Russia's Last Four Per Cent. Loan.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 19.—The Novoe Vremya announces that Russia has issued her last 4 per cent. loan and that in the future Russian loans will be issued at 3 per cent.

Another Consumption Cure.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Drs. Bertin and Pich, of Nantes, have recently made an interesting experiment in the treatment of consumption, acting on the fact that goats are not subject to consumption. The doctors, after experimenting on rabbits, injected the blood of a goat into the veins of two consumptive patients, one a boy of 17 and the other a woman of 37 years. Both patients are said to have greatly improved.

Trouble at Leghorn.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Private telegrams of a most alarming nature have been received here from Leghorn. It is learned that several dynamite cartridges were exploded almost simultaneously Saturday in the immediate vicinity of residences of a number of wealthy residents of Leghorn. The Italian police attribute the outrage to a well-planned Anarchist plot which was to have led to a riot and sacking of a portion of the city where the explosions occurred. General alarm is said to prevail at Leghorn.

France and the Pope's Temporal Power.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—M. Armand, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, during the coming discussion on the situation of affairs in Tripoli, will make a declaration in the name of his colleagues of the Right that the great political party, whose object was to restore the temporal power of the Pope, no longer exists in France. M. Armand will add that neither French arms nor French diplomacy will ever be used in attack upon Italian unity.

Interesting Manuscript Discovery.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Times announces that the authorities of the British museum have discovered among a collection of papyrus rolls acquired recently in Egypt the text of Aristoteles' treatise on the constitution of Athens from which numbers of writers of antiquity quoted, but which has hitherto been known only in detached fragments. They can now be seen at the British Museum. The opening chapter is missing and the concluding chapter is mutilated, but otherwise the manuscript is in perfect condition. There is little doubt of the genuineness of the manuscript because nothing was known of the contents of the papyrus roll when purchased.

The Irish Leadership.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Daily News says: "In view of the fact that Mr. Dillon is liable to imprisonment his election as leader of the Irish party would be a solemn farce." In regard to Parnell the News says: "His offer to retire if Gladstone will bring forward a big home rule measure is meaningless, because although he admitted at the time that the home rule bill of 1886 was a big one; he now says he did not mean it."

DUBLIN, Jan. 20.—Parnell speaking at Athlone said that at this important turning point he did not doubt the result of Ireland's struggle for home rule. Expressions of opinion, biased by the evil influences prevalent in London and Westminster, were to him as chaff before the wind. Ireland would yet get a better home rule bill than Mr. Gladstone's "maimed and whittled down measure."

The Ice-Blockade in Europe.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—A lady was yesterday found frozen to death in a railroad carriage at one of the stations in London. Heavy ice has blocked the docks at Newport, Monmouthshire. The Hamburg American line steamer Augusta Victoria remains fast in the ice in the Elbe.

A dispatch from Paris says: "The harbors of Toulon and Lascyne are frozen over for the first time on record. The olive crop in the Department of Gard is fast being ruined. Whole communes in the neighborhood of Perpignan, in the Pyrenees, are cut off from communication with the rest of the world, and wayfarers in those districts have been frozen to death. At Saragossa the mercury is 14° Fahrenheit, and snow is falling. The Seine, at its confluence with the Oise, is jammed with pack ice ten feet high. The Loire at Nevers is frozen over. A large number of vessels are ice-bound at Bordeaux.

Away Below Zero.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Reports from all parts show that the thermometer touched many degrees below zero, but that the cold is bearable in the absence of wind. The ice here is eighteen inches thick. The ponds are frozen to the bottom. Twenty-one head of deer in the Royal forest at Benrath have died, and the rest are in a miserable condition.

In Holland and Belgium the severity of the snowfall has put a stop to railway and tramway traffic. Thousands of men are out cleaning the roads. On the coast of Holland the sea is frozen for a great distance, and there is a bank of ice on the shore of extreme beauty.

Only the harbors of Rotterdam are accessible to vessels.

Advices from Naples report the death of two persons from the cold. The Italian rivers are encumbered with ice.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Reports of snow storms and increasing cold weather come from various parts of the continent. Dispatches from Cettinge, Montenegro, say a heavy fall of snow has cut off communication between that city and the interior. It is feared many deaths have occurred, and that the loss of live stock will be very heavy. A large number of travelers are snowed up at various postroad stations.

From Valencia, Spain, comes news of a violent hurricane. Many vessels are unable to leave port on account of the fierceness of the storm.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—The roof of a school for boys at San Demetrio gave way beneath its burden of snow and ice Saturday and the whole mass went crushing into the school room below. Twenty-two pupils were injured. On the frontier near Geneva a man wes found frozen to death. Several vessels have been wrecked on the Bay of Biscay and a number of lives have been lost. The gales throughout Europe are the severest in 30 years.

Several steamers in the ice-blocked river Elbe have lost their propellers by dashing against ice floes. A number of vessels have parted their anchors and are drifting helplessly in the stream. The strongest tug cannot leave Cuxhaven on account of the ice and the citizens are assisting the military to blast the ice with melinite.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—During Saturday and Sunday the most intense cold of the winter was experienced throughout France. A man was found frozen to death in his lodgings in the city. Wells are frozen at Perpignan, where a man has been found frozen to death in the streets. A woman has been found frozen to death in her bed at Ethal, where the thermometer indicates 4° below zero.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—There is little or no change in the severity of the weather prevailing in and about Europe. The ice floating on the River Thames between London bridge and the Tower of London is so packed that the movements of lighters' barges and all craft of that description have ceased. There is, consequently, considerable delay in loading and unloading of vessels.

The Wallaceburg Sensation.

WALLACEBURG, Jan. 20.—New York newspapers are on the lookout for another Birchall sensation. The New York Herald, for instance, has had a couple of reporters in this section for several days scouring the country for traces of the missing Englishman Wadsworth. One of them got disgusted, wired his paper that all he could ascertain was that the man was a dead beat, and started for home.

Shot His Wife.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 10.—John Barker shot his wife, a teacher in Basset school, in this city yesterday morning. They had lived unhappily together, and a short time ago she separated from him. Yesterday morning he went to the house of her sister, and taking his 16 months' old baby in his arms proceeded to the school house, and in the presence of the children fired five shots, all of which took affect. He then jumped out of a window, got into a cutter and drove rapidly toward the south. The woman is still alive. The police are in close pursuit of the murderer.

Disappeared from Ridgetown.

RIDGETOWN, Ont., Jan. 19. — Young Temple Sinclair, age 18, has disappeared from this place. He was dressed in light tweed suit, no overcoat, hard felt hat, rather undersized and stout, chunky boy of very bashful, retiring address, weighing probably about 140 to 150 pounds, carries himself erect, with head slightly to one side. He wandered from home while in a state of temporary aberration, caused from the effects of la grippe and overstudy, last Monday morning and has not since been seen. The family are highly respected, his father being pastor of the Baptist church here, and they are very anxious for his safety. It is supposed he went in the direction of Parkhill or Arkona.

This was the first relief she got, and before one bottle was used the benefit she derived from it was beyond our expectation."

BEHRING SEA.

The Canadian Case Before the U. S. Supreme Court—The British Minister's Views.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—A Washington dispatch to the Herald says: "In the freedom of private intercourse with diplomats and other public men, the British Minister speaks firmly and hopefully on the application lately made to the Supreme Court in the Behring Sea case. He scorns the suggestion that any affront to the Executive Government of the United States was intended or implied, either by the application or the manner or time of bringing it forward. He explains the application as one originating with and conducted only by the Government of Canada in the exercise of a proper discretion respecting the interests of a large body of its citizens and an important Canadian industry. As the British Minister expresses himself to friends, the application to the Supreme Court is the very opposite of a surprise. On the contrary, he treats it simply as the latest and most natural step in a regular and normal settlement of the controversy, raised by the capture and condemnation of the British vessels. The Government of the United States, has long declined to entertain the claims of aliens to damages, for acts committed under the authority of the Government.

THE INDIANS.

Three Carlisle School Pupils Killed in Recent Skirmishes.

CARLISLE, Pa., Jan. 19.—Capt. Pratt, manager of the Indian school here, has received news from Pine Ridge Agency that three of the Carlisle pupils named White Horse, Little Bull and Kulchi were killed in one of the recent skirmishes, and that Clayton Brave, another pupil was wounded. The news of the murder of Few Tails and four of his band, and the wounding of his wife, has tended to inflame the Indians. The Indians have rounded up their ponies, and herded them near their village, while the Indians themselves hang around the tepees discussing the questions of the day and silently watching the agency. Gen. Miles is greatly annoyed, and has put off indefinitely the date of his departure from this place.

THE WORLD OF WORK.

Thirty Thousand Workingmen in Procession—Fifth Week of the Scotch Strike.

A Glasgow dispatch says the Southwestern Railway employes, having refused to rejoin the strikers, the men are losing heart and gradually returning to work.

A monster procession of trades unionists, estimated to have been composed of 30,000 men, marched through the streets of Edinburgh Saturday. This display of Edinburgh's workmen was a demonstration in sympathy with the railroad employes who are out on strike. The different trade divisions were headed by brass bands, bagpipes or fife and drum corps, while banners bearing such mottoes as "No Surrender," "Fight for Your Rights," "Fair Pay for a Fair Day's Work," were carried above the heads of the marching trades unionists. There seems to be no prospect of an early termination of Scotland's great railroad strike. This is the end of the fourth week of the trouble.

After a short widowhood Mary became the bride of Edward Ailing, of Buffalo, a saloon keeper. Edward died in less that a year, and this time it was typhoid fever which made Mary a widow. The latter hurried to the theater, while the friend ran down stairs to send an alarm by telephone. In the meantime Miss McPherson arose without difficulty, put on a wrapper and a pair of slippers, and rushed down stairs and out the front door. She was running along the icy pavement to the theater for her parents when she was met by her astonished father. He hurried her into a neighbor's house, where she was immediately put to bed. To-day she seems almost well. The fire was a slight one.

TORONTO LETTER.

Press Men Sleigh-Riding — A Bold Burglary—Suit for Slander.

TORONTO, Tuesday, Jan. 20.

A couple of dozen of the members of the business department of the Globe Printing Company, along with representatives from each of the other departments, took advantage of the fine sleighing with which Toronto is now favored, and went in sleighs the other night to Scott's Hotel at Lambton Mills, where a hot dinner was in waiting. Mr. James Watt, secretary-treasurer of the company, presided, and Mr. George L. Wilson, of the advertising department, was in the vice chair. Mr. C. Rowland Orr, Toronto representative of the London ADVERTISER, was a guest, having at one time occupied a position on the Globe. After the sumptuous dinner was disposed of, the usual toasts were drank. "The Globe Printing Company, Its Directors and Managers," were toasted, and Mr. Watt, in replying, referred to the kindly relations which exist between all departments of the newspaper and the many changes that have been made during his nineteen years in their service. He spoke of the seven years when Mr. John Cameron was the general manager, and said that during all that time he was certain every person under him liked him, and never had anything but good words to say of him. "We are better housed now," he added, "our quarters are superior to any in Canada, and we shall all be glad to welcome Mr. Cameron to them or any of his staff, and not being able to have him here we have his Toronto representative. I am sure under Mr. Cameron's management the ADVERTISER will prosper." Closing, Mr. Watt proposed the toast of the London ADVERTISER and its staff, coupled with the name of their representative, Mr. Orr. Mr. Orr responded in a cheerful manner and said it afforded him great pleasure to be with the Globe men, and especially to hear such kind words spoken of his employers. He was glad to say that the London ADVERTISER was prospering. The circulation had increased by over 2,200, and he was sure it would continue to grow. After three cheers for its success, and a few other toasts being responded to, the company adjourned to the fine hill near by, where a couple of hours were pleasantly spent in coasting, after which they returned to the city. Mr. C. W. Taylor, the business manager, was prevented from being present on account of sickness in his family.

