The ceremony was private and at the church of St. John the Evangelist, at Winthrop, Rev. Fr. Griffin being the officiating clergyman. The bride was attended by her friend, Miss Mollie Mulburn of Boston, and Mr. Boque had as best man Peter P. Porter of Boston. The bride and her attendant were attired in travelling costume and only the immediate families of the bride and groom were present. After the ceremony there was a wedding lunch and later Mr. and Mrs. Boque departed amidst a shower of good wishes, on a bridal tour to the White Mountains, through Canada and will return by the way of Lake Winnepesaukee. #### Many Wept at Funeral of Father Dollard

Further particulars of the death of Rev. Wm. Dollard, and of his funeral have been received. Father Dollard's death, which was caused by pneumonia, complicated by neuralgia of the heart, took place at the rectory of South Street, where he was stationed. Some weeks previously he contracted a cold but continued to attend to his duties until the Feast of the Assumption, when, after celebrating mass, he complained of feeling ill. Still no serious apprehensions were entertained and his friends saw him as usual until the evening before his death. All Monday night he suffered from difficulty in breathing. At 3 o'clock the following morning, feeling better, he insisted upon the stars retiring. An hour later the pastor, Father Gorman, coming into the room, perceived a change for the worse and quickly administered the last sacraments. Father Dollard passed peacefully away a few minutes later.

The body lay in the rectory watched by members of the congregation until Thursday afternoon when it was transferred to the Church of St. Teresa, which had been heavily draped with black. The body slightly raised in the coffin, robed in vestments and holding the chalice erect in both hands lay in state all Thursday night when members of the societies and the congregation watched beside it. The office for the soul, followed by high mass, began at 9 o'clock on Friday morning. Besides the brother, Rev. James Dollard, who celebrated mass, there were twenty-three priests present in the sanctuary. Father Murphy of Springfield, in delivering the eulogical sermon, paid a fervent tribute to a genius and virtues of the dead. "His genius," he said, "was not, but whose heart was greater."

After Father Gorman and the attending clergy had given the last blessing, the congregation were invited to say farewell, many of them sobbing aloud as they followed by Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets. Pain simply means congestion—undue blood pressure at the point where pain exists. Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets quickly equalize this unnatural blood pressure, and pain immediately departs. #### MORE TROUBLE ON SHORE LINE

About one hundred Italians who are working on a gravel train at Lepreau went out on strike last evening. Yesterday was pay day on the N. B. Southern and when the Italians did not receive their money they threw down their shovels and demanded that they should be brought to St. John. After dressing in a boarding car there was a free fight in which fifty took part. One Italian is reported to have been badly cut with a knife.

After order had been restored the party boarded a special train that had been sent down and came to St. John. There was considerable excitement at the N. B. Southern station this morning when a band of Italians about two hundred strong took charge of the station and demanded their money from Percy Wetmore, who is in charge of the station. Mr. Wetmore told them they would be paid at the C. P. R. station at Sand Point. This satisfied the gang and they started on parade up Rodney wharf headed by Trackmaster Theo. Stears. At the C. P. R. station the men received what was coming to them. Trackmaster Stears had a special train waiting on the main line to convey them back to work. About 70 boarded the train and left for Lepreau while others who did not care to return said they would secure employment in the city. A lively scrap took place back of the C. P. R. shed at Sand Point between two of the Italians who remained. The fight is said to have started over a dress suit case. One of the Italians who engaged in the battle had his eye badly cut.

A weak stomach, causing dyspepsia, a weak heart with palpitation or intermittent pulse, always means weak stomach nerves or weak heart nerves. Strengthen these inside or controlling nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly these ailments disappear. Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. will mail samples free. Write for them. A test will tell. Your health is certainly worth this simple trial. Sold by All Dealers.

WHITE SQUAW'S MYSTERY

(By J. Marvin Nichols.)

