U. S. ELECTIONS.

Massachusetts Still Adheres to Republican Principles.

Woman Suffrage Question Snowed
Under in Nearly Every Town.

New York City Goes Democratic, But the State is Carried by the Republicans.

Boston, Nov. 5.—The political battle of 1895 in Massachusetts is over.
The ballots have been counted and the result is as pleasing to the republicans and as disheartening to the democratic party. The question from the first was one of majority since the democratic leader admitted the same election of Governor Greenhalge. How strong his endorsement would be was
the point upon which the two parties differed. The results show that the claims of the republicans made prior to the election were well grounded.
The election was carried by the republican ticket is endorsed by a plurality practically the same as that of 1894. The legislative department of the government is also solidly republican, 33 of the 40 senators elected being of that political belief. This is a slight gain for the democratic party, the senate last year having stood 36 republican to 4 democrats. In the house of representatives the republicans have practically the same majority as last year, which was an overwhelming one. The governor's council will contain but one democratic advisor in the executive chamber. In brief the result is a clean sweep for the republican party in the state, it having suffered in no material way from the supposed defection caused by the A. P. A. movement. The ticket elected:

Gov. F. T. Greenhalge of Lowell,
rep.; Lieut. Gov. Roger Wolcott of Boston, rep.; Sec. Wm. M. Olin of Boston, dem.; treasurer, Edw. P.
Shaw of Newburyport, rep.; auditor,
Jno. W. Kimball of Fitchburg, rep.;
attorney general, Hesp. M. Knowlton of New Bedford, rep.; congress, 60th
district, Wm. H. Moody of Haverhill, rep.; congress, 61st district, N. F.
Ryder of Middleboro, rep.; second district, B. S. Lovell of Weymouth, rep.; third district, F. H. Raymond of Somerville, rep.; fourth district, John H. Sullivan of Boston, dem.; fifth district, B. F. Southwick of Peabody, rep.; sixth district, John M. Harlow
of Woburn, rep.; seventh district,
Chas. E. Stevens of Ware, rep.; eighth district, Chas. A. Towne of Orange, rep.

Boston, Nov. 6.—The city of Boston
gives Greenhalge 30,785; Williams, 33, 287. The same precincts last year gave Greenhalge 30,951; Williams, 33,145,
a gain of 755 for Greenhalge.

New York, Nov. 5.—The republicans have carried New York state above
the Harlem for the head of the state ticket by a plurality clearly estimated at 100,000. The democrats have carried New York city by a plurality of 40,000 for the head of the state ticket,
and have carried Brooklyn by 6,000,
giving the state to the republicans by
probably 54,000, showing a net republican gain over the election of two years ago of nearly 30,000.

Albany, N.Y., Nov. 5.—The state officers elected two years ago by the republicans have been re-elected, and the two branches of the legislature
remain as before under the direction
of the republicans.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 5.—Mayor Pingree is elected for his fourth term by upwards of 10,000 plurality over Goldwater, democrat. His majority is over 5,000 greater than two years ago.

Mississippi, Nov. 5.—North Carolina and Kentucky remain democratic, the latter by a close majority.

Boston, Nov. 6.—The most remarkable republican victories were in Maryland and Kentucky, where a democratic defeat has hitherto been unheard of. In Maryland, Lowdres, republican, is elected governor by 17,000
plurality. The forces led by United States Senator Gorman were complet-ly routed, Gorman even failing to carry his own town of Laurel, where he has lived from his boyhood days.
His defeat created great surprise in Washington circles.

The latest returns from New Jersey
indicate the election of Griggs, republican, as governor by a majority of 25,000. This is a republican landslide, as the present governor is democratic.

The senate will be 13 republicans and three democrats. The assembly 42 republicans and 15 democrats.

Nebraska went republican by 25,000,
and Drake, republican, has been elected governor of Iowa by over 80,000 plurality.

The republican plurality in Pennsylvania is 161,914 for Haywood for state
treasurer, according to later returns.

Although returns from Ohio are still incomplete, the republican plurality
for Bussell for governor will exceed 100,000.

Virginia went democratic by a great reduced majority. McLaurin, democrat, was elected governor of Mississippi by 50,000 plurality.

to the Evening Post from Harrisburg, Ky., says Gen. Hardin, who is a brother's home in this city, concedes Bradley's election and returns received. He takes his defeat cheerfully and says he did his duty. It is probable that he will open a law office in Louisville, Frankfort or Lexington.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6.—A special to the Evening Post from Lancaster, Ky., says: Col. Bradley is receiving congratulations from all over the state
this morning. At three o'clock he resented himself to the Evening Post
correspondent as certain of election with 15,000 majority. This estimate is received from a message to Chairman
Hunter of the republican committee,
Baltimore, Nov. 6.—The people of Maryland have recovered from the surprise caused by yesterday's political avalanche, and are beginning to inquire how it happened and what the result of it is going to be. Congressman George L. Wellton, chairman of the republican state committee,
sums it up in a few words as follows:

"The people of Maryland are tired of German and Germanism and Rasin-
ism, and have backed their sentiments
with their ballots.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 6.—"If W. O.
Bradley is elected governor of Kentucky," said John C. New, proprietor of the Indianapolis Journal, this afternoon, "it will probably make him the republican nominee for vice-president next year."

Kansas City, Nov. 6.—Kansas returns today show that the republicans
made practically a clean sweep of the state, carrying a majority of counties
and electing many of the officers of the state.

London, Nov. 6.—The Post (conservative) will say in an editorial tomorrow of the election in the United States: "The general result confirms the opinion that the reaction against the democrats, which was so conspicuous last November, is still in operation. The democratic success in New York city
was truly remarkable, and was undoubtedly partly due to the intolerance of the reforming party."

London, Nov. 7.—The Daily News (liberal) says of the result in the United States: "The elections are so markedly in favor of the republicans
that the presidential seat is all but safe for the next year. The Tammany success in New York city is of no
real importance and will not stop the reformers."

The Chicago (liberal) says: "It is quite clear that there is no real re-actional revival. We regret, but are not surprised, at the victory of Tammany
in New York. It carries an important lesson for our too extreme temperance friends."

THE DUKE AND DUCHESS.

They are Spending the Afternoon
at W. K. Vanderbilt's Residence, Idle Hour.

New York, Nov. 7.—The Duke
of Marlborough and his bride, the duchess, are still at Idle Hour, the country
residence of William K. Vanderbilt,
the bride's father, at Oakdale, L. I.
This morning the country folk from the surrounding villages in large numbers came on foot, on wheel and in vehicles, and passed along the road in front of the Vanderbilt villa, with the hope of getting a glimpse at the couple.

The duke and his bride apparently
took a light breakfast, and the duke
then appeared for a few minutes on the veranda.

The duke's private secretary met
all comers and informed them that the duke and duchess had come to Idle Hour to rest, and would remain
as quiet as possible during their short stay. The secretary said he did not know who had been invited to come to Idle Hour aside from William K.
Vanderbilt, the bride's father.

The prominent persons having summer residences near Idle Hour are: W.
Bayard Cutting, F. G. Borne, S. E.
Roberts and R. P. Cutting. The wedding chamber is in the second floor of the house, and is elegantly appointed. It is the room formerly occupied by the bride's father and mother. The duke and duchess, it is announced, will remain at Idle Hour
for one week. Then they will start either on a southern trip or for Europe.

W. E. BURNETT MISSING.

William H. Burnett, who came on from Colorado to visit his relatives at Central Norton, Kings Co., disappeared about ten days before the opening of the St. John exhibition, and his brothers are now extremely anxious to obtain some intelligence of his whereabouts, alive or dead, as they fear some terrible calamity has befallen him. He did not return to Colorado, as several letters have recently been sent to hand addressed to him
by his children. When he left Norton,
he told his brothers that he intended to go to Woodstock, but would not be absent over ten days or thereabouts.

He was driven across country by one of his brothers to Edwin Wilson's on the St. John river at Wickham, Queens Co., presumably to take a steambat
there for Fredericton. Since then no trace of him can be found. Whether he left the place, and if so by what route, has not yet come to light, although his brothers and others wrote to friends in Wickham, who replied that they could find no clue to his whereabouts. Letters to Woodstock have elicited equally alarming replies. Mr. Burnett was about 5 ft.
7 or 8 inches in height, quite stout, of dark complexion, with greyish hair,
moustache and chin whisker and somewhat bald. He wore a suit of dark clothes, a dark overcoat and a hark felt hat. At the time he left Norton he had about two hundred dollars on his person.

Any information as to his whereabouts will be thankfully received by John J. Burnett, Central Norton,
Kings Co., N. B.

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

By the Women's Christian Temperance Union of St. John.

Trust the people—the wise and the ignorant,
the good and the bad—with the gravest
questions, and in the end you educate the race.

The W. C. T. U. convention of St.
John county will be held Tuesday,
Nov. 19th, in the parlor on Canterbury
street, St. John, at three o'clock sharp.
A good programme has been prepared and a large attendance is desired. The ladies who promised papers for the convention that was to be held in August, but which it was thought desirable to postpone, will read them at this meeting without further invitation from the county superintendent. There will be a public meeting in the evening, for which the visiting members are invited to remain.

Today (Friday, Nov. 8th) is the day
set apart by the St. John W. C. T. U.
as Yountans' Band crusade day, as the one suggested in the crusade letter sent out by the president, altho
the corresponding secretary of the N. B.
unions was not convenient. We hope soon to hear that those who undertook
the work of securing signatures to the pledge cards have been most successful. It is a good idea to have our banners all ready to pin on, as the don-ing the ribbon not only causes the new member to understand that she belongs to the White Ribbon army, but affords the crusader opportunity for speaking of the importance of always wearing the white ribbon. As it will be impossible for the county superintendent to visit today, she with a Yountans' band worker visited Silver Pails on Wednesday and secured the names of four ladies who are willing to become identified with the W. C.
T. U. work, and we were encouraged to believe that more would follow.
We also received from the Methodist minister on that circuit, and from a number of the ladies, a cordial invitation to cooperate with the W. C. T. U.
to go out and unite with them in a social temperance meeting. This we propose to do at an early date. We hope soon to have a large number of Yountans' band members, not only in St. John, but in other neighboring districts, and that we may not only meet them at such gatherings as that spoken of above, but in our own W.
C. T. U. local and convention meetings,
where they will be entitled to all the privileges and honors of the organization of voting. The afternoons are now so short that it was impossible to see every one desired on Wednesday. We shall hope for success at our evening meetings. The pledge cards read as follows:

YOUNTANS' W. C. T. U. BAND.
Motto—"If God be for us who can be against us?"

I HEREBY Promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt beverages, including beer, wine and cider as well as from the use of tobacco and means
to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

Name.....
Rules—Each member shall pay an annual fee of twenty cents to the St. John County Superintendent for the benefit of the general treasury.

Each member shall wear the White Ribbon, and pray daily, at noon, if possible, for God's blessing on her and on others.

"Wait on thy God continually."
In spite of the enthusiastic press reported by the Standard of the W. C.
T. U. of St. John concerning Mr. Heotor the society hesitated some time before deciding to engage his services
for five addresses, as the expenses for so long a time would be large. We are glad to announce that the lectures were a success in every way. They certainly were successful financially,
and we cannot but believe that the truths he uttered may reach the hearts
of many and be productive of good.
The proceeds were as follows:

Georgetown street church, Sunday morning, 4:30 to 6:00 P. M. $5.00
Institute, Sunday afternoon, 4:30 to 6:00 P. M. 47.89
Institute, Monday evening, 7:30 to 9:00 P. M. 94.14
Institute, Tuesday evening, 7:30 to 9:00 P. M. 97.87
Institute, Wednesday evening, 7:30 to 9:00 P. M. 49.78
Total.....$224.68

After paying expenses the balance,
$170, is to be devoted to the Little Girls' home on Brussels street. We take this opportunity of thanking the members and friends who by occupying the chair, by their presence on the platform, and the announcements of our meetings so kindly aided us. We are also indebted to the press for local
and excellent reports of our meetings,
and to the various churches, the German street, Centenary and Carmarthen
street churches.

The eighteenth annual convention of Ontario, which met in Hamilton last week, was attended by about 200 delegates. The officers elected were:

President, Mrs. May R. Thornley,
London.
Vice-president, Mrs. Annie O. Ruthford, Toronto.
Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary
Wiley, Richmond Hill.
Recording secretary, Miss Ella Cos-
ford, London.
Treasurer, Miss Jennie MacArthur,
London.

In order to give the readers of this column, who have not seen it elsewhere,
some idea of the work accomplished
by our sister province, I take the following from the voluminous report presented by the corresponding secretary:

Two hundred and two unions had reported, having 4,801 active members and 838
honorary members. There have been 2,200
new members since the last year. There are 88 bands of Hope, and the enrollment of children connected with this organization was 24,325. The amount of money received during the year was $56,119.
The work of the year was distributed during the year
pages of W. C. T. U. literature. Fifteen thousand unions were organized during the year.

The treasurer also reports:
The union after the year's work with a balance on hand of $52,950. The receipts during the year were $1,774.27, leaving a balance on hand at the end of the year
of $54,724.27.

