SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST
HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 3 and 25, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

DUTIES.—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause Pain in congestion, pain in blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and he proves it by his famous little pink tablets. The tablets called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets, which drive blood pressure away from pain centers, is a charming, pleasingly delightful, gently, though mildly, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's a painful period with women, same cause. If you have rheumatism, neuralgia, neuralgia, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brush your finger and doesn't get red, and small and pale foot. Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—everywhere. It's simply common sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets "ALL DEALERS"

Coming, the Airship

Readers of the daily papers cannot fail to note the increasing frequency of local items, despatches and articles on the balloon and the air ship. Now it is an account in a Toronto paper of a balloon race; now a despatch from Baddeck about Graham Bell's progress with his tetrahedral kites, again we have a notable flight by Wright Brothers, Count Zeppelin or some other of the many inventors working towards the conquest of the air.

The prediction is freely made that within a few years airships will be as common as automobiles or gasoline launches. We are in the period of the perfecting of a new method of locomotion. Just what the effect of the change will be it is impossible to say, but it is fraught with tremendous possibilities. It may mean the extinction of the railroad and the ocean liner, which may become as dead as the stage coach is to-day, a toy for a Vanderbilt of the 21st century are the Curtis' Wrights, Bells and the others who are the Stevensons of the air ship.

New Provincial Health Act

Fredericton, July 31.—At a meeting of the Provincial Board of Health, held at St. John recently, a resolution was passed making the provincial regulations apply to all cities and incorporated towns. The resolution must be approved by the lieutenant governor-in-council before becoming law in this city. The regulations referred to are the same special provisions which were made to apply to St. John and Moncton at the time of their enactment and which among other things give the local board of health power to appoint sewerage and plumbing inspectors and to make it compulsory for any property in the city to be connected with the sewerage system. Some time ago the regulations were made to apply to the town of Campbellton and several weeks ago the local board made application to have the regulations come into force in Fredericton. The provincial board has also determined that it is time to have another public health act for the province. The present act has been in force since 1889 and is inconsistent in parts as well as being far from up-to-date. The acts of Ontario, Manitoba and other provinces and recommendations from the local boards of health will be used to make up a new act, which it is hoped to have enacted at the next session of the legislature.

A GREAT EXHIBITION FEATURE Machinery Hall In the St. John Exhibition to be Part of the Big Show

The big boilers in the Machinery Hall of the Exhibition building in St. John were tested the other day and found in first class condition. Now that they are sure of plenty of power the applications to show machinery in motion are becoming a feature of the big show.

There is nothing more interesting in an exhibition than a well stocked Machinery Hall, such as St. John will have.

Some splendid amusement features have already been booked, the railways and steamboats are making rates that will induce most every one to visit St. John Exhibition week, and there the people are making all sorts of plans to make their stay pleasant.

These include just now a decorated city—a competition in decorations having developed within the last week.

Remember the date, September 12th to 19th.

An Albert County Poet

An Albert county boy has composed the following poem, which is a rather creditable production for a youth still in his teens:

In sailing o'er the sea of life, my brother do not think,
If you should leave the progress craft, and go to wreck and sink,
Don't feel that you possess the earth, and all that in it lies,
And hold a chattel mortgage on the planets in the skies.
You are but a tiny, single drop of water in the sea
Of all the great and active tide of humanity,
And you should always bear in mind the smallness of your might,
The earth will spin on just the same when you drop out of sight.

Though you be rich in gold and lands and bear an honored name,
Though as a star you glitter in the firmament of fame,
Remember that the humblest man you scornfully pass by
Will stand your equal at the bar of justice up on high.
And when by hand of fate, the seals of that Great Book are riven,
The man of toil may be a prince, the king shut out of heaven,
And you should always bear in mind the smallness of your might,
The earth will never feel a jolt when you drop out of sight.

Though you may think yourself above the honest working man,
And look on him as dross, while you're a nugget in the pan;
The proudest monarch of the earth will some day take his stand
As humble as the lowest slave that breezes ever fanned.
Now just consider what you are; don't for a moment think
That in the endless chain of life you are a leading link;
But you should always bear in mind the smallness of your might,
The earth will never slip a clog when you drop out of sight.

Weak Women Read Below

One woman in three is struggling against weakness.

Are you one of the weak ones?

Not exactly sick, but oh, how miserable! You discharge your daily duties, but who can measure the burden, the trial? Talk of bravery, where find a finer spirit than among half-sick women, fighting, struggling to do their duty against terrible odds—and they never give up until they drop.

If you could put a drop of blood under the microscope the cause would be revealed.

