NOTE AND COMMENT

Keep your dollars at home. Why buy imported strawberries at this time of year? If you must have some thing sour enough to twist the hind leg of a dog, why not good Canadian rhubarb, sparingly sugared.

Peterboro' Examiner:—The decennial stock-taking of the Canadian people—in other words the census—begins on June 1. The importance of this collection of statistics and information it is hoped will so impress itself upon Canadians generally that there will be whole-hearted co-operation and the work of those engaged in the census will be made as light as possible.

Peterboro' Examiner:—It is of general interest to know that the special fruit committee of the Ontario Legislature is not only going to deal with the export of Ontario fruit and the development of the British market, but will also pay attention to local market conditions. There is the greatest need of an inquiry into this latter question, for in recent years the Ontario fruit crop has not been handled to the benefit of either producer or consumer—vast quantities of fruit were allowed to go to waste last year while the people of the Province were paying record prices.

Short skirts are taking the romance out of life for young girls. They now have nothing to look forward to in that dress transition time that formerly marked the age when they quit being little girls and became young women. In the old days before all the gentler sex wore short skirts one of the anticipated days in a girl's life was when she would wear her first long dress. It was parallel to the small boy becoming a young man when he put on his first long trousers. This glorious moment survives to the boy, but it is denied to the girl. She has nothing to plan for the time when she "gets big." She is wearing short dresses now, and she will be wearing them short when she reaches young womanhood. But aside from the dropping of her "pig tails" and the addition of a powder puff there is no new era for her as life develops.

CANADIAN BUSINESS IS YOUR BUSINESS

Wholesalers and retailers should promote the sale of Canadian products.

Individuals should demand Canadian products; buy only necessary articles, and seek acceptable Canadian substitutes for imported commodities.

All Canadians should help their country and themselves by patronizing Canadian goods and services.

Be fair to your own country. Correct the prejudice that is curtailing national prosperity. Canadian goods need no apology. Generally they represent better value than imported products. Many commodities of Canadian manufacture are unsurpassed in the world. If even 25 per cent. of the goods imported into Canada last year had been supplied from Canadian sources, direct employment would have been provided for some 65,000 additional workers at good wages. Including dependents, such additional business would have supported directly more than 250,000 persons. Every dollar spent in Canada on Canadian products means more money for Canadian workers, improved demand for farm and factory products, and additional business for wholesalers and retailers.

"For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism, being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief and thought I would never be able to walk again.

One day while lying in bed, I read about "Fruit-a-lives" the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me."

Sores Flee Before It.—There are many who have been afflicted with sores and have driven them away with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. All similarly troubled should lose no time in applying this splendid remedy, as there is nothing like it to be had. It is cheap, but its power is in no way expressed by its low price.

Getting entangled in a rope which was tied to an enraged cow, Alex Herries, South Malahide, was knocked over unconscious and three of his ribs broken. Leading the cow down the road, Bossie was inclined to have her own way and ran around Mr. Herries and kept going until the rope was drawn taut, when the cow gave a jump, smashed the rope and threw Mr. Herries some feet in the air. He came down with such force that he was seriously injured.

ON November 30th last, the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives was destroyed by fire.

On January 14, this year, Sir William Gage, founder of the institution—the one man who had contributed most largely to its support, and for twenty-five years the outstanding friend of needy consumptives—died.

To-day, more than ever before, poor, suffering consumptives need your assistance.

Consumptives' Emergency Million Dollar Fund

The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, destroyed by fire on November 30th last, must be replaced by buildings, larger and fireproof.

Accommodation is needed at the Muskoka Free Hospital for 400 adults in early stages of the disease. This will restore 250 of them to their homes and loved ones—cured. The remainder will be greatly benefited.

A few months for each patient soon means thousands cared for.

Funds are urgently needed for this work.

Again—adults in advanced stages must be treated at the King Edward Sanatorium, on the banks of the Humber, near Weston. Extensions are necessary. Many of these patients can be saved.

And again—little children—stricken with the dread disease—must be cared for at the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children, near Weston. Ninety per cent. of these are saved to become healthy men and women. Funds are urgently needed to cover the cost of extensions.

Further, funds are urgently needed to carry on the work of The Gage Institute in the City of Toronto, where the needy poor come for free examinations, including X-ray, and for medical and nursing assistance.

Fifteen thousand needy consumptives have been cared for to date at the hospitals conducted by the Association.

