Women War Workers

Women who are unaccustomed to hard work, such as work in a munition factory, are subject to aches and pains in the sides and back, rheumatism or lumbago, constant headaches, swollen joints or urinary troubles.

GinPills FOR THE KIDNEYS

Perhaps you have had personal experience of these distressing symptoms—pains in the sides and back, rheumatism or lumbago, constant headaches, swollen joints or urinary troubles.

"And you did not know me—know my name?" "Not from Adam's, or Eve's, rather," he says, bluntly. She looks beyond him, at the hot and garish room, at the struggling, jostling dancers, with an air of bewilderment for a moment, then her eyes go back to his face, and she laughs vacantly.

"With me, in fact?" he says. She rises and smiles, and even as she does so her beauty, the nameless grace which belongs to her, strike see, he always had a lot on his shoulders, and that makes him quiet.

"I didn't know," he murmurs, looking rather embarrassed, and sheepish. "Have you got this waltz for me, Miss Dorrmore? I think I put it down."

"I am glad," he says, "that you can find food for merriment; I am glad that the 'situation' amuses you."

"Yes," she says, frankly. "The situation!—It is a good word, and describes it. Yes, it amuses me. Do you know what I was laughing at?"

"I venture to flatter myself it was at me," he says, coolly. She nods, and the laughter shines and ripples in her lovely, daring eyes.

"Not," she says, "I suppose that I also have a say in the matter. I can do as I like."

"Disagreeable! Oh, no, I shouldn't say Hugh was disagreeable!" he protests. "Rather quiet, you know. Only his manner, and all that. You see, he always had a lot on his shoulders, and that makes him quiet."

"I don't know," he murmurs, looking rather embarrassed, and sheepish. "Have you got this waltz for me, Miss Dorrmore? I think I put it down."

"I am glad," he says, "that you can find food for merriment; I am glad that the 'situation' amuses you."

Remington U.M.C.
Success with big game
 CERTAINLY means, amongst other things, a wise choice in arms and ammunition. Whether you'll have the unerring "big punch" of Remington U.M.C. cartridges, and the smooth, swift deadly co-operation of a Remington U.M.C. Repeating Rifle is for you to say.

TAKE the Remington U.M.C. hand-operated, high power Repeater, its easy, perfect slide-action permits you to hold the rifle on the game without the slightest deviation. The solid breech absolutely protects the face against any blow back. Six fast, smashing shots. The smooth, graceful beauty of this arm with its safety devices is a standing wonder to shooters.

Remington U.M.C. cartridges come in every calibre to suit every standard rifle. Tested, tested and tested again before they leave the factory.

Scandinavia May all be Involved.
American Revelations of German-Swedish Intrigues May Have Far-reaching Consequences.
 (By Lowell Mellett, United Press Staff Correspondent)
 London, Sept. 10.—Possibilities of all Scandinavia becoming involved in the war were seen in London to-day, following American revelations of the German-Swedish intrigue in sending messages from Argentina through the Stockholm Foreign Office.
 The disclosures are regarded as of highest importance here, opening up possibilities for a long chain of international events.
 Furthermore, the action of the allied governments in refusing to permit Socialists and Labor delegates to attend the Stockholm peace conference is now regarded as completely vindicated.
 The British and American governments had knowledge of Sweden's pro-Germanism at the end and took the stand that a conference in Stockholm free from German influence was impossible.

The Thirty Years War
 It is a curious coincidence that Sweden's two most famous soldier-kings fell by "a dubious hand"—Charles XII. by a cannon-bull from a "petty fortress," and Gustavus Adolphus in the sudden onrush of a band of hostile horsemen at the battle of Lutzen, on November 6, 1632. But the cases otherwise were widely different. Charles XII. practically represented himself alone; he did not even stand for the true interests of his own country; but Gustavus represented a great cause—Protestantism, and his fall was mourned for and reflected over throughout Europe. He was but 38, and from his nineteenth year had been fighting always—against Danes, Russians and Poles, until in 1630 he entered Germany, and lent his powerful arm to aid the tottering cause of the Reformation. The next two years were crowned with events and rich in glory. He defeated the fierce Wallon general, Tilly, at Breitenfeld, and the passage of the Lech, where his redoubtable antagonist was killed. But he was less fortunate with Wallenstein, by whom he was repulsed with heavy losses in an attempt to storm the entrenched camp outside Nuremberg. Nevertheless, Wallenstein found retreat expedient shortly afterwards, and Gustavus followed him closely up until Leipzig was reached and the Imperialist General gave battle on the plain of Lutten, where Napoleon was to gain an unfruitful victory nearly 200 years later. The engagement was most hotly contested and in the charge of heavy cavalry Gustavus and a few followers became momentarily isolated, and the King was slain. Eventually, Wallenstein was compelled to withdraw from the field to Leipzig; but the death of Gustavus more than neutralised the advantage, the long horror of the Thirty Years' War was destined to be much protracted.

The greatest depth at which earthquakes are known to originate is about thirty miles. It has also been calculated that a heat sufficient to melt granite might occur at about the same depth.

The Fool.
 I've just come back from the swamps,
 From the land of muck and mire,
 Where earth is a ditch of blood and pitch,
 And iron and flesh and fire.
 I've been up to my knees in waters that freeze,
 And suck out the lives of men;
 While the shells shriek by, till you pray to die—
 And I'm going back again.

I'm a fool you say? Let another pay—I've done my bit? Not I.
 For the things I've seen, like a hideous dream
 Will grip me till I die.
 So what is the use while manhood's juice
 So still in my flesh and bones,
 Of trying stay back here and play
 With the other stay-at-homes?

So it's Flanders for me, the Land of the Free,
 The land that is free from the curse
 Of men who are dead, for when honor has fled
 Men are dead while they live, which is worse;
 Than to suffer and fall at the clarion call.
 Of Justice, Liberty and Truth!
 So swear me again, I hear you wait men—
 I give you my all, my Youth!

Hard-paper Substitutes for Wood and Tin.
 Many containers, and other articles, formerly made exclusively of wood, tinplate, vulcanized rubber, and metal or fibrous materials, can now be made of paper, at lower cost and equally serviceable, by means of special machinery which winds paper with an adhesive on one side, into tubes or barrels in an infinite variety of sizes and shapes. The times being especially opportune for such substitutes, hard-paper products may soon replace wood for shipping packages, large and small; also for machine accessories such as split pulleys, harvester rolls, tool and other handles, and many purposes in the electrical industry. Samples of the new product are shown in the August Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Everyday Etiquette.
 "I wish to give a little evening party and intend to ask an engaged girl. I do not know the name of the man she is to marry but would like to have him attend. What shall I do about it," asked Grace.
 "When sending invitations to the girl, enclose one for her fiance and ask her to forward it to him," said her aunt.

Your Boys and Girls.
 Milk is such a splendid thing for children, whether old or young, that it is a great pity if they tire of it. Quite often it can be disguised so that the child does not rebel. Sometimes egg poached in milk, served on toast softened with milk and with a spoonful of thickened milk poured over it, will often be eaten with eagerness by the child who refuses milk as a beverage. The same is true of cream soups, which, in their simplest nursery forms, are merely heated milk with the addition of vegetable puree. Creamed chicken and creamed flaked fish are both approved for the child's dinner and in vegetables, wherever butter would be used by adults, substitute cream, or milk.
 Weak cocoa, made entirely of milk, and with only sufficient cocoa for milk flavouring and coloring, is one of the simplest and most acceptable ways of disguising milk.
 Another good way is to cook the cereal in milk instead of water or, if preferred, the cereal can be partly cooked in water first and the milk added afterward. If cooked entirely in milk a longer time must be allowed as cereals do not absorb the moisture from milk as rapidly as from clear water.

