The Broken Circle!

CHAPTER XX.

It happens so often that a great love is lavished in vain. Sir Basil saw nothing of Leah's. He admired her exceedingly, but he never dreamed of loving her. He would have done anything for her; he had the kindly affection of a brother for her; ever since she had stood by the white lilies in the hall, in the spot where his fair young sister had died, she had to him in some measure taken that dead sister's place. He confided everything to her, told her, of all his affairs, sought her advice, was happy in her society, never rested long away from her, thought of her with continual kindly affection; but of love he never dreamed. The duchess, who had said to herself that she would not interfere, did just this one thing—she told Sir Basil of the splendid triumph that Leah had achieved, and how she had passed through three such reasons as few even of the most brilliant beauties had ever experienced. She told of the offers of marriage made to her, and how she had refused them all. "Why did she refuse them?" he asked. The duchess meant to do a kindly action when she answered: "She has ideas that are peculiar for

Anemia

Thin, watery blood is no more nourishing than thin, watery milk—skim milk. But you can soon enrich thin blood, overcome the anemic condition and build up the whole system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. F. C. Simmons, 42 Curtis St., Brantford, Ont., writes: "For about eight years I suffered from anemia. My circulation was poor, my gums and lips were pale, and my hands and feet were always cold. I was nervous and unable to sleep well. I had frequent headaches, seemed restless and easily worried or irritated. There was a buzzing sound in my ears. Indigestion was also one of my complaints, and I often was attacked by weak spells. I went to a doctor, who told me I was anemic, but as I did not get any better I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after the first box I felt brighter and my headaches completely disappeared. I continued using the Nerve Food for quite a while. I am quite well now, and cheerfully and gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to people suffering as I did before I used this splendid medicine."

her. Leah's face was deadly pale in the glowing sunlight.

"The girl's heart is sick," thought the kindly woman, "and in all the wide world no one knows the secret but me. What can I do for her?"

Suddenly her face brightened. She rose from her seat and went over to Leah. The pale face was half hidden by the climbing roses that came in at the window.

"I have been thinking, Leah," she said, "that it seems a pity to break up this pleasant party here. I like Lady Maude, and pretty May is a very sweet girl. I do not care about the military element, but I shall ask Lady Maude and May to go with us. That will be very pleasant; will it not?"

"Yes," replied Leah, coldly. The pain at her heart was so bitter, so keen that it was with difficulty she answered at all.

"And I have been thinking," continued the duchess, "that, as Sir Basil and your uncle seem so warmly attached to each other, it would be a great pity to part them, above all just now, when Sir Basil is evidently recovering health and spirits. The duke likes him very much, and I thought of asking him to go to Dene with us. He will find plenty shooting and fishing there. We are sure to have some pleasant shooting-parties in September."

Was it a dazzling burst of sunlight that brightened Leah's fair face and laughed in her expressive face? She turned with a quick, graceful gesture, and stooping, kissed the white jeweled hands of the kindly woman who had read so well her heart's desire. She spoke no word, and the duchess did not notice her emotion.

"What do you think of it, Leah?" she asked, when she perceived that the sudden thrill of pleasure had passed.

"I think," she replied, slowly, "that he will be very pleased."

"Do you?" said the duchess, trying to speak carelessly, while her heart ached for the girl. "Then I will ask him to-day."

She saw that the kindest thing she could do was to leave Leah alone. The girl trembled, and the hands that sought the crimson roses shook.

"I have some letters to write, Leah," said the duchess. "I think I will finish them before luncheon."

Leah did not even hear her. The duchess raised her hands and eyes as she went away.

"I thought I was in love when I was a girl," she said; "but that was child's play to this. I have always said a great love is terrible thing, and so it is."

She would have been more sure of it still had she seen Leah when she knew herself to be alone. She bowed her head, while tears fell like raindrops upon the crimson roses; and from the girl's trembling lips came the murmured words of a prayer. She thanked Heaven. Heaven had sent Sir Basil; and now he was not to be taken out of her life suddenly, but they were to be together the whole of the happy bright autumn. And, for the time, self-sacrificing Hettie, of whom Leah had heard nothing since they parted, was forgotten in this new happiness.

"Not Worth a Rap."

If we toss something contemptuously aside, or discard an idea with the exclamation, "It isn't worth a rap," we mean that we do not place any value on it. The term originated in Ireland in the early part of the 18th century. Coins at that time were scarce and the government issued the "rap," a base half-penny, intrinsically worth only half a farthing. People continually ridiculed the "rap," and gradually came to compare everything of little value to that tiny coin. In Switzerland, at one time, there was a coin current called a "rappe," worth about one-seventh of 1 cent.

Stop Laxatives
Which Only Aggravate Constipation

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. When you are constipated, there is not enough lubricant produced by your system to keep the food waste soft. Doctors prescribe Nujol because its action is so close to this natural lubricant. Try it today.

Balfour Raised to Peerage.

Lawrence Navigation Now Open—Lloyd George Will Propose Inter-National Peace Pact—De Valera's Followers Assemble in Force.

EARL BALFOUR.

LONDON, April 12. King George has conferred an Earlship upon Sir Arthur James Balfour, was officially announced to-day.

NAVIGATION OPENED.

MONTREAL, April 12. Navigation on the River St. Lawrence to Montreal ports opened this morning, when icebreakers Lady Grey and Montcalm came up the ship channel, destroying the last ice locking up the port.

DE VALERISTS WATCHING.

BELFAST, April 12. The time pact does not include supporters of Eamonn De Valera, who are massing on the shores of Lough Leven, near the town of Garrison, where they have erected a large telescope and are keeping constant watch on the specials.

WILL IT AVALI?

GENOA, April 12. Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain is expected to propose at the earliest opportunity, probably to-morrow, a pact undertaking that no nation shall attack another, thus abolishing the possibility of war for the duration of the pact. Reuter's correspondent says.

ANTIPODEAN RECIPROCIITY.

LONDON, April 12. An agreement has been signed for a reciprocal treaty between Australia and New Zealand, according to a Reuter despatch.

ARBUCKLE ACQUITTED.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12. A verdict of acquittal was returned by the jury in the third trial of Fatty Arbuckle on a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe.

TO STABILIZE SITUATION.

GENOA, April 12. The necessity of bringing about an equilibrium in national budgets, if the European situation is to be stabilized, was the subject of discussion at a meeting of subcommission on finance to-day.

AN APRIL BLIZZARD.

CALGARY, April 12. A province wide snow storm has been raging in Alberta.

FOR QUIET ELECTION.

DUBLIN, April 12. The coming conference between supporters of Collins and De Valera will aim at securing a peaceful election, and will not seek the political accommodation of either party.

SPIRITS IN COMMUNICATION.

NEW YORK, April 12. Sir Conan Doyle delivered a lecture, claiming he had been receiving messages from a spiritualistic woman. Some months ago English papers contained a story of how spiritualistic fakirs had deceived Doyle and Lodge.

