Dominion Parliament.

After an over five months session the House of Commons of Canada was prorogued on Wednesday last thus bringing to an end a session which will long be notorious for the many scandals brought up for investigation as well as for the length of time occupied in the supposed service of the country.

Hardly a question of importance introduced by the Government but had an amendment to it moved by the Opposition, with the apparent forlorn hope of defeating the Government, and taking their place on the more lucrative side of the House, but the unexpected did not happen and the government majority remained safe from the insidious attacks of the enemy. On one question at the close of the session there was when might be thought a singular unanimity of opinion on both sides of the house, and that was that they were not paid enough for their arduous labors, and when the motion was made to increase their pay from one thousand to one thousand five hundred dollars for the session, both government and opposition members conferred together in reference to this game of grab as if they were of one mind as no doubt they were in this regard, to secure a much larger sessional allowance from the public treasury than they were entitled to.

But the session has last been brought to a close and the people are no doubt glad of it, and hope that another session may never be held in the Dominion Parliament.

Drowned at the Wharf.

SAD FATE OF GEORGE HAVILLAND.—The "World" of Saturday last gives the following account of the untimely death of George Havilland, and the evidence given at the inquest. Another death caused by the use and abuse of that which men put into their mouths to steal away their senses and render them incapable of taking care of themselves. Whoever sold the liquor on that occasion is surely guilty of murder as much as if they had cut the throat of their unfortunate victim, and still they will continue their vile and illegal traffic. How many similar unfortunate cases must occur before the people are aroused to a proper sense of their duty and this abominable traffic be swept from the land.

George Havilland, engineer of the steamer "Huron," did not report for duty Friday morning, and enquiry elicited the information that he had been last seen the previous evening by Joseph Mann, whose boat had been found on the steamer. Mann was found at his home with a badly bruised face, and said he had taken Havilland to the steamer and helped him on board, had been pulled off the wharf and into the water himself, and remembered no more of what had happened until he recovered consciousness at his own home. His wife, who was alongside the wharf, found the body of the missing man about 4 o'clock. There was some blood on his face but no cuts or bruises.

Dr. Macdonald, coroner, held an inquest, but nothing was shown to show that there had been any foul play. Wm. Cassidy was the Canada House corner on the night of October 1st, about 10 o'clock. Joseph Mann and Wm. Ivory were there. Havilland came along and invited them to go down to the boat. Wm. Ivory refused to go, but Mann went with him. The deceased was staying there; Mann was sober; remained twenty minutes and heard no noise.

Mrs. Eliza Howard said she saw the deceased passing her place about 10 o'clock that night, a man holding him by the arm. He didn't seem to be able to take care of himself. Heard no noise afterwards.

John Irving saw a man whose clothes appeared to be wet crossing the street corner and going up St. John street at 10 o'clock.

Wm. Ivory said he saw Havilland at the Canada House corner about 10 o'clock Thursday evening. Deceased asked him to go to the steamer or wharf with him. Deceased and Mann started towards "Nash's" corner. Both seemed pretty well.

Joseph Mann, whose nose, eye and forehead are badly bruised, said Havilland and he were at the Canada House corner Thursday night, and Havilland asked him to go to the boat with him, saying he wanted some steady old fellow to go. I thought the boat opposite the end of the street was his. I had him by the hand taking him to the boat. He said, "Take my hand." I took hold of it and he leaped and landed on the deck. When he jumped he pulled me. I lost my footing, fell between the wharf and the vessel and struck my head. I was stunned. I don't remember anything after I fell in the water. I heard no splash; can't remember how I got out; have no knowledge of Havilland's having helped me or tried to help me while I was in the water. I don't remember how I got home. I had taken the deceased down to the boat two or three times before, in the evening, and left him there. When I recovered at home I felt assured that Havilland was all right on the steamer, and gave no alarm. I had only two glasses of liquor that night.

Capt. Peterson said there was no bed on the steamer, but the deceased slept there sometimes, particularly if he had been drinking, so as to be on hand in the morning.

Daniel Condon said he and the deceased were drinking in Mrs. McEachern's place Thursday evening; left him drunk, talking with the woman. He drank lager but refused to swear what Havilland, who took two drinks in succession, drank, but it was not lager.

Mrs. Mary McEachern said she had not seen Havilland Thursday evening, but had heard her daughter say that he and Condon were in the shop. Havilland got a cigar and left, just after Condon. The little girl said he was sober. It was about 8 o'clock.

