'ECHOES of the Past; OR, The Recompense of Love!'

CHAPTER V.

This woman, who was called Sara, and was not known by any other name, had been Lady Edith's nurse, and was the most important person in the domestic side of the household. She had almost taken the place of a mother to the girl, and had an affection for her which combined the maternal love with the devotion of the faithful slave. To say that she worshipped her young mistress would not be an extravagant assertion; she would have willingly laid down her life to give the girl a moment's transient pleasure, and would have cheerfully committed any crime for the like trifling result. She seemed to live with only one object; to watch over Lady Edith and minister to her ease and comfort; and in the pursuit of her object she was quite ready to sacrifice not only herself, but all the world.

No doubt the tireless ministrations had done not a little to foster the spirit of pride and it must be written—selfishness which characterized Lord Chesterleigh's daughter; but, even if she had been aware of the fact, Sara would have gloried in it. In her eyes the girl was perfect in body and mind. She was as vain of Lady Edith's beauty and grace as if they had belonged to a daughter of her own; and she spent most of her time planning and devising dresses and other adjuncts with which to set off that beauty.

Sara's origin was, and had been for many years, a subject for curiosity and debate, not only in the servants' hall, but among the Chesterleighs' friends; but beyond the fact that the woman had come from India as ayah, or nurse, to Lady Chesterleigh, no one knew anything about her. That she exercised a great though covert influence over her young mistress was evident, but not surprising; for it was only natural that the girl should repay the woman who, next to Lord Chesterleigh, had been her closest companion since babyhood, with a feeling somewhat warmer and more confidential than that with which her mistress generally rewards her maid, and permit her familiarities of speech and service with a complacency which astonished the girl's friends.

In the servants' hall Sara was by no means popular, for she was reserved and high-handed, and kept herself aloof from her fellow servants, whose she appeared to regard as her inferiors; but they had come to bear her manner of superiority in silence—in her hearing, at any rate—for on one or two occasions the woman had displayed a temper so passionate, so volcanic, that they all were in absolute fear of her.

The dark eyes rested only for a moment on Lady Edith's face, and were then swiftly covered; but Sara, in that brief, flashing glance, saw that something had disturbed her young mistress' usual proud serenity. She said nothing; but in silence began to help Lady Edith to remove her dress. "I'm late, I think, Sara," said Lady Edith, rather listlessly.

"Yes, yes; I will be quick, missie," said the woman, in a subdued voice. "You will wear—"

"Anything you like," replied Lady Edith, as she sank into her chair before the glass. "I don't care which it is."

Sara wrapped her in a peignoir of white silk, and, unfastening the gold on hair, let it fall, a cascade of floss silk, over her hands, stroking it adoringly, dotingly, as a mother might have stroked the hair of her first-born.

"Your head ache, missie? Sara make it well. Yes, yes!"

Gently, as if she were touching thistledown, she poured some liquor from an Oriental flask into the palms of her hands and drew them caressingly over the white brow.

"That better, missie? How did it come? The heat, the talk—you were late at tea, and the sahibs pressed round you? Yes?" she said proudly.

"They always do and will."

"Not when I'm old and ugly, Sara," remarked Lady Edith.

"Never old and ugly!" responded the woman proudly and defiantly. "There are some women who will never be old, and my child is one of them. She is a daughter of the gods—"

"That's Tennyson, though you don't know it," said Lady Edith, with a smile and a suppressed sigh. "No wonder I am vain, Sara; and I am."

Sara laughed softly as she bound up the hair, still caressingly, as if she were handling something more precious than the virgin gold it resembled.

"It is not Sara alone, missie," she said, with a vanity which surpassed Lady Edith's. "Does not every one who comes near my girl tell her that she is beautiful, if not with their lips, the eyes that cannot lie!"

A faint flush rose to Lady Edith's face, and she frowned slightly.

"No, not every one," she said, rather to herself than the woman.

Sara cast a keen glance at the mirror, and her hand paused for a moment in their rapid but smooth movements.

"Not every one? Then if it is a woman, she is a pig," she responded, with a flash of anger and contempt darting across her dark face.

Lady Edith laughed a trifle wearily. "I should like Mr. Clive Harvey to hear you call him a pig," she said.

Sara held the brush suspended and looked at the mirror again, and kept her eyes there while she repeated the name.

"Mr. Clive Harvey? I don't know him; but he is a pig, all the same," she added resentfully, as the flush grew deeper on the face reflected in the glass.

"No, he is not, Sara," said Lady Edith. "He is a very clever man, and beautifully mannered. And perhaps it shows his good taste that he does not admire your child."

"He must be blind, this Mr. Clive Harvey," said the woman, as if she were stating an incontrovertible and self-evident fact, "blind, or an imbecile. Who is he? I should like to meet him, to whisper 'Fool!' Just that: 'Fool!'"

Lady Edith laughed, but not very mirthfully.

"No, he is anything but a fool, Sara; he is going to be a great man, a very great man, I think. All the world will be talking of him—is beginning to talk already."

"Missie know him long?" asked Sara, with assumed indifference; but her eyes, though apparently cast down were watching her mistress's face.

"Not long, Sara. I saw him for the first time last night."

"What's he like, this clever—fool—man? Young?" asked Sara, still casually.

"Oh, yes; and very good-looking. You know the kind, Sara; tall and straight and strong—with dark-gray eyes."

The woman made a gesture of deprecation.

"It is just the young English sahib—they are all alike," she said contemptuously.

"Not quite," said Lady Edith. "This one is different, Sara. He says little, and he does not pay compliments and bow and smile like the others; at least, not to me," she added, with a laugh, the wistful note in which was not lost upon the woman's watchful ears.

"I would like to see him, this young sahib who is so different, so clever, and yet so imbecile," she said slowly.

Lady Edith shrugged her shoulders. "I don't think you will have a chance, Sara," she said, with a laugh that was a trifle wistful as well as scornful. "I'm not going to continue his acquaintance; and, for his part, he is too big a man to care to continue mine. He is not like the other men who have nothing to do—and how bored I am of them!" She broke off.

"They have nothing to say but the old, old things, and they think of nothing but their clothes and their clubs, and—I don't care, I'll wear anything you like; you know best what goes with this dress—the pearls? Very well."

She made a gesture of compliance, and sighed as Sara took the magnificent pearls from the jewel-case.

"Am I ready? My fan. Oh, how I wish there were no dinner-parties, no dances, no crowds and hot rooms, and that I could go somewhere and be quiet, Sara!" she exclaimed, and, as Sara put her arm round her, carefully yet caressingly, Lady Edith let her head rest for a minute or two on the woman's bosom. Sara uttered a little cry, a crooning cry, one with which she had soothed the girl when she was a child in Sara's arms.

"Missie tired," she said pityingly. "Missie come home soon and let Sara put her to bed early."

"Yes," said Lady Edith. "I should like to sleep for—oh, forever!" She put up her face for the woman to kiss, and the woman touched it with her lips as a devotee kisses the image of his patron saint—as a mother kisses the child who is all the world and more to her.

She went down to the carriage with her and—the footman making way for her—arranged the beautiful dress so that it should not be crushed.

"Good night, my angel!" she murmured; then, with a kind of salaam to Lord Chesterleigh, she said in an undertone: "Missie not stay long tonight, sahib; she tired."

Lord Chesterleigh nodded pleasantly, much as he would have nodded to one of his own family.

"All right, Sara," he said. "Are you tired, not well, Edith? Would you rather not go?"

"No, no!" she responded, with a touch of impatience. "Of course we are going! I am quite well and fit. Sara would fuss if I pricked my finger."

Sara watched the carriage until it had disappeared; then, ignoring the other servants as completely as if she were ignorant of their presence, she went up to Lady Edith's rooms and began to put away her mistress' things. Once or twice she paused and looked before her with an expression of anxiety, foreboding, and anger.

"He has come at last!" she muttered. "He always comes sooner or later. And this man she loves, this pig— Her white teeth gleamed as she clicked them. "Pig as he is, she loves him—do I not know? And she shall have him!"

CHAPTER VI.

"What is it, a masquerade ball, or are you going to do a little bingling?" asked Quilton, pausing on the stairs and looking up at Clive, who was just coming out of his room. Clive, who was dressed in a shabby old suit of checks, with a cloth cap that had seen a deal of service in the worst of English weather, laughed with satisfaction.

"Look like that, do I?" he said. "That's all right! I'm going on a little expedition. Ever hear of Paradise Gardens?"

"No," said Quilton, in his impassive way. "Party on there?"

