WANT AD HOROSCOPE

JUNE 3
Mercury is the governing planet of this birth date. This is the star of activity called the "Messenger of the Gods." It is the swiftest in motion, although the smallest and is the spiritual affinity of Venus.

This planet controls this birth date to a great advantage for progress and success when placed advantageously in the horoscope. It gives to its nativity a restless, ambitious nature, filled with fire and enthusiasm, but never wholly satisfied. Mental attainments are keen and highly developed.

During the coming week, a person of this birth date will find the Want Ads of great assistance in locating lost articles, in seeking clerical positions, of filling salesmanship positions.

This period also favors changes which may be through the Want Ads, whether relating to houses, real estate or boarding places.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY and CO., Toledo, Ohio.

HEAVY SESSION TOWNSHIP COUNCIL

The Councillors Dispose of Several Important Matters of Business on Monday

The Brantford Township Council held their monthly session yesterday at the Court House.

The morning session was taken up by the Council as a Court of Revision in deciding on the appeals against the 1913 assessment when some 24 appeals were dealt with.

The afternoon session was devoted to receiving deputations, passing accounts and dealing with other matters.

Those Present. Those present were: Reeve Kendrick, Fitzroy Reeve, Arthur J. McCann, Second Deputy Reeve Hudson Jennings, Councillors Rupert Greenwood and James A. Scace.

Taxes Remitted. Owing to the dispute as to whether the property of Mrs. James Humphreys is located in the Township of Brantford, a motion was carried that the taxes against the property amounting to $7.71 be remitted.

Echo Place Deputation. A deputation from Echo Place composed of Messrs. J. J. Burke, Edmondson and George D. Hall, presented a petition asking the council to build a sidewalk under the local improvement plan.

The expense of this work would, of course be added to the expense of building the entire sidewalk; also the owners of the properties adjoining the cutting and the building of the same would be required to build a sidewalk on the north side of the road.

West St. Improvement. Councillor Scace ever since his election to the council in January last has been pressing for an improvement of West street.

Society Notes.

A large number of personal friends gathered at the G. T. R. station last evening to wish bon voyage and a safe return to Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ogilvie, just starting on their European trip.

Mrs. E. W. H. VanAllen and Miss Marjorie VanAllen, who were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Gould, Darling street, have returned to Toronto, but leave tonight to spend several months in British Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Pierce returned last night from a three month trip through the Canadian West and Southern California. Mr. Pierce reports having met many Brantford people and to have had an excellent trip.

Some of the people giving dinners on the verandah at the Hunt Club, Toronto, last Saturday night were: Mr. and Mrs. Weston Brock, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Snydam, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beatty, and several others.

The wedding takes place in Walkerville on June 29, of George Patterson, manager of the Bank of Commerce, Portage avenue, Winnipeg, to Miss Gertrude Robbins, the only daughter of Mr. Robbins, the general manager of Hiram Walker & Sons, Limited.

Dr. Arthur R. Reynolds had decidedly definite views. "As long as the individual can walk to her own personal comfort," he said, "the narrow skirt is a splendid thing. It is not the germ carrier that the wider skirt is. Moreover, if you have ever noticed it often corrects a bad walk. The narrow skirt is gradually correcting a manner of walking that was surely breaking down the arch of American women's feet."

I.O.D.E., DUFFERIN RIFLES CHAPTER. The regular monthly meeting of the Dufferin Rifles Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held last evening in the cosy officers quarters at the armories, their Regent, Mrs. F. A. Howard presiding, and between fifty and sixty of the members being present.

THE NATIONALIST ISSUE

The Grit papers and the Grit speakers still seek to make the pretence that the Conservative party and the Nationalists are joined in an "unholy alliance."

What truth is there in that statement? On more than one recent occasion several Nationalists have voted with the Laurierites, and those who haven't have been jeered by the Grit members because they didn't.

The truth of the matter is that the so-called principles of Laurier have been at the bottom of all the disturbing movements in Quebec, and that some of his followers are now carrying to a logical conclusion tenets which in other days he more than once enunciated.

KING'S BIRTHDAY

To-day King George celebrates his forty-third birthday, and the sincere hope that he may enjoy many more years of life and usefulness will be general throughout the British Dominions.

The second son of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, it was at one time thought that he had only a mere chance for the throne, especially as his elder brother, the Duke of Clarence, was betrothed. However, the latter died at the comparatively early age of twenty-eight, and George, who, as usual with all members of the Royal family, had been carefully prepared for high responsibilities, was well equipped for his great task when he succeeded Edward the Peacemaker.