Mr. Catherine Wilson, sister of Joseph Mann, was preparing for bed Thursday night, when she was called for by Joseph's daughter. She went to his house, and found him all wet. She asked him what was the matter, and he only muttered. He vomited a long time, and kept muttering. He couldn't tell what was the matter with him. He vomited blood and phlegm. She undressed him and covered two hours. He moaned terribly when he was moved. Next morning she asked him what had happened and he said he didn't know.

One witness said he was drunk that night and remembered nothing, and the other knew nothing about the case.

A verdict of accidental death by drowning was returned.

Chatham Items.

A CHATHAM EXHIBIT.—The only Chatham contribution to the St. John Exhibition is Mr. Riddick's can-head machine, and it attracts much attention. It puts the covers on the cans. The operator touches a lever and the machine does the rest. Several orders have been received from visiting manufacturers of canned goods.

BURGARS STILL AT WORK.—Burgars entered Mr. Thos. Flanagan's store on Monday night and stole a quantity of prints and other small goods. They effected an entrance by the same back door that was forced by burgars some time ago, and appear to have left in a hurry. Mr. Flanagan was absent, and the safe locked, but the cautious clerk had hidden the receipts of the day, leaving nothing in the cash drawer. He's about time to expect the burgars were caught? As the dog, a savage one, was not heard to make any protest against the intrusion, it is supposed that the burglar and he were old friends, and a suspected person has been on a drunk all the week.

BUILDING A MAST.—The Italian barque Profera arrived here recently with a cracked mainmast. It had about eight days of distress at sea, and a storm, but had held until the barque's arrival here, when it was removed. It was quite rotten in places. It being impossible to get a stick here of the requisite size and length, Mr. George Watt undertook to have a mast built for the vessel. The work has been done by a crew under the direction of Mr. David Cassidy. The mast is composed of eight pieces, fastened with iron bolts and banded together with iron hoops. It is 63 ft. long, and considerably larger than the old stick.

PUBLIC WHARF PROPERTY SALE.—Mr. Johnson on Tuesday leased the Loggie wharf lot at auction for 20 years. The successful bidder was, as usual, the wharf, F. E. Winslow, $115 a year. The engine house lot, the Firewards, $102.

Returned from Camp.

The Newcastle Field Battery of Artillery, Col. commanding, returned from their drill at Camp Sussex on Saturday last, the announcement of their arrival at noon being made by the firing of a salute of twelve guns. They had fine weather in camp, not a drop of rain from the time the battery left until their return. Col. Call speaks most highly as to the conduct of the men under his command, and states that the several inspections made were most satisfactory. A good report will be made of their efficiency. Their target practice was much better than last year, and while they were eight in the list last year in this regard it is expected they will make a better showing when the returns are made.

The camp at Sussex is very highly spoken of in many respects, the chief objections made being the water, which is not fit to drink as its use made the men sick and sent them to hospital, and the unsatisfactory telegraphic and postal arrangements which are not all up to the mark.

The men of the battery did not complete the Gwoski shift, the Colonel having announced that if they practiced to compete in the competition they must do so after their day's drill was done, and hence the men gave up the idea of entering.

The men in their robust suburban appearance show that the outing has not done them any harm.

Another Fire at Bathurst.

BATHURST, Oct. 6.—About seven o'clock on Sunday evening fire broke out in a barn on Queen Street, Bathurst, owned by Mrs. Alex. Morrison, which was soon in ashes. For a time it looked as if a very serious matter for the safety of the town, as the house adjoining, also owned by Mrs. Morrison, and one of two other buildings were on fire, but the wind having gone down plenty of willing hands got the fire under control. The barn was insured—Globe.

School Meetings.—The annual School Meetings take place to-morrow, Thursday, October 8th. We shall be glad if the Secretaries of the Trustees in the various districts in this county would send us accounts of their meetings, amount of assessment and names of trustees.

Appointment.

At last the government have appointed an overseer of fisheries in place of Mr. W. V. Lemue, dismissed some time ago. Mr. Lemue, H. Abbott, of Chatham, having been appointed.

Presbyterian Synod.

LADIES' COLLEGE DISCUSSED.—HOME MISSION WORK.—THE HILL COLLEGE. At the meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of the Maritime Provinces at Halifax, on Friday, Dr. Patterson, Rev. J. B. Logan and Rev. Kenneth McKay, of the presbytery of Boston, were invited to all as corresponding members.

