There Must Be a Reason
That a great many of the garments that we have received in the past month were from new customers who had those garments mishandled by other dyers and were sent to us as a last resort before a settlement was made with the owners. We were able to doctor up the majority of those crippled garments to the entire satisfaction of those owners. If you have any sick garments of this character send them to us. If our customers don't accept the garments after we doctor them, don't pay us. No cure no pay. We have received a new shipment of the best on the mark-

The Shadow of the Future.

CHAPTER XII. GREAT EXPECTATIONS.

"Ay, ay," chuckled the old body, "that's only like the lady should say, but there's them that won't fall in with it. 'A thief—askin' pardon for the sayin'—don't leave his sack behind, now do he?' And then Mrs. Hills, who was afflicted with asthma, fell into such a fit of wrathful choking that, in simple charity, her visitor nodded good-bye and departed—only, however, to encounter equally mysterious words before she had gone fifty yards further. For round the corner of the village street swept Lady Comyngham's low phaeton, herself, with the cockaded groom behind, driving the handsome cream cobs, which, much against their will, were reined in at sight of Miss Alwyn.

"I have been at the Dale," said the countess, leaning forward most amiably, "and was so sorry to miss seeing you. But allow me to congratulate you now. I hope this event will bring you much happiness."

It was curious, thought Sydney, for her mother, who all too evidently grudged this division of income, to speak of it to strangers, but so she must have done. And taking this as an omen of pleasanter feeling between them, the girl thanked Lady Comyngham with warmth, and hoped she might use the change so that no one would have to repent it.

"Very, very becomingly said," approved the countess, giving Sydney's shoulders a coax with her whip. "I trust you'll prosper, I'm sure, though these matters are dreadful lotteries, as I've told my girls."

"When the earl came into his fortune, I suppose," thought Sydney, answering with such an air of unshakable security, "I hope there's not much of the lottery in my case!" that the countess, for all her fifty years' ups and downs, would not dishearten her with any more wisdom of experience.

"Oh, well," she said ("Stand still, Spitfire!"), "I presume this has been looked forward to so long by all parties that you feel safe of each other, and sure of everything going right. Make my felicitations to—oh, as the cobs took violent umbrage at an approaching wheelbarrow, "these creatures won't let a woman speak! Good-bye, Miss Alwyn," as the pair curveted off. "Come to Oakleigh some Saturday—both of you."

"Leonora too," mused Sydney, and fell wondering whether success would attend that lofty scheme of her mother's, which by now she understood, though no confidence on the subject was extended to her.

On that point Mrs. Alwyn's hopes were now in the zenith of hopefulness, for Mr. Duvesne had been among the first callers after their return. Ostensibly he came to thank her for certain weekly doles supplied from the Dale to an old couple in his parish—Mrs. Alwyn's smallest light never wasted a ray for want of being set on a candlestick—but the delighted mother marked how he reported progress of his rectory, and lamented to Leonora that it was not half what he wished "for a lady." Would she look it through some day, with Mrs. Alwyn and her sister? Would she tell him how it could be improved? "Of course," gazing about the handsome Dale drawing-room, "it was nothing like this. The old building and Miss Villiers' perfect taste"—Mrs. Alwyn credited Leonora with every suitable shape and shade on the premises—"had made this? Unmatchable. Honestly, the Dale ought to be part of the Oakleigh estate, but he supposed the absent owner would say 'no' to that."

Hereupon his hostess had returned that she in propria persona was proprietor of the Dale now; she had completed the purchase of her brother. And she hoped never to part from it except to her elder daughter. So, unluckily, the place must be burdened with her Leonora.

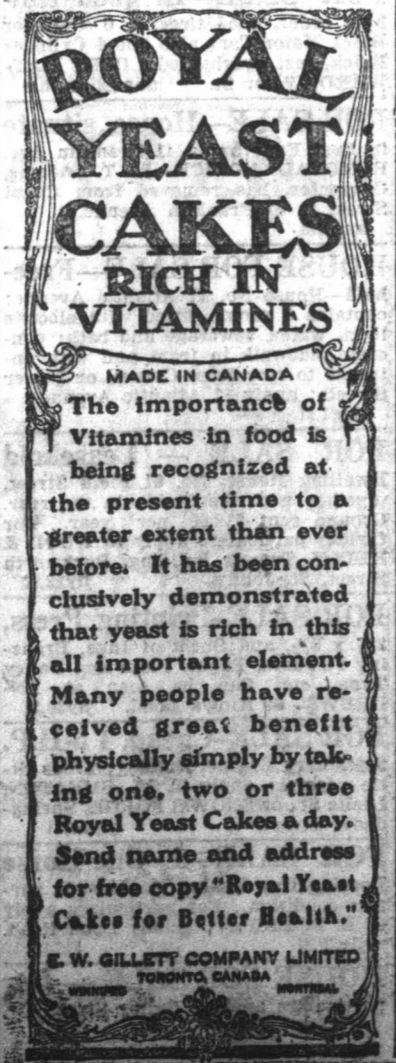

"And a great improvement the burden will be," said Mr. Duvesne, gallantly. "Pray don't imagine I had any intention of robbing these parts when I made my selfish suggestion just now."

With which the young clerics had glided from the topic Mrs. Alwyn fondly hoped he was approaching into information of a recent domestic event, interesting, of course, to intimates only. His sister, Lady Avena Massey, was the happy mother of a little son, successor to four sisters, the first grandson of the family, a young man who had caused as much stir at Oakleigh Place as in his native Staffordshire home.

"My mother," said the Honorable Edward, laughing, "has been fussing over silver mugs, and the girls have been stitching at some white garment long enough for a grown-up ghost, and the people at Barnes have been sending up gifts most glaringly useless to a fortnight-old baby—"

"And why," exclaimed Mrs. Alwyn to Leonora, as soon as their informant was gone, "why should not I send something that will be useful? At such a time it must be accepted as a compliment. A son is all very well. Even a small squire like Mr. Massey wishes for one, I suppose. But they will have to save money for him to spend by and by, and they'll value money's worth now all the more."