To get an idea of the work done by the women of Ontario it can be noticed that the statistics of that province

outnumber those of our maritime provinces by 137, and that half as many new unions were organized during the year as there now are in Nova Scotia.
The work is carried on by five officers,
while the maritime had nine.

The receipts of the maritime union
for 1894 were $318.53; expenses, $455.35;
balance, $863.18.
We must look well to our laurels or
we will be nowhere in the race.

THE CANADIAN WEST.

The Trial of Engineer Farr, Who is Charged With Arson and Murder.

Winnipeg Clearing House Returns—Trouble
in the 90th Battalion.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 7.—The assizes
court today was again occupied with
the case of the engineer, William Farr, charged with attempted arson and murder. The line of the defence seems to be that Miss Robinson, to whom Farr had engaged himself, was the guilty party of attempting to burn up
Farr's wife and family.

The charge against Farr, the fourteen year old son of A. Birle, jeweller, was instantly killed today in the collapse of a barn.

Gov. Patterson left Winnipeg yesterday in a private car for a tour of the province. Senator Kivchoffer of Brandon accompanies him.

Deliveries in the province are freer
than they have been for some time.
There is no difficulty about securing crops for loading and the elevators are getting rid of their excess in stock.
The price paid today is 42 cents.

The returns of the Winnipeg clearing house for the week ending today
show the heaviest work since the establishment of the clearing house
here, there being an increase of $700, 000 for the six days as compared with the same period last year. The figures
this week were, clearances, $2,351,555;
balances, $624,559.

There is trouble in the 90th Battalion here. The men have never received their money, but it has been retained by the officers for a regimental fund. The men claim that they cannot get an accounting and demand an investigation. The officers say they invite inquiry.

Mr. Richardson, editor of the Tribune, against Mr. Beaton, a well known local journalist, who attacked him in an article headed, "A Manufacturer of News," was thrown out of court last night by the grand jury. The alleged libellous article had been published, had made an apology, and this,
it is said, the grand jury, considered
insufficient, where the greatest libel
has been committed, however, there was considerable surprise.

Rapid City, Nov. 7.—E. Gardner's hardware store was completely destroyed by fire tonight. The second story of the building was occupied by the Salvation Army and county court clerk. All county court records destroyed. The building was owned by J. M. Hall. The building and stock were insured.

HOLMES' PARENTS.

Are Told of the Fate That Awaits
Their Son in Philadelphia.

New York, Nov. 4.—A special to a local paper from Boston says: Over hills and precipitous paths, a correspondent drove to the early home of E. H. Holmes, the convicted murderer, to give to his anxious family as tenderly as possible the news of the trial of his son in Philadelphia.

"Old Mr. Mudgett answered the knock on the door. He led me into the parlor, where his own wife and convicted son's first wife were sitting.
Mrs. Holmes looked haggard and careworn. I have brought news to you about the result of the trial of Herman, will you permit me to tell you about it?"

"He is discharged, I suppose," said Holmes' mother, "but they won't let him go free. They will take him for something else now," she added.

"He is free, I suppose," said old Mr.
Mudgett. "I wish to ask you, my friends, to prepare yourselves for the worst," I answered, Holmes' wife became pale. She closed her eyes and lay down on the lounge, seemingly in great agony and almost hysterical.
Mr. Mudgett simply mumbled to himself, as if absolutely overwhelmed by his great sorrow. Old Mrs. Mudgett at length said: "The newspapers have done us great injustice in this awful outrage. I want you to say that your Herman left us, some six years ago,
he was the cleanest youth in town.
We are not responsible for his conduct
now."

"I think," said his wife, "he must be out of his mind."
The elder Mudgett was now shedding tears. Holmes' mother maintained to the appearance of a stoical
indifference, while her daughter-in-law appeared childishly simple. The reporter took dinner at Morrison's, in Tilton, with Holmes' fourteen-year-old son Robert. The young man was ignorant of the verdict. "Robert,"
said after dinner, "you might as well
learn now that your father has been found guilty of murder."

Robert said nothing, but hung his head and shed tears copiously. "Oh,
my poor papa," he said, "do you think
he will hang him?"
"The scene was pitiful and pathetic
in the extreme."

On Wednesday afternoon at Charlotestown, in the residence of Rev. D.
Sutherland, occurred the marriage of
E. T. Carbonell, editor of the Prince Edward Islander, and Miss Catherine McDougal, daughter of Captain Nell McDougal. The groom was supported by Harry Jenning, while Miss Ina
Carbonell acted as bridesmaid—

SUICIDE AT SEA.

A Sailor on the Bark Nellie Troop
Wearies of a Long Voyage.

Two Hundred and Nine Days From Manilla—
Spent a Whole Month in Doubling
the Cape of Good Hope.

New York, Nov. 5.—A remarkable passage like that of the St. John bark Nellie Troop is seldom chronicled in maritime lore. Just 209 days ago today
the vessel left Manila, the Philippine Islands, with a cargo of hemp and sugar, consigned to Rall Bros. of this city. Her agents, J. W. Parker & Co., of Beaver and Broad streets, reported
the vessel several weeks ago to be making a long passage. She came to port today with a crew as disgusted
with seafaring as any of recent years.
Captain Young is the commander of the vessel, and he had his wife and two children with him on the trip.
Good luck attended the efforts of the
bark at the beginning of the passage,
and it was not until the cape of Good Hope showed ahead that trials and tribulations assailed the sailor.

First it was a calm, in which the bark lay for five days like an iceberg
calmed on a motionless sea of green;
then it was a snow storm, which filled
the deck with myriads of flakes and
ices, and finally the climax arrived,
when a hurricane, fierce as it was long in duration, swept out from the land and drove the craft back seaward four inches by inch. There was no use trying to breast this hurricane, Master Young said, and at times the vessel was under bare poles to escape its violence. In all thirty days were waited before the wind jammer finally succeeded in doubling the cape.

In the height of the storm one of the sailors, James O'Brien by name, attempted suicide. He had no reason to take his life, unless it was that he preferred dying any other way than
as he supposed, through shipwreck.
On June 18, on a call for all hands,
O'Brien was found lying in his bunk
with his throat cut. He was still alive,
and several of his shipmates succeeded in sewing up his wound, but he had lost so much blood that he died a week later. O'Brien was 28 years old and a native of Hobart Town, Tasmania.

The Norwegian bark Norda also came to port today after a hard passage. She left Cochin, China, 163 days ago. She was thirty-nine days trying to round the Cape of Good Hope. She and the Nellie Troop encountered a hurricane finale in the Gulf of Aden,
which did some damage to the vessel,
and both are slightly damaged
in consequence.

The following despatch was received from Halifax on the 6th inst.: "The derelict schooner towed into Mosher's harbor by steamer Bridgewater is supposed to be the Adria, Capt. The size of the vessel corresponds with the Adria, which was seen in that vicinity the day before the big storm. It is evident the schooner was dashed onto the rocks and wrecked, and that her entire crew perished."

TRACADIE LAZARETTO.

A Very Full Description of the New Buildings.

Now Practically Completed and Only Require Heating Apparatus to be Ready for Occupancy.

At Present There are Twenty Lepers in the Old Lazaretto, But When Their Removal Takes Place to the New Quarters, This Number Will be Considerably Added to From Other Places.

(Special correspondence of The Sun.) The new lazaretto which has been in course of construction by the dominion government during the last year at Tracadie is now nearly completed.

The building is a handsome erection of imposing appearance, standing on a gentle slope by the Tracadie bay, very near to the old lazaretto. The government has a block of ground covering eight and a half acres, reaching from the highway to the beach, and the structure stands about midway, facing the street which runs through the long and scattered little village of Tracadie. It is built of oil-colored sandstone and is a red cement facing with fully finished basement, the floor of the latter being almost on a level with the surface of the ground. In length the main building is 150 feet, running north and south, with a breadth of 39 feet. An extension of full height on the side facing the road, equidistant from either end, is 38x39 feet. Directly in the rear is another extension of but one story, of a size back into the interior. To the right hand corner, of full height, is 12x25. Double verandahs run almost entirely around the building, and a French roof adds to the whole a still more attractive appearance. The upper part of the roof is of galvanized iron, and in its centre rises an open bell turret. The chimneys, five in number, are of pressed brick with sandstone capping, and ventilators, which are expected to rise in different positions.

A pretty porch of simple design, with rising steps, frames the main entrance in the face of the front extension. On entering, the front hall leads back into the interior. To the immediate right is the dispensary and doctor's office, with a laboratory, while on the left side are the waiting and reception rooms. Back of this the hall broadens and the stairs lead right into the wings, while the stairs rise to the upper floors and go down into the basement. Behind the hall is the chapel, large and roomy, with high ceilings, and farther back in the extension is the vestry room. The northern end of the whole structure is designed for the sisters' exclusive use, while the southern end at the right of the hall and chapel is meant for the lepers. There are two wings for them—one for each sex—that for the men on the first floor and the one for the women on the second. The general plan of the two wards is much the same. There is one large room in each, nearly 50 by 100 feet, light and airy, in which the cots are to be placed as in hospitals, side by side, there being room for 14 cots in each, so that the lazaretto will accommodate normally 28 patients.

Adjoining these large rooms are isolation chambers, where patients whose disease is advanced and dangerous may be placed; also mortuary chambers, bath rooms with closets, and other rooms necessary for the maintenance of proper care. Access to the verandah is provided by doors from both floors.

In the north end, the sisters' territory, is the kitchen, with dining rooms and pantries, also the large choir room which adjoins the chapel, and on the second and third floors are the chambers and sleeping rooms. The third floor is directly connected with the south wing over the lepers, and has linen rooms, work rooms and a wash house, also the chapel, and the usual appearances in some ways to suit the exigencies of the institution.

On the sisters' side, where the choir room on the first floor and on the second the room for the nuns who attend service, adjoin, rises the white squared lattice-work essential to the rules of their order. On the other side the large wards for the use of the lepers, both second and first floors, adjoin, two large and long glass windows, one for each flat, take up the whole surface of the main building, the large panes in the sashes are arranged to slide back. By this means the lepers, while sitting in their wards, may see and listen to the services, and those patients who are able to leave their beds are also able to enjoy the same benefits. The chapel is large enough to allow of pews being placed within it to accommodate any strangers or others who may wish to attend. The main building, the second and third floors over the entrance are fitted up for the use of servants. By this designing the living quarters of the sisters, servants and lepers are distinctly separated, and so the dangers of contagion are avoided to a great extent. In the basement, which is the full size of the building, are the heating furnaces and water appliances, with cellars and fuel storage, meal and flour rooms and ice closets. In the lepers' wing are workshops for the use of such lepers as may make use of them, and washing rooms. The servants' washing rooms are in the front extension, and the sisters have their fitted up in their wing. It is essential that everything coming within contact of the lepers be kept by itself, so the washing of the lepers' clothes must be done apart from the others. Cement floors are provided for all parts of the basement. There are three dumbwaiters in different part of the building, and shafts are provided for throwing soiled clothes to the basement, as also shafts to carry sweepings and dust into the cellars.

Besides the main stairway there are two other sets of stairs from garage to cellar. Thorough ventilation is given by globe ventilators in various places in all the wards. There are 17 closets of the Unitas pattern in the structure, and sewerage is carried away to the sea, 1,000 feet distant, by a nine inch, Scotch silt drain. In the basement, 26 feet deep, supplies water which by a force pump is carried to a tank holding 500 gallons on the fourth floor. From this it is taken to all parts of the structure, there being five copper tanks, 13 wash basins, 14 sinks and eight washtubs to be supplied. Hot water as well is taken to all parts. The heating is done by a hot water system of the very best, contract, which is taken by a Montreal man, who has just arrived to put it in, being $4,100, without the boilers. There are two twin boilers, supplied by Garth & Co. of Montreal, with four furnaces.

The plumbing was done by McKinley and Northwood of Ottawa; the galvanized iron work by Douglas Bros. of the same place; the painting and carpentering being done by days' work with Ch. Forbes of Truro, N. S., as foreman.

The glass and fittings in general came from W. H. Thorne & Co. of St. John. The building itself was contracted and built by Wm. Stuart of Ottawa, and in entirety reflects great credit upon that gentleman, who left for his home on the 1st ult., having handed his work over to the government as complete a few days previously and six months ahead of time. The contract price was $40,000.

Jan Davidson of Tracadie was government inspector. The designs, which were outlined by the sisters themselves, were formulated and completed by Mr. Wats of Ottawa. The stone all came from the quarries at Big Tracadie, nine miles away.

The sisters have gained the consent of the government to erect a hospital, which is intended to supply the needs of the northern part of the province, immediately to the rear of the lazaretto and in direct connection with it. The stone for its construction is already cut and prepared ready for use, and probabilities are that its erection will begin in the spring. Its size will be 70 by 40 feet, and of four stories in height.

