CHAPTER XVIII.
FASHIONING THE WEB.

"I will do everything you wish, my dear young lady," he murmured. "I fear I have wearied you. Leave it all to me."

And with a softly-murmured "Heaven bless you!" he left her.

Two days later, Mrs. Jelf brought Doris a letter. The envelope bore an elaborate crest, stamped in crimson and gold, and as she opened it a faint perfume emanated from it.

It was from Lady Despard, who wrote in the delightfully illegible hand, all points and angles, known as "the Italian"—that her dear friend, the well-known philanthropist, Mr. Spenser Churchill, had recommended Miss Marlowe to Lady Despard, and, placing the greatest reliance upon Mr. Churchill, her ladyship would be very pleased if Miss Marlowe would come to her at No. 12 Chester Gardens, as soon as Miss Marlowe could find it convenient. Lady Despard added that she was certain, from all Mr. Churchill had said, she and Miss Marlowe would get on together, and that she intended starting for Italy as soon as possible.

Doris read and re-read the elegant epistle, vainly striving, as we all do, to form some idea of the character of the unknown writer; then she sat down and wrote an answer, saying that she would come to Chester Gardens the following day.

Now that she had recovered from the lethargy which had closely followed her great trouble, she was filled with a restless desire to get away from home and its painful association. She at once set to work at the preparations for her journey, and it was not until she had packed up her things that it occurred to her that she could not go until she had bidden farewell to Mr. Spenser Churchill.

Doris's feeling towards that gentleman was a peculiar one. He had befriended her when she had been most in need of a friend; had shown an amount of consideration and delicacy to her, a stranger, which, when she pondered over it, amazed her; and she was grateful. But she had not forgotten the dead man's warning, and it still haunted her, although Spenser Churchill had so cleverly managed to allay her suspicions by his frank confession that, in the quarrel between him and Jeffrey, he had been in the wrong. And yet, though her suspicions were allayed, she was conscious of a strange feeling of disquietude while in his presence; a feeling that was neither quite dread nor doubt, but partook of both sentiments.

Still, he had been most kind, and her gratitude would not allow her to go without seeing him again.

After a good deal of reflection, she wrote a couple of lines to him telling him that she had arranged to start on the morrow, and asking him to call and see her; and she sent it by a lad in the Towers.

An hour or two later Mr. Spenser Churchill arrived.

MOTHERS TO BE

Should Read Mrs. Monahan's Letter Published by Her Permission.

Mitchell, Ind.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me so much during the time I was looking forward to the coming of my little one that I am recommending it to other expectant mothers. Before taking it, sometimes I suffered with neuralgia so badly that I thought I could not live, but after taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was entirely relieved of neuralgia, I had gained in strength and was able to go around and do all my housework. My baby when seven months old weighed 19 pounds and I feel better than I have for a long time. I never had any medicine do me so much good."

Mrs. PEARL MONAHAN, Mitchell, Ind.

Good health during maternity is a most important factor to both mother and child, and many letters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., telling of health restored during the trying period by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I am glad, very glad, my dear young lady," he said, pressing the hand which she gave him, "that you have resolved to seek change of scene so promptly. You will find dear Lady Despard a most charming and amiable lady, who will prove a—er—valuable friend; and I hope—I may say I am sure—that you will be happy. You must let me have the pleasure of seeing you off by the train to-morrow."

Doris shook her head gently but firmly.

"I could not let you take so much trouble," she said. "I am leaving quite early in the morning, and—"

He nodded.

"Well, well, I understand. That shall be as you wish. And is there anything I can do now? Your luggage—"

"It is all ready," said Doris. "I am quite prepared."

"Then nothing remains for me to do but to hand over to you the money I hold for you," he said, and he took out and counted some bank-notes.

"I have been thinking," she said, "that I would ask to be so good as to take charge of some of it for me. It seems so large a sum—I have never been used to having large sums of money," her eyes filled as she spoke.

"I am ashamed to cause you any further trouble, but if you will take charge of some of it for me, if you will give me twenty pounds, and keep the rest in case I should want it, I shall be very grateful. You will be adding to all my past kindness to me."

"Yes, yes, I see. I shall be very happy," he said, benevolently. "Twenty pounds; that will leave eighty. And when you want it you can write to me. Perhaps when you come to know Lady Despard you will like her to act as your banker. By the way, I don't think we said anything about the remuneration?"

"No," said Doris. "I did not think of it."

"You left it all to me. Quite right. Well, I hope you will think I have done the best I could. Lady Despard—" and I have agreed upon a hundred pounds a year."

"That is a great deal, I suppose," said Doris, simply. "It is more than enough, and once more I thank you."

"It is not more than enough, not half enough in return for so sweet and charming a companion; but, my dear young lady, we must be content," he said. "And now, is there anything else?"

Doris replied in the negative; then suddenly her face crimsoned.

"There is one thing more," she said, in a low voice. "Can you tell me Lord Neville's address in Ireland?"

Her voice faltered, but her clear, pure eyes met his steadily. He showed not the faintest surprise, but seemed to think for a moment or two.

"I am sorry to say I cannot," he said. "Did you want to write to him?"

"Yes," she said. "I wish I could tell you—"

Her voice broke.

He raised his hand with a soft, deprecating smile.

"My dear young lady, tell me nothing more than you wish. I am—he laid his hand upon his heart—"I beg you to believe—I am not curious. Why should you not write to Lord Neville, if you choose, or to any other person? I presume you know him?"

"Yes, I know him," she said, turning her head aside.

"Just so," she said, turning her head aside.

"Just so," he assented, smoothly. "And you wish to tell him where you are going? Is it not so?"

"No!" said Doris, suddenly, and turning pale. "I do not wish him to know—ah! I cannot tell you—you would not understand."

"You shall tell me nothing," he said, waving his hand. "I am sorry I can't give you his address. But I will tell you what we can do," he added, as if an idea had occurred to him. "You can write to him and entrust the letter to me; I will see that it is forwarded—indeed, I will get the address from the Marquis and forwarded it to-night."

"Thank you," said Doris, in a low voice, and she went to the table.

Mr. Spenser Churchill, with true delicacy, slipped out, and had a few minutes' chat with Mrs. Jelf, who was reduced to tears at the prospect of losing her young charge.

When he came back, Doris was standing with a note in her hand.

"There it is," she said. "I—she paused for a second, then went on firmly—"if Lord Neville should ask you where I am gone, will you promise not to tell him, please? No one knows but yourself, and I do not wish him to be told."

He inclined his head as he took the note, and with a great show of carefulness, put it in his pocket-book.

"My lips are sealed, my dear young lady. Whatever your reasons may be—and please understand that I do not seek to know them—your request shall be considered sacred by me. Lord Neville shall never learn your whereabouts from me!"

And it is only fair to say that, for once, Mr. Spenser Churchill spoke the truth!

A subdued and placid smile beamed on his benevolent countenance when, having taken leave of Doris, he made his way across the meadows to the Towers; and the smile grew more placid and self-complacent when, having reached his own rooms, he took the note from his pocket, and rang for a jug of hot water.

"Let it be quite hot, if you please," he said to the chamber-maid, and the girl brought it almost boiling.

Then he locked the door, and, holding the envelope over the steam until it had become unglued, he drew out the note and read it.

"I was right and you were wrong. It would have been better if we had never met, and I hope that we may never meet again. If we should do so it must be as strangers. No one shall ever learn from me that we have ever been anything else."

DORIS MARLOWE.

He pondered over these few lines, word by word, for some minutes, then, with a satisfied nod, re-enclosed the note in its envelope, and neatly re-fastened it.

"I don't think anyone, however sharp and critical his sight, would detect that her little note had been opened," he murmured. "The gum had scarcely dried. Yes, that will do very well. Admirably. In fact, there is no need for me to add a word. But; all the same, my dear young lady, we will not send it to Cecil Neville just yet. No, No; it would be so sudden a shock. No, really, in common charity, we must give him some slight preparation."

Then he took from his pocket four letters, and, with a soft smile of enjoyment, read them over.

They were in Lord Cecil's anything but elegant handwriting and were addressed to Miss Marlowe at the lodgings, and had kindly been taken charge of by Mr. Spenser Churchill!

"Youth, rash youth! How frantically he writes! Dear me, I am very glad Providence permitted me to keep them from the dear young thing's sight; they would have unsettled her so sadly. Quite elegant they are! I had no idea Master Cecil had such a ready pen. I am afraid you are spending anything but a pleasant time over there waiting for the answer to these epistles, the answer which will rather surprise you when you get it. What will you do when you find the bird has flown, I wonder? Be as mad as a March hare for a few days, and then—"

He shrugged his shoulders, and with a laugh struck a match and made a bonfire of the intercepted letters, and watched them until all that remained of their imploring eloquence was a little heap of ashes in the empty grate.

In such excellent spirits was Mr. Spenser Churchill, so full of the peace which flows from the possession of a good conscience, that, as he entered the drawing-room a few minutes before dinner that evening, he hummed a few bars from the "Lost Chord," that cheerful melody being the nearest approach to profane music which he permitted himself; and, going up to the sofa upon which Lady Grace was reclining, raised her white hand to his lips and kissed it with playfully sedulous gallantry.

Police Court.

An eighteen year old seaman was fined $50 or 30 days imprisonment for the theft of a suit case and a clothes bag containing many articles of apparel from a passenger on the S.S. Rosalind.

An accomplice was remanded for eight days.

Boy Injured
by Toy Pistol.

