THE CAMPAIGN IN WEST KENT

Successful Meeting Held by Mr. Fraser in South Buxton—Good Attendance.

Liberals Hold Gathering in Big Point—Gauthier Delivers Another Address.

A very successful Liberal-Conservative meeting was held last evening in Mr. Fraser's interests at South Buxton. The hall was crowded and the speakers were accorded an attentive and, at times, enthusiastic hearing.

A. E. Robinson, of Raleigh, presided, and in a brief and appropriate address introduced the speakers. John S. Fraser, the Liberal-Conservative candidate, was given a very hearty reception. He expressed his appreciation thereof and proceeding placed before the audience clearly and pointedly the principles upon which he appealed for their support. Mr. Fraser outlined his convictions upon the assessment of the railway and other corporations and assured the gathering that, if elected, he would introduce legislation to remove the injustice of the taxation to the farmers he believed to be in existence under the Ross enactments. The Liberal-Conservative candidate also briefly outlined the policy of Mr. Whitney, with which he expressed himself as in hearty accord.

Mr. Fraser's address was received with applause. Thomas Scullard dealt with the development of New Ontario from its inception. He had recently visited the Clergue works at the Soo and illustrated their development in a most interesting manner. He pointed out that the development of New Ontario received its initial impetus by the genius and foresight of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, who brought about the building of the C. P. R. All this was then vigorously opposed by Mr. Ross, who is on record as designating it a barren country.

J. M. Pike followed. He briefly took up the issues of the day, dwelling especially upon the educational system and the school book monopoly, and the West Elgin and other election scandals.

The meeting was concluded with hearty cheers for the King, Whitney and Fraser.

The Liberals held a meeting at Big Point last night in Mr. Fraser's Hall. The building was full. Geo. Stephens, M. P., spoke for 40 minutes. Then Mr. Gauthier, of Quebec, spoke for an hour. N. H. Stevens closed the meeting.

L. E. & D. R. R. MEETING

Windsor, May 13.—The annual meeting of the Lake Erie & Detroit River Railway was held this morning in the offices of the company at Walkerville. Secretary Radford presented a satisfactory financial statement, and it was accepted without discussion. The officers elected were Messrs. F. H. Walker, President; E. C. Walker, Vice-President; E. Radford, Secretary; J. Harrington, Treasurer. These officers, with Dr. S. A. King of Windsor and W. Aikman of Detroit, comprise the Board of Directors. The question of extending the line from St. Thomas to Niagara Falls was discussed, but no action was taken.

Herb Ryan, of O'Brien Bros. factory, severely lacerated his finger while at work yesterday.

McEachern Killed

Atlanta, City, N. J., May 13.—Archibald McEachern, the Canadian cyclist, was killed this afternoon while racing behind a motor ridden by Boake and Thompson. The chain of McEachern's wheel broke, and he was hurled violently to the ground, sustaining injuries from which he died at the City Hospital an hour later.

McEachern had earned for himself a reputation as one of the world's fastest cyclists. He was well known here in Chatham, where he competed in the C. W. A. meet, and the following year returned and did his training on the "Peninsular track." At the present time he holds the Canadian record.

MINGLE MIRTH AND SADNESS

While the People Celebrate the Queen Regent Weeps—An Impressive Occasion.

Scenes of Gaiety in the Spanish Capital and One of Sorrow in the Royal Palace.

Madrid, May 13.—The brilliant feature yesterday encouraged the crowds to pour out into the streets of the city and every thoroughfare was filled with merry-makers, who were apparently in the happiest humor. The appearance of the streets was in strong contrast to the scene at the same time being enacted within the palace. Here the festivity gave place to a drama. The Queen Regent of Spain was sorrowfully taking leave of her Ministers and practically relinquishing to the hands of her son the solemn charge which she has so fruitfully filled for the past sixteen and a-half years. It was a pathetic scene when the Ministers were ushered into the Queen Regent's Cabinet. She received them with the young King at her side. Premier Sagasta made an eloquent address of leave-taking, delivered in behalf of himself and his colleagues. The Queen Regent listened to Senor Sagasta with emotion. Finally, with tears running down her face, she responded and thanked the Premier for his words.

HOME AGAIN

R. A. Harrington, who was the delegate of the Independent order of Foresters to their great convention at Los Angeles, returned home last evening.

"I had a splendid and fine trip," said Mr. Harrington this morning. "Our special car, with one of the officials of the road on it, gave us the privilege to stop at any point. We had a good convention, and returned by way of San Francisco and the Rockies. The country is fine and the journey a nice one, but tiresome. But taking things all round, Chatham is the place for me."

THE LOCAL BUDGET

Miss Maggie Knight, who has been visiting friends in the city, returned last evening to Bothwell.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the residence of Mrs. Toll, Hyslop street, Thursday, May 15th, at 3 o'clock p. m. Everyone welcome.

Crown Attorney Bell will visit Wallaceburg to-morrow to prosecute a number of persons charged with making the lives of the Belgians uncomfortable. Since the arrival of these foreigners they are alleged to have been subjected to many annoyances which the Crown proposes shall be stopped.

John Barr, of Park Bros., narrowly escaped serious accident while at work yesterday. He was tightening the gear on a lathe machine when his sleeve caught in the gear, and had not James Park been passing at the time and seeing Barr's predicament, stopped the machine, serious results might have followed.

A very pretty wedding takes place to-day at the residence of the bride, 8th concession, Chatham Township, when Miss Flora Smith will be united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Frederick W. Parkyn, of the same township. Ernest Montgomery, of Quinn & Patterson, of this city, will be best man, and Miss Eva Moore, also of this city, will be bridesmaid. Rev. Mr. Nealy will perform the ceremony.

The barns and outbuildings of Eli Bellanger, of Dover, which were destroyed by fire, were insured in the Waterloo Fire Assurance Company for $1,400, which partially covers the loss. The residence was not damaged seriously. It was with the furniture insured in the Gore Mutual Fire Assurance Company, of which company F. P. Weldon is the local agent. The fire, an account of which was given in last night's Planet, was started by a little child who was playing with matches around the barn.

DREAD DEATH CAME CLOSE

Appalling Catastrophe to Party of Pleasure Seekers Narrowly Averted.

Pilot was Unsteady, and Nearly Furnished Father Thames With More Victims.

One of the most horrible accidents in marine history is not recorded to-day, just because Tom Bagnall, Dover, displayed rare presence of mind. It happened last evening that Mr. Tom Bagnall asked Calixte Bechard and family and some of the boarders at the Hotel Aberdeen to take a pleasure trip on Mr. Bagnall's electric vapor launch, the "Water Wag."

