

BUSINESSMEN TO WAIT
ON C. N. R. TO SECURE
LINE FOR THE CITY

Deputation Being Organized to Go to Toronto and Promise Big Line Fair Treatment If It Reopens Negotiations With City Council.

NO MORE MISTAKES LIKE SHUTTING OUT CAN. SOUTHERN

The Canadian Northern has formally taken over the Chatham, Wallaceburg and Lake Erie Railway, as was announced it would in The Advertiser some months ago.

The line is to be used as a feeder for the main line of the company, which is to be built along one route or the other in Western Ontario.

A FALSE STATEMENT.

Steam trains, it is announced by the company, will not be operated over the line, and the statement made in a morning paper endeavoring to convey such an impression is characterized as entirely erroneous. The primary object of the line's purchase was to secure passenger business from a thickly-populated section, and bring it into Chatham, where the main line will touch.

PART OF RADIAL SYSTEM.

The road will be operated strictly as a radial line and as part of the radial program planned by the C. N. R. for western Ontario—the scheme of which London might be the centre were it not for such forces as the London Free Press and the electrification following, who have endeavored by every fair and foul means to prevent this great railway from coming into the city over the London and Port Stanley Railway.

ENORMOUS FINANCIAL RESOURCES.

Here is a railway system able to secure $30,000,000 from the Dominion Government, and to secure another $12,000,000 during the so-called money stringency in England.

Does London mean to close the door in its face?

Some fair-minded citizens say the C. N. R. will come to the city anyway. But they forget London's experience with the Canadian Southern—a railway which went to St. Thomas after London had turned it down, and made the Railway City what it is today.

SAME DESTRUCTIVE FORCE.

The same destructive force—the London Free Press—did its best, or worst, to bar the Canada Southern from London. Now it is trying the same tactics upon the Canadian Northern.

The businessmen of London intend to secure the Canadian Northern despite the attempt to keep it out.

Within a short time a strong deputation of shippers and businessmen will be organized to wait upon the C. N. R. heads and assure them that the citizens are desirous of securing the main line and of meeting the railway on a fair basis.

MEANS MUCH TO LONDON.

The coming of the C. N. R. to London would mean large shops and a great industrial expansion. It has enormous resources at its command, and would be the greatest force for expansion that London has had in years.

The businessmen of London mean to present their case to the C. N. R., and to leave London backed by a strong public opinion. The shippers who have opposed electrification on the ground that it would be ruinous to their business, have not altered their attitude in the slightest degree. They are the men with the big thing at stake. They employ the men that keep the homes of London. They mean to take matters into their own hands and assure the C. N. R. that London wants its line, and that there will be a fair field and a clear track for progress if the big line will come to this city.

WILL OPEN UP COUNTRY.

They believe the C. N. R. will build many radials out of the city, and that it will tap many undeveloped stretches of country.

It is time for action, and such tactics as have been pursued are spurring them to early action.

MIND A BLANK, RETURNS HOME
WOUNDED AND HIS MONEY GONE

Mystery surrounds the serious injuries received by Henry W. Hodges, 24 Hyatt avenue, a molder at McCarty's, who reached home between 9 and 10 o'clock Monday night from Toronto, where he attended the Plymouth Brethren conference, with a deep gash in his head and a fractured shoulder, and unable since to tell what happened.

He was expected home on the 7 o'clock Grand Trunk train, which did not arrive until considerably later than its scheduled time. How Mr. Hodges got to his home from the station his family does not know. He was in a weak condition when he arrived, and could not give a coherent explanation for his injuries.

Advices Quiet for Him.
Dr. C. S. Moore, was called and advised that he be left as quiet as possible for a few days in the hope that he will be able to relate or remember what happened to him. Dr. Moore, from his injuries, made the suggestion to his family that he may have fallen against the vestibule door of a coach in a fainting spell. He was ill on the train, the injured man states himself, but it is several years since he ever fainted before.

What has lent credence to the theory that he may have met with foul treatment is a question which he asked his wife shortly after reaching home. "Did you get my money all right?" "Only 25 cents was found in his pockets, and it is hardly likely that he could have referred to so small an amount."

Mind is a Blank.

Not wishing to make his condition worse by questioning, his family has refrained from urging him to explain whether he had much money in his possession, and if so, how he lost it. He may have been knocked down and robbed after reaching London, or he may have fallen in a faint as Dr. Moore suggests, and while in a helpless condition his pockets may have been rifled. There was a street car accident in Toronto Monday night, but Mr. Hodges says he was not injured in it.

A Terrible Wound.

So deep is the cut in his head that it appears to have destroyed or paralyzed the nerves, so that he feels no pain whatever from the injuries, and it is doubtful whether he is aware of them or their extent. The police have not yet been asked to investigate, his family hoping that Mr. Hodges would be able to tell what happened to him in a day or two. While he appears to be recovering he is not yet able to tell a word of what happened.

New Playhouse To Seat 2,500 Souls

Griffin Syndicate Secures 50 Year Lease on Bernard Property on Dundas and Wellington Streets—Vaudeville and "Movies"

London is to have a new playhouse for moving pictures and popular vaudeville. The entrance will be on Dundas street, near the corner of Wellington street, and the theatre when completed will have a seating accommodation for 2,500 people.

Owens Twenty-One Theatres.

Mr. John Griffin, of Toronto, and his son, Mr. Peter Griffin, owners and controllers of 21 theatres in Canada, arrived in London Wednesday and signed a 50-year lease with Mr. Wm. Bernard for possession of 140 feet frontage and 110 feet depth on Wellington street, to the rear and west of Yining's drug store, on the corner of Dundas and Wellington streets, and for the store now occupied by Gourlay, Winter & Leeming, which has a frontage of 22 feet on Dundas street.

Work Starts Soon.

As soon as the lease was signed Mr. Peter Griffin left for Rochester to consult with an architect, who, it is expected, will be in the city today or Friday. The theatre is to cost between $100,000 and $125,000, according to Mr. Griffin, and will have a Dundas street entrance through the Gourlay, Winter & Leeming store.

Must Vacate in Month.

Mr. Griffin has already notified the firm that it must leave at the expiration of a month, and it is expected that work on the theatre building will be started within two weeks. Mr. Bernard retains control of the four stores to the east of the Gourlay store, but the Bernard garage will be torn down to make way for the playhouse.

The price for the lease is not made public.

East London Businessmen
Consider Theatre Building

Conference To Be Held Immediately at Which Decision Will Be Made—Plan House of 800 Capacity.

Believing that if the people of East London are forced to come down town for their entertainment they will also spend much of their money at downtown business places, a number of businessmen of East London have formed a syndicate to build a thoroughly modern moving picture and vaudeville theatre in that end of the town. A meeting is to be held either this evening or Friday evening, at which final announcements will be made, but it is practically certain that the enterprise will be gone ahead with.

"We have several sites in view," said one member of the syndicate this morning. "We are having a final meeting either tonight or Friday, and everything will be decided then. The theatre we are planning will be a large one, with a seating capacity of about 800. There is little use in building a house of small capacity, because the nightly running expenses eat up nearly all the receipts, but with the larger house the margin of profit is greatly increased. We will put on first-class vaudeville and moving pictures, and I think there will be little trouble about the patronage."

SAW MAN CLIMB IN BANK WINDOW!
HIST! SAID COPS

Vigilant Watchers of Chief Williams Ready to Land a Robber.

But Member of the Staff Had Taken a Quick Way of Getting In.

The way of the transgressor would have been hard Wednesday night at the Merchants Bank had said transgressor been a real one.

An opened window, a light within, offered grounds for suspicion, but when a man was seen entering the opening, two sleuth-like policemen who had been watching the proceeding with growing suspicion, reached the conclusion that decidedly there was something doing, and reached the window at one and the same time.

Matters were quickly explained, however, when it was discovered that a teller working overtime was the cause of the light, while the opened window had offered an easy means of entrance to another of the staff who was the "transgressor." The sum and substance of the matter is that a spark of suspicion sometimes leads to a flame of glory in detecting crime, while the watchfulness of the members of the "force" is creditably reflected upon.

JUDGE WHO SENT

May Have Got His Good Common Sense From Barney Boyle.

"Nick" Wilson Also Had a Hand in Training Distinguished Jurist.

Judge Matthew Hutchinson, of the superior court, who sustained the writ deporting Harry K. Thaw, at Sherbrooke, and caused, it is expected, an end to the case in Canada, may perhaps have thanked "Barney" Boyle or "Nick" Wilson, London's veteran schoolmasters for the sound common-sense he utilized in dealing with the case.

For like most justly famous persons, Judge Hutchinson is a former Londoner.

In company with his brother and sister he came to London in 1868 and attended the Central school, being instructed by Messrs. Boyle and Wilson. In the same class was George Eybel, who rose to a high place on the staff of the Toronto Globe. Judge Hutchinson and his brother removed to Toronto, where the brother died. Then Matthew and his sister went to Montreal. The sister is the wife of a judge there.

Famous for His Financial Reorganization of Methodist Church.

Thomas R. Parker, for many years a prominent businessman in London, and known all over Canada for his financial reorganization of the Methodist Church, died at his home in Toronto early this morning, after having been ill since June.

LATE THOMAS R. PARKER.

him the praise of the leading men of the church all over the Dominion. Mr. Parker's father-in-law, William Hockin, was one of the organizers of the London and Petrolia Barrel Works, and after his death Mr. Parker left the C. P. R., with whom he had been for many years in the down-town office, and took over a share of the business. He contributed a great deal to the success of the concern, and sold out his share seven or eight years ago to Philip P. C. Prior to being with the C. P. R., he was employed in Westlake's drygoods store.

After leaving the barrel company, Mr. Parker left for Toronto, where he lived practically retired, excepting for a financial connection with the Methodist Church. He was always a source of strength to his religious denomination, and was one of the foremost members of the First Methodist Church while in this city. He was universally respected. He was born in England, and came to Canada when very young.