At 9.30 Monday morning, a 16 year old lad named David Luby was rather badly injured by a toy pistol fired by another boy named Daniels. This pistol fires a paper pellet with gunpowder and has a considerable force. Dr. Campbell was called to Luby's house on Nunnerly Hill, Dr. Cowperthwaite being later called in. Both pronounced him not seriously injured. The police confiscated the pistols from the boys and also forbade the shopkeepers to sell them. Several other boys were also injured about the face with them and had to be carried to nearby drug stores.

A Word of Praise.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir.—Mr. P. J. Kinsella in his splendid book of "Newfoundland Traditions and Superstitions" proves conclusively that of all readings, the Subjects which are of the quaint and mysterious are the best.
I am simply amazed at the wonderful nature of the whole work. It is certainly unique and filled with mystery from start to finish. Mr. Kinsella's effort has been a commendable one, but I should like to see the subject of Newfoundland Superstitions gone into, by say, our local Historical Society.
Personally, I want to congratulate the author of this excellent work on his having hit on so unique an idea. The book is indeed deeply interesting, and must be read to be appreciated, for candidly, to my mind no local volume of such interest, has been published for some time.
Hoping you will give this letter space in your paper,
I remain, yours truly,

Ferguson's Compound Glycerine Balm is a preparation which has stood the test of many years' experience both in Great Britain and in Newfoundland, as one of the blandest and most soothing toilet preparations in case of sunburn tan, chafing, redness etc., and its record is hard to beat. Many people certainly prefer Glycerine Balm to the more recent toilet lotions, and will not use any other when that can be had. It is impossible of detection when in use and does its work in the most admirable manner. Price 50c. a bottle.

Declares Saw Aeroplane

That he saw an aeroplane in full flight from Topsall station last night was the statement made by Mr. J. W. Johnson, baker of Duckworth St., to a Telegram reporter this morning. Mr. Johnson says she was flying from the west and in such a direction as to take her past St. John's without coming near.

PRE-WAR WHITE FLOUR

FOR eighteen months you've been compelled to use Government Standard grade in compliance with the food regulations---

DURING that period you missed your favourite brand---"WINDSOR PATENT"---the flour from which you used to bake such lovely bread---

BUT---

NOW that the food restrictions have been lifted, the importation of "WINDSOR PATENT" is again permitted, and the first shipment is due the latter half of this month.

Purchasers should remember that "Windsor Patent" was never milled into a standard grade,--as having such a priceless reputation to maintain, the Mills would not impair its quality--preferring to hold it until the regulations were rescinded.

Prince Sails on Dominion Tour.

Litigation Against Reid N.F. Co. -- Sinn Feiners Raid Military Depot--Labor Trouble Acute in Great Britain.

THE PRINCE LEAVES.
LONDON, Aug. 5. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—The departure to-day of the Prince of Wales for Canada is the theme of many editorials. The Times states: "The Prince of Wales stands prominently for the promise and hope of the Empire. His record of work already done is astonishing in its variety, and his manner of doing it has been invaluable—the manner of a man unspoil by his great position and who has learned in the hardest school the priceless lesson that a man is a man. The Prince of Wales has shown that he has been profoundly impressed by the sterling worth of the individual Briton in the various ranks of life. His knowledge of the racial character will stand him in good stead wherever he goes in the Dominions. He has only to be his own simple, modest, unaffected self to be welcomed for his own sake just as the Dominions' troops welcomed him for the man that he was and not for his rank." The Daily Mail says: "Nothing but good can come of the practice now happily becoming the custom by which the heir to the throne visits, as occasion offers, this and that part of the Empire. His visit illustrates the continuity of our history, but is peculiar in this that the Prince already has in France made the acquaintance of men from every Dominion and Commonwealth and is known to them as the young soldier with grit and a taste for danger." The Daily Graphic refers to "the qualities of character which the Prince has revealed in the past five years," and states that "they are particularly calculated to make him a welcome guest in such genuine democracies as Canada and the United States. His unassuming war service, his profound interest in social problems, and his frank and engaging personality, have endeared him to all English-speaking peoples." The Graphic states that it is a great mission upon which the Prince has started to-day, and that he carries with him implicit trust in his ability to utilize to every opportunity of strengthening the brotherhood between the freest Empire and the greatest Republic, thereby safeguarding world liberty.

HONOURS FOR MILITARY CHIEFS.
LONDON, Aug. 4. High titles and money grants will be given by Great Britain to her victorious Generals and Admirals of the Great War, according to time-honoured customs. The vote of thanks to the victors will be presented in the House of Commons on Wednesday, according to present plans. The name of Marshal Foch will be included. Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig and Vice-Admiral Beatty—as expected—will be made Earls and each given a grant of £100,000. Field Marshal Viscount French of Ypres and Admiral Viscount Jellicoe of Scapa, will be given grants of £50,000 each. A number of other commanding officers will be given money grants making a total for all £600,000. Premier Lloyd George's name was proposed to-day for some honor by Sir J. F. Remnant, in the House of Commons, but Andrew Bonar Law, the Government leader, replied that he had mentioned the matter to the Premier, who said he would not for a minute agree to it.

THANKS FOR DOMINION'S TROOPS.
LONDON, Aug. 5. (Reuter's)—The text of the resolution to be moved by Premier Lloyd George on Wednesday next in the House of Commons of thanks to the Overseas troops is as follows: "That the thanks of this House be accorded to the gallant troops from the Dominions overseas, from India and the Crown Colonies, for the promptitude with which they responded to the call for justice and freedom and for the noble part they played in conjunction with their comrades of the British Islands in securing the triumph of right over wrong."

BETTING TIRED OF IT.
LONDON, Aug. 2. The Yorkshire miners' council representing more than 200,000 miners who remained on strike, refusing to accept the Government's offer of settlement, decided to-day to submit to its branches the question of continuing the strike.

SINN FEINERS GET RIFLES.
BELFAST, Aug. 2. Sinn Feiners to-day raided the freight depot at Greenmore and carried off a quantity of rifles which had just arrived from England. The rifles were addressed to the commanding officer of the Royal Artillery.

THE REIDS IN LEGAL SQUABBLE.
MONTREAL, Aug. 5. Legal proceedings were instituted this morning in the Superior Court in the form of a petition presented by C. H. Cahon, K.C., and George V. Cousins, on behalf of Miss Harriett Reid, of Montreal, asking for the appointment of a sequestrator in connection with the management of 54,768 shares of the Reid-Newfoundland Company, now deposited with the Royal Trust Company here. The action is directed against Sir William Duff Reid of Montreal, Harry Duff Reid, St. John's, Nfld., Robert Gillis Reid, Jr., Baron Shaughnessy, the Royal Trust Company, and the Reid-Nfld. Company. "The gist of the petition is that by the will of her father, also the father of Sir William Duff Reid, Harry Duff Reid, and Robert Gillespie Reid, his widow inherited property which was to revert to the children at her death. Upon the death of Mrs. Reid, as it is claimed, Sir William Duff Reid and Harry Duff Reid and others as executors, continued the management of the Reid-Newfoundland Company and kept and operated the estate for their own account and benefit.

GREAT NAVAL PAGEANT.
LONDON, Aug. 4. Cheering multitudes clustered on the banks of the Thames this afternoon and witnessed an elaborate river pageant with which England's Peace Celebration came to a close. More than 150 boats, headed by the Royal Barge containing the King and Queen, the Prince of Wales and other Royalities participated. It was a demonstration of the unity achieved during the war by Britain's naval forces, the Mercantile Marine and the maritime resources generally for the nation's defence and up-keep.

WITHDRAWING FROM RUSSIA.
LONDON, Aug. 2. (Reuter's)—Although the situation of our troops in North Russia is not causing immediate anxiety, certain units are being despatched as a general reserve to meet eventualities. The reserve will be at the disposal of Gen. Rawlinson, who will co-ordinate the retirement from the two fronts.

ATTACK ON POLICE.
LONDON, Aug. 4. A party consisting of twenty or thirty men this morning attacked the Bradford police barracks in East Clare, Ireland, according to news despatches from Ennis, capital of County Clare. The despatch adds that a brick fire was maintained upon the barracks for more than an hour with the police answering it.

ROUMANIAN ADVANCE TO CEASE.
PARIS, Aug. 3. The Supreme Inter-Allied Council sent to-day a message to the Roumanian army along the Theiss River to cease its advance on Budapest immediately.

MUTINY, NOT STRIKE.
LONDON, Aug. 5. (Reuter's)—Sir Edward Short, Home Secretary, stated in the House of Commons yesterday that the police situation was not materially altered, though the number of men who had refused duty was slightly increased. The figures were: Metropolitan area, 1,056 out of 19,000; City of London, 57 out of 1,170; Liverpool, 932 out of 2,100; Birmingham, 118 out of 1,256; Birkenhead, 106; Bootle, 63; Wallaseys, 1. No man of any other force had refused duty (cheers.) On the contrary, many of the forces had held meetings repudiating the strike. Sir Edward emphasized the strike was not an ordinary industrial dispute, but a mutiny. The Government could not entertain any question of compromise (cheers) or re-instatement of those dismissed.

BRITAIN'S LABOUR TROUBLES.
LONDON, Aug. 5. With the Yorkshire strike unsettled, the bakers' strike continuing, a number of minor sporadic strikes in other trades in sympathy with the smouldering discontent of the police at the failure of their strike to secure the withdrawal of the police bill, and the possibility of another big railway strike, the labour situation has again become so threatening that, it is stated, Arthur Henderson, the labour leader, who is attending the socialist conference at Lucerne, has been hurriedly summoned to London. Liverpool was quiet to-day, but it remains the centre of agitation, for a strike of the dockers is now being threatened in support of the striking policeman. The executive of the dockers' union met to-day and passed a resolution demanding reinstatement of the dismissed policeman, failing which they will give whole-hearted support to the police. Another meeting of organizations of all trades was convened at Liverpool to-night to consider the advisability of calling a general strike in support of the police union and object a strike committee. It was stated that Tom Mann, president of the workers' union, will go to Liverpool to take charge of the situation.