And it is a great task—there can be no doubt at all about that. On the top of enormous State responsibilities and masses of detail, which involve the employment of seven secretaries and private secretaries, seven clerks and a solicitor in connection with the "King's Household," there is the almost ceaseless round of what must be irksome routine, but never appears to be. In truth, there are no two harder-worked married people in this wide world than King George and his helpful and sympathetic consort, and through it all and above it all they are devout exemplars of the Christian and the domestic virtues.

God save them both!

THE LAUREATESHIP

The death of Alfred Austin does not begin to remove a great poet, such as Dryden, Wordsworth, Tennyson and others who held the above-named office, but he was a noted singer of the muse despite that.

It was the fashion to jibe at him, but he has written some very beautiful things, and would probably have stood higher in the general estimation had he not been called upon to officially succeed such a brilliant predecessor.

The title "Poet Laureate" originated in an old-time custom of British Universities in presenting a laurel wreath to graduates in rhetoric and versification, such a new graduate then having the title Poeta Laureatus.

The first mention of an occupant of such a post occurs in the reign of Edward IV, when John Key received the appointment. The duties then and now are to write verses in connection with notable events in the lives of sovereigns, or national triumphs.

This writing to order, whether the theme inspires or not, is, of course, a difficult task for anyone of the distinctly poetic temperament. Tennyson managed to do so in only one notable case—his beautiful tribute to Queen Victoria (for whom he had a great personal affection), in which occur the lines—

"A thousand claims to reverence close In her as mother, wife and Queen." The dead Laureate never rose to any heights when discharging his official task, and it is to be doubted if that will often occur with anyone so situated.

For instance, it is hardly possible to conceive that Rudyard Kipling would have evolved that beautiful "Recessional" had Pegasus in his case been trammelled by the Poet Laureate harness.

The post is not of much monetary return, and its main value is in the recognition of worth which it conveys. There is no outstanding successor. The choice would apparently rest between Kipling and Watson, or perhaps Noyes. It is to be questioned very much whether Sir Rudyard would accept, in any event, as he has the confirmed habit of writing what he thinks, no matter whether it affects royalties, or nations (his stinging verses regarding Russia as a bear in the shape of a man, for instance), or anything or anyone else.

And by the same token, many of his legions of admirers would like him to remain that way.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

And now for a reformed Senate. Got to have it; going to get it.

The Duchess of Marlborough has been getting criticized in England for lecturing women of the poorer class on greater need of personal and domestic hygiene. Her Grace had much better be attending to the moral hygiene of a certain domestic hearth.

Hon. I. B. Lucas, in going back to his constituents in Centre Grey after his appointment to the Dominion Senate, has been returned by acclamation.

Look here, old chap. You've been twisted on this Senate question quite enough already without rubbing it in on yourself.

They had forged tickets in Toronto at the Laurier meeting, and now they have had 'em at a race gathering. The next thing for the Queen Cityites to do is to forge ahead, for about nine and three-quarter tenths of brainy men there have been brought in from other places.

There will be three Dominion bye-elections shortly for the Dominion House—South Bruce and South Lanark in Ontario, and Chateauguay in Quebec. Last election these ridings went: Bruce, Conservative, 103; Lanark, Conservative, 1167; Chateauguay, Liberal, 40. The latter riding has never gone anything but Grit since Confederation.

Sir Edward Grey, Foreign Secretary in the Old Land, is receiving unstinted praise from all political parties in connection with his masterly tact and leadership in settling the Balkan dispute. They very properly put partisanship aside over there in connection with great occasions, and it is a thousand pities that the members of the Canadian Senate cannot be inoculated with some of the same feeling.

VERY QUIET AT NIAGARA CAMP

The Dragoons Arrived There Last Night After Very Strenuous Day.

[Canadian Press Despatch] NIAGARA-ON-LAKE, Ont., June 3.—You wouldn't know there was a camp in this lakeside town to-day. There was no blare of trumpets or martial music to wake the place from its long slumber. Instead, four regiments, making up the first rural camp, quietly invaded the common for a twelve day sojourn. In all there were about 3000 men under command of Brig. General Lessard. The first soldiers landed early in the day and the last about 10 o'clock last night. Everything was shipshape for their arrival, the tents having all been pitched, and the grub ready to feed the country's defenders. To-day the first day's work begins.

This camp consists of regiments from western Ontario. The one that opens twelve days hence will bring regiments from the north and east. The Toronto regiments will be given a chance to get some fresh air, sunshine and exercise in about two weeks.

The regiments which arrived yesterday were the 25th "ant Dragoons 27th, Peel County; 29th, Wentworth; 44th, Welland and 77th, Haldimand. The 2nd Dragoons of Lincoln and Welland and the 25th Brant Dragoons, are the only cavalry as yet encamped.

HIS PARENTS SAID TO BE RICH

Inquest Into Mac Keating's Death Will Be Held Monday Night.

