy dry goods, millinery, mantles, dress goods, etc.
Mr. Wiltse has a reputation for his goods, and ladies far and near, manifest a strong interest in the goods and select judiciously.
The store is complete in every class of purchases.
The ordered clothing department secures purchases from distant points. The building is 7234, and comfortably heated throughout with a hot air furnace.

So far as is known there are only fourteen Chinese women in New York city. Of these nine are married.
They obey to the very letter the customs of their own country, where the wife is the property of her husband.
O'Brien, now languishing in an Irish prison, is in very poor health.
The harsh treatment he is receiving will probably shorten his life.

future it will be used as a millinery establishment.

(Received too late for last week.)

McIntosh Mills.

Mr. George Tennant has gone west.
We hope his stay will be short, as we miss him very much.

Mr. Patrick Shea, from near Charleston, was on Wednesday, the 16th, united in marriage to Julia A. Leeder, second daughter of Mr. Geo. Leeder.
They were married in the church, after which the party proceeded to the bride's father's, where a very pleasant evening was spent. One hundred and fifty guests partook of the supper.

The Farmersville band boys were present, and furnished some very excellent music. All join in wishing the young couple a long and prosperous life.

Mr. Ronan and daughter met with a serious accident a few evenings ago.
Their horse became frightened and threw the buggy and occupants into a deep ditch, where father and daughter lay unconscious for some time. Both were badly bruised.

Mr. Albert Mallory is quite ill.

Mr. B. Bullard and wife are again enjoying the comforts of home luxury after an extended trip in the west.

Moses is not very well.

Mr. W. Sexton is having a good catch. We would just intimate that if he were to offer better bait he would meet with greater success. He expects to supply a Chicago firm in his line.

Mr. Z. Chamberlain is recovering from a severe attack of typhoid fever.
Rev. G. Rogers purposes starting a series of meetings on Monday evening, the 21st inst., at Sheldon's school house.

Mrs. Hannah Knapp has been very ill. We are glad to say she is recovering.

We understand that there is to be a convention of the people of Lake st., for the purpose of appointing an inspector over all matters of note. We hope that Wm. S. will receive the appointment, as he has been so prominent in the past.

Mr. John Forth has bought a large quantity of hay from Mr. Jos. Sexton.

Newboro and Vicinity.

The last stone of the R. R. bridge was put in place last Friday, beneath the smiles of Superintendent Mooney and contractor Haggerty and the fluttering of the Union Jack.

A squirrel hunt took place on Thanksgiving Day, between parties chosen by Chas. English and Dong-Cole. The hunt proved close and exciting. Considerable amusement was occasioned in the evening while counting the game. The fine engineering done by English proved too much for his opponent who it must be said is better able to conduct a suit at law than lead a hunt. English won by five points. An oyster supper at O'- Neill's was the result, paid for by the vanquished.

Mrs. Chas. English is visiting here this week.

Messrs. Freeman and Poland have opened a jewelry store in D. H. Cole's building on Drummond st. They keep a large stock of watches, etc. Watch and clock repairing will be conducted by Mr. Poland, who, it is claimed thoroughly understands the business.
Who stole the turkey? was the question last week, and where is Cole's shingle?

Tuesday, last week, was pay day on the railroad here and the men went in for a time, having secured a quantity of the material used in "painting towns red" began operations early in the evening, near the post office. They succeeded in making it unpleasant for ladies, who had to pass through the ranks of the motley crowd. It is hoped some measures will be taken to prevent a recurrence, as they did not leave until midnight. A number of knock downs took place.

Another squirrel hunt is on for Thursday next. S. Bresse and R.
Langley, captains.

On Thursday last Bresse & Son had three persian lamb caps stolen from their store, valued at $9 each.
Parties are suspected. A couple of weeks ago they lost in the same way pieces of velvet and plush.

Mr. Robinson, stage driver, on Kingston route has moved his family here.

R. Riddell has moved into the house lately occupied by J. H. Whitmarsh.

W. H. Harrison has purchased some lots of Horace Kilborn near John Gallagher's residence and intends to build next summer.

Some evil inclined person got into the old school house the other night and broke the stoves.

A lover of darkness, rather than light, has presumed to break Mr. Bresee's street lamp.