BELA KUN INTERNED.
COPENHAGEN, Aug. 3. Bela Kun, deposed Hungarian Soviet leader, has arrived in Vienna where he will be put in an internment camp, according to a despatch received from Vienna.

FIRE AT POUCH COVE.—The store and oil factory owned by Mr. Charles Pippy of Pouch Cove were totally destroyed by fire at 6.30 on Saturday morning. How the blaze originated is not known. RUTS OR SHORT CUTS.

Isn't it funny the way our minds get into ruts and automatically follow them, even when there is a much shorter way out to be had for the taking.

Here is an example of the sort of thing I mean. I have been short on bowls at my little summer cottage and last week the breaking of one made me still shorter. I wanted to scramble some eggs and couldn't find a bowl to beat them in.

With a lack of a bowl bumped me out. Now, though I have restocked on bowls, I do that all the time. Yet if I had never been bumped out of my rut by the lack of a bowl I never should have done it.

Here's another. We were measuring our heights on the wall the other day. We had been using the yardstick measuring a yard, keeping the place with a finger and then measuring the distance above the yard. Enter the crisp business woman. The first time she made a measurement who made a little mark at the height of the yard stick and conducted all future measurements from that.

Perhaps the queerest example of the way in which the mind gets into a certain channel and can't seem to break itself out without the aid of extraordinary circumstances or points of view, was this. We had a second-hand bathtub offered us for our summer cottage. We accepted it with delight, but when we tried to fit it into the room designed to be gradually finished as a bathroom, we found it would not fit in and allow the door to close—meaning three members of the household had tried over and over again to devise some way to place that tub and had just given it up when a neighbor dropped in and heard the sad tale. "What is the reason you can't have the door swing out instead of in?" he said. "No reason on earth," we said, and looked at each other sheepishly.

This sort of thing ought to give pause to the people who do not believe in the "efficiency movement."

It is natural that anyone who has been long at a job of any sort should feel that he ought to know all the short cuts and the best way to do things better than any outsider. And yet the very fact that he has been so long at it and has worn his ruts so deep, may be the reason he is missing short cuts.

The onlooker can sometimes see things about the game which the player would miss. And the wisest player is ready to listen to the onlooker's suggestions and get the help that his fresh point of view may provide.

We hadn't seen it was possible to measure a yard, keeping the place with a finger and then measuring the distance above the yard. Enter the crisp business woman. The first time she made a measurement who made a little mark at the height of the yard stick and conducted all future measurements from that.

Perhaps the queerest example of the way in which the mind gets into a certain channel and can't seem to break itself out without the aid of extraordinary circumstances or points of view, was this. We had a second-hand bathtub offered us for our summer cottage. We accepted it with delight, but when we tried to fit it into the room designed to be gradually finished as a bathroom, we found it would not fit in and allow the door to close—meaning three members of the household had tried over and over again to devise some way to place that tub and had just given it up when a neighbor dropped in and heard the sad tale. "What is the reason you can't have the door swing out instead of in?" he said. "No reason on earth," we said, and looked at each other sheepishly.

This sort of thing ought to give pause to the people who do not believe in the "efficiency movement."

THE LITTLE DEEDS.

I reckon when this life is done and all my deeds are counted o'er, The Lord will toss aside the fame and gold and praise I struggled for, He'll put away, with scarce a glance, the selfish triumphs I have won. And keep the little kindly deeds that now and then I may have done.

When I am called away from earth with all its pomp and wealth and sham And have to stand before the Judge of men exactly as I am, I fancy I shall see aright the things I often viewed with pride, And learn how trivial they are, as one by one they're cast aside.

Sometimes I think I see it now; when I'm alone sometimes I feel That I am lured by some mirage of splendor which I think is real, Yet when I've made the distance far and reached the goal I longed to own, I find the joy I thought was there to greater distances has flown.

And so, perhaps, when life is done and I have come to peace and rest, The deeds of which I thought the least may be the symbols of my best; The Lord may choose from out the mass of selfishness and pomp and pride A few forgotten, kindly deeds and toss the triumphs all aside.

AGED JOB HUNTER.

Without a Grouch against the world Henry Clinton Goodrich, 87, walked into the Federal Employment Agency, Chicago, and asked for a job. Twenty years ago Goodrich was a multimillionaire. Now he is "broke." But before he left the office he had a job at $4 a day. Goodrich is an inventor. His inventions centred around the sewing machine, and from several patents he made more than $2,000,000.

WALT MASON

The things I yearned for in my youth have come to me, they all are mine; more than I hoped I've won in truth, and still I languish and pine; I yearned for fame like other skates, and wide renown has come to me; my name is known in thirteen states—but I've rheumatics in my knee. My picture oftentimes appears in daily prints and magazines; but I look back, through mists of tears, to when I barely earned my beans; my laurel wreaths seem wreaths of crape, they do not soothe my faded soul; my teeth are in such beastly shape I have to bolt my victuals whole. I have a stately limousine, upholstered in green velvet-plush; therein I ride, with pompous mien, while tolling legions round me rush. No doubt they think my life's a snap, a stretch of roses and of wine; they look upon my kingly map, and wish they had such luck as mine. But I must eat the food of cows, the tasteless prune, the humble leek; if for an hour on pie I browse, I have dyspepsia for a week. The golden dreams I dreamed of old have been fulfilled in every way; but I don't value what I hold, for I am weary, fat and gray. I sit beneath the sunset tree, or slowly limp along the lawn; one thing alone looks good to me, and that is youth—and it is gone.

Where He Found Them

"And where have you been, my pet?" Thus said little Willie's mother to little Willie on his return home after an absence of several hours. "Playing postman," replied the family hope. "Playing postman?" repeated Willie's mother. "And how does one play postman, sweet?" "Why, I just left a letter at each house in the road," explained the prodigy, "real letters, too." "Real letters darling?" inquired mamma, smiling. "But where did you get the real letters from?" "Out of your wardrobe drawer," responded Willie. "Those old ones tied up with pink ribbon."—Pearson's Weekly.

The Peace Pageant.

St. John's has no occasion to feel ashamed of its peace pageant display of yesterday. The exhibition of varieties in the way of the numerous portrayals of allied costumes and characters could only have been brought to such a successful delineation after much care, time and practice, and the many ladies and gentlemen who were so true to the life in their make up, deserve all the encomiums bestowed upon them by the vast concourse which had assembled to witness and applaud their progress in the triumphal march which was staged and performed with a magnificence and a candour to detail, not heretofore seen in the streets of the capital in such diversity of profusion as characterised the most wonderful exhibition ever publicly staged in this dominion. Rich in conception, kaleidoscopic in ever changing chromatic hues, and with a living wealth of natural conception, which produced a most magnificent and perfectly harmonious blend, the variety of the scenes in the triumphal march of Newfoundland's living contribution to the events of the day, constituted a most worthy offering to the Pax Britannica. As float after float passed by, each one with its living pictures of the scenes represented in allied countries during the period of the war, the pulses of the spectators thrilled to the reality of it all, and had it not been for one discordant note, struck inadvertently, and without thought, perhaps, the pageant would have been pronounced perfect. But that one little inharmonious chord may yet swell into a crescendo of commendation which will possibly produce effects not thought of by the originators of, and participants in, the design. The undue exhibition of a local affair, which has caused, already, much heart burning and bitterness, should not have been exploited in an imperial parade. We attribute the incorporation of the late episode down north, into the features of yesterday's procession as a mistake of the heart rather than of the head, and though doubtless intended to be humorous only, the inclusion of it has left behind an opinion that it had been much better omitted. But notwithstanding this error of judgment, we believe that popular sentiment will ever acclaim yesterday's imperial march as the most imposing and spectacular that it has so far been our lot to have presented. Mere words are absolutely inadequate to convey to all those who went to so much trouble in preparing their character costumes, direct thanks, but their reward was fully and handsomely accorded in the plaudits of the thousands who had gathered to show their appreciation of Newfoundland's contribution to the greatest peace pageant of history.

Caskets Were Lost.

In the Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star of July 23rd, we notice the following item: "Caskets were lost containing the honors bestowed upon Lord Morris, ex-Prime Minister of Newfoundland, the vessel carrying them being torpedoed and sunk. The various corporations which made the presentation have decided to replace them and Lord Morris desires them preserved in the Government buildings at St. John's."

Committed Suicide.

Edward Dunn, 52, of Cupids, committed suicide by hanging on Monday. He was found in a back porch by a man named John Ford. Dunn, who was unmarried, was released from the Lunatic Asylum about two weeks ago. An investigation is being held.

Child Injured by Auto.

At 6.30 last evening the 9-year-old girl child of Mr. Kaleem Noah, was badly injured by a motor car. The little girl was getting off the street car at the bottom of Springdale St. when the auto, coming east, on the right-hand side of the road, struck and knocked her down. The driver stopped and came back, finding that the child was badly cut about the head. He drove her to a doctor's surgery, where five stitches were made in the wound. It is claimed that the car was going at the rate of about 12 miles an hour.

Dislocated Jaw.