SUMMER IRONING

Summer is the season when the housewife looks forward with dread to the week's ironing. It has always meant hours in a very hot kitchen, changing irons continually on a stove that seems as hot as a blast furnace. In this respect the electric iron is one of the greatest comforts the housewife can have.

During the winter the housewife doesn't mind the heat of the stove in the room where she's ironing, but when summer comes and every breath of air is hot enough any way, she finds it most uncomfortable to stand over a hot stove any more than is absolutely necessary. When the electric iron first came into use electricity was available only in the city, and for a long time the electric iron has been a very common article in the city home. But in the last few years Delco light and power plants for the farm home have been developed to a high standard of efficiency and dependability, and the many home uses for electricity are now at the service of the farmer and his whole family. So the farm wife of today meets hot weather with the knowledge that ironing day no longer holds the terror it used to. She attaches the cord of her electric iron to a wall socket and in a minute or so she has an iron as hot as she wants. There's no watching of the fire in the stove; there's no changing of irons every few minutes; all the heat goes where it belongs, to the bottom of the iron. There's a great saving in time, comfort and efficiency.

Of course the providing of current for an iron is just one of the services rendered to the farm home by the Delco electric plant. In addition there's light, the brightest, cleanest and safest in the world, all over the house and barns, and plenty of smooth, quiet power for the pumping, churning, separating and many other farm tasks.

Cause of Asthma. No one can say with certainty exactly what causes the establishing of asthmatic conditions. Dust from the street, from flowers, from grain and various other irritants may set up a trouble impossible to be relieved except through a sure preparation such as Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Uncertainty may exist as to cause, but there can be no uncertainty regarding a remedy which has given relief to a generation of asthmatic victims of this scourge of the bronchial tubes. It is sold everywhere.

GOOD SHED FOR IMPLEMENTS.

Drainage Should Be Sufficient to Keep Machines Dry.

A servicable implement shed should be thoroughly drained so that the implements do not stand in a wet place. It must protect articles from sun, wind and moisture. It must not be too expensive. It should be situated in a convenient spot and so arranged as to be easily used. The material from which the shed is made will depend upon the cost and the locality. Very good sheds are made of wood-frame construction, covered with sheet iron. Other good ones can be made of wood-frame construction and closed in with barn siding, drop siding, or with ship-lap. Shingles, corrugated iron or patent roofing make good roofs for machine sheds.

Napoleon and the Sugar Beet.

The centennial of the death of Napoleon recalls attention to one of his most lasting but least known works of peace—the founding of the European beet sugar industry.

In the early days of the nineteenth century food conditions were precarious in France. Agriculture was at a low ebb and sugar sold for a dollar a pound. Napoleon's Berlin decree of 1806, prohibiting imports of foodstuffs, made France more dependent than ever on her own resources. Eager to alleviate the sugar shortage, Napoleon heard the claims of the theorists who maintained that the grape sugar and beet sugar were the sugars of the future. He offered prizes for the best results and set his chemists to the task of making experiments.

At first it seemed as if grape sugar would emerge the victor, but in 1811 Napoleon became convinced of the superior qualities of the beet product. Forthwith he appropriated 1,000,000 francs for six technical beet sugar schools. He prohibited imports of Indian sugars and ordered 79,000 acres to be planted with sugar beets.

Napoleon's interest in the new industry never wavered. A year later he ordered 100 students transferred from the schools of medicine, pharmacy, and chemistry to the beet sugar educational centres. At the same time he ordered the beet sowing increased to 150,000 acres. How successful was Napoleon's sugar policy may be gathered from this extract from a report of one of his Ministers in 1913:

"During this year the manufacture of sugar which is extracted from beet root will give us 7,700,700 pounds of this staple. It is prepared in 334 factories, all of which are in actual activity."

Make Year-Round Customers.

Many producers living near summer resorts supply produce in the summer months to the persons at the resorts, and during the other months of the year ship produce to these persons while they are in the city. This is one of the best methods of obtaining customers for direct marketing, as the producer and consumer have some acquaintance. In most instances the customers have been at the producer's farm and know under what conditions the articles are produced.

One man who lives near a summer resort is about twelve miles from the nearest town of any size. He does not desire to drive to this town to dispose of his farm produce and is not gratified with the prices that the hucksters pay. Consequently he built up a business of supplying products to resorters in the summer and of shipping produce by parcel post and express to these persons at their city homes in the winter.

