THE PARTY

Is the finger board to wealth.

It points out the road clearer than anything else can. There is more money to be made in Real Essate in London, Ont., today than in any other business where the element of risk is entirely eliminated. In a newspaper ad. we could give you but a faint idea of the numerous eligible properties we have to offer, but we will be pleased to haveyou call at the office and we will give you full particulars regarding any property we may have for sale. Two points to remember. First: We have the properties and are se lected with great care for buyers' requirements. Second: We take great pleasure in showing properties and giving information, whother you buy or not. If you get better value elsewhere nothing on our part could induce you to purchase from us anyway.

American Troops Easily Defeat the Enemy-Aguinaldo Issues &

Proclamation. Manila, May 19 .- In the Catarm fight, Island of Samar, May 1, about 700 of the enemy attacked the men of the 43rd Infantry. The Americans killed 209 of the rebels, and by actual count only three Americans were wounded. Major John C. Gilmore and 100 men of the 43rd Regiment were ambushed on May 6 near Pambugan, Samar. Seventy-five of the enemy were killed, and there were no American casual-ties. Transport Lennox has returned here after landing four troops of the 11th Cavalry to reinforce Col. J. Frank-In Bell. The troops, Major Hugh T. Sime commanding, were landed at Legaspi, and proceeded across the country to strengthen the garrison at Ligao. They found numerous en-trenchments manned by Filipinos between the towns, and were two days on their way, skirmishing, dismounted, constantly. Their only loss was three horses. The officers report that they killed 40 Filipinos, but the natives declare 80 were killed. A proclamation purporting to have been issued by Aguinaldo, and dated May 4, from Polillo Island, east of Luzon, is circulating in Manila. It says the commission appointed by President McKinley was appointed without the authorization of congress, and hence it cannot treat officially. It urges the Filipinos not to surrender their arms at the instigation of the commission, and on promises which congress may not ratify, and also urges the Filipiros to enthusiastically wel-TO LET-HOUSE-ALL MODERN IM-provements. 503 English street. 60c come the commission when it shall arrive in the towns or provinces, and

American Troops Easily Defeat the Enemy-Aguinaldo Issues a

Proclamation. Manila, May 19.-In the Catarm fight, Island of Samar, May 1, about 700 of the enemy attacked the men of the 43rd Infantry. The Americans killed 209 of the rebels, and by actual count only three Americans were wounded. Major John C. Gilmore and 100 men of the 43rd Regiment were ambushed on May 6 near Pambugan, Samar. Seventy-five of the enemy were killed, and there were no American casual-ties. Transport Lennox has returned here after landing four troops of the 11th Cavalry to reinforce Col. J. Frank In Bell. The troops, Major Hugh T. Sime commanding, were landed at Legaspi, and proceeded across the country to strengthen the garrison at Ligao. They found numerous entrenchments manned by Filipinos between the towns, and were two days on their way, skirmishing, dismounted constantly. Their only loss was three horses. The officers report that they killed 40 Filipinos, but the natives declare 80 were killed.

A proclamation

A proclamation purporting to have been issued by Aguinaldo, and dated May 4, from Polillo Island, east of Luzon, is circulating in Manila. It says the commission appointed by President McKinley was appointed with-out the authorization of congress, and hence it cannot treat officially. It urges the Filipinos not to surrender their arms at the instigation of the commission, and on promises which congress may not ratify, and also urges the Filipinos to enthusiastically welcome the commission when it shail arrive in the towns or provinces, and ask boldly for the form of government

TO LET-FURNISHED COTTAGE AT the Filipinos to still strive for liberty and independence, and again warns the commission against deception.

"Arriving near Karree Kloof, where there was good grazing, I outspanned (unhitched), leaving the horses knee-haltered in charge of my 'boy' while Mr. Kipling and I clambered over the rocks to the top of the kopje.

"We were just in time for the overture of the little drama which followed.

The Australians, who are dashing, in-telligent fellows, supported by a hand-ful of the C. I. V.'s and Nesbitt's horse, a Grahamstown colonial contingent, advanced and drove in the Boer outposts holding the nearest kopies and ridges.

Having the range, of course the enemy's fire swelled in volume and was promptly further augmented by shells from the creusot seven or nine pound-

We were afoot upon rather a bare upland, without a stone any bigger than a marble, as Mr. Kipling declared—and, truly, it was no place for two unarmed non-combatants. So we turned and walked south toward where I had left the cart.

"At first the enemy were too busy with the cavalry to pay special attention to us, but the horsemen, soon getting under cover, the enemy began to prove to us what excellent long-range shots they were when nobody is dis-turbing their aim by firing back. Still, turbing their aim by firing back. Still, we did not suffer, except that they hurt our feelings. Then they took to shelling us two poor wayfarers, and I altered my tactics by moving zigzaz to the east, and though once or twice they got near, all was well, and by and by we walked down the slope and so out of sight."

Mr. Borden's Amendment Defeated on a Division of the House-Telling Speech of the Solicitor-General-Premier Announces That a Judicial Commission Will Investigate the Election

Ottawa, May 18.-All-night sessions, as a rule, are dull and spiritless; members stop in their seats or stretch themselves on sofas within ear-shot of night of brilliant and important speeches, culminating in the important announcement by the premier, made when daybreak was already streaming into the chamber, that a judicial commission would immediately investigate the charges of corruption in connection with the general election of 1896 and the bye-elections. The premier spoke with great eloquence and at 5 o'clock Sir Charles Tupper rose to reply, and, despite his 80 years, displayed great vigor. He expressed his pleasure that the commission was to be appointed, but made a general attack upon the administration of the government. Mr. Mulock gave a most emphatic and straightforward denial to all the insinuations that have been made against him, a denial that Sir Hibbert Tupper accepted with equal frankness. Sir Charles Tupper asked that the vote should not be pressed, but a division was taken on Mr. Borden's motion to refer the West committee, which was defeated by 86 to 43. The division was taken at 6 o'clock, and while the members were reference was made to the committee last year. The facts of the case were that the election took place on Feb. 21; all the alleged acts were known to the Conservatives within a few days after the election took place. The Conservatives might then have proceeded by way of a contestation of the election, or under chapter 10 of the statutes, or by laying an informa-tion against the officers before a magistrate; but they chose the least satisfactory mode, that of appealing to the which was sure to have the effect of defeating the object in view. In his opinion the relegation of controverted elections to the courts did not in any way deprive the house of its power in respect to the qualification or disqualithe division bell. Last night was a fication of its own members or the conelections act, the judges reported the result of a trial to the speaker, and that report was treated by the house in some respects as was formerly a report of the committee of the house. The house, however, should not conduct the trial; that properly fell within proceeded by means of a contestation and made the returning officers parties to the contestation. They could then have been dealt with summarily, but the only result of an investigation by the committee would be for the committee to report to the house, and the house might order a reference to the courts, just where it should have been he moved for the reference, had all the facts in his possession, on which he could base the serious charges he made. Another question is that if the warrant for the arrest of Pritchett is in existence, and in the hands of Mr. Barker, Fleming, they should produce it and let the government see how far it is pos-sible to punish him. Reviewing the results of the general and bye elections, Mr. Fitzpatrick asked what evidence there was that fraud or rascality had existed in connection with the election of a single Liberal member. Not a single Liberal seat had been successfully contested in the courts; on the other hand, the only elections been contested successfully had those of members of the opposition. (Cheers.) There was a decided disinclination to transact business, and both sides of the house welcomed the premier's suggestion to quit work at 6 o'clock. Sir Wilfrid Laurier read a statenent from the controller of mounted police at Regina with reference to a rumor that an epidemic of diphtheria had broken out at the barracks there. It was to the effect that there were three cases of diphtheria, none serious, among the recruits recently arrived from the lower provinces. These had been isolated, and the barracks thoroughly disinfected.

The house then took up the amendment in the criminal code bill. The clause providing that persons who allowed prisoners to escape shall liable to one year's imprisonment was carried. Mr. Gilmour raised an objection to

A TIE AT CHATHAM. Chatham, May 18 .- Today's ball game ended in a fiasco and one of the most disappointing endings possible on the ball grounds. In the ninth there was a general mix-up, with two men out, two runs secured, and the bases full. A dispute arose over a runner to sec-ond being put out. Meanwhile, three runs were scored, making the game a tie. The umpire called Manager Black, who played second in the last inning, out for alleged passing of third. The Saginaws then left the field, claiming a victory. New York, May 18.-Kid McCoy made short work of the Australian, Dan Creedon, at the Broadway A. C., this evening, before one of the largest crowds the club has ever had. Thirty-four seconds of the sixth round was all the time needed to turn the trick, and the "Kid" could have brought it to a speedier conclusion had he felt so inclined. Creedon has reached the turn, and has evidently got his limit. At no time did he land a punch that hurt the "Kid," who was in fine fettle, and looked heavier than ever. In the sixth round McCoy forced Dan around the ring, but Dan sent him away again with a right swing to the neck. McCoy was right back with a right to the body and then hooked his left to the jaw, sending Dan to the floor. His seconds, seeing he was done for, threw up the sponge, and McCoy was declared the winner. Terry McGovern will go on the theatrical stage nexa winter in "The Bow-

Interesting Incidents of the Long Siege.

Gallant Sorties by the Garrison-De fenses of the Town-Brave Spirit of the Besieged.

Fighting around Mafeking commenced on Oct. 12, but the real investment of the town was not completed until the 24th, when the Boers, under command of Gen. Cronje, heavily bombarded the place.

SORTIES. Previous to this date, viz., on Oct. 15, the garrison made the first of a successful series of sorties. On this occasion two squadrons of the Protectorate Regiment, with an armored train, attacked the enemy four miles from the town, killing 53 and wounded many. The British loss was two killed and fifteen wounded.