BACK HOME.
 From mountain and from sea, resort the tourists a're returning, and they have freckles by the quart, and sunburn fiercely burning. No doubt you gambled with the rest, where sylvan torrent gushes, where little robins build their nest, and sparrows chase the thrushes. No doubt you're full of thrilling yarns, that you desire to tell us, of ocean waves or mountain tarns—which tales will make us jealous. But have you brought back nothing more than rather idle stories of basking by the briny's shore, or 'mid the forest glories? Have you brought back a lot of pep for your employer's service, or have you still a lagging step, and are you stale and nervous? Have you brought back new vim and zeal, from all your rural scouting? Unless you have, I surely feel, you've had a useless outing. Have you brought back a glad desire to quit your lazy nodding, and labour like a house afire, and set the head of the family a-buzz with the news of your exploits? If you still hunt the easy chair in which we've oft surveyed you, your train won't get you anywhere, your freckles will not aid you. All things considered, it looks as if the moderately short skirt would be generally accepted. Bands of plush, velour and faille, stitched and embroidered, are going to be used instead of soutache braid. Straight panels falling in one piece from the neck are somewhat in evidence.

Ten Thousand People WITHOUT SANITARY INSTALLATION.
 Upwards of 10,000 people in the city of St. John's are lacking the use of water and sewerage in their homes, says Sanitary Inspector Rooney in a report to the City Council. The Inspector places the number of houses lacking these facilities at 1,800, the majority of which are in good enough condition for immediate installation. Others, he says, are unfit to receive these appliances. On a number of the principal streets are several householders who have not complied with the instructions sent out by the Council pertaining to such matters. Mayor Gosling informed the Board that he would instruct the new Solicitor to carry out the law.

A Big Voyage.
 The schr. Tokalon, of Pool's Island, Brown, Master, arrived home from the Labrador on Wednesday last, having brought over 500 quintals of codfish. This is the second trip made by Capt. Brown this season, he having brought 700 quintals from the Straits, making a total of 1200 quintals. Nearly all the catch is salted for shore cure.

a Present for the Soldier
YOU can depend on the mothers to think of the little things which will be appreciated by the boy in the camp or trenches.
 And one article which many a mother has given her boy at the last moment is Dr. Chase's Ointment.
 There are so many ways that Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful to the soldier that it becomes invaluable to him. It is used for chafing and skin irritation resulting from heavy clothing and equipment. It brings comfort to sore, scalded feet after the long march. Applied to wounds it prevents blood-poisoning and heals the skin. And it should never be forgotten that Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most effective treatment obtainable for piles, a distressing ailment which results from contact with the cold earth, whether in camp or trench.
 The Canadian soldiers have been well supplied with this standard ointment, and, judging by their many letters of appreciation, there seems to be few things more keenly appreciated. Just try it in the next parcels you send to the front.

"Our Day"
 October 18th to be Red Cross Tag Day. St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 14th, 1917.
 Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir—A meeting of the Imperial Red Cross Committee was held at Government House on Monday, September 3rd, for the purpose of considering an appeal (sent to His Excellency the Governor through the Secretary of State) from the joint committee of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem and the British Red Cross. This appeal is embodied in the following Circular Letter, which is being distributed throughout the Island:—
CIRCULAR LETTER.
 Dear Sir—October 18th next will be known as OUR DAY in connection with a further appeal to be made throughout the whole British Empire, in support of funds required for the work of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem and the British Red Cross Society for the benefit of the sick and wounded in the Great War.
 The cause for this further appeal so soon after the generous response by the whole country to the one made last April, is a dispatch to His Excellency the Governor, through the Secretary of State, from His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught and the Marquess of Lansdowne the heads of these two societies. The dispatch reads as follows:—
 It becomes necessary for the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society to appeal once more to the generosity of their friends and supporters at home and overseas for funds to carry on their work of mercy for the sick and wounded of His Majesty's Forces. The Joint Committee has decided again to make such an appeal on October 18th, and we earnestly beg your assistance in making it known to the people of Newfoundland. Our Red Cross work is now costing £8,000 a day and increases rather than diminishes. Our help is given in every theatre of the war and to troops from every part of the Empire, and will have to be continued for some time even when victory has been achieved. We are deeply grateful for their magnificent help received from sympathisers in all parts of the world, and we trust that with our assistance the appeal made on "Our Day" will meet with a response which will enable us to continue to do all that is humanly possible to lessen the sufferings of those on whose behalf we plead. Their Majesties the King and Queen and Her Majesty Queen Alexandra have graciously given us their patronage and support.
 (Signed) ARTHUR, Grand Prior of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.
 LANSDOWNE, Chairman of the Council of the British Red Cross Society, Headquarters of the Joint Committee, 83 Pall Mall, London, S.W.
 The Committee trusts that this present appeal will meet with the same generous response as the previous one. Subscriptions may be sent to the nearest Magistrate, or to the Secretary-Treasurer at St. John's.
 WM. H. HORWOOD, Chairman.
 F. H. STEER, Honorary Secretary-Treasurer.
 The ladies of the W. P. A. volunteered to hold a Tag Day on "Our Day" October 18th, and the President of the Board of Trade is being asked to appoint a Committee to make a collection in the city and outports, from its members and others.
 Subscriptions will also be gratefully received by the Secretary-Treasurer.

Monte San Gabriele.

Great news comes from Italy. The crest of Monte San Gabriele is in Italian hands and it seems likely to stay there. For the moment these few square miles of shell-blasted rock are the most important spot on any front - for that matter, perhaps, in the world. Around them the crimson tide of battle has surged fiercely and unceasingly for five weeks, rival guns have churned and battered them, rival infantry died in hand to hand combat for mastery of their scarred and blackened slopes. There is a reason for it. The mountain stands up, two thousand feet high, a few miles north and east of Gorizia, near Monte Santo, which the Italians took last month. It looks down on Ternova and the Bainsizza Plateau to Lubiana (Ljubljana). If the mountain is now the Italians' the Plateau is theirs and Lubiana will soon be theirs also. The topography of the country, which so long denied victory to our Allies, will add enormously to its value when achieved. As we have before pointed out, Cadorna thrusts his armies in two directions, north towards Klagenfurt and south towards Trieste. Two Austrian armies oppose both thrusts. The consequence of this last and greatest victory will be a third thrust between the two, cutting asunder the Austrian armies. It will not be an easy thrust to push home, but it is the approaching culmination of a two-years campaign stamped with military genius and adhered to with the patient and perseverance that are genius' hand-maidens. It was due ultimately to a bold and splendid conception, immediately to the assistance of the great British and French arsenals gave to heroic men who knew the magnitude of the prize they sought to grasp. We shall know that they have at last grasped it when we hear that an advance is begun down the Chiapavano Valley. Lubiana threatened Trieste will fall. With Trieste will go the Istrian peninsula and Pola, and with them the Austrian Navy. More important even than any of these is the way will be opened for a genuine invasion of Austria. Such is the value, even in these days of thousand-mile fronts, of a single mountain post. The Riga adventure is at an end; so the Berlin critics themselves admit. It has won for the enemy a good base which he will be unable to use; it has against that strongly consolidated the disintegrating elements in Russia that most of all needed opposition to cement them. Meanwhile the British artillery in Flanders has increased its fury to drumfire. Everyone knows what that means. The military year is drawing to a close, but it is reasonable to hope that before it closes in earnest that will have been accomplished which will bring the end of the war measurably nearer.