Besides his widow, he is survived by three daughters—Misses Ethel, Irene and Maud, at home, and Edward and Leonard, of Toronto. Two brothers, William and John, in England, also survive.

The funeral will be held in this city Saturday morning from the Grand Trunk station at 11:25 to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

WANT ALL CANADA TO VOTE ON QUESTION OF PROHIBITION

Dominion Alliance Will Ask Government to Take Matter Up Next Session—Important Amendments to Temperance Act Also Planned.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Sept. 4.—At the meeting of the Dominion Alliance this morning it was decided to attempt to have a declaration, in favor of prohibition brought before the Dominion Parliament at the next session.

Another important decision was the proposal to get legislation to amend the Canada temperance act so as to allow license inspectors to arrest persons selling liquor in prohibition districts without a warrant.

At present a warrant must be sworn out by two magistrates, and the arrests have to be made by a policeman.

The alliance will also try to prevent the importation of liquor into municipalities where prohibition is in force, and will also urge every province to have its own prohibition law.

It was decided to appoint a committee consisting of several members of Parliament, who will meet in Ottawa, when any prohibition question comes up for discussion.

The following officers were appointed: Honorary president, J. R. Douglass, Montreal; president, F. S. Spence, Toronto; treasurer, W. H. Orr, Toronto; recording secretary, J. H. Carson, of Montreal; corresponding secretary, D. A. McDermid, Toronto.

Col. D. C. Hodgins, D. O. C., left this morning for Moraviantown to make arrangements for a military celebration which is to be held there on Oct. 5 to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the death of Tecumseh, the famous Indian chief, who was killed at the battle of Moraviantown, Oct. 5, 1813.

It is likely that a number of London military men will take part in the celebration, the nature of which has not been decided upon as yet.

MANY PRINCES AT WEDDING OF KING MANUEL

Brilliant Gathering for Royal Nuptials Held at Sigmaringen.

Groom Closely Guarded as It Was Feared He Might Be Killed.

[Canadian Press.]

Sigmaringen, Germany, Sept. 4.—Manuel, former King of Portugal, was married here today to Princess Augustine Victoria, daughter of Prince William of Hohenzollern, by Cardinal Netto, former Archbishop of Lisbon, who conducted the religious ceremony, and by Count August Z. Zuleburg, grand marshal of the Prussian court, who presided over the civil function.

The religious rites began at half past eleven in the Roman Catholic Parish Church, near the palace. The road along which the bridal pair passed from the palace to the church was spanned with arches covered with bright flowers, and along both sides were drawn up lines of soldiers and school children.

Capital En Fete.

The little capital of the principality of Hohenzollern had made every effort to render itself attractive for the occasion, although it was understood that the marriage was to be celebrated in as quiet a manner as possible, owing to the political situation.

A gate of honor was erected at the railroad station, where all the royal guests were met by military escorts, which accompanied them to the palace.

Watched Strangers.

At the same time a strict watch was kept on all strangers arriving here because it was thought by the police that an attempt might be made on the life of the former King of Portugal. Nothing, however, in the form of a manifestation against the exiled monarch marred the occasion.

Sigmaringen had probably never been the scene of such an assembly of princes and princesses. At the church they formed a brilliant group in their varied uniforms glittering with orders, and they were surrounded by many prominent military and civil personages, also in gala costume.

Royalty Present.

The personages of royal blood present included the Queen-Mother, Amalie of Portugal; the Prince of Wales, representing King George of England; Prince Eitel Friedrich, representing the German Emperor; the Duke and Duchess of Coburg; Infante and Infanta Carlos of Spain, representing the King and Queen of Spain; the Duke of Genoa, and the Duke and Duchess of Aosta, representing the Italian royal family; the Duke and Duchess of Vendôme, and the Duke of Montpensier, representing the Bourbon family; the Duke of Oporto, uncle of King Manuel; Prince Carol and Princess Elizabeth, Prince and Princess Henry XXXIII, of Reuss; Princess Princess Friedrich, of Hohenzollern; the Grand Duke and Duchess of Baden, several members of the royal Württemberg family, and also of the Portuguese royal house.

Address Was Read.

Immediately after the performance of the ceremony at the church a homily was addressed to the newly-married couple by the Prince Abbot of Einsiedeln in place of the Arch-Bishop of Bauran, who had fallen suddenly ill.

TWO AUTOS HIT
RIGS; HORSE DIES
AFTER ACCIDENT

Animal's Leg Snapped in Unavoidable Collision, and It Is Shot.

Another Car Does Some Wild Stunts on Dundas Street.

An auto, turning rapidly off Talbot street onto Dundas, Wednesday afternoon, skidded completely around and bumped forcibly into a telegraph pole, shaking up the occupants considerably, and damaging the front wheels of the machine.

Struck the Wagon.

Whether the driver became nervous after this accident is not known, but when he attempted to turn his car west on Dundas street, he collided with a delivery rig belonging to Hockin Bros., grocers. The driver of the wagon, seeing that the auto would strike something, succeeded in pulling the horse out of the way, but could not move the wagon in time to avoid the collision.

The auto proceeded to zig-zag down Dundas after this second smash. It could not be learned whether the steering gear was defective or whether it was a case of a "green" driver.

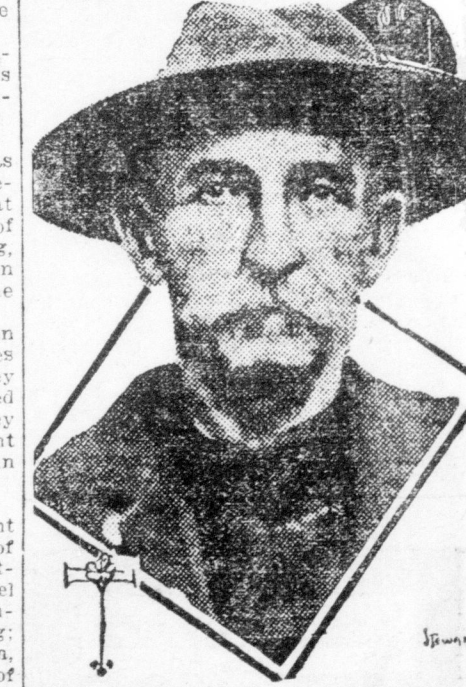

Horse Had To Be Shot.

A nasty smash occurred at Dundas and English streets this morning, when a horse drawing a delivery rig belonging to William H. Hart, a grocer, of 185 Rectory street, was struck by an auto belonging to Mr. Parker, and knocked to the pavement. Upon examination it was found that the horse's leg was broken, which necessitated the shooting of the animal by a policeman.

The driver received a severe shaking up, being thrown some distance from the seat of his vehicle.

Watching Another Car.

It appears that the auto was running at a good rate on Dundas from the east. Mr. Hart was just turning onto Dundas street from English street. Neither driver saw the other, both intently watching another car which was approaching. It was an unfortunate occurrence, no blame being attached to either party.

SITUATION IN DUBLIN IS NOT AT ALL REASSURING

Funeral of Rioter Was Attended By Thousands—Employers Are Determined To Fight the Unions To the End.

Dublin, Sept. 3.—Lines of people two miles long followed the hearse containing the body of Nolan, the laborer who was killed in the rioting in Sackville street on Sunday, to Glasnevin Cemetery today. Thousands of persons thronged the streets through which the cortege passed. All the workers on strike joined in the procession.

Maintained Order. The organizers of the demonstration promised to maintain order, and all police were withdrawn from streets along the route to the cemetery. Some were stationed at the cemetery gate pending the arrival of the body. They left when the funeral cortege arrived.

There was a panic in Sackville street when one of the horses drawing the hearse became restive. Someone shouted "The police!" and instantly there was a general stampede to the side streets. Women dashed into the nearby stores and hotels. The hearse was deserted save for the driver and the police who remained at their posts. The incident is significant of the prevailing terror felt by the people where the police are concerned, equally only by their hate for the police.

City Is Quiet. The city was quiet today, but the situation is regarded as very dangerous, as the people are expected to seek revenge on the police at the first opportunity for the death of Nolan. The authorities have asked that detachments of the Royal Irish Constabulary be sent from the provinces to reinforce the Dublin police.

The determination of the large employers of labor to maintain the power of the unions was shown today, when two coal merchants carried out their threat not to employ any member of the Transport Workers' Union unless he resigns.

Phippen, and Mr. Morton, of Toronto; D. A. Gordon, of Wallaceburg, and J. G. Kerr, of Chatham. It is stated that the board will meet in Toronto shortly for organization.

It is also stated that the main office of the company will be moved from Chatham to Toronto.

T. W. Ralph, associated with the C. N. R. interests, has been named as auditor.

While no statement is being made at this time regarding future plans, it is understood that an aggressive campaign will be quickly undertaken.

BERLIN NEXT YEAR. [Special to The Advertiser.] Berlin, Sept. 3.—Sir William MacKenzie has made it known to local citizens following his return from Europe that the Canadian Northern Railway would reach Berlin next year with its radial line. It was intended to have the line completed from Toronto to Guelph and Berlin by this fall, but this is impossible. The company will also construct branch lines to Waterloo and Galt, but has not planned to go farther west than Berlin next year.

JUMPED OVERBOARD

[Canadian Press.] New York, Sept. 3.—The steamship Oceanic, which arrived today from Southampton, during the voyage lost one of her crew, a coal passer, who jumped overboard while suffering from heart stroke. The passer was Arthur Robinson, of Southampton, England. The passengers subscribed a purse for his widow.

Jack Steele, a second-cabin passenger, 16 years old, climbed through the porthole of his cabin while walking in his sleep, and was rescued just in time to save his life.

A BUMPER WHEAT CROP.

Thousands of Men Required—This Year's Harvest Promises To Be the Largest in the History of Canada.

According to present indications the wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the west to assist in harvesting the world's greatest bread basket.

The governments of the respective provinces state that many thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. They will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which companies will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route. Dates, rates and conditions will be announced in a few days. M. G. Murphy, district passenger agent Canadian Pacific Railway, 77-77 ywt.

LONDON, THURSDAY, SEPT. 4.