Yesterday afternoon at 3.30 a jury was empanelled and viewed the remains of Pte Mac Keating of the Paris Squadron, 25th Brant Dragoons, who met death shortly after one o'clock yesterday afternoon, while attempting to board the special Grand Trunk train which was conveying the squadron to camp at Niagara on the Lake.

The following are the jury: George Thompson (foreman), Edward James, Albert Watson, Thomas Garrity, John Simpson, Thomas Carr and James W. White. Coroner Fissette in addressing the jury said that the deceased had caught hold of a brace and was dragged 15 or 20 yards when his spur caught in a switch box which loosened his grip. The coroner also said that he had only existed on Sunday night, and was probably going as a general purpose man and that he was from Kalamazoo, Mich. His people are believed to be wealthy.

After viewing the remains an adjournment was made until Monday evening next at the police station. P. C. Stanley has charge of the case. Among the witnesses to be summoned are Mr. Charles Benwell, an eye witness, Col Fraser of Burford, Dr Henwood and the train crew.

CROWN ELECTRIC MEN STILL OUT

Manager Hughes Says Other Men Are Taking Their Places. The men at the Crown Electric Manufacturing Company, who went out on strike last Friday afternoon, are still out, and can remain out as far as the company is concerned. In conversation with a Courier reporter, Mr. A. A. Hughes, manager of the company, stated that men were being secured to take the places of the men who went out on strike, and the factory was running just the same.

Mr. Hughes said that he thought the demands of the men were most unreasonable, as they were being paid their wages every two weeks, the same as at any other manufacturing company. To pay the men every week, Mr. Hughes stated, would mean that the company would have to change their system of bookkeeping, which would be a great inconvenience. This they would not do.

SOME ACTORS AT THE COLLEGIATE

Young Ladies Present a One Act Play—The Boys Also Act Well.

There was an interesting program presented by the junior pupils at the Collegiate Institute in the assembly room of the Institute last evening. The program was composed of a one-act play "A Fallen Idol," by the girls of Form 1 G, and a play in two acts, "The Turn in the Road," by the boys of Form 1 B, assisted by other school talent.

In the girls' act, several of the youthful actresses did themselves proud credit. The boys presented a play of distressing situations. The boys are attending college. One of their number who is somewhat of a gay young man, gets into financial difficulty. He finally borrows without leave $450 belonging to a chum. The money was placed, persuades him to come and room with him, which he does, and later makes up his mind to lead a different life. There was also considerable trouble over a cow who had disappeared from a nearby farm. The boys did their several parts in excellent manner.

Piano solos by the Misses Lloyl Jones and Young, were greatly enjoyed. There was also the piano duet by the Misses Baltzer and Smith. Miss Huxley gave a vocal solo in her usual pleasing manner. Miss Westbrook gave a much appreciated reading. Principal Burt was chairman. There was a very good attendance of pupils and parents. The great hope of society is individual character.

Hood's Pills

Presbyterians in Congress

TORONAO, June 3.—"Non-Anglo-Saxons" was the subject discussed at this forenoon's session of the presbyterian congress and the addresses dealt in a spirited way with the mission work of the church among the foreigners of Canada's population.

The doors closed at nine fifteen for the devotional exercises it was estimated that three thousand delegates were inside and at ten o'clock when the first address began large crowds waited outside for admission. The interest manifested by the presence of such a large congregation so early in the morning promises to continue throughout as with so many features of interest there is something which appeals in a particular way to each person.

Delegates are still arriving and will continue to do so until the general assembly opens on Thursday. The congress concludes Wednesday afternoon and after that date all the meetings are in connection with the assembly. On Thursday the laymen delegates are to meet all day in Cooke's Church under the auspices of the Presbyterian Laymen's Missionary movement for the discussion of general topics relating to the enlargement of the general work of the church.

Rev. W. D. Reid of Stanley Street Montreal was the first speaker this morning, speaking on the "Christianization of non-Anglo-Saxons." He was able to deal with this topic from a deep personal knowledge of conditions, having been superintendent of Presbyterian missions in Alberta for a number of years before going to Montreal a year ago and he urged the necessity of energetic and unmitigating work among the new comers to this country if the church were to do its share in the scheme of evangelization. More particular phases of the missionary work were dealt with by Rev. H. A. Berlis, travelling minister of the Ruthenians in Western Canada by Rev. S. B. Rold in Chicago of the Jewish missions in Toronto and by Rev. W. S. Kinslae, a worker among foreigners in the West.