Rev. Allan Simpson presented a report on Hunter church building fund. Free loans, amounting to $400, were made to some congregations. Four free grants were given, amounting to $585.35. This fund has greatly helped many weak churches, and is now in a prosperous state.

Rev. John McMillan and Rev. A. Falconer reported, as visitors of the ladies' college, that during the last few years about $35,000 had been paid up. The college is well equipped and is now in an excellent sanitary condition. Rev. R. Laing, secretary, presented the report; 210 attended the college and 234 the conservatory of music. There were 35 boarding pupils. The closing of the college on account of diphtheria last spring caused a loss of over $2,154, but no life was lost and all the sick recovered quickly. The future is looked forward to very hopefully. The directors have not aimed at cheapness, but excellence. The length of the term should be taken into account in comparing cost with that of other institutions. The total stock subscribed is $49,237; paid up, $35,000; yet due, $14,237.

The total outlay up to June last, 1891, was $70,000. A resolution was passed regarding the countenance and moral support of the synod to the directors in their efforts to place the college on sound financial basis. The moderator and Revs. John McMillan and A. Falconer were appointed visitors for the ensuing year.

In answer to Rev. James McLean and others, Mr. Laing said the cost was very little greater than others, especially when we take account of the term in Halifax being three or four weeks longer. Mr. J. G. Forbes said the quality of the education given was of the highest standard, and that must be kept up at any cost. After some other remarks the resolution passed unanimously.

The Alumni society of the Presbyterian college held its annual meeting last night. It is about time that some of the graduates were re-elected. On account of the difficulty of getting accommodations it was decided not to have an annual dinner this year.

Rev. John McMillan reported from the Methodist church, Rev. E. D. Miller moved, seconded by Rev. T. Cumming, the following resolution: "That the synod endorse the expression of opinion of the joint committee of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches on co-operation, as reported at this meeting, approves of the appointment of joint standing committees to take cognizance of any cases that may arise when the churches are in weak and scattered fields, and directs the committee on standing committees to appoint a committee consisting of two sections with joint concern to represent the province of Nova Scotia and provinces of New Brunswick and P. E. Island respectively, to act with the committee of corresponding conference of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches in recommendation to the presbytery within whose bounds the case may come."

The next meeting of the synod will be held in St. Andrew's church, St. John, October, 1892.

In reference to home missions, Rev. McKay of Chatham, made a powerful and effective address pointing out the great work that could be done among the lumber camps of New Brunswick where hundreds of men, not to any remarkable extent naturally disposed towards religion, could be reached, and their hearts and consciences affected. If this means of grace were placed before them. He regretted that he himself had passed the age when he could do the work, which consisted of serious reflections upon his veracity, had been kept from him till the time came to spring a formal indictment. He asked for justice from the synod.

Halifax, Oct. 6.—After the synod had commenced work this morning a communication was read from Rev. T. Baird, complaining of unjust and discourteous treatment at the hands of the presbytery of Miramichi. He was allowed to make a statement of his grievance, which was read, and the subject was referred to the committee on charges, which consisted of Rev. J. B. Logan, Rev. Kenneth McKay, and Rev. Allan Simpson. The committee reported that the charges were unfounded, and that the treatment was entirely proper.

Rev. N. McKay made a sensation by remarking that the trouble was that Mr. Baird had been impertinent to the committee and attempted to bulldoze the presbytery.

Rev. Mr. Baird said that he had been told by the presbytery in a hostile spirit. He was informed by him that he was only there on sufferance, and that he had no right to say anything before it until he had answered certain questions coined in an offensive manner as approaching his veracity.

Rev. N. McKay said that Mr. Baird's statement was devoid of truth. Quite a sensation was created by this remark and several members were on their feet at once in protest against language of this kind.

Rev. R. Seligwick was finally heard above the din, sticking to his contention that there was no use discussing the question in the absence of the papers. The case was adjourned to the afternoon, when the papers should be presented by the presbytery. The charges alleged that Mr. Baird had failed in his duty in respect to church work, such as holding prayer meetings, Bible classes, etc., in certain places in the congregation over which he had been placed and subsequently resigned, and that when he recently appeared before the presbytery he had expressed astonishment that charges of this kind had been made against him, although he had received notice of the same from the clerk of the presbytery some time ago, the receipt of which he had himself acknowledged.

Mr. Baird made a full defence of his conduct. He denied the accuracy of the charges, stated that he had conducted prayer meetings and that the charges had never been effectively brought before him. He cited the minutes of the presbytery and other corroborative testimony which appeared to fully clear his skirts of the imputations which had been cast upon him. The case was adjourned till to-morrow to hear the other side.

