The fact that tires on the right-hand side of a car wear out faster in proportion than those on the left-hand side often puzzles motorists.

The popular supposition, that this wear is caused by turning many corners to the right is incorrect. The fact is that the increased wear is actually caused by the pitch of the road, which throws more of the car on the right side than on the left.

Come for your coats, ladies; we have them. Best prices in Ontario.—Swift's.

Whatever other defects they may have our Canadian "prohibition" laws are swelling the revenues of the Dominion. In May, 1920, the value of those imports had increased to $2,760,000, and the duty to $1,105,000.

Those who want good feeders come to the auction sale on Saturday at Roche's.

Now that the cold weather is approaching the usual influx of visitors may be expected from the Western provinces and Northern Ontario. No doubt they will tell the same old story that "we don't feel the cold up there." Westerners as a rule are exceedingly loyal to their home provinces, consequently the statement is generally received with a grain of salt. A married lady writing to a Toronto daily last Saturday explains why the cold is not felt. She says:—"I have known my husband to wear in the very cold weather rabbit-fur in his moccasins, with seven pairs of heavy stockings, pyjamas over his underwear, a flannel shirt, a heavy woollen shirt, a waistcoat and jacket, mackinaw pants, and a mackinaw coat—or perhaps a sheep-skin! Then they wear wool visor-caps frequently, which pull down over the face when the wind is high. And that is the real reason." One would think that carrying around all this truck would keep anyone "hot up."

Three tenders for the Waterworks debentures were received by the council. Owing to the rate of interest specified in the bylaw being low the tenders were considered unsatisfactory and were not accepted.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McLeay in the bereavement they have sustained in the death of their only son, Jack Lucas, aged 2 years, 2 months and 28 days, who passed away early Thursday morning last after an illness of ten days with cholera morbus. Besides the parents one little girl, Reta, aged about 9 years, is left to mourn the lovable little boy. Their grief is too sacred to trespass and we trust as the days gently need to bear their sorrow will be found by them in Him who is "acquainted with grief." The funeral was held from the home on the Main Road on Saturday afternoon to Bethel cemetery, the Revs. J. C. Forster and S. F. Irwin officiating, and was very largely attended.

HIGH SCHOOL MEMORIAL

At a meeting of the executive of the High School Memorial Committee held at the High School on Thursday evening last, it was moved by Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Miss McCaw, that a memorial bell be bought and a brass tablet placed in the High School in memory of students who fell in the war. The Committee has thus modified the original plan, which was to place a tablet only, in the school. It was felt that the generous response to the appeal made this spring warranted them in following the suggestion of some ex-students and extending their plan. The sum of $190 is now in the Treasurer's hands, but as additional funds will be needed to carry out the present plan, the Committee would be much obliged if all ex-students who have not yet done so, or any friends who would like to help, would send in their contributions to the Treasurer, Miss B. Mitchell, as soon as possible. If any ex-students were not notified by letter it was because a couple of pages are missing from the general register. If any reader of this paragraph is one of these, please accept this notice.

SPALDING—EDWARDS

An event of more than passing interest to two families in particular and to the whole community in general transpired last Thursday evening October 28th, 1920, on the second line south in Warwick, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Edwards, when their eldest daughter, Bertha A., was united in marriage to Mr. John Watson Spalding, of the same concession. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. Tiffin. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride was becomingly attired and carried a bouquet of beautiful pink rose buds. She was given away by her father. Only the closest friends of the bride were present. The young couple are well known and highly esteemed in the community and all join in wishing them bon voyage on the matrimonial sea. They will reside on the groom's farm.

The presentation was accompanied by a nicely-worded address, signed on behalf of the friends by F. Koys and W. W. Lucas. The four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Barr, townline of Bosanquet and Plympton, narrowly escaped death on Saturday. She was in the barn where threshing was in progress and in some manner one of the bins for holding grain broke and completely covered her up. Her father who was close by called for help and the men uncovered the grain off her. She was unconscious when found, and respiratory methods were used, after which she regained consciousness and is now completely recovered.

The mysterious death of a milch cow last week belonging to Fraser Taylor, of Kingsville, led to the opening of the animal to ascertain the cause of death when it was found that the cow at one time had swallowed a piece of No. 10 wire about four inches in length. This had worked its way forward out of the stomach and pierced the heart as large around as one's little finger made by the wire. This was thoroughly caloused. The wire, however, worked back out, and pierced the heart at another point, causing the animal to bleed to death from the new wound.