The consequence of which happy inspiration was the packing off to Barnes of the deep-pointed breadth of costly gowns that long ago had raised many a granddame's envy when displayed upon some velvet-fronted dinner-dress, and with it went a cleverly worded note, making the offering to the "new, most precious boy." In terms that quite affected that unconscious little person's mother, drawing from her a tremulously pencilled acknowledgment of this gorgeous christening robe. The immediate result of this little maneuver was precisely what Mrs. Alwyn had calculated on. The countess had called and been most affable. Then had Mrs. Alwyn let fall those somewhat premature words concerning her younger child which she intended to turn to more accounts than one. Ten days afterward a luncheon had followed at Oakleigh Place. Quite a family affair. No other strangers than Leonora and her mother, Sydney (for once, to Mrs. Alwyn's complete approval) being tied to an engagement in the parish; and Lady Somyngham had commented on Leonora's pink-and-white coloring, "apple blossom," she called it, adding, "it was the complexion gentlemen admired. Her son Edward had spoken of it. He fancied he had particular reason to think it beautiful. Some day Mrs. Alwyn would see if he was right!"

In expectation of that day Mrs. Alwyn had to wait, hiding intense excitement under outward calm. But she drove her pair of plans along the daily course with the skill of a cool head and a firm hand. It was desirable—best—kindest—that Sydney should be detached from the Dale. This she never lost sight of for a moment. And the sooner the better. Then, if this other business lagged, she could invoke the aid of little diplomatic shifts, shadows of shams that the younger daughter's honest-eyed presence made difficult. Therefore, though the girl in her newborn elation was difficult to depress, Mrs. Alwyn took pains to make her feel that she considered the partition of property a fresh partition of interests, pleasures, affections, and let her distinctly foresee that the Sydney of the future would be more isolated in her home than the Sydney of the past.

So counter ran all this to the semi-heiress' deepest desires—she who had so yearned for love that she even wanted to buy it—that there is small wonder if it drove her straight on to the result intended; and if when Mr. Rupert Villiers came down armed—for this was to be his grand attack!—with the very rose she had been longing for, and the very most attractive manner he could don, she received him as readily as thirsty leaves a shower!

And well the young man played the last round in his hand. Marriage, or some means of clearing up with his creditors, was imperative. That remembrance filled him with keenly nervous energy. By now those often repeated insinuations were unfolding their meaning to Sydney.

What did they mean to her? Was she glad or sorry? As yet she could tell nothing. She was dazzled, bewildered. But the new mood touched her with such peculiar grace that Mr. Villiers' prearranged attentions came very easy to him, and made the moment that should end this Act the first seemestly alluring.

Beyond his second day with them the moment surely would not have been delayed, delightful as was the dallying on the verge of confident conquest; but once again accident played him an unkind trick.

A line from the Gate House called Sydney there, and sent her back in distress.

Mr. Villiers was on the lawn, waiting for her, she felt, as she returned, and to him she confided the trouble.

"Mrs. Dacie went out for a holiday that was to do her so much good; now she is ill and longing to get home. But her sisters write that it is impossible for her to travel alone, and ask if Mary can go for her. But, of course, she cannot, for Dr. Dacie is just helpless without her. Oh, Mr. Villiers, I am so found of Mrs. Dacie and so sorry about it all! And I do so want to ask mamma to let me go for her, but—I dare not!"

Facts About Comets.

A comet has been known to get into a fearful state of excitement and end by throwing off its tail, but never fails, in that case to get a new one.

The tail is sometimes a hundred million miles long but is made up of such light gases that the mere pressure of light causes them to be driven away from the direction of the sun.

On two or three occasions the earth has passed through the tail of a large comet without suffering any ill-effects. Our globe, for example, went to a depth of 300,000 miles through the tail of the comet, and came out not a scrap of the worse.

Collisions with comets are more boyeys, which should frighten no one. One very imaginative "philosopher" said that if a certain comet hit the earth we should have perpetual spring.

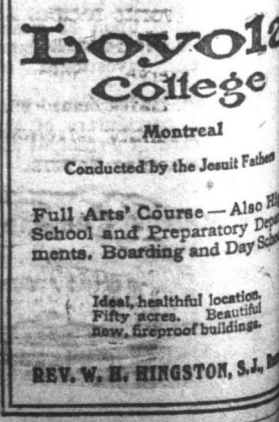

Another individual suggested that in the event of a collision the remains of the comet might be found to contain large quantities of gold and diamonds.

Through several comets have been known to have passed in front of the sun, there is no certain evidence that the head or any part whatever has been seen projected against the sun's disc. If the head of a comet is made up of stony or metallic fragments, these fragments must be not only of no great size, but they must be a long way apart from one another.

One of the ancient philosophers taught that these bodies were no further off than our own atmosphere, but 350 years ago a great astronomer argued that they were not only beyond the atmosphere but "much further off than the moon." This, of course, was far from the actual truth. The moon is about 240,000 miles distant, whilst many comets go millions of times farther away.

The Anglo-Saxons, Greeks, and Romans regarded comets as of the masculine gender. In those far-off days these bodies were known as "hairy stars," and it is probable that their bearded appearance led to their masculine description.

Copper Mining in Nfld.

The following letter is taken from correspondence published in the June issue of the Mining and Scientific News and should be of value to those interested in the subject of the commutation.

Editor:—In looking through your issue of February 12, I was pleased to notice the following item: "Rumors of a hundred million pounds of copper to be sold to foreign consumers, especially German, by the Copper Miners Association have been treated in New York." The financing of this deal involves an outlay, it is said, of forty million dollars. This fact looks encouraging for the copper-mining industry. I am also in receipt of information that the copper has been figured out that there is a supply of copper in all the great deposits of the world, against a year of coal, and like comparison with other minerals.