A daring burglary was committed in a house on a lane off Jarvis street Sunday morning. Two men entered a room where Mr. and Mrs. Lavine, of Bothwell, were sitting up nursing a sick brother of Lavine, who is an occupant of the house, and demanded money and a watch, which the Lavines were frightened into surrendering. Last night the police arrested Jas. Curran as one of the burglars.

The inaugural meeting of Toronto City Council was held yesterday morning, when Mayor Clarke delivered his fourth mayoral address. He expressed himself in favor of the reclamation of Ashbridge's Bay by the city fathers, rather than by a private syndicate, and of the carrying out of the whole of Ald. McDougall's civic reform scheme. The Council passed a motion in favor of submitting the question of Sunday street railway traffic to a vote of the people by 30 to 9.

Counsel acting on behalf of Mary E. Hadden, of Stouffville, issued a writ yesterday against James Hadden, her husband, of Orillia, claiming $50 per week interalimony. There are four children, the issue of the marriage, and the parties have been separated only two weeks. There are two charges of cruelty and adultery alleged.

BRANDED LIKE CAIN.

SHOUSETOWN, Pa., Jan. 20.—Charles Buss, last Sunday night, was chloroformed in his room while sleeping and a cross tattooed upon his forehead in indelible ink, leaving him a marked man for life. About nine months ago he married a young woman of Brownsville. Six months ago they agreed to separate. From time to time since then Buss has received communications warning him to leave town at once. The notes invariably said that if he did not take warning he would regret it.

Buss paid to attention to the missives, which were invariably signed with a cross. Whoever committed this outrage were evidently experts, for they did one of the neatest pieces of tattooing ever seen in this vicinity. They began at the point of his nose and ran the India ink up as far as his eyebrows, where they made a cross. They then began work at the top of the forehead, but did not finish, as they only pricked it and did not use the ink on it.

When Buss awoke in the morning he had a terrible pain in his head, and there was a strong odor of chloroform in the room. He called one of the inmates of the house, who, shocked at his appearance, asked him what he had been doing to his face. A glance in the mirror revealed his condition. Soap and water were used, and then a physician was called, who told him that it would be practically impossible to remove it. Last night he received another communication from the same source, telling him he must leave the place inside of 24 hours or he would be a corpse. He informed Detective Cook, of the Lake Erie road, about the matter, and employed him to work up the case. Buss asserts that he has not one known enemy in the world, with the exception of his wife.

FINANCIAL TROUBLES.

A Big Montreal House in Difficulty—Heavy Bank Failure in Kansas City.

MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—The wholesale dry-goods firm of McLachlan Bros. is financially embarrassed, and if it goes into liquidation the amount involved will be between $600,000 and $700,000. It is by no means certain that they will be obliged to take this extreme step, but if they do the assets are so considerable that the creditors will be well covered. A representative of Bradstreet's said that the banks could hardly afford to have such a collapse take place, and they may come to the rescue. Lindsay, Gilmour & Co., must follow suit, with liabilities of $300,000. They have dealt largely with bankrupt stock, and have agencies all over Canada handling the goods.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 20.—The National Bank examiner took charge of the American National Bank of this city yesterday. The capital stock of the bank is $1,250,000. As a result of the failure there is a great run on the Kansas City Safe and Savings Deposit Bank, which is in the same building. Liabilities about $1,000,000. The deposits of the bank are about $1,200,000. Since Oct. 1 the deposits have decreased from over $4,000,000 to the present amount. The bank owes over $800,000 borrowed money.

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—A compromise is being effected between Messrs. S. & C. Ruthven, grocers, Yonge street, and their creditors at 60 cents on the dollar. The liabilities are $4,700 and the assets about the same. Mr. W. M. Wordley, butcher, Carlton street, is settling with his creditors at 50 cents, his liabilities outside of mortgages being $1,600 and his assets $500.

The "Advertiser's" Record.

Readers of the DAILY ADVERTISER are surprised and alarmed at the increase of serious and fatal accidents reported in its columns of late. Could they realize the suffering and degradation caused by the absence of financial relief in such cases the wisdom of securing a safeguard against it would be at once apparent. The best safeguard is an accident policy in the Manufacturers', of Toronto. b

MAKING THEIR BOW.

The City Council of 1891 Formally Opened.

Rev. J. Allister Murray Delivers a Forcible Prayer.

Aldermen Spencer and Connor Appointed Chairmen Respectively of Numbers One and Two Committees—Auditors Jewell and Dale Reappointed.

Perhaps the largest audience that has witnessed the first sitting of any of London's Municipal Councils gathered in the City Hall yesterday to witness the formal opening of the new Council for 1891. The first four rows of benches were reserved till within a few minutes of 11 o'clock when they were taken possession of by a large deputation of women, composed of members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, who marched from Victoria Hall in a body. The benches were flanked on the three sides by a crowd of men who stood in as many as a dozen rows around the hall. Among the clergymen present were the Dean of Huron, Canons Richardson, Smith and Davis, Reverend Messrs. J. Allister Murray, J. E. Lanceley, William Hayhurst, W. McDonagh, W. J. Clark, Walter Roger, M. P. Talling, James Ballantyne and Stephen Bond.

When Mayor Taylor rose to open the Council the following aldermen were at their places around the Council Board: Aldermen Wyatt, Connor, Taylor, O'Meara, Ivey, W. W. Fitzgerald, Winnett, Skinner, Gartshore, Spencer, James Fitzgerald, Scarrow, F. J. Fitzgerald, Bartlett, Wilkey, Judd and Shaw, Ald. Thomas being the only member absent. "I will call upon Rev. J. Allister Murray to offer prayer," said the mayor, as he ran his eye around the chamber. The pastor of St. Andrew's then came forward and the aldermen rose and reverently bowed their heads while the following prayer was delivered:

THE OPENING PRAYER.

"Almighty and most merciful God, our heavenly Father, who has commanded all men everywhere to pray and lift up holy hands without wrath or doubting, and who has exhorted us first of all to make supplication, intercession, prayers and thanksgiving for kings and all who are in authority, that we may lead quiet and peaceful lives; we draw unto thee, King of Kings and Lord of Lords, that we may acknowledge thy majesty, thy glory and thy goodness in all things. O Lord, our God, we beseech thee that thou wouldst look down upon her most gracious majesty the Queen, and bless her with spiritual and temporal blessings. Replenish her with the grace of thy holy spirit that she may incline unto thee her will and may walk in thy way. Defend her from all enemies and strengthen her in the affections of her people, that her reign may be characterized by righteousness and goodness throughout the full extent of the empire. God bless Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales and every member of the royal household of Great Britain and Ireland. We beseech thee, O Lord our Father, to pour down upon them, their magistrates and all in authority for them, and upon all classes of the people, thy righteous blessing that they may be characterized by righteousness and love and truth, that their prosperity may be continued by the truth as it is in Jesus Christ. Grant, merciful God, that there, and elsewhere wherever the British flag may be unfurled that it shall be the assurance of protection of right and truth, even into all lands. We beseech thee to take away whatever is unjust in British laws or in British practices. May righteousness and truth characterize Britain's train, her commerce and her government in all the various provinces and colonies of her vast domain, from pole to pole, and from the rising to the setting sun.

"We especially beseech thee this day to bless the Dominion of Canada; bless his Excellency the Governor-General and all the Governors-Lieutenant for the various provinces under his control. May we, as a nation, be characterized by unity, and concord and peace, and may we be blessed with that righteousness which exalts a nation. We especially beseech thee for this city in which we reside. May thy righteous blessing be poured out upon its inhabitants. Bless the mayor and the aldermen of this city now constituted in meeting for the first time this year; give them richly of the spirit of thy love. May thy holy spirit be poured out upon them in rich abundance; may their determinations and all that they propose be suggested by the spirit of truth, that they may be a blessing to this city, so that not only in its financial affairs, but in its moral affairs, may grace abound. May they be a terror to evil-doers, and may temperance and social purity and righteousness and virtues of every kind increase, and increase, that God their Father may be glorified, and that peace, purity and happiness may dwell in our homes, and that we may be a people blessed of God.

"Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed by thy name, thy kingdom come, thy will be done, on earth, as it is in heaven. Give us each day, our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those that trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, for thine is the kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever. Amen."

THE MAYOR'S ADDRESS.

On the conclusion of the prayer Mayor Taylor rose again and delivered the following address:

Gentlemen of the Council:

"Having been elected to represent the city as mayor for a third term, I have to express my acknowledgmen ts for this honor, and for the generous consideration and encouragement I have received during the past year from the citizens of London. It affords me pleasure to welcome the members of this Council who have been elected to assist in conducting the civic business for the current year. The year 1891 will be important in the history of the city. Questions of great moment for its future welfare will be brought before you for your careful consideration, and I have confidence that the members of this Council at the expiration of their term of office will, when called upon, be able to give a good account of their stewardship. In order to have better control of the expenditure of the various departments an estimate of the amount of funds required by each should be obtained as early in the year as possible. I would, therefore, recommend that the Council request the various boards and civic committees to submit the amount of funds required by them for this year before April 1. In the past such statements have not been received from each department until late in the season, after a great part of the expenditure has been made, which rendered it impossible for the Council to adequately protect itself against excessive expenditure.

"Should the frontage tax principle be adopted by the Council, that will to some extent do away with the ward appropriations, which in the past have not been satisfactory. A list of the works for the whole city should be prepared by the city engineer, and he should submit the same for the consideration of the Council. This estimate should be printed, and if approved the work be carried on under the direction of the engineer only. Aldermen should not be held responsible for or interfere with the carrying out of this work. Those who are paid to comply with the will of the Council must be held accountable for the proper performance of their duties.

"The electors having, by a large majority, decided that the number of liquor licenses in the city shall be reduced, it will be necessary that a bylaw be passed to give effect to this strong expression of public opinion.

"The citizens having likewise by their votes declared that they desire the street improvements to be done by frontage tax it will be necessary for you to carefully consider their wishes. Should the Council adopt the principle it would only be just to consider the position of property-holders in the suburbs who have been paying taxes for years and have not had either a sidewalk laid or the road graded in front of their premises.

"Last year's Council decided to pay from the general funds of the city one-third of the cost of the block-paving. At that time properties exempt from municipal assessment were not liable for local improvement rates. Such properties this year under recent legislation are liable in the same manner and to the same extent as other lands for local improvement rates. As exempt property pays no taxes to the general funds the full rate for local improvements should be collected. The paying of one-third by the city was intended as an equivalent or set-off, on account of property-holders still being liable for general improvements throughout the city.