Last summer a farmer had much difficulty in getting a hired man to stay on the job after man would start, but after working just a few days, would quit. Finally he got up a notice and tacked it to his front gate, with the result that he got a man who stayed with him until freeze up time. The notice read as follows: "Hired Man Wanted—Hired girl is good looking; piano music every evening, pie three times a day, three spoons of sugar with every cup of coffee, hammock, feather beds or leather lounges at your option for sleeping, free use of the automobile. ANOTHER VICTIM OF RHEUMATISM

Entirely Well After Six Weeks' Treatment With "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. AMEDEE GARCEAU

82 Hickory St., Ottawa, Ont.

"I was for many years a victim of that terrible disease, Rheumatism. In 1913, I was laid up for four months with Rheumatism in the joints of the knees, hips and shoulders and was prevented from following my work, that of Electrician.

I tried many remedies and was under the care of a physician; but nothing did me any good. Then I began to take 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a week I was easier, and in six weeks I was so well I went to work again.

I look upon this fruit medicine, 'Fruit-a-tives', as simply marvellous in the cure of Rheumatism, and strongly advise everyone suffering with Rheumatism to give 'Fruit-a-tives' a trial."

Nurses and Doctors Likened to Angels

THERE was still a delicious brogue and a humorous "twist" to Nora's tongue, even years in Canada and many heart-aches. Described by her husband, she broke down under the burden of wash tubs by day and family cares by night. "Tuberculosis" said the doctor. Only rest could save her. "But, doctor, dear, what about the children?" Nora's children were carried for, while Nora was sent to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. Eight months effected a cure, and with help from the Samaritan Club, she is now making a home for the "childer."

"Faith" and Nora's Irish blue eyes shone as she told her story, "it's seraphims an' angels them doctors an' nurses be, an' them folks givin' the loikes of me a chanct to be gettin' strong agin'."

Aren't you glad in your heart that Nora didn't die?

FOR SPORTS WEAR

Shrimp Color Prominent in Both Hats and Dresses.

Renewed Interest in Girdle, Result of Long Waists and Egyptian Designs in Clothes.

Shrimp color is much in evidence in both hats and dresses for sports wear. A crepe de chine dress in this shade is in two pieces, the shirt having a plaited bosom and turned-back plaited cuffs as well as a plaited collar, the remainder of the blouse being plain. The skirt is accordion plaited and a straight belt of the material goes about the waist buttoning in the back. With this frock is worn a hat of alternating bands of shrimp colored organdie and straw.

The fresh interest in the girdle brought about through the long-waisted dress and the prominence of Egyptian designs in clothes has forced belts into the foreground. Even sports belts have brightened up to be in keeping with the new girdles. There are belts formed by links of various metals joined together with bright colored contrasting silk floss, and of brown leather stitched in contrasting shades. Then there are leather belts that have nickel slides at two-inch intervals. Three slides are slightly narrower than the belt, pinching the leather together.

Tan is a shade fast pushing itself to the fore in sports clothes. It is a practical color. All the bright hats and sweaters harmonize especially well with care of tan skirts, which may be of tweeds, chevrots or homespuns.

THE NOVELTY RIBBON BLOUSE

Charming Models Have Been Developed Which Colors Are Interestingly Combined.

Among the interesting novelty blouses recently brought out those made of strips of ribbon fastened together are especially attractive, and they offer alluring possibilities to the woman who makes her own blouses. Either plain or gay flowered ribbon may be used. Some very charming models are shown, in which ribbon in two colors is combined. Black and white is especially effective. Ribbon is also combined very effectively with sheer materials, such as chiffon net, etc., in the development of some unusual and charming blouses.

The blouse of heavy knitted silk fabric continues to be a great favorite. That it is not destined soon to be regarded as a back number seems to be indicated by the fact that one of the foremost American designers, whose models are offered to the most exclusive clientele, has recently brought out a large collection of blouses of this material. Some are the hip length models, cut somewhat on basque lines, while others are made long by the use of very deep fringe as their trimming or finishing touch.

Blouses, or more properly, perhaps, smocks of wool jersey cloth are very popular for sport wear. That have been regarded them with favor seems indicated by the fact that some shops carry them in both the blouse and sweater sections. It is often possible to match a smock in a separate skirt, thereby obtaining a serviceable little sport frock.

BROWN SATIN DINNER FROCK

This beautiful dinner frock is developed in brown satin meter with an over drape of brown net with embroidery in the same shade. It is so designed to give a modified hip fullness. The waistline shows a girdle of gold, blue and green metalized ribbon.

Two-Toned Ribbons

Two-toned and flowered ribbons are to be seen on many new pieces of lingerie and on sets described suitable for the bridal trousseau.

THE SHORT JACKET

Late Model, Developed in Blue Serge Is Charming.

