LASTY APPLE DISHES.

HOW TO PREPARE THIS KING OF FRUITS FOR GENERAL USE.

Apple Snow Much More Toothsome Than the Original Article-Cracker Apple Pie -Apple Dainty, and Yum! Yum! Dump lings to Make Your Teeth Water.

Apple Snow: Peel and quarter six large apples. Stew with a little water the rind of a lemon and a little sugar. When quite soft remove the sind and strain the apples through a sieze or colander. Beat the whites of four eggs to a stiff froth with half a cupful of powdered sugar. Gradually add the strained apples and beat until the consistency of thick cream. Heap in a pyramid form on the dish.

Cracker Apple Pie: Break one and a half soda crackers in pieces, put them in a little cold water. Peel, stew and mash six or eight apples and add to the soaked crackers. Put in a little nutmeg, a cupful of sugar and the juice of one lemon. Bake Apple Dainty: Pare, core and quarter the apples and put in the pudding dish, with enough sugar to sweeten them, and bake. Be careful not to scorch them. When cool beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth, add a little sugar, spread over the apple and return to the oven for a few minutes. Serve cold with cream.

Apple Dumplings: Pare and core the apples without slicing. Make a crust as for rich biscuits. Roll out a piece large enough to inclose an apple. Fill the hole with sugar and nutmeg. Pinch the crust about the about the apples and put them in a wellbuttered pan. Cover the pan and bake in a moderate oven until the apples are done. Serve hot with rich sauce.

Apple Pudding: Into a pint of stewed apples put a teaspoonful of nutmeg and cinnamon mixed, half a cupful of sugar and a teaspoonful of butter. These should be added while the apples are hot. After they cool, add the yolks of two eggs well beaten. Pour in a buttered dish and bake ten minutes. Cover with a meringue of the beaten whites of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of white sugar, and one teaspoonful of essence of bitter almonds. Set back in the oven again, and let it brown slightly. Serve cold with cream and

Apple Pie: Pare and grate twelve large apples. Cream half a pound of butter and one pound of white sugar, and stir in the beaten yolks, of six eggs, the juice and grated rind of one lemon, a teaspoonful of nutmeg and the apple. Add the beaten whites of six eggs last. Bake in two

Apples for Tea: Quarter a dozen medium-sized apples without peeling; put in & shallow pan and add one pint of sugar, a little cinnamon, two teaspoonfuls of butter and half a teacupful of water. Cover tightly, and bake in a moderate oven till Take them out carefully, without breaking the apples.

A Pretty House-dress.

Seven Good Puddings.

BAKED INDIAN PUDDING .- Boil one pint of milk and stir in one scant teacup of meal after it begins to boil. Partly cool it and add one cup of molasses, one pint of cold milk, two eggs and one tablespoonful of ginger. Stir all together, put in a buttered pudding dish; while baking add more cold milk at intervals, perhaps about a quart (a cup at a time), according as it thickens.

Brown Betty.—Brown bread crumbs in the oven. In a greased dish place alternate layers of crumbs and chopped apples with cinnamon and brown sugar. Bake

BAKED SUET PUDDING.—Oze quart of milk, one-half cupful of corn meal, one teaspoonful of salt, twice as much ginger. one-half cupful each of chopped suet and molasses. Mix well, and bake, covered, for three hours in a very slow oven. Serve with a sweet sauce. PUDDING SAUCE -One large cupful of boiling water, half cupful of sugar, thicken with corn starch to the consistency of gravy. Boil all three minutes; add a a small lump of butter and flavor with

STEAMED SUET PUDDING. -One cup chopped suet, one cup chopped raisins, one and one-third cups molasses, one teaspoonful allspice, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of cloves, a little salt, two even teaspoonfuls of soda dissolved in one-half cup of milk, three and one-half heaping cups of flour Steam four hours. Serve with sweet sauca DRIED RASPBERRY PUDDING. - Take four cups of flour, one of suet, one of dried raspberries, one and a half cups of molasses and two beaten eggs. Mix ail together, flavor to taste, put in a mould and steam two hours. Eat with hard sauce.

MINUTE PUDDING. - When the milk reaches the boiling point, have an assistant ready to stir in five tablespoonfuls of flour that has been wet to a smooth batter with one cup of milk reserved from the quart and while this is being done stir faithfully. Now place at once over a vessel of boiling water and let it cook five minutes longer; stir in two well-beaten eggs and cook three minutes more. Serve at once with a nice sauce or cream an l sugar.

A Good Plan.

In an upholstered wooden box, or other convenient receptacle, keep a pair of shoes or slippers, and when obliged to be on the teet much as in washing or ironing, change your shoes every two or three hours.

HOW TO COOK MEATS.

A Self-Basting and Roasting Pan Pronounced the Housekeeper's Best Friend. To meats cooked in an oven this pan imparts all the effects of being roasted at a spit, and that, too, without the intervention of the cook.

It consists of two pans, one resting above the other, with space between for boiling water. The upper pan, wherein the meat is placed, is provided with a series of ridges, also a row of holes around the sides from which the escaping steam comes in contact with the contents of the pan. The ridges are for the purpose of elevating the meat from the bottom of the pan and allowing the hot air to pass beneath it, thoroughly browning it on the bottom as well as on the top. This arrangement obviates the necessity of turning the meat, so that when placed in the oven no further attention is required. The basting is done by the steam. It renders the meat tender and juicy.

Odds and Ends.

The summer materials are exquisite. French organdies with silk dots of pale blue, lavender, rose or yellow scattered over a white surface, are selling for $1.95 a yard. Japanese crepes come in fine stripes, white alternating with some pale tint, and are sixty-five cents a yard. Ging-hams are striped and dotted with silk, which gives them a charming lustre and also increases their price considerably.

The ribbon-bound tiaras, with pert little bows in front, which have adorned the winter girl's locks, have given place to lace. A twist of cream or white lace binds the wire round which forms the foundation of the ornament, and two airy little lace butterflies take the place of the Indian brass is among the recent importations. It has a copper tinge, which makes it warmer looking than Benares. Bowls, trays and candelabra, elaborately chased, come in this ware, and some of the most beautiful pieces are decorated in repousse and filagree work.

Deserts.

SOFT CUSTARD PUDDING .- Line a pudding dish with lady fingers or slices of sponge cake; make a soft custard of one quart of milk, yolks of five eggs and pour over all; beat the white to a froth (stiff), with one-half cup of fine sugar; spread over the top; set in an oven and brown slightly. The custard should be flavored with vanilla.

FRUIT PUDDING.—One cupful warm water, one and a half cupfuls molasses, one cupful raisins, yolks of two eggs, one dessertspoonful of soda, two and a half cupfuls flour. Steam two hours. This is especially good served with silver sauce made of one cupful of sugar, half a cupful of butter, whites of two eggs, beaten. Stire into one cupful boiling water. FRENCH SUET PUDDING.—Chop one pint of suet, add one and three-fourths cups molasses, one half teaspoonful salt, two teaspoonfuls cinnamon, one teaspoonful cloves, one pint sour milk, two teaspoonfuls soda, four cups flour and one-half pint each raisins and currants floured. Pour into a buttered pan and steam four hours. The suet is much better if creamed with the hand. The spices are put into the flour, and added all at once. The currants should be free from grit.

Laundry Hints.

Always use cotton holders for irons. Woollen ones are hot to the hand, and if scorched, as they often are, the smell is disagreeable. In ironing a shirt or a dress turn the sleeves on the wrong side and leave them until the rest is done, and then turn and iron them.

Always have near the ironing-board a dish of clean cold water, so that any spot which has been imperfectly ironed may be easily wet with a soft sponge and ironed over again, or any surplus bit of starch removed. As fast as articles are finished they should be hung on the clothes driers until thoroughly dry, especial care being taken with those that are starched stiffly as they retain the starch better if dried very quickly. Thorough airing is necessary, twenty-four hours being none too much.

Pull muslin and lace out carefully, iron it over once, and then pull into shape, pick out the embroidery and proceed with greater care than before. Embroideries should be ironed on the wrong side over flannel.

Lime Juice.

Lime juice is very similar to lemon juice in its nature, and is sold in the market by the bottle. It is generally acknowledged to be an antidote to scurvy, and by English law it is rendered compulsory for every ship to take on board lime or lemon juice. For the navy the admiralty use lime juice only.

The constant use of lime or lemon juice of good quality will greatly discourage a variety of complaints-such as dyspepsia, bilious disorders, etc., which the present luxurious state of living on liberal flesh, alcoholic diet, without its corrective aid, greatly fosters.

This vegetable acid should be placed on the dinner table instead of the vinegar bottle, and as regularly as salt, while as an ingredient for sauce, for almost every kind of food, it has no equal. As a salad dressing, to mix with oil, it is more wholesome than vinegar.

Beefsteak Pie.

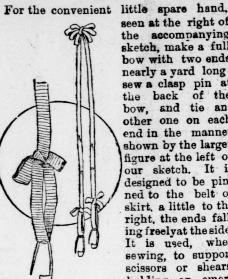

A savory dish, and one that suits those fond of simple seasoning, is a beefsteak pie. Cut two pounds of the under side of the round into small cubes, cover with cold water and simmer gently until tender. Season with salt, pepper, thicken the gravy slightly, and if not rich enough add a piece of butter. Put the meat and gravy in a deep baking dish, cover with a thick layer of white potatoes, boiled in salted water, mashed with the addition of a piece of butter and some milk, and then beaten to a cream. Beat an egg very light, pour over the potato, and bake until a rich brown. An onion sliced thin and stewed with the meat improves the flavor for some

Moist Bread.
One hears a great deal of talk about moist bread, and a large number of housekeepers shut their bread in air-tight boxes to keep it moist. Such barbarous treatment of bread may be efficacious in keeping it moist; but bread from which fresh air is excluded always has a disagreeable, clayey flavor, and is unpalatable to people of cultured tastes, who appreciate the nutty sweetness that is a prominent characteristic of all good bread.

The foolish notion of keeping bread moist had its origin in bad cookery. Most of the stuff made by bakers has to be eaten fresh and moist, or not eaten at all. It is so light and woolly that, if exposed to the air a few hours, it grows dry and husky, and is almost as unsavory and innutritious as chips. A large proportion of home-made bread is similar in character, and is affected in a similar manner by exposure to the air. But properly made bread -such bread as ought to be in every intelligent home, and on every Christian table three times a day grows sweeter by exposure to the air, and is not at its best until two or three days old. Bread should be kept in a wellcovered box or jar, but it should not be wrapped in cloths, and the box or jar in which it is kept should have small holes in the top o sides of the box, through which the fresh air can have access. As soon as loaves of bread are taken from the oven they should be exposed freely to pure air, and at no time afterward should they be excluded from it. Make good bread, put it in a well ventilated box after it is perfectly cool, and it will keep sufficiently moist at least a week.

To Prepare Baby's Food.

Cook each day, for two hours, two tablespoonfuls of pearl barn, to each pint of water. When it is done, strain through cheese cloth and add half as much sweet cream, not too rich. Sweeten slightly and keep away from either kitchen or bedroom odors and in a cool place, warm enough for a meal every two hours. Keep everything used about the food perfectly clean, making free use of water, soap and sunshine.
As baby grows older simply-made graham gems baked very hard and soaked in milk are very nice. The two and three-yearolds would be saved many a burst of ill temper or spell of nervousness and wakefulness by denying them more than a small portion of meat or other rich or stimulating food.

A Hanging Basket.

Empty the contents of a goose egg through an opening in the small end. Cut away less than half of the shell, and crochet a cover with bright silk or worsted. and finish with a tassel. Fill the shell nearly full of good, rich soil in which plant a few grains of oats. Under the influence of moisture, a warm atmosphere and sunshine, the oats will grow in a short time and droop ever the basket.

Cranberry Pie.

Take fine, sound, ripe cranberries, split each open with a sharp knife, until you have a cupful. Put over them one cupful cold water and one large tablespoonful of sifted flour. Stir all together and put into a crust made with baking powder, like biscuit only with much more shortening. Cover with an upper crust, and bake in a moderate oven. This will make a large pie, and much resembles a cherry pie.

THE SUNDAY, SCHOOL.

LESSON XII, FIRST QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, MARCH 25.

Text of the Lesson, Mark xvi, 1-8 (Easter Lesson)-Memory Verses, 6, 7-Golden Text, 1 Cor. xv, 20-Commentary by the

As last week the missionary lesson took precedence of the temperance lesson, it seems very fitting that this week the Easter lesson should be chosen instead of the review. The resurrection is set before us nearly thirty times in the Acts of the Apostles (at least four times seven times) as the great topic which the apostles preached and is in the epistles constantly kept before us as our hope (His return and our resurrection) and inspiration to patience and faith, holiness and zeal in His service (Rom. viii, 18, 23; I Cor. xv, 51, 52, 58; Phil. iii, 20, 21; Col. iii, 1-4, I Thess. iii, 13). "Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection" (Rev. xx, 6).

1. "And when the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene and Mary, the mother of James, and Salome had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint Him." In Luke xxiii, 56, we read that having seen where His body was laid they returned from the sepulcher, bought the spices and rested the Sabbath day according to the commandment. We cannot but admire their love and devotion to Him to whom they had so faithfully ministered in His life among them, and He will give them full credit for it all. But if they had believed His words they would not have looked for His dead body in the tomb on the third day (Math. xvi. 21; xvii, 23; xx, 19). So love without faith may do unnecessary work and misspend time and money. Mary of Bethany, because she believed His word, had anointed His body beforehand for His burial (Mark xiv, 8).

2. "And very early in the morning, the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulcher at the rising of the sun."

It had been a dark Sabbath to them without any bright hopes for the morrow, because of their lack of faith, but they kept the day by holy resting. See one of the best precepts for keeping the holy day in Isa. Iviii, 13, 14. We rejoice to keep the first day instead of the seventh, because of his rising on that day and appearing to the disciples, and because of all O. T. eighth day types and N. T. plain teaching (Acts xx, 7). Those who still keep seventh day are seeking to live in the days before His resurrection. "And they said among themselves, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulcher?" Satan is always suggesting hindrances in the way of those who love the Lord, hindrances and discouragements to keep us from going forward-they seem sometimes very real, and sometimes they are only imaginary. The risen Christ at God's right hand, having all power in heaven and on earth, is the one cure for all such, and His promise, 'Lo, I am with you alway," our constant strength. He shall not fail or be discouraged (Isa.

4. "And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away, for it Difficulties vanish as was very great." we go forward. Sometimes we are to stand still and see the salvation of the Lord (Ex. xiv, 13), but sometimes our feet must actually touch the waters before they divide (Joshua iii, 13, 15). When He putteth forth His sheep, He goeth before them. The Lord, He it is that doth go before thee; He will be with thee, He will not fail thee, neither forsake thee, fear not, neither be dismayed (John x, 4; Deut. xxxi, 8). He did not need the stone rolled away that He might rise, but it was probably rolled away that they and others might see for themselves that His body was no longer in the tomb. 5. "And entering into the sepulcher, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment, and they were affrighted. Matthew says that an angel sat on the stone and greeted the women; Luke says that two angles stood by them in the tomb, while John says that Mary saw two angels sitting, the one at the head and the other at the feet where the body of Jesus had lain. There is no contradiction, but a description of the different attitudes of the two angels as seen by different persons at different times. See in the angel as a young man the suggestion of immortal youth. 6. "And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted; ye seek Jesus of Nazareth. which was crucified; He is risen; He is not here; behold the place where they laid Him." From Gen. xv, 1, to Rev. i, 17, one of the greatest words of God and angels to the children of men is "Fear not" or "Be not afraid." Find all you can of them and hold them fast. Remember that His perfect love to us will dispel all our fears if we only believe it (I John iv, 16:18). If we have fears, it is because we are not abiding in His love; therefore He says, "As the Father hath loved Me, so have I loved you. Continue ye in My love." And again it is written, "Keep yourselves in the love of God" (John xv, 9; Jude 21). The angels doubtless rejoiced to tell that Christ had risen. According to Math. xxvii, 6, one of them reminded the women that He had said He would rise, as if gently reproving them for looking for a dead Christ. How our unbelief must grieve Him as well as hinder Him from using us as He would like to! Think of His words, "O ye of little faith!" "O fools, and slow of heart to believe!" "Have faith in God."

7. "But go your way, tell His disciples and Peter that He goeth before you into Galilee. There shall ye see Him as He said unto you." Compare Math. xxviii, 7, and John xx, 17, with this verse and hear Christ and angels say to you, "Go, tell!" Father, Son and Spirit are ever saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" But how few are saying, "Here am I; send me!" How little benefit even believers seem to derive from Christ, crucified, risen, ascended!

8. "And they went out quickly, and fled from the sepulcher, for they trembled and were amazed; neither said they anything to any man, for they were afraid." In Math. xxviii, 8, it is written that they did run to bring the disciples word; so it must have been on their way to the disciples that they said nothing to any man. They would now think of His words about rising again, which they had not believed before; they would think how their unbelief led them into many mistakes; they would wonder, what does it all mean and what next; so with mingled feelings of fear and joy they ran to tell. Only a mind staid on Him can have perfect peace, but that is our privilege (Isa. xxvi, 3).

FOR BABY'S COMFORT.

1 DESIRABLE INNOVATION THAT WILL BENEFIT THE WEE ONES.

The Hammeck in the Household - Its Various Uses and Advantages-How to Go to Work to Secure the Best All Round Results.

During the hot August days a hammock hung in a shady spot, where the benefit of all the breeze that stirs may be enjoyed, is a boon to mankind. Why should it not be equally desirable for the baby, especfally at nap time, indeed at any time or

Nature does not always provide trees for supports that are situated just right for this purpose. Neither is the piazza at all times a desirable place for swinging the little bed, but an arrangement, such as illustrated, is easily packed and may be carried about and placed in any place you

Purchase a small hammock, and have a wooden bar about two inches square and long enough to swing the hammock from by means of hammock hooks screwed to the lower side. This should rest upon two tripods, made of round, stout sticks about an inch and a half in diameter, so attached that they may be compactly folded together or spread apart at the foot when in use.

One of the sticks in each tripod should be cut off where they join the other two, leaving a V above for holding the bar, which must be levelled, so that it may fit closely between the sticks.

A brass chain is fastened around the sticks of the tripod, about half way down, to prevent their spreading too far. Stretches are needed for both ends of the hammock to keep it spread sufficiently, and rope is fastened to the middle of the bar with brass hooks at either end for hooking into the sides of the hammock after the baby has been placed in it, to prevent him from falling out.