The great so-called American deposits of copper are now estimated at 2 1/2% copper are now estimated to be but 1.75%. If this be so, the large deposits that are now known to exist in the Great Bay of St. John's, such as the famous Tilt mine, the Little Bay mine, the Mother Lode mine, etc., are at 1400 ft. with little or no prospecting either on the strike of the ore, or the foot or hanging walls. The West Arm deposits are rich in assays from vein-matter have as high as 30% copper. Some ago, several hundred tons taken from one deposit that averaged 18%. The sterling Peyton deposit at Hall's Bay, a valuable property, the Sunday Cove Island property, and the Roberts' Arm deposit, and last, but by no means least, the Mother Lode mine, 14 miles inland from St. John's Bay, which is known to contain the ore of which is chalcopyrite and is shown on the surface for five miles east and west. The Gull Lake Copper Co. owns 16 sq. miles each, or, in other words, square miles of this great ore.

They have done considerable prospecting and development work on the property, and have opened up the claims by sinking shafts cross-cutting, and cross-cut 75 ft. in ore averaging 2.78% copper, other of their claims they have 45 ft. and have cross-cut 30 ft. shaft the vein-matter gave at different depths of 9%, 12%, 15% copper, the whole averaging 15%, but the owners have not obtained the full width of the ore, either of the shafts, as the breast of the cross-cut is good, and from surface showings miners have every reason to believe that the orebody is considerably larger, and from surface indication on claim it is over 1500 ft. in length and west. On another part of property there is a number of small boulders of copper-bearing rock, hundreds of tons in pieces. Assays of samples taken from these pieces show 7.25% of copper traces of gold.

What about our goldfield on the Bay, when some few years ago mill was erected and run by men know something about copper, but absolutely nothing about mining or milling. Of course, it is a commercial failure. Why not employ men put pieces of quartz in crusher with visible gold in it, but passing through the mill it was seen again, and signs of free can be taken from the surface on parts of the property, as well as shaft. It's a crime the way mining in this country has been butchered money flung away, so to speak, prospecting as well as in the mining, or working of the different deposits, by those who were here to look after their company's best. Some were good capable men, the every other good thing, were to keep; others were incompetent, the only thing they seemed capable of looking after was their $300 per month, and when they leave for the Sunny South, they take 'bit' to prevent capitalists becoming interested in mining in country. They are like the poor—help us, but unlike the poor do more harm than good.

Prince Inspects C. L. B. C.

From the Overseas Daily Mail we clip the following: "The Prince of Wales inspected, at St. James's Palace, a battalion of the Church Lads' Brigade (King's Royal Rifle Corps Cadets), while on their way to France to attend battlefield memorial services for past members of the Brigade who were killed in the war. In addressing the battalion the Prince referred to the fact that the Brigade has a record of 21 Victoria Crosses. He was presented by Lord Grenfell with the badge of the Brigade in gold and enamel."

It may be of interest to the general public to know that Major Raley, M.C., formerly Adjutant of Avalon Battalion of the C.L.B.C. represented Newfoundland on the visit to the battlefields. Whilst in France the Battalion was inspected by Marshal Foch.

DIFFERENCES OF OPINION.

LONDON, Aug. 1. Developments in the peace negotiations between President Lloyd George and the leaders of Irish Republicans are imminent, it was reported here to-day. It was admitted in Sinn Féin circles that there were considerable differences of opinion among the members, who were declared to be adhering resolutely to demands for full national independence, and for this reason predictions were made that the meeting of Dail Eirann when held would probably develop some stiff opposition to the leaders, who were represented as being resolved to adopt a compromise measure. It was maintained, however, that Mr. De Valera and his immediate colleagues retained control of the situation, and would carry the principle of compromise against the demands of Extremists.

COUNCIL MEETS ON MONDAY.

PARIS, Aug. 1. It has been definitely decided that the next session of the Supreme Council, at which the question of Upper Silesia will be taken up, shall be held in Paris beginning August 8.

COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATION.

BERLIN, Aug. 1. In front of the Imperial palace in Lustgarten, where Emperor William seven years ago made his famous war speech, prior to a declaration of hostilities against Russia, a huge demonstration was held yesterday. Ten thousand Red flags were flying, in contrast to the standard of the Kaiser, which was flown the day he made his speech. Thirty speakers inveighed against war. Intended as a general anti-war protest meeting, it was turned into a Socialist-Communist demonstration. Many of the paraders carried banners reading "no more war." Hundreds of crippled soldiers were wheeled about pleading for money to help "Red Russia."

CLOSED BY ORDER.

PARIS, Aug. 1. A despatch to Havas agency from Danzig says that arms and munitions factories have been closed by order of the Council of the League of Nations.

UNSUCCESSFUL REVOLT.

VLADEVOSTOK, Aug. 1. Partisan bands, inside and outside this city, have staged an unsuccessful revolt against the Government, being immediately overcome by Militia. The Japanese command participated in the fighting, as the result of an attack by revolutionists near Nikolsmit, in which several Japanese officers, including Colonel Miwa, Divisional Chief of Staff, were killed. The revolutionists dynamited the bridge derailing the Japanese train.

A TROTSKY STATEMENT.

RIGA, Aug. 1. Concerning reports in circulation that the Bolsheviks are mobilizing against the States bordering on Russia, the Rosta Agency quotes Trotsky as saying that the Russian Red Army is three times smaller than it was nine months ago, and that it is being still further demobilized. Trotsky added that it was true the Soviet Government was decreasing the number of military schools and that the Red Army, which the Government could put into the field if compelled to do so would be stronger than that of the past.

SHIPPING INTERESTS CONSULT.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. The United States Shipping Board of representatives will confer with British shipowners in London on Tuesday, if it is possible. The Board would insist that its vessels have equal footing with British ships in the awarding of contracts for the transport of all classes of freight.

ESPERANTO AND IRELAND.

PRAGUE, Aug. 1. Demands that Ireland be accorded recognition as a separate country, was made by the Irish Delegate to the thirteenth Esperanto Congress, which opened here yesterday.

DISASTROUS STORM.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1. At least seven persons were killed and many seriously injured in severe electrical and wind storms that swept various sections of the country yesterday and Saturday night.

PILGRIM FATHERS CELEBRATION.

