FARM LABORERS WANTED

The Western Provinces of Canada, have experienced an acute shortage of farm laborers for spring seeding and summer work this year.

Even when times were normal throughout Canada moreover, it was always necessary to bring from twenty-five to thirty thousand laborers from Eastern points for the harvest season.

As volunteer enlistments have been very heavy, and inasmuch as a successful crop is predicted by the experts, grave fear is being felt along the lines of the Canadian Northern Railway, on account of the difficulty experienced in obtaining labor, which means steady work and good wages for all who visit in the districts served by the C. N. R.

For particulars, apply to John S. Lowling and Co., city agent, or write to R. L. Fairburn, General Passenger Agent, 68 King St. S., Toronto, Ont.

Ruling Issued by Board of Ry. Commissioners

Dried Peas, Whole and Split, Are Being removed to Vegetable Section. By Special Wire to the Courier. Ottawa, July 10.—The Board of Railway Commissioners in regard to the application of the Montreal Board of Trade for an order directing that the rates published for the carriage of grain products from Ontario to points in the Eastern States be applied also on split peas and for disallowance and of the Toronto Board of Trade for suspension of the schedules removing whole peas from the list of articles which take grain rates from and to the aforesaid territories, has issued this ruling:

"In this matter, it appears that in the new Canadian freight classification which the railways are preparing, it is proposed to remove dried peas, whole and split, from the grain section to the vegetable section, thus following the example of the American classification. While the rating will as proposed, remain the same as at present, viz., eighth class, the effect would be that tariffs for the movement of grain in Canada would no longer include peas. The matter as presented has in view of the time the existing rate situation has existed, this disposition does not appear to be unfair to the parties."

German Sub Crosses Ocean

(Continued from Page One.) warding company to the purchasers, New York Chemical Companies. Probably only a day or two will be required to discharge, then the submarine will take on the crude rubber and nickel consignments already stored in the pier warehouse for her return trip.

Not Advertising Date of Return When the start back across the Atlantic will be made, of course is problematical. An official of the forwarding company said to-day it might be two weeks or it might be a month, but it was not denied that no advance notice would be given, and that the vessel would make her and out of the Cape whenever and however the opportunity might offer to elude the patrols which undoubtedly will be waiting for her to appear.

Persons who talked with Captain Konig, are authority for the statement that the only arms of any description aboard the Deutschland are four automatic pistols belonging to the officers, and a sportsman's rifle, used for firing alarm rockets.

No One Allowed Near. Extraordinary precautions have been taken to protect the Deutschland. As soon as she reached her dock an army of guards drove away all river craft, and a huge chain of logs was drawn around her to prevent vessels from approaching within a hundred feet of the ship. On in a hundred feet of the dock a high board fence, reaching far into the river, had been erected. On top of the fence are a dozen rows of barbed wire and curtains with bur-lap to shut off all view. No one without a permit was allowed near the entrance to the docks.

Orders from Berlin. "My orders are from my home government," said Captain Konig, "No one can go aboard without authorization. I am sorry, I would like the whole world to see."

A story that the Lake Torpedo Boat Company was preparing to build the submarine on the ground that her construction infringed upon its patents, apparently did not interest the German captain.

May Have Found Out How Enemy Acquires Secrets
Important Discovery Made by Sergt. Hicks at Barriefield.

By Special Wire to the Courier, Kingston, Ont., July 10.—An important discovery was made at Barriefield camp on Saturday, and by it is believed the secret of how the Germans have been able to get the contents of messages sent from the allies headquarters to front line, has been found. Working at the instrument at Barriefield on Saturday, Sergt. Hicks heard a message which he knew could not be sent from any wireless station within his receiving limits.

It was a lesson in the Morse code. He came to the conclusion that it must be from the buzzer that was working in another tent, 90 feet away. The electricity which was passing over the buzzer wire was being absorbed and became active over the wireless receiving apparatus. This is undoubtedly what the Germans have long known and used in many cases to good advantage against the allies. An order to advance would become known to them instantly as well as many other things they should not know. Great importance is attached to the discovery in official circles.

SYDENHAM ST. PICNIC.
Sydenham St. Sunday School held their annual picnic at Mohawk was a large attendance. Everything went along lovely until the thunderstorm broke over the Park. In view of the fact that five Sunday schools were picnicking at this popular resort, quite a number did not get under cover, and as a consequence not a few, mostly children, got a good soaking. After the downpour was over lunch was served and the usual races run off, and they were entered into with enthusiasm. A feature was the scrambling of a large sack of peanuts. Notwithstanding the inclement weather, the affair was a decided success.

Owen Wister, the western writer, will be in Brantford with a party sometime in July.

HOW THE "DEUTCHLAND" APPEARS, ALL SUB EQUIPMENT BUT "NEST"