A glimpse of the old lazaretto enables a visitor to form some idea of the need of a better institution. The low, rambling run of buildings, unpainted and shabby, in sanitary conditions in a badly prevailing condition, with leaky roofs and rain-stained walls, are unfit, though kept scrupulously clean and neat, for the needs of such a mission. The buildings are practically worthless, and after vacating the part in which the lepers are now kept will be, in all probability, burned to the ground. At present there are twenty inmates, three having died in the course of the summer.

When their removal takes place to their new quarters, their numbers will be augmented by those brought from other places. But for the placing of the heating apparatus, the lazaretto is now complete. It is hoped that all will be finished by the last of December, but it is not yet decided as to a move during the winter, though it is likely such will be done.

The new building was inspected and examined recently by Dr. Canale, of the West Indies, who was sent out to inquire into and make reports on such structures in view of the fact that a building for the same purpose is about to be erected in his own island and soil by a earnest preparation for a year's work. He emphasized the need of a permanent study, and the personality of teacher in both respects.

Rev. Mr. Burt followed with a brief but admirable address on the importance of filling mind and soul by an earnest preparation for a year's work. He emphasized the need of a permanent study, and the personality of teacher in both respects.

Then came a very profitable discussion on teachers' meetings. This was shared by Rev. Mr. Burt, Mr. Lucas, and Mr. A. Morton led the company gathered. Rev. Mr. Matthew spoke on the home class department, and an excellent presentation of argument, testimony from many sources, and earnest persuasion to adopt this Sunday school scheme.

Mr. Lucas gave some other points of duty, methods and benefits. After thanking Rev. Mr. Morton spoke to teachers on Discontentment and how to overcome them. This was practical, interesting and most important to their Christian work here.

Mr. Lucas was asked for the last address points of the responsibilities which the excellent day school system laid upon S. S. teachers, and asked them to gather inspiration in keeping with the age. He mentioned their normal class recently formed, outlined its methods and possible results. Using the blackboard as he talked, he made a practical application of lessons to the youth before him.

Offerings were taken up, a few closing words uttered by the president, and the meeting closed with prayer. The president and other workers believed these two sessions marked a progress of solid work beyond any of their previous meetings.

SCHOOL HYGIENE.

The New York city health board has made the following recommendations to the board of education: 1. The use of slates, slate pencils and sponges shall be discontinued in all the public schools. 2. According to requirement, pupils shall be supplied with pencils and penholders, each pupil to retain those received in a box provided for the purpose, such box to be marked with the pupil's name. Pencils and penholders shall not be transferred from one pupil to another, without suitable disinfection. 3. All school property left in the school building by a child sick with any contagious disease, and all such property found in an apartment occupied by a family in which a case of small-pox, typhus fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever or measles has occurred, shall be taken by the health department for disinfection or destruction. 4. Books which are taken home by pupils shall be covered regularly once each month with brown manila paper. 5. Places for drinking water on the ground floors of the school buildings shall be discontinued, and a covered pitcher provided for each class-room, in which fresh water shall be placed before every session. A numbered cup, to be kept in the class room, shall be issued to each pupil. No interchange of cups shall be allowed.

THE CANADIAN WEST.

Manitoba Government Sensation on the School Controversy.

Winnipeg, Nov. 6.—The Manitoba government has sprung a sensation in connection with the separate school controversy. Much has been made by the Catholic since the agitation began of a bill of rights dated 1870, the time all the rights of Catholics then enjoyed were to be preserved. The Protestant contention has been that not until several years later was any such declaration made. However, the document bearing the 1870 date has been in evidence, and appeared genuine, until now when the government discloses the fact that the date on this much discussed document is really 1873. By a photographic process it is revealed that the figure three has been altered into an eight, the figure three being plain in faded ink, while the cipher over it is fresher in blacker ink. The somewhat startling revelation is made in a pamphlet issued over the signature of Fred. C. Wale, barrister of Winnipeg.

THE LIBERAL CONSERVATIVES.

Annual Meeting of the Westmorland County Association.

Sackville, Nov. 5.—The annual regular meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association of Westmorland County took place here this afternoon in Powell's hall. The association opened at 2 p. m. and proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year. J. L. Black of Sackville was re-elected president, and R. W. Hewson, Moncton, secretary.

The meeting throughout was enthusiastic and a good representation was present from every parish. Three resolutions were passed by the association. First, expressing confidence in the principle and policy of the liberal conservative party, and belief that the past proved these principles just what they are represented to insure, the best interests of our country, and for the promotion alike of the best interests of agriculture, mining, manufacture and commerce. The convention pledged itself to continue true to such principles as those which have brought our country to such a state of advancement, and while these principles are the guide of the party to continue in its support.

Second—Expressive of confidence in the leader and cabinet officers in New Brunswick and our own representatives. Third—Expressive of the sorrow occasioned by the death of the late John A. Humphrey of Moncton and sympathy with his family in their bereavement, and a recognition of the valuable services he gave to the liberal conservative party.

During the passing of these resolutions several stirring and enthusiastic speeches were made by representatives of the party, among these being John Fawcett, Sackville; J. M. Wallace and R. W. Hewson, Moncton. Mr. Powell made a specially eloquent and able address, in which he discussed at length the policy adopted by the present administration and exposed the inconsistencies of the opposition. At the close Senator Wood gave a few remarks, in which he reiterated his old time faith in the party of progress.

The convention closed at 5 p. m. to enable the representatives to depart by this evening's trains. The next regular meeting takes place the first Tuesday in November of next year.

CANADIAN LIVE STOCK.

It is Reported That the British Government Will Exclude Live Stock From British Ports.

London, Nov. 6.—I learn that the programme of the British government, now being prepared, is to include a bill permanently excluding all imported live stock except for slaughter at British ports.

This bill will finally close the market to live Canadian cattle. The question of the discovery of scab in the Canadian and other imported sheep, which are now admitted to the British markets, it is expected will result in the exclusion of sheep as well as cattle.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

(President Monroe's Message, Dec. 2, 1823.) We owe it to candor and the amicable relations existing between the United States and Great Britain to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. We could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them (republics) or controlling in any other manner their destiny by any European power in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States.

HYAMS BROS' TRIAL.

Prosecutor Osler's Forebode Address to the Jury.

King Tells of the Examination of Wells' Body After Death.

Nov. 4.—In his address to the jury in the Hyams trial today, prosecutor Osler, brought before them the fact that the insurance which Hyams had on the life of Willie Wells necessitates the payment of $50,000 in twenty years. As neither of the Hyams had any visible means of such premiums, only one possible object could have been in mind that was the bringing about of the early death of Wells in order to secure the insurance money. The Hyams Bros. had rented a warehouse which scarcely any business was engaged in, and they had engaged a typewriter, who by the way, never left the office. This was cited to show that the purpose of the warehouse was for the purpose of causing Wells' death by means of the elevator weight. E. E. King was the first witness called by the prosecution. He is a medical advisor. He stated on the day of the accident Harry came to his office and told him that a man had been injured at the warehouse. Dr. King, on his arrival at the warehouse, found Hyams agitated. He described the body of Wells' body, which he had seen, and said that it had been in the position it was in, on the day of the accident. He also stated that the head of the elevator was perfectly described, showing more than one line of force had been exerted on it.

LOSE CASTLES IN SPAIN.

Shippegan, Gloucester Co., commander of the Sun, who takes no part in the report that the Grass is a vessel of the Waasla, Sunbury Co., and he tells of the so-called Count de Grasse's fabulous fortune, writes as follows under date of Nov. 4th: "I am glad to inform you that by reason of satisfactory advices from Spain in the past twelve months, we are for a closing of the business in our favor. We do not claim to state from the Count de Grasse from our ancestor, the Count's son, who will his estate to our son, Antoine de Grasse and his wife, Antoine de Grasse (young) and out to this country with his Admiral Count de Grasse, commanded a fleet sent to assist Americans. His vessels encountered the English fleet and at the time of a desperate battle, young Antoine de Grasse was sent to the Island Martinique, while the admiral returned to Europe. Young de Grasse made his way to America and being across Canadian territory trader, resided at Bathurst and carried there. Antoine de Grasse had any correspondence with us, but after having passed through many dangers during the sea war and the revolution in France, spent the balance of his days in the bosom of his family at Bathurst. Some time before his death, he advised his children that his would descend to him and to his father, Joseph de Grasse."

General News From Many Sections of New Brunswick.

ALBERT CO.

Hopewell Hill, Nov. 2.—The death of Miss Ella Carlisle occurred last night at her home in Hillsboro, after a lingering illness, of consumption. The deceased lady was a daughter of the late Theodore Carlisle, and was highly esteemed by all her acquaintances. For several years she held a responsible position with the firm of Manchester, Robertson & Allison of St. John, which she was compelled to resign a year ago on account of failing health. Her mother, who is a sister of the late John Russell of this place, and several brothers and sisters survive her. The death of Robert Sherman of the Mines road, one of the oldest and most respected residents of that locality, occurred on Wednesday. Freeman Goodwin has moved into the residence at Riverside recently vacated by G. D. Prescott. Mr. Goodwin has large contracts for sawing in this county. Nearly a score of women voters cast their ballots in the recent municipal election here. This is the first time in the history of the municipality that the members of the fair sex have exercised their rights of freeholders.

Hopewell Hill, Nov. 4.—The schooner Olio Gough sailed yesterday from the Hill wharf with a cargo of kiln wood for Rockland, Me. The banks Albert and W. W. McLaughlin have sailed from Albert with deals for Great Britain. These are the last square riggers to load up the bay this season. The Alert has taken three loads from bay ports this year, two from Grey's Island and one from Albert.

Capt. P. R. Tingley, formerly of this place, was married in England on Oct. 1st to Mrs. Lizzie Hodgson of Fives, Sussex. Capt. Tingley formerly commanded the ship Constance of St. John and was one of the most competent and successful of New Brunswick shipmasters. Messrs. Goodwin are scowring their boards from the public wharf here to Moncton.

Scarcely ever in the history of this locality has work of all kinds been so good as at the present time. There are literally no unemployed men anywhere and an employer of labor told the writer today that it was impossible to get any more help. A large number of men are in the woods, and the work on the dykes makes employment for a large number of laborers. The plaster quarry on the creek also helps make times good.

Jas. A. Rogers is fitting up the McLane grist mill at this place, which will be open for patronage right away. Hopewell Hill, Nov. 5.—The funeral of the late Miss Ella Carlisle took place on Sunday afternoon from the residence of the deceased lady's brother, Geo. Carlisle, Lower Hillsboro. The services, which were largely attended, were conducted by Rev. Messrs. Cornwall, Camp and Gray's Island cemetery. The annual meeting of the Albert agricultural society was held at the Hill on Saturday evening. Vice President W. E. Kaylor in the chair. The accounts of the year were passed and the following officers elected: Chesley Smith, president; Luther Archibald, vice president; W. A. West, sec. treas.; directors, J. E. Peck; Jos. O. McClellan, Jos. Siddons, W. T. Wright, W. B. Ketter, A. S. Mitton, A. W. Peck, R. C. Brown, Allen Robinson; auditor, Alonzo Stiles. The society voted $100 towards the public hall fund.

CARLETON CO.

Newburg Junction, Nov. 6.—Colin Campbell, who for many years conducted a restaurant here, has moved to Woodstock on a farm about one mile from town, on the Connell road. Gillis Dickinson and Miss Adella McKinney were married last Wednesday. Rev. Mr. Trafton performed the ceremony. A number of presents were received. Mrs. Lothrop Sewell's remains were interred in the Pembroke cemetery last Sunday. She has been a sufferer from consumption some months. The ground is wet enough now to enable the farmers to plough.

KENT CO.

Richibucto, Nov. 4.—The body of Adolphe Casey of Coanago, who was drowned by the upsetting of his boat above Kingston bridge on Friday afternoon, was recovered on Saturday. Dr. Raffine du Olliquet held an inquest. The deceased leaves a wife and five children. Doherty, who did the shooting at Chatham last Thursday night, is believed to be in hiding on the road between Here and Chatham. He was seen at Dickens', twenty-three miles north of here on Friday. A constable from Chatham came around by rail on Saturday and drove north.

KINGS CO.

Mechanics' Settlement, Nov. 8.—On the afternoon of the 30th ult. Mrs. Silina A. Wallace of this place was married to James A. Bustard of Donegal. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. Young. The happy couple were serenaded by the Mechanic boys in the evening. A reception was given at the home of the bride on the evening of the 31st, at which a large number of invited guests were present. The wedding gifts were numerous and costly. The bride looked charming and was beautifully attired in a dress of navy blue cashmere, trimmed with morley silk and ribbon. Mrs. Robert Moore, who has been quite ill with typhoid fever, is recovering. Mrs. A. Moore and her grandson, Thos. Long, who have been spending a few weeks with friends in Lawrence town, Nova Scotia, has returned home.

Millstream, Nov. 6.—The public pound supper and entertainment held at Centreville by the S. of T. on Saturday evening was a perfect success. A pleasing programme was carried out by the following: John Northrup, Mathew Polkins, J. Sewell, Susie Polkins, Adam Dootright, Nina and Helen Polkins, Charlie Northrup and John Wright, after which candy, raisins, nuts, apples and cake were passed round.