"On account of London South becoming a part of the city, a readjustment of the terms of agreement between the county and the city relating to the administration of justice and maintainance of the court house and jail will require your attention.

"I would recommend that a requisition be presented by this Council to the County Council asking for permission to use the southerly portion of the Court House square for the purpose of a park. This would not entail any expenses to the county and I have every confidence in the County Council granting this reasonable request. The appearance of the Court House surroundings would be thus improved.

"Application has been made to the Local Legislature for power to consolidate the city debt. Some information has been obtained during the last year with that object in view, and immediate steps should be taken by the Council to forward the same. Should satisfactory terms not be obtained there is no absolute necessity for closing any offer that may be made this year.

"I would advise that the assessment rolls be published for the information of all. Citizens stand one to another in the same position as the members of a large stock company, and all should be able to ascertain by the assessment how each ratepayer contributes to the general fund.

"In order to encourage oil refining here and to assist that industry, it would be well to consider what steps could be taken to revive that trade. Some encouragement should be granted, and it is therefore a question whether it is judicious to tax the personal property or the plant of the oil refiners."

"During the last year a reduction on the assessed value of property has been made to several manufacturers; it would, therefore, be well for the Council to consider the whole question of assessment and taxation, and instead of dealing with any special class of manufacturers singly try and adopt some principle upon which all may be treated alike. The difficulty of assessing personal property under the present act has been recognized by the Local Legislature by an act that was passed at the last session, empowering municipal councils to pass bylaws, substituting in any class of mercantile business, a business tax for the taxes on so much of the personal property of the ratepayer as belongs to the business. As other cities are adopting the business tax principle, some inquiry should be made, in order to ascertain what effect the business tax system would make on the present tax revenue.

"The amount of money required for electric light, according to contract prices for 186 lamps for this year, will be $17,577. It will require a determined effort on the part of the Council to keep this large sum from being greatly exceeded. The demand for lights will be so great that it may require the expenditure of a larger sum than that at first mentioned.

"As the lease of the London and Port Stanley Railroad expires on Sept. 1, 1892, it is therefore advisable that the city shall obtain from the Legislature the necessary power that may be required to take over the road, when the bonds become due. This will be necessaay in the event of the city not being able to secure a satisfactory agreement with the G. T. R. or other road that may wish to purchase the same. The city being interested in the L. and P. S. Railroad is likewise interested in the Port Stanley harbor. The Dominion Government should be again urged to make a grant of money for the purpose of dredging that harbor, repairing the docks and making the same capable of affording shelter and protection for lake shipping. I would also suggest the advisability of requesting the Dominion Government to so amend the Railways Act as to make it obligatory upon all railway companies when receiving freight from any carrier by water to pay such carriers the then accrued freight charges, provided the value of the goods provides reasonable security for the whole freight charges. The refusal of the railway companies in the past to pay such charges has to some extent destroyed the lake traffic at Port Stanley. If legislation cannot be obtained to that effect a clause in any agreement that may be made for the lease or sale of the L. and P. S. R. should provide that advance freight charges should be paid to carriers by water. Any agreement for the sale or lease of the road should be referred to the vote of the people for their decision.

"A considerable improvement and a great convenience has been effected by moving the offices of treasurer to the present position, and combining the office of the waterworks department with the same. The lease of the premises south of the treasurer's office will expire shortly, and at a comparatively small outlay the entire set of offices could be brought down to the first floor and a suitable vault built for the proper protection of the valuable books and papers connected with the treasurer and clerk's offices, which are now at the mercy of fire, and I would urge the Council to give due consideration to this matter as it will give very great convenience to the citizens generally, and in case of accident by fire protect documents which could not be replaced, besides causing a large money loss to the city.

"Some provision will require to be made to provide an outlet for the sewage of the northern part of the city. The proposition to construct a trunk sewer along the course of the Carling Creek was met by so many objections that the undertaking had to be abandoned by last year's Council. I would therefore suggest that the city engineer be requested to again propose plans for the construction of a suitable system for the part of the city referred to.

"The minutes of the proceedings of last year's Council have been bound in pamphlet form. Mr. Kingston has with much pains prepared an index which has been printed and bound with each volume. This is the inauguration of a new system undertaken by the suggestion of the assistant city clerk, and I feel sure it will be much appreciated by any who may have occasion to consult them.

"The position of the mayor is one of responsibility, accompanied with but limited power. Eighteen members of this Council control and pass the various expenditures, and it but rarely happens that the casting vote of the mayor decides any question. Every endeavor should be made to keep down the rate of taxation of this year to as low a sum as possible, and I feel confident that the members of this year's Council will support me in any endeavor that I may make with that object in view.

"It will be my aim to merit your official aid and co-operation during the year just commenced. It is earnestly hoped that the proceedings of this body and the official relations between its members may be characterized by the harmony and unity of purpose that will inspire the respect and confidence of our fellow citizens who have confided to this Council the great and important trust of faithfully guarding the interests and promoting the welfare and prosperity of London."

Ald. Winnett moved, seconded by Ald. Skinner, that the address he received and that the recommendations contained therein be sent to the several committees controlling the matters dealt with. Carried.

BUSINESS TAKEN UP.

Taking up the first order of business after the confirming of the minutes, the communications of P. M. Lawrason and G. Martindale were sent to No. 1 Committee.

The communications respecting the purchase of stone and fire alarm supplies, were sent respectively to Nos. 2 and 3 Committees.

Electrician Crawford's communication, demanding an investigation of the charges against him, was also sent to No. 3.

The Bishop of Huron's communication, expressing his sorrow at being unable to open the meeting as desired, was filed, and the thanks of the Council extended to him.

Rev. J. Allister Murray was then thanked by the mayor in person, the same being acknowledged by a formal bow.

The use of the East End Hall was granted to the Knights of Pythias for Feb. 19.

Mayor Taylor re-appointed Auditor Jewell as one of the city auditors, and Ald. Taylor moved, seconded by Ald. Skinner that Auditor Dale be also re-appointed, which was carried, the communication of A. Booker being filed.

THE STRIKING COMMITTEE.

Ald. Ivey moved that Aldermen Connor, O'Meara, Gartshore, Spencer, F. J. Fitzgerald and Shaw be appointed Striking Committee, the same with the exception of Ald. Shaw having headed the polls in their respective wards.

Ald. W. W. Fitzgerald moved in amendment that the committee be composed of Aldermen Taylor, O'Meara, Skinner, Spencer, Bartlett and Shaw.

Ald. Ivey, speaking in support of his motion, contended that those who stood at the head of the polls should have the most to say, as the greatest confidence had been reposed in them. "It is an old established custom," said the speaker, "and I cannot see good reason why it should be departed from."

Ald. W. W. Fitzgerald said that it would be absurd to follow any such procedure. The proper course was for the council to exercise its functions in the selection of its committees.

Ald. O'Meara explained that if the previous speaker did not like the ticket presented by the Striking Committee he could object.

Ald. Skinner, in supporting the amendment of Ald. Fitzgerald, said that the new members would have a greater difficulty in heading the poll after they had been on the Board five years, if they could secure even a majority. He thought that the old members could best serve the city in a matter of such importance.

Ald. O'Meara moved that the name of Ald. Ivey be substituted for that of his own, but no notice was taken of it as it was not seconded.

The amendment of Ald. Fitzgerald was then put and lost, Aldermen Judd, Skinner, W. W. Fitzgerald and Taylor alone voting for it.

Ald. Taylor—I move that the Council appoint the standing committees.

The mayor declared the motion out of order, and Ald. Ivey's motion being put, was carried on the same vote as that which defeated the Fitzgerald amendment.

The Council then adjourned for half an hour.

THE STANDING COMMITTEES.

Quite a crowd of the ratepayers remained until the Council resumed, at 2:30. The mayor asked for the report of the Striking Committee, which was presented by Ald. Spencer, recommending the following standing committees:

No. 1 Committee—Aldermen Taylor, Ivey, Gartshore, Spencer, Wilkey, Judd.

No. 2 Committee—Aldermen Winnett, O'Meara, Connors, Scarrow, Bartlett, Shaw, Wyatt, W. W. Fitzgerald, James Fitzgerald, J. F. Fitzgerald.

Ald. Taylor moved, seconded by Ald. Fitzgerald, that the report be taken up clause by clause. About half the members were in favor of adopting the report, and Ald. Taylor exclaimed, "I demand that this be taken up clause by clause. Such actions as I have seen here to-day are extraordinary. If some of these young men would show more justice it would suit them better." His motion carried.

The only committee over which discussion took place was No. 1.

Ald. Wilkey objected to his name being on No. 1. He would prefer being attached to the Board of Works and suggested that the name of Ald. Bartlett be substituted. This was not agree to, however.

Ald. W. W. Fitzgerald, seconded by Ald. Taylor, proposed that Ald. Skinner be placed on the committee instead of Ald. Gartshore, each advancing the experience of Ald. Skinner as a good reason for the change. This was supported by Aldermen Fitzgerald, Winnett, Judd and Bartlett, but the remainder voted in favor of Ald. Gartshore being allowed to remain, and the suggested change was not made.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Ald. Taylor then brought forward a motion that the following constitute the Board of Health: Mayor Taylor, Aldermen W. W. Fitzgerald, Skinner, Spencer, Shaw, Bartlett, Col. Moffatt, Dr. Niven and the mover.

Ald. Scarrow moved as an amendment that Aldermen Wyatt, Shaw, Skinner, Scarrow, Wilkey, Ivey, Dr. Gardiner and ex-Ald. Heaman be the Board of Health.

Aldermen Taylor and O'Meara spoke in favor of having all the wards represented, and the Board proposed by Ald. Scarrow was made as above in order to meet these expressions of opinion.

Ald. Taylor rose to speak a second time, but was told by the mayor that he could not speak twice. He remarked: "Well, I'll tell you this, if you keep to that rule all year as strictly as you keep me to it now, you'll have my support."

Mayor Taylor—Thank you, Ald. Taylor.

Ald. Skinner then spoke. "Is there anything wrong with Ald. Taylor that this motion of Ald. Scarrow should be brought forward omitting his name? I hope there will not be a display of any feeling against the old aldermen. These new members are in the majority, and I'm glad to see their faces around the Board, but surely they can see that we should be considered as to our prior claims with regard to the Council."

Ald. Scarrow's amendment carried, those voting for it being Aldermen Connor, Ivey, Winnett, Gartshore, Spencer, Scarrow, F. J. Fitzgerald, Bartlett and Wilkey. The nays were Aldermen Wyatt, Taylor, W. W. Fitzgerald, O'Meara, Skinner, J. Fitzgerald, Judd and Shaw.

TO THE FAIR BOARD.

Appointing representatives to the Western Fair Board was the next order of business, and Ald. Winnett moved that the Board of Works with the exception of Ald. Connors be the representatives. This would give the positions to Aldermen Scarrow, Bartlett, Shaw, O'Meara and Winnett. Ald. Skinner seconded the motion.