Baltimore, July 10.—One of the most conspicuous things about the Deutschland is her name painted in big gold letters about a foot high, in the form of an arc, around the anchor chocks. Her periscope was drawn well inside, long before she sighted land. But her mast for lights, which she carries just behind the superstructure, sticks up some fifteen feet above the level of the water.
She has a handrail some two and a half to three feet high above the deck for the protection of the crew. This rail, the like of which was never seen on a war submarine, runs clear around her. Her deckhouse, too, does not remind you so much of the deckhouse of the Monitor of CIVIL War fame as in the case with the German war submarine. It is more like the bridge of an ocean liner.
From the superstructure to the bow—a distance of about 150 feet—the deck slopes down sharply. The bow itself is very sharp. The slope of the deck toward the stern is much more gentle. She has speed of twelve knots, and, heavily laden as she is with her 1,600-ton cargo, she made the trip in sixteen days, having left her German port on June 23.
The most interesting part of the boat is the periscope. When it is raised from its top down to the top of the conning tower is a distance of some twenty feet. That is the distance this new and defenceless type of submarine can duck under water to avoid its enemies without going totally blind.
The "receiving end" of the periscope is in the conning tower, which looks very small from the outside, but once you are inside, it seems to be large enough to hold five men.
The eye-pieces themselves, projecting, dark and gleaming, from the spottily white cylinder, look like guns trained on you to keep you out of this holy of holies of the submarine. Close to each of them is the electric motor, used to revolve it—for, flimsy as a periscope seems to the eye it is heavy enough, they tell me, and tightly fastened so as to look unflinchingly in the desired direction.
The room below the conning tower—the navigating room—is quite as full of a wilderness of complicated apparatus as that of an ordinary German U-boat—except for one thing. The "nest" is lacking. The "nest" is the cradle in which the torpedoes sweetly repose while waiting to be rudely awakened and sent spinning on their deadly errand.
This room is where the steering is done when the submarine is running submerged. The room back of the engine-room is larger and more complicated. Here are two rows of the famous Diesel engines, which run the submarine on the surface.
"It is due to these engines that there is so much profit in each trip of a merchant submarine," I was told. "If we had to use petrol (gasoline) with the present scarcity of that product in Germany, each trip would come very high, but the only fuel necessary for these motors is the heavy oil which is a by-product of the works where we manufacture coal gas and our oil refineries."
In this room is a clutch—which, to the inexperienced eye, looks like any other clutch. But when it is explained to you, you realize that it is a thing of romance—a thing without which America could not have been discovered by the submarine route. The so-called "accumulators," by which the submarine is driven when under water, have only enough electric energy to send the boat ahead for ten hours or so, at top speed. But, thanks to this clutch, these accumulators can be recharged by being joined up with the oil engines. This can be done when the submarine is on the surface. In this way it is possible to keep the energy in these electric batteries, which the submarine needs whenever it wishes to travel inoog.

submarine, making clear its owners' contention that it is a bona-fide merchant ship and not merely a warship temporarily converted to use as a carrier. "Nor do you stub your toe on the ugly little hammock on deck, which marks the place where the disappearing gun of the old-fashioned type of German naval submarine is concealed, or, to be accurate, protected, for the hammock prevented any real concealment.
The more modern German submarines are provided with three-and-a-half-inch guns such as the German destroyers, and these are kept well under cover below hatches that are flush with the deck. But this boat has no such gun, nor any ram on which it could be raised to position or any compressed air apparatus that could do the work of raising.

125TH BATTALION IS SENIOR UNIT OF THE THIRD BRIGADE

Life at Camp Borden is Remarkably Interesting and Invigorating For the Men—Vivid Descriptive Letter Received From Corporal Eugene Force

The following letter, giving a vivid description of Camp Borden, was received by Mrs. Cicero Force, Chestnut Avenue, from her son, Corporal Eugene Force, of the 125th.

Camp Borden,
7:45 p.m., July 5, 1916.

Dear Mother:

Arrived safe and sound; arrived here at 4 p.m.; some long trip. We had a good time on the train. First thing upon arrival we were allotted to our tents. No. 13 being the 1st platoon in D. Co. We had our tents first. I took my section in the first two tents (eight in each). They are right at the end of the line and we can look out over a lovely valley, partially wooded with pine trees and rolling hills in the distant background. It is a swell spot. Every direction one can look, is a peak (tent). Battalions are coming in all the time. Some came in the same time we did and three battalions came in this a.m., before 7 o'clock. At five o'clock last night I heard some swell music in the distance, and looking across the valley, I saw about four battalions with bands and bugle bands winding along the road towards the camp (about 5,000 men).

9:30 p.m.

Had to fall in as the bugle had first sounded. I am very much pleased with camp. Being interested in the way things were done, I went out with the Company. It certainly is great. After breakfast we have about half an hour, then it's fall in each company in his own parade ground. Then the bands begin and we all march off the winding roads to the big parade ground about a mile from our camp. It is dandy level ground, but was mostly woods

Another Campaign Coming Soon to Increase Battalion's Strength.

MAJOR SNIDER HAS RETURNED

Benefit Performance for 215th at Colonial Theatre Last of Week.

An average of three recruits per day was achieved by the 215th battalion last week, when a total of 21 recruits were obtained with no special efforts. In the course of a week or so, another big recruiting campaign is planned to add to the battalion's strength, which this morning stood at 542. All efforts will now be exerted to bring the battalion up to and over 600 as soon as possible, which will undoubtedly be in a very short time.

Major Hedley Snider of the 215th returned to the city on Saturday, after attending a musketry course at Ottawa, and was on duty at battalion headquarters this morning.

Eight cases of necessaries of various kinds were received this morning in the quartermaster's department, providing ample work for all in unpacking and storing.

A thoroughly successful open air service was held by the 215th yesterday morning, when the Battalion paraded to the School for the Blind, north and the east, at once. The Germans defending it, resisted energetically, but finding themselves in danger of being surrounded they retreated over the left bank of the river by the Peronne road. At two o'clock the village was entirely in the hands of the French.

Nearing Barleux.

Meanwhile the right wing threw the Germans into disorder and arrived at the outskirts of Barleux where the German situation now appears to be precarious.

French military opinion characterizes the capture of Biaches as a brilliant and important operation. Whether the Germans are still holding on to the net work of canals or have retreated to the other bank of the Somme, the French position on the important point of support afforded by the capture of Biaches gives them direct command of the valley immediately above Peronne.

Paris, July 10.—The French advanced their line south of the Somme Sunday a mile and a half, capturing the German third position along a length of three and one half miles, and are now within a mile of Peronne. French critics believe that the capture of Peronne now is a question of almost of hours.

Interlocking Echelons.

Under the system of interlocking echelons, it was the turn of the right wing to push forward, the other echelons on the centre and left being held in readiness to receive the advance of them. The troops south of the Somme apparently had made good use of their breathing spell. When the word was given they moved forward with the precision of a well-oiled machine. They swept across the northern of the two plateaus which face Peronne, clearing out the German positions and establishing themselves solidly in the trenches, which had been turned into quagmires by the combined effects of bombardment and incessant rain.

No Reinforcements.

The Germans offered the best resistance they could, but the French artillery had been keeping up a formidable drum fire upon their lines of communication, making it almost impossible for them to get either reinforcements or food in suitable quantities.