Seventy long years have gone by since Cynthia Ann Parker was lost to civilization. In the days when old Fort Parker was destroyed this great State of Texas had a population of only 30,000. They were harassed by over 8,000 hostile redskins, chief of whom were the Comanches and Apaches. Over 8,000 semi-civilized Indians roamed the prairies, the most friendly being the Cheyennes and Chickasaws. Most of our frontier history is rapidly passing away as the old pioneers one by one cross the great divide. Like the lost mines of the adventurous Spaniards, vast historical treasures of the Texas heroes. It was lately my fortune to know and talk with one of the veterans who was with the party that captured Quannah Parker. From him I got the story of the white squaw and her boy—chief of all the Comanche tribes.

In the fall of 1832 the Parker family moved from Cole county, Illinois, to Texas. The elder Parker was a Virginian by birth. He lived for a while in Georgia, but raised his family in the hills of old Bedford county, Tennessee. It was from this country in 1818 that he moved to Illinois—then a country far west. To speak of Texas, even in the '30's, was but to mention the land toward the setting sun. It had a far, far away sound. But the elder Parker and his sons dreamed of the distant lands on the frontier, and they came to build their altars in a howling wilderness. And what is more strange, they came to be massacred by the Comanches, whose savage braves were destined to be ruled over by the blood of the very family they sought to wipe out in that terrible raid.

These pioneers built Parker's Fort on the headwaters of the Navasota and about sixty miles west of the settlements. It was a blockhouse, built about a mile west of the river and about two and one-half miles northwest of the mouth of Groesbeck. The fort was established in 1834. At the time the Indians made their deadly raid, May 19, 1836, following were in the fort: The Parkers, Plummers, Nikols, Kelloggs, Frosts, Drights and the Paulingburgs. Mrs. Duty, Silas Bates and Abram Anglin, representing twenty-two adults and some fifteen or more children. They were all in the fort on the night of the 18th, the night before the raid.

It was 9 o'clock on the morning of May 19, 1836, that tragic day, like so many others that have made Texas a soil reddened by her martyrs' blood. What would our nation be today if it were not for these bloody chapters of the fall of forts and the capture of the men on such fields as Goliad and San Jacinto? To tell the story of these battles and our Alamo around our firesides is to teach our sons that they're born of Spartan blood.

James V. Parker, Nixon, the two Paulingburgs, Bates and Anglin were off to the fields some distance in the morning. Suddenly, as if rising from the very dust, hundreds of Indians were seen riding toward the fort. They came with 300 yards and, having halted, raised a white flag. Benjamin Parker went out to treat with them. He came back and said that he believed the Indians intended to fight, but that he would treat with them again. He went, but he never returned. Pandemonium set in. Amid screams and shrieks and blood-chilling war whoops the whole band charged the fort.

NEW YORK IN 1833. Information from the Pages of an Old Business Directory. A pictorial directory of New York city published on the occasion of the world's fair in 1853, contains much information in text and illustration relating to the smaller metropolises of fifty-eight years ago. The publication is a professional life of the city included 900 physicians, 500 brokers, 1,300 lawyers, and more than 4,300 grocers. The directory contains scores of advertisements of business firms that have long passed out of existence. Old hotels like the Clinton House in Coleman street, the Irving House at Chambers street and Broadway and the Mansion House in Broadway, are described and their services and menus are properly praised. A wood cut shows the Trinity Building of that period, with the church and the church to the south and the importing house of Freeman & Bright to the north at 113 Broadway.

NO MAN'S LAND. It is known as No Man's Land, as it belongs to no country, Norway or Sweden being unable to agree as to its possession. Last year about half a million dollars worth of oil, furs and other goods were obtained from the island. Some authority ought soon to take possession of the archipelago, for the game—such as reindeer, polar bears, Ptarmigan, geese, ducks and other birds—formerly so plentiful is being exterminated. A party of tourists wintered on the island, and one of them killed more than 100 reindeer, leaving the carcasses where they fell and taking with them only a few of the finest heads and antlers. Elderly ducks were also shot, and the water was so polluted by the refuse that it was impossible to drink. In Greenland elk ranch. Man Who Started It Says Elk Are as Easy to Handle as Cattle or Horses. 'Oy Dick! Oy Dick!' As the lusty lugged Colorado rancher sends the cry echoing up from the quaking asp bottoms there is a sudden crashing in the underbrush. A tinkling bell draws nearer, and soon there dashes into the open glade a magnificent cow elk. About his neck is a bell, but otherwise there is nothing to hint that he has not sprung from the wilds. The cracking of the underbrush grows louder and there comes some more elk breaking through into the open and stark staring at the human intruders. They make a magnificent picture against the green bushes of the creek bottom, says the Denver Republican. It is not for the fact that in the hiding with their young there would be in the creek bottom or watching proceedings from the opposite bluff, for this is the great Littlefield elk ranch of northern Colorado—the most magnificent elk preserve in the world.

