THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 4,

Gladstone's Farewell to His Midlothian Constituents.

The Great Majority of Reforms Due to the Liberal Party.

Queen Victoria's Wealth Said to Exceed $175,000,000.

How the Afghan Guests Ruined Dorchester House.

Japan is to Get 288,800,000 Mexican Silver Dollars as War Indemnity From China.

WORSE THAN WARFARE.

Spezzia, Italy, July 3.-While the torpedo boat Aquilla was undergoing trials today her boiler exploded. Five men were killed and thirteen injured. The other six men aboard of her escaped injury. The vessel was badly damaged.

BULGARIA WARNED. London, July3 .- The Standard will tomorrow publish a dispatch from Berlin stating that the powers have warned Bulgaria against raising the Macedonion question and so stirring up a danger to herself with which she would be unable to cope alone.

THE JAP-CHINESE WAR INDEM-

NITY. According to a dispatch received from United States Minister Denby at Pekin, the exact amount of the war indemnity to be paid by China to Japan under the provisions of the Shimonoseki treaty amounts to 288,800,000 Mexican silver dollars.

NEW BRITISH COINS.

London, July 3.—The new bronze coins of Great Britain will include the inscription "Ind. Imp.," thus giving the Queen's title Empress of India. The effigy of the Queen will be surrounded by the inscription, and the obverse side will represent Britannia, trident in hand, seated on a rock in the sea. The ha'penny and be the penny, farthing.

FIGHTING IN MADAGASCAR. Paris, July 3.-General Duchesne, the commander of the French troops in the Island of Madagascar, telegraphs from Majunga, via Port Louis, Island of Mauritius, that several thousand Hovas recently attacked the French troops at Zarasostra, but were repulsed with great loss. The French captured 470 tents, the standard of the Queen of Madagascar, a number of pieces of artillery and a quantity of ammunition,

STARTLING REVELATIONS. I understand the Queen is vexed about the revelations made in a book which has been printed for private circulation by the executors of a man, who, for many years, was a species of accountant to the royal family. A paper has in the worst of taste published all particulars, from which it would seem that the Queen possesses nearly mated. The figures are tabulated in a strikingly concise and clear way, and the whole statement hears the impress of truth, for it is so bald and embellished that it must have been written by an utterly unimaginative man. ILL-BEHAVED VISITORS. A correspondent of the New York Press says: I am told on excellent authority that the condition in which the Afghans will leave Dorchester House will astonish its owner. One of the favorite devices of the Shahzada's suite fer killing time has been to throw knives at a small circle marked out on a door. This door is no common or garden deal portal. It is of tulip wood and is covered with richly engraved fruit and flowers. The young Prince is so delighted with his visit that he will prolong it for eight weeks, at the end of which time if the royalties deputed to amuse him are not all dead or moribund I shall be much surprised, for if ever the reigning family laid itself out to "kill" it has been on this occasion.

GLADSTONE'S FAREWELL.

Edinburgh, July 3 .- At a meeting of the Midlothian Liberal Association this afternoon a letter of farewell was read from the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, who has represented Midlothian since 1880 in the House of Commons.

Mr. Gladstone, in his letter to his Midlethian constituents, says: "The impending dissolution of the House of Commons brings into practical form the prospective farewell I addressed last year to the electors of Midlothian. I now repeat it with sentiments of gratitude and attachment for the treatment I have received during fifteen happy years which can never be effaced. I then ventured to express good wishes for the excellent candidate, Sir Thomas Carmichael, who aspires to represent the county on principles conformable to the striking manifestation of 1880 and subsequent years. Though in regard to public affair many things are disputable, some belong to history, and have rassed out of the region of contention. For example, it is, I conceive, beyond question that the century now explring has exhibited since the close of its first quarter a period of unexampled activity, the changes of which, taken in the mass, have been in the direction of true and beneficial progress. An overwhelming proportion of the reforms within this period has been effected by the direct action of such statesmen as Peel and Canning, who were ever ready to meet odium or to forfeit power for the public good. In all of the fifteen Parliaments in which I have served the people of Scotland have decisively expressed their convictions in favor of this wise and temperate policy, and I trust that the electors of Midlothian will continue to lead the people of Scotland in the future as they have in the

THE QUEEN CHANGES HER MIND. London, July 3.-Her Majesty the Queen is playing fast and loose with her engagements in a fashion which is her engagements in a fashion which is don. Don't forget the place. KEENE exasperating to some of her attendants. BROS., 127 King street, opposite Mar-When she upset everyone by announc- ket House

ing that she intended starting for the North a fortnight before the usual time that was voted bad enough, considering that the young Shanzada was hourly expected, but when she eventually did go it was to stay for six weeks. Yet she returned at the end of the third week in June, having simply gone up to Balmoral, as far as can be gathered, to admire the new church of Crathie.

No one can form any idea of the inconvenience which everyone in the court entourage suffers when the English monarch changer ner mind in this sudden and inexplicable manner. First of all, the arrangements for various changes in the Ministers in attendance have to me made. Nearly 40 tons of luggage have to be packed and unpack ed. Women are kept hard at it in the laundries and ironing rooms all night. In fact, if a middle class man multiplied by about 300 times the inconvenience that would attend these unexpected orders and countermands in his own home, some slight notion may be formed of what a change of royal mind

FATAL BALLOON EXPLOSION. Berlin, July 4.-A military balloon exploded today in the shed of one of the barracks. Three soldiers were injured, and one of them has since died.

VESUVIUS BREAKS OUT. Naples, July 4.-A fissure has appeared in the northwest side of the great cone of Vesuvius, and a dense stream of lava is flowing down the mountain side.

MONEY TO FIGHT WITH. Madrid, July 4.-The Minister of the Colonies, Senor Abarzuza, has arranged with the Bank of Spain to advance the funds with which to posecute the campaign against the insurgents in the Island of Cuba.

MRS. CRAIGIE GETS A DIVORCE. London, July 4.-Mrs. Pearl Craigie, the authoress, better known by her penname of John Oliver Hobbes, has been granted a divorce from her husband, a clerk in the Bank of England, on the ground of cruelty and unfaithfulness on his part.

MYSTERIOUS TRACEDY.

Five Persons Arrested for Robbery and Murder,

But the Corpse of the Alleged Murdered Man Cann t Be Found.

Omaha, Neb., July 4.—Five badly frightened individuals occupying murderers' cell at the police station, a resiresembling in many respects a slaughter house, and the unaccountable absence of John Zelian, are the features of a peculiarly mysterious tragedy which is engaging all the Omaha police and detectives. Zeljan is the supposed victim, while Mr. and Mrs. Mate Makin, Anton Buckovitz, John Urkan and John Druboitz are the prisoners. Robbery is the presumed object of the crime, but the feature most confusing to the police is the unexplained absence of the corpse. No. 1,250 Pierre street, a boarding house, is the scene of the crime. A hasty examination of the bedroom in which the man supposed to have been murdered slept showed signs of a bloody conflict. A great pool of blood was located near the head of the bed, and the bedclothes were saturated in several places with blood. Bloody footprints were found on the bed quilts and pillow. The floor casing, wall and floor were stained in several places with blood, A ruzor, a pocketknife and an iron crowpar were found in the bedroom. The demeanor of the inmates of the house was such as to prompt the detectives to place them under arrest. Several of the persons had blood on their clothes. All concerned 135,000,000, as nearly as it can be estilare Poles. Several residents of the neighborhood say Zeljan had a large amount of money yesterday, and that he said that he had received it from the old country. One of the men who was arrested told one of the officers that Zeljan had got $1,000 from the old country. To obtain this money, the crime, it is thought, was committed.

ARRIVAL OF THE GRAYS. New York, July 3 .- On board the Clide line steamship Algonquin, which reached here at 12:30 o'clock this morning, were Thos. Gray and his wife. Hattie Gray, charged with the murder of David Scollie at Peterboro. They were brought from Ocala, Fla.

EVERY SALOON SHUT UP. Atchison, Kan., July 3 .- For the first time in five years there is not an open saloon in Atchison. The board of police commissioners, acting upon positive instructions from Gov. Morrill, ordered all saloons to close at 12 o'clock last night and remain closed thereafter. DECLINE IN EMIGRATION. Ottawa, July 3.-Mr. A. M. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Interior, testified before the agricultural committee yesterday that there was a large falling off in the number of immigrants to this country for the past five months of the current year, as compared with a corresponding period last year. This he attributed to the low price of wheat.