It was a merry party that boarded the launch, consisting as it did, of Calixte Bechard, his three daughters, Marie, Rosy and Hilda, Robert Hallman, Julius Peron, Samuel Moore and Tom Bagnall, the owner.

The tale of the almost sudden extermination of the pleasure party is best told in the words of Robert Hallman, the butcher. Mr. Hallman generally tells stories that are founded on facts only, and sometimes barely that. This time, however, Robert's story is backed by Calixte Bechard, Tom Bagnall and all the rest of the party except Sam Moore. Sam, it appears, is blamed for the threatened terrible calamity.

"The start was made safely and all went well till the launch reached the old Foote place, down the river. Up to this time Ernest Cloutier had been at the wheel. From this point perhaps Robt Hallman had best take up the tale.

"Samuel," said the burly butcher, "had been watching with much interest the work of Cloutier at the wheel. Suddenly he made his way over to the wheel and began steering. He based his claim to the position on the fact that he had often steered boats on the River Thames, in England, and, during his life time he had always steered clear of the police. Of course with such recommendations as these," continued the most dealer, "there was no refusing Mr. Moore the position of pilot.

After the crew had been duly cautioned not to talk to the man at the wheel, Sam took the post of honor. He tried to turn the boat around for the return trip and nearly ran up in Backus' orchard. I yelled at him that the strawberries were not ripe yet and so he altered the yacht's course. Soon we met the Euna towing the Koffage down the river. Then Sam tried hard to run down the Koffage and it was only the presence of mind of Tom Bagnall that averted disaster. The girls screamed, the crew looked scared and Sam alone was calm. A hair's breath alone stood between the occupants of the yacht and the icy water. I began to think of the disaster to that millionaire's yacht last year off Cleveland, so I threw the only life preserver over Calixte Bechard as he had only one arm. After the party were safe on land again, Sam Moore explained that in his occupation of fireman, he had absorbed so much electricity while cleaning lamps that he was like a magnet and had affected the compass. The party blamed the trouble on the fact that Mr. Moore used to steer steam boats and this was gasoline, and I asked Sam if he was any good steering schooners across a bar.

"Never mind," responded Sam. "I'll go down again and show you how it was done."

"No, you won't go in my boat," said Mr. Bagnall, "unless you sit down and keep away from the wheel."

"Jack McLeod and William Wilson were to have gone in the party too. But they backed out on learning who the pilot was. They said they couldn't swim."

"I told our pilot," concluded Robert, "that John Maynard had been drowned, while saving his crew, but he was greater because he had saved crew and himself."

Calixte Bechard was congratulating himself this morning that he wasn't at the bottom of the river.

FINE MEDAL

E. J. MacIntyre has Presented a Trophy for Competition in Gun Club's Tournament.

E. J. MacIntyre, the enterprising Maple City Jeweller, is the first to contribute to the trophy list for the Maple City Gun Club tournament.

This morning Mr. MacIntyre formally presented a handsome medal for competition in the June contest. In so doing Mr. MacIntyre took occasion to express his hearty appreciation of the efforts of the club to put on a first class tournament in Chatham, and expressed his opinion that the enterprise would meet with hearty encouragement and support from the citizens.

The MacIntyre medal has been presented subject to the approval of the executive committee of the club, which will also decide the event for which it shall become the trophy.

BOERS CAPTURED

London, May 13.—The weekly report of Lord Kitchener, received to-day, shows that nineteen Boers were killed, that six were wounded, that 802 were made prisoners, that nine surrendered, and that 600 rifles, 157 wagons, 40 horses and 4,300 head of cattle fell into the hands of the British.

Gen. Ian Hamilton's columns have arrived at the Western Railroad, after sweeping the Liebenburg district of South-western Transvaal. These troops brought in 357 prisoners, and practically all the wagons and stock of the Boer commandos in that district. This makes a reduction in General Delarey's forces of 800 men since he defeated Major Paris at Roviraine's Fontein, March 8, and captured General Methuen.

GRAIN DUTIES IN BRITAIN

Commons Rejects Harcourt's Amendment Which Declined to Accept Them.

Laurier's Mission to England has Nothing to do With the Matter Says Mr. Balfour.

London, May 13.—The House of Commons to-day, by a vote of 396 to 188, rejected the amendment offered by Sir William Vernon Harcourt (Liberal) at the second reading of the Finance Bill in the House of Commons yesterday that this House declines to impose duties on grain, flour and other food of the people.

In the course of a speech supporting the amendment made by Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader in the House, referred to the speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, in the Canadian Parliament the previous night, and demanded to know whether the policy Sir Wilfrid Laurier foreshadowed in the interests of Canada was to be the policy of the British Government. Sir Henry also demanded to know if the free ports of England were to be shut by preferential duties.

Replying to the Liberal leader, Mr. A. J. Balfour, the Government leader in the House, said that the mission of the Canadian Premier to England had absolutely nothing to do, directly or indirectly, with the grain tax, which was imposed for purely fiscal reasons.

NEW ONTARIO IS FOR WHITNEY.

When the Rossites gave the new seats to Northern Ontario, they did so with the idea that they could control that region, but each day the evidences are multiplying as to the discontent there with the existing administration.

Mr. Whitney, in his tour met with a far more enthusiastic reception than Mr. Ross, and more than one Reformist in those districts will on May 29th vote Conservative.

Here is one more instance in that essential, supplied by Mr. W. J. Kearns, of Kearns Brothers, Sault Ste. Marie, who, speaking on Saturday last said—

"I have always been a supporter of the Ontario government. I have never polled a Conservative vote in my life, but I will this time, for I have come to the conclusion that we want a change. I have only been on a public platform once in my life, and that was in 1896, but I'll face Mr. Ross or Mr. Stratton.

"He has had my support, and I have helped to put him where he is, but I am going to help to put him away from there."

New Ontario will help to swell the majority of the Whitney government.

ROSS VS. MOWAT.

The Hamilton Spectator draws attention to two assertions made in yesterday's Toronto Globe:

Toronto has profited by 30 years of the best Government any country ever had.

In the three years Premier Ross has been in office he has set the wheels of progress in motion.

If the second paragraph is true, 27 years of the "best Government any country ever had" was bestowed by a Government which let the "wheels of progress" remain idle.

And look where the Globe puts that wonderful man, Sir Oliver Mowat, and the dead man, Hon. Mr. Hardy.

According to the Globe, which, when they were in office, lauded them to the skies, and told people that they were the greatest and best statesmen in the country, model legislators and champions of progress—they were nothing but a couple of Stick-in-the-Muds.

ONTARIO SHOULD UNITE AGAINST THE MACHINE.

The machine is, of course, aimed at Conservatives and Independents. It is instituted to deprive them of their votes by fraud at Provincial and Federal elections.