The public social and concert which was held at Northrup Settlement on Friday was, in spite of the bad state of the roads, a success. The sale of pies realized $10.20. Inspector Steeves paid the schools in this vicinity a visit this week.

NORTHUMBERLAND CO.

Chatham, N. B., Nov. 5.—The McCully investigation was resumed before Commissioner Gilbert in Winslow's law chambers today. Messrs. Winslow and Lawlor appeared for the complainants, and Robert Murray, Jr., for Mr. McCully. Warren C. Winslow, barrister, was the only witness sworn. His evidence was much the same as that given by other lawyers sworn in this case. Mr. Winslow, who made particular reference to the Coulson cases, was asked what in his opinion influenced the magistrate in rendering the judgment he did in those cases. He replied: "I consider the course he pursued in those cases and his conduct afterwards was influenced by an over zealous desire on his part to prevent the drinking of intoxicating liquors and he used the Canada Temperance act as a means to that end. His testimony closed the case for the complainants."

Mr. Murray, who had no evidence in defense of the case made out by the complainants. Chatham, Nov. 6.—About 6 o'clock this morning Joseph Doherty, the lad who shot Arthur Luke on Halloween's night, was captured by Deputy Sheriff Irvine. He has been looking for Doherty since Monday, and finding no trace of him out at Black River, where it was supposed he was in hiding, the deputy sheriff decided to search for him in town, and he, accompanied by the policeman, visited the residence of the boy's uncle, Daniel Elkin. They asked for Joe and were told that he was not there. The policeman began to search the house for him, while the deputy sheriff watched outside. The policeman was not long at work when Joe ran out of the rear door of the house. Mr. Irvine gave chase and caught him at Miss McCarthy's. Joe took the matter coolly and was lodged in the lockup. When asked if he was sorry that the shooting took place, he replied he was a little bit sorry, and that the affair was a bad one, but it might have been a great deal worse. He also stated that he was sorry he ran away at all, and that he had come to town for the purpose of giving himself up. The opinion is freely expressed here that Joe is of unsound mind and he does not realize the seriousness of the situation. The preliminary examination begins before Mr. Justice Fraser at the police court at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

The McCully investigation was finished today. Mr. Murray called witnesses for the defence, and it was agreed that the arguments of counsel be submitted in writing. Chatham, Nov. 7.—The relief committee has about completed the work of distributing clothing, provisions and wood among the sufferers. All in need of assistance have been liberally helped. At a recent meeting of the relief committee a committee of three was appointed to inquire what the widows and other persons who lost their houses and had no insurance were prepared to do toward rebuilding, and report at the next meeting of the relief committee. It is the intention of that committee to divide the money now on hand, and to be received among these people to assist them to rebuild their homes. The division will be made according to the circumstances of each individual. Some twelve or thirteen persons will receive assistance. The money now on hand amounts to about $2,700, but it is expected that this amount will be materially increased by the final returns from the different places which are making contributions to the fund.

Dr. Baxter has published a certificate in the local papers to the effect that the boy DeRoche, said to have died from injuries received while being "framed" by Joseph Doherty, did not die from injuries so received, but that he was injured while running with a chair from one room to another in his father's house, having fell and received a blow on the abdomen which was the eventual cause of his death.

The new street extensions are being pushed rapidly to completion. The board of street and fire commissioners have decided that they cannot legally close Mulrhead street, as they at one time intended. Three new houses are beginning to loom up in the burned district. They belong to James Hackett, Robert Finn and Matthew Carroll respectively. J. L. Stewart's yacht Oriana was had out for a sail in the afternoon. This closes the yachting season here.

QUEENS CO.

Hampstead, Nov. 6.—On Monday afternoon, while Captain Belyea of the scow Daisy was loading stone at the granite quarry wharf, he was approached by Constable F. C. Stubbs, who had a cage for him to recover wages claimed by Red Dunham, a young lad of this place, who had been working for Belyea for over a month on the scow, and who for some reason or other left Belyea one day about a fortnight ago at the same place where Belyea had the cage served on him. The constable got the money, but Belyea says he will come on the young lad for damages as soon as he goes to St. John.

There was a bean supper held in the Elberta hall last night. The proceeds, which amounted to nearly eleven dollars, go towards finishing the hall. At the close of the supper they had a debate on the subject: Which is the greatest evil, dancing or using tobacco? On Saturday last week there were landed at this wharf twenty casks of kerosene oil, shipped from St. John by the Eastern Oil Co. Part of them were for Vanwart Bros. and W. J. Cheyne, merchants, doing business at this place. The remainder was for Mrs. A. M. Shore and Peter Duffie, merchants in adjoining settlements. W. J. Cheyne is cutting and packing some pork here this fall. It is very cheap.

SUNBURY CO.

Maugerville, Nov. 6.—J. Barnes, M. P. of Buctouche, has entered into a contract with Dr. L. G. de Bertram of New York to build eighteen miles of railroad from Chipman to Newcastle. The work will commence early in December. Dr. de Bertram is prepared to complete the road to Fredericton at an early day. William Freeman, son of Rev. A. Freeman, has gone to British Columbia, where he has obtained a lucrative position as silver miner. Belle Shields and her daughter left this morning for Victoria. B. C. Mrs. Shields has been an efficient post mistress here for some time and will be much missed.

Frank Shields has returned home from Manitoba, whither he went as a harvest hand in August. He was employed by Amissa Brown, formerly of Kings county, who has a ranch about fifty miles west of Brandon. Mr. Shields, who is a very capable man, will remain in the west, where they secured employment for the winter.

WESTMORLAND CO.

Moncton, Nov. 5.—The Intercolonial railway will require 340,000 ties for renewals this winter. Delivery is required at the following points: between Moncton and Newcastle, 10,000; between New Glasgow and Port Mulgrave, 30,000; between Truro and Painsac Junction, 40,000; between Point du Chene and St. John, 40,000; between Moncton and Newcastle, 34,000; between Newcastle and Campbellton, 30,000; between Campbellton and St. Flavie, 38,000; between St. Flavie and River du Loup, 17,000; between River du Loup and Pictou, 30,000; between Pictou and Pictou, 20,000; between Point Tupper and Sydney, 9,000.

The new Roman Catholic church at St. Paul, Kent county, will be dedicated on Nov. 13th. Rev. Father Labbe of St. Joseph's college is to preach the sermon of the day. Moncton, Nov. 7.—There was a large gathering at St. Bernard's R. C. church this morning to witness the marriage of J. P. Irving and Miss Lizzie, daughter of Jeremiah O'Neill of the I. C. R. The bride and groom were accompanied by her brother, John O'Neill, merchant.

Dr. Fraser, a high chief ranger of the Canadian Order of Foresters, paid an official visit to Court Westland in this town last night. Major Sam. Hughes, M. P. for North Victoria, Ontario, is in Moncton. He is in the province on a business trip.

YORK CO.

Fredericton, Nov. 6.—Michaelmas term of the supreme court opened this morning. The following common motions were argued: Queen v. Wortman ex parte LeBlanc-Jordan, Q. C., moves for rule nisi to quash C. T. A. conviction. Ex parte Hayward-Connell, Q. C., moves for discharge under chapter 33 consolidated statutes; rule nisi. Gabriel DeVeber et al. v. McKeever and Harding—Mr. Carleton moves for judgment in ejectment for want of appearance; rule absolute for judgment.

Thos. C. Atherton died suddenly at his home this afternoon at 2 o'clock. His forenoon he walked down town in his usual manner, returning asked for a drink of milk, complaining he felt tired. He drank part of a glass of milk and in about two hours after died. Deceased was eighty years old and one of the best known residents of the city. For many years he was engineer of the Normal school. He belonged to the Free Baptist church of which he was a faithful member. He leaves a widow, two sons and three daughters.

Fredericton, Nov. 6.—The following cases were heard by the supreme court today: Arthur E. Murray v. Donald Duff and Albert A. Duff—M. G. Teed moves to add a plea; W. B. Chandler, contra; plea added and court considers terms. Ex parte Heal Bishop—R. B. Smith moves for the discharge of Bishop on a Scott act commitment in Albert county; Jordan, Q. C., contra; not called on; motion refused. Wm. F. Parsons v. A. H. McLean—D. I. Welch moves to set aside a specially endorsed writ on a bill of exchange on the ground that presentments and dishonor was not alleged, and that defendant was sued by initials; Curry, Q. C., contra; court considers.

Wm. E. Gass v. Geo. E. Fort—R. B. Smith moves to rescind an order of the court granting a certificate for costs to defendant in this case, when a verdict of twenty-five cents had been recovered by plaintiff; Powell, Q. C., contra; court considers. Ex parte Queen v. Elkin—John Adams moves for a crown case reserved from Carleton county—D. B. Gallagher moves to quash an indictment for sending a threatening letter to one Vanwart for a new trial; attorney general contra; the court considers. Ex parte Gilbert Garrette—A. B. Connell-shoed cause against a rule nisi for certiorari to remove an order made by the Madawaska county court; Sillip contra. The court held that the applicant should have applied to Judge Stevens to rescind his order and discharged the rule.

Ex parte Jerry Gorman—W. B. Chandler showed cause against a rule nisi to remove Moncton Scott act conviction. The magistrate had omitted the term "days" after "forty-five," both in adjudication and in conviction; Teed contra, not called, court holds they have no power to amend the nisi; the court adjourns; rule absolute for certiorari. Fredericton, Nov. 7.—The latest addition to journalism in this city is the appearance of The High School Echo, the first number was issued yesterday, and is a bright little four-page paper, and a credit to the boys. The city council has a motion for the adoption of standard time before it for consideration at the next meeting. It was moved by Ald. Adams. In the history of Fredericton probably no such hold upon the mass of the people as the services now being conducted by the evangelists, Hunter and Crossley. The Methodist church is not large enough to hold the people who want to hear these men. Every night numbers of men and women ask for prayers. Among the converts there are a number of well known business men of the city, who now for the first time, wish to identify themselves with a Christian church.

There was much disappointment yesterday when it was announced the Black Light show was not in Fredericton. This was relieved, however, by the announcement that he would spend two or three days here next month. The following cases were argued in the supreme court today: Ex parte Emmerson and others—This was an application to remove an order granted by Judge Stevens appointing an arbitrator under chapter 33 Consolidated Statutes, in proceedings against an absconding debtor's warrant. Jordan, Q. C., opposed the rule, and Sillip supported it. The court ordered the rule discharged on the ground that the proceedings had become stale. The court adjourns. At the same time intimated that Judge Stevens had acted within his jurisdiction in making the order complained of. Two Scott act cases from Westmorland were next taken up. Leonard B. Dixon and Martin Cormier. John L. Carleton supported the rules, but both cases were dismissed without calling counsel on the other side. The Queen v. Doyle—Three Charlotte county cases, in which the rules to quash the convictions were made absolute on motion of J. H. Barry. New Brunswick Railway Co. v. Kelly—The attorney general showed cause against a rule nisi in last term calling upon plaintiffs to show why they should not pay the costs of the appeal of the judgment of chief justice; C. E. Duffy, contra; court considers.

Pictou Bank v. Fuglesy et al. two cases. Gregory showed cause against a rule to compel plaintiff to file writs and enter the cause in the former suit brought in 1886 for the same cause of action, and in which proceedings were stayed by the defendant in a summons granted defendants on the ground that the action was against good faith. The bank having obtained security from Doull under a deed of trust in which they covenanted not to sue the defendants, who were accommodation endorsers for Doull. He also showed cause against a rule to stay proceedings in the second suit as being against good faith. Pugsley, Q. C., contra; court considers. Maxwell v. Malcolm—Gregory, Q. C., moves to set aside the verdict for plaintiff for a new trial. This case was tried in Charlotte county, and plaintiff recovered a verdict. The action arose out of the Bangor and Aroostook railway contracts. Both plaintiff and defendants, Malcolm and Ross, were sub-contractors under Treat for certain sections of this road. Plaintiff built one of the sections contracted for by defendants and in return for the amount of the work. Defendants say that the plaintiff was paid by Treat for this work and now seek to set aside the verdict against them. Geo. J. Cline for plaintiff; now before the court. At the recent winter examinations held in the Normal school, it is understood that Ida Hamington, from Victoria high school, was the highest average with a score of 95.5. One of the best known residents of the city, J. C. Dumaresqu, has about finished the repairs on St. Paul's church tower. The cost is about $2,000. Byron Chast has purchased Bella A., a fine, thoroughbred running mare with a record of 1.50.

DOHERTY ON TRIAL.

Preliminary Examination Commenced at Chatham.

"All Provocation Was Given by us and None by Doherty."

Such is the Statement Made by One of the Witnesses.

Chatham, Nov. 7.—The preliminary examination of Joseph Doherty, charged with shooting Arthur J. Luke, was commenced before Justice Fraser at the police court today. Hon. L. J. Tweedie appeared for Doherty, and Samuel Thomson, clerk of the peace, for the crown. Stanley Smith, Fleizer, Mrs. Benson and Baxter, Thos. Knowles and John McIntyre were sworn. In the way of new evidence the first witness testified to the fact that the crowd he was with, which included Luke, had been shot at by a Frenchman on the wharf, at whose vessel the boys were throwing stones, and that Doherty was going about his business when he and the crowd overtook and assaulted him. Doherty told them to go away and let him alone.