The hammock should have a folded sheet pinned inside at the four corners with safety pins. The supports can be made at home if one has sufficient mechanical skill.—Household.

THREE HINTS.

How Children Should Eat-How to Broil Kidneys-Orange Pudding.

Children should be trained to eat slowly. no matter how hungry or what important business is pressing. Much safer a little food well ground than a hearty meal swallowed in haste. Cold food is even more difficult to digest than hot if taken too rapidly. The normal temperature of the stomach is about 98 degrees. Food has to be raised to this temperature before digestion can take place. - People's Health

Broiled Kidneys.

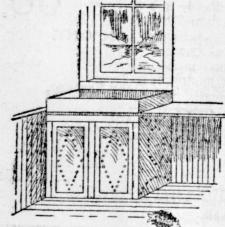

Cut the kidneys through lengthwise, but do not separate, lay them on a broiler alternately with slices of bacon and do thoroughly. When you take them off, sprinkle with fine cut parsley, pepper and celery salt. They will close up over this mixture and fairly squeeze it into themselves. By the way, you can cut parsley lots finer with scissors than a knife.

Orange Pudding.

Pare and slice four oranges; sprinkle with sugar. Bring them to a boil; one pint of milk, add one tablespoonful of cornstarch smoothed in a little cold milk, three tablespoonfuls of sugar; let boil well, then add the yolks of three well-beaten eggs; when cool, pour over the sliced oranges. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, sugar to taste and spread on top of pudding.

ventilated only when the doors are opened for the purpose of removing or placing in them some utensil. Pots, kettles and tinware placed therein become mouldy and rusty unless in daily use. This trouble can be overcome by simply making holes in the sides and ends, as shown in the accompanying illustration. Half inch augur holes are most desirable, and may be made in a cupboard already in use. By placing pieces of charcoal, chloride of lime or a piece of unslacked lime in the cupboard the atmosphere will be sweetened, which in connection with the ventilating holes will keep things in better condition .-American Agriculturist.

Spring Fancies. Among the latest fancies is one for cream colored embroidery, with a raised design upon it. A curious blending of embroidery and lace in texture is this, which in the immediate future is to adorn dresses of all descriptions. It is being made in various shapes, pieces that will form zouaves, lengths suited for epaulettes, straight bands for the hems of the skirts, and festooned designs of all widths. Fanciful galloons of most elaborate patterns, with predominating paillettes, will also be smiled upon by the authorities, and there will not be the least diminution in the attentions we are lavishing upon the black satin and black

Effective belts are made of black satin ribbon profusely jetted, and watered rib-bons with the design outlined with spangles are also made into bands for the waist, but not, perhaps with much success.

Why Cook Pies and Puddings?

It is a great waste of time, and frequently of money, for the woman who does her own work, or has only the help of one servant, to indulge in elaborate desserts. Some sort of dessert is necessary after dinner. It is the proper course to "linger over." Lingering over cold roast and chilly vegetables would lack the charm which attaches to dallying with dessert. But because desserts are graceful and necessary for the dainty finishing of a dinner is no reason why the cook or the mother should spend hours every day in stoning raisins and similar occupations.

A jar of preserved ginger is compara-tively inexpensive, and from it may come many desserts for a family of ordinary size. With delicate biscuits and a cup of coffee it forms a delicious ending for the evening meal. Fruit and nuts are quite as cheap, and much more wholesome than pies and puddings. Half a dozen oranges for fifteen cents will make a better dessert for six people than one pie costing eighteen cents. Apples polished and attractively arranged might often be substituted for puddings and sauces.

Boiled custard is a very easily prepared dish, and when poured over cake which is beginning to grow hard; makes a delicate dessert. Crackers and cheese may be served with the coffee instead of the regular dessert, and are quite as much as most people care for who have eaten a substantial dinner. Figs and dates are moderate in price, easily arranged and wholesome. In fact, by a little forethought, a housekeeper should be able to furnish desserts for five days out of every seven without recourse to the cook book or the stove.

Porterhouse and Tenderloin.

A carcass of beef is cut in nineteen pieces. All of the pieces and the names are in the dictionary. Look at the list and you will not find the names "tenderloin" and "porterhouse"-two names that the inexperienced buyer has always on his lips. The porterhouse is a delusion and a snare in 99 cases out of 100. The tenderloin is the thick part of the sirloin after a few round bone steaks have been cut off, and is called the filet de boeuf. It makes a choice piece for roasting, but if not sold in a lump, is cut into sirloin steaks of three grades. The first and second grades are technically "hip sirloin steak" and "flat-bone sirloin steak." These are the tenderloin steaks that the young housewife pays extra for. There are not over six of each kind in one carcass, so the chances are that she pays her good money for a third-cut, or "round-bone" sirloin, which is itself a capital steak.

Porterhouse steaks are cut from the small-end sirloin steak, and one carcass contains but a few of them. Ingenious butchers understand the knack of cutting the small end sirloin so as to include other portions of the beef, thus enabling them to sell both at porterhouse prices.

Good beef has a juicy or sappy appearance, with a fine, smooth grain, which is easily noticed. The fat, both outside and through the muscles, presents a clear, straw-colored appearance. The flesh should be cherry red. When meat rises quickly after being pressed it may be considered. prime. When the dent made by pressing rises slowly or not at all, depend upon it the beef is poor. - Washington Post.

Cooking by Steam.

Cooking dishes are now made in England, in which in the boiling process the meat does not come in contact with the water or steam. The edible is contained in a jacket, which in turn is immersed in the outside kettle containing the boiling water. It is claimed that by this the nutritious qualities of meat are preserved, nothing passing off in vapor. There is moisture enough in the meat to prevent it from burning and all the flavor is retained, while. again, the fiber retains a tenderness not found in any other method. - Hard-

HINTS FOR THE SEASON.

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS FOR YOUR SPRING HOUSEWORK.

The Family Sewing and the Sowing of Early Seeds-The Cleaning of the Closets and the Helping of the Poor-How to Work to Advantage.

As the days begin to lengthen, new duties accumulate, and if not systematically disposed of by and by they will overwhelm us. Now is a good time to do up the family sewing, to quilt bed quilts, and tie off comfortables. All this, as well as the spring sewing, should be if possible disposed of before the time. posed of before the time of general housecleaning arrives.

The time of sowing seed of early annuals is also near at hand. By sowing in small wooden boxes, and setting them in the kitchen windows, and planting out the middle of May, we can have blossoms several weeks in advance of the usual season. Half the pleasure we receive from flowers is derived from growing and tending them ourselves, watching their growth, development and beauty, with something of the interest that we bestow upon a lovely

While waiting for settled weather, we can facilitate house-cleaning by looking over closets, trunks and bundles, to discover whether the Buffalo bug and moth are not making havoc with their contents. We should not by neglect let these nuisances get a foothold, as they increase rapidly and are difficult to destroy.

In regard to cast off clothing the best disposition is to hand over to some needy family such garments as you have no further use for; serviceable underskirts for small children may be made from the bottoms of scarlet vests, while the tops of worsted stockings can be cut over into warm stockings for little feet. Old tablecloths can be utilized for napkins and dishtowels; usually a good-sized napkin can be cut from each corner.

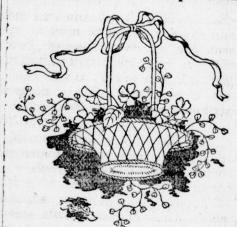

Rooms that can be vacated for a week or two may at this season of the year be papered and painted. Two coats of paint applied to our living rooms once a year saves the housewife a vast amount of cleaning. The day has arrived when any woman so disposed can do her own painting, as paints in endless colors and shades can be bought cheaply all ready for use. Before applying the paint, the woodwork must be washed clean in suds containing a small piece of sal soda. The mistake of the amateur usually is, that she applies the paint too freely, and does not spread it sufficiently or make straight strokes; a little practice, however, will soon overcome this difficulty. All kitchen floors when not oiled should be painted, and then left unused for several weeks for the paint to thoroughly harden. A young lady of my acquaintance, who is quite an artist, believing she could paint on wood as successfully as on eardboard, bought paints and brush, and became so infatuated with her work that she extended it to kitchen, dining room and chambers, not only painting them but papering them also; all being artistically done, as to colors and shades. If oilcloths are varnished once a year their term of service will be greatly prolonged. Plain window-shades that have become soiled with smoke and flies may be cleaned by wiping them off with a soft rag wet in cold water. Ink spots on a carpet may be drawn out if salt is applied immeas often as the salt absorbs the ink.—Counthe application try Gentleman.

Designs in Embroidery.

Ladies interested in art embroidery and living in or near large cities, where fine specimens are continually put on exhibition and sale, must have noted the great advancement in execution and artistic treatment during so short a period as the past five years.

In New York the Decorative Art soclety led the van in raising the standard of excellence, and now it is possible to obtain either patterns or stamped articles of real artistic merit in most of the leading shops. They are no longer sold at exorbitant prices in the exclusive art associations. The floral basket pattern here reproduced from Modern Priscilla, with directions for working it, is both new and

This design may be stamped on linen, on bolting cloth for a doily or a decorative square for top of mouchoir sachet or pin cushion. The piece of bolting must be much larger than needed, or must have basted around the edges a strip of cloth, so that the portions crumpled in the hoop can be cut away.

It requires some skill and great nicety to embroider successfully on such a delicate foundation. A very fine needle and one strand of filoselle are used and drawn back and forth with great care. No threads can be run across from flower to flower on the underside, but each must be fastened and

The design may be worked in all white on the bolting or in very delicate tones of pink or blue and green, with fine gold thread for the basket. This class of design is among the most popular of present styles. It may also be painted on bolting cloth with gouache colors. Large basket designs are also suited to the large square pillows that are now indispensable in well furnished parlor, library or sitting room. Tiny baskets are embroidered in the corners of square napkins and doilies.

Hot Milk.

Hot milk is a regularly recognized drink in some of the German cafes. It is served in a cup with a saucer, and two lumps of sugar always accompany it. The drink has several things to commend it, since it has none of the dangerous qualities of tea, coffee or alcholic drinks, and it is actually an excellent remedy for disorders of the stomach, arising from certain forms of indigestion.

Birds of a Feather. Eight little boys got on a Niagara street car at the corner of Vermont street about 7.30 o'clock last night. They had been out to St. Mary's to rehearse something or other (they were choir boys), and they were on their way to St. Paul's. The women in the car talked to them and asked them all sorts of questions. They talked willingly except one little fellow, who was as black as coal, and who seemed to be the butt of the other seven.

"So you all sing?" asked one of women. "Yep," answered three of the boys at

"Yes, I will; an' if yer don't pay, I'll put ther bag off. See?" said the conductor, shortly. He gave the man five minutes more, asked him a second and a third time, then stopped the car and put the bag off on the sidewalk. The "slugger" didn't even move, and when the car had gone about a mile further the conductor said to him:

"Yer don't care much fer that bag if you wouldn't pay five cents fer it."
"Ah, come off!" was the reply. "What's der bag got ter do wid me? 'Tain't mine. I'd 'a' told yer so if yer'd asked me."-Pen and Scissors.

The Russo-German Treaty.

BERLIN, March 16. - After the final passage of the Russo-German treaty the Reichstag adjourned until April 5. The treaty goes into operation on March 20. Gen. Von Werder, German ambassador to Russia, arrived here this evening from St. Petersburg with an autograph letter of congratulation from the Czar to Emperor William. Count Schouvaloff, Russian ambassador, will celebrate to-morrow the ratification of the treaty by giving a dinner to the Emperor and Chancellor Von Cap-

Colonials in Caucus.

LONDON, March. 16 .- The Colonial party in the House of Commons held a meeting yesterday. Mr. Hogan urged the desirability of steps being taken to secure an Imperial subsidy for the route to Australia, via Canada. It was also agreed to press upon the Government the importance of co-operating with Canada and Australia in the construction of a Pacific cable. Other matters discussed were the Imperial penny postage and the methods adopted in the selection of colonial governors.

"The Irish at Home and Abroad." London, March 16 .- Hon. Edward Blake responded to the toast of "The Irish at Home and Abroad" at the St. Patrick's Day banquet last night. He said that the Irish abroad were loyal subjects of the countries with which they had cast in their lot. Ireland was the only land in which the Irishmen had not attained the highest positions.

The Government's success in working for Ireland's cause depended on the solidarity of the race all over the world. All dissensions should perish. The home rule cause was indestructible from without. It could only perish at the hands of its friends. Da Gama's Last Resort.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 16 .- Admiral Da Gama and his eight officers are still on + the Portuguese corvette Mindello, to which they were transferred from the cruiser Magon. The Government applied yesterday to the Portuguese Minister admiral and his staff. The Minister Cabinet then sent a dispatch to Lisbon | initiate such a reform by the modification repeating the application which the Min. of the army estimates. ister had rejected. Admiral Da Gama was described in this dispatch as a military criminal and defaulter, having nothing in common with the ordinary political refugee. The Lisbon Government has not yet returned an answer.

The Home Rule Cause.

LONDON, March 16 .- T. P. O'Connor, in the Sun, absolutely repudiates Redmond's were conducted with a singular lack of mons, and the Irish Nationalist leaders state that they will hereafter give him no countenance whatever in a policy which they regard as now purely destructive to the future of home rule.

Both the Irish and the extreme Radical sections of the Liberal party have been convinced of Lord Rosebery's entire fidelity not only to the cause of home rule, but to all the clauses of the Liberal programme. including a measure for a serious and effective estoppel to the prolonged veto power of the House of Lords.

The permanence of the Government seems rather assured than imperilled by the success of Labouchere's motion, while that unexpected triumph has given momentous impetus to the movement against the House of Lords.

The Queen on Italian Soil. FLORENCE, March 16 .- Queen Victoria arrived here at 1:15 p.m. to-day. The railway station was crowded with residents and visitors, who had assembled to catch a glimpse of her Majesty and the royal party, who were heartily cheered as they alighted from the train. As her Majesty stepped from the train she was welcomed by the Dake of Acsta, nephew of King Humbert, on behalf of the King and Queen of Italy. Sir Francis Clare Ford, the British ambassador to Italy, then received the Queen with appropriate formalities, and the royal party were driven to the Villa Fabbricotti, where her Majesty will remain until April 19. An immense triumphal arch composed entirely of camelias spanned the principal street and through this the Queen and her party were driven amid the cheers of crowds. All along the route from the station to the villa thous- $200,000 demage.

ands of people cheered as the party passed. The city was in holiday attire and flags and flowers were everywhere displayed.

Britain's Army.

LONDON, March 16 .- H. Campbell Bannerman, Secretary of State for War, made a general statement as to the army policy of the Government. He maintained that it was best to have one army organization for United Kingdom, the colonies and India. At home the Government should maintain a torce of two army corps with a numerical strength of 80,000. These two corpse would render impossible any plan of invasion. The regiments at home should be interchangeable with those drafted abroad. The propos. to increase the navy was no excuse for a reduction of the army. The estimates for 1894.95 he said were £18,-080,900, or £278,100 more than last year. The increase was due partly to the better treatment of the men. The reserve, which was at present 80,340 strong, would be increased by 12,000 men within the next two years.

Minus Their Meals.

BUENOS AYRES, March 16 .- From dispatches received from Rio Janeiro it is earned that the surrender of the insurgents was due to the fact that their provisions gave out and no jurther supplies were obtainable. Admiral Da Gama is roundly denounced by the sailors who were under his command, and they unhesitatingly declare that they would have killed him had they known of his intention to desert them. Da Gama is supposed to be seeking the earliest opportunity to get to Europe, but it is understood the Government will demand his surrender as a pirate by any country giving him shelter. It is generally thought that Melio has followed the example of Da Gama and has deserted his followers. The Government is arranging to send a fleet southward to search for the Republica and Aquidaban.

An Awful Responsibility.

CAPE Town, March 16 .- Reports received from Commissioner Jameson state that the Chartered Company has learned that King Lobengula sent three messengers to the patrol sent out by Major Forbes on Dec. 3. These messengers conveyed a present of £1,000 in gold and a verbal message asking the patrol to stop, as he (Lobengula) would surrender. The King's messengers declare that they handed the gold to two men wearing the uniform of Imperial police, which formed a part of the rear guard. From the description of the men suspicion rests on two of the troopers, Davis and Daniels. They have been arrested. Commissioner Jameson asserts that he will try to get further information from the natives in regard to the matter as upon the heads of the men who stole the £1,000 rests the moral guilt of the murder of the Wilson party and the death of King Loben-

British Parliament.

London, March 16 .- In the House Mr. Robert William Hanbury (Con.), member for Preston, questioned the Government concerning the alleged theft of drawings of the machinery of Yarrow's new torpedo destroyer, the Havoc.

Mr. John C. Macdona (Con.), member for Southwark, asked the Government if the United States had replied to the communications of the Foreign Office through Sir Julian Pauncefote, British ambassador at Washington, in regard to the mutual action for the removal of derelicts from the Atlantic Ocean.

Sir Edward Gray said a reply had been received from Washington on Jan. 25 to the effect that the United States Government had no particular plan for removing derelicts, but that the American warships destroyed them whenever they found them. The communication added that the United States was prepared to confer with the maritime powers at any time with a view of dealing with the subject by concerted action.

The coming budget, it is said upon authority, will propose changes in the income tax amounting to a considerable increase. Some of the changes are an increase of 2 pence in £1 on incomes up to £1,000 a year, a graduated rise up to I shilling in £1 on greater incomes, and the exemption from taxation on all incomes below £200 a year. Sir Edward Gray, in answer to a question by James Carmichael (Liberal), said the Government would gladly consider any for the surrender of the insurgent proposal looking to an international entente limiting armaments. He feared, however, declined to give Da Gama up, and the that in the meantime it would be useless to Sir Charles Dilke moved that the Government give assurance that the military estimates would be framed to meet the requirements of possible war on sea and land under the advice of officers of each arm of service who were qualified to command their respective departments. Jameson's Exposure Discussed.

LONDON, March 17 .- Most of the morning dailies comment in the severest terms upon the facts laid bare by Dr. Jameson's report. They demand that the affair be sifted thoroughly and the guilty men he fully punished. If the report be found true, they say the men responsible for the breach of trust must be held responsible also for the subsequent disaster to Capt. Wilson and his party and for Lobengula's death.

Debate on the Address in Reply to "The Speech."

A Startling Explosion Possible Over General Herbert's Report.

The Government Said to Consider 1t Unfit for Publication-Senator Berne ier Reiuses to Second the Reply to the Throne Speech-Trade Decrease.