Ald. Spencer did not agree, and moved in amendment that Aldermen F. J. Fitzgerald, Shaw, Scarrow, Gartshore and O'Meara be the representatives.

Ald. Taylor thought it scandalous when they came to running themselves into every position. "I never saw such a bad spirit as is being shown. For my own part I announced myself as willing to work for the citizens on any committee. But Ald. Winnett acts in a very peculiar manner when he places himself in every position and ignors Ald. Skinner."

Ald. Winnett—I have said nothing about other committees and Ald. Skinner is the seconder of my motion is this instance, so he surely cannot object.

Ald. Taylor—I'm not referring particularly to Ald. Skinner. There are others.

Ald. Winnett said there was no necessity for placing Ald. Gartshore on the Fair Board, as that gentleman was already a member. If the speaker were placed on the board it would give the Council more and better representation.

Ald. Gartshore—I am not now a member of the Fair Board, although I was last year.

Ald. Winnett—Oh, I thought you were.

Ald. Spencer's amendment carried.

COURT OF REVISION.

Heretofore the Court of Revision has been composed of the members of No. 1 Committee, but that committee has now six members and only five are required on the court. Ald. Taylor suggested that his own name be omitted and the remaining members of No. 1, Aldermen Ivey, Gartshore, James Fitzgerald, Wilkey and Judd be the Court of Revision. Ald. Judd moved an amendment, but, at Ald. Taylor's request, withdrew it. So No. 1, without Ald. Taylor, was constituted the Court of Revision.

The Council adjourned until 7:30 this evening, when the appointing of school trustees and passing of bylaws will be taken up.

Mayor Taylor suggested that before the Council assembled in the evening the various committees should select their chairmen.

Ald. Taylor—Oh, they've selected them already; no use telling them that.

No. 1 Committee met immediately and selected Ald. Spencer chairman, and No. 2 placed Ald. Connor at its head. No. 3 will appoint a chairman to-night.

I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

Prof. Dorenwend coming again to London, Tecumseh House, Jan. 22.—You will see by the advertisement elsewhere that Prof. Darenwend, of Toronto, announces another visit. The popularity of his goods is assured, and his visit here is an opportunity not to be lost. His bangs are simply grand, are all made of finest quality curled hair, save the wearer an immense lot of trouble, and give a charming expression to the face. In other styles the professor's stock is also most complete. It embraces all modern improvements in the way of hair goods—crimpers, wigs, half-wigs, switches, etc., etc. We say again, take advantage of this visit. You can get goods as satisfactorily from him as if you visited his establishment in Toronto. It is most pleasing to know that when one's hair disappears such goods as made by Prof. D. can be secured. He will be at the Tecumseh House Wednesday, Jan. 22. Be sure you see him. 34ntywtyxbw

REVELATIONS FROM NORTH BRUCE

The judgment of Mr. Justice Maclennan and Mr. Justice Falconbridge, in the North Bruce election trial, was given on Saturday. It conclusively shows the influences by which Mr. George, the Conservative candidate, managed to secure his election. A common dodge to influence a needy voter was for the agent of Mr. George to guarantee that if he would vote for the Conservative candidate his debts would be forgiven him. Another corrupt practice brought out was the furnishing of refreshments to voters on election day. At a tavern, kept by John Shutt, a number of voters were liberally fed, and they were further given an ample donation of flour. These facts were proved at the trial, but subsequently the judges were asked to receive the tavern-keeper's books as evidence that the refreshments and the flour had been charged for. An examination of the books convinced the judges that the charges for the refreshments were not made at the time, that it was never intended they should be so charged, and that the entries were made afterwards—no doubt, a little dodge to even up the defense. It failed to work, however, for the court held that Shutt was guilty of the corrupt practices charged, and that he acted as an agent of the Conservative condidate. The latter also narrowly escaped personal condemnation and disqualification. One of his supporters hired a team from a man named McKay to drive a voter to Tara. McKay cleared out, and his bill for the rig was garnisheed. The respondent then paid the bill, and included the amount in his statutory expenses. Mr. George's excuse—a tame one—was that he did not know that the illegal item was in the bill. The judges, however, refused to relieve him of responsibility for the act. Ignorance was no excuse, and they could not establish a precedent that it was. The act was held to be corrupt, and sufficient to invalidate the election. But as Mr. George had been candidate in giving his explanation they gave him the protection of the court, thus relieving him of the personal penalties attaching to the act. The cross-petition against Mr. Porter, the Liberal candidate, was dismissed with costs, thus proving that his candidature was conducted in a fair manner. He was certainly entitled to the seat, which was only snatched by Mr. George by a half-dozen majority, and no doubt the electors of the Peninsula will see that he is given his rights when opportunity offers.

CANADIAN MILITIA TROUBLES.

It may appear to be a strong statement, but it is really doubtful if there is a branch of the Canadian Militia Department which can stand five minutes' scrutiny. In a late copy of the Militia Gazette the following editorial remarks appeared:

"A valuable pointer was given by the Minister of Militia at the Belleville banquet, reported in our Regimental News, as to the means by which Government grants may be obtained for purposes of the militia. Of course Sir Adolphe Caron spoke largely in jest, because it is not to be supposed that he would yield to a demand, however urgent, for an expenditure not absolutely needed; but there not being money enough to satisfy all applicants, other things being equal the most opportune will generally be found to be the first served. A minister desiring to find means of satisfying just claims upon this department may have his case greatly strengthened with his colleagues by the influence exerted by the member of Parliament most interested. It therefore behooves the members of the militia to see that their representatives in Parliament are kept properly posted and interested in the requirements of the force."

Now, even from our standpoint it is very wrong for a chief to overstep all intervening authority. How much worse must it be for so-called military men, who are supposed to be the soul of method and discipline? Of course, Sir Adolphe, never having been a military man himself, cannot be expected to have a soldier's views on this subject. But he has had the benefit of communication with generals who could have taught him, and common business instincts ought to point out the mischief of such a course.

Here we bring a general from England at great expense, and then hand over the real power—the management—to a lot of political wirepullers who may have no other motive than votes, and even if their intentions were thoroughly honest, are too often as ignorant of the steps necessary to secure an efficient force as their great grandmothers would be.

We submit that, party bias aside, the thing is absurd to a degree. Loyalty and zeal will make up for a lot of deficiencies in case of real trouble, but a little common sense added might not be amiss.

A little justice meted out to officers like Lieut.-Col. Aylmer, the worthy brigade major for this district, who has been so many years a citizen of London, would not come with bad grace from the Administration at Ottawa. Col. Aylmer has been in harness since Confederation, and is financially in a worse position than he was twenty years ago. The last subaltern in the Infantry School corps is better off.

If the brigade majors were allowed to engage in active business on their own account it might be considered as a slight offset, or if like civil servants they had a retiring allowance or a pension to fall back upon, some excuse might be made. But the staff officers have none of these advantages. Their pay is so small that little or no margin is left after meeting the necessary expenses of unforms, etc. The payment of these men properly is true democratic policy, as otherwise the positions are left to the sons of rich men, who may come for nothing but their social status, and for that reason look down on their work, and are too often inefficient officers.

MANITOBA NEEDS MIXED FARMING.

We are becoming heartily tired of the all-wheat growing style. It is virtually three months of feast and nine months of famine to farmers and merchants alike. There is at best too much risk in it. The districts which are most noted for diversified farming have the most ready money at all times. We have it from the lips of a gentleman who imported oats into Manitoba this year, that the stock-raising farmers of Strathclair and Silver Creek (Binscath) could and did pay him more ready cash than the wheat growers of the rich Portage plains. When the deductions for machinery, horse hire, rent of farm, labor, etc., are made from the price of the farmer's grain, he will find at the end of the year that his hog-pen will, dollar for dollar invested, return him as much.—[Portage la Prairie Liberal.

Despite the boasted virgin soil of immeasurable depths and richness, Manitoba farmers are beginning to feel the inevitable pinch. Their average wheat yield for 1890 barely exceeded that of old Ontario. Many of them have been over-drawing on the bank of fertility, as certainly a ruinous procedure in farming as in mercantile life. The carelessness of such farmers will be left as an heir loom of distress to the next generations. Their sons will have to restore what they have destroyed. Live stock and mixed husbandry must renovate the soil. The sooner the work is begun the better.

A WORD ON ARCHITECTURE.

A writer (presumably an architect) in the current Scribner laments the lack of interest in architecture among the public. A crowd may be seen gathering about a shop window to admire the merchandise, or the seamstress, or pastry cook that is displayed in it, but you do not often see a man pausing on the other side of the street to study the building.

When the number of houses that are going up nowadays is considered, one might suppose that there was a great and general interest in architecture. But such is not the case. People like magnificence, they like size, they like decoration; but in the majority of cases it is mere bigness and sumptuousness that contents them. Exception is not taken to lack of professional understanding of architecture, or of historical discrimination of styles, but to general indifference to those qualities of design that belong to all good architecture.

There is an undeniable advance in fine art among us, but it is in the direction of color, not form. Everything that makes for splendor—ornamental effect, decorative material—commands attention. The favorite source of inspiration is the art of the East, which lives by color and not by design. The essential qualities of architecture are under eclipse.

Chief among these essential qualities is the distinction of being purely creative. The world was full of pictures before there were eyes to see them, but until man developed it there was nothing like a cathedral or a palace on the earth. There is no realism in the art of architecture; the creative element occupies the whole field. There is fine architecture that is picturesque, but to the highest its picturesqueness, if it is there, is no more essential than is the lace that lies upon the shoulders of a courtly beauty. And yet the spirit of the picturesque has prevailed in English and American architecture for two generations to such an extent that not only our country houses but our civil and church buildings have been wild with irregularity, and plied with all the variety of turrets, gables, chimneys, dormer and bay windows that an overstocked repertory could furnish. This picturesque work is only the side show of architecture. Its genuine and most distinctive character has been fixed by the experience of many centuries as before all things an art of design, in which proportion and form hold first place. Architecture is primarily an outdoor art; its attendants are the blazing sun, the wind, the storm; it does not require protection but exists to afford it. For refinement, elegance, grace, it gives ample scope, but firmness and the obvious power of resistance it cannot spare. The harshest criticism that could be uttered on a noted architectural work is that it looks as though it should be kept in a glass case. Softness, languor, extreme delicacy, the appearance of fragility, are effeminacy in architecture, which is the most virile of all the arts.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Hon. John Forrest, the first Premier of West Australia, is a genuine son of the the colony, having been born in Bunbury Aug. 22, 1847. He has surveyed vast tracts of the territory, and few men have so real an acquaintance with the actual resources of the colony as he has.

‡‡‡

—Not for many years have the opening proceedings of the London City Council caused so much interest as was evinced today. The municipal solons must be impressed with the fact that the eyes of the electorate, men and women, are upon them. The year 1891 should be a twelve months of record-making.

—We received word from S. H. Shibley, of Cleveland, Ohio, formerly employed by D. B. McKinnon & Son. He says potatoes are from $1 25 to $1 40 per bushel there.—[Blyth Standard.

