course; Miss Warner, the duke. Ah, yes, we must fix a day, Mr. Slade; what do you say, sir?

Slade smiled. 'Better consult the barometer, sir,' he said, 'though I imagine a picnic would not be complete without a shower or two. Why does it always rain on picnic days?'

The door opened before this important question could be answered, and Harold entered. Lillian was the first to look up and see the sudden contraction of the brows which made his face, already grave and weary, still more gloomy.

He glanced quickly from her face to Dawson Slade's, then back again, and, as if with an effort, came forward with a smile, to shake hands.

'Harold, you used to be the most punctual man in Woodleigh at meal times,' said Sir Talbot, laughing, 'and now you are generally late. Sit down, my boy, where have you been?'

Harold pushed his short, wavy hair from his forehead. 'Oh, round about, promiscuously, sir,' he answered. 'To Jones, about the new farm buildings, for one place.'

'Poor Harold,' said Sir Talbot. 'You must know,' he added, turning to Slade: 'Harold undertakes all the disagreeable work on the estate—and, by gad, there's very little that's agreeable—and so he gets the whole of it. This Jones is one of the most troublesome tenants. He is never satisfied—one week it is a new range, another a new roof to his homestead; the next a new pigsty, then a complaint about the game—which he and his two sons poach most industriously all the year round, and now he wants two new cowsheds and a barn built for him. You had a hard morning of it, Harold.'

'Tolerably,' said Harold, 'and to make it pleasant, Jones was reinforced by a young fellow that is lodging on the farm, and who with most charming good nature joined the discussion and argued—on Jones' side—like a Philadelphia lawyer.'

'Why Philadelphia?' asked Sir Talbot. 'Oh, I don't know. I fancied the fellow was an American.'

Lillian looked up with one of the swift flashes that came at odd moments, and as if the half-curious half-suspicious look were a signal Dawson Slade interposed: 'Let me give you a cut of this ham Mr. Woodleigh.'

'Thanks,' said Harold, holding his plate. 'An American,' said Sir Talbot, too interested to allow the topic to drop. 'Quite a rare bird in this part of the country,' he said; then stopped suddenly with a start and a timid glance at the beautiful face at the head of the table.

'But it turned out to be fancy or my part—a fancy not altogether unreasonable, however,' for the man spoke with a strong accent—that peculiar drawl which associates with the true-born Yankee, and he mentioned accidentally that he had been in America for a number of years.'

'Lodging at Jones,' said Sir Talbot, turning with a laugh to Lillian, 'and it was a week ago since this Jones came up and wanted me to build two more rooms for him, on the plea that there wasn't room for his family. What was the man's name, Harold?'

Harold remembered a moment. 'Pon my word, I've forgotten, sir,' he replied. 'He did mention it, but no little pride either, but he and Jones were talking both together at the moment that it has slipped me. An ordinary sort of name, and with a long, trumpet kind of Christian one. I quite forget.'

'Here,' said Sir Talbot, 'you see, Mr Slade, a stranger is so rare a creature that we are quite curious. What is he doing down here, Harold?'

'Can't say, sir,' said Harold. 'Fishing, I fancy; at any rate he showed me some trout he had taken out of the stream.'

'Indeed!' said Sir Talbot. 'Did you mention that he had been trespassing?'

'A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.' This is the age of research and experiment. When all nature is to be explored, and the secrets of the earth are to be unlocked, it is not surprising that the most important discoveries are made in the domain of medicine.

'THE THERAPION.' This preparation is unquestionably one of the most genuine and reliable Patent Medicines ever introduced, and has, we understand, been used in the Continental Hospitals by Ricord, Rostan, Jobert, Mouton, and others, the well-known Choussignac, and indeed by all who are regarded as authorities in such matters, including the celebrated Lallemand, and Roux, by whom it was some time since uniformly adopted, and that it is worthy the attention of those who require such a remedy, we think is self-evident. From the time of Aristotle downwards, a potent agent in the removal of these diseases has been the famous philosopher's stone; the object of search of some of our grandfathers; and far beyond the mere power of such a stone, the discovery of the Therapion, which could ever have been discovered, is a discovery of a remedy so potent as to replenish the falling energies of the confirmed case, and in the other so effectively, speedily and safely to expel from the system the cause of the disease, the knowledge of a second party, the poisons of acquired or inherited disease, all their potent forms as to leave intact or trace behind. Such a discovery would certainly rank with, if not take precedence of, many of the discoveries of our day, about which no little ostentation and noise have been made, and the extensive and ever-increasing demand that has been created for this medicine, which ever introduced appears to prove that it is destined to cast into oblivion all the questionable remedies that were formerly the sole reliance of medical men. Therapion may now also be obtained in Drago (Tastefol) form.

Makes Hair Grow.

ASK McMURDO & CO.

McMurdo & Co. has an invigorator that will grow hair or money back. The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of.

If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears. The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.

And remember, it destroys the Andruft germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots. SALVIA is sold by McMurdo & Co. under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop Falling Hair and Itch-Inf Scalp in tend days, or money back. A large bottle costs 50c. The word 'SALVIA' (Latin for sage) is on every bottle and is sold by dealers everywhere.

'I said it was preserved water, and he said, with great heartiness, that he was glad to hear it, and that he wouldn't give a farthing to fish in any that wasn't.'

Sir Talbot, who not very long ago, at that bygone time before Lillian's advent, was as stern an upholder of the game laws as could be found in the county, leaned back in his chair and laughed.

'A cool hand!' he exclaimed. 'Of course, with such a man at his back, Jones got your promise for the new buildings, Harold?'

'Not exactly,' said Harold, dryly. 'Mr. Jones scored on the trout, but I scored on the buildings. I told him you would think it over.'

'Which I shall not,' said Sir Talbot. 'I wash my hands of it. Do as you like, Harold. If I know Jones he will have the buildings as certainly as the lawyer had the trout.'

'It is to be hoped that the interesting stranger doesn't carry a gun as well as a rod, or he will be helping himself to the partridges,' said Slade. 'Oh, I think we must draw the line there,' rejoined Sir Talbot. 'We want what game Jones and the rest of the poachers have been considerate enough to leave us. We count upon your gun, Mr. Slade.'

Dawson Slade bowed. 'If I stay so long, sir,' he said. 'Oh, come, I am sure they will not let you leave us yet a while,' said Sir Talbot. 'Besides, there is the portrait, you know.'

Harold looked up inquiringly. Sir Talbot nodded with a smile. 'Mr. Slade is painting Lillian's portrait, Harold,' he said. 'The first sitting took place this morning, and a very successful one, too, I make bold to say.'

Dawson Slade made a gesture of deprecatory denial. 'You must see it, Harold,' went on Sir Talbot. 'It is in the gallery. Come up directly after lunch.'

WHEN he turned, and from his face had vanished every trace of emotion and earnestness. With wonderful ease he glided into a lighter vein, his eyes alight with careless humor, a smile playing about his lips, as he leaned against the window, and threw out now an anecdote, now a light jest.

Sir Talbot laughed and nodded, and lit up with satisfaction. The portrait was forgotten; Lillian herself, sitting at a little distance, seemed almost forgotten, was certainly unnoticed, as Dawson Slade had intended she should be.

Sitting in the shadow, she watched and listened to the man who seemed able in a moment to assume any character he chose; and she could scarcely believe that the man now beaming with careless gaiety was the same who, pale and working, looked down at her a few—so very few!—minutes ago.

He rattled on for some little time longer; then turning the canvas toward the easel, began to put his brushes together, and glanced at his watch.

'Oh! we can't think of letting you escape!' said Sir Talbot, laying his hand on Slade's shoulder. 'Luncheon is on the table by this time—will you give Miss Woodleigh your arm? I will join you in a few minutes, after I have sent these letters to the steward. I am inclined to doubt the vast benefit which the penny post is supposed to have bestowed upon us!'