"Yes; there's always a party going on at the Gardens," said Clive; "and an especially good one on Saturday nights. It's a street in the slums, to be exact; and I want to see it. I'm old that I don't know what the slums are if I'm unacquainted with Paradise Gardens."

Quilton nodded. "I see. I will say his for you, that you do the thing thoroughly, Harvey. Going to take a bobby, 'tec, with you?"

"No," replied Clive. "I'm hoping to pass muster in this kit; besides, the police have plenty to do without playing escort to professional philanthropists."

Quilton was silent for a moment; then he said:

"Think I'll come with you, if you don't mind. I've a night off—Saturday, you know; and I'm inclined for a little berno."

Clive hesitated a moment. "It may be anything of a berno for us," he said significantly.

"Case of broken heads, or worse?" said Quilton nonchalantly. "Well, I've never had my head broken—not quite broken, you understand—and I'm pining for a new sensation."

"Very well," said Clive. "But you'd better make yourself a little less respectable."

"Couldn't, if I tried," said Quilton, glancing down at his tobacco and tea-stained coat, his corkscrew trousers, and his bulky and ill-fitting boots.

Clive eyed him up and down. "Clean collars are barred at Paradise Gardens," he observed.

"Give me a minute," said Quilton; and he went up to his room and returned presently with a dingy comb-over round his neck in place of the offensively white collar.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

1455.—A UNIQUE AND PLEASING DESIGN.

Ladies Dress in Raised or Normal Waistline with Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

As here shown, black velvet was used, with dotted net for the sleeves and insert and white crepe for the chemisette and collar. The design may be finished with short sleeves. The design is nice for taffeta, faille, serge, gabardine or poplin and lends itself nicely to combination of materials. In green satin with ecru crepe for contrast this model will be very attractive. It is also nice in white or other color taffeta, with batiste, net or lace for trimming. The Pattern is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 5 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures about 3 1/2 yards at the foot. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1455.—A PRACTICAL CONVENIENT MODEL.

Ladies House Dress With Long or Short Sleeve.

For utility, comfort and convenience, this design has much to commend it. It closes in coat style, with the entire fronts overlapping. This assures easy and practical adjustment. An ample pocket is arranged over the side front. The waist is finished with a neat collar, and with cuffs for sleeve in short length. The long sleeve is dart fitted. The dart fullness may be cut away and the opening thus made, be finished with a facing and underlap for buttons and buttonholes or other fasteners; then the sleeve may be turned back over the arm when desired. The Pattern is good for gingham, percale, lawn, seersucker, soisette, madras, dimity, drill or linen. It is cut in 7 Sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 6 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 36 inch size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Crusts in the Nose, Frequent Sneezing, You Have Catarrh—A Disgusting Disease

Relief in Five Minutes—Certain Cure Follows if Catarrhazone is Used.

Don't stay stuffed up with a sore nose, eyes running and breath bad. Use Catarrhazone!

Take one breath through the inhaler—just one single breath and see how it clears out the nose, how it makes you breathe free and easy.

Relief from Catarrhazone is quick and effective—you don't have to wait all day to get it either.

No other treatment is like Catarrhazone or is able to drive catarrh so completely out of the system.

You don't take anything internally in using Catarrhazone—you don't run the chance of spoiling digestion or lessening appetite with a bad tasting medicine. Just breathe in that soothing plucky vapour, so rich in healing, so full of power to cure every type of throat trouble, hoarseness, pain over the eyes, bronchitis and Catarrh.

Germs that may be lurking in the mouth, nose or throat, Catarrhazone will destroy them. In this way it prevents many an ill.

"I am never without Catarrhazone Inhaler," writes E. J. Jamson, of Huntington. "Use it for a minute and it stops a cold at its beginning. If the cold has a start, or if its catarrh or a bad throat, you can easily cure it with Catarrhazone."

If suffering from throat droppings, running eyes, active nasal discharge, the choked condition in the nostrils—remember Catarrhazone will quickly cure you. Get the large $1.00 outfit. It does the trick cure. Small size 50c.; a sample size 25c. at all dealers everywhere.

TWO WOMEN TESTIFY

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Their Health—Their own Statements Follow.

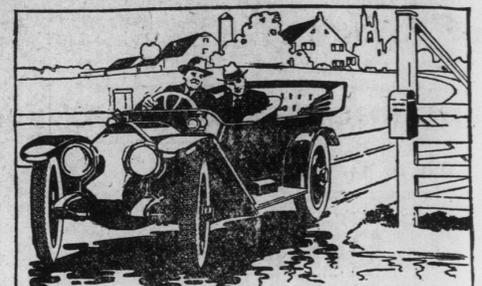

Halliburton, P. E. I.—"I had a doctor examine me and he said I had falling of the womb, so I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. All the bearing-down pains have vanished. I have gained ten pounds in weight, the discharge is all gone, and I feel better than I have for a long time. I think any woman is foolish to suffer as I did for the sake of a few dollars."

"You can use my letter as a testimonial. It may encourage other poor women who suffer as I did to use your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. GEO. COLLICUTT, Halliburton, Lot 7, P. E. I.

Read What This Woman Says: New Moorefield, Ohio.—"I take great pleasure in thanking you for what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had bearing down pains, was dizzy and weak, had pains in lower back and could not be upon my feet long enough to get a meal. As long as I laid on my back I would feel better, but when I would get up those bearing down pains would come back, and the doctor said I had female trouble. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was the only medicine that helped me and I have been growing stronger ever since I commenced to take it. I hope it will help other suffering women as it has me. You can use this letter."—Mrs. CLARA LLOYD, New Moorefield, Clark Co., Ohio

415th Day of the War

Latest From the Front.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

OFFICIAL.
LONDON, Sept. 22. The Governor, Newfoundland: General French reports increased artillery activity. The French Government reports footing gained at certain points on the right bank of the Aisne-Marne canal, with elsewhere, violent artillery fighting. In Russia there is continued fighting in the Dvinsk region and east of Vilna. In successes at other points over fifteen hundred prisoners have been captured.

NEW TERRITORY TO BULGARIA.
LONDON, Sept. 22. Reuter's correspondent at Sofia sends the following: The Commission appointed to sign with the Turks the cession of the new territory to Bulgaria started on Tuesday evening for Demotica. It has been arranged that in case of divergence of opinion regarding the new frontier the dispute shall be submitted to a mixed commission. The Premier at a meeting with his followers, has already explained the political situation to them.

BULGARIA.
LONDON, Sept. 22. The Bulgarian Minister here was advised by telegraph to-day of his government's mobilization order to maintain neutrality, but that it would be armed neutrality. On being asked whether Bulgaria intended to join with the Central Powers, he replied "Certainly not." He said he had no further information and reiterated the assertion that the new move implied nothing more than that Bulgaria was adopting the same precautionary measures that had already been taken by Switzerland and Holland.

THE SERBIAN INVASIONS.
PARIS, Sept. 22. The new Austro-German army on the Serbian front is continuing the bombardment of positions across the river, which forms the boundary line. So far as is known, they have not yet attempted an invasion of Serbian territory. Latest official communication from the Havas Agency sums up these operations as follows: The enemy threw eight hundred shells from field artillery mortars across the Danube directing them at our works. At the same time the enemy kept up a violent fire with rifles and machine guns from 2 to 6 p.m., accomplishing nothing from a military point of view. We made only slight reply.

THE SERBIAN CAMPAIGN.
BERLIN, Sept. 22. The morning newspapers interpret the news from the Serbian frontier as the beginning on a large scale of an offensive movement against Serbia, and the final reckoning with that State, which is regarded here as having been responsible for bringing the war to war. The newspapers make reference to the strength of the army detailed for the invasion of Serbia, which has been gathered on the Danube during recent weeks. In this connection there are recalled the words of Bethmann Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor in his speech in the Reichstag: "We have strong armies, ready for new blows." Military critics give warning against under-estimating the strength of the Serbian resistance, but are convinced that the Austro-German force is adequate for the work in view.

NEW PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.
PARIS, Sept. 22. Joffre and the Allied Commanders on this front are developing a new plan of campaign that involves the almost continuous use of artillery on a vast scale along the whole line. Masses of artillery have been employed by both sides since the beginning of the operations in preparing for infantry attacks; pounding their adversaries with shells for an hour or two, then suddenly suspending fire and assaulting with infantry. The Allies are now methodically maintaining their shell fire for days at a time without infantry attacks, dropping projectiles upon the charred front into every 50 yards square and repeating the process. A deadly automatic unceasing pounding of shells is being sent their storm of shells upon encampments of the first reserves, behind the lines and upon the bridges and provision trains. Official reports obtained by French army officers, from their own observations, from prisoners, and from photographs made by aviators, show that parts of the opposing lines, which have been subjected to this unceasing bombardment had been rendered entirely untenable, and that the best the Germans can do to reoccupy abandoned works after the bombardments have let up, and then leave them quickly when showers of projectiles begin to fall again.