But there is good reason to believe that fair-minded Liberals despise it and would like to see it destroyed.

No honorable Liberal ever asked that this ballot-box stuffing expedient be established.

Nobody outside of the machine itself can defend the thing, or conscientiously vote for it.

What is there in it for the non-official Liberal except the long procession of painful confessions and judgments all telling of wrong committed, and of meanness resorted to under a party name that deserves better treatment?

The public-spirited Liberal, and indeed good men of all parties, would have been reassured if the Government had exhibited independence of the machine by deposing its head-centres, by punishing its agents, and by dropping the politicians who are too closely associated with it.

Unhappily this guarantee of better things for the future has not been given; and the battle to-day is the battle of the machine against the people.

There is no reason why the elector, be his political classification what it may, should vote for the continued ascendancy of this evil influence.

There is every reason why every man of honor should do his best to put it down.

It is time for a change.—Mail and Empire.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

On all sides there are indications of defection among former supporters of the Ross Government. Among those

The Stimulus of Pure Blood

That is what is required by every organ of the body, for the proper performance of its functions.

It prevents biliousness, dyspepsia, constipation, kidney complaint, rheumatism, catarrh, nervousness, weakness, faintness, pimples, blotches, and all cutaneous eruptions.

It perfects all the vital processes.

William Ross, Sarnia, Ont., took Hood's Sarsaparilla to make his blood pure. He writes that he was all run down, his appetite was gone, and his nerves were so unstrung he could not rest nor sleep. He had tried many remedies without benefit when Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and he began its use. Three bottles of this medicine entirely cured him.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

already noted is another of considerable significance. On Saturday the Ottawa Irish Catholic organ, United Canada, in a leading editorial announced itself as out in opposition to the Ross Government, and it has a few plain truths to advance as its reason for taking the stand. It says:

Without going into details, it may seem proper and just that United Canada should define and state briefly its own position in this provincial campaign. We would prefer to remain passive—or chained to the Government chariots like the other Catholic papers—and it would be more profitable to do so, but duty, as we see it, points in another direction.

In the first place we take sides because there is nothing left of the old Ontario Liberalism, except the sign over the door. If there were any political issue in this campaign involving the teaching or principles of Liberalism on one side, and Toryism on the other, we say at once, having been brought up under the shadow of the great names of Gladstone, Blake and Macdonald, and there could be but one course open. But this is purely a domestic, municipal battle, in which the real issue is: Decency against indecency—honesty against grafters—law against anarchy. To you who have all your lives been Liberals, we say, you cannot take issue with us on the commandment "Thou shalt not steal." To the young men of Ontario of both parties—you who have no fears or fetters—we appeal, to end the reign of this domestic dynasty at Toronto, and drive the money changers out of the temple. This so-called reform county council has been 32 years in office, and they rest their claim for a new lease on the statement that the opposition could not find men qualified to be provincial ministers. Just fancy! We can stand at the parliament gates in Ottawa and call six men out of Central ward who are the peers of Ross's colleagues. The ministers are simply the delegates of their various creeds, and the creatures of the wealthy criminal class. This is our position, and we shall stand by it quite regardless of consequences until that aggregation of antiquated bogus reformers are driven from power.

Whitney Will Win

Whitney and an honest ballot.

Register! Register! Register!!!

Fraser and Davidson will be the heroes of People's Day, May 29.

Fraser will win—and his supporters won't have to work on Sundays to do it, either.

Surely the Pardo workers should be able to do all their campaigning in six days of the working week, without desecrating the Sabbath.

Evidently the Banner has been cautioned not to expose the weakness of the Government's educational policy, and is waiting for Ross to discover

FAT NERVES.

A whirl of excitement was recently caused among scientists by the discovery of "how nerves act."

Healthy nerves are fat nerves. It is fat in the core of a nerve that by hardening and softening creates nerve action.

Maybe this explains why Scott's Emulsion has always been such a remarkable remedy for nervousness.

Scott's Emulsion makes fat nerves. It feeds them with fat. Good for all forms of nervousness and for neuralgia.

some plan of adopting Mr. Whitney's ideas, as he has so often done.

Notwithstanding the exigencies of the campaign it would seem that those Pardo bill posters, including the local Liberal official, could better employ the hours of the Sabbath than by campaigning in the manner they are reported as adopting in Pain Court.

The Chatham Planet and Banner are using the "You're a liar" argument in great abuse. The Banner is the most lurid, but the Planet appears to have the most reliable ammunition. Some troublesome Banner chickens have come home to roost at a very inconvenient time.—St. Thomas Times.

The three following Thursdays of May, 1902, will be historic. On the 15th the Boers are expected to accept the British peace conditions; on the 22nd the provincial nominations will be held in Ontario; and on Thursday, May 29th, the Ross government will be beaten out of its political boots.—Ottawa Citizen.

Premier Ross is being corrupted through association. The Berlin Telegraph tells how he used bad language: Speaking at Sarnia the other day Mr. Ross caught the audience by his first paragraph: "Time for a change!" he exclaimed. "Why, I'm only here three years. What's the matter with me? The rebellious Israelites had to serve 40 years in the wilderness. I'm mighty try tri tri tri the wilderness."

AS A FIRE PRECAUTION.

St. Thomas Times.

It has recently been hinted that it would be the proper caper to have the ballots printed on asbestos paper.

NO WONDER HE'S RATTLED.

Ottawa Citizen.

Those who met Premier Ross during his hurried visit to Ottawa on Friday report that the honorable gentleman is badly rattled. Things are not going smoothly in the constituencies and the defection of the better class of Liberals is spreading.

WHERE THE DISSENSION IS.

St. Thomas Times.

Speaking of party dissensions, the Liberals are having a few more than they can comfortably handle, while the Conservative ranks are more solid than ever before. "Dissension" appears to be ringing in the ears of some Liberals and the jumpy word crops up at all sorts of times and places.

Everything is coming our way, even the mosquitoes.

It wasn't necessarily because Green was a barber that he got into that scrape.

Why didn't the Banner-News report the speech that T. L. Pardo spoke?

Has the Banner-News learned yet that the police made a raid on the market on Saturday?

Some of the shareholders in the binder twine factory feel as though they had been ripped in.

The Public Library Board couldn't have known their book or they wouldn't have got gold-bricked.

That Binder Twine Co. will have to start a factory to make itself binders to bind up the splits in the company.

Light weights are worth something in prize fighting, but they don't score worth a darn when the police raid the butter market.

It looks as if the Cemetery committee considered the letting of trees and shrubs grow wild on the lots at the cemetery as a grave offense.