They Are Now All B. A.'s

Brantfordites will rejoice to learn that the following students have successfully graduated in Arts from Toronto and affiliating Universities in the Queen City this year: Mr. P. T. Dowling and Mr. M. F. Wilkes University College; Miss Jean Burns, Mr. Duff Slemm and Mr. T. B. Wheeler (formerly of Brantford, though now recently of Winnipeg) Victoria College, and Mr. A. H. Boddy and Mr. Jack Hatley, from Trinity College, also Mr. J. B. Fryer, Mt. Pleasant, who graduated from Victoria University.

Colborne Epworth

"With a Woman of Samaria." A Call to a New Life, was the topic at the meeting of the Colborne St. Epworth League last night. Mrs. Andrew Cook read the scripture lesson, and told of the work which led to the meeting at the well. Mrs. G. A. Elliott read a very interesting paper on the topic of the evening. The piano solo of Miss Marjorie Johnson and the vocal duet by the Misses Hyde were excellent. A short consecration service was held, Miss A. Butler occupied the chair.

Women's Dress Too Immodest

HAMILTON, Ont., June 3.—"We appreciate heartily the attitude of the ladies of our land who refuse to bow to the mandate of Parisian and London fashions and we know they exert an influence for good. We just as distinctly deplore the manner in which many women seem to vie with each other in wearing immodest apparel and believe that the wave of crime passing over the land is in no small degree due to the disregard of becoming appearance in this respect." The above resolution was passed at the meeting of the Hamilton District Methodist Conference to-day. The word "scantily" clad was in the original resolution, but was removed. There was a lively discussion on the question.

Agents Needed to Sell Annuities

Monetary Times: "The comparatively small success of Canadian government annuities was discussed in the House of Commons recently, and many reasons were advanced for existing conditions. Undoubtedly, the absence of personal solicitation is most largely responsible. Life insurance and annuities, broadly speaking cannot be sold except by personal solicitation. The Dominion Government have conducted lecture campaigns. They appointed postmasters as their agents. They have adorned walls with posters, advertising the benefits of annuities. The lecture campaign did only little good work. Postmasters were too busy with the mail and their private affairs to worry about the sale of government annuities. How much life insurance would a company sell were it to depend upon lectures and posters and uninterested agents for returns?"

Why Not?

Another young life has been sacrificed to the demands of the Grand River, with a lifeboat situated away up on Dalhousie street, in the Fire Hall, without any chance of effecting a rescue.

True, there is an alarm box at the scene of bathing, so that anyone, going down for the second time, can climb to the bank, push the button, and then go back again in time to be rescued.

The Courier has for years pointed out that the whole thing is not only a farce, but a criminality.

The lifeboat, which has never yet in twenty years saved anyone, should, during the summer season, be right at the bathing spot, with a man in charge.

It might cost $10 a week for three or four months, but how much does such an outlay amount to in comparison with human life?

Mrs. E. B. Yule of Mt. Forest, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Percey, 203 Brant avenue.

Mrs. Clarke Moore of 50 Victoria Street, who recently underwent an operation at the hospital, has improved considerably and should be able to leave for her home within a short time.

Overdone

Ottawa Free Press: "Nearly four solid pages of the Saskatoon Phoenix are taken up with an advertisement of 'sale of land for taxes' in that city. In other words, there are about 7,000 lots in that city for sale because the present owners cannot afford to pay the taxes, or don't think it worth while doing so."

LONDON, June 3—London was defeated into second place as the Red Sox, defeating the Brantford Red Sox at Tecumseh Park yesterday after the narrow margin of 4 to 3. Knotty Lee's Hams were hand-trimming in the first game of the series at Ottawa.

Bobby Heck was in fine form, was especially strong with his bases. The six hits the Red Sox were well scattered and only one error in the fourth innings the Red Sox would have been held scoreless. "Lefty" Smith started to pitch for Brantford, but had to retire when he hit one straight back at him, injuring his thumb. He tried to continue but could not control the ball. Collins was sent in to finish the game. He held London well, but two innings when his wrist was off his port side delivery.

Dunlop Was the Star.

The feature of the play of the Red Sox was the assist of Dunlop's who tired the side with two men on base when he grabbed in Coose's hit field on a clever pick up in the

SPORTING COMMENT

Pitcher Renfer struck out 11 Hamilton batters yesterday.

Buster Burritt had three of Brantford's six hits at London.

Guelph has released Schaeffer, who last year proved a winning pitcher.

Deneau has finally secured Cy Reedy from Berlin. This Reedy is a good ball player and will help London.

Wagner was good again yesterday at London. He accepted all of six chances.

Hamilton hasn't won a game since the Kolls left Brantford.

St. Thomas finally managed to beat Guelph, but it took ten innings.

CIVIC WAR IS SHOUTED

Lavergne Denounces England in Address at Quebec.