The principal products shipped are butter, eggs, and dressed poultry. This producer used good shipping containers and packs produce attractively. As he is acquainted with his customers, he renders statements of accounts only once a month. In this way the matter of making payments is simplified for the customers.

This producer has had no trouble in establishing his business nor in retaining customers. He states that his only trouble has been in getting enough high-grade produce to supply all of his customers.

"I Feel as Tho' I Could Not Drag Thru the Day's Work" is the complaint of many a woman in the household, office or factory.

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol.

Druggists sell it in tablets or liquid, or send Doctor Pierce, at Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., 10 cents for trial package.

BARRIE, ONTARIO.—"I was suffering from a run-down system some time ago, was unfit to perform my daily duties, and was advised to try Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I tried it, took two bottles, and was restored to my natural strength. I cannot praise Doctor Pierce's medicines too highly, and will be willing to write to anyone sending a stamped envelope."

DECISION OF CORONER'S JURY

The verdict returned by the jury which under Coroner Hubbard of Foranquet investigated the fatality in Bosanquet which cost the lives of Mrs. Stanley Wilson and her two children on Sunday, May 29, is as follows:—

The decision of this jury is that Leila Barbara Wilson and her two children came to their death by drowning, caused by the overturning of their auto in the McPherson drain, about 25 rods east of the 8th Concession of Bosanquet, on the Town Line between Warwick and Bosanquet, on the afternoon of May 29. This jury is of the opinion that this drain should have been protected.

The principal witness was Stanley Wilson, who was driving the car. He stated that at the time of the accident he was proceeding slowly, not above ten miles an hour.

Four other witnesses were called. Proceedings for unstated damages may be commenced against the township in connection with the accident.

Makes Strong Annual Report:

CURRENT BUSINESS IN COUNTRY KEPT UP WELL, EVEN DURING PERIOD OF DEFLATION—PROFITS SHOW ALL DIVIDENDS COMFORTABLY EARNED—INCREASE IN CAPITAL TO $10,500,000

The annual statement of the Merchants Bank of Canada will this year attract special attention. This is the first annual statement of any of the larger banks to make its appearance since the period of drastic changes in business set in.

There will be reason for satisfaction on the part of the shareholders, inasmuch as in a quiet season earnings have been well maintained. While, as was expected, they are somewhat lower than for the previous year, they are well above the 1919 figures.

The general statement of assets and liabilities also reflects the changes that are occurring in business. It is a very satisfactory feature to note that savings deposits which represent the savings of the people, show a substantial increase. Profits last year amounted to $1,402,820 against $1,686,156 the preceding year and $1,383,569 in 1919. Added to profits in 1920 were $700,000 premium on new stock; last year $1,050,000 was added from the same source, which with previous balance at credit of profit and loss of $260,775, brought total available profits of the bank up to $2,713,595. Out of this was deducted $1,272,635 for dividends and bonds, $96,585 for circulation tax, and $1,050,000—the premium on the new stock—for reserve fund, leaving a balance for carrying forward of $293,375.

A comparison of the profit and loss account for three years follows:

	1921	1920	1919
Profits	1,402,820	1,686,156	1,383,569
Premium on new stock	1,050,000	700,000	—
Previous balance	260,775	574,043	437,974
	2,713,595	2,960,199	1,821,543
Less:—
Dividends, etc.	1,272,635	1,068,285	805,000
Circulation Tax	96,585	81,140	70,000
Bank prem	150,000	150,000	372,500
Reserve Fund	1,050,000	1,400,000	—
Total ded	2,420,220	2,699,425	1,247,500
Balance brought forward	239,375	260,774	574,043

The bank's liabilities to shareholders amount to $20,356,564 against $17,133,160 the preceding year, and its liabilities to the public amount to $169,717,470 against $179,988,921 the preceding year.

The latter change is made up of a decrease in non-interest bearing deposits of nearly 17 millions, an increase in savings deposits of nearly seven millions, an increase of balances due other Canadian banks of about two millions, a decrease of $320,000 in balances due foreign banks, bills payable of $142,907 against none the preceding year, a decline of $1,400,000 in acceptances under letters of credit and a satisfactory decline in note circulation.

Among the bank's assets, current coin shows little change, deposits in central gold reserve, cheques on other banks, balances due by other banks, and call loans outside Canada are lower. Increases are shown in call loans in Canada, and Dominion notes.