Yesterday's success is important in that it should enable the French heavy artillery to push forward into a position from which it can pour a fire into the flank and rear of the Germans who are retreating at Comblis, four miles to the north, and at Clery, half a mile north, on the other bank of the Somme.

Ready for Another Advance.

Yesterday's movements of the French paved the way for the next move of a central echelon for which preparation continued steadily all day, virtually without interference from the Germans.

The Official Statement.

Paris, June 10.—11:45 a.m.—A new attack was launched in the Champagne by the French last night. The war office to-day announced the capture of trenches over a front of 500 metres.

On the Somme front the French took a line of German positions in the neighborhood of Barleux. In this section 950 Germans were captured yesterday and last night.

The Germans made attacks at five points simultaneously in the Voges, but all their assaults were checked completely by the fire of French machine guns.

The French attacked in the Champagne was made at a point west of Mesnil. The French troops charged three times.

On the Somme front north of the river, the next passed quietly. In the Verdun sector artillery fire continued at Chattancourt, Fleury and La Laufee.

To The Editor

TERRACE HILL NEEDS Brantford, Ont., July 7, 1916. Editor of The Courier:

Sir,—In looking over the city council's doings, it is amusing to read about money being saved by buying automobiles, doubling up city officials' jobs, etc. Sometimes I wonder if saving money is the only object in view. "Of course, they expect ratepayers to swallow it." Some do; quite a number don't. I often wonder what becomes of all this money saved. The rates still go up.

Perhaps they intend giving us the cars up here with some of it in the near future. I know it is war time, and we are told to be contented. We were especially privileged this year,—oil roads first, even if citizens had to put ashes down for crossings. I should like to ask through your paper, "How much money was spent fixing roads, etc. on the Hill? Why so much money on parks, etc., and streets up here a perfect disgrace—almost impossible to see across some for weeds. Why no statement about money spent on luncheons and good roads' jaunt?" Can anyone show me any good done by these excursions?

Fellow-workers, whenever will you open your eyes? No wonder they had to paint the crossings. I also mention that I have names of a few citizens up here who think we should organize with a view to getting improvements we feel we are entitled to. We are not all contented to stay in the rut, and should like to hear from others interested.

We have offered our services to the country, and they were not accepted; so now we are centering our thoughts on how we can fix things before the boys who have gone return.

Another thing—we are not going to be put off indefinitely about getting street cars and a subway opened up. These are necessities.

Wedding Bells

HESS—HEWITT

Princeton, July 10.—A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized on Monday, July 6th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hewitt. The contracting parties were their daughter, Ethel Maude, and Mr. Geo. Elakely Hess.

The ceremony was impressively performed by the Rev. T. B. Horner, natives and friends to the number of thirty. The wedding music was performed by Mrs. Stitt. To the strains of the Bridal Chorus, from Lohengrin, the bride party, entered the tastefully decorated parlor and took their places in front of a high bank of ferns and orange blossoms.

The pretty young bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in snow-flake voile, over shadow lace, and wearing a shower bouquet of white roses and ferns. Her only attendant was her little niece, Margaret MacArthur, four years old, who carried a small brass basket of flowers, and wearing a white lace dress and pink ribbons. The gift of the bridegroom to the organist was a gold brooch-pin.

After the usual congratulations, all sat down to a very dainty dejeuner. The table decorations were red and white roses, some of which were brought by the bride's aunt from her garden at Niagara.

Mr. and Mrs. Hess motored to Brantford, and left by the 5 p.m. train for their home. After a short trip they will reside on the bridegroom's farm, near Canning.

Mrs. Hess travelled in a beautiful suit of grey bengaline with collar of rose satin, white silk blouse and silver-grey hat, trimmed to match her suit. Many valuable gifts testified to the popularity of the young couple.

The guests from a distance were: Mrs. A. McIntyre, Niagara; Mr. and Mrs. Pepper, Brantford; Dr. Carrie Hess and R. Cross, Brantford; the Misses Hess, Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Holder, Richwood; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hewitt, Mt. Vernon.

It was interesting to note four generations: her great-grandmother, Mrs. Bastede; her grandmother, Mrs. G. Hewitt; her mother, Mrs. G. MacArthur; Margaret MacArthur, of whom a snap-shot was taken later on.

Egerton Carpenter, an Indian, 80 years of age, who had been living on the farm of Dr. Sager, back of the House of Refuge, these last few years, was found dead in his house yesterday. He was last seen on Thursday last by his nephew in the city. Dr. Sager was out on Sunday, and having occasion to be in the house, found the body in bed. He had evidently passed away from natural causes, so no inquest was deemed necessary. The funeral took place this afternoon to the Reserve from Reid & Brown's undertaking parlors.

ALERTS DEFEAT CUBS VAN

In Saturday's Games, Which Features, Clean Men Yet Lost

Two exceptionally thrilling interesting games of baseball those seen by a fair-sized attend at Agricultural Park on Saturday afternoon, when the 215th down to defeat at the hands of Alerts by a score of 10 to 5. The Cubs triumphed over the 8-4. In point of interest, the game were perhaps the best yet played this season, being intense throughout, featured by spectacular individual playing by members of all teams.

The First Game.

A badly patched-up team was into the field by the 215th in first encounter, as a number of regulars were either absent or laid up with inoculation. They who appeared on the field were poor condition also, to which is due, in a large measure, their feat, though credit for this must so be given to Saunders, the Alert twirler, who pitched remarkable good ball throughout, having a total of 18 bingles, against the soldiers. J. Brown's field at short, was also conspicuously brilliant, he pulling down a number of hot liners and robbing the opening players of what seemed sure on several occasions. In the inning he executed a neat double play unassisted, when he grabbed McDonald's liner and caught Saunders off second base.

Six in One Inning.

The sixth inning was the dramatic frame for the soldiers, as this spasm their opponents pushed even half-dozen runs across the plate, clinching the victory. Rector, first Alert to bat in that inning, a life on Beckett's error, tallied on a single by Phillips, lined out to J. Brown, but Saunders connected safely, driving both runners home. He advanced on a single to first base, scoring McKay's single, which appeared to take the heart out of Second, as following directly on it a single by McDonald and Kaufman, an smashing two-bagger by Mick J. which resulted in three more for Rector, to bat for the second time in the inning, ended the fireworks flying out to right field.