PLYMOUTH, Aug. 1. Upwards of one hundred thousand persons are participating in the celebration here to-day of the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers, 301 years ago.

Wedding Bells.

MILES-HOLWELL.
A very pretty wedding took place at St. Peter's Church, Williamgate, on July 9th, when Miss Ada Miles of Bonavista was united in matrimonial bonds to Lester John Holwell, son of Mr. John Holwell of Herring Neck. The bride had been teaching school at Herring Neck for two years and was very highly appreciated by the people. After the ceremony the happy couple, with numerous friends, returned to Herring Neck by motor boat, and were entertained at luncheon at the home of the groom's parents, the festivities of the evening concluding with appropriate amusements. The best wishes of their many friends go with Mr. and Mrs. Holwell for their future happiness and prosperity.

KIELLY-BACHOFNER.

At St. Mary's Church, Cambridge, Mass., on June 1st, a very pretty wedding took place, the contracting parties being Miss Catherine Kielly, of St. John's, Nfld., and Mr. Adolph Bachofner, of Jamaica Plains. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. McNamara. The bride looked charming in a becoming dress of navy blue satin with a large picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of white roses and maidenhair fern; she was attended by her sister Margaret and her cousin Helen Walsh, who were neatly attired in dresses of white net both carrying bunches of carnations. The groom was attended by Mr. Patrick Connolly, a personal friend of his. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the Quinsey House where a wedding breakfast was served, after which they motored to the White Mountains where the honeymoon was spent. Space forbids us giving a more extensive report also the list of the many valuable presents received from friends both at home and abroad. Owing to the recent death of the bride's mother, only the immediate relatives were present.

ADEY-STUCKLESS.

Cochrane Street Methodist Episcopal Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday evening last, July 30, when Laura Amelia, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Adey, was united in marriage to Selby L. Stuckless of the Reid Nfd. Electrical Department, and eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Stuckless of Point Lemington. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming, and was neatly attired in white silk and over net with veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and maiden hair fern. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ella M. Adey, and Miss Alice M. Butler, who carried bouquets of sweet peas and looked attractive in dresses of fawn and blue silk, with bows and bands of silver trimming for their heads in place of hats. The groom was assisted by Mr. John M. Adey, brother of the bride, and Mr. W. R. Boose, while the ceremony was performed by their new pastor, Rev. C. H. Johnson, in the presence of relations and friends of both parties. Afterwards they returned to the residence of the bride's parents, 88 Merry Meadon Road, where a happy time was spent. The groom's present to the bride was a set of white furs; to the bridesmaids bracelets, and to the best man engraved cuff links. Presents received from friends at home and abroad were many, testifying to the esteem in which both were held. Mr. and Mrs. Stuckless left by Sunday's express on a visit to the groom's mother. The Telegram joins with their many friends in wishing them long years of happy wedded life.

Mr. Fred McKay, manager of Parker & Monroe's Shoe Factory with his wife and family, left by today's train for Placentia Bay as a visit to friends.

DON'T THINK

That Libby's Evaporated Milk is just for special dishes.

It is true that it whips like cream, that it makes wonderfully smooth and rich ice cream, that it adds immeasurably to the flavor of unique desserts——but you can use it—and save money—in all your regular cooking!

If a recipe calls for milk you simply add water to Libby's—use as much water as you do milk—and you have milk of guaranteed purity, of exceptional richness.

It is always fresh; always ready.

If the recipe calls for cream, use Libby's as it is. It is pure, rich milk—from the finest dairy sections of the United States—with more than half of the water removed and nothing added. Milk like cream at a cost of only one third of bottled cream!

Try Libby's Evaporated Milk in soups, in gravies, in creaming potatoes, in cakes, puddings and breads.

Use it as cream on your breakfast foods and in your coffee.

Your grocer has Libby's Milk or will get it for you.

A great indoor sport for thoughtless people

One of the surest ways to become physically incapable of doing your best work is to get into a nervous condition by disturbing dreams.

If your sleep is being disturbed by drinking tea or coffee, you may be sowing the seeds of a nervous breakdown.

Do not wait until your nerves are affected by the drugs, then and caffeine, in tea or coffee. Protect your strength, vitality and endurance.

Have second, peaceful sleep, and when refreshed and fit for any task.

Postum, the delicious cereal beverage, with its golden-brown richness and coffee-like taste, will let Nature restore your coffee-irritated nerves, and bring you sound, refreshing sleep.

Postum is wholesome and acts in a natural way. It possesses the advantages of a hot drink, without the ill effects of tea or coffee.

Drink Postum for a week or two. See what a difference it will make in you!

There's a Reason.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

At all grocers.

Regatta Meeting

ARRANGEMENTS FINALISED.

The Regatta Committee met last night in the T. A. Armoury when matters in connection with Wednesday Regatta were finalized. President Hiscock occupied the Chair, and all the executive members were present. After the minutes were confirmed, the various collectors handed in the donations received since the last meeting. Amongst the amounts received was a donation of $10.00 from Lever Bros. Port Sunlight, through their local agent Mr. W. R. Chesire. The President announced that His Excellency would attend the Lake Side during the forenoon arriving on the Bank at 10.30 a.m. Mr. J. Boone, who was entered as coxswain for the Blue Peter's Tradesmen, sent word that owing to illness he was not able to fulfill the duties. His place was taken by Mr. A. Williams, the latter also entering as coxswain for the Blue Peter in the Fishermen's race. It was announced at the meeting that there likely would be a challenge race between crews from the Government and Opposition sides of the House of Assembly. Copies of a very interesting book, "Regatta Records 1873-1920" were presented to the members of the Committee. This book was compiled by the Hon. Secretary Jas. L. Noonan and contains a very large amount of data most useful to anyone interested in the Regatta "times" and winners. Hon. W. J. Ellis sent his annual contribution of $2 an oar for the winners of the Tradesmen's race. The crews listed below entered last night, with the exception of the Advocate which for some unaccountable reason sent in the boats crew without making formal entry. Provision for this however was made by the Committee. This will be the only 3 boat race, as in all other Regatta events there have been four boats have entered. Before the close of the meeting President Hiscock addressed the Committee asking for their co-operation during the day. He also asked that if the early morning should incline to a not favorable day that the Committee meet at 8.30 and decide on what course to pursue.