You would find the blood thin and watery, red cells far too few, the carrier of life very greatly reduced in vitality, and this means slow death.

Ferrozone cures weakness by fortifying both appetite and digestion, and making plenty of blood.

Ferrozone cures weakness by supplying nutrition and building material, by giving the body the constituents it requires for restoring tired organs.

It gives vim, vigor and endurance. Ferrozone is a tissue builder.

It adds force to all the vital functions—the stomach, liver, kidneys.

Ferrozone gives sound sleep, sound digestion, promotes perfect removal of all the body wastes.

Ferrozone makes the body glow with health.

Any weak, pale or sickly woman that Ferrozone won't cure—why she must be hopeless. Wonderful power in Ferrozone, wonderful cures it makes, and this you can prove by trying it. Sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

Gleanings About Canada's Fisheries

Government reports, crammed as many of them are with tables of statistics, are apt to be dry reading. But, if you persevere, you can easily find something to interest you even in a government report. Some times, as the TRIBUNE once showed by reference to the report of the Postmaster General of the Dominion, you will even find amusing things in those blue books despite their uninviting appearance. The Fisheries report just issued does not provide much in the way of amusement but it certainly has some interesting facts tucked away between its covers. The worst feature of these reports, by the way, is that very system of "tucking" things away. This Fisheries report tells us, among other things, that the fisheries of Canada are the most extensive in the world. Do you know that the eastern sea coast of the Maritime Provinces from the Bay of Fundy to the Straits of Belleisle covers a distance of 5,600 miles, which is more than double that of Great Britain and Ireland while salt water in shore area covers more than 1,500 square miles? These figures, of course do not include the area of the lakes in Manitoba and other parts of the west. And do you know that the total expenditure on account of the various services in connection with the fisheries of the Dominion for the fiscal period ending last March was over $600,000? Do you know that during the season of 1906 the deep sea fishermen of the Maritime Provinces received over $159,000 in bounties on their catches that of this sum Nova Scotia received nearly double the total amount received by Quebec, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island put together; that since the inception of the bounty system in 1882 nearly $4,000,000 has been paid by the Dominion to the fishermen of these four provinces to aid them in developing their fisheries; that in New Brunswick Prince Edward Island and Quebec the value of the catches in 1906 was greater than in 1905, the banner year in the history of Canadian fisheries; that the value of the salmon catch in 1906 was over $5,800,000, of the cod catch $3,471,186, of the lobster catch $3,422,927, of the herring $2,704,596, of mackerel $1,369,728, while among the other fish even the despised eels that were caught were worth over $128,000—did you know these things about Canada's fisheries? During the season the value of the bait alone was over half a million and the fur seal skins secured by British Columbia hunters were worth $316,224. There are many other points that might be culled from the report but enough have been given to show that after all a government report isn't all as dry as dust.

Two Steamers in an Exciting Race

Bangor Commercial: The second counter occurred on the river T day, July 23, the steamers both le their respective docks at about the time, the Aurora having a slight ter start. From Calais to the water the Aurora succeeded in holding a slight lead over the Eaton, but the latter quickly passed her old-time rival and to the delight of her passengers led the former queen of the fleet until Red Beach was reached, where the Eaton had to make her landing. There was a big crowd of excursionists on board the Aurora, mainly from the Canadian side of the river and the defeat of their favorite boat by the reputedly slow Eaton had a bitter pill for them to swallow. It was reported here on Thursday afternoon that during the race the Aurora had run ashore on St. Croix island, the rumor causing friends of the excursionists no small amount of worry, but the report proved to be without foundation the Aurora making her trip to Grand Manan and back without the slightest mishap, other than the loss her reputation.

The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Sloop's Restorative. First, these tiny insides Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas belching, Heart palpitation, or falling Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these failing nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the gain. A test will tell. Sold by All Dealers.

Figure Training

When I was a girl I was very much impressed with an address I heard at school. A Lady Lecturer had come one afternoon to give a lesson on what was then an unknown "fad" (not, as now, a science), "physical culture and hygiene." After speaking long and earnestly on the beauty of unrestrained curves and the malformation of tight corsets, she said, "I will now let two sketches speak for themselves, only first apologizing to you if you are hurt by the ugliness and indecency of a nude figure in one case, an indecency that is artificially imposed." She then showed us a life-size sketch of a beautiful Venus, shapely and exquisite, with perfection of curves and lines, and then an exact replica of a modern fashionable figure, which had it been dressed, would have been the same of fashion. Even child as I was, I realized it was revolting, though I could not appreciate the further evil of ill health inevitably attendant on it. The waist was confined and crushed into fifteen or sixteen inches, the stomach and all the internal organs were driven out of place, the hips look unduly large, and the bosoms, instead of standing out firm and low, were driven up to produce the long gottled appearance then in vogue.