'If the unpleasant epistles would only be kind enough to go astray!' laughed Dawson Slade, offering his arm to Lillian.

Suffered Terrible Pains from His Kidneys.

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body, and most people are troubled with some kind of kidney complaint, but do not suspect it.

There is no way of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Dr. Bovel's Herb Tablets.

They help the kidneys to flush out the acid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages.

Mr. C. Jordan of Fort Sandfield, writes as follows: Gentlemen:—It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Dr. Bovel's Herb Tablets. I suffered terribly from kidney disease for three years, which trouble I contracted from exposure while working at my trade which is carpentering. I was advised to try your medicine. I am thankful to say that I am now completely cured, and I can truthfully recommend this medicine to all sufferers from this painful disease.

Thankfully yours, C. JORDAN. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers. If your Dealer cannot supply you send 25c. (in stamps) to us. BOVEL MANFG. CO'Y, 62, John's, Nfld., or Montreal, Can.

'And the pleasant ones would answer themselves,' retorted Sir Talbot.

Lillian put her finger tips on Dawson Slade's arm and waited for the next word. Would he throw off the mask of gaiety and return to the deep gravity?

Apparently he did not intend to do so; as if his story of the slave, and the episode of the sketch were but the fancies of a dream, his mood still remained light and amusing, and with a laugh on his lips, and a smile forced from her—on her, they entered the breakfast room, in which apartment Lillian—whose word was law—preferred to have the luncheon laid.

'Yes,' said Dawson Slade, as he handed her to her chair, and stood beside her waiting for Sir Talbot. 'I am convinced that I am a true, direct descendant of one of the pure Arabian races. I am nomadic, here to-day, somewhere else to-morrow. I am ashamed to say upon how many civilized countries of the world I have inflicted my presence, and some of the uncivilised have not escaped; but Gerald says I have traveled in vain, and have seen nothing, so to speak, until I have visited the Giant's Breastplate.'

Lillian looked up. 'What is it?' He shook his head with a smile. 'A fearful mystery clings around that question,' he answered. 'I am rather uncertain as to whether it is some particularly fine piece of scenery, or a remnant of a curious old armor; whether one goes to see it in the open air, or it is stored in some local museum. Most devoutly I trust it be not the latter—museums are horrible places, at home or abroad. I remember, in my schoolboy days, we were taken to the British Museum—as a treat. It was all as dry as sawdust to us until we came to the room with the stuffed rhinoceros. There we found some relief, for we could sharpen our penknives on the hide, one by one, while the rest diverted the keeper's attention in another direction. But the Giant's Breastplate is still a mystery. I thought you would be able to enlighten me.'

'Here is one who can,' said Sir Talbot, entering at the moment. 'The Giant's Breastplate is a huge beetling cliff at Scarford, a small village on the coast, some twelve miles from here.'

'I am relieved; anything but a museum. A cliff in the shape of a giant's breastplate has no horror for me. What I dreaded was a piece of rusty armor in a glass case, and a lecture accompanying it.'

'Oh, but the Giant's Breastplate is not so harmless as you may think,' said Sir Talbot. 'It is not to be seen, indeed, without incurring some little peril—or, at least, inconvenience. If you go by boat you brave the dangers of a particularly ugly coast, and if you climb down to it, you do so by a path that, for awkward turns and dizzy curves, is second to none in England. But the cliff is well worth seeing, a freak of nature as grand as it is curious. Oh, quite well worth seeing.'

Dawson Slade looked up. 'Miss Woodleigh has not seen it yet, if it is not too dangerous for ladies, why should we not make up a little party?' he suggested.

'Eh?' said Sir Talbot, with his usual eagerness to secure any amusement for his darling. 'Why not—why not? What do you say, Lillian? We might make something of a picnic of it.'

'Double the attractions, as it were,' said Slade. 'Pigeon pie and champagne cup on the top of the cliff for the timid, and the Giant's Breastplate, in addition, for the brave. Pray consent, Miss Woodleigh.'

'It would be very nice,' she said, quietly. Sir Talbot nodded.

'Let me see, we might make up a comfortable little party. Gerald, of course; Miss Warner, the duke. Ah, yes, we must fix a day, Mr. Slade; what do you say, sir?'

Slade smiled. 'Better consult the barometer, sir,' he said, 'though I imagine a picnic would not be complete without a shower or two. Why does it always rain on picnic days?'

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

The time when half a dozen professions were all that were open to women is now left in the dim past and is almost as unthinkable as stage coach transit.

Women daily are entering new fields of endeavor and making good at new lines of work.

It is good for other women in conventional positions to hear about their more original sisters, both as a matter of human interest and because of the germ of suggestion that may await them there.

For that reason I devote this column occasionally to telling of some of the "other things" that women are doing.

If there are any women among my readers who have unusual occupations I wish that they would write and tell me about them so that I might pass on the story.

Be sure to tell the advantages and disadvantages of your occupation, how you started in it, what education is necessary and what the compensation is apt to be.

One of the most interesting methods of earning a livelihood with which I ever happened to come into personal contact, was a bird boarding house.

The keeper of this establishment made a fairly comfortable living by boarding birds whose owners were travelling, and by treating sick birds. She also raised a few canaries.

She had no especially built aviary, but simply devoted three large sunny rooms in her home to her birds. Canaries and parrots were the chief of her guests, but she also had many less common birds such as Japanese rightingales, thrushes and bullfinches.

For a well canary she charged twenty-five cents a week; for a parrot, fifty. Sick birds cost according to the care they required.

Although she is very fond of her work, she says it is by no means as easy as it sounds. There is much responsibility, as many of the birds are very valuable. One beautiful plumed parrot, which she was treating was valued at $500. One hundred dollars is a very common price to pay for a good bird.

Then the diet of the sick birds, most of which are being treated for indigestion, is a great care. Of the fourteen parrots that she had when I visited her, no two were being fed alike.

But then, of course, there are responsibilities and difficulties in all kinds of business and the lady of the birds thinks that for anyone who has a home where she can keep the birds so that she need not reckon rent, and who loves and understands birds, there is a comfortable living in the business.

In talking with this woman about the diet of her guests I stumbled upon a business as much more unique than hers as hers is than school teaching or any ordinary profession.

My lady of the birds has to have a certain kind of meal worms for some of the soft billed birds.

"Where do you get them?" I asked. "From a New York dealer," she said, "but I used to get them from a woman a few miles from here who raised them for a living."

Don't you think that caps the climax?

These worms are merely ordinary meal worms—the kind that come in your meal corks if you aren't careful. Certain birds have to have them.

The raising is done by putting meal and two or three other things into a dark crock and letting the worms breed. When ready for market they are sold for eight cents a dozen. This woman not only supported herself, but educated her two children and sent them abroad on the money earned by raising meal worms.

Can you beat it? Now don't neglect to let me know of that unusual thing, perhaps more unusual than any of these, that you are doing.

THE CASE OF COLONIAL STREET.

Dear Sir,—Who shall deny the potency of smells? Of all scents, I suppose that of new mown hay is the most generally appreciated. It is at once delicious, refreshing, stimulating, and invigorating; it breathes of health and rustic bliss. When the dramatist brings it over the footlights the very critics gush and bubble of green fields. But even new mown hay has its enemies and victims. There was a friend of mine who was driven to embrace the urban life which he hated, simply because of the new mown hay. If in his morning stroll to his office in the Treasury he happened to meet a load of the fragrant grass he would wail out more to do turn homewards, write a polite note to his chief, and go to bed with an attack of hay fever.

Once only in his later life was he tempted out of town to face the dangers of the country. An imperative sense of duty impelled him to escort his Sunday school class to its annual picnic, for he was both pious and conscientious. He went, and that was the end of him. Hay fever claimed him for its own. What the smell of new mown hay is to the unhappy few he odore, of putrefaction is to the more unhappy many, bringing always discomfort and malaise, frequently sickness, and sometimes infection and death. Therefore it is that I plead most earnestly with our City Fathers to do something to abate the dreadful and dangerous nuisance of the stink from our drains.