He Denounced Everything in Sight and Out of Sight.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

QUEBEC, June 3.—Admitting that he had advised Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, to carry his opposition to the Borden naval aid bill even to the point of civil war, if that should be necessary, Armand Lavergne, the Nationalist lieutenant, yesterday at Montmagny, delivered an address in which he denounced practically all the Quebec members on the Government side of the House and denounced both the Laurier and Borden naval policies, denounced England for her treatment of Canada in the past, denounced almost everything in sight and out of it, and suggested nothing beyond an appeal to the people, which he thinks will be the panacea for every ill, alleged or otherwise, of which he complains.

After making his statement about the advice he gave Mr. Pelletier, Mr. Lavergne stated that he had emphasized it by saying that it would hardly be necessary to go thus far, as the English members, who loved power just as much as the French, would give in if they were hard pushed. Had the French members elected in the fight against Laurier in 1911 stuck to their guns, the Borden bill would have been defeated in the lower house.

Mr. Lavergne described the defeat of the bill in the Senate as being the result, and the culmination of five years of effort on the part of the Nationalists. As things were now, there could be no navy unless the people were consulted. There must be either a plebiscite or a general election. For his part he preferred a plebiscite, as it would tend to eliminate the party spirit. He accused Mr. Lesperance, the Federal member for Montmagny, of having been elected on false pretences, and of having betrayed his mandate.

He also said that it was thanks to himself that Quebec had been allied with three ministers, with portfolios, and that Mr. Lesperance would have sacrificed one of these portfolios on condition that Sir Rodolphe Forget should be Minister without portfolio.

Passing to the affair of the Keewatin schools, he read a telegram from Mgr. Langevin saying that the Catholics of Manitoba were not satisfied with the outcome of the issue. Then turning to the discussion of the Borden bill, he said that "Canada owed nothing to England; that the Dominion should do nothing beyond the defence of her own shores, that Canada had never involved England in any wars, but on the other hand had been involved in two by the Mother Country. In his opinion, the interests of Canada had been sacrificed by England, on several occasions, which he enumerated. He considered there was no emergency that England had no need of the money, that the King and the Kaiser had just sworn eternal peace, that the Laurier policy was preferable to Borden's because it left the decision as to whether Canada should engage in a war or not, with the Canadian parliament, and that if England had the Imperial prerogative of settling foreign affairs, Canada for her part had the national prerogative of safeguarding her autonomy.

The Mystery of Agatha Webb

By Katharine Green Agatha Webb Copyright, 1909, by Katharine Green

CHAPTER II. A BLOODY SLEEVE.

Sutherland was a seaport. The village, which was a small one, consisted of one long street running parallel with the coast and numerous cross streets running down from the hillside and ending on the wharfs. On one of the corners this made stood the Webb house, with its front door on the main street and its side door on one of the hillside lanes. As the group of men and boys who had been in search of Mr. Sutherland entered this lane they could see the Webb house from all the others, as it was the only one in which a light was still burning. Mr. Sutherland lost no time in entering upon the scene of the tragedy. As his imposing figure emerged from the darkness and paused upon the outskirts of the crowd blocking up every entrance to the house, a murmur of welcome went up, after which a way was made for him to the front door.

"But before he could enter one among them plucked him by the sleeve. "Look up!" whispered a voice into his ear. He did so and saw a woman's body hanging half out of an upper window. It hung limp, and the sight made him sick with a sickening sense of the years of experience. "Who's that?" he cried. "That's not Agatha Webb's head and shoulders?" "No, it's Batsy, the cook. She's dead too. We left her where we found her for the coroner to see."

"But this is horrible!" murmured Mr. Sutherland. "Has there been a butcher here?" "As he uttered these words he felt another quick pressure on his arm. Looking down, he saw leaning against him the form of a young woman, but before he could address her she had started upright again and was moving on with the throng. It was Miss Page. "It was the sight of this woman hanging from the window which first drew attention to the house," volunteered a man who was standing as a sort of guardian at the main gateway. "Some of the sailors' wives who had been to the wharfs to see their husbands off on the ship that sailed at day-break saw it as they came up the lane without that we might not yet have known what had happened."

"But Mrs. Webb?" "Come in and see." There was a board fence about the simple yard within which stood the humble house forever sacred to the memory of the woman who had been the town's most heartrending tragedy. In this fence was a gate, and through this gate now passed Mr. Sutherland and his would-be companion, Miss Page. A path bordered by lilac bushes led to the house, the bushes led to the main gate. As soon as Mr. Sutherland entered upon this path a man appeared from the house and came directly toward him. It was Amos Fenton, the constable. "Ah, Mr. Sutherland," said he, "and business, a very bad business! But what little I can do for you there?" "This is Miss Page, my housekeeper's niece. She would come. Inquisitiveness, the cause. I do not approve of it."