THE LOCAL RAILWAY PROBLEM.

The promoters of the electrification scheme call upon the City Council to hurry it to a vote of the people.

Haste is desirable in a different direction. The London and Port Stanley Railway Board, from which the initiative ought to come, has so far made no serious attempt to find an alternative to the costly plan outlined in the Gaby-Storer report. No attempt has been made to pick up the thread of negotiations with the Canadian Northern, or to induce the Pere Marquette, the Michigan Central or any other steam road to put in a bid for the lease.

The plan proposed by "Taxpayer" of giving running rights to all railroads upon payment of a rental, should be carefully examined also, and the Grand Trunk, the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern, the Pere Marquette and the Michigan Central asked for their views.

It would be unfair to put the electrification scheme to a vote and compel ratepayers to say yes or no to it without being able to compare it with other proposals. Every effort should be made to get alternative plans into concrete shape, so that citizens may be as fully informed as possible. If the majority of the aldermen refuse to take these steps they will be culpably derelict in their duty.

A SORRY EXHIBITION.

When Thaw escaped from New York to Canada we were rather disposed to flatter ourselves that we would show our friends in the Republic something of Canadian justice and of Canadian sentiment that they would gaze upon with envy. But as day followed day, and reports came from Sherbrooke not only of the law's delay, but of the hysterical outbursts and the silly sentimentality of men and women in that section of country, we have no longer any boastful feelings. And when we read the following mild satire in the Washington Times, our pride goes down into our boots:

"On the theory that misery loves company, there is a certain foolish satisfaction in noting that a courtroom full of sombre, serious-minded, rural Canadians made fools of themselves over Harry Thaw, just as select audiences of Americans might have done in like circumstances. Thaw has had flowers and letters of sympathy and various other evidences of hysteria, fairly showered upon him since he has been in the Canadian jail. It may be difficult to analyze the feeling, but there is undoubtedly a little comfort in this reminder that our northern neighbors are not especially superior to us in the detail of making a horrible spectacle of themselves."

Yes; we admit it does look bad. Here is a young man who spends his time and money in the company of harlots and libertines. He has a grievance against one of his associates, and shoots him. The wealth of his family enables him to escape the death penalty; and he is sent to an asylum for the criminally insane. Again his wealth comes to his aid, and he is enabled to break from custody, and flee to Canada. And at once a lot of Canadian men and women go into hysterics over him. The men make noisy demonstrations in his favor, and even threaten violence to enable him to escape from jail. The women load his cell with flowers, and send him gushing letters of sympathy. We can only try to make ourselves believe that these are not average specimens of Canadians; we sincerely hope they are not.

But in the meantime it is rather nauseating. And we do not wonder that our friends to the south of us try to prick the bladder of our self-conceit.

So far as the legal proceedings were concerned, there is little fault to be found. With as much promptness as was consistent with a due regard for forms of law and the rights of all parties, Thaw has been handed over to the immigration department, and will doubtless be duly deported. Then our friends in the south can do what they like with him.

THEN AND NOW.

Our local contemporary shows no sign of rejoicing at the success of the wells scheme.—London Free Press, Sept. 4, 1913.

When the complete scheme of the water commission is compared with the incomplete scheme Mr. Beck submits, it will be seen that there has been very little, if any, saving effected.—London Free Press, May 12, 1909.

Mr. Beck says the larger reservoir is not necessary. The citizens know better.—London Free Press, May 12, 1909.

The Cataract Power Company seems likely to win the day at Hamilton.—May 12, 1909.

Why this haste (Mr. Beck's)?—May 21, 1909.

*The Free Press' prediction in this case will be understood, when it is known that the owners of the Cataract Power Company own a large block of stock in the London Free Press.

As for the charge that The Advertiser is not juggling over the success of the wells scheme, Mr. Beck knows the newspaper that helped him to victory in this instance, and the newspaper that reviled him from the houseposts.

A newspaper that tried to stab hydro in the back will never have public confidence.

The authorities of Bryn Mawr College in Pennsylvania are planning a seven-year test, by which they hope to produce or discover a perfect woman. No necessity. Let them send a commission to Canada, and with a little careful inquiry they will be able to find several specimens. There are some in London.

The recent pharmaceutical convention in Toronto called attention to the large amount of cocaine used in Canada. The amount is far beyond what would be required for medicinal purposes. Too many people have the cocaine habit, and too many unscrupulous men are pandering to this vicious practice by providing the drug. The police know it, if the general public does not. We cannot have legislation too stringent, nor have it too thoroughly enforced, if this evil is to be effectively grappled with. It is time to realize that there are other pernicious drugs besides alcohol.

Miss Mary Jobe, of New York, some time ago announced with a great flourish of trumpets that she proposed to explore the wilds of Canada on the western coast. She intended to go where no white woman's foot had ever trod. But she didn't. She started from Prince Rupert; got as far as the village of Hazelton; then she came back. She said the trails were not good. Of course, they were not. Did she expect asphalt pavements? But other white women have gone over those bad roads, and have settled far in the interior, and are growing up with the country. And they are not bragging about it. They just go ahead like sturdy Canadian women.

That section of the American Law Congress meeting in Montreal which is devoted to the subject of interstate laws is considering how legislation can be framed for the purpose of protecting the United States flag from desecration. The national flag is desecrated in Canada, as well as the States. It is desecrated when it is used to help advertise some private business, and it is no less desecrated when it is flaunted as the emblem of some political party. But we doubt if any law will ever be efficient in dealing with the evil. Common sense will alone have the effect, and it may be some time before common sense prevails.

A proposal was made some time ago to raise a fund of $500,000 in Great Britain to encourage the athletes of that country in trying for supremacy at the Olympic games. But the idea does not seem to be very popular; and subscriptions come in slowly. The fact is that professional sport does not stand as high in the estimation of the people of Britain as it does on this continent. There is no country where sport is more general than in Britain, but it is the sport itself which is popular, not the money or the prizes it gives to the winners in either national or international contests. On this continent no one cares to do anything unless he hopes to make something substantial out of it. In England they are more inclined to do for the sake of doing; because they know it is the struggle which is of value. Prizes in money and in reputation soon vanish, but the benefits of the contest itself remain.

THE "MEAN" OF IT.
[Weekly Scotsman.]
President Cleveland, while talking to a friend about one of his many angling expeditions, told the following story: "I had with me on that particular trip, two countrymen, who evidently were familiar with my reputation as an angler. Before starting one of them made the suggestion that the first to catch a fish must treat the crowd. Now, don't you know, those two fellows both had a bite, and were too mean to pull them up."

"I suppose you lost, then?" remarked the friend.
"Oh, no!" replied the President, "I didn't have any bait on my hook."

OYEZ! OYEZ! OYEZ!
[Le Cri de Paris.]
One may not be ignorant, perhaps, that French, old French or "ancien" as they call it in certain royal proclamations in England.

So when "the King's assent" is given before the throne in "the painted chamber," the clerk cries in the language of our father, "Le roy le veut!" ("The King so pleases"). If the bill that he is asked to approve is a money bill the clerk adds after a profound obeisance: "The King thanks his good subjects, accepts their benevolence and is pleased." The proclamation on ascending the throne is preceded by the traditional call: "Oyez! Oyez! Oyez!"

Alas, that time has disappeared this old word of our country, and today the phlegmatic English herald cries thrice to the people: "O Yes! O yes! O yes!"

IS THIS TRUE?
[Victoria Times.]
It is a somewhat dangerous matter to discuss the ethics of anything in these latter days when mankind seems to get on pretty well without them.

ECONOMY.

"Why not art, or literature?"
"Art spoils canvas, and literature wastes reams of paper. Singing merely produces a temporary disturbance of the atmosphere."

PATS ITS OWN BACK.
[Guelph Mercury.]
Very soon does this family journal feel like reaching around and giving itself a pat on the back. When a local druggist, however, won first prize in an advertising competition open to England, United States and Canada for cities up to 20,000, with a series of ads clipped from the Mercury, there's a pardonable thrill of pride circulate in our spine.

Over in Sweden they are said to be considering a law which shall give women the right to propose marriage. In Canada we don't need any such law. When the woman gets good and ready the man proposes.

DANCES FOR OLD FOLKS.
[Kingston Standard.]
The old-fashioned quadrille is taking the place of the turkey trot and the other exotic dances of a good thing too. Let us hope that this means that the old folks will have a chance to dance now, as they used to when there were some "square dances," and not all wait on the programs.

THAW AND THE LAW.
[New York Times.]
1. One man walks up to another in a crowded room and in cold blood and without any plea of self-defence shoots him dead.
2. He is saved from electrocution on the ground that he is mentally insane with a form of insanity admitted to be incurable.
3. He is locked up in an asylum for the dangerously insane.
4. He escapes to Canada.
5. And now learned lawyers contend that a conviction of homicidal insanity amounts to nothing more than an acquittal of murder.

This is probably perfectly good lawyers' law but in laymen's minds it pre-empted the question: Which is the more dangerous criminal maniac in a case like this—Thaw or the law?

NEW READING-ROOM FOR CITY'S BOYS AND GIRLS

Fine Quarters Opened at Public Library Provided With Several Thousand Books For the Children—Another Advanced Step.

Boys and girls of London have so far established their reputation as readers of good literature, that a special reading-room devoted especially to their wants, has been provided for them at the London Public Library. It was opened this morning.

The room formerly used as a ladies' reading-room has been renovated, and a stock of about three thousand books for boys and girls has been placed on the shelves. In addition to the several reading tables have been installed, and on the racks are to be found a number of juvenile periodicals both for boys and girls.

The tables and chairs are slightly smaller than standard size, the object being to make them more comfortable for young readers. Besides fiction, there are numbers of books on various technical subjects such as would interest youthful mechanics, electricians, etc., and if the patronage of the children's department in the past is any criterion, the new reading-room will be much in demand among boys and girls of the higher grades of the public schools and the Collegiate Institute.

