WELFARE BUREAU IS ARRANGING SYSTEM TO AID SOLDIERS' FAMILIES

The federation of societies interested in welfare work for the families of soldiers or returned men, accomplished last week, is meeting with a good deal of commendation. There appears to be no doubt in the minds of those who have made a study of welfare work that a step has been taken in the right direction, and that the result will be more efficient and satisfactory, with a minimum of effort.

more efficient and satisfactory, with a minimum of effort.

Ed. H. Lance, who was elected secretary of the organization at the last meeting, is establishing a central bureau. He hopes to have a system in operation in a few days whereby every case of need among soldiers' families will be reported to the bureau for attention, and in this way all overlapping will, it is hoped, be avoided. The present epidemic has visited the homes of khaki heroes with more than usual present epidemic has visited the homes of khaki heroes with more than usual force, leaving in its wake distress and need that have taxed the capacity of those organized to look after their welfare. CALL TO 250 NEW RECRUITS CANCELLED

Influenza Gives Respite to 250 in District.

Deputy Registrar H. F. Beresford has received orders today to cancel the call to about 250 new recruits ordered to report for service on November 15, the cancellation being due to the influenza epidemic. These were men who have not yet been enrolled in the army, and the postponement of call is indefinite, in that no future date has been set for them to report.

WEDDING BELLS

GILMOUR-WOOLLEY.

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized in the Church of St. John the Evangelist at 3:30 this afternoon, when Florence Marguerite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woolley of this city, was united in marriage to Clarence E. Gilmour, son of the late A. J. and Mrs. Gilmour, also of this city. Mr. Gilmour, who was for some time organist of St. John's Church, is now organist at St. Paul's Cathedral.

The ceremony took place in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, the Rev. Canon Craig officiating. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Thomas Mitcheltree, president of the London Organists' Club, looked lovely in a tailored suit of navy serge, with black velvet hat trimmed with peacock blue, and ermine stole. She wore a corsage bouquet of sunset roses. There were no attendants.

After the ceremony the bridal couple left by motor for Goderich and other points. On their return they will reside at the old Gilmour home, 510 Adelaide street.

Wonderful Creations in Women's Dresses

Dresses distinctive in artistic combinations and handsomely developed reflect in their applied trimmings the finest conceptions obtainable in afternoon, street and evening costumes. Dresses with exquisite embroidery and beadings in color or jet mark the trend of fashion in these frocks, which are many and charming. Street dresses of engaging simplicity in original models of soft, clinging jersey cloth, silk or satin. Many are exclusive models, there being but one or two of a kind. Just now, when press of war work and other responsibilities are so heavy, it is a particular relaxation to don a pretty frock-it seems to take the strenuosity out of the day, and certainly it brightens things for the people with whom one associates. We are showing a remarkable assortment of pretty frocks this week.

DISORDERLY HOUSE RAIDED; KEEPER AND INMATES ARRESTED

Fines All Paid When Remand Is Alternative.

A pathetic case which has come under the notice of the G. W. V. A. is that of the family of Pte. Charles A. Piper, who resided at 606 King street, this city, three of which have just been when he was home on furlough. The G. W. V. A. has taken possession of all the property of Pte. Piper, and will store his furniture until he may be permitted to return home. This association is also looking after his personal affects, Capt. Harry Greenlees having charles the children having died previous to his enlistment, another soon after he left for overseas the first time. Mrs. Piper and one small daughter died last week with Spanish influenza, and A. Crittle of 601 King street. until witnesses were secured they acknowledged their guilt.

The raid, which was conducted by County Constables Arthur Corsaut, Byron Dawson and Alex. Shaver, was under the direction of High Constable Ben Watterworth and took place about 11 o'clock on Saturday morning. The place had been under surveillance for ne time, and complaints concerning i had been laid by people residing in the Griffith had procured one of the wo men by advertising in the newspapers for a housekeeper. The other woman, who was a friend of the "housekeeper," stated that she went out to the place to spend her holidays.

During the raid two girls and five young men were also arrested. The men reside in this city, and are the sons of respectable parents. They pleaded guilty to being frequenters of the house of ill-fame and were each assessed $2 and costs. The young girls were let go. The five young men and two young girls were given their trial on Sunday. Their names were suppressed at the court

ONE MILLION SCHOLARS!

ONE MILLION DOLLARS!

A million Sunday school scholars and members of young people's associations of the Anglican, Presbyterian, Baptist, Methodist and Congregational Churches are co-operating on a plan which has the 3-fold purpose of helping to boost the Victory Loan over the top; assisting the churches to extend their mission work, and commemorating the heroism of church members who have fallen at the front.

The Advertiser would publish the names of the givers and state where the stuff was placed, it would help a lot, as so many people are suspicious that their gifts do not reach the desired destination. None of us want to see the fruits of our hard labors go to the suckers that infest the city. Yours sincerely, LOBOITE. en at the front.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE GENEROUS FARMER'S APPEAL

the Editor of The Advertiser: When I looked around and saw the

When I looked around and saw the enormous quantities of apples going to waste because there are no barrels for them, it gave me an idea that should have been born long ago. A short time ago there was an appeal in The Advertiser for apples for the orphanages in the city. I wonder how many of we farmers took it to heart? If every one of us would (not could) spare a bushel or bag of potatoes or a bag or two of apples, both cooking and eating sorts, not old windfalls, not a child in London need go without this winter. We need not stop there. Cabbage, carrots, onions and any other vegetable or fruits could be given and never missed. We farmers are often a thoughtless, selfish lot. Because we have these things in abundance, we never think of those not so fortunate.