Scott Declares It Took All His Grit To Stay on His Job

New Brunswick Man Says It Took A Real Medicine To Reach His Case.

"I am ready to go to the limit in endorsing Tanlac," said Arthur Scott, of Randolph, N.B.

"It took a good medicine to reach my case, as I have suffered continually from the worst kind of stomach trouble for over two years. What little I ate formed in a lump and felt as heavy as lead, and sometimes there was a tightness across my chest that made it hard for me to get my breath. It took all of my grit to stay on the job as I was almost picked out, which was natural, for I couldn't eat or sleep to do any good.

"Everybody tells me now that I am the picture of health and I believe them, for I never felt better in my life. Tanlac took hold of me right from the start, gave me an appetite, and I feel good from head to foot. It's a fact, I can do more work now in one day than I could in a week in two, and not only that, but I am not near as tired when night comes, either. When it comes to building a man up and making him feel fine, Tanlac's in a class by itself."

House of Assembly.

MONDAY, Aug. 1.

When the House opened pursuant to adjournment, Sir John Crosbie announced his intention of moving an amendment to the illegitimate Children Act. Sir John had been incited to this by the case which was heard last week in the Magistrate's Court of St. John's. The girl in question had had a child and the father of the child had got off by paying $100 in Court. Sir John protested against the castigation which the girl's father had received from the Inspector-General in the Court because he was willing to do his daughter in, he was not prepared to give her child a home. Sir John thought that this father had acted only as other fathers in a similar position would act. He did not see why any father should be responsible for his daughter's illegitimate child. The amendment he was going to move would cause the seducer of any girl to bring up the child until it was able to care for itself.

Mr. Warren agreed with Sir John Crosbie's views on the matter and promised to attend to the matter. Mr. Higgins also agreed with Sir John Crosbie.

Mr. LeGrow made the following motion:—That a Select Committee be appointed to enquire into and report upon the following charges made against me in the course of debate by the member for St. John's East (Mr. Fox) namely, that I had sent some person two bottles of rum to come into the gallery of this House and call the member for Harbor Grace "a slacker."

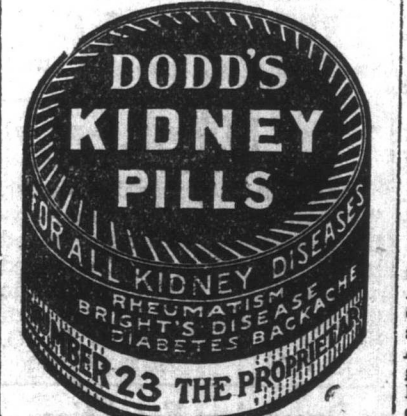

It was seconded by Mr. Cave.

Mr. MacDonnell brought up the matter of a public wharf in his district and was told by the Prime Minister that the Government engineer was inquiring into the matter.

THE SILENCE BROKEN.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on Supply.

Dr. Barnes in introducing the estimates for the Department of Education, was carried away by his unbounded enthusiasm for the forwarding of his cherished educational projects and in high-sounding language, sprinkled here and there with words with which he could only have had a bowing acquaintance attempted to explain the Education Vote. The worthy Doctor uttered one classical quotation which drew forth several "Hear hears" from the Opposition benches, and caused Mr. MacDonnell to ask that these words be taken down. Dr. Barnes spoke of press criticism of his department as "puerile." He also spent several minutes in explaining the educational system of Switzerland and read quotations to support his contentions with respect to the advancement of Education. After all this preamble (said Dr. Barnes evidently) thought would be the soft answer, which turneth away wrath, he came down as near the earth as he possibly could, and entered into an explanation of his many supervisors. This explanation was very well thought out, and was given in very flowery language, but the one thing it lacked was the very thing it could not do without—conviction. The Minister carefully explained the difference between a supervisor and an inspector. One was to help teach, the other to find fault. Dr. Barnes wanted the Opposition press put right on this matter. He said that education today was only in an experimental stage. It was strange that no one reminded him that we are not in a position to experiment with extravagant ideas at the present moment.

In the course of his address Dr. Barnes said that he had advised the Government to suspend the appointment of the Superintendent for another year, and he announced further that the salaries and travelling expenses of these Supervisors would be cut down to $800.00 per year. He also said that those Supervisors who would not be employed could easily go back from where they left in the U.S.A. and find sufficient work.

Mr. MacDonnell severely criticized Dr. Barnes and did not think the country was now in a position to stand the expense which was being put on it by the Department of Education. He said the reason for there being so many ungraded teachers was because there was not enough salary offered to permit of a high graded teacher taking on a position in a small settlement. Supervisors would not solve that problem. The Superintendents were only allowed a certain amount. It was unfair. All other Government officials had their expenses paid in full. Why he was Assistant Superintendent he had spent a month's salary often travelling a fortnight. He had to go home to St. George's for a month and then he was expected to come back and find lost in travelling. With the principle of appointing supervisors to supervise schools he was in accord, but not at this time, there was no further necessity of discussing the matter now, as the Minister had announced that they would not be appointed. Mr. MacDonnell claimed that the appointment of supervisors did affect the denominational system of the country. He concluded with a little praise for the C.H.E.

Sir Michael Cashin did not think our present economic condition warranted the expenditure of $800,000 on Education. He queried as to whether we had not more education now than we could pay for. The Government could not pay for the $8,000,000 per year. He was anticipating this year. When he had first entered the House $150,000 was the vote for Education. With reduced revenue we must reduce our vote. Sir Michael then read the article published in yesterday's Telegram which featured Messrs. Howard and Grenfell. He asked if it was true that certain statements made in this article concerning Twillingate district were correct and was answered in the affirmative. He was told that money from the banks was true, said Sir Michael, for the evidence was before the House. He appealed to Dr. Barnes to tell the House if the estimated revenue of $8,000,000 was going to come from.

