GERALD SIFTON IS FREE; JURY DECLARE THAT HE IS NOT GUILTY

After an Absence of About Four Hours They Return With Verdict of "Not Guilty"—Judge Britton Orders His Release.

Tremendous Crowd in Court Room Hear Finding and Plainly Show Their Satisfaction.

Impressive Scene As Jury Re-Entered With Answer.

MRS. SIFTON WEPT JOYFULLY

Ending of One of the Most Sensational Trials in History of Canada.

"NOT GUILTY!"

This was the word which put an end to the agonizing suspense under which Gerald Sifton has labored for six days. Its utterance removed him from the shadow of the gallows and sent him from the courtroom a free man.

The jury was out just three hours and fifty minutes.

AWAITING THE VERDICT.

The scene in the court on Saturday evening while awaiting the coming of the jury, was an animated one, and there was little to suggest that a human life was hanging in the balance. After the jury retired at 4:55 p.m. the doors were opened and a portion of the crowd which congested the corridors and stairways was admitted, taking up every foot of available space and blocking the aisles. The prisoner leaned over the side of the dock and chatted to the constable beside it or across him to his wife. The rigid discipline of court was relaxed, and despite the presence of the judge on the bench a babble of conversation filled the room. Notwithstanding the solemnity of the occasion, the crowd seemed in a cheerful mood, judging from the subdued chatter and laughter which resounded from all sides. When court arose at 6:15 the prisoner was taken back to his cell. Many of those present left the courtroom, but their places were immediately taken by others, and the room remained full. As the time approached for the reopening of court the crowds again gathered and soon the aisles were blocked.

THE JURY RETURNS.

At 8:08 p. m. Judge Britton entered and assumed the bench. The sheriff ordered a passage cleared at the entrances and through the aisles. So great was the crowd that several nervous people were predicting a repetition of the city hall disaster, when a crash and several startled screams from one side of the room sent a shiver through the assemblage. It was only a bench which had collapsed under the weight upon it. Just as the jury filed in three or four more seats in the back of the room went to pieces. But this time there was no alarm.

The jury took their places and the prisoner was brought in, followed by his faithful wife. Sifton was quite composed, but his wife buried her head on the back of a bench and sobbed quietly.

Mr. Clute and Mr. Johnston having left for Toronto by the G. T. R. flyer, the crown was represented by Mr. Magee, while Mr. McEvoy appeared for the defense.

CALLING THE ROLL.

Col. Macbeth called over the roll of the jury and each man answered in turn to his name. The following are the twelve men who held Gerald Sifton's fate in their hands:

Dougald Gillies, Mosa, foreman.
J. E. Thomas, Westminster.
W. A. Ryan, Biddulph.
Hy Remmele, Ekfrid.
W. J. Howlett, Delaware.
Daniel Wood, North Dorchester.
Donald K. McRae, Ekfrid.
Robt. Patterson, W. Nissouri.
Wm. Sutherland, North Dorchester.
Andrew Gardner, Mosa.
Wm. Ellwood, Lucan.
George J. Stevenson, Ekfrid.

"THE JURY HAVE DISAGREED!"

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon your verdict," asked the judge.

Foreman Dougald Gillies rose and said:

"May it please your lordship, the jury have disagreed."

"The prisoner's wife gave an agonized cry and turned her face in her mother's shoulder. The prisoner remained calm.

"Is there any point upon which you want advice?" asked the judge

"Not that I know of," said the fore, man.

"Is there any possibility of your reaching a verdict by further consideration?" said Judge Britton.

"I think not, sir," was the answer.

"I cannot interfere with the conscientious scruples of any juryman," said Judge Britton. "You will retire to your room for a few minutes."

The jury retired and Messrs. Magee and McEvoy conferred with the judge.

"NOT GUILTY!"

At 8:50 the jurymen were again escorted into their place.

"Have you agreed upon your verdict?" asked Clerk Macbeth.

"We have," answered the foreman.

"What is it?"

"NOT GUILTY," said the foreman in ringing tones.

Mrs. Sifton threw herself against the dock and was clasped in her husband's arms, while their lips met in a long kiss.

There was a burst of cheering from the crowd and hats were waved in the air.

The sheriff and constables shouted for order, but the crowd would not be still. When quiet was restored Mr. Magee asked for the polling of the jury.

One by one the jurymen answered "Not Guilty!" as their names were called.

"Stand up!" commanded the judge to Gerald Sifton.

"The jury have taken a merciful view of your case and found you not guilty. There being no other charge against you, you are now dismissed."

As Gerald Sifton left the dock he clasped his wife in his arms. Friends crowded around him and shook him by the hand.

Meanwhile the crowd was again cheering lustily, undeterred by the threats of constables and officials. One youth started to sing "For he's a jolly good fellow."

"Arrest any man making such an unseemly noise," commanded the sheriff. "This is a court of justice, not a music hall!"

Constable Leonard Paisley made a dive for one offender, but the fellow eluded him in the crowd. His agility saved him from spending two or three months in jail.

The constables with the staves cleared the crowd out as rapidly as possible.

The judge, who exhibited the utmost forbearance at the conduct of the crowd, dismissed the jury without a word of thanks. His words in discharging the prisoner showed that he was not at all in accord with the verdict rendered.

Gerald Sifton was taken into the barrister's room to escape the crowd, which thronged around him. The people waited outside for him and cheered him vociferously when he appeared. A cab was called and with his wife he was driven to the residence of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Todd, Askin street. On arriving there his over-wrought nerves gave way and he had to be assisted into the house.

GERALD SIFTON.

Meanwhile the crowd had dispersed from around the court house, and the great Sifton trial had become a part of legal and provincial history.

HOW VERDICT WAS REACHED.

The jury's action in reaching a verdict so soon after announcing an apparently irreconcilable disagreement, was a great surprise to judge, prisoner and spectators alike. When the jury first retired, a ballot was taken, which showed ten in favor of acquittal, and two for conviction, a reversal of last year's standing. The evidence was debated, and another juryman joined the ranks of those in favor of allowing the prisoner his liberty. This division was maintained until after the jury had announced their disagreement. When the judge asked if there was a possibility of reaching a verdict, the foreman looked at ex-Reeve Ellwood, of Lucan, who shook his head in a decided manner. After the return to the jury room the foreman spoke with Mr. Ellwood, and the latter soon saw his way clear to submitting to the opinions of his fellow-jurors.

A WEARY WEEK.

The jurymen expressed themselves as heartily glad that their weary week was over. Their days they spent in the closely crowded courtroom, their nights on rude mattress benches on the floor of the jury room. Their meals were served to them by the janitor. They saw no newspapers, their letters were read by the sheriff, and if these contained any references to the trial they were withheld from the juror to whom they were addressed. No liquor was supplied to them during the week. One of the jurymen who complained of illness on Saturday afternoon was not allowed to see a physician, the judge considering it inadvisable at the stage which the case had reached. Altogether none of the jurymen would care to repeat their experience.

HOW LONDON HEARD THE NEWS.

The jury's verdict was bulletined by The Advertiser immediately after it was announced. A great crowd of people was in front of The Advertiser building at that time. Very shortly afterwards an Advertiser extra, giving a complete account of the last minutes of the great trial was upon the streets. The newsboys could not hand them quickly enough to those eager to buy. Nearly 3,000 papers were sold by 10:30 o'clock. The newsboys reaped a harvest, as they bought the papers at the regular price, two for 1 cent, but [illegible]

MR. CLUTE'S ADDRESS.

There was a tremendous crush at the doors of the court house Saturday afternoon, and hundreds of people surrounded the entrances in the hope of gaining admission to hear the address of counsel for the crown, and the judge's charge to the jury in the Sifton trial. The court-room was filled and still there were as many if not more people outside than inside the courtroom.

No time was lost by Mr. Clute in beginning his address to the jury immediately after the reopening of court.

Mr. Clute opened by asking the jury to refrain from allowing the emotional side of their natures to enter too largely into their consideration of the case. The prisoner had had the advantage of the best legal assistance, and of a carefully prepared defense. The prisoner's counsel had exhausted every means of making the evidence appear as favorable as possible for him. There was, therefore, no wrong being done the prisoner by the crown when it on its side made an equally strong effort to marshal the facts tending to show him guilty of the crime charged.

The jury were not responsible for the consequences of a verdict of guilty if that should be the one returned. Crime picks its own path, and leads to its own end. The verdict carried its own consequences, and with them the jury had nothing to do.

Counsel for the prisoner had dwelt upon the awful consequences of a mistake. No man, however, is held morally guilty, either in this world or a future one, for the commission of an error committed in good faith. But the juryman is guilty of wrong if he sins against his conscience and its dictates of right and wrong.

What motive should be assigned for the crime? Had not the love of gold been found a motive for almost every crime on the calendar! A wilder man than any now on earth had said that the love of money was the root of all evil. With a marriage taking place between Mary Macfarlane and Joseph Sifton, Gerald would have been deprived at once of a large part, if not the whole, of his inheritance.

If the Mordens were unworthy of credence, there was a means open to the defense of proving it. Their neighbors could tell whether or not they were honorable and truthful. Yet none of this testimony had been put in against any of the Mordens.

Mr. Clute then traced the events of the Friday night before the death of Joseph Sifton. He spoke first of the proposed marriage of Joseph Sifton and Mary Macfarlane, of John Macfarlane's coming to see Gerald Sifton, and of Joseph Sifton going with Mary Macfarlane to the latter's mother. There was no evidence of any conspiracy on the part of the Mordens. Then he traced Gerald from his house to James Morden's, where he is seen by both James and Mrs. Whitehead, then to East London, where he was seen by the policeman, Robertson, and by Martin Morden, between 12 and 1 o'clock, though a defense witness had sworn that Gerald was home just after 12. Rev. Mr. Cooper, too, had been hastily summoned to Gerald's home by the latter's wife, and there he remained till nearly midnight, though Gerald was not there.

Meanwhile, where were Joseph Sifton and Mary Macfarlane? They had gone to Mary's mother, and had left her house, intending to take Mary back to Gerald's. Why did they change their intentions and go to Edgar Morden's for the night, were it not that they had received some important communication? From Morden's they go to Joseph Sifton's house, the neighbor Gardner seeing them driving about 6 a.m. They go to the house and there Mr. Sifton dressed for what he thought was his wedding morn. Why had the marriage been set forward to 9 a.m.? Then comes Gerald and Herbert, wanting to put up the hayfork track. The old man makes excuses, does not want to work. But they say to him, "Come out and show us how you want it done." And the old man goes out to the barn and finds his death there.

Mr. Clute then reviewed Herbert's story, and asked why he should tell such a story and plead guilty to the charge of murder. He had no possible reason for doing so, if, as claimed by the defense, there had been no murder. Herbert was among friends, he had excellent counsel, yet he had chosen to confess.

Speaking of the medical testimony, Mr. Clute referred to the seeming incompatibility between the witnesses on the opposing sides. When once the key to this riddle is obtained, however, it is easy of solution. Taking Dr. Cameron's statement, that Herbert's evidence would be the result of a vivid impression, and therefore largely fallacious, the jury must not take literally Herbert's statement as to the severity of the blows administered. The mind that planned such a crime would regulate the severity of the blows to obtain the desired result. A more important fact about Herbert's evidence was the fact that he had given substantially the same story as last year. He had time after time corrected counsel in the matter of details. His story was an actual thing to him, the scene stamped upon his mind until his dying day.

"If the prisoner is guilty," concluded the counsel for the crown, "you have no responsibility in that respect. The prisoner should have thought of that before entering upon a course which would bring him under the hand of the law. We have only to examine the evidence, and move step by step to the legitimate conclusion. I leave the case to you, and God grant you light to perform your duty."

Mr. Clute ended his address at 3:50 p.m., having spoken for exactly one hour and three minutes.

THE JUDGE'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Clute had not taken his seat, before Judge Britton had commenced his charge to the jury. The charge, while fair and impartial, seemed to weigh a little against the prisoner. The charge took one hour and five minutes to deliver.

Judge Britton, in opening, referred to the responsibility devolving upon him as presiding judge of reviewing the evidence, and laying the case before the jury. He said he had been relieved of a large portion of this duty by the manner in which the case had been conducted by both the crown and the defense. His lordship recalled the old days when, before charging the jury, the judge had all the evidence read over to them. That, however, was before the days of shorthand reports. His lordship said there was certainly no need of such a course in the present case, as he had noticed the jury giving close attention to the evidence. It was an important function of citizenhood the jury was called upon to perform, and, although it meant inconvenience for them, they were laboring in the public welfare.

Human life is regarded as so precious a thing that it must be safeguarded in every possible manner. Whether a man be young or old, healthy or invalided, rich or poor, his life must not be taken with impunity.

The judge first proceeded to review the indisputable facts of the case, mentioning the engagement of Mary Macfarlane and Joseph Sifton, Gerald's visits to James and Martin Morden, Joseph Sifton and Mary spending the night at Edgar Morden's, and other circumstances. If Joseph Sifton's death was the result of accident, he said, the accident was surrounded by a most singular set of coincidences, yet mere coincidences after all. If, however, it was not an accident, but a result of killing, then these circumstances are of striking importance in connection with the case. If the case was one of killing by design, whether by the prisoner in the presence of Herbert, by Herbert in the prisoner's presence, or by both together, the prisoner would be equally guilty with Herbert.

In reviewing the disputed evidence, His Lordship spoke of the aspersions cast on the Mordens. He said that the evidence seemed to show that instead of them first seeking Gerald, the prisoner had sought them. The two Mordens had been referred to as fugutives from justice, but they were not. They were absent from the country, but so were many other innocent men. Their evidence had to be read by counsel, but the defense had availed themselves of a like expedient in the case of the witness Charles Going.

The crown had not called Edward Morden. It had evidently some good reason for not doing so. Had he been called it could only have been as a discredited witness, according to the records of the court, which had pronounced a forgery the will produced by him and claimed to have been drawn at Joseph Sifton's direction.

If the evidence of the experts were regarded as conclusive, the death of Sifton could only be ascribed to a fall. If Herbert's statements and the other evidence satisfied the jury that the prisoner was the man who did the killing, then the jury need not con-

Made Strong and Healthy Through DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent.

Every drop of the Sarsaparillian Resolvent communicates through the blood, sweat, urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life; for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, consumption, syphilis, uncured and badly treated venereal in its many forms (send 10c for illustrated book "Radway on Venereal") glandular diseases, ulcers in the throat, mouth, tumors, nodes in the glands and other parts of the system, sore eyes, strumous discharges from the ears, and the worst forms of skin diseases, eruptions, fever sores, scald head, ringworm, salt rheum, erysipelas, acne, black spots in the flesh, tumors, cancerous growths, female complaints, and all weakening and painful discharges, night sweats, nocturnal losses and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this Wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them. If the patient, daily becoming reduced by wastes and decomposition that are continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood, and this the Sarsaparillian will and does secure, a cure is certain, for when once the remedy commences its work of purification and succeeds in diminishing the loss of wastes, its repairs will be rapid, and every day the patient will feel himself growing better and stronger, the food digesting better, appetite improving and flesh and weight increasing.

SCROFULA FROM BIRTH.

Dr. Radway: Dear Sir,—It is with pleasure I take my pen in hand to inform you of the great cure effected by your medicine called Sarsaparillian Resolvent. I have a girl three years old last September, who has suffered with scrofula ever since she was two years old. In fact, the doctor told us she was born with it. We had our best local doctors with her, and it seemed like all hope was gone, for they told us if the disease settled on her lungs she could not be cured. This frightful disease seated or seized upon her lungs severely. I began to think that our little girl could not live very long, our physician's medicine doing no good. In the meantime I received one of your medical publication called "False and True," which you sent me. After seeing the account of so many cures effected by your treatments, I at once resorted to them, and by the time she had used one bottle she was almost well. The ulcers that were making their appearance on her body are entirely gone, her lungs are almost healed, or, at least, she has quit coughing. She has begun on a second bottle, and I believe by the time she uses all of it she will be well. She had a very bad cough. I am yours with respect, SAMUEL S. BARKER, Flat Top, Mercer County, W. Va.

"LIFE A BURDEN."

Dr. Radway: Dear Sir,—For a long time past I have been suffering in the most distressing manner from a long train of symptoms which have baffled the skill of all the medical men down here, and which I feared, if not arrested in their progress, would terminate in the total prostration of my strength. Loss of appetite and desire of stimulation and artificial means of sustenance at irregular times, want of healthy sleep and consequent depression on arising in the morning, rendered life quite a burden to me until a friend induced me to try your medicine. So I got a bottle of Radway's Sarsaparillian and a box of Radway's Pills, and took them according to directions. I soon got relief. I got three boxes and three bottles more, and am in better health than ever before. I remain, your humble servant, ARTHUR D. WRIGHT, Unionville, Mich.