If the Children's Aid Society would secure a vacant store near the market, where the stuff could be left, perhaps some kindly-disposed persons could see that the goods were delivered to the proper places. Sacks are hard to get and expensive, but each donor could attach a tag firmly to each bag, with his name and address on it, and the sacks or baskets could be called for later. However, this is only a suggestion on my part.

However, this is only a suggestion on my part.

Next year I am going to have a big garden, planned, not as heretofore, with an eye single to our own needs, but with the thought of these others I shall hereafter and forever consider my dependents. Everything grown not actually needed for ourselves goes to the orphanages in London. It is a new thought and purpose with me, and I sincerely, Komoka, Nov. 2, 1918. LOBOITE.

Ed. Note.-The Advertiser appreciates being made the medium of this thoughtful farmer's appeal to his fellow-farmers, and will be glad to further the movement. Of this we are certain, that the charities of the cities tain, that the charities of the cities are sorely pressed for funds this year, and that any gifts of produce will be gratefully received. It is true that country people have a real heart-interest in the city institutions, and though they are removed from many of the appeals that reach the city-dweller, we feel sure there are scores who will appreciate the awakening touch of "Loboite." Nature has played the role of Lady Bountiful this year, and what finer Christmas gift from a farmer and his family than a barrel of apples or some other wholesome food for the little, pent-up inmates of the civic orphanages are shelters?

GERMANY ON THE BRINK. ERMANY for more than two months has been swaying on the brink of disaster. The pressure upon the Hunnish nation and her allies render or a plunge into the depths of war's abyss. Terms of the Allied armistice as sent out by Washington find a responsive note among the Allied peoples, whether or not Germany chooses to accept. The surrender of her navy, her great naval outpost and all her weapons of war constitutes a fair sample of what peace with the winning nations may mean for Germany. "Take it or leave it" is the spirit in which the proposal will has been so great as to cause unconditional sur-be advanced. Austria, thanks to the gallant Italians, is definitely out of the war. The great menace of Prussianism has been lifted for all time. Germany is deserted by her copartners in crime, and their defection has come with full knowledge of the penalties. Germany is threatened from many sides. No matter how "stiff" the Allied terms may appear there is every possibility of their acceptance by a nation which has a sufficient number of influential fatalists to foresee the inevit-

SHOCK TROOPS.

Vimy Ridge. Passchendaele. The Siege of Lens. The Drive From Albert. Cambrai. Valenciennes.

THESE ARE SOME of the outstanding names British forces began effective offensive fighting. The breaking of the Queant-Drocourt switch might be added to the list, because the victory which the forces of General Currie won at this point was of much greater value from a strategic point than the capture of any single town. It was here that the Hindenburg line was first pierced and effectually smashed. It was perhaps the heaviest fighting in which the Canadians were ever involved, and was participated in by some breaking of the Queant-Drocourt switch was of spot in which to hide. vital import to both the Allies and the Germans. It was the key to the Hindenburg line, and its collapse meant the collapse of that formidable German bulwark. It meant the collapse of the whole tended that they should.

In that of the year. memorable rush they all but took Lens, and had that city under constant siege for well over a year, during which time Haig's first offensive in tice terms is correct, it would appear that Lord-Ridge and the clearing of the Wytschaete Ridge. say in the matter. That drive found an obstacle in Passchendaele Ridge, and a special storming detachment of Canadians were moved up from Lens to rout the Huns. Passchendaele fell in schedule time. The Canucks were moved back to the strafing of Lens. During the winter months their line was extended to the south of Arras.

They just barely escaped being the storm centre of the Ludendorff drive on March 21, this year. That drive went on from salient to salient with the ever-present prospect that the .Lens-Arras salient would be the next object of the Prussian fury. Then came a moment when Foch said "We'll strike." Canadians were moved silently by night down in front of Amiens. On August 8 they went "over the top," drove through the Germans for eight miles before Albert. They effectively battered down the German resistance and started the long retreat which has been continuing ever since. That job done, the Canucks were moved back to the Arras-Lens region. It was conceived by the field marshals that the Gerline must be broken to preclude a permanent der. The Canadians were sent southeast, supported on either side by British and Scottish troops, and the job was done. Cambrai was the next hard nut to be cracked. and General Currie's forces were deviated farther southward to this task. It was done. Valenciennes, to the northeast, became the hub of the next German line of resistance. Valenciennes has been captured by the men from Canada.

The spearhead is still unblunted, and irresistible. A recent dispatch from the Canadian Press correspondent with the Canadian forces predicted his sleep. For months we tested the movements of the capture of Valenciennes and said the Can. the capture of Valenciennes and said the Canadians had set their minds upon Brussels and Antwerp on a long uphill line to the northeast.

ARMENIA LIBERATED.

NE OF THE most satisfactory conditions of the armistice terms to which the Turks have submitted is that by which the Armenians pass from Turkish bondage to the protection of the Allies. It is definitely and distinctly ish governments has been, when in doubt, slaughter some more Armenians. Time and again when Philip Hamilton Gibbs' fragile frame there ought to be the Philip Hamilton Gibbs' fragile frame there ought to be the laways seems to be in need of a little civil war was sidetracked and another batch of hated Christians wiped out. Two birds killed with one stone, None but the hardiest and most courageous races could survive such slaughterings as have been the lot of the Armenians. Under such treatment a weakling people would have disappeared. With the Turk stripped of his power to tyrranize in Asia Minor and Western Asia that section of the world will enter a new period of peace and industry, and foremost in the progress will be found the Armenian elements in Persia, Caucasian Russia and Turkey. The Armenian is thrifty, a natural trader and agriculturist, prospering rapidly when free of persecution. He is likely to play a large and beneficent part in the made-over Near East.