FRENCH AIRMEN ESCAPE.
BASEL, Sept. 22. A French aeroplane becoming disabled, came down at Lommerring, near Metz. The two occupants set the machine on fire and escaped into the woods.

THE ARCHIBALD CORRESPONDENCE.
LONDON, Sept. 22. The place of prominence is given by the papers to the Archibald correspondence. Nothing, says the Chronicle, can wipe out the stain or explain away the insults to the American people, "Those idiotic Yankees," as Capt. Von Popen described them. The Standard says, the Yankees were so idiotic as the superior or Capt. Von Popen thinks, and are less impressed than he expects with the "heroic" deeds of the Germans, which have presented themselves to the people of the United States, chiefly in the form of killing non-combatants. Document No. 11 in the Archibald correspondence, is a letter from Capt. Von Popen to his wife, dated New York, Aug. 20, in which the German military attaché says: "We are in great need of being bucked up, as they say here. Since Sunday a new storm has been raging against us. I am sending you a few cuttings from newspapers that will amuse you. Unfortunately they stole a fat portfolio from our good Albert in the elevated English Secret Service, of course. Unfortunately there were some very important things from my report among them, such as buying up liquid chlorine, and about the Bridgeport Projectile Company, as well as documents regarding the buying of phenol and the acquisition of the Wright aeroplane patent, but things like that must occur. I send you Albert's reply for you to see how we protect ourselves. We composed the documents shall meet again soon. The sinking of the Arabic may well be the last straw. I hope in your interests that the danger will blow over. How splendid on the eastern front. I always told those idiotic Yankees that they had better hold their tongues. It is better to look at all this heroism with admiration. My friends here in the army are quite different in this way."

GERMAN SUBMARINE NOT RESPONSIBLE.
AMSTERDAM, Sept. 22. A semi-official statement issued in Berlin, reads as follows: "After inquiring, the German Admiralty confirms the statement of the British Admiralty, and it can now be stated that no German submarine is responsible for the attack on the Hesperian."

BERLIN'S LATEST.
NEW YORK, Sept. 22. An illustration of the absurd stories coming from Berlin, via wireless, is seen in the following despatch to the Associated Press: "Berlin, via wireless at Tuckerton, N.J.—According to a private report brought by travellers who have reached Amsterdam from England, says the Overseas News Agency to-day, the Bank of England was hit by Zeppelin bombs during the last raid on London, and the damage done was much larger than reported."

DUMBA CALLED HOME.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, notified the State Department to-day that his government had called him home on leave. He said he expected to sail on September 26, on the Rotterdam.

OVERSEAS BIPLANES.
LONDON, Sept. 22. Eight biplanes have been presented to the British Government by Overseas Clubs. Three of them from Montreal, St. Catharines and Nova Scotia.

WILL LIKELY SETTLE THE QUESTION.
PEKIN, Sept. 22. The Council of State advised the President to-day to call a citizens' convention before the end of the year, to act on a new constitution, which will settle the question whether China is to be a Republic or a Monarchy.

GOVERNOR WALSH AGAIN NOMINATED.
BOSTON, Sept. 22. Governor Walsh has been nominated for a third term for the Democrats. Former Congressman McCauley was chosen as his Republican opponent, at the joint State election primaries.

BOARD OF TRADE ACTIVITIES.
LONDON, Sept. 22. Steps has been taken by the British Government, Runciman said, to secure meat in Argentina, Australia had assured a good supply. If these measures had not been taken a shortage would have really been dangerous to the countries. During the next twelve months, Runciman said, the operations of the Board of Trade would amount to about $200,000,000. He added that the French Government had such confidence in the Board of Trade that they had placed with it the whole business of supplying the French meat requirements. Circumstances, he said, necessitated the Board entering into contest with a small number of commercial houses controlling the beef trade. The Argentine supply, he said, is in the hands of half a dozen very powerful firms mainly controlled by America. When the Government tried to make contracts it found the prices excessive. The only way in which the government was able to deal with the situation was by requisitioning the whole tonnage that carried beef from South America to this country. Great Britain, he pointed out, was thus supplying her own army and the French army, and had a considerable surplus, which was being sold for the benefit of the civil population. Operations had been on a gigantic scale. Probably in the course of the next twelve months, beef to the value of $250,000,000 would be bought, sold and distributed by the Board of Trade. He expressed himself as satisfied with the wheat outlook and anticipated that there would be large crops imported by Europe from the States, Canada, Australia and Argentina than for some years past.

Have a Good Complexion, The Flower of Good Health
The true secret of complexion lies in the blood. Keep it rich, pure, nutritious, and, above all, keep the system regular. No aid to complexion compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They tone and enrich the blood, clear the system of waste products, promote good digestion, and, in short, establish sound health, which, after all, is the keynote to all happiness and well-being. Don't delay; the charm of a lovely complexion and all the blessings of health are yours, once you employ this old-time family remedy. All dealers sell Hamilton's Pills in 25c boxes.

Fishery Report.
The latest fishery reports received by the Board of Trade, are:—
Sept. 18th. From J. White, (Colnett Island to Head of Salmonier)—The total catch is 5,700 qts., but nothing was done last week. Sixty dories and skiffs and 20 boats are fishing. Two vessels have arrived from the grounds and the prospects are not very encouraging though squid is fairly plentiful for bait. Reports from the Outer Grounds are not so good as last week and not many fishermen have yet returned. From W. J. White, (Aquadorte to Caplin Bay)—Prospects are very fair and the catch to date is 9,729 qts. with 20 for last week. The above amount was taken at Aquadorte. Eighty dories and skiffs and 12 whale boats are fishing. A few squid were jigged on Wednesday with a good sign of cod on them and if bait be obtained much better fishing would result.

ANOTHER GASOLINE CARGO.
The schr. Dove, 8 days from Halifax, reached port yesterday afternoon, bringing a cargo of gasoline to Mr. Colin Campbell. Adverse winds were met on the passage, delaying progress, but the vessel just got inside the narrows as the storm came on.

CRESCENT PICTURE PALACE.
Go to the Crescent Picture Palace to-day and see the great Detective Drama in 2 reels, "The Apartment House Mystery," Alice Joyce features in this great photo-play, supported by all the Kalem stars. "The Greater Love," "The Fable of the City Grappters and the Unprotected Rubes," and "The Grizzly Gulch Chariot Race" are the other pictures that make up this fine programme. Mr. Harry Collins sings "It takes a Little Rain with the Sunshine to make a World go 'Round" and "To Have to Hold to Love." Ernest Ball's great ballad will miss the Crescent to-day this is a great show.

BRITISH THEATRE.
The many friends and admirers of Madame Olive Timmons—without doubt one of the greatest singers who ever appeared in this country—were gathered to learn that her most successful engagement will terminate on Saturday evening. During her stay in St. John's she has gained enviable notoriety on account of her unassumingly ways and highly artistic ability. To-day she will sing "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "My Love is an Arbutus"—in her well accustomed manner. The balance of the entertainment may be classed—100 A1. at Lloyds.

ROSSLEY'S EAST END THEATRE.
Mr. Rossley, who has been in New York for some time, securing feature films of the very best quality, has succeeded at very great expense in procuring an elaborate motion picture production "Camille," in which the principal part is taken by the great and divine actress Sarah Bernhardt. Mr. Rossley is to be congratulated on managing to secure the great play in which the "divine Sarah" takes the leading part. There will be another complete change of programme to-night. Ian Mackenzie will introduce the great patriotic song "The Veteran's Song," and Miss Rex Guerin and Mr. William Wallace the wonderful violinist, will also produce new numbers. The feature films are excellent and include "A Modest Hero," Biograph; "The Will of the People," Edison; "Poker Paid," and "This isn't John," Lubin.

Two Fires Last Evening.
Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. James Miller, of Buckley's Range off Plymouth Road, ran to the East End Fire Hall and reported that a house second next door to hers was on fire. The firemen were on the scene inside of a minute and discovered a slight blaze in the kitchen of the house, at present unoccupied, sparks from the chimney of an adjoining house got down on the back of the grate of the Coady dwelling and ignited some woodwork. The "extinguisher" or chemical chert was brought into operation and quickly put an end to the fire. Very little damage was done. At 6:30 an alarm was sent in from box 228, bringing the Central and Eastern Companies to the house occupied by a family named Page, on Freshwater Road. The chimney was on fire and the roof was being lit. The same process as in the former instance was applied with equally effective results. We are informed by one most competent to express an opinion on such matters, that this recently adopted "Protector Extinguisher" is the most convenient and most useful apparatus that is in the Fire Department at the present time.