If anyone doubts the fact that the stomach can be misplaced, I have only to quote a famous coeswiter I was visiting with a friend a few days ago, who asked her in all seriousness, "Where would madam like to have her stomach placed?" Please do not conclude at once that I am advocating a slovenly, loose figure, floppy and clumsy from this. I, too, admire a natural trim waist and graceful, slender lines from armpit to hip, but I contend this is not attained by tight lacing. It cannot be. The waist must be squeezed in, but if so the stomach must be driven out, unless the figure is taken in hand when young, when it can be deformed for life, thus inviting dyspepsia or some form of heart disease.

Wear a corset by all means. Women's figures, with all their mystery of ill health and suffering, have a tendency to spread and get large and spread unless confined in a comfortable and naturally fitting corset. In my journeyings to Paris I have been lucky enough to find only the class of sensible coeswites, who study the lines of the figure and are glad to achieve a graceful contour even by sacrificing an inch or two of the waist.

Handling the Colts

An English writer says that opinions differ in various parts of Great Britain as to whether it is better to bring high-class cart colts into work at two or three years old. At first it would appear that the youngster's growth would be checked by early working. And that full development of bone and muscle would be checked. The fact is that the youngster's gain more than they lose by the early breaking. Being brought early to work saves a great deal of galloping about in the fields, which tries undeveloped bone and muscle much more than light team work. It is between the spring of the second and third years, when not broken at the former date, that so many youngsters lame themselves. If broken at two years old this risk is in a great measure saved.

Violent exercise is peculiarly liable to cause lameness in the hocks, much more so than any ailment of the forelegs. Bog or blood spavins have been brought about by a heavy fat shire colt galloping excessively. Abnormal exercise very often causes bone spavin on the indifferently formed hock curbs. It is, however, necessary that only light work be given to the two-year old, else some harm is very likely to befall. All that really should be done is to break the youngster to work, and to show what is expected of it in after life. The third winter of its existence should be spent more or less at liberty.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Poverty is the one luxury the rich can't afford.
If you wait until you are called you will be late for breakfast.
It pays better to appreciate than it does to be appreciated by fools.

Even a yellow dog was never known to humble himself by seeking an office.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 12, 1908

Hon. H. R. Emmerson recently addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting at Fort Eggleston. During the course of his remarks Mr. Emmerson urged upon the club members the necessity of vigorous preparation for the coming election which cannot be long delayed at the most. He dwelt upon the benefits of thorough organization and the great part played by organization in winning battles at the polls. In the course of his address Mr. Emmerson also drew attention to the great progress that has been made by the Dominion under Liberal rule. The population has increased, the people have become more prosperous, new stretches of territory have been opened up, transportation facilities have been improved, Canada's position among the nations of the world has been wonderfully improved. This progress has been due, he said, in very large measure to the wise policy of the Liberal party and the effective manner in which the policy has been put into action. Mr. Emmerson further dwelt upon the strength of the Liberal leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who has become an Imperial figure by his statesmanlike, honorable course during the twelve years in which he has been at the head of the government of the Empire's greatest colony.

Mr. Emmerson told also of the certainty of Liberal success in the next campaign. Everywhere, he said, the outlook is bright for a repetition of the triumph of four years ago. Sir Wilfrid still has a firm hold upon the people of the Dominion and his wise policy and honest administration renders victory once more certain.

A TRIPPLE LINK?

On the Plains of Abraham at the Quebec Tercentenary they clasp hands, Great Britain in her Prince, United States in her Vice-President, and France in her Admiral—three of the most powerful nations of the day, and which combined could command the peace of the world. This meeting is no mere incident, it means something to the other nations of the world. Enemies in 1759, enemies in 1812, friends in 1908 and together they now stand in close relationship, and may be depended upon in any emergency effecting such an alliance.

While the celebration was not primarily intended to teach any such lesson, it may be taken for granted that there is an understanding which opens much, and the other nations so read the lesson of the "triple link."

Who can say Senator Gillmor did not do well for Charlotte? Read again the supplementaries for Charlotte in our issue of July 13th. Fifty-six thousand! Not too bad for a County that has blindly placed itself in Opposition. When will this old Liberal County wake up and look out for its own best interests? To do so it must get into the procession that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will lead to Ottawa at the next election.