Chic Garment Cut in Pointed Outline is Finished With Very Full Outstanding Plaiting.

For the slender figure that dares to wear an outstanding frill at the bottom of a short jacket the new model is charming. It is developed in blue serge with fine knife plaits. The little jacket is cut in pointed outline. It reaches to just below the waistline and finishes with a very full outstanding plaiting.

The skirt starts with a hip yoke around which passes a flat folded girdle of the cloth, knotting in front. Below this are the two plaited flounces which form the skirt depth. For all its complication of design this suit looks well.

In another type of suit favorably considered is a revival of the old-fashioned, man-tailored style. The coat is three-quarters length with swinging fullness from the hips and has a simple coat sleeve, flat collar, small revers and breast pockets. Except for this side-swinging fullness it resembles a man's frock coat. The skirts of such suits are short, fairly full and gathered at the waistline. This is a very

NEW THINGS IN FASHIONS

Gray as a color for suiting is rapidly replacing tan in favor.

Both the flaring and the perfectly straight tailcoats are smart.

A sober hat of black flaunts a flaming cockade at the front of it.

Laces show signs of increasing in favor, especially for trousseaux.

For the jersey cloth suit emerald green, leather and henna shades are very popular.

Squirrel makes a summer fur piece in a high choker style, the lining a soft, brilliant bit of knit Shetland wool.

Gingham imported from England feature stripes in two or more tones. There is a wide variety in the choice of color.

An exquisite lingerie blouse of voile is effectively trimmed with hand painting in floral design, applied at the neck and on the sleeves.

Paisley shawls are once more coming into fashion favor. Just now these beautiful articles are being made up into coats and jumper smocks.

Paris says the gauntlet glove is the thing, and is showing many interesting models in suede, with metal ribbon run in and out about the wrist. Bracelet bands of colored kid are also seen on gauntlet gloves.

Knife-plaited frills of white organdie are an effective finish for the short loose sleeve of the blue and black taffeta frock when placed on the inside, so that only about an inch or two shows below the edge of the sleeve.

Decree Longer Skirts in Fall.

The semi-annual meeting of the National Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' association adjourned recently at Cleveland, Ohio, with the adoption of the report of the style committee for women's fall and winter garments. Longer skirts and coats, cut to give slim straight lines, and also give a great deal of latitude to the wearer, is recommended in the style report.

Ribbonized Overblouses.

Ribbonized overblouses resembling flit openwork sweaters of silk and with fringed sleeve and skirt edges are a novelty of the moment. These lend a pleasing note of color to a summer toilette of white lingerie.

POISON LIKE UNTO VENOM OF SNAKES

Professor H. Strauss, M. D., of the Royal Charity Hospital, says: "The cause for an attack of gout, rheumatism, lumbago, is supplied by the increase of uric acid in the blood serum, the result of various causes, the most frequent of which is renal. Before an attack, one suffers sometimes from headache, neuralgia, twinges of pain here and there."

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when the back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you have rheumatic pains or lumbago, gout, sciatica, obtain at your nearest drug store "Anurie" (anti-uric-acid).

This is the discovery of Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. "Anurie" is an antidote for this uric acid poisoning and dissolves uric acid in the body much as hot coffee dissolves sugar.

"Anurie" will penetrate into the joints and muscles, and dissolve the poisonous accumulations. It will stamp out toxins.

Montreal, Que.—"I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's Anurie (anti-uric-acid) enough for what it has done for me. For three months I was under the doctor's care and got no better. I was always complaining of my kidneys. I did not know what to do. I read about Anurie and made up my mind to try it. I have taken two boxes and don't complain any more. I have gained in weight and am still gaining. My appetite is great and sleep has come to me. That is what the Anurie Tablets have done for me. I do truly recommend them to those who are suffering the way I did. The tablets are mighty good, though not expensive. Easy to buy, but hard to beat."—T. A. BROWN, 388 Dorchester St. W.

Middle Aged Women

Women should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, shortness of breath, excessive nervousness, irritability, and the blues—which indicate the approach of the inevitable "Change" that comes to all women nearing middle age. We have published volumes of proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest aid women can have during this trying period.

Read About These Two Women:

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run-down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. Goodwin, 205 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Urbana, Ill.—"During Change of Life, in addition to the annoying symptoms I had an attack of grippe which lasted all winter and left me in a weakened condition. I felt at times that I would never be well again. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it did for women passing through the Change of Life, so I told my doctor I would try it. I soon began to gain in strength and the annoying symptoms disappeared and your Vegetable Compound has made me a well, strong woman so I do all my own housework. I cannot recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly to women passing through the Change of Life."—Mrs. FRANK HANSON, 1516 South Orchard Street, Urbana, Ill.