Potatoes sold in this city for 75 cents to 80 cents a bag. Farmers would make profits these days in potatoes as well as in many items of produce if unrestricted reciprocity were established between the States and Canada.

—Those who know them say that cannibals, who are so through long custom and tradition, are not innately any more ferocious than the peaceful citizen who buys his steak or chop of the good-tempered butcher round the corner. We are overloaded with prejudice against the good, innocent, simple-hearted savage. In his hours of peace and friendship the native of New Guinea is faithful, humane and courteous. Forced into battle, he will fight boldly and forcibly; there is no giving way or surrender, for the termination of the battle means that he will either have food or be food. Of foreign meats the opium-flavored Chinaman is preferred to flesh-eating English and Americans.

—One effect of the policy of high taxation and the speculative craze encouraged by it a few years ago has been the investment of vast sums of money in Canada in unproductive enterprises, to the serious loss of capitalists and wage-earners. An illustration of this fact is found in the experience of the shareholders of the Moncton, N. B., cotton factory, who have recently been told that their business is bankrupt and that they will only receive 4 cents for each dollar they invested. To save other cotton factories from a similar fate, a gigantic combination has been formed, the owners of the mills having agreed to permit several millions of their capital to be wiped out in the hopes that, under combine restrictions, they may be able to make enough out of the consumers to recompense them for their past losses. The high tax policy has been a costly experiment all round, but after all the great mass of the people have to bear the heaviest portion of the burden which it has entailed.

REAL AMAZONS.

El Mensajero de Salvador (Central America).

Among the numerous army of veterans which came to this capital on Sunday, we observed several women, who, shouldering their guns with belts girded to their loins, marched, keeping time to the drums, and showing by their bearing and demeanor as much discipline as the best soldier. It cannot be denied that Salvador, as far as the defense and the preservation of its rights is concerned, stands among the first nations of America, since frail woman, though strong in these cases, volunteers willingly to go into the battlefield, not only to be of use in lending succor to her wounded husband or son who fight for their rights, but also to their country by shouldering a rifle and firing on the enemy cartridges which by nature she would fear to touch. There, we say, must exist great love of country, profound patriotism and great zeal for their liberty and independence for their fatherland.

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES FOR SPINSTERS.

Chicago Tribune.

"There is a great chance for old maids in the Argentine Republic," remarked Henri Bosquet, of Buenos Ayres, yesterday. "There are about sixteen men to one woman there, and the unmarried males are more than anxious to secure wives. This is especially true of my city. When a 'new woman,' as we call the welcome arrival, comes to town about 50 men make a wild effort to secure her. It is quite an interesting contest, and the one who captures the prize is looked upon as something of a hero. The local papers write columns about it, and about everybody in the city turns out to the wedding. It doesn't matter much about the woman's age or looks, she is received with open arms and married off in a jiffy to some real nice man. The woman will have about 50 good-looking suitors to pick from, so she need not be anxious about finding the kind of a man she wants. The love-making doesn't last long, however. Three days is the usual limit."

NORTHROP & LYMAN'S
VEGETABLE DISCOVERY
A Great Blood Purifier
A Sure Cure for Dyspepsia

A Medical Triumph!

HOW THE HEALTH OF ONE OF BELLEVILLE'S CITIZENS WAS RESTORED.

Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspepsia.

MR. SAMUEL T. CASEY, Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1884 I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies, and applied to my physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of Dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever, except boiled milk and bread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. NORTHROP AND LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with but little hope of relief; and now, after using eight bottles, my Dyspepsia and Dropsy are cured. Although now seventy-nine years of age, I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. I am well known in this section of Canada, having lived here fifty-seven years; and you have liberty to use my name in recommendation of your VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, which has done such wonders in my case."

A Very Bad Case!

DYSPEPSIA VANQUISHED.

MR. JAMES JOHNSTON, 4th con., 7th lot, Amaranth, writes: "Two bottles of NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY cured me of Dyspepsia. Mine was a bad case and I had tried a number of other preparations without getting any benefit from them."

Dyspepsia Had to Go.

MR. W. J. DEYELL, Wingham, carpenter and builder, writes: "Three years ago I was greatly troubled with Dyspepsia; a pain between my shoulders was so bad that I thought I would have to quit work altogether. No medicine gave me ease until I got a bottle of NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, which gave me relief. I continued using the medicine until I had taken three bottles, when I was perfectly well. I consider it invaluable as a cure for Dyspepsia. I know of several persons who have used it with the same benefit."

"THE SPOT SHOT."

Warm Dispute Regarding Rules for Billiard. Playing.

Proceedings of the Western Football Association—Rules Amended—General Sporting News.

BILLIARDS.

W. J. Peall, the English billiard star, who recently offered to accept Champion John Roberts' sweeping challenge to play any one in the world at English billiards, 24,000 points up, conceding his adversary 12,000 points odds, has written to the English Billiard Association to meet and decide officially what are the rules of the championship game. A hot dispute has been waging in London upon the point whether or not the spot shot is or is not barred in the championship rules. Peall claims the championship, and offers to play Roberts even up, but nothing has come of the matter yet excepting the very hot debate about the spot shot.

FOOTBALL.

A general meeting of the Western Football Association was held at Berlin Saturday morning, the president, Mr. G. A. Dewar, of Seaforth, in the chair. The date for the Inter-Association match to be played probably at Ottawa was changed to June 20. It was agreed that the match for the championship should be played not later than Nov. 14. The following amendments were made to the cup and district rules:

Rule 2 was changed to read: The competition for the cup shall be semi-annual and shall be open to the ten leading clubs, etc. The matches shall be played in May and June and September and October.

In rule 3 the dates for admission were changed to the first Wednesday in April and the first Saturday in September.

Rule 4 was altered to carry on the completion on the series instead of the tie system.

Rule 7 was changed so that the year begins on Jan. 1 instead of Sept. 1.

Rules 10 and 11 and the last clause of rule 12 were struck out.

The secretary was instructed to amend rule 13 so that it would be in accord with the series system. The following clauses were added to rule 15:

The referee's decision in matters of fact shall be final. The referee shall have power, without any appeal, to award a free kick for conduct which is dangerous or is likely to prove dangerous, but which does not justify him in exercising the greater powers vested in him by rule 16, laws of the game.

The report of the committee was adopted referring the decision for or against sending a team to the old country to the sub-committee who have had the arrangements in hand. At present the prospects are rather in favor of the trip being undertaken. The secretary was authorized to issue a football annual containing besides all the rules with the latest amendments up to the present time and a record of the winners of each competion.

During a match at Leigh, Eng., the crowd became dissatisfied with the referee's decisions, and about 400 people jumped over the ropes and roughly hustled him. He took refuge in a neighboring house, but a man named Whitehead, who sought to protect the referee, was so brutally treated that he had to be conveyed to a doctor's.

The international Rugby match between England and Wales was played at Newport, Jan. 5, before 10,000 spectators. The ground had been covered with straw to keep off the frost. England won by two goals, a try and two minors to one goal. Eight matches have been played. One was a Welsh victory and one drawn. The other six were wins for England.

THE RING.

Jack McAuliffe and Billy Myers, lightweights, have signed articles for a glove contest to a finish for $5,000 a side.

THE TURF.

In 1885 four horses ran a mile in 1:42 or better. From that time on to 1891 the annual number of horses performing this feat was as follows: In 1886, 19; in 1887, 22; in 1888, 21; in 1889, 41, and in 1890, 71. It is not to be deduced from this showing that the best race horses have materially increased in speed since 1885, but that there has been a great gain in the art of making "speedy" tracks. Twelve of the fast records last year were made over the straight course at Monmouth Park, Salvator's mile in 1:35½ being among the number. Racine, Tenny, Bobby Berch and King Erie each did the feat twice last year.

In 1866, when Pocahontas made her record at Boston of 2:26¾ she was regared as the greatest trotter alive, and Mr. Bonner bought her and placed her in his stable. The price paid was $35,000 in cash and Lady Drummond, for whom $5,000 had been refused. Lady Drummond was known as the Queen of Canada, and she had a record of 2:26. Mr. Bonner purchased her in 1863, and bred her to Rysdyk's Hambletonian, and got Ruth. In 1873 Ruth was bred to Edward Everett, then owned by Mr. Bonner, and the produce was Macey's Hambletonian, dropped on the farm at Tarrytown, and now owned in Europe. Macey's Hambletonian is the sire of Bosque Bonita, the champion trotter of Europe by virtue of her recent record of 2:19½. Subsequent events show that Lady Drummond was not valued too highly when she was put in the trade at $5,000. Pocahontas was a handsome bay mare, foaled in 1859, and by Ethen Allen, 2:25½, out of the famous pacer, Pocahontas, 2:17½ to wagon. She was perfectly gaited, and one of the best roadsters ever seen in New York. She trotted a mile for Mr. Bonner in 2:17¾. Tom Rolfe, sire of young Rolfe, 2:21¼, sire of Nelson, the champion stallion, 2:10¾, was out of pacing Pocahontas. Mr. Bonner's Pocahontas was not bred until quite old, and she never got in foal. She would have been a great brood mare if mated earlier in life. She died at Mr. Bonner's farm on Tuesday, Jan. 13, aged 32. Her teeth were badly worn, and it was with difficulty that she could take enough food to sustain life. The sod which covers her poor remains hides an investment of $40,000.—[Turf, Field and Farm.

Brockville races are announced for Jan. 21 and 22, the same dates as Brantford.

PEDESTRIANISM.

Unless an accident occurs Zoe will win the wager of $2,000, besides expenses and a theatrical engagement at $500 a week.

Lou Myers, of New York, and Harry Darrin, champion of England, have signed articles of agreement to run three races within the next six weeks at a place to be mutually agreed upon. The distances will be three-quarters of a mile, half a mile, and 1,000 yards respectively. The stakes, $2,500 a side, were deposited with a stakeholder. The winner must be the victor in two of the races.

THE RING.

It is stated that John L. Sullivan, prior to his departure from Chicago for Grand Rapids, Mich., on Monday signed articles of agreement, which had already been signed by Slavin, for the fight next summer for the world's heavyweight championship. The amount of the stake and the place of the fight are withheld.

CHURCH DEDICATION AT DENFIELD.

Sunday, Jan. 11, was a high day with the Baptists of Denfield. After some vexatious delays they opened their new church on that day. The building is of white brick, 53x36 feet, the butments being faced with cut stone. The audience room is a cheerful and tasteful apartment with seating for 300 people. The pews and woodwork are grained in oak, the walls and ceiling pure white, and three principals grained to match the wood-work support the vaulted roof. At night five Rochester lamps make the auditorium light as day. The tower rises to the height of 36 feet, and when illuminated forms a marked feature of the evening landscape. The basement is 40x36 feet in size, with a ten-foot ceiling and is admirably adapted for general use. The services on Sunday last were attended by crowds that thronged every available foot of sitting room and overflowed into the basement below. Rev. Dr. Thomas, of Toronto, and Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, of Strathroy, conducted the services, the former in the morning and evening, and the latter in the afternoon. On Monday evening a teameeting was held, at which a choir of sixteen voices led by Prof. Hoose sang sweetly; Revs. Ball (Presbyterian), Dewar (Presbyterian), Kennedy (Methodist) and Dayfoot gave short addresses, and Dr. Thomas lectured on "Men of the Age." Financially the church has every reason for congratulation. Six years ago Mr. B. H. Rosser died, leaving a legacy of $1,000. Three years later Mrs. Ann Rosser died and left $200 more. Thus there was a substantial fund with which to begin. To this there has been added from subscriptions, rent of parsonage, interest, collections, value of material from the old church building, and labor contributed, the sum of $4,140, making a total of $5,340. As the price of the new edifice with the lot was $5,600, there remained a balance of $260 to be raised. The collections on Sunday and the proceeds of the tea meeting amounted to $332, thus amply providing for all the cost. Rev. P. R. Carey is the energetic pastor.