The evidence of Mrs. Benson and Baxter, who were called as witnesses at the inquest on Luke's remains, any more than they swore that Luke was a much larger boy than the prisoner. Thos. Knowles, aged 15, was next sworn and testified an account of the affair as follows: Thursday evening about ten o'clock. I was with Stanley Stewart, Wm. Buckley, Arthur Luke and Mike Gorman at Coleman's corner. I saw Doherty come round and ask White told us or Jim Barry that Joe Doherty had gone up the lane with a gun and for us to go and take it from him. We followed and before we got to him Arthur Luke sang out "Joe," and Doherty turned round and pointed the gun in the direction we were coming. He then walked on and we followed him to McKendry's corner. Joe walked on the road and I went after him and caught him by the hand over his shoulder. He then turned and Arthur Luke caught hold of him. Gilbert Buote came over and lifted up the head of the gun and said there was no cap on it.

Mr. Tweedie has objected to the witness telling what Buote said. When we left Doherty, the witness continued, he got up and snapped the gun at us. He started away and went into Wm. Kerr's yard about 50 feet from where we had hold of him. We followed him in and he went behind the corner of the house; then he chased us out with the gun, trying to hit us with it. We followed him in the second time and he chased us again. We followed him back the third time, and I saw him take a box out of his pocket. It looked like a cap box. I walked out towards the road and told the fellows. The others came out also to the sidewalk and we got up behind him when I caught hold of him on the road and I gave up the gun because there was no cap on it and no danger. We had no business to follow him into the yard. I followed because Luke did. The muzzle of the gun was from us when Doherty was going towards the slaughter house and when he turned the muzzle was towards us. I took hold of him because he had a gun and we thought he would shoot us.

Barry told us to take the gun from him and "boot" him. One of our crowd out a French schooner admit that night. I fired one rock aboard a boat and saw Luke firing something else. I did not mean to hurt anyone. Luke untied one boot. I was ahead when the crowd upset a carload of wood at the pulp factory. I saw Luke have hold of it. Doherty did not say a word to us or look at us all Luke called him. I was scared he would shoot me and caught hold of him to see if the gun was loaded. I could have got away. I followed him because the rest did. I can't swear he was not kicked, but I did not kick him nor see any of the rest do so. He might have been kicked and I did not see it. I chased him into Kerr's yard because Luke did. I fired a rock at him. It didn't hit him. I saw nothing else fired at him. I fired it because he chased us out of the yard. I don't know why we chased him in. He ran into the yard to get clear of us. We chased him in three times. All provocation was given by us and none by Doherty. Luke had a stick of wood in his hand when he came out of the yard the second time. I did not kick or hit Doherty that night. I helped upset a building behind W. S. Loggie's that night. We were acting badly. Doherty did not point the gun at us in the yard when the three of us followed him in, but used it as a club to defend himself. I don't know whether the gun went off by accident or not. Luke and I could have easily avoided Doherty if we liked. I knew that Doherty was in the employ of Elkin, the butcher, and that his slaughter house was in the direction Doherty was going when Luke called "him."

What we did to the Frenchman's boats and around town was without regard to the consequences. We might have hit some one. I heard the policeman threatened to take the Frenchman and his gun to the lockup if he fired again. I was in Charles Kerr's house half-hour's night when the shooting happened. I saw four or five boys pass the house towards McKendry's corner. There was a scuffle there among them. Then I saw some boys running back towards the house. They ran in and out of the yard two or three times. The only words I hear was, "come out of the yard." They had just got on the sidewalk the last time, they ran out when a boy came out of the yard with some object in his hand to within fifteen or twenty feet from where one of the other boys was standing, the only one of them who was visible. Then I heard a gun go off. It was not very bright night and I could not tell if the person who fired took aim. He was holding the gun across his side and stomach. This witness in his cross-examination said: The gun went off so quickly it struck me. It was an accident. He was not aiming straight for the boys at the corner. He was near the house and the boy was at the corner of the fence. It is possible he did not see him. The gun was not pointed in the direction in which the boy Luke was running. I won't swear the firing was intentional or accidental. To the best of my judgment it looked as if it were accidental. It is possible that the stock of the gun may have hit the house and it caused the gun to go off. The court was adjourned till tomorrow.

Doherty is still in the lockup, but is living in hopes of getting out on bail after the preliminary proceedings are over. He does not appear to care for the lockup alone at night, as he is afraid of ghosts.

CHANCES IN THE ROYAL NAVY. Quebec, Nov. 6, 1895. To the Editor of The Sun: Sir—In view of the events now taking place in various parts of the world which appear to be seriously disturbing the minds of the people of Great Britain, and must of necessity affect all of us in this important colony.

It may be interesting to state (as I do not think it is generally known) that her majesty, by a recent order-in-council, has sanctioned a proposal for the entry of one hundred officers of the mercantile marine, as lieutenants and sub-lieutenants, in the ships of the royal navy, and the lords commissioners of the admiralty have given notice of the mode in which such arrangements will be carried out.

The lords of the admiralty first presented a memorial to her majesty, stating it was found necessary to employ officers now belonging to the mercantile marine, to meet the requirements of her majesty's navy. The memorial was taken, as far as practicable, from the royal navy reserve officers now on the list; but other officers of the mercantile marine are eligible, according to service, and will be selected at the discretion of the lords of the admiralty.

The admiralty reserve to themselves the power of promoting any lieutenants entered under this scheme to the active list of commanders of the royal navy, for distinguished services during war operations. Every inducement seems to be thrown out to officers who desire to enter the service of the royal navy, and a full equipment grant of $25 for a lieutenant, and $50 for a sub-lieutenant will be given in consideration of their having to obtain naval uniforms.

I am, sir, your obedient servant. W. H. SMITH.

DEALING WITH FACTS.

Liberals Have Got to Reckon With Principles.

The Minister of Finance Provides Food for Thought for Mr. Laurier and His Followers.

Three Questions Asked of the Young Men—Liberal Inconsistency on the Manitoba School Question Exposed.

The following is the speech of Hon. Mr. Foster made at the public meeting held on Friday, 1st inst., in London, Ont., in connection with the opening of the new conservative club rooms:

The chairman then introduced Geo. E. Foster, leader of the house of commons, who was given a most cordial reception. He said: My first question is this: Look upon the Dominion of Canada today, putting over against the actual facts and conditions of today the expressions explicit, and the expressions not so explicit, as they are which are conveyed from every liberal platform, and from almost every liberal speaker, that the Dominion of Canada has been robbed of the progress it should have made; that our country has not had the advancement that it ought to have had; that today we are in a state of retrograde movement, or at least in a stationary state. Putting over against this statement the actual condition of the present, and in the answers to the question that it ought to have had; find in that same record a heritage of priceless value to you as liberal conservatives, both in principle and in fact. (Applause.)

THE QUESTION OF TIME.

Why, we must take into consideration, ladies and gentlemen, the question of time. When we are looking upon and asking the progress which Canada has made, we are asked to compare the state of any great country in the world today. Look at France, look at Germany, look at Britain, look at Austria and Russia, and when we come to take measure of the conditions today in these countries, have we not advanced with half a century, with a century, with five centuries? No, sir, we have to reckon with time, that goes back century upon century, and century upon century, into a long and distant past, to all the years into which they have been growing up in strength and grandeur, and which they have been growing up into nations. Old France, old Russia, old Austria, and all the great countries of the world have centuries before them attained their position. Time is the great advantage which they have had. Put that alongside of Canada's progress and Canada's condition today, and take this conclusion fairly: That whilst time by centuries has been added to the present condition and status of these great countries, the time that Canada can count is by years almost, as compared with centuries to these great countries of which we have been speaking. Now, as you are asked to give an answer for the faith that is in you as to the status and condition of your country, look upon it in this light, that almost two centuries back we had none of the progress which Canada has today, and we may come down still closer, and say that not very much more than half a century measures the progress that has been made by Canada as a whole united country, such as we have today. Let me ask you one question. Put the time that has been required for the great accumulations and the status of these old countries on the one hand, put the time in which Canada has lived and brought itself to its present condition upon the other, and you will find that the question here tonight, is there any Canadian who sits in this gathering who would change the status, the condition and prospects of Canada today for that of any other of the countries I have mentioned, or any of these physical, material, moral, religious, educational or social? Where is the country that you would be willing to trade to exchange for your own country of Canada? Our progress, our advancement, our condition, whatever it may have been, is a progress and an advancement and condition that has grown up within almost a single half century of years, and compared as it is with the civilization of the world, we have cause for satisfaction in our condition and our status today. Men sitting in this house can look back to the time when the Canada of today was but a fringe of disunited and unconnected provinces, and here and there over the sea coast, the St. Lawrence and the great lakes, from the Atlantic ocean to the Pacific. They can go back not much more than thirty years and find out a time when there were no bonds of union, when there were no bonds of sympathy, when there was nothing like a broad and united patriotism over this country except in sections of the country. Thirty years ago will measure that period.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

The first question then I have to ask actually in bringing these few points before you is, what were we 30 or 50 years ago? Today we are a country which is united for four thousand miles, from the Atlantic ocean to the Pacific, not simply a fringe of provinces disconnected, with sympathies that do not reach into each other, or without ties of communication and modes of getting from one to the other. Here we are a country which has a united Canadian patriotism, whilst 50 years ago the only bond that existed from the Atlantic to the Pacific was that feeling which a Nova Scotian had for his province, that a New Brunswicker had for his province, that a man from British Columbia had for his province who does not know that the very meat and essence of national life, of national greatness and national stability, is that subtle fluid of patriotism which runs through every vein of the body politic, and fuses the lower and baser and more material into that bright, white light of loyalty, and the certain staple quality of national greatness, national firmness, and national progress? Is it a small thing that in thirty or fifty years this great change has been brought about? I said last night, in speaking to men in Owen Sound, that there was one common ground that all could take, and that is the acquiescence of Canadians on the question as to what shall be the status of Canada. It was not so when Mr. Blake's Aurora speech was delivered. It was not so even ten years ago, when the writers and speakers were asking to know what would become of Canada. It was not so five years ago, when the notions and theories of faddists of what was ahead of Canada were being spread from mouth to mouth, and from one part of this country to the other. Today the public mind is at rest as to the status of this country, at rest in that great, broad, deep feeling that the future of Canada is within the hands of its own people, to mould it and develop it, and that around it and about it, keeping it in perfect peace and safety, is that grand old imperial unity of the British empire.

THE PRESENT.

One question more, and you will see that I am dealing in a most fragmentary way with this matter. Today, sir, the position of Canada is different from what it was ten years ago, in another point of view closely converging with this. Where are we situated today, and where were we situated thirty years ago? Geographically, in exactly the same position, nationally, in regard to this great question, we pointed then, in connection with the imperial world-wide interest, to this great country, and said: "Behold the centre of the empire, behold the pathway from the Pacific to the old country, to the isle of Europe, where Canada holds the key to the possession of the great British interest around the world." This is Canada's position today. Canada today beholds her rich stores of coal, looks on what she did not dream of in mineral wealth in her mountains, in the far west as in the far east; beholds her acres, millions upon millions of virgin soil that the most hopeful did not dream existed fifty years ago, opening up to become the granaries of the world. Canada today beholds her two bright bands of steel making an imperial highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and standing here in the central position, being as it were, the backbone of that great imperial procession which begins with the old islands in Europe, and circles across our country and over the Pacific until it comes to the island continents of the Pacific, where a new empire is growing up in prosperity and strength. (Applause.) You see where we were thirty years ago, just a dim picture of what we are today.

THE THIRD QUESTION.