Has a Marine Tragedy Occurred?

A craft turned bottom up was sighted in Bacallou Tickle yesterday morning by Capt. J. Mallowney, of the scho. Nellie M., which arrived here yesterday afternoon from Sweet Bay, B.B., with a cargo of codfish. When passing that way crews of some fishing boats drew the attention of the Nellie M. to the upturned schooner, which was painted black and appeared to be about 30 tons register. There was no sign of life on board the stricken craft and no name of any kind that would lead to identification. Some corks were floating alongside, as if a codtrap were hanging from the hold or deck. This theory is expressed that the craft was capsized by a heavy squall while coming thro' the Tickle early in the morning, as the wind blew strong at that time. To-day we made inquiries relative to the craft and her crew, but up to noon nothing new could be ascertained.

Nfld. Airman

Lieut. Edens, R. F. C., Tells of His First Fighting in the Air.

The following interesting extracts are from letters received by Mr. T. J. Edens, from his son Leonard, of the Royal Flying Corps.

40th Squadron R. F. C. B. E. F. France, Aug. 17th, '17. Dear Mother and Dad:- You of course know by this time that I am in France or if not it is not my fault, as I have sent two letters and a cable telling you, so that ought to be enough. I am now in the line but cannot, of course, say just where. I am very lucky in getting in this Squadron which is one of the best in France, they have an awfully fine bunch of fellows, and it is quite a comfy spot when not on duty. I have not yet been over the lines but have been quite close up to them. I hoped to see Mr. Riggs but was not able to, however I may manage it some time yet. At first I was very sorry to leave my own Squadron but I think I have a better chance by coming to a Squadron which is part of the line than if I came out with a new Squadron.

August 20th, 1917. I told you in my last letter that I would probably have more to tell you than in the last; well, not so much as I thought, things have been wonderfully quiet for us. We have been in the air a lot looking for Huns but it has been a vain quest. I feel sure, however, that after to-morrow I will have more to tell; to-morrow is a big day for us and I start bright and early, there is to be another push in our part of the line and we do have some very dangerous work to do; however, I feel sure that your prayers and my own will pull me through; any way I am quite prepared for whatever God's will may be and I hope and trust that He may see fit to spare me. If we get through the next few days I think things will go a bit easier, just at present we are having a strenuous time, our work is hard, but the infantry have worse I think and they are certainly doing their part well. There is no doubt about it we are winning but it is a slow and tedious job. The fellows here are all such a decent sort that it is a pleasure to work with them. It is really an awful pity to think that some of them must go West, as they are the best fellows - in the world. This place is so cheerful to-night that you would think we were planning a fishing trip or something of that sort. That is one thing about the British soldier, he is always cheerful and I think that is half the battle.

There are a lot of Canadians here. To-night when I came into the Mess I found a Newfoundland who is with the Canadians, he met a couple of our fellows at the movies and they brought him up to see me, his name is Bertram Godden, his father is on Bell Island; he has just come through one of the recent big pushes and is quite well, so if you see any of his people you can tell them that he spent a very enjoyable evening with us and is coming up again, he is a very decent chap. Last night we had a few Huns go over us on a bombing expedition; it is a queer sensation when you don't know where they are going to drop them; we thought they had a present for us and were anxiously waiting for them to give it but they thought differently and presented them further on. I don't think they had much success; however, they succeeded in making us feel anxious for a few minutes, then they were gone. It is a fine night to-night and we are expecting another visit, however I shall be in bed and asleep this time so it won't worry me unless they decide on dropping some eggs near here. Well, I must say good night as I will be working very early in the morning and must have a good rest so as to be able to keep a sharp look out for Mr. Fritz. May to-morrow be a successful day.

August 23rd, 1917. It is only a couple of days since I wrote you but I know that a superfluity of correspondence is preferable to the other kind of fluff. I think I have finished my day's work for today though, of course, we can never be sure. It is two days now since I had my baptism of fire and I tell you it's all it's cracked up to be and more. You go sailing securely through the air then there's a wuff! wuff! right under your tail, then you proceed to make yourself scarce. That is your introduction to the anti-aircraft gun, or "Archie" as we call him. He is no friend of ours at all. Last night I had my first fight. We were on

Funds Needed for W.P.A.

An Appeal from Lady Davidson, Govt. House, St. John's, Sept. 14, 1917. Dear Friends, - The W.P.A. needs funds. We made an appeal in September, 1914, and again in September, 1915, but we are thrifty folk, we got through the winter of 1916 without asking for help. Our balances are down to $2,000, and we are now ordering $1,000 worth of yarn for our soldiers' winter socks. Our working expenditure each month is about $800. To put us on a sound basis, we need help to the amount of $10,000.

We hope that we have justified our existence and that those who can afford to contribute anything will send it to Mrs. George Emerson, the Hon. Treasurer, or to any member of the Finance Committee. With a heavy heart, I have to resign the Presidency of the W.P.A., as we are leaving dear old Newfoundland. I am glad my last appeal should be on behalf of the finest work that we women have ever done here or anywhere. The winter work will go on as usual. It cannot wholly be centred at Government House because the place will be empty for some time and it is only fair to let our successors have the chance of entering a house in some degree their own. Mrs. Pitts at once saw the point and offered us a while now which is a good job. Francis is getting along O.K. at Barry and when I saw him was looking fine. I myself am feeling as fit as a fiddle and getting used to his flying. At first the lack of air affected me quite a bit, but now I can sail about quite comfortably 15,000 to 20,000 feet up. Love to all, Leonard.

The Marriage Problem

"An interested milkmaid" sends the following to the "Montreal Star": Why do married couples drift apart? Unhappy couples are not hard to find. They are, alas! in the majority. Isn't it time for the unhappy couples to find the reason why? What is the thorn in the flesh? Is it the money question? Is it jealousy? Is it neglect? How would a man feel were he to play the woman's part for a trial? If instead of a companion during the evening he got only his own company the same as in the daytime? What would he say if his wife went out every night and never said where she was going? Would he be curious enough to know? I think so. Supposing she found it hard to explain where she was going, what then? Would he look on his hat and find out two's company after all?

The courtship was not like that. The time spent together was all too short; an apology was tendered when the lover was forced to go somewhere his best girl could not go. Great care was taken not to hurt each other's feelings; much time spent giving explanations in case the other was "thinking things," etc. After marriage what a change! How often do we explain to avoid hurting one another's feelings? Does the love-light shine in our eyes as much as it used to do, or rather have we the steely gleam that sees every fault and magnifies it? Is the allowance so stingy these days that the wife gets cranky and discontented and bitter? Maybe the wife is so extravagant that she worries the hard-working office man to death.

If a man can do his work cheerfully with the picture of a perfectly happy, smiling face always before him, how must he feel when he remembers a nagging, discontented crank throwing a last bitter complaint at him as he leaves in the morning? If a man is willing to work for his wife and home, willing to do the daily grind, isn't it worth while to leave the fangs of an affectionate kiss on his cheek or the pressure of some arm about his neck as he leaves for the coming hours of work? Then if the coming home is pleasant likewise, why cannot two people spend the greatest blessing on earth: Is it? Very often it is mere toleration. What an existence! One half of the world does not know how the other half lives. Imagine living in the same house and not on speaking terms. It must be a particular "Hades." Your advances met with a snarl, and so on.