Former Governor Has Good Word for Colony

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—The following letter has been received from Sir Walter Davidson from Sydney, New South Wales, and as Sir Walter wishes to be remembered to all his friends I thought it would be nice for you to publish it. Yours very truly, A. H. SALTER.

April 13th 1922. (Copy.)

Government House, Sydney, N. S. W.

Dear Mr. Salter.—I have received and read from cover to cover the Nfld. Sporting Annual which you have sent me.—I love the old land; I like to recall the names in sport which I knew so well and I appreciate their skill and good sportsmanship in so many varieties of games. It is a jolly laughing portrait of Mr. Hiscock and they are excellent likenesses of Mr. LeMesurier and Mr. Higgins and Mr. Padon, as well as the Athletic lads—schools of the good old names. I Many thanks.—Remember me to all my friends.

Yours sincerely, (Sgt.) W. E. DAVIDSON, A. H. Salter, Esq., M. B. E.

HIS DIARY.

April 12th.—This morning up early and to the office. Anon to the Board of Trade, where meeting Mr. Donnelly, we fell into discourse of the seal-fishery and whether it will be a paying proposition. Mr. Goeling and Mr. Morris write in the Telegram sheet about what Mr. Bennett did say in the Parliament of them yesterday. Both very hot and they plainly in great anger. Home a little angry with my wife for minding nothing now but the singing master, having him come twice a day which is folly. At night the weather grown cold and like to rain.

Public Plan Popular Meeting.

RETRENCHMENT AND REDUCTION DEMANDED.

Last night at a meeting at which representatives of various trade and labor organizations were present, it was decided to hold a preliminary public meeting in the L. S. P. U. Hall, Duckworth Street, on Monday night next. The object of the meeting is to decide on a line of action and call out speakers to address a monster public meeting which will be held during the week in the C. L. B. Armoury. At the meeting last night a Committee was appointed to call on a number of citizens to address Monday night's meeting. Matters touching on retrenchment and reduction of taxation were discussed and also the fairest means of enforcing these reforms. The seriousness of the situation was weighed and it was felt that public spirited citizens of ability were needed to get the country over its present difficulties.

Marooned on Island.

MEN DRIFT ON KELLY'S ISLAND IN SINKING BOAT.

Since yesterday afternoon two young men of Manuels have been marooned on Kelly's Island in Conception Bay. They have no food and the Shipping Department has been asked to send assistance. The Bell Island Transportation Company have been asked to send S. S. Mary to rescue the marooned men from their desperate predicament. The two men went out yesterday in a boat which apparently sprung a leak. It appeared, as seen from the shore to be sinking and one of the men was evidently trying to bail it out. When last seen the boat was close to the shore near Kelly's Island. It is confidently believed that the men got on shore, but there is no way of getting in touch with them.

The Problem of the Blind

MR. JOHN WEIR ADDRESSES ROTARY.

The address of Mr. John Weir, delivered Tuesday, at the Green Lantern, to the members of the Rotary Club, contained an appeal that cannot be ignored by any right thinking citizen. Never were Rotarians more deeply moved than by this vivid and eloquent address dealing with the "Problem of the Blind" in Newfoundland. In pointing out the basic ideas underlying Rotary principles as exemplified in the Rotary motto "Service above self," Mr. Weir was grateful for the opportunity afforded him of presenting the case for the blind to the Rotarian members, and felt quite certain he would receive their full support. In dealing with the "Problem of the Blind," Mr. Weir placed the subject under three headings:

- (1) The Education of the Child.
- (2) Prevention of Blindness.
- (3) After care and Training of the Adult Blind.

EDUCATION OF THE CHILD.

With reference to the first, Mr. Weir said the teaching of the blind did not differ from the methods employed in educating those who can see. The curriculum of the Halifax School for the Blind did not differ greatly from that of any other school. About 25 per cent. of the graduates go into commercial life and the other 75 per cent. take up the technical and professional life. Mr. Weir stated that the Government is at present providing for twenty of our Newfoundland blind.

THE PREVENTION OF BLINDNESS.

Mr. Weir made the astounding statement that 50 per cent. of those who are blind, are needlessly blind. There was a special treatment for the eyes of new born children which were suffering from soreness, and a proper application of this treatment would have saved the sight of many. Failure to apply this treatment is punishable by law in the United States. Infectious diseases in child life cause 30 per cent. of blindness, said Mr. Weir. Public school inspection was very necessary for the prevention of such cases. Venereal diseases were responsible for 25 per cent. of blindness, half of which was hereditary and half acquired. The only cure for this was to educate the child to a knowledge and appreciation of sex hygiene as exemplified in the study of Biology. Accidents cause 15 per cent. of blindness as a result of negligence on the part of employers and others. Wood alcohol is a cause of blindness and should never be used as a beverage.

TRAINING THE BLIND.

The after care and training of the adult child was a problem in itself. Elsewhere a solution had been found. The blind Newfoundlanders, however, after graduation, was left to fend for himself, and becomes a liability rather than an asset to his country. In conclusion, Mr. Weir showed how both from a humanitarian and an economic standpoint the problem of fitting employment for the blind should be given

HER 15 YEARS SEARCH FOR HEALTH ENDED

Halifax Woman Had Spent Hundreds of Dollars in Vain Effort to Get Relief—Tanlac Fully Restored Her.

"My only regret about Tanlac is that I didn't get it sooner, because for fifteen years I hunted high and low for something to give me relief and spent hundreds of dollars on medicines and treatments that were just so much money wasted," said Mrs. F. Walker, 144 Duncan St., Halifax, N.S.

"I was in broken health for years and finally got to a point where I was on the verge of a nervous breakdown. I don't believe anybody ever had headache any worse than I did. I would suffer so that I would have to stay in bed for days at a time. My sleep was broken and restless and in the morning I felt worn out and tired."

"I was both alarmed and discouraged about my condition when I began taking Tanlac and I certainly know how to appreciate the splendid health this medicine brought me. I feel just fine now and haven't a vestige of any of my old troubles."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Dead Gold Mines.

Scattered over the Australian Continent, among barren hills and treeless gorges, the lonely prospector often discovers the greatest of industrial tragedies—the played out or deserted gold mine.

A shaft, decending a hundred, or maybe several hundred feet into the earth, is located between mountainous dumps of "tailings." These dumps of earth and rock are all that remain in the wilderness to show where some adventurous group of fortune-hunters burrowed and blasted in their quest for gold.

Often a rusty iron bucket swings from a weather-rotted wheel over the round black hole in the earth.

In many, many cases, thousands of tons of blasted reef and clay have been sent up in this bucket from below, without a "colour" of the precious metal showing among the Gargantuan heaps.