HONOR DUE TO GREECE.

REECE has gained a proud name among the nations of the Allies through the swift and skillful blows inflicted by her soldiers upon the Bulgarians in the offensive which spelled military disaster for the Balkan mercenaries of the kaiser and placed the whole central empire crew on the toboggan. Justly may she claim a place for her national flag among the grouped emblems of the people who have fought for democracy, and her right to this place will be more firmly established when the inner history of the war is revealed. Should fighting continue it is probable that the men of Greece will be called upon to play a bigger part in quelling the internal strife of Russia and in routing Bolshevism.

There are evidences that the soon-to-be-revealed early history of Greek negotiation with the Allies will present the case in clearer form, and prove beyond doubt that the people, as represented by Venizelos, were put into eclipse by the influence not only of her pro-German monarchs, but because of the refusal of Russia to accept Greece as an ally. Documents will prove, according to diplomats, that Greece made a definite offer to throw in her lot with the Allies, but was met with a firm refusal. Russia suspected that Greece played for Constantinople, and would not agree to a participation as proposed by Venizelos. Thus was opportunity given for Constantine and his crafty consort for a time to play the nation into the hands of Germany. The heart of the people was loyal to the Allied cause, but the officialdom that controlled the armies and the state was hand-in-glove with Potsdam.

Bungling diplomacy as played by the Allies during the first two and a half years of the war will probably be found a matter of Russian interference. Secret agreements among the Allies are certain to be presented to the world before long, and it will probably be shown that the doubledealing ministers of the czar were playing the in the record of Canadian arms since the game of the Germans in preventing Greece and other Balkan nations from an early lining up on the side of the Allies.

PHILIP GIBBS AT WORK.

[New York Times.] "I met Philip Gibbs late in August, 1914, off to free lance in France—The enemy had hunted us out of Belgium. He is still alive. I cannot quite make that out. On Charing Cross Station that day so long age he already looked as man retreat be made a rout. The Hindenburg if he had been dead, but had come to life for a few hours. Anxious, he didn't know where he was going; for the matter of that he rarely does. Like a sound modern journalist, stand by the enemy this side of the Belgian bor- he gives himself into the charge of events, to let them do what they like with him. He hands himself over to luck and trusts solely to Joss. "Since that day, accompanied by Philip Gibbs, I have been through scenes and circumstances which were so hideous and horrifying that they seemed unreal, like the dark, rapid, and senseless panorama of a nightmare, hausting both to body and mind. My ilfe has been reduced by years as a consequence; but Philip Gibbs still goes on, pallid as ever, tense, frail, his small mouth a little open man who gets up and announces that like the beak of a startled bird. He always reminded me of he has nothing to say and then goes a bird, acting by instinct, quick, capricious, uncertain whether he was on the right perch, apparently delicate, but able to travel further than a locomotive. I give him best. The dance he led me! It is needless for me to recount our adventures. He has done it. I believe he could write in didn't bother about maps, gayly led us on, while our hearts were in our boots. The Boche was somewhere—heaven knew where—in front, and the French blew up bridges behind hind us. We went out of villages at one end while Fritz

It is true that we have had to carry him, imp and spent, to bed, and have wondered whether we should be found holding his lady-like hands whether we should be found holding his lady-like hands and trying to catch his last whispered word when the Boche arrived next day. But since then he has got his second who is overworked. But before you locate him you will find 939 men who wind and has continued in a way which is nothing less than do not work hard enough. miraculous to those who think they know him, If any fond and foolish amateur thinks that, had he the chance, he stated that Turkey shall no longer have the ruling of Turkish-Armenia.

Armenian prisoners are to be liberated at once and the Allies are given the right to take control of all vilayets peopled by Armenians, should they deem it necessary. This puts an end to the periodic massacres that have been visited on Armenians. For centuries the rule with Turkish governments has been, when in doubt, slaughter some more Armenians.

Miraculous to those who think they know him, If any fond and foolish amateur thinks that, had he the chance, he could do as well as Philip Gibbs, I can assure him that that war correspondent's diabolic activity, pallid but obstinate courage and fecundity of dispatches would daunt and sicken him in a week's free competition, I have tried and know. His capacity for work is unreasonable. Worn out with a day's toil in the mud and tangle of the battleground, stuntiday, by the aid of countless cigarettes, Gibbs goes tensely spellbound, and drops the sheets of his dispatch on the floor endlessly, with the apparent ease of a snowflake. He takes nothing but cigarettes till he has finished. No. In the Kurds rose in rebellion they were turned loose on the Armenians to slay and plunder. Thus outstanding figures of the war."

'A Scottish Soldier's Dream'

(Sketch and Lines by Lavina J. Carrick, Whitechurch, Ont.)

In Flanders, in trenches cold, A Scottish soldier lay, Then dreamed he of his village home In Scotland, far away. And there his white-haired mother sat, She kissed her darling son: His wife was there with loving hands To clasp her absent one.

"Welcome," they said, "our soldier bold, The cruel fight is done. Around the fireside bright, We've thought upon thy well-loved name And of the dreadful fight.

"We saw the armies marching on, And thy loved form in sight"-He heard the battle's roar, When from the dream the soldier woke, For still the fight was raging wild, As dreadful as before. And in the fight the soldier fell. Oh, dark the tale we have to tell, Of that sad field of war.