HOGS AND BACON WILL BE SCARCE

Some farmers have been quick to grasp the lesson for 1921 in the sharp decline lately in the number of breeding sows. A canvass of hog breeders in Ontario in the last two weeks shows that the trade in young stock to replenish the supplies on farms has not for many years been more active than this fall. One well-known breeder in Ontario states he is almost sold out. With twenty-five years' knowledge of the Canadian bacon trade, he attributes this to the fact that farmers have come to understand that there is "sure money" for the man who can breed for litters next spring.

Yet the awakening has to go further. In some sections of the Prairie Provinces the drop was as much as 60 to 75 per cent. compared with two years ago. In the Eastern and Maritime Provinces also marked reductions have been recorded. Not until every farmer understands that it is best to keep secure and to breed at once his normal number of sows will conditions begin to be steadied.

The importance of a quick recovery cannot be over-emphasized. The great harvest of feed grains now available will largely be disposed of at a loss if not fed to live stock. Prices of hogs today compare more favorably with the price of grains than for some time and the demand exceeds the marketings. Canadian overseas markets demand steady support if they are not to be lost.

In no line of live stock is the supply so cut down. It is already certain that hog prices and consequently bacon prices will remain comparatively high next year. Whatever is done to restore supplies must be done quickly. The breeding season for pigs begins in the first week in November and continues only until about the middle of December. If the opportunity is allowed to slip the recovery in numbers will be so retarded that our present cheap foods will be still more cheapened, leading to loss.

THE PLOWING MATCH AT INWOOD

The Plowing Match held at Inwood on Tuesday, October 26th, under the auspices of the Lambton Plowmen's Association was a grand success. From 2,000 to 2,500 farmers attended the contest. The gathering assembled from all parts of the county and from points such as Bothwell, Chatham, Strathroy and other places in adjoining counties.

The competition was keenly contested, especially in the tractor class. The work done by the farm boys would put many of the older plowmen to shame. That a proper crown and finish can be made by the tractor plow was clearly demonstrated.

That there still are plowmen of the old class in the county was demonstrated by the fine work done in the sod class by Mr. H. Johnson, Mr. J. Clarke and Mr. J. Welch. The land was hard and dry. The clay soil was not in good shape for plowing.

The following farm machinery firms were represented with an exhibit of their machines: Fordson, Moline tractor, Cleveland, Brantford, and Hart-Parr tractors; Bisell disc harrows.

The banquet on the evening tendered by the Association to the contestants and their friends was largely attended. About seventy-five sat down to a fine chicken banquet supplied by the Women's Institute. President Johnston Vance presided and outlined the purpose of the Association and their endeavor to make the contest an annual county event. Next year they hope to hold a two-day contest, one day devoted to a machinery demonstration and the second day the plowing contest. Short addresses were given by H. A. Gilroy, Alvinston; Rev. McVicar, Inwood; W. P. Macdonald, Petrolia; J. E. Armstrong, M.P., Petrolia; Leslie Oke M.P.P., Alvinston; B. W. Fansher, Florence; and Chas. Fleck, Petrolia.

LAMBTON GRAND JURY RECOMMENDATIONS

Employment of a man to be continuously on duty throughout the night, to look after the boilers, give general assistance and act as night watchman, repair of the floor in the main lobby of the County Jail, erection of a new iron door in the jail yard and an addition to the laundry at the Hospital, were some of the recommendations contained in the presentment of the Grand Jury at the Fall Assizes following an inspection trip to the jail, hospital, house of refuge, etc.

The Court House, officers' quarters, etc., were found in good sanitary condition and at the House of Refuge the rooms were in good shape and the inmates comfortable, according to the report. Progress in the construction of the new nurses' home was also reported, which it was pointed out will provide needed accommodation for the nursing staff of the hospital. The Grand Jurors were complimented on the expedition with which they accomplished their tasks and the comprehensive presentment submitted before they were discharged by Justice Orde.

PARTICULARS OF MISS BOWIE'S DEATH

(From Alvinston Free Press)
A sad fatality which has cast a sad gloom over the community took place Tuesday afternoon about 4.30 when a Chevrolet car, driven by Miss Mrs. John Bowie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie, of Brooke, met in a head-on collision with train No. 364, eastbound, on the G. T. R. at the second crossing just outside of town, alongside of Darwin Oke's residence.

The deceased had been in town with her sister, who was to take the train from Alvinston which caused her death. After leaving her at the station, she had started on her way home. Along the roadway she picked up two school children, Orval and Annie Wallis, 10 and 9 years, and was going to give them a ride home. From what we can find out she was driving along at a fair rate of speed when she neared the railway and apparently did not notice the train coming. At this point the view of the track is very limited until you get right onto the track, as an orchard and buildings of Mr. Oke hide from view any train coming from the west.