Mr. Bennett castigated Dr. Barnes for his criticism of press reports on the education department and asked what right had the department to send out such reports. He was told that the department was giving one crepe to see the way they teach. When asked by Dr. Barnes if he would reduce the teachers' salaries he was told that the department would not reduce the teachers' salaries. Mr. Bennett replied that he would not reduce the teachers' salaries but he would cut out the useless department of Education. He commended the Minister of Marine and Fisheries for cutting down his estimates a half million dollars from the start that it was a mistake to send these people away. He was in accord with the principle of the thing. But there were numbers of others things we want that we cannot get. We cannot afford luxuries these times. Now this luxury of supervisors was cut out. It was not going to happen to these supervisors. Had we trained teachers to go away and benefit some other country. The trouble with Dr. Barnes was that he is an idealist. He was not speaking against education but in the interests of economy.

Dr. Barnes said he could not undertake to cut the teachers' salaries. About 500 teachers were receiving under $500.00 per year. The teachers' average salary was $375.00 per year. In Alberta, Canada, the average per capita grant was $15.00 per head. Newfoundland's per capita grant was the lowest of any British colony.

Legislative Council.

MONDAY, August 1.

The House met at 4 o'clock. An Act for the Ratification of the Contract with the Pulp and Paper Corporation of America, and an Act respecting Fishery Supplies for the current season, passed the third reading.

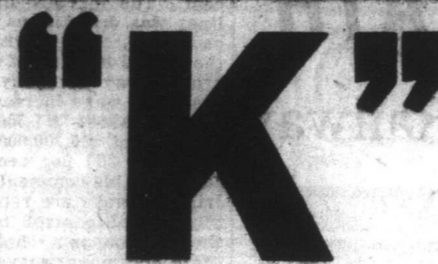

A Bill entitled "An Act for the Protection of Neglected, Dependent and Delinquent Children" passed all its stages with an amendment clause introduced by Hon. J. Browning.

The Bell Island Agreement Bill was referred.

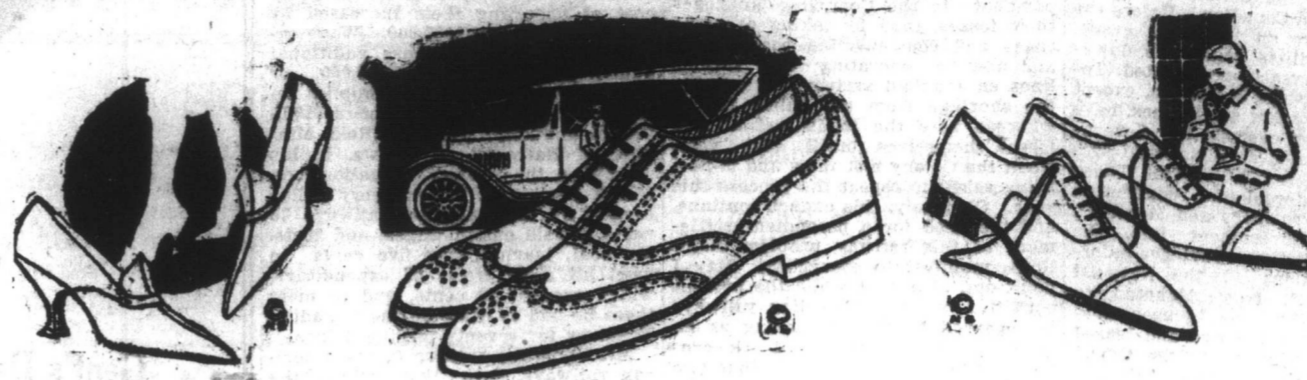

The Warehouse Receipts Bill was introduced and read a first time. Sir P. T. McGrath resumed his speech on the railway bill, concluding about 5.30. He was applauded by both Government and Opposition benches at the finish. (Part of Sir Patrick's able speech has already been published, the conclusion to follow.)

Hon. F. McNamara—"Mr. President I am quite aware of the fact that on account of this railway bill, the money measure that this House has no power over it, and it therefore follows that anything we may say here regarding it will be of little effect. However, I cannot let this opportunity pass without registering my protest against this Act which calls for the allocation of the large amount of one and a half million dollars for the carrying out of the Government's ideas on our railway problem. It is admitted that there was a loss of $1,625,000 on the railroad operated last year by the Government Commission, and this loss as well as the recommendation of Sir George Bury is given as the principal reason for asking for the large sum of money (one and a half million dollars) from the public treasury today. The hon. leader of the Government stated in his address yesterday that there were three propositions to be considered in connection with our railway problem. He admitted that the Reid Nfld. Co. had met the end of their resources and were unable and unwilling to continue operations without assistance. The Government would have to continue as last year or the railway would be closed down. Two of these propositions, of course, were impossible namely stopping down or operating by Government control. There was apparently only one other thing to do and that was to make some arrangements with the Reid Nfld. Co. to carry on our railroad service. The hon. leader of the Government also stated that all the Opposition did in connection with this measure was to criticise it and find fault with it in all its moods and tempes, and regretted that after being invited by the Government to confer on the matter that they refused to have any meeting on this problem. I submit that the Opposition were perfectly justified in not giving their ideas to the Government, and were further justified in advocating an appeal to the people on the matter before subjecting every family in the country to a tax of $30.00 per annum on account of this railway trouble. "I consider it a most abject display of weakness on the part of the Government to admit that they would invite or even consider the ideas of the Opposition on this railway bill, and further claim that even if the Opposition consented to confer with the Government on this matter, and if everything did not go satisfactorily they would be blamed for any trouble that might ensue, as they were blamed in the case of the Fishery regulations for not opposing that measure. It will be admitted that the most important part of this bill is the money part of it. We are asked here to acquiesce in the voting of one and a half million dollars for the estimated loss on the railway operations for the next twelve months. I do not think that it is fair, right or just to ask for this large amount of one and a half million dollars for this year's estimated loss as last year's railway operations, and this year's operations will not be parallel cases. To begin with the sum of $1,625,000 was spent last year snow fighting. All or nearly all of this amount should be saved this year according to the new schedule with the winter cross-country service abandoned. Then again the railway service is practically cut in two—wages have been reduced—the staff of men employed is being lessened from day to day by the Reid Nfld. Co.; then add to all these the fact that the cost of coal is much lower in price than last year, I therefore cannot see why this large amount of $1,500,000 was named as the probable loss on this year's railway problem. The Government by agreeing to pay losses up to one and a half million dollars on railway operations have practically handed the Reid Nfld. Co. a cheque for this amount, and have handed here take this money, go on with the railway, slash away with this allowance as long as it will last, but be very careful with your own funds because if you spend anything in excess of this allocation it will have to be paid back to the Treasury later on by your corporation. "I submit that this is a very unbusinesslike bargain and as there is no incentive to economy the chances are that no economy will be practiced and the country will very likely be called upon to stand for the full amount of one and a half million dollars at the expiration of this contract, this time next year. Section 4 of this Act reads as follows: 'The Government shall pay the actual loss of operating the railway during the term of this agreement, provided that should the loss exceed the sum of one and a half million dollars such excess shall be borne by the company. The payments by the Government shall be made in such manner as may be agreed upon between the parties hereto.' I claim that the second sentence in this Section is too loosely worded and not at all fair to the interests of the Dominion. The payments instead of being made in such manner as may be agreed upon between the parties hereto, should be made monthly, and at the end of every month the R. R. Co. should be made furnish a detailed statement of every dollar spent during the month. They should also submit a statement of the number of men employed, and all other particulars of operation so that we may have a strict and accurate account of the cost and maintenance of our railway service. This is only what any business concern would ask under similar circumstances and the Government in the public interest should demand these particulars, otherwise there will be no