How came we to be what we are today? is the important third question. All this of which we have been speaking but leads up to it. That is the point; how came we to it? We came to be what we are today from the laying down and carrying out of certain lines of policy, without which Canada today would be but a paper combination, without strength and without vitality. What were these great lines of policy, opening up to be carried out? Briefly these: Thirty years ago the inhabitant of New Brunswick found his way to Quebec in a punt, an open boat, a schooner, or maybe, a better class of steamer, but for several months the climate of the country kept him from communication with his brother provinces up in this part of the country. Then was the Intercolonial railway projected, and when projected it was carried out and completed, and ever since the life blood of commerce and communication have flowed from the maritime provinces and flooded across this dominion, coming and going with the speed of traffic. That was but one of the lines laid down. There was the building of the Canadian Pacific railway, and the opening up of the canal system to a greater depth. All this was a line of policy that was the foundation of the national policy laid down by Sir John Macdonald, and held to by the liberal conservative party, and that received the strong and continuous opposition of the liberal party, who opposed it simply because the government proposed it, and they thought their duty to oppose everything brought forward by the conservatives. What more was there? This country could not become great unless its industrial life were advanced. The great line of policy to lay the foundation of Canadian industry, of Canadian life, of Canadian development. That is done, and until today the industries of the country are not only born, but are growing rapidly and strongly, filling the demand of the country and breaking over those bonds, and being sent to all parts of the world in gradually increasing quantities. We came to be what we are today through a policy which was conceived because the party conceiving it had confidence in the resources and future of the country, and were strong enough to carry out that policy, which has brought Canada from a string of disjointed and disunited provinces to the great united country that we are today. These, young gentlemen of the liberal conservative party, are just three thoughts that I throw among you to give you something to pin your political faith to against whatever retrograde and disparagement may be said by parties, whatever their position, and coming out from this heritage the young men enter into a work of still greater responsibility, of still greater grandeur and greater moment, to carry out these principles to a fulfilment, having this broad and wide basis to start upon, to acquire themselves like men, as intelligent citizens, and putting their shoulders to the wheel, to roll on Canadian commerce to what we may become—one of the greatest countries in the world, I care not what one you name. (Applause.) I told you I would be brief. I would like to talk for hours and hours upon our development—(Go on, go on!)—but do not be frightened, I am not going to talk much more tonight. I hope to see the faces of a London audience again before we have another election. I wanted just to put this in as a sort of historical record, following the campaign speech by my colleague, and to go along with the speech that will be made by my friend the minister of railways, who is burning to speak. I want to make this challenge before you and the country tonight, as to the policy of the party of contest as brought down to the level as to which of two sets of men shall be in power. Gentlemen, electors of this city and country, if the liberal conservative party of today have not sense of judgment, turn them out, and put in somebody who does embody a policy which is in accordance with your better sense. Men count but for little in this country, or any country, as simply individuals, but the policy and the principles that count, and that men count only as they embody and try to carry out the right policy. It is not a question in this country as to whether Sir Mackenzie Bowell shall be premier or Mr. Laurier, but the question as to whether the policy of this party shall hold executive departments. The question is, what is best for the trade and development of the country, and what is best as the lines on which the progress of the country shall be made, and which is the body of men that best embody these before the country? Put them in power, and let the question of mere individuals sink out of existence. (Applause.) I am quite certain that when we appeal to the honor and intelligence of the electors of this country, the liberal conservative party will have nothing to fear for the outcome, and we may abide the contest that is coming with perfect confidence, and the principles that we shall speak as they have spoken before, in favor of progress along the lines of the liberal conservative party. (Applause.)

THE MANITOBA QUESTION.

One single word, and then I have done. Allusion has been made, and most briefly made, to one question which is today agitating the public mind to a certain extent, but in my private opinion, publicly expressed, not at all to the extent to which some people would have us believe. Allusion has been made to a question which appears on the political horizon, the vexed Manitoba school question, and I am glad to see many people who lead you to believe and lead the country to believe that so far as that question was concerned, there lay in it a problem in the solution of which the liberal conservative party and government of Ontario are to be commended. Ah, but you could not restore them unless they have been taken away. What then does he want a commission for? To find out whether rights have been taken away, and if so, to restore them? He has never touched it yet. In short, the liberal conservative government, and the party which is keeping them in power today believe that even had justice been done, that the compact of confederation must be carried out. They believe this should be done by the government and the legislature of Manitoba itself, and they spare no pains and take no opportunities to induce the Manitoba legislature to right the wrongs which are complained of, so far as they reasonably should be righted. But this government goes further and plainly states, and what you think of it calmly and fairly in the light of the constitution, that if in the end the minority has a grievance which is not remedied by the power that can best remedy it, namely, the Manitoba legislature, that it is the duty of the liberal conservative government to take all reasonable and proper methods to have that wrong righted, and that grievance remedied themselves. (Loud cheers.)

A REMARKABLE CAT.

Baird & Peters have in their warehouse, Ward street, a cat that knows more of some humans. This remarkable feline does not worry the warehousemen by crying for something to eat. She goes down around the wharf and gets rats. Once the persons in the warehouse were amazed to see her come in with a fish that was still alive, and often you think of it, and capture the fish is not known, but she will not be restricted to a meat diet, nor be content with salt cod. This interesting cat is now the mother of an interesting family. A day or two since the warehouseman found one of the kittens on his desk. He put it down and whipped it. The old cat sat on the winking approval of the punishment. A few minutes later the perverse kitten climbed on the desk again. The warehouseman was about to administer punishment a second time when the old cat ran down, leaped on the desk, gave the kitten a "swipe" with her paw growing at the same time, and sent it spinning to the floor. She went back to her place on the steps.

TWENTY-FIVE FIREMEN

Injured in a Million Dollar Fire in New York.

The Flames Got Beyond the Control of the Firemen

And all the Engines Had to be Brought into Service—Spectators Injured.

New York, Nov. 5.—So fierce, rapid and stubborn was a fire which broke out in a house at 177 Crosby street tonight that before it could be got under control the damage, which is estimated at a million dollars, was done. The flames soon got beyond the control of the firemen that the two "mines" alarms had to be turned in, calling all the engines together. From the point where the fire was first seen, the flames ran through the building which extends from the corner of Crosby and Blocker streets through the 150 foot block until it makes the southeast corner of Broadway and Blocker street. This building was destroyed. From this building the flames got into the structure of Crosby and Blocker streets in the north, the flames shot across narrow Blocker street and caught the enormous building of the Manhattan saving institution, the upper story of which soon crumbled and fell with a great crash, while firemen were working on the lower floors.

At 11:10 o'clock, Deputy Chief Kelly and five of the men were on the fifth and sixth floors of the Manhattan saving institution building when the walls fell. Kelly escaped, but could tell nothing of his men.

At 12:30 o'clock it is said that no firemen were killed, but twenty-five are injured, while the number of spectators who were injured must be very large.

MR. TIMMERMAN'S MARRIAGE.

The General Superintendent of the C. P. R. Married to Miss Drinkwater.

A Brilliant Society Event—Names of Many of the Invited Guests.

Montreal, Nov. 6.—A notable society event in Montreal this afternoon was the marriage in St. Paul's Presbyterian church on Dorchester street of H. P. Timmerman of St. John, general superintendent of the Atlantic division of the C. P. R., to Miss Alice Maud Drinkwater, daughter of Chas. Drinkwater, secretary of the Canadian Pacific railway, resident in this city. Mr. Timmerman arrived from New Brunswick on Tuesday morning's train and registered at the Windsor hotel, where he was the recipient during the afternoon and this morning of many kind references to the approaching event. The gentleman is well known here in railway circles, and the fact that his intended bride is also the daughter of a prominent railway official of high standing in social circles, lent added interest to the wedding.

Shortly before the hour set for the marriage the bridal party embarked in a carriage from Mr. Drinkwater's house at 143 Mackay street and drove to the church, which was crowded with the elite of Montreal, and many more who were drawn there out of curiosity. Miss Drinkwater was supported by her father, who led her up the aisle. Allister Mitchell and Harmond B. Macdonald acted as ushers. Mr. Timmerman had for his best man A. Allan Mackenzie, of the insurance firm of Hare & Mackenzie, agents for the Union Assurance Co. of London. The bridesmaids were Miss Mabel Drinkwater (sister of the bride), Miss Graham, Ottawa (cousin of the bride), Miss Molson, Miss Mabel Taylor of St. John (cousin of the bride), Rev. James Barclay, pastor of St. Paul's, the ultra fashionable Presbyterian church of this city, officiating. The church was tastefully and elegantly decorated.

The bride was dressed in a charming gown of ivory satin brocade, trimmed with chiffon and orange blossoms. Her hair was fastened by a diamond crescent, which, with a shower bouquet of white roses and ferns, was the gift of the groom. The bridesmaids' dresses consisted of cream striped glace silk, encrusted in pink tulle, and having Louis XV. coat, picture, hats of bronzed and white satin crowns and gron feathers, with shower bouquets of pink and white roses, and initial noches in pearls and turquoise, the gifts of the groom.

Mrs. Drinkwater, the mother of the bride, was attired in a handsome gown of black velvet and gron brocade trimmed with beaver, and jet bonnet to match, carrying a bouquet of pink roses.

Among the invited guests were: Sir Wm and Lady Van Horne, Mr. and Mrs. Hector Mackenzie, Mr. and Mrs. H. Montague Allan, the Baroness Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Paterson, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Shaughnessy, the Hon. Mary Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tait, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Hamilton, Miss Hamilton, Mrs. James Ross, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Eadie, Mrs. Eadie, Sir D. and Lady Smith, Miss Justice, and the Misses Irvine (Quebec), Lt. Col. G. R. White, the Misses White, Quebec; Miss Blodays White, Quebec; Hon. John Haggart, Miss Bessie MacDougall, the Rev. Dr. Barclay, Mrs. Barclay, Dr. Graham, the Misses Graham, Hull, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Harrison, the Misses Bayard, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. J. Douglas Hazen, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gardner Taylor, St. John; Dr. R. D. Graham, Hull; Andrew Reford, Miss Reford, Mrs. Camtie, Miss Stearns, Mr. and Mrs. Kingston, the Misses Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Geoffrion, Mr. and Mrs. J. de Wolfe Spurr, Miss Burpee, Mr. and Mrs. Tiffin, St. John. During the passage to and from the pulpit appropriate musical selections were rendered by the organist. The happy pair left for the south by special train and after the tour will take up their residence in St. John. The bride's sister will be married early next month to Allan Mackenzie, son of Hector Mackenzie of Montreal.

(Dartmouth, N. S., Weekly.)

The provincial government of Nova Scotia has made an importation of valuable Hackney horses, consisting in all of ten animals. The purpose of the government is to improve the breeding of fine horses, not only for domestic use, but with an eye to export. During recent years quite large numbers of horses have been sold in England, but they have gone chiefly from Ontario and Quebec, where better animals are bred. During the last fiscal year of which we have record 8,252 horses were exported; of these 3,500 went to England, and 4,752 to the United States; 882 to the West Indies; 51 to British Guiana; 244 to Newfoundland, and the rest to various countries. The number shipped to England shows a marked increase in recent years. Of these 4,714 went from Quebec, but probably they were shipped to the United States by way of Quebec; 2,385 went from Ontario, and only 201 from Nova Scotia.

It can be seen by these returns that even Prince Edward Island is a long way ahead of this province, which has more than four times the population of P. E. I. That the stock in this province requires improving is quite clear. It has also been proved that the best market for good stock is England, the only horse which can be profitably exported to the United States being one which has some distinction in the way of speed. In England, on the other hand, good hackneys bring good prices and these any intelligent horse breeder can raise.

The government, therefore, has made a move, which should do much to point the way for future development. The farmers of the province have, therefore, an admirable opportunity to make a good beginning, which in the end will profit them much.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

To the Editor of The Sun: Sir—Frequently one sees in your paper under the head of marriages, the following: "Mr. A. B. C. married to Miss D. E. F." or "Miss D. E. F. married to Mr. A. B. C."

Will you kindly state which is the more nearly correct? Is the man married to the woman, or the woman married to the man? The Church of England clergyman asks, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" Are we to infer, therefore, that notices should be written as stated above in the second instance? By answering you will oblige. RECTOR.

(The English form of marriage notice is generally followed in this province. The following example, taken from a recent issue of the London Telegraph, will probably strike our correspondent as being good authority: BENNETT-GWYNNE on the 6th inst., at St. Paul's church, A. B. C. N. W., by the Vicar of the Parish, assisted by the Rev. J. Lionel Bennett, M. A., Minor Canon of Durham Cathedral, brother of the bridegroom, Arthur George Bennett, M.R.C.S., and the Rev. J. W. Bennett, M. A., Vicar of St. Paul's, to Agnes, eldest daughter of the late Henry Anderson Gwynne, of Hanwell, Middlesex. No cards.)

There are some very good people who love to tell bad news.

BUSINESSLIKE BEGGARS.

The beggars of Paris have a regular "Directory of Benefactors," in two editions—a small one at sixty cents and a large one for $1.20. These books give the names of persons known to be benevolent, also their religion and political faith; also the hour at which they may be found at home, etc. The "religious racket" is very remunerative, it seems. An old rag-picker at Clincly lately confessed that last winter her child was baptized twelve times in Protestant churches and ten times in Catholic ones; each time the mother received one franc and a new dress. When epidemics are raging the beggar asks for contributions on the plea that his her offspring is down with diphtheria, croup, etc., and many people quickly respond in order to get rid of what they believe to be a very dangerous class of people.

As stated in Monday's Sun, the difficulty between the St. Lawrence Lumber Co. and Adams & Co. of New York, has been settled and the owners are now Adams & Co. of New York.

Mr. Burns also bought up the debts connected with the Bathurst business. His firm, Adams & Co. of New York, are now owners of all the New Brunswick property and business formerly held by the St. Lawrence Lumber Co.

The business and the mills would, he said, probably be managed by T. D. Adams and the Messrs. Burns of Bathurst, brothers-in-law of S. Adams. The cut for the two mills will probably be between six and eight per cent, as operations have been begun earlier than expected.

The Sun showed Mr. Adams the following paragraph from the O'Connell World: "It is estimated that Adams & Co. of New York and Bathurst, who have bought the St. Lawrence Lumber Co.'s mill and lands in Gloucester, will build a railway from Gloucester to Tracadie. Subsidies are available for this branch. It is rumored also that T. D. Adams is likely to be the liberal conservative candidate for the commons in Gloucester."