Dr. Axford and Mr. Oke were in the orchard at the time and saw the train coming, also the car. They shouted a warning to her that the train was coming, but she evidently did not hear them until it was too late. The stories are contradictory whether she ran into the train or whether she met the front of the engine head on. But from the fact that the fender on the engine and a step are broken, it is supposed she did not notice the train until she was right upon it. She swerved the car in the direction that the train was going in an effort to save herself but the force of the collision completely overturned the car, demolishing it.

She was thrown clear of the car, up against the fence, where she was found immediately afterwards by Dr. Axford, with a fractured skull. She did not regain consciousness and died in about twenty minutes. The children who were with her escaped in a marvelous manner, the boy being thrown about 120 feet and the girl 90 feet. They suffered no more than a severe shaking up and cannot recollect how they were thrown that way.

Miss Bowie, who was in her 19th year, was well and favorably known throughout this community and her sudden death can hardly be realized by her many friends. The funeral took place Thursday afternoon at Alvinston cemetery.

EYES AND VOICE

By R. RAY BAKER

Roscoe Bates was one of the points of the queerest love triangle on record. At least Roscoe had never heard of its equal.

He was in love with two young women. Nothing remarkable about that, you will say; it's more often that way than not. There's no disputing that. The fact that he was in love with two girls—or thought he was—was not the remarkable thing about Roscoe's romance.

Here's the thing about it: One of the girls Roscoe had never seen and the other he had never heard speak; and he could not tell which of the two was the more desirable. As for that, though, it looked hopeless for him in either case.

Roscoe was better acquainted with "Voice" than with "Eyes." In fact, he did not know Eyes at all. Voice, of course, was the one he talked with over the phone, and Eyes was the one that worked in the same building with him. He had tried in various ways to meet her, but unfortunately the girl was employed in an office entirely separate from the one in which he had a desk, and he had not been able to find one among his fellow workers who knew any of the girl's associates.

Eyes had smiled at him when he met her on the stairway for the first time some ten months ago; and subsequently when he met her, which was frequently, she had greeted him the same way. But it was just a friendly, comradely smile—not the invitation-to-a-flirtation kind—and he was gratified it was that way. Roscoe had liked the girl from the start, and during the months he saw her come and go from the building he became convinced that he loved her—or would love her if he had half a chance. However, he was quite the opposite of forwardness—not exactly timid or bashful, but rather reserved, you might say.

Roscoe's acquaintanceship with Voice started a year back. It was a case of "wrong number." The girl was calling up a newspaper office to get the baseball scores—for it developed she was a "fan"—and had become connected with Roscoe's desk instead. He was a "fan" himself, and had the scores at his tongue's end, so he furnished her with the desired information.

Then he took one of the boldest steps of his life. He told her he would give her the scores every day if she would call him up; in fact, he offered to call her, but she refused to give her number. She accepted his invitation, and soon they became quite friendly in their telephone associations, which at first dealt mainly with baseball "dope," but later widened their scope to other subjects, although never descending to the plane commonly known as "kidding."

Roscoe fell in love with the voice, not in a silly way, but seriously. He was a sentimental youth and the novelty of the situation appealed to him. Still, he was handicapped by his reserve and could not muster the courage, or whatever the missing ingredient might be, to ask the girl's name or seek to meet her.

Thus matters stood when two months later he began meeting Eyes; and he went up in the air, so to speak. Eyes' eyes were as beautiful to look upon as Voice's voice was to hear, and he felt that either of the girls would fit in with his ideas of the ideal.

Roscoe was not a particularly handsome young man; still, he had his attractive features, one of which was his immaculate appearance, while his features were clean-cut, and he had a couple of dimples that stamped him as having a genial disposition. Yes, it was entirely possible for a girl to get in love with Roscoe at first sight, although he did not flatter himself on that score and did not suppose that Eyes gave him more than a passing thought.

As to Roscoe's voice, it had tones that were pleasing enough; at least, there was no harshness connected with his speech. He realized, however, that it possessed no enticing qualities, and he labored under no delusions that Voice had fallen in love with him or was more interested than one enthusiastic baseball fan might be interested in another.

About the time Roscoe had decided he cared the most for Eyes, possibly because she was more tangible than Voice, and perhaps because of his fear that Voice might be quite the opposite of beautiful to look upon, and maybe because Eyes seemed the more elusive, one of his fellow workers came to him with this surprising information:

"I found out who that girl in the red coat is. Her name's Pearl Dixon and she's in Dearborn's office up the stairs. But you haven't a chance, Ros. She's already in love with a fellow. I met her chum, last night, and she told me so."