"Miss Page must remain on the door-step. We allow no one inside excepting yourself," he said respectfully, in recognition of the fact that nothing of importance was ever undertaken in Sutherlandtown without the presence of Mr. Sutherland. Miss Page courted, looking so bewitching in the fresh morning light that the tough old constable scratched his chin in grudging admiration. But he did not reconsider his determination. Seeing this she accepted her defeat gracefully and moved aside to where the bushes offered her more or less protection from the curiosity of those about her. Meanwhile Mr. Sutherland had stepped into the house. He found himself in a small hall with a staircase in front and an open door at the left. On the threshold of this open door a man stood, who at sight of him doffed his hat. Passing this man, Mr. Sutherland entered the room beyond. A table spread with eatables met his view, beside which, in an attitude which struck him at the moment as peculiar, sat Philemon Webb, the well known master of the house.

"Astonished at seeing his old friend in this room and in such a position, he was about to address him when Mr. Fenton stopped him. "Wait!" said he. "Take a look at poor Philemon before you disturb him. He was sitting just as you see him when we broke into the house a half hour ago, and we let him be for reasons you can easily appreciate. Examine him closely, Mr. Sutherland; he won't notice it."

"But what ails him? Why does he sit crunched against the table? Is he hurt, too?" "No, look at his eyes." Mr. Sutherland stopped and pushed aside the long gray locks that half concealed the countenance of his aged friend. "Why," he cried startled, "they are closed! He isn't dead?" "No, he is asleep." "Asleep?" "Yes. He was asleep when we came in and he is asleep yet. Some of the neighbors wanted to awake him, but I would not let them. His wife are not strong enough to bear a sudden shock."

"No, no, poor Philemon! But that he should sit sleeping here while she—what do these bottles mean and this parade of supper in the room they were not accustomed to eat in?" "We don't know. It has not been eaten, you see. He has swallowed a glass of port, but that is all. The other glasses had no wine in them, nor have the victuals been touched." "Seats for three and only one occupied," murmured Mr. Sutherland. "Strangely! Could he have expected guests?"

"It looks like it. I don't know that his wife allowed him such privileges. But she was always too good to him and I fear has paid for it with her life."

"Nonetheless he never killed her. Had his love been anything short of the worship it was, he stood in too much awe of her to lift his hand against her, even in his most demoted moments."

"I don't trust men of uncertain wits," returned the other. "You have not noticed everything that is to be seen in this room?" Mr. Sutherland, recalled to his duty by these words, looked quickly about him. With the exception of the table and what was on and by it there was nothing else in the room. Naturally his glance returned to Philemon Webb. "I don't see anything but this poor sleeping man," he began. "Look at his sleeve!" cried Mr. Sutherland, with a start, again bent down. The arm of his old friend lay crooked upon the table, and on its blue cotton sleeve there was a smudge which might have been wine but which was—blood.

As Mr. Sutherland became assured of this, he turned slightly pale and looked inquiringly at the two men who were intently watching him. "This is bad," said he. "Any other marks of blood below that?" "No. That one smudge is all." "Oh, Philemon! burst from Mr. Sutherland in deep emotion. Then as he looked long and shudderingly at his friend he added slowly: "He has been in the room where she was killed, so much is evident. But that he understood what was done there I cannot believe or he would not be sleeping here like a log. Come, let us go upstairs."

Fenton, with an admonitory gesture toward his subordinate, turned directly toward the stairs. Mr. Sutherland followed him, and they at once proceeded to the upper hall and into the large front room, which had been the scene of the tragedy. It was the parlor or sitting room of this small and unpretentious house. A rag carpet covered the floor, and the woman who lay outstretched on the stiff old fashioned lounge opposite the door was far from being in accord with the homely type of her surroundings. Though the victim of a violent death, her face and form, both of a beauty seldom to be found among women of any station, were so majestic in their calm repose that Mr. Sutherland, accustomed as he was to her noble appearance, experienced a shock of surprise that found vent in these words: "Murdered! She? You have made some mistake, my friends. Look at her face!"

But even in the act of saying this his eyes fell on the blood which had dyed her cotton dress, and he cried: "Where was she struck and where was the weapon which made this ghastly wound?" "She was struck while standing or sitting at this table," returned the constable, pointing to two or three drops of blood on its smooth surface. "The weapon we have not found, but the wound shows that it was inflicted by a three sided dagger."

"Yes." "I didn't know there was such a thing in town. Philemon could have had no dagger." "It does not seem so, but one can never tell. Simple cottages like these often contain the most unlocked for articles."

Mr. Sutherland thought of what the cottage did contain and scrutinized the constable closely. But the latter showed no discrepancy. "I cannot imagine a dagger being among its effects," he pursued. "Where was the body of Mrs. Webb lying when you came in?" "Where you see it now. Nothing has been moved or changed in this lounge, in the same position in which we see her now!"