WADSWORTH AGAIN.

An Incident in Which He Figured at Camlachie Recalled—Is the Missing Englishman a Thief?

The story told regarding the Wadsworth mystery has caused considerable comment and the following interesting letter to the ADVERTISER from Mr. James Harrison, of Camlachie, on a similar experience of his own will be found well worth perusing. He says: An Englishman, claiming to have hailed from Yorkshire, and giving his name as John Wadsworth, came to the village of Camlachie on Nov. 12 and claimed to know several farmers in the vicinity. Meeting me he made some inquiry in regard to any farms I knew of for sale and wished to stay at my home for a few days, saying he preferred it to staying at hotels. I allowed him to come with me and took him to see some farms. After seeing some of them he thought he would go back to the south part of the township, as he liked the looks of the land better in the vicinity of Wyoming. He also stated that he had had a considerable quantity of money left him and wished to invest in farm property. On Friday the 14th he made pretense of not feeling well and wished me to keep him over Sunday. On Sunday my wife and myself went to call on a neighbor leaving the stranger with the family. My eldest son, about 6 o'clock in the evening, went into the village leaving the three little girls alone. After my son left the house, Wadsworth said to the girls that he was going upstairs to look out of an upstair window to see the electric lights of Sarnia. Coming down stairs he said to them he would go and meet me. The children told me when I came in (only a few minutes having lapsed) what he had said and done. I went upstairs and found he had gone through my son's trunk, taking therefrom $60. I went into the village, sent messages to Point Edward and Sarnia and took Constable Trusler with me in search of him, but have never found any trace of him yet. I have come to the conclusion that the "mystery" is in how long Wadsworth is going to run at large and impose on innocent victims.

Bristol's Horses at the Grand.

Prof. D. M. Bristol's wonderful horses appeared last evening in the Grand Opera House before a large and delighted audience. The marvelous intelligence and almost human understanding exhibited by these beautiful animals would almost convince the most stubborn doubter that horses possess the power of reasoning. Continual roars of laughter greeted the antics of Denver, the clown mule, who appeared to enjoy the fun as much as his audience, and once appeared in the curtained box to bow his acknowledgement. Sultan and Comanche are two favorites of Prof. Bristol's, and by their extraordinary performance justly deserve their proprietor's claim as being wonders of the world. The military drill, in which the whole troupe of 30 equines go through the most intricate manœuvers without a hitch, was a great tribute to the teaching capabilities of the professor and the aptitude of his horses. The show will run all week, with matinees Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. Prof. Bristol announces that at the conclusion of each matinee the ponies will hold a reception on the stage to the children, who will be given free rides.

When Brakeman George Sutton lost both arms in a railway accident the mother of his fiancee, Maggie Klasky, refused to allow the ceremony to be performed. The girl's mother applied for a requisition for Sutton at Milwaukie on a charge of perjury in swearing that Mary was over 18 years old. Two officers of the Town of Lake force had a desperate fight with the armless man in effecting his arrest, one of them being severely bruised in the struggle.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES APPOINTED.

Francis Love and R. M. McElheran Are the Chosen Ones.

Ald. John Fitzgerald Elected Chairman of No. 3 Committee—The Fixed Assessment Idea Has Not Many Friends in the New Council.

All the members excepting Ald. Thomas were in their places when Mayor Taylor called the Council to order for the evening session shortly after 7:30 o'clock last evening.

The petitions of Ellen Hannafin, Hannah Crawford and Sarah Johnston, re remission of taxes, were referred to No. 1 Committee.

The East End Hall was granted to W. J. Garside on behalf of Company "A," of the Seventh Fusiliers, for a concert to be held on or near Feb. 9.

The petition of W. J. Buskard for the placing of an electric light at the corner of York and Hewitt streets was referred to No. 3 Committee.

The mayor suggested that the barricade at the end of the chamber should be removed and that a brass railing be substituted for it. The matter was referred to No. 2 Committee.

No. 3 Committee reported as having chosen Ald. John Fitzgerald as their chairman.

BYLAWS.

The bylaw fixing the assessment of John Ferguson & Sons at $20,000 was read a first time.

Ald. W. W. Fitzgerald objected to the second reading. He thought that exemptions and fixed assessments had been carried far enough. "If we don't want high taxation," said the speaker, "we should not exempt half of the property in the city. I have nothing against this particular firm, but I am opposed to the system."

Aldermen O'Meara and Skinner spoke in support of the bylaw. They explained that it was but right that Messrs. Ferguson & Sons should enjoy the same privileges as similar manufacturers in the city were permitted to enjoy.

The amendment of Ald. Fitzgerald was then put and lost, Aldermen Wyatt, Connor, W. W. Fitzgerald, James Fitzgerald, F. J. Fitzgerald, Bartlett, and Wilkey voting for it, and the remainder of the Council against.

Ald. W. W. Fitzgerald objected to the second reading of the bylaw and it was accordingly laid over.

Ald. Winnett moved that the License Reduction Bylaw be read a third time, and that the bylaw be finally passed.

Ald. W. W. Fitzgerald made a similar motion in regard to the Frontage Tax Bylaw, but Ald. O'Meara was not quite clear upon what the passing of the bylaw would mean. He had a great respect for the wish of the people, but he did not think that the vote had been a just one if tenants had the right to vote. He moved that the bylaw stand over until the next meeting of the Council.

Ald. Shaw supported the objection of Ald. O'Meara, because he said it was not established that the people wished the change. Many who wished to oppose the bylaw had voted for it at the polls by mistake. He knew of several such cases.

Ald. Taylor moved that the matter be referred to No. 2 Committee. Carried.

HIGH SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The greatest interest of the session centered in the appointment of two school trustees to fill the vacancies caused by the retirement of Trustees Woodward and Love, Collegiate Institute Board.

Ald. Scarrow made the first nomination, his candidate being R. M. McElheran.

Ald. Gartshore nominated Thomas Alexander, Ald. O'Meara caused Trustee Love's name to be added to the list, Ald. W. W. Fitzgerald performed a like service for John Boyd, and Ald. Bartlett completed the ticket by nominating John Hargreaves.

It was decided to take a sliding vote, the lowest to drop out, which was done, with result as indicated:

Francis Love	15	13	12
R. M. McElheran	12	10	11
Thomas Alexander	13	9	10
John Boyd	7	8
John Hargreaves	7

The names of Trustees Love and McElheran were then inserted in the bylaw, which was read a third time and passed.

Bylaws authorizing the appointing of the members of the Western Fair Association, Court of Revision and Board of Health, as published previously, were passed, the only change being the substitution of Ald. Thomas' name for that of Ald. Shaw on the last-mentioned board.

Ald. Winnett moved, seconded by Ald. Ivey, that the assistant city clerk instruct the city solicitor to prepare a bylaw for the reduction in the number of liquor licenses from 69 to 50. Carried unanimously.

Ald. W. W. Fitzgerald gave notice that he will move that the bylaw prohibiting the erection of oil refineries be repealed. Adjourned.

Smokers Should Read.

London is well known throughout Canada particularly as the city from which the celebrated "Highland Lassie" cigar is shipped to all parts of the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Messrs. H. McKay & Co., the manufacturers, take a special pride in this 5-cent cigar. It has been completely tested by the majority of the smokers of the country, who pronounce it the choicest article on the market. Nothing but the best fillers and wrappers are allowed in its composition, and, when once tried, it convinces the most sceptical of its superiority. Messrs. H. McKay & Co.'s immense establishment, with its products, is a credit to the city.

No Humbug.—In connection with my Christmas stock I have a large consignment of samples of fancy goods (no two alike), which I will sell at the wholesale prices. You can secure a genuine bargain if you will call and examine goods and inquire prices. Xmas cards in great variety and very cheap. Pictures, picture frames, boxes of oil and water color paints—all suitable for Xmas presents and very cheap at E. N. HUNT'S, 190 Dundas street.

The Handsomest Woman in London

remarked to a friend the other day that she knew Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs was a superior remedy, as it stopped her cough instantly, when other cough remedies had no effect whatever. So to prove this and convince you of its merit any druggist will give you a sample bottle free. Large size 50 cents and $1. zxv

EAST BUFFALO.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Cattle—Offerings 240 cars; western and seaboard markets being well supplied and the heavy run here caused a break in prices, which equaled 5c to 15c on choice grades and 10c to 20c on common to good stock in every class. Export sold fairly; prime, $4 85 to $5; choice to extra do, $4 50 to $4 75; good to choice, $4 40 to $4 60. Butchers were off slightly on best grades and 10c to 15c on handy stock; best heavy butchers, $4 to $4 30; fair heavy butchers, $3 70 to $3 95; mediums sold about same as fair heavy, but fairly fat cattle in this class were in better demand, selling mostly $3 85 to $4; light handy butchers were irregular in price, and the demand rather slack; sold at $3 45 to $3 75. The animal, which was attached to a sleigh, turned into the Market Lane, barely escaping the plate glass windows there, and finally came to a stop in the Boswell House yard. No damage was done.

—Rev. F. F. Davis, son of Judge Davis, died at his father's residence on Saturday morning. Deceased was a graduate of Huron College, and was located for several years at Virden, Manitoba. He had been in poor health for several months, and his death was not unexpected. He was born at Sarnia, and was 28 years old. The interment will take place at Sarnia.

Rumored G. T. R. Changes.

A rumor has been current in G. T. R. circles that Mr. Chas. Stiff, the present superintendent of the Western division, would be transferred to this city, Assistant Superintendent Larmour taking his place. It was also stated that Mr. Tiffin would be placed in control of the Northern division. A prominent railway official, when questioned yesterday, expressed the opinion that nothing definite could be known regarding the rearrangement of divisional offices or officials, and that any rumors to that effect were with out foundation.

Caught in the Act.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hardy was charged at the Police Court yesterday with stealing a bucket of coal from the McClary Manufacturing Company. Mr. John McClary explained that the woman kept a shop adjacent to his premises, and from the constant depletion of his stock of fuel, he was led to suspect the person whom he charged. A watch was accordingly placed and Mrs. Hardy was caught in the act. He did not wish to prosecute, but merely to set an example in order to prevent further pilfering. The woman tearfully pleaded guilty to the immediate larceny, but denied having stolen at any other time. The magistrate suspended sentence, with a warning.

Prof. D. M. Bristol's Equine Wonders.