(Special to the ADVERTISER.)

OTTAWA, Ont., March 16 .- The galleries of the House were filled this afternoon in expectation of an oratorical display in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. The attendance of members was large, especially on the Opposition side, Nova Scotia Ministerialists being detained east by the provincial elections. Sir John Thompson and most of the Ministers were in their places to the right of the Speaker, while on the left Messrs, Laurier, Cartwright, and other leading Liberals faced them. Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, the leader of the third party. occupied his usual place in the front Ministerial row. Lady Thompson, Lady Tupper and Madame Laurier occupied front seats in the Speaker's gallery.

Sir James Grant, on rising to move the address, made a long and excellently de-livered speech. He alluded to the incoming Governor-General in highly complimentary terms, and dwelt on what he termed the great development of the country, coupled with and aided by the construction of the C. P. R. He went on to point a comparison by describing in harrowing terms the recent depression in Great Britain, Australia and the United States. He admitted the existence of depression in Manitoba and the Northwest, and attributed it to the low price of wheat. He advocated the adoption of mixed farming to a greater extent in that country. At last Sir James came to the tariff, and expectation sat on the faces of the Opposition. If they expected a declaration of the Government's policy they were doomed to disappointment. It was, he said, a vexed question, and to this the Opposition cried "Hear! Hear!" He was not in the secrets of the Government, but he felt assured when the tariff was brought down Canada would acquiesce in it, and that it would give satisfaction to all classes. He condemned the principle of free trade as applied to Canada, as we were on the border of a highly protected country. If they adopted free trade they would be precisely in the position of England-(Mr. Davies interjected, "I wish we were.")liable to an income tax. He pronounced in favor of a protection which would not press on any members of the community. He closed with an elequent peroration about "the young oak of Canadian nation, ality.' Dr. La Chapelle (Hochelaga) seconded the motion, speaking in French. He was a straight protectionist, and reminded the Government that it was pledged to protect the money invested in good faith. In a happy manner he brought greetings from the Province of Quebec to the new Governor-General. Mr. Laurier was in good form, and rose amid cheers from the Opposition. In his early remarks he renewed those cheers by alluding to the victory of the Fielding Government in Nova Scotia the day before. The Opposition leader paid a high compliment to the new Governor-General, and a graceful tribute to his immediate predecessor. Adverting to Dr. La Chapelle's claim that Canada's creditable share in the World's Fair was due to the National Policy Mr. Laurier reminded them that the farmers had taken the lion's share in that display, and agriculture was not in Canada a pampered industry. After a little raillery with reference to what he called Sir James Grant's flowers of rhetoric, and wondering how such flowers could be found in the barren and rocky speech from the throne, the delay in summoning Parliament was condemned and the opinion expressed that it was due to the Wilson Bill. The Government was looking to Washington. "How are the mighty fallen," exclaimed Mr. Laurier, amid Opposition laughter. First the excuse for delaying revising the tariff last session was a desire to obtain the opinion of the people, but they heard instead of a few secret sessions held here and there. He denounced the idea of the Government conducting public business in secret. Mr. Laurier could surmise, however, what was going on. The Government were feeling the pulse of the manufacturers, but each manufacturer, like "Unsweet Jack Falstafi" in the comedy, was only willing to sacrifice his neighbor to the popular outcry for a reduction of duties. Even the Minister of Finance exclaimed "reduce the duties on boots and shoes, on clothing, on drygoods, but banish not good wine." This reference to the French treaty and Mr. Foster's past temperance record was regarded by the Opposition as a good joke and they laughed loud and long. He contrasted the secreey of the conferences between the Government and the manufacturers with the publicity given to those between the controllers and the farmers. The excuse for the former, that publicity would produce speeches on protection and free trade, did not apparently apply to the latter conferences, because the Controllers lectured the farmers on the trade question. Like the king in the fable who said to the chicken "What sauce do you want to be eaten with," and received the reply "I don't want to be eaten," so the Government said to the farmers "You are to have the sauce of protection," notwithstanding the protest of the tarmers that they did not want protection. Mr. Laurier declared want protection. Mr. Laurier declared about the scrotum, wasting of the organs, that the prosperity in Canada spoken of by dizziness, specks before the eyes, twitching Sir James Grant reminded the farmers of the bee who laid up stores only to have them taken by others. The Bering Sea award, Mr. Laurier could not help thinking, was a bad one for Canada, and in proof

he pointed out that Sir John Thompson demanded from the Government a declaration as to the French treaty with which this and many other important questions upon which the passions of the people have been aroused. I arraign them for lack of courage, the want of business capacity and for want of decision." Mr. Laurier, who spoke for an hour, resumed his seat amid the cheers of his supporters.

Sir John Thompson twitted Mr. Laurier with praising the agricultural exhibit at the World's Fair and yet picturing farmers as in a miserable condition. Referring to the tariff, he said the Government had not been able until this year to get down to revising a tariff of 900 or 1,000 items. They adhered to the view that they could not revise their tariff without reference to the Wilson Bill. That bill might yet be unfinished. yet they would have done the best they could to allow of a knowledge of what was being done at Washington. This was for purely business purposes, and not as to the principle upon which the Government would base their policy. They also wished to see what Congress was willing to do in the direction of an enhancement of trade between the two countries, and it would have been violation of the Government's sincere pledge if they had commenced Parliament and brought down a measure regardless altogether of what the neighboring country might do. The Government was sincere in desiring to take measures for an increase of trade with the United States. It was better to delay calling Parliament than to wait another year for an enhancement of such trade. He assured the Opposition leader that there was no nefarious design in holding the tariff conferences in secret. He argued to show that it was not protection, as Mr. Laurier said, bat the fear of a reduction which caused the trouble in the United States. Dealing with the Bering Sea award, he admitted that the regulations were too severe, and in some respects inadequate. The illegality of the scizures by the United States had, however, been established and declared. The award, as a whole, was satisfactory to Canada. The Government would bring down its policy on the little

French treaty when it was ready. The rising of Sir Richard Cartwright made it evident that the debate would be an extended one. He dwelt at length on the Bering Sea award, which he described as a disaster to our trade and commerce, and with regard to which the British Government had not, he held, done its duty towards Canada. He took the ground that the treatment by the Ottawa Government of the United States gave Great Britain an excuse for the course pursued. Their policy had for many years been first to bluster and snarl and then to cringe. Canada had come out of the award with the shell and the United States got the oyster. Sir Richard blamed the Government for not having seized the opportunity of arbitration to have our rights to the culties with the United States. He concluded with a caustic reference to the release of McGreevy and Connolly-"those injured innocents.' Mr. Macdonald, of Huron, moved the adjournment of the debate, and will continue it on Monday. In the course of his speech Sir John Thompson announced that the budget would be delivered on Wednesday next. D'Alton McCarthy gives notice to-night of a bill to give the Northwest executive control over education. This will cause a big fight.

EIRTHS, DEATHS AND MARRIAGES.

Interesting Statistics for the Province of Ontario.

Special Facts Relating to London and Middlesex-More Male Than Female Births.

[Special to the ADVERTISER] TORONTO, March 17 .- The report in reference to births, marriages and deaths throughout Ontario during 1892 has just been published.

Compared with the years 1890 and 1891. the year following (that under treatment) showed a decrease in the number of births, the total being 42,176-2,578 less than 1891 and 3,000 less than 1890. From the figures it will be seen that the decrease has been steady during the three years mentioned. Unlike the State of Massachusetts (in which the feminine element greatly predominates) the male births were more numerous than the female births by over 1,000-21,738 males, 20,438 females. The greatest number of births occurred in August (3,749) while the fewest | Local Knights Templar Banquet Grand were recorded in December (3,121.)

There were 616 births in London-315 males; 301 females-an increase over the preceding year of 11. April, as indicated by the report, is the most popular month for birthdays in the Forest City, while fewest occurred, as in the rest of the Province, in December. The figures are April, 65; December, 34. The average number of births to every 1,000 of the population throughout the Province was 19.7. In the cities the ratio upon the same basis was 20.8. London's ratio is 19.1.

The number of marriages is seemingly on the increase. There were 14,482 couples married in 1892, an increase of 293 pairs over the figures registered in 1891. December is the popular month for nuptials. There were 281 marriages in London, an increase over 1891 of 26. The general age of the participants in these happy events, taking into account the whole Province, was between 20 and 25, although in London two men over 60 launched upon the sea of matrimony. Middlesex, not to be outdone, offered five men over 70 years as eligible; two couples, in the same county being over 65. The ratio of increase-again based upon every 1,000 population-over the entire Province was 9.9, London only recording 8.7.

There was an increase in the number of deaths to the extent of 723, making a total of 22,120. The average death rate to every 1,000 of the inhabitants in the country was 10.07 and the cities .17. There were 462 deaths in London, an increase of National Anthem. The toast of "The 73 over 1891. The death rate in Martyrs of the Templar Order" was re-London was far below the average in cities, ceived in silence. M. E. Sir Knight Atlantic fisheries recognized. He demanded being 14.03. In the category of cities (if, indeed, the death rate can be taken as an indication of the sanitary condition of a municipality), St. Catharines is the most unhealthy. With a population of 9,270, a death rate of 21.01 to every thousand is shown. Following, in the order mentioned, come: Kingston, population 19, 474, ratio 20.1; Toronto, population 188, 333, ratio 18.9; Windsor, population 10. 425, ratio 18.5; Ottawa, population 44,639 ratio 179; Erantford, population 12,892, ratio 16.2; Guelph, population 10,652, ratio 15.7; London, population 32,327, ratio 14.3; Belleville, population 10,024, ratio 13.8; Stratford, population 9,604, ratio 12.8; Hamilton, population 49,517, ratio 12.2, and St. Thomas, population 10,479, address in reply to the speech from the ratio 10.1. More people died in January than in any other month, and less in June.

OXFORD AGAIN!

Beats Cambridge in the Great Boat Race on the Thames

For the Fifth Successive Time-Cambridge Crew Played Out-Great Crowds.

London, March 17 .- The 51st race between the crews of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge since 1829, when the present series began, was rowed this mornng, and Oxford won by 31 lengths in 21:39. The race was rowed over the championship course of four and a half miles from Putney to Mortlake, the start being made from Morign above Putney Ridge, and the finish at the Ship Hotel at Mortlake. The weather was raw and cold, and a thick fog at Putney threatened to obscure the movements of the boats from the spectators at the starting point, but with the rising of the sun the fog lifted and the race was sioner Wende is taking energetic steps to rowed in sunshine. > The starting signal was given at exactly 9:12 a. m. The crews caught the water simultaneously, but the Cambridge's first stroke shoved the nose of their boat ahead. At the second stroke both boats were abreast. After a few more strokes, however, Oxford began to draw slowly ahead and continued to increase her lead. Oxford was rowing 39 strokes a minute and Cambridge 38. As they reached the boathouses Oxford was a quarter of a length ahead and though the bend at the end of that point favored Cambridge, the latter could not cut down the lead. Both crews at this point were doing their utmost and Cambridge made repeated spurts but she kept dropping astern.

Hammersmith Bridge, which was reached at 9.23, found Oxford a length and a half in the lead with every man apparently strong and with the race well in hand barring accidents. Oxford settled into a 36 stroke after passing Hammersmith, and Cambridge unable to stand the strain of a sustained spurt at that time pulled the same stroke. Observing this Oxford lowered her stroke to 34 but pulled strongly and in excellent form. The exhaustion of the Cambridge crew was now apparent. They rowed with a short splashing stroke and were palpably incapable of making another race. At Chiswick Oxford reduced the power of her stroke and rowed easily and leisurely. The race had now become a procession, and Cambridge was getting the wash of the Oxford boat.

Barnes' railway bridge was passed at 9:29, and Cambridge at that point was See our goods before ordering. signs of flagging. From Barnes' to the finish at Mortlake, Oxford rowed like a party out for a pleasure trip, while the Cambridge crew had the appearance of an exhausted boatload of men endeavoring to get ashore before the boat should sink. Oxford reached the finish at 9:33:29, three and a half lengths ahead. The Cambridge men were entirely pumped out, and did

MASONIC DOINGS.

Master E. E. Sheppard.

The Ritual Exemplified Kilwinning's "At Home"-Craft Notes.

Richard Cour de Lion Preceptory, No. I, Knights Templar, of this city, held their annual banquet last night, and a very suc cessful affair it proved to be. Supreme Grand Master Sheppard, of Toronto, was present at the rooms of the Sir Knights of the Preceptory in the Masonic Temple during the evening, and witnessed the exemplification of the work under the new ritual. He expressed great satisfaction with the manner in which E. Sir Knight Norris and his staff performed the work. At the banquet held atterwards the following Sir Knights were present: E. Sir Knight Norris (in the chair), M. E. Sir Knight Sheppard, R. E. Sir Knights Burch, Molloy (Hamilton), Dubber (St. Thomas), Cooper, Carrothers and Dewar (city), V. E. Sir Knights Stratfold (city) and J. Idsardi (St. Thomas), and Sir Knights McLeod and Payne (Woodstock), W. Wyatt, Dambra, Brown, D. B. Dewar, Martin, Stephenson, Jenkins, Borland, Mc-Robert, Coates, Carson, Fried, Morden,

Evans, Black (Seattle), Davis and others. E. Sir Knight Norris welcomed the visitors and R. E. Sir Knight Dewar introduced the toast list. "The Queen and the Royal Family" were honored with the Sheppard replied to the toast of "The Supreme Grand Master of Canada." "The Grand Encampment of the United States" was responded to by Sir Knight Black. Seattle, Washington. R. E. Sir Knight Malloy, Carrothers and Cooper replied to the toast of "The Great Priory of Canada." R. E. Sir Knights Idsardi, Dubber and others replied to the toast of "Visiting Sir Knights." "Other branches of the Masonic Tree" brought responses from Ill. Bro. D. B. Burch, 32°, for the Scottish Rite, Stratfold, for the Royal Arch, and W. Bro. C. W. Davis for craft Masonry. Some volunteer toasts were afterwards given and several well-known vocalists entertained

KILWILLING'S AT HOME. Kilwinning Lodge, No. 64, A., F. and A. M., held a very successful "At Home" in the Masonic Temple last night. Over 100 couples participated in the grand march at 9 o'clock and dancing was continued, with an interuption for supper, until an early hour. Excellent music was furnished by Tony Cortese's string band. The committee in charge of the affair was composed of W. Bro. A. A. Campbell, president; W. Bro. W. H. Morgan, vice-president; Bro. John Paul, secretary; Bro. U. A. Buchner treasurer; W. Bro. C. W. Davis, W. Bro Francis Love, W. Bro. Jas. H. Ferguson W. Brc. Jas. W. Butler, Bro. Thos. W Scandrett, Bro. C. A. Hobbs, M.D., Bro. EURON. Jnseph Whitehead, the first reeve of Clinton, died some days ago. He was born in England in 1814 and was a fireman on the first locomotive that ever ran. Coming here he was an engineer on the old Great Western Railway. He sat in the Dominion House for five years as the Liberal repre-sentative for North Huron and offered himself as an independent candidate for Center Huron at the next election, but was defeated by Horace Horton, of Goderich.

The Presbytery of Huron met in Seaforth on March 13. Elders' commissions were called for and the roll for the year made up. A call was sustained from Bayfield and Bethanv to Mr. J. R. McKay, probationer. Dr. McDonald, of Seaforth, was nominated for moderator of next assembly. Reports or Sabbath schools, temperance, Sabbath observance, etc., were submitted and considered. The following were appointed commissioners to Assembly: Dr. McDonald, Messrs. McLean, Anderson, Acheson, Dr. Ure, ministers, and J. Wilson, Drysdale, Strong and the elders of Manchester and Grand Bend. Eders Messrs. J. S. ## Garbage Destruction.

The destruction of garbage still occupies the attention of many municipalities. Barton Ulrich, of Chicago, has been inquiring into how the work is done in foreign centers of population. He visited the principal cities of England, Belgium, Germany, and Italy. He says that the cremation of garbage need no longer be treated as a purely theoretical question, since that system is now in operation in a sufficient number of cities to enable practical deductions to be drawn as to its efficiency and economy. In the district of Ealing, adjacent to London, which has a population of 25,000, the refuse is burned in a patent destructor, which has four cells. It has a chimney 143 feet in height. The fuel used is a fine coke, and the quantity consumed costs 37 cents per The cost of the destructor was $10,060, and the quantity of refuse burned is 6,120 tons per year. The heat from the destructor is utilized by a boiler supplying steam for an engine which drives the limemixing machines and clay-mixer for the sewage portion of the works. In London, sooner or later, we will have to adopt some such scheme, if we do not agree to a modified adaptation of the sewage farm system suggested by the Board of Health. Our sewer building should in future be proceeded with on some definite principle. Hitherto, the sewers have been constructed higgledy piggledy.

Ald. Coo as a Paid Official of the County Jail-Objection to the Police Board Estimates - More Representation Wanted on the Board of Police Commissioners.

The finance committee met last night and found a deputation from the Board of Trade awaiting them. It consisted of President Bland, ex-Mayor Cowan, L. H. Ingram and J. S. Pearce. They had come to put their shoulders to the electric street railway deadlock, and ex-Mayor Cowan was the first speaker. "The Board of was the first speaker. "The Board of Trade understands that there has been a little trouble existing for some time between the City Council and the street railway company," said Mr. Cowan, "and if the Board of Trade, by friendly advice, try to remove that difficulty and try to have a trolley system inculty and try to have a trolley system introduced, a good thing would be accomplished. At a meeting with Manager Break and Solicitor Hellmuth I got a document which contains agreements between different street railway companies and 27 corporations in the United States and Canada. The Board of Trade are a unit in their desire to see this matter amicably settled and the trolley system introduced into our city. We have it in the suburbs a short distance away, and it would be a splendid thing to have in the city. There was a proposition put in by the company in October last. A council never becomes defunct, and any business left over from one council should he taken up by the next. There is a revised or amended agreement before the council, or rather last year's council." Mr. Cowan went on to say that the street railway company had never asked the Board of Trade to interfere on their behalf. If the company were allowed a franchise it would give about two years' steady em-to $1,000 a mile. Ald. F. J. Fitzgerald stated that last year's proposition was rejected by the council and never renewed.

L. H. Ingram said he was deeply interested in the trolley system from a merchant's standpoint, and the other merchants were a unit with him. He advocated cheap tare rather than a percentage, because in the former case the traveling public reaped a direct benefit.