We are glad to see Thos. McKian with us again. We hope he has come to stay.

While we hear of diphtheria and other contagious diseases in other places, we are pleased to state that we have no sickness here.

The Rideau Belle made her last trip here on Tuesday. She came as far as Newboro and returned to Kingston, where she lays up for the winter.

THE STAR IN THE EAST.

While shepherds nightly watched on India's plain
The glittering hosts bestrode the sky, One star of all the mighty train Can catch the wandering eye—
The Star of Bethlehem!

Editor Reporter:—
This grand star, when the night is clear, may be seen several hours before the dawn of day. While passing over our denser atmosphere, its apparent magnitude is unusual. Its appearance has been predicted for many years. Philosophers, astronomers, scientists and meta-physicians have speculated and theorized until they have aroused a general interest, and with a certain class, anticipations of swiftly approaching momentous events.
Aside from all this it is well worthy of rising early once in a life time to view its beauty.

As I lie in bed and look at it away across the immeasurable fields of ether blue—at it blazing in undiminished splendor, after a journey that we well might think would weary the wings of a seraph; as I still gaze on the lovely stranger, I remember that while it measures off one revolution in its vast orbit again, five or six centuries have passed over the heads of a hundred nations, have thundered down the plain of time into the mytic chambers of eternity; and ere it will illumine the rosy mornings of our globe again its present admirers will have mouldered to dust in long forgotten graves.
New nations will be evolved on the political horizon and great cities will rise, revel in luxury and vanish from the world's panorama.

As a flashing diamond, when every other star in the stellar realm is lost to view in the blinding blaze of our sun, so this star, slowly and almost sadly and reluctantly, vanishes in a delicate pale blue transparency, leaving a sweet grace and charm that make us wish for its return.

It has visited our world only a few times since the first rose bloomed in Eden; and yet it is ever moving through the distant celestial scenery at a speed that baffles the mind of man to comprehend.

He who can with unerring precision, draw the line, suspend the plummet space off the intersecting and concealing spheres, start and maintain the dazzling splendor and awful velocity of motion in the realm of the 4,000,000 suns visible in our firmament alone, is truly the Great Architect and right worthy of all honor and praise from cherubim and seraphim.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

Editor of Reporter:—Sir,—I suppose many people must have answered your question in reference to a Mechanics' Institute for Farmersville, in the affirmative. Be this as it may, I believe they are heartily in sympathy with it, and will show their readiness to co-operate in the scheme when it is brought formally before them. I see in glancing over the Annual report of the "Superintendent of Mechanics' Institutes and Art Schools" that he makes the remark that in towns and villages where Institutes have been established there is less law breaking and a higher average of intelligence than in communities where no such institute has found a place. He adds that in the schools the children of parents patronizing a public library are more intelligent than those from homes where little or no reading is done. If there is anything our village needs worse than sidewalks it is a public library. It is not safe to walk out after dark, by all means give a book to enjoy at home. In answer to your query, then, I most heartily say, Yes!
Will any one say, Nay? May I also suggest that in connection with the proposed institute, or apart from it, we organize a peripatetic reading circle. It might be conducted on some such plan as this:

a number of friends, say ten or twelve, band themselves together for the systematic study of some author or authors.
They meet once a week during the winter, going from house to house. After reading one hour to the critical reading of a poem or play, they might spend half an hour in conversation upon books, with a little music by way of variety. Trusting I am not intruding too much on your space.

PEEP 'ER HEAVEN'

A SKETCH FROM REAL LIFE.

The day after an entertainment at the hospital given several years ago by a few ladies, assisted by talented friends, to obtain funds to start the Flower Mission, an old man, who for many months had been a patient sufferer from a terrible disease—resulting from the agonies he had suffered—lay resignedly awaiting death.

Death, to so many a terrible visitant to him seemed a kind friend—looked forward to as a relief from the agonies he had suffered for, what seemed to him, years of weariness and pain. The children were at the hospital that day, hoping to clear away the remains of the previous evening's entertainment. Childlike they soon tired of the unusual work, and stole away to the wards to see the patients and have a chat with old Dick, the sufferer just alluded to, who was a favorite of theirs. The ladies, busy sorting and packing the numerous articles used at the evening previous, scarcely noticed the departure of their small helpers, and an hour passed before they returned, brimful of excitement and delight.