"Yes, sir." "But that is incredible. Look at the way she lies! Hands crossed, eyes closed, as though made ready for her burial. Only loving hands could have done this. What does it mean?" "It means Philemon; that is what it means, Philemon." (To be continued)

Stirring Address at Presbyterian Assembly To-Day in Toronto.

(Special to the Courier.) TORONTO, June 3.—H. G. Crozier, B.A., Weepawa, Man., delivered a striking address to the General Assembly here to-day as follows: Some years ago Earl Grey while in Winnipeg visited Kildonan Cemetery to place a wreath on the grave of the great superintendent. As he did so he said: "I place this wreath on this grave in memory of the man who saved Western Canada from becoming the wild west!"

We all admired Earl Grey for this thoughtful tribute to our old leader; but we ought not to forget that Presbyterianism in Canada "has been helped along, not so much by the gigantic shoves of her leaders as by the aggregate of the tiny pushes" of every rural minister and "honest worker whomsoever."

No one will deny the splendid service of the rural church; yet we ought to conceal from ourselves, that despite all unthinking optimists may tell us, the rural problem is one of the most serious which this congress will consider; for upon this problem hinges every other problem which faces us in Canada.

The fore ground the disheartening spectacle of denominational competition, the evils of which are so obvious that they do not need to be elaborated before this audience.

To make things worse, there is in the rural church, a tendency of rural depopulation brought about through thriftless farming, immigration to the far west, difficulty in obtaining help, and the movement of a large proportion of our most enterprising and intelligent citizens to the cities.

The rural church is having the tendency of enlarging our farms, leaving behind a discouraged and visionless class of people, decreasing the strength of our churches, and bringing to a crisis the problem of the rural church.

All over the west there are hundreds of rural churches "lagging behind," while at the same time there is a large proportion of the population entirely out of touch with any church whatever.

Then educational activity in our country districts is sadly deficient. Critics tell us that the rural church is interfering with the home life which ought to be the centre of hope. I am speaking quite deliberately and calmly, when I venture to say that home life as it exists in many localities, is something that needs to be surrounded with, not because of its incessant drudgery its utter lack of sociability, and of spiritual refinement.

Whatever Canada's grandeur is to be, cannot spring from her homes, in which for the most part God's altars are broken down. The rural school is as great a problem as a rural home. If the test of an educational institution is its power to develop character; and in these days of rural depletion to idealize country life, fit and encourage our youths to enter upon the practical duties of the farm, then the one-roomed school is a lamentable failure. How can we expect eighteen-year-old girls without experience or ripeness of personality to take the place of mature lady teachers or the old-time Dominie? How can we expect our brightest youths, if we fail to idealize country life by neglecting to provide those educational facilities necessary for agricultural training and higher education?

Let me tell this congress, let me impress it upon the conscience of every rural minister, that if we are to conserve and promote the highest interests of our country, we must go back to our homes determined to assume leadership in the direction of consolidation and practical curriculum in our rural districts.

Now, whether or not you have agreed with me in what I have just said, I am going to hazard another statement which may or may not meet with your approval. I do believe that the rural church is a greater failure educationally than these other institutions which it is supposed to nourish and direct.

One Canadian writer has recently said that "the rural school is the worst failure in the open country in this Dominion to-day." If that statement is even approximately true it is a standing testimony to the greater failure of the rural church, which, if it is not responsible for the failure of these other institutions ought not to lay claim to the responsibilities of leadership in the rural community. This is the real explanation of the rural problem; that the church has failed to exercise her responsibilities of leadership; with the result that not only has the rural community suffered the demoralizing, disintegrating consequences, but that these consequences have reacted upon the church, threatening her very existence.

What then is the matter with the leadership of the rural church? There is this outstanding defect, that she has most flagrantly failed to relate her message to the urgent needs of the people. She has been content with a nineteenth century message for a twentieth century people; content to preach a one-sided gospel in the face of many-sided problems; content with the denunciation of evils that are superficial, instead of the condemnation of the many new varieties of sin, which are the cancers at the heart of rural society; content with philosophizing, theologizing and ceremonializing to the neglect of individualistic salvation; forgetful of administering to the many pressing needs of the rural community; content with getting people into heaven while unscrupulous men combine selfish interests with unchallenged boldness and wicked effrontery have church to engage the energy of the young men of our rural districts; while at the same time the lodges are full of young men, to such an extent that the lodge has practically become the young man's church. Go, where I may, I am continually finding young men ministering to the necessities of the sick, in the name of the lodge, but not in the name of the church, which circumstances, while undoubtedly creditable to the lodge, is a standing rebuke to the inadequacy of the church as it is now organized, to do the work for which it actually exists.