Outside of this spasm, the score was more or less regular on either side, but the soldiers were out heavy hitting was indulged in both teams. Armitage, Ver Judge and Huff polling out two each, Phillips, Huff, Saunders Armitage each amassed three clouts. The final scores:—

ALERTS DEFEATED 215TH AND CUBS VANQUISHED THE STARS

In Saturday's City League Baseball Games, Which Contained Many Features, Cleator Fanned Twelve Men Yet Lost His Game.

Two exceptionally thrilling and interesting games of baseball were those seen by the 215th in the afternoon, when the 215th went down to defeat at the hands of the Alerts by a score of 10 to 5, while the Cubs triumphed over the Stars 8-4. In point of interest, the games were perhaps the best yet played this season, being intense throughout, featured by spectacular individual playing by members of all teams.

The First Game.
A badly patched-up team was put into the field by the 215th in the first encounter, as a number of their regulars were either absent or badly laid up with incontinence. Those who appeared on the field were in poor condition also, to which fact is due, in a large measure, their defeat, though credit for this must also be given to Saunders, the Alerts' twirler, who pitched remarkably good ball throughout, having nine strike outs to his credit, and himself hammering out three clean singles. Heavy hitting on both sides was prominent, the winners amassing a total of 18 singles, against 11 by the soldiers. J. Brown's fielding at short, was also conspicuously brilliant, he pulling down a number of hot liners and robbing the opposing players of what seemed sure hits on several occasions. In the second inning he executed a neat double play unassisted, when he grabbed McDonald's liner and caught Saunders off second base.

Six in One Inning.
The sixth inning was the disastrous frame for the soldiers, as in this spasm their opponents pushed an even half-dozen runs across the plate, clinching the victory. Rector, the first Alert to bat in that inning, got a life on Beckett's error, taking third on a single by Phillips. Huff lined out to J. Brown, but Saunders connected safely, driving both baserunners home. He advanced on Vennings' out at first base, scoring on McKay's single, which appeared to take the heart out of Second, as following directly on it came singles by McDonald and Kaufman, and a smashing two-bagger by Judge, which resulted in three more tallies. Rector, to bat for the second time in the inning, ended the fireworks by flying out to right field.

Outside of this spasm, the scoring was more or less regular on both sides, but the soldiers were out-done. Heavy hitting was indulged in by both teams, Armitage, Vennings, Judge and Huff polling out two-baggers, Phillips, which appeared and Armitage smashed three safe slouts. The final scores:—

The Second Game.
The second encounter, like its predecessor, was replete with thrills to numerous to mention. Chris Cleator, in the box for the Stars, gave a splendid exhibition in the art of twirling, demonstrating just how good a pitcher may be and yet lose his game, partially through his wildness. The lanky Star had no less than twelve strike-outs to his credit, which establishes a record in the city league. Chris' wildness was, after all, not entirely responsible for the game, as six errors by his team-mates contributed largely to the Cub's victory.