"Come! come! see poor old Dick! He sounds asleep, but he will wake such a surprise for him when he wakes!" So spoke one conspirator, the others dancing about filled with delight at the thought of the surprise awaiting their friend Dick. So somebody went to see what the cren had been doing during their absence. Well might Dick be astonished at the transfusion of his eyes when he saw eyes when he awoke—poor old eyes, with suffering and sleepless nights. He looked on which he lay was twice as bright as when he closed his eyes. The flowers on the bed were laid out in a row on the white coverlet and draped over his head. Dick had awakened, and in the midst of all the floral beauty and fragrance he lay, with such a smile on his worn face. "Oh Missy!" he said to one of the ladies. "That was the name he always called her."

"Oh Missy! I'm having a peep 'er heaven now. It can't be nicker than this. The flowers and the children, God bless them. Someway I'm thinking, Missy, He wants her show me what it's like up there." Nobody said a word. Nobody could. Tears in the eyes make tears in the voice, and one by one these ladies slipped away to their work again, leaving poor old Dick very happy, waiting for a "peep 'er heaven"—the real heaven. It was the last time the ladies ever saw old Dick. The last time those poor weary eyes brightened at their coming.

They left him with his eyes closed, a smile on his rugged face waiting, the strands of flowers draped about his head, narrow bed and around the pale countenance, drawn by constant suffering. If there are any who do not believe in the good done by the mission, let them read this truthful sketch and learn that it was through the instrumentality of a flower mission that a poor, suffering, friendless, old man had a "peep 'er heaven."

THIRTY YEARS AGO last September Hiram Robbins, a well-to-do man, made a visit to Niagara Falls and on the way home were attracted by a man and wife, accompanied by three small children, consisting of a boy and two girls, and a boy perhaps 4 years old. They were well dressed and apparently in good circumstances, but the mother was insane. The father, owing to his wife's illness, had the whole care of the family and the wife was somewhat neglected. Mrs. Robbins took pity on the baby and offered to take charge of it until the train reached Rochester. As they were about to enter the car, Mrs. Robbins said to the father: "If you would kindly take baby and keep him for eight or ten days until I could care for the rest of the family I will return him and reward you for your trouble."

Mr. Robbins' people readily consented to do as requested and the father gave the name of the baby as Frank Dyer. When the ten days were up Mr. B.'s people looked for the man's return, but in vain. And when two or three months had passed they began to wish that he would not come and he never did. The father grew up the brother of Prof. S. J. Robbins, of Penfield, with whom many of our readers are personally acquainted. S. J. Robbins entered the service in the late war, and during this city and during his absence this youth was the comfort of Mr. and Mrs. Robbins. During the rebellion Hiram Robbins died. His widow, Mrs. S. J. Robbins, died in 1865, having left his right arm at Cold Harbor, Va., in a few weeks after his return. Mrs. Robbins died, leaving Frank Dyer twice orphaned. The two orphaned children were brought up as best they could. Mr. Dyer taking a position on a railroad. In this he was successful, soon becoming a conductor on the Central, and the Chicago, Kansas & Nebraska Railroad. Now comes the strangest part of the story. About three weeks ago a conductor on the Central saw a lady in the Syracuse depot looking for a lost brother, and after hearing her story became convinced that Frank Dyer was his brother. He was very kind and showed her to the lady in the Syracuse depot. The mother is still alive and insane, but has never forgotten to ask for her baby. She can tell his exact name, his color, and how he wore when she last saw him. The father died soon after leaving the child with Mr. Robbins, and at his death all positive knowledge of the whereabouts of the babe was lost. The older brother lives in Nebraska. Conductor Dyer is at his old home at Allen's Creek with Prof. S. J. Robbins, who has recently written to the relatives from whom he has been separated for 33 years.—Rochester Herald.

A preacher once said: "We are not editors sometimes think we could make a better paper than our editor does, just as some people think that they could make a better sermon than the preacher. On the same principle, old maids are quite confident that they would make better wives than do the most of those who are already married. These are the same things. We sometimes think the editor is not religious enough, and that he gives too much space to the baseball brigade, the slagger, etc. We forget that the paper is a condensed history of every day's doings, and must therefore record deaths as well as births, and chronicle the deeds of demons as well as narrate the exploits of angels.