Lack of food or money often compels the abandonment of promising mines. Men who held out against heat and famine in the almost certain hope that another cross-drive in the deeper bosom of the earth would reveal gold,

ANDERSON'S,

WATER STREET ST. JOHN'S

Illustrated Book-keeper.

The earliest Indian traders in the Northwest had a curious way of keeping their account books. The trader could add and multiply, but he could not write. Instead of writing he drew pictures of the articles he sold, putting the prices after the pictures. Muskkrat skins were the medium of exchange, a "rat skin" being worth about 10 cents. For instance, a "three point blanket" was worth 40 rat skins, or $4.00. The trader also drew pictures of dollars. When a missionary came to a post the trader would have the missionary write in his book names or other words desired. Pictures being a universal language, the Indians could understand their accounts as well as the trader himself could.

Upon His Honor as Minister of the Gospel

REV. W. A. THOMPSON WRITES OF DR. R. G. KINSMAN'S HEART TABLETS.

I had heart trouble severely for fifteen years and had many doctors to treat me with no discernible effect. I had become so low that I could scarcely walk fifty steps. At night I was troubled with muttering of the heart, and by no means had a night's rest for that length of time. I had pains most excruciating and could not lie on my left side even for a moment. I tried five boxes of your Heart Tablets and can now truthfully say that I am well. I am a Minister of the Gospel and upon my word as such, I believe I could not have lived had it not been for your remedy. I am not generally speaking, willing to give testimonials, but I fully owe this or more to you as owner of the Heart Tablets.

Saloon;
Is Now a Church.

NEW HAMPSHIRE CONGREGATION
REPLACE BAR WITH PULPIT.

Prohibition has changed many a saloon into a miniature brewery, but in New Hampshire, where it made a sad record, it has become a church.

When the New Hampshire became one of England's pre-Volstead Saharas, the small building which once housed the tiny city's most pretentious saloon has been vacant.

Now the structure has been taken over by the members of the new Hampshire Congregation. A pulpit has replaced the bar, oak pews have been installed where once stood tables, and the front instead of the back door is now open every Sunday morning.

The members of the congregation have ambitious plans for their new possession. Within a few months it is expected that the building will be only a faint reminder of its former self, the idea of the church folk being to eradicate the store-like appearance of their house of worship and to make of it a more dignified and more suitable place for their activities.

In Ireland.

This is the great testing time for the people of Ireland. For the first time in centuries the control of Irish affairs, both in North and South, is virtually left entirely to Irish hands. The test now is not a test of the Government and people of Great Britain but of the Irish people. As the Right Hon. Winston Churchill said the other day in discussing the Irish situation and the terrible bitterness towards one another manifested by different groups of the Irish people: "Will they sink into a welter of anarchy and strife or will they rise hopefully and faithfully to a bright future of peace and freedom which is within their grasp? It is for them to decide. Their fate is in their own hands. We can help, we can hope, and we can cheer; but it rests with them." And then Mr. Churchill added these encouraging words, encouraging because spoken by a man whose position brings detailed, authentic information as to events and conditions in Ireland: "I vow to you this afternoon, even in this darkest hour, my very strong faith and hope that things will come right. Come right? Of course things are likely to come right. The Irish have shown such aptitude for politics in other lands that it is almost inconceivable that they will not overcome in their own land even the great difficulties which now beset them. The world will watch Ireland sympathetically and hopefully.—Sydney Record

Animal Barometers.

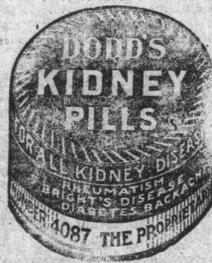

Among the recent arrivals at the Zoological Gardens, Regent's Park, London, are a number of interesting fish from Denmark. They are known as thunder fish because of their actions may be foretold the approach of storms.

The thunder fish, in its natural state lives in muddy brooks and lakes, burying itself in the mud. About twenty-four hours before a storm these fish come to the surface, and behave in a most energetic manner. Their value as weather prophets is so recognized that they are often kept confined in glass globes to act as barometers.

Another animal, a specimen of which is also to be found at the Zoo, which is believed to be a weather prophet, is the European tree frog. In many parts of Central Europe this frog is kept in a glass jar, provided with a ladder, which the animal ascends or descends, according to the atmospheric changes.

Women and the Vote.

The gingerbread is losing its gilt, for women are finding out that women have to serve in courts of law. They are not rushing to the jury-boxes with the enthusiasm with which they rush to the Oxford street sales. The law is slow and boring, and there are no bargains, only speeches. And barristers are prolix, and judges, with some bright exceptions, invariably dull. There are no butterflies, but only a wheel. As for the vote, most women who have just got it are attaching precisely the same importance to it as the men who have had it for generations. Sex equality, like self-determination, is admirable in theory, but disappointing and dangerous in practice. Neither fits in with rough, workaday world. Both doctrines were discovered by theories, launched with violence, and followed by disillusionment and disturbance.—London Morning Post.

Public Opinion Unanimous.

Messages from the outports in support of the series of Resolutions passed by the Board of Trade on Tuesday last, 4th inst., continue to be received. From the tone and tenor of them it is obvious that public opinion has good about all that it can of Government misadventure and excess. The sentiment expressed might be considered as earnest of the powerful spirit animating the people of Newfoundland, amidst present chaotic conditions. This spirit of determination is not confined to any particular section, nor to any special class. It is not political in its effort, and by political in this sense we mean partizan. On the contrary it is general, it is national, and it goes farther than is usual in circumstances of its kind, by repeating the old-fashioned but almost forgotten dogma that the people still rule. More determination has been expressed in recent messages of protest against Governmental mismanagement than in any utterance of the public for almost a quarter of a century, and the sentiment is growing daily. There is a feeling abroad that most of the misfortunes of the Colony during the past two years, have not been of the Colony's making, nor by means of the methods of doing business, but that they have been brought about by the incompetency and incapability of the rulers of the day. Such a feeling has become so widespread that there is a growing spirit of dissatisfaction which is not confined to those in trade. The people are beginning to realize that they have been exploited by their representatives for purposes of personal benefit. And this applies directly to those districts which in the last general election returned candidates of the Government in power. Yet the solitary Government daily newspaper shoots itself hoarse in loudly telling the people that they do not know what they want. The people know, only too well. It is the Government which does not know, or if any one of its members with more intelligence and perspicacity than characterize the average, accepts the demands of the people in all earnestness, he is unfortunately not in a position to assert himself or to voice his personal opinion, for the moment he does either one or the other, that moment he becomes an outcast, a political pariah. And there is not one man on the Government benches possessed of sufficient courage to take one step in the direction of championing the cause of the people. Voters are not demanding the impossible. They request only through the medium of resolutions that taxation be lowered and expenditure decreased. Not matters that require a deal of expert attention. The way is clear and if the Government during the Easter recess will make up its mind to follow the course outlined, much benefit will result to it and to the people. If the members thereof will not follow the dictates of conscience and the lines of prudence, they may all receive a rude awakening, and may be jolted into adopting a reasonable programme in a manner more expeditious than ceremonious. The temper of the populace will not stand for skrimshanking and longer.