This is such an interesting question it would be nice to get some more light on the subject. Couples "analyse yourselves." Trim your lamps. Find out why you are not glad the bridegroom came, likewise the bride. At her home in Dorchester, Mass., on Tuesday, the 11th, after a long and trying illness, in her 69th year, Elizabeth, beloved wife of John C. Davis, of H. Grace, leaving to mourn her beside her husband, three sisters, Mrs. W. Gordon, of Boston, Mrs. Josiah Pack and Mrs. A. Heath, of St. John's; also three daughters, Mrs. T. Rose and Mrs. Carrie Breaker, of Boston, and Mrs. R. Sheppard, wife of the late Capt. Sheppard, and one son, Thomas H. Davis, of this city. Killed in action "Somewhere in France," on Aug. 21st, Private Edward F. Edgcombe, of a Company, 1st Nfld. Regiment, leaving a father, mother, five brothers and two sisters to mourn the loss of a loving son and brother.

The archives of the Russian secret police, which are now in the hands of the Russian Revolutionary Govern-ment, are being carefully examined under the superintendence of M. Bourteff. THE PENNY POST IN WAR TIME.

Great Britain is practically the only one of the nations at war which has not sacrificed the ideal of uniform penny postage to the necessities of war. France, Russia, Italy, and, on the other side, Germany and Aus-tria, have raised their "penny" letter rate, and in Britain's Overseas, Dominions and Colonies the penny let-ters are subject in many cases to a half-penny or even a penny war tax. Great Britain, however, has achieved much the same results without aban-doning the ideals of Rowland Hill and Hensler Henson. Our letters go for one penny to the remotest of the King's Dominions; but by the re-arrangement of weights permitted on inland letters, on parcels, and other postal matter, the Post Office of this country is gathering in as much as and possibly more than, would have been gained by turning the "penny" post into a "three-halfpenny" post. In some of the smaller Colonies the tax on letters was necessary, and they have been greatly aided by issuing special war tax stamps. These not only serve to prepay the tax on letters posted by the Colonist, but they bring in considerable unearned revenues from stamp collectors who buy the stamps for their war collections, and thus pay voluntary contributions to the war time revenues of our Colonies. The West Indian Colonies of Antigua, British Honduras, Cayman Islands, Dominica, Grenada, Jamaica, St. Kitts, Nevis, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Trinidad and Tobago, Turks and Caicos Island, and the Virgin Islands, have all issued one or more varieties of war tax stamps, and millions of these have come straight into the albums of private collectors, to the substantial benefit of the Colonial Exchequer.

LORD MORLEY AND JOURNALISM.

With great interest is awaited the appearance in the autumn of Viscount Morley's reminiscences, in preparing which the veteran statesman—he is now in his eightieth year—has been engaged more or less during the three years of the war. It has, no doubt, been a pleasant occupation to one to whom to live has been to reflect and write. In his book-lined study in his London suburban home at Wimbledon Park Lord Morley has a charming retreat. There for years he has lived in an unpretentious villa, secluded in its own shrubbery on the wooded slope leading to Wimbledon Common. His elevation to the Peerage made no difference in his mode of life and he has continued to use the under-ground electric railway in his fre-quent journeys to and from Westmin-ster. In his "reminiscences" Lord Morley has written, no doubt, many interesting things about journalism and the press. In some personal re-ollections on this interesting theme he once spoke of the application of a would-be leader writer who advanced as his chief claim for the post a "supreme gift of investive." "I did not appoint him," his Lordship ad-ded—(he was at the time editor of

YOU MUST STAY IN ENGLAND.

It is becoming almost impossible to get out of this country if you are a the "Pall Mall Gazette")—"but I fancy, from external evidence, that that young man found employment else-where." On the occasion of his un-veiling a statue of Mr. Gladstone in a Lancashire city, Mr. Morley (as he then was) replied, to a London pres-sman who had asked if he would speak from notes—"No, from the heart." The reply was overheard by a local pressman, who used the phrase on the contents bill of the local even-ing paper—an unwarranted liberty with an intimate confidential remark which Mr. Morley much resented. His Lordship continues to possess fairly good health, having rallied without ill effects from a somewhat serious chill which he contracted in the late win-ter.

WOMEN AND THE LEGAL PRO-FES-SION.

It is gathered that there is a marked change of opinion in legal quarters as to the admission of women to the profession, and this is strongly re-flected in the House of Commons, where the principal solicitors—favor the reform. The success gained for his bill in the House of Lords by Lord Buckmaster also showed a remark-able change brought about by war conditions, so that the Government will be on strong ground in providing facilities for the bill in the Commons. The opposition, of course, has not dis-appeared, but it has sensibly weaken-ed, as was to be expected, for astute-ness characterises all opposition from legal quarters. Objection is not made to the principle of removing the sex bar to the legal profession, but as to the time when the removal is pro-posed to be effected. It is practically agreed that the reform must and will come, but reliance is being placed, at least temporarily, on the fact of ab-sent solicitors with the forces. This creditable fact should be weighed, but it is subordinate to considerations of public policy. Legal opinion is gradually coming round to this view, and the discussion should be main-tained on this level.

NO DOCTORS TO SPARE.

No surprise is expressed here at the declaration of the Central Medical War Committee that no more civilian doctors can be given to the Army. It has been an open secret for some time that the supply was not equal to the demand, and the moment has now arrived when the authorities and the profession must face the problem. For some months the Army has been obtaining its doctors under a sort of rationing scheme, the committee un-der-taking to find a certain number of men each week; but something like finally has now been reached. What things are like outside London I do not know, but in the suburbs here there is hardly a doctor who does not complain of overwork. Nearly all are men well over military age, and many who had retired from practice came back to take over the patients of their colleagues who had gone to the Army. The fact that a public announcement is made of the straits to which the profession is reduced in itself sug-gests that a solution of the problem is likely to be found. America, it is thought, will be only too glad to send over hundreds of her medical men for work in the hospitals and with the Army.

A DENIAL.—Mr. T. J. Edens asks us to deny the statement contained in yesterday's Evening Herald that the express horse of his that ran away was the same animal that ran away at the time the Council employee was killed near Alexander Street.

Newfoundland.

(Newfoundland, the oldest British Colony, has given a large proportion of her manhood to the Great Cause, and out of her small population has suffered comparatively heavy losses. The regiment has gained honour in France and in Gallipoli, and the Newfoundland R.N.R. has played no small part at sea.) There lies a Land in the West and North Whither the bravest men went forth, And daunted not by fog or ice. They reached at last to a Paradise. Full two thousand miles it lay, Washed by a sea of English grey, And they named it Newfoundland at sight: It's rather the Land of Heart's De-light! Now after close five hundred years You give us back with feralless eyes, Dimm'd with glory but not with tears The greatest gift that a Land can prize. You give back all that there is to give, The young who die so the Land may live, Nor willed it otherwise. Die! They were weary, God gave them rest. Fall! They are raised for evermore! Whether on Beaumont Hamel's crest Or "Caribou Hill" by the Turkish shore, Never their glory can fade or fall Who have won the greatest Cross of Merit Nor ever their country dies! Ah! Men must know you to under-stand, Have seen the cliffs of your rugged land, Have seen the mist come rolling down The hills that guard the glistening town, Have seen the schooners creeping in, And smell the honey-sweet smell with the fishing port asleep, And in the rivers flowing free Through the spruce-woods to the sea Have known the pools at break of day Where silver-coated salmon play, And seen the tangled river's brink Where caribou come down to drink, And beavers build and creep. All this is shared with those who fell, It is the Land they loved so well. For many a soldier lying low In some French village-battle glow, Sees before his blood is spent The sunset over Heart's Content. Many a sailor lost at sea Sweeping a mind-in channel free, Sees his schooner far away, And surmise in Conception Bay, Aye, though they died on distant shores They died for this! It's doubly yours! And there is Pride and Comfort too To know what they once loved and knew.