THE MOST ECONOMICAL! THE BEST!

One bottle contains more of the active principle of medicine than any other preparation. Taken in teaspoonful doses, while others require five or six times as much. Sold by druggists. Price $1.

CANADA IS WIDE AWAKE

Country's Progress Viewed From an American Standpoint.

Her Prosperity Inviting Many Americans to Cross the Line.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 10. — The Journal says: During the week ended Oct. 25, the clearings in New England increased 2 per cent, in the middle states, 23 per cent, in the mid-west, 4 per cent, in the south 14 per cent, in the southwest 6 per cent, and in the Pacific states 13 per cent. The comparison is with the corresponding week a year ago. The gain in the clearings of Canada for the same week this year reached 40 per cent. This astonishing increase comes to the attention of our people at a time when the consideration of Canada's progress is forced on their minds by a variety of facts, including plenty of statistical data. Canada's prosperity has been quite as marked in bank clearings during the last six or seven years as that of the United States. At present it is the more clearly indicated by that criterion.

It is said that fully 40,000,000 acres of wheat lands are awaiting occupancy north of our own boundary. Last year but 3,000,000 acres yielded harvests. From this small acreage 60,000,000 bushels of spring wheat were secured, of which the most is for export. When the whole arable expanse is cultivated, Canada will produce an enormous quantity of this grain, and the time is not distant when at least a third of the area will be covered with farms. This is the principal source of Canada's wealth, but it is not the only very promising one. The country is gradually mining its own soft coal, it possesses iron mines which are continuation of the ranges in our own northwest, its copper, silver and gold must be reckoned with, and the measure of its capacity for shipments of potatoes and fruits, dairy products and lumber, fisheries and food animals, has not yet been taken. Considering these facts, one must prepare for the accumulation of Canada's wealth and power on a grand scale. If it invites thousands of our citizens across the line, those who know best the character of such immigrants should be the quickest to realize what is probably before the Dominion.

Skin on Fire With Eczema

Mr. McDougall Was for Twelve Years a Dreadful Sufferer—Now Proclaims the Virtues of

Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Eczema's itch is torture, the skin seems on fire, with burning, stinging humor; at times it becomes almost unbearable, and in desperation you could tear the skin to pieces. You dare not exercise for fear of aggravating the itching, neither can you sleep, for no sooner does the body become warm than the trouble begins, and instead of restful, refreshing sleep, it is scratch, scratch, scratch all night long. There is scarcely a moment's respite from this maddening malady at any time. Of course, you have tried nearly all the washes, salves, lotions and medicated soaps, but like thousands of others have been disappointed and disgusted.

Mrs. James Bradley, Amberley, Huron County, Ont., states: "I was afflicted with eczema for over six months, and it was so bad that my head was a solid mass of scabs, and would ulcerate when scratched. The itching was intense. I could not stand it. I had doctored for four months, and it did not do me any good. I had to give up housework and go home to my mother. I tried nearly everything, but could get no relief. Seeing your advertisement in one of the Toronto papers, I decided to try Dr. Chase's Ointment.

"I got relief from the first application, and it only required one box and part of another to cure me. I am sure that Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth its weight in gold."

You may be skeptical regarding the ability of Dr. Chase's Ointment to cure you. Most people are, after trying in vain to get relief from a host of remedies, but Dr. Chase's Ointment will not disappoint you. You will be surprised at the marvelous control which it has over all itching, burning inflammation of the skin, and the wonderful healing powers which it possesses. It takes time to thoroughly cure eczema, but Dr. Chase's Ointment will do it. You will find relief after a few applications, and gradually and naturally the cure will follow. Besides being a positive cure for eczema, Dr. Chase's Ointment comes useful in a hundred ways in every home for every form of skin irritation and eruption, chapped skin and chilblains. 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

GHOULS' HORRIBLE TALE

Forty Bodies Were Taken From One Cemetery in Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 10.—Rufus Cantrell and John McEndree, leaders of the gangs of ghouls, pointed out between 30 and 40 graves which they said were robbed by them, to detectives on Saturday. The ghouls were taken to the Ebenezer and Anderson Cemeteries for the purpose. The detectives wanted the names of other bodies stolen in order that warrants might be sworn out. At the Anderson Cemetery the sexton told the detectives that about 40 graves in the place were empty.

In the Anderson Cemetery Cantrell pointed out the graves of a woman and her daughter as among those he had robbed. Cantrell said he stole the body of the woman by agreement with her husband, and paid him half of the $30 which a prominent local physician paid for the body. The daughter died a short time afterwards, and Cantrell said he was at the grave the night after the funeral and stole the body.

J. J. YOKOM TALKS

Welland Merchant Tells How Dodd's Kidney Pills Brought Back Splendid Health.

Welland, Ont., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Mr. J. J. Yokom, the well-known grocer and provision merchant of this place, has come out with a statement that is of peculiar interest to all those suffering from Kidney Disease in any form.

"I had been suffering from Kidney Complaint for a year or more," Mr. Yokom states. "I had a very depressed feeling in my head, little or no appetite, a constant feeling of languor and I lost a lot of weight. I spent money on medicines and doctors to no benefit, and I was greatly discouraged.

"One lucky day, I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and started to use them. They did me good almost from the first and five boxes completely cured me. I am now in splendid health."

NEW YORKERS SHIVER

At Thought of Only Getting Half as Much Coal as They Need.

New York, Nov. 10.—Although coal company and railroad officials say every effort is being made to supply this city with anthracite, it is stated that only half enough is reaching here to supply the demand—that is New York is receiving five per cent of the output against theoretical requirements of ten per cent.

Retail dealers who announced the scale of $6 50 a ton recently were flooded with orders, and as bins had been scraped clean everywhere, are now forced to admit their inability to supply the coal promised. A decided drop in the temperature during the past 24 hours has caused the shortage to be emphasized, and predictions of a cold wave are adding to the fears of consumers.

The Empty Coal Scuttle.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 9.—This city was in total darkness last night, and half of the street cars were taken off, as the result of the shortage of coal.

A New River.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—W. J. Wilson, an explorer of the Canadian geological survey, who has returned with his party from a tour through the unexplored country to the southwest of James' Bay, reports the discovery of a large river, hitherto unsurveyed, and running between Albany River on the south and the Ottawapicket River on the north. It has a course of over 300 miles, and near James' Bay divides into two branches, emptying into Hudson's Bay. Several new lakes also were discovered.

Bank Burned Out.

Arcola, N. W. T., Nov. 10.—The Union Bank here was burned Saturday. All valuable papers were saved. The accountant and junior clerk were rooming above and lost all their personal effects. Manager Stewart also lost his personal property, valued at $400, with $200 insurance.

Cambridge, N. J., Nov. 10.—The plants of the Nonpareil Cork Manufacturing Company, the Camden Manufacturing Company, manufacturers or chemicals, and McAndrews & Forbes, licorice manufacturers, comprising about a dozen frame buildings, at Kaighan's Point, in the southern section of this city, were destroyed by fire today. The combined loss is estimated at $150,000. The burned district covers an area of about three city blocks along the Delaware River. The British steamer Conway, from India, loaded with licorice root, was saved by the timely arrival of the Philadelphia fire boat Ashbridge.

DISASTROUS FIRE I NEW YORK

Two Men Killed in the Times Printing Office.

MANY BANKERS ARE IN PERIL

Two Lives Lost and Seven Persons Injured in a Railway Collision.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 10. — In a collision between a freight train and a work train on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad, near here, Saturday, two men were killed and seven were injured. One of the injured will die. The dead are: John Veach, of Indianapolis, and Bud Fox, of Montezuma.

KILLED WHILE EATING LUNCH.

Shenandoah, Pa., Nov. 10. — Martin Yanis and Enoch Sisavage, mine laborers, were killed by a fall of coal at Cambridge colliery. They were sitting in the gangway eating a lunch from their dinner pails, when the fall occurred. Both died instantly.

DEADLY SHOWER OF ROCKS.

New York, Nov. 10. — One man was killed and one fatally hurt by a shower of rocks which fell from a bucket on a movable crane at the rear of the Tombs prison. Both the victims are Italian laborers, who were at work on an excavation. The crane signal man and the bucket fastener were arrested and held by the coroner's jury in $1,000 bail.

JUMPED FROM BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

New York, Nov. 10. — An unidentified man killed himself by jumping off the Brooklyn bridge into the East River on Saturday. Many passers-by saw him suddenly climb the high railing and throw himself down head foremost. He appeared to be about 25 years of age and he acted strangely just before he leaped.

FATAL COLLISION.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 10. — A special from Maysville, Ohio, says that the Big Four special train, carrying 125 bankers from this city and all points in Northern Ohio en route to New Orleans collided head-on with a freight train five miles south of Marysville this afternoon. A railroad man, riding on the baggage car immediately back of the tender, was crushed to death. None of the passengers were hurt. A brakeman on the bankers' special, who was in the rear of Col. Myron T. Herrick's car, was thrown seven feet and knocked senseless.

FOOTBALL PLAYER FATALLY HURT.

Andover, Mass., Nov. 10. — John A. Collins, a student of Princeton, and captain of the Andover eleven of 1899, had his foot cut off by a freight train and died after undergoing an operation at the Lawrence City Hospital. Collins came here to attend the Andover-Exeter game, and went to Lawrence Friday night to a dance. He started to walk back from South Lawrence early in the morning, when he was struck by a freight train and his foot nearly cut off. It was thought best to amputate the leg at the knee. He did not rally from the operation. Collins played two years on the Andover eleven, and at Princeton the first of this season until injuries forced his retirement.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

New York, Nov. 10.—Two men were killed and one of the pumping stations of the city's water supply system in Queensborough was totally destroyed yesterday by the explosion of one of two big boilers which furnished power for the pumps. Those killed were William Dihoy, the engineer of the plant, and James Nelson, the fireman. The building was ripped to pieces. Bricks from it flew a distance of a thousand feet or more, while the boiler, which exploded was hurled 200 feet from its head. The other boiler, which was not in use at the time, was lifted from its foundations and thrown 100 feet in the other direction. The body of the engineer was hurled about 150 feet from a spot where he is supposed to have been standing.

New York, Nov. 10.—Two men lost their lives and two boys narrowly escaped a similar fate in a fire which communicated with the subway to the mailing and press rooms in the cellar of the New York Times building Saturday afternoon. The dead are: John Daly and William McCormack. The two boys were partially suffocated, and are now in the hospital. The men and boys were overcome by smoke in a small room used for mailing purposes in the front of the cellar close to where the fire started. The fire originated in the explosion of a gasoline lamp burning on one side of a wooden partition separating the Rapid Transit subway from the cellar of the Times building. The partition, which was covered on both sides with tar paper, blazed fiercely, setting fire to a tank containing printing ink, which ignited. This gave forth dense floods of smoke, which filled the cellar and rolled up the elevator shafts. The fire was extinguished in 15 minutes. The damage was slight.

Nashville Opera House Burned.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Fire Saturday morning completely gutted the opera house, one of Nashville's leading playhouses. The loss is estimated at $50,000. Less than a year ago the Vendome, another of Nashville's theaters, was burned.

Fleeing for Safety.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 10.—A special from Guadalajara, Mexico, says: "A violent eruption of Colima Volcano is threatened, and the people living in the valleys at the base of the mountain are fleeing to Manzanillo and other points. A dense volume of smoke has been pouring from the crater for several days, and during the last 48 hours deep rumbling and sharp reports have come from the interior of the volcano. It is reported that an order has been issued to suspend construction temporarily on the Colima extension of the Mexican Central Railway, as the native laborers cannot be induced to work so near the volcano."

Phonograph at a Funeral.

Leavenworth, Kan., Nov. 10. — Rev. Samuel Pearson, pastor of the First Congregational Church of this city, used a phonograph to supply the music at the funeral of Daniel P. Williams, an old resident. Learning that no choir had been provided for the services, he took the machine along to the church, where it rendered "The Holy City," and "Jesus, as Thou Wilt." Though somewhat surprised, the relatives and friends of the decedent seemed entirely satisfied. The pastor seemed greatly pleased with the innovation, and said he was in favor of the use of the phonograph for sacred music in sick rooms.

WOMAN KILLED HER HUSBAND

The Desperate Deed Was Done in Self-Defense.

MARSHAL SHOT BY A FARMER

A Buffalo Doctor Charged With Manslaughter—Foreman Shot by a Miner.

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 9. — Mrs. Enoch Hink shot and killed her husband at their home about three miles above Port Dickinson this morning about 4 o'clock. The act was done in self-defense, Hink at the time being engaged in a murderous assault on his wife with an open clasp knife. Hink was 53 years old; his wife is 40. They have been married 23 years. For some time Hink has been jealous of a nephew, Frank Hink, who has boarded at the Hink home.

KILLED THE FOREMAN.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 10. — Dennis Doris, foreman at the Susquehanna Coal Company's mines at Glen Lyon, this county, was fatally shot on Saturday by a miner, J. C. Hennessy. Hennessy made application for work to Foreman Doris and the latter refused him a place. This angered Hennessy and he drew a revolver and began firing. Doris cannot recover.

THROWN IN THE RIVER.

New York, Nov. 10.—Papers found on the body of a man apparently murdered and thrown into the Hudson River at Newburg, have led the coroner to believe that the victim's name is Bernard Murphy. The papers indicated that he had been a member of the army and had resided formerly at Greenwich., S. C.

DOCTOR HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 10.—The grand jury on Saturday handed down an indictment charging Dr. Leland Dorr Kent, of Buffalo, with the crime of manslaughter in the first degree, in connection with the death of Miss Ethel Blanche Dingle, the nurse formerly connected with the Riverside Hospital, Buffalo, who was found dead in the Whitcomb House here several weeks ago. It will be remembered that Dr. Kent was found with his throat cut, and he claims that Miss Dingle tried to murder him and then committed suicide. The grand jury evidently believed the story by the police that Kent murdered the girl and then made a feeble attempt to end his own life, his nerve failing him.

TOWN MARSHAL SHOT.

Independence, Ky., Nov. 10.—Nicholas Hopperton, town marshal of this place, was shot and killed Saturday by William Rice, a farmer. Rice had come to town intoxicated and carrying a shotgun. The marshal arrested him and disarmed him, but subsequently gave him his gun, as he was about to leave town.

In a few minutes Rice returned and dared the marshal to arrest him. The marshal advanced to disarm him again, when Rice fired and the marshal fell, mortally wounded. He, however, fired three shots at Rice, each shot striking. Hopperton died in a few minutes. Rice's wounds are said to be mortal.

Proclaimed Herself Virgin Mary.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 10.—At Yorkton a young Doukhobor woman of attractive appearance dressed herself in white cotton with white canvas shoes and proclaimed herself the Virgin Mary. Many of the Doukhobors believe her story and she may cause trouble if her advice shall be in the wrong direction.

SHOE STAMINA

IT centres round the insole!

Without good live leather in this, the mainstay of the shoe, there will come early ruin.

The stitching cuts, the upper spreads, the welt rips, and the shoe quickly loses its shape.

When you buy shoes, the last thing you look at is the insole.

Manufacturers know this, and they also know that the first thing you look for is fine upper leather, neat finish, and smart shape.

Result—insole robbery for mere outward effect.

Of what use is fine appearance, if it wont continue under wear.

But you can't hold the Makers responsible for this,—for value, or wear, unless the Maker too fixes the retail price.

He usually gives the kind of value Shoe Retailers usually want—surface value, selling effect. His market is with the Retailer.

But the Slater Shoe market, created through advertising, is with the Wearer.

Therefore, satisfaction to the Wearer is the ambition and prime necessity of the Slater Shoe System.

And such permament satisfaction depends, among other hidden things, upon an insole which costs nearly twice as much as that used in the ordinary shoe.

Goodyear Welted—$3.50 and $5.00.—Stamped on the soles, in a slate frame.

FROGS AS BIG AS OXEN

Fossil Bones Found of Prehistoric Monsters That Flourished in Oklahoma.

Norman, Okla., Nov. 10.—H. W. Menke, of the Field Columbian Museum, Chicago, is in Oklahoma, collecting fossils. A few years ago, near Orlando, many fossil bones were found. They were small back bones, leg bones, and a few skulls and teeth.