FITZSIMMONS FREE. Syracuse, N. Y., July 3.-Fitzsimmons is free. Shortly after 8 o'clock tonight the jury filed in before a crowded court room and announced the verdict "Not guilty." Immediately a tremendous cheer went up. Fitzsimmons dealt his sparring partner a fatal blow during a boxing exhibition. The trial started nine days ago.

BIG FIRE IN NEW WESTMINSTER. Vancouver, B. C., July 4.-Fire last night destroyed Brunett's sawmill and Laidlaw's salmon cannery at Westminster. The barges Kundaleer and Northwest were loading lumber and the former was cast adrift and the escaped the flames, but the latter caught fire and burned almost to the water's edge. The loss is estimated at $100,000; insurance about $70,000. The destruction of the mill throws 200 men out of work

NORTH OXFORD NOMINATION. Woodstock, July 4.-The press dispatches referring to the Patron-Prohibition meeting on Saturday are somewhat misleading. They state that Mr. Hugh McDonald's candidature was ratified, while, as a matter of fact, it was impossible to do so on account of the Patrons present not being sent as official delegates from their lodges. The feeling of the meeting was taken by vote, and all expressed themselves in favor of Mr. McDonald's candidature. Another meeting is called for July 27, when the nomination will take place.

The Remedial Legislation Problem Proves a Puzzler.

Minister Foster Advised to Abandon the Rotten Party Hulk-"The Chance of His Life"-Other Members of the Crew Ready to Swim Ashore.

(Specially telegraphed by our own representative.)

Ottawa, July 3.-A Conservative member of Parliament is authority for the statement that the Tory whips have all day been making an individual canvass among members of the party with a view to ascertaining where they stand with regard to remedial legislation.

It was pointed out that the most accurate way to secure the desired information would appear to be a party caucus. "Oh, no," he remarked, "that would at this moment only accentuate the dividing lines and intensify the disturbing elements."

FOSTER ADVISED TO RESIGN. From what is gathered in usually well-informed quarters, a strong effort is being made by the friends of Mr. Foster to induce him to resign if Premier Bowell decides on bringing down remedial legislation. York the county that Mr. Foster has elected to run for in New Bunswick, it is pointed out, is ultra-Protestant, and such being the case he would stand about the same chance of being elected there if he supported remedial legislation as Sovereign Grand Master Clarke Wallace would were he to run for Vercheres, where there is but one Protestant vote.

"THE CHANCE OF HIS LIFE." A New Brunswick member pointed out that it would be the chance of Mr. Foster's life to put himself straight to the front as the leader of the Conservative party by voting against the Government, if they attempted remedial legislation, and it is said that at this very moment Foster is taking this phase of the situation into his most serious consideration. A FORLORN HOPE.

'As matters look tonight we may be prepared for many surprises within the next ten days. Talk with Ontario Conservatives, and you leave them almost convinced that the Government's only chance of pulling through lies in the refusal of Sir Mackenzie Bowell to bring down remedial legislation, while the French members say it will only be a question as to how large the majority will be against the Government if legislation for the Catholic minority is laid

READY TO QUIT.

The friends of Haggart, Montague, Wood and Wallace say they stand ready with their resignations written to lay in the hands of Sir Mackenzie the moment he says remedial legislation must

"ALL AT SEA."

It may safely be said that up to date the Government, as regards the Manitoba schools, has no policy. That policy has yet to be formulated. An attempt will be made at the special meeting of the Cabinet called for tomorrow morning to reach some conclusion, but judging from the talk about the corridors tonight that is hardly possible.

We may call it a crisis, a deadlock or anything we like, but the position of the Government today is one of grave

LONDON SEEN BY A CASUAL.

Queer Views of This City Entertained by a Yankee Visitor.

Pen Photographed.

An individual named Charles Theodore Murray has been writing some curious things about London and its inhabitants in the Pittsburg (Pa.) Dispatch. Of his views regarding this and other places in Canada, he says:
"It is Canada from a car window—from a hotel bed—from meals taken with a cup of coffee in one hand and a time table in the other. There will be nothing profound or conclusive, therefore, in what is here set down, it being but the superficial observations of an un-commercial traveler." Truth to tell, his estimate of us, though some-Truth to what amusing, is decidedly superficial and far from just. He tells us that London is widely different "from anything in the United States. I almost say America, for I cannot at any stage realize that this is part of America. We speak of home as America between ourselves along the road, as if on another continent. There is nothing American here, as we understand it. Outside of the tourist towns, and excepting those who are here for health, pleasure or to keep out of jail, there are no people from the United States. We run over the leaves of the hotel register curiously, for six weeks back, without finding but a single man from the Republic. This was a man from Boston.

"The clerk noted our comments ,and said: 'That man lives here. He represents a Boston shoe house, and always registers from Boston.' "I have examined the registers all the way through to Montreal, and find the same thing.

"At the sleepy old town of Brantford the hotel clerk said as to this: 'People from the United States scarcely ever come here-and when a Canadian goes away to your country he never comes "Seeing this country through my eyes I certainly cannot blame him, or either of them, for that matter. This section is intensely English. The Scotch form a stiffening. Here in London is the London 'bobby' of the older and greater city across the water. He wears the same uniform; the closely-buttoned, short-tailed military frock, with the duty stripes on the left sleeve, and the helmet with its throat latch falling just below the lower lip, and goes without a club during the day. The postman goes his rounds in a military uniform like that of the Prussian soldier. The guards about the station, the porters, the messengers, the railway officials, oig and little, have the signs of a paternal government written in their faces and painted on their clothes. The station itself, with its 'luggage' rooms and 'parcel' rooms and waiting rooms and smoking rooms-as are all other stations along the route-is thoroughly English. This traveler does not like the hotel cooking or serving, though he asserts they are better than is to be found in the large hotels in Montreal and To-ronto. "Waitresses," he says, "are the rule in every dining room. Men seem to be scarce in menial employments; for the elevator boys are under-sized and must carry baggage to rooms-which is charming for those who happen to want to go up or down during that time." He does not like the waiter girl, as must be evident from this extraordinary statement: "I could write ten chapters on the waiter girl as I have found her, and never tell all I learned about her. The one who waited on me at dinner in London blew on my pie before serving it-but whether it was to merely blow the crumbs off or for luck I don't know. It reminded me of boys fishing-we used to spit on the bait for luck. But if this maiden had any such superstition it didn't work this time, for I didn't bite. I neither ate the pie nor 'coughed up' the customary tip. The woman who blows on my pie must do it in the kitchen if she expects any luck. But I haven't eaten any pie since, so, per-haps, after all, she did me an estimable The waiter girl hums off a service. long list of dishes without rhyme or reason, and about as intelligently as the average trainman calls the stations on the New York elevated road. Meanwhile you strain your intellectual muscles in the vain attempt to catch on to some particular dish. My habit of watching the movement of the lips intently not infrequently lifts the waiter girl off her feet, so to speak. I was alone in an Adrian dining room for a late breakfast, when a red headed, pasty-faced young woman, with an expression that would sour milk, came up and rattled off her repertoire. I turned to look at her, and, to my great amusement, she moved about ten feet, glancing back toward the kitchen door, as if to see whether the coast was clear for retreat. When I smiled sweetly and told her how harmless I was and asked her if she wouldn't please come a little nearer and give me an encore she ran away and brought back three other girls, who giggled in the doorway while she tried me again, carefully keeping the table between us Then she got a broom and swept the

"The whole country through which we have come seems to be one great grass farm, broken here and there by occasional crops of grain and the ugly unpainted village of the frontier. The extraodinary newness of field and clearing and farmhouse is something for which I was unprepared. Ohio Indiana and Illinois look like the old country by the side of these regions. And yet this is the oldest and most thickly settled portion of Canada along the St. Lawrence-and the small cities have a metropolitan air unknown to cities of twice the size in the United States.'