I return again to Colonial Street. This is certainly not one of our worst streets, but it surely is one of the most notorious and dangerous. I have already spoken of the risks which the students of Bishop Field College daily run, and I have now to consider the case of the resident population of the neighbourhood. This whole region is populous with children, and with young children—too young to understand the risks they run or to now the cause of the discomforts and ailments they must continually suffer. Though the Park is near at hand and their playground is the street and the most interesting object to them in the street is the drain of which I have spoken. The most attractive object in the drain is the sewer mouse. You can seldom pass this street but you see one or more youngsters rummaging in this drain inspecting and exploring this sewer mouth. They toss their ball into the drain and lose their marbles in the filth; they fall sticks down the gutter after a rain storm and make out pies of the sediment which the air washes in heaps. Continually they play with disease and death. I don't know what the mortality statistics of this neighbourhood are, but I think they are not high, it is Providence, and not our City Fathers, that we must thank. You may perhaps find it hard to believe me when I say that I have seen the sanitary men, as they are called, try to cleanse the filth accumulated at the sewer mouth, still more vainly try to drive these poor children away from the spot where all their corruption was being stirred up; yet you may take my word for it that what I say is true. These are things which hundreds of people must have seen as they passed up and down this street, yet nobody before me has, I believe, taken the trouble to reflect upon what they saw. There is a vast difference between seeing and observing, and between observing and reflecting, and between reflecting and protesting, and between protesting and keeping on protesting. I shall endeavour, if I am given the chance, to keep on protesting. The whole trouble with us is that we have become so used to this sort of thing that we either cease to notice it or, noticing it, we despairingly try to divert our attention from what is naturally so repugnant to our instincts of decency. The town now needs to be protected against itself, against its cupidity and thoughtlessness. Particularly, the little children must be protected against the perils they are too young to recognize, and flee from of themselves. I do very earnestly appeal to our Council, to recognize the dangers we continually run ourselves and inflict upon others, and those who are helpless. Will Mr. Ellis and his colleagues make a beginning now? I do not for one moment doubt their good-will and virtuous intentions towards the city they govern and the people whose health and lives they may make safer and happier. Will they make a beginning at Colonial Street? If they will only do this, and do it at once, we shall have an assurance that at least we have a Council, which we may trust to CLEAN THE TOWN.

Yours truly,
REFORM.

"They should not worry. The general is not dead yet, and he can tell them as a secret that the General has made up his mind, as his life is of value, to live as long as he possibly can."

"If he should pass away to-night, however, the same electric flash that carries the tidings round the world that the General is dead will add: 'Long live the General!'"

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medicine Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

HOU EHOLD NOTES.

Iron rust stain should be rubbed with lemon, sand, salt and held in the steam of a rapidly boiling kettle.

Cabbages and cauliflower should always be soaked for a time in salty water and then rinsed off before cooking.

To prevent or remove tan, put enough benzine in the bathing water to give it a slightly milky appearance.

Slight iron scorching on linen will often disappear if the piece is laid for awhile in the bright sunshine.

An excellent way to clean steel knives and forks is to cut a fair sized potato in half and use with bathbrick.

Equal parts of salt and cooking soda with a little water will greatly relieve the pain of insect stings and bites.

Strange as it may seem, a stomach that can tolerate no other meat will often easily digest fried-breakfast bacon.

Keep a bowl of cold water at hand into which to dip the fingers frequently when hulling or capping fruit for preserving.

To get rid of rats, stuff their holes with laundry soap which has been liberally sprinkled with cayenne pepper.

Cucumbers, after soaking in cold salty water for an hour, should be drained and shaken dry in a clean towel before serving.

Soap that comes from the store moist will be used up very fast. It is a good plan to put it on a shelf for a week to dry.

Alum used in rinsing water will prevent green goods from fading, while a handful of salt in the water will hold blue fast.

Vinegar applied with a soft cloth will give a good polish to windows, but the dust should first be wiped off with a soft cloth.

Labrador News.

The s.s. Invermore, Capt. Parsons, arrived here this morning from Labrador, having been as far north as Emily. The weather was as cold as November all the trip up and down, except during two days on the return trip. Summing up the fishery situation on that part of the coast the fishery is a failure from Holton to Battle Harbor. All the settlers on the coast are discouraged over the outlook. They are principally Conception Bay men. There is a good chance for the floaters, all of which are gone down the coast below Horse Harbor. The schooners at White Bears, Farnyards, Ironbound Islands, Turnavick and vicinity will most likely make up a voyage. The others are gone to Muford, Queen's Lakes, Sedgick Bay and Rama, and Capt. Parsons thinks that they have a good prospect of getting fish. The Invermore brought up twelve sick fishermen, five of whom were landed at Harbor Grace, Carbonear and other Conception Bay ports. At White Bears the best trap has 300 qds. and fish was very plentiful when the Invermore passed south. The same at Ironbound Islands. All the schooners there will get good trips. Squid bait is very scarce all along the coast, so that the hook and line men are doing very little. At Battle Harbor the fishery appears to be over. The best boats crew halls for 100 qds. The Invermore brought Mr. Graham from Cartwright, and Mr. P. Templeman from Bonavista.

Faithful Unto Death.

"All their lives they were chums, and in death they were not divided. Young Martin gave his life to save 'his chum.' Such were the words given utterance to yesterday by the father of Willie Lloyd. Surely no higher tribute could be paid. There are those who smile at boyish friendships, and talk of them as trifles light as air. But such can know little of friendship itself, for none are deeper, truer, more enduring, and more self-sacrificing than the friendships of youth. This fact has been emphasized by Thursday's tragedy. The lads were inseparable. Lloyd could not swim; Martin was an expert swimmer. There can be no doubt that he might have saved his own life by leaving his comrade to meet his fate alone. Instead he surrendered his life in the effort to save his friend. "Greater love hath no man than this," Herbert Martin proved himself as much a hero as any Victoria Cross winner. He left a bright and beautiful inspiration to the youth of to-day. And so has young Lloyd, for to inspire such devotion and love, his must have been a beautiful character. Life turns to like; friendship feeds on friendship. Of the lads, words may be said with greater truth even than when first employed by David, "They were lovely and pleasant in their lives, and in their death they were not divided."—Daily News.

If Gold Were a Penny a Pound.

What May Happen if Many More Mountain Ranges of Gold are Found.

The news of the discovery of a whole mountain range rich in gold makes one wonder what would happen were so much gold produced that its price fell enormously. What would happen in this world of ours if gold became as cheap as iron, for instance? Then our sovereign, instead of representing its value of to-day, would only possess a mere fraction of that value. At first sight it would appear that a revolution would take place in human affairs.

As a matter of fact the change would not be very great, certainly not nearly so great as would be the case if coal became as rare and as dear as gold. This is because industry would come to a stop without coal, while we could get on very well, without gold.

True, those who had their wealth in gold would suffer seriously. Gold articles would be ridiculously cheap, and in many cases creditors would suffer; but, taking this civilized world as a whole, the change would have little importance.

Gold on a Desert Island.

There is no mystery inherent in gold. It is merely a convenient standard, in terms of which we can effect our bargains, and by which we can exchange labour for labour, or rather the fruits of labour.

It so happens that gold, being a rare metal, possesses qualities admirably suited to make it a sign of value. At the same time a man on a desert island with a pile of gold would not be a farthing richer; he could not eat it, nor indeed use it in any way. There is no doubt we have an exaggerated notion of the importance of gold owing to its being a token of value—we confound it with the good things it will bring us.