Most of these specimens were sent to Dr. S. W. Williston, of Kansas University, for identification. He pronounced them exceedingly rare. Dr. Williston last year went to Chicago to accept a place in the Field Columbian Museum. He sent Mr. Menke to Oklahoma, where he has collected a number of these bones.

Speaking of the animals to which the bones belonged, Mr. Menke said they probably were members of the class known as amphibians, or possibly a few of them were primitive reptiles. The amphibians constitute the class of animals now represented by frogs, toads and salamanders. The extinct bones were much larger, however, than these of amphibians now diving.

If one can imagine a frog as big as an ox, he will have some idea of the appearance of these prehistoric monsters that once flourished in Oklahoma.

BABY AS BAGGAGE

Deserted Child Sent to Chicago in a Telescope Valise.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Carefully tucked into a new "telescope" bag and dressed in expensive clothing, a baby only a few days old was found at the Dearborn station in a pile of baggage taken from a Monon train. No claimant appearing for the baggage it was opened and a handsome baby, sound asleep, was discovered.

The trainmen think the child was put aboard at a nearby Indiana station, as it had not been crying and showed no evidence of having been drugged. A small hole had been cut in the bag to admit air. The infant was taken to St. Vincent's orphanage.

MASCAGNI ARRESTED

Famous Composer Taken Into Custody—Released on $10,000 Bail.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 10.—The financial troubles existing for some time between the Mascagni Opera Company and its members reached a climax Saturday night when Mascagni was arrested upon a civil suit for alleged failure to fulfill his contract, brought by Mittenthal Bros., who, with Samuel Kronberg, were his original managers.

Mr. Kronberg washed his hands of the whole affair, as he asserted, several days ago and left for New York. As soon as the writ was served upon Mascagni at his rooms in the Touraine, his counsel petitioned Judge Sheldon of the Superior Court for an immediate hearing of the case, to which he claimed his client was entitled under the statutes. Judge Sheldon received the petition at his home.

The justice refused to proceed with the hearing, saying that it should be held in open court and made the writ returnable in the first equity session of the Superior Court on Monday nevt. Bail in the case, which had at first been fixed at $12,000, was reduced to $10,000 and was furnished.

GROWING TIME IN WINDSOR

Houses Are in Demand—Real Estate Agents Have None to Rent.

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 10. — The real estate dealers of Windsor complain of the lack of vacant houses in the city. There are constant demands from outside places for residences in Windsor. Rents have steadily advanced, and a number of new dwellings have been erected this year, but the demand constantly exceeds the supply.

"I never have had so many inquiries for houses as this year," said John J. Foster, a real estate dealer, yesterday. "Every day people come to my office asking for houses, and I have none to rent. They are not particular about the price, but they cannot get a house at any figure, and they are forced either to board or go to Detroit. There have been hundreds of houses erected this year, but they do not appear to fill the want.

"It is a good opportunity for speculators to build houses in Windsor, as there is certain to be a constant increase in the demand, and real estate all over the city can be purchased now at a reasonable price."

Mr. Foster reports the following transfers during the past week, House and lot on Wyandotte street east, to Mrs. Chappus, for $900; two lots on Victoria avenue, Walkerville, to Mrs. Charles DeLisle, lot on Church street to Miss Ouellette, for $325; house and lot in the Town of Leamington to Milton J. Swatman, for $1,000.

Married on Deathbed.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 10.—John McCormick Gibson, of this city, who, a week ago, at Ashville, N. C., was married to Miss Henriette Wolf, on what was considered his deathbed, died at Ashville yesterday. He had made a will leaving his estate, valued at $1,000, to his bride. Mr. Gibson's first wife was a victim of the Windsor Hotel fire in New York City.

FIGHTING THE RAILWAY

Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Company Have Trouble.

Farmers Refuse to Sell Property Needed for the Line.

Windsor, Nov. 10. — The officials of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Electric Railway are having considerable trouble securing the right of way for the extension of the road from Ojibwa to Amherstburg. Possession of every foot of land required is bitterly contested and the officials have to do all kinds of work to secure permission from the farmers along the proposed route.

At first some of the farmers absolutely refused to sell sufficient property for the railway and told the officials they could take their railway to Amherstburg by some other route. As these farmers owned land near the point at which the extension was commenced, it was necessary that they should be won over and much pressure was brought to bear before they would consent to arbitrate. When this consent was secured, the officials of the road decided to have a stated price named for the land needed all through Sandwich West, and the price was placed at $1,000 per acre. This amount satisfied nearly all of the property owners, and they consented to allow the railway to go ahead, but they have since raised many obstacles, and the railway people are kept busy overcoming objections and settling claims.

One particular case of complaint, which was at first not considered, is the shade trees that will have to be removed from the roadbed of the railway. The line is to be run at the side of the road and cuts off a small piece from the front of each farm. The survey takes in a great majority of the trees, and it was the fact that the farmers will have to lose the trees that caused such strong objections to the line from the start. But here again the officials found a way of surmounting the difficulty. They learned that although the farmers did not like to lose the trees they were willing to part with them for a financial consideration and the value of the trees is now fixed when the property is purchased for the road.

There are many prized hedges of evergreens, and as the trees are fifteen and twenty years old, they are valued highly by the owners, in some instances they are valued too highly, according to the views of the railway people, and arbitrators have to be called in to settle on a price satisfactory to both parties.

The company has now settled with a majority of the farmers of Sandwich West, and they will next have to treat with the property owners of Anderdon. The officials will be in a better position to place a valuation on the property in this township, and to estimate the loss from trees, as they have profited by the experience gained in Sandwich West, and it is expected that the same difficulties will not arise.

But notwithstanding the many drawbacks, the road is going rapidly forward, and it will be only a matter of a few months before the road is completed to Amherstburg. The ties and steel are received as fast as they can be used, and large gangs of men are engaged on the construction of the roadbed, while others follow ballasting and laying steel.

THIS WAS IN CHICAGO

Election Frauds—10,000 More Votes Cast Than Ballots Issued.

Chicago, Nov. 7. — The Record-Herald tomorrow will say that Daniel D. Healy, Republican candidate for sheriff at the recent election, claims that he has been elected sheriff and that the count, which showed the election of Thomas E. Barrett, Democrat, by about 7,600 plurality, is false. It is claimed that the total vote for sheriff was in excess to the extent of more than 10,000 votes of the number of ballots issued to the county for the election. According to a report from the board of election commissioners between 284,000 and 285,000 ballots were issued at the polls, including the number destroyed and those wrongly stamped. Figures give the total on the vote for sheriff at 294,943. Where the difference comes in has given rise to the cry of fraud in the interest of some candidate for sheriff on the ticket.

Since Nov. 1 2,327 tons of hard coal have reached Toronto by water. Another vessel is expected today.

Mr. John Mitchell may be a candidate for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor at the forthcoming convention.

AN EASY WAY

To Keep Well.

It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.

The all important thing is to keep the stomach right and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that certain favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Weichold gives pretty good advice on this subject; he says: "I am 68 years old and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep a healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary I always eat what my appetite craves, but daily for the past eight years I have made it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal and I attribute my robust health for a man of my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets.

"My physician first advised me to use them because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret medicine, but contained only the natural digestives, peptones and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice.

"I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and ailing and preserves health to the well and strong."

Men and women past 50 years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion and to ward off disease, and the safest, best known and most widely used is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They are found in every well regulated household from Maine to California and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into popular favor.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized packages at 50 cents, and for a weak stomach a 50 cent package will often do $50 worth of good. 87-c-xzv

ELEPHANT PUT TO DEATH

With a Two-Inch Hawser and Steam Winches.

"Mandarin" Had Been With a Circus 24 Years—Weighed Five Tons.

New York, Nov. 10. — Big Mandarin, an elephant of the Barnum & Bailey Circus was executed by strangulation Saturday night in his cage on the main deck of the steamship Minneapolis of the Atlantic Transport Line.

A two-inch hawser was placed in a loop around Mandarin's neck and each end of the hawser was fastened to the drum of a steam winch. The engines were started at the same time and ran slowly at first, until the hawser was taut about the animal's neck, when the speed was increased and the hawser quickly tightened.

In 1½ minutes the hind legs sank to the floor of the cage and the beast was unconscious. Just eight minutes after the engines had been started Mandarin was pronounced dead. The cage containing the body was then hoisted from the ship by a crane and loaded on a barge, in which it was towed about 20 miles out to sea and sunk, the cage being weighted with about 5,000 pounds of old railroad iron.

Mandarin was the largest elephant in captivity at the time of his death and had been with the Barnum & Bailey Circus for 24 years. He weighed five tons and stood 9 feet 10 inches high. The elephant recently had become unmanageable, rendering his destruction necessary.

MANY BOXERS BITE THE DUST

Result of Recent Outbreak at Sze Chuan.

200 OR 300 INSURGENTS SLAIN

Governor of Hu-Nan Opposes Decapitation of the Murderers of British Missionaries.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 10—Mail advices from the Orient include official reports from Kuei Chun, ex-Viceroy of Sze Chuan, detailing the recent Boxer outbreak there. After relating the incidents leading up to the destruction of the churches in the two districts, and the murder of many native converts, the report says:

"Several regiments of troops were sent to the disturbed places, and, besides slaying two or three hundred of the insurgents, succeeded in capturing several, who were brought to Cheng Tu and decapitated. Between 5,000 and 6,000 Boxers assembled in Hwai Yang Hsien, Ching Tang Hsien and Shir Chou, where they occupied the market town and killed as many captains of the train hands as they could get hold of.

"A small force was sent to the Boxers to exhort them to disperse. It did not take stringent measures on this occasion, because I feared that among the Boxers there might be many famine-stricken inhabitants, who were not disposed to do evil, but were simply misled by the Boxers. Two hundred Boxers were killed, and the others driven back. Many entrenched themselves, and the force sent was obliged to return."

The report continues, describing the disaffection throughout the province which prevented garrisons being transferred, and then tells of the attack on Cheng Tu, where three regiments and 600 banner men had been assembled for defense.

The Boxers attacked the imperial troops in the outskirts of Cheng Tu and a hot battle followed, which lasted for a whole night, with the result that between 400 and 500 rebels were slain, about 1,600 were dispersed, and the rest retreated to Ching Tang Hsien, where they burned the churches and put many natives to death. When the imperial troops were dispatched to Ching Tang Hsien, the Boxers proceeded to Hsuao Ching Ping, where they joined forces with other insurgents. A battle was fought there, and 300 Boxers were put to the sword. Defeated there, the Boxers fled to the hills at Suchiawn, where they found refuge for the time being, but reinforcements of imperial troops arrived and marched against the rebels in Suchiawan, from three different directions, slaying about 1,400 of them and capturing 16 alive, who were beheaded on the spot, after undergoing a formal trial. Concluding the report, which is a lengthy one, the viceroy says: "Although there still exists elements of disorder, there is not much to be feared from the Boxers, because all the rebel chiefs have been exterminated."

TO SAVE THEIR HEADS.

Pekin, Nov. 10. — The Government of Hu Nan Province has protested vehemently against the recent imperial edict, ordering the decapitation of the military mandarins responsible for not protecting the British missionaries, Bruce and Lewis, who were killed at Chen Chow Fu, Aug. 15, by a mob. He declared that the people are united in opposition to the punishment, says that carrying out the order is liable to result in an uprising, and suggests that it be commuted to the payment of an indemnity. The Dowager Empress is also opposed to the decapitation of the officials.

To Destroy Balfour.

Boston, Nov. 8.—An appeal to the Irish people of America asking for money for a new fund to "destroy Balfour politically," has been issued here by the national committee of the United Irish League. It says: "The English Minister, in the plenitude of his power and the cruelty of his arrogance, has put an insult unparalleled even in the annals of Anglo-Irish relations upon Ireland. He must be hurled from political power as Parnell alternately buried both Salisbury and Gladstone. Balfour has gone much further in official brutality than any of his predecessors in refusing to give Ireland even one day during parliamentary session for the discussion of exclusively Irish affairs, a privilege never denied to other parts of the alleged United Kingdom. We can destroy Balfour politically if we unite against the ruling English classes as they have united against Ireland. Therefore we call upon every man and woman in America in whose veins courses a drop of Irish blood, or who love liberty for its own sake, to give to the cause of Ireland according to the means which God has given them."

THE DOMINION REVENUE

Each Succeeding Statement Better Than Its Predecessor.

Receipts Still Increasing and Expenditures Decreasing.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—Every statement of Canada's revenue and expenditure reveals a better showing than its predecessor. The first four months of the present fiscal year, which closed on Oct. 31, disclosed the important fact that the ordinary receipts exceeded expenditures of all kinds by $6,509,567. Of receipts over disbursements on consolidated fund account there was a surplus of $9,489,374. To put it in another way, there is a betterment of $4,000,000 in the country's financial condition as compared with a year ago. While the revenue has increased by $2,438,243, the expenditure has been reduced by $180,514, and the public debt by $1,475,763, making an aggregate improvement of $4,094,520. The total revenue on consolidated account was $20,944,733, and the expenditure $11,454,859. A LOT OF MORBID WOMEN

Thronged Omaha Church at Miss Busch's Funeral.

Pallbearers Let the Coffin Fall When the Handles Broke.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 10.—Two hours before the time for the funeral of Miss Augusta Busch, the young woman who was found dead with the Reverend William C. Rabe in the study of the church of which Mr. Rabe was pastor, the streets on all sides of the church were filled with a struggling, pushing crowd of women, seeking an entrance to the building. Of the 900 persons who finally succeeded in getting into the church, there were no men except reporters, pallbearers and undertaker. The women were mostly drawn by morbid curiosity, very few having been acquainted with the dead woman.

"Let him who is without sin cast the first stone," said the pastor, as he stepped into his pulpit.

"If none but saints are to be buried from the church, then the church will never witness a funeral. The blow to Christianity given by this woman was upspeakably sacrilegious and devilish, but I prefer to look back at her many kindnesses to the poor children of this city than to the pitiful end of her life.

"Many enemies of the Christian church will make much of the fall of this man and this woman, but I prefer to overlook her faults. She is more sinned against than sinning, and whatever sin she committed was atoned for by the years of self-sacrifice that preceded it. All of us are weak, and she fell before temptation."

As the casket was being carried down the aisle, the handles at one end gave way, and that end dropped to the floor. The pallbearers quickly picked it up and the procession continued.

John Erlon, brother to the wife of Mr. Rabe, reached Omaha Saturday morning and returned with the body of the dead minister. He was not present at the funeral, but made a thorough examination of the death chamber in the study of the church.

LATEST SMALLPOX OUTBREAK

Measures Taken to Prevent the Disease Spreading From Port Huron.

Sarnia, Ont., Nov. 10.—The Dominion Government has appointed Mayor Dr. William Logie, Dominion quarantine officer for the port of Sarnia, consequent upon the smallpox epidemic at Port Huron, and has instructed the customs officers in Sarnia and vicinity to report any suspicious cases coming from Port Huron or other smallpox infected districts in Michigan.

A medical man has been placed on the ferry boats to vaccinate every person landing in Sarnia from Port Huron.

17 NEW SMALLPOX CASES.

Detroit, Nov. 10. — Seventeen new cases of smallpox developed last week, according to the weekly report of Health Officer Kiefer, issued yesterday. At present there are 32 persons ill with the disease. Twenty-nine new cases of diphtheria and 26 new cases of scarlet fever have been reported during the last seven days and at the present time 65 patients are suffering with the fever. Of the 68 deaths in Detroit during the week, 28 were children under 5 years of age. The births reported aggregated 48, of which number 22 were girls and 26 boys.

Thoroughness.

Prof. W. Hodgson Ellis, Official Analyst to the Dominion Government, states that "Sunlight Soap has "a thorough cleansing power, with-"out danger to the clothing or skin." Women who want washing done thoroughly cannot use better than Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar. Unlike common soaps, there is no damage to the clothing, and no danger to the skin; hence the saying: Sunlight Soap reduces expense. Try Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—next wash day, and you will see that Prof. Ellis is right. He should know. 213

The Irish Land Problem.