Lighting Speed. A Munich firm has just run a locomotive and train weighing 285 tons from Munich to Augsburg at an average speed of 81 miles an hour. There isn't a whole lot of difference between being misunderstood and being unintelligible.

SHIPS' COMPASSES. Period of Swing Much Greater Than Formerly Was. M. Holden gives a summary of the guiding principles underlying the construction of the modern mariner's compass. It is now generally recognized that the effective way of avoiding the disturbing influence of the compass needle is to increase the period of swing. The old normal compass of the different navies has a period of 18 seconds, while the new standard universal Kelvin pattern has a period of 32 seconds. The equality of mechanical movement about various horizontal axis brought about by the subdivision of the compass into several needles, mounted parallel to each other at various distances from the center of the latter is increased by the use of the latter by placing the mass of the compass at the margin, the central portion consisting practically of silk threads only. Another successful method of providing the required steadiness is that of employing a liquid in which the needle floats. The liquid usually employed is a mixture of alcohol and water. The magnetic system has, of course, to be much stronger owing to the viscosity of the liquid. The standard deviation by masses of soft iron can only be obviated by means of a needle induction. In the German navy, soft iron masses are attached to the compass box itself.

But as the country grew more settled the elk were killed off. To-day, in a land where one could see bands of thousands of elk ten years ago, one can travel for weeks without seeing one of the noblest animals of the Rocky Mountain game country. The elk are practically exterminated as far as Colorado is concerned, and it is only a question of a few years until they are exterminated in Jackson's Hole, Wyo., their last stand.

Fortunately, however, Mr. Littlefield had begun to work out a scheme for a large elk preserve. From a small beginning fourteen years ago his elk herd has increased until he has a magnificent herd. The animals thrive here as they will not thrive in a city park, because they are in their natural surroundings. The Littlefield elk range is in the heart of their old feeding ground. Part of it is in creek bottoms thickly covered with the delicate ferns that grow in such places, and part of it is in mountainous. Here the elk wander over hill and dale, getting the food they like best and being molested very little by man. In the background are the snow-capped peaks of the Sierra Nevada range which cannot be seen when the elk preserve without getting some pictures of surpassing beauty when it is seen from the preserve.

It was now 1838. Major Earl Van Dorn, with some United States Dragoons was preparing to leave Fort Belknap. The famous Van Dorn was a man of all the herculean qualities. He was a man, and old-time cattlemen in no way Barret Littlefield was one of the most daring riders in Rocky country. When his elk herd began to increase he had all his cattle and now depotes it entirely to the preservation and education of those noble creatures of his.

Colorado Elk Ranch. Man Who Started It Says Elk Are as Easy to Handle as Cattle or Horses. 'Oy Dick! Oy Dick!' As the lusty lugged Colorado rancher sends the cry echoing up from the quaking asp bottoms there is a sudden crashing in the underbrush. A tinkling bell draws nearer, and soon there dashes into the open glade a magnificent cow elk. About his neck is a bell, but otherwise there is nothing to hint that he has not sprung from the wilds. Ballon Business is Good. A visit to the balloon factory of Mr. Stevens the other day was rather surprising. No less than eleven balloons were found, either completed or in course of construction. One of 80,000 cubic feet capacity is for the United States Government. J. C. McCoy, one of the representatives of America in the Gordon Bennett race this year, is having one built of 30,000 cubic feet. Another of 60,000 cubic feet goes to a Mr. Baxter in Florida. Still another goes to far off Johannesburg, South Africa. Elmer Van Rankin, of Gloversville, N.Y., is having an airship built which will contain 9,000 cubic feet of hydrogen. Two captive balloons have gone to an enterprise called the young men's Exposition. The other purchasers are Oscar Hendler, James H. Hare, Joseph Call and William Chalder—American Magazine of Aeronautics. The Yosemite Valley Railroad has been finished from Merced on the South Pacific to the Yosemite National Park, a distance of 85 miles. It rises 1,000 feet in that distance.