There lies a Land in the West and North Whither the bravest men went forth, And daunted not by fog nor ice, They reached at last to a Paradise, A Land to be won by those who dare. No wonder the English chose it first, And they named it Newfoundland at sight: It's rather the Land of Heart's Delight! P. E. Goldsmith, in the London Times, Aug. 25th.

The White Feather.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

It is a terrible thing for a mother to lose her child. But there is something much more terrible. And that is for her to let that loss make her determined to take no happiness in the children the Lord has left her. A woman in our town lost her son about a year ago. He was a very good son, an unusually good son. And the illness which took him from her, was sudden and short. Naturally it was a great shock. Naturally her heart was overshadowed by a bereavement so terrible. But unnaturally she has become almost cruel to her other children. But she doesn't want to be comforted.

She has two dear young daughters. They have always been very dutiful daughters, and since their brother's death they have done everything to help assuage their mother's grief. They are with her all their work will allow, they bring her home little gifts from town, they try their best to think of ways to divert her mind and comfort her.

But she will not be comforted, she will not be diverted, she will not have her grief assuaged. She has put an iron wall about her grief and she seems to be trying to keep it perfectly intact.

She does not try to pretend pleasure in her daughters' little gifts; she selfishly absorbs all their time and never thinks to say "thank you"; she lets her gloomy manner fill the house with an atmosphere of depression almost as palpable as a Scotch mist.

She thinks they are unfaithful because they want to be happy. And she wants the girls, young things full of life and youth's unconquerable eagerness for joy, to be as gloomy and lugubrious as she and regards it as unfaithfulness to their brother's memory when, with the inevitable resilience of youth, they turn their faces toward the sunshine.

She is not willing they should go to the movies, or even to the most informal gatherings at their friends' homes, she will not even let them play the piano.

She is spoiling her life—and what is worse, theirs.

She isn't doing her share.

She isn't summoning one particle of courage.

In fact she is showing the white feather in a battle that most of us have to fight at one time or another.

One wonders sometimes that she is not afraid to act as she is acting. Suppose the Lord should say "You do not value what I have left you. Then I will take it away."

MARC ANTONY.

Marc Antony was a distinguished Roman citizen whose principal business seems to have been to fall in and out of love. No record of the number of times Antony fell in love has ever been kept, as there were no multiple adding machines in those days, but from what we know of him he made Nat Goodwin look like a twenty to one shot.

Antony was one of the handsomest men that ever wore the Roman toga draped gracefully about his fetlocks. Wherever he went he was recognized at once by his nose, which protruded from the rest of his face like some beetling cliff. Whenever Antony became enraged his nose would beetle in a very threatening manner, and cause timid people to regret having brought up the subject. He was a brave man and was not afraid to die, and when he was not falling in love with somebody he could be found at the head of the Roman hollow square charging into the very midst of the enemy with his aquiline nose at "present arms."

WHADDA YE SAY TO A BUGGY RIDE DOWN THE RIVER SUNDAY AFT.

Antony spent the winter telling Cleopatra that she was the only pebble on the beach.

Antony had a good chance to become dictator of Rome after Julius Caesar died in the impetuous manner so pleasingly related by the late W. Shakespeare, but about that time

CANADIANS USE GAS WITH EFFECT.

Canadian Headquarters in France, via London (By Stewart Lyon).—The Germans in Lens are given no rest. Early last night they were subjected to a heavy bombardment from large calibre guns. After they had been driven into their cellars and shelter galleries by shell fire, gas was projected upon the enemy positions shortly before midnight and again after 3 o'clock this a.m. Serious losses are believed to have followed. A prisoner who wandered into our lines in a dazed condition after one second attack says the gas was almost immediately effective. He himself only took two inhalations before he got his mask on but was seriously affected. The attack surprised many of the enemy in dugouts where our gas is most effective.

ITALIANS TAKE CREST OF MOUNT ST. GABRIELLE.

LONDON, To-Day.—The crest of Mount San Gabrielle, commanding the plain of Gorizia to the south and southeast, and Frigido Valley to the east, has been captured by the Italians. The Italian effort to capture San Gabrielle began after the taking of Monte Sante, directly north by General Cadorna's troops on August 5th. Several times the Italians had reached the summit of the great mountain, so important to their further progress east of Gorizia as well as on the Carso, only to be beaten back again. On the slopes of the rugged rock in the past few weeks has occurred some of the heaviest and most sanguinary fighting of the war, with the Italians hurling themselves forward in desperate attacks and the Austrians holding to the crest desperately. San Gabrielle slope was occupied by the Italians, the Embassy reports, after the fortified hill or saddle of Dol and Gargaro Basin, the main bulk of San Gabrielle, had been taken. The Austrians, however, clung to some positions on the mountain. In the forest of Tarnovo, east of Mount San Gabrielle, the Italians captured positions from the Austrians after suffering heavy losses. Except along the Casemate's Plateau on the Alsine front there has been no marked activity on the fighting fronts. A German attack against the French positions on Casemate's Plateau, Paris reports, was repulsed with heavy losses. Berlin says the German troops penetrated the French second line and inflicted severe casualties. British artillery in Flanders, Berlin reports, has increased to 2,000. The political situation in Russia is still clouded somewhat. The revolt of General Korniloff apparently has failed dismally, but the former Commander-in-Chief of the Russian armies has not yet surrendered to the Provisional Government. Krymoff, commander of the Korniloff forces sent against Petrograd, committed suicide by shooting when informed by Premier Kerensky of the probable fate that awaited him. Premier Kerensky has begun to reconstruct the Government, some of his former Ministers apparently opposing the taking of drastic measures against General Korniloff and his aides.

Heroic Ghosts of Flanders.

London Daily Chronicle: Regimental associations with the far past do not count much in the British Army to-day. The modern Tommy is not vastly interested that his battalion fought here or there under Marlborough or Wellington a century or two ago. Yet Flanders has its heroic ghosts, even though those heroes step out of fiction and not history. On a long, muddy, dead-beaten march to Armentieres a comrade recalled to me (writes a wounded soldier) that it was there the Three Musketeers carried out their execution of Miladi. I capped that by recalling that it was the executioner of Bethune who was commanded for the deed. And suddenly, as if by magic, exhaustion seemed to slip away and romance awoke again as we realized that we were trudging along the very road where D'Artagnan had spurred his way.

LATEST!

OUR U. S. IMPORTS TO BE LICENSED.

WASHINGTON, To-Day.—The shipment of certain foods to Canada declared by the Executive Administrative Board hereafter will require the same form of license as demanded for their export to other countries. Heretofore they have gone forward under a blanket license issued by Collectors of Customs. The purpose of the order, it was explained, is to provide a means of close operation between Americans and to put the United States in a position to conserve its supplies if shortages appear likely. The foods named are wheat, wheat flour, butter and sugar. For the present it is understood that there is no intention to restrict food shipments to Canada to any marked extent. It may be necessary later on, however, to regulate exports somewhat. Shipments now in transit are excepted in the order, which also makes provisions for small shipments by producers and dealers living close to borders.