Mr. H. McCarron, of Detroit, Completely Cured of Blood Poisoning. Detroit, Mich., July 1 .-- A very curious incident has occurred here, and one which will be of continental interest. Mr. Hugh McCarron, a well-known notary public, has been a sufferer for many years from a peculiar form of poisoning inducing the most frightful pains in the breast and back. The best doctors were consulted without being able to give any relief, and Mr. McCarron decided that his case was hopeless. He was finally recom-mended to make a trial of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and did so with the faint hope that they might have some effect in his case, the peculiar nature of which did not lead him to associate it with kidney complaint. That is the keynote of Dame Fashion's midsummer mandate. The dear girls must look 2001, no matter what Franks the sun gol plays with General Humidity. She must simply rise above it all and look as cool and fresh and crisp as a shrimp salad before the may-onaise is added, even if she does feel broiled, and well done at that. It's the same old idea of assuming a virtue, though we have it not. Man requires it of us. So you see the temperature has nothing to do with the thing. There's surely something wrong with girl-indeed, one could almost question her sex-who couldn't look refreshing on even the most wilting morning in a delicate green pique, with incon-spicuous white dots, and white sailor hat, veil, gloves and pique shoes. And tehse modish little shoes can be washed nicely with ammonia water and a vigcrously wielded brush. White stockings, of course. And what does possess some women to express whatever humor is in them through their hosiery? If you've noticed, any elaboration about the ankle simply adds unnecessary clumsiness. So, please, Mrs. Fashion, dictate solid colors to match the shoe, either ribbed or plain; in order to allow something to individual taste. Surely, the idea of hosiery half one color and half another was borowed from the motley individual of the circus ring. "I would kiss you if I had the cheek to do it," said a bashful young man to his sweetheart. "What's the matter with your lips?" queried she. You must not say "teas" or "receptions" any more. The new word for all the smart crushes is "raout," which in former times was called "rout" in the best English society. It has somewhat of a Yankee twang, but large and fashionable gatherings must not mind that since Paris insists on the new old term.

surprises. "Beware, take care; she is fooling thee!" Pernaps because she is a kindred spirit the canoe is particularly adapted to woman's use. A canoe must be made a friend, and it cannot be driven, but must be led. A canoe is a shy watersprite; any violent or sudden action frightens her, and if she is displeased she throws one overboard.—Boston Ad-

The value of feeding in disease is now admitted to be of as much value as the right administration of medicine. Physicians no longer cure—they see their patients through the trouble; but if we called in the physician and he said: 'I do not know the action of these trust digestion to do the rest," would dismiss him on the spot. Yet that is the identical position of far too many mothers, housekeepers and cooks, who, not knowing the action of certain foods, administer them three times daily, trusting to Providence and a forbearing stomach for the results. If the advanced woman is to take her advertised place in the twentieth century, it must be partly by means of an emancipated physical condition. The days of bread and cheese and kisses will be regretted by some, but the slim waists, thin-soled shoes, and emaciated appetites may well be relegated to the pages of history.

The fashions of the reign of Louis XVI. have been revived in Paris, and beautiful examples of the gowns of that period are being brought here. The popular play Reine" brought about this revival, and interiors of the period are copied literally in dwellings in Paris, and even in fine shops. But the dresses of the day are more difficult, and are adopted with care and with very decide com-promises. The close-fitting sleeves with sabot frills worn by Marie Antoinette and the ladies of her court are too marked a change from the present styles to meet with approval. Hence modified full sleeves are used, and the couturiere seizes for models the double puffed sleeves of some of the muslin gowns worn in the gardens of the Trianon. The Marie Antoinette fichu makes charming bosom drapery, whether taken literally, or modified with revers and given some of the fullness of the popular collet. It was always a graceful feature of simpy made gowns, and can be worn alike by elderly and young women .- Harp-

Friday Will Be the Last Day of

An Interesting Batch of News From the Heights.

Mustering for Pay-What the Men and Officers Receive-A Cavalry Reconnoitre-Serious Illness of a Trooper-A Highland Parade.

The end of the camp is approaching, and perhaps the majority of the men are not sorry. The novelty wore off before the first week was over, and the raw recruits who looked forward to their first outing with high expectations of a good time have found that camp life means business from 5 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock at night, with very brief intermissions. After 5 o'clock they can have their fun until 10 o'clock, unless they are detailed for picket or other duties. As they are usually tired out after the day's drill, most of them would rather have rest than recreation in the evening hours, but there are always some irrepressibles who make merry on the Heights. Few of them are seen on the city streets as compared with other years; in fact, citizens have remarked that it has been the quietest camp within their memory. It has also been one of the most effi-cient. The battalions have never been as well officered or had the benefit of such competent instructors, and the officers in turn say the physical standard the conduct and the aptness of the men are very gratifying. Though glad to get home, officers and privates will not regret their experience, which has been valuable from more than a military point of view. The manual exercises, discipline, regular hours, fresh air and plain but wholesome diet have all been beneficial. A mild epidemic of dysentery has prevailed, probably due to change of food and water, but no serious cases are reported. There are only two men in the hospital—an unusual record. The attendance at camp is now at high water mark, every absentee making it a point to return for muster, which began yesterday. The 27th (Lambton) and the Hussars were the first corps summoned. The roll is called by staff officers, and the unfortunate who doesn't answer to his name loses his pay. The captain of each company will pay off his men on Saturday. The cost of the present camp will be in the neighborhood of $20,000. The following is the daily pay of officers and men while in camp:

Captain. 2 82 to the statute law and to common sense, but First lieutenant. 1 58 the judges of the High Court of Ontario Corporal.....

The pay of the 27th will be supplemented by 25 cents per day for every non-commissioned officer and private in the battalion. This is a gift of the Lambton County Council, and will amcunt to over $800. This may partly account for the splendid lot of fellows in the 27th, the extra pay being an in-ducement to a superior class to enlist. The number of applicants for enrollment in the battalion was greatly in-creased this year, and the officers were able to get a better choice of men.

A CAVALRY RECONNOITER. Today the routine will be pleasantly varied for the cavalry by a reconnoitering trip to Pond Mills, reaching there about 11 o'clock a.m. by different roads. Provision wagons will accompany the troops. It is expected they will dine at the asylum on the return trip, and will arrive at camp about 5 p.m. The men will enjoy the ride 'cross country more an drilling in the narrow limits of one ESSEX MEN MAKE MERRY. The 21st (Essex) Battalion had a gay time last evening and furnished amusement for a crowd of spectators. A large number attired themselves in burlesque Highland costume, using blankets and kilts, and towels and cartridge boxes for sporrans, and rolling their pants up above high water mark. effect was intensely funny, and was enjoyed by none more than by the genuine Scotchmen in the 22nd and 32nd from Zorra and Bruce. The masqueraders were Scotch in everything but the Gaelic. The 21st band also rendered a selection entitled "Sitting Bull," which would have awakened that warrior in his grave had he heard it. Altogether it was a jolly night on the hill.

BUGLE BLASTS. Private Spinks, of Windsor (No. Company, 21st), is so dangerously ill that his relatives have been telegraphed for. He suffered a paralytic stroke on Sunday.

Mr. McIntosh, of Zorra, the stalward anchor of the famous Zorra tug-of-war team, was the guest of the officers of the Bruce Battalion last night. Major Weir, 32nd, will be field officer today; Major Cooper, 29th, tomorrow. The 22nd (Oxford) Band will play to day. Next for duty, the 27th.

The 29th (Waterloo) Battalion spent yesterday at the ranges. The Bruce Battalion goes today. Surgeon McMartin, 32nd (Bruce), will be medical officer for the ranges today; next for duty, Assistant Surgeon Dr. Piper, First Hussars.

sars, probably has more scars received in active service than any man in the camp. In the famous siege of Delhi his breast was torn open by a shrapnel shell, and he carries a scar over a foot long to this day. His body was literally hacked by sabres while in hand-to-hand conflict with the Sepoys. The terrible but honorable marks of these will remain there for life. After the wounds were hurriedly sewn up on the field of battle he immediately resumed his place in the ranks. Maj. A. B. Klein, paymaster of the 32nd, has been granted leave of absence to go to Walkerton. Captain Heming will deliver a lecture at 4 p.m. today in the sergeants' mess room at the Barracks on "Duties."

In addition to his personal pay of 50 cents per day, a cavairyman gets $1 per day for his horse. Government Veterinary Wilson finished his valuation of the cavalry horses yesterday. If a horse should be killed the owner would be refunded its value by the Government.

greatly improved in riding.

QUERIES ANSWERED.