On Sunday while beating into Placentia, one of the crew of Kemp's schooner was seriously injured, while the vessel was trying to avoid a collision with another craft also beating into port. The victim of the accident was thrown against the hatch combing splitting his chin and dislocating his jaw, the muscles of the latter having been torn and severed. A hurry trip was made by motor boat to Fullford's for Doctors Anderson and O'Reilly, who were there fishing, and the injured man was at once attended to, four stitches having to be put in the gaping wound beneath the chin, and the dislocated jaw put back into position, which was only accomplished after the most skilful treatment of the wretched muscles. The victim is doing well considering his injuries.

TURKS TERRORIZING GREEKS.

SALONIKI, Aug. 4. Bands of Turks, armed with rifles of the Turkish models, are terrorizing the Greek population along the south shore of the Black Sea, and pillaging their property, according to despatch reached here to-day by the Athens News Agency. A Greek attorney named Heremidis was reported to have been assassinated at Kerassando and a Greek woman was killed at Santa. At Trebizond a monk is said to have been forced to pay a heavy ransom for his release. As a result of the terrorizing Greek farmers have abandoned their fields.

English Biscuits on the Market Again.

The business visit which Mr. C. B. Hebb, Overseas Sales Manager of the famous Biscuit House, Huntley & Palmer's, Ltd., of Reading, England, has just paid St. John's is welcome evidence that, released at length from the restrictions imposed by the war, British manufacturing firms are again devoting attention to the export trade. While, at present, Messrs. Huntley & Palmer's, Ltd., are unable to offer the immense variety that characterized their pre-war Price Lists, they are making quite a comprehensive range of sweet, slightly sweet and plain Biscuits, all of the same exceptional quality that has always distinguished the products of the firm and added to their list. Asked about the firm's War Service, Mr. Hebb furnished us with some interesting particulars. Eighteen hundred and thirty-three Huntley & Palmer's men left their posts and went to the war, including three Directors, and one hundred and forty-five made the Supreme Sacrifice. During the war four-fifths of the total output of Huntley & Palmer's Factory was devoted to the production of Biscuits for troops in the field, which necessitated the reorganization of their civilian trade to a secondary place. While Huntley & Palmer's, Ltd., are Biscuit Manufacturers and have no pretensions to be engineers, yet in their repair shops (maintained to cope with the daily mechanical needs of their factory) they produced for the Allies sixty thousand Shell cases and also undertook the machining of parts for aeroplane engines and other war engineering tasks. Altogether, a record of which they may be proud. Messrs. Huntley & Palmer's, Ltd., are represented in Newfoundland by Mr. P. E. Outerbridge.

TO-NIGHT'S BIG GAME.

The Cubs and Red Lions go over the top at 6.30 to-night in what should furnish the classiest meet of the season, as the championship usually depends on the outcome. Hall and his crew are trained right to the finishing point and their team cannot be strengthened in any capacity. Their only weak point is that their hitting is not consistent, but tends rather more to occasional brilliant flashes. They do, however, take every advantage of their opponents' weaknesses and play a daring game of ball. Hiltz has recovered from his strain and will control the work of his team from backstop. During the past week they have been specialising in batting and hope to knock Claude's fast ones all over the lot. The game will be in charge of Mr. Chesman and Major Montgomerie, and with so much depending on the outcome, close decisions will not have the tendency to prolong the peace celebrations of the last two days.

PLAYERS.

Prospero Back.

The S. S. Prospero, Capt. A. Kean, arrived from northern ports at 10.30 yesterday morning, having made a very quick round trip. Every port of call to Quirpon was made going and returning. The captain reports plenty of fish at Quirpon and in the Straits of Belle Isle, but not much doing further south until King's Cove is reached, where trawlers and hook and liners are getting as much as they can handle. The ship brought the following passengers: Messrs. Spurrell, Bowring, S.A., Blackmore, Batstone, Norris, Strong, Metcalf, Morey, Watson, Roberts, Kelly, Osmond, White, Cloutier, Pomroy, Starke, Bowers, Green, S.A., James, French, Rideout, Shannon, Davis, Loveless, Whettin, Young, Harbin, Long, Wellman, Cartwright, Earle (2), Wall, Banks, Jones, Revs. Thibault, Hearn and Nolan; Mesdames Bowring, S.A., Norman, Ansty, LeGrow, Wilton, Elliott, Davis, Spurrell, House, Rendell, Field, Handcock, Brown, Bowers, Starks, Downey, Edgecombe; Misses Angel (2), Hunt, Sullivan, Flynn, Dormanay, Ryan, Martin (2), Murrell, Hicks, Andrews, Moores, Blandford, Edwards, Taylor, Layman, Burton, Banow, Collins, White, Gullage, Day, Edgecombe, Downey, Day, Batey and 30 in steerage.

Sagona's Report.

The SS. Sagona, Captain Parsons, arrived from Labrador last night. The steamer was unable to get beyond West Turnavick owing to a solid jam of ice which extends far north from there. The captain reports that the fishing so far is a blank. The following is the report from some of the ports which the Sagona called at on her way south: From Indian Hr. to West Turnavick there is a sign of cod but nothing had been done up to July 30th owing to the prevalence of ice. At Iron Bound Islands Hierlihy's trap took 100 quintals in two hauls between the ice and one other crew under similar conditions landed about the same. From Iron Bound Islands south to Indian Tickle nothing has been done. From Red Point to Sandy Islands crews are doing a little. At Batteau a couple of day's good fishing were had during the last week in July. From Seal Island south good salmon fishing is reported but cod is scarce. Captain Parsons is of the opinion that there is still for a hope for a fair voyage to the Northwest as though the weather and ice conditions have been worse than for many years, there is still time for the fish to come to shore.

HOW THEY STAND.

A TOAST TO THE LIONS.

Oh, drink a toast, ye fanatics host. To all the Red Lion players. In baseball's set they're one good bet For Hiltz's team are stayers. They've never won a pennant run But still, they give the wearies To hopeful souls who lose their rolls. By betting on a sportsman.

A TOAST TO THE CUBS.

All who are dubs will knock the Cubs And Josh, and kid, and roast 'em; But as for me I'd rather be An old Cub fan and toast 'em. They always stop up near the top, To give this town a thrill, And, hully gee, it looks to me As though they always will.

TO-MORROW NIGHT'S EXHIBITION.

Immediately after to-night's game, Manager Montgomerie with Umpire Chesman and the four Club managers will meet at Vice-President Hawvermale's office to select the city "A" and "B" teams. The lucky ones will be announced in to-morrow's papers, and on to-morrow evening at 6.30 at St. George's Field they will receive their tryout, and final selection. This promises to produce one of the best exhibitions ever seen here, and as the proceeds will be devoted to the necessary incidental expenses of defending the inter-town trophy, we feel sure the fans will not object to paying the usual admission fee. It is likely that Mr. Montgomerie will insist on a full nine innings' game so that every player will receive a thorough tryout.

REMINDERS OF THE PAST.

Two Spanish vessels are now on the way to St. John's, and another will leave Seville in a few days to load fish for the Spanish market. The names are the Terra Nova, Sevilla, and Andreas Roca. It reminds us of the "good old times" to see our great customers once more amongst us.

GIVEN WRONG TICKET.—A Russian who served with the Canadians, and who recently crossed to Quebec, was mistakenly given a ticket for here instead of St. John, N.B., and arrived by Sunday's express. He is unable to speak English, and is staying at the Seaman's Institute, pending enquiries.

GARDEN PARTY HELD.—The Garden Party held at Pouch Cove Monday, in aid of the New Church, was a splendid success. The fine weather and the splendid programme contributed to make the event memorable. The fête concluded with a dance in the parish hall, and thus ended the most successful outing ever held in Pouch Cove.

Yesterday's Peace Parade.

Biggest Demonstration Ever Seen in St. John's --- Magnificent Costumes and Gorgeous Display --- Peace Float Wins Prize.

Yesterday's Peace Parade was without doubt the biggest and most successful ever held in this country. The weather was ideal and from early in the morning the participants and interested ones prepared for the great pageant that was to celebrate the return of Peace to a war-torn world. The town presented a splendid sight with flags and bunting braving the breeze and this, blended with the noise of bands and trumpets and the cries of delighted spectators and the most impressive and never-to-be-forgotten day of the island's career. Lieut.-Col. W. F. Rendell, Chief Staff Officer, had everything ready by eleven o'clock when the procession started on its way from Cavendish Square, by the Old Railway Station. Passing up Military Road, across Rawlins' Cross and down Queen's Road and Theatre Hill, it proceeded along New Gower Street, down Job, onto Water St. Turning East, it continued down until Prescott Street was reached, through which the way was made to Duckworth Street, and so on down to the starting point. From the beginning to the end of the parade the route of march was lined with thousands of citizens, while many thousands from near-by outposts were also there to witness the sights. There was not much cheering, everybody being too impressed in the passing phases of the procession to remember to cheer. The giant procession was led by two mounted policemen. Sitting erectly in their splendid white horses, Head Constable Nosworthy and Sergeant Savage looked well. Immediately following them was the C.L.B. band, headed by drum major Willard, with the order of march as follows:

- Mounted Police.
- C.L.B. Band.
- Royal Naval Reserves.
- Great War Veterans on foot.
- Great War Veterans Mounted.
- Captured Artillery drawn on transports.
- Other war trophies drawn on transports.
- C.C.C. Band.
- C.C.C.
- Boy Scouts.
- Bell Island C.L.B. Band.
- Bell Island C.L.B.
- Invalids from Jensen's Camp in Motor Truck.
- Wounded Soldiers in gaily decorated motor cars.
- Red Cross Nurses on Float.
- T.A. Band.
- Peace Tableau, drawn by four grey horses.
- Decorated motor cars.
- Britain and her Dominions, Tableau.
- Decorated motor cars.
- S.A. Band.
- Belgium 1914-1918, Tableau.
- Decorated motor cars.
- Italy, Tableau.
- Decorated motor cars.
- France, Tableau.
- Decorated motor cars.
- Japan, Tableau.
- Decorated motor cars.
- Balkan States, Tableau.
- Decorated motor cars.
- United States of America, Tableau.
- Decorated motor cars.
- "Moonshine."
- Clowns, Minstrels, Ole Bill, Donkey, etc.
- "The Kaiser."