Mr. John Bland, president of the Board of Trade, urged expediency in the matter. Mr. J. S. Pearce drew attention to the fact that the present company had a franchise for 31 years yet; "And we have got to make the best of it. You can't force

Mayor Essery-Neither can you force us. So far as their having the start of us, I deny that statement. They have a horseand mule franchise, and are entitled to their rights, but we can give to other companies a franchise to run all around them, and I don't know but what we could grant a franchise to run alongside of them. Mr. Cowan stated that Mr. Hellmuth said there would be no objections on the part of the company to pay a car license. 'Ten or twenty dollars on twenty cars or more is quite an item in a year," concluded

Unfavorable Report by a Special Committee

In Regard to the Condition of the Colborne Street School.

A special meeting of the Board of Education last night was attended by Trustees McRobert'(chairman), Logan, Dr. Campbell, Turner, Blackwell, Greenlees, Johnston, Craig, Murphy, Stevenson, Martin, Jeffrey. Alexander, Griffin, Sanders, Dr. Wilson, Secretary McElheran and Principal Merchant and Inspector Carson. In No. 1 committee's report a recommendation was made that eight teachers be appointed for the transition classes. The list included Miss Rigsby's name, but Trustee Stevenson moved, and Trustee Turner seconded, that Miss Bertha Graham that it would be better to bring in a writ-ten proposition signed by some responsible amendment was lost, and the report ad opted.

Dr. Campbell presented the estimates for 1894 as follows: Collegiate Institute-

Receipts. 2,406 00 Public Schools-Receipts..... 10,793 50 This makes a total of $73,136 50.

Mr. Jeffrey deprecated presenting a report without naming the guilty persons. This brought cries of "Name!" 'Name !" and Trustee Blackwell said that the member who had purchased the stove for the Hamilton road school was Trustee Griffin, and a cupboard for Rectory street school by Trustee Sanders. Trustee Griffin said he thought such reports were brought in only for the sake of kicking.

Chairman McRobert said a personal attack on the chairman of No. 2 was not justifiable, as every member was equally responsible.

Trustee Sanders produced a copy of the resolution which empowered him to order the work spoken of, and the report was

Trustee Griffin presented a report for the special committee appointed to examine the condition of the Colborne street school. A thorough examination had been made, and it was thought that any attempt to repair the school would be useless. The building was in a poor sanitary condition, and according to Dr. Gardiner, very unhealthy. Trustees Griffin and Johnston moved that the report be adopted, but Trustees Blackwell and Turner moved in amendment that it be filed for future reference. The latter thought the board could do without building a new school for a year or so, as a great amount of money had been spent in repairs last year.

Dr. Campbell said something would have ard that if the street railway company are healthy and the number of children kept in any other school. Trustee Griffin again' went for Trustee Blackwell. On the visit being made the latter had said that any person desiring a new school "ought to be hung." This was in spite of the petition signed by 150 rate-payers and the evidence of the medical men. A year ago in preparing the estimates Trustee Blackwell had said no money would be spent on it as it was not worth it. Mr. Griffin had been informed by the engineer that the building was rotten.

Trustee Stephenson then moved in amendment that Engineer McBride be instructed to prepare a report on the sanitary and other conditions of the Colborne street school, and the probable cost of putting it into first-class shape.

It was finally decided to ask the city engineer to prepare a report on the matter. Trustee Alexander moved, seconded by Trustee Griffin, that No. 2 committee cause a stock sheet to be prepared for presentation at the first meeting of the board in May, showing all the real estate and furniture in the possession of the board. -How easy it is for corporations to get tangled up with electric light matters is proved in a recent dispatch from Kalamazoo, Mich. The council of that city voted to terminate the contract with the electric light company, and resolved to build a plant. Work on the plant has not been begun, and the company has been notified that it must continue to light the city for six months under the old contract or take their lights from the streets. The company claims that the council will have to contract by Monday next or there will be no lights thereafter. It holds that its charter runs for twenty-two years yet, and it will not abandon the streets whether it runs the lights or not. The taxpayers will be placed at considerable disadvantage if they have to go, without street lights till the corporation and the company settle the knotty questions involved.

-"Knoxonian," writing in the Canada Presbyterian, says:

"One of Sir Oliver Mowat's colleagues resigned the other day after giving Ontario the best twenty years of his life. There is a pretty general feeling that the Hon. C. F. Fraser is an honest man and that he had administered the great spending department of the Government with clean hands. The Opposition leader paid him some handsome compliments, but Mr. Fraser cannot have full canonization until he retires from public life, or, better still, leaves this world altogether. A few years ago he was suspected by some of having designs against Protestantism. One would almost have supposed from the amount of noise made that he was devastating our crown lands for timber out of which to make martyr's stakes, so that Presbyterians who impoverish themselves by giving too much to augmentation and the aged and infirm ministers' fund might be properly punished. If the honored gentleman will now get out of the way and never reappear in politics he will find no trouble in getting absolution even from Protestants." The same men who traduced Mr. Fraser while at the head of a public department, and at present praise him, now misrepresent and belittle Sir Oliver Mowat, Hon. G. W. Ross, Hon. J. M. Gibson and other statesmen intrusted with the management of Provincial affairs. If they only would stituencies hitherto held by that party as resign, or die, what splendid fellows they would be!

The London ADVERTISER quite properly "Only those communications to which the writers are willing to have their names appended in print will be published in these columns. Neither the writing nor the publication of anonymous letters can be justified." The ADVERTISER is quite right in considering that a man who is too sowardly to sign his name to a letter is eneath contempt. It is too much like aghting an assassin in the dark.

The indications are that the plebiscite resulted in favor of prohibition by an overwhelming majority, though it may be some time before the exact figures are known. Halifax, with many liquor interests at stake, voted "Yes" by a majority of 1,435. and a favorable verdict seems to have been generally given.

Four provinces have so far taken a plebiscite on this question-Manitoba, Prince Edward Island, Ontario and Nova Scotia, and in each instance the vote has been overwhelmingly in favor of prohibition. Is it not about time for the Ottawa Government to throw its worthless royal commission report in the waste basket and prepare to carry out the behests of the electors?

NAME THE TREES.

At a recent meeting of the London Board of Trade there was a discussion on the propriety of labeling the trees and shrubs in Victoria Park, so as to make them an educative agency for the rising generation. The City Council should devote a little attention to this matter. Some public money could well be spent on the laudable work. In Boston Public Garden all the shrubs are now labeled, and on the Common the trees are properly named. The system, according to the Traveler, calls attention to the varied beauty of the beds, and gives individual interest to plants which might otherwise pass unnoticed by the multitude. One objection has very properly been raised to the method of giving the name in a foreign language. Such titles as Cocos Australis and Alternanthera nana rosea may do very well for an arboretum, where the object is instruction in scientific botany, but most people remember and appreciate better some combination of more familiar syllables. The system of appending names in both Latin and English pursued on the Boston Common should be followed in this city. It enlarges the acquaintance of park frequenters with the names and shapes of trees. The best way to learn the Linnman nomenclature is to have the Tillia parvifolia labeled the linden and the acer, and the quercus marked the maple and oak. With names given in both languages, the park becomes a splendid educational force,

NOVA SCOTIA'S LESSON TO ON-TARIO.

In elf-preservation of the industries and best interests of the Dominion and Province." -[T. E. Kenny, M. P. for Halifax.

"But we appeal to our own party to stand by their country and the National Policy, and to guard against doing anything, or suffering anything to be done, which may endanger that policy and their country's future prospecity." - [Halifax

These are specimen declarations made by the Conservative leaders of Nova Scotia immediately prior to the elections on Thursday last, which resulted in so significant a victory for the Liberal Administration, ably led by Premier Fielding. They remind us of similar appeals that have been made to the Ontario electorate when the different race and religion cries raised by the opponents of Sir Oliver Mowat failed in their effect. Not once, but twice, have kindred appeals to these been tried in Ontario. They are no longer made, because they have been exposed and discredited, and doubtless the Neva Scotians will experience a similar evolution. It was a clumsy arrangement for Sir John Thompson and his friends in the Dominion Administration to tie their fortunes up with those of the baker's dozen that on the Opposition benches will confront Premier Fielding. Perhaps the splendid rebuke which the Ottawa intermeddlers have received in Nova Scotia, where the Liberal Administration assailed has been about the returned by a majority of two to one, and the leader of the Conservatives and his lish two lieutenants have been defeated, will have a wholesome effect in deterring the same men from carrying out their intended and American music; (8) the Paderewski raid on the Province of Ontario. Whether they meddle on behalf of Mr. Meredith, as their chief wirepuller has promised, or prudently desist, matters little to the friends of good government in this Prov-

The opponents of Sir Oliver have before now exhausted almost every expedient, have tried almost every policy, have ridden almost every political steed, standing and lying, and have invariably failed. The indications are that their tactics will be no more successful this time than on former occasions. What of the Patrons? it may be asked. We are not apprehensive in this regard. They are just as likely to hurt Conservatives in conthey are to hurt Liberals, and we have faith that wheresoever possible an effort will be made to prevent triangular contests which would let the opponents of Liberal and progressive principles slip in between candidates and platforms which, with one exception, are identical. The appearance of Miss Marie Wainwright and her splendid company at the Grand to-day should attract the largest and most fashionable audience of the reason. It will be the first visit here as a star of an actress who by right of her beauty, charm and talents, holds a foremost position on the American stage. For the evening Miss Wainwright has selected for presentation the famous society drama, "Man and Wife." dramatized by Augustin Daly, from Wilkie Collins' great story, which she is making the most prominent eature of her repertory for this season. In t she has recently been most cordially received in all the largest eastern cities. The prilliant star is aided by such skillful and favorite players as Barton Hill, Louise Mildener and Nathaniel Hartwig. For the matinee "An Unequal Match," of which the Toronto Globe says: "The week opened auspiciously last night at the Grand Opera House with the presentation of Tom Taylor's three-act comedy, "An Unequal Match." The play itself is bright and charming. "An Unequal Match" is pure in tone; in fact, it has a distinct moral, rather too aggressively thrust upon us, Marie Wainwright herself is a very pleasing actress. She is possessed of a beautiful face, fine figure, and more marked still, an exceedingly sweet and a very good one indeed.

GROSSMITH, MARCH 19. To the many admirers of George Grossmith it will be pleasant to learn that this clever and cultured gentleman will be with us once again. From a review in a Glasgow paper, it is learned that Mr. Grossmith, after his season in America and Canada, is to give up "globe-trotting," he having entered into arrangements to remain for some time in London. It seems comic opera in the metropolis cannot get along in anything like paying quantities without the aid of this artist's talents. Grossmith has a son and brother also on the stage, the latter being Weedon Grossmith, and it is likely the three will co-operate. In any case, it is stated by Messrs. Vert and Harriss that the coming engagement will be the last we shall probably see of Mr. Grossmith in his entertainment for some time to come. He has prepared an entirely new programme, foremost on which will be Grossmith's musical reminiscence, entitled "How I Discovered America," which has for its synopsis: (1) The less said voyage over the better: (2) First impressions of America; The difference between Eng-

American languages; (4) I receive hints how to pronounce my mother tongue; (5) American society; (6) American hospitality; (7) American drama craze, interspersed with new and original songs a la carte, viz : "The American Girl," "I'm His Daisy," "The Paderewski Craze," etc., and his "Art of Entertaining." besides sundry "Humorous Illustrations and Imitations," not previously given here by this prince of society favorites. His return to these shores will prove cause for considerable pleasure. Grossmith will play in the Grand Opera House Monday, March 19. One performance only. Plan now open at box office. RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

The devil can catch a grumbler with a bare hook.

If there were no politics, the devil's grip on some men would be more feeble. The lazy man believes that there is no hill which is not steep.

It would seem as though there were some things that the devil might learn from a hypocrite.

There are still too many people in the church who look as though they had been baptized in ice water. Nobody has ever any intention of going to hell when they first hear of the place.

Some people who are too honest to steal will borrow and never pay back. Some people claim to be trusting God to save their souls, who appear to be afraid to trust him with very much of their money.

future but by the past."

greatest of American orators. His words were ringing, and what he said is true. Let us see:

The history of the lives of most men and women shows that they have some happiness, some misery and much disappointment.

It shows that the majority of men and women break down during their lives, and that few, very few, die of old

It shows that carelessness and neglect have been the causes of this breaking down, and that care, watchjulness and intelligence prevent it.

It shows that the chief cause of breaking down is due to some form of kidney, liver or bladder trouble and to the innumerable complaints common

The history of this country for the past ten years, however, shows that these troubles can be and are being decreased, and that they can at all times be controlled.

It shows that the means by which this may be done is within the reach of all, and that it is a purely scientific preparation indorsed by the doctors and used universally. In fact, no other than Warner's Safe Cure.

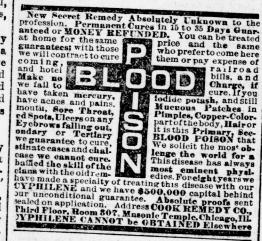

If you wish to judge the future in your own life.

If you desire to part the veil which may separate you from the great unknown before you.

If you are interested to know what your future life may be, whether health or happiness, sickness or misery, look at the past. You will see that care and the use of the right remedy has kept, has preserved, has sustained people, and that the neglect of these things has brought sickness and untimely death.

If you are a wise man or woman, you will ponder over these things and

I spent trying to find a cure for Salt Rheum, which I had 13 years. Physicians said they never saw so severe a case. My legs, back and arms were covered by the humor. I was unable to lie down in bed, could not walk without crutches, and had to Mr. S. G. Derry. have my arms, back and legs bandaged twice a day. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon I could see a change. The flesh became more healthy, the sores soon healed, the scales fell off, I was soon able to give up bandages and crutches, and a happy man I was. I had been taking

BASEBALI.

BASEBALL DISTRICTS. Notices have been issued for the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Baseball Association for Good Friday at the Palmer House, Toronto, at 11 a.m. The Hamilton Times says that a league will likely be formed, consisting of Hamilton, London, Galt and Guelph, four great ball towns, and that the organization will be operated either under the C. A. B. A. or separately if necessary. A meeting will be held at Harrisburg.

FOOTBALL AND HAZING.

New York Telegram: The rough and tumble business of hazing in college will have to be handled with severity before it can be stopped. We are inclined to think that the game of football is responsible for this accession of brutality among the students. Football as played to-day is nothing more nor less than a pitched battle, and as such it has no relation whatever to education. The recklessness and daring, the dangerous character of the sport, the deliberate attempt in a close game to knock an opponent out by doing him a bodily injury, give one the habit of ignoring consequences, and fit him for the socalled pastime of filling a room with gas and causing the illness or death of some of his fellow students.

Adolphus Jones Pleads Guilty and Receives Sentence.

Verdict for $1.000 for Breach of Premise -Fourteen Years for Theft.

WINDSOR, Ont., March 16.—The Assizes at Sandwich to-day took up the case of the Crown against Adolphus Jones, in which defendant is charged with being an accomplice of the Munger brothers in attempting to assault several little girls at Leamington. After the first witness was examined counsel for prisoner withdrew the plea of not guilty, and pleaded guilty to the offense charged. A petition on his behalf was presented, which was signed by the mayor of the town and L. Wigle, ex-M.P., and several witnesses testified to his previous good character.

Judge Boyd, after speaking in scathing terms of the prisoner's crime, said that in view of his former good reputation, his having a family, and the recommendations of his fellow-citizens a lighter sentence would be imposed—namely, one year for each offense—a total of four—and twelve lashes on the bare back in the middle of

When the judge ceased speaking there was an exciting scene. Jones fell back in his seat and his head fell forward on his breast. Every man in the room jumped to his feet, and hats were waved in the air, while the noise of the applause took the court crier several minutes to silence. Jones was immediately hurried from the room and taken back to jail.

The trial of Teheritt vs. Parent was concluded yesterday. The plaintiff was Rose Teheritt, who resides with her mother at 167 Chestnut street, Detroit. She was suing Alex. Parent, a wealthy Walkerville man, for breach of promise and seduction. The jury gave her a verdict for $1,000. The grand jury in the case of ex-Ald. Martin and his brother Dolph Martin, who were charged with hiring a boy named Fred Pecquett to set fire to their barns in Maidstone, found no bill.

Judge Boyd passed sentence on Wm. Butler, a young colored man, who was found guilty of breaking into a shanty occupied by two lumbermen named Fox and McLean and stealing $180. Butler got fourteen years in Kingston Penitentiary.

THE STATE OF TRADE

As Reported by the Commercial Agencies.

NEW YORK, March 16.-R. G. THE NOVA SCOTIA ELECTIONS.

Late Returns Give the Government 24 Members; Opposition 14.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 16 .- The only change from the returns of last night is the conceding of the election of Black (Conservative) in Halifax, defeating Power (Liberal), and later returns from Richmond, giving the Conservatives another seat there-Morrison, who defeated Mathewson (Liberal). The parties, according to the figures, will thus stand 14 Conservatives, 24 Liberais.

The Green Flag of Erin.

A New York dispatch says that official proof has been discovered that Col. Breckenridge had been married by a New York olergyman, when on May 13 last year he declared before the superintendent of police in Washington that he intended to make Miss Pollard (who is now suing him for breach of promise) his wife on May 31. It came in form of Col. Breckenbridge's certificate in sanitary headquarters yesterday morning. It shows that he was married April 29, 1893, to Louise R. S. Wing, widow, of Kentucky, by Dr. John R. Paxton, presumably at his amounted, of course, to nothing but deceit and treachery. The certificate was delayed over ten months. It should have been recorded within one month after the marriage was consummated. It now appears that it was Charles F. Butler, a colored man in the employ of Dr.

Paxton, who made the certificate of marriage to the bureau of vital statisties on Wednesday. Butler remembers the cir-

(Special to the ADVERTISER.)

PARLIAMENT HOUSE, TORONTO, March 16. In reply to a query by Mr. McCleary in the Legislature this afternoon, Mr. Harcourt said that a shop license had been granted to Joseph Aspinwall for the sale of liquor in Tilsonburg during the license year 1893-4. An objection had been made to this being done, on the ground that the license had been fraudulently obtained. The inspector had been asked to investigate the case and had made a report.

Mr. Wood (Brant) asked "Why is a grant refused to the Horse-Breeders' Association of Dumfries and Paris?" Mr. Dryden said: "The Government has in the past recog-nized only stock associations of a Provincial character. The South Dumfries and Paris District Breeders' Association, as stated in their constitution, is organized to select superior breeding stallions more suitable for the demands of the market."