Vacancies in Council Filled.

THREE ANGLICAN APPOINTEES.
The announcement has been made that commissions have been given Hon. J. F. Davey, Eli Dawe, and H. M. Mosdell, appointing them to seats in the Legislative Council. The Telegram in congratulating the appointees has the privilege of giving its readers the following brief biographical sketches of the new appointees.

HON. JOHN DAVEY.

The firm of J. & F. Davey is as well known for the dependable character of its principal as for the scope and excellence of its work as general contractors. It is, therefore, a great pleasure to the Telegram to congratulate Hon. John Davey on his elevation to the rank of Legislative Councillor in our local Parliament. Particular zest is added to our congratulations by the fact that while Hon. John Davey has not himself been prominently identified with local politics, his brother, the late E. H. Davey, for several years member for the District of Burin in the administration of Sir Robert Bond, and made the family name as influential and as stable in public life as John Davey and his partner have kept it in the realm of industry. The new appointee to the Legislative Council has built up a fair record for honesty and integrity during the ten years of his partnership in the firm of J. & F. Davey. He is comparatively a young man, being in his early sixties. The Telegram, therefore, anticipates for him and the country, such conduct as has characterized his career in the realm of church and of construction interests. It is an eminently pleasing thing to have the name of Davey once more prominently associated with the public life of the country on which it had such a salutary and beneficial effect heretofore.

HON. (CAPT.) ELI DAWE.

Of the three appointees just announced to the Legislative Council Capt. Eli Dawe is the veteran, both in respect to years and to public services. Born at Port de Grave in the year 1843 Capt. Dawe is a Newfoundlander who has done much for both the industries and the politics of his native land. For many years he engaged in the Labrador fishery and during his active years operations was regarded as one of the best informed pilots of the coast of the northern dependency of Newfoundland. In 1889 he made his first venture on the sea of local politics. In that year, with the late E. Whiteley as his colleague, he led what was believed to be a forlorn hope against Sir James Winter, Capt. Charles Davey and Robert Munn in the District of Harbor Grace. He came back victorious and his colleague was also elected. From that date until 1909, a period of twenty years, Capt. Eli Dawe sat in the House of Assembly as the representative of his native district, going down to defeat for the first time in 1909. During his public career, Capt. Eli Dawe filled many offices of prominence with honor to himself and signal benefit to his country. He was a member of the Railway Commission of 1899 and was Financial Secretary in 1893, under the Whiteway Administration. From 1903 to 1907 he was Minister of Agriculture & Mines and subsequently Minister of Marine Fisheries with a seat in the Executive of Sir Robert Bond. The Telegram extends congratulations to Capt. Dawe on his appointment to the Legislative Council and trusts that he will be spared for many years to enjoy his well-earned honor and to afford his country the benefit of his broad experience and years of practical connection with her public affairs.

HON. (DR.) H. M. MOSDELL.

Dr. Harris M. Mosdell, who has been honored by His Majesty the King with a seat in the Legislative Council, is a well-known local journalist. Dr. Mosdell was born at Bay Roberts in 1863 and coming of a family known as dish-killers from one end of the country to the other, engaged early in life in the staple industry on the Labrador. Then for some years, he taught school at Barened, Adam's Cove, Carbonar and Brigus. Later on he purchased the plant to Bay Roberts, moved to the plant to Bright Little weekly. The Outlook, until 1906, when he left for Canada. Arrived in Toronto, he speedily secured a situation as a reporter on the World which paper soon boosted him from position to position until he occupied the telegraph and news desks, the most important available on any metropolitan paper. During his first years in Toronto, Dr. Mosdell recognized the opportunity that city offered to him to work all day and all night of the four-year course, doing special work for The Toronto Sunday World and adding four trade magazines. At the end of the course he secured his degree in medicine with honors, standing in public health and hygiene. After his graduation, several newspapers in Canada made Dr. Mosdell an active offer to retain him as a journalist, but he decided to return to Newfoundland, and take up the practice of medicine. After taking the Newfoundland Medical Council examinations in which he secured higher marks than any candidate previously examined, Dr. Mosdell located at Bonne Bay, where he remained for two years displaying an energy and ability that gained for him hosts of friends who expressed the greatest regret when he decided to remove from the place. In 1912, Dr. Mosdell returned to the field of journalism, becoming editor of The Advocate and a year later established The Daily Mail. The Star was founded by the doctor in 1915, and took a very prominent part in the movement which boosted Sir Richard Squires to the leadership of the present government party and to the position of first minister in the land. Dr. Mosdell has had a general experience that equips him for a newspaper and legislative career. He is thoroughly familiar with this country, its people and its industries, and has an intimate acquaintance with the great cities and industrial centres of Canada and the United States. He has published several books and periodicals and his work is welcomed by the great newspapers and magazines of the American continent. A keen thinker and a clever writer, as well as a writer of high quality, he should prove a valuable acquisition to our local Upper House. The writer extends congratulations on his appointment and wishes him a long and successful career in his new office.

The Mission.

At to-night's Mission Service at St. Thomas's further reproductions of famous paintings of the masters will be shown. The pictures on Tuesday evening were of events in Our Lord's life from the Entry into Jerusalem until the Crucifixion. To-night the reproductions will deal with events between the Via Dolorosa and the Ascension. "There is a Green Hill far away" will be sung by the Rector. The subject of the address will be "Salvation" (He was lost and is found.)

Government Retrenching.

EXPERIENCING WISDOM IN TIME.
It is understood that since the House took recess for Easter, the Government have given their undivided attention to a task of formulating a retrenchment policy which, while not interfering with the work of the Public Services, will meet the needs of the situation. They have been compelled to take some action in this connection by the Press, the Opposition and the Public. The result will be swayed with interest, but meanwhile the popular agitation for reduction both ways should not cease. Promises made by Govt. heretofore have been known to be broken once the administration found itself out of danger.

Musterole acts as a prompt counter-irritant, relieving pain and congestion without blistering the skin or irritating it unduly. In handy crocks. Price 50c each.

Fire at Grand Falls.

TENEMENT BUILDING DESTROYED.
The Deputy Minister of Justice has received the following message from Magistrate Fitzgerald of Grand Falls: "A fire which started at 7 o'clock this morning totally destroyed the A. N. D. Co's tenement opposite the hospital on Water road. The building was occupied by five families, all of which escaped without injury. The origin of the fire is unknown."

An Open Letter on Railway Matters.

To R. C. Morgan, Esq., C.E., of Winnipeg, in the Dominion of Canada, and of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, City.