Cheltenham.-If B took a share in a limited company, with the understanding of getting a steady job of threading bolts by machinery, if the company went into liquidation would B have to double his share, and what amount would B have to take to be admitted into a limited company? Would it be into a limited company? Would it be a wise or a foolish move, and what is the general wages for threading bolts? If B was admitted into a limited company would he get free from joining labor organizations if union labor was employed by the company, and B an employed by the company? Ans.—
A shareholder in a limited joint stock company is only liable to pay up his share in full in the event of liquidation. tion if he has not before done so. One share will make him a member of the company, but the number of shares requisite to become a director is fixed by the charter or bylaws. Whether it is wise or foolish depends upon the particular circumstances of the case. We do not know the general wages for threading bolts. Being a shareholder would not necessarily secure you a job, nor would it free you from joining a labor organization if the union controlled the employment at the works

On coming close to the gate the colts slackened speed a little, and got wider apart. The draft horse came in between the two colts on the gallop, struck his chest against the gate and cracked it badly. Who is liable and legally bound to make good the damage to the gate? The fence and gates are owned by the railway company. Ans.-The railway company must repair, but the owner of the horse may be liable, in case there was negligence in leaving or putting the horses on the line. 2. which there is no evidence upon the facts stated. > EMBRO-A owns three lots, each situated in a different road beat. He has them all assessed as one property, having in view the amount of days' labor saved by so doing. Pathmaster B notifies A to perform the amount of labor opposite his name on the road list, but A refuses, saying he intends dividing his labor as he chooses, and give each of the three beats a certain share, not at all proportionate with the value of the lot in each beat. Has A any such power, not having the consent of council or pathmaster? Ans. - No, but if the council had not directed his labor to be performed in his division of B, he might insist upon doing it in the division in which he resides. 2. If B returns list with part work undone and A furnishes council with certificates from the pathmasters of the other beats that such work has been done under their supervision, would the council be justified in accepting such? Ans.-No, the council has no power to do so. The work done by A in the other beats was voluntary and not in satisfaction of his legal duty. 3. If not, what course should council pursue? Ans. - The council has no jurisdiction. Pathmaster B should return A as a defaulter to the clerk before the 15th August, and the clerk should place the commutation for statute labor upon the collector's roll.

"THE FAST ATLANTIC SERVICE." The grant of $750,000 a year for the last Atlantic service is part of the Intercolonial scheme, though it had previously been proposed by the Canadian Government. Its object is to place a line of steamships on the ocean between some port in the United Kingdom and some port in Canada, with a speed of twenty miles per hour, in the hope that with such a service freight and passenger traffic between Europe and America may in a large measure inure to the benefit of Canada. There have been for many years two lines of steamers on this route, the Allan and the Dominion, but both are slow, and neither have made much money for their owners. The friends of the fast service say. however, that these lines have not been successful because they have been slow, and that for half the year the western termini of the lines have been in the United States. Why they do not come to Montreal in winter is obvious enough, for the St. Lawrence is then frozen over; and why they do not start from Halifax or St. John instead of Portland or Boston is that they could not get freight at paying rates because of the heavy charges by rail to the former

But is it reasonable to expect that boats capable of making a speed of twenty knots per hour can attain that speed on the northern course? The Allans have an experience of some 40 years to go upon, and their records should have great value to the Government in determining the question. We believe the fact to be that no vessel, no matter how fast she may be, can make twenty knots an hour over a large part of the course. There are two difficulties in the way; and, as far as human skill has yet been able to determine, both are insuperable. One is the fog on the Newfoundland Banks, which is probably a consequence of the collision of Gulf Stream and Arctic currents. The other is that relic of icebergs known as the "floater." It is ice, charged with earth and rock, and carried down to the sea by the parent glacier, and having a specific gravity about the same as that of the ocean, and floating along at the water's level it is imperceptible to the look-out, so that the vessel may run into it without receiving a note of warning. There is an ingenious way known to sailors whereby the vicinage of "floaters" may be indicated, by observing the changes of temperature in the waters along the course, but no observation, however careful, can accurately locate a "floater"; and so a boat must go slow in the presence of such a danger, no matter what her speed may be. These facts we have no doubt are known to Mr. Foster. They must be known to every maritime member of Parliament who takes an interest in ocean navigation; and still better to Mr. Foster, whose business it is in all matters of important policy to get information and advice from the best authorities.

If, then, the facts are as we believe them to be, why should Canada assume an obligation of $750,000 a year to promote an enterprise which can never realize expectations? And why should the Government of Canada, by a system of bonusing, which it can ill afford. attempt to cripple other steamship lines which for many years have been endeavoring to establish a service on the basis of commercial enterprise?

The man who promises to establish the fast line upon the Government terms is not wholly unknown in Canada. Mr. Huddart figured before the Intercolonial Conference at Ottawa, and he is the reputed owner or promoter of the Pacific line of steamers which run between the western terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway and ports in Australia and New Zealand. This is the way in which he is spoken of by the editor of the Investors' Review, whose editor, if we are not mistaken, is also the commercial editor of that high-class Tory journal, the London Standard:

"Mr. Huddart, it appears, is the 'managing director' of an obscure company, which is said to own two steamers -the Miowera, 3,345 tons gross, and the Warrimoo, 3,320 tons gross-both at one time engaged in the Australian trade with Canada. Mr. Foster described these steamers in the Canadian House of Commons, when urging forward this scheme, as a line of steamers which runs with regularity-it is a good line and most excellent in all its appointments-and it makes regular speedy trips between Australasia and Canada, with a constant accretion and accumulation of freight carried both ways; and what is equally gratifying, a constant and large increase of passenger travel across our continent, going to the Old Country largely.' The Canadian Finance Minister was doubtless told this fine story and swallowed the whole. But a look at the trade statistics of his country would have shown him that the freight portion of it could not be true, and an inquiry at any shipping agency might have revealed to him the fact Unless we are much misinformed, the Miowera has been engaged this last summer in conveying Cook's tourists to and from Norway, and has not been in the Pacific these many months back. In one of these Norway trips the ship went aground. Still pursuing his investigations, Mr. Foster might have found out that the two ships in question are now, and have for the past two years been, cortgaged to their builders for nearly £79,000—their full value probably -at 6 per cent. interest. These and such like facts Mr. Foster might have found out had he cared to, but such was plainly not the object of his Government. It had a job on hand, and meant to perpetrate it at all costs."

There is very much more to be said on this ocean subsidy subject, which occupied some time of the attention of Parliament the other night, when a renewal of the proposal for the Atlantic service was made by Mr. Foster. But there is amply sufficient to condemn it in these three facts.

First, that a speed of 20 knots per hour from a Canadian to a British port is not attainable, owing to physical difficulties which no art of man can re-

Secondly, that in Canada's financial condition she ought not to assume an additional expenditure of $750,000 for such an object.

And thirdly, that the project, if carried out, would do a serious wrong to companies already in the business.

A BIG PAPER

Though an increasing number of residents in the country districts now take a daily paper, the overwhelming proportion of the agricultural community find that a good weekly paper meets their wants. Probably no accompaniment of civilized existence has improved so much in the last 20 or 30 years as the weekly paper. In former years, $2 or more was charged for a 4-page pa-Today, and every Thursday throughout the year the "Western Advertiser" is issued from this office, with 96 columns of live reading packed into sixteen pages, and the yearly price is only $1. Only by printing and circulating many thousands of copies throughout the Province-and more particularly in the Western section-is it possible to print a paper of such magnitude for the money.

POINTS.

According to the Hamilton Herald, it is the promise of office at the close of the present Parliament which alone keeps kicking Conservative members from deserting Sir Mackenzie Bowell. These men know that they cannot face votes, and they will not return for reelection. It is time to decree a change when the business of the country is carried on in this indefensible manner.

Our cousins in the United States have their national holiday today. It will be much more noisy than ours of four days ago. Canadian juveniles expend their energies on fireworks and crackers on the Queen's Birthday, and are contented to picnic on Dominion Day. Over the border, they have fireworks, crackers, and picnics all rolled into one on July 4.

Mexico has a Presidential election next year. President Diaz, who has about completed four terms, will be put up for a fifth. When they get a really good executive head in Mexico, they keep him. They have no dread of the effect of third terms, such as is entertained in the United States.