Mr. Whitney asked: "Whether any claim has been made by Mr. R. A. Waite, the architect of the new Parliament and Departmental Buildings for remuneration for his services in excess of the amount of the commission agreed to be paid to him. If so, what is the amount of the claim, etc."

The Attorney-General said that letters had been brought down from the Lieuten. ant-Governor, showing that Mr. Waite was entitled to $37,500. Of this amount $36,000 had been paid, leaving a balance still unpaid of $1,500.

The Attorney-General proceeded: "I may explain that the difference between Mr. Waite and the commissioner is that since the completion of the buildings Mr. Waite has claimed a remuneration of 5 per cent. on the actual cost of construction, while the agreement shows that the remuneration was to be 5 per cent. on $750,000 only. The architect's work was well done, and the commissioner, as well as his colleagues, extremely regrets the dispute which has unexpectedly arisen."

Mr. Monk's bill to facilitate the registry of mortgages came up for its second

The Provincial Secretary said that there was no objection to the bill going to committee. Mr. Wood (Brant) moved the second reading of his bill to amend the General Road Company's Act.

The bill goes to committee.

Mr. Barr (Dufferin) had a bill providing for triennial assessments brought to a second reading stage, but at the suggestion of the Commissioner of Crown Lands, and with concurrence of the House, he decided to withdraw it.

The House adjourned at 4:30.

Warren Totten, Q.C., has been appointed manager of the Woodstock theater. The first annual meeting of the National Council of Women of Canada will be held in Ottawa next month.

J. H. Cavanagh, of Lethbridge, has been elected grand master of the A. O. U. W. Grand Lodge, in session at Brandon. The Quebec loan in London has all been taken, and subscriptions were received for one-third more than the amount called for. Charles McKay, who formerly resided at Wallacetown, Ont., accidentally shot himself at Victoria, B.C., lately, and died soon afterward.

The Guarantee Building and Loan Association's business in Hamilton has been taken over by the Western Loan and Trust Company of Montreal.

W. Norris, known as Bendigo, the prize fighter, died at Cape Vincent recently. He fell while sparring and injured his hip. from which he died in great agony.

The preliminary arrangements have been completed for the organization of a company to run a line of steamboats from Montreal to Hanlan's Point, Toronto Bay. At the closing session of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West at Chatham yesterday, the members declared for the taxation of all church property except the building actually used at a place of divine worship. On Thursday morning a serious accident occurred near Eganville in the right of way of the O. A. and P. S. R. by which several men were seriously injured. A charge of dynamite exploded shattering the rock in all directions, several of the fragments striking Power, Fulford, Carroll and two others.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

WILL NOT GIVE UP LIBERTY. At a meeting of the Patrons of Industry lodge at Hunter's Corners, in Beverly township, North Wentworth, the following resolution was passed: "Moved by William Henderson, seconded by William Hannah, that whereas, a resolution was passed at the Grand Association of Patrons of Industry, held in the city of Toronto in February, 1893, setting forth that the and whereas the last clause of the said resolution is as follows: "That should it be declared advisable to nominate a Patron candidate, the duty of every Patron Pollard-Breckenridge suit to-day the inshall be to support that candidate and to election." Therefore be it resolved that we, scribed her relations with Col. Brecke- of Industry, in the township of Beverly, ridge, from 1884, "until Col. Honoring a Teacher. Mr. Harry L. Atkinson, a popular young member of the Forest City Business College staff, who is about to accept a position in the city, was honored yesterday afternoon by the pupils and teachers who assembled to bid him a formal farewell, and to tell him how much they appreciated him. Their sentiments were aptly expressed in an address read by Mr. Carroll. It assured Mr. Atkinson that he would be much missed, acknowledged their great in-Dr. Leonard, formerly United States debtedness to him as a teacher and his consul here, is a candidate for the Repubaffability as a companion, and thanked him warmly for his interest in all their affairs of business and pleasure. The address was signed on the pupils' be half by Thomas Hayes and Miss Lizzie Rose. It was accompanied by a handsome gold headed cane suitably engraved, and a gold ring set with a beautiful carbuncle, which were handed over by Miss Ada Bucke amid loud applause. Mr. Atkinson modestly thanked the class of 1893-94 for their magnificent tokens of esteem. A short but pleasant programme followed. Among the selections given were Irish songs by W. Brophy; comic songs by Mr. C. H. Tatham, and two well-received numbers by Mr. O'Neil. Some of the best talent of the college also figured prominently. An instrumental by Miss Davey, a recitation by Miss Pierce and a song by Mr. Nichol concluded the happy affair. Mr. Atkinson will still retain his connec tion with the college as junior lecturer on

TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS

The Cost of the New Waterworks Pumps and Boilers-Four Million Gallons of Water a Day.

The work on the new steam pumps and boilers to be placed at Springbank this summer will likely be proceeded with at once. The contracts have all been signed, the London Machine Tool Company and the Geo. F. Blake Company, of Boston, securing the work of the pumps and Leonard & Sons the two boilers. The prices for the pumps have been set at $17,616, and according to the agreement three-fourths of the work will be done in the city. The engine will be known as the direct acting, fly wheel, cross compound, having one high notice can be given to the M. C. R. by and one low pressure steam cylinder, with two double-acting inside plungers. The diameter of the engine is as follows: High pressure cylinder, 22 inches; low pressure cylinder, 43 inches; two pump plungers, 14 inches; all having a stroke of 40 inches. The pumps are to be on the same plan as those seen at Newton, Mass., and capable of pumping 4,000,000 imperial gallons per day, and giving a duty of 110,000,000 foot pounds to the work for each 1,000,000 heat units consumed. The boilers will cost $2,325, and will be sixteen feet long, each of 110 horse power. The diameter of them is 74 inches, with 122 three-inch tubes. The pumps are to be ready by July 1, and will be fitted with an attachment by which they can be run with water power. The boilers will be in place on June 1. The 21 tenders received ranged in price from $13,000 to $37,000, but the commissioners are satisfied that the pump chosen will be of most service to the

THE OPEN FORUM.

Questions the Surplus.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: I call in question your statement in your issue of yesterday that the waterworks will show a satisfactory balance sheet, there is no doubt about a surplus, but there is about the surplus. If the contemplated arrangements are carried out this year neither the picture of the waterwo.ks nor Jumbo will be attractions to present the ratepayers for lighting or other works. The principle of city charges in bookkeeping would wipe out our debt in from one to five years by the plan of the water commissioners, but unfortunately plans nor bookkeeping are not dollars and cents, neither is a useless, idle Jumbo. And I challenge you to publish the items of water charged to the city for 1892 or 1893, the quantity and price, and compare wit. the 5 cent rate of the large commercial consumer, and see how many of your readers will acknowledge it a genuine surplus. You will find that kind of surplus won't pay for pumps. Yours truly, JOHN M. PARSONS.

Accused His Wife of Running Away to New York with Richard Cecil Leigh.

LONDON, March 17 .- Sir Henry Bayly Meredyth obtained yesterday a decree nisi, with costs, in his suit for divorce from Lady Kathleen Meredyth, whom he charged with infidelity, naming Richard Cecil Leigh, a wealthy Englishman, as co-respondent. Sir Henry and Lady Meredyth's maid were the only witnesses. Sir Henry alleged that Lady Mervdith ran away from her London home in May, 1893, and fled with Mr. Leigh to New York, and that the elopers lived in that city as husband and wife. The petitioner first claimed £10,000 damages with the object of securing proper provision for his wife, but since Sir Henry Meredyth had been informed that Mr. Leigh had made proper provision for the support of Lady Meredyth, Sir Henry withdrew his claim for damages.

Lady Kathleen comes of a well-known family, being the daughter of the late Robert Patrick O'Hara, Esq., a barristerat-law. She married Sir Henry in 1886. There are no children.

Sutherland Macklem is published here to day: "Will you allow me to say publicly that I deeply repent having caused to be published last December a certain pamphlet under the title of A few words from a convert from Anglicanism to the Roman Catholic faith.' I desire to make a complete recantation of what I then wrote, as I am returning to the Church of England."

Ireland's Flag Floating. NEW YORK, March 17 .- A green flag with a seven-stringed golden harp without a crown, otherwise known as the flag of Ireland, was raised on the city hall this morning. The sky is clear, and Grand Marshal Patrick Costello says the parade of the 47 divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians this afternoon will be the largest seen in years. In all quarters of the city, side by side with the national colors, can be seen the green flag of Erin.

St. Patrick's Day in Toronto. TORONTO, March 17 .- The 17th of March was celebrated this morning by a large turn-out of the Irish Catholic societies of the city. They assembled at the I. C. B. U. hall on King street about 9 o'clock and marched to St. Michael's Cathedral, where a short service was held. They subsequently marched from the cathedral along Queen to Bathurst, and back along King street to the hall, where the patriotic exercises were held. The streets along the line of march were filled with spectators.

A JEALOUS GROOM

Spoils His Honeymoon by Shooting an Ex-Rival.

BEATTYVILLE, Ky., March 17.—A wedding took place in this county yesterday which ended in a double tragedy. Miss May, a popular young woman, was the bride. Grant Cecil, the groom, became insanely jealous because Joseph Doneral, a former suitor of the girl, was among the guests. Atter the ceremony Cecil met Doneral, who was accompanied by John Burns, a youth of 19, and began firing a revolver. Doneral and Burns were killed. but it is claimed the shooting of Burns was accidental. A bystander was also wounded. Cecil fled, leaving his bride, and has not been arrested. The young wife is prostrated.

'Turn to the Right.'

What, now?" I said, surprised. "Now

"What, now! I said, surprised."
"Ay, give it up!" he cried, shaking me almost fiercely by the arm. "Give it up, man! It will end badly, I tell you! In God's name, give it up, and go home before worse comes of it."

"Whatever comes of it," I answered coldly, shaking his grasp from my arm, and wondering much at this sudden fit of cowardice, "I go on. You, M. Fresnoy, may do as you please!"

He started and drew back from me; but he did not reply, nor did he speak again. When I presently went off to get a ladder, of the position of which I had made a note during the afternoon, he accompanied me, and followed me back in the same dull silence to the walk below the balcony. I had looked more than once and eagerly at mademoiselle's window without any light or movement in that quarter rewarding my vigilance; but, undeterred by this, which might mean either that my plot was known, or that Mademoiselle de la Vire distrusted me, I set the ladder softly against the balcony, which was in deep shadow, and I cried, with a sternness which at last paused only to give Fresnoy his last instopped her. "Granted I am poor, I am paused only to give Fresnoy his last instructions. These were simply to stand on guard at the foot of the ladder and defend tinued, firmly, "a gentleman, and the last of it in case of surprise; so that, whatever happened inside the chateau, my retreat by the window might not be cut off.

Then I went cautiously up the ladder, and, with my sheathed sword in my left unaware that I had ever seen you, unaware that I had ever met you before." one pace forward, with fingers outstretched, I felt the leaded panes of the window and

All was dark. ness in the room, and before me, but the hand guided me two paces forward, then by a sudden pressure made me stand. I heard the sound of a curtain being drawn behind me, and the next moment the cover of a rushlight was removed, and a feeble but sufficient light filled the chamber.

I comprehended that the drawing of that curtain over the window had cut off my retreat as effectually as if a door had been elosed behind me. But distrust and suspicion gave way the next moment to the natural embarrassment of the man who finds himself in a false position and knows he can escape from it only by an awkward explana-

The room in which I found myself was long, narrow, and low in the ceiling; and being hung with some dark stuff which swallowed up the light, terminated funerealiy at the farther end in the still deeper gloom of an alcove. Two or three huge chests, one bearing the remnants of a meal, stood against the walls. The middle of the floor was covered with a strip of coarse matting, on which a small table, a chair and foot-rest, and a couple of stools had place, with some smaller articles which lay scattered round a pair of half-filled saddlebags. The slighter and smaller of the two figures I had seen stood beside the table, wearing a mask and riding cloak; and by her silent manner of gazing at me, as well as by cold, disdainful bearing, which neither her mask nor cloak could hide, did more to chill and discomfit me that even my own knowledge that I had lost the pass key which should have admitted me to her confidence.

The stouter figure of the afternoon turned out to be a red-cheeked, sturdy woman of 30, with bright black eyes and a manner which lost nothing of its fierce impatience when she came a little later to address me. All my ideas of Fanchette were upset by the appearance of this woman, who, rustic in her speech and ways, seemed more like a duenna than the waiting-maid of a court beauty, and better fitted to guard a wayward damsel than to aid her in such an escapade as we had in hand.

She stood slightly behind her mistress, her coarse red hand resting on the back of the chair from which mademoiselle had apparently risen on my entrance. For a few seconds, which seemed minutes to me, we stood gazing at one another in silence, mademoiselle acknowledging my bow by a siight novement of the head. Then, seeing that they waited for me to speak, I did so. "Mademoiselle de la Vire?" I murmured loubtfully.

She bent her head again; that was all. I strove to speak with confidence. "You will pardon me, mademoiselle," I said, "if I seem to be abrupt, but time is everything. The horses are standing within a hundred yards of the house, and all the preparations for your flight are made. If we leave now, we can do so without opposition. The delay even of an hour may lead to discovery."

For an answer she laughed behind her mask — laughed coldly and ironically. "You go too fast, sir," she said, her low clear voice matching the laugh and rousing a feeling almost of anger in my heart. "I do not know you; or, rather, I know nothing of you which should entitle you to interfere in my affairs. You are too quick to presume, sir. You say you come from a friend.

"From one whom I am proud to call by that title," I answered with what patience I

I answered firmly that I could not give it.

And I eyed her steadily as I did so.

This for the moment seemed to baffle and confuse her, but after a pause she continued: "Where do you propose to take me, sir?"

To B ois; to the lodging of a friend of my "You speak bravely," she replied with a faint sneer. "You have made some great friends lately it seems! But you bring me some letter, no doubt; at least some s gn, some token, some warranty, that you are the person you pretend to be, M. de

"The truth is, mademoiselle," I stam-mered, "I must explain. I should tell you

"Nay, sir," she cried impetuously, "there is no need of telling, If you have what I say, show it me! It is you who lose time.

Let us have no more words!"

I had used very few words, and, God knows was not in the mind to use many; but, being in the wrong, I had no answer to make except the truth, and that humbly. "I had such a token as you mention, mad-emoiselle," I said, "no farther back than this afternoon, in the shape of half a gold coin, entrusted to me by my friend. But. to my shame I say it, it was stolen from me a few hours back.

"Stolen from you !" she exclaimed. "Yes, mademoiselle; and for that reason I cannot show it." I answered. "You cannot show it? And you dare to come to me without it!" she cried, speaking with a vehemence which fairly starled me, prepared as I was for reproaches. "You come to me! You!" she continued. And with that, scarcely stopping to take breath, she loaded me with abuse; calling me impertinent, a meddler, and a hundred other things, which I now blush to recall, and displaying in all a passion which even in her attendant would have surprised me, but in one so slight and seemingly delicate, overwhelmed and con-founded me. In fault as I was, 1 could not understand the paculiar bitterness she displayed, or the contemptuous force of her language, and I stared at her in silent wonder until, of her own accord, she supplied the key to her feelings. In a fresh outburst of rage she snatched off her mask, and to my astonishment I saw before me the young maid of honor whom I had encountered in the King of Navarre's artechamber, and whom I had been so unfortunate as to expose to the raillery of Math-

"Who has paid you, sir?" she continued, clenching her small nands and speaking with tears of anger in her eyes, "to make me the laughing-stock of the court? It was bad enough when I thought you the proper agent of those to whom I have a right to look for aid! It was bad enough when I thought myself forced, through their inconthought myself forced, through their inconsiderate choice, to decide between an odious imprisonment and the ridicule to which your intervention must expose me! But that you have dared, of your own notion, to follow me, you, the butt of the court—"Mademoiselle!" I cried.

A CALAMITY AVERTED.

An Accident at St. Mary's With Almost Fatal Results-The Victim Helpless for Month - How His Restoration

Was Brought About. Our readers will remember, says the St. Marys Argus, that two years ago Mr. Gideon Elliott was thrown from a load and received such severe injuries to his spine that he was unable to walk or lie down in bed. For long months he lived night and day in a chair, not able to do the slightest thing to help himself. Two physicians attended him, but after exhausting their powers Mr. Elliott was told that he could not be cured. To an Argus representative Mr. Elliott gave the above facts, and said that after having suffered a great deal of pain, and notwithstanding he was told he was incurable, he determined to try the Pink Pill treatment, and purchased a dozen boxes of the renowned Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Inside of three weeks he began to feel the effects of the pills and now most emphatically declares that they have made him as well as he is to-day. When he started taking them he was not able to help himself in any way, but during the past fall he took up the potatoes in his garden, and can now do all the chores around his house. This is a wonderful change in a man who spent months in a chair unable to help himself or even to lie down and who was told by physicians that his case was hopeless, and it is another trophy added to the many victories of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills over disease. These pills are an unfailing specific for locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, nervous prostration, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of any nature. They are sold only in boxes, the trade mark and wrapper printed in red ink, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2 50, and may be had of druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brock-ville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y.

A Man Made Happy .- GENTLEMEN, -For five years I have been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only seemed a drag to me. When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim for it.

FERGUSON'S FLIGHT.

A Well Known Lambton Farmer Missing Heavy Liabilities-A Lordon Loan Company Interested.

WATFORD, March 16. - Nearly everybody n the township of Plympton and vicinity knows John T. Ferguson, the proprietor of lot 19, con. 4, one of the finest farms in the township. John was one of those hearty, hail fellows well met, whom everybody liked, and was universally considered jolly good fellow by all who knew him. He dabbled heavily in fancy stocks. For the last two or three years Ferguson has been raising large sums of money on his property and personal notes. His financial standing, however, was considered good. Ferguson drove into Wycm ing the other day, took the train for the east and has not been seen since. His departure created suspicion and an investigation of his affairs revealed some startling facts. It was found that his farm property was mortgaged to the extent of $6,000 with a London loan company, and his personal property is reported to be covered with chattels. His total liabilities are roughly estimated at $15,000, but new claims are coming in almost daily. The worst feature of the affair is the notes. It is alleged that forged paper to the extent of over $1,500 is in circulation, a portion of which is held by the local bankers. The names of well known farmers, it is charged, have been used without their knowledge. One widow lady in Wyoming is a creditor to the extent of $3,000, and the victims in the neighborhood are numerous. Ferguson's flight has caused a great sensation in the neighborhood.

generally finds the Grand Opera packed with a happy throng, and so it was last night. The big crowd was seated before 8 o'clock, and completely filled the balconies and the ground floor. As usual, it was a very happy affair. The audience was of the most generous kind and lavished applause on the performers with enthusiastic good nature. The Seventh Band struck the keynote of the concert by a selection of Irish airs which appealed to national sentiment. Mrs. Watt, Miss Dibb and Messrs. Ranahan and Watt sang with admirable ensemble, "Come Where the Lilies Bloom." The Misses Shand, in their pretty song and dance acts, charmed the house. Little Edith Murray and tiny Susie McGill proved themselves poems of juvenile grace, and are veritable song-birds. Their admirers presented each with a lovely bouquet. Mrs. Petley, of Toronto, sang a couple of solos and in duet with Mr. Ranahan. She has a sweet voice. Tiny Morkin sustained his reputation in the terpsichorean line, and Miss Maude Paton and Master H. SUPPLEMENT TO DAILY ADVERTISER --- SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1894.