On the following day the Boers made a determined assault upon the town, but were repulsed with heavy loss. Taking advantage of the impression created by their success, the garrison made another sortle on the 17th, and again inflicted heavy losses upon the

Early in November the Boers made another assault, but were again defeated.

On Dec. 26 the garrison sallied out and attacked Game Tree Fort, a strong Boer position. The attack was unsuccessful, the British loss being 26 killed and a number wounded. This on the part of the garrison during the siege. It did not dampen the ardor of Baden-Powell and his men, who steadily advanced their outworks, gradually pushing the enemy farther back, and, in fact, taking possession of an important position known as the Brick Fields, and other points where the enemy had constructed entrenchments.

In the early part of the year hopes that the town might soon be relieved were raised by the near approach of Col. Plumer's Rhodesian force. But this force was too small to cope with the besiegers, although it managed to distract the attention of the enemy to some extent.

THE PINCH OF HUNGER. The real pinch of hunger began to be felt in the besieged town, and gradually the defenders were reduced to such straits that the efforts of the whites and natives alike were directed to catching locusts and using them for

In addition to providing for the troops the authorities had to feed and care for nearly 8,000 people, including a number of natives who remained loyal, and some of whom have rendered great assistance in the defense of the town.

A WISE MOVE. Lord Cecil, Lord Salisbury's son, and Col. Baden-Powell's right-hand man, on his own responsibility and at his own expense stocked the town with three months' provisions over and above the supplies provided by the government, and it was the wisdom of this step that was warmly complimented by Col. Baden-Powell. Lord Charles Cavendish-Bentinck, Major Wilson and others have gained almost as much fame as their gallant chief through the defense of the town. BRAVE SPIRIT OF THE BESIEGED The following, from the last number to hand of M. A. P. shows the spirit which prevailed among the besieged, and the manner in which Col. Baden-Powell aided to vary the monotony of "Here is another deliciously humorous study of the cabotin side of that many-facetted genius, Colonel Baden-Powell, which I take from the admirable Mafeking letters of the Pall Mall Gazette, which is to be heartily congratulated on its correspondent in the beleaguered town. The picture forms an admirable pendant to the skirt-dancing and other episodes which I quoted from the same source last week: The feature of the day was the concert, which was enjoyed by a crowded audience, and went with a snap. I had no idea that so small a company of people could yield such a crop of genuinely good artists, and even a conjurer; and I am firmly convinced that no music hall in the United Kingdom ever held an audience more filled with pleasure than our congregation of besieged ones. We had songs and recitations, a Cape police instrumentalists' union, and a couple of capital humorous items by our gallant colonel, who impersonated Paderewski in the first part, and kept the hall in a roar. Afterwards he paraded as something like a cross between a chimney-sweep and Whitechapel coster, to the delight of the elder ones and the fear of the youngsters, who had never seen anything more startling in the hiuman line than a Kaffir. No. 1 committee of the council held their regular meeting last night, those present being Ald. Jolly (chairman), Barned, Cooper, Dreaney, Stevenson and Winder and City Treasurer Pope. City Solicitor Meredith wrote in regard to the proposition to charge gradually increasing interest on overdue taxes. The assessment amendment act of 1899, he said, contains this clause: "Such discount (referring to the discount for the payment of taxes before a day named), or the additional charge (for non-payment by the day or days named), may by bylaw be provided for on the basis of a sliding scale corresponding with the length of time default is made, but so as not in the aggregate percentage to exceed 5 per cent." Under this section, a bylaw establishing a sliding scale would be valid. The committee will recommend the passing of a bylaw fixing charges for overdue taxes at 2 per cent till Jan. 3, 3 per cent till Feb. 28, 4 per cent till March 30, and 5 per cent till April

West Huron and Brockville. If the Opposition leaders in the Dominion House of Commons had devoted one-twentieth part of the time that they have occupied in Parliament to talking irrelevantly about electoral corruption, to an earnest effort to bring offenders to justice, they might have succeeded in impressing the public that their charges against returning officers in the bys-elections were well-founded and could be maintained in a court of Both in West Huron and in Brock-Mile, it has been proved, the Opposition managers knew of the alleged corruption that they now simulate indignation over in plenty of time to have lodged a petition against the return of the members-elect. That is the legal course which Parliament has stipulated shall be taken. Parliament, by repeated enactments, has divested itself of the work of trying charges affecting the seats of members of the House of Commons. It did so for a very good reason. A partisan committee, where members of the two parties are strongly intrenched to see that their side gets, if possible, the best of it, can never be regarded as a proper tribunal to try election petitions. Parliament has so decreed. Indeed, a further law was put on the statute book in 1887, which provides for a thorough investigation into all wrong-doing by judges of the land, removed from the political arena, in the event of any failure on the part of a political party to take extion. Under this law any twentyfive electors in a constituency can de-Mare that they have reason to believe that corrupt practices enough to void the election took place, and an investigation must be had, followed by the punishment of all wrong-doers.

The Opposition has taken none of these legal steps. Its leaders have ignored the law of the land. And they have fallen back on the old and unsatisfactory method of dragging the pases into the Parliamentary arena, where they can make reckless charges without responsibility, and where they pan, at least, always hope for a partial verdict in their favor at the hands of their political friends.

One of the reasons for this course, which Sir John Thompson strongly condemned when he was the legal head of the Conservative party, and who seemingly has left no one on the Oppositon bench able to take his place, is no doubt the flimsiness of the foundation on which these partisans attempt to build their superstructure of alleged rascality by the returning officers. In West Huron they wheedled a number of the electors into making declarations that they had voted for McLean, but had their ballots marked for Holmes. The circumstances under which these declarations were obtained were not such as to make them of any value in a court of justice. Hence they did not take the accusation against Returning Officer Cummings into court. They are ready to bandy charges of ballot-stuffing against that honest old settler of Colborne township in the House of Commons, but they know that his neighbors, Conservative and Liberal alike, have declared on bath their belief that he was not a man who could commit such a wrong, and there was no evidence given in the many days on which the investigators sat in the Ottawa committee room that would be alleged by any competent lawyer as sufficient foundation to lay a charge against Mr. Cummings. Then there was an accusation against of Goderich. For many years prior to test, municipal as well as legislative and parliamentary. He was a Conthe last election day he marked his ballot for the Conservative candidate, ostentatiously doing so in order that he might disprove a report that he turning officer. The evidence in Farr's his work: that he had apparently given some men two ballots instead of one, the ballots sticking together, and bereturning officer without either observing that they were thus duplicated. It was shown, too, that Farr had been The old order changeth, yielding place drinking, and that leading Liberal citi-· sens, knowing his condition, had on the eve of the election, urged him to resign and let some more capable man Lest one good custom should corrupt be appointed. He refused to do so, and thus it was that there were some irregularities, easily explained, at the poll presided over by him. But supposing all the irregularities alleged had been proved, and they were not, Mr. Holmes still had a majority of nearly

What is remarkable about this case is the fact that the Opposition leaders, in the riding and out of it, despite their denunciation of the returning ofthe direction of prosecuting them. The Opposition orators are very courageous in their declarations before Parliament, where they cannot be held legally responsible for their language, no matter how unfair or ill-founded. but they apparently do not dare to take the issue into the only arena law of the land, and justice can be tice, but political capital, no matter on the last election the wildest charges were made against Mr. Comstock and his friends. The Opposition leaders knew of the irregularities they now tion. They knew in plenty of time to lodge an election petition in the usual way. They did not do so. They had not the courage to go into court and petition for the unseating of Mr. Comstock. They knew that such a course would enable Mr. Comstock's friends to proceed against the Opposition candidate and make it decidedly warm for him and his friends. The Opposition leaders, therefore, avoided an inquiry of this legal description. They also for by the act of 1887; and they resolved to drag into court two of the persons against whom, in the chagrin of defeat, the local Opposition had made serious charges. One of these persons was brought to trial and found not guilty of the charges which had been alleged against him by the Opposition press and orators throughout the length and breadth of the land. The other accused was detained in custody, remanded from time to time, and finally set at liberty without trial. Now, the Opposition say they have further evidence. Then, in the name of all that is just, let them take their case into court and have it fairly tried, instead of wasting the time of Parliament, to the tune of thousands of dollars a day talking about it, though they have no authority to inflict punishment on either returning officers or electors on either side who may have

that there has in the past been lawlessness on the part of a very small minority of the members of both political parties, and we believe that the great mass of the electors have no sympathy with wrong-doing on either side, and it ought to be condemned and punished in the way provided by the law of the land. For this reason we have maintained that not even a judge who is charged with conniving at electoral corruption shall be exempt from having his conduct investigated, and if found corrupt that he should be severely punished. This view the now very virtuous Opposition repudiated when It was in power. It whitewashed a returning officer who counted in a plies. minority candidate. It maintained that a judge charged with directly Pen Portraits aiding in the stealing of a seat from a regularly elected candidate should not even have his conduct inquired into, though Parliament is the only agency that can investigate charges against a judge. Now, because of the weakness of their case, and in order, if possible, to make an ante-election im- generation of Parliamentarians is Mr. pression that wrong-doing of a flagrant | Calvert, the member for West Midcharacter existed, the Opposition lead- dlesex. We are sometimes reminded that the creeds by which our forefathers fought error and enlarged the bounds of a man named Farr. He was a resident freedom may become fetters in which the souls of men are bound. The last Dominion election he had been a creed that is perfectly suited to a returning officer at each recurring con- large body of men in one century may, by that very fact, be unsuited to their descendants in a later century. And God fulfills himself in many ways.