Are You A Grocery Salesman?

A salesman sells goods, he doesn't fall asleep on the job. He doesn't have to be driven. He works with his head.

Salesmen in grocery stores are pushing Lantic Sugar in packages because Lantic packages save the trouble of weighing, eliminate waste, save bags and twine.

A 2 pound and a 5 pound package of Lantic fills an order for 7 pounds of sugar. 2 2's and 2 5's make a stone of sugar, saving time and trouble.

Now you have an opportunity to show your boss whether you are a salesman or merely a clerk. It's up to you to push Lantic in packages.

The profit on sugar is only a little over 1 cent per lb., and on such a small margin no grocery store can afford to waste time, bags, twine and risk a loss in weight.

Lantic Package Sugar is guaranteed to be full weight of the best granulated white sugar. Tell your customers about it. They'll like Lantic.

means of keeping track of this large expenditure. In connection with this matter I may add that I intend suggesting an amendment to this clause as soon as the House goes into committee on this measure. Section 4 reads: 'No salary or fee shall be paid to any director of the company for services in connection with the operation of the R. R. except with the approval of the Government in Council.' Of course it is hard to expect any men with common sense to take this section seriously. Does the Government think that the directors of the railway are going to put in their time and services without any remuneration—why the thing is simply ridiculous. "Instead of making this issue cloudy and misleading, the Government should be manly and come right out and state exactly what they are going to pay the directors of this company for their services, and not later on, do it in the very convenient way of 'Minutes of Council.' When the Railway Deal of 1898 was made law 22 years ago, the total revenue of this country then was very much under a million dollars, and here we are to-day practically voting away the full amount of the revenue of that date to maintain this service. If it were stated at that time this 1898 Railroad Deal was going through that in twenty years it will take all 1898's revenue to run the railway later on, you can imagine the hue and cry that would be raised throughout the island. Still we are voting this amount to-day with complacency, and there is hardly a word said about it by the tax payers who have to ultimately find this money. If the Government are really sincere in this railway business and if they have regard for the funds of the Dominion they should practice economy, and cut this service to the bone. To begin with I would insist on the Bay de Verde, Bonavista, and Trepassay branches altogether—we have Coastal steamers both North and West which can serve these points, and if circumstances should warrant it, Placentia and Argentea would be served sufficiently I submit with a tri-weekly instead of a daily service. Hon. Dr. Campbell stated yesterday that the Branch Railways cost us 11 million dollars and that they were "bringing us down." This is the best argument I can adduce coming from a member of the Executive in favour of reducing the service as much as possible and I hope he will show his consistency by supporting my ideas for further curtailment of our R.R. facilities under our present circumstances. I view this R.R. problem very seriously and look upon it as a most portentous measure and shall record my vote against its enactment."

Hon. P. Templeman in speaking on the Railway Resolutions said they were very stupid. He believed that all the losses did not occur on the branch lines and they should not be closed as was suggested by the previous speaker. He said that if the Branch lines were closed, particularly that of Bonavista, the people would not be able to get supplies during the winter as the harbor there was generally frozen over. Mr. McNamara—"Why not do as before the Branch lines was built?" Hon. Templeman—"That is impossible. We were not bankrupt then. We are now." Continuing Mr. Templeman said he would like to have a definite understanding of what was meant by these words in the Bill—"Operating expenses." He thought that the words could have a very broad meaning. He did not see why the Government should vote a million and a half dollars to Reid to carry on his railway business. It would not extend similar help to him in his affairs. He thought that if the Reids could not operate the railroad without becoming bankrupt, it was not the business of the Government to interfere. The Reids, said he, should have been kept up to their contract. He would like for the figures asked for by Sir Patrick McGrath to be furnished to the House and also some of the questions asked the Leader of the Government, answered. Before concluding, Mr. Templeman said he realized what a joke it was for him and others to waste their time on this Railway Bill seeing that it was a money bill and the Council had no power to alter it. Hon. M. F. Gibbs next spoke to the Bill. He agreed with some of the criticisms made by the previous Speaker. He thought that the Government should endeavour to make an entirely new contract. At 8 p.m. the hon. gentleman moved for adjournment of the debate as he wished to speak at some length. The House adjourned at 8.30 until to-day at 3 p.m.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

IF YOU HAVEN'T MONEY TO GIVE.