The education bill now holds the middle of the stage in British politics, but the Irish land question will not remain long in the background. It has absorbed all other Irish problems for the present. The extent to which recent legislation by the British Government has converted tenants into landlords is phenomenal. The great movement began in 1885 under the Ashbourne act, which appropriated £5,000,000 for land purchase. Within three years the whole amount was exhausted. In 1888 another £5,000,000 was set apart for the same purpose. By these two measures more than 25,000 land owners were created. In 1894 Mr. Balfour framed an act through which "Ireland was at liberty to draw upon the credit of the Empire up to £33,000,000 sterling for the definite and specific purpose of creating an occupying ownership of the land." Under this act nearly 30,000 owners have been created. The Congested Districts Board, organized later for this work, has purchased, among others, the great Dillon estate of over 90,000 acres, handing it over to the 4,000 tenants and wiping out their arrears of rent, amounting to £20,000. Where those tenants have been paying £1 they are now to pay only 13s 4d; in ten years they will be paying only 11s 4d; and at the end of a given period the freehold will be theirs. This movement has taken place in the most natural manner; peace, industry, content have followed it; and the state has not lost a shilling by it. "Land purchase," said Mr. Wyndham, the present Irish secretary, "has this merit, that the state has incurred no loss under it, and is, I believe, exposed to no risk. Under the acts of 1891 and 1896 more than 30,000 purchasers are paying annually £171,214 to the state. I have no case of bad debts to offer."

A special correspondent of the London Chronicle who sets forth these facts, points out that this movement, which planted on the land as proprietors the people who had been paying rent for it was bound to fire the country. "Is it credible," he asks, "that Ireland will be settled, while tenants in one part of the country are paying rent to a landlord, and tenants in other parts are paying smaller sums to the state in purchase of the fee simple of their holdings?" The British Government has already given £45,000,000 toward enabling the tenants to buy out the landlords? Will it give £100,000,000 of Imperial credit to settle the matter? The national debt would be increased, but not permanently, for the impost would be paid off, capital and interest, half-yearly. "It is an extraordinary thing," says the Chronicle's correspondent, "Ireland being the country in question, that during 30 years of land purchase irrecoverable arrears have been practically nil; and a no-rent crusade, which has never really succeeded against the landlords, could not possibly succeed against the state. You can't boycott a state or shoot a state from behind a hedge. Have not events proved, besides, that when the Irishman is settled on the land he minds his own business and lets the state alone?"

The question arises whether the Government shall compel the Irish landlords to sell, and what shall be a fair price. It is pointed out that the landlords are already under a form of compulsion, as the land commission decides what rent the tenant is to pay; consequently the functions of a landlord have largely vanished, and he can have little interest in his property. He has nothing to do but collect his rents. He says: "Why should I put any of his money back into the land? What am I going to get for it in return? My rents are decreed; if I go on improving the property I shall never be a penny the better for it." So he lets things slide. He sits idly at home, hunts in the winter if his stables will run to it, gives a shooting-party or two. Either this, or he goes to London or Paris, and spends his money out of Ireland. His interest in Ireland, as an Irish landlord, is dead. "What tracts of land are over there," says the writer, "slovenly, untended, from one year's end to the other, which might by toil and money be reclaimed!"

Differences of race and religion are eliminated from the present agitation in Ireland, conditions which count heavily in favor of a solution. The land problem is and has been the root of Ireland's troubles, but the wonderful progress in the past fifteen years inspires the belief that before another generation has passed Ireland will have had a happy issue out of all her afflictions.

German and British Trade.

The annual returns of Germany's foreign trade for 1901 show how dependent Germany is upon the British Empire. The various ports of the empire took German goods last year to the amount of £55,732,950 or 24.54 per cent of Germany's entire exports. The amount for the preceding year was £53,732,950, or 22.61 per cent of the whole, but four years before, in 1897, it was only £40,078,950, or 21.65 per cent. Of Germany's imports £52,471,360 came from countries under the British flag, an amount equal to 18.38 per cent of the whole, against £62,667,000, or 20.74 per cent, in 1900, and £50,233,800, or 20.65 per cent in 1897. These figures constitute the strongest argument for peace between the German and the British Empires. Germany is Great Britain's best customer. Great Britain also, is Germany's best customer. Canada has a legitimate complaint against Germany, which has chosen to discriminate against Canadian products because of our tariff preference to the mother country. Despite this our exports to Germany have increased from $757,531 in 1896, to $2,141,552 in 1901. Our imports from Germany have increased from $5,931,459 to $7,021,405 in the same time. The chief dutiable imports are fancy articles and ornaments, furs, manufactures of glass, of iron, steel and of silk, sugar, molasses, etc. Sugar is the largest item on the list, but with the growth of the Canadian beet root sugar industry, the German article should be displaced. The denunciation of the German and Belgian treaties, which gave Canada commercial freedom, was worth procuring even at the expense of Germany's displeasure, although there was no valid reason why Germany should retaliate on this country. The various countries of the German Empire are embraced in a customs union —the German zollverein—and if the various countries of the British Empire choose to make tariff arrangements among themselves, Germany is the last nation that has any right to protest. Canada single-handed has little power to inflict damage on Germany, as the latter could afford to disregard the present volume of Canadian trade. At the same time if there is to be a readjustment of the Canadian tariff on Imperial preferential lines the Canadian Government will bear in mind that many of our imports from Germany may be purchased as profitably from Great Britain.

Prosperous London.

The signs of industrial expansion are written all over this city. Manufacturing plants are being extended on a scale never known before. There is hardly a factory in this city that is not being enlarged, either by the addition of building or machinery. It is safe to say there is none that is not being worked to its full capacity. Among the firms that are notably increasing their facilities are McClary's, Hyman's, Perrin's and McCormick's. The new roller mills, which are now going up, promise to be an important acquisition. The iron and steel industry in this country has a great future and London is fortunate is securing this establishment. The hum of prosperity has drowned the voice of the calamity howlers, who were predicting all sorts of dismal things two or three years ago because of local labor troubles. No city in Canada has been freer from these disputes. London is moving with the times and the next few years will carry her a long way forward.

Can anyone name an industry in London that is suffering for want of a higher tariff?

Scarcity of fuel will not be an unmixed evil, if it checks the dangerous practice of over-heating houses.

So the Doukhobors really fought! In one way it's a good sign—it shows human nature. The Douks have good material in them, and will make good citizens, when they settle down.

The trade unions of this city paraded to church yesterday. Less than 80 years ago workingmen in a British country who met together to go to church would have been thrown into jail. "The world do move."

The Globe says that North Grey may be opened without the petition going to trial. Surely not! The Province was given to understand that some awful Grit corruption would be unearthed there.

A correspondent says that in Germany large masses of the population are unemployed, every industry is overstocked with plant, domestic trade is stagnant, and foreign commerce unprofitable. Germany is undergoing a tariff agitation as well. It is a warning.

Canadian Dairy Combine.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—The latest thing in the Canadian trust line is the proposed formation of a combination of all the leading dairies and creameries of Canada. Leading dairymen of this section have been approached and it is said that the organization will be here shortly. The news from Montreal sources is that the man who organized the big creamery trust in the United States is back of the Canadian movement. The scheme is not yet sufficiently advanced to give any particulars as to capitalization, etc.

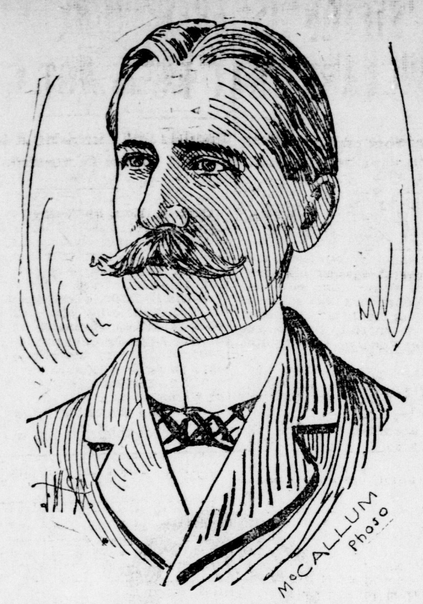

Theft of Valuable Violin.

Detroit, Nov. 10.—The police are searching for a thief who has evidently a knowledge of the value of rare musical instruments. On the night of Oct. 29, during the Richard Mansfield engagement, the locker used by Mark Keintz, musical director of the Detroit Opera House, was broken open and a viola and a violin stolen. The viola was recovered by the police in a pawnshop, but thus far their efforts have been unsuccessful in obtaining trace of the violin. This instrument is a Gobetti of the year 1705 and is valued at $500. It is considered a fine old specimen of this make and is of a dark reddish brown tint shaded slightly with yellow. The top has been badly cracked and repaired.

A NEW RAILWAY IN ONTARIO WEST

Line To Be Extended From Port Burwell to Collingwood an Important Link.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—An important railway extension is under contemplation affecting Western Ontario. It is no less than the construction of a railway from Tilsonburg to Collingwood, an extension of the line between Port Burwell and Tilsonburg, which is now being built to Ingersoll. President Teal was in the city on his way to Collingwood and conferred with the Public Works Department respecting plans and surveys of the country to be traversed. This line would be an important link between the Lake Erie car ferries and the Georgian Bay counties for the shipment of coal and for general communication between the northern and southern sections of Western Ontario. The distance from Port Burwell to Collingwood is about 135 miles.

CAR AND WAGON COLLIDE

St. Louis Crowd Proposed to Lynch the Crew.

Eight Persons Hurt—One Little Gir Injured Internally.

St. Louis, Nov. 10.—A wagon containing twelve persons was run into by a street car on Jefferson avenue, and eight persons were injured. The crowd attracted made an unsuccessful attempt to lynch the motorman and car conductor, but the police interfered. The wagon was overturned by the collision and a 10-year-old girl was injured internally and was taken to a hospital. The others received severe bruises, but were able to go to their homes.

A crowd collected and some one cried, "Lynch the car crew!"

Instantly a rush was made for the conductor and motorman. Several policemen rushed to the rescue and by threats to shoot kept the crowd back until a patrol wagon could be called The carmen were taken to the police station to save their lives.

Police Captain's Trouble.

New York, Nov. 10.—After serving a quarter of a century on the police force, ex-Captain D. C. Monihan has been taken to police headquarters and placed in a cell, there a prisoner. He was arrested at his home on a warrant, the specific charge against the former captain being alleged failure to enforce the law against a resort conducted by Italians for which it is asserted he was paid the sum of $40. The prisoner was admitted to bail of $3,000, which was immediately furnished. The captain is said to be quite wealthy.

St. Mary's Carries Bylaw.

St. Marys, Ont., Nov. 9.—A bylaw for the fixing of the assessment on D. Maxwell & Son's factory for ten years at $25,000 was voted on here yesterday, resulting as follows: For the bylaw, 470; against, 104. The necessary three-fifths of all eligible voters was 445.

Student Shoots Sweetheart and Himself.

Buffalo, Nov. 8.—Christopher P. Willis, of Bath, a student in the State Normal School at Genesee, who loved and was jealous of Mary Catherine Ferguson, a 17-year-old girl of his own village, killed Miss Ferguson and himself in front of the lodging house at 138 Swan street this afternoon. He had known her about eighteen months, and they had come to Buffalo to visit the girl's brothers at the Swan street house.

Reinstated Officer Found Dead.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 10. — W. W. Watters, a member of the Dominion police force, was found dead in the Sherwood Cemetery on Sunday with a bullet wound in the region of the heart. Watters, who was 45 years of age, was on the police force for 19 years. About three months ago he was suspended for irregularity, but was reinstated yesterday.

Chinamen for Beet Fields.

Montreal, Nov. 9.—There is a scarcity of labor in the beet fields in the neighborhood of Berlin, Ont., and the Ontario Sugar Company has undertaken to solve the problem by engaging a number of Chinamen from Montreal. The negotiations with the Celestials have been confided to Mr. Lee Chee, who is now engaged in trying to persuade three or four hundred of his countrymen to go to Berlin and work for one dollar per day.

Mr. James Fowler, the secretary of the company, is expected here tomorrow, and all the Chinamen who have by that time been gathered together will be taken to Berlin at once. Mr. Lee Chee expects to be ultimately able to get at least 150 men, and perhaps more.

A GENERAL FAVORITE.—In every place where introduced Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has not failed to establish a reputation, showing that the sterling qualities which is possesses are valued everywhere when they become known. It is in general use in Canada, the West Indies and Australia as a household medicine, and the demand for it each year shows that it is a favorite wherever used.

How long will it take the man to fill the sack if he does not stop the leak? To attempt to nourish the body when the stomach is diseased is like trying to fill the sack with the hole in it. When the stomach and other digestive and nutritive organs are diseased, there is a constant loss of nutrition. Enough is eaten but the body loses flesh,—plain proof that the food eaten is largely wasted because it is not digested and assimilated.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It stops the leaks by which nutrition is lost, and enables the building up of the body by the nutrition derived from food. The gain in weight proves the cure.

"Three years ago I was taken sick with what the doctor called nervousness and indigestion," writes Mrs. Warren E. Parker, of Orange Street, Nantucket, Mass. "He gave me medicine for the trouble, but I could not eat even a little toast or oatmeal without suffering severely. In a few months I began to have distressing pains right in the pit of my stomach. I called the doctor again and he said I had catarrh of stomach; gave me medicine but it did not do any good. I lost 28 pounds in three months. I then commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicines and soon began to feel better. I have taken six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' two of 'Favorite Prescription' and six vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. I have gained ten pounds. Can eat everything."

Literary Notes.

"THE MISSISSIPPI BUBBLE."

A revulsion of feeling has seized the reading pubic, declare the reviewers and statisticians of book sales. They say that the unnatural demand for the historical novel, which reached the climax of its proportions a year or so ago, has produced the inevitable reaction, that the appetite of the public's was not simply satisfied, but was surfeited, with the result that this class of fiction gathers more dust upon the book-stands than in the days gone by. This is doubtless true. But as long as the field of historical fiction is filled with so much excellent raw material for the making of delightful romances, and while there are writers skillful enough to work this material into entertaining stories, the novel into which there enters the spirit and bravery and effrontery and animation of the people and times of the past, will not be passed by. Of such a kind is "The Mississippi Bubble," Emerson Hough's charming tale of the times of New France, which has become widely known and popular more in the United States than in Canada. Its theme is the remarkable career of John Law, that wonderful man, the Pierpont Morgan of his age, whose exploits in finance have been the inspiration of more than one novelist. The construction of the story is not good, it is not convincing, but most readers care little for this so long as the story is interesting, the situations sufficiently exciting, and the characters agreeable. "The Mississippi Bubble" has all these. A novel written about the life of John Law could hardly fail to have them. His life was full of romance of the most intense kind, the romance of a man of magnificent bodily and mental strength, whose stupendous nerve and astounding genius for finance carried him from the quiet of his Scottish home to the position of master of France. Naturally, John Law loved, and naturally, also, none but the most beautiful, the most courted and most imperious lady in England could inspire his regard. It is quite in keeping that this Dumas-like hero should not win her immediately. The story would be not possible if he did. So the reader is given the necessary impediments to happiness, then an interval of heartache and adventure in the New World, with subsequent success, and the financial collapse—the bursting of the Mississippi Bubble—which swept away the reserve of the fair lady, and thus makes everybody happy. "The Mississippi Bubble," already a much-read book, promises to be very popular this season.

BAYLEY'S

PERRY POSITIVE MASON IS THE MAN

Who Gave Him the Watches To Be Pawned.

SINGLED HIM OUT FROM SEVEN

Had Known Him for a Long Time—Mason Denied Having Ever Seen Perry.

Boston, Nov. 9.—After having given out last night the confession made by the young negro, George L. O. Perry, with reference to selling the watches taken from the murdered women, Miss Clara A. Morton and Miss Agnes McPhee, the police admitted today that Perry declares that Alan G. Mason is the man from whom he received these articles. This admission of the police was made just before young Perry was taken to jail in East Cambridge where Mason, the prominent Boston man under arrest on the charge of killing Miss Morton, is confined pending a hearing in the Cambridge court tomorrow. In one of the jail corridors, Perry positively identified Mason as the man who had given him the two watches. Mason, by neither look nor word, betrayed any knowledge of having seen Perry before. When questioned by Sheriff Fairbairn, Mason merely said: "I do not know this man; I never saw him before."

During the day Chief Ryan and Officer Argy, of Belmont, talked with Perry, and later State Officers New, Dunham, Dexter and others took Perry to the jail. The callers were shown into the room where Mason and six others were in line. Perry walked straight up to Mason, who was second in position, and pointing his finger at him, said: "This is the man who gave me the watches to pawn."

He was about to leave the room when Sheriff Fairbairn asked him if he would not like to talk with Mason in order that he might make himself sure that Mason was the man.

Perry replied there was no need of that, as he knew who the man was and had known him for a long time.

On being returned to his cell in the police station Perry was confronted by three newsboys and they identified him as another newsboy.