Far from his dear old village home, They made the soldier's grave, A prayer they said above the sod, Where now the grasses wave. And far away a mother weeps A wife her silent vigil keeps For him the true and brave Poor Mathew was squelched. If it had been anyone else but Flora he would have had an impertinent answer ready, but his tongue seemed to cleave to the roof of his mouth. He did murmur something about "these women" as he unfastened his horse from the gate post and climbed into the buggy. If Flora was going to let a little thing like his being too late to take her to the dance come between them, then it was time they broke off their engagement. As he took one last look toward her home, he noticed how dark the night had become all at once.

The moon that had been doing its best all night had disappeared behind a dark cloud. A slight breeze fanned his cheeks and he heard the leaves of the trees rustle uneasily.

From away in the distance a muffled sound of thunder reached his ears. There was going to be a storm. "Glidap!" One light touch on the reins and Mat's horse started out on a gallop. minutes. The stillness was almost as terrifying as the storm.

Flora longed to cry out for help, but there was no one within hearing distance. Her father was the only other person in the house, and his room was at the rear. He was deaf, and could sleep through any kind of storm. Suddenly a sound broke the stillness. Flora's trembling stopped immediately. She listened. The sound was repeated. Someone was knocking the big brass knocker on the front door. Who was it at that hour? Flora asked herself.

A telegram from her mother, was the it at that hour? Flora asked herself.

A telegram from her mother, was the answer that presented itself. Flora jumped from the bed and slipped into slippers and a kimono.

sink down with a cry of thankfulness. When she flashed on the lights there stood Bonnie, Mat's merle collie. It was quite some time before Flora could become composed enough to pat the dog. He was shaking all over.

Mat was with him, was her thought as she threw open the door. But no Mat was there, It was almost dawn and the storm had cleared. The dog shrank back at the sight of the wet landscape. Who yould have knocked. One look at Bonnie answered the question. He had reached up with his nose and lifted the knocker.

reached up with his nose and lifted the knocker.

He seemed to be pleading for something. Mat had been hurt and the dog had come for help. She had read of such things in stories. With this thought came conviction.

"Where is he, old fellow, and how was he hurt?" Flora asked frantically.

The dog waged his tail as if he understood, and that convinced Flora the more. A tree had fallen on Mat on his way home, or he had been struck by lightning. Mat in that storm! The thought was terrible. Oh, what could she do? Madly she raced upstairs and dressed hurriedly. It was daylight by the time she was down again.

Poor Mat had been pinned down by that tree all night! Oh, what if he was dead! Bonnie would lead her to himbut Bonnie wouldn't. Nothing would coax that dog to leave the house. This was odd—for every dog she had read of that had gone in search of help had always led the rescuer to the scene of the accident. Perhaps—but the sound of the telephone bell broke her thought and she hurried to answer it. Someone had found Mat, was her first thought as she lifted the receiver.

"Hello!" she managed, timidly.

"Hello!" some excitedly from the other end of the line. "Have you seen anything of Bonnie?" Flora nearly dropped the receiver with joy. It was Mathew.

"Yes; the old darling is here," she cried. "Oh, Mat, I thought you were hurt or dead! Bonnie rapped at the door, and he's shaking as if something awful had happened."

"I went away without him," Mat answered in a tone of relief, "and he's terrified of stews."

"I went away without him," Mat answered in a tone of relief, "and he's terrified of storms. It is characteristic of collies, you know."
"Come right over and get him. I'm frightened of everything." The strain was beginning to tell on Plora, and she burst into tears.

"I will be right over," she heard Mat

"I will be right over," she heard Mat say as the receiver went up.
Flora sank down on the rug beside Bonnie and wept softly. Suddenly it dawned upon her that she had broken off her engagement with Mat and called him Mr. Burgess, to say nothing of ordering him from the house. She had been silly and disturbed over nothing. "What will I do, Bonnie?" she asked in bewilderment.

The old dog looked up into her face with his big, kind, expressive eyes. Flora thought, as if to say: "Why, he's the best master in the world! Kiss him and make up, of course What else would you do?"

"That's just what I will do," she exclaimed eagerly, as she put her arms around Bonnie's neck and hugged him for the suggestion.

NOTICE TO SOLDIERS ON HARVEST LEAVE.

Attention is directed to a recent announcement published in the Press by the Military Service Branch, Department of Justice, parding extensions to be granted to men EXEMPTED AS FARMERS.

It is pointed out that this DOES NOT IN ANY WAY AFFECT MEN WHO HAVE BEEN ORDERED BY THE REGISTRAR TO REPORT to Depot Battalions and who have thereafter received leave of absence from the Military Authorities. Once a man has been ordered to report for duty by the Registrar he leaves the jurisdiction of the Registrar and comes under that of the Department of Militia and Defence, and is to be considered as a soldier. This applies to men of the 20 to 22 Class who have been ordered to report by the Registrar in virtue of the cancellation of exemptions by Order-in-Council of the 20th April last, as well as to those ordered to report in the usual way on refusal of claim for exemption, or on expiration of exemption granted. All men, accordingly, who have been ordered to report, and are therefore SOLDIERS, and who have subsequently been granted harvest leave by the military authorities, MUST. There is the Mending to Do THEREVER there are children there is plenty of mending to do, and what mother does not dread the mending of clothes and stockings?

It may seem easy work, but there is no more severe strain on the eyes, and eyestrain is nerve-strain.

Unfortunately, it is usually necessary for the busy mother to leave the mending until some quiet hour when the children have been got off to bed. This necessitates working by artificial light, with unusual straining of the eyes ..

It is this straining of the eyes which makes one feel so tired after mending, sewing, shopping or doing fancy work.