The question then arises. What is to be done with the old creeds? Although there seems to be an agitation again rising in some of the churches across the border, this is by no means a new question. It has already been a hundred over his opponent, and the faced, and is still discussed by cry that he should resign is therefore churches in Britain and on the continent of Europe. > Spirits in Military Camps. The French Minister of War has issued an order forbidding the sale of absinthe, vermouth, brandy, or other spirits in any military camp. This leaves it possible to sell wine or beer, if so desired. The change is believed to have been decreed because of the general tendency in France, in recent years, to give up the use of light wines and beer, and to take to hard drinks, which has demoralized the population very much.

In the United States they have for some time restricted the drinks sold at military camps to beer and nonintoxicating liquids.

In Canada, we are ahead in this regard. Our militia authorities have for several years past provided that in all camps the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be prohibited. This is a proper rule. Undue temptation should not be put in the way of young men who attend these camps. Those who desire to have liquids of this description-and we suppose in all great gatherings of men there will be some who think they cannot do without them -can go to the regularly licensed establishments and obtain their sup-

"Heap Big Man! Him All Stomach!"

This was the picturesque description once given of a very stout man by an Indian, and a pithy description it was, but there is another sense in which some people may be said to be "all stomach." They are those whose stomach are so naturally weak, or have become weak by abuse, that they must exercise the greatest care in selecting what to eat or drink. These people are in constant fear of the ills of indigestion or constipation, those enemies of health and happiness. To all those so efflicted, GRANOSE and GRANOLA come as a positive boon. These goods are guaranteed to contain all the elements necessary for the sustenance and building up of the bedy, and the fact that they are predigested makes them a cure for and a preventive of all stomach and bowel troubles. CARAMEL-CEREAL for a beverage is a valued ally of these foods, it being healthy and palatable and free from deleterious effects, W. B. Cawell, a leading educationist of the United States, writes:

THE MARKETS

Local Market.

London, Saturday, May 19. The market this morning was not as large as might reasonably be ex-pected now that the spring seeding has been completed. It was expected that the square would be more largely occupied today, especially when the small attendance that has recently characterized the mid-week markets is considered. However, the supplies, apparently, were adequate for all pur-poses, and in one or more lines were slightly over-abundant. Vegetables, for instance, were offered largely, po-tatoes particularly being plentiful, and in consequence the price has receded. They could be purchased as low as 35 and 30 cents a bag. The most attractive place on the square today and the busiest, also, was in the neighborhood of the flower stands, where the beautiful plants offered by market gardeners found ready sale. A considerable trade was carried on, also, in cut flowers, that were offered in the same quarters. A splendid opportunity was afforded regetarians today to replenish their stocks. Small stuff was offered very argely, and prices were so reasonable that transactions were effected with ease. Particularly noticeable were the large quantities of rhubarb and tomato plants offered for sale, the lat-ter retailing readily at 15 cents per box. The butchers who occupied the stands today had little cause to com-plain with the condition of affairs that prevailed there. A good demand seemed to exist for their meats, and, although the quantity they brought in was of the normal size, at 1 c'clock there were very few who had not sold out. A fair trade was done in poultry today. Spring chickens are now being offered more largely, and are sold readily, bringing good prices. There are still a number of old birds being offered, but they are found to be hard to sell. Farmers are now bringing in goodly quantities of but-In this line the export trade has now commenced. The business in eggs is now particularly brisk. The dealers are eager to take advantage of present opportunities, and are pur-chasing largely of the splendid quality that is now being offered.

LENIENT SENTENCE

John Tiffany Gets 30 Days for Forging Names to a License Petition.

John A, Tiffany was this morning found guilty of forgery in having signed names to a petition for the granting of a liquor license in Delaware village, and received the light sentence RECEIPTS—Flour, 9.000 barrels: wheat, 23.000 bushels: corn, 123.000 bushels: oats, 187, 600 bushels; rye, 5,000 bushels; barley, 16,000 loged in jail. He will therefore be released on Sunday, June 3.
The evidence of Dr. Macarthur, the first taken. The doctod believed Tiffany to be responsible for his actions. Mr. Buchner, the prisoner's counsel, asked for a lenient sentence, as the crime was not of a nature which had caused any damage to any person or property.

Edmund Meredith, Q. C., on behalf of a number of residents of the township, asked for leniency for the prisoner. A petition had been signed by the leading citizens, and by the persons whose names were said to have been forged, and nine-tenths of the county were said to be in accord with

In passing sentence, Judge Elliott said that he intended to take into consideration the circumstances of the crime, sented. He could not, however, go far as to suspend sentence, as it would establish a dangerous precedent. He then passed sentence as above.

Disaster at Ingersoll-Several Children Hurt.

Ingersoll, Ont., May 19.-A sad calamity occurred yesterday afternoon in the public school park, which resulted to several school children being more or less injured. By order of the man-aging committee of the Queen's Birth-day celebration a series of seats had been constructed in sections and errectbeen constructed in sections and erected on the lawn in front of the school house for the children who were ex-pected to take part in the demonstration. Principal McDiarmid was assured that the structure was quite safe and he began arranging the children on the seats for a practice between 3 and 4 o'clock. Before they had all got fairly seated several sections of the structure collapsed, and there was a mass of planks and terrified children mixed up for a few moments, and great confusion. Fortunately Mr. McDiarmid had instructed the children to place their feet on the seats below; otherwise the casualties might have been more serious. As it was, Gladys Kennedy received severe injuries in the lower limbs, and

Gordon Smith, about 12 years old, son of J. S. Smith, chairman of the board of education, had his left leg broken above the ankle. A few others were more or less injured. The material was removed from the grounds, and it is likely the children's part of the programme on the will be given up. The injured children were taken into Dr. Williams' surgery across the street, and cared for as soon as possible.

DOES IT PAY

To Own a Thousand Shares in lion-Dollar Company?

[Mining Investor.] One often hears people say, "What' the use of buying a thousand shares in a million dollar company: it don't amount to anything." Taken at the time that the company is selling its first issue of treas-ury shares it is no trouble at all to look back over the field of active mining operations and enumerate hundreds of companies that to own 1,000 shares of their stock would mean an income of no small amount.

One thousand shares of Quincy or Tamarack (copper) would insure an income of nearly $6,000 per annum.

income of nearly $6,000 per annum. The same number of shares in the Calumet and Hecla (copper) would run about $33,000 annually.

The Alaska-Treadwell pays about $1,500 annually on each thousand shares, while the great Homestake, of South Dakota, pays $6,000.

The Richardson mine of Nova Scotia pays $250 on each thousand shares from one that only averages about $2 50 per ton. In fact, the New York

$2 50 per ton. In fact, the New York Engineering and Mining Journal, of Feb. 17, gives a list of 236 dividendpaying mines that to own a thousand shares in any one of them would mean a very respectable income. There is another very important side o this question, however, and that is the increase in value. As a rule a company sells its first issue of treasure shares very cheap; ten cents a share would be a very high estimate on an average; so if one estimates from a basis of first cost he is re-ceiving all the way from 200 to 500 ment. For example, the Le Roi stock was sold for about 5 cents per share when the mine first started. This stock is now quoted in London at $25. Isabella, of Cripple Creek, sold as low a 2 cents per share originally. per cent on his a low as 3 cents per share originally; it is now worth $1 28; that is to say, one could have bought 1,000 shares for $30. They are now worth $1,280, and the mine has paid $450,000 in dividends. The buying of treasury shares, when they are being sold at a discount by a good, reliable company owning a promising property, is both profitable and legitimate.

There are few avenues of trade that offer safer investment, and certainly none more profitable.

A Cape Town dispatch under toed last evening by the London Associa- day's date says the relief force entertion of Stenographers and their friends ed Mafeking unopposed, the siege haying been already raised. The relief column which left Kimberley secretly, passed the Taungs and Vryburg districts without encountering the federals' column. It was 1.500 strong, and composed of Cape police, Diamond Fields force, Imperial Yeomanry and the Kimberley Mounted Regiment, with three Maxims. The force reached Manitzan River, twenty miles south of Mafeking, May 11.

COL. MAHON. Col. B. T. Mahon, who, it is under stood, commanded the relief column served in the Dongola and Nile expeditions with Gen. Kitchener. The most intense excitement prevails at Cape Town, where the buildings are ablaze with flags.

HORSE-PLAY. During the afternoon the police found difficulty in keeping the spirit of unruliness down. A great deal of rough horse-play was indulged in, and every er and sailor in uniform was seized and carried on the shoulders of cheering men. A "Te Deum" service was held in St. Paul's this afternoon. The lord mayor and the sheriffs had intended to be present at the services, but they were forced to telephone that it would hopeless for them to attempt to leave the Mansion House, which was besieged by an impassable crowd.

FURIOUS DEMONSTRATION. It was a curious thing for the onooker to see solemn, gray-haired men toss their opera hats into the air and join the hurricane of cheers, when wreath-crowned banner with the portrait of Col. Baden-Powell on it was borne along Piccadilly. Smart women, in broughams, waved Union Jacks out of the windows. Conventional family parties stopped at street corners to take part in singing "God Save the Queen" and "Soldiers of the Queen." Every-where were abandon, good feeling and that was brought about by a 20-word telegram from Pretoria that Mafeking had been relieved. NOTHING OFFICIAL. Although the government has not a word, and although nothing confirmatory has been received from any African source, except Pretoria, nobody apparently questions the news. Mr. A. J. Balfour, speaking from the government bench late last evening, said: "The only news I have is through the courtesy of the press. We have no information at the war office. Nor would we have it as soon as it would arrive through other channels. Therefore the fact that we have not received it neither proves nor disproves the accuracy of the information. need hardly say that we will trust, and we have good reason to think, that it is probably true." MAY HAVE TO WAIT THE MON-DAY.