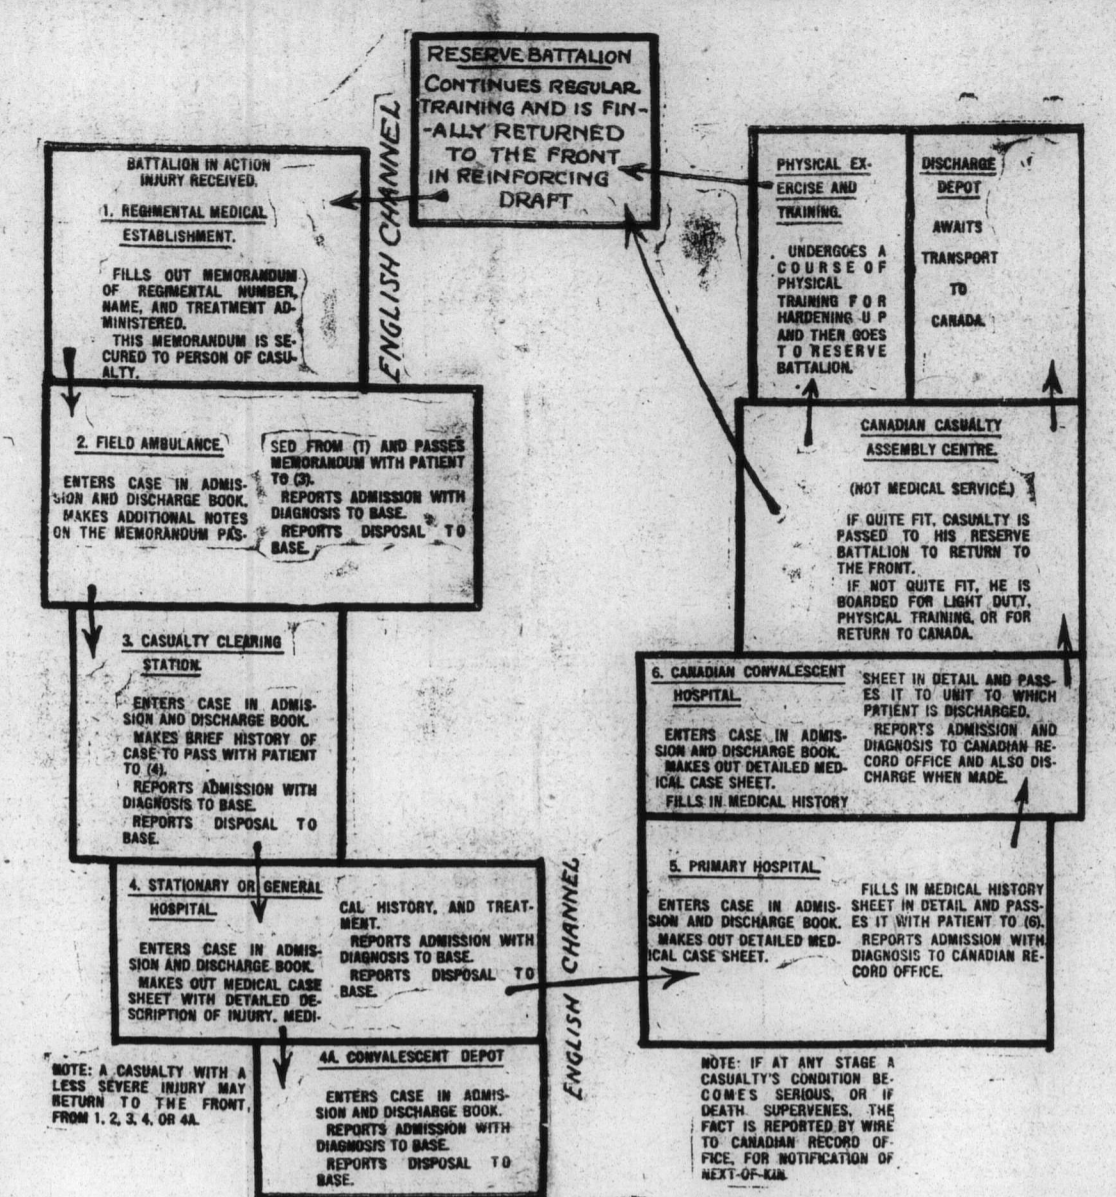

Changes in Teams.
As in the first game, new players appeared on the line-ups of both teams. James Hanley, Esquire, of the Expositor cavorted in left field for the Cubs, having two put outs out of two chances to his credit, as well as one hit and one run. Centre garden for the Stars was occupied by no less illustrious a personage than Jimmy Bradley, of defunct Wobly league fame, Jimmy connecting with the ball for three safe singles out of three times at bat, and accepting the only chance offered him in the field.

One Bad Innings.
Again as in the previous encounter, it was one bad inning—and again the second—which lost and won the game. Gleason walked, advancing when Currie was safe on Ed. Sears' error and scoring on Summerhayes' single, which also drove Currie home. Hurley and Beckett then fanned in succession, rendering the prospect of further runs rather dubious, but Tom Sears and Jim Hanley singled in succession, following which Tom Slatery was safe on an error by Bell, and Johnson lined out a safety. Six runs had now crossed the pan in the innings when Gleason came to bat and walked for the second time. Currie, however, brought the session to a close when he perished at first base.

Outcome of this frame, the scoring was scattered and periodic. Currie pulled off a fine catch in the second, when he chased Cleator's fly back almost to the fence and pulled it down while running back. In three trips to the plate, Chris Cleator sent three flies to Currie, these being the latter's only put-outs. The slugging of the game were Bradley and Ed. Sears of the Stars, each of whom had three clean blinges. Ed. Sears and Powell drove out two-baggers, while Symons hit for three sacks. Despite all this hitting the Stars succumbed. The final score:

ROME RATHER SURPRISED AT PROPOSED ALLIANCE BETWEEN BRITISH AND ITALIAN HOUSE

Princess Yolanda of Italy Said to be Destined as England's Future Queen—She is a Roman Catholic and Likely Would Have to Change Her Religion.

Rome, June 10.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Unconvinced reports that Prince Edward Albert of Wales, heir apparent to the British throne, seeks the hand of the Princess Yolanda, the eldest daughter of King Emanuel of Italy, have excited widespread discussion here. The rumor is a surprise to Italians generally, for it had been supposed that the British prince would marry one of the daughters of Emperor Nicholas of Russia, but there are a number of incidents that have led the Italian people to believe that Prince Edward will marry the Princess Yolanda.

Connaught's Visit to Italy.
It is now stated that the reason of the visit of the Duke of Connaught to the Italian King in May was to present the formal request of the King and Queen of England for the hand of the Princess Yolanda. The Princess is only fifteen years old, and the Prince is only twenty-two. She received an English education from her mother, the Princess Victoria, and those who know her intimately have spoken of her as one of the best marriageable prospects in European royal families. She is said to be an extremely sensible and practical girl, having been brought up in a family that is peculiarly domestic, and being the oldest girl in the family, her royal intimates say she has been regarded as the "boss" of the household. She has always acted as the protector of her younger sisters and her brother, Prince Humbert. Sometimes she has extended this role even to her mother, the Queen. The latter, on one occasion recently, when speaking to the American wife of an Italian journalist, said, "I rarely attempt to speak English because Yolanda insists on correcting my mistakes."

Food of Out-door Life.
The Princess strongly resembles her mother, having dark hair and eyes, an olive complexion, and with the bases full and one out. One run scored on a sacrifice fly, Russell from the third to two hits, besting the Virginians with whitewash. In the final frame the big collegian apparently decided not to hint himself, especially as the Leafs had scored no runs up to that stage. He was hit to five hits, which were good for four runs. He was just in the long enough to show that he has the goods. Seemingly he was pulling a little "college stuff" at the end. Ross Has Them Cornered, and his left-handed foilers had the Islanders chased into a corner from the moment he ascended the hill. He and Shocker were team mates on Frank Shagnessy's Ottawa Canadian League champions last season. They both worked in an exhibition game against the Leafs at the Island last season, and it took all the Clymer outfit had to beat them 1 to 0.

GERMANS AGAIN AT VERDUN

Several Brushes With the Enemy All Along the Line.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Paris, July 10.—The situation on the Somme front is unchanged. On the Verdun front, the Germans carried on a heavy bombardment of the Chattancourt, Fleury and Damlosp sectors.

The statement follows:
"On both sides of the Somme the night passed quietly. The total number of prisoners which we captured during the attack on Hardecourt is 633, of whom ten are officers."

"On the north of Verdun, the enemy maintained a rather violent bombardment of the sectors of Chattancourt, Fleury, and the Damlosp battery."

"West of the forest of Apremont the Germans undertook two surprise attacks against our positions at Croix Ste. Jean. A detachment which was able to penetrate one of our trenches was expelled immediately by our grenadiers. The other detachment was dispersed before it was able to reach our lines."