"On the Field of Honor."
The publishers of The Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, are making a strong bid for that beautiful picture, full of pathos, entitled "On the Field of Honor." It is assumed the publishers of the Family Herald have in mind using it as a presentation plate. If this is so there is a great treat in store for readers of The Family Herald and Weekly Star this autumn. In past years The Family Herald of Montreal has been noted not only for the wonderful excellence of that journal but for many beautiful pictures it has presented to its readers. The Family Herald has a name for succeeding in anything it undertakes, and we feel sure it is humanly possible to secure "On the Field of Honor" that the publishers will succeed in getting it. "On the Field of Honor" is attracting widespread attention in Europe.

MARSHAL BAZAINE died 1888, aged 77. Denounced by the French nation in 1870 as a traitor for capitulating at Metz and surrendering with three marshalls, 6,000 officers and 170,000 men he was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment but escaped in 1874. He was undeniably brave and has not lacked apologists.
WILKIE COLLINS died 1889, aged 65. English novelist, who wrote many successful books. He lacked humor and appreciation of the finer shades of character but conceived some striking individualities.
When the sea grows grey and silent, And the moon sinks out of sight, And the stars turn sick and tremble after seven hours of fight, God keep us dirty sailor men, from the Pole Star to the Cross, For we need Almighty keeping, an' some high, Almighty Boss.
GREAT WAR, 1914. Recapture of Lubovka on the Drina by the Servians reported. German cruiser and two torpedo boats reported to have been sunk in the Baltic by the Russian warship Bayan.

Smitten by Stern.
The schr. Henry M. Stanley went ashore near Cape Harrison, Labrador, caught fire and became a total loss. The crew were saved. It is said that the vessel was chartered by Mr. Job Roberts to load codfish for Europe. Mr. Roberts is at present on the Labrador coast. It is yet unknown whether or not the vessel had begun loading when lost. The theory is expressed that the Stanley felt the full force of the storm prevailing recently on the Labrador and that she went ashore and became a total loss, the crew escaping.

At the Front.

An official message was received yesterday that the Newfoundland Regiment had landed at Sulva Bay, which is in front of the ankle of the foot which forms the lower part of the Gallipoli Peninsula. Our boys left Alexandria on the 14th. Their immediate destination was Mudros in the island of Lemnos which is the depot for the Dardanelles operations. On Sunday last they left Mudros for Sulva Bay, which is the landing place for the extensive operations which are being conducted in the mountainous tract of country north of the river which separates it from the Sari Bair region. The immediate objective of these more northerly operations is to dominate this river valley from the north to get round the Sari Bair mountains and get aside the roads of communication to Great Maldo and the forts of the Narrows. There are two roads which join north of Boghali and connect these forts with Gallipoli and the Isthmus. About a month ago news was received that the mountains connecting the lower part of the Biyuk Anafarta Valley had been captured and that the greater part of this valley was under the control of British artillery. For some little time it is probable that the Newfoundland Regiment will be kept in reserve in order to get better acclimated. But as large reinforcements have been sent into these regions during the past month or so, it is likely that a forward movement will not be delayed for any great length of time.

The Supreme Law

It has always been recognized that the safety of the State is the supreme law, and conditions brought about by the Great War have extended in many directions the application of this principle. The railways in Great Britain have been taken over by the State. Factories have been commandeered for munition works, and other factories are being controlled and more than half the profits of the management turned into the revenue. Thousands of steam vessels, motor boats, motor roadsters and horses have also been seized and applied to the public need. The greed of those who control the meat trade was met by the British and French Governments commissioning the Board of Trade to enter into competition with them and commandeer many steamers which carry meats. There is a general topsy-turvy of the economic ideas which have guided statesmen since the days of Adam Smith, and could the men of the old Manchester school come from their graves and watch the doings of to-day, they would find principles in practice, as a necessity of the times, that would shock them back to their graves again. The war is teaching the nation much that will not be forgotten when Peace reigns once again, and particularly that the laws of the old school of Political Economy are not unchangeable as was claimed of the laws proclaimed by the Medes and Persians.

Miss Sarah R. Gulliford, of Hant's Harbor, who was formerly Methodist School Teacher at New Chelsea, Trinity Bay, and who is now Sunday School Teacher at Hant's Harbor, and a prominent worker of the church of that place, is going to be married to Walter Rendell of Marwick, at Hant's Harbor, on September 29th.

Journalists are Now Paying Visit to Trenches.

London, Sept. 15.—Canadian journalists now visiting the front will certainly not complain of having seen nothing.

Sir Max Aitken, assisted by Major Manley Sims and Captain Hesketh Pritchard, has arranged a tour which in point of compressing much into a few days will equal the recent visit of Premier Borden and General Hughes.

The journalists were received at the British headquarters by General Robertson, chief of staff, subsequently visiting the hospitals, the machine-gun school and the aviation ground. The whole of to-day is being spent in the Canadian trenches.

The party ran across a company of munition workers from England making a similar trip, who likely will confirm the impression gained by the pressmen.

Though matters on the actual firing line may be quiet, according to what appears in the press, yet there are abundant signs even to the most amateur observer in the actual war zone that the British forces are growing stronger.

This last phrase has become commonplace. It requires personal observation to appreciate how accurately it describes the existing state of affairs. To particularize more closely would probably be forbidden to the journalists.

Responsible officers talked frankly with the Canadian journalists, and offered readily information concerning details. The confidence thus given enables journalists to support to the full the Premier and Minister of Militia in everything they have said concerning the future of the British forces in the field.

STYLE.

By GEORGE FITCH.
 Author of "At Good Old Swash."

Style is something which looks so good this year that those who use it next year will be hopelessly out of date.

It is a sort of bacillus which afflicts clothes, furniture, houses, automobiles and the womanly form. When a thing is stylish, it is beautiful for a limited engagement, like an ancient actress with a talented press agent.

Style in the gas which causes the cost of living to soar. It makes a great deal of the difference between a happy, contented life on $12 a week and an unsuccessful effort to keep ahead of the wolf on $200 a month.

A well-baited dining-room table will last for fifty years, but the style generally wears off in four seasons. This is why a great many families are growing fat off of golden oak tables which they have bought second-hand, at a great bargain, from other families who have had to sacrifice said tables in order to make the first payment on a new table with a darker complexion and 1915 model legs.

When a moth gets into a closet and raises a happy family in a flannel skirt the housewife shouts with despair and tries to call out the militia. Yet twice a year a new style gets into the show windows of the land and ruins $100,000,000 worth of perfectly good clothes—and nobody complains much.

Every woman cannot be continuously beautiful because of styles. To-day the thin woman may be a willow dream of grace, but next year the designers will hang a new variety of clothes on her and she will have to buy twenty-three pounds of excelsior in order to bulge in the right places.

There are fifty-seven different levels of style, each one of which is being attained with great effort by families which can't afford it. Those who are devoting their harassed lives to being stylish should remember that just as soon as they are rich enough to maintain themselves comfortably in Style No. 22, Style No. 23 will move around just out of reach in front of them and make them perfectly miserable until they get it.

For this season, American families should adopt "Let Swell Embody Alone" and live up to it, even though the family next door turns up its nose so high that they can't shed rain.

AMERICAN SHIPS TO CARRY GRAIN.

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—If there is any shortage of vessels to carry grain on the Great Lakes this season, the regulations will be relaxed to allow American vessels to carry grain from one Canadian port to another Canadian port. This was allowed last year. Quite a number of Canadian lake vessels have been put on the Atlantic service because of the large number of ocean vessels taken over by the Admiralty. A good deal will, therefore, depend this year, on the number of American iron ore vessels on the lakes which are free to engage in the grain trade. Usually they carry immense quantities of grain in the fall.

Fads and Fashions.

Hats are scantily trimmed. Smart hats have high crowns. Millinery favors taffeta and fur. Very short like petticoats are in vogue.

Hip yokes still appear on separate skirts.

The bell-shaped skirt is one of the new models.

Much trimmed skirts are in vogue for evenings.

Coats are fitted to the waist and flare below it.

Skirts are panelled with contrasting materials.

Hercules braid is actually used on chiffon gowns.