They ask that needed reforms shall be effected in the registration and franchise laws, so that one man will have only one vote. This system is in force in Ontario Provincial elections, and has worked admirably. They also demand payment of members of Parliament, and reform in Parliamentary procedure, so that the House of Lords will not be able to engage in willful obstruction of the business of the country. The last-named reform may not be got immediately, but there is no reason why the masses should not insist on the other reforms, and support the party committed to bring them about, even if a revolution in the constitution of the hereditary chamber is somewhat delayed. MORE REMARKABLE SHOWERS. The country was pining and praying for rain to put out the forest fires, when a thunder and rain storm swooped down on them, bringing with it thousands of fish-some of them ten inches longwhich were cooked as they fell on the parched earth and among the burning embers of the forest. The explanation is that the fish were caught up in a whirlwind from a neighboring creek and carried up the valley. Such happenings have before now been chronicled. But that theory does not explain the intermittent showers of stones in Dorchester, which, it is asserted, still continue. Mr. McCarthy Brings Up the Manitoba School Question-Caron Cornered - The Office of Third-Class Clerk Abolished - How Certain Government Officials Had a Good Time in Chicago at the People's Expense - Militia Mismanagement.

brought up the Manitoba School question in the House on the orders of the day by asking whether they could expect a remedial bill. He thought that the information should be forthcoming as the session was far advanced.

Mr. Foster thought Mr. McCarthy rather persistent, inasmuch as the answer of Manitoba had only been received yesterday, and was this morning for the first time laid before the members of the council. They could not legislate quite as fast as was implied in the question.

Mr. Brodeur, rising with the postoffice inspector's report in his hand, demanded why the other papers in the Loiselle case were not included in the return. Sir Adolphe had said that they were lost in 1892, but he read a letter from Sir Adolphe, dated Feb. 21, 1893, to Mr. Brodeur, stating that the lost record had been recovered, and promising to lay it on the table.

Sir Adolphe Caron explained in a rather shame-faced way that a portion of the papers were still lost, and could not be brought down. He was still of the opinion that the inspector's report should not have been brought down. Finally Mr. Brodeur forced him to say that the other papers would probably be down this session. Mr. Brodeur insisted that the papers were not lost, and seemed to think that the Postmaster-General, having kept back the in-spector's report for three years, intended keeping back the other papers for another three years.

In reply to Mr. Martin, Mr. Foster said it was the intention shortly to fill the office of Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, but he declined to say whether Hon. J. C. Patterson was to be the appointee.

On the second reading of the bill amending the Civil Service Act, by providing that temporary writers shall hereafter be employed in lieu of third class clerks, Mr. Laurier moved the six months hoist, because it replaced permanent employes by temporary men

In committee on the bill chartering the International Radial Railway Company, which proposes to cover Western Ontario with a network of electric railways, Mr. MacLean, of East York, moved a clause fixing the maximum passenger rate on the road at 2 cents a mile. Mr. Edgar moved in amendment

"that the powers hereby conferred by this bill shall be subject to the provisions of any general act that may be hereafter passed by Parliament relating to electric railways."

opposed him. Mr. Haggart deemed it inexpedient to apply such a restriction to a particular It was a fair subject for a general bill applicable to all railways. Notice should be given, in the direction of Mr. Edgar's motion, to electric railway companies that a general law would be passed to which they would be made subject. It had become the fashion to pass over the Local Legislatures and come here lecause they secured larger powers.

In supply, on the item of $65,000 for the Military College at Kingston, Lieut. Col. Denison made a strong criticism of the management and an attack on the commandant, Major-General Cameron, who is a brother-in-law of Sir Charles Tupper. He had heard complaints and referred to the Plummer incident of last summer. In his opinion the time had come to change the commandant, who should be a man thoroughly in touch with the army, and not a retired officer. Since 1889, when General Cameron was appointed, the attendance had diminished, and was now only 54. He therefore moved that the vote be reduced by the sum of $3,163-the amount of the commandant's salary. This would leave the college without a commandant for the next year, but the senior officer could easily act pro tem. Col. Amyot and Mr. Mulock thought the college was not filling the purpose for which it was established. Minister of Militia Dickey said he intended to reorganize the board of visitors of the Military College, and they would be prepared to investigate any charge laid against Gen. Cameron. If he was found unworthy he would be dismissed. He opposed Col. Denison's amendment. Speaking of the militia generally, he regarded the drill and ining as essential, and saw no reasdrilled every year, though whether it was possible or not he could not say. Sir Richard Cartwright very emphatically stated that the standard of the college had been lowered, and that Gen. Cameron's appointment was a first-class mistake,

At 1 o'clock, after much discussion, Col. Denison's amendment was defeated by 8 to 26.

Mr. Mills, of Bothwell, saw no reason why this company should come here at all for incorporation. Mr. MacLean's two-cent motion was lest and Mr. Edgar's carried. The hour devoted to private bills expired, however, before the bill was reported. On the motion to go into supply, Mr. Martin drew attention to a return brought down respecting pedlars whose importation from Chicago reflected great discredit on the Department of Immigration. Mr. Pearce, one of the Ministers' officers, had warned the department to guard against assisting persons of this class, but notwithstanding this 300 or 400 or them were sen to Calgary. Mr. Martin declared that the return confirmed everything he had charged about these immigrants. He quoted from the report of Mr. Pearce of the Department of Immigration which stated that they would never make good settlers; that they were all Polocks, and were liars and robbers There was not a line to show that any of these people had taken up land or settled in the Northwest. Upon a re port that a number of persons in Chicago would make good settlers, Captain Holmes was sent to Chicago to investigate. This was at the time of the World's Fair, and it appeared to be a famous opportunity for a holiday at the public expense, so a brother of the Minister of the Interior and a brother of the Secretary of State, and Mr. Mc-Beth, of the department, and Mr. Schoemacher, of the department, spent four or five months in Chicago during the Fair, drawing their salaries and $4 or $5 a day for expenses. Mr. Martin considered the incident one which reflected disgrace on the immigration branch of the department. Mr. Daly, in reply, said that not more than 30 or 40 persons were brought in from Chicago, and of these only three or four were of the class complained of. The person who got into jail only joined the party at Winnipeg. The obthe Government of the day. The mo- ject of the movement was the settlement the Government of the day. The department should have taken advantage of the oppertunity. When they were warned by Mr. Pearce they selected about twenty of the best families. This matter did not occupy the agent at Chicago more than a few weeks, but they remained there distributing literature and doing good work. Mr. Daly claimed credit for the immigration branch, as shown by the results of the recent police census of the Northwest. The matter dropped and the House went into supply.

FOND HOPES. Upon hearing that the City Council had resolved to buy the city engineer a bicycle a savage poet in the London Bicycle Club wrote the following:

bridge, who thus scored the victory

We're glad to hear the engineer We're glad to hear the engineer
Is going to ride a bike:
We hope he'll learn to ride it soon,
We hope the sport he'll like;
We hope he'll shake his genteel bones,
A-riding over broken stones;
We hope he'll get galvanic shocks
A-wobbling over cedar blocks;
We hope he'll puncture oft his tire;
We hope he'll stick in mud and mire;
We hope he'll meet with many a crash;
We hope he'll meet with many a crash;
We hope his wheel will go to smash;
We hope he will come down ker-thump;
We hope each bump will raise a lump—
We don't hope this just out of spite
Against the man, for "He's All Right!"
We hope it, 'cause we think when he
All this disaster meets,
Will take a tumble to himself
And give us decent streets!

And give us decent streets! FOOLISH AND CRUEL PRACTICE.

(From Cycling.) Among the many foolish extremes to which parental fondness runs, none is more insensate than the carrying of infants on bicycles. So long as the machine holds up the bit of humanity is safe, being so fastened that it cannot fall off. But there is a nervous tension throughout, as may be clearly seen from the frightened and anxious look on the baby's face. The vibration, too, tells seriously on the immature nerves, while if there be a nip in the air, the motionless child is apt to become deadly cold. All this, however, is as nothing compared with the peril of an upset. Even the most experienced riders cannot assure themselves against "side slipping" when the surface is slippery; all they can do is to save themselves by jumping off the machine before it lies on the ground. But the baby is bound to see the matter out to the bitter end; its too fond parent cannot protect it from smash, however he may try. It is much the same in collisions; the adult rider can do something to break his fall, or, with a heavy vehicle, can roll out of the way after coming to the ground. But the unhappy infant has to stand the racket in both cases. We fancy there would be a very limited number of wheelmen on the roads if the exigencies of the pastime rendered it compulsory for riders to be fastened to their seats. Perhaps it was that feeling that in-fluenced the cyclist down in Yorkshire, who was seen to place his little lad standing on the foot rests, face to the front, with both hands clutching the handle bars behind. The lad was thus left at liberty to jump off, but had either of the foot rests slipped down, as often happens, a very ugly accident must have happened. SIT UP STRAIGHT ON YOUR

BICYCLE. There is absolutely no reason for stooping over the handles in either of the two ways so commonly seen-and there is no excuse for so doing—in or-dinary road riding. It may be necessary for the "scorcher," when engaged in "scorching." to assume the one or the other of these attitudes—to sprawl with the body straight, but almost horizontal, and the head close to the handle bar; or to bend the upper part of the back, as if trying to break in its middle, and throw the shoulders forward, as if desiring to make them meet across his breast. Even so—one who is not "scorching" does not need to make himself a hideous object to look at, and also to reduce the benefits of wheeling to a minimum, so far as its effect on the chest capacity is concerned .- J. President Cleveland's Letter to the New York Holiday Makers.