ROUNDING UP KORNILOFF.

PETROGRAD, To-Day.—Korniloff has not yet surrendered, still faithful to him are some of the striking battalions and also a considerable number of detachments of the Tolske and Turcomans. Mohilev has been declared by General Korniloff in a state of siege. Orsha Junction, a point eighty miles to the northward, has been occupied by Government troops and all officers and soldiers arriving there bound for the north are being arrested. A request by Korniloff to send provisions to Mohilev has been refused and an effort by Korniloff to communicate by telephone with Moscow has been frustrated. One of Korniloff's staff officers arrested at Orsha, said Korniloff daily was expecting the arrival of General Alexieff for conference with the heads of Government troops.

Naval Funeral To-morrow.

The remains of the late Henry Caney, Warrant Officer, who met death at the Marconi Station yesterday morning, will be buried with full military honors at the City Cemetery to-morrow afternoon. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Under-secy. Caney, who will remove the body from Mount Pearl by H.M.S. Briton this evening. The funeral procession, starting from the training ship at 2 p.m. to-morrow, will proceed along Water Street, and Duckworth Street to the cemetery. Rev. H. L. Pike, of St. Mary's Church, will officiate. The funeral will be held at Briton, together with the C.L.B. band and guards of honor from the City Brigades will go to make up the procession.

Plucky Rescue.

Little Girls Save Another from Drowning. A few days ago an unusually plucky rescue was performed by two little girls, whose modesty kept it at the time from receiving public notice. It happened that a young girl named Myrtis Connolly went in bathing at Gull Pond, on the Broad Cove Road, and ventured beyond her depth. Being unable to swim, she was in imminent danger of being drowned, and had indeed sunk the second time, when her attention was attracted by little Dorothy Baird and Polly Rogerson, who were bathing near. They rushed to the point from which the girl had fallen into deep water, and plunging in brought her between them to dry land, where she soon recovered from the effects of her immersion. The promptitude and presence of mind of the little rescuers was admirable and undoubtedly saved young Connolly's life.

Making it Binding.

If some folks should give you an orange, they might say, "I give you this orange." No such simple language would be used by a young barrister at Boonville, according to The Republican, which says he would accompany the gift with something like this: "I hereby give and convey to you, all and singular, my estate and interests, right, title, claim, and advantage of and in said orange, together with all of its rind, juice, pulp, and pips, and all rights and advantages therein with full power to bite, cut, suck, and otherwise eat the same, or give the same away with or without the rind, skin, juice, pulp, or pips anything heretofore or hereafter or in any other deed or deeds, instrument or instruments of whatever nature or kind soever to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding."—Kansas City Times.

SUNLIGHT SOAP.
£1,000 Guarantee of Purity on every Bar.

THE "Sunlight" Guarantee of Purity was never more justified than it is to-day, because it enables us to insure the wives of our gallant soldiers and sailors against the drudgery and worry of household cleaning.

Sunlight Soap saves rubbing—saves scrubbing—saves the clothes. That portion of a wife's allowance which must be devoted to the cleaning of the home is, therefore, absolutely safeguarded when spent on Sunlight Soap.

SUNLIGHT SOAP is made for the housewife's profit for only thereby can the makers hope to profit by Sunlight Soap.

Pithy Pars.

A caterpillar is so greedy that in one month it usually devours six thousand times its own weight in food. There are 400 country livings of the Church of England endowed with incomes of less than £50 per year. An ordinary healthy man, in the prime of life, can lift with both hands pounds each, 236 lbs. and support on his shoulders 330 lbs. There is 87 per cent. of water and 13 per cent. of solids in milk. The sugar in the solids is in greater proportion than in any other solid. Scientists say that the whole human body is full of microbes, and that a person is healthy so long as the microbes are in good condition. The present bronze coinage (penny, half-penny, and farthing) is composed of ninety-five parts of copper, four of tin, and one of zinc. Spiders always come out of their holes shortly before rain, being advised by their instinct that insects then fly low and are most easily taken. The guinea-pig grows more quickly than any other quadruped. It is fully grown when six weeks old, and begins to bear young at two months. Some of the screws in a watch are so small that to the unaided eye they appear like steel filings. Three hundred and three thousand of them weigh only a pound. The first horseless carriage was invented in Paris in 1748 by Vaucanson, and its operation was witnessed by Louis XV. It was moved by a large clock spring. During the siege of Paris in 1870 letters limited to twenty words were delivered in the French capital by pigeon-post, half a franc per word being charged by the postal authorities. The temperature of the cucumber is one degree below that of the surrounding atmosphere. It is, therefore, apparent that the expression "cool as a cucumber" is scientifically correct. The edible dogs in China are known by their bluish-black tongues. They never bark, and are very taciturn. Four and a half millions are slaughtered annually to titillate the palates of the Celestials. Liverpool holds the peculiar record of being reached from London by no fewer than five separate railways. Manchester can be reached by four, Sheffield, Nottingham, Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Bradford by three each.

WEEK END NOTES.

(L. C. M.)
In the course of another week the term of the Daylight Bill will have closed and the pendulum of the clocks will swing to regular standard time. But there still exists a diversity of opinion as to the utility of the change which the Bill introduced; at the same time if a vote were taken upon the matter, it would not be unsafe to assert that ninety per cent of our people would vote for it.

The author of the measure may not know of all the varied opinions which his work has called forth; but he has no doubt heard a few of them, and also he has seen a few in print. We have all heard some, but I think that some of the most comical and most ridiculous have come under my notice, and for the amusement, if not for the edification, of the reader I will record a few of them.

I have known the author of the Bill to be blamed, blasphemed, and in turn condemned as if he had done some great wrong instead of having done some great good. But such is part of the price of reform, it always was, so and it seems that it will always be so. Men's good intentions have ever been misconstrued and their motives, though the purest, have been doubted and suspected.

Some people said that the object of the Bill was for the purpose of adding another hour to the day so that the author and his class could make more money and have more time to make it, and that a few dollars in lighting expenses might be saved. They only saw the spirit of selfishness in it, not could they be persuaded that the betterment of the people was the principal object of the Bill. To try and change the opinion of some of this class of people would be a task that, if attempted, would never be accomplished. To them the object was selfishness, and their stubbornness was so unreasonable, that they were beyond conviction.

Another class of people said that the measure was a false one, and that it made the face of the clock lie; and that it put lies into people's mouths, and that they were saying it was one o'clock when it was not one o'clock, but when it was only twelve o'clock. They even went to the extreme of saying that anyone who began work at twelve o'clock on Sunday night was breaking the Sabbath, inasmuch as it was not twelve o'clock but it was really eleven o'clock in the night. This objection was quite a conscientious one and it was adhered to with the faith of the old-time Pilgrim Fathers who colonized the New England States.

Another definition was to the effect that the author of the Bill could not rest himself in the morning, and that he begrudged the people to have their morning nap; and yet another said he could stay in bed as late as he liked, but he got others to toe the line and get up an hour before it was necessary. Others said that the whole thing was a fad, and that the chief object of the author was to be able to say that he gained his point and having gained it he could sleep in the morning as late as he pleased.