Roscoe was disheartened, but brightened up when he learned that the next afternoon was to be a half holiday and he would have his first opportunity of the season to witness a baseball game.

Roscoe owned a small roadster which had not yet passed the cranking stage, and in this he motored to the ball grounds. The game was so exciting that he forgot about his love affairs, and after its termination he lingered to discuss with an umpire with whom he was acquainted a technical point on a ruling that had arisen during the diamond conflict.

When Roscoe left the grounds the crowds had vanished, all except a girl in a red coat, who stood outside the gate looking about as though in search of some one. She was Eyes, and she smiled with them when she saw Roscoe.

Roscoe's heart beat violently as he approached her, amazed at his own legerity, lifted his hat and inquired:

"Can I be of service?"
"I don't know," she replied. "I'm looking for my aunt. We got separated in the crowd and I'm afraid she's taken the trolley car thinking I also was on it, and there isn't another car for half an hour."

Roscoe stepped into the breach.
"I'll be glad to escort you home in my—my alleged automobile."

"I'll be equally glad to ride in it, I assure you," she told him sweetly.

Soon they were buzzing along the road—not too fast, for Roscoe wanted to prolong the trip, especially after he discovered there was no ring on the third finger of her left hand.

"Wasn't it a glorious game?" she exclaimed, starting slightly as Roscoe narrowly missed hitting another car, due to the fact that he was looking into Eyes' eyes.

They discussed the game in detail.
"Do you know," she observed, as they whisked into the residential district, heading for an address she furnished, "you remind me a lot of a friend of mine—another baseball fan?"

Roscoe's heart sank.
"That must be the fellow she's in love with," he thought.

"He talks just like you, using the same idioms, and has the same favorite players," she went on.

This gave Roscoe a new lease on hope. If she loved this other man, and the other man was like him, he felt that he had some chance of beating him in a matrimonial duel.

"You should meet him," Eyes continued. "The next corner is where I live, please. Yes, you should meet him, but I could never bring it about."

"And why not?" he inquired, slowing down.
"Because I never met him myself. Probably you'll think I'm a foolish little girl; but for a year I've been in love with a man I've never seen. He gives me the baseball scores over the telephone every day, and—but, of course, it's all useless. I'll never meet him."

The roadster came to a stop in front of her home with such violence that their heads struck the top.
"Thank you so much," she said, as he helped her out. "Maybe I can do something for you some day."

Roscoe gulped and groped for words, finally managing to say:
"You can do something right now. Let me come up and see you tonight, and I'll bring this telephone man of yours along. I'm well acquainted with him."

And Eyes' eyes smiled at him and answered in advance of her lips.

This Never Happened!

It was a woman, of course, who, driving in the middle of the road had forced the mere man to turn his car into the ditch where it churned angrily but fruitlessly. Unlike others of her kind, however, she stopped and apologized profusely. "Well, why didn't you give me room to pass?" wrathfully and ungraciously demanded the victim. "Oh, I admired your car so much when I saw it coming that I simply had to drive over near it to see it better," she explained. "I didn't think you'd mind." But the mere man had fainted.

Forty Mice a Day Owl's Task.
The barn owl, when she has young, brings a mouse to her nest about every twelve minutes. As she is actively employed at both evening and dawn, and as both male and female hunt, forty mice a day is a low computation for the total capture.

PHOTOGRAPH OF SOUL

French Scientist Declares Plates Showed Indications of the Spirit Leaving the Body.

Some years ago Dr. Baraduc of Paris attempted to photograph the soul at the moment of its departure from the body, at death. His wife was lying upon a bed, and from her body issued, at the very moment of dissolution, three white, misty balls, which gradually condensed and consolidated into one—being bound together, apparently by white threads. Hereward Carrington writes in Leslie's. Dr. Baraduc took photographs, on specially prepared plates, every fifteen minutes for three hours after death, and on all these plates obtained these markings—showing the gradual process of the withdrawal of the soul from the body, and its final detachment therefrom some hours later. These photographs represent so far as we can see, the first successful actual photographs which have been taken of the departure of the soul from the body at the moment of death. They are not, however, the first "psychic" photographs which have been made, since Dr. Durville, in France, and others, have obtained successful markings upon photographic plates, of radiations issuing from the human body. Dr. McDougall of Haverhill, Mass., also, some years ago, succeeded (apparently) in weighing the soul at the moment of death. He found that it weighed about two and a quarter ounces. He placed the patient, bed and all, upon a delicate balance; and, at the very moment of death, the balance showed a sudden and unaccountable loss of between two and two and a half ounces.