It is reported that Hon. G. E. Foster will make a tour of the province of Nova Scotia during this month, speaking at Springhill, Truro, Digby, Windsor, New Glasgow and Sydney. Why does the Hon. G. E. so studiously avoid New Brunswick?

BY THE WAY

Hundreds of new J. P.'s! Here's to you, but may we never need you.

May we ask when the street "improvements" will be completed?

The importation of Scotch granite will be continued with renewed energy.

"Mosquitoes do not like to look man in the eye." They don't have to. They can bite him behind the ear.

Before many months evidence of the faithful services, rendered by Senator Gillmor will be found in almost every district of Charlotte.

We rather think the fishermen's picnic was a success Mr.---

"Organization is sure protection for the unprotected."

"Fishermen's rights must be respected. All we ask is a fair deal." Sentiments expressed on banners around town picnic day.

The street committee receiving valuable suggestions as to how they can spend about $1200.00 of the $700.00 that has been appropriated.

A man who is rough and awkward at everything else will show a delicacy and skill greater than any woman's when he has to patch a $10 bill.

Should Sir Wilfrid Laurier make a western campaign the task of following him will be assigned to Hon. G. E. Foster. Of course, Sir Wilfrid leads as usual.

The intelligent "working man," so called, is not to be driven like a sheep, with a flock. He is a man first, a "laborer" afterwards. And he will do what he thinks best.

Our local representatives were keenly alive to the importance of good roads some months ago. Evidently their ardor has cooled somewhat. And the roads? We got a gold brick all right.

"The first and paramount thing in any business is to make a ship a reliable article. If an article is manufactured according to contract it will most assuredly credit a demand for another like it."

"As a matter of fact it was not until Mr. Tweedie began his new life with the Liberal party that he decided to pay the principal. This goes to show what the influence of good coxpany and better associations will do for a man."

One hears nowadays about raising teachers' salaries, but not so much about raising qualifications. Poor teachers are not getting more than they are worth. It is only the good teachers that deserve more money.

"George," she said, "before we were married you were always giving me presents. Why don't you ever bring me anything now?"

"My dear," replied George, "did you ever hear of a fisherman giving bait to a fish he had caught?" Then the kettle boiled over.

Many persons still enjoy the good old fashioned fun of going berrying. The blueberries are here once more, and with succulence they are ripe, and housewife visits nearby store.

To purchase them instead of meat. Fill a picnic with a quart or more, just as our mothers used to do. Then says to kidlets o'er and o'er, "Don't stain the cloth, I beg of you."

Many flattering words were heard on Monday with reference to the beauty of the town. These little compliments came from strangers. The horticultural garden at the corner of Lower and Portage streets--Murphy's corner--although in full bloom, is not as attractive as it might be, not having the apparent care that is given the lawn. With a little effort the spot could be put in a condition that would call for more commendation.

In the Canadian Parliamentary as late as 1901 we find Governor Tweedie describing himself as a "Conservative." He threw in his fortunes with the Liberal party shortly after that date and in 1906 when a Liberal he paid the face of the notes although not holding himself in any way liable for them. The Hazen government is now asking him to pay up the interest as it holds that his payment of the principal make him a responsible party for the interest as well. This in brief is the transaction. There is not much rottenness about it, but it gives evidence of negligence with the people's money, but how under the heavens can the act of a man who was a life long Tory be described as an act of rottenness of the Liberal party.

The wedding of Miss Ella Mabel Dines to Mr. Seymour Curtis Leavitt is announced to take place on Thursday evening, Aug. 20th, at Back Bay Christian Church. Reception at their home.

M. E. Frauley is getting the lumber on the ground and making preparation to erect a large ell on his house. When the contemplated improvements are made Mr. Frauley will have one of the most pleasant and convenient places in town.

Representatives from the Granite Manufacturers Association and Granite Cutters Union met on Thursday evening and made an effort to adjust their differences. A proposition was made by the Manufacturers which the Cutters discussed, at a meeting held Friday evening and declined to accept.

The town has had a few tourists this summer, and all unite in saying that the attractive beauties of the place and surroundings are in every respect the superior of many so called summer resorts along the coast. Many of these places boast of a live board of trout that make every effort to advertise whatever advantages they may have, and thus add to the wealth and prosperity of the place.

Mr. D. C. Dawson is one of those keen fishermen who generally meets with success, but he got his greatest prize on Saturday, when he caught in Ball's Lake a trout weighing four pounds. The fight the fish put up convinced Mr. Dawson he had a big one, but he was greatly surprised on landing it to find it so large, as trout of this size are extremely rare. The fish are beautifully shaped and beautifully marked and Mr. Dawson received many congratulations on his catch.—Globe.