From these reasons it will readily be seen how varied are the views of the public upon the Daylight Bill; and not on this Bill alone, but upon the doings in general of our leaders. The main object of the measure seems to have been lost sight of by such people, and in the narrowness of their vision they condemned it. It did not matter to them whether thousands of office hands and shop assistants and hundreds of young ladies got clear from work, with an additional hour of beautiful evening sunshine before them in which to enjoy themselves and to behold the beauties of Nature. The object of the Bill was self, and nothing more could be made of it. But more was made of it, and more will be made of it, and as the seasons come and go, the benefits of the Bill will prove their own value and bring praise and approval upon the work of its author and shed fragrance upon its meaning and also upon his name.

To some the Bill may have had its inconveniences, but to the people of the city it has brought a better idea of life; and as already stated in these notes if a vote were taken the verdict would be in its favour.

The application of machinery to the industrial arts has relieved the factory of much of its former drudgery, and the workshop of much of its hard manual labor; and as these reforms advance it will be found that the long hours of the past, which the most of us have worked, will not be necessary, but that a shorter working day for the cities will do; and people will not only be happier but they will have a better chance for recreation, and in the struggle for existence they shall not be compelled to enslave themselves nor live only for the bread that perisheth. Life will present a better aspect and the world will learn the lesson which she seems to have forgotten but which the church has ever maintained—the lesson which the Son of God declared to the Devil in the wilderness and the Temptation when He said unto him: "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Inter-town Baseball

For Championship of Newfoundland.
The famous Cub battery—Hall and Clouston—were successful in winning the first game of the series yesterday afternoon, when St. John's defeated the Grand Falls team at the paper town. Word to this effect was received last night by Secretary Grace, of the Baseball League, from Major Montgomerie who is controlling the destinies of the home team. The hostile battery consisted of "Blondy" Burg and "Chocolate" Durant, who, it will be remembered, did such effective work when Grand Falls competed here for the R. G. Reid trophy. "Claude" must have got in some grand work as the Paper Town men were held scoreless in seven of the innings, and judging from the score by innings which was as follows:—

ST. JOHN'S: 0-41 210 0-8-9
GRAND FALLS: 0-00 320 0-0-5
It is surmised that the home team must have cut loose in their fielding or throwing in the fourth and fifth innings. Major Montgomerie thinks that the crucial test will be in this morning's game when the Grand Falls team will have been relieved from the funk of facing the "initial appearance of the pick" of the City League. The renowned champion Irish battery—"Three Strike"—Bill Carew and his mate Brazie—will have the opportunity of exhibiting their skill and prowess in this second game and it is thought that Carew's varied offerings should baffle the inland aspirants to the championship, particularly if Hall's straight, though effective, "smokes" were sufficient yesterday. The lineups were probably as follows:—

ST. JOHN'S:	ST. JOHN'S:
Fortier 1b.	Hartnett 2b.
Slocum 2b.	Cooney 3b.
St. James ss.	Britt ss.
Crawley 3b.	Canning cf.
Toranzo cf.	McCordle lf.
Smith lf.	C. Grace c.
Field c.	Quick p.

Chief Chessman was behind the slate and his decisions were as satisfactory as usual. To-night the visiting team will be the guests of the Grand Falls team and fans to an informal banquet at the Club House. The Home team have the Reid Cup with them, though they by no means wish to leave it there—which wish is shared in by local fandom. The Annual Sports are being held at Grand Falls to-day, and should the paper men vanquish our team in this morning's clash, the play-off will take place this afternoon. The team will return to town by Monday's express.

FIGHTING THE SUBMARINES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.
 Stories of some recent successes of the British Navy against German subs. were given to the public to-day in a series of brief descriptions of eight encounters in which eight or possibly nine U-boats were accounted for. These eight sea battle pictures were selected so as to cover practically the whole ground of the anti-sub activities. In one case there was a battle between an auxiliary cruiser and a sub; in another, an engagement between a seaplane and a sub; then a battle between two subs. in which the British sub, captain proved himself a better man; finally, two tales of successes of armed merchantmen against the enemy. First: From one of our auxiliary naval forces, a torpedo was seen approaching on the starboard beam. It jumped out of the water when one hundred yards off, and struck the engine-room near the water-line making a large rent and flooding several compartments. The starboard lifeboat was blown into the air in pieces, landing on the wireless aerial. Soon after a periscope was observed just before our port beam. It turned towards our ship but quickly disappeared, as the enemy further submerged. Again it appeared but was followed this time by the conning tower and our guns removed the two periscopes. Many other hits were obtained and the sub. quickly assumed a list to port. Several men came out of her hatch and the U-boat wallowed along for a space with stern almost submerged and oil coming from her side. The crew came on deck and waved their hands. At this sign of surrender cease firing was ordered whereupon the enemy started off at a fair speed hoping to disappear in the mist. Fire again was opened and a loud explosion took place forward. Falling on his side the enemy sank, the last thing seen being his sharp bow end, slowly disappearing beneath the water. Two survivors were picked up. Our ship made for harbor. In the second, one of our small craft sighted an enemy submarine a distance of 10,000 yards off. She maintained her course and five minutes later the enemy stopped and then proceeded towards her. Suddenly she submerged, and shortly after her periscope appeared close on the starboard bow for a few seconds and then disappeared. The helm was ported, and when over the place where the periscope was seen an explosive charge was dropped. The ship circled around and dropped another charge. The explosion of this charge was followed after two or three seconds by another much more violent explosion, which shook the ship from stem to stern. The water became black over a large area and a considerable quantity of thick oil and flotsam came to the surface. In the third, one of our subs. sighted an enemy submarine on the starboard bow and so dived, but after seeing him through the periscope for a few minutes, lost sight of him. Our boat came to the top again and three hours later saw the enemy on the starboard side from two to three miles away. Our boat dived to attack, but the enemy altered her course and again was lost to view.

His apparent objective being conjectured, our course was altered in the hope of cutting him off; and eventually again he was detected on the port bow, steering as usual. Our course was altered as was necessary and when a favorable position was secured a torpedo was fired. A splash was seen close to his stern, and a few seconds later the enemy was seen with his stern end out of water, with smoke hanging around it and the conning tower half submerged. A minute or two later she disappeared. In the fourth, a seaplane proceeded to attack an enemy sub, which she observed manoeuvring to a position to fire a torpedo at a passing merchant ship. Before the seaplane arrived over the sub, the latter submerged, but three bombs were dropped on the position where he disappeared. Five minutes later a large upheaval was noticed where the bombs were dropped. This could be best compared to a huge bubble rising some distance above the level of the sea, and distinctly visible for a minute or more. There was no further sign of the sub. In the fifth, a patrol noticed a wake with a considerable amount of foam travelling parallel with her course a short distance away. She crossed the wake and dropped an explosive charge over it. Almost at once a second charge was dropped. After it had exploded, another explosion took place and oil and bubbles came to the surface; and on this spot, a further charge was exploded. Two more patrol boats arrived on the scene and discharged explosives near. The oil which was still rising, after an interval of two hours, was of heavy brown color and had a smell like petrol. The sixth: One of our naval forces bearing gun fire steered for the position and soon sighted an enemy submarine on her bow. Fire was opened, and a hit was obtained. A large explosion resulted. There was no sign of the enemy though the whole hull and conning tower were distinctly visible before. Seventh: Two submarines attacked a defensively armed merchant ship. The first submarine fired a torpedo at close range which missed; and our ship sank her by gun fire. The eighth: A defensively armed merchantman encountered a submarine which endeavored to attack at close range. The ship opened fire hitting the submarine twice, causing it to disappear vertically. The sea appeared to boil for a considerable time after.