"In the Vosges, after a lively bombardment, the enemy attacked one of our positions south of the pass of Sainte Marie. The attack was broken up by our fire. During the night we carried out successfully a minor operation at Sude, north of Hartmannsweilerkopf, and brought back fourteen prisoners and one machine gun."

Advance Saturday
Paris, July 8.—The official communication issued by the war office to-night reads:

"To the north of the Somme, notwithstanding the persistent rain and fog, our troops delivered an assault this morning on the village of Hardecourt and on Mamelon to the north in co-operation with the British army, which attacked from its side the Bois de Trons and a farm situated southeast of that wood. In thirty-five minutes our infantry, by reason of the vigor of the attack, was in possession of the objects aimed at."

"Two German counter attacks, one from the north, the other from the east, were launched in the afternoon on Mamelon covered by us but were broken by our fire. The

16 YEAR-OLD KING IS DETHRONED

Fomented a Rebellion Against French in Annam, China Sea.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Paris, July 10.—Duy-Tan, the sixteen-year-old king of the French protectorate of Annam, on the China Sea, has been dethroned as a result of a revolt of Annamites at Quang-Ngai, which he is accused of having fomented. The governor-general of French Indo-China reports the outbreak was suppressed quickly, and the king arrested near Hue. He is succeeded by Prince Dun-Dao, who has just been crowned.
A despatch from Shanghai, May 15, said the governor-general of French Indo-China, of which the kingdom Annam is virtually a part, had ordered that King Duy-Tan be deposed on charges of complicity in plots in Quang-Ngai and Quang-Nan. Several uprisings against French rule have occurred within the last three years in Indo-China, and martial law was proclaimed throughout the greater part of the territory in April.

Hun Steamer Sunk

Dorita, 3,689 Tons Gross, Sent Down Off Swedish Coast

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, July 8.—The German steamer Dorita of 3,689 tons gross has been sunk by a Russian submarine off Oernskold, Sweden, according to a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Copenhagen to-day. The steamer was taken to the bottom after the crew had taken to the boats.
Germans, who suffered heavy losses in the course of these actions, left 260 prisoners in our hands.
"To the south of Somme there was no event of importance to report in the course of the day."
"On the Verdun front, our first and second lines were subjected to an intermittent bombardment. On the left bank the activity of the artillery continued very violent in the sectors north of Souville, the Pumin wood and the Damlosp battery."
"The usual cannonading occurred on the rest of the front."
"In the sectors of Boesinghe and Steenstraete we continued successfully to-day our destructive fires on the German defensive works. The enemy responded feebly. In the region of Dismude quite violent artillery actions have taken place."

AUSTRIAN OFFICIAL ADMIT LOSS OF HARDECOURT

German Official Statement Claims All Other Assaults Failed.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Berlin, July 10.—The war office report of to-day says the French and British are continuing their attacks on the Somme front. The Germans lost ground in Hardecourt village, but repelled other assaults, inflicting heavy losses on the allies.
"The eastern front Russian attacks against the armies of Prince Leopold and General Von Linsingen were unsuccessful."
The announcement follows:
"Western front.—North of the Somme British and French attacks continued. Attacks on the front between Ovillers and Mametz woods and also on both sides of Hardecourt were all repulsed with heavy losses for the assailants. The enemy made six advances on the Bois de Trons with no success. He succeeded in penetrating Hardecourt village."
"South of the Somme the French increased their artillery until it reached the greatest violence. Local advances were attempted and failed. There were violent encounters, discharges of gas by the enemy, and patrol fighting. As a result of the patrol engagements we took some prisoners east of Armentieres, at Apremont wood and west of Markinch."
"Near Miraumont, Lieut. Mulzer shot down a British super-battle-plane. The emperor has bestowed on this flight officer the Order pour le Merite in recognition of his accomplishments. An enemy aeroplane was brought down southeast of Arras by the fire of our anti-aircraft guns. Another aeroplane after an aerial battle southwest of Arras, came down on the other side of the enemy's lines. It was destroyed by artillery fire."
"Eastern front.—Army group of Prince Leopold.—The Russians repented several times their strong attacks against the portions of the front mentioned yesterday. The attacks again broke down with heavy losses for the Russians. In the fighting of the last few days we have captured two officers and 631 men."
"Army group of General Von Linsingen.—Russian attacks at several points were unsuccessful. Near Molechno, bombs were dropped freely on troops awaiting transport."
"On July 7, a Russian aeroplane was shot down in an aerial battle east of Borovno on the Stokhod. The situation on the Balkan front is unchanged."

STAMPING OUT ALL SEDITION

Turkey Taking Rigorous Measures to Suppress Trouble in Syria.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Bern, Switzerland, July 9, via Paris, July 10.—Refugees from Syria have reached Switzerland, bringing with them the text of a proclamation issued by Djemal Pasha, commander of the Turkish forces in Syria, which shows the names of twenty prominent Syrians, including officers, magistrates and journalists, who were sentenced to death for high treason and executed at Damascus and Beirut. In the proclamation, it is said 200 persons already have been sentenced for high treason. A warning is given against further secret plots against the Holy rights of the caliphate.

RAILWAY NOT RESPONSIBLE

St. Catharines, July 10.—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of A. Beag, who was killed on the Niagara trolley of the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto railway on the night of July 1st, absolved the railway crew of all blame, and excused the driver, that Beag, who was riding a motorcycle, had travelled from Chantlers to the railway crossing where he was hit, a distance of 6 1/2 miles, in eight minutes.

FIGHTING BETWEEN ANCRE AND SOMME RIVERS CONTINUED INTO SUNDAY, BUT NOT SO VIOLENT

Further Progress Was Made by British Near Ovillers, and Some Defended Buildings Taken in Another Sector—Bois de Trons Gained on Saturday.

London, July 9, 3.16 p.m.—The fighting between the Ancre and Somme rivers continued last night although with less violence than during the preceding two days. The War Office announced that further progress had been made by the British near Ovillers and that in another sector a group of defended buildings had been captured.

The statement follows:
"Last night between the Ancre and the Somme was considerably less violent than during past two days. We made further progress in the neighborhood of Ovillers and in another sector captured a group of defended buildings. The Germans made no further attempts to capture their positions held by us."