But even if a thousand mountain ranges of solid gold were discovered, so that gold became as common as iron, it would still have distinct uses, as it is really a remarkable metal of itself. It may be mentioned that there are few more widely distributed metals than gold, and possibly none which has been mined for a longer period in man's history; it is found in all manner of rocky formations—in fact it is found in chalk.

No other metal known possesses similar qualities. For instance, it possesses an extraordinary malleability and ductility. Actually a piece of gold weighing but a single grain may be beaten out so as to cover seventy-five square inches of surface, or it may be drawn into a wire 500 feet long. Thus it will be seen that, however cheap gold became, no other metal could take its place.

It is Proof Against Acids.

Gold is such a wonderful metal that it may be beaten into leaves having a thickness of only the 1,350,000th part of an inch, and which are practically transparent; while it is nearly as soft as lead, a wire measuring only the 65-1,000th part of an inch in diameter actually will support a weight of 150 lbs.

It is in every respect a noble metal. Thus it is practically proof against

Leech as a Barometer.

One of the most curious of the many natural barometers consists of a half-pint glass half full of water, a piece of muslin, and a leech. The leech must be put into the water, and the muslin tied over the top of the glass so that the creature cannot get out again. When fine weather is to be the order of the day the leech will collect at the bottom of the water, rolled up in spiral shape, and perfectly motionless. If rain is to be expected it will creep to the top of the glass and remain there until there is a likelihood of more settled weather. If there is to be a storm of wind it squirms about in the water with violence. For some days before thunder it occasionally moves its body in a convulsive fashion. In frosty weather it behaves in the same manner as in fine weather, and it foretells snow in the same manner as it does rain.—Manchester "Guardian."

FROM HARBOR MAIN. — Codfish and caplin struck in plentiful at Hr. Main to-day.

acids, alkalies, and other corrosive substances, and so has many important uses. As it does not rust or corrode, its uses would spread to a remarkable degree were it to become cheaper.

Another valuable property is that it is impossible to melt it at ordinary heats. Thus it is useful for constructing vessels which have to resist intense temperatures.

It is also a remarkably beautiful metal, hence its use in gilding all manner of articles, from pots to signboards. It also forms some beautiful colors in use in staining glass.

The gold leaves which are used for gilding have an average thickness of the 282,000th part of an inch. Its great value, however, is due to the fact that it does not tarnish by atmospheric influences.

Gold has thousands of other uses, varying from the manufacture of ink to pens. So if the price of gold came down to a penny a pound, really the world would be much richer, and would go along better.—P. W.

Startling Revelations About Cheap Bedding.

"What the eye doesn't see, the heart doesn't grieve," but if the public fully realized the horrible nature of the bedding on which the majority of them sleep night after night, it is safe to affirm that there would be an angry and impatient outcry for a new law governing this very important matter. It is only four years ago since the chief sanitary inspector of Glasgow said that "it would be manifestly safer to sleep on a bed filled with sewage than on the material upon which 78 per cent. of our humbler citizens are nightly sleeping."

Out of 3,763 beds taken from houses of the poor in Glasgow, the inspector found that 37 were made of clean flock and 2,471 from dirty flock. He rinsed the contents of some of the latter with water, and in ten minutes he had a solution which contained three times the suspended matter to be found in the sewage of Glasgow. And a similar state of things exists in every other town in the country, for this reason, that the manufacture of unwashed flock increases in bulk year by year, and every day it becomes more difficult for the makers of clean flock to compete in the market. And not only mattresses, but upholstered furniture of the cheaper kind is stuffed with flock containing possibilities of disease of every kind.

Manufacturers and Agitators.

In one of several striking articles on the subject, the "Westminster Gazette" says: "There would seem to be no piece of rag, whether it be the clothing discarded by some tramp when it has become too loathsome even for his wearing, or a hospital bandage fresh from contact with a patient, which is not converted, unwashed and unsterilized, into the material for beds. Not only is no effort made to get rid of the dirt, but in some cases measures are taken to retain as much of it as possible. Flock is sold by weight, and the more dirt that can be kept in the material the higher the return to the manufacturer."

In fairness to manufacturers, however, it should be mentioned that the majority of them would willingly welcome any law preventing the sale of unwashed rag flock. They are forced, however, by the demand for an unclean article at a low price to supply what is required or go out of the business altogether. They are amongst the most persistent agitators for the exclusion of unwashed flock from the market, although the profit to themselves for supplying the dirty article is as great or greater than that which they can reap from washed flock.

How the Flock is Made.

New Zealand, it might be mentioned, forbids the importation of flock altogether. So does the Commonwealth of Australia, while the United States insists on the efficient disinfection of rags imported from this country.

The material for rag flock comes from anywhere and everywhere. Old clothes gathered from dust bins and ash-heaps, carpets which have been worn by countless feet until they have become absolutely useless, every scrap of cloth which the rag-man can accumulate from any source—all these go to the mills. There they are placed in a machine which is known as "the devil." There is a grinding, chopping noise, and a whirl of wheels as the sharp teeth inside tear and rend the material into shreds and reduce it to a mince of fibres. And this emerges from the other end ready for the inside of beds, unwashed, unsterilized, with all the dirt that would cling to it still in its fibres.

It has been estimated that the amount of dirt in unwashed flock is so great that in some cases as much as 50 per cent. in weight is lost if the material is washed. From figures supplied to the Local Government Board by manufacturers, it appears that a ton of rags, when thoroughly washed would make 14cwt. of flock. A ton of rags unwashed, however, would give over 15cwt. of flock, the extra hundredweight being soluble dirt. A hundredweight of flock will make about three ordinary beds, so that each tick, if filled with the unwashed flock, will contain about 8 lb. of soluble dirt. Dirty flock can be had at from 5s. to 5s. 6d. per cwt., while washed flock costs 9s. 6d. per cwt.

As an illustration of the desire of manufacturers to remedy this deplorable state of affairs, it might be mentioned that a deputation representing amongst other bodies the Manufacturers' Association of Great Britain, recently waited upon Mr. John Burns, urging the necessity of legislation to compel the washing of rag flock used in the making of bedding. And such a serious view of the matter does Mr. Burns take, that he has promised that a bill, giving the Local Government Board power to deal with the evil, shall be introduced as soon as possible.—Tit-Bits.

The Steam Trawler.

There has been a great deal of hot discussion over the operations of the steam trawler in American waters. The general opinion amongst fishermen on this coast is that the steam trawler will seriously injure the cod fishery. The federal government has time and again been besieged in the matter and official utterances on the subject led the public to believe that if the legislative jurisdiction could be established the steam trawler would be prohibited at least in the waters of the Gulf fishery.

The Maritime Merchant quotes an opinion (the author not given) which opposes the popular view in this country. The following is the opinion quoted:

"In regard to the depletion of the sea through the operations of the steam trawler (a question which has engaged the attention of people on the other side of the Atlantic and in this country as well) it would seem that the fears expressed are not justified by statistics concerning the fishing industry of the North Sea for the past few years, where large numbers of steam trawlers have been at work. The catch has increased constantly and has kept pace with the increase in the fleet. With respect to this country, an article in the Fishing Gazette says that it need only be said that the Gulf of St. Lawrence, an immense fish breeding area, is practically closed to fishing from December to May, so that the fishing grounds, owing to this long rest, would soon become replenished even if exhaustively worked during the open season. The conditions on the two sides of the Atlantic are very different and the open season on the other side being no evidence of depletion in those waters, according to statistics, there does not appear to exist any appreciable danger of extraordinary diminution of cod and other food fish on the American side of the Atlantic through the increased activity of steam trawling vessels."

Twenty Negroes Hunted Down.

Palestine, Tex., July 31.—At least 15, perhaps 20 negroes, all of them probably unarmed, were hunted down and killed by a mob of from two to three hundred men in Slocum and Denton Springs, in the neighbourhood of Palestine, last night and yesterday according to Sheriff Black, who returned early this morning after 24 hours in the district. He told of a fierce man-hunt in the woods, of ridged bodies found on lonely roads, and of the terror among the inhabitants in the southwestern part of Anderson county.