LAWN SLEEVES IN THE LORDS.

The phrase lawn sleeve has long familiar usage become identified with the Bishop of the House of Lords. The apparel of the lords spiritual consists of two separate habits. The first is the rochet, a long, loose garment of fine white lawn, over which the white silk robe, also full length, is worn. The white lace of the rochet is the lawn sleeve of the under garment.

Desires wearing these distinctive robes, says the Archbishop of York and twenty-four seats also from the rest of the assembly. They sit together on reserved benches immediately to the right of the woolsack. There are twenty-four lords spiritual in Parliament—the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Archbishop of York and twenty-two Bishops. That has been their number ever since the time of Henry VIII. Until the middle of the nineteenth century that included the entire number of the English Bishops. By that time population had increased and new bishoprics were established, but by act of Parliament the number of seats in the House of Lords remained the same.

The lords spiritual had introduced into the House of Lords with the elaborate ceremonial of the introduction of a new temporal peer. He walks in between two other Bishops, and going up to the woolsack drops on his right knee and prostrate his writ of summons to the Lord Chancellor. Then his secretary, without further formality, conducts him to his place on the Bishop's bench.

One remarkable privilege enjoyed by all peers is not so-called the Bishop's. If a peer were charged with felony the court for his trial would be the House of Lords, but if an Archbishop or Bishop were indicted for felony he would be tried in the Criminal Courts before a Judge and Jury. In the trial of a peer he is not entitled to a jury, but the Peer is using trial by his peers. The Bishop is restricted by their constitutional obligations from the full exercise of their judicial functions.

The lords spiritual are, indeed, the oldest of the three estates of the realm. In the beginning of Parliament the House of Lords was made up of the Bishops, the Abbots and priors of outstanding houses, who formed the oldest order of nobility. Prior to the Reformation there were two Archbishops, four Bishops, twenty-six Abbots and two Priors in the House of Lords. In the sixteenth century the lords spiritual were reduced to the present number of twenty-four Bishops. The spiritual lords were excluded from Parliament for twenty years until the Restoration in 1660, when they were called to the throne by what is called the Convention Parliament in 1689. It was immediately dissolved and a new Parliament was called in 1689, which was the first of the House of Commons since the Restoration.

RECENT STUDIES IN EVOLUTION Progression in Many Ways Noted by Scientists

The flowers came upon our earth before the insects; they had, therefore, when the latter appeared, to fit an entirely new machinery to the habits of these unexpected collaborators. This ecological incontestable fact alone, and that we do not know, is enough to establish evolution; and does not this vague word mean, after all, mutation, modification, intelligent process, etc.?

DR. PUGSLEY CHOSEN AS MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS

Graham as Minister of Railways

OTTAWA, Aug. 29.—At noon tomorrow Hon. William Pugsley will be sworn in as a member of the Dominion government in succession to Hon. H. R. Emmerson and will take the portfolio of Public Works.

HIS LEGAL CAREER

Entering on the study of law he was admitted to the New Brunswick bar in 1872 and soon rose to a prominent position in his profession, of which he is now the recognized leader in this province.

In the earlier years of his legal career, from 1873 to 1883, Dr. Pugsley served as reporter of the supreme court, rendering excellent work in that capacity. He was associated in the law business in St. John with his brother, the late Gilbert Pugsley, a late Hon. J. H. Crawford, who was licitor general for some years, and A. Freeman, the present judge of probate in this city, the firm being known as Pugsley, Crawford, Pugsley and Freeman.

In recent years, however, Dr. Pugsley has practiced on his own account, and has been associated with most of the eminent cases tried in the courts, in the circuit and in the appeal. He is regarded as a singularly able lawyer, and his services are eagerly sought as counsel. He was created a Q. C. in 1891.