GERMANS PENETRATE FRENCH LINE.
 PARIS, Sept. 14.
 The French advance line on a front of 500 miles north of Courrières Wood, northeast of Verdun, was entered by Germans in an attack. The official statement from the war office this evening says that fighting for the possession of trenches is still going on.

ARTILLERY DUELS.
 BERLIN, Sept. 14.
 A supplementary communication issued by the war office this evening says there have only been lively artillery duels on some of the sectors of the northeastern Verdun front.

SPECIAL WAR COMMITTEE TO ASSEMBLE.
 PETROGRAD, Sept. 14.
 A special war committee, presided over by Premier Kerensky, and including Generals Alexieff, Fuzsky and Dragomiroff, and the Ministers of War and Marine, will assemble immediately to discuss the entire military situation as affected by the German operations at Riga, and the Korniloff adventure. The committee will draft plans for re-organizing the army. The Russian Voila says, with a view to calming the agitation among the Cossacks, which General Kalendes has been exploiting, a special ministry for Cossack officers will be created. It has been settled virtually the Bourke Gazette says, that one of the first acts of the reconstituted Government will be to dissolve the fourth Duma.

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES.
 LONDON, Sept. 14.
 A British official issued to-night says: There was local fighting during the day in the neighborhood of Winnipeg Crossroads northeast of St. Julien. Our troops made good progress and have taken a few prisoners. The enemy artillery was active to-day in Lens sector, and there was considerable artillery activity by both sides east of Ypres. On Thursday night the weather again was unfavorable for aerial observations. Eight bombs were dropped by our airplanes on enemy billets. East of Lens his troops in the open and in the trenches were barraged by machine gun fire from a low altitude. There was a certain amount of air fighting under difficult conditions. Three of our machines are missing.

THE RUSSIAN SITUATION.
 PETROGRAD, Sept. 14.
 M. Seskice, private secretary to Premier Kerensky, told the Associated Press to-day that the situation shows steady improvement. Continuing, he said, General Korniloff has not surrendered, but he is quite prepared to do so and is in a position of complete powerlessness. We have just received an offer of surrender from twelve companies of Korniloff's troops, who say they have been deceived; and General Kaledine, who with his Cossacks began a menacing movement against the Government, has been checked. We expect that he will soon be taken.

 Further evidence of defection in the ranks of Cossacks from General Korniloff, is given by the arrest near Luga of General Krymoff. The Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's delegates sent a deputation to the troops to explain the situation, whereupon the Cossacks decided they were ready to arrest their commander, provided an order was received from Premier Kerensky. The Council telegraphed to the Premier, who ordered Krymoff's arrest. Krymoff submitted without resistance and was brought to Petrograd. The Cossacks of his command have joined the Government forces in the Luga garrison. The railway service between Luga and Petrograd has been resumed.

ANTI-GERMAN DEMONSTRATION.
 MONTE VIDEO, Sept. 14.
 A great anti-German demonstration was held here yesterday, and Argentina was cheered for the expulsion of the German Minister, Count Luxburg. There were numerous clashes between mobs and police. Strong guards have been placed around the German Legation and Consulate, as well as the German business houses, in order to prevent destruction similar to that of Buenos Aires.

HELD FOR TRIAL.
 PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.
 Five of six officers of the Philadelphia Tagelblatt arrested in the government raid last Monday on the paper plant, were held under $10,000 bail each by U. S. Commissioner Long to-day to await action of the grand jury of charges of violating the Espionage Act. Waldamox Alfredo of the editorial staff was discharged. All witnesses have been ordered to appear before the grand jury. The evidence brought to-day among other charges tended to show that the papers had been tampered with and that it is alleged, the purpose of showing favoritism to the German cause.

ATTACK REPULSED.
 PARIS, Sept. 14.
 A general attack against the French position on the Casomates Plateau in the Aisne region last night was repulsed after hard-to-hand fighting, the war office announced to-day.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.
 PETROGRAD, Sept. 14.
 After being received by Premier Kerensky and informed of the fate that awaited him, General Krymoff, commander of Korniloff's troops, which were sent against Petrograd, returned to his lodgings and shot himself. His wounds were not fatal.

RUSSIAN NEWSPAPERS SUPPRESSED.
 PETROGRAD, Sept. 14.
 Civil and military organizations are acting vigorously to negate the influences of General Korniloff's venture, says a statement given out by the official News Agency Committee. For revolutionary security they have arrested Deputy Dorjma Schaenghino and suppressed his newspaper, one of the most important journals published in South Russia. Simultaneously houses of persons in private life and of officials who were participants of the old regime have been searched.

MORE TROUBLE IN RUSSIAN CABINET.
 LONDON, Sept. 14.
 The Petrograd correspondent of the Reuter's states that, Vice-Premier Nekrasoff has informed the press that he and Peraschonke, Minister of Foreign Affairs, have decided to leave their posts in the cabinet, considering that their participation in the government narrowed the political horizon, and being only business Ministers, without party support, they did not possess sufficient strength in the Cabinet. The Premier also announced the withdrawal from the cabinet of M. Pischchenoff, Minister of Food and Supplies. Other changes in the cabinet includes the retirement of M. Q. Schernoff, Minister of the Interior, who in turn will be succeeded by M. Kishikin, constitutional democrat. M. Kishikin enters the cabinet unconditionally. M. Kotsipete, Minister of Communications, resigned because he did not consider it possible to execute Kerensky's order to take certain measures against General Korniloff.

EMOTIONS OF THE FEATURES.
 About the nose, eyes and lips of all of us, and even the chin, eyelids and forehead, are muscles of nerves rendering these features peculiarly sensitive and susceptible to change of contour with every passing emotion. With beautiful, uplifting, kindly thoughts the muscles contract or, shall we say, are normal and the features are lifted. Just as inversely, with depressing or unlovely thoughts and emotions, the mouth droops and the muscles generally sag, letting down the features and spoiling the profile as well as the expression.

 Do not be afraid to patronize your mirror. Try on your expressions as you would a hat and you will find your mirror your best and most truthful friend. In the arch of the eyebrow, the fall of the lids over the eyes and especially in the line of the mouth and the curve of the lips, there are infinite possibilities.

 Biting the lips or thrusting them out, drawing the mouth to one side or letting it droop and letting the jaw drop—all of these have a marked influence upon the profile. If your nose is too prominent, the hair puffed out at the sides tends to counteract the defect and if the nose is too small or flat to harmonize with the contour of the face, then the hair drawn back to project beyond the line of the head at the rear, has a tendency to lend prominence to the defective features as viewed in profile.

We Save You Money!

You save money if you get your Loose Leaf Binders, Loose Leaf Forms, Counter Check Books, Counter Charge Books and Special Account Books made by us. We make them cheaper and we make them better. We can duplicate any Loose Leaf Form you now use—Paper, Ruling, Binding, Punching, and we do it cheaper than you can import them for.

We can, and we do make Counter Check Books cheaper than you can import them; besides, we make a better looking Book; we make them from the Grand Falls paper. We have made over 20,000 in the past few months for firms here and in the outports. Ask us to show you samples. They cost less than you pay when you import them.

We can make Special Account Books. We can duplicate anything you now use—Paper, Ruling, Printing and Binding, and we can save you money. Let us prove it.