Mr. George Wyndham, parliamentary under secretary for war, replying to several members of the house, who had privately interrogated him, said: "Although the government has nothing, I am disposed to believe the Boer bulletin. It may be tomorrow, and perhaps even Monday before the government would get dispatches from our military commanders, even if the siege were raised some days ago, as the news would need to be conveyed over a long distance by messengers on horseback, whereas the enemy would probably be able to avail themselves of telegraphic communication." NIAGARA-LIKE ROAR OF VOICES The London fire insurance laws make fireworks impossible, and the city lacked the blaze of illumination characteristic of other great cities during such festivities. Ten thousand people stood in front of Mrs. Baden-Powell's house in St. George's Place, cheering and singing, and a score of cabs brought congratulations. Miss Baden-Powell, the colonel's sister, said: "The same tale has been brought us many times during the last anxious months. The war office has promised us the earliest information. We only hope it is true." Later in the evening Col. Baden-Powell's mother sent word that she had retired, and that if any telegrams came she was not to be disturbed until morn-

MESSAGE TO THE COLONEL The boys of the Charterhouse school where Baden-Powell was educated vere aroused from sleep by the news, and the institution quickly became a veritable pandemonium of noise and enthusiasm. OUTSIDE OF LONDON In unrestrained jubilation the provinces were not behind the metropolis. Although London had the start by a few minutes, the great industrial circles and surrounding towns suddenly burst into patriotic demonstrations. Bells clashed in their steeples, village bands turned out and the people gathered to chant fervidly "God Save the Queen." From all parts of the empire comes the same story. Bombay, Hong Kong, Colombo and the Australian cities are rejoicing. Continental cities, as the press telegrams abundantly testify, received the news sad-

OUT IN THE WIDE WORLD: Under the head of "How the News Was Received," the Daily Chronicle says: "The telegram to the Associ-ated Press from Pretoria—the his-toric dispatch announcing the relief of Mafeking-was sent from the capital of the Transvaal at 11:35 a.m., May 18. It reached the London office at 9:16 p.m., and was instantly dispatched to every quarter of the clobe. By 10:30 had come a response from far off Toronto; describing the reception of the news there. This is not sur-prising, in view of the fact that, four minutes after the receipt of the telegram here, it was in the Associated Press office of New York, whence it was forwarded to the furthest limits of the North American continent." THE EMPIRE RELIEVED. That not only Mafeking, but the whole United Kingdom is relieved, is demonstrated by the utterances of the The Daily Telegraph says: "Mafeking is a small place. Its fall would have made no difference to the course

There were about 7,500 na-tives and 1,000 civilians, besides the small force of military men. Gen. Cronje began the siege with 8,000 men and nine guns, and since then other commandants have succeeded film. Commandant Snyman being the last. A big creusot gun was brought to reduce the town after it had stubbornly held out for three months, but it has not achieved its mission. Col. Baden-Powell has, by all sorts of military operations—by sudden sortles, by night surprises, by dynamite explosions, by bayonet charges upo nthe trenches in the dark—and numerous other maneuvers, kept the enemy not only at bay, but inflicted severe loss. When Gen. Cronje left Mafeking to face Lord Methuen at the Modder River, he declared that the defenders of Mafeking "were devils, not human beings."

London; Saturday, May 19-4 a.m.-The relief of Mafeking has had the effect of suspending for a moment interest in the operations elsewhere in the field of war. Dispatches yesterday brought important official announcements. Lord Methuen entered Hoopstad Thursday. He is now 70 miles from Kroonstad and 50 miles from Bothaville. Gen. Buller entered Newcastle Thursday evening. Lord Roberts is not idle. While waiting for stores at Kroon-stad, he is using the mounted men to search a wide tract of country. Col. Broadwood occupied Lindley on Thursday and the same day Gen. Hutton captured one of the Bothas 30 miles from Kroonstad. Gen. Rundle on Thursdream day, and the same day Gen. Hutton cesses are thus at every point, from which news came yesterday.

READY FOR ANOTHER MOVE-MENT. Lord Roberts is accumulating im-mense quantities of supplies, and the preparations for another movement are patrols. COMMANDEERING.

Commandant Nel, with the Johan-nesburg "Zarps," is actively comman-deering 15 miles northwest of Kroon-stad. Desperate efforts are being made by the Transvallers to get every available unit on the fighting line. All exemptions have been canceled. The civil administration is reduced to the lowest limits.

A FINAL BLOW. The Standard says: As a final blow to the hopes of the enemy comes the news from Washington that the United States Cabinet met to consider a Pretoria dispatch asking in tervention, and that President Mc-Kinley and his colleagues decided that they can take no steps whatever. the Boers want peace they must sue for it from the imperial government.

The Boers have dynamited Laing's Nek tunnel and the railway is completely wrecked. The work of repairing will occupy many weeks. The Boers now hold the best positions for defending the pass.

BOER REPORT-BACKING OUT. Dundee, Natal, May 15, via Lorenzo Marquez, May 17.—Under orders from Pretoria the federal commanders are retiring to the Natal defense line. All commissariat and materials have been removed here. The railway is doing excellent work. The artillery and wagons of the various laagers were removed in perfect order. FLANKING THE ENEMY. London May 18 .- The Times correspondent at Ladysnaith sends the following, dated May 15: The plan for turning the Boer position at Biggarsberg was admirably conceived and carried out. While our left remained between the acts in order to give vent to their enthusiasm, although they settled down to the programme afterwards.

At the music halls, however, no one pretended to take interest in anything not having military color. The Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York and the Portuguese minister occupied a box at Covent Garden, where

A HARD ROAD TO TRAVEL. The march throughout was over an extremenly hilly and difficult country. the roads being bad, mostly deep sand. The eleventh column bivouacked on the Waschbank River, immediately in front of which lies the almost un-broken line of the Biggarsberg. The 12th cavalry brigade, who scouted all the time ahead of the column, came in touch with the enemy below the Big-garsberg, the African Light Horse having a few casualties. That night the force bivouscked on a farm two miles from the foot of the hills, and eight miles from the Waschbank River. The next morning the Boers fired a few shells into the camp. whole column marched along the road leading to Pomeroy, to a point where and three miles east of Helpmaaker. The mounted infantry, supported by the 2nd brigade, rapidly seized the hills on both sides, Col. Bethune, with a considerable force of mounted infantry, co-operating from Pomeroy. The Boers were completely out-maneuvered and forced to evacuate carefully prepared positions commanding our advance along the valley, and fell back to a small kopje immediately north of Helpmaaker, where they had longrange guns and Vickers-Maxims. Battery A engaged, them. Later our Vickers-Maxims, which were in tion for the first time, silenced theirs. The artillery duel continued till sunset. In the evening our heavy guns were brought up, and the troops bivouacked within 3,000 yards of the Boer position. Our loss was one

HELPMAAKER OCCUPIED. The enemy retired during the night, and at dawn we occupied Helpmaaker. Hence the road runs along the top of the Biggarsberg, through open and comparatively flat country to Dun-dee. Lord Dundonald's cavalry im-mediately pursued, but the Boers set fire to the grass behind them, and made it difficult to come to close quarters. They fought a rear guard action at Spion Kop, where they were shelled out of their position by a battery, and again at Blesboke Laagte, the pursuit was temporarily checked. This latter position, how-ever was turned, and the pursuit re-sumed. Two prisoners and many horses were taken. Our casualties were extremely slight. Our success was the signal for a general advance. THE GIBRALTAR OF NATAL. The chief feature of the last two fighting was the rapid marching of the infantry and cavalry. fact that the Helpmakaar position, which the Boers call the Gibraltar of Natal, was taken with the loss of twenty, though held by a force of 4,000 men, was due to the speed of our movements. Sunday's success was magnificently followed up yesterday, when the mounted infantry covered at least 40 miles, and successfully engaged the enemy's rear guard three times, being practically the whole time in the thick of the smoke of grass fires. which acted like a fog, hampering to movements. When advancing through the smoke our men found themselves under a heavy fire from the enemy within 200 yards. On Sunday night the Boers at Help nakaar received strong reinforcements but against Monday's pursuit could do nothing. The column moved at dawn on Tuesday and passed Dundee. DUNDEE LOOTED.

The town is badly looted. All the collieries, except the Navigation, whic is the biggest, are wrecked. Rev. Mr. Bailey, the rector of Dundee, was there all through the war. He says the Boers in Natal at the beginning were 35.000, since when they have gradually withdrawn. Most of them went just before the relief of Ladysmith, but a large force is still left. Gen. Botha commanded in Natal until six weeks ago. Lucas Meyer now commands. After the relief of Ladysmith the Boers came through the Biggarsberg in utter confusion, and would prob-ably have evacuated Natal, but were stopped by President Kruger, who proceeded south to Glencoe. The Boers then returned to the Biggarsberg.

While engaged in the lumber business, about fourteen years ago, I was on top of a pile of lumber about 30 feet high, when it fell, precipitating me to the ground. Some of the lumber fell on my ankle and sprained it worse than if it had been broken. It has troubled me more or less ever since. When getting in and out of my wagon I had to use my well foot entirely. I got a bottle of Doyle's Liniment and after using two-thirds of the bottle, my ankle is as well as ever it was. Furthermore, my horse ran away, and being hitched too short the axletree hit her heels, and scraped the skin off. I used the Liniment and in a few days they were healed up. The result of the use of much white brad is a lack of brain and nervous p wer to do mental work and it also reates intestinal troubles, because the excess of starch ferments in the intestines and makes the conditions right for the growth of microbes: whereas Grape-Nuts breakfast food contains grape sugar in the process of manufacture, and delivered in the packages, ready cooked, and in such shape that it is immediately assimilated without hard work of the digestive organs.