"I thought it was too far-fetched."

FOAL CONSTIPATION

Retention of the Meconium in Foals Very Common.

Symptoms Described—Anticipation of the Trouble Advised and Mechanical Treatment Suggested—Live Stock Notes.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

DURING foetal life the liver of the foal is active. It secretes a limited quantity of bile, which after being conveyed to the small intestine becomes formed into dark-colored balls of various sizes and different densities. These pass backwards and occupy the intestines. The substance is called the "meconium." At birth the rectum is usually full and both the large and small intestine contain a considerable quantity. Under normal conditions a quantity of this substance is voided shortly after birth and at frequent intervals afterwards until it has all been voided and the excreta voided afterwards is of a yellow color. The appearance of yellow faeces always indicates that the meconium has been all voided and that the excreta appearing is the effete material of nourishment taken after birth. This condition should be present at about 24 hours after birth. In many cases, either through want of sufficient expulsive force or by reason of some lumps of meconium being so large that the animal cannot force them through the anus, the substance is not voided. Retention of meconium probably causes more deaths in foals than any other condition.

Symptoms.—The foal elevates the tail, arches the back, and makes ineffectual efforts to defecate. At first he does not appear to suffer acutely, but as time passes he becomes uneasy, the efforts are more violent and more frequent, he refuses to nurse normally, and later on will not nurse at all; lies a great deal evidently suffering acutely, becomes more uneasy and weak and dies in a variable time.

Treatment.—Some breeders give a laxative or purgative immediately after birth as a preventive. This, we consider, is a mistake, as it often causes acute diarrhoea, which is always serious and often fatal.

When we know that the trouble is in the rectum and that drugs given by the mouth have little or no effect upon the contents of this organ, we can readily see that by increasing the actions of the interior intestines, but not removing the cause of trouble, is very liable to cause serious complications, in cases where retention is present. In most cases the trouble can be removed mechanically, by the attendant carefully trimming with the nail of his forefinger (in order to avoid scarifying the lining membrane of the rectum) inserting the finger into the rectum and removing all of the meconium he can reach. Then giving an injection of a few ounces of warm soapy water or water and oil or glycerine. This to be repeated at intervals of 4 to 6 hours, or oftener if symptoms indicate a necessity, until the faeces become yellow. The condition is not so often noticed in foals whose dams have had considerable grass before parturition, as in those of dams who have been on dry food.

It is probably wise for the attendant to anticipate the trouble and mechanically remove the meconium of all foals shortly after birth. When carefully done it cannot injuriously affect the colt, it avoids trouble and at least relieves the foal of the necessary efforts to void the substance.

A Pill That is Prized.—There have been many pills put upon the market and pressed upon public attention, but few have endured so long or met with so much favor as Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Wide-spread use of them has attested their great value, and they need no further advertisement than this. Having firmly established themselves in public esteem, they now rank as one of the best in the list of standard vegetable preparations.

CONTRITION IN TIME.
"Arriving nine o'clock Saturday," says the telegram. But there are two nine o'clocks in Saturday, one in the morning and the other at night. Time as it is now told may be confusing. That's why England is trying out a twenty-four-hour clock in Greenwich. If it is adopted it will do away with the confusing a.m.'s and p.m.'s.

Clock faces will be enlarged to accommodate the twenty-four hour marks and the usual Roman numerals will very likely disappear, Arabic numerals taking their places.

Whether thirteen o'clock will represent the day or night time one o'clock of old has not been announced.

Don't Sell Thin Chickens.
There is absolutely no excuse for selling young chickens from the farm as thin as some people do. The amount of corn that will make a pound of pork will also make a pound of chicken that is always worth considerably more than the former.

Live Stock Notes.

Cattle relish a change of pasture. If the mares are working hard, a little grain fed the colts will keep them in good heart for wintering over.

Brood sows may be inexpensively wintered over in colony if a good supply of bedding is available. Warmer quarters should be provided the stock bear. Exercise for both means better litters.

Many good horses are ruined by care not being taken to slacken the ration when the heavy work closes up.

Condition lost by cattle being left out on cold and wet nights will need to be made up later by expensive grain feeding.

Stabling and yarding should now be the rule on most farms. The young things and dry cows may find some pasture in the fields, but as a rule the "top" on clovers and grasses is needed for winter protection and is better on the plants than inside the stock.

Stables should be put in shape for the winter. Do not forget to whitewash the walls and wash the windows to let in plenty of winter sunlight. This job is preferably done after threshing, as the dust from threshing tends to settle in stables, especially of the "Bank-Barn" style, which are all too common on Canadian dairy farms. Under a barn, and especially when housed with other animals, is not an ideal place for milch cows.