It would appear that the selection made by the government, and town Council, of the school trustees gives general satisfaction, and it is conceded that, some of the board at least, will work for the welfare of those directly interested—the whole public—

It is safe to say, that nothing comes nearer to our hearts and homes than the education of our children. The future general of the board at least, will work for the welfare of those directly interested—the whole public—

It is safe to say, that nothing comes nearer to our hearts and homes than the education of our children. The future general of the board at least, will work for the welfare of those directly interested—the whole public—

DR. PUGSLEY

Again, not only is it necessary, to deal successfully with school affairs, to have the trustees in their generous work, and men who are interested in educational matters as trustees, but it is imperative that the schools should be replete with every modern appliance for the well being of the pupils, and also that the faculty, engaged to teach these pupils, should be of the very highest ability obtainable. To this end it is absolutely necessary that petty family jealousies and other matters not conducive to the welfare of the schools should be dropped. Help the trustees in their generous work, and don't be niggardly with them. The greatest bequest that parents can leave their children is a sound education. What are a few mills, here or there, in taxes, to be considered against the importance of having our children thoroughly educated. The honor and stability of the country was entrusted to you by your forefathers, and this trust, in the ordinary source of nature, will descend to your children.

house of commons in 1896, but with D. J. McLaughlin of St. John contested that city in the federal contest that year as an independent, running on the platform "Justice for St. John" on the winter past question. Dr. Pugsley and his colleague were not elected, but they helped defeat the Conservative candidates, J. D. Hazen and John A. Chesley, who gave place to the Liberal nominees, John V. Ellis and Col. Tucker.

BACK TO THE ASSEMBLY

In 1899 Dr. Pugsley returned to the legislature as member for Kings, and was re-elected in the last election in 1903.

On the retirement of Hon. H. R. Emmerson from the premiership in September, 1900, and the reconstruction of the government under the leadership of Hon. L. J. Tweedie on the 5th of March last and his appointment as lieutenant governor, Dr. Pugsley was called next day to premiership, which position he held until the 31st day of May, when he resigned his position both as premier and attorney general upon his acceptance of the nomination by the Liberal party to contest the by-election for the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. A. A. Stockton, M. P.

Dr. Pugsley led the house through the session last winter with great ability, turning over the reins of office, when the federal call came, to Hon. Clifford Robinson. He has not yet resigned his seat in the legislature though, but this step will no doubt be taken almost immediately.

Dr. Pugsley was married in 1876 to Miss Fannie Parks, daughter of the late Thos. Parks of St. John, and his family consists of two sons, Wm. Gilbert, who was graduated from U. B. B. in 1904 and after studying law in Oxford and the St. John Law School is to be admitted to the N. B. bar in November next, and John Archer Thomas, the eldest son, died three years ago.

Hon. Geo. Graham of Brockville will take the oath of office as a minister and will take over the portfolio of Railways and Canals.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham came to Ottawa from Brockville late this afternoon, accompanied by Daniel Derbyshire, member for that constituency. They called upon Sir Wilfrid at his office and Mr. Graham accepted Sir Wilfrid's offer to enter the government. At the same time Mr. Derbyshire tendered his resignation of the Brockville seat opening a constituency for Mr. Graham. Mr. Graham now represents Brockville in the Ontario legislature, and it is believed that he will be returned for the constituency without contest.

Commercialism is that which more than anything else characterizes the spirit of the age. It seems to have invaded every sphere of human activity.

The professions, the arts, our social conditions, as well as our business enterprises, are tagged all over with the money label.

The typical man of the hour is the one who seems to know the intrinsic value of nothing, but can tell you the selling price of everything—from the conscience of a politician upward. What can I gain by the proposition seems to be the standard of success. Men are beginning to take a larger vision of such a question as this than ever before. "Will it pay?" means more today than it did 25 years ago.

The past year in Canadian public life will be memorable in the history of our National life, as a year of reconstructed ideals. Principles that for too long a time have been at a discount, have become re-enhanced in value, and their supreme place in National life and prestige recognized. Is it not too much to say that the revelations of these past months, following one after another in quick succession, in almost every branch of commercial and industrial enterprise, shocking as many of them may have been to the moral sense, have nevertheless cleansed the moral atmosphere, so that the young man of today enters up his public career in a more wholesome atmosphere or environment than at any time in the past quarter of a century.