The food also contains the delicate particles of phosphate of potash which combined with albumen, is used by nature to make the gray matter that must be in the cells of the brain and the nerve centers throughout the body, in order to give strength and ability, to stand long and continuous work. Shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the news of Mafeking's relief was received, as announced in the special issue of The Advertiser, the city hall bell commenced to ring merrily. Citizens who were on the streets stood still, wondering, hoping, and as the import of the tale told by the bells dawned upon them, they hurried to the newspaper offices and eagerly read the bulletins' confirmation of the welcome news. Mafeking was relieved! The siege that had held the attention of the world for 216 days was abandoned at last, and Baden-Powell-plucky Baden-Powell, for his name is rarely heard without the adjective-he who planned with wonderful resourcefulness, who fought with British valor, who cheered the despondent, and fought, starved and fought again in that far-off stronghold of Britain, he was free once more to grip the hands will leave here for that town on the of his comrades-in-arms and restore morning of the 24th. Uniforms were the place that he had guarded so well. So thought the people on the streets, and cheers were heard for Mafeking LEGISLATION AND RECEPTION and its plucky commander. The jubilant sounds attracted others. At a meeting of the legislative and reception committee held last night in crowds became greater. Hundreds of upturned faces looked toward the bulthe city hall, Messrs. Richard Gray, letins, and the gladness with which the news was received was reflected thurst, Wm. Lyons and George Hill appeared on behalf of the Bufers', Metal there. Bells resounded continuously, and whistles were blown; thus the tidings were conveyed to those in the stores and workshops. At 6 o'clock they, also, streamed to the newspaper taining the delegates who will attend the annual convention to be held in the city hall, June 19 to 27. The council will be recommended to grant $100 tooffices. The ubiquitous small boy and those who were not small in stature, but were young in spirit, used many noise-producing devices, and the air was rent with the blare of horns. The Salvation Army Band was again the first to appear, and its patriotic airs aroused increased enthusiasm. Soon after the full band of the Seventh Regiment marched down Dundas street along Richmond, and thence to Victoria Park. The crowds trekked after, moving in a long black mass. From all parts of the city the people gathered in the park, and the promised benefit concert became the focal point about which revolved the spirit of celebration. Headed by the Bugle Band, the men of No. 1 company, R. C. R. I., and the short course men, all in command of Major Galloway, and a number of members of B company of the Seventh, marched to the park. The depot men were lined up and a feu-de-joie, and afterwards, together with the great crowd about them, with bared heads and lusty lungs, they gave three tremendous cheers and a tiger for the noble "Widow of Windsor." Then Baden-Powell was honored similarly. At times the music of the band was almost deadened by the noise of fireworks and the blare of the horns of the ardent ones. AGONIZING SUSPENSE.

The Terrible Situation of a St Vincent Lady.

St. Vincent, Ont., May 19. - No other man in Canada has gone through a period of such extreme anxiety, alternating with despair, as Mr. Joseph McCullough, a highly respected retired farmer, of this place, experienced during the past summer. Last spring his family physician pronounced Mrs. McCullough to be suf-fering from an incurable case of Neurasthenia, or Nerve Exhaustion. was extremely nervous, hysterical and despondent. She had nervous rheumatic pains, palpitation and sharp pains in her left side and over the kidneys; her feet were perpetually cold, her face ghastly pale, urine highly-colored, scalding, and leaving a brick-dust deposit; sour stomach, split-ting headaches and pain after eating oppressed her. She had no appetite, could not sleep and lost flesh startlingly. It seemed to her friends that she was "going into decline" The physician said her only hope of relief lay in the Weir-Mitchell treatment. This being so costly was out of the ques-tion, and her husband believed there was no hope. He read a newspaper article highly recommending Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills about this time, and decided to try them. Soon a change for the better came, and day by day the patient improved, till now she is as well, strong and Nigorous as ever she was. Texas Girl Carried a Quarter of a Mile and Escaped Without a Scratch.

Houston, Texas, May 19. - To be blown more than one-tourth of a mile by a raging tornado is something remarkable, even though the victims were torn all to pieces and killed; but to be blown a quarter of a mile, surrounded on all sides by trees, houses, timbers and all the other debris that a tornado gathers unto itself in its wild flight, carried through une air at 10 miles an hour, and despite ail this, to escape even the slightest bruise or Glasgow, May 19.—The Fairfield Ship-building Company on Wednesday af-ternoon launched the British first-nie Milton in the tornado that passed class armored cruiser Aboukir. How the Inmates of the County Jail Attend Divine Service-On the Day of Worsnip Their Spiritual Needs Are Not Forgotten.

When the Sabbath day comes round each week, bringing with it its abundant opportunities for all to hear told the old, old story of the Gospel, there is one handful of men among London's thousands to whom very few give a thought, or wonder if they too should not share in the hearing of the message of salvation. They are the unfortunate few who, either through crime or misfortune-most often their own, but sometimes that of othersare shut away from the society of their fellow beings. Yet these men, debarred as they are from witnessing and participation in the doings of daily life, are not wholly forgotten on i the Salbbath, nor denied the consolation that religious ministrations can bring to even the most degraded and fallen of mankind. The city ministers of the Gospel take turns in devoting a Sabbath afternoon to the carrying of the message of love and forgiveness these unfortunates, and a little band of earnest girls are present at the services to lead in the singing of the familiar Gospel hymns.

The place selected for the service is the wide corridor, extending from the front to the rear of the jail, and which is divided into three compartments by bars erected from floor to ceiling. The prisoners sit on a bench running along the south side of the corridor, the preacher and the volunteer choir op-posite them, and between preacher and audience is the railing surrounding the stairway leading to the flat be-low. A desk fixed to the railing serves the preacher for pulpit, and a small melodeon furnishes accompaniment for

The prisoners file up one by one from their quarters on the lower floor, and range themselves on their bench. Some are in the parti-colored gar-ments prescribed for wear for the convicted inmates, while others are in their ordinary dress, being those who are awaiting trial. When all are seated, a hymn is announced, one of the singers seats herself at the melodeon, and all stand up. The fresh voices of the girl singers rise in a Gospel strain: "Oh, to be nothing, nothing,

Only to lie at his feet." and the rough, unaccustomed voices of the prisoners are heard humming the tune and singing a word here and there of the evidently unfamiliar verses. The singing concluded, the preacher makes a short and simple prayer, in which he entreats for all resent the blessing of the pitying Father who looks into all hearts, understands all the varied motives and temptations that influence the lives of human beings, the Father who loves the sinner while he hates the sin. Then follows the reading of a Scripture lesson, the 13th chapter of the first epistle to the Corinthians. The prisoners join more heartily in the singing of the

"Come to the Savior, make no de-lay,"

Then comes the sermon. The preacher takes his text from Genesis vii., 1: "Come thou and all thy house into the and from this he draws a parthey procured the tools. It is suppos- allei between God's means of physical salvation for the antediluvian human race and the spiritual salvation free to all today. A short and simple sermon it is, pointing them to the means of salvation and entreating them to surrender their lives to the guidance of a higher power.

The blank, whitewashed walls of the corridor, the barred gratings at either end, the black garb of the preacher, the gray and yellow garments of the prisoners and the bright faces and tasteful attire of the girl singers, all go to make up a striking picture.

The demeanor of the prisoners during the preaching differs greatly. Some listen with respectful attention, watching the face of the speaker; a couple of others bow their heads as if laboring under conviction, and their faces show that they are realizing the truth of the words being spoken. Some are restless and inattentive, while still others, of the dark-faced Indian race, sit in indolent and apathetic listlessness, only taking an interest in the service when the singing is in pro-The sermon finished, the closing hymn is sung. It being another familiar one.

"I am thine, O Lord," the prisoners join in heartily. the benediction is pronounced, and the service is over for another, week. Preacher, choir and auditors go their different ways, the latter back to the monotony of their life in durance, and the former out into the brightness and sunshine of the spring afternoon. And so ends the service. But who can tell whether or not the seed, falling apparently amid rocks and thorns, may not sprout and thrive and in good time bring forth even an hundred fold.

The Late Henry O'Neil

Another of the pioneers of London township, in the person of Mr. Henry O'Neill, of lot 21, con. 15, passed away to join the silent majority on Friday, May 11, having attained the ripe old age of 77 years. In him the country loses one of its landmarks, for, born on lot 21, con. 14, he worked at home until he reached the age of 21 years. He then bought the adjoining farm, which was at that time covered with forest, and proceeded to clear the land and make a home for himself. Notwithstanding his old age he possessed a very retentive memory, and could recall many interesting reminiscences of the early days of the country. His wife predeceased him by five years and he seemed to feel her loss so keenly that since that time he has had but poor health. Deceased was a Conservative, and in religion a consistent member of the Methodist Church. In all church affairs he was an active worker, and a cheerful giver to all worthy objects. The funeral, on Sunday, from his late residence was very largely attended. It was held under Masonic auspices, and conducted by Irving Lodge, A., F. and A. M., Lucan, of which deceased had been for twelve years an honorary member. He also held the degree of Royal Arch in George's Chapter, No. 5, London. The pailbearers were: Thos. Robson, M.P.P. Wm. Smith, London, George Patrick, J. W. Ferguson, J. S. Hodgins, Strathroy, and Jas. Stanley of Lucan. Out of the family of five, four remain to mourn his loss. Darius, of London; Mrs. E. Tennent, Lucan; Mrs. W. C. Hodgins, London township, and Wellington, on the homestead, William S. of London township, having died fourteen years ago,

HEAVEN'S

Washington, May 13.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage lifts the curtain from eternal felicities, and in an un-usual way treats of the heavenly world. Text: I. Corinthians, ii., 5: "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."