How can we expect our young men to become and to remain active members of an organization, which by its lack of social facilities drives them to seek elsewhere that social intercourse and exchange of progressive ideas, which are the chief means of interesting and moulding men, either for good or evil? This reminds me of a story which Prof. Sears, of Chicago University tells about a city missionary, who when complaining about the saloon, one day showed and dance halls surrounding his mission, was asked what he had done to offset these attractions. His reply was that he had afforded the ordinary means of grace, which consisted of a "dull weekly prayer meeting and an occasional ghostly social."

SHE WAS HELPLESS FOR TWO YEARS

Why Mrs. Baldwin Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills. She Could Find Nothing to Cure Her Rheumatism Till on a Neighbor's Advice She Tried Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. Walburg (Sask., June 2 (Special) "I can truly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills for any one suffering from rheumatism." These are the words of Mrs. W. A. Baldwin, a highly respected resident of this place. And Mrs. Baldwin gives her reasons. "I was nearly helpless with rheumatism for two years," she states, "and tried several other remedies but nothing helped me. Then one of my neighbors advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I bought four boxes and they helped almost from the first. I have used nearly two dozen boxes and am nearly cured."

That rheumatism is one of the results of diseased kidneys is again shown in Mrs. Baldwin's case. She had headaches, stiffness of the joints and backache, her sleep was broken and unrefreshing, and she was always tired and nervous. Her limbs swelled and she was always thirsty. These are all symptoms of diseased kidneys. When she cured her kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills, the symptoms vanished—and so did the rheumatism.

To cultivate not only the grace of liberality, but the grace of rural economy. If we expect ever to evangelize the fourteen million heathen for whose welfare we are responsible, we must conserve the rural church by conserving its community; and thus make it a source of life and blessing.

This leads me to say that we might make some new departures in the training of our future ministers; by giving an agricultural and economic trend to theological education. In these days when investigations show that every great moral problem has its roots in economic unrighteousness it is high time that our ministers were trained by the experts in diagnosing the new varieties of social diseases which are demoralizing and disintegrating society.

If Jesus Christ were here to-day, he would add one more scene to the parable of the Good Samaritan. He would not only take the man who is down, the man who put him down, the man who helped him up, and the man who didn't care, but he would also draw a picture of the man who got after the thieves, and he would say "go and do thou likewise."

There will never be a great revival in this country until such time as men are convicted of the sins of modern civilization.

The immediate duty before us is to initiate a great evangelistic, educational campaign in which every rural church shall be organized to a sense of its responsibility.

More and more, we are coming to see that if we expect ever to repeat the pentecostal triumphs of the apostolic church; and to bring into the kingdom those who have gone astray, we must first apply to the good of Jesus, Christ to the age in which we live. Oh, with what earnestness, with what tears and supplications we should entreat the Master for so high and daring a mission.

NEW STRENGTH FOR NURSING MOTHERS

Aching Backs and Tired Limbs Need Not Be Endured

Aching backs, tired limbs, attacks of faintness, headaches, and backaches need not be a part of woman's life. There are times when her blood needs special attention and these times are indicated by one or more of the above symptoms. It is at such times that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold to women, for they actually make the rich, red health-giving blood which makes weak, tired, despondent women, active and strong, and feeling equal to all their household duties.

Such a sufferer was Mrs. Wm. Sullivan, River, N. B., who says: "I am writing to acknowledge the great good I received through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After my baby was born last summer I was so run down that life was really a burden. I had to drag myself about to do my housework, and every moment was one of trial. If I went upstairs I would be breathless and tired out, and my heart would palpitate violently, and I would have a feeling as though I was smothering. My appetite was poor and my baby was suffering from my weakness, I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and get six boxes and before they were all quite used I was like a different woman. My appetite returned, I regained my strength and the work about the house no longer bothered me. As the result of my experience I would strongly urge all weak women and nursing mothers to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

There is no woman, no matter what her station in life, who will not enjoy better health if she occasionally fortifies her blood through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Your Furs are Safe in our Vaults!

Why send them out of town when they can be stored just as well in Brantford?

Furs are so highly prized by everyone, it follows that great care must be taken to protect them from the ravages of moths. It is a fact that more furs are ruined by these pests than by actual wear.

The cold dry air system of storage is a positive safeguard against moths. Much work and worry can be avoided by simply telephoning us at 819, and we will call for your furs and other winter apparel. You place your own valuation on each article, and we are responsible to you for that amount in case of loss by fire or moths. Our charge for storage and insurance is 3 per cent. of the value—a moderate charge which is remembered that we carefully inspect each article and hang them in vaults that are properly corked.

Nothing is packed or folded. Everything is kept on hangers, so that the most delicate article will not become creased or mused, and will carry no odor of moth preventative.