In calling attention to the fact that these remarkable horses will appear in the Opera House all this week, mention was made of the exceedingly funny mule, "Denver." This animal is without doubt a wonder in every sense of the word, and is a whole show in himself. He seems to know when he pleases the audience, and enjoys the fun as much as those who laugh at his antics. In the education of "Denver" alone, Prof. Bristol has established his superiority over all horse educators, for all will admit it is no easy matter to teach a mule anything, stubbornness being one of their chief traits. Another wonderful animal is Zony, who leaps from a flying swing through a hoop to a pedestal and again from the pedestal to the swing while it is in motion. Prof. Bristol claims that no other horse ever accomplished this feat successfully. The aggregation headed by its own mounted band paraded the streets yesterday.

Happiness our being's end and aim is the ultima thule of man's existence. That which will confer the greater happiness on the greater number ought to be in good demand if a purchasable commodity. COME! COME!

An Imperial, Tender and All-Persuasive Invitation.

All the Power of the Christian Religion Centered in a Word.

Dr. Talmage's Sunday Sermon in the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Dr. Talmage preached the following sermon this morning to an overflowing congregation in the Academy of Music. His texts were: "Come," Genesis vi., 18, "Come," Revelations xx., 17. Imperial, tender and all-persuasive is this word "Come." Six hundred and seventy-eight times it is to be found in the Scriptures. It stands at the front gate of the Bible as in my first text, inviting antediluvians into Noah's ark, and it stands at the other gate of the Bible as in my second text, inviting the post-diluvians into the ark of a Saviour's mercy. "Come" is only a word of four letters, but it is the queen of words, and nearly the entire nation of English vocabulary bows to its sceptre. It is an ocean into which empties 10,000 rivers of meaning. Other words drive, but this beckons. All moods of feeling hath that word "Come." Sometimes it weeps and sometimes it laughs. Sometimes it prays, sometims it tempts, and sometimes it destroys. It sounds from the door of the church and from the seraglios of sin, from the gates of heaven and the gates of hell. It is confluent and accresent of all power. It is the heiress of most of the past and the almoner of most of the future. "Come!" You may pronounce it so that all the heavens will be heard in its cadences, or pronounce it so that all the woes of time and eternity shall reverberate in its one syllable. It is on the lip of saint and profligate. It is the mightiest of all solicitants either for good or bad.

All the power of the Christian religion is in that word—"Come." The dictatorial and commandatory in religion is of no avail. The imperative mood is not the appropriate mood when we would have people savingly impressed. They may be coaxed, but they cannot be driven.

You must remember that in many cases our "Come" has a mightier "Come" to conquer before it has any effect at all. Just give me the accurate census, the statistics, of how many are down in fraud, in drunkenness, in gambling, in impurity, or in vice of any sort, and I will give you the accurate census or statistics of how many have been slain by the word "Come." "Come and click wine glasses with me at the ivory bar." "Come and see what we can win at this gaming table." "Come, enter with me this doubtful speculation!" "Come with me and read those infidel tracts on Christianity." "Come with me to a place of bad amusement." "Come with me in a gay bout through underground New York." If in this city there are 20,000 who are down in moral character, then 20,000 fell Under the power of the word "Come." I was reading of a wife whose husband had been overthrown by strong drink, and she went to the saloon where he was ruined and she said: "Give be back my husband." And the bartender, pointing to a maudlin and battered man drowsing in the corner of the bar-room, said: There he is; Jim, wake up; here's your wife come for you." And the woman said: "Do you call that my husband? What have you been doing with him? Is that the manly brow? Is that the clear eye? Is that the noble heart that I married? What vile drug have you been giving him that has turned him into a fiend? Take your tiger claws off of him. Uncoil those serpent folds of evil habit that are crushing him. Give me back my husband, the one with whom I stood at the altar ten years ago. Give him back to me." Victim was he, as millions of others have been, of the word "Come!"

Now we want all the world over to harness this word for good, as others have harnessed it for evil, and it will draw the five continents and the seas between them; yea, it will draw the whole earth back to the God from whom it has wandered. It is that wooing and persuasive word that will lead men to give up their sins. Was skepticism ever brought into love of the truth by an ebullition of hot words against infidelity? Was ever the blasphemer stopped in his oaths by denunciation of blasphemy? Was ever a drunkard weaned from his cups by the temperance lecturer's mimicry of staggering steps and hiccough? No. It was "Come with me to church today and hear our singing;" "Come and let me introduce you to a Christian man whom you will be sure to admire;" "Come with me into associations that are cheerful and good and inspiring;" "Come with me into joy such as you never before experienced." With that word which has done so much for others I approach you today. Are you all right with God? "No," you say, "I think not; I am sometimes alarmed when I think of him; I fear I will not be ready to meet him in the last day; my heart is not right with God." Come, then, and have it made right. Through the Christ who died to save you, come! What is the use in waiting? The longer you wait the further off you are and the deeper you are down. Strike out for heaven! There is room for all in this Gospel boat. Get in; get in! And yet there is room. Room in the heart of a pardoning God. Room in heaven.

I also apply to the word of my text to those who would like practical comfort. It would be hard to tell which have the biggest fight in this world—the prosperities or the adversities, the conspicuities or the obscurities. Just as soon as you have enough success to attract the attention of others, the envies and jealousies are let loose from their kennel. The greatest crime that you can commit in the estimation of others is to get on better than they do. They think your addition is their subtraction. Five hundred persons start for a certain goal of success; one reaches it and the other four hundred and ninety-nine are mad The warm sun of prosperity brings into life a swamp full of annoying insects. On the other hand the unfortunate classes have their struggles for maintenance. To achieve a livelihood by one who had nothing to start with, and after a while for a family as well, and carry this on until children are reared and educated and fairly started in the world, and to do this amid all the rivalries of business and the uncertainty of crops and the fickleness of tariff legislation, with an occasional labor strike and here and there a financial panic thrown in, is a mighty thing to do, and there are hundreds and thousands such heroes and heroines who live unsung and die unhonored. What we all need, whether up or down in life of half-way between, is the infinite solace or the Christian religion. And so we employ the word—"Come!"

But the word "Come" applied to those who need solace will amount to nothing unless it be uttered by someone who has experienced that solace. That spreads the responsibility of giving this Gospel call among a great many. What multitudes of us are alive to-day and in good health and buoyant in this journey of life, who would have been broken down or dead long ago but for the sustaining and cheerful help of our holy religion! So we say—Come! The well is not dry. The buckets are not empty. The supply is not exhausted. There is just as much mercy and condolence and soothing power in God as before the first grave was dug, or the first tear started, or the first heart broken, or the first accident happened, or the first fortune vanished. Those of us who have felt the consolatory power of religion have a right to speak out of our own experiences, and say—Come!

What dismal work of condolence the world makes, when it attempts to console! The plaster they spread does not stick. The broken bones under the bandage do not knit. Those who follow the advice of this world in time of perplexity are in a fearful round, for it is one bewildered soul following another bewildered soul, and only those who have in such time got their eye on the morning star of our Christian faith can find their way out, or be strong enough to lead others with an all-persuasive invitation.

"But," says some one, "you Christian people keep telling us to 'come,' yet you do not tell us how to come." That charge shall not be true on this occasion. Come believing! Come repenting! Come praying! After all that God has been doing for 6,000 years, sometimes through prophets, and at last through the culmination of all tragedies on Golgotha, can anyone think that God will not welcome your coming? Will a father at vast cutlay construct a mansion for his son, and lay out parks white with statues and green with foliage, and all asparkle with fountains, and then not allow his son to live in the house or walk in the parks? Has God built this house of Gospel mercy and will he then refuse entrance to his children? Will a government at great expense build life-saving stations all along the coast and boats that can hover unhurt like a petrel over the wildest surge, and then when the life-boat has reached the wreck of a ship in the offing not allow the drowning to seize the life-line or take the boat for the shore in safety? Shall God provide at the cost of his only Son's assassination escape for a sinking world, and then turn a deaf ear to the cry that comes up from the breakers?

"But," you say, "there are so many things I have to believe, and so many things in the shape of a creed that I have to adopt, that I am kept back." No; no! You need believe but two things; namely, that Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners, and that you are one of them. "But," you say, "I do belive both of those things!" Do you, really, believe them with all your heart? "Yes." Why, then you have passed from death into life. Why, then, you are a son or a daughter of the Lord Almighty. Why then, you are an heir or an heiress of an inheritance that will declare dividends from now until long after the stars are dead. Hallelujah! Prince of God, why do you not come and take your coronet? Princess of the Lord Almighty, why do you not mount your throne? Pass up into the light. Your boat is anchored, why do you not go ashore. Just plant your feet hard down and you will feel under them the Rock of Ages.

Evidently a Love Tragedy.

The Sexton of the Syracuse (Sicily) graveyard found a young woman dead in the vestibule of the chapel on Dec. 26. She was beautiful, handsomely dressed, and appeared to be English or American. Beside her lay an open English letter of four pages, the conclusion of which was: "I stab you as many times as you have kissed me and lied to me; and I tear out the heart that has been so false." And, in fact, the woman's breast had been cut open and the heart had been removed. The next day a young man of 30 was found in the graveyard with a revolver shot in his head. The affair has not been explained nor have the bodies been identified.

They Are Not Desirable Companions.

In our daily intercourse with men and women we are constantly meeting the "irritable" mortal, and very often express the wish that fortune will in the future keep us out of his or her path. These "irritable" individuals are not the most congenial of companions at home or abroad. They are disagreeable themselves and help to make everyone near them miserable. They are generally nervous; they have peculiar feelings of dread and anxiety. They are often the victims of morbidness, and do not act rationally at times. There is danger ahead for such men and women, unless great care be taken to restore the complete and harmonious working of the nerve system. For all cases such as we have described, we advise at once the use of Paine's Celery Compound. It is the only effective nerve tonic and builder known to the medical faculty. Doctors are now using it daily in the treatment of the nervous, irritable, morose, sleepless and dyspeptic. It will restore you or your friends to vigorous health, joy and solid pleasure.

Desperate Remedies

By Thomas Hardy.

AUTHOR OF "A PAIR OF BLUE EYES," "THE TRUMPET-MAJOR," ETC.

"It is only natural that I should be curious," she murmured, pettishly, "if I resemble her as much as you say I do."

"You are handsomer," he said, "though you are about her own height and size. But don't worry yourself. You must know that you are body and soul united with me, though you are but my housekeeper."

She bridled a little at the remark. "Wife," she said, "most certainly wife, since you cannot dismiss me without losing your character and position, and incurring heavy penalties."

"I own it—it was well said, though mistakenly—very mistakenly."

"Don't riddle to me about mistakenly and such dark things. Now, what was your motive, dearest, in running the risk of having me here?"

"Your beauty," he said.

"She thanks you much for the compliment, but will not take it. Come, what was your motive?"

"Your wit."

"No, no, not my wit. Wit would have made a wife of me by this time instead of what I am."

"Your virtue.

"Or virtue either."

"I tell you it was you beauty—really."

"But I cannot help seeing and hearing, and if what people say is true, I am not nearly so good-look as Cytherea, and several years older."