The city of Corinth has been called "the Paris of antiquity." Indeed, for splendor, the world holds no such wonder today. It stood on an isthmus, washed by two seas, the one sea bring-ing the commerce of Europe, the other sea bringing the commerce of Asia. From her wharves, in the construction of which whole kingdoms had been absorbed, war galleys with three banks of oars pushed out and confounded the navy yards of all the world. Hugehanded machinery, such as modern in-vention cannot equal, lifted ships from the sea on one side and transported them on trucks across the isthmus and set them down in the sea on the other

The revenue officers of the city went down through the olive groves that lined the beach to collect a tariff from all nations. The mirth of all people sported in her isthmian games, and the beauty of all lands sat in her theaters, walked her porticoes, and threw it-self on the altar of her stupendous dissipations. Column and statue and temple bewildered the beholder. PAUL'S GREAT BRAVERY.

Oh it was not to rustics, who had never seen anything grand, that Paul uttered this text. They had heard the best music that had come from the best instruments in all the world; they had heard songs floating from morning porticoes and melting in even-ing groves; they had passed their whole lives among pictures and sculpture and architecture and Corinthian a song coming up from earth! brass, which had been molded and They rise for the doxology, all the shaped until there was no chariot wheel multitude of the blessed! Let us rise in which it had not sped, and no tower in which it had not glittered, and no gateway it had not adorned. Ah, it was a bold thing for Paul to stand there amid all that, and say: "All this is nothing. You Corinthians think this is nothing. You Corinthians think this a splendid city; you think multitude of the blessed! Let us rise with them, and so at this hour the joys of the church in heaven will mingle the church in heaven will mingle our mourning will seem to whiten into the spotless raiment of the skies. God is splendid city; you think a splendid city; you think you have all heard sweet sounds, and seen all beautiful sights; but I tell you eye hath not seen nor ear hard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepar-ed for them that love him." You see my text sets forth the idea that, however exalted our ideas of heaven, they come far short of the reality. I am glad to know that no human estimate is sufficent to take the "Eye hath not seen, nor dimensions. "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard," nor arithmeticians calculat-

NO SICKNESS IN HEAVEN.

I first remark that we can get no idea of the health of heaven. When you were a child, and you went out in the morning, how you bounded along the road or street—you had never felt sorrow or sickness. The nerves were harp-strings and the sunlight was a doxology, and the rustling leaves were the rustling of the robes of a great crowd rising up to praise the Lord. You thought that you knew what it was to be well, but there is no perfect health on earth. The diseases of past generations came down to us. The airs that now float upon the earth are not like those which floated over paradise. They are charged with impurities and distempers. The most elastic and robust health of earth, compared with that which those experience before whom the gates have been opened, is nothing but sickness and emacia-

I remark further that we can, in this world, get no just idea of the splendors of heaven. John tries to describe them. He says, "the twelve gates are twelve pearls," and that "the foundations of the wall are garnished with all manner of precious stones." As we stand looking through the telescope of St. John we see a blaze of amethyst and pearl and emerald and sardonyx and chrysoprasus and sapphire, a mountain of light, a cataract of color, a sea of glass, and a city like the sun. John bids us look again, and we see thrones; thrones of the prophets, thrones of the patriarchs, thrones of the angels, thrones of the apostles, thrones of the martyrs, throne of Jesus—throne of God. And we turn round to see the glory.

and it is thrones! thrones! THE GLORY OF THE REDEEMED.

John bids us look again, and see the great procession of the redeemed passing. Jesus, on a white horse, leads the march, and all the armies of heaven following on white horses. Infinite cavalcade passing, passing; empires pressing into line, ages following ages. Dispensation tramping after dispensation. Clory in the track of glory. Europe, Asia, Africa, North and South America, pressing into lines. Islands of the sea houlder to shoulder. Generations before the flood following generations after the flood, and as Jesus rises at the head of that great host, and waves his sword in signal of victory, all crowns are lifted and all ensigns swung out and all chimes rung and all hallelujahs chanted.

I remark further, we can get no idea of the reunions of heaven. If you have ever been across the seas and met a friend, or even an acquaintance, in some strange land, you remember how your blood thrilled, and how glad you want to see him. What will be our joy. were to see him. What will be our joy, after we have passed the seas of death, to meet in the bright city of the Lord those from whom we have long been separated.

What a place of explanation it will What a place of explanation it will be. I see every day profound mysteries of Providence. There is no question we ask oftener than, Why? There are hundreds of graves in Greenwood and Laurel Hill that need to be explained. Hospitals for the blind and lame, asylums for the idiotic and insane, aimstructure for the destitute and a world houses for the destitute, and a world of pain and misfortune that demand more than human solution. God will clear it all up. In the light that pours from the throne no dark mystery can live. Things now utterly inscrutable live. Things now utterly inscrutable will be illumined as plainly as though the answer were written on the jasper wall or sounded in the temple anthem. MUSIC OF THE OTHER WORLD.

But, my friends, if music on earth is so sweet, what will it be in heaven? They all know the tune there. All the best singers of all ages will join it—choirs of white-robed children, choirs of patriarchs, choirs of apostles. Morning their cymbals. Harning stars clapping their cymbals. Harpers with their harps. Great anthems of God, roll on! roll on!—other empires joining the harmony till the thrones are all full and the nations all saved. Anthem shall touch anthem, chorus join chorus, and all the sweet sounds of earth and heaven be poured into the ear of Christ. David of the harp will be there. Gabriel of the trumpet will be there. Germany, redeemed, will pour its deep bass voice into the song, and Africa will add to the music with and Africa will add to the music with her matchless voices. I wish we could anticipate that song. I wish in our closing hymn today we might catch an echo that slips from the gates. Who knows but that when the heavenly door opens today to let some sou through there may come forth the strain of the jubilant voices until we catch it? Oh, that as the song drops from heaven, it might meet half-way

Ireland of Today.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Your very kind reference to my projected tour of the British Isles, especipaper, I appreciated very much. It calf, is highly satisfying and encouraging to know that many of all creeds and nationalities are much interested in the important task I have assumed in reference to the Green Isle and its people; and I am certain such kindly references and expressed confidence in me will be a stimulus most beneficial throughout the period during which I hope to learn all that is possible about Ireland of today, for the enlightenment of the American and Canadian public, and the glory of that land, one of the very brightest in story, and the credit of her people, most brilliant in heroic deeds. You will kindly permit me to correct a statement in the paragraph referred to that might leave an impression not true to the spirit of my beloved esterprise. My work, should it ever be favored by the light of publication, is meant to give living pictures of the Ireland of today. Books many have been issued, dealing with Ireland's glorious past, and the world has been forced to recognize the place Irishmen have taken in all that conduces to higher civilization and the deepening mer? Ans.—No, the city bylaws exof the spiritual life; but there is not pressly forbid it, and in townships or in existence, as far as I am aware, a villages where there is no local bylaw, book that professes to give a true, un-varnished account of the Emerald Isle of today. Men have attempted to write of Ireland and the Irish, but have ut-terly failed, because of pre-acquired prejudices for or against them, that bar the way to success that would be to the credit of "big-hearted Paddy." It is universally true that one must be in sympathetic touch with one's subject in order to deal justly with it; this is especially true of "Ireland and the Irish." Within the rude interior of a mountain cabin there is often found the frank, warm-hearted humanity and unbounded hospitality, together with that simple piety and fervor of devotion that make the poorest surroundings splendidly attractive and their atmosphere as inspiring as the gate of heaven, in comparison with which the rude gorgeousness of the palace, with its carnal conventionalities, is very baseness indeed. Of no country can this be said more truly than of Ireland, and it is in order to write faithfully of it all that I am going to tour the country, on wheel and afoot. True, tast-selling books have been issued containing much that is interesting regarding "Pat," but one trait does not make an Irishman's character, and when dwelt on as it has been in the case of them, is only caricature. The genius of the Irish is splendidly versatile, and in this lies its peerless charm, but as such it has not yet been set before the world. Believing, Mr. Editor, you sincerely wish lieving, Mr. Editor, you sincerely wish me all success in this very congenial and important work, I remain, yours very sincerely, GEO. GILMORE.

Prisoner Practiced the Art on the Turn key and Was Let Out of Jail.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 17. — A peculiar case of jail delivery is reported from the town of Geneva, where Frank Steed was arrested and placed in a jail on a charge of assault with intent to kill. Turnkey Johnson went to Steed's cell to serve him with dinner. After-ward, when Johnson was found, it was several minutes before he could be inseveral minutes before he could be induced to talk, and when he did so it was with great effort that he could be understood. He finally said that all he remembered was that Steed had fixed his eyes upon him and told him to unlock the door and let him out. He did not know why he did so, but he obeyed the request, and was powerless to stop the prisoner as he walked out through the door, though he knew that he the door, though he knew that he should not have done so. It developed later in the day that Steed, who was a stranger in the town, was a hypnotist, and had practiced the art in the country before going into the town, where he got into a fight with a saloon-keeper.

Bladder Troubles Cause Wide-Spread Suffering-Dedd's Kidney Pills Are the Only Medicine That Can Cure Them-Mr. John H. Barber's Case.

> STONE THROWING .- How can I prevent boys on the street from throwing stones at birds in the trees in my garden, breaking bushes and covering the garden grass and beds with the stones? Ans.—The city bylaw provides for the case. Get the names of one or more of the boys caught in the act and report to police station.

LIAR .- A tells B that C. called B a liar, B accuses C of the same on the foundation of what A told B. How must A proceed to make B prove that C called B a liar? Ans.—There is no strictly legal mode of doing so, even if it were worth while. C might have punched B when accused by him, and if B had then prosecuted him for assault. A might have been subpoenaed and given evidence on oath as to what C said to him and he to B. All this would be no defense, however, but might let C off with a light fine. STREET BASEBALL.-Is it lawful for young men and boys to practice baseball on the streets, as it is a common occurrence during the suma common nuisance. Playing ball in an unfrequented street where no damage or annoyance is caused would not be a nuisance, but would be a breach of the bylaw, if complaint were made.

Good Spirits.