Clement G. Morgan, a Cambridge lawyer, called at police headquarters and said that he had been retained by the boy's mother as counsel.

Another visitor at the police station, later on in the day, was Mr. Ware, Mason's attorney. He was accompanied by a middle-aged woman. This woman did not see Perry, but it was understood that she had been produced by the defense in the hope of showing that Perry himself or some other negro was the real "Jack the Slugger." She is one of the women who were followed by a negro in Cambridge several weeks ago. Mr. Ware places no faith in the accusation of Perry that it was Mason that gave the boy the watches.

He believes that Perry had to account for his possession of the watches and the most reasonable way was to say that they were given him by a man already under arrest and by a man whom he had seen on the streets of Cambridge could be easily identified. The fact that the negro accused Mason of giving him the watches did not give the police any false confidence that the mystery of the series of brutal crimes had been solved.

By arrangements made tonight by the state police, Perry will be arraigned tomorrow at Cambidge on the charge of being accessory after the fact. The police say Perry had been confined at the Lyman school for boys, having been convicted for assault and robbery upon a young woman in this city.

Also it has come to light that on Sunday, July 27, Perry, who was then employed as the driver of a mail wagon from Cambridge to Boston, was missing from his work. It was on this date that an assault upon Miss Ellen Murphy occurred.

Moving the Wheat Crop.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 10.—The Canadian Pacific is breaking all previous records in moving wheat to Fort William. Fifty-one cars were dispatched from the Winnipeg yards alone, each car averaging 880 bushels. Here and there individual elevators are full, but there is no blockade at any shipping point on the company's lines. Official returns show that from Oct. 15 to Oct. 31, the Canadian Pacific carried 3,340,000 bushels to Fort William, as against 2,050,000 during the of 66 per cent. On account of the coal famine the company was about to add to its rolling stock and motive power. The demand for coal from service and the Crow's Nest having somewhat diminished.

Students Must Learn to Swim.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 10. — Every student entering Yale will become an expert swimmer if he cannot advance good reason to warrant him being excused from taking swimming lessons. The faculty has found that 10 per cent of this year's entering class cannot swim. A rule has been passed to permit swimming lessons to count for the required gymnasium work, and that students who are not proficient in the natatorial art must be instructed.

cern themselves with the violence of the blows or the question whether death was caused by the throwing out of the body.

CONCLUSION OF JUDGE'S CHARGE.

If any reasonable doubt existed in their minds as to the prisoner's guilt, then he must be found innocent. No verdict of guilty should be returned until the jury was entirely satisfied that there was no missing link in the chain of evidence tending to establish guilt.

"You have the prisoner in your charge," said his lordship, in conclusion. "You have taken an oath to well and truly try and true deliverance make in accordance with the evidence, without fear, favor or affection. If guilty, you will deliver the prisoner for punishment; if innocent, you will deliver him back to his liberty, his family and his enjoyment of the rights of citizenship, of which he has been temporarily deprived."

The jury filed out at 4:55 p.m.

A RESERVE CASE.

Immediately on the retirement of the jury, Mr. Johnston rose and said that in the event of a contingency he would ask for a reserved case on two grounds. The first was that on account of the changes in the premises, the viewing of the premises by the jury was not in accordance with the practice of law. The second ground was the statement made by counsel for the crown, which statement Mr. Johnston thought came within the rule of comment, which provides that the failure of a prisoner or his wife to give evidence in his behalf must not be made a matter of comment in an address or a charge to a jury. Counsel for the crown, referring to Sifton and Herbert, had said: "Here we have the case. There are only two who know, and we have only one of them going in the box."

Mr. Clute said that he did not intend comment, and he did not think Mr. Johnston entitled to a reserve case on the point.

Judge Britton observed that while he did not think Mr. Clute's remark an intentional comment, or even within the rule, he had noticed it at the time of delivery and thought it came very close to the rule.

After waiting till 6:15, court arose to sit again at 7:30.

THE WORK OF COUNSEL.

It is probable that never in the history of the Middlesex Bar has an important criminal case been conducted with such fairness and courtesy on each side. Mr. Clute deepened the favorable impression made by him at the September Assizes. His address to the jury was a temperate and dignified but convincing marshaling of the evidence. Mr. Johnston's address, which was a little shorter at this trial than at that of last year, was no less effective as an appeal to the emotional natures of the jurymen. Equally commendable was the work of the assistant counsel on both sides. Messrs. Magee and McKillop, for the crown, and Messrs. J. M. McEvoy and T. W. Scandrett, for the defense, have done an amazing amount of work and done it well, as was evidenced by the judge's statement that the evidence had been presented in a manner which greatly simplified his duties in reviewing it.

MR. J. M. McEVOY.

THE DOUKHOBORS ROUNDED UP IN A RINK AND ENTRAINED

Pilgrims Were Crowded Into Coaches by Force.

STOUTLY RESISTED OFFICERS

Citizens Turned Out to Help the Constables—Not All Violent—Work for the N. W. M. P.

Minnedosa, Nov. 9.—Another chapter in the history of the Doukhobors' pilgrimage to convert the world has closed, but with the ending, "to be continued." On arrival of the Doukhobor army here on Friday they were met by Mr. Pedley and Mr. Speers, who led them to the skating rink. They formed outside and sang a Psalm, then were led in prayer by one of their number, who then addressed the citizens, asking them to do something for Jesus by helping them along with food. They then went inside and were interviewed by Mr. Pedley, who tried to find out the leaders. Many schemes were tried, but the Doukhobors were cunning and would not bite.

IN THE RINK.

At last Mr. Pedley persuaded them to pick out one man from each village to meet him and talk over the situation. About 2 o'clock Mr. Pedley, Mr. Spears and five Doukhobors held a conference in the balcony of the rink, one of the Doukhobors acting as interpreter. Mr. Pedley tried every means to find out the real object of their pilgrimage, and many and amusing were the evasive answers given by the Doukhobors. They showed that they were well posted on current events, saying they wanted to go south to convert the miners in the recent coal strike. From this interview it was apparent that religion was not their only object, but that they were going to force the Government to give them their own laws or they would tramp to some other country, but as after their showing no other country would have them, Mr. Pedley decided they must be put back in the villages and kept there.

Mr. Pedley told them they must prepare to return next day, and that he would go back with them, which seemed to satisfy them temporarily. Next morning they again spread around the town, begging as they did the day before, but gathered back and had their meal at 11 o'clock. Then a break was made to move east.

LOADED ON A TRAIN.

When they discovered they were confined and could not go they made a slight show of forcing their way out, but were held back by the police, and were kept in until the special train of six empty coaches and three cars of Northwest Mounted Police arrived. Mr. Speers entered the rink and asked them to go quietly to the train, but Zebroff, who has been exhorting them ever since their arrival here to remain firm, again tried to hold them together. Mr. Speers grabbed Zebroff, and, in spite of his struggles and fighting, ran him out of the rink and called to the police to bring the rest. They went out all right, but outside they locked themselves together by every man hugging another, making a solid body.

Then the excitement commenced. The citizens turned in and helped the police, but it was hard work for awhile to get the Doukhobors apart, taking four and five men to pull one Doukhobor from this interlocked mass. They had to go, however. Some went quietly when broken away, while the majority fought every inch of the ground. The scene was one that has never been equaled in the history of Canada. A sullen, stubborn mob of people fighting fiercely with police and citizens, not in the usual way of warfare, but just to be left alone and allowed to go their way. One citizen had an ear nearly bitten off, a Doukhobor had his ankle broken, and there were many other minor mishaps. A few of the Doukhobors went to the coaches alone, but the big majority were carried bodily, dragged, pushed along, or loaded in wagons of farmers who had gathered to see the fight. The latter course was bitterly opposed by the Doukhobors, as they strenuously objected to being drawn by horses.

DOUKHOBORS FOUGHT FIERCELY

The fight in getting the Doukhobors the one hundred yards from the rink to the station ended in a victory for the Government forces, but the Doukhobor army again formed for battle, and it was here that by far the stiffest fighting occurred. The Doukhobors fought, kicked and clung to everything they could get hold of, the railings of the coaches helping them out. It was an impossibility for one policeman to load a Doukhobor, some taking as many as five or six, and then clubs had to be used to make the Doukhobors loose their hold, but as soon as clubbed off one place they caught at another, and most stubbornly contested every inch of the way. The Doukhobors were by far the heaviest men, and used every ounce of their immense bulk to advantage. Although not on the offensive, they certainly made a great fight, and many were the remarks of admiration for the fight they put up. Victory at last crowned the Government forces, and the Doukhobors were all in the coaches, and although they tried to get the windows open, after a last feeble stand, they capitulated, and the Government was victorious.

NOT ALL VIOLENT.

Winnipeg, Nov. 9. — Dispatches from Minnedosa tonight do not confirm the C. P. R. press telegrams stating that violence was used in urging the Doukhobors to their train. About 200 of the 600 resisted, and had to be pushed into the cars, while many of the others appeared to be glad to be allowed the privilege of being carried homeward.

THE LIBERALS ARE JUBILANT

Over Results of Bye-Elections in England—Attributed to Education Bill.

London, Nov. 8. — The Liberals are jubilant over the results of the bye-elections in the Cleveland and East Texteth divisions. The large increase in the Liberal majority in the Cleveland division is generally admitted, even by the Conservative organs, to be due to dissatisfaction with the education bill, which is still wending its way through the House of Commons.

In the East Texteth division the reduction of the Unionist majority by over 1,500 was greatly due to a curious feature unassociated with current political controversies. Austin Taylor, who just managed to win the seat, had taken a prominent part in Liverpool (to which the division belongs), against the Ritualists, whose practices recently ended in the tragic death of John Kensit, the anti-ritualist leader. In fact, Mr. Taylor had gone so far as to support a Liberal in a neighboring constituency against a Conservative high churchman. This stirred up the Ritualists of East Texteth to such an extent that they entered upon a vigorous campaign against Mr. Taylor, and prominent Unionists issued an appeal for aid for the Liberal candidate.

Premier Balfour and Colonial Secretary Chamberlain intervened, but were unable to restore harmony. The curious spectacle was then presented of a Liberal, backed up by Nonconformists, daily denouncing the clerical tendencies of the education bill, yet having the support of the fashionable clergy and their congregations.

Both bye-elections, taken in conjunction, are interpreted by the organs of the party they favor as being sure signs that the Government will be defeated should a general election occur. This, however, is quite unlikely, and it would take a good many East Texteths and Clevelands to even appreciably disturb the equanimity of Mr. Balfour's large, solid majority in the House of Commons. In this connection an interesting political rumor is current that War Secretary Brodrick is soon to be gracefully retired with a peerage or some office. There seems but slight ground to believe it is founded on fact.

Work of Farmers' Institutes.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—The report of the superintendent of farmers' institutes, just issued, shows that during the season of 1901-1902, 730 meetings were held, at which there was an attendance of 131,653 persons, and 3,282 papers were read and addresses delivered. Within the past two years 44 women's institutes have been organized, having a membership of 2,816, to enable farmers' wives to share in the acquisition of scientific knowledge for their homework.

GIRL IN TRANCE 21 DAYS

Surgeon Sawed Into Her Brain to Learn the Cause.

They Had Their Labor for Nothing—Case Still a Mystery.

New York, Nov. 10.—Surgeons sawed into Nellie Corcoran's skull Saturday and explored her brain, to discover if they could find the secret of the trance in which she had lain for twenty-one days. They had their labor for nothing. "The autopsy," said Dr. Theodore Janeway, who was the principal operator, working with Dr. Herman M. Biggs, pathologist of the health department, in the presence of the entire staff of St. Vincent's Hospital, and many prominent physicians, "gives us no data from which any conclusion may be formed as to the cause of the patient's condition as it existed during life. It is one of the most remarkable cases on record."

The body of the girl, who had slept her life away, was put on a dissecting table at 3:15. She had been pronounced dead at 1:30 a.m. Friday. Her mother and father were at the bedside when the vital spark, fluttering and flickering for three weeks, became dim and was snuffed out. When the postmortem examination was made the doctors were baffled. They found the brain healthy, well nourished, and compared with other brains of similar age, natural and fully developed. Further than this, the examination showed a state of bodily health absolutely incompatible with even the suggestion of disease.

From the crown of her head to the sole of her foot Nellie Corcoran was a healthy, natural young woman, without the slightest taint of even the most trivial ailment. She was like a woman who had lived out the full span of life, and had died of old age and exhaustion, and this was the queerest and most remarkable part of the case.

Through some strange process which pathologists do not attempt to explain Nellie Corcoran lived sixty years in twenty-one days, the period of her sleep. She was shrunken down from 150 to 115 pounds when she died, and the autopsy showed that while every bodily organ was perfect and the brain normal, so far as the "grossly visible" evidence was concerned, she was a worn-out old woman.

It is the opinion of physicians who have studied the case that the girl's ageing was due to intense mental distresss and terror; that she belonged to that class of hysterical patients known as auto-hypnotics, capable of throwing themselves into a state of coma and had passed beyond the state of self-restoration.

TALES OF LONDON TOWN

—County Treasurer McEvoy's lists show that the 76 jurymen who attended the last assizes were paid $473.

—Alexander McIntosh was removed from the county jail this morning to be taken to Strathroy, to be tried for arson.

—The funeral of the late David McKenna, the young man killed last night near Ridout street, on the G. T. R. tracks, will be held on Wednesday from St. Peter's Cathedral to the Catholic Cemetery. The remains were removed to the family residence, 518 Central avenue, today.

CRUMLIN PIONEER GONE.

One of the oldest residents of the vicinity of Crumlin passed away yesterday in the person of Mrs. Mary Barnes. She was born in Ireland in 1818, and came to this country many years ago. For some time she had been living at Dorchester. The funeral will be held from Dorchester to Crumlin tomorrow.

DIED AFTER SHORT ILLNESS.

Mr. William A. Beattie died on Saturday in this city after an illness which had lasted only a few days. He had been working on Tuesday and his death was quite unexpected. He was employed at the Columbia Handle Works, where he was well-liked by his fellow-employes. Mr. Beattie was a native of Highgate, Ont., to which place the remains will be conveyed tomorrow. Besides his mother, several brothers and sisters survive.

ANOTHER FAST C. P. R. RUN.

On Wednesday, owing to a delay at Smith's Falls, the C. P. R. train for Toronto made a specially quick run to make up time, and when it reached the Union station had made up 1 hour and 9 minutes of the time lost. Deduct-stops, the running time shows that the average rate of speed between Smith's Falls and Toronto was 47 miles per hour. This includes the slowdowns necessary to pass through the yards at Toronto and at the larger towns en route. This speed, made with a train of seven heavy coaches, shows the character of the motive power and rolling stock of the Canadian Pacific, and also the high state of the roadbed between Montreal and Toronto.

JESSIE MACLACHLAN CONCERT

Committee Arranges for More Seating Accommodation.

The officers of St. Andrew's Society wish to announce that while all the 75 cent and 50 cent seats on the ground floor and first gallery have been largely taken up, none of the seats in the upper gallery have yet been allotted. It has been arranged, as regards the upper gallery, that the first five rows therein will be reserved for holders of 50 cent tickets, and others willing to pay 50 cents, until 7:45 Tuesday night. After that hour, all vacant seats in the upper gallery will be available at 35 cents each. Those desiring to be in the first five rows had better be there before 7:30. The upper gallery will be thoroughly cleaned for the occasion.

It has been decided to provide a limited number of seats on the platform at 75 cents each, tickets for which can be obtained at the box office of the Grand Opera House. Those who bought 50 cent tickets, and were unable to reserve their seats, owing to the rush at the Opera House on Saturday, and who do not wish to take seats in the upper gallery, can have their money refunded, or by payment of 25 cents additional can obtain instead a seat on the platform.

Of Charles Gounod's many contributions to choral music, few equal his "Come Unto Him," and "Lovely Appear" (Redemption). With Mrs. Stock as soloist in the latter, a treat may be promised those who hear both these at St. James' Church, South London, tonight.

PITTSBURG MAN WOULD PAY MORRISON $20 A WEEK

Statement Made to Londoner Has Bearing Upon London's Protest.

The Morrison case will again come before the O. R. F. U. executive on Wednesday. The opinion here is that the Toronto-London match will be thrown out.

Mr. C. W. Smith, who is one of the best known supporters of sport in this city, was speaking about the protest this morning to an Advertiser reporter.