HALIFAX, Oct. 6.—The Presbyterian Synod resumed this morning.

Rev. Mr. Baird complained that the Presbytery of Miramichi had declined to transmit certain papers touching upon important matters he wished to present to the synod. The synod decided to transmit the papers or give a reason for refusing to do so. Subsequently the papers were submitted but the matter is not yet disposed of.

The Best in the World.

Mr. James Ferguson, traveller for Messrs. J. W. Mackenzie & Co., of Montreal, was in town last week with a few samples. In addition he has some specimens of waterproof garments which if they have the advantages now claimed for them will soon run out the old fashioned waterproof garments, which have been endured simply because there was nothing to take their place everyone pronouncing them to be uncomfortable, unsightly and injurious to health. They certainly in a measure exclude the rain, and they also exclude the air and confine the perspiration.

The new "Mollins" (as explained in the manufacturers' circular) garments, are porous as well as waterproof, and have been placed under the severest tests proving them to be a perfect protection from the rain. We are informed that at the Montreal exhibition samples of these garments were exposed for several hours to streams of water from a fire hose, and when examined they were not even damp, the water running right off them.

The process by which this result is attained does not, in the least affect the porosity of the cloth, as there is neither rubber, gutta-percha, paraffin, oil, gelatine, varnish, gums or preparation of any kind used.

In addition these garments are fitted to the figure, well made and finished, and will answer every purpose of an overcoat.

They retain their qualities in all changes of temperature. They are perfectly odorless. They are most proof. They will prove more durable than any other kind of waterproof, and the manufacturers claim that melliss is the best in the world. Wherever introduced they have been appreciated and no doubt the old fashioned waterproofs will soon be in the hands of friends and melliss garments take their place.

To Our Subscribers.

A large number of persons are indebted to us for subscriptions, as well as for advertising and job work, and more especially the former, and we should be pleased to have the same settled forthwith. It takes care to run a newspaper, and when so many of our subscribers let their accounts run for years without payment it is difficult to keep things moving. We have to be unwilling to place accounts in the hands of the post and the mail, and apparently against hope, that the delinquents would honestly pay their just debts, but we have been too sanguine and now come to the conclusion to force payment of all amounts due.

The Union Advocate has been re-elected to the position of printer, and will be strictly in advance, and it will be to the interest of our subscribers to pay up their arrears and get the paper at the reduced price, and if they are put to legal expense in collecting through the hands of the post and the mail, we are not out. It is not honest to expect and receive the property of another without paying for it, and we hope all indebted to us will prove they were honest and pay up their accounts.

An Entertaining Firm.

Says the Telegraph of Messrs. Foster and Sons exhibit at St. John Exhibition. This firm have a space on the lower floor, near the main entrance, and are exhibiting every variety of nails which they manufacture. A tall pyramid, containing 75 sections, and surmounted by a banded nail keg, stands in the center of the exhibit. In it are iron, copper, and zinc nails, wire nails, brass rivets and cut nails. This case has been recently brought home from the Jamaica exhibition, where its contents secured a gold medal and a diploma.

The firm are also showing nails of every description, in kegs, and have an other case arranged in 12 sections, containing a keg of each, which contain all shapes of spikes and cut nails. The nails manufactured by S. R. Foster and Sons are used in all parts of the world. The firm have added nine new machines to their works this year, making a total of 20 now in operation. Thirteen of these are for wire nails. Messrs. Foster employ about 60 hands.

Zip-Zag.

This company were billed for both Newcastle and Moncton on Friday night. Our people, if reports are correct, did not lose much by their neglect. The "Zip-Zag" actors could not act. The "John" Globe, the actors could not sing and the dancers couldn't dance, and the largest part of the audience left before the performance was half over.

Obituary Notices.

Last week we announced the death of Richard Hutchinson. His funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon, the remains being followed to their last resting place in St. James' church burial ground by a large number of people. The following were the pall bearers: Messrs. David Ferguson, Alex. Morrison, Thos. Havilland, F. E. Winslow, W. Park, James Henderson.