When you think of how constantly the eyes are employed, and of the continual changing of the focus to suit the distance of the object viewed, you may not be surprised to know that the optic nerve consumes an enormous amount of nervous

For this reason straining of the eyes brings on fatigue, and often leads to nervous breakdown.

There is no magical way by which exhausted nerves can be restored.

It takes time and patience in order that the depleted nerve cells may be nourished back to health and vigor, but you may be sure of satisfactory results if you use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food regularly.

We know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is composed of the vital substances which go to the upbuilding of the nervous system. We have the utmost confidence in its curative properties, because we have seen it tested in so many thousands of cases. But how are we going to prove this to you unless you try it? You are the one to be benefited, so it remains for you to make the test.

Try it when you feel tired out and discouraged. Try it for sleeplessness and irritability. Try it for nervous headache and indigestion. It is not a mere relief, and for this reason you must persevere in its use until the lost vigor is restored to the nerves. The fact that the results are both thorough and lasting will encourage you to continue the use of this food cure until you feel strong and well.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Pole, Glencoe, Ont., was the scene of a pretty wedding on October 30, when their youngest daughter, Lettie Irene, was united in marriage to George W. Hodgson of Cnatham. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Whaley of Appin. The bride was charmingly gowned in shell-pink crepe de chine with overdress of ivory georgette crepe trimmed with French lace and seed pearls, with veil of French tulle arranged in an original manner plaited and bound with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of roses and maiden hair fern. After the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served. The young couple motored to London, the bride traveling in a suit of reindeer brown and seal furs, the gift of the groom. Among the guests were friends from Sarnia, Chatham and London.

Apples in Bloom.

Cook red apples in bolling water until soft. Have the water half surround the apples, and turn often. Remove skins carefully, that the red color may remain, and arrange on serving dish. To the water add one cup of sugar, grated rind of one lemon and juice of one orange; simmer until reduced to one cup; cool and pour over the apples. Serve with cream sauce.

APPLE RECIPES

Apples Balls With a Mixture of Fruit.

Peel large apples, with a potato scoop cut out small balls, dropping them into water with a little vinegar added to keep them white. Prepare a mixture of grapefruit pulp, pineapple and banana and put into glasses; add a few of the apple balls, pour over all the juice left from the fruit, which has been boiled down to a sugar. Cool and serve at once, or the apples may turn brown.

Apricot Sherbet Served in Apple Shells. Select bright red apples of uniform size, rub until they have a high polish. Cut off the blossom end and scoop out the pulp; carefully notch the edge. Fill with sherbet and serve upon apple leaves.

Beat the white of one egg stiff; add the well-beaten yolk of one egg and gradually add one cup of powdered sugar. Beat one-half cup of thick cream and one-fourth cup of milk until stiff; combine the mixture and add one-half teaspoon of vanilla.

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—The bowling season in Toronto, like all other sports has suffered through the flu. However, the leagues have managed to play most of their scheduled matches, for with the large number of leagues organized this year playing off post-poned games is a difficult matter.

The interest in the popular indoor game this season appears to be very keen, and possibly one of the canon dependence of the played for the McCallum trophy since A. J. Hartmann and company lifted the famous silverware from the Montreal rollers. At any rate there is every indication that the defenders are going to be kept busy, for many teams are casting covetous eyes on the cup, including Hamilton and London bowlers. Baseball players have a pretty easy time. It's different in the army. You rise at command, go to bed at command and devote most of the intervening time to doing things at command. President Wilson Sees the Need

N a recent letter to President Wilson, this statement is made by Secretary McAdoo: "It is obvious that L every part of our industrial and economic life should be maintained at its maximum strength in order that each may contribute in the fullest measure to the vigorous prosecution of the war.

"Our local public utilities must not be permitted to become weakened."

President Wilson said in his reply: "It is essential that these utilities should be maintained at their maximum efficiency and that everything reasonably possible should be done with that end in view.'

In telephone service, as in other utilities, the costs of labor and all material for operation, betterment and upkeep have increased heavily and steadily. It has been necessary to increase radically and quickly both service and facilities.

A readjustment of rates, of minor importance to the individual subscriber, will enable the telephone company to keep up its standard of service.

and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Prof. Whited avers that it is due to the fact that chickens and cows have monocular single vision—that is to say, they can see two ways at the same time and each eye simultaneously can be focused on a different object. Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your drugglst for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, down the road in front and turn off then.

The chicken on the right side of the road runs to the left side, and vice versa, because the eye of the creature which sees and recognizes the danger is kept on the car or dangerous object. To turn to the right or to the left and escape would blind the animal as it turns and it cannot afford even for that fraction of a minute to take the chance. If a cow or a chicken runs across the road in front of the car, the eye with which it first observed will keep the car clearly and continuously in view and allow the animal to escape pending danger. so don't be fooled. Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs." that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping. When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative, because tive," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undiscreted food passes out of the bowels.

Which makes you see these coids. Thus, according to the retina 4,000 times, your pendulum swings that many times with it and you see violet. Thus, according to the number and size of the pendulum beats, you recognize a particular color. Form, contour, distance and perspective are perceived visually only within limits. If the human eyes could see things with 1 to 4,000 vibrations or with 7,000 and all higher vibrations, human knowledge would be greatly multiplied. Perhaps this conficusion can be proved by Prof. H. L. Whited's explanation of why a chicken or a cow crosses the road in the face of danger.

Whited avers that it is due to the course, daring and resolution in dealing with others, yet contrary forces interpose weighty obstacles, which will put those Martial qualities to a test The prospective visually only within limits. TOMMY, HAPPY GIGGLES AND BOSSY COW

One day Tommy went to visit his grandma, who lived on a little farm out in the country.