Select the Breeding Poultry Stock.

In selecting the male always look for a vigorous, active bird, whose head is broad with a comb of bright red color. The sides of the shanks or legs should show considerable red color. Be sure that such a bird has a well-muscled breast that is straight. If possible secure one bred from a laying hen.

All that has been said of the male applies to the female. Most laying hens do not develop much internal fat on what is commonly called a crop behind. Those of the yellow-legged broods lose much of this color, and those broods having white ear lobes show very little, if any, cream color in them if the bird is a good layer.

LOOK!

If you were told of a new discovery for the treatment of coughs, colds and bronchitis, as certain in its action on all chest troubles as anti-toxin is on diphtheria, or vaccination on small-pox, wouldn't you feel like giving it a trial?

Peps is the discovery!
Peps are little tablets, containing certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapour, and are at once breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps innes get there direct, and at once commence their work of healing.

FREE TRIAL. Cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c. stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps, 50c. box.

AN ENERGETIC SCHOOL TEACHER

The Dresden Times of last week says:—"On the evening of Monday, October 11th, Mrs. Bruce Marwick, assistant teacher of the Continuation School, unfortunately had a fainting spell, followed by a nervous breakdown. The attending physician ordered absolute quietness until the end of the week at least. The following week her condition had not even improved enough for her to rise from her bed for any length of time; but she decided that her pupils were losing valuable time. Consequently, she arranged the front of her home to accommodate any one "ferry" and actually taught lying on a davenport. While every one sincerely hopes that she will soon recover, Mrs. Marwick's condition has been serious, and the citizens of Dresden, especially the parents of the pupils and the pupils themselves, should be very grateful to her for this ambitious act, and Dresden should congratulate itself on having a teacher who takes so much interest in her students."

BOSANQUET COUNCIL

Council met on the 4th inst. Minutes of last meeting confirmed. The engineer's report for the repair of the Haney drain was read and considered, and laid over until next regular meeting for further consideration. Bylaws were passed to collect $56 from the lands and roads assessed for the outlet of the Duffus drain, and $264.04 overdraft on the Hilborn drain, to refund balances on the South Boundary and Mud Creek drains and appointing Wm. Brander tax collector. The May drain bylaw was finally passed and Mr. Vivian and Mr. Russell appointed commissioners. A number of accounts were ordered to be paid. Council adjourned to meet on Monday, Nov. 1st, at 10 a.m., as a Court of Revision on the Gray drain and for general business. The Court of Revision on the Elliott-Moloy drain reduced Jas. Elliott's assessment $70, John Elliott's $25, Geo. Davidson's $7 and Geo. Jamieson's $5. Wm. Fleming's and Joe Moloy's were each raised $37.00 and Wm. Rowcliffe was assessed $27 and Wm. Rutherford $5. With these changes the assessments were confirmed. The Grand Trunk Railway appeal to the Judge against their assessment will be heard on Nov. 9.

RICH, RED BLOOD NECESSARY TO HEALTH

When the Blood Becomes Weak and Watery a Tonic is Needed to Build It Anew.

Why are we being continually told that good, health-giving blood must be bright red? What has color to do with the quality? Just this—the oxygen in the air is a great supporter of all organic life. One function of the blood is to take the oxygen from the air—which it meets in the lungs—and deliver it to the tissues of the body. When the blood, filled with life-sustaining oxygen, is sent out by the heart, it is bright red. When it returns, impure and deprived of oxygen, it is dark.

You will see, therefore, that there are two prime requisites of health. Pure air and bright red blood—the pure air to furnish the oxygen, the rich, red blood to carry it where it is needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make your blood rich and red because they increase its power to carry oxygen, actually making it so much more able to carry increased life and strength to every organ in the body. Pale anemic people whose nerves are on edge, whose cheeks are pale, and who tire out easily, should try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and note the steady improvement that follows their use. A case in point is that of Mrs. J. P. Rolston, South River, Ont., who says:—"About two years ago my system was in a badly run down condition and I kept growing worse all the time until I could hardly do my housework. I had severe headaches and pains across my back and under my left shoulder. I did not sleep well and would feel just as tired when I got up in the morning as when I went to bed. Life seemed a burden. I had taken doctor's medicine for a long time, but it did not meet my case, at least it did me no good. Then as a result of reading about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I decided to try them. When I had taken a couple of boxes I felt much better and when I had taken five boxes more I felt that I was again a well woman. I have not since felt any return of the trouble and I advise all women who are broken in health to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