"There's no doubt whatever that Morrison was paid for playing in Pittsburg," he said. "A Mr. Simmons, of that city, came to London at the beginning of the season. Some one told him that I knew the best players, and he came to me. I named over some of the best ones to him. He told me that he was prepared to offer them from $10 to $20 a week and would get them a good job too, so that they would be getting from $20 to $30 a week.

"I wrote out a telegram to Ernie Westcott, telling him to meet Simmons at the Rossin House and to get Morrison.

"Simmons paid for the telegram. I told him that Morrison was working in a bank and likely wouldn't leave it for any small sum, and he said that he would give him $20 a week and get him a good job. He said that his club wanted a winning team and had an extra $2,000 to put up for the right men."

Mr. Smith said that he is prepared to swear to the truth of this.

FINDS HIS ROLE CONGENIAL

Mr. Herbert Kelcey Talks to The Advertiser.

Part of Sherlock Holmes He Considers an Extraordinary One.

Mr. Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon, the two favorite players who have given the stage some of the most enjoyable presentations of the past ten years, reached this city last night, after a very successful week's engagement at the Princess Theater, Toronto, in the absorbing drama, "Sherlock Holmes," in which they take the principal roles. So much interest has been manifested in the engagement at the Grand tonight, that an interview with Mr. Kelcey could not fail to be of interest to the readers of The Advertiser, so a reporter sought Mr. Kelcey at his hotel this morning, and asked him some questions as to his present play, his previous career and his future plans. Mr. Kelcey proved to be quite enthusiastic over the first subject.

"The part of Sherlock Holmes is a unique one, the most extraordinary one, I think, I have ever seen, and one I like as well as any I have ever essayed," said Mr. Kelcey. "While it is a change from my work of later years, I played similar roles during my long stock experience in New York. It is a strong character—this detective whose cocaine habit gives him a most peculiar appearance. The play, while really a melodrama, is remarkable in that it pleases every part of the house—the orchestra seats as well as the gallery. It should take even better in Canada than in the United States, the scenes being laid in London, the characters being all Englishmen, and I myself an Englishman."

"I thought you would be an American by this time, Mr. Kelcey?" ventured the interviewer.

"No. I have many dear friends in the United States, but I still hold my allegiance to England, and the sight of the old flag still thrills me. I think that the longer one is away from his native land the more he loves it."

Asked as to how he had secured the coveted rights to Mr. Gillette's play, Mr. Kelcey said:

"Mr. Gillette and I are old friends, and we have often talked over the advisability of my playing some of the parts in the plays which he has written. When I signified a desire to play Sherlock Holmes, the bargain was quickly made. I wish to call your attention to the fact that the production we use is identically that used by Mr. Gillette at the Lyceum Theater in London. He himself is using the New York Garrick Theater production. Our electrical effects are all new, and we carry everything used in this line but the power. We couldn't well carry that, you know. A chief feature of the play is the dark effects. You never see the curtain go up or down—all is done in the darkness."

"Is it not a fact that you have a unique record in the way of an uninterrupted engagement of years in New York, Mr. Kelcey?" asked the reporter.

"I played thirteen seasons in New York without interruption," answered Mr. Kelcey. "When I came from England I went to Wallack's, and remained nine years. My engagements at the Madison Square and the Lyceum filled the record out to thirteen years. Then I organized my own company and went on the road in 'A Coat of Many Colors,' 'The Moth and the Flame' lasted us for three seasons, and last year we had 'Her Lord and Master.'"

Asked as to his future plans, Mr. Kelcey said: "I have in contemplation a supplementary tour of six weeks, in which I will produce a standard play. It may be 'Ingomar,' in which the part of Parthenia would suit Miss Shannon admirably, or it may be 'Much Ado About Nothing,' in which we would find congenial roles in Beatrice and Benedict. I will probably have a new play next year."

WHAT WILL BE DONE WITH WALTER HERBERT?

This Question and One Respecting Edgar Morden Uppermost in Many Minds.

"What will be done with Walter Herbert?" and "Will Edgar Morden be prosecuted?" are the two questions which have been asked on every side, for the past day or two in London. An Advertiser reporter put them both to Crown Attorney James Magee, K.C., this morning. Mr. Magee had a definite answer only for the first.

"You may say that I think it probable that an application will shortly be made for his release," said Mr. Magee. He would not say whether the application would be made by the crown or by Herbert's former counsel, nor would he say that Herbert would be sentenced to death and then made the subject of executive clemency, or made the subject of clemency before getting the sentence.

The question as to Edgar Morden drew from Mr. Magee only the statement, "I have nothing to say on that point."

An absurd rumor was current in the city yesterday that Herbert had been released. Herbert must remain in jail until released by due process of law, and as legal machinery is sometimes stiff in the cogs, it may be weeks or months before Herbert's case is disposed of.

DEAFNESS OF JURYMAN HELPED SIFTON TO GO FREE

"May Be There Was Some of the Evidence I Did Not Hear Just Right," He Said.

"Well, I'm a little hard of hearing, and maybe there was some of the evidence I didn't hear just right." This is one of the considerations which, it is said, induced Juryman William Ellwood, of Lucan, to fall in with his fellow-jurymen's views after hanging out for the conviction of Gerald Sifton. While Mr. Ellwood conscientiously believed a conviction was warranted, he felt that his slight deafness might have caused him to miss some evidence which would have modified his opinions, and he feared that he might be doing the prisoner an injustice by longer opposing his fellows. Thus the jury were enabled to return a verdict within a surprisingly short time after they had announced that an agreement was practically impossible.

The chief point which decided the jury in Gerald Sifton's favor was the discrepancy between Herbert's story of the tragedy and the injuries to the scalp and skull, while the absence of blood was another point upon which his story went to pieces, in the estimation of the jury.

DEATH OF ALFRED DREANEY

Brother of Well-Known Alderman Passed Away Today.

Friends in this city will regret to learn that Mr. Alfred Dreaney, of English street, brother of Ald. Henry Dreaney, died today. He had been ill for two weeks with typhoid fever. Mr. Dreaney was in his 42nd year and was unmarried.

He was born at Dreaney's Corners, and had lived for nearly 20 years on a farm in London Township, before moving to this city, where for the past two years he had lived retired with his father and mother. His parents survive him, together with his brothers Robert and John, of British Columbia; Henry, of this city, and his sisters, Mrs. David Wilson and Mrs. John Stevenson, also of this city; Mrs. Robt Paxton and Mrs. McDougal, of Otterville.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday.

A NOTED CLERICAL AUTHOR

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, of Kansas, Is in the City.

Prohibition a Good Thing—Mum on Subject of Carrie Nation.

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, the Topeka, Kansas, clergyman, whose "What Would Jesus Do?" books have gained him a fame which was increased by his week's occupancy of the editorial chair of the Topeka Capital, is in the city today. He came in from Toronto by way of Stratford, and was met at the station by three or four local ministers. Mr. Sheldon proved a man of perhaps 40 years young—not old. He meets one with a hearty handclasp and a "I'm very glad to meet you," that sounds as though he meant it. He is whole-hearted, energetic, sincere and cheerful. As he stepped off the train, with his traveling case (his only baggage) in his hand, there was only his white tie to proclaim him the cleric. He might more easily have been a genial drummer intent on doing his route and getting out again on the 4:35 express.

As Mr. Sheldon was half an hour late in arriving, and as the luncheon arranged for him by Dr. Eccles was awaiting him, The Advertiser reporter, who met him, had time for only three or four point-blank questions and answers.

"What are you doing in Ontario, Mr. Sheldon?" was the first query.

"I'm here at the invitation of my friends here. I went through here on Saturday on my way from Toledo to Toronto, where I spoke at Massey Hall yesterday on invitation of the Canadian Temperance League. I am to read here this afternoon and lecture this evening. Toronto and London are my only stopping-places in Ontario. I go to Lewiston, Me., on Wednesday, and to St. John, N. B., for Sunday next."

"What can you say as to the efficacy of prohibition in Kansas?"

"I need only quote the governor of the state, who says: 'Prohibition at its worst is infinitely better than high license at its best.' That is fairly conclusive."

"What influence, if any, has Carrie Nation out there?" was the last question.

"I never talk about her," said Mr. Sheldon, with a merry laugh, which was shared by his surrounding brethren of the cloth. Evidently Carrie is not taken seriously by Kansas people.

Mr. Sheldon entered the waiting carriage, and was driven to Dr. Eccles' residence, where he was entertained at lunch. Among the local pastors invited to meet him were Rev. Dr. Johnston, Rev. W. J. Clark, Rev. Walter Russell, evangelist; Rev. George Bishop and Rev. D. S. Hamilton.

Mr. Sheldon read a chapter from his unpublished temperance story, "The Narrow Gate," at the afternoon meeting. In the evening he will lecture at the First Methodist Church on "Some Ways to Help Make a Better World." The doors will be open at 7 and the proceedings commence at 8. The admission is an offering at the door to be devoted to the Wellington Street Sunday school building fund.

The Globe says of Mr. Sheldon's Toronto meetings: "Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, author of 'In His Steps,' was the speaker in Massey Hall yesterday afternoon and evening at the opening of the Canadian Temperance League's fourteenth annual Gospel temperance campaign. The great auditorium was crowded in the afternoon to its utmust capacity, and many were unable to obtain even standing room. The attendance in the evening was not quite so large. At each service Mr. Harold Jarvis sang three times. Rev. Mr. Sheldon delivered a plain, unpretentious address on three themes—'Some things whisky has done, some things prohibition has done, and some things we may do.' Mr. Sheldon's evening discourse was a presentation of nine ways of helping the world to better things."

HICKS HOOKED TIMEPIECE

Pleaded Guilty of Robbing Mrs. Hewitt of Her Watch.

William A. Hicks, of this city, was arrested by Detectives Rider and Nickle, last night, on a charge of stealing a gold watch from Mrs. Hewitt, of King street west, over a month ago. At the police court this morning he pleaded guilty and elected summary trial. It is alleged, too, that he robbed Wm. O'Rourke, a London Township farmer, of his timepiece while driving with O'Rourke on Sept. 27 last. The officers also learned that he was wanted for the theft of an overcoat, valued at $20, from Shain's hotel, Pottersburg, on Oct. 7. On the two latter charges he will appear before Squire J. B. Smyth tomorrow. The detectives did not learn until yesterday that he had been working for a farmer near Crumlin. They drove out and brought him in last night.

STRING FOR A NAME

"Of course I will promise. I never tell anything that you do not wish me to," Queen Bess replied, turning inquiring eyes upon Alice, and very happy to have her like herself again.

"Well, then, I haven't taken a drop of medicine since I left home."

"Alice!"

Bess' tone was thoroughly frightened.

"It is true. I forgot to bring it, and I felt troubled enough when I discovered my negligence. I thought I would write to Uncle John the first thing the next morning and ask him to send it; but I slept so well that night, and felt so much better the next morning, that I concluded I would wait a day or two and see what the effect would be. I have just been growing steadily better, and I have come to the conclusion that Uncle John's prescriptions do not agree with me."

"Does mamma know?" asked Queen Bess, regarding her earnestly.

"No, indeed, and I do not wish her to. Don't look so grave, Bess. I promise you I will not neglect myself. The moment I find my appetite failing, or the old pain and weakness coming back, I will 'fess' and send for my drugs," the girl concluded, with a laugh.

"But won't you be losing ground?" Queen Bess asked.

"What! with the appetite I have gained since coming here? No, indeed; and you cannot imagine what a comfort it is not to have to be a slave to my bottle, to have everything taste so good, and to feel this new vigor tingling through all my veins."

"You truly are better, Alice. I believe you are even gaining fish," Bess said, laying her dimpled hand affectionately against the girl's cheek, which was filling out round and smooth again. "I am ever so glad, dear," she went on. "I could not bear to see you look so pale and thin, and have you shut away from all the good times. It was really delightful to see how you enjoyed yourself tonight."

A little flush came into the face of Queen Bess as she spoke. She had been truly glad to see Alice more like her old self, as she had been during the latter part of the evening, but there had been something of pain mingled with her gladness—pain which she could not quite define.

Alice caught the loving girl in her arms and kissed her, all her jealousy vanishing for the time being.

"What an unselfish little sister you are!" she said, but with a little twinge of remorse, as she remembered how she had denied all relationship to her only a little while before. "Stay and sleep with me tonight, and let us talk over the hop."

Bess returned her caress and the two girls retired and chatted amicably until they fell asleep.

The next morning Kenneth Keith came over to the hotel, with an invitation for the young ladies to join himself and some friends in a game of tennis.

Both Alice and Bess were fond of the sport, and both were glad to go. But, after the introductions were over, Queen Bess avoided Kenneth and made herself agreeable to another young gentleman, who, having danced with her the night before, was only too glad to secure her companionship at tennis.

Kenneth felt the change in her at once. She did not meet his eye, nor smile at him with her usual frankness; she seldom addressed him unless obliged to do so, and he grew very uncomfortable over it. He followed her every movement with wistful eyes. Whenever her gay laugh rang out he found himself flushing or listening, and forgetting to pay proper attention to the game or his partner, who happened to be Alice.

She could not fail to observe it, and all the bitterness of the previous day began to revive in her heart, and though she could find no fault whatever with Queen Bess, yet she experienced the same unreasonable dislike and jealousy of her.

She tried to attract Kenneth's attention to herself by using every art she could think of, but right in the midst of a vivid description, which she flattered herself was claiming his interest, Bess gave a little shriek of delight over an unusually good hit that she had made, and Kenneth, turning to watch her just at that instant, received the ball directly in his eye.

"Oh, Mr. Keith! I am afraid I have hurt you badly!" the young girl cried, her bright face clouding instantly, and forgetting all thought of avoiding him for Alice's sake, as she sprang to his side.

Kenneth protested that he was not hurt beyond the moment—that the ball was too soft to hurt even a mouse; nevertheless, he could not open his eye, while the hot tears gathered in it and streamed over his cheek.

"I think one of the lashes must have been forced into it—it will come out presently, so do not be troubled, Miss Marchmont," he said, trying to conceal his suffering, which was really acute.

But it did not get better; it grew steadily worse. There was evidently some foreign substance in it, and anyone who has ever had a cinder in the eye knows how intolerable the pain sometimes is in it. He had to throw down his racket at last and give up the game.

"Here, Templeton, turn back the lid for me and see if you can find anything there," he said to one of his companions.

But though the young man tried, he was so awkward and clumsy that he only made matters worse.

The other young gentleman of the party also tried to relieve him, but with no better success, and Kenneth at last said he would go and try to find a physician, and was about to put his resolution in practice when a clear, sweet voice arrested him.

"Mr. Keith, will you let me try to find the mote?"

Queen Bess came forward and looked appealing in his face. "My uncle is a physician," she continued. "I once saw him remove something from mamma's eye, and perhaps I can do it. I made the mischief, and I would like to relieve you, if possible."

She spoke eagerly, pleadingly, and looked pale and distressed over the accident.

Kenneth had not much faith that she could do anything to help him, but she seemed so anxious to try that he had not the heart to refuse her request. So he replied: "Certainly, you may try, if you do not think it will be too much for your nerves."

"No, indeed, it will not; and truly, my nerves are of no consequence if I can do anything to remove that pain. But you are so tall that you'll have to kneel upon the grass, or I cannot reach your eye," Bess returned.

He dropped upon his knee before her, while the others of the party gathered around to watch the interesting operation.

"Has anyone a lead pencil?" Bess inquired, and three were instantly held out to her.

She selected one, laid it over the suffering eyes, then skillfully taking hold of the lid with her dainty thumbs and forefingers, she rolled it back over the pencil, and there, embedded in the tender flesh, she saw what looked to be a small bit of coal.

Taking her soft handkerchief, she carefully removed it, then let the lid down and passed the pencil back to its owner.

"Did you find anything?" began Kenneth. "Ah! yes, I know you did, for that intolerable pain is gone."

Queen Bess held up her handkerchief and pointed at the small black atom upon it.

"That was a disagreeable intruder," she said. "It must have been upon my ball when it hit you. I am sorry to have caused you so much pain, Mr. Keith."

Kenneth thought, he would willingly undergo as much again if he could receive such gentle treatment from so sympathetic a surgeon, and he longed to kiss the small, fair hands that had rendered him such efficient service.

"It is but a tiny 'mote,'" he said, as he bent to examine it more closely; "but it felt like a veritable 'beam.' I think you were very expert in performing the operation, and I am exceedingly grateful to you. I am all right now, and we can go on with our game."

116 YEARS OF AGE

Old Colored Man Dead---Was Married Two Years Ago.