As a special effort is to be made to enable Sir Charles Tupper and the members of the Canadian Cabinet to visit the British Empire, the members of the British Empire are invited to leave for Washington on Monday, it is inferred that the commission will meet for business at an early date.

A last (Thursday) night's Chicago despatch says: The scene in Ling's cell after the explosion was ghastly. Teeth, bits of jawbone, shreds of flesh and blood were scattered all over the narrow compartment.

A little trail of blood led the way over the stone flagging to the room where Ling was carried. Jaier Folz at once gave orders to have every one of the other cells searched, and Parsons was the first one to descend was made upon. Three deputies entered his cell, took him by the wrists and shoulders and led him to the jailer's office. There a look on the outside of the cell was thoroughly searched and nothing found. The ex-editor of the Alarm shivered with excitement, fear and curiosity. His face was white and his eyes looked red.

There was a look then a gasp, and in a trice the lovers were in each other's arms. The interview lasted nearly half an hour. The news of Ling's suicide created a decided sensation in the jail. The jailer approached him on the outside of the cell. "Ling has killed himself," said Mr. Folz. "Great God! Is that so?" exclaimed Parsons. "Yes, it is a fact," was the reply. August Spies was then informed of the suicide. "I expected nothing else," said Spies quietly. "I have since the explosion of the bombs in his cell last Sunday I was satisfied that if it was possible he would make away with himself. For my own and my comrades' sake I am glad he is out of the way."

According to Jaier Folz all of the remaining Anarchists are completely broken down. They look on the outside of the cell as placing him in the category of an extreme Anarchist, which place they do not wish to occupy themselves.

They Sing the Marseillaise.

At 10 o'clock, Parsons, Fischer and Spies asked for twenty minutes to be allowed to sing the Marseillaise. The Sheriff did not immediately return an answer to the request. Fischer sang the "Marseillaise," in which the other prisoners joined. Parsons and Fischer spent a portion of the morning in preparing were in part written statements, the nature of which would not be divulged by the officials.

It was stated by the Sheriff that Spies, Parsons and Fischer had in addition written letters which he had also locked up secure to his face. He was addressed to his wife and children. That of Fischer's goes to his wife, but the address on that of Spies the sheriff refuses to divulge. It is supposed that it is for Nina Kaufman.

About 9:30 a deputation from the Carpenters' Union, to which Louis Lingg belonged, applied to Chief Deputy Knox for a permit to visit the prisoners. The deputation consisted of the following: Louis Lingg, the coroner's inquest will be held on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the residence of the coroner, who is now in the city and during his absence this youth was the comfort of Mr. and Mrs. Robbins.

In 1883 Lingg was forced to leave his native town in Germany. After a good deal of wandering about Germany, he came to Switzerland. There he continued to fight the "Blues," as the Red fellows of the west. It was then that the official organ of the German Socialists published a declaration declaring Lingg to be an informer and spy of the German Government. He came to America in 1885, and upon reaching Chicago joined the North Star group of internationalists and soon began the manufacture of bombs, one of which was used at the Haymarket. When two policemen went to arrest him the next day one of them entered the room while the other stayed outside the room. The latter soon heard shouts for help, and running into Lingg's room found that the Anarchist had thrown a bomb into the room, and was only prevented from shooting him by the policeman, who had a grip on the revolver which Lingg was endeavoring to use.

Question of the sentences. The sentences of Fielden and Schwab were commuted to imprisonment for life. The rest were denied clemency. Thus Spies, Fischer, Parsons and Engel will be executed to-morrow.