Among the security assets an increase is shown in Dominion and provincial government securities of about 3 1/2 millions and in railway and other bonds, debentures and other stocks, of a half million, and a small decline is shown in Canadian municipal securities, and British, foreign and colonial securities, other than Canadian.

Total assets show at $190,367,409 against $197,387,855 in 1919, a decline of $7,020,446 or 3 1/2 per cent. Time deposits now amount to $120,504,549. Current loans and discounts total $109,183,592 against $113,198,913. The moderate decline in total deposits and total assets reflects the withdrawals of temporary government funds held the preceding year.

A Song at Twilight

(By Elizabeth Moore Joyce.)

The old violinist was a failure and he knew it. But for all that he smiled contentedly as he held his violin close and went on toward home. True his home was an attic and his living precarious, but he always had enough to eat and to wear and he wanted little else.

What if he did lack wealth? There were compensations. He had friends everywhere. The patrons of the places where he played always had a kind word for him. His brother musicians admired him without envy though sometimes they sighed because a man with such rare talent should have had so little ambition.

And the children—all the children in the parks and by-ways through which he passed knew him and loved him, thronging around him whenever he came by and begging him for "a tune."

So the years had passed while the old man's step grew slower and his hair whiter; but his face, for all the added lines, grew ever sweeter and nobler from his kind thoughts and his gentle life.

One day his face wore an anxious look as he left the park through which he had to pass each day. There was a golden-haired girl who frequently walked there with her lover and to-day she was alone. She nodded kindly to the old musician as usual but he noticed that her face was pale and that she did not linger just at the edge of the park he met the young man who was usually with her, a dark-eyed, impulsive boy like he himself, had once been. His face, too, was pale but he held his head up proudly and defiantly. The girl had gone by the time the youth strode up and he, too, refused to linger but held his head still higher as he went away.

The old man shook his head and sighed. How little these foolish young things seemed to appreciate that youth and love were the two best things in life!

Day after day passed and the lovers did not appear again. Once he was sure he caught sight of the young man beside the fountain, but he was gone when he reached it. Again he was sure the girl went by at a distance, but she did not stop.

"Oh, the pity of it all!" sighed the old man as he went on to his attic home.

There were few interests in his life these days and more and more his thoughts turned to the lovers. He began to loiter in the park when he was at liberty.

One day toward twilight he passed through the park on his way from a concert. Some children ran to meet him, begging for music and he sat down on a bench and took out his violin obligingly. Dance after dance he played while the little feet kept step.

While he was playing the golden-haired girl came by once more. The old happy smile was there no longer but when she saw him and the merry children she stopped and her face softened sympathetically.

The old man's music grew less gay as one by one the little folks were taken home. Soft snatches from the old masters he played now for the girl who lingered near. He wanted to hold her there for he knew well how a sad heart loves to linger near the scene of past happiness. He knew, too, that there was another sad heart that might be near and he played on.

The children had all gone at last and now only the girl lingered. Up at the fountain the old man's dim eyes caught sight of a strong young figure he had seen before. This was what he had been waiting for and he smiled confidently, sure of his own power, and bent his face down close to his loved violin.

A soft prelude came through the twilight stillness and gradually merged into an old-time favorite he had always loved.

"Love's Old Sweet Song" he played as few others could play it.

"Just a song at twilight,
When the lights are low,
And the flickering shadows
Softly come and go.
Though the heart be weary,
Sad the day and long,
Still to us at twilight
Comes love's sweet song,
Comes love's old sweet song."

The girl's head dropped and her eyes filled, just as the old violinist meant they should. The figure at the fountain, too, moved uneasily and the proud head lowered, just as the musician desired.

He played on through the second stanza, putting into his music all the longing that he was capable of expressing for the best things of life, that he, himself had missed.

Presently the girl's head dropped to the back of the bench where she sat and she wept unrestrainedly. A moment later the proud young fellow was bending over her, once more all tenderness and devotion.

From where he sat the old man saw the mutual surrender and he finished the song softly and put away the violin. He nodded brightly to the young couple as he passed them on his way home but the girl rose impulsively and, unfastening a bunch of violets she wore, held them out to him.

"Please take them," she said smiling through her tears. "Your music has made me very happy—both of us very happy."

Up in his attic the old violinist placed the violets in a vase before the picture of another golden-haired girl—one who had never grown old, like he had.