Cardinal Manning, though a leading Roman Catholic dignitary, was a man respected and honored by all England and English-speaking people of all lands. He became a strong prohibitionist because of his own personal knowledge of the effects of intemperance on the people-on both those who used it and on those who abstained. Here are his words about the propriety of raising a public revenue revenue is raised upon intoxicating drinks, I hold that we are all partaking of the crime and misery, and the disease and cruelty, and the evils of body and soul, in time and eternity, which are caused in such prolific abundance through the trade in strong drink."

At the coming Hotel-Keepers' Provincial Convention at Toronto, to be held on April 4, it is expected that a deputation will wait on the Government to ask for such action and amendments of the law as they desire. It is now asserted that one of the "amendments" to be asked for is to repeal the provision of the law requiring all bars and other licensed premises to be closed at 7 o'clock on Saturday evenings. That early closing clause has been the subject of complaint for years past on the part of a very large number of themse holders. Some of them state hat Saturday evening, if they had it, would be worth nearly all the other evenings of the week. That is just the reason why public opinion is decidedly in favor of the closing requirement. We do not believe there is a single member of the present to keep those engaged in the liquor Legislature, of any prominence in traffic informed regarding matters of either party, who would care to pro- that kind. Last week it informed its pose the repeal of the Saturday night readers that the real cause of the

The Canada Presbyterian says that the temperance cause never was in a more hopeful condition in Ontario than ferent sections of temperance men are n co-operating humor. The Government is pledged to prohibition. The people have asked for prohibition by n immense majority. A vast majority of the people, in fact nearly all not specially interested in the liquor traffic, trial. But yet the Presbyterian has got the dread that all this fine state of things can be spoiled and the cause sent back half a century if some wellmeaning and over zealous men threaten to make total abstinence a pledge of church membership or insist on nonintoxicating wine being used at comthousands. Possibly our good contemporary is needlessly alarmed. Other churches have done this very thing and the results have not been so disastrous, or even disastrous at all, to temperance sentiment in their ranks.

There are a good many legal decisions that are perfectly bewildering to ordinary people. They may be based on law, but only a man well versed in law can understand their reasonableness. In Hamilton last week a man charged with keeping a gambling house was tried before the county judge. It was shown that the place had a bad reputation as a gambling resort. The policemen who raided it found, at 2 o'clock in the morning, six young men in the room; they also found cards, chips, rake-off appliances and all that. It was proved by some of these young men that card playing was a usual custom there, that money was staked on the games, that a "rake-off" went into the "pot" for the benefit of the keeper, but all that did not give legal evidence of "gambling," according to the judge's decision, and so the case was dismissed. The point that bewilders ordinary people is this: The games played, according to the evidence, were casino and poker, and they are games of skill and not of chance! Young men, then, can be kept up all night and "relieved" of all their earnings and generally denoralized, but if it is all done through oker it is not contrary to law. What difference between "skill" and hance" there seems to be in card aying, according to a judicial interretation of our existing Canadian law!

-A batch of general news matter is | pendent report of the debate pubiteld over through lack of space in this lished in the Toronto Mail of the next day, which now lies before us. Regarding the Marter Bill Mr. Meredith is reported as saying: "Feeling that the proposed legislation was clearly within the province of the House and knowing that such a measure was desired by a large majority of the people of the Province, he had no hesitation in declaring his adherence to the bill Muskoka.

While doing this Mr. Meredith used these words to clearly point out that while he clearly favored the bill to from such a source: "So long as the abolish retail liquor licenses he did not commit himself to prohibition: "He then reviewed the provisions of the bill, and said there was a mistaken idea abroad that Mr. Marter's Bill was a bill to prohibit the sale of liquor. The bill was not a prohibitory measure, but one to regulate the retail traffic." He the traffic—wholesale, shop and saloon or tavern license, giving it as his decided opinion that the Legislature possesses the undoubted right to "regulate" the traffic. Evidently his idea of the Marter Bill was a measure to "mend" rather than to "end" the license

The Advocate intimates that the leader of the Opposition is being misrepresented for party purposes. Our intention is to give a correct version of affairs, quite irrespective of parties or creeds, so that the people may arrive at correct conclusions for themselves.

Hon. Mr. Fraser and Prohibition. The Advocate claims to know well who are the friends of prohibition and who are not, and one of its missions is resignation of the Hon. C. F. Fraser from the Ontario Government was not merely poor health, which it admits has been a sufficient reason for some time past, but because he it is at the present moment. The dif- is opposed to prohibition, while the Government, as a whole, is in favor of that measure. It says:

"It is an open secret that the real cause of the resignation is that Mr. Fraser disagrees with his Cabinet on their prohibition policy. He believes that prohibition is wrong and he believes it so strongly that he would are willing to give prohibition a fair rather retire from public life than countenance such a measure. When Sir Oliver made his response to the prohibition delegation, Hon. Mr. Hardy was careful to say that 'all members of the Cabinet present agreed with the Premier's declarations.' Mr. Fraser was not present and if he is present when a prohibition bill is inmunion. It may cause an uprising of troduced in the House, if such a bill is ever introduced, he will oppose it."

We do not know on what authority the above statement is made. Time may tell. It is quite certain, however, that whoever his successor may be will favor the introduction and passage of such a measure.

RUSSEL COUNTY CONVENTION. - A joint committee of Rockland and Clarence divisions met at Clarence on Feb. 27 to consider the advisability of calling a county temperance convention. The matter was thoroughly discussed and it was decided to call a convention at Vars for Tuesday, June 5, the representation to be similar to the February Provincial Convention in Toronto, only limited to the county.

THE ORDER IN ENGLAND.—In England the Sons have long been recognized rather as a temperance benefit society than a popular teetotal organization. A London correspondent writes as follows of its present stand-Society is in a highly flourishing condition. The annual meeting of the London Grand Division was held on E. C. Mr. J. Vincent, the grand scribe, reported that the total savings for the year were £3,766 12s.  $4\frac{1}{2}$ The membership had been increased by 343, making a total of 6,091. One thousand two hundred and sixty three members claimed sick pay to the amount of £4,474 4s., representing an average sick rate of 7.82 days per member per annum. The total of the capital, which is invested principally in ground rents and mortgages, amounts to £43,887 198, 7d., and earned £1, 659 10s. during 1893. Satisfactory progress was also reported in the juvenile branch of the order, which has 1,842 members, 31 of whom claimed £20 18s. 10d. for sick pay. During the year four died. ### Outies of a Local Corresponding Secretary.

The first duty of a corresponding secretary if elected at the beginning of the year will be to forward to the county corresponding secretary the names and addresses of all the officers and superintendents of departments, in order that the directory may be prepared; also sending notice of any change that may occur during the year.

When she receives the blank form of report from the county corresponding secretary she will fill it up correctly and submit it to the local union, before returning it to the county corresponding secretary she will embody in this report any points of interest likely to aid the county corresponding secretary in reporting correctly upon the progress of the union. She will return the report within the specified time that the county corresponding secretary may not be delayed in preparing her report.

She shall read a portion of the constitution (articles r and 2, revised Ontario constitution) at the service for the reception of new members.

When delegates are appointed to attend county or Provincial conventions she shall send the names to the chairman of the billetting committee in proper time, so that those entertaining may know how many to prepare for. She shall conduct all the correspondence of the union, send votes of thanks or resolutions of condolence, as she may be instructed by the union.

In some things she assists the recording secretary in sending out notices of meetings, lectures, etc., also in preparing the annual report for the local union.

She shall bring to the first meeting of the union any communication she receives and will reply promptly, according to instructions received from requiring an immediate reply, she shall reply to the best of her knowledge and ability, after, if necessary, consulting the president. If a reply cannot be given before the next meeting of the union she shall acknowledge the communication and state when a reply may be expected.

She should keep an address book that time may not be lost in searching for and trying to obtain addresses that should be at hand when required; it is also desirable that she should keep all letters received by her and a list of all letters and cards sent by her, as a record in black and white will be found more reliable than the memory of the best-intentioned and most careful woman.

If she receives a communication for any superintendent of the department she should at once send it to the proper person instead of waiting till she happens to meet her.

I would suggest that, where work has been done during the year in any department that happens to be without a superintendent at the time a report is asked for, the corresponding secretary should send a report to the county superintendent of the department, as it is very desirable that all work done during the year should be reported, thereby affording a stimulus to other unions.

The corresponding secretary must never think that a printed circular may be neglected, any more than a written communication, as many of these contain matter of importance.

In unorganized counties correspondence shall be directly with the Provincial corresponding secretary or superintendents of departments.

In all cases the corresponding secretary must be sure to give her correct address, so as to insure letters intended for her reaching her without delay, and she may save her correspondents much embarrassment by indicating rise to the occasion. whether she is "Mrs." or "Miss."

If the W. C. T. U. is not printed on her envelopes she should write it, thereby making each letter an advertisement for our work. The W. C. T. U. forms a chain round the world, and as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, it will easily be seen that we can- and Mrs. Livingston, county president not afford to have an officer or superintendent of a department who is careless or inefficient, therefore if a corresponding secretary finds that she is unable properly to attend to the duties of her office, she should at once resign, as her work, if neglected, cannot be make local union meetings interesting, overtaken.

In conclusion, let me emphasize the very great importance of promptness. the convention and the local clergy This ability to conduct correspondence may be our one talent. Let us use it "heartily as to the Lord."

Question Box.

1. Should the president of a local union be always elected as a delegate to a County or Provincial convention? 2. Should a delegate attend all the meetings of any convention to which her union sends her?

GERTRUDE B. In reply to the first I would say that it is always advisible for a union to elect as its representative the woman or women who will profit most largely by the experience. For this reason the president is so frequently chosen. If she is filling her place with credit, she is the one upon whom the brunt of the care and work falls, and the one also Brantford April 3, will also be attended most likely to hail fresh methods and heavy end of the burden, it is often felt that she should share in the few power of the union is not the president, but one of the other officers, then surely it would be the best policy to send this less conspicuous, but more efficient worker. However, the local state when but one delegate to a No better investment of union money can be made than in sending its workers to a good county gathering, or a Provincial gathering. MAY R. THORNLEY,

By the Way.

The event of the year for Canadian White Ribboners is to transpire in the Province of Ontario, in the county of Middlesex, and in the city of London. Several years ago the Dominion W. C. T. U. held its convention in our city. Since then it has been entertained at Ottawa, St. Johns, N. B., Montreal and Winnipeg, and now, just at this most critical juncture in the history of Canadian temperance reform, we are again to be honored by its presence, aided by its councils, and encouraged by its enthusiasm and earnestness.

The regular convention will open on the morning of Friday, June 1, and close on Tuesday, the 5th. On the afternoon of Monday, June 4, there will be a School of Methods, and at the conclusion of the regular meetings, June 6, there will be a "Y" conference. To this latter a [very large representation is expected.

But I have kept the best to the last. We have strong ground for believing the 8th inst at their headquarters, on ces E. Willard, Lady Henry Somerset, President of the British Woman's Temperance Association, and Miss Anna Gordon, World's Superintendent of Juvenile Work, will be with us throughout this convention. Is there anything left to be desired?

We can only hope that London may realize her privileges to the full, and

The school of methods for the counties of Oxford and Waterloo came off at Woodstock Thursday and Friday of ment: last week. The weather was perfect and the attendance good. Mrs. Graham, county president of Waterloo, of Oxford, presided alternately. The subjects: Scientific temperance, public meetings, juvenile work, needs of a local union, an ideal union, purity in a parliamentary drill, and the question box. Thursday evening ladies from Woman's enfranchisement was a most popular subject, and cropped up in the most unexpected manner at every turn. I never saw our women so determined to obtain the ballot as since the plebis-presentation of their petition, to sit to a very late hour without further notice. Equal Franchise Symposium in public places. In my experience of working in this line of work I have as reported, but the subsequent events that altered the case materially were not given. From the Ingersoll ladies present at the convention I learned that the tollowing day a number of the councilors made it their business to the apparent want of respect had been quite unintentional. No bylaw looking towards the carrying out of the prayer of the petition had been prefriendly to temperance supposed that school? to some one of their number had been committed the duty of presenting ing as you do? such bylaw, and therefore each waited for the other and nothing was done.

To convince the petitioners of their sincerity two special meetings were immediately called and the bylaw reducing the licenses by five was carried. MAY R. THORNLEY.

Middlesex had concluded that with the prospect of the Dominion Convention being held within its borders the usual spring school might be omitted. But the unusual activity of other counties and the cheering accounts of their schools have so stirred the workers here that the county executive have decided to issue a call for a W. C. T. U. The English Westminster Gazette, while strongly opposed to such innovations as woman's franchise, goes on to say that the women electors in New Zealand who have just been exercising the franchise for the first time have been quite revelling in politics of late. They have attended the political meetings in great force, in spite of the crowd, the smell of tobacco, and other things they usually object to. Whether it was owing to the presence of women or not, it is a fact that most of the meetings were uncommonly orderly this year.

MITCHELL.—On the 5th inst. a deputation of the Mitchell W. C. T. They were well received and listened to very attentively, and the asked-for bylaw was passed before they left the chamber.

ESPECIALLY TO MARRIED WOMEN. Mrs. Thos. McKee, Barrie, president Simcoe county W. C. T. U.:

Yes, decidedly. I believe the franchise should be extended to both married and single women, with a preference if any to married women. Because: 1. It is just and right. God gave dominion to man and woman equally. 2. Wives and mothers are the natural guardians of home interests and should help to make the laws which govern them. As a rule the women who want the franchise are the women who put home first. Women who don't want it are either ignorant The farce of Ontario is to be repeated.

MANITOBA SPEAKS. Mrs. (Dr.) Blakley, Winnipeg, Provincial president of the Manitoba W. C. T. U., writes:

1. I am in favor of the extension of the franchise to women, married or single, equally with men for all elections, parliamentary, municipal or school.

2. My reasons for thinking so are: a) Because I believe in the Bible. In the beginning when God made man, male and female created he them, and gave them dominion over the earth, and nothing can alter our divinely given right. (b) Because men do not make as good laws in relation to women as they make for themselves. Until we have an equal voice in making the laws we will not be where God intended us to be.

PECULIARLY QUALIFIED. Miss L. Stephens, Owen Sound, county secretary W. C. T. U.:

I am in favor of granting the full franchise to women because I believe their peculiar powers of mind and heart are as necessary in the formation of a good government as they have already proved to be in the making of the home.

The Paris Presbytery Debate.

At the Paris Presbytery meeting, held at Brantford on the 6th inst., nearly the entire day's session was taken up with a long and earnest debate on the resolution of Rev. Mr. dress. Beyond a short ten minutes opportunity to reply to the various arguments used in opposition to his motion.

We understand that the mover will introduce a similar resolution at a future meeting. The question is now an interesting and important one, and is sure to attract a good deal more interest before it is finally disposed of.

THE RESOLUTION. The following is the resolution, moved by Rev. E. R. Hutt, of Inger-

And whereas the Assembly has expressed the conviction that it is the duty of the Dominion Government to Doctors' medicine did not help her, and enact a prohibitory liquor law, thereby assenting to the principle that the enforcement of total abstinence is right.

This Presbytery therefore respectfully overture the General Assembly at its next meeting to instruct sessions to carry out the spirit of these recommendations and enjoin all members to abstain entirely from the use of alcoholic beverages, and thus put away this deadly evil from the church. THE AMENDMENT ADOPTED.

There were two or three amendments proposed during the debate, but the following was adopted: Moved by Rev. Dr. McMullen, of Woodstock, seconded by Mr. Cockburn:

That the overture be transmitted, but that the Presbytery is not to be understood as endowing or approving the principles set forth therein, and further the court discerns:

1. The inculcation on all members by the church of the highest ideal of duty on temperance.

2. Abstinence commended rather than commanded by the Scripture. 3. A course of spiritual despotism foreboded by an attempt to altar the position in which divine wisdom has left this point.

Mr. Hutt was not given time and effected by Pink Pills, and hoped his story might be the means of bringing relief t others. We give his story as nearly a possible in his own words: "I was first attacked with acute muscular rheumatism in March, 1891. I was then living in Dorchester. For three months I lay in bed unable to move hand or foot, more helpless than an infant. The joints of my arms and legs were much swollen, and my hands and fingers twisted almost out of shape. The physician who attended me bandaged my limbs and in every way attempted to give me relief, but without effect. Two other doctors were called in consultation, but could do nothing for me. ### Mothers-in-Law.

[By Lady Cook.]

Until within the last few years the domain of literature has been almost exclusively possessed by men. If now and then, a woman ventured within its sacred precincts, she was regarded as a sort of female monstrosity. She beauty. No false modesty will rewas supposed to have first divested herself of some of the most valued mysteries of maternity and wifely qualities of her sex. The wits dubbed her blue-stocking, the women called her strong-minded, to both she appeared hermaphrodite. Her offense was venal only when she wrote in merely well-to-do, how to economize; praise of love or men. Thus almost everyone, for instance, has read Lucy Hutchinson's charming "Memoirs," although written so long ago, because they are all in honor of her husband. mother-in-law. It seems somewhat trained her. singular, and worth noting, that this same literature, which is the expression of male thought and sentiment, ful if he despise his mother-in-law, or should so constantly agree in holding object to her continued influence with up mothers-in-law to scorn and ridi- his young wife. And woe to the reckless bridegroom who harbors one!