"We found the present accommodation for the boys and girls inadequate," said Librarian W. O. Carson in explanation, "and so we have opened this new department with a view to meeting their needs."

The room in which the juvenile literature has been placed has been made particularly bright and attractive. It is a front room on the west side and is well lighted, and no pains have been spared in the furnishing to make it comfortable for the youth of the city, who feel disposed to improve their leisure hours by reading. New catalogues of the books are being prepared, and London will soon have a juvenile department which will be hard to excel.

Terry, an attorney and former railroad man, who served the railroad organizations as legislative agent at the Capitol during two sessions of the general assembly, was engaged by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to look after the interests of Engineer Miller. Mr. Terry said he would endeavor to have Engineer Miller represented by counsel during the coroner's inquest.

Coroner Mix was asked just before he opened his probe if he would permit counsel for Engineer Miller, and he replied, "Counsel will not be admitted."

FIVE OTHERS MAY DIE AS RESULT OF NEW HAVEN WRECK

Victims in Hospital Are Hovering Between Life and Death.

Investigation Into Recent Crash Is Held Behind Closed Doors.

[Canadian Press.]
New Haven, Sept. 4.—The condition of five of the injured, who were last night hovering between life and death, was described by the hospital surgeons today as still critical. All but two of the bodies of those killed have been shipped to their homes.

The formal inquest into the wreck Tuesday morning of the Bar Harbor express, which cost the lives of 21 passengers, began behind closed doors in the offices of Coroner Mix.

The facts adduced will be turned over to the state's attorney as a basis for criminal action, should they warrant such action.

Fear Prejudice.
The premature publication of these facts might prejudice the state's case, and the interest of justice, was the reason given by the coroner for holding the inquest in secret. He reiterated that such procedure had been his practice in criminal cases during his 18 years' tenure of office, and that the law upheld him.

A Public Inquiry.
H. W. Reineck, chief inspector of the interstate commerce commission, which will begin a public inquiry here into the causes of the wreck tomorrow, and C. C. Elwell, chief engineer of Connecticut, public utilities commission, were the only persons, other than the witnesses and the state's attorney, and necessary assistants, present when the coroner's inquest began.

Engineer Called.
A. B. Miller, engineer of the White Mountain express, which crashed into the Bar Harbor train, and Flagman Charles H. Murray, of the doomed express, the most important witnesses were among the first called. Both had been locked up since Tuesday without bail, chiefly for the reason, it is said, that the coroner wished to make certain that neither talked about the case for publication, until after testifying.

REACTION IN FASHIONS.
[Toronto Telegram.]
There is nothing inherently immoral about the nether limbs of the female of the species. If there were the corrective would come not from noisy masculine denunciation, but from woman's intuition, which will stop her when she is on the point of sacrificing too much of her greatest allurements—which is mystery. She knows, too, that the thrill which man gets from any of her vagaries quickly wears off—what shocks him today will leave him icy cold tomorrow. When he ceases to take any but the most placid interest in it the skirt will be sewn up. The petticoat will return, the skirts will flare out, the bustle be restored, and—though heaven forbid—even the corset will once more congest traffic.

CHARMING IDEAS IN FALL HATS

One of the new fall black velvet hats which Vireo is featuring is rather larger than we have been wearing this summer. It also rolls away from the face more. This will have the tendency to make one look older.

Black and white will be much worn and the Vireo hat is trimmed with white ostrich feathers about the rim and a bunch of ostrich quills with the fluffy feathers left at the tips.

Girls will wear gray much this winter.

A young girl's hat of dark gray velvet shade is made in Tam o'Shanter fashion, with a roll of white satin on the edge of the rim and a flat white bow at the side. With this is worn gray and white squirrel skins dyed to simulate chinchilla.

VULGARITY AND BEHAVIOR.

Discussing the nature of "Vulgarity," and in an attempt to define it, the London Daily Record has some things to say on the subject of behavior. "To say merely that another individual is of the crowd—the majority—whilst you by implication are out of it," says the Record, "looks on the face of it as if it might be a condemnation of you rather than of the other individual. For it is only the very arrogant who can feel confident that they are always right whilst the majority are always wrong. There are certain kinds of behavior—unfortunately very common during the holiday season—that are obviously vulgar. If we mention a few instances, and then distinguish them from others that seem to us essentially different, we may arrive at something like a satisfactory definition. It is, for example, manifestly vulgar to criticize other people loudly in their hearing—except when the conduct of those people deserves censure. It is equally vulgar to giggle at other people, though a hearty laugh is often the best thing in the world for everybody concerned, especially when he or she is the cause of it. But giggling is an abominable disease, which attacks all schoolgirls inevitably and many adults of both sexes when they have been crowded together into foolishness.

"It is vulgar also to behave in an obviously undignified manner in circumstances where reverence or at least quietness is required. I saw an individual the other day, who, gazing upon the bust of Shakespeare in the church at Stratford-on-Avon, where the poet lies, suddenly stretch towards the unresponsive William a certain popular fruit and invite him to 'Have a banana.' This was both vulgar and foolish. We condemn then, loudly expressed criticism of others, which is rude. We condemn also a lack of the sense of fitness in time and place. We condemn all these and we lump them together as examples of vulgarity. I doubt very much if people are often vulgar at home. The clerk going about his daily round is no more vulgar than the plowman in the field. Put the same clerk on the sands at Blackpool and he may be vulgar. But he is not necessarily so merely because his ideas of enjoyment differ from yours or mine. If he likes to make more noise than we should, and prefers the most trashy musical comedy to a play of Shakespeare, we may possibly have some right to say that his education has been defective, but we have no right to call him vulgar. Only if he interferes with us needlessly, thrusting his noise and his crudeness upon our peace have we any right to say that of him. And then we ought not to say this if he behaves thus at a place manifestly designed for crude people."

Tea-Table Talk

Every woman is interested in kitchens, and the woman who travels frequently makes an excuse to explore the cooking regions in any foreign house, which she happens to visit. Those who have dabbled at housekeeping abroad have often told of the beauties and of the inconveniences of the English, the Italian, the Dutch, the French and other kitchens. Here is one traveller who speaks with great enthusiasm about her experiences in managing a Danish kitchen:

"It belonged to a ground-floor flat in a large block situated just outside the town of Horsens," she says. "The first thing that struck me on entering it was its brightness. Unlike kitchens in some Canadian apartments, there was nothing stuffy or dark. It boasted three doors and a large window, and yet it was only a tiny place. In our country the draughts would have been fearful, but the Danish windows and doors are much better fitting than ours, and the latter are provided with a floor ledge to keep out the wind.

"The window looked into the courtyard, and beyond that, across the lovely flower to the picturesque town of Horsens. Into this courtyard the milkman and the fishmonger came daily, ringing a bell to summon the occupants to fetch their supplies. The latter had good-sized markers at a penny each, and delicious little dabs at three for cents; the former brought quantities of splendid butter and new-laid eggs at two for a nickel, or its equivalent. "PEAU DE PECHE" IS THE NEW MATERIAL FOR FALL WEAR

All soft pile goods will be much worn this season. A navy blue tailored suit made of peau de peche (skin of peach) cloth is here shown from Dreco, who, of all the big French designers, makes the most practical gowns.

The skirt is perfectly plain, with a slash at the side which enables one to walk.

The coat is of the usual design which is brought up in the front, making a curve under the hips. The one note of novelty in this wrap is the trimming, which forms a muft.

THE WANDERER.

He came to the desert of London town,
Gray miles long;
He wander'd up and he wander'd down,
Singing a quiet song.

He came to the desert of London town,
Miles broad;
He wander'd up and he wander'd down,
Ever alone with God.

There were thousands and thousands of human kind,
In this desert of brick and stone;
But some were deaf and some were blind,
And he was there alone.

At length the good hour came; he died,
As he had lived, alone;
He was not missed from the desert wide—
Perhaps he was found at the Throne
—James Thomson.

"I suppose that you are relieved of considerable expense now that it is no longer necessary for you to supply the midnight oil for your son at college?" "On the contrary," explained the father, "since commencement I have been impressed with the relatively higher cost of burning midnight gasoline." "Buffalo Express."

"He is always dead in earnest." "That accounts for his 'grave expression.'"—Baltimore American.

When the Kettle Boils.

There was a very wide spout, by means of which it was filled. The spout was not graduated in size, but quite an inch wide all the way down, and fitted with a lid, in the centre of which was a hole about the size of a pea. When the water boiled the steam escaped through this hole with a piercing whistle. The device might advantageously be adopted in this country. It would then be impossible for well-meaning persons to assure us, "Oh, yes, the kettle is boiling," when it has either done nothing of the kind or has ceased to do it for ten minutes. In Denmark there is no mistaking this important fact. Even when one is out in the garden the shrill call is audible, announcing that it is time to make the coffee.

"The stove, also, was a joy. It was a different type from ours. It was not fixed into the wall, but occupied one corner of the kitchen. In shape it was low and flat, one yard in length, the top one and a half by one yard in size. There was ample room for numberless pots and pans, and at one end stood three gas rings; so, while tending the things cooking on the stove you could at the same time look after those on the gas. When there was no fire the whole of the flat surface was covered with stiff glazed paper, of a pale cream color, so there was a charming table with the gas rings at the end of it.

"The kitchen altogether was so compact and neat that it made cooking a pleasure.

You could watch your stewpan and write a stepman and write an article at the same time, without moving from your chair. There were numbers of shelves and cupboards, but the only articles of furniture were chairs. Everything was handy and had its own place. Rice, sage, cocoa and flour, etc., each had its own jar, with the name in clear letters, so that you had not to open half a dozen jars before you got the right one. The kitchen was as small as a nutshell, but for brightness and comfort I have never been in one to equal this in the little flat in Denmark."

A Sympathetic Look Ahead—"They say the English language is growing at the rate of five words a day."

"Great Caesar, think of the vocabulary of the wives who sit up for their husbands in 1901!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Afternoons off?" sniffed the prospective cook. "Three each week." "Wid the use of the automobile?"—Washington Herald.

THE FIR-TREE

Chapter I.