Dear Sir—It is clear to me that you have drawn your knowledge of local conditions, in greatest measure, from the Reid reservoir, and that no other stream has been permitted to add to the supply. In fact you state, that "the statistics on which conclusions are based are those available from the Reid records," which have not been verified. If they have not been verified, what reliance then can be placed on them, in arriving at a conclusion? If you had closely studied the Railway Contracts, you would have observed that the railway contractors were obliged, under a penalty for omission, to furnish the Government annually with sworn statistics, and those documents should be available in the department of the Government Engineer, or that of the Colonial Secretary. There is one region, above all others, where the nature of our knowledge is a matter of supreme importance; it is the region of absolute truth. If our ideas of right and wrong be not, in their measure, real; if they be owing to a molding and shaping power in us or without us, and not to the things themselves; if they do not answer truly, in their measure, to the very realities, there is nothing stable, or of prime importance attached to them. I submit, that you have not been in touch with that region of absolute truth, and consequently your ideas, deductions, and conclusions in respect to the difficulties you have been considering have been molded and shaped by partial truths only. That is not altogether your fault; it is principally the fault of those whose duty it was to acquaint you of all the facts bearing upon the enquiry you were invited to undertake. I would point out to you the way to that region of absolute truth, so that you may add to your knowledge, and perchance realize that the Railway situation in this country is not exactly as you have portrayed it, and also, that you may know that there is no parallel, no similar condition of things, with which to compare it, in a world wide range of Railway history. First, I crave your patience while I deal with your postulates—the things you have taken for granted. You assume, as the basis for your Report, that the original contract for the operating of the Reid Newfoundland Railway (1898 Contract) was entered into by the Contractor without complete knowledge of the character of the line of railway he undertook to operate, through which it runs, of the then immediate traffic possibilities, of the future possibilities of traffic, of the climatic and other difficulties to be expected in the course of operating. Now that is to assume that the contractor took a plunge in the dark, that he was blind to his own best interests; that he was either a visionary or a fool. Let me say from an intimate acquaintance with the original contractor, R. G. Reid, from the first day he arrived in this country until his exit out of it, that your assumption does him a very great injustice. He was a remarkable human, and a particularly shrewd Scotchman. He rose from the humble ranks of the mechanic, to the proud position of a wealthy Railway contractor by the exercise of great skill, will power, and keen foresight. His reputation as a railway builder, and the bulk of his wealth, was acquired before he arrived here. He did not lose either one or the other while he remained here. He built every foot of our Main Line Railway, from Harbor Grace Junction North and West. Every grade and curve on that line, he not only approved but recommended for adoption by the Government. He lived out upon the line of construction, in his private car, keeping in close touch with the work from its commencement to its finish. He knew from personal observation, and from expert examination by his employees, the character, capabilities, and possibilities of the land through which his construction proceeded. Then R. G. Reid must have known what he was about when he entered into the Railway Contract of 1898. He was not the blind or short-sighted individual you have assumed him to be. Further, in negotiating the 1898 Contract he had the assistance of the legal acumen of the late Sir Donald McMaster, K.C., and of the present Justice McLarran, of Toronto. And above all, he had the invaluable advice and counsel of the honored chief of the Railway Company with which you are identified, the present Lord Shaughnessy, who was his close personal friend, and also a partner in his Newfoundland enterprise. The ability, the keenness, the far-sightedness of that gentleman, in connection with Railway business generally, is recognized far beyond the jurisdiction of The Canadian Pacific Railway Company. I know him, and know whereof I write. Not the shrewd, canny, Scotch Railway Contractor was neither the victim of hallucination, nor the dupe of wiser men than himself. The outstanding feature in his character was faith in himself. A great and valuable asset for any man to possess. Men have done things nearly incredible through this wondrous power. But, the starting fact must not be overlooked, that these incredible things have often been irrespective of the rightness or the wrongness of the principles which were held and trusted in, by the doers of them. And so it was in the case under review. The Railway Contractor had not only faith in himself both as a builder and operator, but he considered himself powerful enough to grasp and hold direct the destiny of this country forever. If you will study the Railway Contract of 1898, your unbiased mind will readily, I am sure, perceive the truth of my assertion; you will discover that it created a Railway Sovereignty, and a subject people. If you will have reference to the Legislative Library you will find there, among the official records, a full report of the manner in which it was introduced, debated, and passed through the Legislature. You will probably be of opinion that a measure of such far-reaching importance would not have been entertained without an immediate mandate from the electors. I beg to apprise you that no mandate from the people was either sought or obtained. As soon as the electors became fully aware of the contract they condemned it, and when the Bill embodying it went, in the regular course, before the Imperial authorities, the then Secretary of State for the Colonies, the late Joseph Chamberlain, whom Gladstone in 1885 designated "a man of force, cleverness, and reflection, who does not misapprehend," and who Viscount Morley says: "had, with two exceptions, the keenest, clearest mind of all men of action I have known," wrote a despatch to the Governor of this Colony in which he characterized the Contract as "the most extraordinary abrogation of its functions by the Legislature that the world had ever seen," and regretfully found himself unable to advise Her Majesty the Queen to use her veto, as the Colony was under Responsible Government. The Times, and other leading journals of Great Britain, commented upon the measure in language expressive of amazement, and condemnation, while many Canadian and American papers featured "Carr Reid, and the island he had 'discovered'." About two years and a half after the Contract had been entered into, the Government responsible for it was defeated in the House of Assembly upon a vote of "Want of Confidence" proposed by Sir Robert Bond then leader of the Opposition Party. I would apologize for introducing that gentleman's name, but as will appear later it is absolutely necessary. I desire to avoid mentioning names, as far as possible, for I am not concerned with personalities but principles, nor do I wish to stir up the dust of controversy. (To be continued.)

IL

Bishop Explains.

WHY EDITORS GROW OLD BEFORE THEIR TIME.
In the memoirs of Bishop Sigmund Watts, auxiliary at Brixen, appears a sympathetic estimate of an editor's cares and responsibilities of which he himself had experience when he had editorial charge of the "Brixen Chronicle." "The work of a journalist is sometimes deemed as of little importance," wrote Bishop Watts. "There are those who read the newspapers only to speak in criticism and arraignance of them. It were good for such people if they would become editors for only half a year. They have no understanding of what an editor must know and do. A great responsibility attaches to the editing of a newspaper, because its influence is so widespread and important. "It is a thing of bitterness for an editor to devote care and diligence to the writing of an article only to see it ignored or censured. I understand why editors grow old in their youth and have diseases typical of their calling—heart trouble and apoplexy—as the consequence of their activities. There is hardly another kind of work which so strains the heart and the nerves as that of an editor."—Duchango.