According to this the first man was the only one who had a fair chance of unadulterated bliss, having obtained his spouse by a surgical operation, and without the intervention of a motherin-law. Eve assumed her wifely duties without preparation or coaching. She knew neither childhood or girlhood nor educational experience. Yet she understood exactly what to do, and we are always urging, they will be rehow to do it. And she did it. But she was taken from his side, close to his heart, fashioned from a corporeal arch and supporter. She was thus designed to be his equal in rank, to march with him shoulder to shoulder, and to be his partner in good and ill. We discern no necessary inferiority. On the contrary, if there be any difference, it should be in her favor; for by the invariable law of progress exhibited throughout nature, that which is produced after is higher in scale than that which came before.

It is because the laws and usages of men have condemned women to social and civil inferiority to them selves, that so many curable abominations flourish unchecked. Woman has been artificially degraded from her natural equality with man, Those rights and privileges which he claims for himself, he denies to her. In all things she must be subservient. ### The Science of Motherhood.

Mrs. Pearsall Smith writes in the Woman's Signal that to be a mother is the grandest vocation in the world. No other human being has a position of such power and influence. She holds in her hands the destiny of nations, for to her is necessarily committed the making of the nation's citizens. Froebel says that we must look to the mothers of a country for that country's welfare, far more than to those who shape its policy and make its laws. And he the tribes of Guiana the bards of ladlier, my God, to thee adds this pregnant declaration, "We must, therefore, cultivate mothers." All thoughtful students of the great problem of humanity must echo this declaration. The children of the future are crying to the people of the present, "Educate our mothers"; and the ears of this generation are beginning to hear the cry. But with amazement we discover that almost nothing has ever been done to fit mothers for the solemn responsibilities laid upon them. Of all the specialists on earth the mother brings the poorest training to her immortal task. Therefore it is that a This language of a slave to a master | new science is gradually developing is admirably adapted to men's selfish- among us, which we may call the ness. ### Presbyterianism and Total Abstinence

Reasons Why Church Members Should Be Abstainers.

Rev. Dr. MacKay's Address at the Pres bytery.

Last week the HOME GUARD stated That an animated discussion took place at the meeting of the Paris Presbytery, held at Brantford on the 5th inst. over a resolution of the Rev. Mr. Hutt, of Ingersoll, in favor of making total abstinence a test of membership in the Presbyterian Church, and that an amendment was adopted by a considerable vote.

Rev. Dr. MacKay took a prominent part in the debate. We herewith present a report of his address on that occasion which is well worth a careful Lord.

THE ADDRESS.

1. We are told that it is "the duty of the church through her courts and from her pulpits to inculcate on all her members the highest ideal of duty on *emperance." But does the church inculcate "the highest ideal of duty on temperance" in permitting her members to indulge in a practice that leads to all the intemperance in the land?

2. We are told that total abstinence in Scripture is merely "commended," not "commanded." But is this correct? We open God's Book and we read: "Be not ye partakers of other men's sins." "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness." "Let no man put a stumbling-block or an occasion to fall in his brother's way." Is not the tippling church member a stumbling-block in the way of others? Is he not in fellowship with the drinking customs of our day, and thus a partaker in the sins of others? Entire separation from evil-doing is not only "commended," but "commanded" in the Scriptures. And our church has time and again declared strong drink He says: "There was a difference beone of the greatest evils of our day and tween the ordinary Palestinian wines

3. We are told that "not any church court but Christ himself has the right to determine the terms of membership in his church." This we cheerfully concede; yea, we emphatically insist upon it. But the question is always in place, "What has Christ determined with regard to any specific action or course of conduct?" We may not be able to point out any passage of Scripture which, in so many words, enjoins or prohibits the action in question. But this is no matter, so long as we have a general principle which clearly applies to the case. Take an illustration: The old slave-holders were wont to accuse those churches which refused to admit them to sealing ordinances, of making a new term of membership, and thus adding to the word of God. But few, if any, will now say that the charge was just. And yet we cannot point to one direct and express precept prohibiting slavery although it existed in the time of our Lord and his apostles. We, however, claim that there are general principles clearly recognized in the Gospel quite incompatible with slavery, and that therefore in excluding slave-holders from sealing ordinances the church instituted no new term of communion, but faithfully insisted on church members not ignoring in their daily lives a and in doing this he would only be plain Gospel teaching. So now it is giving efficacy to the texts, It is charged that the church, by insisting good neither to eat flesh nor drink on total abstinence in her members, would be instituting a new term of communion. But is the charge just? Not if there are general principles in God's word which clearly indicate the Christian's duty to oppose the drinking usages of our day. And who with the Book of God in his hand will say that the Supreme Court of heaven does not prohibit a course of daily conduct which may lead the individual himself, and, by example, can scarcely fail to lead others to ruin for time and eternity.

4. Christ was angry with the church at Pergamos, because that church harbored those who held the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Bolak to cast a he used. He was an able and instumbling-block before the children of fluential advocate of prohibition, and not merely by doctrine but by their to prohibition literature. personal example are a stumblingblock to others?

5. In Acts, xv., we learn that "the total abstinence from "meats offered any of the States: to idols." The eating of such meat was in itself harmless (Rom., xiv., 20), some things stronger. The Christian but abstinence for the sake of others | Church is stronger. And when its was not merely "commended," but best and purest men cease to scorn "commanded." Pray, is not this the the field of politics as something comvery principle we insist on, in requiring mon and unclean, and teach that vot-

7. When the state, urged by the church, is fighting for its own preservation, should the church countenance a practice which leads to the destruction of both state and church? Does Christ design his church to live, and does he at the same time countenance a practice which leads to its destruc-

8. Was our Lord grieved because some of his followers had left their first love, and does he, nevertheless, permit the indulgence of a practice, which, perhaps, more than anything else, leads to backsliding and spiritual indifference?

9. Was Christ so zealous for the purity of the temple as to whip out the money changers who congregated there, and yet does he sanction an indulgence which constantly defiles and injures man's body, which, in Scripture, is declared to be the temple of God?

10. We are assured that Christ made and drank intoxicating wine. There is no warrant for such a statement. It is a slander. The Jews said, "Behold a wine-bibber and a gluttonous man," and we have no more right to call our call him "a gluttonous man." It is a epetition of Jewish slander to call him ther of these. The Jews said that ohn had a devil, and this was as true as what they said about our blessed

But let us admit for the sake of argument that the Bible approves of the use of intoxicating drinks, it will be admitted that such approval can be claimed only for the drinks mentioned in the Bible. In Bible days distilled liquors did not exist, nor for 1,200 years after. Whisky, brandy, rum, gin, must therefore be excluded from the Biblical sanction claimed. Beer, strong or weak, was unknown, hence it, too, must be relegated to the list of unsanctioned drinks. Only for wine then, and wine absolutely unmixed with distilled liquors, and therefore comparatively pure, can Biblical sanction for the moderate use be claimed.

Those then who go to the Bible to sanction their drinking should act consistently and drink only in accordance with Bible teaching. They must at test. It is quite probable that still thior whisky and beer almost once cease the use of distilled liquors, and all kinds of beers, ales and fortified same source this year. wines, and confine themselves to pure wine, with no admixtures but such as are indicated in the Bible.

On this point let me quote the words of Dr. W. M. Taylor, of New York. classed in our day under the general on the Government to force them to i of tobacco shops and tea and name of wine, and so the presence of Christ at the feast and his changing of water into the wine common in Palestine in his day, cannot be held as justifying the ordinary drinking usages of American society to-day with its bars, its wine shops, its saloons, its beer gardens, its fiery wines and strong liquors, and all their attendant evils. Nothing either in Scripture or outside of Scripture, justifies these things and away with them."

I add the words of Joseph Cook, of Boston, one of the most eminent preachers and scholars on the continent. He says: "I am grieved with an indignation which I dare not express to the full, when I hear preachers and church members quoting the example of our Lord in support of the use of distilled liquors which were not invented until the twelfth century. If our Lord were here to-day in person, as he is in spirit, face to face with the drinking customs, listening to the cries of orphans and widows, and behording the desolations of strong drink, I believe in my soul that he would again, as he did of old, knot up the whip of small cords, and purge the church of moderate drinking, wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth or is offended or is made weak,' 'Lead us not into temptation,' 'Look not upon the wine when it is red,' 'Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness,' 'Do not drink wine that ye may put a difference between the holy and the unholy, 'If tude. meat make my brother to offend I will eat no flesh while the world standeth."

The Strongest Power.

The late Judge Pitman, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, was a very able and thoughtful man, of a very judicial turn of mind, and therefore careful in regard to the language

Now that the success of the next grand step forward—the enactment of a law-will largely depend on the results of the next elections, it is much to be hoped that the same religious influences will press in with an energy that will not let men or party cries stand in their way.

The French Treaty Ratification.

The opposition of prohibitionists all over Canada is being a good deal roused over the ratification of the new French treaty, which will come up before the present session of the Dominion Parliament. According to the provisions of that treaty, which was framed between representatives of the Government of France and Sir Charles Tupper as representative for Canada, French wines may be freely imported for years to come at a very low rate of Lord a "wine-bibber" than we have to duty into this country. Of course that would stand right in the way of the enactment and enforcement of a law prohibiting the importation as well as the manufacture of alcoholic liquors.

The treaty was framed over a year ago and sent to this country for ratification. The Ottawa Government last year delayed to submit it to Parliament for ratification, but this year it is sure to come up for consideration, in some form. Coming as it does, just at the time when great hopes are being raised that our Dominion Parliament may go in for advanced prohibition legislation, the question assumes very great importance.

It is known, too, that the Canadian indial who wasted his estate or wine producers are also united in active begd his family for coffee, and hostility against its ratification. They the wned his wife's shawl and claim that the very cheap French wines, often badly adulterated, could then be imported and sold here at such low rates as to destroy an actual honest native wine trade. Last year these native wine producers sent a strong deputation to Ottawa with their prostronger opposition will come from the cotly, and they will go on doing

The Royal Commission,

The Last Session for Hearing Evidence in Ottawa Last Saturday.

Over three years have elapsed since the House of Commons adopted a resolution in favor of a royal commission to inquire and report "without delay" in regard to the liquor traffic and the feasibility of a prohibition law. The last session of that commission for the hearing of evidence was held in Ottawa on Saturday, and it is understood that the report will be prepared at once. At one time it was fully expected that the report would be presented and printed and supplied to the members some time before Parliament would be in session, so that it could be properly read and digested. The present indications are, however, that it will not be in print until some time after this year's session has closed.

Comparatively few persons were examined at Ottawa and with a couple of exceptions the "evidence consisted merely of the opinions of men who have not made any special study of that question.

Mr. Thomas Hobblewhite, of Almonte, seemed anxious to mend rather than end the saloons, and several of the ministers examined were of the same mind. Mr. Hobblewhite did not believe in prohibition but wanted the treating customs and adulterations prohibited. He also wanted the number of licenses more restricted and a better separation between licensed shops and Archbishop Duhamel, Roman Catholic, was not personally favorable to prohibition, but means should be taken to prevent excess. He believed that much more liquor was used than should be, but was not sure that drunkenness is on the increase. He also believed that the present license laws should be more strictly enforced, fewer licenses issued and those should be better protected.

Rev. J. J. Bogert, Church of England, did not believe in total abstinence or prohibition, as it was "not in accordance with the principles of Christianity." Self-denial is his remedy against drunkenness.

Archdeacen Lauder, Church of England, was also opposed to prohibition, but in favor of abolishing saloons, bars, and the treating customs, allowing people to buy their liquors as they do their tea and coffee. He did not believe in punishing men for getting drunk, as they were usually punished enough and were to be pitied. Men found drunk by the police should be escorted home.

Rev. J. G. Low, C. of E., Almonte, did not believe in total abstinence or prohibition. He did not attribute a great deal of crime to liquor; it merely brought out what was in a man.

Rev. Dr. Moore, Presbyterian, was in favor of prohibition, and thought drunkenness was steadily increasing. He had serious doubts about imprison-

This would indicate that the finally final time of hearing evidence has not yet been reached. The sittings were closed, for the present at least, at that time. No intimation seems to be given of how soon the report may be prepared for the printer, or when it may appear in a published form.

GRAIN INSECTS.

Remedy Against Species Introduced Through the World's Fair.

An article upon the black weevil has recently been making the rounds of the press expressing the fear that this insect would become introduced in this counwould become introduced in this country by the distribution of the grain which was exhibited at the World's Fair from foreign countries. While this fear, to a certain extent, is well founded as regards the introduction of species new to this country, yet the black weevil has long been known with the close of the Fair an agent us, Toward the close of the Fair an agent of the Division of Entomology inspected the grain in the foreign exhibits, to prevent the spread of any foreign species new to this country. The efforts of the division in this regard are to be commended, and the measures taken may prevent, in a measure, at least, the introduction of injurious foreign species.

By far the worst grain pest in the foreign exhibits at the Fair was the black weevil, an insect which may be said to be world-wide in its distribution. While the Fair may have been a means of distributing this species in some of the extreme Northern or Northwestern States where it has heretofore been perhaps unknown, but little danger may be apprehended in this direction. The little weevil does little or no damage in the North, but in the South it is ever present, doing more damage to stored grain than all the other species combined. It is doubtful if this species will ever do much damage in the Northern States, certainly not to such an extent as in the Southern States. The mature form of this insect is shown at c in the accompanying illustration, the line at the side showing the insect's natural length. It is a small black beetle, having four reddish-colored spots upon the elytra, or wing cases. The eggs are laid within the grain and hatch into small. light colored larvæ, which feed upon the more tender portions. When mature, a larva has the appearance as shown at a (much enlarged), being a fat, footless grub of a light yellow color. In about ten days after hatching the larvæ change to pupæ (b) within the grain, and in a few days later the mature weevil (c) will emerge and eat its way to the outside of the grain. Thus but a short time, about three weeks, is required for the insect to go through its transformations, and this accounts, in a large measure, for the immense numbers in which these weevils appear. The species attack corn, rice and wheat especially, both in the larval and adult states. It does such damage to rice that in the East Indies it is known s the "rice weevil." But little idea an be formed of the immense damage done by this insect by one who has not seen the results of its work. In Mexico, for exemple, corn can be grown very easily, requiring but little or no cultivation, yet it cannot be kept three weeks after harvest on account of the black weevil. In Louisiana the rice crop is greatly reduced by its work, while throughout all the Southern States the annual production of corn is greatly lessened. In Honduras, I am informed that rice which is free from weevils sells at a great advance over that which may contain weevils. While this species is often very destructive, an excellent remedy for its destruction is found in bisulfid of carbon. This is a volatile liquid, the fumes of which are destructive to insect life. The use of the bisulfid for grain insects was first recommended by Dr. Riley in 1879, and since then it has gradually been coming into favor as a remedy. To destroy the black weevil, or other species which may infest stored grain, the grain is placed in a tight bin, and the bisulfid simply poured over the top. About an ounce of the bisulfid to the hundred pounds of grain is generally used. Recently there has been placed upon the market a much stronger product than the commercial grade of bisulfid, known as the "fuma" bisulfid. This has fully twice the value of the commercial grade, and on this account should be obtained for the treatment of stored grain insects. While the bisulfid of carbon is an explosive substance, there is no danger in its use if any care is taken to keep it away from lighted cigars. matches, and the like. Grain insects are also often very destructive in grain mills, sometimes, indeed, the mills are overrun with these pests. Here, again, the bisulfid is an important remedy, for, by a little attention, and with but small expense, the mills can be cleared of the insects. In the applying of bisulfid in mills, it is important that the application should be begun in the basement of the mill and continued to the top, for the fumes are heavier than air, so that if the work was begun at the top floor, the fumes would prevent thorough application being made below. American corn should in all cases be husked before treatment, as the husk affords such protection to the insects attacking the grain that a much larger amount is necessary in the treatment of the unhusked maize than would otherwise be the case. The action of the carbon bisulphid is still more effective if the corn is shelled. This black weevil, calandra oryze, Linn., is probably a native of the East Indies, where for nearly a century it has been a wellknown pest. The insect has been found

A unique way of calling attention to the absence of a tool from the toolroom is recommended by a correspondent. As soon as the tools are hung in the best order in a new room he marks the outline of each on the wall back of it with a heavy pencil. Thus, when the hatchet or hammer or saw is gone, its picture is here to call for its return.

An Orchard Hint. In the management of an apple or-chard pruning is essential. All the weak shoots, those which seem to suffer from overbearing, or from other cause, should be carefully cut out every year. Again, wherever the branches are likely to be thick and struggle with each other for light, they should also be thinned. THE BABCOCK TEST.

Many Arguments in Favor of Paying by this Rational Method.

One question is now uppermost in On-tario—that of paying for milk at factories, for cheese-making, by the Babcock test, the same as for butter-making. A few factories have adopted this plan and find—as have the experiment stations and the great tests at Chicago—that milk makes cheese exactly in proportion to the butter fat that milk contains, and that a man who sells 4 per cent fat milk for cheese making for the same price that another man sells 3 per cent milk, has been swindled out of a pound of butter to each 100 lbs. of milk. The great excuse urged against the plan is the cost of making the tests. Now it was found that the samples could be taken daily and put in a small jar, for two weeks, and then by adding a little dilute potash to break up the lactic acid. a sample from this jar would be within .05 of 1 per cent of the average fat shown by making fourteen daily tests, and reduced the cost in time and material to the minimum. So that after material to the minimum. So that after making 1,000 tests himself and comparing the report from all quarters on both sides of the line, there was no longer any reason for this unjust pooling of milk, which by the present system was only to put a premium on dishonesty, skimming and watering milk, both by thin milk cows and common pine pails. Along this same line Prof. Van Slyke, of N.Y., the noted chemist and cheese expert, gave the result of two years' work, "Old vs. New," in making cheese and basing all calculations on the fat contents of milk. He showed by tests at factories for the last three years that the range of fat contents of milk supplied by different dairies was 2.65 per cent. to 4.80 per cent., and no feeding of the first had raised the quality, nor had any dairy an even record for fat, there being an almost constant though somewhat slight variation, that of individual cows being very marked. He had found that after repeated tests it was not once in ten thousand times that the curd of milk ever equaled the fat in weight, and the albumen must be included even then. but in fact the albumen went out in the whey along with the sugar and did not appear in the cheese, so that the relation of the two was about in the proportion of three pounds of fat to two pounds two ounces of curd, and this extended through all the grades of milk sent to the cheese factory. It was a mistake to say that a good, careful maker could not incorporate 4 1-2 to five per cent of fat in a cheese. The man who ripened the milk and worked it as he should would not be confronted with more escape of fat in the whey than with three per cent milk, as the proportions were so fairly uniform that the combination of the two could be maintained. The weight of cheese when made was always indicated by the fat content. It was impossible to make a pound of cheese containing a normal amount of moisture from as few pounds of skim-milk as from full milk. and the price of cheese was always based on the fat it contains rather than the caseine, as the former gives it its quality and is worth 25 cents a pound whether as butter or in the cr ese, and curd had alue alone of ov. 2 cents a pound. The charts showed that milk with less than 3 per cent of fat required about 12 pounds of milk to make a pound of cheese, and less than 9 pounds of 4.75 per cent milk made a pound of cheese that sold in the Shelley class, and the first went begging for a customer at any

The result was that after the fullest discussion of the question, that took on every form and purpose, from sending pure cream down to undiluted brook water, and whether the Babcock test was made for the farmer or speculator, and if the innate cussedness of man could not outwit it if adopted, the matter was left for expression, and of the five hundred persons present less than a half dozen went on record as wishing to continue the old practice of pooling milk by the pound, and it is probable that hundreds of factories in Canada will this year join with the few and the fat test will be largely adopted.-Prof. Dean, O. Barns for Dairy Animals.