"I found the greatest excitement prevailing throughout that section of the county," the Sheriff said. "Men were going about and killing negroes as fast as they could find them, and so far as I was able to ascertain, without any real cause. Those negroes have done no wrong that I could discover. There was just a hot-headed gang hunting them down and killing them."

Bankers' Association Will Censor Applications for Loans With View of Curbing Mania.

New York, July 23.—The Westchester Bankers' Association on information received by the members believe that the people of the country are "automobile crazy." At a session at the Briarcliff Hotel, near White Plains, yesterday, it was decided to look carefully into the applications of those who want to borrow money on notes.

If the object of the applicant is to purchase an automobile the bank is to use extreme caution in discounting his paper. The bankers declared that hundreds of persons have either mortgaged their homes or hypothecated valuable securities to buy machines in the last six months.

"Monna Lisa."

The story of the theft of the "Monna Lisa" from the Louvre would read like the effort of some highly imaginative romanticist were it not that there is a certain amount of material corroboration. According to the report which is now current in Paris, the actual theft took place a month ago, the original painting being replaced by a very clever copy which served to prevent any immediate public alarm. The conspirators, in the meantime, have had abundant opportunity to smuggle the Da Vinci masterpiece out of the country and into the hands of the fabulously wealthy American collector, who is supposed to have engineered the scheme. Only a chosen few, we are told, will ever be let into the secret and "Monna Lisa," shorn of her identity, will be lost forever to the world of Art.

Stranger things have happened but, if the statements should prove to be true, nothing is more deserving of the heaviest punishment that can be meted out for wanton and selfish crime. "Monna Lisa" belongs to the hundreds of thousands who have yielded themselves to her charm and to the hundreds of thousands yet unborn who will make pilgrimages to her shrine, wherever it may be set up. Paris was an ideal abiding place, because here, in the smile of a deathless Paris, whose laughter lies beyond tears and whose knowledge transcends what is wise for men to know, "Monna Lisa" shut up in the private gallery of a collector, whose only excuse for possessing her was his ability to pay what was necessary, and "Monna Lisa" holding open court for the art-lovers of all the nations of the world are very different.

Quebec Prohibits Export of Pulpwood.

NEW YORK, August 1.—Information has been received here that the Government of the Province of Quebec, has prohibited the exportation of pulpwood from lands held by settlers on ticket, where full payment for lands has been made, and ownership passes to the buyer, the prohibition does not apply. The action of the Quebec authorities is said to be the second step in their movement to prohibit the exportation of pulpwood which is used largely in the United States for the manufacture of printing paper. A previous prohibition had been placed in the exportation of wood cut from Crown Lands. Together the Crown Lands and settlers' lands have heretofore furnished about 47 per cent of the pulpwood brought from Canada to the United States.

OUR CITY FATHERS

Hold Another Stormy Meeting.

The full Board was present. Reporters of the News and Herald were also in attendance.

Wm. Clance asked for the position of instructor in connection with the swimming baths. On motion of the Mayor, the application was ordered to be filed.

Joseph MacDonald asked for the position of caretaker of one of the swimming baths. Considered the same as Clance's application.

J. M. Kent, representing Duggan's estate, drew attention that damage was being caused to the estate, at the rear of Rankin's, and by the wall there.

COUN. MULLALY asked as to the cost of the wall, and was informed that the estimate was $640.00, and that tenders were accepted for $250.00. The wall recently constructed is now being further added to, at a cost of $90.00.

The complaint of Mr. Kent will be looked into by the Mayor and the Engineer, though the Council admits no liability, inasmuch as they claim the estate accepted $2500 in lieu of all demands.

A. J. Pomeroy, on behalf of the people of Mackay and Leslie Streets, asked for sewerage, or otherwise that the night cars call there. The streets are not recognized at present by the Council. Councillor Martin suggested that something be done, as the throwing of excrement on the streets would likely cause an epidemic. The Mayor mentioned that the soil cars were already overtaxed, and could not be expected to do any further extra work.

A temporary fountain at the corner of Leslie St. and Western Avenue, for the convenience of the people on these streets will be erected. The sewer extends to the junction of Western Avenue and Leslie Street, and cannot be further extended, owing to the Mackay Street not being recognized.

Councillor Ryan drew attention to the presence of a pigsty on Mackay Street, the drainings from which ran close by to a well, which is used by many people to get water for household purposes. It was ordered that the Health Officer attend to the matter.

Patk. Long applied for a position on the Water Department. Matter deferred.

W. J. Clouston who had his house injured by the steam roller wrote that $160.00, which was offered by the Council, was not sufficient to cover expenses. He asked for $180.00. The Council agreed to the amount asked for by Mr. Clouston, the matter to be settled to the satisfaction of all demands.

Rev. P. O'Brien wrote the Council that he would likely be in the running for the Halifax Herald, and asked that the Council subscribe to the contest and give him a vote.

Councillor Mully thought that the Council could not handle the matter, and suggested that the Mayor subscribe for the Rev. gentleman.

E. B. McDougall drew attention to Richmond Street, where soil, etc., was being thrown. The Public Health Officer shall visit the place.

Bowring Bros. informed the Council that they had cleared up their Cove from all offensive matter, as suggested.

Furlong and Conroy, acting collectors for the Council, in reply to a note, as to how the matter of collecting arrears, after the transfer or sale of property involved would be legal, wrote as follows:

(Lien for Owners Taxes, 1902, Sec. 13, 1910, Sec. 26.)

When considering the nature and extent of these liens, it should not be forgotten that apart from them altogether, the Council can proceed against the defaulting taxpayer himself, and execute upon any property, which he possesses, for the full amount of the arrears, so that the liens are chiefly valuable when dealing with cases where the defaulter has sold the property, and the Council wants to collect from the purchaser. Under the Act of 1902 the Council had a lien for 2 years' taxes only. The Act of 1910 abolishes this limitation, but after careful consideration of the authorities, we are of opinion that it is not retrospective in its operations, and only makes taxes accruing due after the passing of the Act preferential. The lien conferred by the old Act is not, however, lost, and the position therefore is that the property of a defaulting taxpayer is liable, in whatever hands it may be, for owners' rates from July 1st, 1910, and two years' arrears accrued due prior to that date."

T. Power asked permission to build a stable on Barron St. Referred to Health Officer.

Smith Co., in reply to a letter of date July 21st, said that they intended to erect a small building on their wharf, which will be covered with iron roofing.

Councillor Mully objected to permission being given, if the building was not wholly constructed of unflammable materials, on the ground that permission had been refused another party, who asked to build a store of similar materials.

THE MAYOR thought that the Council should use discretion in the matter, and as the erection would be on a wharf, over the water, permission might be granted. The Council was going to build a wooden fish market in Bowring's cove, soon, and he thought the Council should be consistent in carrying out the law.

COUN. MULLALY thought that it would be better to carry out the law, in any case, even if the Council had to give up the fishmarket project.

THE MAYOR said that the Board should discriminate in certain cases, where it was found there was no danger.

COUN. MULLALY did not believe in discrimination; the law was there, and the public was watching.

COUN. RYAN—if the proposed building be not in accordance with the law, then permission should not be given.

On motion of Councillors Mully and Channing, it was unanimously decided that permission be not given to build other than a building of unflammable materials.

J. W. Morris, Electrical Supt. R. N. Co., asked the Council to be careful when issuing permits to erect scaffolds, and to warn the builders of the electric wires, which, in some instances, are charged with 2,000 volts. A discussion followed; the consensus of opinion being that the wires should be placed under ground. The wires are not the property of the Council and the Reid Co. should give the warning and place danger signals where danger exists. The R. N. Co. will be written to this effect.