The power of "good spirits" is a matter of high moment to the sick and weakly. To the former it may mean the ability to survive; to the latter, the possibility of outliving, or living in spite of, a disease. It is, therefore, of the greatest importance to cultivate the highest and most buoyant frame of mind which the conditions will admit, The same energy which takes the form of mental activity is vital to the work of the organism. Mental influences af-fect the system, and a joyous spirit not only relieves pain, but increases the momentum of life in the body.

Many a life has been saved by the moral couring of a sufferer. It is not alone in bearing the pain of operations or the misery of confinement in a sick room this self-help becomes of vital importance, but in the monotonous tracking of a weary path, and the vig-orous discharge of ordinary duty. How many a victim of incurable disease has lived on through years of suffering, patiently and resolutely hoping against hope, or, what is better, living down despair, until the virulence of a threatening malady has died out, and it has ceased to be destructive, although its physical characteristics remained? It is useless to expect that anyone can be reasoned into a lighter frame of mind, but it is desirable that all should be taught to understand the sustaining, and often even curative power of "good spirits."-Frank H. Sweet.

Old Materials Profitably Used.

DIAMOND DYES

Are the Favorites of All Mat and Rug Makers.

Mrs. P. L. Stanhope, of Victoria, B. C., writes thus:
"I recently discovered that I had sufficient old materials such as flannel, cloth, yarns and discarded underwear stored away from which I could make a couple of fair-sized rugs for the floor. I sent to Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal, for two of their handsome rug designs. After they were received, I washed my old materials and colored them with Diamond Dyes to match the shades on the rug patterns. I hooked the two rugs, and they are so handsome that all my friends admire them. The Diamond Dyes are, I think, the best and most reliable for home dyeing. I certainly recommend them to all who make mats and rugs.

Spring Idiots.

[St. Thomas Times.] The earliest of all the green things that make their appearance in the open air is the annual crop of spring idiots. There are a few other green things that get the start of them, but they are grown in hotbeds and are the result of artificial culture, while these are natural products.

There is no part of the world where spring idiots are not plentiful, but they especially abound in cold coun-tries. They are of both sexes, but not of all ages, for the gods love them and they are apt to die young. They firmly believe that one swallow makes a summer, and that on the first sunshifty day winter underclothing must be laid aside no mater how chilly the weather may be. Already some of this class have appeared at church and on the street with straw hats on. and on the street with straw hats on, and yesterday we saw one of them parading a helmet hat, the breeziest headgear known, on Talbot street. The barber is already busy with vernal simpletons of the male persuasion who must have their hair close cropped and their beards taken off because the trout fishing season is here. cause the trout fishing season is here. Some of them have already dropped their warm outer clothing and put on attire more befitting to the "leafy month of June" than the fickle month of May, which is dubious whether it belongs to winter or spring. The search has commenced in trunks and bureaus for summer underwear, overcoats are discarded, full-bosomed shirts are the order of the day, and teeth instead of tongues are chattering in the chilly air. Aboard the cars these idiots have commenced the folly of hoisting the windows and exposing their more delicate fellow passengers to cold-inducing draughts. The damp streets are being promenaded by damp, cold feet

How an Innocent Young Man

Fell Among Smugglers.

[Orillia Packet.] A member of the Packet staff, while on a visit to London, Ont., lately, happened into Connor's old book store, on Richmond street, and once finding the way, went again and again. Apart from the collection of quant and curious volumes Mr. Connor possesses, the proprietor is a chatty, well-informed man, who has seen life in many of its man, who has seen life in many of its phases. While looking over an old volume of Adventure, the Packet man remarked that it was strange we never met with people to whom these things occurred. We saw them nowhere but in books. Mr. Connor, after a moment's reflection, said: "Well, I've had one or two personal adventures." had one or two personal adventures to look back upon, that were interesting enough to me at the time. If you don't mind, I will tell you about what might have been a very serious affair that happened me in Liverpool: "One of my visits to Liverpool was attended with an incident which I will not soon forget. It was in the year 1850, I think, that I went to the town to purchase a stock of books and stationery. I was in the habit of making periodical visits to the various fairs in the north of England. At that time these fairs formed an important element in the trade of the country, element in the trade of the country, but the railroad and telegraph are gradually killing them off. I had a large sum of money in my possession, and as I was particularly careful about it, I carried it around with me. It was all in gold and silver, as paper currency was almost unknown among the country people in those days. I strolled down Tythebarn street to have a look at St. Nicholas Church, in the a look at St. Nicholas Church, in the neighborhood of the docks. This church possessed a kind of melancholy celebrity from the fall of its steeple a few years before, by which twenty-two people were killed and a large number wounded, mostly young persons. It has one of the finest chimes of bells in England, and I have distinctly heard them ring out "The Blue Bells of Scotland" four or five miles away. I was dressed in a plain, every day suit, and would naturally be taken for a farmer or a substantial mechanic. While looking at the church mechanic. While looking at the church I was accosted by a rough-looking, sailor-dressed man, who, after a remark or two about the weather, inquired if I would like to buy some good smuggled tobacco. I did not like the armearance of my row friend at the appearance of my new friend at all, as his face was not by any means an attractive one, and his sailor's suit was of the roughest description. But I was young and venturesome, and a little curious besides, and as he looked as much like a smuggler as anything else, I asked him where the tobacco was. Telling me to follow him, he wheeled off among a net-work of streets, and at last turned into Preston street, one of those long, narrow, crooked alleys that one often meets with in large English towns. It was lined with tenement houses, five and six stories, with projecting upper flats, and dark, dirty basements. The middle of the street was piled with garbage, reeking and festering with the germs of disease. The sidewalks were thronged with ragged, shoeles dren, in various stages of dirt and From the second story window clothes lines were stretched across, on which fluttered rags of various colors like a display of the flags of all nations. With a strong feeling of disgust, but without the clightest suspicions of fear I followed hunger. slightest suspicions of fear, I followed my guide up a narrow stairway. After the first landing it became so dark I

At the click of the bolt I realized my position and my heart for a few seconds went into my boots. For the first time I thought of my money, and the impossibility of concealing it in the bulky shape it was if they made the slightest search. The appearance of the room was not calculated to restore my confidence. Its furniture consisted of a rough table, a couple of stools, and a sea chest. On the latter was sitting my friend's friend Jack, a more villainous looking specimen of the sea-faring man than even my conductor. He looked me over slowly, as d took his time to growl out his re-

My only chance was to get out o' here as soon as I could, and I was just taking the road Manchester-I was just taking the road Manchester-ways when this gentleman, indicating him with my thumb, 'spoke to me on the street and axed me if I would like a good bargain in smuggled tobacco, and I thought, you see,' I went on, 'if I could only get a good half-crown's worth I would sell it on the quiet at the publics, and it would go a great deal further than the money.'

"It did not need any disguised language to convince my hosts that they were losing their time. With the first glance at the purse their jaws gave a droop that would have made me laugh under other circumstances, and before I was done speaking, at an almost imperceptible sign from Jack, the other, whose name I never learned, was silently unbolting the door. They took the disappointment far better than I could have expected. Jack growled that he was sorry I was out of work with empty lockers, while the other merely reminded me, as he held the door open, that he would have my heart's blood if I mentioned the mat-ter to the police. Jack hastily interposed, with a very expressive glance at his pal:

"'He means that if the police was to know of our doin' anything in the smuggling way they'd be down on us like a winkin'.'

"I accepted the explanation without protest, and lost no time in getting out of Preston street. I was after-wards told it was one of the worst localities in the city, and that even the police were afraid to venture into it except in force. A few years afterwards, when the buildings were torn down to widen the streets, they were found honey-combed with secret pas-sages, which made capture almost impossible, and numerous concealed trap doors where plunder could be secret-ed, or a dead body quetly disposed of. In my after visits to Liverpool you may be sure I was cautious about making the acquaintance of alleged smuggiers and was careful to give the neighborhood of Preston street a wide berth.'

ROYAL RED CROSS

A Decoration Conferred Upon Women by Queen Victoria.

Nearly twenty years ago Queen Victoria instituted a decoration, the royal red cross, to be conferred on any woman, foreign or English, recommended by the secretary of state for war for special work in caring for sick and wounded soldiers, says the Chicago News. The decoration is a cross of red enamel, gold edged, one inch wide, tied in a bow and worn on the left shoulder.

Of course the Queen is at the head of the order, other royal members being the Dowager Empress Frederick, of Germany, Princess Christian, Princess Henry of Battenburg, Duchess of Connaught, the Marchioness of Lorne, the Queen and the Crown Princess of Greece and the Duchess of Sparta.

Lady Wantage and Lady Roberts are the only wearers of the cross among the 86 non-royal members who have titles. Many nuns wear the order. In the army list the royal red cross finds a place between the companions of the distinguished service order and officers holding rank in the army permitted to wear foreign decorations.

Mr. Austin Fancy is a well known blacksmith living at Baker Settlement, a hamlet about ten miles from Bridgewater, N. S. Mr. Fancy is well known in the locality in which he lives. He is another of the legion whose restoration to health adds to the popularity of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mr. Fancy related his story of illness and renewed health to a reporter of the Enterprise as follows:—"During the last winter, owing I suppose to overwork and impure blood, I became very much reduced in flesh, and had severe pains in the muscles all over my body. I felt tired and nervous all the time, had no appetite and often felt so low spirited that I wished myself in another world. Some of the time, necessity compelled me to undertake a little work in my blacksmith shop, but I was not fit for it, and after doing the job, would have to lie down; indeed I often felt like fainting. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pink, and after using a couple of boxes, I felt a decided relief. AS LADY'S MAID

Detroit Judge Plays a New Role-Fits a Coat on a Young Lady and Smells It for Traces of Beer.

[Detroit News.]