Railway and Other Matters.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—I have read with interest, and some amusement, Mr. Morgan's Report on Railway conditions. I would like to make a few remarks from an unlearned outport man's point of view.
It is evident that Mr. Morgan espouses the cause of the Red Nfld. Co. and from his remarks and suggestions, would like to see everything coming their way. He lays particular stress on closing down the branch lines, and increasing the freight rates. He apparently takes the stand that the railway should be used expressly in the interest of the operating company; without regard to the general public, for whose benefit the roads were built. He gives a jumble of figures—probably taken at random—to justify his remarks. These figures may be convincing to those who do not understand them, but to the average man who observes them closely they have very little bearing on the subject, and to my mind are used only as a blind. He rightly says that wages and material had largely increased, but quietly remarks that raises made in passenger and freight rates, were very slight. Let me quote some of the changes in freight rates.
Flour increased from 30 to 60 cents per barrel, or 100 per cent.
Kero Oil increased from 50 to $1.50 per Cask, or 300 per cent.
Pork and Beef increased from 50 to $1.10 per Barrel, or 150 per cent.
Cod oil increased 30 to $1.60 per Cask, or 533 per cent.
Molasses increased from $2.50 to $5.00 per Puncture, or 100 per cent.
Codfish increased from 15 to 45 cents per Quintal, or 300 per cent.
Surely any man with a sense of justice, and giving an impartial statement would not call these changes small. Within the past year wages and material have decreased in value, yet freight and passenger rates are still the same.
If Mr. Morgan wants to show just cause for closing down the branch lines, let him give a convincing detailed statement of earnings and expenditure, let him advise a retrenchment policy, that could be applied to advantage. Strike a balance sheet and show that greater earnings without increased rates are impossible. Then if the adverse balance is too great for the Government to pay compatible with the utility of the road to the public; close it down, and collect from the R.N. Co. for breach of contract.

The monies of the taxpaying public of this unfortunate country are flowing in an uncessing stream into the treasury of the Red Nfld. Co. together with high passenger and freight rates, are draining the life of the people, while a very poor service is had in return. And yet this man from somewhere comes and tells us to give them more in the shape of increased subsidies and higher tariff rates.
I would have this man recommend reduction in the large salaries of Directors. Reduction in the large staff of employees in the various offices at headquarters, leaving only those who are actually required to do the work, with a fair day's pay for a fair day's work.
I would have him suggest that when cars are required at certain sections to load freight that they be sent immediately, and not left on sidings in other sections for an indefinite period, awaiting orders from some party that may require them at some future date. I would have him recommend that in the future, cars with freight for certain points are not sidetracked for weeks, without any apparent cause, while commuters are wondering what had become of their freight.
When these suggestions, and many others of like nature are carried out, then, and only then, should Mr. Morgan approach the Government with recommendations for increased tariffs and subsidies. The present condition of the country does not justify higher tariffs, and what is more the theory of high tariff, producing big revenues, has been exploded long ago. Big profits on small turnovers, cannot be had in this age. We are living in a time of small profits and quick returns; and the firm, individual, or Government who does not adhere to this policy will be left behind in the race.
The people of this country are now on the verge of ruin. The question with the great majority is to know just how to keep their families from starving. As one who has the interest of the people at heart, I call upon the Government to consider carefully the situation, and do not commit the country to any policy that may add to the burden of its people; on the recommendation of your Mr. Morgan.

Yours truly,
BONAVISTA BRANCH.

Romance of Martial Music.

Enlivened by many amusing anecdotes, and illustrated with excellent limelight views and gramophone records, Col. Mackenzie Rogan gave a delightful lecture to the members of the Anglo-French Society at Scala House on "The Romance of Martial Music."

From the earliest periods, said Col. Rogan, music and arms have been closely allied, though it was a long journey from the ram's horns used at the siege of Jericho to the delicately toned instruments of the military band of the present day. The drum was the first musical instrument, and it is regarded still by many bands as the first and foremost. Louis XIV. introduced bands in the French Army, and his example was followed by King Charles in this country. At the end of the seventeenth century Germany led the way as regards military music. A century later regimental bands had become universal, although their establishment remained voluntary on the part of the regimental officers, who had to maintain them. Under the first Napoleon the development of the military spirit in France led to a great improvement in military bands. He held that music of all the arts, had the greatest influence over the passions, and that the Legislature should give it the greatest encouragement.

UNSETTLED THE BALKANS.

Col. Rogan referred to the haphazard manner in which the organization and training of military bands was carried on up to the time of the Crimean War. In 1854 the massed bands at Scutari played the National Anthem with instruments at different pitches. The performance so unsettled the Balkans that they had never been settled since.

Looking back over the years since he joined an Army band at the age of fifteen, Colonel Rogan said he had never regretted the day he took Queen Victoria's shilling, and, if it were possible, he would gladly live the life all over again. He has served in every quarter of the Empire. The effect of the military band in maintaining the health and tone of the troops abroad, he said, is wonderful. "Regimental bands," he said, "have done more to raise the standard of musical taste in this country, in India, and the Dominions than all the orchestras put together."

POTENCY OF MILITARY MUSIC.

As evidence of the power of military music over the people, Colonel Rogan described the scenes of enthusiasm when he went with his band to Canada, and the people were moved to tears by the simple old English, Scottish, and Irish airs. They would stand up and demand the National Anthem—such was the enthusiasm of the Canadian people! "The gigantic roar of Niagara Falls," said the lecturer, as he displayed one of his own snapshots on the screen, "is the envy of every big drummer."

The martial music of the war would, he said, form the subject for a great article. "The idea of the band playing very near the firing line was to cheer them up. The idea of their playing behind the line was to blow them up."

Col. Rogan devoted the latter portion of his lecture to a description of the visit of the five bands of the Brigade of Guards to France during the war, followed by that of the Allied bands to Italy, the greatest enthusiasm being displayed in both countries. "I blush," he said, "when I think of the embraces that were bestowed on me by some of the most charming members of the Italian nation; although in some cases they were not those I should have selected if I had had my choice. Sir Alexander Mackenzie, in proposing a vote of thanks to Col. Rogan, said that military bands and organists were the two great influences in music, and the former were probably the more powerful of the two, on account of their larger audiences.—London Observer.

Rescued from a Rock.

LESS THAN 200 FEET FROM THE BRINK OF NIAGARA FALLS.

Patrolman, With Rope Fastened About Him, Makes the Rescue.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 30.—Jeffrey Wilson, of Rochester, N.Y., was rescued from a rock in Niagara River less than 200 feet from the brink of the American Falls.

Shortly after 9 o'clock to-night, employees at a trolley terminal station near the Falls heard cries for help. They investigated, and saw a form clinging to a rock near the middle of the American Upper Rapids, and about 200 feet below the Goat Island Bridge.

Police and firemen were called and efforts were made to reach the man with extension ladders, but all were too short. Several ladders with ropes attached were lowered into the water, but they lodged among the rocks before reaching Wilson.

While the firemen were working from the bridge Patrolman Charles Smith waded out into the rapids. Fastened about him was a rope which was held by Patrol Driver Chas. Radford on the bank.