"Not quite a failure, after all, Marie," he said softly to the picture, "though not what I wanted to be and might have been with your love to inspire me. But soon, soon, now, my sweetheart, you and I shall be together again and know 'Love's Old Sweet Song' forever."

Standard-bred Poultry.

Here are five reasons given by specialists for keeping standard-bred poultry:

Standard-bred poultry is more uniform in size, type and color.

Standard-bred poultry is more attractive in appearance and appeals more strongly to purchasers of stock and eggs.

Standard-bred poultry offers a greater combination of practical and useful qualities suitable to the needs of the farmer and poultry keeper.

The products of standard-bred fowls are more uniform in quality, are in greater demand, and bring better prices.

Standard-bred poultry means greater success and better profits.

Sunflowers vs. Corn.

Generally speaking, sunflowers outyield corn, according to observations made by the Dominion Experimental Farms' System, in such sections where on account of scant rainfall or cool seasons the latter cannot be grown successfully. In sections where corn is grown to advantage, sunflowers may also outyield the latter. Thus, an acre of sunflowers grown at Ottawa last year yielded about 30 tons while the best corn variety only gave 20 tons to the acre.

A well kept diary is one of the most interesting and valuable volumes in the farmer's library.

This paint film is less than 1/100 of an inch thick. What does that mean to you?

When you stop to realize that a two-coat film of paint is less than 1-100 of an inch in thickness, and that this thin film stands between your house and the weather, you can see the vitalness of buying the right kind of paint.

Lowe Brothers High Standard Paint forms a tougher film than any other paint we know of. It is elastic. It will not crack with the weather's changes. It is both weatherproof and waterproof.

It costs a little more than most paints, but it always covers more surface, therefore less paint is required and you actually save money at the very start. This fact, coupled with its long lastingness, makes it really an investment paint.

If you want to prevent future trouble, come in and talk over your paint problems with us.

THIS WOMAN'S RECOVERY

Shows Remarkable Restorative Power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Chesley, Ont.—"Before using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a total wreck. I had terrible pains in my sides and was not regular. Finally I got so weak I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest half way up the steps. I tried two doctors but they did me no good. I saw your medicine advertised in the newspapers and thought I would give it a trial. I took four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and was restored to health. I am married, am the mother of two children, and do all my housework, milk eight cows, and do a hired man's work and enjoy the best of health. I also found Vegetable Compound a great help for my weak back before my babies were born. I recommend it to all my friends who are in need of medicine, and you may print this letter if you wish."

Mrs. HENRY JANKE, R. R. No. 4, Chesley, Ontario.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

MODERN FARM FENCES

EFFICIENCY DEPENDS ON THOROUGH CONSTRUCTION.

Old Style Rails or Stones Occupied Too Much Ground Space, and Also Gave Protection to Weeds Which Flourished in Sheltered Places—Changes Have Come About Which Improve Farms.

Skill in splitting rails is no longer considered a necessary accomplishment on farms of this country that are worth while from the standpoint of production. No longer need the farm laborer, in order to secure a position and hold it, be an adept with the axe, and, so far as fence building is concerned his employer would greatly prefer to find him handy with the spade, crowbar and wire-stretcher. No activity common to farming has undergone so great changes within the past fifty years as has that of fencing, and the progress made in this branch has been as important as that made in any other. The chief advantage of the modern farm fence as compared with the kinds in use years ago is the saving of acreage; it is responsible for. Next in importance is the advantage it gives the farmer in his fight against weeds.

Our pioneer farmers deserve all credit for the splendid use they made of the raw material they found ready to hand when they cleared the land. Their immediate successors also did good work in utilizing surplus stones, that were a menace to agricultural machinery, in building fences to protect their crops from farm live stock. Later, barbed wire ably served its turn as fencing material, and is still found desirable for use in some circumstances. Hedges, as utility farm fences, were never in great favor in Canada, and now, hedges and the other forms of fence above mentioned are giving way in favor of the woven-wire fence, which is at once a safeguard for and against stock, a labor saver and an acreage saver.

The farmer usually finds to-day that woven-wire fence will best serve his ends for new construction, and at the same time, at least, barbed wire is used on large stock ranges where the loss of one or two animals through wire fencing is not serious, but for the farmer with fine horses, or a selected herd of cattle, large mesh woven-wire fences are coming more into use.