A long way off from the sounds of the city and far up on the high hills there once grew a sprightly fir tree. He longed to be tall and majestic, like his older brothers. He waited impatiently for the day when he might be chosen by the woodcutters as a fit subject for their sharp axe. He waited to go, as he had seen other fir trees go, down the river on the raft, and away, away into the unknown.

"Oh, that I were tall like the others," sighed the little tree.

The birds heard him and begged him to be happy in his freedom and grace. The wind kissed him and implored him to be satisfied with his beautiful surroundings.

The next year the fir trees near him were cut down and carried off. But he was left.

"Where are they going?" he moaned. "Why don't the woodcutters take me?"

"Rejoice in your youth," said the sunbeams.

When Christmas approached, the woodmen came again, looked at the fir tree, approved of its beautiful branches and sturdy trunk.

"Oh, I am so happy," whispered the tree to the wind as it blew by. "I am going to see where all those other happy fir trees went. How glad I am!"

But when the axe went into the heart of the proud young tree and he fell with a terrible thud upon the snow-covered ground he had a new and terrible sensation as of fainting.

He quite forgot how happy he expected to be, because of his sorrow in leaving the flowers he loved; the grass he had sheltered and the neighboring forest.

When he came to himself he was in the courtyard outside, a shop in a big city. A man was saying: "Yes, this tree is just what I want; I will take it!" So he was pitched into a wagon and sent out to a beautiful residence. Then he was carried into the house and set in a big barrel.

"What is going to happen now, I wonder?" thought the fir.

Soon two smartly-dressed maids arrived and commenced putting tinsel and little bags of popcorn and candy and colored ribbon on the branches of the fir.

of the highest branch; the doors closed and the lights turned out. Oh, yes, I forgot to say that heaps of little candies were set in place on the boughs, too.

When it was night a man came in with a torch and lighted all the candles.

In a minute the big doors were thrown open and a host of happy children came rushing in. They were delighted with the tree, and the tree laughed silently to himself.

"Oh, if the trees of the forest and the birds and the wind could see me now!" he proudly said.

that should be a very nice length.

2. Yes, indeed. It is a pleasant game, and excellent exercise for girls of your age.

3. Any store which keeps sporting goods could, I am sure, supply you with necessary instructions, in printed form.

4. It is a long time since you wrote before regarding the peanut party, but I shall try to find the description and mail it to you in a day or two.

Granulated Eyelids.

Dear Miss Grey: My appearance is greatly marred because I have granulated eyelids. Will you please tell me how I may cure them? SUSAN.

A.—Frequent bathing with a boracic and water solution will help, but I think you should consult an oculist about the trouble. The eyes are too precious and too important to be neglected when anything is wrong with them.

Cure For Warts.

Dear Miss Grey: "Miss Ambitious" asked for a cure for warts, and here is one. Take some raw beef and cut into squares. Soak these in vinegar 24 hours. Then apply, like a poultice, to the wart, nightly, and the wart will be eaten off in a short time.

Will you now answer some questions for me?

How much does it cost to obtain a divorce when the parties were married in the States?

My hair was once thick, but is now thin, from crimping and teasing. What will make it grow thick?

Hoping I have not troubled you, I am as ever,

A.—Thanks for the hint, Pansy. I cheerfully pass it on to our readers.

2. A legal authority tells me that it depends upon where the parties live. If in Ontario, an act of the Dominion Parliament granting divorce would cost $1,000 more or less.

3. You might have this formula mixed for you at a drug store. It has been found excellent as a hair tonic: Supinate of quinine, three-fourths dram; tincture of cantharides, 1 dram; alcohol, 1 ounce; glycerine, quarter ounce; oil of anise, 6 drops; witch hazel, 4 ounces. Get the druggist to mix but half the quantity given above, as it will double at night, rubbing into the scalp.

At the end of a fortnight wash the hair and scalp, and continue the treatment three times a week.

Stuffed Tomatoes.

Boil rice until tender. After draining, season with butter, salt, pepper, minced parsley and chives. If the latter are not at hand, use minced green onion tops.

Scoop out the inside of ripe tomatoes, fill with the rice, cover the top with grated cheese, set on a greased pan and bake in a hot oven until tomatoes are done.

Cook the pulp from the centres with a little water to form the sauce to be served with the tomatoes. Season and thicken a little with corn-starch.—S. S., Pottersburg.

The autumn styles are exceedingly picturesque, but they do not show many startling changes from the summer modes.

Gowns are caught up either in front or back so that they will accentuate the so-called natural figure, which is particularly desirable, and which is called them "peau de peche," and in truth they are as velvety as the "skin of a peach."

Young women will wear plaids, but they must be worn with great discretion to give a chic effect.

Half an Hour With the Cook

Readers of this page are requested to contribute recipes or helpful hints along culinary lines for publication in this column, the desire being to make it one of mutual benefit. Original recipes, or any found to be tried and true, will be especially appreciated.

"An Interested Reader" writes as follows: "Might I say that I do not agree with the advice sometimes given to the effect that a wet cloth should be wrapped around fruit jars, while filling them? If the least bit of glass is left unprotected by the wet cloth it is sure to crack. I have found the best way to be simply to set the empty jar on a cool plate, and then commence the filling process, and my jars never crack."

Unfermented Grape Juice.

Free some ripe grapes from stems, mash the fruit in a wooden bowl with a potato masher, inclose them in a bag, a small portion at a time, and press out all the juice, strain the liquid through flannel. A good plan is to put a square piece of flannel in a sieve and place the sieve over a bowl; pour in the grape juice and let it run through. Fill the clear grape juice in small champagne bottles, put in the cork, drive in with a mallet; then tie the corks firmly with a cord, set the bottles a little way apart in a box and place in a cool place, inclining the bottles a little forward, so that the corks are surrounded by the juice.—Mrs. B. McLeod, R. Ont.

Finger Marks on Piano.

Dear Miss Grey: Would you kindly answer a few questions for me?

1. What will take finger marks off of a mahogany-cased piano?

2. Some exercise I could do so as to be able to stretch an octave?

Thanking you in advance and hoping to see it in print soon, I remain,

A. A.

A.—1. Simply rub the marks gently with a soft rag wrung from lukewarm water, and then polish with a chamolisk skin. Just wash a small portion of the mahogany at a time.

2. Continued effort is about as effective as anything I know of. If the fingers are kept supple, regular practice and stretching should make it easier to reach the octave. A good exercise might be to stretch the hand to its fullest extent and strike, say, "E" with the thumb, then "E" an octave higher, with the little finger, raising the thumb slightly, to do this. As you become accustomed to doing this it should not seem hard to strike both notes in an octave at once.

Organizing Basketball Team.

Dear Miss Grey: I would be very pleased if you will answer these questions, as I have received help from your column before?

1. How long should my dresses be? I am fifteen years old, five feet five inches tall.

2. I live near a small village. Don't you think it would be nice to organize a basketball team, as there are many girls around here?

3. Could you give me address where I could obtain "Book of Instructions" on same?

4. I received find stamped envelope for having peanut party. I wrote before for it but I neglected to send envelope, so did not get it.

5. Last, but not least, what do you think of my writing?

LONDON CLUB MAY BUILD NEW BALL PARK FOR NEXT SEASON

Directors Are at Present Considering Flattering Proposition From Street Railway Company—Joint Stock Company To Be Formed to Deal With Question.

Although nothing definite has been decided about it yet, it is not improbable that when the Canadian League season opens again next May, London fans will gather at a brand-new ball park to see the games. The local directors are at present considering the question of a new park, the London Street Railway Company having made a flattering offer of a free site for such a place.

The London baseball club's lease on Tecumseh Park expired with the end of the Canadian League season, and as yet no attempt has been made by the directors to renew it. Although no fault has been found with Tecumseh Park as a ball park, the directors are unanimous in the opinion that the club ought to have a ball park of its own. An offer to buy the West London grounds was made, but a deal could not be made at that time.

Street Railway's Offer.

Just recently the street railway company made a proposition to the directors that is well worth considering before any effort to arrange for grounds for next season is made. The street railway has three valuable sites on its car lines at the present time, and the use of any of these has been offered the local club providing it builds the stands and fences. All these sites are within ten minutes' ride of the centre of the city and they would be almost as handy as Tecumseh Park is. With a few improvements they would make ideal ball parks and recreation grounds, and in the winter public skating rinks could be made on them.

Joint Stock Company May Be Formed.

The joint stock company, which the directors are at present contemplating forming for the purpose of making the London baseball club into an incorporated business enterprise, in which anybody can hold stock, would undertake the building of this new ball park. It is the present plan of the directors to turn the franchise into a company and sell stock in shares. It is planned to capitalize the club for $25,000 or $50,000, and a dividend would be declared at the end of each season. The past season was a most prosperous one for the club and the directors are a few thousand dollars ahead as a result.

EVANS' GREAT WORK ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Western Golf Championship Is Among Eight Survivors in Amateur Championships.

[Canadian Press.] Garden City, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater, who had a thrilling 39-hole fight with Eben M. Byers, of Allegheny, yesterday, was the only western representative among the eight survivors that started the third round for the National amateur golf championship today. The other seven included four players from the New York metropolitan district, one, Tom Sherman, son of the late vice-president, from Central New York, and two from Massachusetts.

Evans' spectacular extra-hole match the day before centred attention upon him today, and a large gallery followed him and Walter J. Travis, of the local club, when they began their match this morning. This match was regarded as the decisive contest of the day, since Jerome D. Travers, the champion, was expected to have comparatively little trouble with his opponent, "Archie" M. Reid, of St. Andrews.

Massachusetts is sure of at least one man in the semi-final round, for her two representatives today were in opposite halves of the draw. John G. Anderson, of Brae Burn, played Sherman, of Utica, and P. W. Whittemore, Brooklyn, was matched with Frederick Herreshoff, Ekwanok.

The weather was threatening when play began with a strong promise of rain before afternoon.