Sprang Mines Successfully.
"Near Givency we successfully sprang three mines. Further north after heavy bombardment of a portion of the section held by New Zealanders a strong hostile local force succeeded in entering our trenches at one point. After half an hour's fighting the enemy was ejected by the New Zealanders, leaving many German dead in our trenches."

"There was no incident of importance on the rest of the front."

Half Mile Advance?
London, July 8.—According to the Reuter correspondent at the press camp, British army in France, the British on a considerable front advanced half a mile in conjunction with the French. They also made considerable progress at Contalmaison, where the position is satisfactory.

Saturday's Success.
London, July 8.—British infantry after a fierce bombardment stormed a line of trenches and gained a footing in the Bois de Trons, according to the British official statement issued late last night. An appreciable advance also was made in the neighborhood of Ovillers.

The fighting to-day has been principally on our extreme right flank, where further important successes were gained by our troops. To the east of Bernafay wood, after a fierce preliminary bombardment we stormed a line of trenches and gained lodgment in a strongly defended wood known as the Bois de Trons. There we captured 150 prisoners and several machine guns. The French on our right flank greatly assisted our advance by the fire of their artillery. The enemy losses from the combined Anglo-French bombardment were severe.

Counter Attack Failed.
"A strong German counter-attack in mass, subsequently launched across the open against these captured positions, completely broke down under the fire of 18-pounders and 75-millimetre guns. The enemy retired in disorder."
"In the neighborhood of Ovillers hand-to-hand fighting continues among the ruins of the village, but there too, we made an appreciable advance."

Aeroplanes Active.
"Despite the cloudy weather our aeroplanes and kite balloons did some work, taking photographs and directing the fire of the batteries. A large explosion was caused in one of the enemy's ammunition depots, and bombs were dropped on his billets. One of our machines, although disabled, sustained a running fight of twenty minutes with three hostile aeroplanes, and afterwards landed safely in our aerodrome."
"With this exception few enemy machines were seen as they were far behind his own trenches."

LIQUID AIR HAS GREAT COMMERCIAL FUTURE

Kingston, July 10.—Prof. A. L. Clark of Queen's University, who has returned from Holland, where he went on invitation of Prof. H. Kamerlingh Onnes, the famous director of the great physics laboratory at Leyden University, to investigate further into the question of liquefying air, states that he succeeded in determining more accurately the temperature at which air liquefies and freezes. The result of the joint experiments of Professors Onnes and Clark are to be published in the proceedings of the Royal Academy of Amsterdam. Prof. Onnes expressed the opinion that liquid air has a great commercial future, and that within twenty-five years it will be extensively used in connection with the mechanical arts. A liquid air machine will be installed at Queen's by Prof. Clark, so that he may continue his experiments.

Hustling Back in Great Disorder From Lower Stokhod.

12,000 MEN ARE CAPTURED

Muscovites Keeping Up Vigorous Drive With Success.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Petrograd, July 9, via London, July 10.—Important gains by the Russians are announced in the war office statement of today. In southern Galicia the railway town, Delatyn has been captured. In the drive toward Kovel, the Russians have taken two more villages. On the lower Stokhod, the Austrians and Germans are retiring in great disorder.

Petrograd, July 8, via London, July 10.—Russian forces continue to drive back the enemy along the Stokhod River, according to an official statement issued to-night. numerous points south of Nobel, on the Pripet River. The enemy is falling back on the lower Stokhod.

Cavalry Charge "Last night our cavalry charged the enemy infantry and Hungarian hussars in the regions of the village of Noraya Rouda, situated southwest of Lesneva, seven verstas (about five miles) from the Stokhod, and south of Troyanovka. They captured the numerous hussars, and scattered the remainder through the woods. This morning our valiant troops captured a fortified position east of the villages of Ugly and Navoz, between the Stry and Stokhod, north of Stokhod. They made numerous prisoners and captured three mortars.

Many Guns Captured "Afterwards, some of our troops, pressing on the enemy's heels, crossed the Stokhod in the region of the village of Ugly. According to an approximate estimate during the fighting from July 5 to July 7, between the Stry and Stokhod, we took prisoners at least 300 officers, including two regimental commanders, and also about 12,000 unarmoured men. We also took not less than 45 guns of large and small calibres, a large quantity of projectiles, cartridges and arms, and stores of food and forage.

Fighting With Ferocity "On the front of General Evert, desperate fighting has again broken out at many places. On the wide front east of Baranovichi the actions were marked with unusual ferocity. The enemy made fierce counter-attacks. The situation generally is unchanged. In other sectors there is nothing to report.

BRIG-GEN. WILLIAMS PRISONER IN GERMANY

Official Report From War Office. Lt. Hugh Fraser is With Him.

Ottawa, July 10.—A report has been received at the Militia Department from the War Office officially announcing that Brigadier-General Victor Williams of the 3rd Division is now a prisoner in Germany. He was wounded in the fighting of June 2nd, but the wound was not serious. Lieut. Hugh Fraser of Ottawa, Staff Officer to General Williams, is also reported to be a prisoner with him.

MY ROBERT is a dear in the sunset, and the smile looked like his gray, ghost expanding and escaping into the night air. Somehow Uncle Bushrod could barely force his reluctant tongue to the dreadful subject. He stood, awkward, stumbling, with his stick in his hand, and faced the chief of the clan be served, the great, royal, kind, lofty, terrible Weymouth. He bearded him there at the brink of the quavering "Gimme dis valise, Marse Robert," he began, his voice quavering a little with the stress of hearing. "You member de day dey all rede de unnamat at Oak Law—de day, sub, dat you win in de ridin' and you crown Miss Lucy de queen?" "Tournament?" said Mr. Robert, taking his cigar from his mouth. "Yes, I remember very well—but what the dence are you talking about tournaments here at midnight for? Go 'long home, Bushrod. I believe you're sleep walking."