A Letter Friend once wrote me that she longed to do some form of social work but that she lived in a small village where there were few poor people and those fairly well looked after, and she did not know how to go about it. I have forgotten I wrote her at the time, but in she is still anxious to use some spare time in service I refer to attention (and to others who, like her, feel that they want to pay their debt for being the best than most by using some spare time and strength in the following letter:

I wish that some of these women who did so much in the war had put some of the time that war look up into taking care of their mother's children for her for a year or so now and then so that she could get out.

Only a Day or Two a Year Off. Of course the children are her own responsibility and she is responsible for them and loves them, but do people realize how terrible it is to be on duty for five years, and for two days a year away from home—and those two days probably spent getting a tooth or seeing a doctor?

When people talk and preach on how we should do with our children we are so weary and nerveracked that we simply can't be cheerful and patient.

A Miracle Wrought By a Little Rest.

"Why just two or three hours a week away from everything would seem so much. It's a miracle how much better just a little rest like that makes us feel, how much better everything goes! You know it, and yet we can't afford to hire someone to take care of the children and we had better stay at home than drag them along. And even those who could afford to hire someone can't always get hold of them for in the country money won't always buy help these days.

"There are going to be a lot of young girls having long vacations this summer and not knowing what to do with themselves. Seems as if some of them might sacrifice a few hours a week to giving some mother new courage. Maybe it would come back to them when they were mothers. That's what they say about 'bread on the water', you know."

Wouldn't a Society Help?

What this Letter Friend says about being on duty five years with only a day or two off a year, hits me pretty hard, doesn't it? Think of a soldier on such steady duty—how we would protest and form societies to help him!

What a wonderful thing it would be if in every village and town there might be a society formed to help the mothers of small children. Surely the Girl Scouts or the women's clubs can find some germ of suggestion in this thought.

Household Notes.

Sausage will not burst if fried in an ungreased pan.

Cold jellied vegetables are nice to serve with cold meats.

Bran muffins may be buttered while hot and served cold.

Individual souffles of ham are nice for the porch supper.

Chopped walnut meats are quite an addition to potato salad.

Cold Brussels sprouts in French dressing are a dainty relish.

Organdie dresser scarfs give a summery look to the bedrooms.

Manicuring scissors are best to use when cutting out scallops.

Try serving grape-juice in combination with ginger ale, ice cold.

A rag dipped in coal oil will remove any stains left from fly-paper.

Puree of spinach may be served on thin crisp slices of fried bread.

Fill tomatoes with slightly melted aspic jelly and chill before serving.

Ice cold mince pie is quite delectable topped with whipped cream.

The family will welcome an appetizing aspic in place of soup these warm days.

A little chopped onion and nut meats give a savory flavor to lima bean timbales.

Spinach may be served on buttered toast and garnished with poached eggs.

A dash of lemon juice improves currant soup. Serve in sherbet cups with cracked ice.

Lift off the tops of little cakes and insert a spoonful of soft icing. Re-top after filling.

Vegetable goulash can be canned and used when desired as a vegetable or in soup or stews.

To bake plums put them in a casserole with a little water, sweeten and bake until tender.

When ice cream follows a heavy dinner, serve salted crackers with it, rather than a rich cake.

Molded ham and hard-boiled eggs are good. Blend the finely ground ham with a little cold veal.

Steamed blueberry pudding is good served hot with blueberries stewed with a little sugar.

Finely chopped walnut meats give a nice flavor to squash croquettes. Serve them with cream sauce.

Put thinly sliced carrots in a pan and brush each layer with melted butter. Bake slowly until tender.

Serve jellied salmon on a cold platter with thin slices of cucumber, crisped, and masked with stiff mayonnaise.

Scoop balls from the heart of a ripe watermelon and serve on lettuce with French dressing made with lemon juice.

Fasten a large spoon to the kitchen wall and on this wind all the loose cord string. It often comes in handy.

Tomatoes may be filled with sweet corn mixed with a little chopped green pepper and mayonnaise. Serve cold on cress.

Green apple pie is excellent. Sweeten it well and season with a little salt, cinnamon and finely chopped salt pork.

Little yellow tomatoes are nice filled with finely chopped water-cress mixed with French dressing. Serve as a relish.

Pineapple is easy to grate if quartered lengthwise through the central core. Cut out the hard core and grate with the skin intact.

Hand-Shake Shows Your Character

There is an immense variety in the way which people shake hands, and action is a fair indication as to character.

When you meet a man of generous impulses one whom you know you can go to your friend through thick and thin. How does he greet you? He grasps your hand firmly and with a hearty shake, as if he really meant the exercise; and he may hold it a moment longer than is necessary.

What of the man who stretches his hand thin and, and barely allows you to grasp the tips of the fingers without drawing them? Does not know what generosity means, you because he happens to be acquainted with you, and on some day you may be of use to him. He does not like to let you drop his hand.

There is the young fop who grasps your two fingers in an aggressive, patronizing way, and thinks he is giving you a great favour upon you when he grasps you at all. He is too headed to know any better.

There is the man of the pump who grasps your hand as if he were grasping your arm and works your arm for some moments, before letting go. If you are coming, you are best to dodge him. There is the quick handshake—two or three quick shakes before dropping the hand. This indicates the man of business. He is quite pleased to see you, but he has no time to waste. He mustn't loiter. He talks to you when he isn't too.

There is the sentimental person who likes to grasp both your hands or one of your hands with both of his. He puts his head close to your face. His words are to be taken with a grain of salt. His "eternal friendship" won't stand much of a strain. There is the damp hand to be laid on yours. This is the type of man, who comes to you for further interest in the opera. And that is about as far as his interest in you will go; but he thinks he is pleasing you by the acknowledgment.

Cuticura Be Your First Thought Always

When the first signs of pimples, redness, itching, or any other skin trouble appear, think gently with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Cuticura is the only remedy that cures the skin. It is the only remedy that cures the skin. It is the only remedy that cures the skin.