All that's the matter with the Binder Twine Factory is that the shareholders don't own it yet and the shareholders have still a little interest in it.

A crazy girl up at court the other day said she wanted to get married. Judge Houston remarked that it wouldn't do to say all girls were crazy who wanted to get married.

DECEPTION.

When the conjurer shows an empty hat, and at once begins to extract from it rabbits or cabbages, we know that we have been adroitly deceived, because we know we can't get out anything that isn't in it.

If people would only reason in that way about medicines they would be a great deal better off in health and pocket.

A number of so-called "blood making" and "flesh forming" "tonic" medicines are only stimulants in disguise. You can't get strength out of a stimulant because strength is not in it. All physical strength is derived from food digested and assimilated and in the form of blood nourishing the entire body.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does not make blood or make strength, no medicine can do that. But it does cure diseases of the stomach and its allied organs, and so causing the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, it enables the building of the body in sound and vigorous health.

"I can say to you one bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured me some of the worst cases of indigestion I have ever known," writes W. H. Bransell, of McAdenville, Gaston Co., N.C. "My health is worth all the world to me. I will praise you as long as I live."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book containing 1008 pages, is given away. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the volume bound in cloth. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Daizell and Mr. Wm. Fell, tenors, are both thorough artists and have received the highest commendation on their visit to Canada. Mr. Harry Dearth is a promising baritone and is quite equal to any ever heard here in Canada. Mr. Norcup has also a fine tenor voice. Mr. Robert Hilton is one of the oldest and foremost voices of the Abbey, and the leading church basso of London having taken the solo at the Queen's Jubilee, 1887.

WESTMINSTER CHOIR

The plan for the Westminster Choir opened with a good showing this morning. Appearances are bright for a good house. This will be the musical treat of the season.

SUNDAY DESERATION

"I used to think at one time that the Liberal party was a good pure party," said James Verrall, a veteran Reformer and worker, to The Planet this morning. "But my views have greatly changed of late. This work of some of the party leaders on Sunday in putting those posters up through the country was a disgrace. Of course there are a lot of good men in the party, but as a whole it is rotten."

SHOCKED

Henry Dunn, electrician at the civic electrical works had a narrow escape last evening. He was fixing the brushes on one of the dynamos, his sleeve was rolled up and his wrist touched the dynamo. He had hold of one of the brushes and the touching of the wrist on the dynamo completed the circuit. The shock threw Mr. Dunn clear across the room. He narrowly missed the fly-wheel. Mr. Dunn had a close shave, but outside of a badly burned hand is none the worse for his shock.

WILL CORRESPOND

One of the employees of The Ark, while unpacking a consignment of goods from Pennsylvania, found, in a china sugar bowl, a slip of paper bearing the address "Miss Annie Snyder, Box 27, Avenue P. O., Alley Co., Pa.," which was evidently placed there by the packer of the goods. A few days ago a similar piece of paper was found, also in a sugar bowl, while unpacking another consignment of goods. The first piece of paper also contained the address of the young lady who packed the goods and was shown to a Maple City young man, whose sentimental tendencies prompted him at once to write a letter to this unknown lady. A letter has also been written to the last young lady who sent her address and the employees of The Ark are now anxiously awaiting the answers.

FEAT FUEL CO.

A delegation of capitalists from Michigan, who are interested in the formation of a peat fuel plant in Capac, Mich., were in the city yesterday and in company with J. L. Scott, of this city, and Mr. Wright, of Dresden, visited the peat fuel plant at the Eau. They were taken there by a special Lake Erie train in charge of Conductor Sam. Pierce, and left Chatham at one o'clock. They were delighted with the Eau factory, and gained considerable information concerning the manufacture of peat fuel. When they left Chatham they were more enthusiastic than ever over their scheme to erect a factory at Capac. Those who formed the party were W. H. Arthur, E. J. Marshall, E. J. Grant, S. P. Dolbins, of Marshall, Mich.; S. Rallett, A. D. Bougham, C. R. Chinch and Hy. Cavanagh, of Homer, Mich.; Dr. Oliver, L. A. Dudley and T. J. Kellcher, of Battle Creek, Mich.; and P. T. Bancroft, A. L. Dudley, Fred Cook and E. Miller, of Detroit.

SEARCH FOR WIFE

Husband Who Claims to Have been ill-used by his Partner in Life Seeks Police Aid.

Alex. Hopper, Northwood, was in the city to-day in quest of his wife and child and $9 in money. Mr. Hopper had been sick, and while he was ill, a neighbor used to come in and sit up with him. His wife and the neighbor became interested in each other and leaving their own families, departed together. The man borrowed $20 before he left. Mr. Hopper said he was willing to take his wife back, but he wanted the man punished. Mr. Hopper told the following story of his troubles to The Planet and referred the reporter to Billy Hackett, if further details were wanted.

"I was taken sick with pneumonia about four weeks ago. Dr. McRitchie, of McKay's Corner's told me I had only one good lung, that the other was gone. While I was sick a neighbor, Napoleon Ebare, came over and sat up with me. I noticed that he and my wife were friendly, but I didn't think anything of it. Last Monday my wife said she would have to go to Chatham and get some beef to make beef tea for me, as I needed it to make me stronger. She went, taking the youngest child, three years old, and leaving the other three children and myself. I have never seen her since. Although the doctor told me that I had only one lung, I got up and have been up ever since. I heard my wife and Ebare were in Chatham. Ebare used to live here and drive a team. I can't find either of them. I also heard they were in Cleveland. Ebare is about 18 and old enough to be my wife's father. She is 31 years old, and I am 32 years old. Ebare left his wife behind."

"Why didn't you take Ebare's wife?" Hopper was asked.
"I don't do no such thing as that," he replied.
Chief Holmes promised to do what he could for the man.

We have a lot of this meat in our window and have been very much amused at the different expressions as to the fine meat; such expressions as this—Oh, what a lovely show of meat, or, how tempting that ham looks, or, See there, doesn't that meat look good enough to eat raw, etc. Meats of all kinds are advancing and to-day hams are 10c per lb. higher than they were three weeks ago. ## MODERN DRUG DEALING

The elements that enter into perfect drug service are, we believe, these: Competency, quality, courteousness and a fair profit policy. We endeavor to give all these the fullest expression.

While in some things there is legitimate need of varying qualities, in medicinal drugs there is not. We handle one grade only—the highest—yet our prices are apt to be less than inferior qualities are commonly sold for.

Take care of what you eat, when you eat, and how you eat, and your stomach will take care of itself. But who takes care of such trivial things? That is why, some of the majority of people have to take care of the stomach. When that day comes, there is no aid so effective in undoing the results of past carelessness as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, and restores the organs of digestion and nutrition to a condition of healthy activity. It cures biliousness, heartburn, flatulence, indigestion, palpitation, diarrhoea, cold extremities and a score of other ailments which are but symptoms of disorder in the stomach and its allied organs.