There were no children near, and Tommy soon grew tired of playing by himself and began throwing stones at old Bossy, the cow.

"Here, here!" cried a squeaky voice, and Tommy's little friend, Happy Giggles, hopped from behind a clump of trees and came running toward Tommy. "What are you doing that for?"

"Just for fun," laughed Tommy. "I love to see her kick up her heels and run."

"How would you like to have some one stone you to make you run?" asked Happy Giggles, a frown on his funny little face. "Would you think it very le face. "Would you think it very my? Certainly not. And I'm sure if runny? Certainly not. And I'm sure if you'd stop and take a second thought you'd know Bossy doesn't like it either. Come here, Bossy, old lady." With a toss of her brown head the old cow joined Happy Giggles and Tommy.

"Everything's all right," laughed Happy Giggles, patting her side.
"Tommy didn't really mean to hurt you." you."
"Funny way to play." snapped Bossy.
"In all my life on this farm I can never remember being stoned before, and I just wondered what I had done to de-

"I certainly am," said Tommy quickly. "For I wouldn't want anyone to throw stones at me."

"Well, instead of teasing Bossy, you should be good to her," replied Happy Giggles. "Folks seldom think of the debt of gratitude they owe to their cows. Why, cows are our best friends. They give us rich milk from which the farmer's wife makes cheese and butter. Their hides have been used for leather for clothing. Their horns and hair are used for a good many things. Why, in the olden times before horses were so plentiful, cows were used for plowing the fields. So you see what a good friend the cow is to us and how kind we should be to her in return."

"Well, I never knew a cow was anything more than just a cow, before," laughed Tommy. "I never thought of her as a friend, but if she's the friend you say she is, I'm sorry I ever thought of teasing her."

"I knew it," said Happy Giggles kindly. "And I'm sure if all little boys realized the great debt of gratitude we owe to the family of cows, they'd never throw stones at them or treat them cruel, but would be kind to them."

The dinner bell rang and Tommy ran into the house to eat his dinner All afternoon he gathered clover from the next field and fed Bossy, and when night came he found the day had slipped by very quickly.

I'm sure if Happy Giggles had returned he would have told Tommy it was just because instead of causing Bossy worry and trouble he had made her very happy. For the greatest happiness one can find is being kind to those who try to serve us. you."
"I certainly am," said Tommy quick-ly. "For I wouldn't want anyone to

MY SOLDIER HUSBAND

Why Does Madge's Father Telegraph to Dr. Pettit?

"That's settled, then," he said, as if relieved, and going back to his desk he wrote the very substantial check for which I had asked, and handed it to me. "You won't be offended, dear," he said hesitatingly, "If I suggest that you use this money as carefully as possible? These are troubled times, you know, and it is possible that even the most comfortably situated of us may not be able to put our hands quickly on a sum like this."

An Unlocked Door.

An Unlocked Door.

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,

Seeing is not always believing, for the provided of the seeing the provided in the provided provided in the provided provided in the provided prov ment, but I repressed that thought with a firm hand.

My father himself escorted me to the door when I left, and I had almost reached my own home when I remembered that I had left in the library a knitted shawl belonging to my mother-in-law, which upon going out I had thrown over my head and shoulders, cloaked though I was, at her insistent request.

cloaked though I was, at her insistent request.

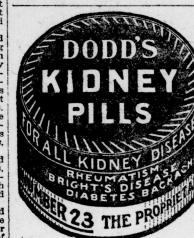

I hurried back, and without ringing, tried the door, disliking to summon the man for so trivial a cause. The door was unlocked, and I hurried down the hall, my rubber-heeled shoes making no noise. But just outside the door of the library I halted, surprised with the vague unexpiness again rising in my vague uneasiness again rising in my mind.

For my father was speaking, hurriedly, energetically into a telephone.

"Western Union? Take this rush telegram quickly, please, to Dr. Herbert Pettit, 367 J. street, Washington, D.C."

The thought used in inventing ex-cuses, if used in time, might save the Public is Warned against using Dangerous Hair Preparations

Recent research on the part of hair specialists reveals the fact that many disagreeable and obstinate scalp diseases are caused and ren-dered incurable by the indiscriminate use of dered incursible by the indiscriminate use of shampoo preparations.

Chemical analysis proves that most liquid preparations for shampooing contain an excess of alkali (a harmful irritant) which eats its way into the pores of the scale, rots the scots of the hair, thus causing it to fall out.

The surest, safest and easiest way in to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Veinor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of pure non-injurious liquid that will relieve itching of the scale, falling hair and dandruff, also improve the natural color of the hair. Veinor being in concentrated form never apole and will bees

Who is it in France you are most interested in-a husband, a brother, a son, a friend you long to see again?

Picture this boy, trudging, tired and sleepy, back from the trenches.

He sees posted up at an army hut a notice of the overwhelming success of the Victory Loan 1918.

He sees the notice posted that more Canadians bought Victory Bonds than in any previous loan, that money to carry on the fight is assured.

He sees that his self-sacrifice, his courage and self-denial are appreciated, that mighty battalions of Canadian money are marching to reinforce him.

Can't you see his tired face brighten?

Can't you see him hitch his pack and shift his gun with renewed resolve?

What a mental bracer this bulletin will be to the Army of Brave Souls who fight that we may be free?