E. L. Vincent, in the Ohio Farmer, gays: I do not like a damp place for stabling cattle; and if I could not arrange my barn so as to provide dry stables with good ventilation I would not build a bank barn. I am of the opinion that many diseases among cows may be traced to improper methods in the construction of barns. I believe I have a barn which in most respects combines warmth, pure ventilation and freedom from damp. My barn has a nine-foot basement. In this I stable my cows, facing to the north. In the rear of the cattle is a shed running the whole length of the barn for receiving manure and this is suplemented by a shed joined to the barn on the west, extending southward, affording shelter for stock and storeroom for straw overhead. In this arena my cows run on sunshiny days. On the north side of my barn are the entrances from a sloping bank. About five feet from the barn I built a stone wall to support the bridge over which I drive into the building. The barn itself being boarded up and so far removed from the wall, no dampness comes to the stable from the stones while I get all the advantage possible from the bank. the east a row of windows admits light and sunshine. A similar row on the west side lets in the sun in the afternoon. All the cracks being well battened, my stable is as warm as a house. In front of the cattle is my shoot for putting down hay. This also affords a way of escape for impure afforded by a cupola on the roof, provided with shutters. On extremely cold nights by closing this shoot I can keep my stable exceedingly comfort-The air circulates under the bridge between the wall and the barn. Altogether I believe little to be desired is lacking in my stables. My barn was a great novelty here when I built it four years ago, but many have since examined it and pronounced it excellent.

Good Advice.

"The scrub must go!" That is the kind of a talk we should like to see dinned into the ears of every farmer in the land every day in the year, and that is the kind of an injunction every young man rising to the farmer's vocation ought to have deeply impressed upon his mind every day of his education until all scrubs have disappeared from the face of the earth, and especially from the dairy farms.

LESSON XI, FIRST QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, MARCH 18.

Text of the Lesson, Gen. xviii, 17-21 (a Missionary Lesson)-Memory Verses, 17-19-Golden Text, Gen. xviii, 18 - Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

17. "And the Lord said, Shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do?" As we have choice between a temperance and a missionary lesson, I unhesitatingly choose the latter, believing that the greater includes the less, and also firmly believing that if individual Christians tians and churches, societies and Sun-day schools would only yield fully to the Lord that He might through them accomplish all His pleasure in preaching the gospel to every creature, not only would the Lord be greatly rejoiced, His elect church hastened to completion, but these same individual believers, churches, societies and Sunday schools would know the blessing of the Lord as never before. These five verses of this lesson are in connection with the visit of the Lord and the angels to Abraham under the oaks of Mamre and the approaching destruction of the cities of the plain. It is a most suggestive missionary topic, as the same Lord who said, "Shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do?" said also some 1800 thing which I do?" said also some 1800 years later, when here on earth in His humiliation, "As it was in the days of Lot, they did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded, but the same day that Lot went out of Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven and destroyed them all. Even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed" (Luke xvii, 28-30), and now over 1800 years still later those who are Abraham's seed by faith in Christ Jesus (Gal. iii, 20), with this thing not hid from them, are as indifferent to the impending storm that is surely coming and the welfare of people about them as if the Lord had never uttered these words. Please do read Prov. xxiv, 11, 12; Ezek. xxxiii, 7-9.

18. "Seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him." As to the farreaching blessing, see chapters xii, 3, and xxii, 18. Although it was not fully revealed to Abraham just how this glorious results was to be secondlished, it is not successful. sult was to be accomplished, it is not hidden from us to whom has been given the New Covenant as well as the Old. The New opens with the statement that Jesus Christ is the son of David, the son of Abraham (Matt. i, 1), and goes on to show that He is the one of whom Moses in the law and prophets did write that though He was rejected by Israel, to whom He specially came, yet He suffered and died and rose again according to the Scriptures; that while the kingdom is postponed because of the rejection of the King He is by the preaching of the gospel of His grace gathering from all nations an elect company who shall reign with Him as His bride when He shall bless all nations through His elect, restored and holy nation, Israel (Luke xxiv. 25-27; xix, 11; Acts iii, 19-21; xv, 14-17). The national conversion of Israel will be accomplished when they look upon Him whom they have pierced, as He shall return in power and glory. bringing His bride with Him; then shall they be smitten with true conviction of sin, like Saul on the way to Damascus. and shall welcome their rejected Messiah, saying: "This is Jehovah. We have waited for Him; we will be glad and rejoice in His salvation." Then shall Israel blossom and bud and fill the face of the world with fruit. See Zech. xii, 10; xiii, 1; Isa xxv, 9; xxvii, 6.

19. "For I know him that he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the Lord, to do justice and judgment, that the Lord may bring upon Abraham that which He hath spoken of him." The Lord knoweth each of us thoroughly, even to our thoughts and imaginations (Ps. cxxxix, 1-4; I Chron. xxviii, 9), and He knows what He can accomplish through us, and whether we will walk in His way or not. By disobedience we hinder Him from accomplishing His pleasure in and through us. If we were willing and obedient we would in every true sense eat the good of the land and be filled with the fatness of His house (Isa. i, 19; Ps. lxxxi, 13, 16; xxxvi, 8). The way of the Lord is as high above our ways as heaven is above the earth (Isa. lv. 8. 9), yet vain man clings to his own thoughts and ways, and thus knows neither the Lord's thoughts nor counsel (Mic. iv, 12). Much time and strength is thus wasted by individuals and churches by not knowing the Lord's way and purpose.

20. "And the Lord said, Because the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great. and because their sin is very grievous.' All sin cries unto God, and He hears the cry of all the opposed. "The voice of thy brother's blood criest unto Me from the ground" (Gen. iv, 10). The cries of the oppressed reapers enter into the ears of the Lord of Hosts (Jas. v, 4). His eyes and ears are open to all things on earth, but because He is long suffering He tarries to the utmost if perchance He may lead men to repentance and deliver them from eternal loss (II. Pet. iii, 9; Job xxxiii, 29,30). And while judgment is restrained He gives us the privilege of interceding for men as Abraham did, and of beseeching men to be reconciled to God (11 Cor. v, 20.)

· 21. "I will go down now and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me, and if not I will know." air, while still further ventilation is out due and patient investigation. "Ye never punishes without cause, nor withshall know that I have not done without cause all that I have done in it, saith the Lord God" (Ezek. xiv, 23). Before the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with His mighty angels in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus (11 Thess. i. 7. there will be a judgment of the saints for their service (Rom. xiv. 10; II Cor. v. 10), and as there is a possibility of much work being burned up (1 Cor. iii, 13-15), I for one desire to keep the way of the Lord and have Him work in me both to will and to do of His good pleasure (Phil. ii, 13).

EXERCISE FOR COWS.

Results of Stabling from November to May

-Little Exercise Needed in Winter. Last fall John Gould gave his method of running a dairy. It will be remembered that he keeps each cow in her own stall from November until May. In a late issue of Hoard's Dairyman he says: "When I arrived at home last week from an Institute trip, my man who cares for the cows—a most faithful and careful feeder, by the way—said to me as we went looking things over: 'I tried a little experiment last week, one of those very warm pleasant days, and I am now satisfied. I turned the cows out into the yard about an hour and a half, and the result was that in the next two milkings the cows had shrunk over two pounds each, and it took two days and some meal to get'em back!' The result is, that while it cost me, the young man has gained a point, and the cows will not bother him any more about wanting to go out just for fun." Now compare this with the far too prevalent practice of having cows out in the fields all winter and judge of the difference. Mr. Gould feeds ensilage, and ensilagefed stock must have warmer stables, for succulent food always demands warmth. Feeding ensilage in a zero temperature is worse than feeding dry food under the same conditions, which is a losing practice if the cows are expected to secrete full udders of milk. But beyond this comes the exercise question. Advanced dairymen deny that cows need special exercise in winter. Milk-giving is enough they say, and this is what Mr. Gould is endeavoring to prove. In summer too much evergise is generally mer too much exercise is generally given. A luxuriant pasture in which the cow can fill herself quickly and then lie down and ruminate, is what fills the milk pail. Going two miles to pasture, and perhaps a poor pasture at that, and being driven home by a boy on horse-back and a yelping dog, has always resulted in a small, poorly-filled udder, an unhappy owner, a sad looking wife and children arrious to leave the form children anxious to leave the farm.

A warning to farmers has been issued by the Board of Agriculture against the danger of cattle poisoning from the unusual abundance this season of the crop of acorns, which in the present dearth of herbage, owing to the long drought, are certain to be eaten by stock with avidity. In the years 1888, 1870 and 1884, which were remarkable for a large yield of acorns after a long, dry, and hot summer, serious losses among young cattle occurred from outbreaks of what is known as the acorn disease. Young cattle up to two years old suffered most severely. Milch cows and cattle over three years old were seldom affected. Sheep and pigs appeared to be insusceptible to the poisonous action of the seeds, and only two or three cases of the disease were reported in these animals, while entire herds of young cattle were attacked and a large proportion of them succumbed. Acorn disease is distinguished by progressive wasting, entire loss of appetite, diar-rhoea, sore places inside the mouth, discharge from the nostrils and eyes, which are always sunken, giving to the animal a peculiar haggard expression. No fever is present from first to last, but, on the contrary, the temperature is commonly below the normal standard. Remedies of various kinds were tried in the great outbreaks of the disease, but no cure was discovered.—English Paper.

Destructive Diseases in India.

According to a British farming journal, there are several destructive diseases of animals in India of which there is no experience in the British Isles. They are maladies peculiar to the soil, climate and herbage of the country. Many of them are of obscure origin, and their precise nature has not been accurately determined. But the most destructive disease of all in our Indian possessions is true cattle plague, or rinderpest. It is said to have devastated several tracts of country, and has obtained a firm foothold in hundreds of districts throughout India. It is no imaginary circumstance to find a valley, at one time abounding in cattle, in a few weeks reduced to a valley of dead bones, with a few emaciated animals only remaining on the site where great herds were seen a short time before. Some legislation is required to place a check on the ravages of the destructive disease which is now slaying its hundreds and thousands in our Indian possessions. There bul-lock labor is the mainstay of agriculture, and a villager's pair of bullocks represents his capital. The loss of these means his ruin, for the death of his bullocks results in a total or partial loss of his crops as well. Yeomen of the country also suffer severely in the same way. It is said that the rinderpest is a more formidable foe to India than even the Russian himself.

A Word About Feeding.

While liberal feeding is always advisable, it is poor economy to keep feed before the animals all of the time. Whether feeding for growth, or to fur-ther better growth and thrift, the object will be secured if the animals have ject will be secured if the animals have a good appetite at every meal. Only what is eaten up clean should be given, and the nearer this amount is supplied the better the gain in proportion to the cost. Of course in all feeding the ration must be determined by the purpose. Different rations are needed for growth than for fattening. Milk cows, or, in fact, all animals that are suckling young, need a different ration from what is best need a different ration from what is best when fattening or working. The pro-blem of feeding to the best advantage is gradually becoming a more important

Wheat For Hogs.

The Ohio Farmer reports an experiment in which wheat was fed to nogs; when fat they were sold at $5.40. The price realized for the wheat so used was ninety-four cents per bushel. The writer goes on to say:—"Now the good price is not the only benefit to be derived from this home market for the wheat, for we shall see the effects of this feeding on the next crop of corn, and of wheat and clover following. In fact, I think it will be the 'bait' that will 'trap the nitrogen' in the next crop of clover."

It is an exceptional case that a grow-ing animal will take more exercise than is really best for health or thrift.

The La Fayette Stock Farm Co., which bought the lot, now has the greatest lot of German coach horses in America, Germany, or the world. These horses have been carefully bred by the German govern-ment in one line for several hundred years, and it is said they breed after themselves from all kinds of mares, with remarkable certainty, and will sire the grandest coach and carriage teams ever seen. These horses show considerable speed, are cheerful active roadsters, and are the long-distance road horse of Germany.

Pure Air For Cows.

Cows that breathe impure air are starved, for pure air is as necessary for well-being as food and water. One of the highest medical authorities states that starvation is a matter of 'days without solids, hours without liquids and minutes without air.' Your balanced ration without pure air will not produce the result you intend to effect by its use. Pure air is indispensable to health because it breaks up organic matter, thereby rendering it harmless and useful to every form of life evolved in its midst. Overload it with the impurity that is present in poorly ventilated stables, barn or dwelling, and an interference with its power to maintain health follows. Long continued it enfeebles and thus minimizes organic power to repel disease. Under such conditions calves cannot be dropped that have sufficient vitality for long life. Ventilation means keeping this great element, so necessary to life and health, that nature furnishes with unstinted hand pure. So in its last analysis ventilation is as large a question as the balancing of rations or any other that the dairyman has to deal with.

Dehorning.

I thought I would take up the pencil horning cattle. I think it is very wrong to make a wholesale business of it. It lets the air in too much. They want their horns to scratch with. My cattle scratch themselves with their horns and on the fences. They are very handy in the stanchions. If you get a bad cow saw her horns off a little. I don't like saw her horns off a little. I don't like to see them all punished for two or three others. They look very badly. I also think it a bad plan to shut cattle up in a small yard or a large one and have no outlet. In the winter time let the underlings out first so the others will not hook them. Raise moolies if you do not hook them. Raise moolies if you do not like horns. I would like to hear from others on the subject.-Rice, in Miner and Farmer.

To Make Feed Tasty.

Any kind of straw can be made tasty and more palatable to the stock by cutand more palatable to the stock by cutting and mixing with pulped roots. Though oat straw, of course, is best, other kinds can be used to advantage. The mixing should be done twenty-four hours before being fed to allow the straw to absorb the juice of the roots. In this way the cattle will get the roots. In this way the cattle will eat the whole willingly, but if fed separately the straw would be rooted over and over and a large part wasted. The mixing of feed for a herd of cattle requires a place for the purpose, and many may not have such for so large a quantity as would be needed at once. Still, it will do very well to prepare the morning meal after the feeding is done at night, and so on in

Keep the Stock Clean.

It is very important after the stock is housed for the winter that they should be kept clean, not merely their stalls cleaned out and bedded regularly, but the cattle should be looked carefully after, that parasites do not trouble them; if such do get a hold it takes some time and work to root them out. I have found sheep dip of great value in cleaning stock. We apply it with a sponge or cleth two cartiles. or cloth two or three times at short intervals. It takes some time to keep cattle clean and well curried but they will do very much better on a given quantity of feed than those not so at-tended to.

Lice on Young Turkeys.

Look for lice every day, as a large louse on the head of a young turkey will kill it. Dampness is fatal to them, so keep them dry. Stale bread dipped in milk, also curds, finely chopped onions, finely chopped boiled eggs a little wheat and cracked corn and some fine gravel are all foods for them. Do not feed enough to waste but give them food every two hours. They must have clean water but should not get wet in any way; also keep the coops very clean.

They Need Quiet.

It is important that cattle should be fed at the same time and if possible by the same person. They cannot do well if fed at all hours of the day; rest and quiet are just as essential as food for successful feeding, and any one not gentle and kind with the stock has no business in a cattle stable.

Bone Development.

It is just as necessary to give proper development of bone in the hog as in the horse. When he is being made ready for market he has an amount of flesh to carry that cannot be well distributed upon a weak frame. Give such food and exercise as will build bone before the fattening period begins.

What It Depends On. The flavor of eggs depends very much on the food given the hens.

They Are Entirely Amenable to House

The Housekeeper says :- Many amateur florists are under the impression that roses are so difficult to grow as house-plants it would be labor lost to attempt cultivating them. With little extra attention I have found them quite as amenable to house-culture as the sturdy geraniums, and the sweetness of the fragrant varieties makes them infinitely more desirable.

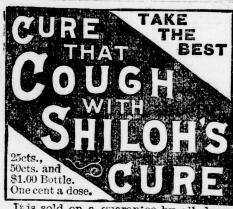

Culture by Amateurs.

The polyanthus, or fairy roses, are so sweet that after one has once grown them they become almost indispensable. Paquerette, the smallest of this variety, has beautiful double snow-white flowers has beautiful double snow-white flowers and blooms profusely. Cecile Bruner has much larger flowers, perfectly double, very sweet and pale pink in color, changing to white, each shoot bearing an immense cluster of blooms, Chlotilde Soupert is the finest of all, the flowers being quite large, and very double; it is also the most abundant bloomer, often as many as thirty buds blooming on one branch, and flowering nearly all branch, and flowering nearly all the year round, if grown in the house, Blanche Rebatil is another lovely variety blooming in great clusters, and forming a delightful contrast with the paler roses, its color being a rich deep crimson.

These roses, I think, are more easily coaxed into yielding a wealth of blossoms than the larger varieties. A few of the monthly or ever-blooming roses, however, yield equally as charming results. Of these I would recommend the following to the amateur: Queen's Scarlet wish valuate or incommend the state of the s let, rich, velvety crimson, very double and sweet, and a generous bloomer; Saffrano, bright apricot yellow, some-times peculiarly shaded with rose, very fragrant, blooms profusely, deliciously tea-scented, and exquisite buds, indeed one of the loveliest of roses; and lastly, American Beauty, a deep brilliant pink, and as perfect as a rose can be in every way. Meteor and Papa Gontier are very handsome crimson varieties, both blooming abundantly. La France and Bon Silene are exquisite, but for me far too chary of their sweet blossoms.

Little Things in the Garden.

We may plan great things for the garden says Vick's Floral Guide, but we find that the great things to be done there are always made up of little, seemly unimportant things. If we neglect these because they seem trivial, the great things we planned to do are never accomplished. Therefore do the little things carefully, and lo! before you know it the end you had in view is at-