RUGBY PLAYERS ARE GETTING DOWN TO WORK

Good Workout Was Held at Tecumseh Park Last Evening—Practice Fri- and Saturday Evenings.

About 20 Rugby players turned out to the practice of the local Rugby club at Tecumseh Park last evening and a good workout was held.

There seems to be lots of good material on hand this year, and the management are not worrying over any difficulty in picking out a fast team. The bunch of new material is encouraging, and when the medical students begin to arrive back in town a splendid line-up should be available.

A practice will be held between 5 and 7 o'clock tomorrow evening, and also on Saturday afternoon and evening at the same time.

ORIENTS ACCEPT NO. 8 CHALLENGE

Game Will Be Played at Tecumseh Park on Saturday.

The Orient Club accepts the challenge of Dundas Centre No. 8 Club for a game of baseball to decide the city championship, and the game will be played next Saturday afternoon at Tecumseh Park. The game is to be called at 2:30.

Forgot Silk Hat and Held Train

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, Sept. 4.—The story is published here that an express train from Madrid, on which Count Romanones, the Spanish premier, had reserved a saloon, was delayed three-quarters of an hour in starting because the premier had forgotten his silk hat.

The indignant passengers, protesting against the unexplainable delay, were told by the station master that the departure of the train was held up for a reason he could not state.

Eventually a breathless messenger arrived from the premier's house, carrying a cardboard box, which, to the obvious relief of Count Romanones, was installed in his reserved saloon.

The station master then explained that the premier had forgotten his silk hat, and had refused to allow the train to start without it.

WEDDED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Moore, of Southwold, Held Big Celebration.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Southwold Station, Sept. 4.—A very pleasant gathering was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moore on Monday in honor of the 50th anniversary of their wedding day.

Friends from all over the district were present, and about 70 guests from Michigan, Galt, Sherbrooke, London, Stratford, St. Thomas and other places, representing five generations, gathered.

The house was tastefully decorated, the dining-room being white and yellow.

A splendid dinner was served. A large four-story cake occupied the centre of the table, under a floral bell. A nephew, Rev. Wilnot Moore, of the Detroit Conference, sat at the head of the table and was chairman.

Many fine addresses were given, and the speakers extended hearty congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Moore and the best wishes for the future.

Many handsome gifts were received from relatives and friends.

Mr. Moore's only brother and sister were present, and they, too, had been privileged recently to celebrate a like event—a rare thing in one family.

WHITE—SMITH

Pretty Strathroy Girl Becomes Bride of Young Barrie Man.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Strathroy, Sept. 4.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith, Strathroy, on Tuesday.

When their second daughter, Gertrude Freida, became the bride of Hugh White, of Barrie. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. N. Hazen, of London.

To the strains of the Lohengrin Bridal Chorus, rendered by Leafa Smith, sister of the bride, the bridal party took their place in the drawing-room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion with out flowers and ferns. The bride looked charming in a travelling suit of royal cavendish velvet, with lace waist, trimmed with lace and sequin trimming.

After the ceremony and usual congratulations, the party took their place in the dining-room, where a dainty dinner was served.

After a short visit, Mr. and Mrs. White will leave for their future home, 20 Main street, Barrie.

Rains in the West Did Not Hurt Crops

[Canadian Press.]

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 4.—Recent rains in the Canadian Prairie West have had little effect on the 1913 crop, according to advices from principal points in the provinces.

Harvesting is practically completed, and the rain falling on the soaked wheat dried off as the grain dried out, so that threshing will be taken up just as soon as the weather permits.

as it would have been under ordinary circumstances.

Some rain fell in Manitoba and a little in Saskatchewan yesterday, but the fall was only spasmodic, and garnering of grain will not suffer.

Temperatures taken at midnight showed a good level maintained, with no signs of frost and few clouded skies.

Wm. G. Martin Estate of $5,000

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Sept. 4.—There was filed in the surrogate court today the estate of the late Wm. G. Martin, Toronto milliner, murdered in New York. The inventory shows an estate comprised of $3,000 in insurance, $200 in furniture, $1,238.59 in cash on hand, and real estate to the value of $100. This latter was made up of lots in York County, Calgary, and Weyburn.

As Mr. Martin died without making a will, the estate will be divided among three heirs, the father, John G. Martin, and two brothers, James C. and George A. Martin, the latter living in Aurora.

A REASON.

Dolly (who has just viewed art exhibition)—I could look at nothing but Dauber's picture.

Cholly—I'll tell Dauber. He will be pleased.

Dolly—Yes; there was such a crowd in front of all the others.

WHAT AMERICANS SOUGHT IN OLD LONDON.

[Manchester Guardian.]

A friend who has just spent three vigorous days piloting three Chicago Americans round London, sends me some notes which are interesting as showing how persistently American tourists go on doing what is expected of them. On the way up the Thames (they came in a Canadian liner) they were chiefly anxious to know whether they would pass Kew Gardens. The "association" was a poem by Mr. Alfred Noyes, which one of them quoted lovingly, ending, or perhaps beginning, with the words: "We went to Kew in June time, lilac time, lilac time." America seems to be passionately interested in Mr. Noyes, and next in order of interest as personalities come Mr. Shaw, Mr. Arnold Bennett, and Mr. Wells. On landing, the party made straight for the Cheshire Cheese, where they lunched, happy in the thought (there is no authority for it in Boswell) that Johnson used to dine there. They then went to St. Paul's, and in the same afternoon visited the House of Commons (the chamber struck them as ridiculously small), where they at once fulfilled their chief political ambition, to see and hear Mr. Lloyd George. Next to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Winston Churchill was the most engaging minister for them. They were rather surprised to be corrected for saying "Lord Asquith" (a democratic touch), and afterwards adopted the form, "Premier Asquith." They had the good fortune of an introduction to Mr. Buxton, who took them into Westminster Hall and gave them in a few minutes' resonant speech the history of the "largest and widest hall in the world unsupported by pillars."

Superlatives struck the right note for that audience. Next morning they spent in the Abbey, where the bust of Longfellow in Poets' Corner was the great thing. The afternoon was occupied by a minute tour of the Temple, where they were amused by the policeman outside the round church, who was doubtful whether the girls were not suffragettes. In the streets they were fascinated by the motor-buses, the new experience; and, remembering what Londoners have forgotten—namely, Mr. Gladstone's saying about the best way of seeing London—made a long bus journey, beginning at Charing Cross and coming back there. They have not so far shown any eagerness to visit the "American shrines," such as All Hallows' Church, where Penn was baptized, or St. Sepulchre's, where Capt. John Smith is buried, or Southwark, with its memories of Harvard. These things are homely in their eyes compared with the wild romance of seeing the dispatch boxes in the House marked with the denials made by Gladstone's ring.

HIS CONFIDENT TOMORROW

Three travelling companions, Gray, Brown and Green were breakfasting at an hotel in the Southern States.

Gray ordered coffee, rolls, creamed potatoes, bacon, and fried eggs; Brown told the waiter he might duplicate the order for him, and Green said:

"You may bring me the same, all but the eggs; you may eliminate the eggs."

In due time the waiter appeared with the breakfasts of Gray and Brown, which he served; then, stepping round to Green, he said, in a conciliatory voice:

"We got fried eggs, an' poached eggs, an' boiled eggs, an' scrambled eggs, an' omelet, sah, but we ain't got no 'liminated eggs.'"

"Well," said Green, "my doctor says my eggs must be eliminated. Have it done at once, and hurry up my breakfast."

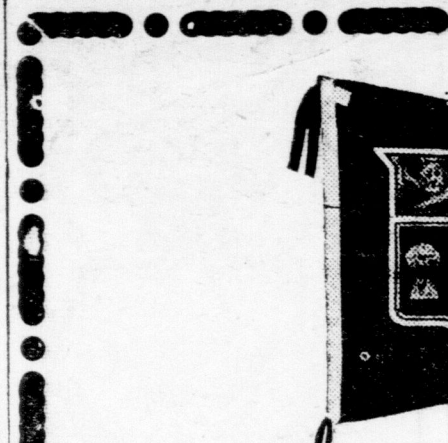

Presently the waiter was back again but without the breakfast.

"The cook says tell you, sah," he said, "he jes' can't 'liminate no eggs dis mawnin'!"

"Now, see here," said Green, in apparent anger, "I never before was at an hotel where I could not have my eggs eliminated. Go tell the cook that, and tell him to eliminate those eggs double sudden, or I shall complain to the manager."

Away went the waiter, but returned almost immediately, followed by the cook.

"I come to 'splain to you myself 'bout dese eggs, sah," said the excited chef. "I ain't been here only a week, an' I don't want to lose my job, an' dis is de very first or'dah I had for 'liminated eggs since I come. I was goin' to 'liminate 'em right off, but when I looked round for de 'liminator, dey ain't got none. Co'se I can't 'liminate eggs 'bout a 'liminator, but it's goin' to have de boss git one this very day, an' if you'll 'scuse me this mawnin', nex' time you come I'll suah 'liminate you'—eggs better'n you've ever had 'em 'liminated befo'!"

ONE BETTER.

Funnyface—These conjurers are wonderful fellows. I saw one of the best last night. He turned a guinea-frog into a cabbage.

"That's nothing. I can do better myself. Every night I turn my dog into a house."

TISER BEATEN AT ST. THOMAS.

The Advertiser ball team journeyed to St. Thomas yesterday to meet a team composed of employees of the St. Thomas Hotel. The game was staged at Athletic Park, and about five of the Journal players were picked from fast amateur teams in the Railway City. Sheehan, the Journal twirler, is a member of the W. O. B. team in that city, but his shorts were hit far and often by The Advertiser.

The game was a seven-inning affair, the final score being 18 to 19 in favor of the Journalists. The game was close up to the sixth inning. With The Advertiser leading by the score of 19 to 8 in this session, the home brews went in and scored 10 runs. The Tiser pitcher went to pieces, while the infield also blew up. Owing to the fact that the umpires were two members of the Journal staff, The Advertiser team never conceded itself a chance to win.

TOMMY KNEW.