THE GOVERNOR'S STATEMENT. In his decision on the petitions of the condemned Anarchists Governor Oglesby says: "I am satisfied as I am of their guilt I am precluded from considering the question of commutation of the sentences of Albert R. Parsons, Adolph Fischer, Geo. Engel and Louis Lingg to imprisonment in the Penitentiary, as they emphatically declare that they will not accept such commutation. Samuel Fielden and Michael Schwab have asked for the commutation of their sentences. While I am satisfied of the guilt of all the parties as found by the verdict of the jury, which is sustained by the judgment of the courts, a most careful consideration of the whole subject leads me to the conclusion that the sentence of the law as to Samuel Fielden and Michael Schwab may be commuted to imprisonment for life. As to the other above-named defendants I do not feel justified in interfering with the sentence of the court. While I regret they have come to a different conclusion in regard to the sentence of defendants August Spies, Adolph Fischer, George Engel, Albert R. Parsons and Louis Lingg, I regret to say that under the solemn sense of the obligations of my office I have been unable to do so.

LAST INTERVIEW. When the news of the commutation of the sentence of Fielden and Schwab was received at the jail there was an extraordinary scene of activity. The news was sent to the most prominent Anarchists, and in a short time they began to arrive at the jail. The first of the women to come in was Mrs. Schwab. Soon after Schwab was brought from his cell to the main office. His wife quickly advanced to him and throwing her arms about his neck burst into tears. Schwab returned the embrace in a calm manner and soon the two were quietly together. After this Spies and Fischer were brought from their cells and taken to the library. Engel was brought to the private office of Mr. Folz. It was done for the purpose of allowing the relatives to take their last interviews. The first of the women to arrive after Mrs. Schwab was Miss Engel, who was brought from her cell to the library. When the two met in the private office there was an outburst of grief which it is impossible to describe. Father and daughter clung to each other and sobbed convulsively. The conversation was in German and listened to only by Deputy Oelsen. Then came Mrs. Spies, the mother of August. She had been waiting outside for an hour and a half. Her eyes were heard through the corridors of the building. She did not stay long in the library with her son, and on her exit from the jail Mrs. Fischer was the first one to enter the library, and her lamentations were heard above the tramp of the deputies who swarmed about the place. But the crowning scene was the death of the cell wall. The thoroughly searched and nothing found. The ex-editor of the Alarm shivered with excitement, fear and curiosity. dead lack of color in the pinched lineaments of Parsons. The once jaunty, vivacious Texan came last—a withered old man.

Why They Were Hanged. The Judges of the Supreme Court of Illinois in their decision of the case of the Anarchists held that there was a general conspiracy which was to be carried into effect about May 1st, 1886. In pursuance of the general plot, even as early as 1879 as many as 1,000 men were drilling regularly in Chicago, and in 1885 there were 3,000 men drilled in the city. The engine was well armed with rifles and revolvers and would have dynamite and bombs when they got ready to use them. May 1st having been selected for the engines as the date for introducing the eight hour system, it was chosen by the Anarchists as the time for striking the blow because there would be a large number of men out of work. The proceeds of a ball given by the Carpenters' Union was turned over to Lingg, with which to buy dynamite. The judge said it was quite apparent that the manufacture of bombs by several persons called and helped themselves, as if knowing that they would be there at that time. This was on the evening of the explosion, April 18th. Two days before the explosion the original plan was to have under the auspices of the International Workingmen's Association. The bombs were carried by Lingg and Seliger, who carried information to a hall, where several persons called and helped themselves, as if knowing that they would be there at that time. THE REPORTER.
Editor and Proprietor.
Guaranteed Circulation, 750.
FARMERSVILLE, NOV. 22, 1887.
LOCAL AND OTHER NOTES.
From the Pencil of our Own News-Gatherer.

Notice to advertisers and correspondents—As our forms are made up on Monday evening all M.S. extended for that week must reach us not later than Monday noon.

The Rev. James Pullar will preach at St. Paul's Church on Sabbath forenoon.

The buildings erected in Brockville this season foot up to a total value of $150,000.

Rev. Wm. McGregor, who officiated in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening made a very favorable impression.

A special new lot of china sets just received by Phil. White.

There is no truth in the rumor that Dr. Stanley Cornell is about to leave Farmersville, as he considers himself permanently settled here.

There was a numerous attendance of worshippers at the Presbyterian Church last Thursday evening. The anthem was the 111th Psalm, which was well sung by the choir.

"Every Man's Guide." Bookkeeping, commercial law and forms, practical rates for farmers, precise writing and indexing. Price, post paid, $1.50. Address, McKay & Wood, Kingston.