Jonas Moakler asked permission to build on Notre Dame Street. As the place is very congested, the Council will visit the place before giving the street line.

Willis Driscoll was given permission to build on Lime Street.

The report of the Public Health Officer on public and private lavatories along the waterfront and Southside, showed that matters were in a serious condition. Action will be taken by the Sanitary Supervisor.

Following a discussion as to collections, COUN. CHANNING moved that the Collectors submit weekly reports as to amounts collected, and also as to arrears.

COUN. RYAN asked who had charge of the street flushing, and moved that a weekly report, as to the names of the streets, how often they were flushed, and at what time, be submitted. This was seconded by Councillor Martin.

THE MAYOR remarked that the order was made before, but allowed to lapse, to which the Secretary replied that it was kept going. The report from the Mayor was, "Yes, it was allowed to lapse, as were several other orders."

COUN. CHANNING suggested that the Heads of all departments be present at meetings. The Mayor thought this unnecessary, unless the presence of any of them were required.

HARVEY ROAD EXPENDITURE

COUN. MULLALY—Mr. Mayor, I want to bring under the notice of the Council again, the expenditure over the estimate for repairs to Harvey Road, so that the matter might be cleared up. There is much talk on the street, but the proper place to talk is here. The estimate for that work was $700.00, and the expenditure, $1,144. I am unable to find out how the extra cost followed, and I want to know, if you would ask the Engineer to explain, Mr. Mayor, it would likely clear up the trouble.

THE MAYOR—Some time early in the year, it was decided to make some necessary improvements to Harvey Road, and the Engineer was asked to make an estimate. The amount he estimated was $700.00. I was away for a month after this, and did not see the work going on. Later it came under our notice that the expenditure had gone over the estimate, but I believe this was because a road had been made to connect with the Fire Station, and because surface matter had been carted and spread over the streets, which latter, to my mind was not estimated upon.

COUN. MULLALY—But surely the Engineer would not estimate upon the repairing of a street without including the cost of carting materials away, that would not be used on the road. In any case they would have to be carted away.

At the request of Councillor Mully the Engineer was asked if he figured the carting, etc., in the estimate. The Engineer replied that he did.

COUN. MULLALY—I have it on the authority of a late Councillor, who has given me power to use his name, that there was a "kick" here over the expenditure on this road, and though I have gone through the minutes, I cannot find anything about it.

THE MAYOR—The matter was only commented upon at the time.

COUN. MULLALY—it was an important matter to comment upon where there was such a large expenditure, and I think it should appear in the minutes. Now, Mr. Mayor, was there anything else happened that does not appear in the minutes?

THE MAYOR—Yes, there was some explanation made about the inferior class of men being employed. The Engineer made this statement, and alleged it had something to do with the increased expenditure.

COUN. MULLALY—So, Mr. Mayor, it was the class of men that cost, not Harvey Road repairs.

COUN. MARTIN—in justice to Engineer Ryan, I would like to ask if, when he made the estimate for $700, he included the operating and carting away of rock, etc.

The Engineer replied that he estimated $700.00 for the repairs to the road, and did not believe the cost would be exceeded. The spreading of the materials on other roads was rock, etc., included.

THE MAYOR—I think the rock and other material were to be utilized at any time, and was to be piled on the road.

THE ENGINEER—in the estimate, I figured for its removal at most convenient places.

COUN. RYAN—When the Auditor General found the allocation overdrawn, what did he say?

THE MAYOR—What would he have to do with it?

COUN. RYAN—in Government matters, when an allocation is overdrawn, he has a whole lot to say about it, and I imagine it should apply here.

COUN. MULLALY—Had the Engineer the right to employ all the workmen, or did he employ them all? Replying to a question from the Mayor, the Engineer said he only employed six men, mostly blasters, the remainder being employed by the Road Inspector.

COUN. MULLALY—I want the statements of the Engineer taken down, as they do not agree with the previous discussion.

THE MAYOR—you did not ask at the time.

COUN. MULLALY—I was not member of the Council then. I am speaking after Councillor Collier now. I was not there a Councillor.

THE MAYOR—That makes a difference.

COUN. MULLALY—Was there a resolution to the effect that no Councilors should place men at work on any roads, nor give notes to those seeking employment, if there were nothing to that effect appears on the minutes.

THE MAYOR—I can't say, but the Engineer asked for the power to pick the best men for Harvey Road repairs as it was an important job, which was agreed to.

COUN. MULLALY—And why was not the order carried out?

THE MAYOR—I can't say.

THE ENGINEER—Mr. Mayor, I said at the time that the work could be done for $700, if I were allowed to get good men.

COUN. MULLALY—From what the Engineer says, it appears that the Mayor's statements, that the spreading of gravel on Parade Street and the repairs to the road to Fort Townsend, led up to the extra cost, are contradicted, and I repeat that these did not put up the cost.

COUN. MARTIN—I sent notes to get men employed.

COUN. MULLALY—I thought the old Council had agreed not to do so. It is passing strange that the men were employed at this particular time that so many were employed, and that the Engineer only employed six, out of sixty, after being given authority to employ all.

THE MAYOR—There was nothing wrong at this time, more than any other.

COUN. MULLALY—On the face of it, there was something wrong when the expenditure was $440.00 above the estimate.

COUN. MARTIN—The rock and sand carted to other roads, would mean a further expenditure.

THE ENGINEER, in reply to a question of the Mayor, said yes, but it would not cost much more.

THE MAYOR—I think that it was not in the estimate, as to the carting of the rock and earth to those other streets.

COUN. MULLALY—That is only

For twenty years she suffered all the tortures of this terrible disease and tried in vain the prescriptions of doctors and the cures commonly recommended. Mr. Fred W. Clark, Petworth, Ont., writes:—"My mother had Eczema in both legs for about 20 years and suffered from the dreadful itching, stinging sensations which can never be relieved and by continuing its use she was cured of Eczema. I do not think any one could have this horrible disease any worse than she did and can recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as a thorough cure for Eczema."

your impression. The Engineer says it was.

THE MAYOR—I'm generally right in my impressions on Council matters of these kinds.

COUN. MULLALY—if the Engineer's estimate is here and in the official report, we will see if such was contemplated.

The Engineer's report was submitted, and in effect read that the work of repairs to Harvey Road, including the repairs to the road to Fort Townsend, would cost $700.00, and that the rock and gravel, etc., taken from the work, if properly utilized, would considerably offset the cost.

THE MAYOR—it is clear then, that $700.00 was not figured as the total cost, or the utilization of the material would not be mentioned.

COUN. MULLALY—I view it differently. The estimate plainly states that by utilizing these materials, it would offset the estimate of $700.00. Let the Engineer interpret the estimate.

THE ENGINEER—Yes, I estimated the disposal of the materials in the $700.00.

THE MAYOR—The Engineer did not convey that idea to me when I came home.

COUN. MULLALY—When the matter was called attention to, I understood the cost was then $140.

THE MAYOR—I don't think that is the case. The work was allowed to continue after the matter came before the Council.

COUN. MULLALY—To say the least there is something irregular.

THE MAYOR—Will Councillor Mully make a motion.

COUN. MULLALY—No, I ask that the matter be adjourned until the Road Inspector is present, which was done accordingly.

THE ENGINEER then explained that some gravel, piled on Parade Grounds, had been carted elsewhere, which he believed was included in the cost of Harvey Road.

COUN. MULLALY asked to be put on record that he did not say the men employed on Harvey Road were inferior workmen, and asked that the responsibility for this statement be placed on the proper shoulders.

The further consideration of the matter was deferred until Friday night next.

COUN. MARTIN'S CHARGES.

At last week's meeting Councillor Martin charged Councillor Mully that during his campaign he had asked Council employees to take on work men, and later had gone about town saying there were too many employed.

Councillor Mully asked the Secretary to read the charges of Councillor Martin. He then asked that the latter prove or withdraw them.