The majority of the evening coats are full length.

Long-fitted broadcloth coats have skirts of velvet.

Gray is gaining in favor for street costumes.

Pockets are now designed to ornament the skirt.

There are soft velour fabrics named gloveskin.

Cloth suits are sometimes trimmed with leather.

A one-tone check moire faille bids fair to be popular.

Skirts will continue to be very wide, and very short.

Afternoon and dance frocks are still mostly taffeta.

There are many pin seal bags among the new designs.

Granny's Day.

The Knitting Needle Song.
By Jean Blewett.
This is Granny's day all right—
Granny's busy day 'tis clear.
With your hair grown snowy white,
And your eyes grown dim of sight,
Knitting, knitting, day and night—
Heaven bless you, Granny dear!

Lone and silent would you sit
When the social world drew near,
And your wrinkled fingers knit
Woolen socks of perfect fit,
Woolen socks—but now you're it,
Heaven bless you, Granny dear!

None took notice of your task,
Woolen socks were harsh and queer,
Grandson Bob would sometimes ask
You to stop, and May would make
Her contempt for such a task
Heaven bless you, Granny dear!

Lo! the belles both proud and fair,
Flock to you for words of cheer,
One has dropped a stitch, and dare
Not proceed and leave it there;
One has found a stitch to spare—
Heaven bless you, Granny dear!
Fashion dames with zeal on fire,
Bookish dames with eyes severe,
Working girls who never tire,
Pretty girls we all admire,
Homely girls who do aspire—
Heaven bless you, granny dear!

Two and one—please Granny show
Where and how I've bungled here,
And, "Don't take her time up so,"
Cries another, "for you know
I must learn to point this toe,"
"Turn this heel, please, Granny dear!"

Two and one—your fingers fly,
Teaching others with good cheer
I can see with half an eye,
As the busy days go by,
And the tongues and needles fly,
You grow younger, Granny dear!

Soldier boys who march to-day,
Soldier boys who know not fear,
And the knits your sock of gray,
While her heart is far away,
Send her thanks and softly say:
Heaven bless you, Granny dear!

Domba's Stupidity.

What is most striking about the performance of Ambassador Domba is its almost incredible stupidity. If all the Hungarians and Austrians employed in the steel industries and the munition factories of this country should quit work, the production of arms and ammunition for the Allies would not stop. It would not even be seriously embarrassed, for plenty of men of other nationalities could be found to take the high wages offered. The proceedings of the Austrian Embassy invite pity rather than obloquy. In fact, as an international incident, it hardly deserves serious treatment. An organized effort by legitimate means to prevent munition shipments to the Allies is no more blameworthy than an organized effort of the latter to obtain them. If German representatives can corner the market in totol, carbolic acid and other raw material for explosives they have as much right to do so as British representatives have to corner the supply of the finished product. Ambassador Domba adopted the methods of a conspirator and did it clumsily; and for this his own Government should feel impelled to replace him with a person of more discretion.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Americans in the British Army.

(London "Opinion.")

Since the war began over 1,800 Americans have joined the British army. Actual young citizens of the United States, I mean, a few of whom have told me that they enlisted "just for a bit of excitement," but most of whom affirm, with lower jaws stiffly set, that they are in khaki for the sake of seeing to it personally that Kaiser Bill "gets his." The bulk of these men, of course, are members of the two Canadian contingents, but a lot of them, too, have come across to England and enlisted here. One of the latter is among the most recent winners of the V.C. Many of them are graduates of West Point and Annapolis (the American naval academy), and thus get their commission almost at once. Some of them, too, have had experience in Cuba and the Philippines and other hot countries where they really have fies, and these young officers have been able to give us some valuable hints in the matter of camp sanitation. One expert in this respect is a former member of the Richmond Light Blues, one of America's crack regiments. He was rather badly wounded at Neuve Chapelle, but has gone back cheerily to the front again.

JUDGE ASKED TO INVESTIGATE CHARGES.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—The judicial searchlight may now be turned on any member of the city council against whom written charges of misconduct are made by a reputable citizen. Counsel to-day unanimously decided to ask Judge Denton to investigate not only the Meredith-Hodgson affair but accusations that have been made concerning the honor and integrity of any member of the civic body, either in connection with the fire department fiasco or any other matter affecting the general public.

Well Enough!

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

A suffrage worker was talking to a business woman who was violently opposed to the change.

"I believe in letting well enough alone," said the business woman primly.

"You think that is always the best way?"

"Yes." "My friend," said the suffrage worker, "please let me remind you that if the woman of fifty or seventy-five years ago had let well enough alone, you could not have gone into the business world and made your living as you are doing to-day."

I suppose people have been saying "Let well enough alone" ever since the world began.

And everyone who has said it has at that moment been profiting by the struggle of someone in past generations who could not let well enough alone.

She Couldn't Have Had a College Degree.

The business woman who want to let well enough alone is a college woman. She is very proud of her college degree. She advises all her friends to go to college, even if they have to make a sacrifice to accomplish it.

She Couldn't Have Had Free Reading Matter.

When the above conversation took place, the business woman was returning from the public library with two volumes under her arm. It is a walk she frequently takes, for she reads much and avails herself constantly of the library's resources.

Now, as we all know, there was a time when there was no public libraries, there was even a time when people questioned if public libraries might not be harmful. But there were some altruists who didn't believe in letting well enough alone, and they worked and sacrificed and to-day we have our wonderful free libraries (I often think by the way how little we appreciate them.)

All the inventions, all the reforms in the world have been wrought by people who didn't believe in letting well enough alone.

I'm Ready for That Objection.

"But," the conservative will remind me, "you forget that much harm also has been done by people who didn't believe in letting well enough alone."

"No, my friend," I don't forget; "but may I quote you once more that crisp saying of Stevenson's that I love so well, "We can forgive mistakes, but not even God can forgive the hanger back."

This is not intended as a brief for Women's Suffrage. Nor am I saying that the new is always the best. But it is a brief against the spirit which says "let well enough alone" and means by "well enough" the stage which we happen to have reached just now.

START RIGHT NOW and select your piece of Overcoating for the winter. We have just opened a splendid range of Blue Naps and nifty patterns in Tweed, with other big selections to arrive. SPURRELL BROS., 365 Water Street, "The Young Man's Tailor."--sept1, eod,tf

Health Questions and Answers.

By Mrs. McIntyre and Miss Hall De Livered at their Lectures.

Do you consider it wise to scald milk?

Milk should be scalded under certain conditions only. Sterilized milk means milk which has been brought to a temperature of 212 degrees F. The chemical composition of the milk has been changed, the albumin being coagulated and in many cases the lactose or sugar of milk being caramelized. In sterilized milk all diseased germs are killed but on account of the chemical composition of the milk being changed it is not as readily digested.

Pasteurized milk means milk which has been brought to a temperature of about 140 degrees F. Kept at that temperature for thirty minutes and then quickly cooled. In this way all animal bacteria are killed but the chemical composition of the milk is not changed. For that reason it is more readily digested and should be given to children in preference to the sterilized milk.

Certified milk means milk which has been produced from healthy cows under clean conditions and delivered to the consumer in a sanitary condition. The bacterial count in certified milk is very low as compared with the bacterial count in ordinary market milk. After the milk reaches the home of the consumer it must be kept at a low temperature in order that the bacteria will not multiply. If milk is delivered in bottles the top of the bottle should be thoroughly washed before the milk is poured from the bottle. We often find hundreds and thousands of bacteria on the top of the bottle and unless they are removed they will be washed into the glass or receptacle with the milk.

There are a few good ways to determine the freshness of milk. There should be no blue line where the top of the milk and the glass meets. There should be no sediment in the bottom of the milk bottle. Milk should not be stringy or ropery.

Is sour milk good? Sour milk is good providing the milk is quickly soured. Milk which has been soured by the lactic acid bacteria (which are the harmless bacteria) should have a firm clabber. Milk which is soured by the harmful or putrefactive bacteria does not have a firm clabber and often possesses a bitter flavour. This sour milk should be avoided.

Is Buttermilk a good food? Buttermilk does not have as much food value as whole milk, on account of the lactic acid upon the putrefactive bacteria in the intestines.

What is your opinion of a Fireless Cooker? Do you consider it makes food more nutritious? The fireless cooker is one of the best labor-saving devices that has come to the house-wife in recent years. It is especially good for cooking cereals, many of our vegetables which require long cooking, and tough cuts of meat which should be cooked at a low temperature in order to soften the connective tissues.