The importance of the event was well known that the greatest of all comedians, Charlie Chaplin, came down from America and kept the crowds in roars of laughter by his antics. The Kaiser, ably impersonated by a pig, was also present, while everyone was given free and detailed instructions in the manufacture of moonshine. In fact the features were so many and so varied that one had forgotten the first by the time the last had passed. It took the column, twenty-eight minutes, 40 seconds to pass a given point, and to give an idea of the length, it might be stated that the Telegram reporter, on horse back, left Cavendish Square just as the march began, and, taking short cuts, only caught up to the head of the column at Waldegrave Street. The last of it had not by then left the Square. In fact, the parade was passing down Water Street, while the middle was passing along New Gower St., at the foot of Waldegrave and, extended some time, from Springdale St. on Water Street, down to the Square, and as it was passing the "Rule Britannia," Star Spangled Banner, "Marseillaise" and others, kept passing lively from beginning to end, bands playing in turns and to the accompaniment of the Premier's Executive Council, Mayor and Council, and Judges reviewed the parade from the Military Road, and Government House. Return to Cavendish Square was made by 12.45.

BOY SCOUTS AND TOURNAMENT.

The united scout sports and tournament on St. George's Field yesterday afternoon was attended by a great crowd of spectators and were well contested and most interesting throughout. The Troops taking part were Gower St., St. Bon's and Wesley. The programme began with a march past conducted by Mr. Robert Francis, Assistant Scoutmaster, Gower Street Troop. His Excellency Governor Harris, was present, and with the Inspecting Officer, Col. Oxley, of Halifax, Scout Commissioner for Nova Scotia, took the salute. The events were then run off as follows, under the direction of a committee of gentlemen:

THE GOVERNOR'S APPRECIATION.

Government House, 5th Aug, 1919, 6 p.m.

Dear Sir,— Will you allow me to adopt the medium of the "Evening Telegram" to congratulate the city of St. John's on their very fine and successful celebration of the Peace. It was a great deal more than kind; but on the other hand fortune favors the brave! To the Municipal Council as well as to the Executive Council congratulations are due; but the warm thanks of the whole community will go out to the General Committee which threw themselves so heartily into the work of organization. To Mr. Collishaw and his associates on the really very fine pageant of the morning; to Rev. Mr. Forbes and the Boy Scouts who amused the children in the afternoon; and last, but not least, to the devoted ladies of the Women's Patriotic Association, who crowned the labors of the war with the unstinting self-sacrifice of a service for the children on the Day of Peace—aided, I believe, by Mr. Peters and Mr. Hudson to an extent that it is only necessary to suggest in order to elicit rounds of acclamation. Yours faithfully, C. ALEXANDER HARRIS, Governor.

THE CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL.

In the afternoon the children enjoyed themselves at St. George's Field, when some 5,000 of them gathered to see the sports and eat the viands. Shortly after four tea was served in "Shamrock" field, across the road. The field was visited by the Governor and lady Harris, accompanied by Miss Harris, Mr. Noel Harris, Sir M. P. Cashin and members of the Executive Council, being met at the gate, by Lady Cashin, who represented the Ladies' Committee. Before leaving, the Governor delivered, from various vantage points, the following address from Lady Harris:

LADY HARRIS'S MESSAGE TO THE CHILDREN.

Children,— My wife would like to have made this little speech to you herself but as my voice is much stronger than hers, she has begged me to say it for her. You all know why we are happy and thankful to-day: it is because Peace has come to the land after years of bloodshed and suffering, and we want to show our gratitude by making others happy. But there is one thing, children, that she asks each one of you to do, and by doing it you will each be playing your part in this great Peace Day. It is, that before going to sleep to-night, you thank God for Peace, and secondly, that you ask Him that Peace may be restored to Russia, for Russia, you know, was our Ally and fought with us in the early part of the war; she is now suffering great wrongs and misery. There is a great English poet who tells us, "All things are wrought by prayer; than this world dreams of"; and think what happiness it would be if the prayers of 5,000 children offered up this Peace Night, in the town of St. John's and its districts, helped to bring Peace to Russia!

PEACE DANCE AT GOVT. HOUSE.

As a close of the successful Peace celebrations of the last two days, a small "Peace Dance" was given at Government House last night, about 100 invitations being given. After the collation, supper was served and afterwards dancing was resumed until 1.30 a.m.

STREET AND HARBOR DECORATIONS.

The decorations about town and along the waterfront and in the harbor were being fixed to the occasion. All the public buildings were decorated, the different halls and the R. C. Cathedral. Along the waterfront the shipping were "dressed" from deck to truck including several American and vessels of other nations.

PYROTECHNIC DISPLAY.

On Monday night and last night fireworks were set off from various parts of the city, and also from several of the ships in port. A number of brilliant bonfires also lighted up the Southside.

AT THE BANQUET.

In Banerman and Victoria Parks from 8 to 11 o'clock Monday and last night concerts were given by the city bands and Bell Island band. Dancing platforms had been erected and on these large numbers enjoyed themselves, the music by the bands being supplemented by accordions. Many danced on the green to the great enjoyment of all.

THANKS.

The Parade Committee wish to thank the different parties who worked so skillfully and energetically to make the parade a success in the short time at their disposal. They wish particularly to mention the Misses Orr, who deserve special praise for collecting the help of so many willing and capable assistants. Mrs. John Browning's help was most valuable in arranging the tableau "Peace" and thanks are also due Mrs. Colville for the tableau "British Empire"; Miss Dorothy Johnson for her representation of "Joan of Arc"; Madame Suzor and Miss Biddell, for the car representing "France"; the Misses Emerson for the tableau illustrative of "Belgium, 1914-1919"; Mrs. M. J. Murphy and Mrs. McLeod for the Belgian Car; the Misses Delgado for the Italian Car; Miss Marjorie Barr for the Japanese Car; Mrs. J. W. Morris, for the Balkan States Tableau; Mrs. Havermale for the float representative of the United States of America; Miss Elsie Herder for the Clown's Car; Misses Spry and Carter, for the V.A.D.'s Car; Capt. Penn and men of H.M.S. Briton for the Britannia float; Mr. Ralph Herder, for "Ole Bill"; Mr. Peter H. Cowan for his car of fun-makers; Mr. G. M. Barr for "Moonshine"; also all assistants who took part in the decoration of cars, clowns, and funmakers on foot. Last and not least, Mr. Chas. F. Lester for the "Kaiser." The Committee also feel greatly indebted to Col. W. F. Rendell for the able manner in which he organized the military section and marshalled the whole parade. The Committee wish to record their appreciation of the assistance rendered by Mr. H. R. Brookes who was always on hand in any capacity wanted whenever required; and Mr. J. B. Urehart, who arranged for the assembling of all motor trucks at the Rink and who made an excellent purchasing agent. E. COLLISHAW, Chairman of Parade Committee.

Out of Town Events.

PEACE CELEBRATIONS IN THE BAY.

Many people took advantage of so many holidays to make a pilgrimage to the many Conception Bay resorts, which hold out numerous attractions for city visitors. At Topsail the C. L. B. Camp was the centre of interest, hundreds of the ladies' friends paying them a friendly visit and taking a keen concern in the various sports. The beautifully fine weather was enjoyed by all and helped to make the days ideal.

At Manuels many excursionists and picnickers detained and spent a most enjoyable and enthusiastic holiday. Kelligrews, the Brighton of Newfoundland, was in gala attire in honor of the Peace Celebrations and bunting flew profusely from the residences of the regular citizens as well as from those of the suburbanites. The visitors were entertained by the summer dwellers in this picturesque settlement and both Peace days were marked by the variety and novelty of the most interesting being that of Ladies vs. Gentlemen, in which the latter were unaccountably enough to win by three runs, notwithstanding that Mrs. King, the Captain of the Ladies, contributed 19 runs from her own bat and took three of the males' wickets in succession. Yesterday a return match was played, but as your correspondent had to leave before it was concluded he has no knowledge of how the game went, but he earnestly hopes that the ladies more than evened their defeat of Monday.

Bonfires blazed on the beach on Monday night and lit up the blue waters of the Bay for miles around. A Garden Party at Upper Gillies was another centre of attraction on Monday, and to judge by the number of people who attended that function it must have been highly successful and brought much pleasure to the good clergyman and his able aids who so profitably catered to the needs of the patrons.

At the Bay Metropolis, Mr. Grace on Monday night, a general parade of War Veterans and citizens headed by the C.B.E.S. Band and the Highlanders (in camp at Court House Grounds) formed up at the Town Hall and proceeded down Water Street, returning to the point of march via Cathedral and Harvey Streets. At the conclusion of the festivities speeches were made by Judge Oke and others, all appropriate to the occasion. Later a peace dance was held in the Masonic Hall, which was well attended and enjoyed by all. Yesterday the Rogatta was held at Lady Lake, in which many crews participated, the local Brigades defeating the Highlanders crews. Other events were also pulled off, including football also came out ahead.