Among the extensive improvements being made on the N. B. S. Ry. is a new steel bridge at Musquash. Owing to the tide and had bottom at this place concrete piers are being erected.

The base ball team covered themselves with glory Monday, and with more practice will undoubtedly give a good account of themselves during the balance of the season.

At a meeting of the granite cutters Union held Tuesday terms of settlement were submitted by one firm to grant demands of cutters with the proviso that other firms agree to it. The other concerns not being willing to do so the conditions are not changed.

We are informed by an officer of the Union that they will not submit to arbitration or take any further steps toward settlement until the bill is signed by the manufacturers.

Important Amendment to the Shipping Act in Reference to Motor Boats

Ottawa, July 24th, 1908.

Under an amendment to the Canada Shipping Act, assented to July 20th, 1908 it is provided in Section 566 (c) that the provisions as to Steamboat Inspection shall apply only as to the obligation to carry a life-preserver for each person on board and one life-buoy, and to take the precautions against fire as imposed by the Act, in so far as concern Steam Yachts, whether propelled by gas, fluid, naphtha or electric motors, of "not more than five tons gross tonnage."

Under this amendment small yachts and launches, not exceeding five tons gross tonnage, will be allowed to carry passengers without a passenger certificate provided they comply with the requirements as to life-preservers, life-buoys and precautions against fire.

JOHN McDUGALL,
Commissioner of Customs

To the members of Charlotte County weir owners and weir fishermen union: The report has frequently been circulated that the sardine packers will not recognize the above union. We wish to correct this impression as we are ready to meet them on the same basis we have met the other weir owners, and at a meeting of the East Coast Fish Association held on July 30th, the following communication was submitted to Mr. Geo. E. Frauley, Secretary of the Union but up to the present time no reply has been received from same.

Eastport, Maine, July 30, 1908
Mr. George E. Frauley, Sec.,
Weir Fishermen's Union,
St. George, N. B.

Dear Sir: Referring to conversation made over the telephone with our President, Mr. C. E. Capen, also to conversations between members of your Union and members of our Fish Association, from time to time, relative to sale and purchase of sardine herring, we infer that your Union is desirous of meeting a committee representing our Fish Association. In regard to this, would say we would be pleased to meet the members of your Union at either Eastport or St. Andrews at any time that may be agreeable to you. Awaiting your reply.

Very truly yours,
EAST COAST FISH ASSOCIATION
By Sec'y.

Mr. E. B. Lawrence
Sec'y East Coast Fish Association
Eastport Maine.

Dear Sir: Replying to your letter of 30th ult, I am instructed to say that the Executive Committee of the Charlotte County Weirowners and Weirfishermen's Union will be most happy to comply with your request to meet your Committee. The President has called our Executive Committee to meet at St. George on Thursday 6th inst, at 2 p. m. The Executive Committee instruct me to say that they will be very happy to meet your Committee on that date. Kindly wire reply on receipt of this. In case it might be difficult for your boat to come right up to the public landing, I would be pleased to send teams down the river to meet you.

Yours truly
GEORGE E. FRAULEY, Sec'y.

WOULD-YOU-LIKE-TO-READ-THE-STORY OF THE FURNACE?

—Just how correct principles say it should be constructed?

—Just why no other plan of construction will do?

—Just wherein lies its ability to be easy on fuel, quick in action, simple in operation?

The story is briefly told in a little booklet called "Furnace Facts." It's not an advertisement. No furnace name is mentioned, and you can read the whole story in 5 minutes.

To the party contemplating purchasing a furnace it points out the snags and pitfalls, and shows exactly what to demand of an architect, contractor or dealer, in furnace construction and installation.

The Identity of Diane

Muriel Hine in Black and White

Just a few minutes later, and I might have been saved all the embarrassments of the October afternoon; but, as it was I tore the envelope open and read—

Diane coming by 3:30 train bring her down—Augusta.

That is so like my cousin's wife! When the last trump sounds for the last soul to hand in its reckoning, Augusta will have gone back for her lace pocket handkerchief!

So now, at the seventh hour, I was expected to rise to the situation and act as cicerone to a total stranger. For who on earth was Diane? That was the question that tortured me as my hansom carried me all too quickly to our trying place.

I remembered vaguely that when Augusta married my cousin, Stanfield Fane there was a talk of French connections, of a niece from Perigord to join the bride's ranks; and of a dash of French blood that drove Augusta recklessly to Paquin for her wedding gown, amply atoned for by the stiff magnificence of her fine English presence.