Ypsilanti, Mich., Nov. 10.—Jonathan McGee, the colored man who passed for 116 years of age, died Saturday of old age after a gradual decline in strength for the past month. McGee insisted that he was 116 years of age, and many people believed him, while it was universally considered that he was probably at least 100. Whenever he was speaking from experience or from tales he heard in his youth he was full of interesting reminiscences of the closing years of the eighteenth century, and the opening decades of the nineteenth. The old man was wont to tell of seeing Washington on several occasions and he professes to have been on speaking terms with several other noted men of Washington's time.

McGee astonished his friends and acquaintances two years ago by taking unto himself a second wife—a widow who had passed the 60-year mark, but the old couple could not agree, and by mutual agreement they separated six months after the marriage.

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 7. — Mrs. Sarah M. Jones died here today at the age of 102 years. She was born in England. Mrs. Jones was an artist of considerable skill and was fond of literature, having collected one of the largest libraries in this part of the state.

St. Johns, Nfld., Nov. 10.—The British cruiser Charybdis will sail today for the West Indies, taking 100 Newfoundland fishermen recruits for the British naval reserve. These men will serve a six months' training course. The recruits taken by the Charybdis are double in number the party previously taken. Half of them will join the flagship Ariadne, and the other half will remain aboard the Charybdis. The training ship Calypso will remain at St. Johns permanently. She will take on board 300 other recruits.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 10.—The Episcopal Church bell has mysteriously disappeared. Some seven years ago, when the church tower was taken down, the bell, which weighs half a ton, was placed in the back yard of the church property. Last night came a realization that it was removed by someone without authority.

A COMMERCIAL TRAVELER

Costiveness Was His Great Trouble Constant Change of Air, Diet and Water Got Him Into This Condition.

Celery King Gave Him Relief and Cured His Wife's Headache.

The men who are traveling salesmen in this country have indeed no easy job. One day they have the best the country can afford at some city hotel palace, and the next, putting up with the discomforts of cold rooms, poorly cooked food, unsanitary conditions of hotel they are in, until it becomes a matter of wonder to us how they manage to exist at all. The following letter speaks for itself:

"I take the liberty of tendering an account of my personal experiences, which have resulted from the use of Celery King, and also of trying to persuade my friends to try it. Being a commercial traveler, I (like all others) have to contend with a change of air, water, and last, but not least, change of cooking. Well, to put it in a few words, I always feel the effects of the latter in such a way as to become costive, and also to have that heavy feeling after eating, which is very unpleasant, to say the least. However, after having the ads of Celery King follow me around wherever I went, I determined to try it with the result that I had a most wonderful cure. I can now eat a meal without having that heavy feeling after eating, and find my system in perfect working order. So much for myself.

"My wife was always subject to the most terrific headaches and I claimed that they were caused by gases in the stomach, and advised her to take Celery King, but like some women are, she laughed at the idea, until, after suffering pain and from my constant urging, she started taking. She got relief in an astonishing short time. We now keep Celery King on hand all the time. I can also describe other cases, but would prefer that the parties do so themselves. Should you desire to use this testimonial, you have my permission, providing you do not publish my name. Yours, etc."

Crooked Driver Ruled Off for a Year—Saturday's Football Scores—Other Sporting Matters.

PROPOSED CANADIAN CIRCUIT.

Detroit, Nov. 8. — According to well informed turf gossipers, a movement is on in Canada toward the organization of a new and big racing circuit, and of a governing body for the Canadian turf, the plan now in vogue in the United States and in every European country. Prominent owners and breeders of the Dominion have been approached on the matter, and the opinion prevails among them that it would be to the best interest of the sport that such action be taken. The new organization, as contemplated by Secretary Frazer, of the Ontario Jockey Club, of Toronto, who is the chief promoter of the movement, will be called the Canadian Jockey Club, and every track in Canada must bear the official sanction of the club or take the alternative of being outlawed. Reciprocal relations will be established with the eastern and western jockey clubs of the United States, and also with the foreign organizations. This will mean that an owner, horse or jockey outlawed in the United States, England or any other country, will be also under the ban on a Canadian course. One or two reforms will be outlined by the Canadian club, when the organization is perfected, the most important of which will be the abolition of syndicate booking and the curtailment of racing dates. A circuit will be formed, it is said, which will comprise Windsor, Toronto, Fort Erie, Hamilton and Montreal. Larger purses will be advocated in an effort to keep the Canadian owners at home, instead of allowing their patronage to go to the eastern and western tracks in this country. The Seagram, Hendrie, Carruthers & Shields, and other stables are notable examples of Canadian owners forced to race abroad.

EXPELLED FROM FRANCE.

According to La Presse, of Paris, all those connected with the recent turf scandals, and ordered to be expelled from France, left the country without waiting for the decree to be enforced. All had departed, with the exception of Burns, who obtained a delay until Nov. 15. The Minister of the Interior, however, apparently changed his mind, and Burns was arrested Oct. 27 on the race course at St. Cloud, and conducted to the frontier.

Cincinnati racegoers are pleased with the no-recall system.

Thus far Col. Pepper has not been offered the $20,000 that he asks for the release of Jockey Redfern. At a lower price it would be the subject of warm competition among some of the owners.

MONEY IN THE GAME.

Football in the United States pays. It is estimated there were 18,000 paid admissions at the Michigan-Wisconsin game at Chicago Saturday, and that the gate receipts will amount to $25,000. This will give each eleven about $10,000, after Chicago gets its 10 per cent and other expenses are paid. Twelve thousand three hundred and fifty dollars exchanged hands on bets at the Victoria Hotel on the Wisconsin-Michigan game.

KICKS.

The matches between the Argonauts and 'Varsity for the championship of Toronto have been definitely settled for the 15th and 22nd of November.

The latest thing in the way of football gear is Trainer Mike Murphy's invention of leather mittens for Harvard. In the West Point Game Goss, the right guard, wore a pair of these mittens. They consist of a strip of wood on the lower part of the hand, bound to the mitten with tape, which is passed around the hand.

Harvard has a big negro playing left end, who is said to be a wonder. His name is Jones. He weighs close on to 180 pounds, and is exceptionally fast for a big man. Jones cinched his position last week, when the coaches discovered his ability to rush with the ball. He is brought back to the line and given the ball to rush. Every time he responds with a good gain, and there seems to be no stopping him when once he gets under way. This formation, with Jones back, has proved so far to be one of the best ground-gaining formations that Harvard has.

THE TURF.

During the recent meeting at Memphis there were two of three refreshing departures from the usual harness racing methods. One such instance, and one that is worthy of being copied on other tracks, was the action of the judges in suspending a driver from the tracks for one year for laying up a heat deliberately and with the probable intention of profiting by his action by operations in the betting ring. The custom is to punish such an offense by a fine of $100 or $200, but the driver who can clear up $1,000 in the betting ring by laying up a heat will pay a $200 fine with the utmost cheerfulness. A suspension is a far different proposition and if the judges throughout the country would follow the example of the Memphis judges and the running horse stewards, it is safe to say that few trainers would be found laying up a heat unless they could prove beyond question that there was no connection between the action and the betting.

The other digression from the established customs was the action of the judges in declaring off all bets on the race in which The Abbot and Chain Shot were the only starters.

In this race, The Abbot was made a heavy favorite, stories having been circulated to the effect that he was in rare form. Before the quarter pole was reached in the first heat it became evident that the Chimes gelding was entirely out of form and that he could not give Chain Shot even the semblance of a contest. The judges questioned Mr. Geers, who said the horse was not in form to go a race, but explained that he was not aware of it until after he started him. Then the judges declared bets on the race off, establishing a precedent in turf law that may perhaps be followed in similar instances hereafter.

PEPPER'S HORSES AT AUCTION.

The entire stable of Col. James E. Pepper was sold in the paddock before the races at Aqueduct on Friday. Whisky King, a ch. c., 3, by Imp. Kantaka-Genevieve, brought the highest price of the sale. CLOSING AT AQUEDUCT.

New York, Nov. 8.—The Metropolitan racing season for 1902 came to a close at Aqueduct today, and a big crowd was in attendance. The weather and track conditions were excellent. G. Whittier and The Huguenot were the winning favorites. The Bayview handicap, the feature of the card, was won by St. Finan. The favorite, Glenwater, had no chance after the start, as he was all but left at the post. Himself cut out the running to the stretch, where Martin sent St. Finan to the front, and won driving by one length from Himself, who in the turn was a head before Warranted. Captivator, backed from 7 to 4 to 1, won the third race handily from the favorite, Sweet Alice. Summaries:

The programme for the big ice meeting to be held at Ottawa, Ont., on Feb. 9 to 20, has been announced. The purse list will amount to $7,000, divided into nineteen purses of $300 each, one of $1,000 and one of $200. In addition to the regular classes for heat races, there will be a 3-mile dash and a 5-mile dash, open to trotters and pacers. The track will be fenced in by a 7-foot fence and the cooling out stalls for the horses will be heated and lighted by electricity, as will the clubhouse, so that the public as well as the horses will be made as comfortable as at a summer meeting. The racing will be conducted under American Association rules and turf and ice records will govern.

During the meeting the champion, Cresceus, will give three exhibitions, one of them to be an effort to lower the half-mile ice track record of 2:18¾, now held by the pacer, Jewel, 2:09¼.

Some changes were made in the year's best records just at the close of the season. Maxime, by Jackdaw, 2:28½, out of Pansy McGregor, 2:23¼, by Fergus McGregor, captured the record for 4-year-old trotting mares by a winning heat in 2:08¾. Walnut Hall, by Conductor, 2:14½, dam Lady Geiser, by Red Wilkes, placed the record for 4-year-old trotting colts at 2:09¼, and Dariel, by Alcander, 2:20½, dam by Holabird's Ethan Allen, captured the record for pacing mares with a heat in 2:04¾. The fastest new trotter of the year is the gelding Chase, 2:07¼, by Keeler, 2:13, dam Envola D., by Axtell, and he lacks only a quarter of a second of equaling the fastest record ever taken by a green trotter, that honor belonging to Lord Derby, who took a mark of just 2:07 his first season out.

There has been a great deal of talk about the increase of pacers and their value as money-winners, but it is worth noting that in the list of this year's money-winners only three pacers won as much as $10,000, while seven trotters won that much each. The three pacers are: Direct Hal, 2:04¼, with $25,550; Dan R., 2:04, with $12,925, and Twinkle, 2:05¼, with $11,250. The seven trotters are: Rhythmic, 2:08, with $18,750; Major Delmar, 2:05½, with $18,975; Anzella, with $13,700; Gall Hamilton, 2:11¾, with $12,000; Chase, 2:07¼, with $11,450, and Nella Jay, 2:14¼, with $10,000.

These figures seem to show that, as a rule, a good trotter will be able to win more money than a good pacer.

Dan Patch will have one try at the record over a good track when he reaches Savannah, Ga., the middle of this month. The track at that point is a good one, and the weather there is expected to be suitable for record-breaking performances. The son of Joe Patchen was not in as good form at Memphis as he was a few weeks earlier in the season. It is just possible that he will get back to his earlier form by the time he is due to try at Savannah, and if he does he will have a good chance to put his record in a new notch. Since he began pacing in July Dan Patch has not let a week go by without putting in a mile in sensational time, most if them having been paced within a fraction of a second of two minutes, three of them below that mark. No other horse has been so many miles in sensational time, and he goes into winter quarters sound, apparently, a prospective record-breaker for next year.

HOCKEY.

THE GALT TEAM.

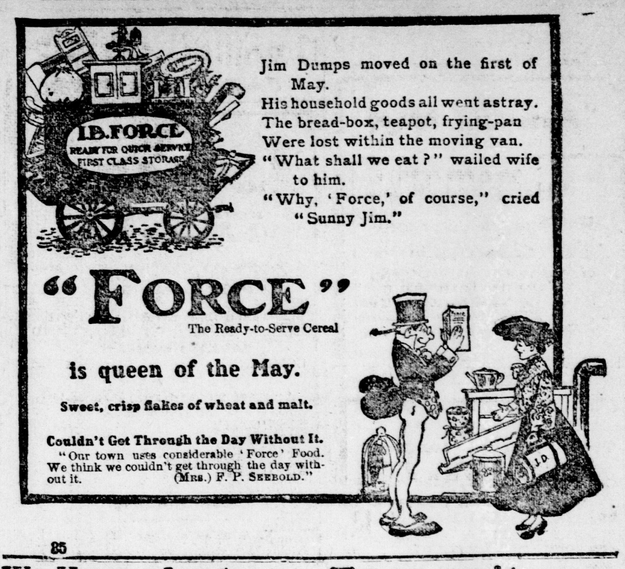

Galt, Nov. 7.—Galt will have an intermediate team in the O. H. A. and possibly one in the W. O. H. A. The following officers were elected by the club: Honorary president, J. C. Dietrich; honorary vice-president, A. R. Goldie; president, Dr. Mackendrick; first vice-president, Ferg MacGregor; second vice-president, Fred Taylor; secretary, L. B. Duff; treasurer, Geo. Hancock, jun.; executive, Fred Shurly, T. T. Aitkin and A. M. Edwards; manager, John Fraser; trainer, J. D. Eagan.

BASEBALL.

THE BEST PAYING CITY.

Buffalo was the best paying baseball city in the Eastern League last season. The Toronto club has the advantage of playing the Bisons at home on a holiday, which accounts for the fact that Buffalo club paid Toronto club more than twice as much as Mr. Stallings' club got in Toronto. The appended figures, which appeared in the auditors' report of the Toronto ball club, show the amount each club received from Toronto and vice versa during the season:

	Received from.	Paid to.
Buffalo	$ 3,392 87	$ 1,446 90
Jersey City	1,202 48	1,224 92
Montreal	1,839 72	1,113 84
Newark	1,619 74	1,251 32
Providence	1,817 38	2,252 22
Rochester	939 51	2,389 75
Worcester	1,138 26	2,089 20

HOW TO PLAY THE MODERN GAME OF FEETBALL

A Few Comments Upon Various Positions on the Gridiron by W. Burley Guy.

LESSON I.

The essential qualifications for players of feetball are strength, cunning, and a homicidal mania. The coach should first select his candidates, after carefully considering a list of their past performances. He should then turn them loose in a large lot and permit the law of the survival of the toughest to weed out the undesirable players.

Practice should begin with light cases of mayhem and gradually become more severe, the players being carefully instructed in assault and battery, assault with intent to maim, assault with intent to kill, and so on, through various degrees, to manslaughter.

Cunning should be developed especially, as cunning is required to commit manslaughter without being seen by the referee or umpire.

In the next lesson I will take up the subject of proving alibis when accused of killing one of the rival team, and deal in detail with each position.

W. BURLEY GUY.

P. S.—Use Callousine. It hardens the feet.

LESSON II—THE CENTER RUSH.

The qualifications of the center rush are beef, a thick skull and good teeth. Any man with the instincts of a bulldog and qualified to kill steers at the stockyards would make a good center rush.

Some centers stand with one foot behind the other, some on both feet, but the best stand with both feet on the opposing player's neck. The center starts the play. He should snap the ball quickly with one hand, while with the other he craftily twists the ear of his opponent. He should then lunge forward, raise his head sharply and butt his opponent on the nose guard.

When playing on defensive he should use his head as a battering ram. If his opponent plays low he should reach over and bit him. If his teeth are good he can hold his opponent, and at the same time wave both arms to show the umpire that his opponent is holding. When a man is bit hard in the arm he usually grabs the man who bit him. This gives the center a chance to wave both arms and attract the official's notice, and it often results in gaining ten yards because the other man is holding.

LESSON III.—THE GUARD.

There are several kinds of guards, among which may be mentioned rear guard, advance guard, nose guard, shin guard, right guard, left guard, elevated railroad guard, guard of honor, bodyguard, blackguard, watch-guard guard mount and the thing on a carving fork to keep you from cutting yourself.

The article, however, has to do only with the right and left guards in a feetball eleven. They are supposed to have originated in human beings of intelligence, and on the hoof should not weigh less than 225 net. The guards are put on either side of the center, and are called guards because they are not.

Guards should be taught to cultivate all the instincts of an automobile, except they must not give the customary warning of impending slaughter. In order to prevent this the cowcatcher or pilot of a guard is made of heavy leather straps and a gum arrangement with a gag on the lower end, which is jammed between the guard's teeth when he is not biting his opponent.

Any gent with the instincts of a pile driver and the tender sensibilities of a punching bag should make a good guard. In offense he should be an irresistible force; in defense an immovable body.

Our next article will explain the duties of tackles.