Admiral Writes Reporter.

Mr. J. R. Smallwood, of the Telegram reportorial staff, received a letter from Admiral Mark E. F. Kerr, R.N., by the last mail from Canada. Admiral Kerr, everyone will remember, was the commanding officer of the Handley-Page aeroplane "Atlantic," which had such bad luck while flying to New York. Admiral Kerr says, referring to that: "It was a blow, certainly, when our oil pipe broke, but the Rolls engines surpassed themselves and one ran for at least 2 1/2 hours without oil and then the other three kept the 13 tons in the air for as long as we wished—which happened to be about 3 1/2 hours. I often think of the time in Newfoundland and how kind everyone was to us. Luck was up against us in the trans-Atlantic flight—but one must take those reverses calmly, in aviation. Again I thank you. "MARK KERR." Morrisburg, Ont., Can.

The Majestic.

The Majestic presents a strong bill to-night, when Constance Talmadge—pretty Constance—will star in the Selznick production, "The Shuttle." This is a fascinating international romance of which a quarter of a million have been sold. Bettina visits her sister, who has married an English nobleman, and finds her broken in health and purse. Bettina briskly sets her sister upon her feet again, physically and mentally, and in between finds time to win the love of a nobleman of a finer type. Little Miss Talmadge is quite as charming as ever, and plays the part of Bettina with the same delicate but careful art that distinguishes all her screen impersonations. The second feature is an Alice Howell comedy. Alice is known as the female Charlie Chaplin, and she surely knows how to make you laugh. A violin solo by Mr. David Swedlin constitutes the third item, and altogether the show is a splendid one. The Majestic has set a standard for local moving picture houses and that standard will be maintained. WEATHER ACROSS COUNTRY. — Calm and dull; temperature 56 to 60 above.

Elements Come From Remote Parts of Globe.

Famous Tanlac Draws Medicinal Ingredients from Many Far-away Points.

The ingredients of medicinal elements which make Tanlac come from many remote sections of the earth—West Indies, Mexico, Peru, Central America, the Alps, the Pyrenees, Africa, Russia, Asia, Arabia, Persia, and our own Rocky Mountain sections, are among the points from which the principal parts of the preparation are obtained.

In the laboratory of the Tanlac Company, in Dayton, O., and Walkerville, Ont., under the efficient direction of a celebrated chemist, these medicinal roots, herbs and barks are assembled in the rough and painstakingly developed so as to obtain that high standard of efficiency shown by the uniform preparation, Tanlac. In sterilized bottles, made expressly for the purpose, Tanlac is placed, labelled and cartoned; the preparation is inspected again and then crated, ready for shipment to points over the world where the demand is so great. Throughout the country it is found that the famous medicine Tanlac was sold, how it was prepared, and the preparation actually looked like.

In commenting upon the wonderful amount of interest shown, the Tanlac representative said: "I am convinced that the success of the opening day of the introductory sale of Tanlac has far exceeded my expectations. I have been greatly surprised by the knowledge the public seems to have of the preparation. While many came merely to see what the medicine actually looked like, equally as many came prepared to obtain the preparation. These people simply asked for Tanlac, and the facility with which the medicine was distributed throughout the day proved somewhat of a revelation to the management of our local agency.

"I am, indeed, gratified," he continued, "to see such marked enthusiasm and I now feel justified in predicting that Tanlac will prove just as successful in St. John's as it has in the larger cities of the East, South, Middle West and Pacific Coast. I do not believe that I am over-estimating the success of the medicine when I state that I am convinced that from five hundred to a thousand people will call and obtain Tanlac during the next ten days."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by Mr. Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative. —adv.

Once a Peer Always a Peer.

But Some Titles Can be Taken Away.

In these days the Sovereign cannot make one of his subjects a Peer of the Realm without the consent of the Prime Minister. Once, however, a subject has been made a peer, neither the King nor the Prime Minister can degrade him. The only crime for which he can lose his title is high treason, and in such case he must be tried by his peers.

and a very dearly prized one—which it is entirely within the King's power to take away.

It is that of Privy Councillor. Without consulting anyone, the Sovereign may erase the name of any Councillor from the Council Book.

The last occasion upon which a Councillor suffered in this fashion was in 1798.

A dinner was given at the Crown and Anchor Tavern on the occasion of the birthday of the great minister Fox, and the Duke of Norfolk, rising, proposed the toast, "The Sovereignty of the People."

This toast gave the bitterest offence to the King, and the Duke, as a punishment, was removed from the Lieutenancy of the West Riding of Yorkshire.

Shortly afterwards Fox himself, not at all discouraged by the fate of his friend, proposed the same toast at a dinner of the Whig Club. As soon as he heard of it the King sent for the book of the Privy Council, and with his own hand erased Mr. Fox's name.

PELLEY-TIPPLE.

Hants Harbor was the scene of a pretty wedding solemnized by the Rev. E. Broughton, at the Methodist church on the 30th July. The marriage of Miss Myra Pelley, youngest daughter of Mrs. S. Pelley of Hants Harbor, to Mr. Frederick Tipple of Burin. The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of Mr. Targett, M. H. A., while the sweet strains of the wedding march were rendered by Mrs. M. Pelley. The bridesmaid was Mrs. E. Pelley, the little flower girl Charlotte Short, and Mr. Ellis Pelley was best man. The bride looked charming in a dress of white silk and georgette crepe, bridal veil and orange blossoms, with a bouquet of carnations, sweet peas and maiden hair ferns. The gift of a diamond pendant was presented to the bride by the bridegroom, also a cameo brooch to the bridesmaid, and a tie pin to the best man. Many and varied were the presents and telegrams, showered upon the bridal pair, and not least among the presents was the silver preserve jar given by the members of the Mission Circle, who also decorated the church for the occasion, and were present at the banquet held at the home of the bride where the many friends and relatives spent a happy evening. Mrs. Tipple has been an active worker, as church organist, and president of the Mission Circle, and the hearty goodwill shown to everyone has won for her the best wishes of her friends as she takes up her abode at Burin.—Com.

Drowning Accident.

A man named Harvey, of Freshwater, Day de Verde, District, was drowned at Patridge Harbor, Labrador, on the 27th of July. He was one of a crew of a schooner anchored in the harbor which had a number of passengers on board. A gale of wind sprung up and the schooner was in imminent danger of going ashore, so it was thought advisable to remove the passengers to the land, and Harvey with others was engaged rowing them ashore. The boat with a number of people on board was struck by a sea, when but a short distance from the landing and was capsized, the occupants being thrown into the water. Other boats were quickly on the scene and all were rescued except Harvey, who was heavily clad and who sank within a few minutes. The body was recovered. Deceased leaves a widow and four children to all of whom every sympathy is extended.

Congratulates

Hon. W. B. Grieve and W. S. Monroe.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The principal topic of discussion the past couple of months in this city, has been education; denominational, undenominational, inter-denominational, free and compulsory, in fact, education in all its phases is being openly and freely discussed, and apparently, so far as can be judged from reports in the press, and from the resolutions passed at the final banquets of the Methodist and Church of England campaigns, the trend of sentiment seems to be toward Educational Amalgamation of these two religious bodies. Of course it is understood that the Diocesan Synod only, so far as the Church of England is concerned, has the power to adopt or reject the inter-denominational or amalgamated educational proposal, and there is no doubt but that body at its next session will give the question its greatest consideration. This vital question has many aspects, and no doubt a full and complete discussion will be availed of before the Synod makes its final decision in the matter.

The reading in your issue of Saturday last, "Some Notable Opinions on Inter-Denominational Education," has prompted me to write this note. I was greatly interested in the opinions therein expressed. All are good so far as they go. But in my opinion the two last, given by Hon. W. B. Grieve and Mr. W. S. Monroe, respectively, are excellent. These two gentlemen, to my mind, have the right grasp of what religion and education ought to be, and I hasten to congratulate them on their noble expressions on this great and vital question. While the Church of England in this country can avail herself of laymen who hold such views on religion and education as these gentlemen, the destiny of her educational system is safe. I believe the majority of churchmen in this country are with these gentlemen when they say "Christianity and Education must go hand in hand." Thanking you for space, I remain, Yours truly, CHURCHMAN.

FOR THE HOT DAYS: ROSS'S PALE DRY GINGER ALE

We have in stock some cases of Ross's Pale Dry Ginger Ale. Made in Belfast, Ireland, from the finest ingredients, Ross's Pale Dry Ginger Ale is, without exception, the best of the imported Ginger Ales.

Ross's Pale Dry Ginger Ale has all the sparkling brilliancy of Champagne and, in fact, in countries that have "gone dry" is used at dinners, receptions, dances, etc., in place of champagne. Thousands of cases have been sold in the United States since the "dry" legislation loomed in view.

True, Ross's Pale Dry Ginger Ale, costs more than the local article, but it is not intended to compete with local Ginger Ale (there being plenty of room for both). Ross's Pale Dry Ginger Ale is supplied exclusively for people who demand an imported Ginger Ale and who are willing to pay the price for the best in imported Ginger Ale.

We sell Ross's Pale Dry Ginger Ale to the trade in cases of 50 pints. It retails for 25c. per bottle.

A 1,000 Pound Cricket Match.

When English Schoolboys Were Not Afraid to "Put the Money Down."

If the question were asked, "Where was school cricket first played in England?" probably nine men out of ten would answer with confidence: "At Eton, Westminster, or Harrow." Their speculation would probably be wrong, however, for the earliest record of schoolboy cricket tells us that the game was being enthusiastically played by the scholars of the Free School, near Guildford, in Surrey, as far back as the reign of Queen Bess, considerably more than a century before we read of cricket at Eton.