BOTH MEET

New and Old Directorate Boards of Binder Twine Co. in Separate Session.

The affairs of the Binder Twine Co. remain about the same to-day. The newly elected directors met yesterday in the Company's office. Routine business only was transacted, and the most of the work for some time will be chiefly organization and enquiring into the state of the company's affairs.

Manager Ross, when interviewed this morning, said that the work of organization is progressing nicely and if they remain unmolested by the old directors the factory will soon be running.

As yet these old directors and T. C. Smith have done nothing which has materially injured the new directors, although it is thought that they are preparing to enter proceedings.

The mail in the post office is being held by Postmaster Barfoot until he receives instructions from the department. The funds in the bank are credited to the new directors.

While the new directors are meeting in the company's office the old ones are meeting in Matthew Wilson's office.

M. J. Wilson, president of the old Board, in company with T. C. Smith and Mr. Bullis, was in J. G. Kerr's office when interviewed by The Planet this afternoon.

"Do you intend to take any steps towards being re-installed?" he was asked.

"Re-installed!" replied Mr. Wilson. "We don't have to be re-installed. We are the only directors of the company now."

"Well, do you intend to take any steps towards regaining possession?" was the next question.

"Well, I don't wish to say anything just now. We will see about that later."

"Have you done anything yet towards regaining possession?" continued The Planet.

"Well—," said Mr. Wilson, "I don't want to tell you a lie, so I think I had better say nothing at all at present."

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

BILL HOOPER'S LEGAL LORE

...By George F. Canis

Copyright, 1901, by G. F. Canis.

Lawyers had poor picking in Deadwood in the hurrah days of the camp. Somehow the motley crowd there got into the habit of settling disputes out of court—mostly with six shooters and Winchester. Homicides were of frequent occurrence—in fact, the "man for breakfast" schedule was observed. But vigilantes often interfered and persisted in dropping the killer, even though discussion of the incident was continued. Then, too, when a shot was taken at a claim jumper, that was considered a privileged communication, according to the unwritten law. Except for the fashion and common practice of the camp all the lawyers in it—and there were lots of them—would have had a case apiece and at short intervals. As matters stood, however, it wasn't often that any one of them was able even to arrange for a fee.

When Bill Hooper took a case for $25, his law partner seriously objected, though it was the first either had had in weeks. Bill said he did it to encourage trade. That was no excuse, for while human anatomy might be carved with impunity or any sharp instrument, prices couldn't be cut. Bill expressed the opinion that his client was a fool for employing a lawyer anyway, for he didn't have a ghost of a show of winning his case, and to take his gold was just like finding it. These were also trivial matters, he was informed. As for finding gold, wasn't that what brought them all to the camp? No one expected to work for it.

"I'll show you."

Bill wanted to stand well with his partner, who had kith or kin somewhere from whom he thought he could borrow money if it came to the pinch. Bill was lame. As the roads to Cheyenne and Sidney were both long and dusty, he preferred to ride on a stage rather than walk out of camp. From the looks of things, unless business picked up one means or the other would have to be resorted to before long. It was policy for Bill to humor his partner. He went to the saloon keeper who had smashed the head of a man with a bottle and told him he would have to charge him $100 instead of $25 to take charge of his case. When the client remarked something about it being a holdup game and declined to be robbed, the lawyer told him there was no defense, for the assault had been unprovoked and $100 would be dirt cheap to get him off. Bill pointed out that the victim was likely to die, in which event the place to which the gunman would go was not noted for laying up treasures. Finally a bargain was made, with the understanding that a hundred dollar fee would be paid if the case was dismissed or the accused went free; otherwise no charge was to be made by Bill.

The trial was held in the office of the justice of the peace, and the room was packed. Preliminaries over, the justice asked who appeared for the defense. No one answered. Everybody looked at Bill, who was standing in the doorway. He continued smoking, but made no other sign. When questioned, the prisoner said Bill was his counsel.

"Do you appear for the defense, Counselor Hooper?" asked the justice.

"No."

"The prisoner says you agreed to."

"He's mistaken."

"Do you intend to take part in this case?"

"No."

"Do you refuse to appear in this case?"

"Yes."

"What do you mean, Counselor Hooper, by taking a man's money and then refusing to do your duty to your client?"

"I didn't see the color of his money," was the only comment of Bill. He and the justice were ancient enemies. The latter thought he saw a chance to put the lawyer in a hole. He conferred with the prisoner and then fairly roared: "Hooper, you ought to be turned out of court and out of camp. The prisoner says he hired you to defend him and took you for a man of your word and depended on you and consulted nobody but you when there are plies of men in this camp what knows more law than you."

Bill waited till the justice exhausted himself and sank back in his chair. Puffing away at his cigar so he wouldn't have to waste more time and matches on it when ready to resume his smoking, he exclaimed:

"You see it was only gray, Jim come to me and wanted me to take this case. I told him I didn't want to take his money for nothing, but just to humor him said he could give me a hundred if I got him off. I knew there was no use trying a case before this court and didn't fool away any time fixing for it. It's just like I told Jim—a man can't get justice in this camp till we're rid of the duffer what thinks he knows law and don't know a little bit."

"You did, did you?" howled the justice.

"That's what I did," blandly remarked Bill.

"So you go round telling the boys I don't know nothing 'bout law, do you?" The crowd guffawed in chorus, either because Bill's estimate was common property or the expression of it by the justice himself gave them a chance to censure therewith. Here the temper of the justice boiled over. He thumped his desk and yelled out, "Did you tell this prisoner he couldn't get justice in this court?"

"This is no court," was the comment. Without seeming to notice the sarcasm or implied insult, the justice repeated his question. It called forth this response: "Yes, I said just that, and, what's more, I believe it, too, and so does everybody in this camp. A man can't get justice while."

Gasping with rage, the justice threw himself on top of the desk, whacking it with his fists till the boards cracked and delivered this decision: "I'll show you, you clubfoot duffer, that a man can get justice in this court; I'll show this camp what a liar you are, Bill Hooper—the prisoner's discharged."

Outside the office the man who was released from custody paid Bill $100, as he had promised, and then took the next stage out of Deadwood, for he was afraid of vigilantes.

Poisoning the Common Enemy.

The widow of an English army officer was visiting me with her son, a charming little fellow about five years old. The mother told me with pride how honorable he was, how high minded, and that she had never for an instant seen in him indications of any traits of his father or base.

