Holloway's Pill, the best Remedy for the Cure of Dropsey.—Extract of a letter from Dr. Wm. Holloway, M. D., dated May 1, 1854, to his friend Hollingsworth.—Sir.—Feeling grateful for the benefit my wife has derived by the use of your Pill, I consider it my duty to inform you of it. Soon after the birth of her last child, her feet and ankles began to swell, and afterward her whole body, strongly indicating dropsy, all necessitated her lying down, and being unable to walk. Her physician advised her to decline. I then took your Pill, which I am happy to say have restored her sound and perfect health."

Poetry.

NO SURRENDER.
Ever the word is, No Surrender!
To dare and greatly do,
To still bring us bravely through,
No Surrender! No Surrender!
And though Fortune's smiles be few,
She is not so grim now,
Still inspiring me and you.
With a magic—No Surrender.

Neil the colors to the last,
Surrender not, No Surrender!
The stars are all but past—
Leave them as you did the last.
No Surrender, No Surrender!
Through the skies he overcast,
And upon the sheety blast
Disappointment gathers fast.
But thou art with No Surrender!

Constant and courageous still.
Mind the word is No Surrender!
Battles though be not won,
Still we'll win, No Surrender!
No Surrender, No Surrender!
Hope—thus that your hope failles,
There's a way when there's a will,
And the way all care to kill
Is to give them—No Surrender!

A DELICATE STOMACH.

Mrs. Louis Pelt, better known perhaps by the name of Mrs. Mrs. Mrs. Smith, who is now residing in Boston, in one of her recent letters to the National Era, says that during the voyage from New York to Havre, in the steamer Franklin, she had a state-room full of odd occurrences near her, who slept all day, which of course made them more than a little uncomfortable. She was also ill for the practice of various melodies, among which the whooping cough seemed to be the favorite. One morning she heard the Yankee steward inquiring kindly as to the health of one of the ladies who was forever complaining of a severe year headache. She responded despatchingly:

"Oh, yes!—All at night I was more sick than well. To bed, to bed, to bed, so bad I cannot tell."

"Would you like to have some breakfast, madam?"

"Yes, madam."

"I take no breakfast. Avo you go mention shop—no potatoe—no tomatoes—wif' ya cafe and hot cake."

"Anything else you would like to have, madam?"

"Ab, mon dieu! I can tell! I ver indispose. Stop, Garen, an' a little bit, beze le lobster, coumberb, an' a little oil!"

FINSING A WIT OUT.—Few of our cavalry officers would be stopped by a fence; but for this they are not inclined to what they learn in the riding school. All forcing cavalry practice leap-over-jump, yet when they meet with a fence all are forced. Transferred to a very anxious instance of this. During some manoeuvres in An, an Austrian general with his staff got amongst some of his side-camps to look for an outlet. They passed over the stone wall, rode about, but could find no opening. An English horse, formed part of the staff, and the general, turning to him, said: "Mr. W—, kindly see if you can find out of this place." Mr. W—, a Yorkshirian and a good rider, went straight at the wall, cleared it, and whilst doing so, hit his side and cracked his hip. In this way, he has just added that his leg did not quite suit the remainder of the party.—The Knickerbocker.