Mr. Hutchinson came to this country from Scotland when quite a boy and became a clerk in the great lumbering house of Gilmore, Rankin & Co. After some years he became a partner and subsequently bought out the other partners and conducted the business of the firm for several years, and then its immense business of shipbuilding, mill, log and lumbering commenced to gradually decline, and in a few years the once busy mart at Douglasville became deserted and rapidly falling into decay. For the past twenty years the principal business of the country and its source of income has been the lumbering industry, and it is a sad fact that the lumbering industry is now in a state of decline, and the source of income is fast disappearing.

Mr. Hutchinson was at one time a power in political contests in this country. He was one of the representatives in the Local house elected in opposition to the confederation issue, and became a member of the South-Atlantic government. At the election which followed the forced resignation of that government he was defeated. Three years later, on the death of Hon. John M. Johnson, he ran for Parliament, in opposition to the Government, defeating Jacob C. Gough, and set in the house for that term at the end of which he retired, never again seeking for political honors.

The later years of his life was passed in St. John, where he was identified with the provision of a Sailors' Home in St. John at the instance of his daughter, having given, report says, $35,000 towards erecting and maintaining it, making occasional visits here until his death. He was a devoted father, and was there nursed by his two daughters until he died. He leaves two sons and two daughters.

The death of Mrs. Alexander Lamont, which and event occurred on Sunday last, removes from that vicinity one who will be very much missed, she having been ever found at the bedside of the sick and dying. She was a few days sick, having attended church on the Sunday previous. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of her death. She was a native of Miramichi having been born in the parish of Chatham. Her remains were interred in St. James' church graveyard, Newcastle, yesterday.

Personal.

Mr. Donald Morrison left Newcastle for Chicago on last Friday night. His expected business which it was of importance that he should attend to at once called him away right in the midst of a municipal election. He left his interests in the hands of friends and has not been looked after as well as if he were here.

Mrs. Gladstone to write.

Mrs. Gladstone has been contracted to write a series of articles for The Ladies Home Journal, of Philadelphia, especially intended for American women. The series will be called "Hints from a mother's life," and it is the great English statesman's wife will tell the method which she adopted in bringing up her children. As Mrs. Gladstone is one of the most practical women in England, and her children have all attained positions of eminence, her articles for the "Journal" will have a peculiar interest to every mother in the land.

Maria Pankova, the famous domestic worker, has been engaged by the regular Editor of "The Ladies Home Journal," and will hereafter conduct a department of her own in that periodical.

The Weather.

Fine weather prevailed last week. Soon after midnight a Tuesday a very heavy squall accompanied with rain took place, but it did not last long. The sudden gale blew the top from a tree at the corner of the house then occupied by Mr. Coggan, and it reached right over the coast road. Sunday morning was a very warm, more like a July day than an October one, but during the afternoon the wind went round to the eastward, the glass rapidly fell, and in the evening overcasts and wars were predicted. Monday it blew steadily from the north-east and the afternoon considerable rain fell. During the night it cleared up and yesterday was fine with a cool north-west wind.

Don't read! Don't think! Don't believe! Now are you better? You women who think that patent medicines are a humbug, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the biggest humbug of the whole (because it's best known of all)—does your lack-of-faith cure come? It is very easy to "don't" in this world. Suspicion always comes more easily than confidence. But doubt—and the "Favorite Prescription" has cured thousands of delicate, weak women, which makes them think that "Prescription" is better than their "don't believe." We're both honest. Let us come together. You try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If it doesn't do as represented, you get your money back.

Where proof is so easy, can you afford to doubt? Little but active—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Barque "Kate Crosby," Belfast, Sept. 15 for Chatham, was abandoned Sept. 28th off Horn Head. Crew escaped in lifeboats—Globe.

Abandoned.

The section of household furniture, clocks, etc., at the residence of Mr. Chas. Call, takes place on Wednesday next, Oct. 14th, at 7 p. m. sharp. Geo. Stables auctioneer.

Suicide.

John Bann, a farmer of Flat Lands, Rosignac, committed suicide by hanging on Friday last.

Temperance Crusade.

Late New York exchanges inform us that the priests of Jersey City have commenced a crusade against the liquor traffic in that City. They are preparing to set apart a given Sunday for the purpose of preaching in union against the "rum power" and Sabbath desecration. Monsignor Seton, of St. Joseph's church, in Jersey City, delivered four sermons on the subject of Sunday week. In one of them he said:—"We must not close our eyes to plain facts. The liquor traffic is undermining the best interests of the country and is a source of demoralization to the laws of both God and man. Drunkenness and corruption influence of the saloons are ruining young men; yea, and in many cases through the brutality and neglect of drinking parents, leading our young women to lives of shame.