He Warns His Countrymen Against Reck less Selfishness and Incidious Appeals to Popular Passion.

New York, July 4.—The Fourth of July was celebrated today by the Tammany Society. Among the speakers were ex-Gov. James E. Campbell of Ohio, and ex-Gov. Waller of Connec-Letters of regret from President ticut. Cleveland, Senator Hill and others were read. President Cleveland's letter is as

"Dear Sir,—I regret that I cannot accept the invitation I have received from the Tammany Society to participate in its celebration of the 119th anniversary of American independence. The patriotism and devotion of those who fought for our liberty and established our free government ought al-ways to be held in grateful remem-brance; and neither lapse of years nor changed conditions should ever detract from the zest and enthusiasm of their commemoration. The thought must not escape us, however, that while every anniversary of American independence reminds us of the stern sacrifices of the fathers of the Republic, and which on such occasions we find abundant cause for rejoicing in the splendor of their achievements, we should not fail to be seriously impressed by a proper apprehension of the duties and re sponsibilities we have inherited as their successors and legatees. It was their lot to endure the rigors and hardships of a discouraging war, in order that a government by the people might be established. We cannot, without wicked rececancy, disregard the lessons taught by their sufferings, nor can we without disgrace neglect the duty of preserving and maintaining in their integrity and strength the free institutions born of their heroism. Their work was done through privation and in the midst of doubt and gloom. Our duty can be well performed if we are simply honest, intelligent and patriotic. They found their danger on battlefields and in the uncertain issue of an armed contest Our danger is found in the reckless-ness of selfishness and in insidious appeals to popular passion in thought-lessness. Nothing but the same patriotic steadfastness and adherence to principle which led to their success, will now shield our Government from disaster and preserve our national glory and prosperity. I earnestly hope that the celebration contemplated by your organization will stimulate those who are within its influence to do valiant deeds in the political field, and amid present perplexities to teach by example and declaration the policy of adherence to sound and consistent principles, and the safety of reliance on the honor and patriotism of our countrymen when impending danger rouses

ROSEBERY TO THE SCOTCH LIB-ERALS.

London, July 4.-Lord Rosebery has written a letter to the secretary of the Midlothian Liberal Association, in which he says: "The late Government was overthrown by a vote of censure, which was petty, but fatal. It is for Scotland, Ireland, Wales and the North of England to consider whether they will allow their interests to be in permanent subjection to a hereditary and irresponsible chamber. With the echoes of Mr. Gladstone's eloquent and venerable voice still ringing throughout Scotland, I cannot doubt their response."

DESTROYED BY LIGHTNING. London, July 4.-A dispatch to the Standard from Berlin says that after four days of excessive heat, severe thunderstorms have occurred in various parts of Germany. Numerous reports have been received from Silesia and the Rhine districts of fatalities and burnings of barns and farm produce by lightning. During the drought the fires were exceedingly destructive. Half of the village of Oberkall, near Treves, was destroyed. The lower parts of Vienna are flooded. The storm has destroyed the entire vine crop about the Viennnese suburbs of Simmering, Grinzing and Nussdorf.

THE "ADVENTISTS" IN COURT. A case of great interest to the Seventh Day Adventists has just been settled at Chatham. On June 10, Robert Watt, Selton, Kent county, was given a hearing on a charge of breaking the Lord's day, by hauling rails on Sunday. The defense did not deny that the rails had been drawn on that day, but set up the plea that Sunday was not the Lord's day. Mr. Watt, who is an Adventist, observes Saturday instead of Sun-day as the Sabbath and claimed that he was going according to Scripture. The crown refused to look at the religious part of the argument, but dealt only with part of the defense that the law does not apply to farmers. After reserving judgment for nearly month the magistrate, acting on the advice of the crown attorney, dismissed the case.

As there is a church of 42 members of the Adventists in the county, the decision prac tically allows them all to work their farms on Sunday.

Coal-Wood.

Messrs. Bowman & Co. beg to inform their customers and the public that they have appointed Frank B. Clarke, 416 Richmond, as their agent. He will continue to take orders for coal and wood. Best beech and maple blocks, $4 50; half cord, $2 25; quarter cord, $1 15. Mr. Clarke will also continue the ticket and exchange business at the old stand.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles; SYMPTONS-Moisture; intense itching and stinging; mostly at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Swayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son. Philadelphia, Lyman, Sons & Co.,

sonic Temple, from Kennett,

Hopkins Company. Chicago, July 3 .- There was an easy opening on disappointing cables, and the market sold off 1c from yesterday's close, but a rally of 3-4c followed, caused by liberal exports, light receipts at winter wheat markets and exports from receiving houses that they got few or no offerings of wheat in answer to bids sent into the country. Trade has been very light and of a holiday character, and scalpers generally closed their deals. The seaboard reports a better inquiry for export, and five loads have been taken today at New York. Toledo is again coming to Chicago for wheat, and other winter wheat markets will be following this example unless country shipments increase soon. Last year in July and August primary receipts were 54,500,- Trave......

000 bushels. They will probably not be one-fifth that this year for the same months. Corn and oats were weak early, but rallied briskly on covering by the shorts, who had out pretty good lines, but will be likely to re-sell on any further advance. Provisions firm with fair trade at times, but packers do not speak hopefully of them. Live StockMarkets.

There were close on to twenty cases enrolled on the Police Court blotter this morning, and decisions were reached in all in less than three quarters of an hour by Police Magistrate Parke. Ryan and John McCaffrey, three frequenters, were discharged. Two men named Thomas Connor and a pal named Emory Sigler were arrested as vagrants by P. C. Roland Johnston. discharged from the hospital only a few weeks. She frankly told Chief Williams after her arrest that a month in jail would do the whole party good. RELIC OF OLDEN TIMES.

Workmen engaged in replacing gas mains at the corner of Dundas street struck a snag when they got about five feet below the surface. The snag was a relic of olden times, and proved to be a portion of a corduroy road which once graced the street. It was in good condition, the huge logs being decayed but very litle. Mr. James Gillean remembers the laying of the corduroy. "Yes," he said, "it is fresh in my memory. In 1852, when I came here, the road was laid, and it was no easy job. The soil on Dundas street was very swampy, and a foundation was very hard to secure. But once the logs were solidly set, they gave great service. The jail was built just previous to that, and I can recall the fact that their water supply was secured from a spring at the Hellmuth College hill, and carried by a drain down Talbot street. There were a few frame buildings on Dundas street, but they are all torn down." "Are there any Londoners alive now whom you knew in those days?" was "Well, very few," replied Mr. Gil-lean. "Mr. Alex. McIntosh, the treasurer of St. Andrew's Church, is about the only one I know of."

SHE HANGED HER LOVER. A Jealous Woman's Fearful Crime, As sisted by Her Father.

Ramigena, Texas, July 4.-Yesterday on the witness stand, after a most rigid examination by the coroner, Miss Bessie Harris, the pretty daughter of wealthy farmer, broke down, and confessed that she hanged Albert Blackman, a suitor to whom she was insane ly jealous. Blackman's body was found hanging to a tree in a lonely spot short distance from the town, and the general impression at first was that he had committed suicide. The girl said that Blackman, who was a well-to-do young farmer, had been courting her for some time, in opposition to the wishes of her parents. Her father and mother did not object to the young man on account of any of his habits, as he was industrious, sober, and abundantly able to provide a comfortable home for their daughter. They maintained that she was too young, being scarcely 18 years old, and they had hoped she would take a fancy to a relative living in another State, whose name she steadfastly refused to divulge. Finding that they could not change her affection for Blackman by threats, adopted a more certain method, and began a systematic attack upon her jealous nature. They told her that Blackman was simply making her ridiculous, and that he was engaged to another girl. With the aid of her father, she procured a rope. She told her lover she wanted him to give her a test of his love by letting her hang him, promising to cut him down in time to save him. When all this was arranged, her father emerged from a lonely spot, and the two hanged Blackman till he was dead. The confession caused a sensa-FOURTH OF JULY ABROAD.