The child was put to bed every night at 8. We dined at 7. I was sitting in the drawing room one evening before dinner. The room was dark, the doors open, and my seat commanded a view of both the stairway and the dining room. The table was set, and in the center was a dish of tempting peaches.

Presently there came to my ears the patter of little bare feet, and a childish figure clad in a nightgown stole down the stairs, through the hall, into the dining room, up to the table. Small fingers seized the topmost peach from the dish, and the little fellow turned and trotted away up stairs again. As I sat in the dark in an agony of apprehension there came again the patter, patter of little feet, and a white clad figure stole down the stairs, through the hall, into the dining room, up to the table. Small fingers replaced the stolen peach just where it had been, and a stubborn little voice muttered, "Done again, old devil!"—Harper's.

Franks in Hasting.

The biggest authenticated bag secured at one shot of which I have ever heard consisted of one rabbit (the cause of the shot), one beater, one on-looker (a French cook), a boy and a dog. I once shot nine snipe at a shot, but this was in South America. They were on the ground, and they were shot for the pot. I have read of a sportsman (not Baron Munchausen) who shot a bumblebee and a butterfly right and left, and indeed sometimes a large bumblebee does for an instantaneous second look uncommonly like a distant advancing grouse, just as, when on the alert for partridges, the fieldfare brooding the hedge often cause a nervous twitch of the gun.

Curious circumstances sometimes occur out shooting. A friend walking in line down a turnip field saw a startled hare running fast and straight toward him up a furrow. He stood still, waiting for her to turn, but the hare with her peculiar vision did not see him and ran her head plump against his shin, killing herself and very seriously bruising his leg.—Fortnightly.

Poison of the Centipede.

The centipede is popularly supposed to carry a sting on each foot, but I have several times handled them, after their heads were removed, without the claws producing any result. It is the first pair of claws only that are venomous, being hollow and provided with poison bags like a snake's fang. The largest I ever saw was eleven inches in length, a gruesome creature. A bite from one of this size would most likely have been fatal to a man in weak health.

The tarantula, though his powers of offense are nothing like those of the scorpion or centipede, is, however, a more unpopular character than either. The horror of these large spiders entertained by many people is curious and unaccountable. I have seen Australian bushmen, who in everyday life scarcely seemed to understand danger, turn white as a sheet at the sight of a small "tarantelo," as they called it.—Chambers' Journal.

A Peculiar Accident.

"A little learning," says Pope, "is a dangerous thing." Many young men are daily meeting with failures and cunning the risk of grave disaster because they know a little but not enough about the task they are undertaking. The Weekly Magazine tells of a peculiarly sad accident that occurred recently in a western town.

The big iron safe in a shoe factory refused to open, and the bookkeeper and engineer conceived the idea that they could burn out the combination with the use of carbon and electricity. It took a long time to accomplish their purpose, but they finally succeeded, yet not until they had stood for several hours in the glare of the electric light, taking turns holding the wire and carbon. When the work was over both complained of dizziness and pain in the head, which increased as the hours passed, and in a short time both went blind. All efforts to restore their sight have been unavailable, for while the eyeballs appear uninjured, the sight is destroyed.

OLD AGE AND SPRING

Paine's Celery Compound

Invigorates and Strengthens those Advanced in Years

If You Feel Old, The Great Medicine Will Give You The Vigor and Health of Youth.

Everyone in spring time should give attention to the purifying of the blood, the bracing of the nerves, and the regulating of the digestive apparatus.

This is the special time when old people need a tonic and strength giver—something that will restore them to that condition of health that conduces to make old age happy, cheerful and bright.

Old people should carry home with them to-day—not by-and-by a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound. It will certainly banish the rheumatism and neuralgia, that help to make life a misery; it will drive out of the system all impurities and make the life stream flow fresh and pure; it will banish weakness and all languid feelings and impart the vigor and activity that mark youthfulness. It is the only medicine that will fully meet the needs and expectations of all in declining years.

Mr. J. Holdsworth, Claremont, St. Toronto, Ont., says: "I was taken sick last summer, and was in bed for five weeks or more, and my physician was attending me all the time. My case was pronounced to be weakness of the heart and old age, for I am now seventy-eight years old. I kept getting worse until my recovery was considered hopeless. One of my relatives recommended me to use Paine's Celery Compound, which I did with good results. After the first dose I felt relieved, and in a few days I was able to leave my bed and walk around. I used four bottles and am now quite well. I hope other sufferers will receive as much benefit as I received."

The man who keeps pace with his good intentions must be quite a remarkable sprinter.

Tendency of Catarrh is to Spread

Just a slight matter at first, and because slight, neglected; but the seed sown brings forth a dangerous harvest. Consumption, which is the harvest of death. Better spend a few moments each day inhaling Catarrhine, an aromatic antiseptic that relieves at once, clears the nasal passages, and restores lost sense of taste and smell. The immediate effect of Catarrhine is magical, so prompt and efficient. Cure is certain and permanent if you use Catarrhine. Price $1. Small sizes 25c, at Druggists or Paine & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The 745 Express

An Adventure in an English Compartment Car.

By FRANCIS CHURCHILL WILLIAMS.

Two men were sitting in the smoking-room of a London club. One, a tall, athletic looking fellow with black hair and clean-cut features, was slowly blowing rings of smoke in the air as he lay back in the big arm-chair. The other man, slight and clean-shaven, with a singularly mobile face and twinkling gray eyes, was looking over a daily paper. Between them was a small table furnished with a couple of stanchion club soda and a decanter of brandy which gave signs of having been well used.

"Gerald," said the small man all at once, dropping the paper into his lap, "what do you think of train robbers?"

The tall man looked up in lazy surprise.

"Topsy Russell," he drawled, "now, what in the name of all that's wonderful ever put such a question as that into your head?"

"The paper," explained the other, "and seriously I ask you, what do you think of train robbers?"

"And just as seriously I reply," returned the tall man, "that I think the fellows who strip you of your watch and valuables and depart with your Goldstone or portmanteau, are clumsy rogues at the best. And the people they rob—well, they are a shade less admirable for in every case I have heard of they appear to have acted like cowards or fools, and a rogue's life is preferable to either of these, to my mind. And now that you have my candid and, doubtless, authoritative opinion on train robbers, please finish that B. and S. and try one of these cigars; they are worth trying, if I say it myself."

"Only one more question," said Russell, as he took the proffered weed. "You laugh at the way railway travelers act in these little affairs. Now, how would you act? Suppose one of these fellows suddenly put a pistol to your cheek, and insinuate a desire for your watch? No one is near. You are alone in the carriage. What would you do?"

"I'd knock the pistol out of his hand, while pretending to comply with his demand, and throw him out the window after it."