Horace Walpole, who was sent to the great school on the Thames in 1726, records that "playing at cricket was common at that time." He himself, however, seems to have found little attraction in the game, for he confesses: "I never was quite a schoolboy. A match at cricket may be a pretty thing to recollect, but I remember things that are very near as pretty."

In the 18th Century.

Westminster School was also one of the early nurseries of cricket, and many an exciting game the boys had in the eighteenth century. On July 28th, 1789, the "Morning Herald" informs us, "An excellent game of cricket was played in Tot Hill Fields on Tuesday between the King's scholars and the Town boys of Westminster School, which ended in favour of the King's Scholars, who had three wickets to go down." About the same time we read of the Harrow schoolboys wielding the bat on the bowling-green.

Before the century closed the era of schoolboy matches had begun. On July 22nd, 1791, "a grand match at cricket was played at Eton between the young gentlemen of that school and the Maidenhead Club, which was won by the former by four wickets," so says the "Daily Chronicle" of the time. The two principal scores, it is interesting to note, were Finch's 56 for Maidenhead, and Lloyd's 35 for the school. "Way," we are told, "in the quaint phraseology of the time, 'kipped himself out' or, in the language of to-day, 'hit wicket.'"

Was Byron a Bowler?

In the following year—1792—we find the Eton boys flying at higher game, with substantial stakes depending on their prowess with bat and ball, for on April 30th, "seven gentlemen of Eton played against four men to field on each side, at Lord's, for 500 guineas. M.C.C. won." A little later the Eton boys pitted themselves against the Old Field Club, and won by the margin of 24 runs.

In 1793 there is a record of a purely inter-school match for money; for, according to the "St. James' Chronicle" for July 26th, "Yesterday a cricket match was played on Houslow Heath between the Westminster Scholars and those of Eton for 100 guineas a side, which was won by the Westminster Scholars."

A match between Eton and Harrow in the year of Trafalgar is of special interest, for among the players was Lord Byron, then a youth of seventeen, and a keen cricketer in spite of his lameness. Eton won the match by an innings and two runs; and the young poet's record ran thus: First innings, caught Barrard, 7 runs; second innings, b. Carter, 2 runs.

By a curious coincidence, the Harrow eleven included A. Shakespeare as well as Byron. In this year—1805—Eton and Winchester met for the first time on the "tented field." Eton to the Fore.

A few years later we find the Etonians playing against an All-England team for heavy stakes. "A grand match," says the "Morning Herald" for August 2nd, 1814, "will be played at Lord's new ground, St. John's Wood, Marylebone, on Thursday, August 3rd, and the following day, between eight Etonians, with Lord F. Beauclerk and E. H. Budd, Esq., and ten gentlemen of All-England, with Howard, for 1,000 guineas a side. Wickets to be pitched at eleven o'clock. Admission 6d. Good stabling on the ground."

The public schoolboy was never reluctant to cross bats with strong teams, and in the old days fought many a game battle with the M.C.C. Thus we read in the records of 1845, "Friday, June 6th, at Eton: The M.C.C. against the Present Etonians"; and "Thursday, June 28th, at Lord's: The M.C.C. against the Gentlemen of Rugby School."

That a schoolboy need not fear rivalry with the best of adult cricketers was proved, as on other occasions, in 1849, when we are told "Mr. Vernon was the captain of the Harrow School eleven this season, and is a most excellent batsman; his average beats everyone during the year."—Answers.

A Trade That's Very Busy Just Now.
Dozens of large statues are going to be made as War Memorials in various big towns in England, as well as the Continent. These statues are by no means so easy to make as most people imagine.

First of all a plaster model has to be made of the actual statue, and this model is completely covered with small blocks of a special kind of sand, sometimes as many as two thousand pieces being required.

This special sand is put on in a wet state and, after the blocks are dry, they are taken off one at a time and carefully put together in the form of a mould.

The latter is then filled with clay, so that a facsimile is obtained of the plaster model. This clay model—of course, as it is called—then has a quarter of an inch taken off its entire surface, which is, needless to say, a very difficult and tricky job.

The clay core is then put into the mould of sand blocks and kept in a central position by means of iron rods, so that there is left a quarter of an inch space between the core and the mould. The moisten brozen is then poured in from the top until it completely fills the space between the core and the mould.

The Great Guns of England.

The great guns of England, they listen miles on mile
To the boasts of a broken War-Lord;
They lift their throats and smile;
But the old woods are fallen
For a while.

The old woods are fallen; yet will they come again,
They will come back some spring-time
With the warm winds and the rain,
For Nature guardeth her children
Never in vain.

They will come back some season;
It may be a hundred years;
It is all one to Nature with the centuries
That are here;
She shall bring back her children
And dry all their tears.

But the tears of a would-be War-Lord shall never cease to flow,
He shall weep for the poisoned armies whenever the gas-winds blow,
He shall always weep for his widows,
And all Hell shall know.

The tears of a pitiless Kaiser, shall low they'll flow and wide,
Wide as the desolation made by his silly pride
When he slaughtered a little people
To stab France in her side.

Over the ragged clinders they shall flow on and on
With the listless falling of streams
that find not Oblivion,
For ages and ages of years
Till the last star is gone.
—Lord Dunsany in the Saturday Review.

England Secures Gibraltar.

One of the most valuable fruits of the war of the Spanish Succession was the fortress of Gibraltar, which passed into England's keeping as the result of a surprise attack by Sir George Rooke, the Admiral in command on an expedition sent against Barcelona. The design miscarried, and Rooke, suddenly altering his objective, attacked the Rock. It was St. John's Day, August 3, 1704, when Rooke landed some of his troops on the neck of land connecting Gibraltar with the inhabited shore, and many of the defenders had gone to attend religious services some way off. A body of English sailors accomplished the feat of clambering by a path, which to distant observers might have seemed impossible even for a goat's agility, to the summit of the Rock, and there they hoisted the English flag. The scanty garrison left to look after its safety had no course but capitulation, and the fortress thus unexpectedly became English. Yet the value of the acquisition was not recognised in some quarters. Bishop Burnet, for example, wrote

COLGATE'S Does ALL a safe Dentifrice Should Do—it cleans the teeth.
No dentifrice can take the place of the dentist. Any preparation that seeks to do the dentists' work usually contains strong drugs or harsh grit—harmful to the enamel of the teeth. And think of the effect of such risky chemicals on the tender membranes of your mouth!

Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream cleans thoroughly, safely, washing the teeth without harmful grit, or the use of strong drugs.

You, too, should use COLGATE'S—it's safe.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The C. of E. Garden Party on Wednesday last was a grand success financially and otherwise. The day was an ideal one and everybody thoroughly enjoyed the event.

Codfish is still exceedingly scarce and fishermen are beginning to fear that the voyage in this neighborhood will be small.

Arrangements have been made with the Railway Co. for the C. B. E. Society excursion to St. John's on Aug. 20th. Say reader! that friend of yours in Harbor Grace would be sure to take in the excursion if you sent an invitation. Do so now.

The Nfld. Highlanders are supposed to arrive in town by to-day's train. The few days spent here will no doubt be very enjoyable.

The Patriotic Committee are arranging the Peace Celebration programme for next week. On Monday citizens are expected to put up all the flags available, and sports will be held in Shannon Park in the afternoon. All the houses will be illuminated on Monday night. Tuesday, the flags will remain up. The races will take place on Lady Pond, and the houses will be illuminated again at night. But I forgot a main feature. On Monday night a very large bonfire will burn on Peak of the Reef, at the rear of the town, and citizens are asked to contribute. The church bells are to be rung for 15 minutes beginning at 12 (noon) Monday. To our mind a church service should have been devoted in somewhere. We had intercession services and thanksgiving services during the war, but now we seem to forget the guiding hand that led us through the terrible time, and now that it is over we seem to holler like the little boy in the day time, who was afraid in the night. Let us all take that 15 minutes while the church bells are ringing to thank Almighty God for bringing us victoriously through the horrid war.

Typists in Japan.

To master our typewriting machine is comparatively easy; but in Japan the operator has to use a machine with 3,000 characters. The invention is that of a Japanese engineer who studied for several years in U. S. universities. The type slugs rest in a gridlike frame, over which the printing handle and the type-selecting and grip-bar move freely in every direction.

Commercial schools were established last year in Japanese cities for the purpose of teaching how to operate the typewriters. Women are expected to follow the profession, much the same as in this country.

Driving a Buick is the modern equivalent of riding behind a team of beautiful thoroughbred horses in an equally splendid carriage.

To be drawn by horses chosen for their quality in a carriage handsomely hand-painted and finished was to travel in the best of fashion and in the height of luxury.

To-day, the slow, uncertain horse has been replaced by the never-tiring, speedy motor car. But the thoroughbred qualities are to be found only by careful selection—selection of the kind which chooses the Buick.

Cows in the better dairying sections supply us with fresh, clean, sweet, pure milk. This milk is evaporated to the consistency of cream. Only water is taken away. Nothing whatever is added; no artificial sweetening, no preservatives. After evaporating, we seal it while fresh and sterilize it for safety.

Use Carnation Milk in your home. Always have three or four cans handy—Carnation will keep for months. And it will serve you in every way you now use ordinary milk and cream—it is the only milk supply your home needs.

F. SMALLWOOD,

THE HOLIE OF GOOD SHOES.

In the Dog Days.

The townsman, country-bred, kicks himself in 80 and 90 weather, and wishes he was back on the farm. The clothes insisted on by town fashions make life a burden. The white collar is worst of all; the cause of more discomfort than all the rest of the clothes put together.