The manner in which the fence is erected has much to do with its services. The ends and corners are by far the most important elements of a fence. It is essential that they remain firm and solid in order to hold the fence rigid. The first thing to consider is placing the corners. The post used should be large enough to give sufficient strength—they should be set deep enough to prevent heaving by the action of frost; they should be braced from each direction of tension by a stout rail about 12 feet long, preferably inserted in a mortise or notch of the post, and firmly footed with a small post.

Metal and concrete posts are on the market, but a great many farmers cling to wooden ones. The line posts should be approximately four inches in diameter. Various woods are used, including osage orange, locust, red cedar, mulberry, and burr oak. They should be thoroughly seasoned and the bark removed, and to get the longest life should be dipped in creosote at a temperature of about 220 degrees, long enough for the preservative to penetrate the wood. These posts are best set in the spring after the frost is out and when the ground is soft. On level ground they may be driven with a maul, but in depressions should be anchored down by 2 by 4 cross pieces spiked on the bottom of the post before setting. The distance between posts depends on the location of the fence and the number and kinds of stock to be turned, the average in field fences being about twenty feet.

To construct a woven-wire fence properly it is necessary to have a woven-wire stretcher, a single-wire stretcher to be used in attaching the fence to the end posts, a pair of wire cutters, a barbed-wire stretcher, a splicing tool, and hammers for stapling and fastening the wire. Barbed and woven wire may be unrolled by attaching the reel to the back of a wagon or by running a bar through the core and drawing it along with a horse.

After the wire unrolled it should be drawn up to the line of posts and freed from adhering trash. The stretchers are then attached and the line wires drawn until they are so taut that they can just be pressed together. Some slack may be allowed for uneven ground. In fastening the wire on the posts the line wire should be kept as nearly horizontal as possible and allowed to follow small irregularities in the ground. The staples should permit horizontal movement of the wire, allowing the weight of the fence to come directly on the corner posts, thus taking care of contraction and expansion due to weather conditions. A woven-wire fence is not complete without a strand of barbed wire above it; this prevents the stock from reaching over and crowding it down.

METHODISTS THANK ORANGEMEN

A resolution of appreciation of the efforts of the Loyal Orange Association for its stand and victory in the Despatie-Tremblay divorce case, was passed by unanimous vote at the general ministerial session of the London Methodist Conference. The resolution was moved by Rev. C. G. Caine, of Cottam, and seconded by Reuban Harding, a layman in attendance. It was received with applause by the delegates present.

The resolution follows: "That we, the members of the London Conference, now assembled, wish to place ourselves on record as appreciating the efforts put forth, and the results obtained in the Dominion of Canada, in which every Protestant minister is recognized as a duly authorized person to perform the marriage ceremony, and that no church or dignitary has power to annul the same."

"And, whereas, the results obtained are primarily due to the efforts of the Loyal Orange Association, which at great expense carried to the supreme court of the realm, the Tremblay marriage case, we hereby express our high appreciation of the results obtained, and would tender our thanks for the same to the association, and the right worshipful grand master of British America H. C. Hocken, M.P., of Toronto.

A DESIRE TO EAT WHAT YOU WANT

Stomachs Can be Restored to a Healthy Condition.

Not to be limited in diet, but to eat whatever he pleases is the dream of every dyspeptic. No one can honestly promise to restore any stomach to this happy condition, because all people cannot eat the same things with equally satisfactory results. But it is possible to so tone up the digestive organs that a pleasing diet may be selected from articles of food that cause no discomfort.

When the stomach lacks tone there is no quicker way to restore it than to build up the blood. Good digestion without rich, red blood is impossible, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer the best way to enrich the blood. For this reason these pills are especially good in stomach trouble attended by thin blood, and in attacks of nervous dyspepsia. Proof of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of indigestion is given by Mr. John A. McDonald, Tarbot, N.S., who says:

"Every sufferer from indigestion has my heartfelt sympathy, as I was once myself a bond slave to it. Eating at all became a trial, and as time went on I became a mere skeleton of my former self. I took all sorts of recommended medicines, doctors' and advertised, but to no avail. Then a friend said to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got a box and I thought before they were done I could feel a change. Then I got six boxes more, and by the time they were used I was eating my meals with regularity and enjoyment. My general health is now good, and it is no wonder that I am an enthusiastic advocate of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can procure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or they will be sent to you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