None should fail to attend the entertainment this evening and hear the duet by Mr. W. G. Parish and Dr. C. M. B. Cornell. These singers have never appeared before in public, but there's music in 'em.

A tea meeting will be held in the Methodist Church, Chantry, on the evening of the first of December. It will take place under the auspices of the ladies of the Methodist congregations of Harlem (first) and Chantry. Tea will be served at six o'clock, after which an excellent programme will be presented.

Yesterday morning another old resident passed away, in the person of Richard Finlay, of Charleston. Deceased was highly respected by all who knew him, and died at a very advanced age. If he had lived another ten days, he would have numbered 84 years of life. The funeral service will be held at Christ Church, at 11 a.m. to-morrow.

Phil. White's little ad. about gold and silver watches in a late issue, had the desired effect. Several sales have been effected through that notice. Call and see the stock.

According to the near assessment roll, Brockville has a population of 2,582. Of the number 2,489 are returned as belonging to the Church of England, 2,104 to the Roman Catholic Church, 1,673 to the Methodist Church, 1,591 to the Presbyterian Church, 329 to the Baptist Church, and the remainder to various other denominations or to no religious body at all.

Dr. C. M. B. Cornell performed a delicate and successful operation on Friday last, the patient being Mr. Lewis Brown, an Elgin young man. Some months ago the sufferer inflicted a severe contusion upon his leg, below the knee, which injured the bone to such an extent that the bruise did not heal properly, but developed into a large tumor, to remove which was the object of the operation. The patient is doing well.

Procrastinate—We have just printed, and will hereafter keep in stock a full line of imitations blinks, such as warrants, summonses, subpoenas, &c. These will be found a great convenience to county magistrates, and will be put up in lots and sold at Toronto prices. Magistrates sending us $1. will be furnished with a supply of all the blanks usually required, in proportionate quantities. 46-3

The triple suit entered by Messrs. Hinks, Armstrong and Pierce, against Mr. Richard Arnold, in which each plaintiff claims $10,000 damages alleged to have been suffered by them by their arraignment in connection with the dynamite case, was advanced another stage a few days ago, when the defendant's solicitor, Mr. Deacon, was served with a bill of particulars.

Mr. Richard Arnold wishes us to thank his many Temperance friends for the very tangible manner in which they have shown their sympathy for him. Two of them called upon him yesterday morning, and after reading an address, presented him with a purse which more than covers all the loss sustained by him in the late dynamite outrage. Following is the address:—

Mr. RICHARD ARNOLD:
DEAR SIR—We having circulated a subscription among a few of the friends of Temperance for the purpose of refunding to you the money paid out in repairing the damage done by the dynamite explosion at your house, found the result to the call very cheerful, indicating that a much larger sum could be raised if required. Indeed we are certain that we could raise funds to build you a new house, were such a step necessary. We are bound to stand by you in the cause of right. Please accept the aid with accompanying cash, to defray the expenses incurred by you.

With a feeling of deep regret, and with heartfelt sympathy for the bereaved relatives, we record the death of Elgin, on the 12th inst., of Philimon Parnock, aged 67 years. Mr. Parnock was born near Elgin, where he has always resided. He leaves a widow and four children to mourn his loss. He was for nearly 35 years the pastor of the native village, and also held the offices of commissioner and issuer of marriage licenses. For many years Mr. Parnock was identified with the old Methodist Episcopal Church as a class leader and local preacher. His Christian virtues and strict integrity won for him the esteem and respect of all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. He was a specimen of God's noblest handiwork—an honest man. Peace to his ashes.

According to the Parliamentary Companion, the aggregate ages of 72 members of the Canadian Senate is 4,610 years. The average age is 64. There are 47 Senators whose ages are about 60 years each, 20 whose ages are above 70 years each, and four whose ages are above 80 years each.

A new high school building is to be erected at Kemptonville.
The fine, new school building at Elgin will be ready for occupation by the 1st of January.
B. Caldwell & Co. cut over nine million feet of lumber this season at their Carleton Place Mills.
It cost a young man $4, for legal costs, who the other day passed the Five toll gate without paying the toll.
An association is formed at Ottawa for the purpose of managing an annual exhibition, after the manner which has proved such a success at Toronto.