Never Swap Horses WHEN Crossing a Stream. Don't even swap your money for a Condition Powder unless you know something about the Powder or the men who make it. Take no chances on strange horses or strange medicine or you may have reason to regret it. Buy where you can go back next day and get back your money if dissatisfied—this is what we offer. But you won't go back; you will be too well satisfied with the results obtained. Manchester's Tonic Condition Powder is the standard Horse Medicine in the Provinces today. Strengthening and appetizing, it clears the system of worms and thoroughly purifies the blood, leaving the horse in the pink of condition and with a skin like velvet. We stake our reputation on it and guarantee results.

NEWFOUNDLAND. St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 8.—The preliminary inquiry against the directors of the Union bank is drawing to a close, and is expected to end on Tuesday next. The directors filed lengthy answers at today's hearing to the charges formulated against them by the crown. They recite the circumstances of their personal and collective connections with the bank, their duties as directors, the condition of the bank's accounts, and the manner of making up the yearly reports, the statements of which are alleged to be false. The documents are very voluminous and make an apparently satisfactory answer to allegations of the prosecution, but the manager of the bank certainly sent them up for trial, as was done with the directors of the Commercial bank. Details of another scandal are promised tomorrow.

One of the Crew is Said to be Henry Adams of Brussels Street. (From The Daily Sun of the 7th.) No word was received yesterday from Halifax or Mosher's harbor relative to the schooner towed into the harbor bottom up. There seems to be no doubt but that it is the Adria. Her managing owner, J. Fred Watson, telegraphed Mr. Colwell at Bridgewater yesterday asking him if he was sure that it was the Adria. Mr. Watson's selection to send his report if it was his vessel, but as yet he has received no reply. Mr. Colwell stated in his telegram on Wednesday that he was sending a letter, but it has not reached him yet.

It is a sad news here who composed the crew of the schooner. When he left St. John his mate was a Norwegian named John Troke. John McBride of Digby was steward. That is about all that could be learned yesterday concerning the crew. The following despatches were received yesterday from Chatham: "The crew of the scho. Adria, reported to have been shipped here, was not shipped at this port or at the port of New Brunswick. One of the crew who was known here, was Henry Adams, aged 19, of Brussels street, St. John. The mate of the Adria, Thos. P. Martin of P.E. Island, left her at this port."

The Adria's owners are J. F. Watson, Geo. P. and J. M. P., J. W. Keast and Capt. Wilband. (From The Daily Sun of the 8th.) J. Fred Watson, the managing owner of the scho. Adria, leaves today for La Have to have the schooner towed into the harbor bottom up. Mr. Watson has a vessel which was towed into the harbor at the same time. It is a large vessel, and the wrecked vessel is the Adria, but the probabilities are that it is a large vessel. Mr. Watson received a letter yesterday from a B. B. Colwell, dated Nov. 5th, in which that gentleman states that the scho. Viola, from Chatham for New York, which was towed into the harbor on the 1st of October to avoid the storm of Friday week, reported that she had been in company with a three-masted vessel which kept on. Mr. Colwell feared that she must have been capsized in the storm. The matter of the vessel which arrived at Mosher's harbor said he had visited the wreck and identified the schooner as the Adria. He was in possession of the vessel in his capacity as inspector of wrecks. He promised to do all in his power to save the hull and the cargo of the vessel. He said he was sure that the vessel was the Adria, and that he would be glad to identify the vessel well for their inability to identify the vessel was that she was so deep in the water. PRICES IN P. E. ISLAND. A St. John commercial man who has just returned from P. E. Island, says that the islanders are experiencing much difficulty in disposing of their potatoes at any price, the immense crop in other parts of the maritime provinces and in the state of Maine having almost completely glutted the market. All kinds of potatoes, Prolifics included, along shore sell at from 14 to 18c. per bushel, while inland, with long hauls to overcome, the price is but 10 cts. per bushel delivered. Many games of various sorts and music were resumed until the hour for separation arrived. The happy gathering dispersed, leaving, in a tangible form, many tokens of the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Jones are held.

THE WEEKLY SUN.

ST. JOHN, N. B., NOV. 12, 1895.

IMPERIAL PROTECTION.

It is charged that those journals in this country which refer to Lord Salisbury's interesting remarks on the failure of the free trade policy are "gloating over" the prospective taxation by England of Canadian produce.

A fact is a fact. Great Britain has adopted a protective policy in respect to cattle. The nation may sooner or later do so in respect to other farm products.

The advantage of such a declaration, as compared with the present system, would be that producing countries like Canada would adapt themselves to the conditions of things.

It is something more than a dream. It may not be realized for a long time, but we are working toward it with every increase in our surplus of Canadian wheat and live stock and dairy produce.

THEY WILL LIVE.

If there could be an excuse for lynching, Kansas furnishes one. Two toughs in the town of Kinsley butchered the mayor two years ago.

PROTECTION AND THE CATTLE SCHEDULE.

The announcement that the British government has resolved upon a policy permanently excluding all imported live stock except for slaughter at British ports, is not official, but may be true.

cattle were shut out. The ostensible reason for the exclusion was the alleged existence in Canada of the contagious disease pleuro-pneumonia.

From the beginning there has been a shrewd suspicion that the policy of exclusion was intended not so much to protect British herds from disease as to protect the British market from competition.

The retirement of Professor Lawson of Dalhousie has been speedily followed by his death. Nova Scotia has lost a man of science who devoted his learning to the public service.

Many Canadian cattle shippers and drovers are of the opinion that it pays better to ship fat cattle for immediate slaughter than to export lean animals for sale to the Scotch grazier.

Great Britain in adopting a policy of protection does not do it by halves. Protection to the live stock market is absolute prohibition.

THE OPPOSITION LEADERSHIP.

The valued Telegraph seems to be anxious that the Sun should discuss Dr. Stockton's position and qualifications as an opposition leader.

In this constituency he and his colleagues have overcome every the appearance of opposition. The fact that the government has won an election is no more a reflection on Mr. Stockton than a like success on other occasions was a reflection on Mr. Wetmore or Mr. Hanington.

The remark that the New York marriage is "a title wed to millions" seems to be unjust. A worthy young man has married a charming young woman. All the rest is accident.

The retirement of Professor Lawson of Dalhousie has been speedily followed by his death. Nova Scotia has lost a man of science who devoted his learning to the public service.

The girls in council at Halifax have decided to send to Ottawa a liberal majority from the lower provinces to the next house of commons.

BOSTON FISH MARKET.

From Our Own Correspondent. There is nothing absolutely new in the fish trade at this port at present. The same old story regarding the scarcity and consequent firmness of mackerel still holds true.

At the residence of the Rev. D. Sutherland, the editor of the Prince Edward Islander, E. T. Carboneil, was married to Miss Catherine McDougald, daughter of Captain N. McDougald of this city.

AMHERST.

Amherst, N. S., Nov. 11.—John Hickey and Chas. White, awaiting trial for burglaries at River Hebert and Joggins, were this afternoon summoned for trial on the further charge of burglarizing Sargeant Bros' store at Nelson, N. B., on October 14th, and stealing valuables to the amount of $500.

BOSTON LUMBER MARKET.

A Boston letter says: What worries the more than any other factor in the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick lumbermen to do an increased business in the New England market next year.

Conducted By J. W. Manchester, V. S., St. John, N. B.

The Weekly Sun takes pleasure in notifying its readers that it has perfected arrangements with J. W. Manchester, V. S., whereby all questions with respect to diseases of the lower animals will be answered by him, and treatment prescribed in those cases where it is asked for through the columns of the Sun.

All enquiries must be addressed: VETERINARY DEPARTMENT, Weekly Sun, St. John, N. B.

R. P.—I have a eleven-year-old horse with a bad sand-crack. It is quite lame when he walks. What had I better do?

Ans.—Let your blacksmith bottom the crack carefully with his knife; then bring the opposing edges of the shell as closely together as possible and saw them in position by means of a small metal plate fastened to the shell by small screws.

James C.—I have a fine driving mare. In order to keep her tall out of the mud I tied it up tightly with a ring. Now the end of the tail seems dead and a good deal of matter comes from it. Please advise me.

Ans.—Remove the tail above the diseased part by means of a bone chisel, and cauterize to stop bleeding; then treat as an ordinary wound, a good wash being a saturated solution of borax-acid.

Inquirer—Can an enlarged cord that was caused by pneumonia be cured by giving medicine internally?

Ans.—No. The one cure is complete surgical removal of the growth.

Sussex, Nov. 11.—The remains of the late Mrs. Captain Partelow were conveyed to Dorchester for interment this morning.

Inspector Weyman, Constables Cusack and Alward of Havelock, assisted by Jesse Prescott, yesterday forced an entrance into a building which for some time past has been occupied by a family named Eatherston in search of liquors. It is said no liquors were found, but Mrs. Eatherston and a young man by the name of John Finnigan were arrested and conveyed to Hampton on a charge of violating the Scott act. It is stated the constables had authority to arrest the head of the house, but he was not at home.

"No," said young Spooner, "I wasn't really mad when my father drove me from the house; but I will admit that I was put out."

The International Steamship Co. will continue the three trips until further notice.

A. Lockhart sold a fresh lot of land, 40x100, on British street, belonging to the estate of the late Thos. W. Peters, to A. M. Phillips, at $35. The lot was sold subject to the widow's dower.

The causes of death reported at the board of health office for the week ending Nov. 9th were: Bronchitis, 2; consumption, 3; paralysis, 2; convulsions, 2; hemorrhage of lungs, 1; acute bronchitis, 1; old age, 1; uremia, 1; pneumonia, 1; bronchitis and jaundice, 1; still born, 1; chronic diarrhoea, 1; scarlet fever, 1; gangrene of feet, 1; total, 19.

Curry Bros. & Bent, contractors of Bridgetown, are at work on a station at Wilnot for the D. A. R., and three stations for the Coast Railway company of Yarmouth. They have just closed contracts for two buildings in Halifax, a manse on Robb street and a store and warehouse for Martin, Young & Co., Barrington street.

Reports from the upper St. John are to the effect that the logs which are hung up near Bristol will come out. Wm. H. Murray received a telegram from Woodstock on Saturday stating that there would be no trouble in getting out all the logs except about a million belonging to Dunn Bros. & Co. at Aroostook Falls. The logs hung up are valued at $125,000.

The death of Mrs. Randidge of Boston makes available the large fortune of her husband, the late George L. Randidge. The bulk of this is to be divided among the St. John heirs, as already stated in the Sun, but there are a few other bequests. One, which the executors announce they will pay soon as they can sell the real estate, is of $50,000 to the city of Boston. The interest of this money is to be used annually in providing as many out-door excursions as possible to the children of the poor during the months of July and August.

The Furness line steamer Danara arrived at Halifax on Saturday with a large cargo for this port, including about seven thousand boxes of raisins on through bills of lading from the Mediterranean. On the return trip to London the steamer will load 50 standard birch planks from W. M. Mackay, 150 loads timber for Jarvis Wilson, about 20 tons of cheese from Woodstock, and a quantity of western cargo which will be loaded at the C. P. R. wharf, Sand Point, being the commencement of the winter port trade which the Furness line has made arrangements with the C. P. R. to bring here during the coming season after the close of navigation on the St. Lawrence.

John Newman of Lancaster, who was convicted before Justice Macdonald for violation of the Liquor License act some time ago and imprisoned, has obtained a rule nisi for certiorari, which has been served on the county officials. It is said that several suits may arise out of these proceedings. On Monday last J. E. Fitzgerald, the Dock street plumber and steam fitter, ordered an Oxford boiler from Montreal for the Bank of British North America. It reached this city on Friday night and on Saturday it was in position and steam turned on. This is pretty quick work.

A service was held in St. Luke's church yesterday afternoon, when his lordship the Bishop of Huron preached to the children, taking his text from Psalms cxlii, 10: "Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet and a bright light unto my path." A large number of children, parents and friends were present. The rector, Rev. A. P. McKim, conducted the service.

Mention was made in the Sun the other day of the watch and chain awarded Capt. Wyman of the bark Buteshire by the crew of an American schooner. Capt. Wyman says the builder of the life boat by which the rescue was effected should receive some credit. The boat, which was built here by Archibald Dibble & Broad street, in Capt. Wyman's opinion the equal of any he has ever seen. He says no boat could have stood the test better than this one did.

About two o'clock Sunday morning fire broke out in a shop occupied by Luther Smith on Winslow street, Carleton. The cause appeared to have been an over-heated stove, which set fire to a barrel of sugar. The floor was considerably burned and the stock badly damaged both by smoke and water. The damage is probably $200 or $300 and the insurance $500.