The man who deliberately makes lying statements, and runs from store to store relating every little bit of foolish gossip he hears, is not wanted in any community. ## Satisfactory Clothing for Boys

This season has developed numerous innovations for the betterment of Boys' Clothing, and careful analysis will welcome the distinctly novel features that characterize our Fall Display. A healthy boy is an active boy, and it is marvellous what an extraordinary amount of rough usage to which the substance has called in the strenuous exertions of every day life. With this thought before us, we endeavored to select garments that possessed all the prestige and attraction of prevailing modes, but, more than that, had a strength and durability that would insure satisfactory service. Our efforts are well rewarded, for the line we have now assembled is beyond comparison from every view point of style, quality, and staying power. If all the boys here would buy The Lion Brand, we don't think there would be a better dressed lot of boys in Canada. Our new styles better than anything we have ever shown. Better fitting, better made Boys' Suits are not made in Canada today, and we are the only people here selling this famous brand. Come to us boys for your new Fall Suit; all styles and all prices. The Lion Brand label on the suit is a guarantee that they are good.

Celluloid Starch. Throw Away Millions. "I will remember when I was a boy that our farmers considered a good cotton positive nuisance and of no earthly account," said T. B. Brison, of Texas. "Year after year these despised seeds were thrown away by people who were ignorant that at some future day they would add millions of dollars to the value of the cotton crop of the South. I shudder to think of the vast sum that was lost to our section ere this was ascertained. Nowadays the planter regards his seeds as a big asset, for they bring him at present prices not less than $15 a ton. All over the South cottonseed oil mills have been put up, all of which are making good money for their owners. They not only get a valuable oil, worth 55 cents a gallon, but after its extraction produce a meal from the kernel that is made into cakes and exported to all the markets of the world. This meal is one of the finest and most nutritious articles that is used for feeding animals. Even the hulls of the seed are valued for fattening cattle and bring a good price."—Washington Herald.

Among his feats of marksmanship the following "simple exploit" we are told, are performed. He can suspend a bottle by a string, shoot and cut the string and then break the bottle with another shot before it hits the ground. With a small caliber gun and a large lead pencil he can knock a lead pencil from the pencil in the air, and not injure the covering. A favorite pastime was to start a barrel rolling down a hill, put a bullet through the bung hole time the barrel turns over. This shooting—Greenbrier Spectator.

Haunted by Banana Skins

WILLIAM LYTLE, of San Francisco, is haunted, pursued and terrified by a plague of banana skins. For nearly two years he has lived in terror of injury from the peelings of the fruit...

There is one of the strangest mysteries the world ever has known back of the tragedy situation in which Lytle finds himself—a mystery which he has striven vainly to solve.

First Accident Broke His Wrist. In March, 1935, while he was walking down Van Ness avenue, near Geary, he slipped on a banana peel, fell, and fractured his left wrist.

His Shoulder Second Time. It happened until May, when he was walking on a street in San Francisco, he tripped on a piece of banana peel and crashed to the floor, injuring his broken shoulder again.

Lytile, however, believed that some practical joker had thrown a banana peel in his path to tease him, and was hiding his act through fear of discharge.

Mysterious Banana Skins in His Room. Lytle glanced around the room. The transom over the door was the only thing open, and he jumped at the conclusion that someone must have thrown the peeling through that as the gas went out.

He stepped on a banana peeling and broke his arm. The story of that accident was printed, and it finished his affair with the girl in Golden Gate avenue.

On the morning of the great earthquake Lytle, who had been driven almost mad by the mysterious series of banana skin accidents, was playing bridge in a club on O'Connell street.

Early in June he was able to limp around with a cane. One day he started to go across town and got a view of the ruins and see the new town that had sprung up on his hill tops.

Lytile remained helpless for almost two months—but the days of his convalescence were happy ones. To his sweet heart, who had been taken from him and restored to him by banana skins, he told the entire story and they agreed that since one accident had proved lucky for both, the chances were that he would have no more trouble.