"Miss Lucy tetch you on de shoulder," continued the old man, never heeding, "wid a s'ord and say: 'I mek you a knight, Sub Robert. Rise up, pure and fearless and widout reproach.' Dat what Miss Lucy say. Dat's been a long time ago, but me nor you ain't forgot it. And den dar's another time we ain't forgot—de time when Miss Lucy lay on her las' bed. She sent for Uncle Bushrod, and she say: 'Uncle Bushrod, when I die I want you to take good care of Mr. Robert. Seem like—so Miss Lucy say—'he listen to you' dan to anybody else. He apt to be mighty fractious sometimes, and maybe he cuss you when you try to 'suaide him, but he need somebody what understand him to be round wid him. He am like a little child sometimes—Miss Lucy say, 'thin face—but he always been—de' was her words—my knight, pure and fearless and widout reproach.'"

Mr. Robert began to mask, as was his habit, a tendency to softheartedness with a sprituous rage. "You—you member de day dey all rede de unnamat at Oak Law—de day, sub, dat you win in de ridin' and you crown Miss Lucy de queen?" "Tournament?" said Mr. Robert, taking his cigar from his mouth. "Yes, I remember very well—but what the dence are you talking about tournaments here at midnight for? Go 'long home, Bushrod. I believe you're sleep walking."

Mr. Robert began to mask, as was his habit, a tendency to softheartedness with a sprituous rage. "You—you member de day dey all rede de unnamat at Oak Law—de day, sub, dat you win in de ridin' and you crown Miss Lucy de queen?" "Tournament?" said Mr. Robert, taking his cigar from his mouth. "Yes, I remember very well—but what the dence are you talking about tournaments here at midnight for? Go 'long home, Bushrod. I believe you're sleep walking."

"Gimme dis valise, Marse Robert, I'm gwine to take it." "The bell clanged, the brakes hissed, the conductor hollered: "All aboard!"

Mr. Robert released his hold on the satchel. Uncle Bushrod hugged it to his breast with both arms, as a lover clasps his first beloved. "Take it back with you, Bushrod," said Mr. Robert, thrusting his hands into his pockets. "And let the subject drop—de mind! You've said quite enough. I'm going to take this train. Tell Mr. William I will be back on Saturday. Good night."

The banker climbed the steps of the moving train, and disappeared in a coach. Uncle Bushrod stood in motion, his eyes on the receding satchel. His eyes were closed and his lips were moving in thanks to the Master above for the salvation of the Weymouth honor. He knew Mr. Robert would return when he said he would. The Weymouths never lied. Nor now, thank the Lord, could it be said that they embezzled the money in banks.

Then awake to the necessity for further guardianship of Weymouth trust funds, the old man started for the bank with the redeemed satchel. Three hours from Weymouthville, in the gray dawn, Mr. Robert alighted from the train at a lonely flag station. Dimly he could see the figure of a man waiting on the platform, and the shape of a spring wagon, team and driver. Half a dozen lengthy bamboo fishing poles projected from the wagon's rear. "You're here, Bob," said Judge Archibald, Mr. Robert's old friend and schoolmate. "It's going to be a royal day for fishing. I thought you said—why, didn't you bring along the stuff?"

The president of the Weymouth bank took off his hat and rumbled his gray locks. "Well, Ben, to tell you the truth, he had found an infernally presumptuous old nigger belonging in my family that broke up the arrangement. He came down to the depot and vetoed the whole proceeding. He means all right, and well, I reckon he is right. Somehow, though I hid it in the bank vault and sneaked it out at midnight. I reckon he has noticed that I've been indulging a little more than a gentleman should, and he laid for me with some ranching arguments."

"I'm going to quit drinking," Mr. Robert concluded. "I've come to the conclusion that a man can't keep it up and be quite what he'd like to be—pure and fearless and widout reproach—that's the way old Bushrod quoted it."

"Well, I'll have to admit," said the judge thoughtfully as they climbed into the wagon, "that the old darkey's argument can't consistently be overruled."

"Still," said Mr. Robert, with a shiver of a sigh, "there was two quarts of"

NAVAL MEDICAL SCIENCE TESTED THOROUGHLY

Great Results In It Obtained After the Battle of Jutland.

Not since the war began have the resources of the British naval medical service been tested so thoroughly as they were after the great battle off Jutland. According to all accounts the service met the sudden call upon it in a manner which betokened careful preparation for such an emergency and a high degree of efficiency. That was only to be expected, but it is well to place on record the fact that the removal of the wounded from the ships was effected with all possible speed, and that when brought ashore their transference to hospital was carried out under the best conditions.

Admirably equipped ambulances, trains were naturally a very hurried one. They were at their destinations, within the allotted time. In one case only an hour was allowed to take in the necessary supplies, but the task was accomplished, and the train made a round trip of something like 1,600 miles.

Of the behavior of the wounded it is impossible to speak too highly. In the hour of battle officers and men alike had displayed great daring and splendid endurance; in the hour of suffering their fortitude was the admiration of those whose duty it was to tend them. Cases of severe burns and scalds were particularly numerous, but whatever the character of the injuries, they were borne without a murmur. A warship officer who had given the German fleet a really good drubbing, and that in itself was a fine tonic. "Thank God, we sank that Dreadnought," were the only words which were displayed in the most unselfish manner by a badly injured man.

The wounded were, too, for the most part in excellent spirits. They were fully satisfied that they had given the German fleet a really good drubbing, and that in itself was a fine tonic. "Thank God, we sank that Dreadnought," were the only words which were displayed in the most unselfish manner by a badly injured man.

Smelting In Bulacan. A primitive iron smelting industry, evidently of Chinese origin, exists in a province of the island of Luzon. Magnetic and hematite ores, found in the locality, are smelted by the natives in small bamboo cased blast furnaces of soft clay bricks set in clay, each of a diameter being seven and one-half feet high and five feet in external diameter, with a conical inner cavity, tapering from forty to twenty inches. The furnace has a single clay tuyere and a Chinese double acting hand blower made from a hollow tree trunk and fitted with a feather packed wooden piston. An average charge is fifty-five pounds of ore and ninety-five of charcoal, no flux being used. The iron made is cast directly into molds for plowshares and plow points, and the product of a furnace is about 600 pounds of castings daily.