I was still immersed in the problem of Diane's identity when my hansom pulled up at Paddington. There played into my hand, for as I stood waiting for my turn at the ticket office I heard a lady's voice, with the unmistakably throaty "of the Parisian demand a first-class for Wryborough.

The station was dark, but as she turned her head I caught a glimpse of a dainty reticence profile under the deep masses of her well-dressed hair, and the next way she gathered up her skirts over her little high-heeled boots confirmed me in my conclusions as to her nationality.

Meanwhile as she tripped briskly down the platform, I reminded myself with a certain lightning of spirit of my obligations to Augusta, and a few minutes later found us both seated in the opposite corners of a through carriage for the little country station.

It was even with a certain anxiety that I frowned at possible intruders, and we were just about to start when a frantic porter dragged an unwilling spaniel by a leash, came panting up the platform.

The dog was thrust into the van adjoining none too gently, I fear, as a yelp rang out before the door was slammed, followed by a low and mournful howl. As the train puffed out I glanced at my pretty companion. Her piquante face showed a ready sympathy.

Here was my opportunity. I'm always sorry for poor dumb animals, I began somewhat lamely, but the lady broke in with a mischievous smile.

Dumb, she queried, with the prettiest little accent in the world. "O—ouch!" went the spaniel next door and they both laughed aloud.

A cold autumn wind blew in at the open window, and, seeing her hand on the sash I rose to her assistance.

Merci monsieur, said my companion. We will shut out ze 'owles!

We may as well be warm, I said

Diane coming by 3:30 train; please bring her down—Augusta.

An' who is Diane? said my companion thoughtfully.

I gave a violent start.

Why—do you mean to say—you? Aren't you Diane? I shouted, in my excitement.

Mais non! Monsieur came the demure voice, I am Julie—Julie Angelique Danton, zat is my name. I do not understand.

Again that maddening reiteration. "Pon my soul, I don't either!" I said, in my annoyance, but at the sound of my voice mademoiselle drew herself up stiffly.

I am sorry—it is evident monsieur 'as made a mistake—she looked at me indignantly, several mistakes, she amended, with cool precision.

I joined in wrathfully.

"It's all very well for you," I said, as the carriage slowly slackened speed "but here we are at Wryborough, and where the dickens is Diane?"

The door opened, and I helped my companion to alight, with a quick glance down the empty platform.

Thank goodness Augusta had not come to meet us! But I congratulated myself too soon, for as I turned to the van for my luggage, a sound of wheels fell on my ears and I saw across the low hedge my cousin's wife erect and massive in the phaeton, driving up at full speed.

At that moment the door of the van swung back, and the first luggage to alight was the spaniel, straining at his leash, bounding and curvetting with joy at his release.

The solitary porter, holding him, turned to me in his trouble.

"If you don't mind taking the dawg; sir," he suggested, "I'll see the port-manteau out in a minute."

I was quieting the half-frantic animal when Augusta appeared on the scene.

"How are you?" she said, heartily. "I'm afraid I'm late, but one of those hateful traction engines was crawling up the lane before us, and there wasn't room to pass. You've brought Diane, I see. That's capital."

I looked at her in speechless amazement, but luckily her attention was riveted on the dog.

"Poor old girl!—there—there!" She fondled the glossy coat. Diddums hate its nasty journey then? Poor girlie, poor old Diane!"

She raised her head a moment as a neat figure passed us with carefully averted face, guided by the tall footman with obvious condescension to the distant cab.

"There goes the new governess," said Augusta, cheerfully, "an improvement on old Fraulein, isn't she, Dick? But you must be famished, so come along—only I'm such a baby over Diane?" she took the leash from me and moved forward. "I am glad you found her! I was so afraid you'd get the wire and not the letter, and wonder whatever I meant, and I simply couldn't bear the idea of her coming down all by her lonesome in a nasty van—eh, Diane?"

Files helped at once with Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. Just to prove it, a trial box will be mailed on request, by writing Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Itching smarting, bleeding piles, internal or external, get quick and certain help from Magic Ointment. Large box 50c. Sold by All Dealers.

Story of the Castaway

Two castaways had floated for days upon a frail raft, provisions were exhausted, and save for a tough piece of bacon, not a morsel of food remained to them.

"O'ill foight ye fer it!" suggested Murphy, pleasantly.

"Auf I ged licked den I ged nodding!" returned Hans.

"Sure, thln, O'ill match ye?"

"Dot matchings vas no good. I ooen not lucky!"

The argument proceeded until eventually it was agreed upon that each should take the bacon in his teeth, and at a given signal, to pull with all his might. Dropping upon their knees—nose touching nose—they seized the coveted bacon.