Justice Fitzsimmons would have made a success as a lady's maid. Before an admiring crowd of spectators in court this morning he fitted a jacket on a blusning young girl of 18, made it fit her as it never had done before, and registered his judicial opinion of it-and her-for comparison the next time she tries it on for his inspection.

The girl, Mary Rose Esser, was walking past Earnest Bovenslep's saloon, 238 Mullett street, when the proprietor came to the door and threw a haff-pint of beer slops over her. It covered her face and ran down her new spring jacket which she had bought, ready made, or $4 95 or thereabout. The beer was not meant for her, but for some boys who had been teasing the saloonkeeper; but she happened to come in the way of it. The saloonkeeper of-fered to take the jacket and get it The saloonkeeper ofcleaned, but the girl refused and sued him for $500 damages, which is just $400 over the jurisdiction of the justices' courts.

The girl was afraid that the jacket would not fit her if it was cleaned, and the saloonkeeper contended that it never had fitted her anyway. The case was settled by leaving it to the judge to say whether, after the jacket had been "dry-cleaned" by the defendant, it was any worse fit than it was before. This was how the girl came to parade for inspection. Not satisfied with the careless way in which the coat had been thrown on, the judge but-toned it up for the young lady, pulled it up at the neck and down at the foot, and smoothed out all the wrinkles. "She has a pretty figure," he whis-pered to a friend, "but that jacket was made to fit a tree-box." The girl pointed to a big stain on the lapel, and the judge suggested that it had been made by her chin.

"Indeed it wasn't," she retorted indignantly, "it's beer. Smell it for yourself."

"The judge isn't supposed to know the smell of beer," said one of the attorneys warningly, but the judge had his nose down to the lapel already.

"It's beer," he said, "and Goebel's beer at that," and he sighed regretfully as he thought of the willful waste while many a poor man is going thirsty. Then he was recalled to himself by the "How-do-you-knowlook in the girl's eye. He had that?" given himself away, and for once in his life he looked disconcerted. He almost blushed. He dodged back to the bench and in his most judicial air adjourned the court. The justice has taken the case under much worse, because you are unconscious of the effects, but every one who comes near you literally smells you. I know, slightly, two ladies, both of them amiable and attractive women otherwise, who are veritable walking charnel houses! Could I use a more expressive or truthful term? These ladies are so saturated with the poisonous effluvia from their internal economy that they are habituated to it; their sense of smell is blunted. I wonder how their husbands endure them! Both of these women suffer from Constipation; their complexions are muddy and their breaths nauseating to sensitive people. I wish I knew them intimately enough to advise them to try Karl's Clover Root Tea, the most wonderful medicine I have ever known for the regulation of the bowels, purifying of the blood and sweetening of the breath.

My dear sisters, I wish to tell you that your health depends entirely on the state of your blood. Your blood makes you whatever you are, for through the blood every organ in your body is kept in repair. If your blood is poisoned by the waste material that is retained in your body because of your constipation, you are not being built up as you should be.

Karl's Clover Root Tea is a truly wonderful tissue builder. It produces healthy digestive organs, allowing your food to nourish you, and induces sound, Lettie was in a rage indeed. flung herself down on a sofa, and gave vent to her rage in wild, incoherent sentences, exclaiming that she hated her sister and wished she were dead. Her plump hands were tightly clinched, and her eyes, as Sanders had de-clared, flashed fire. A dangerous re-bellion was rising in her heart. All the dead mother's coarseness showed in the daughter.

"It was not a fair choice! showed partiality," she muttered. "Bill Sanders is in love with Vixen, and he had no business to be on the committee. She the May Queen! She—I shall never forgive her, and I'll do something to spite that old committee yet! And I won't tell her, so there! I'll fool her! I'll tell her I'm to be the queen, and she'll be disappointed, and maybe it'll make her sick and she won't go. Then they would have to crown me.' She knew that Vixen was sometimes attacked with sudden sick headaches. and, hoping that chagrin would bring on one now, she hastened to the large, clean kitchen, where Josepha was beating eggs in a yellow bowl, and Vixen at the table, with a large gingham apron tied around her slim waist, bare white arms and flour-besprinkled curls and face, was rolling out tea cakes and cutting them into stars, diamonds and hearts. She was singing at the top of her blithe soprano voice:

"Sweet Prince Charming, it is he-

"Oh, yes, I know whom you mean," she said. "It is the young heir of Cedarhurst you call Prince Charming. If I were you I wouldn't go falling in love with a man I wasn't acquainted with, and who wouldn't wipe his feet on his gardener's daughter!'

Shame and anger deprived little Vixen of speech for a moment, but her hands were not idle if her tongue was. White with fury she grasped the roll of cake-dough, and hurled it with unerring precision at Lettie's jetty head. The cake-cutters followed one after another, and then the rollingpin, which the victim dodged just in time to save herself a whack on the head. Then Vixen found voice:

"Get out of this kitchen this minwte, you mean, story-telling thing. If you don't I'll take off the tea kettle and scald you, so there! Ain't you ashamed of yourself, always saying something to scandalize me? I wish you had never been born, Lettie Jar-You are the torment of my life, and I just hate you, do you hear!" Lettie had retreated to the back door by this time, and she uttered one of the taunting laughs that always drove Vixen wild with rage. "Ha, ha, ha! what a sweet-tempered "Ha, ha, ha! what a sweet-tempered little angel! Prince Charming ought to see you now! And you hate me, eh? Josepha's hand fell heavily on the girl's shoulder. "Lettie, is it the truth you're telling?" she asked, and the bold black eyes flashed back at her defiantly, and Lettie answered sullenly: "Of course it's the truth. What else

CHAPTER III.

Truth to tell, there were stronger reasons than simple girlish vanity un-derlying the fierce rivalry of Vixen and Lettie over the flowery crown of the May Queen.
And that reason lay in the angry hint of Lettie regarding the handsome heir of Cedarhurst who was the Prince Those of pure and snowy whiteness. Charming of the dreams of each of Home the children come with singing, these young girls, although he had never even spoken to either one, for the owner of Cedarhurst, with his wife and son, spent all their winters in Washington, only coming down summer to their magnificent Virginia estate. The son, Tracy Temple, had been abroad several years, and on his return to Cedarhurst this spring had set scores of feminine hearts beating wildly over his splendid, demi-god beauty. Lettie and Vixen had seen him several times, and each young heart had secretly thrilled with de-lighted admiration of his masculine charms, while the prestige of his wealth and position cast an added halo around him.

And Tracy Tempest, the elegant, the admired, had condescended to accept an invitation from the festival managers to crown the May Queen. Behold! There immediately began cap-pulling, heart-burnings, jealousies innumerable among the pretty maidens of Sunny Side. The honor of wearing the crown became quite secondary to the honor of being crowned by young Tracy Tempest.

Little Vixen wept some bitter tears that night in the seclusion of her chamber as she sat forlornly at the window watching the full moon rise over the distant hills.

"I should not have cared so much only I—I wanted to know him," she sighed. "He is so different from these stupid town boys—Bill Sanders, Leander Briggs, and the rest of them. Oh, why wasn't I born rich and great? I think I should like to wear handsome dresses and jewels, and dance with men like Tracy Tempest." Lettie's thoughts in the next room ran much in the same wise, only that they were mixed with bitter anger and jealousy against the most fortu-nate Vixen.

"I have triumphed, but only till tomorrow," was her bitter reflection. "Oh, that she may keep to her determination not to go! I would give anything I possess to be sure that she would stay at home! Then they would crown me, and she might never perhaps find out the real truth that she was chosen first.

Long after Vixen's curly head had been laid upon its snowy pillow. all her chagrin and disappointment forgotten in sleep. Lettle sat up arranging and rearranging her finery for tomorrow, and thinking bitter thoughts of the girl in the next room whom she both envied and hated—thoughts that seared her soul with guilt, for she wished over and over that Vixen were dead and out of her path forever.

"She is my sister, but I cannot help wishing her dead," she muttered, vin-dictively. "He will put the crown upon her head, and then maybe he will dance with her upon the green. If he does I'll make her repent it!" she vowed bitterly, and she prayed fervently that something dreadful might happen to Vixen before the morrow dawned. But heaven did not answer her impious prayer. No pain and no harm pious prayer. No pain and no harm such as she would have evoked from the powers of evil, if possible, came near the little slumbering golden head. Vixen rose early the next morning, as usual, to help Josepha with the breakfast, and her blue eyes shone as brightly as if she had not shed such bitter tears in the moonlight last night. Her anger had all passed away, her fits of rage being as evanescent as dew fits of rage being as evanescent as dew upon a flower.

LATEST COURT COIFFURE. The fair debutantes who appeared at the latest English drawing-room mostly adopted the reigning fashion of dressing the hair a la pompadour. A few soft ringlets or tendrils were allowed to fall on the forehead, while the rest of the hair was waved and turned back from the brows so as to form a serviceable knot on top of the head, to which the veil and plumes were securely attached. Behind the hair was loosely brushed back and arranged low down on the nape of the neck. But, sooth to say, many court beauties do not possess enough hair to carry out this mode and have to avail themselves of "well-saved combings" and false hair.

THE "WOMAN'S WORLD," BRENTFORD, LONDON, W., ENGLAND.

The Greatest Labor-Saving Device of the 19th Century. "PERFECTION"

"I always dread the ironing days,"
A tired woman said;
"And if I don't soon get relief
I'm sure that I'll be dead."

III. Mamma, however, surprised them; She'd been the day before And bought a "Perfection" Gas Iron And brought it from the store, Two little girls were puzzled one day
To know what they would do
To iron Dolly's dresses out,
So that they'd look like new.

The little "Tots" were delighted;
"It's just the thing," said they;
It's not a bit of trouble To iron with it all day.

No more sweltering over stoves; The old way's a thing of the past. So simple a child can use it— Relief has come at last.