Out on the farm, it matters little what you wear, so long as your overalls hold together. You can work as hard and sweat as healthily as you like, and be happy. In town, when you perspire (being too genteel and elegant to "sweat" in plain Bible English) you are all the time miserable for fear of the consequences to your linen.

Why the hot spell of July should be called the dog days,—well, I was taught to believe it was because the heat sent dogs mad. That notion appeals to me (knowing nothing about it) more than the ancient superstition that Sirius the Dog Star mysteriously warms up the weather for this poor little earth which no Sirian could see with the strongest telescope.

If your birthday comes in the Dog Days, perhaps you would like me to play fortune-teller and spin out for you a screed. Like any other fortune-teller, I could deduce the most contradictory conclusions from one and the same fact. "Born in the Dog Days, you are hot-blooded, warm-hearted, generous, impulsive, capable of getting up much steam, and sure to go far."—or, "Born in the Dog Days, and suffering from their depressing heat, you are inclined to be indolent and lethargic, and will not go far without a great effort."—Montreal Weekly Star.

Up to Date Slang.

During the last four years we, in England, have been gradually acquiring a new but I hope, not a universal language, the language of "slang" (writes Rasalle Neish in the Evening Standard). Where has it come from? Some expressions, of course, we can easily trace, such as "bully for you," "sad rags," "glad rags," "humming the wedding glide," "beat the band," and "giving him the icy mitt." Others are not easily traced. Who invented such hideous endearments as "Old Top," "Old bean," "Old thing," I wonder? The expressions, "A priceless washout," "She blew in," "They wrangled it," "In the pink," "I'm O.K." and "I don't think," are some of them strictly beautiful. It would be interesting to know not only who invented these ugly phrases, but how he or she managed to make them popular. It's not so easy as it seems. Try it! Invent a silly slang expression, and essay it to one of your fapper friends. She will stare at you with that sort of a stare that makes you feel you are a failure; in other words, she will "Offer you the frozen mitt" or she will probably say "Hullo old bean, what's the stunt? Are you off it? Up the pole?" Perhaps the new language is only the outcome of the war, and we shall revert to pure English again now, and use our own lovely and tender endearments instead of the "cheerio" and "go h'on" phrases. We have already gone one step on the way. "Camouflage" is dead. It is out of date as that one-time expression "taking the bun" for which we have substituted "the united limit."

How Graham Bell Keeps Cool.

"You heat your house in winter, why not cool it in summer?" asks Dr. Graham Bell, the Canadian inventor of telephone fame, who is devoting his energies to keeping Washington cool. He says:—

"We get up to the Arctic regions and heat our houses, and live. We go down to the tropics and die.

"I have found one radical defect in the construction of our houses that absolutely precludes the possibility of cooling them to any great degree.

"You will readily understand the difficulty when you remember that cold air is heavier than warm air. You can take a bucket of cold air, for example, and carry it about in the summertime and not spill a drop, but if you make a hole in the bottom of the bucket, of course the cold air will run out.

His Tank Room Felt Cool.

"I began to think that it might be possible to apply the bucket principle at least to one room in my Washington home and thus get a place of retreat in the summertime. It seemed to be advisable to close up all openings near the bottom of the room to prevent the escape of cold air, and open the windows at the top to let out the heated air of the room.

"Now it so happens that I have in the basement of my house a swimming tank and it occurred to me that since this tank holds water it should certainly hold cold air. So I turned the water out and made a room of it. The tank seemed to be damp and the sides felt slippery.

"I reflected, however, that the condensation of moisture resulted from the fact that the sides of the tank were cooler than the air admitted. Water vapor will not condense on anything that is warmer than itself, and it occurred to me that if I introduced air that was much cooler than I wanted to use, than it would be warming up in the tank and becoming dryer all the time. It would not deposit moisture on the sides and would actually absorb the moisture there.

"I therefore provided a refrigerator in which were placed large blocks of ice covered with salt. This was placed in another room at a higher elevation than the tank, and a pipe covered with asbestos was employed to lead the cold air into the tank.

"The first effort was the drying of the walls. Then I felt the level of the cold air gradually rising. At last it came over my head. The tank was full and I found myself immersed in cool air. I felt so cool and comfortable that it seemed difficult to believe that Washington stood sizzling outside. I climbed up the ladder in the tank until my head was above the surface, and then found myself breathing a hot, damp, muggy atmosphere. I therefore speedily retreated into the tank, where I was perfectly cool and comfortable.

Cold Air Pipes.

"Guided by this experience, I tried another experiment in my house. I put the refrigerator in the attic and led the cold air downward through a pipe covered with asbestos into one of the rooms of the house. The doors were kept shut and the windows were opened at the top. The temperature in that room was perfectly comfortable, about 65 degrees.

"Some time ago, the newspapers were speaking of an ice plant that had been installed in the White House, and congratulated the President, then Mr. Taft, upon a temperature of only 80 degrees outside. Under similar conditions I enjoyed in my house a temperature of 65 degrees (the ideal temperature), with a delicious feeling of freshness in the air."—Montreal Weekly Star.

Movies in India.

"The white woman in India realises that she is receiving less respect from the natives than before, and a great deal of this is due to the indiscriminate showing of films on social and marriage problems," said Miss Constance Bromley, recently, who has just returned to England after four years in India, and who was for some time manager of a large picture theatre in Calcutta, mainly frequented by Europeans.

"The natives are great film enthusiasts, and there are 14 picture houses in Bombay alone. They will sit right through all the parts of a long serial film, most of the audience are illiterate. The wording of the film is occasionally translated, but even then it is not understood. They, therefore, put any construction they like on the plots of stories and get their ideas of European women inextricably mixed.

"They think of their own treatment of women and the rigid laws of custom they have to obey. If the women go to the picture theatre, they have to sit apart in a well-curtained box. "And then comes the great conflict their conduct, and are not seen in evening dress in public.

"And then comes the great contrast of the film, where the natives see white women in all sorts of garbs; on one occasion they saw the heroine of a long film, mainly garbed in a bathing costume. They see white wives on the screen in compromising situations, and the result is that they get a low opinion of European morals."—Daily Mail.

When Will the World End?

Forecasts That Haven't Come True.
Religious fanatics are again busy prophesying the end of the world, arguing that the four years of war-horror is but a prelude to oblivion for everyone.
Meanwhile, however, the man in the street is not worrying. Perhaps he remembers the many occasions when the prophets have tried to make his flesh creep with similar bogies.
Now and again, however, people have taken them seriously. The appearance of comets has often been thought to foretell the speedy dissolution of this world. If the tail of a comet touched the earth we should all go up in smoke is the fantastic rumour which has been revived at intervals during recent years.
The story of the comet spread great alarm, however, throughout Europe in 1832, and many persons refrained from undertaking or concluding any business during that year in consequence solely of their apprehension that the terrible comet would dash us and our world to atoms.
October 13th has been a favourite day for prophesying the end of the world. This has its origin in the prophecy of the famous mathematical divine, Dr. Whiston, who, in 1736, said the world would be destroyed in that year on October 13th.
Crowds of people assembled in the big open spaces of London on that date to see the "beginning of the end," but nothing happened, and Whiston became the laughing stock of the Metropolis.

Bees in His Wooden Leg.

Recently, a man was arrested for breaking into a Paris flat, and searched, but at first none of the missing property could be found in his possession. A police commissary, however, bent himself to unscrew the man's wooden leg and examine it. It was then found that eight hundred pounds in securities, which had been taken from the flat, were hidden away in the artificial limb.
This reminds one that many novel uses have been made of wooden legs by their wearers. A few years ago, for instance, a wild man was discovered by a party of hunters in Missouri, stumbling along on a rough-looking wooden leg, which he himself had carved from a tree, and hollowed out. In the hollow part a swarm of bees were found to be housed—in- deed, the man seemed to be very fond of bees, for he had another swarm housed in a strange old "stovepipe" hat which he was wearing.

Another Marine Tragedy

The schooner "Willie Roy" of Channel, so long missing on a voyage from Port aux Choix to her home port, has not been heard from since July 9th, and another marine tragedy has to be added to our local records. The hope that news would be received has now been abandoned, and the widows and mothers of the men who formed the crew have now to mourn the loss of their loved ones. George Currie and John Farrell were citizens, the loss of which to the town of Channel will be irreparable. They possessed the confidence and friendship of all who knew them, and their integrity and depth of character was appreciated by the whole community. Both were members of the Loy- al Orange Association. Bro. Farrell having served two years in the chair and Bro. Currie the same period in the Deputy chair of Royal William Lodge, No. 20. Their loss to the town will be none the less great than their loss to the town of Channel. That the youngest sons of both men should have gone with them intensifies the tragedy and compels the sympathy of all.

To the sorrowing widows and orphans, so suddenly bereaved, the Telegram extends sincere sympathy, and hopes that the passage of time will, in a measure, help to assuage the grief of those who have been hoping against hope for news of the latest victims of the insatiable sea.

They are the product of a first class English firm, famed for its Military Tailoring, are built of fine quality Gabardine in all shades of Khaki, well-lined with smart-patterned Twill Plaid. Pockets velvet lined. Three very special features in these Coats are: (1) Extra high and well-fitting storm collar; (2) extra wide revers, forming when fastened ample throat and chest protection; (3) an entire interlining of Oilskin, rendering them not only doubly waterproof but absolutely wind and cold proof as well; forming an ideal Coat for all weathers. All Coats are belted and strapped at wrists. All sizes.