If Canada-at-home will keep constantly before it the picture of Canadain-France, then every previous record of investment in Canada will be shattered by the message we will send to our army when the Victory Loan 1918 is closed

WEDNESDAY

O PERSONS IN CHARGE OF CHURCHES, SCHOOLS AND THEATRES IN THE CITY OF LONDON

London, do certify that by orders of the Board of Health, passed at a meeting held this morning, the following are permits to open as stated:

1. Churches on Sunday, November the 3rd. 2. Theatres, Moving Picture Shows, Pool Rooms and Public Meetings 3. Schools and Institutions of Learning, on Monday, November 11.

4. Sunday Schools on Sunday, November 10. BUT THE CLOSING ORDER STILL STANDS, SUBJECT TO FUR-THER ORDERS, FOR:

1. London Street Railway.

3. Public Libraries. 4. Skating Rinks.

Citizens of London are warned that it is still absolutely essential for safety that every precaution be taken to prevent the further spread of the influenza epidemic.

The precautions issued by this board, from time to time, through the public press, should be carefully observed. Permission to open theatres is granted with some hesitation by the Board of Health, and the public re warned of the absolute necessity for continued carefulness. Dated this 31st day of October, A.D., 1918.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY DISTRIBUTING VALUABLE BULBS TO ITS MEMBERS

The fall premium distribution of the London Horticultural Society is now being made. This consists of 45,000 tulip bulbs. There are three special varieties, each member receiving one dozen of each variety, or a total of three dozen bulbs.

These bulbs are of special value, and owing to the lateness of the season, members are urged to call with their cards promptly. Those not intending to take up the premium are requested to hand their cards to someone who will take care of the bulbs.

The beds at the public library are to be planted by the society. The officers hope the public will watch these beds in the spring.

The London Horticultural Society has had a very successful year, the membership now totalling 1,103.

The annual meeting of the society will be held at the Western Fair IN QUESTION OF TAXES bership now totalling 1,103.

The annual meeting of the society will be held at the Western Fair offices, Dominion Savings Building, Thursday, November 7, at 8 p.m. All members and those intending to join the society are requested to be present.

WHEN SHOULD GREAT VICTORY CELEBRATION BE HELD? QUESTION NOW

Laid to-Rest.

His chaplain writes: "We laid Capt. Fraser's body in a grave in Dury Crucifi' Cemetery, with a slab at he head bearing an inscription, and I may add that your son was one of the best loved soldiers in his battalion, and in his grave rests the body of one of whom his country may well be proud, and for you and others who mourn for him in Canada I offer the assurance that he died the death of a noble and brave soldier."

Another officer writes: "The heavy loss which you and the nation have sustained would indeed be depressing were it not redeemed by the knowledge that the brave comrade for whom we mourn performed his duties fearlessly and well, as became a good soldier, and gave his life for the great cause of human liberty and the defence of the Empire."

In connection with the celebration which it was decided to hold in commomentation of the victories of recent date that have been won by the Allied forces, Mayor C. R. Somerville thinks that it would be held some time this week. He thinks that it would be an opportune time to ask the Victory bond committee to Join in the celebration, and make it a large affair, befitting the occasion.

Controller C. H. Merryfield, who is one of the members of the committee, and according to the rule he is chairman, having been the first named, differs from the mayor in this respect, the is of the opinion that the "flu" situation is not yet well enough under control to warrant a large gathering such as a "victory" celebration would pring together. He thinks that it would be the wise to postpone the celebration until some future date.

CHURCHES LIKELY TO BENEFIT AS RESULT 'FLU' CLOSING ORDER

Churchless Sundays Not Without Advantage, Says Dr. Barber.

BRINGS WORK TO FORE

Their Importance Has Been

make itself unnecessary as speedily as possible, but in the present state of society a world without a church would be another story. Closing the churches might not leave the world in utter darkness, but it would mean the hamstringing of most notable efforts after human betterment. It would mean the silencing of the main witness to the supremacy of moral and spiritual ideals.

"'Find me ten square miles,' said J. R. Lowell, once ambassador to the "Find me ten square mies, said J.
R. Lowell, once embassador to the court of St. James, 'outside a living Christianity, where man's life is as safe and his rights are protected, and I'll give up.' 'Il give up.'
Shows Opportunity.

Shows Opportunity.

"People say, perhaps, these things would survive without maintaining churches. One might as well expect music without an organ, and water without a well, as expect Christian Ideals to flourish without an institution to provide the say of the same of Ideals to flourish without an institution to promote them. We ought not, however, to identify the church with mere holding of meetings. The closing of worship for a few weeks might be a great blessing if it taught the church to see how big its opportunity is,
"The church is the biggest field in the world for investment today, because the world needs infinitely and always the thing the church was founded to furnish, the love and life of Jesus."

The minister announced that there would be in the evening a memorial service for those who had recently died, and read the names of some fifteen former members of the congregation who have died during the present epidemic. It was also announced that all week-day work would be resumed this week.

"Pestilence Papagear."

"Pestilence Panacea,"

"A Pestilence Panacea," was the subject of the sermon preached by Rev. J. N. Norton of the Maitland Street Baptist Church Sunday evening. A pestilence is in a general sense a contagious, infectious disease that is epidemic. Israel could not be said to be suffering from a pestilence in the strictest sense, but in so far as its suffering was epidemical. A deadly pestilence was among the people of the world ever since the first parents left their Eden home. Their children have been a prey to pestilence of one kind or another and from then till now their children have thought of panacea. Israel but followed the natural way in seeking a remedy.

There is little doubt but that home remedles were tried first, this and that "Pestilence Panacea," remedies were tried first, this and that suggestion was followed, until in desperation they appealed to Moses with the request that he plead with Jehovah. Open scorn and scepticism must have met the announcement of the remedy, "Look at the Brazen Serpent and Live."