About 100 feet from shore Smith was caught in the current and swept from his feet. After a struggle he regained his footing and worked his way to a rock a few feet from that to which Wilson was clinging. Smith could be seen from the shore urging Wilson to jump to his arms.

After a few minutes Wilson made the leap and the policeman caught him. The trip back to shore was a slow struggle against the swift current. William Birmingham, a fireman, had to go out part of the way to help Smith bring in the unconscious Wilson.

Wilson was unable to tell much about his experience. He said he had slipped into the water and denied that he had attempted suicide. Rivermen say he owes his life to the fact that the ice formation at the brink of the Falls has temporarily been checked.

WALY MASON

The young men are planning great courses they'll run; and I am outspanning my work nearly done; I'm glad I am aging, the angelus rung; I like not the raging we know when we're young; the fury and passion, the strivings are gone; in indolent fashion I sit on my lawn; I have no profession, I toil at no trade; I watch the procession, the human parade. I sit in the morning out here by my gate, and offer a warning to many a skate. "The road you are taking," I tell youths, "is wrong; your bones you'll be breaking in mantraps ere long. I know, for I trod it; and now that I'm old I sit here and audit its sorrows untold. At first it is pleasing and bordered with flowers, and on you go breezing through sunny hours. Alas that you follow that treacherous way! Its promise is hollow, its pleasures decay; oh, turn, I beseech you, for if you persist the bogies will reach you and slay you I wist." But little they mind me, they vote me a bore; my years are behind me, and theirs are before. All buoyant the friskers walk on in the morn; they look at my whiskers and laugh me to scorn. Some day they'll be sitting, as I'm seated now, worn out by their laming, or pushing a plow; and they will be sighing, as sinketh the sun, "We're glad that the trying and striving are done."

HOUSES! HOUSES! HOUSES!

This is the cry of the hour. Why build when you can buy much cheaper. One house at the foot of Theatre Hill, 10 rooms, with all modern improvements; Bungalow, Mundy Pond Road; houses on Blackmarsh Road, William Street, Atlantic Avenue, Pleasant Street, LeMarchant Road, Saunders Place, Freshwater Road, Merrymeeting Road, Quidi Vidi Road, Hamilton Avenue, Military Road, Allan's Square; two houses on Flower Hill, one house on Gower Street, freshhold; one large house on Rawlin's Cross.

All the above property will be sold on the very best terms in the city. Why not avail of this opportunity? Also one 45 horse power Marine Engine, only used about three days. Apply to

THOUGHTS ON A DRESS.

I have seen a dress that I love. I can't afford to buy it. I have spent more money than I should on my Spring wardrobe already. I am a reasonable human being and that ought to settle it?

And yet that dress obsesses me. It is a perfect dress from my point of view. It is my pet color. It is simple in line. It's simple, trimming is smart, effective, and artistic. It has a becoming neck instead of those difficult lines which seem contrived to show that a fapper can wear anything and get by with it and that an older woman is a fool to try to. I'd like to get at the man who invented those styles that cater to extreme youth and show the rest of us up. I know it is a man because a very young woman wouldn't be capable of would not be so cruel.

How a Tragedy Was Averted.

Sir Halford J. Mackinder, who was British high commissioner for South Russia in 1919-20, has just disclosed a dramatic incident which occurred during the pursuit of Gen. Denekin's forces by the Bolsheviks. The Allies, it will be remembered, had extended military aid to Admiral Kolchak and Gen. Denekin and Yudenich, but it failed to prevent their final defeat. At beginning of 1920, in the depth of winter, the British forces were with the White army at Tichoretakaya Junction, about 140 miles from the Black Sea; fronting them and Denekin's troops were the "Reds," then already beginning to cross the ice-bound river Don. In the rear, at Ekaterinodar, stood a number of trains containing the wives and children of Denekin's officers—unfortunates who for at least two years previously had been condemned to wander about with the anti-

Napoleon's Isle.

St. Helena, the island prison of the Emperor Napoleon, is harder hit today than at any time since the opening of the Suez Canal. This is chiefly due to the great decrease in visits by ships. The failure of the flax industry, which was started with the aid of a Government grant after the war, is another cause of the lack of prosperity. Jamestown, the capital, was a busy and rich little town forty years ago. To-day the streets are empty and the houses dilapidated. Even in the country many houses are uninhabited, while others are in ruins. The cable station is one of the few institutions which have not suffered since the beginning of the war. But the island is still able to support a weekly newspaper, the Guardian. The population of St. Helena is a curious one. Many settlers came to the island after the Great Fire of London in 1666. Others were originally slaves from Madagascar. The result is a coloured race. The majority of the men are sailors.

Bees will not live on the island, and in consequence little fruit can be cultivated.

The climate of St. Helena is very healthy, the trade winds tempering the tropic heat. Five-sixths of the island is barren to-day, owing to rapidly multiplying flocks of goats destroying the vegetation.

One of the peculiarities of St. Helena is the rollers. These are great

Billie Rhodes Superb in "The Blue Bonnet."

Billie Rhodes, the pliant ingenue star, is accorded brilliant support by screen players of repute in "The Blue Bonnet" which was seen at the Crescent yesterday. Powerful in its theme, brilliant in its enactment, "The Blue Bonnet" is the sort of photoplay that will live long in the memory of movie enthusiasts. Ruth Drake, reader as the child of strangers after being deserted by her mother in infancy, joins the Salvation Army to help American Doughboys at home and abroad, and incidentally, to be near her childhood sweetheart, who has enlisted. Her mother, following her desertion of her husband and child to take up a stage career, became a tremendous success with the aid of her shrewd manager, whom she loves. As the story progresses the interest increases, and finally comes to a brilliant climax. To-night this picture will be repeated.

Fads and Fashions.

For sports wear is the short, loose unlined coat of soft wool, gay plaided in three or more colors. Some of the newest skirts have borders of openwork, fine embroidery or lace work hung irregularly. Fine tucking in bands emphasize the long straight center panel of a cape of dolphin gray pique. An ideal costume for the golfer is a slip-on sweater of knitted silk worn with a pleated crepe skirt.

PROBABLY.
"Why do they hold Thanksgiving in late November," asked little Billy Scrooge.
"Because it probably dawned just then on the inventor of the holiday that Christmas comes but once a year," growled his father.—Farm Life.

Many spring frocks are utterly devoid of any trimming, depending wholly on cut and material to give them distinction.