THE KIND OF DOG THAT PAYS NO LICENSE.

A large number of unlicensed owners of dogs were before the recorder yester-day, and the majority of them were fined, as well as required to take out licenses. Mr. Masse, of St. Roch's, however, was not one of these, though Constable Routier reported the defendant, because he had seen a dog very plainly seated a little way back from one of the windows in Mr. Masse's house. His Honor the recorder asked the accused to step into the witness box and proceeded to question him. "You are the proprietor of a dog?"
"Yes, your Honor." "Have you taken a license for him?" "No, sir." "Why?" "I do not believe it necessary in my case." This answer created a little sensation in court, and his Honor said: "I hope you don't imagine that the law can make any exception in your case. I shall be obliged to condemn you." "I think if your Honor sees my dog you will not condemn me," said the accused, and he signed to a carter, who advanced bearing in his arms the splendidly stuffed animal that the policeman had seen through Mr. Masse's window. The accused received a lecture from the court for the farce he had played, but escaped conviction. -Quebec Chronicle.

The Secret Out.

"Nothing that is likely to help us," asserted the coroner. "No vestiges of poison, no letters, not even a scrap of writing of any kind."
Mr. Gryce did not commit himself.

"I would like to take an inventory of the articles," said he. The coroner allowed him to do so, and then inquired,

"What about witnesses? Have you seen the clerks at the drug store?" "Yes, they have nothing to add to his story. He stopped there, came in as he said, told his fears and asked for assistance. One of them, Herbert Black by name, at once responded; but before he could reach the door, the doctor came rushing back, and crying out, "It is too late, she is dead," led the way to the phaeton, where they saw the poor girl tumbled in a heap, white and lifeless. They were young men and did not know enough to take her by the hand and see if she were yet cold. They took the doctor's words for granted, knowing him so well, and feeling a natural indisposition to interfere in a matter at once so horrible and so delicate, only asked what they could do to help him. 'I am going to take her straight home,' he told them, and requested one of them to telephone to you and the other to run along at his side as far as the house. This latter duty fell to Mr. Black, and it was he who helped the doctor carry the poor girl in. That is all. I worked a half hour, but could get no more out of him.

"And the clergyman"
"Has nothing to impart." "And the driver? You surely have seen the driver, he whom he sent out of the way with a prescription to some patient or other?"

Mr. Gryce's brows knit. "I have had but nine hours to work in," said he, "and one of them was thrown away on that boy. I set a watch for him in three places and succeeded in getting the first word with him. But had only one story to tell, and he old it doggedly. It was in strict accordance with that of Dr. Molesworth. He had been ordered to come to the C— Hotel at a quarter past eight to take Mr. Pease home after the expected ceremony. He had gone there on foot, Dr. Molesworth himself having driven Mr. Pease to the hotel, and finding the eton at the door, had waited beside it for the clergyman to come out. But before this could happen the doctor reappeared, and declaring that matters had not gone as he had wished, took his place in the phaeton and beckoned him in beside him; after which they rode about the streets till the doctor suddenly stopped the horse somewhere near Union Square, and commanding him to get out gave him a bit of paper which he told him to take as quick as he could to Mr. Menroe in Seventy-third street. He obeyed him and had only just come back. This is what the boy said, and all he would say. But I know as well as I know anything that he did not tell the truth; for when I asked him what cars he took, he stared at me helplessly and then said. 'The Madison avenue cars,' which story he stuck to, but as one who is very much frightened sticks to a statement he knows is false but dares

"I will make him tell the truth," asserted the coroner. "It is to be hoped so. He is not dull, but he is mighty obstinate and is to all appearance very much afraid of his

"I know the species; I can manage Mr. Gryce looked doubtful, but did not pursue the subject. On the contrary he remarked: "I forgot to give you another point I have made. Molesworth says that after leaving the hotel he rode through the streets searching for his missing bride. Now, a person who searches goes slowly, and when he finds what he seeks in the condition in which Miss Farley was found, he still goes slowly. But Dr. Molesworth's horse was driven far and fast, as the state he was in when I drove him into the stable amply showed." "A point? I should think so!"

"And that is not all. Seeing that the horse went a trifle lame, I examined his feet, and there, wedged between the hoof and the shoe of his right fore-foot, I found a bit of gravel which I dare wager never came from the streets about Madison Square. As the horse was not lame enough for it to have been there long, I drew the inference that Miss Farley was searched for in other regions than those his story would lead you to surmise."

"Very likely."
"Dr. B—." Mr. Gryce now remarked, "I want time." "Good!" was the reply, "and how

Well, that I cannot tell. Maybe hours will answer and maybe I shall want days. There is all her past history to learn, and where she was on that short vacation to which the landlady alludes. If you want to get at the truth postpone your inquest a little. I won't 'et the matter drag.'

"I see; Gryce is awake, and all because of a look." "Less things than that have sent a man to the gallows before now. Intricate locks have small keys. "And you hope to open this one?"

Mr. Gryce's cuff button flashed. It had received a glance which recalled the days when Mr. Gryce's glance meant

CHAPTER VIII.

Mrs. Olney's indignation against the detective Harrison did not last long. Once relieved from the constraint of his superior's presence, he showed himself so respectful and considerate that her prejudices were soon vanquished and he had more than one opportunity to approach that quarter of the room over which she had promised to hold such a jealous watch.

It was at one of these times-while he was waiting for Mrs. Olney to drink the glass of water he had brought her, I believe—that he discovered the fact in regard to Miss Farley's garments, of which Mr. Gryce made mention in his interview with the coroner; and had it not been for Dr. Molesworth's watchful eye and open ear he might have gleaned other information still more useful; for Mrs. Olney had nothing to conceal and much to impart, and Mrs. Olney dearly liked an appreciative listener. But as it was, he had no sooner beguiled her into conversation, than some movement of the doctor attracted the good woman's attention, and stopped the flow of speech into which she had been betrayed. And once when he thought he was really on the point of learning some important fact, that same grave and determined individual boldly interfered with the remark that Mrs. Olney had better not tire herself as she would need all her strength to answer the coroner's questions on the morrow.

It was therefore with something like relief that in the early morning he heard the bell ring and saw the coroner enter followed by a woman, whose kind, motherly face did not deceive him as to the part she was to play in this drama. The long struggle with the severe, gloomy-browed doctor, who had the faculty of making his presence felt in a heavy, oppressive kind of way even when he did not speak or appear to hear, was over, at least, and he would now have the opportunity to gather such fragments of information as he knew would be acceptable to Mr. Gryce. But for some reason or other it was destined that he should not shine in this affair. Though he had a merry time down stairs and went in his search for knowledge as high as the room in which the unhappy girl had loaged, he gleaned but little of interest; so that when Mr. Gryce came, he had really nothing to report beyond the slight fact of which I have already made mention. When therefore the elder detective announced to the coroner that he had all the girl's past history to learn, he was stating nothing but the simple fact, and it was to this task he addressed himself as soon after leaving that official as circumstances would

His first attempt succeeded as well as could be expected, Mrs. Olney receiving him in his real character with as good a grace, and telling him all she knew in as candid a spirit as if he had not so basely played upon her credulity the evening before.

Did You Ever Think

That you cannot be well unless you have pure, rich blood? If you are weak, tired, Inguid and all run down, it is because your blood is impoverished and lacks vitality. A LIFE SAVED.-Mr, James Bryson Cameron, states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half-bottle cured me; I certainly be-lieve it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

FLORENCE.

Florence, July 2.—The large gathering which assembled on the rectory grounds Florence, at the open air concert and lawn social, given on Friday last, under the auspices of the Guild of St. Matthew's Church, enjoyed a most delightsome evening. The grounds were tastily decorated and illuminated, and after refreshments were served a neat programme was presented which was highly appreciated by all. Mr. Harry Poole, of London, the soloist of the evening, was in splendid voice, the several selections rendered by him being highly appreciated and enthusiastically applauded. The selections given by St. Matthew's Quartet, the duet by the Misses Rheintgen, of Bothwell; and the solo by Miss May Atkinson, of Florence, were also well received. Misses Young and Unsworth were he accompanists for the evening. The music furnished by the Bothwell Brass Band was also much appreciated. Rev. H. R. Diehl occupied the chair. Although the admission was only 15 cents for adults, and 10 cents for children the expenses aggregated about $30 the net proceeds amounted to some $45.