"Are you ready?" inquired Murphy, through his clenched teeth.

"Yah," said Hans, opening his mouth innocently.

A Splendid Canadian Outlook

Every day brightens the prospect for an excellent harvest and for the commercial activity it is certain to promote. Canada is essentially an agricultural country, and in spite of the rapid development of manufacturing industries and their free and generous encouragement at the expense of agriculture the farming industry has grown more rapidly in magnitude and importance. Western expansion has added still more to the preponderance of the agricultural interests, and as a consequence, no matter what temporary reverses may occur in finance, trade, or industry, the capacity for speedy recuperation is always manifest.

The power of creating wealth rests with the Dominion to an extent sufficient to speedily make good any loss or deficit. The rate of our recent agricultural development is shown by a record of 50-324 families taking up a corresponding number of farms in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta during the past fifteen years. This has meant an increase of 205,774 in the population of the Canadian Middle West. The chief influx has been from the United States, the record being 16,344 families with 70,793 persons. The United Kingdom furnished 10,797 families with 31,395 persons, and Austria-Hungary 10,650 families with 52,639 persons. Russia next with 5,018 families aggregating 24,594 persons, and other European countries made smaller contributions. This record shows the addition of an extensive producing area to the Western grain fields, and it is largely augmented by the breaking of new land on farms previously located and established.

Immediate interest centres in the prospect of the yield from this great and growing area, and it has never been more hopeful. Various investigations have brought reports hopeful, without exception, and every day lessens the possibility of unfavorable developments. The report by the Canadian Pacific Railway is always prepared with care, and it gives an exceptionally favorable summary. Recent rains have improved the crops greatly, and the damage from hail has been slight and confined to small areas. A more definite forecast has been given out from Montreal by the bankers and financiers of that city, and it estimates the wheat crop at 120,000 bushels. This at 75 cents per bushel would mean a return of $90,000,000. The figures exceed the average of earlier estimates, but the outlook has been improving. In addition to the wheat crop there are 2,607,000 acres under oats, 850,000 acres under barley, and 1,550,000 acres under flax. These acres are estimated to yield 100,000,000 bushels of oats, worth $30,000,000 at 30 cents per bushel, and 25,000,000 bushels of barley, worth $10,000,000 at 40 cents per bushel. An estimate of $140,000,000 for the grain crop of the three Provinces of the Middle West is an assurance of a revival of the prosperity recently interrupted, especially as the figures come from reliable financial circles. The banks are making provision for the demand which the movement of the crops will make, and the railways of the West are fully alive to the coming transportation needs. There is no danger of a repetition of last year's money shortage. In our own Province the agricultural outlook is excellent, and the depression of the last few months may be safely regarded as at an end.—Toronto Globe.

Knew What he Was Doing

For once the American had discovered something British that was better than anything that could be produced across the pond. His discovery was a fine collie dog, and he at once tried to induce its owner, an old shepherd, to sell it.

"Wad ye be takin' him to America?" inquired the old Scot.

"Yes I guess so, said the young man."

"I thought as muckle," said the shepherd "I couldna pairt wi' "Jock." But while they set and chatted an English tourist came up and to him the shepherd sold the collie too much less than the American had offered.

"You told me you wouldn't sell him said the Yankee, when the purchaser had departed.

"Na' replied the Scot; 'I said I couldna pairt wi' him. "Jock" 'll be back in a day or so, but he couldna swim the Atlantic.

The Auditor's Second Attempt

The Hazen government has presented to Lieut.-Governor Tweedie a demand for payment of an amount of something more than eight thousand dollars. This represented the estimated interest on an account of long standing between the province and certain debtors--of whom Hon. Mr. Tweedie was not one--which account was settled in full before the governor served his connection with the Crown Lands office. The demand is made by Mr. J. D. Hazen and his colleagues on the suggestion and advice of an auditor employed by them in an endeavor to create charges against members of the recent government. Hon. Mr. Tweedie will, it is safe to say, give no further attention to the demand than is required to refuse payment. On the contrary he might, did he so desire, request the return of money handed over by him which he had no right to pay. But being desirous of securing the province against loss by the default of ordinary business debtors he personally made good the discrepancy and was content to bear this without presenting any claim. It would be just as reasonable to demand from Mr. Edward Sears all the taxes defaulted during his term of office, together with interest on these amounts to date, as it is to ask Governor Tweedie for money which the Crown Lands department failed to collect while he was in charge.