"Here is the opportunity," said Councillor Mully to Councillor Martin, "if you do neither I can only brand you as a slanderer."

COUN. MARTIN—Mr. Secretary, what you have taken down, there it remains. I will not retract.

At this point Councillor Martin was about to leave the Chamber, saying he had important business to attend to.

THE MAYOR called the attention of Councillor Martin to the course he was pursuing, and asked him to withdraw or prove his statements.

COUN. MARTIN (to the Mayor): I will not, and you can pursue whatever course you like. Good night.

THE MAYOR (Councillor Martin) in the meantime having retired—While I occupy this chair I shall see that the dignity of this Council is upheld, and while I regret this happening, I think that Councillor Mully did insinuate against Councillor Martin in asking for an audit. This latter, however, is no excuse for his conduct, and should there be a re-occurrence, I shall deal as harshly with the offender as my position permits.

COUN. MULLALY—I'm sorry, Mr. Mayor, that you believe I insinuated against Councillor Martin, which is not true. He has now failed to prove his charges, and is not willing to withdraw them, and I say the public can see who is right. I again reiterate all that Councillor Martin has said.

THE ARREARS.

COUN. MULLALY, in connection with the arrears, called attention to the fact that many items on the submitted sheet were questioned and doubtful. In this respect he thought the statement was misleading, as it did not show what was the real amount due, or if the ones marked doubtful were responsible. The poor man he was not after, it was the man who could pay. One concern he saw owed about $800, part of which on the statement before him was questioned as being owed, in fact the obligation was denied by the parties concerned.

THE MAYOR explained that the statement was yet incomplete, and that the better way was for a Committee of the whole Council, with the Secretary and bookkeeper, to go over the Arrears Accounts, and make arrangements for the collecting of all

We would direct the attention of the Inland Game Board, the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, or whoever has charge of the Game Laws, that a big destruction of caribou is reported going on in many places along the railway line. At Grand Falls the other day venison was selling cheaper than even at the opening of the season. Many are of the opinion that the meat which was so quickly got to market must have been shot in the close season. Such a thing with all the laws on the Statute Book and the Game Warden at Grand Falls and other places to be up and doing and get after those well-known shots and see they keep within the letter of the law. Sunday shooting should also be looked after, as it is reported revolver shots were heard on the ground last Sunday.

More Accidents.

House Destroyed By Fire—Boiler Bursts and Causes Partial Wreck of Factory.

Deputy Minister of Justice Hutchings to-day had a wire from Magistrate McDonnell, of Bay St. George, in which he said that the house of Chas. Alexander, of Stephenville, was destroyed by fire last evening. Yesterday evening a terrific explosion occurred in Thos. Moore's factory at Victoria. A woman and two children were badly scalded.

Body Not Recovered.

As regards the drowning at Torbay, which the Telegram exclusively reported, the crew of the tanker Tasmania have been at work ever since trying to recover the body. All Thursday and yesterday the men of the harbor were busily engaged looking for the body, but up to 4 o'clock this morning they had not succeeded in recovering it.

Shown Thro' Station.

Rev. Mr. Facey went into the police station to-day. He was surprised at the excellent way in which the cells were kept, and was shown through by Supt. Grimes. Mr. Facey believes that our lock-up compares favorably with any he has seen in the Dominion.

Guy Celebration.

Lieut. Bernard E. Prichard of H. M. S. Brilliant, now in port, returned from Harbor Grace this morning. He was accompanied by Mr. W. A. Munn, and Chief Gunner Gibson, and were over the bay arranging a programme for the Guy Celebration, which the Lieutenant will submit to the Commander of the Brilliant for his approval or otherwise. The Brilliant, it is suggested, will go to Harbor Grace on the 16th and take part in the celebration next day. The crew will have a naval parade and a sham battle of Carbonear Island, where the party attempting to land will be covered by fire from the ship anchored at Carbonear. At night there will be a torchlight procession in boats and the ship will be illuminated by electricity from truck to Pilsnoll mark. Lieut. Prichard visited Carbonear Island with Mr. Munn while over there and selected the spot where the invading force will attack the island and endeavor to land.

A Public Telephone.

There should be a public telephone at Pleasantville. If it was there Thursday afternoon Mr. John Dooley, the Proprietor of Pleasantville, would have made a great effort to get the boys. Crises were heard and a commotion was witnessed, but Mr. Dooley never thought that a drowning accident was occurring. Even though the two lads had gone down, and that they were a while on the bottom, if a telephone were at Mr. Dooley's a doctor could be quickly summoned and he could have tried measures that might have restored life. Torbay, Outer Cove, Portugal Cove and other places have telephone communication. Why not Quidi Vidi? Winter and summer there is danger of accidents in the lake. Give John Dooley a telephone and accidents will be prevented.

A Menace to Health.

The report of Inspector O'Brien as submitted by Dr. Brehm, Public Health Officer, to the Municipal Council at last night's meeting, shows that the condition of the public lavatories throughout the city are a menace to the health of the citizens. The Council is responsible for this state of affairs, and should see that their employees attend better to their duties. The lavatories, on the merchants' wharves were not all satisfactory, but within 24 hours, after the Inspector's visit all were put in a sanitary condition.

SECTION MEN'S GOOD WORK.—On an east bound express yesterday a poor passenger accidentally lost his pocket book containing $40. It speaks well for the Reid Neld, Co. when we assert that at the moment it was reported they started a search-party sent section men over the line, and Mr. Tilley at Grand Lake recovered the purse. The owner had lost his ticket also and this was picked up.

Crop Possibilities in the West.

Special to Evening Telegram. MONTREAL, Aug. 5.

While optimistic reports are being sent out from the West as to the crop possibilities it is not expected that there will be any difficulty in handling the grain in the West this year, either by the railways or by way of securing enough men to garner the harvest, in fact the harvesters from Eastern Canada will be much less than for years past, possibly not more than half of the 25,000 who were called for on one of two big years. This does not mean that there is not a big amount of wheat and other grain in the West to be harvested.

Immigration Statistics.

Special to Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 5.

Immigration from and to Canada is the subject of a statement just issued by the U. S. Immigration Bureau. In the same period there 102,729 departures of citizens from the United States into Canada for permanent residence, against 59,332 for the previous 12 months. Citizens arriving were not counted during the whole of 1909, and it is estimated that 15,000 arrived during the year. That number has been included in making up the total of 61,517 arrivals.

Clever Diplomacy.

The late Lord Salisbury some years ago sent a Foreign Office emissary to make some demands of the Russian. Before setting out on his mission the emissary, to whom his lordship had explained the exact nature of the demands, desired to be informed as to the course to take if, after he had said everything, there was a refusal.

"Oh," answered Lord Salisbury, "this is not a matter in which we have the least thought of fighting. If the President refuses, why, you will simply have to come home again."

The emissary went and had his say to the President of —, who blankly refused to give in, and the diplomat retired to think things over.

A few hours later he wrote to the President:—

"I regret that your Excellency does not see your way to recognize the justness of the claims which I have had the honour to represent. I have now to say, on behalf of Her Britannic Majesty's Government, that, unless your Excellency yields on all points which I have named, it will be my painful duty to act on the second half of my instructions."

Under this vague and significant threat the President yielded at once.

LOYD-GEORGE'S STRUGGLES.

The Hon. David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, had many a hard struggle with poverty in his early youth. When he was sixteen Mr. Lloyd-George was articled as a clerk in a solicitor's office in Aberystwith. He had passed his preliminary law examination when he was but fourteen.

Both he and his uncle performed almost prodigious feats of saving in order that the ninety or a hundred pounds necessary before he could study for his chosen profession could be scraped together.

The money was obtained, however, and for nearly six years Lloyd-George worked and studied, and when at length he found himself a full-fledged solicitor, he was without the necessary money to buy his robes!