CARDINAL TO METHODISTS.

Answer to Protest in Regard to Protestant Lisabilities in South America.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 4.-The 75 Methodist ministers and their wives of Chicago, who came to Milwaukee today on the whaleback Christopher Columbus, held an important meeting on board the boat this morning in relation to the disability of Protestants in South American countries. The Chicago Methodist ministers' meeting, April 2, 1894, appointed a committee to nvite the Pope's attention to the fact 'that our Protestant brethren in the Republics of Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia labor under oppressive disabilities that affect not only the profession of their faith and the public worship of God according to the dictates of their conscience, but also their civil and inalienable right to be legally married without being compelled to forswear their religious convictions," and to respectfully and earnestly request him to secure for these Protestants "the same liberty of conscience that is enjoyed by Roman Catholics of this country.' Letters were written to Archbishop Ireland, Mgr. Satolli, and finally to the Pope himself, but no reply was received until recently. The letter sent to the Chicago clergy is as follows:

"Rome, June 14, 1895.-Mr. John Lee-Dear Sir,-In reply to your favor of the 20th ult., I beg to say that some days ago I referred the matter of the disabilities of Protestants in Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia to the Cardinal Secretary of State. His Eminence now writes me as follows:

'The letter written to your Eminence by Mr. Lee, of Chicago, has reference to a state of things solely dependant upon the civil laws in force in the Republies of Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia. Nevertheless, as your Eminence has been pleased to communicate to me the said letter, I have written to the Apostolic Delegate in the abovenamed republics to obtain precise information concerning the laws which affect the condition of Protestants there as regards both the exercise of their religion and the celebration of marriages. In communicating this to your Eminence, and taking it upon myself to call the attention of the Holy See to the information which the aforesaid delegate will send, I am, etc.'

"In availing myself of the opportunity to tender you my best wishes for your welfare. I am, dear sir, your sincerely "J., CARDINAL GIBBONS."

Lacey and Reeve Macdonald Yesterday afternoon. They were allowed to go on suspended sentence on condition that they jumped the limits. Francis Carr and Albert Jones, members of the same fraternity, were similarly dealt with. They were caught sleeping in a barn at the corner of Saunby street and the Wharncliffe road, London West.

-In the Foresters' Hall. South London, on Tuesday evening, the officers of Forest Home Circle of the A. O. F. were installed as follows: Chief companion, Miss Maud Gunn; sub-chief companion, Miss A. Moffat; R. G., Miss M. Barnett; L. G., Miss Flo Major; I. G., Mrs. Tupholme; O. G., Mr. H. Gardener: recording secretary, Mr. W. J. Ashton; financial secretary, Mrs. G. Bonser; treasurer, Mrs. S. -A very pleasant event took place at the residence of Mrs. Sutherland, 272 Talbot street, on Wednesday afternoon, 3rd inst., in the marriage of her daughter, Minnie, to Mr. Joseph H. Thompson, of the Grand Trunk. Mr. A. G. Sutherland, of the Singer Company, Woodstock, attended as groomsman, and Miss Daisy Sutherland as bridesmaid. Rev. Charles Smith officiated. Many choice presents were made to the happy couple, who went eastward to Montreal on a brief tour by the 4:30 p.m. train.

—Rev. M. L. Leitch, of Knox Church, es were coming out at noon on Sunday the London and St. Thomas C. W. A. contingent arrived in the Classic City, and as the wheelmen went up Erie street, they gave vent to some of their club yells with a vigor that startled some of Stratford's strict Sabbatarians. So says the Beacon. In the evening Mr. Leitch denounced such conduct, and speaking on Sabbath observance said: "You may talk about steamboats running on Sunday, Sunday freight trains, and Sunday street cars; but there is an evil greater than these, an evil which threatens the complete desecration of the Lord's Day."

-There seems to be some trouble respecting the red brick to be used in the new Queen's Avenue Church. After the contract therefor had been secured by Messrs. John F. Taylor & Co., of To-653 Eagle Street, Buffalo, N.Y., ! Dec. 24, 1894. Y. C. Briggs & Sons, Wholesale Druggists, Hamilton.

Dear Sirs,-About three years ago, you may remember I handled some of your medicines at Queenston, Ont. I am not positive, but I think that the "Bark-Well's Sure Corn Cure" that we had was got from your house. Will you kindly reply to this note, telling me if you do handle Bark-Well's, and if so, would it be possible to send by mail? If I am mistaken, can you tell me what firms do handle it? I WANT NO OTHER except Bark-Well's Sure Corn Cure. It is put up in bottles retailed at 25c. Hoping to hear from you soon, and wishing you compliments of the season, believe me, yours HARRY H. YOUNG.

IF THERE IS ANYTHING-

you should be particular about, it is what you eat. Always buy your eatables from a reliable firm who are above handling poor, trashy goods. Such a store you will find at 228 Dundas street. We have built our trade on keeping only first-class goods. We would like you to compare our goods with ronto, it has been receded from by Queen's Avenue. Mr. John F. Taylor came up to London yesterday to con-fer about the matter, and feels rather sore that, although the committee were in session in the parsonage, he was not even allowed to be heard before them as he requested, though he waited for a considerable time on the lawn expecting that courtesy. Mr. Taylor says he has now placed the matter in the hands of the Blakes, of Toronto, and intends to take proceedings against the trustees collectively and individually.

STRUCK BY THE TROLLEY. The first serious accident since the opening of the line happened on the London West electric road yesterday. Mr. Francis Boyde, con. 2, London township, better known as Dr. Boyde, had just returned from a funeral and was turning on to the Wharncliffe road from Charles street, when the trolley came humming along from the south. It caught the rear wheels, upset the rig and threw Boyde a considerable distance. He was picked up by the railway employes and afterwards removed to the City Hospital, where it was found his nose was broken and his back injured. He also received several cuts on the face. Another occupant of the buggy escaped with a few bruises. Boyde is 76 years of age and will recover. The rig was badly damaged.

VOLLEYS FROM THE ARMY. The War Cry this week contains the following shots in reference to the shelter work in this city:

"County council places the shelter en list of charitable institutions for annual grant. First installment $50. "Gentleman, stranger, entered office day or so ago and left $100 check and cheering words.

"Lodgers want to know why the army does not start such institutions in Hamilton, or Kingston, and other places, They feel their need.

"Lieut. Liston farewelling for the field. Already several trophies saved at the shelter. Seventeen men have been received from the prison, and none have been convicted for any fur-ther offense." LONDON WEST SCHOOL RETURNS.

The London West Board of Education met in the school house last night with Trustee Ludwig (chairman), Pudney, Crockett, Houghton and Dell and Head Master Liddicoatt present. Secretary Jones was the only absentee. A letter from the village council was read, asking if any steps had been taken to recover the $25 paid in 1892 to Mr. W. L. Brown, who (when a member of the board) had received the money for services as secretary. Some of the trustees stated that threats had been made that if the amount was not returned to the village coffers legal steps would be taken to recover it. The board, however, did not take what they termed "bluff," and the council will be notified that if they want the cash they will have to get it by taking action against the trustees of 1892. Mr. Pudney is the only member of this year's board who served then. On account of trouble recently experienced in securing substitute teachers, the members of the staff who absent themserves from duty will have to furnish a medical certificate and fill the vacancy. Head Master Liddicoatt presented his report for June, showing the enrollment and average daily attendance in each division as follows: No. 4...... 55 No. 5.. ...

Totals..... 336 For the half year ending June 30, the aggregate attendance in the school was 31,204, division I having 4,977; division 2 5,225; division 3, 5,206; division 4, 5,646 division 5, 5,069; division 6, 5,081.

Chidren Shrink from taking medicine. They don't like its taste. But they are eager to take what they like-

Scott's Emulsion, for instance. Children almost always like Scott's Emulsion.

And it does them good. Scott's Emulsion is the easiest, most palatable form of Cod-liver Oil, with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda added to nourish the bones and tone up the nervous system. The way children gain flesh and strength on Scott's Emulsion is surprising even to physicians. All delicate children need it. Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!