Give the food value of bananas. A banana has about the same amount of food as a slice of butter or potato has. All three are carbohydrates food-producing energy. Bananas are often indigestible because they are eaten green, or at least unripe. When a banana is green the skin is thick and when the skin is removed there is a fuzzy substance on the outside. If this is stripped off and the fruit is eaten it will be quite bitter. This substance on the outside of the banana acts much as tannin in tea does, and the banana under such conditions is not readily digested. To be thoroughly digested, a banana should have a thin skin and freckles on it. I do not mean by this that the banana should be over-ripe. It should be firm, for in a ripe banana the starch will have been converted into sugar. The small children should not be given bananas to eat unless the mother sees that they chew them very thoroughly. It is a good plan to slice the banana, serve it at the table with cream and some well toasted bread or hard crackers. In this way the banana will be thoroughly chewed and will not cause trouble afterwards.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION. By a Stomach Specialist. As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements--acid and wind. In all such cases--and they comprise over 90 per cent. of all stomach difficulties--the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two spoonfuls of bisulphated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisulphated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties--F.J.G.

Concert to Reservists.

At the Grenfell Hall, last night, a concert was given to our Royal Naval Reservists, many of whom attended. A programme, consisting of vocal and instrumental selections and dances, was gone through, the performers being Misses H. Job, A. Hayward, Bartlett, E. Mare, Dunfield, Orr, Windeler and Mitchell, Rev. H. Uphill, Mrs. Chater, Mrs. Coville and Messrs. Lloyd, Collier and Luxon (of H.M.S. Calypso), D. Winter and A. Cameron. The concert was splendidly arranged by Mrs. Chater and Miss Rendell, and was well carried out, each item redreder evoking much applause. The Reservists were presented with pipes by the Board of Trade members, who promoted the entertainment, and with cigarettes generously provided by the Imperial Tobacco Co. The rendition of the National Anthem by all present terminated a happy event. At the close Mrs. W. H. Jones, assisted by other ladies served refreshments to the Reservists.

Hospital Board of Governors.

The newly appointed Board of Governors were met yesterday afternoon by Colonial Secretary Bennett, who introduced them formally to the General Hospital Superintendent and Staff. Mr. Bennett read the Act passed at the last session of the Legislature, after which brief speeches were made by him and some of the Governors. A preliminary meeting was then held and adjournment was taken until next Saturday afternoon.

PHILLIPS--GABRIEL.

Last evening, Mr. George Phillips, of this city, and Miss Mary Helen Gabriel, niece of Mr. Herbert Gabriel, of Job's Office, were made man and wife at the C. of E. Cathedral, the Rev. J. Brinton officiating. The bride, who was charmingly dressed, was given away by her uncle. At the conclusion of the ceremony a reception was given at the residence of the father giver. The Telegram joins in the congratulations extended to Mr. and Mrs. Phillips.

MAHER--BURKE.

Miss Annie Burke and Mr. John Maher, both of Flat Rock, were united in matrimony at the R. C. Cathedral, on the 18th inst. The bride was attended by Miss Eureka Vasey, while Mr. Denis Maher acted as groomsmen. The bridal party left for Manuels to spend their honeymoon. That they may have abundant happiness and prosperity is the wish of their friends.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."

"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

TALKING TOO MUCH.

The man who's always talking will some day talk too much, and with disaster shocking he then will be in touch. You jabber like a lawyer about the blooming war; is that what your employer is paying money for? You talk a lot of Bryan, who jumped the ship of state, when you should be a-tryin' to make your record straight. Great truths you are parading, and ologies profound, when you should be out spading the fertile garden ground. You talk about the neighbors, and charge them up with crime; are there no wiser labors to occupy your time? Go, mark the down-and-outers, who through the booby hatch; the most of them were spouters, who had always talked too much. Go, watch the bums who sidle around with empty maws; they let their arms hang idle, and labored with their jaws. The man who still discourses when there is naught to say, until his larynx hoarse is, will get the bounce some day. The boss will bar and ban him, and brand him as a chump, and shoot and fire and can him, and send him to the dump.

"V. C."

While every true Briton will be attracted by the magic letters above, every true smoker should know they also stand for a tobacco composed of finest Burley and Virginia leaf, so perfectly blended that it needs only one trial to make it first favorite, so magic is its flavor.

For either pipe or cigarette this Smoking Mixture is equally good. It is delightfully cool and fragrant to taste, is free from any sting or bite, and is altogether a tobacco that is sure to become first a popular tobacco then a favorite tobacco; and eventually, to the really appreciative smoker, a "regular old friend."

V. C. Smoking Mixture is sold in 1 lb. tins, but it can also be purchased loose in smaller quantities from 1 ounce upwards, as required. If you're not using V. C. Smoking Mixture you don't know what real pipe-joy is.

Prohibition. The Prize of the World.

That is what Napoleon called Constantinople. Because of its commanding position between Europe and Asia, it was the centre of Persian, Greek, Roman and Turkish ambition for many centuries. It was occupied by Constantine the Great in 330 A.D., who made it the capital of the Roman Empire, and changed its name to Constantinople, the city of Constantine. The crusaders occupied it in 1204 and held it until 1261. The Turks conquered it under Mohammed the second, in 1453, an event making the extinction of the Byzantine Empire. Since then it has constantly been under Turkish dominion, largely because of the intense jealousy existing between European powers. Constantinople occupies such an important position in warfare, commerce and trade that its possession is regarded of great international advantage. Its occupation is sufficiently potent to greatly disturb the balance of the power in Europe. As a writer in the Montreal Standard says:—

For it Russia has striven for centuries. For it Austrian and German statesmen have been working for many years. And for them the pathway was blocked by that little Serbia, whose quarrel with Austria has brought the world to Armageddon.

If Constantinople falls we shall see the passing of the Ottoman. He is fighting with his back to the wall at the present point where he entered Europe, at the Gallipoli peninsula, more than five centuries ago. We shall see the Cross replace the Crescent on St. Sophia. But beyond this we shall see the final extinction of the German dream of a place in the sun, which has moved her to so many sacrifices, to such gigantic labors in war and peace in the recent decades.

For the future this will have a very profound meaning. For out of the war all nations will come well-nigh bankrupt, if not actually ruined. But France, Russia and Great Britain will retain their empires, increase them beyond their own frontiers, if Constantinople falls. Even Italy is assured of some territorial profit. She will keep Rhodes and establish herself in the Aegean. But sea power has already spelled the ruin of German colonies. The markets for the manufacturers of the Allies will be expanded, new tariff walls will bar the German exports.

Constantinople may hold out, France and Italy may be crushed, Russia forced to give up the war and her Polish and Lithuanian provinces. Even Great Britain may be invaded and made to pay the price of the conqueror. The war is yet to be won, but it is necessary to recognize that while the battle in Europe is being waged on fields familiar to us all, there is being fought in the obscurer regions where Europe and Asia touch the battle which means as much to Germany as did the struggle in America to France and England. At Constantinople as at Quebec a great empire and a magnificent colonial dream are at stake. The German place in the sun is being won or lost."

Another Grand Rally by the W.C.T.U. Under the auspices of the W.C.T.U. another grand temperance rally was held in the Methodist College Hall, last night. The audience was large and representative. Amongst those on the platform were the W.C.T.U. officers, Revs. Dr. Jones, W. Cracknell, Whitmarsh, Atkinson, Thomas, and Paine, Brigadier Morehen, Capt. Cave, and Messrs. H. E. Cowan, W. White and A. W. Martin. A feature of the meeting was the singing of the White-Ribbon boys and girls, who occupied seats in the front row.

At the invitation of Mrs. Benedict, President of the W.C.T.U., the Rev. J. S. Sutherland, of St. Andrew's Church, presided. In his address, the chairman dwelt on the magnitude of the issue. He warned the audience against over-confidence on the one hand and discouragement on the other. The chief obstacle to be surmounted was the indifference of electors generally. After some singing the Hon. J. A. Robinson made a brief appeal, which was followed by an earnest address by Brigadier Morehen. Mr. H. E. Cowan directed his attention to combating arguments usually advanced against Prohibition, among them being the revenue question. In summing up, the balance was overwhelmingly in favor of the abolition of the traffic.

Mrs. Howland's address came next. She is visiting Newfoundland at the invitation of the W.C.T.U., and is a practical and pleasing speaker, with a clear delivery, a good choice of words and a multitude of ideas. Mrs. Howland stated that directly or indirectly the liquor traffic in the United States last year amounted to six billion dollars, and that the waste of manhood, womanhood and childhood was appalling. During the same year the traffic had put 110,000 drunkards in their graves. A silver lining to the dark clouds was shown in the fact that 19 States had declared for Prohibition, South Carolina having become a Prohibition State since she left home.