Now this was a tragedy indeed, for in Wales a solicitor may not appear in court without his robes. The robes cost about three guineas, and the young solicitor could get the money nowhere. However, he got a case and a way was opened to him. Without loss of time he hunted up possible clients, got two or three more cases, obtained payment in advance, purchased his robes, and duly appeared in the court.

Why London Police Allowed Dr. Crippen to Escape.

Scotland Yard has issued the following defence of its methods in allowing Dr. Crippen to escape from London after suspicion of him had been aroused:—

A statement issued by an official of Scotland Yard recently defended the action of the police in the Holloway mystery.

"People are asking why we allowed the man to remain at liberty, and why we did not arrest him immediately upon visiting the house. The question seems a very simple one now that it is known to be a case of murder, but before the public pass any condemnation they should try to place themselves in the position we were in before there was any evidence or any definite suspicion of foul play. Until that time the only intimation we had in our possession was that Mrs. Crippen was missing. Well, now, in the course of a week we receive in London alone about one hundred cases of missing people, about whom we are called upon to make inquiries. In this case, upon receiving communications from friends of the missing woman, we interviewed Crippen, who told us that his wife had gone off with a Count. He spoke in a very off-hand manner, and in effect told us that he did not care in the least that she had gone off with the Count, since he had the typist to take her place. We were not in a position to enter the house, because we had no evidence of foul play. We were not in the position of the French or American police, who, having greater power than we have, can make an arrest where there is the least ground for suspicion. There is no doubt we need greater power than we now possess for dealing with cases of murder. If we had entered Crippen's house without his permission he could have ordered us out and brought an action against us. As a matter of fact, after he had been closely interrogated, Crippen invited us in the house in order that we might search it. We did so, and Crippen himself accompanied us in the search. We found nothing suspicious, and his statement that his wife had gone off with a Count suggested a possibility to contradict which we had not then the evidence. As a matter of fact, it was not until Crippen disappeared that we had any real grounds for suspecting foul play. Prior to that Mrs. Crippen, so far as we were concerned, could only be regarded as one of the scores of missing people about whom we are daily making inquiries."

Discharged Fireman Shot Three Former Pals and Killed His Own Family—Grudge Against His Captain—Four Are Dead—Beat His Wife and Little Child to Death With a Club.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 1.—Bert S. Durham, a former fireman, after shooting and killing one city fireman, mortally wounding a second, and seriously wounding a third, near a fire box from which he had sent in a false alarm, in an effort for revenge, early to-day went to his home, and with a bludgeon beat his wife and little child to death. He then made his escape.

Rising an old grudge against Fire Captain Sampsell, under whom he had worked, as engine driver, and on whose complaint he had been discharged from the service for insubordination, Durham early to-day sent in a false alarm from the outskirts of the city. When Captain Sampsell and his crew came up, Durham opened fire on his former workmates with a revolver.

At the first shot Driver Don Grant fell from his seat dead with a bullet in his head. At his second shot Hoseman Guy Elliott pitched to the ground with a bullet through the stomach. Durham then levelled his revolver at Sampsell and fired twice, both bullets piercing Sampsell's lungs.

Two more shots fired at other members of the crew went wild. Durham drew another revolver and covered his retreat as he started to run from Assistant Chief Snedcor. As he disappeared in the darkness Durham shouted back to the Chief:—"Tell my wife I am going to kill myself."

The victims of the shooting were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital in one of the hose wagons. Operations were performed on Sampsell and Elliott. Sampsell will probably die. Elliott has a chance.

Within half an hour of the shooting a score of police officers and deputy sheriffs were on the scene in earnest and had begun a man hunt. Owing to the darkness Durham reached home and slew his family and then fled again.

The Men He is After.

Councillor Mullaly at last night's meeting wished it to be understood that he was not after the poor man who could not pay his arrears. He was after the well-to-do men who could pay and refused to do so. Those who were circulating the report that he was after the poor man were doing it out of malice prepense and well knew it was a falsehood.

Church Extension.

The contract has been signed by the authorities of St. Michael's Anglican Catholic Church and Mr. J. Bishop, builder, for the erection of a Chancel as an addition to this church, Casey Street. The Building Committee are very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Bishop who besides his experience in church building has been connected with St. Michael's Mission for the past twenty years. The upper portion of the new addition will be used for Divine Worship, and the basement will be utilised as a Children's Sunday Class Room for the infants of the Church. That part of the Church now used as Chancel and Sanctuary will then afford additional accommodation for the growing congregation, space being thus found for about 150 more worshippers. Since the present priest, Rev. J. Brinton, has been in charge the Mission has made rapid strides, and a fund is being started shortly for the purchase of more land on which to build a new Church in a few years, when the present building will become a Parish Hall and School. For the present erection nearly enough money is in hand, and it is hoped to have the Church ready for Dedication by Sept. 29th (Feast of St. Michael and All Angels) which is the Patronal Festival of this Church. We commend this West End congregation on their zeal, and trust they will soon rejoice in the fruition of their labours.—Com.

Good wishes for a happy wedded life were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Morris.

Clance's Application.

At last night's meeting of the City Council Wm. Clance applied for the position of instructor in the swimming baths which are being projected. Clance, who was formerly a member of the C. C. C., is a Naval Reservist of several years standing and is as much at home in the water as a fish. He is a fine steady chap and none better could be appointed for the position. Give Clance a show, gentlemen of the Council. He comes from good old stock and will serve you faithfully.

Invitations to the Coronation

London, July 30.—A deputation saw Mr. Asquith recently in reference to the scheme of inviting representatives from the dominions over the sea to the coronation. They urged the Government's co-operation. Mr. Asquith suggested that the matter should be left to both Houses of Parliament which course should be followed. Probably the members will be the guests of the Lords and Commons.

English R. R. Accidents

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Board of Trade report on railway accidents in the United Kingdom shows that in 1,264,800,000 passenger journeys only one passenger lost his life in an accident on the train in which he was travelling, the first case for a period of twenty months, while the number of injured, 390, is low compared with the average of previous years.

A Heavy Rainstorm.

The rainstorm of last night was a very heavy one. On the steeper streets of the city the rain acted as a flusher and this morning they are wholesome and certainly not as malodorous as they have been for weeks past. A few wet days like yesterday would do the city good and save the Council a good deal of cash which must be spent in the flushing and cleansing of drains.

Cabmen's Charges.

The public will be glad to learn that at last night's meeting of the City Council Mayor Ellis made a proposal to consider the question of the cab tariff at a special meeting. A Catholic clergyman who is here on a visit was charged one dollar for a fifteen minutes' drive. He had an idea of what was coming and held his watch in his hand all the time.

Fast Auto Driving.

At last night's meeting of the City Council, Councillor Mullaly moved that the attention of the police be specially called to the dangerous rate of speed at which automobiles are now being driven through the city. A letter from a citizen was read at the meeting drawing the Council's attention to the matter.

An Address on Power.

Edward Smith, Esq., J.P., who is here on a visit from Worcestershire, Eng., in the interests of the Colonial Missionary Society, will preach at the Congregational Church to-morrow on the subject of "Power." A greeting will be extended through him from the Rev. Sylvester Horne, M.A., Chairman of the Congregational Union of England and Wales at the evening service. At a special meeting in the Lecture Hall to-night Mr. Smith will deliver an address on the "Sunday Morning Adult School Movement," with which he is closely interested at home.

Amethyst Arrives.

The s.s. Amethyst, Capt. Bernier, arrived here at 8 p.m. yesterday from Montreal with a large cargo. The ship left Montreal on July 27th and called at Eastern Harbor and Charlottetown, taking cargo at both places. She left Charlottetown at 1 p.m. Thursday and had fine weather at the start, but later it became foggy and until Cape Race was reached yesterday morning this continued. The ship besides a general cargo has 120 head of cattle and 100 sheep.