It was the wedding day. The wedding day was set for Dec. 18, and the young couple planned to go east for the wedding trip and spend Christmas with Lytle's family at Columbus, O., before going on to New York.

Lytile paid his bill and moved to another house on Fillmore street—which was nearer her house, anyhow. It happened that, when his trunk arrived, only one expression came with them, and Lytle, being at home, volunteered to assist in bringing the trunk upstairs.

The second landing he slipped on a banana peeling and went down under the door. He was badly hurt, and laid up for several weeks. He was afraid of his fiancée, who was sitting with her suspicious. In fact, this story started through the grape vine about accidents through banana peeling in other young men, who did the worst possible thing and went out for a time.

itor passes to and fro among the whirring creels or the crashing looms, but then the Japanese smile is an enigmatical thing and, as has been written, "the Japanese can smile in the teeth of death, and usually does."

Some say the workers of Japan will rise and will demand for themselves the same rights and privileges already conceded to their fellow workers in the West—but the day is not yet. Before that time comes Japan will have dispelled once for all the illusion that she is a trifler in toy lanterns and paper fans, and will have vindicated her claim to be regarded as one of the manufacturing nations of the world.

HOW SALMON ARE CANNED. Even One of the Small Canneries Handles 10,000 Fish Daily.

Nobody unfamiliar with the Pacific Coast can realize in vast enormous numbers the quantity of salmon which are packed in tin cans.

When the fishing boats have taken their haul they set sail for the stevedores and the salmon is flung out in great bags—hundreds, thousands of them—on the pier, where they are weighed, packed in boxes, and taken to the cannery.

In Vancouver in the coming season it is almost impossible to get so many for cooks as generally Chinese, and they like to be more abundant, with deep red flesh, and high wages and are sure of being well looked after when the salmon has gone down to the sea and the work is shut off next year.

Why Latin is Used by Physicians. "I don't see," said the man who was leaning against the drug store counter, "why a doctor can't write his prescription in English instead of Latin."

Amusing Specimens Selected From a Scrapbook. Among Clyde Grant's amusing collection of scrap books there is one devoted to typographical errors, says the New York Tribune.

Errors of the Types. A country paper, after telling how a row got in from a train, said: "As the safest course under the circumstances, the engine put on full steam, dashed into the bridge, and literally cut it into two halves."

Good Night. Good night, dear friend; a good night to you. I heard them whisper softly, "This is my friend; he will give me a happy resting place."

How Indians Van Deer Skin. The skin dressing of the Indians, both buffalo and deer skins, is generally very beautiful and soft. They stretch the skin either on a frame or on the ground, and after it has remained there for three or four days, with the grains spread over the fleshy side, they bring it with a sort of size or oil.

Mrs. Eliza Mitchell and Miss Annie Barrett have gone on a trip to Boston this week.
A sad event occurred here on Sat. eve. Aug. 24. The ladies intended to hold their regular Ice Cream sale in the Old Church Hall and get their stuff all mixed ready to freeze, but the ice did not arrive. They sent by Harry to Eastport for the ice but he did not appear on time. They waited until eight o'clock and then they sang the old familiar hymn bringing in the shovels and still no ice. Jim said they better stop pulling for the shovels but that did not bring ice. One man then said that if they would put a bottle of liquor in the mixture he would deliver the whole morning stuff. But Alice said they would wait if they had to wait till Christmas. But the crowd got tired waiting so they sang the old song "Where is my wandering Boy tonight?" and then left for home with the determination that they would get the ice first before they mixed the stuff again.
Talking about ice puts me in mind of Fred, he went to St. George the other afternoon and bought five cents worth of ice to make some ice cream when I got home, but on his way down he called in at Letang school house where they were holding a pie supper and forgot about the ice, said he never thought about it melting. ### Quebec Bridge Destroyed, Eighty-four Lives Lost.

The great Quebec bridge collapsed Thursday afternoon, and so far as can be estimated eighty-four men lost their lives in the disaster. They were hurled 180 feet down to their deaths.
It is said that the trouble was caused by the anchor pier giving way under the tremendous strain, or the engine miscalculated the powers of resistance of iron, steel and stone in preparing his plans and specifications. This will be decided when the government enquiry is held.