Caruthers said this quietly and determinedly, and Russell, who had been well to suspect of a braggado, so he only laughed lightly at his companion's emphatic reply and proceeded to envelop himself in clouds of smoke.

"Well," said the tall man, looking at his watch, and starting up, "I must be going. The express starts at seven-fifty-five, and I've to stop at a couple of places before reaching the station. And he rang for his boy and overcoat."

"Now, Gerald Caruthers," said his companion, as Gerald was being helped into his coat, "remember what you have told me. If I hear of any attempt at train robbery on the seven-fifty-five express I shall not write to you, but shall at once have the track examined, and the body of the robber discovered and interred. I suppose you will be willing to do that much for your victim, won't you?"

"Oh, certainly," laughed Caruthers, and the next moment he had swung round and was out of the door.

At the station he secured a first-class ticket, and then set about to find an empty compartment if possible. As luck would have it, the second coach he looked into was occupied, and he quickly stowed his portmanteau away and, settling himself luxuriously in the corner, uttered a silent prayer that no one would come in to disturb him. The usual traveler's commonplace and platitudes, the nap he had in prospect. He looked at his watch; only one minute remaining till train time, and already he heard the doors being banged as the guard went his rounds.

And then—then, just as he was putting his watch back into his pocket with a breath of relief, the door of the compartment suddenly was jerked open, and framed in the narrow opening, appeared the figure of a man of slight stature, with gray hair and bent shoulders, therefore, evidently an old man, and with apparent indifference over the big frame of Caruthers. Then he stepped in and, with a slight nod to Caruthers, he sat down on the cushioned seat, pulled his soft wool hat over his eyes, sunk down in one corner of the compartment, and thrust his hands deep into his trouser pockets.

Caruthers witnessed these movements with some satisfaction, and, after a glance or two at his companion, and an instant's look outside at the yellow lights which were flying by as the express gathered speed, he spread out his legs, pulled his coat up about his ears, and proceeded to make himself comfortable for the hundred and twenty-mile ride before him. Five minutes later he was sound asleep and making that fact unmistakable by the most tremendous snore.

But if Caruthers snored loudly, his snore was truly as active as were his lungs, and, for a time, he passed through a series of adventures in dreamland which were anything but unpleasant. Then, suddenly, he was transported from a delightful fantasy into what seemed to him to be an immense haberdashery's shop, where he found himself unceremoniously set down before a little old man, who insisted upon fitting around his neck a most prodigiously high and stiff collar.

Now, if there was anything against which Caruthers was for all time and most vehemently opposed, it was high collars, therefore he struggled hard to push away his tormentor and remove the objectionable neckpiece. But all to no purpose. To his surprise he found his arms weighted down as if with lead. His persecutor coolly continued to fit on the collar, and finally, having done this to his satisfaction, pushed over his head until the top edge of the collar cut into his neck and was choking him.

Caruthers used every endeavor to raise his arms, but in vain. Great drops of sweat seemed to drain down his face as he tugged at his inevitable bonds, and all the time he felt the little old man passing his hands, which were plump and smooth, over his body, thrusting them now into his pockets, now inside his vest, and again pulling at his fingers.

All at once, however, even the desire for resistance left the dreamer, his sensations became dull, and he fell again into unbroken sleep.

His next sensation was when his eyes began to feel the light, and he slowly became aware of a dull, dead feeling in his arms, at the base of the head, and a dry contraction of the throat. After a while he was sensible of the motion of his resting-place, and at last his eyes took in enough of what was about him to show him that this was no haberdashery's shop, but the inside of a railway carriage traveling at high speed, that there was no high collar about his neck, and that no little old man stood opposite him. But it was some time, nevertheless, before his brain became clear enough to appreciate that all he seemed to have gone through with lately was only a dream, and that he now was in the seven-fifty-five express from London, and probably—how many hours on his journey?

He slipped his fingers into his waistcoat pocket for his watch. Then, with an exclamation of surprise, he raised himself quickly to his feet and somewhat weakly stooped down, feeling the handsome hunting case which he could find nowhere. It took him but a minute to realize this, and also that the gold cuff-buttons he had worn and his diamond scarf-pin were gone, and that a curious stone-studded ring had disappeared from the little finger of his left hand.

They all had gone; but where? A sudden recollection of the old, bent man who had been his traveling companion made him peer closely into the corner in which that figure had been curled when he last saw him. But the corner was empty now.

As Caruthers' glance moved quickly over the opposite seat, however, one object caught his eye. He picked it up. It was a handkerchief, innocent of any markings, but smelling strongly, as he instantly noticed, of chloroform. The pungent odor told Caruthers all he needed. It was a complete confirmation of the theory which had flashed upon him at the first. He had been robbed, and in all likelihood by the little old man who had been his companion.

Caruthers pressed his face against the window. He was familiar with the country through which the train was passing, and he soon saw where he was. The express was fifty miles out of the metropolis, and by schedule must have made a stop at R—, about thirty miles back. It was there he decided, that the thief had got out. The next stop would be made some twenty-five miles farther on, and he would have to wait until then to communicate with the police. So he arranged himself as comfortably as possible and began to consider how he could most quickly recover the articles which had been taken by the robber. He had not thrown out of the window, and whether he could prevent the news of the robbery from spreading so that he should not receive the taunts of Topsy Russell by telegraph or otherwise, was upon this doubly trying experience.

As soon as the guard had opened the door of his carriage at the next station, half an hour later, Caruthers jumped down, and, dashing into the telegraph office, quickly despatched a statement of the facts to the chief of police at R—. His message offered a generous reward for the apprehension of the rascal and the recovery of the stolen articles, with the least possible publicity.

Two hours later, arrived at his destination, he left the train, took a hansom to police headquarters, and notified them that a despatch addressed in his name might be received there from R—. If such a despatch did come it was to be sent to the B— hotel, he ordered. Then he was driven to the hotel, and, having engaged a room, turned in for the night, and, relieved of a great amount of suffering every year.

The letter that dreamed of good suffering hunger, but he who hath dug for it liveth in a palace.

THREE CHICAGO DOCTORS

Failed to Do for Miss Mabelle L. LaMonte What Was Accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was in an awful state for nearly three years with a complication of female troubles which three physicians called by different names, but the pains were all the same. I dreaded the time of my monthly periods for it meant a couple of days in bed in awful agony. I finally made up my mind that the good doctors were guessing; and hearing from different friends such good reports of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I tried that. I bless the day I did, for it was the dawning of a new life for me. I used five bottles before I was cured, but when they were taken I was a well woman once more. Your Compound is certainly wonderful. Several of my friends have used it since, and nothing but the best do I ever hear from them."—Yours, MABELLE L. LAMONTE, 223 E. 31st St., Chicago, Ill.—$5000

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound could cure Miss LaMonte—why not you? Try it and see for yourself.