Live."
"But we have the assurance that who "But we have the assurance that who soever looked was healed. Since then," said the speaker, "that pestilence has been continued by the work of that old serpent, the devil, and is known by the name of sin. Time will not suffice to tell of all its terrible destruction, but the history of the race is largely the account of its loathsome and palaful ravages and a vain search for a panacea.

ful ravages and a vain search for a panacea.

"Jesus came to put away sin. He announced to Nicodemus a remedy that has been met by the same scornfulness and scepticism that met Moses' announcement. Just as Moses lifted the serpent in the desert, so must the son of man be lifted up in order that everyone who trusts in him may have a lift of the ages (Weymouth). Jesus Christ declared peace with him to be the panacea for the pestilence of sin," he said.

First Presbyterian.

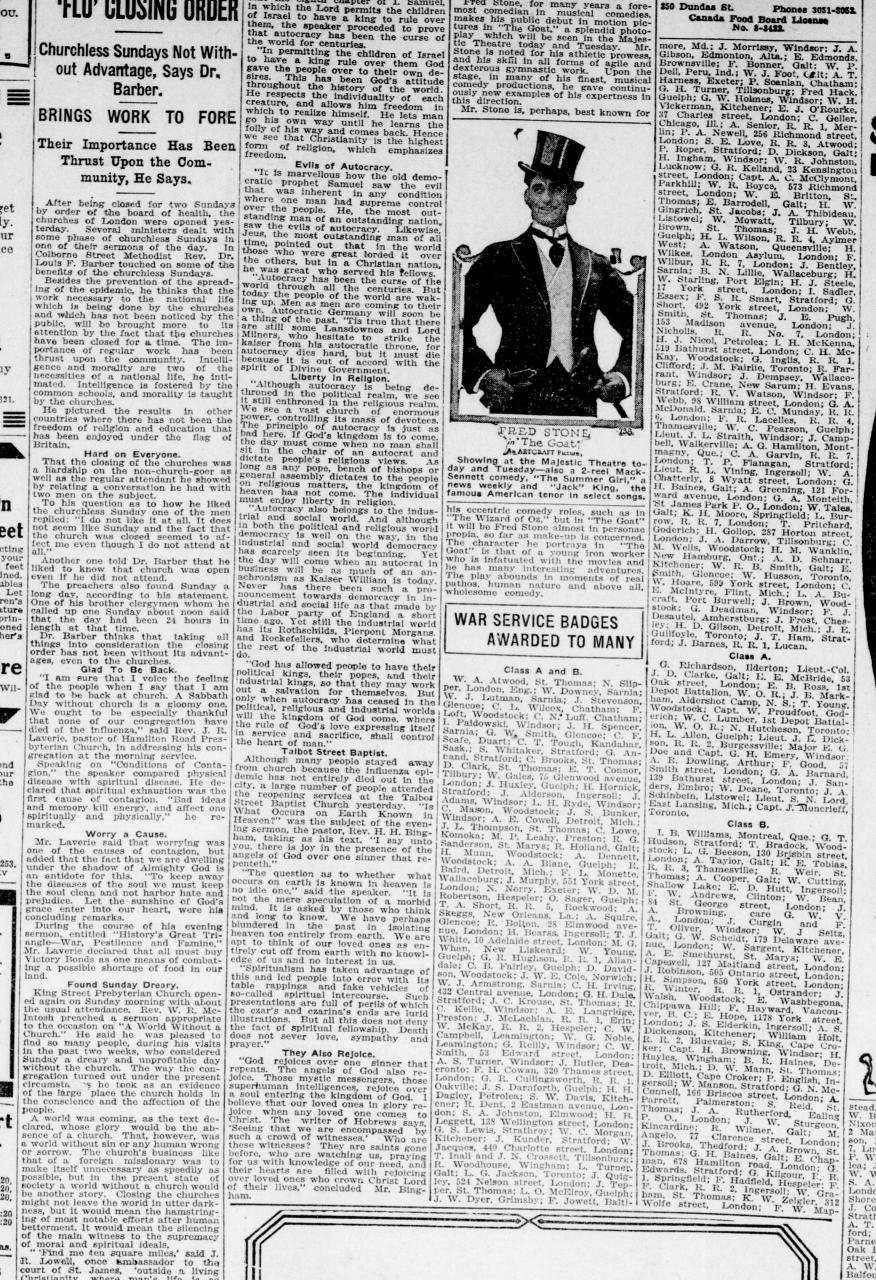

"Is Autocracy Routed?" was the subject upon which Rev. W. J. Knox preached in the First Presbyterian Church last evening. Taking as his text the eighth chapter of I. Samuel, in which the Lord permits the children of Israel to have a king to rule over them, the speaker proceeded to prove that autocracy has been the curse of the world for centuries.

"In permitting the children of Israel to have a king rule over them God gave the people over to their own desires. This has been God's attitude throughout the history of the world. He respects the individuality of each creature, and allows him freedom in which to realize himself. He lets man go his own way until he learns the folly of his way and comes back. Hence we see that Christianity is the highest form of religion, which emphasizes freedom.

Fred Stone, for many years a foremost comedian in musical comedies, makes his public debut in motion pictures in "The Goat," a splendid photoplay which will be seen in the Majestic Theatre today and Tuesday. Mr. Stone is noted for his athletic prowess, and his skill in all forms of agile and dexterous gymnastic work. Upon the stage, in many of his finest, musical comedy productions, he gave continuously new examples of his expertness in this direction.