The teacher was endeavoring to illustrate to her pupils the association of various species of life with common substances.

"For instance," she explained, "you will always find plants where there is soil, birds where there are trees, and so on. Now, can anyone tell me what we associate with fish?"

Suddenly, with the velocity of an aeroplane, a hand shot up from the press.

BACK TO ASYLUM FOR THAW ORDERED OUT OF QUEBEC JAIL

Was Greatly Surprised When Court Sustained Writ and His Lawyer Lost Out—Will Probably Be Hurried Across the Border Today.

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 4.—Harry K. Thaw, tried out of the Sherbrooke jail on a writ of habeas corpus, obtained by a coup of William Travers Jerome, enjoyed three minutes of liberty yesterday afternoon, and was then seized by the Dominion immigration authorities and hustled by automobile to this little town, where most of the night he paced the floor in the immigration detention room over the Grand Trunk Railway station. Today a special board of inquiry will sit on his case, and by night he may be thrust across the Vermont border as an undesirable alien.

Had No Plans.
His lawyers have planned no procedure to resist extradition to New York, and the belief is current that before many hours Thaw would be back in the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane from which he escaped on Sunday, Aug. 17.

The beginning of the end of Thaw's refuge in Canada came with dramatic swiftness. A writ of habeas corpus, issued last Saturday at the direction of Judge E. J. Boudreau, chief justice of the court, was obtained by Matthew Hutchinson, superior judge of the district of St. Francois, sitting in chambers at Sherbrooke.

Thaw Amazed.
Stolid, pallid, numb, Thaw sat not five feet from the judge as he read. When, in the very last paragraph, the court declared him a free man, Thaw, who had been sitting in the lounge where he crumpled up a cigar stump from his left hand and scattered ashes on the floor, from his right hand fluted two gray bits of ribbon a child had given him.

But he did not rise. W. K. McKee, of his counsel, leaned over and patting him on the shoulder, staring eyes and stood up. Immigration officers in the room, headed by E. Blake Robertson, assistant superintendent, moved near him and then Thaw began slowly to move to the door.

"Come With Us."
At the threshold, Robertson said simply: "Come with us, Mr. Thaw. And without a word, except a hoarse good-bye to the reporters, Thaw obeyed."

Five minutes later a gray roadster streaked away from the courthouse. In the back seat of the car, Thaw, not even being given time to pack his scanty belongings and voluminous correspondence in his cell. In an hour he was here in room by guarded in two staterooms. None but counsel was allowed to see him. The 23-mile trip over was without special incident.

Lawyers Give Up.
Thaw expressed no surprise, evidenced no grief. Behind him trailed his defeated lawyers.

W. L. Shurtliff, the first to arrive, issued this statement:

"If they have doctors all ready to pronounce Thaw insane, as I am informed they have, there is almost no hope of preventing his immediate deportation. I believe if we could find a way to get the case into the courts, we would have a good chance to prove this immigration act unconstitutional on the ground that it was inconsistent with the Ashburton treaty. But if the authorities at Ottawa are as determined to send Thaw back as they seem to be, then I doubt very much if they would pay any attention to any writ of prohibition we might obtain. The immigration act expressly provides that no court may interfere with the findings of the board of inquiry, and I am afraid that the immigration officials will act before we have found a way to circumvent them."

Thaw, when he was told that the inquiry was to be held in secret, wrote out this question, and sent it down to the reporters:

Thaw's Note.
"Is it true that English law allows a secret trial, with the public excluded, when a man's life or liberty is at stake, like in Turkey or Bulgaria?"

Thaw's chief counsel, J. N. Green-shields, of Montreal, was not present when the writ was sustained today. It was said he was hurrying here to make a last desperate stand.

URGES LABOR BUREAU TO REGULATE IMMIGRATION

Suggestion of Canadian Delegate at Big British Congress Was Well Received—Less Unions and More Unionists
Needed in the States.

[Canadian Press.]

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 4.—Delegates representing the Dominion of Canada and the United States took a prominent part in today's session of the Trades Union Congress, in which the British delegates represent two and a quarter million workmen. The foreign delegates today were given their first opportunity of addressing the assembly. P. M. Draper, a Canadian delegate, was greeted with approving cheers when he declared that the time had arrived for the establishment of an international labor bureau to regulate the tide of emigrants and to instruct them as to the real condition of affairs in the countries to which they purposed going.

More Unionists.

Louis Kemper, of Cincinnati, in his address, urged the importance of fewer trades unions and more unionists. He deplored the fact that the United States was not so lucky as to possess a separatist labor party, but trades unionists there, he said, did the next best thing by containing pieces from candidates at the elections for congress. C. L. Baine, of Boston, referred to the Dublin strike troubles, and declared that if similar circumstances had arisen in the United States, the American Federation of Labor would have hastened to act as the Trades Union Congress had acted in demanding protection for the right of free speech.

NEW SARNIA FACTORY MAY EMPLOY 1,000 MEN

Ground Will Be Broken for Big Plant Within a Week.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Sept. 4.—The Cleveland Foundry Company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company, is the name of the new concern which will locate in Sarnia and manufacture oil stoves, heaters, etc.

The plant will be a branch of the Imperial Oil Company, provision for which was made at the last meeting of the directors. The bylaw was adopted today, and ground will be broken within the next week or so. According to advices from Cleveland, the plant will employ about 1,000 men when finally completed, although 150 men was the estimate given in Sarnia.

Whether the larger or smaller figure be true, the concern will be a most important addition to Sarnia's growing list of industries, and from present indications the town promises to become one of the leading manufacturing cities of Canada.

The erection of the new factory will have a big effect on real estate.

Ask Mayor Gaynor To Be a Candidate

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Sept. 3.—Voters from all sections of New York city crowded City Hall Park this afternoon and asked Mayor Gaynor to become an independent candidate for re-election. The mayor gave his consent. The gathering was probably the first event of its kind in the history of the city. Several thousand Gaynorites paraded from their homes in the various boroughs, armed with banners, flags and thousands of shovels, the latter signifying their approval of Mayor Gaynor's work in subway construction. The shovels have been chosen as the official party emblem for the Gaynor campaign.

FACTORY BURNED

Buckeye Window Glass Company, of Columbus, Loses $150,000.

[Canadian Press.]

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 4.—Fire early today destroyed the plant of the Buckeye Window Glass Company, entailing a loss approximately $150,000, but little insurance was carried. The fire started from a spark from a passing locomotive, and before the fire department reached it, two miles north of Columbus, the blaze had enveloped the main structure and several other buildings. There was no water, and firemen were forced to stand by and watch it burn to the ground.

Glass-Piper Fight Stirs Class Cry

"Representation by Practical Farmer," Slogan of Faction Opposed to London Alderman
A Scramble for Delegates.

Never in the history of the federal Glass factions. Both candidates are riding of East Middlesex has there been such a factional battle in the ranks of any political party as the one that is now stirring the Conservatives. The cry of class was raised at the convention of the Tory stalwarts, that ended in such a fiasco last Saturday afternoon. That cry is being raised up and down the riding by those of the Tory ranks who are opposed to the candidature of Ald. S. P. Glass.

Representation of a farming district by a practical farmer is the battery of the faction which is working to secure the nomination of ex-Warden R. M. Piper, when the new delegates are brought together again a week from Saturday.

Says He's Farmers' Friend.

In answer the supporters of the former reeve of London Township are pointing to the record their candidate has made as a friend of the farmer. The fight has been carried into the "enemy's country" by the representatives of both Glass and Piper, Dorchester Township, that was lined up practically solid behind Piper at the last convention, may send in a majority for Glass at the next. In London Township, Ald. Glass' own stamping ground, it is expected that there will be several Piper votes, especially from the vicinity of Ilderton, where the famous "farmer on" petitions were in circulation prior to the last convention.

At the Subdivision Meetings. While there might have been slackness in the selection of the delegates who lined up behind Glass and Piper at the last convention, when the one illegal ballot was eliminated, there will be none in the present battle for representation. Both factions are at work, and hard work. The subdivision meetings for the selection of delegates are in practically every instance the campaigning ground of the Piper and Glass factions.

A Class Cry Raised. The cry for agricultural representation is the one big issue of the campaign, in the Conservative ranks. The demand for a farmer to represent East Middlesex comes strongest from London Township. There John Geary, acting as spokesman for what he claimed to be a strong portion of the electors, declared out and out for nothing but a farmer. If the candidature of Mr. Geary was correct, and a number of the London Township farmers are out for an agricultural candidate, it will be for Dorchester and West Nisourit. The Glass wing will have to look to the majority of his support in the coming convention. Ald. Glass, however, claims that the statements of Mr. Geary are not quite correct.

At last Saturday's convention, he characterized the statement that the farmers were opposed to his candidature as being false. According to his story there was but one subdivision in the township that would lend its support to any movement that would eliminate him from the running. That subdivision was the Ilderton one. "Whatever the result of the fight in the Conservative ranks is one that will make history. It is calculated to go down in the annals of the party as one of the most peculiar political situations in the riding, and all kinds of possibilities are expected as a result of the split.

INDIAN BOY HAS TO BE CONFINED IN ROOM

Little-Dumb-as-an-Oyster Has Made Several Attempts to Escape.

Securely confined within his room by locks and bolts, at the Thomas Alway Home for Children, sits a pathetic little figure gazing wistfully through his barred window—a little Indian boy, 10 years old, with an unpronounceable name, held by the authorities pending an investigation into his parentage and his home.

Not Giving Clues.

Deepest, inexplicable mystery surrounds the little fellow, of any no inkling as to the identity of his parents or his home can be found. He was first discovered working for Mr. McGuffin, a farmer near Thorndale. It appears that the boy had wandered onto this gentleman's premises, and applied for work, which was given him. He was a splendid worker, willing and painstaking. Mr. McGuffin repeatedly questioned him in an endeavor to learn something of his identity, but the results were fruitless. At last, despairing of getting the desired information from the boy, he notified Hugh Constable (Gumb), who took charge of the boy and brought him to London where he was assigned to the Shelter. Since then repeated efforts have been made to locate parents or relatives, communication being established between the different Indian reserves, but without avail.