HEARTS "ON STRIKE"

The Heart—that great motor of the human anatomy—never falters in the performance of its faithful function, till through overwork, disease lays hold on it—then it "goes on strike,"—and rightly so.

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is the greatest of all medical science has discovered as a heart-helper. No phase of Heart Disease it will not "spy out," and relieve and cure almost like magic. What are your symptoms? Suffocating, fluttering, palpitation, acute pains, thumping, nervousness, restlessness. Try this great treatment—its never fails.

ONTARIO IN DANGER

Government by Usurpation—Corruption Runs Wild—Bargain and Sale Attempted.

The people of this great Province are now aroused to the fact that the Ross Government has declared itself an oligarchy, pure and simple, in defiance of the honestly expressed will of the people. Nero fiddled while Rome was in flames, and the Ross Government is so entrenched in office through an organized conspiracy to thwart the honest expression of the electors through the plugging and plunder of the ballot boxes, that nothing but an outraged people arising en masse in their might and righteous indignation can remove this evil thing out of their sight. It was amply proved that at the last general election the Government money—that is, the people's own money—flowed out in corruption in a continuous stream to subsidize the pluggers and bribers that infested every back concession of the Province. And while the pluggers, ballot box stuffers and bribers may come and go and change, this golden stream of corruption, like Tennyson's brook, goes on forever. The whole Province is practically organized into so many grand associations to perpetuate the tenure of the Government. It is ramified and fortified as a pie at every point through the liquor traffic, the corporations and the innumerable horde of hungry officials feeding at its corn-crib, from pound master up to our Dakota cattle rancher Minister of Agriculture. Is there any denying or gainsaying this? All the Liberal-Conservatives in office were compelled either to become good Grips or lose their positions, or liquor licenses, as the case might be, so that the attempt to get an honest, fearless, conscientious expression of public opinion at the polls is frustrated, impossible and a farce. When any nation or province is in this unfortunate position, the beginning of its end is nigh, even at the door. It has been so in all history without one exception, and great Rome itself, once the mistress of the world, tumbled into utter ruin and decay just from the causes stated, and, like Lucifer, she fell—and great was the fall thereof—never to rise again. The Globe will no doubt, pool, pool! This, well, let us see, and ask how long before the Government of our fair Province will be a mere commodity put up at auction to the highest bidder? Going back some 1,700 years, Rome was governed by a conspiracy of unscrupulous, infamous scoundrel and tyrant—Commodus. This man was so desperately wicked that one of his abandoned courtisans made him step down and deny the high personal character and morality of Mr. Ross. But the same vicious principle that kept old Commodus in power is, in this enlightened day and generation, firmly propping up the usurping throne of the present Government.

Well, following the death of Commodus there was naturally great excitement and confusion, and the pretorian guard who commanded the capital city—just like the army of Ross' officials now—having the supreme power in their own hands, undertook to place on the throne a creature of their own. They hit on an old senator, Pertinax, but to their horror, after electing this old fellow, they discovered that he was not a boodler, did not graduate from the Ross Academy at West Elgin or North Waterloo, but instead, was an honest ruler and politician. So, some of the pluggers just stepped into the old man's place one fine night and brutally murdered him. Then the greatest precedent for the Ross government and the most remarkable political incidents in the history of the world took place. The imperial throne was actually put up at public auction by the soldiers, and after a spirited bidding by the local politicians of the day, the "bar" of Senator Darius Julianus was too long for the other small fry senators, and Julianus mounted the throne at the price of $1,000 each to the 16,000 men comprising the pretorian guard; that is $16,000,000 of our money. This was in A. D. 192. But another branch of the army that received no bolls squealed and kicked and just in two months Mr. Didius Julianus had to walk the plank.

From that date Rome was doomed and its descent rapid and ruinous. The great state was rotten to the core and its government utterly corrupt. The Huns, Goths and Vandals soon dictated terms to the imperious and proud Roman in his own city, and the cages of history tell the rest of the sad tale. Are we drifting, and very fast at that, in the same direction? I say verily "yes." The operation of the pretorian guard and the Ross machine are exactly on the same lines, and have the same object exactly, in view, viz., to corrupt the electors; the direct means may be different, but the principle is the same. In fact of the two methods the pretorian guard system was much the more manly and open. They did not steal the votes out of the ballot boxes, nor did they stuff the ballot boxes with fraudulent votes, neither did they burn the ballots to escape trial and punishment. The Ross corruption machine has done all these things that we know of, and it is reasonable to suppose that what we know of is only a small peak upon the great mountain of rascalities perpetrated by the gang of scoundrels who infested every riding for several elections. The fact is the Ross government is practically in a position to bid a sneering defiance to the whole electorate of this province. It does not do this, and never will do it so long as it can carry out its ends with a semblance of constitutional authority, but it is in a position to do so presently now. It has the whole machinery of government, money, public office, liquor traffic, the wealthy corporations, including the scrap iron monopolists. In one word, the whole thing is organized on the sole basis with the chief end in view to perpetuate the government in power forever. But evolution is a law of politics, just as surely as it is in Darwin's origin of species, and while moving slowly in both spheres, it nevertheless moves surely.

That the people of this province desire a change of Government as if said by Jack Falstaff's "instinct" is beyond all doubt; the same strong feeling permeated the people of Ontario at the last general election, indeed to such an extent that had the honestly polled votes for the Conservatives been counted, instead of being stolen Whitney would have carried the province. This feeling and desire for change of Government are infinitely stronger to-day than four years ago, and judging by the reports from all over the province it is now all but irresistible. Pardo is a very nice social man and neighbor, and just the nice smiling—"howdy-de-do" for old women's tea parties and shortcake eating. But holy Jerapoth—Jeerum!—What has he done for Kent in eight long years? In the name of all the gods at once from the very summit of Olympus I demand the bill of particulars in detail. John S. Fraser is a veritable Jupiter among such small gods. Kent will speak loud and long and to the point on the floor of Parliament when Fraser, the sound lawyer, and the extensive agriculturist and practical man of affairs will represent it. Nobody in the Conservative party desires to say one unkind word against Mr. Pardo; he is just the man I would like as a friend or neighbor, but it is no unkindness to Mr. Pardo to tell him candidly that the cloth was woefully short, and pretty bad and shoddy at that when his friends undertook to fit him out as an aspiring politician. Mr. Pardo can render very valuable services to the County of Kent by running his lumber mills at Cedar Springs, but "to de lawd I done gone declare" that as a statesman or actor good Mr. Pardo—in the vernacular of the wheat bull pit—is awfully short.