The report of the auditor, printed in the Globe and Times yesterday--the Star not being favored with a copy--is remarkable chiefly for what is omitted. It appears that included in the consideration of this account, there was a rather important discussion between the auditor and Governor Tweedie, in Montreal. Strangely enough the auditor skips over this with the bald statement that nothing of importance transpired. Evidently the only information which is regarded as important is that variety which may be so distorted as to become useful as campaign matter against the present opposition. And indeed it is apparent that this is the real object of the enquiry.

Coming down to facts, what has this much advertised auditor discovered? He has found that a good many years ago debtors of the Crown Lands office were backward in their stampage payments, that occasionally, as in every business, bad debts were made. These were carried along on paper year after year, and Hon. Mr. Tweedie, according to the strongest of evidence, made every effort to have them settled. He urged the officials whose duty it was to do so, to proceed with collections. Why this was not done is another matter, but in order to protect the department and to keep a close check on these outstanding accounts Hon. Mr. Tweedie, had some of them transferred to his own name, thereby becoming in a certain sense personally responsible for them. It was not his duty to pay these accounts to the department, and indeed it would be outrageous to hold an official responsible for the bad debts of his office. During his tenure Mr. Tweedie tried to collect the money, but on retiring and in order that the so-called suspense account--which should really have been the wrong side of the profit and loss account--might be wiped off, he paid to the department almost fourteen thousand dollars. The greater portion of this should--and would--have been dead loss. Mr. Tweedie was actuated solely by a desire to leave a clean record, to be able to say that while he occupied a position of responsibility the province had lost nothing by his administration. This is the actual admission of the auditor in his report, though the intention is to convey a very different meaning. And now that Mr. Tweedie has paid the bills of defaulting customers of the government, he is being asked in addition to put up interest on the amounts for all the time they were outstanding. Hon. Mr. Pugsley may be called upon next for interest on the increase in the provincial subsidy, which subsidy might have been enjoyed by New Brunswick years before it was allowed.

Hon. Mr. Tweedie in his letter to the Surveyor General draws attention to the fact that he has not been treated with ordinary decency. Without waiting for a reply from him on points which apparently required explanation, members of the government and others indulged in underhand methods of attempting to obtain information which they knew he was ready and willing to furnish. The whole affair is in line with the policy of the Hazen government ever since it assumed office, and is on a par with the now notorious Central Railway enquiry. By settling the suspense account Hon. Mr. Tweedie did not admit liability, in spite of the opinion of the auditor, and he will not in justice be asked to pay interest on this account.--Star.

High Praise for

Canada's Militia

The series of brilliant ceremonies which have marked the Prince's visit was continued today with a review on the Plains of Abraham of detachments of the sailors of three nations and a fine army of Canadian troops. The review was held in perfect weather on the historic grounds where Wolfe formed his army after scaling the cliff. The scene reminded one of a bold ridge of Sussex downs, with rich wooded country rolling into the far horizon over the St. Lawrence. Familiar also to English eyes were the troops--Grenadiers, Highlanders, Rifles, Berskins, feather bonnets, and shakoes, and almost every uniform of Britain's fighting sons showed in that sea of scarlet, green, and blue, flecked with white--Plumes, helmets, and flashing points of steel. Cheers announced the arrival of the Prince, who rode on attended by Earl Grey, Earl Roberts and a brilliant staff. There were on parade 2000 sailors and 12,000 Canadian troops. The latter were divided into a cavalry brigade and three infantry divisions. In the march past the sailors of old France were given pride of place. Three smart companies were enthusiastically cheered. Then the American sailors and mariners were warmly received, followed by 1200 British tars, five companies of marines marching and dragging their field guns as they only can. Lord Roberts received an ovation as he led the Canadian troops headed by two four-gun batteries of the permanent Militia Horse Artillery, which may be classed as equal to anything in the world's armies. Six regiments of cavalry, armed with the long rifle only, preceded four field batteries and one 4.7 battery. Next came an exceptionally smart company of Kingston military cadets. The infantry were chiefly composite regiments. Six companies, fifty strong, came up in quarter column. It would be invidious to single out any regiment for special praise. All were good, indeed, they were magnificent, and carried themselves and marched like veterans. Popular favor went to the regiments which came complete with colors, such as the 48th the 91st, the Highlanders, the Royal Scots, the Royal Grenadiers, and several regiments of Rifles. The crowd could not resist the ekirl of the pipes and the martial aspect of the kilted corps. The 8th Quebec and the 6th Montreal Rifle Regiments--almost exclusively composed of French-Canadians were also great favorites. With the exception that one division was late in arriving, no hitch marred the proceedings. The staff arrangements were excellent and there was an enormous concourse of spectators at the function, the success of which all Canada should be justly proud of.--London Standard.