C. L. B. Cadets.

Avalon Battalion paraded as usual Tuesday night under the command of the Lt. Col. R. F. Goodridge (in mufti). Most of the officers were on duty. The school was in session under Lieut. Ash (in mufti). Old Comrades were enjoying their billiard games on their new purchase, the full size English billiard table, recently acquired for their pleasure. President, Chafe and Vice President, Skiffington were there and are to be congratulated with the other officers on the progress made. They hope to build an addition to the western end of the rooms to contain a billiard and reading room. They also hope to buy from the Brigade the boats owned by the Brigade stored in the Avalon Boat Club's House at Quidi Vidi Lake. We are sorry Major R. H. Taft, M. C. Adjutant, has been ill the past few weeks. All ranks are glad to know that he is improving and that he will soon be out again. News from Bay Roberts that Captain John Dawe has organized the Ladies C. L. B. Auxiliary. The officers are Mrs. Walter Crosbie, President, Mrs. C. Charles Noel Butt, Secretary, Treasurer, with a strong committee of ladies on the Executive Committee. We wish them every good luck and feel sure they will be of great help to Bay Roberts Company. Headquarters had the pleasure of a visit from Petty Officers Pasco and Allan of H. M. S. Cambrian. They were the guests of the Old Comrades Club. P. O. Pasco is an ex C. L. B. lad from Truro, Cornwall, England. P. O. Allan is a Physical Training Instructor on board and will attend again on Thursday if in port and give the C. L. B. Athletes a few lessons. Sergt. Stone is now Orderly Sergeant in charge of Armoury Headquarters Building, and also will superintend the Old Comrades Club, and be cantonment Sergeant. Lamaline has started a C. L. B. detachment under Rev. H. Kinley with 11 recruits. We wish them every good luck and hope this new C. L. B. Baby will grow and prosper. An ex naval man has kindly offered to act as drill instructor. The paymaster has recently received a handsome check of fifty dollars from Egypt from a highly esteemed benefactor. Dr. R. B. Weatherall of Lafayette, Indiana—who was touring in the Sudan. Dr. Weatherall was visiting Nfld. last summer and was in Camp. The lads all hope he will be with them in August again, and be with them in the famous trip to Bell Island. The officer commanding thanks Doctor Weatherall for thinking of the Brigade when in far away Egypt in sending us financial help and his best wishes. The Colonel has a invitation from Headquarters, London, England, to send four lads from Newfoundland to England to visit the battlefields of Belgium with English C. L. B. Pals. Expenses after landing in England to be borne by Headquarters. The matter is now under consideration. We would like to see four of "Our Boys" enjoy this great trip if it is possible to arrange it.

Mysteries of the High Sea.

(St. John Telegraph.)
Several years ago a British brig was found drifting helplessly off the coast of Spain with all her sails set and no one on board. Her lifeboat was hanging from the davits and the small boat was in its place on the top of the forward house. Not a thing was missing. The captain's papers, the ship's manifest, even the personal effects of the officers were not disturbed. In the main cabin the table was set for breakfast, but the food had not been touched. There was nothing to indicate what had become of those on board, including the wife of the skipper. Why had they left? The brig was only two years old and sound in every way. Several men from the steamer's crew who found her were placed on board in charge of a navigating officer and she was taken to port. From that day to this no trace of the missing crew has ever been discovered. That is one of the most puzzling of all the long list of sea mysteries. The skipper and his officers were capable seamen of good character and the owners of the brig declared that the sailors were first class British seamen. There was no sign that the vessel had encountered heavy weather; she was under full sail when found and for days only a light breeze had been reported by other ships in that vicinity. The captain who found her was strongly of the opinion that the missing crew of the craft left her only a few hours before his own men went on board. That the high seas have not been robbed of all their romance and mystery is shown by the announcement by Lloyds that in 1921 nearly thirty vessels that left port for a voyage failed to arrive at their destinations. They disappeared, but no one knows what fate they met. The majority of them, it is thought, struck floating mines planted during the war and not picked up when peace came, and were blown up. It is known that several mines broke loose from their moorings and were carried by the great ocean currents into the shipping lanes. They were no doubt responsible for many of the sea mysteries of 1921, possibly for most of them. No one will ever know.

Lots of "Berries" are Misnamed.

Why is a strawberry so called? This is not a puzzle. The plain fact of the matter is that the name is not strawberry at all. Originally this fruit was called the "strawberry" from the habits its runners possess of rambling feet away from the parent plant. Gooseberry, again, has nothing to do with "goose." The bush owes its name to its long thorns, resembling those of a horse, and was originally "gooseberry."
The cranberry should really be "craneberry," because of its long slender stem and branches.
The names of most common fruits are either contractions or corruptions. Damsons, for instance, are really plums from Damascus, though quite what they have to do with that Syrian city is a little doubtful, while the so-called Mayday cherries should be "Medoc" cherries, from the part of France where they were first grown.
The greengage, also, was introduced to this country from France, and by its name recalls Lord Gage, who brought it to England.
Currants, of course, are named from their place of origin, the Greek city of Corinth, while cherries commemorate Cerasus, a town in Asia Minor.
Crab apple has nothing to do with the crab, but derives its name from the Latin word scaber, which means harsh or sour.
"Orange" and "lemon" are both, in their origin, Arabic words, while the grape fruit, which has of late years become so popular in this country, has nothing to do with the grape, but is believed to have been named after "grape shot."
The "shaddock" from which the grape fruit is derived, is a lemon-like fruit which was first brought from the East Indies to the West by a certain Captain Shaddock.
Plum and prune have exactly the same meaning, but the former is derived from Anglo-Saxon and the latter from Latin.

Just Folks
The Widow Malone and Her Life Insurance.
When I was Mrs. Pat Malone the men all passed me by. Until the sad and dreadful day my Pat had to die. With five thousand dollars now my good man left to me, I've fifty thousand charms or more the men can plainly see.
They dog my footsteps, night and day they follow me around, They'll quit their work to go with me to care for Paddy's mound. An' when I'm coming from the store there's always two or three, That's very glad to carry home my packages for me.
Says one to me the other night: "You lead a lonesome life, I wish you'd drop your widow's weeds and be my darling wife." I pointed out my children five, he smiled and said to me: "I love to have the little dears a-dancing round my knee."
Now I am fat and 45 and well I know myself. That time and all its wear and tear has put me on the shelf; To one said I: "I'm much too stout a-bushing bride to be." "You're wrong in a tidy one," he up and says to me.
The men are such a foolish lot and And they can bow and scrape to me and I will do the same; But every time I think of it, I wish that I was a tidy one."
The popular and charming belle his money's made for me.

Shackleton's Resting Place.

With a fitting regard for his wishes, it has been decided that Sir Ernest Shackleton shall be buried at the little whaling station of Grytviken, in South Georgia. There he will lie, in sight of the trackless mountains and glaciers which were the scene of his last exploit, within the sound of the Antarctic surges. It is such a resting-place as he would have chosen himself had he been able to choose, seeing that two of the quotations constantly on his lips were, "The stark and sullen solitudes that sentinel the Pole" and "I want to go back to my old gray mother."
My old gray mother, the sea!
So Stevenson was laid in Samoa, within sight of the home which he had renounced; so Capt. Scott was left lying with his last companions of snow.