The prohibition issue was no longer confined to the religious world. Its advocates were found in all callings. Business men were calling for it on the ground of efficiency. Ex-Governor Foss of Massachusetts, long a supporter of the License system, had become a Prohibitionist. During his tenure of office, 20,000 men were committed for drunkenness, and the cost of keeping them had entailed an expenditure of $5,000,000. Abstinence made for efficiency and betterment in social, commercial and professional life. Talk was well enough in its way, but something more was needed. It must crystallize into action. Newfoundland had now an opportunity to stop the liquor traffic, and as a worker of the W.C.T.U. in other lands she expressed her sympathy with the movement and her hopes for its success. At the close of the meeting a collection was taken up to meet expenses, and the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem. Mrs. Benedict presided at the piano and Mr. Arthur Mews at the organ. On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Howland will address children, and will also address congregations in the Grenfell Hall and at Wesley Church on Sunday.

Health Lectures

Large audiences attended each session of the Health Lectures given yesterday by Mrs. McIntyre and Miss Hall. Questions asked by those attending the classes were answered in the forenoon and a discussion took place on the question of well balanced meals. Miss Hall gave some valuable preparations for salad, etc. What a woman and mother should know was outlined in the afternoon by Mrs. McIntyre.

The night session was held at the Casino Theatre, the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland presiding. The cause and cure of colds were dealt with by Mrs. McIntyre, who stated that catarrh was merely inflammation of the mucous membrane of the nose. She demonstrated its cure by exercise in which all present took part. These exercises consisted of breathing and the rubbing of the forehead between the eyes. Rheumatism was also dealt with, the lecturer pointing out that in treating it lemons were of great value, because they purify the blood. Physical exercises, she said, were also good. Miss Hall then commenced on stomach troubles. Indigestion was caused either by eating too much food or too many indigestible foods at one time. The meal should be arranged to contain proteins, carbo-hydrates and mineral salts in proper proportions. Much meat and dried peas should not be taken at one meal as they contain too much protein. A vegetable such as dandelion should substitute the peas, because it would be an aid to the gastric juices. Explanations were then given on intestinal indigestion and ordinary stomach trouble, hyperacidity, constipation and she emphasized the value of water and vegetables, especially spinach and fruit. The use of the latter replaces laxatives and cathartics. Sour milk and butter-milk are good for rheumatism, continued Miss Hall. A vote of thanks, proposed by Mrs. Morine and seconded by Mr. A. B. McDougall and carried by acclamation was accorded the lecturers at the close. On behalf of some ladies who followed the series of lectures His Lordship the Bishop presented Mrs. McIntyre and Miss Hall with pearl and diamond ornaments for personal wear. The recipients expressed their thanks also hoped that a Health Club would be started here. The Bishop also expressed the feeling of the meeting in tendering thanks to Mr. H. Crowe for bringing the lady lecturers here and defraying the expenses of the course. The ladies are leaving by this evening's express for Botwood and Grand Falls. They will lecture at both places before returning to the States.

Our New Idea!

Having shown where we excel in the Bedding Line, we wish to add one word more on Our New Idea Bedstead. Having installed machinery the past month for the punching, boring, &c., of our Beds, we can now fit our Oxford or Copper Spring to any Bed as required. This does away with the wood altogether, makes it absolutely vermin proof, and makes a Bed superior in every way to the old, as it is made into the Bed and can be removed and packed very closely—a great convenience when removing. We also have the Combination Lath and Spring Beds, the only thing of its kind in the country.

BOARD OF TRADE CURBS GRABBERS
LONDON, To-day.
The Board of Trade does not allow the American Meat Trust to get all they want, Walter Runciman, President of the British Board of Trade, stated in the Commons this afternoon in the course of a debate on financial matters, at which the high prices of food were commented upon.

STUTT GART BOMBARDED.
PARIS, To-day.
French aviators bombarded Stuttgart, the capital of the Kingdom of Wurtemberg, according to a French official communication issued last night. They dropped about a hundred shells on the Royal Palace Station. They also dropped bombs at different points along the way. The Austro-Hungarian headquarters says the German-Austrian artillery is now bombarding Serbian positions along the Masey frontier, which lies on the Northwest corner of Serbia, which was the scene of heavy fighting last autumn. The Austro-German bombardment therefore extends virtually along the Northern frontier of Serbia.

THE LONDON BUDGET.
LONDON, To-day.
The war move that may be the riddle of the Balkans, Bulgaria's mobilization—struck London with dramatic suddenness. The afternoon papers however refrain from editorial comment. Neutral readers of these publications except from drawing their own conclusions form large type-heads and such captions as the "Balkan sensation" would be none the wiser as to whether England regarded the developments as a preliminary victory for the Central Powers, or merely another overnight reversal of the Greco-Serbian-Bulgarian negotiations. The consensus of opinion is that although Bulgaria's army is now on the move, Bulgaria has not yet cast her lot with one side or the other, but, as her Minister here expressed it, still neutral, still waiting but armed. There is general activity of Austro-German forces along the Serbian frontier. A semi-official despatch from Nish repudiates the reports that Serbia has been asked in effect to remain quiet, while the Austro-Germans conduct their campaign Southwards. Developments in Bulgaria threw into comparative obscurity, the continued Russian retreat from Vilna, but with the exception of the Northern Tip of the Polish front, where the Russians are on the offensive near Friedland, the Germans claim progress throughout Mid-Poland as far South as Ostrow, which they have captured. The greatest number of prisoners taken at any point, however, did not exceed 2,000, which would seem to indicate that the attempt to complete coils around the retreating Russians proved unsuccessful.

ADVERTISING GERMANY.
LONDON, To-day.
Sir John A. Simon, Home Secretary, in replying yesterday in the Commons to criticisms on the censorship said Germany had sought to use the press bureau as a medium for advertising the German Government in every neutral country, but this mission it had refused to perform. He added the necessity for censoring of certain parts of German official communications had been confirmed both by Cabinet and Admiralty. Concerning reports about munitions factories near Petrograd which had been the subject of sensational stories, the Home Secretary said the Government was without information whether the report was true or not.

SERBIA WILL FIGHT.
LONDON, To-day.
A despatch to Reuters Telegram Co. from Nish, says the Serbian Government in regard to the rumors that Germany advised Serbia not to oppose the attack the Central powers are planning to launch, with stipulation that such attack will not be aimed primarily at Serbia, but will be made for higher reasons, has issued a statement. It says Serbia not only had been advised of such attack but that she would indignantly refuse any such compact, being ready to meet any attack form any quarter.

DANISH STEAMER SUNK.
LONDON, To-day.
The Danish steamer Thorvalsen, 1217 tons gross, was sunk and the crew were saved.

ARMED NEUTRALITY.
SOFIA, To-day.
Radoslavoff, Bulgarian Premier, announced yesterday that the Austro-German offensive against Serbia was initiated Sept. 19. So far there had been no general Bulgarian mobilization, but troops are leaving stations throughout the country. The capital of the country is quiet. Public opinion which was somewhat divided some days ago, is now stiffening in support of Premier Radoslavoff. There are indications within the last few days of comparative unanimity concerning the Government's action. Referring to the concentration of certain Bulgarian troops, the Premier, yesterday, informed Government members of Parliament, that the war dangers in the Balkan had decreased, but that the Bulgarian Government was obliged to resort to armed neutrality. Most troops stationed at Sofia left the capital last night and this morning.

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT IS STIFF ABOUT DUMBA.
WASHINGTON, To-day.
The American Government will make no effort to secure the safe conduct from the United States of Dr. Dumba, Austro-Hungarian Ambassador here, until the Vienna Government has replied to the request that the Ambassador be recalled. This was stated on high official authority to-night. Dumba himself telegraphed to Assistant Secretary Phillips, of the State Department from Lenox, Mass., to-day, giving notice that his Government recalled him home on leave, asking the American Government to arrange for his safe conduct to Vienna.

DECLARED INSANE.
BERLIN, To-day.
Count Bobrinski, who was Governor General of Galicia during the Russian occupation, and who welcomed Emperor Nicholas to Lemberg, was declared insane by a medical examination taken at Kiev.