The aspect of Manston's face at these words from her was so confirmatory of her hint, that his forced reply of "Oh, no," tended to develop her chagrin.

"Mere love or liking for me," she resumed, "would not have sprung up all of a sudden, as your pretended passion did. You had been to London several times between the time of the fire and your marriage with Cytherea—you had never visited me or thought of my existence or cared that I was out of a situation and poor. But the week after you married her and were separated from her, off you rush to make love to me—not first to me either, for you went to several places——"

"No, not several places."

"Yes, you told me so yourself—that you first went to the only lodging in which your wife had been known as Mrs. Manston, and when you found that her lodging-house keeper had gone away and died, and that nobody else in the street had any definite ideas as to your wife's personal appearance, you came and proposed the arrangement we carried out—that I should personate her. Your taking all this trouble shows that something more serious than love had to do with the matter."

"Humbug—what trouble after all did I take? When I found that Cytherea would not stay with me after the wedding I was much put out at being left alone again. Was that unnatural?"

"No."

"And those favoring accidents you mention—that nobody knew my first wife—seemed an arrangement of Providence for our mutual benefit and merely perfected a half-formed impulse—that I should call you my first wife to escape the scandal that would have arisen if you had come here as anything else."

"My love, that story won't do. If Mrs. Manston was burnt, Cytherea, whom you love better than me, could have been compelled to live with you as your lawful wife. If she was not burnt, why should you run the risk of her turning up at any moment and exposing your substitution of me, and ruining your name and prospects?"

"Why—because I might have loved you well enough to run the risk (assuming her not to be burnt, which I deny)."

"No—you would have run the risk the other way. You would rather have risked her finding you with Cytherea as a second wife, than with me as a personator of herself—the first one."

"You came easiest to hand—remember that."

"Not so very easy either, considering the labor you took to teach me your wife's history. All about how she was a native of Philadelphia. Then making me to read up the guide-book to Philadelphia, and details of American life and manners, in case the birthplace and history of your wife, Eunice, should ever become known in this neighborhood—unlikely as it was. Ah! and then about the handwriting of hers that I had to imitate, and the dyeing my hair, and rogueing, to make the transformation complete? You mean to say that that was taking less trouble than there would have been in arranging events to make Cytherea believe herself your wife, and live with you?"

"You were a needy adventuress, who would dare anything for a new pleasure and an easy life—and I was fool enough to give into you——"

"Good heavens above!—did I ask you to insert those advertisement for your old wife, and make me answer it as if I were she? Did I ask you to send me the letter for me to copy and send back to you when the third advertisement appeared—purporting to come from the long lost wife, and giving a detailed history of her escape and her subsequent life—all which you had invented yourself? You deluded me into loving you, and then enticed me here. Ah, and this is another thing. How did you know the true wife wouldn't answer it, and upset all your plans?"

"Because I knew she was burnt."

"Why didn't you force Cytherea to come back, then? Now my love, I have caught you, and you may just as well tell first as last, what was your motive in having me here as your first wife?"

"Silence!" he exclaimed.

She was silent for the space of two minutes, and then persisted in going on to mutter, "And why was it that Miss Aldclyffe allowed her favorite young lady, Cythie, to be overthrown and supplanted without an expostulation or any show of sympathy? Do you know I often think you exercise a secret power over Miss Aldclyffe. And she always shuns me as if I shared the power. A poor ill-used creature like me sharing power, indeed."

"She thinks you are Mrs. Manston."

"That wouldn't make her avoid me."

"Yes it would," he exclaimed impatiently "I wish I was dead—dead!" He had jumped up from his seat when he had uttered the words, and now walked wearily to the end of the room. Coming back more decisively, he looked her in the face.

"We must leave this place if Raunham suspects what I think he does," he said. "The request of Cytherea and her brother may simply be for a satisfactory proof, to make her feel legally free—but it may mean more."

"What may it mean?"

"How should I know?"

"Well, never mind, old boy," she said, approaching him to make up the quarrel. "Don't be so alarmed, anybody would think I were the man and you the woman. Suppose they do find out what I am—we can go away from here and keep house as usual. People will say of you 'His first wife was burned to death,' (or 'ran away to the colonies,' as the case may be); 'He married a second, and deserted her for Anne Seaway.' An every day case—nothing so horrible after all."

He made an impatient movement. "Whichever way we do it, nobody must know that you are not my wife, Eunice. And now I must think about arranging matters."

Manston then retired to his office, and shut himself up for the remainder of the evening.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE EVENTS OF A DAY AND NIGHT.

1. March the twenty-first. Morning.

Next morning the steward went out as usual. He shortly told his companion, Anne, that he had almost matured their scheme, and that they would enter into the details of it when he came home at night. The fortunate fact that the rector's letter did not require an immediate answer would give him time to consider.

Anne Seaway then began her duties in the house. Beside daily superintending the cook and housemaid, one of these duties was, at rare intervals, to dust Manston's office with her own hands, a servant being supposed to disturb the books and papers unnecessarily. She softly wandered from table to shelf with the duster in her hand, afterwards standing in the middle of the room, and glancing round to discover if any noteworthy collection of dust had still escaped her.

Her eye fell upon a faint layer which rested upon the ledge of an old-fashioned chestnut cabinet of French Renaissance workmanship, placed in a recess by the fireplace. At a height of about four feet from the floor the upper portion of the front receded, forming the ledge alluded to, on which opened, at each end, two small doors, the center space between them being filled out by a panel of similar size, making the third of three squares. The dust on the ledge was nearly on a level with the woman's eye, and, though insignificant in quantity, showed itself distinctly on account of this obliquity of vision. Now opposite the center panel, concentric quarter-circles were traced in the deposited film, expressing to her that this panel, too, was a door like the others; that it had lately been opened, and had skimmed the dust with its lower ledge.

We all are selfish, the sage is no better than the fool, and only rather more dangerous.—[Froude.

A man's wife should always be the same especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

A stout man who got a fall on an icy pavement, took satisfaction out of a girl scrubbing the front steps who had grinned at his mishap by exclaiming in a tone of bitter sarcasm: "Used all your ashes for tooth-powder, didn't you!"

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills, as they are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

Anniversary in London West.

The anniversary services of the London West Methodist Church Sunday were well attended, two interesting sermons being preached by Rev. Dr. Briggs, of Toronto, a pioneer in the London ministry. In the morning his remarks were based on John i., 35-46, in which Christ asks the disciples who saw him and followed him to "Come and See." The speaker held personal religion as a personal knowledge of Christ, and the foundation of the Christian structure to be brotherly love. The reverend gentleman's discourse in the evening was another able effort. His text was taken from the words in Esther ix., 28: "That these days of Purim should not fail among the Jews, nor the memorial of them perish from their seed." This sentence related to the feast, which celebrated the frustration of the plot to destroy the Jews in the days of King Ahasuerus, and which has ever been commemorated by that race. From this the speaker pointed out the lesson to the Christian Church, that it should keep in remembrance such days as were momentous in its history. In individual life the days unregeneration, days of conversion, days of bereavement and of providential interpretation should always be remembered. As gravitation was to matter so memory was to mind; even imagination found the substance of the dreams in the memory it held, and every association unlocked its doors. "I am glad to be in this old building again," said the speaker, "where memory is dear. I can talk of the old members of twenty years ago. It seems but a short time, and the coming years shall soon pass by, when we shall be no more; but I trust we shall be in a better land. Let us make the present better than the past."

Original Remarks.

The missionary anniversary services of Wellington Street Methodist Church, drew large congregations to that place on Sunday. Rev. Dr. Burns, principal of the Wesleyan Ladies College, Hamilton, occupied the pulpit at both services, and preached two sermons, in which the work of the Methodist Church was clearly shown. In the morning the doctor based his remarks on Romans, x., 14: "How, then, shall they call on him in whom they have not believed, and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard, and how shall they hear without a preacher?" The reverend gentleman, after pointing out the growth of Christianity during the past 1,800 years, when there still remained two-thirds of the human race who had not heard of the Gospel severely criticised the action of the churches for spending such a large portion of the money collected on church-building and church-decorations. There seemed to be too much pride taken by church members in the growth of home missions. The church in America gloried in building at the rate of four churches a day, while it gave but two-thirds of a cent per member every 30 days to convert the heathen. In the early years of the Methodist Church the contributions to missions amounted to about 2 cents per member a week. It raised until in 1862 it amounted to 5 cents per member; but at the present it was a fraction less. "Suppose," said the doctor, "that every member of the Methodist Church in the United States, Canada and Europe gave just 1 cent a day for one year, about $17,000,000 would be raised, which amount would be more than the total contributed by all the Christian churches for the same period of time." The distribution of the funds collected for missions in Canada he declared to be unjust, and stated that there were men in Toronto, who were manipulating almost 50 per cent. of these funds for their own use. In conclusion, the preacher urged the Methodist Church to waken up, not that they were behind other churches, but because they could do more if they wished. They did not need more preachers, but they needed more of the spirit of Christ. The evangelization of the world depended upon them, and without the effort on their part the world would remain as it was. The discourse proved highly instructive and was doubtless appreciated by the large and attentive audience.

A Winnipeg Divine.

At St. Andrew's Church Sunday morning Rev. Dr. Robertson, of Winnipeg, preached an excellent sermon on mission work in the Northwest, taking for his text Luke, xxiv., 45-48. Dr. Robertson gave an outline of the work being done among the Indians and Chinese, and said that a great deal more might be done if the church only had the necessary funds, and read several urgent letters sent to him asking for missionaries to be sent. The work was being greatly kept back, and he urged the people to do all they possibly could to aid in this work. "Among the Chinese," he said, "a great deal is being done, but there is not enough, as many go back to their native country and tell of the little that is being done to aid them in this respect. Dr. Robertson told of a settler who came to him during one of his visits and said he had been a settler for 25 years and a missionary had not been sent to them. "We have," he said, "about 3,500 scholars in the schools at the mission stations. There are several gentlemen who give the church enough to send out a missionary, and several have been sent out in this way during the past year. During a recent visit to Nova Scotia and New Brunswick I received several such offers. There are 30 districts waiting for a minister to be sent, but until the funds come nothing can be done." Several stations had built their own churches, manses, and supported their own minister. Others had no church, but would have to pay $5 for the rent of a hall for every service.

In the evening, Rev. Dr. Robertson delivered a stirring address to a large congregation in St. James' Presbyterian Church, basing his remarks on Acts, i., 6-8. He believed the West had a great future before it. There were gold, silver and coal mines to be developed, but mission work had to be advanced also. Two-thirds of the religious people of the Northwest were Presbyterians, and the speaker contended that it should be the duty of that church to support the Northwest mission work before the India, China or African fields, and believed that Great Britain, instead of laying by its millions of pounds every year, should assist those foreign mission fields. The old country was quite willing to dump its surplus population on this side, but did not give much towards attending to their spiritual welfare. He closed with an appeal to the Presbyterian churches to assist the mission work in the Northwest, and gave several instances of how sin abounded where people were left to themselves, more particularly in mining and lumbering camps, where drinking, gambling and other sinful pastimes were perpetrated on the Sabbath. The collection taken up at this service was for the benefit of the mission work.