LESSON IV.—THE FULL BACK.

The full back is in no way related to the straight front. In modern feetball the full back is the murderer of last resort. When all others have failed in their efforts to multilate or kill the runner, it is the duty of the full back to put him hors de combat.

In stopping a runner the full back should plant himself squarely in front of him and dive through him, trying to make his head meet the runner, so as to produce both stomach-ache and lumbago.

In defense the full-back must solve all problems of direct contact. Beginners should practice breaking legs. Even an amateur will find that, by dropping his knee on a prostrate foe and at the same time jerking his leg sharply, holding the man by the ankle, he can either break or dislocate a leg.

In attack the full-back must do a big share of the line plunging. The best full-backs have V-shaped heads, capable of penetrating an opponent.

Our next lesson will be on the half-backs, who are not so decollette as their names imply.

LESSON V.—THE HALF-BACK.

The duties of the half-back include homicide and suicide. Those unfamiliar with the game may easily recognize the half-back. He is the man you cannot see when the ball is down and the last one to be dug out of the mud after a scrimmage.

The half-back has no vital spots, but he can be disabled by a kick directly over the knee. In offense he stands seven yards back of the line in a crouching position, and when he gets the ball he falls in behind the behemoth delegated to interfere for him, while another behemoth comes behind him to shove. The next he knows is the behemoth in front stops and the one behind keeps on telescoping the front behemoth, regardless of the half-back. The half-back then falls with the ball under his stomach, while nineteen men, all heavier than he is, sit on him. The whistle blows and the half-back extracts his face from the 55-yard line, which is made of wet whitewash. He has gained one yard two and one-half feet. If he keeps up this performance with the same result 31 times, without getting frayed out, he will score a touchdown, which counts five points.

Some persons may think this a waste of energy, but any man with a college education can correct this error of ignorance.

Our next lesson will be on the quarter-back, whose life is even more strenuous than that of the half.

LESSON VI.—THE QUARTER-BACK

The quarter-back must be born a disturber and a hater of peace. It is he who starts everything in a feetball game. He must be the accessory before the fact in every case of homicide of mayhem. The quarter-back usually is the smallest man on the team, and he must be fast. If he is not he will be a corpse.

In the game the quarter crawls in under the center rush, speaks a sentence that sounds as an Egyptian obelisk looks, gets the ball from the center, and passes it to the runner. As he does this four opponents, aggregating 837 pounds, light on him from various directions. Meantime other mastodons with cleated shoes tread on him. When he is able to sit up and notice things again he repeats the performance.

When the team is beaten 87 to 0 the ten other players, all outweighing the quarter-back, sit around and tell how they would have won if the quarter had not mixed up the signals.

Our next lesson will deal with the most important functionary in the game—the cheermaster.

Use Cementine for replacing ears and eyes.—Adv.

LESSON VII.—The CHEERMASTER.

The cheermaster is the fellow who causes the old grads to look at each other and say, "Were we ever like that?" In appearance the cheermaster resembles the front of a box at the horse show. As to hair, he must look like an anarchist deprived of beer.

The uninitiated may recognize the cheermaster at a glance. He is the chap that helps the captain peel off his sweater, pats him on the shoulder, and says: "For the love of dear old alma mater, do your best." This, regardless of the fact that that captain has forgotten his two flunks and three conditions, and is thinking only how he can gouge the eyeball out of the man who jumped on his stomach the season before.

After he has encouraged the team cheermaster takes his stand on the front rail of the grand stand, armed with a flag tied to a cane. He then gives an imitation of a Plymouth Rock rooster flapping its wings, and as his arms move up and down the Kankakee chorus in the seats in front of him yelps. This is repeated until the human beings move away from the freshmen.

Meantime the rival cheermaster has been conducting a rival asylum. The cheeraster is supposed to make his bug-house orchestra drown out the other. This is difficult when the score is 0 to 39, and most of the members of the chorus are wondering whether the governor will stand for another touch to replace the 38 bet lost. The cheermaster who can keep the noise going under these circumstances deserves better than to hear the remarks that are made about him by non-collegians as they are leaving the grounds.

After a game the cheermaster is allowed to rub down the halfback and carry the tackle's grip. The rest of the night he must steady himself against the bar and try in a horse voice, to explain to 29 howling dervishes of the opposition how his team really was the better, but had tough luck.

LESSON VIII.—THE SUBSTITUTE.

One of the most important personages in football is the substitute. He must sit in the mud on the side lines, wrapped in a red blanket that makes him and his fellows look like the squaws at a meat issue. Every time his team gains four yards he must leap into the air, do a medicine dance, and wave his blanket. This rule applies only to the substitute who has never made the first team. If the substitute has played on the team and been displaced he must call attention to how much better he could have done it.

When the team is winning all the substitute has to do is to cheer. When the score is 0 to 42 he sits around feeling like the man in the death cell who hears the scaffold building. It is a strange thing that the substitute always gets his opportunity when the team is being massacred.

Being a substitute entitles a man to be pounded up every afternoon for three months in order to give the first team a little practice. It also entitles a man to eat raw meat and stale bread, with two teaspoonfuls of ale once a week, when he gets overtrained. The reward is that, after being a substitute three years, he is allowed to wear a "Q" on his sweater.—Chicago Tribune.

Ascending in a balloon from Augsburg at dusk, two German aeronauts were carried 400 miles during the night by a current of air before they finally came to earth at Sierads, in Russian Poland.

SLEEPLESSNESS.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

A fox is dainty as well as crafty and prefers the tongues of lambs for food. He has been seen to chase sheep until they, on becoming tired, hang out their tongues, which he then tears off and eats.

WILL BE CONSIDERED TOMORROW.

The pulpit of the King Street Presbyterian Church was occupied in the morning yesterday by Rev. D. S. Hamilton, of the First Congregational Church, and in the evening by Rev. J. G. Stuart, Knox Church. Rev. Mr. Wilson's resignation will come before the presbytery at a meeting to be held on Tuesday at Glencoe.

DR. TALLING'S SUCCESS.

The Presbyterian of last week says: "Extempore Prayer," by Rev. Dr. M. P. Talling, published recently by Revell, has been heartily received both in the United States and Canada. So great has been the demand that already a second edition has been required.

PIANO RECITAL.

The pupils of Miss Isabel C. Armstrong, assisted by Mr. T. Nicholl, baritone, gave a very pleasing recital on Friday evening. Those who took part in it were: Misses Ella Stewart, Eva Talbot, Olive Wood, Carrie Carruthers, Minnie Gauld, C. Waters, Miss Moore and Miss Armstrong; and Elliot Ballantyne, Wilmer Denny and Mr. Nicholl.

HUNDREDS OF WORKMEN MARCH TO DIVINE SERVICE

Parade to Dr. Sowerby's Church Largely Attended.

Painters' Union Arranged It to Help One of Their Members.

The union men of this city paraded to divine service yesterday afternoon, the object of their parade being to assist one of the brethren of the Painter's Union who has been disabled. The service was at the Talbot Street Baptist Church, where the pastor, Rev. Dr. Sowerby, preached an eloquent sermon.

The parade was marshaled upon the market square, and the route of march was along King street to Wellington, thence to Dundas and to the church by way of Richmond and Talbot streets. More than 500 men were in the parade, the unions represented being:

Amalgamated Engineers.
International Association of Machinists.
Musician's Protective Association.
Broommaker's Union.
The nine Railroad Brotherhoods.
Boilermaker's Union.
Journeymen Tailors.
Builder's Laborers.
Electrical Workers.
Brass Workers.
Stove Mounters.
Polishers, Buffers and Platers
Amalgamated Carpenters.
Journeymen Barbers.
Bricklayers and Masons.
Industrial Brotherhood.
Plaster's Union.
International Cigarmakers.
Bartenders International League.
Ironmolder's Union.
Hackmen's Protective Union.
Typographical Union.
United Garment Workers.
Carriage and Wagonmakers.
Coal Employe's Union.
Milkmen's Protective Union.
Sheet Metal Workers.
Painters and Decorators.

The sermon preached by Rev. Dr. Sowerby was upon the subject of brotherly love, and was delivered with the preacher's customary strength and grace of language. His immense audience, fully filling the body of the church, listened with close attention. The subject appealed strongly to these men, all workingmen, who had gathered upon this occasion to give practical evidence of their belief in the principles which Dr. Sowerby was ennuciating.

In connection with yesterday's parade the following letter was received today by the editor of The Advertiser:

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Will you kindly grant us space in your columns for the following:

We, the undersigned committee of the Painters' Union, on behalf of the union, desire to express our sincere gratitude to all who asissted us in the church parade on Sunday, Nov. 9; to the Rev. Dr. Sowerby, for many kind suggestions and advice during the time matters were being arranged, and for his very able and much appreciated address on Sunday afternoon; and to the choir, who were present, to lead us in the service of praise; to the officers and janitor of the Talbot Street Baptist Church for their kind attentions. We desire to thank the Musical Protective Association for their kindness in musteering a volunteer band of 76 men, who led the parade. We would not forget the object for which the parade was gotten up, namely, to assist a disabled brother painter; and we take this opportunity to return our sincere thanks to the union men of this city; also to sympathizing friends for the very handsome collection, $91 12, given us for the relief of a brother, and should occasion come and the Painters' Union be called upon, they will not pass by on the other side, but will, like the Good Samaritan, lend a neighborly, a brotherly hand. In behalf of Local Union, No. 97, B. of P., D. and P. of A., George Grisman, James Smith, Ernest Lewis, committee.

ABSOLUTE PROHIBITION UTTERLY IMPRACTICABLE

But Properly Supported Restrictive Law Would Be a Step in Advance.

At the morning service in the First Presbyterian Church yesterday, announcement was made at the request of the Referendum Association of meetings that are to be held in connection with the vote to be taken on Dec. 4. In reference to a request made by the same association, that the pastor would speak on the matter to his congregation, Mr. Clark said: "In connection with this request there are three things I wish to say to you, and in saying them I am in no sense assuming the position of a dictator, but simply expressing my judgment, with which judgment I hope you may be able to agree. The first thing is that I have been deeply disappointed with the words and actions of a number of people who are looked upon or who assume to be leaders in regard to temperance reform. It is unnecessary, and would be unwise to give names, but much has been said and done of which I cannot approve, and I have lost confidence in the judgment of a number of these leaders. The second thing is that as far as I can see, absolute prohibition is an utterly impracticable thing, and I cannot in honesty advocate it. The third thing is that in the providence of God a law is to be submitted to the electorate of this province, which is meant to do away with the barroom, and there is no doubt that the influence and the tendency of the barroom is bad. Manufacture is not to be prohibited, nor the private use of liquor. We have the promise of the Government that if a certain vote is polled in favor of this law it will be put into effect, and the power of the Government used to enforce it. I am not going to make any prediction as to how the vote will result, but there is no question in my mind as to my duty in the premises, to vote for the proposed law. We all know how political feeling is mixed up in the matter, but let that be put behind us. If the law is properly supported by the Christian public, it will be a step in advance in restricting the evils that are plain to every observer in connection with the liquor traffic. I believe it, then, to be my duty to vote in its favor, and I ask you to give the matter your serious consideration, and trust that you will be led to see it to be your duty to take like action."

Letters to the Editor.

THE RADIAL RAILWAY.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

The great interest now being taken in radial railways speaks well for the future growth of London, though somewhat opposed by a few aldermen, who no doubt think they are acting in the city's interest.

Much is said against freight cars running through the streets. At all hours of the day can be seen loads of hay and straw littering the streets and cattle and pigs being driven on foot and in wagons, heavy loads of wood and coal, manure, rubbish and filth of all kinds, drawn by poor horses. And to clean up and cart away all this accumulation twice a year costs the city many hundreds, to say nothing of the thousands it takes to keep the streets in repair.

Surely to have part of our produce and other commodities conveyed through our beautiful streets in nicely-built, well-painted cars would be far more desirable than the way it is now done, besides the great saving in street repairs.

In drawing up bylaws I sincerely trust the city will not be unreasonable and make the new company suffer as well as the citizens because the present street railway company got the advantage and have not always worked in the interest of the city. However, I hope they will change their course. I think they will.

In many ways, too numerous to mention, all those new lines now entering the city will be an enormous advantage to London, bringing in people and supplies when weather and bad roads would otherwise prevent.

Think it well over, gentlemen, and don't let us strain at gnats and swallow camels. Yours truly

ONLOOKER.

DAVID McKENNA KILLED

Both Legs Nearly Severed by a Freight Train.

Taken to Victoria Hospital, He Died After Operation.

David McKenna, a young cigarmaker, of this city, died at Victoria Hospital about 2 o'clock this morning from injuries received on the Grand Trunk last night.

He was heard calling for help by people crossing the track at Ridout street. They found McKenna lying in a pool of blood near Gerry's lumber yard, both legs nearly severed. He was conscious when found, but could not tell what had happened. The ambulance took him to the hospital, and it was found necessary to amputate both limbs. His hip also was badly wounded. The physicians did everything possible to save his life, but the great shock and loss of blood made this impossible.

McKenna was 22 years of age. He was the son of Mr. David McKenna, of 518 Central avenue. For some weeks he had been away from home, and was probably returning on the freight which arrived here at 9:10. He probably jumped or fell from the train, and rolled beneath the wheels.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"The Sign of the Cross" Pleased Its Patrons.

"The Sign of the Cross," Wilson Barrett's popular drama of the days when pagan Rome ruled the world and the sun of Christianity was faintly breaking through the somber clouds of idolatry, drew good-sized audiences to the Grand Opera House on Saturday afternoon and evening. The play has held public favor for half a dozen years, and is an interesting picture of the life and times of the monster Nero. It is elevating in that it brings closely home to the spectator a realization of the beautiful, noble and simple faith possessed by the early Christians—faith which sent them forth singing to meet torture and death, and which finds all too few parallels in these latter days. The play is too talky in spots, and there are several speeches which could be shortened or eliminated without impairing the effectiveness of the drama.

Considering the length of time the play has been before the public, the production was fairly satisfactory so far as the company was concerned, and entirely so in respect to scenery and properties. The leading roles of Marcus Superbus and Mercia, were in the hands of Mr. George Flood and Miss Lily Lorrell. The former possesses a fine physique and dramatic power, but his voice was not altogether a pleasing one, a defect which also marred Miss Lorrell's otherwise admirable work. Meritorious impersonations were given by John W. Thompson as Emperor Nero, Miss Helen De Corsia as Berenis, Miss Bessie Toner as Ancaria, and Miss Marguerite Calla as the Empress Poppaea.

FAMOUS PLAY TONIGHT.

Mr. D. V. Arthur, who is managing the tour of Mr. Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon for the season of 1902-03, has chosen as a starring vehicle the great New York and London success, "Sherlock Holmes." A supporting cast of unusual strength has been engaged. Each and every one has been chosen for their special fitness for their particular role. The Wisdom of this action is apparent as it insures a smooth and artistic performance. It will be presented at the Grand tonight.

ROYALTY AT CHURCH.

Sandringham, Nov. 10.—The weather here yesterday was perfect, and the bright sunshine brought out crowds of visitors to Sandringham on the chance of seeing Emperor William. The approaches to the church were lined with spectators. Queen Alexandra, the Prince of Wales and Mrs. Chamberlain arrived at the place of worship together. Half an hour later King Edward, Emperor William, Prime Minister Balfour, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and other distinguished persons arrived and stood chatting outside the church. King Edward talked with Mr. Chamberlain for a few minutes.

Then the Emperor of Germany approached, and for a quarter of an hour the Emperor and Mr. Chamberlain stood apart and conversed earnestly. The service had begun and the anthem had been reached before the royal party entered the church, the King taking the Emperor's arm.

THE SERMON.

The Bishop of Ripon preached on the possibility of the disappearance of race distinctions and the attaining of the grand brotherhood of man. He referred to King Edward's recovery from his illness, to the visit of his kinsman monarch and to the ties which have long united Germany and Great Britain. The bishop said that however these countries were divided by the German Ocean, a race blended of both peoples was continuing to grow on the other side of the Atlantic, where Germans and Englishmen were becoming one nationality.

The service was closed by the singing of the National Anthem. Afterwards the two monarchs walked together through the gardens. During the day King Edward received a host of birthday congratulations and gifts. Emperor William gave him a valuable vase. After dinner at the palace the royal party heard Jan Kubilik, the Austrian violinist. Sir Henry Irving and Arthur Bourchiere have been commanded to act before King Edward and Emperor William at Sandringham Palace next Thursday night. They will each present a one-act play.