"Yes, Sir," to Everything. When seen by an Advertiser reporter this morning the boy was non-committal. To all questions put to him his reply was a nonchalant, "Yes, sir," although he frequently contradicted himself by his answers.

At times he will declare his home to be in Southampton, while occasionally he bewilders his questioners by asserting that he lives in Walpole. He is a mischievous little chap and causes endless trouble by his pranks. Constant watch is maintained, as he has made several attempts to escape. The superintendent, against her will, finds it necessary to keep him in the "strong room," where bars and bolts prevent an unexpected exit.

Mrs. Hamilton Tells How She Finally Found Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg-

Warren, Ind.—"I was bothered terribly with female weakness. I had pains and was not regular, my head ached all the time, I had bearing down pains and my back hurt me the biggest part of the time, I was dizzy and had weak feelings when I would stoop over, it hurt me to walk any distance and I felt blue and discouraged.

"I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now in good health. If it had not been for that medicine I would have been in my grave a long time ago."—MRS. ARTIE E. HAMILTON, R.F.D. No. 6, Warren, Ind.

I suffered with bearing down pains, headache, was irregular and felt blue and depressed all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and commenced to gain in a short time and I am a well woman today. I am on my feet from early morning until late at night running a boarding house and do all my own work. I hope that many suffering women will try your medicine. It makes happier wives and mothers."—MRS. ANNA HANSEN, Esmond, Rhode Island.

A QUINETTE IN MINOR KEY
How a Temporary Gloom Befell Five Male Admirers.
In a certain London home there are five daughters, all young, marriageable and pretty. As a harmony of the properties, each has an eligible admirer who calls on a certain night every week, and every suitor of the five had a certain night allotted him, from which order he is not expected to depart. Last week the one whose date was Monday, called to see the girl of his choice, but the maid-of-all-work said she was busy and had given express orders that she was not to be disturbed. The Tuesday night young man called the next evening and got the same message concerning the lady of his preference. Wednesday night found the young man belonging to that date leaving his sweet-heart's doorstep disappointed and disconsolate for a similar reason. Thursday night brought no better luck to the next in turn, and Friday was equally as unfortunate for the fifth admirer, who was denied an interview with the girl he adored. He was just about to depart when his four colleagues in courtship, one by one appeared. In a common cause they held a short indignation meeting on the lawn and resolved to get to the bottom of the horrible mystery, right then and there. All five presented themselves at the door, brushed past the housemaid, and entered the living-room, half-expecting to secure some evidence that their respective objects of affection were untrue to them, but all they found was a group of five sisters so busily engrossed in doing embroidery that one of the young men had to let his umbrella fall to attract their attention. The young men were quite mollified when it was explained that they were taking advantage and making the most of the Advertiser's offer through which they had each secured an Imperial Pattern Outfit of 160 stylish designs for 6 coupons and 65 cents. They were busy transferring the patterns and working them into the most beautiful articles suitable for such adornment, all of which they intended for their homes against the time each should marry. The five sisters were unanimous that they must have a holiday while the embroidery proposition is on.

HOLOCAUST AVERTED
Illustrating one of the many virtues of metal ceilings, the statement of Dr. F. L. Henry, of Oshawa, is interesting. "Had it not been for the Pedlar Perfect Metal Ceiling installed in the basement of my three-story block, the whole building would have gone up. This room was used, as you know, for a dry-cleaning establishment, and the proprietor had a five-gallon can of gasoline setting in one corner. When the heavy storm came up, the water flooded the basement, overturning the can of gasoline.
"The proprietor went down to investigate and struck a match, the electric light being out of commission, and the resulting fire was very fierce, but owing to the good work of the fire department, it was confined to the basement, but it certainly would have spread to the upstairs before their arrival had it not been for the metal ceiling in the room."
The artistic merits of "Perfect" metal ceilings made by the Pedlar People, of Oshawa, are well known, but this emphasizes a virtue which in an emergency entirely overpowered all others. Many shops in this town could emulate this example, improve the appearance of their store room and materially lessen the fire risk.

May Stop Sale of Burns' Treasures

[Canadian Press.]

London, Sept. 4.—The protest against the sale of the Glen Riddell manuscripts of Robert Burns, which were sold to an American collector by the Liverpool Athenaeum six weeks ago for $25,000 has taken definite form in an action to restrain actual transfer of the manuscripts. Led by the poet's only surviving granddaughter, Annie Burns, of Cheltenham. She asks that as Robert Burns' nearest of kin, she be declared executrix of the hitherto unconfirmed personal estate of the Scottish bard. The action is lodged with the consent of the great-grandchildren of Robert Burns.

LORD BALLYROT IN LONDON

While touring the far west imagine my surprise, old chap, when a typical cowboy person, after assuring me that there were no wild Indians in the region, conducted me to a vast green, adorned with bunkers, holes, hazards and other minutiae of a golf links, and explained:

"What do you think of our bogie ranch, partner? Ain't this here the hunkydoryest pill biffing corral you ever drew head on? All the boys are getting crazy about this new tender-foot exercise for working up a Scotch thirst. It's great, hombre, this bating flies across the patio and trying to stash 'em into the fake prairie dog holes. Let's get a holster full of brassie quirts and go swatting hoot-mon confetti!"

LEGAL TANGLE OCCURS OVER SQUATTER'S LAND

North Dorchester Case Required a Year To Be Straightened Out.

A somewhat intricate legal tangle, involving the title to a 200-acre tract of land on the second concession of North Dorchester, has last been cleared through the sale of a portion of it, 35 acres in extent, being part of lot 14, south of the river.

Mr. Alfred E. Malpass has just completed the purchase of that portion of the property from Mr. Daniel E. Spring after negotiations lasting over a year, during which time Mr. E. W. Scatcherd, acting as their solicitor, has been endeavoring to secure a clear title to the land. The land, it appears, was never at any time patented by the Government, and all the people living on it were, in the strictly legal sense, squatters, who at least they were until a few years ago, when a change in the statutes governing the question was made. Under the present law, persons, if allowed to occupy such land 65 years, have legal possession, the Government's claim being barred.

The portion of land in question was originally taken up by two brothers, Englishmen, by the name of Rowsell. One brother died and his wife and family removed to England. The other brother deeded the land, not knowing the complications in which it was involved. None of the succeeding titles to the land have been valid on account of the fact that the share of the wife and children of the deceased brother have never been accounted for, and the signature of his heirs had not been obtained. Mr. Scatcherd located the family in England and secured the necessary papers, and the land for the first time is now in the legal possession of its owner, being able to make title for the 65 years necessary to bar the claim of the Canadian Government.

DR. JARVIS HONORED

Elected President of Canadian Institute of Homoeopaths.

The Canadian Institute of Homoeopathy met this week for a two-days' session at Grace Hospital, Toronto. There were the usual number of papers presented. Dr. Friedmann and his lecture received some attention at the hands of those present, all greatly lamenting that the hopes for satisfactory results were not realized. As for serum treatment and vaccines generally, they were willing to accept curative results as instances of homoeopathic action, but would not hold homoeopathy responsible for any harmful effects, which they contended did not belong to pure homoeopathic action.

The officers elected for this year are: President—Dr. C. E. Jarvis, London, advanced from vice-president. Vice-President—Dr. Schuarr, Berlin. Secretary—Dr. E. K. Richardson, Toronto, re-elected. The officers compose the executive. Dr. Hamilton Evans, of Toronto, the retiring president, and Dr. Tyrrell, of Toronto, were elected honorary presidents.

The time and place for the next meeting rests with the executive.

POPE AGAIN ILL

Has Recurrence of Serious Illness of Last Spring.

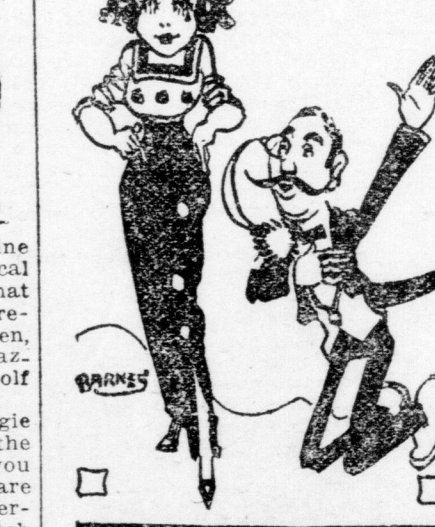

[Canadian Press.]
Rome, Sept. 4.—Pope Pius X. is again suffering from a slight indisposition, somewhat similar to the serious illness through which the aged pontiff passed last spring. At the Vatican it is said that his present trouble is due to a cold, but it has brought on hoarseness, headache and a slightly rising temperature, the present time. The doctors have suggested a complete rest. His holiness, however, insisted upon keeping engagements he had made for today, and he received in audience Cardinal Ferrari, of Milan, who headed a body of Milanese pilgrims. The Pope afterwards appeared before the pilgrims themselves and welcomed them to Rome.

Both teachers came from Ingersoll highly recommended, and it is expected that the progress of the schools will be marked in future. The attendance at the reopening was large at each school.

Is This Why English Beauties Are So Fair?

[From London Herald.]

Ever since the discovery that mercurized wax would absorb and remove a soiled complexion, its use by ladies as a substitute for toilet creams has grown rapidly. A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely if this remarkable substance is used. Its beneficent cleansing, clearing and preservative action is quickly apparent, and ladies who have been paying as high a guinea a jar for "special cream" from beauty specialists, soon recognize that mercurized wax outranks them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at all chemist shops in the British Isles. American druggists also have great demand for it. In original one-ounce packages. The favorite way of using it is to apply it, like cold cream, before retiring, washing it off in the morning. The sallow complexion for wrinkles and the facial contour has also become extremely popular. Mercurized wax is a simple, dissolving in one-half pint witch hazel. Batching the face in this has a splendid effect in erasing wrinkles and improving contour.