Chief of Police Clark arrived home from Halifax on Saturday night. He brought with him Abner Crawford, the boarding house thief, and a lot of stuff which was stolen from the St. John Opera house. The chief says he received every kindness at the hands of Chief O'Sullivan and his men, who seem always ready to lend a hand to help the chief in his work. The chief against Crawford is that he stole $49 from Harry King on the 6th inst. Fifteen dollars was found concealed in the sleeve of his overcoat and $10 in the sleeve of his under coat. The Opera house staff secured in Walter Matheson's warehouse on Peake's No. 1 wharf. Mr. Lord has also seized the boat in which the goods were brought here. As the man in charge of the boat refused to tell to whom the lobster belonged, Mr. Lord was unable to interview the owner respecting the legality of the catch. He, therefore, made the seizure for an infraction of the fisheries act, seizing the boat for carrying fish illegally caught."

The Sun's Bathurst Village correspondent writes under date of Oct. 31st: The young people of this vicinity spent a very pleasant evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smyth, and surprised them with a walnut extension table. There were no lack of refreshments of all kinds during the entertainment. The hours spent in games and dancing. Violin music was furnished by J. McIntosh. After partaking of a sumptuous lunch provided by the ladies, Mr. Smyth expressed his thanks in a very suitable manner. The young people then went to their respective homes feeling well satisfied with the success of the evening.

Messrs. Moore have had a crew on the river for the past two weeks, but it has been impossible to make much progress, says the Woodstock Press. The fall of the drive was on Giberson's bar, above Bath, and it has only been moved four or five miles yet. Two or three feet more water is necessary to carry down what lumber now lies between Bristol and the booms, and unless rain comes soon the most, or perhaps all of that lumber will be lost. Should rain come so as to make a week of fair driving before the river closes the lumber may be run into the Douglas boom and there protected from the spring freshet, otherwise it will be almost a total loss.

The death occurred early on Saturday morning, at the residence of Wm. Maxwell, Church street, Amherst, of Mrs. Berry, wife of the late Martin Berry, after an illness of several months. The deceased was a daughter of the late William Ayer of Sackville, N. B. She leaves one daughter, Viola, to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate mother. Mrs. Wm. Maxwell of Amherst is a sister of the deceased. She also had three brothers, John, George and Cyrus of Sackville, and two sisters, Marian and Elizabeth, married, in Sackville; one brother, Elijah, in Dorchester, and Mariner, in California. Deceased was 45 years of age.

The cut of logs on the upper St. John this winter will be considerably larger than that of last year. The cut on the St. John above the Grand Falls will total about eighty millions. About twenty-five millions will be got out on the Tobique, which is larger than last year's cut. The cut on the Aroostook will fall short. The operators are Allan Heston, who will get out about three million on Black Brook and Half Way Brook for Gushing & Co.; Robt. Aiken, who will cut about two million for Miller & Woodman at the head of the Madawaska, and Cornelius Heston, who has contracted to get out a million on the St. Croix for W. H. Murray.

Says the Charlottetown Examiner: "Thursday afternoon Mr. Lord seized 15 cases of lobsters and 19 cases of empty lobster cans, brought here from Cape Tormentine today in a boat owned by Frank Harper of that place. He seized the empty cans because they bore the letters C. E. M., these being the initials of the fishery officer at Fort Egin, and they were evidently being taken back to be refilled. He found the empty cans in the hold of the boat. The lobsters were not seized until after they had been taken from the boat and placed in Walter Matheson's warehouse on Peake's No. 1 wharf. Mr. Lord has also seized the boat in which the goods were brought here. As the man in charge of the boat refused to tell to whom the lobster belonged, Mr. Lord was unable to interview the owner respecting the legality of the catch. He, therefore, made the seizure for an infraction of the fisheries act, seizing the boat for carrying fish illegally caught."

THE CATHEDRAL MISSION

Closing Services for the Women and Opening for the Men.

Rev. Father Devlin Preaches on Purgatory as a Place of Punishment.

Authorities Cited in Proof of the Existence of an Intermediate Place.

(From The Daily Sun of the 11th.)

The mission for women closed at the cathedral yesterday afternoon, the service being a very impressive one. The sermon was preached by Rev. Father O'Bryan, and the service was brought to a close by the papal blessing and the benediction.

Father O'Bryan announced that this evening the ladies were requested to meet for the purpose of forming a league of the Sacred Heart.

At high mass yesterday morning Rev. Father Devlin was the preacher. Before entering upon his sermon the rev. gentleman spoke of the mission for men which opened last night. He expressed the hope that the men would attend in as large numbers as the ladies had done.

Father Devlin took for his text: Job xix, 21st verse: Have pity on me, have pity on me, at least you my friends, because the hand of the Lord hath touched me.

The preacher began by stating that charity needed and required of us that we should love our neighbor as ourselves. Our neighbor was mankind, regardless of creed, nationality, or color. It did not matter whether he was rich or poor, a man was our neighbor. We must love him as ourselves, otherwise we could not pretend to be disciples of Christ or to love God.

The charity extended not only to the living but to the dead. We must love the dead as well as the living. We must show charity to the dead by giving help and assistance to those on earth. As Christians we should not grieve over the dead as those who had no hope. The church taught us that family ties were not broken by death. If we visited the cemeteries and read the inscriptions on the monuments we could not but hear our friends and relatives calling out to us in the words of the words of the psalmist: "Remember me, O Lord, when thou shalt visit thy church."

The preacher had plucked a flower from his father's grave in Ireland and taken a sod in order that the remembrance of those so dear should never fade. The church desired these symbols and signs to speak to us that we should give the dear ones remembrance in our prayers. We could help those in the other world, those in the intermediate state, in purgatory. We were taught that the dead were helped by the prayers of the living and by the holy sacrifice of the mass which we could have at all times offered. The blood of Jesus Christ cleansed the souls of men from every stain and imperfection. We could cause the streams of redemption which were poured on the world to flow to purgatory. The infallible church taught us that there was a purgatory and that souls in purgatory could be helped by our prayers. The church did not define the nature of the sufferings in purgatory, but the duration of their intensity. They were great indeed we were taught, in fact it was impossible for the mind of man to conceive of the greatest of them. He was dealing with a matter of faith, which purgatory was. This doctrine must be based on the Holy Scripture or tradition. The warranty for the belief must be found in the Scriptures. Here the rev. gentleman took up the Old Testament and said in it we find the proof of the existence of purgatory. The word purgatory did not appear therein. Neither did the word Suffer. This was equal to true concerning other things. We had to accept them on the strength of the Scriptures. We read that Judas Maccabean made arrangements to have his soldiers prayed for. On the dead bodies of some of them were found offerings which they had taken from their enemies. The latter had intended to give these offerings to their gods. Judas had seen that the offerings were given to his men. Judas had taken these things, so he sent 5,000 drachmas in order that sacrifices should be offered for them. He did not believe the men's souls were in hell. He was satisfied that they were in the intermediate place of purgatory, which they committed in taking these offerings was done in a time of excitement. If they had consulted their cool judgment the probabilities were that they would not have done such a thing. Judas had seen that the circumstances mitigated the sin. That they would be punished he was satisfied, but he did not think it would be in hell. Where then could it be except in the intermediate place. He sent the drachmas to have the dead soldiers' souls prayed for. From the religion of the Jews, therefore, we were bound to admit that they believed in an intermediate place, as out of hell there was no redemption. If these men's souls were in hell it would avail nothing to pray for them. Judas did not believe it was worth while to pray for them if they were in heaven. Those in heaven no longer required our masses or our prayers. Some people, seeing the strength and force of this argument, said the book was not canonical. While the preacher did not admit that such was the case, he was willing for the sake of argument to give in that it was not canonical. What did it teach us? It testified as to what was the custom and practice of the Jews in Judas Maccabean's time. They believed in an intermediate place, no matter by what name it was called, an intermediate place where sins could be forgiven. It showed that they prayed for the dead. When Christ came on earth did he criticize or revoke the custom? Why the Jews still prayed for their dead, Christ was bound to condemn this practice if it was wrong. There were passages in the Scriptures which showed that he approved of the practice. Turning to St. Matthew, the preacher showed that there were sins which could not be forgiven. This went to show that there were sins which could

ST. JOHN SCHOONER

Lost and the Captain and Crew Landed at Baltimore.

The Frances, Managed by R. C. Elkin Abandoned at Sea.

For Several Days the Men Suffered Much Hardship Through Severe Weather.

(From The Daily Sun of the 9th.)

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—Stewart's barkentine schooner, Capt. Clages, from Rio Janeiro, made fast at Jackson's wharves this morning, having on board a shipwrecked crew. The rescued are: Captain John H. Gessner, who commanded the sch. Frances of St. John, N. B., and his wife, Miss Gessner, whose home is at Annapolis, N. S.; Mate Jas. MacDonald, P. E. I.; Stewart Harry Davis of New Brunswick; Seaman Geo. Herman of Massachusetts; Richard Collier of Ashville, N. C.; Richard Delmore of California; and three of the crew.

"We were on Jackson's wharf on October 13th, with 261 tons of pine lumber for Demerara, British Guiana," said Capt. Gessner, in relating his experience. "The cargo was consigned to E. Lopez & Co. We anchored at Mayport until five o'clock on the 14th. For eight days we had gales from the eastward, accompanied by terrific seas. On Oct. 23rd the vessel made a little more water than usual. I ordered the deckload of timber thrown overboard on the 24th, the vessel began to sink rapidly and I ordered the foremast and jib staystays to be cut away. The sea continued to break over the vessel and the long boat was launched from the stern deck and a line was made fast to the sinking Frances and we were towed by her.

"We were in the boat three-quarters of an hour when we sought the deck of the wreck again. There was not a drop of water in the ship and our men were so exhausted that we had no matches to make a fire. "Robert Collier, a 15 year old Californian, found 46 potatoes. My wife got an empty tin can and by driving nails through it she made a grate. The potatoes were permitted and then in squeezing the pulp, she produced a juice, which was used to moisten our parched throats.

"At noon on Oct. 26th, a bark was seen steering nearly due east for about two points across our quarter. I took her to be the steamer, and we were in our boat. We approached so near that I could see the man at the wheel, but no notice was taken of us. While returning, Bree picked up a bottle floating near the mass of the boat. Returning on board we each took a mouthful of the yeast. It went around but once.

After rigging a mast and a sail to our boat another sail was sighted. The mate and four of our crew went out in a small boat. They returned unsuccessfully.

On Oct. 22 the mate thought he saw a vessel coming in sight. Every one got up to see. We were out and three miles from our boat. We were rescued at last, when we found it to be one of the masts of the Frances.

Reaching the vessel again we found in the spirit compartment about a quart of alcohol. I drew it out and gave one to each of our crew. Our stove was in pieces lying about the deck. We braced it up, powder was taken from a cartridge and dried. Then a corn beef can was found in which was placed small splinters of wood and water. All this was sprinkled with the powder. A blank cartridge was placed by the revolver and the revolver fired. The powder lighted and a fire was kindled. Then we got fresh water by condensing the salt water. The vessel saw our signals and bore down upon us. It was the Norwegian barkentine Enterprise, Capt. Poulsen, bound from Mobile to Havre. We were all taken on board. We refer to the greatest consideration.

On Nov. 3 Capt. Poulsen sighted the bark Priscilla." (Sch. Frances was a vessel of 233 tons, was built here in 1889 by E. McKinnon, and was owned by R. E. Elkin. She was a fine schooner.)

A TELEPHONE IN THE STOMACH. Peculiar Phenomena of Human Nature.

In an age when that subtle force electricity is preating wonders to the world almost daily, and the Wizard of Menlo Park has become the hero of the hour, there seems to be nothing that we may not expect in this direction. But it was not left to an Edison to establish a telephone in the stomach of human beings. The Great Maker of man in the economy of human nature provided such an instrument centuries ago. It is a fact that within the stomach of every man and woman there is a little instrument that telephones to the nerve centres in the brain as quickly as any food reaches that part. When for any reason this communication is stopped the food is undigested and physical trouble ensues. With word promptly sent from stomach to nerve centres, these supply the necessary juice that aids digestion, and nature successfully does her part, good health is enjoyed and man is able to perform with energy and pleasure his everyday duties. It will happen at times that these nerve centres will become deranged and lose their force; then it is that a remedy must be supplied, just as the skill of the electrician is necessary when something goes wrong with any office telephone. South American Nerve is the electrician, so far as the human body is concerned. It is a medicine unique and exceptional in this particular that it works directly upon the nerve centres, and when these are out of order it quickly places them in proper repair and completeness. Nearly all the diseases, especially indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous

STARVATION REPORTED.

The Jamaica Mail Steamer Brings Sad News From St. Elizabeth District.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 10.—Distressing stories of starvation were brought by mail steamer from Jamaica tonight.

The district of St. Elizabeth, comprising 6,000 persons, is a most deplorable condition, brought about by the failure of early crops by drought and the devastation of the second crops by a visitation of caterpillars. The government of the colony has provided one thousand pounds, the parochial board of St. Elizabeth, five hundred pounds, and private donors totalled another five hundred pounds, but this will soon be exhausted.

Two families have already been reported, an old woman and a girl. Many of the poorer people are absolutely nude, and whole families living for weeks on a little poor flour and sugar. Others are subsisting on cactus and wild plants, and unless extensive relief comes soon many people, old and young, must die from famine and want of even the bare necessities. In many instances mothers are offering to give their little children away to strangers to save their lives.