THE ATTACK ON STUTT GART.
BERLIN, To-day (Official).
Enemy airmen with German marks on their aeroplanes appeared this morning at Stuttgart, dropping bombs on the town, killing four persons and wounding a number of soldiers and civilians. The material damage is unimportant. The airmen were fired at by our anti-aircraft troops and disappeared in a northern direction. Owing to the fact that shortly after 7.15 o'clock the military authorities were informed of the approaching airmen, the population could only be warned when it was comparatively late. A German airman arrived over Stuttgart at 9.30 o'clock and was fired on from below for a short time until he was with certainty recognized. The German airman landed unhurt near the town.

LUMBER YARD ABLAZE.
BATHURST, To-day.
A spark from an open burner is supposed to have been the cause of the tremendous fire that swept the dock and lumber yards at Bathurst N.B. Lumber Company here yesterday afternoon, destroying a splendid new dock and fifteen million feet of lumber, valued at $250,000.

1.30 P. M.
THE BULGARIAN ARMY.
LONDON, To-day.
A Bulgarian reserve officer, preparing to leave London to join the colors, said to-night that the general mobilization includes ten divisions of the Bulgarian army, one division having been added since the Balkan war. It now affects 250,000 rifles, as compared with 216,000 previous number. The strength of the artillery have been increased by approximately a third. Stores have lately been replenished and reservists called to the colors will be better equipped than during the Balkan war.

BULGARIAN PREMIER'S ANNOUNCEMENT.
LONDON, To-day.
M. Radoslavoff, Bulgarian Premier, announced to his supporters the signing of a convention with Turkey for the future maintenance of armed neutrality on the part of Bulgaria, says the Times correspondent, in a Sofia despatch printed this morning.

A GOOD BUDGET WELL RECEIVED
LONDON, To-day.
Hard hit but happy, is the Globe's summing up of the citizens' attitude toward the new taxation proposals. This optimistic view is generally reflected in the press. While the universal opinion is that Hon. Reginald McKenna has made a reputation both by his clear cut manner of presenting the new budget and by the equitable proposals made. Never did a Finance Minister convey so momentous a statement with such brevity and lucidity and with such admirable grip of his material, says the Westminster Gazette. Besides acquiescing in new taxation, the papers pave the way for even more stringent proposals subsequently, if they should be necessary for the successful issue of the war. Newspapers are hit by increased tolls on telegrams, but this will not affect cablegrams. The argument that the troops will suffer owing to the increased tobacco duty, does not apply to those on the field as such parcels are especially exempt from duty. Hirst, the editor of the Economist, says the Budget is a good one and on the whole that nothing could be better calculated to sustain British credit than the decision to impose taxes during the war sufficient to cover charges of debt and war pensions. He regretted the omission of whiskey and other spirits from the articles on which duty is increased.

In Milady's Boudoir!

ANCIENT BEAUTY CULTURE.

We hear a great deal about culture and are sometimes inclined to think it is a new art, at least in some of its developments. The truth is it is not a new art at all, but one, if not as old as the hills, at least nearly as old as Eve.

One of the instruments used by the professors of beauty culture is the face mask, whole or partial, to be worn during sleep as a preventive of wrinkles. It is of kid with apertures for the eyes, nose and mouth. A similar apparatus under different forms was well known to the ancients, and barbaric times intervening did not allow it to be forgotten. Beauties of the Renaissance period took it up, and we find Marguerite de Valois, the good queen Margot, wearing a mask at night in order to enhance her beauty.

We also read that her husband, Henry IV. objected to it. After she was divorced from him, and when Marie de Medicis had taken her place, she continued the practice. This royal Marguerite was a coquette when young and lived to be a very old coquette. Baths enter largely into the system of modern cultivators of physical beauty, but these beautifying baths consist seldom of pure water. Ingredients are put into them which are supposed to have a more or less marvellous effect on the skin.

There is nothing new in this practice any more than in the mask system. Roman ladies, under the Caesars, bathed in water redolent with costly compounds. Some bathed in asses milk diluted with water. Nero's wife used to sleep with compresses of this milk on her cheeks—such was the belief then in its beautifying powers.

Farmer Gored by Bull.

St. Stephen, N.B., Sept. 14.—(Special)—Edwell Emerson, of Dunbarton, Charlotte county, farmer, was gored by a bull and seriously injured at the Charlotte county fair, St. Stephen to-day. Mr. Emerson was resting comfortably at the Chipman Memorial Hospital last night.

The injured man, who has a number of prize cattle on exhibition, was attempting to place a ring in the nose of a valuable Ayrshire bull when the animal suddenly attacked him and inflicted severe injuries to Mr. Emerson before attendants were able to drive off the animal.

The stock owner was taken to the Chipman Hospital in a motor car and it is hoped that he will soon be out of danger.

ASKED HIGHER WAGES.—The freemen of the S. S. Bonaventure for a few days ago demanded for $40 a month going to the Mediterranean. The claim was made just as the ship was ready for sea and under these circumstances the Union would not back the request. The result was that the stokers decided to go for $35 a month, as previously agreed on.

CARIBOU PLENTIFUL.—From parties who frequently cross the country we learn that caribou are plentiful up country and that herds of them can be seen daily crossing the railway track. There are not many sportsmen up country just now. A few local huntsmen have already secured the limited number of heads. A number of American and Canadian sportsmen are now on the way to the interior for the purpose of deer hunting.

What We Owe to the Men

Who Keep Up Steam in Our Battleships.

Right down in the lull of the great battleship, securely shut down by water-tight doors, they see nothing of the fight. For them the thrill of battle comes in a sudden and stern increase of their strenuous duties. Yet let us never forget what we owe to the men whose work is so vitally essential to the success of every naval action.

Their work is so heavy, indeed, that the men are divided into three watches so as to give them an eight hours' rest between their four hours' spells of labor.

Down in the engine-room there are steampipes, filled with scalding water and sudden death, flooding the engine-room in an instant with biting, blinding, searing fog, somewhere above boiling point, for high pressure steam is hotter stuff than comes out of the spout of a kettle. A shell through the main steam pipes, and good-bye to those who are near the damage.

The engineer officer knows all this, and often has seen some of the things that can happen taking place on a small scale. While the gunners are working for all they are worth he watches the wheels go round, listens not to the

of the hammer strokes of projectiles on armour-plate, but to the tell-tale songs of the complex mechanisms over which he presides with the coolness of a naval officer, the skill of a man of science, and the tenderness of a Red Cross nurse.

He never sees a shot go home; he never sees an enemy's flag pulled down in defeat. If all goes well, and the enemy runs or strikes, the engineer-commander hears all about it at mess. If things go wrong, he feels it—quite unmistakably—in his person.

Get one unlucky shot into the engine-room, and it is up to him, so long as volition is left to him, to put that thing right, and he must now draw fires until there is not another thing he can do first. In battle, so long as there is a dog's chance to do so, he

Must Keep Steam Up

for steam is the breath of life to the ship, and he must take risks, when he is making repairs, that would give the landsman spasms. It may be remembered that a storm suddenly burst out at a time when quite a fleet of warships were anchored in the harbor of Apia. So fearful was the gale that six vessels were blown ashore and completely wrecked. The Calliope, however, cut her cable and steamed out in the teeth of the hurricane, and was the only ship that escaped that awful night. In spite of the gigantic sea that was running the stokers managed for hour after hour to keep up a full head of steam. So frightful was the fury of that blast that at times the vessel actually stood still, the full power of her engines barely equalling the tremendous pressure of the wind. It was only a few yards that she escaped the jagged coral rocks, and finally forced her way out into the comparative safety of the open sea. During the fearful struggle, down in the engine-room

The Scene Was an Inferno.

Men were flung from one side to the other, and many were badly bruised, burnt, or scalded. Yet they stuck to their work like the heroes they were, and for eighteen hours on end continued to keep up full steam. At last the weather moderated, and they were able to run for Port Blair.

At the battle of the Falkland Islands the Kent, it is said, exceeded her contract speed by two knots. What this means can hardly be explained to anyone who is not familiar with an engine-room—especially the cramped engine-room of a warship.

Were a Little Previous

(New York "Times.")
The American Germans have been sure, and more than sure, that the sinking of the "Arabic" was right and more than right, while they know beyond the shadow of a doubt that the act of the man who sank her wouldn't be criticised at home, and that the reputation of it would not be forbidden. The German Germans of greatest authority, however, seem to have been certain only that if the "Arabic" was sunk by a submarine in the conditions which the American Germans held to be full justification, then the commander of the submarine violated his instructions and imposed upon his Government the hard necessity to express a deep regret for his misbehavior. The situation thus created for the American Germans is truly a trying one—the more trying because, for those not ensnared therein, it constitutes almost if not quite the first "humor" of the war. Whatever the final action of the German Government may be, they are already in the deep hole of their own digging.
