CANDIDATE THREATENED BY FACTION

Attempt Made To Prevent Alderman Anderson From Running For Mayor.

READY FOR FIGHT

City Treasurer Believes No Action on Question Is Possible.

Because he occupies a butcher stall in the market house, enemies of Ald. John Anderson are opposing his candidature as mayoralty candidate in the present campaign. Seeking the withdrawal of Ald. Anderson from the election campaign, these opponents threaten to take legal steps to disqualify him in the event of his being elected to chief magistrate on Dec. 1.

Ald. Anderson late last night received a special delivery letter from a legal firm, which purported to be the representations of a ratepayer, acting for some others, suggesting that means would be found to disqualify the candidate if he opposed George A. Wenige in the coming election

Opponents of Ald. Anderson declare that he is a lessee of the city of London and according to the of London and according to the ruling, which they have an idea they can get, the municipal act states that such a person cannot hold office. They declare that they have seen John Anderson's signature to certain contracts at the market clerk's office and that they can find more tain contracts at the market clerk's office and that they can find more proofs in the event of Ald. Anderson persisting to run for office.

Up to press time today Ald. Anderson and Mayor Wenige were the only two mayoralty candidates, of six nominated yesterday, to qualify for office. It is not though likely that there will be further qualifications. It would therefore appear that if Ald. there will be further qualifications. It would therefore appear that if Ald. Anderson were to become alarmed at the litigation which is threatened in the event of his being elected, his dropping from the contest would provide an acclamation for the pres-

Fairbanks Well Placed.

It is a page of the nursery days turned back, and a day of golden youth reflected in the older eyes of men and women. Just as in the fairy books the hero after supreme ordeals always won the lovely princess and "lived happily ever after." so does this picture tell the story. There is no melodrama here, no agravating sex problem, no tiresome domestic problem of the new school of (so-called) motion picture directors and scenario writers. It is no straining tenseness to watch the unfolding the second of the and scenario writers. It is no straining tenseness to watch the unfolding of this adventurer of the idealized thief of the old Persian city amidst the sand hills. that youth was an illusion. It doesn't matter in any case. Even if happiness proves to be illusion that is all the more reason why it should is all the more reason why it should be desired and striven for. Of all the actors now making pictures there is no other who could have played the part of this picturesque thief of old Persia as adequately and perfectly as Douglas Fairbanks. He has a wonderful and beautiful body, which he uses as always to do athletic stunts. This is as it should be. But he has the divine and poetical gift of imagination and fancy, and it is this which lends him the power to attract and charm as he does in this performance.

JOHN A. ANDERSON

OFFERS HIMSELF AS

FOR 1925

JOHN A. ANDERSON

N ANSWER to popular demand, Ald. John A. Anderson of Ward One has consented to let his name go before the people as candidate for Mayor in 1925. He has announced his platform and pledged himself to a fair and sportsmanlike campaign. His many supporters believe it to be in the interests of London that after a second term without opposition the office of chief magistrate should not go uncontested regardless of issues past or impending. Ald. Anderson has proven himself to be a worker in the interests of good government, and a fit person to take the helm for another year of municipal activity.

What Anderson Stands For

1. Active co-operation of all municipal departments. It is not the duty of a mayor to be a one-man administration. He should be part of the council and NOT A DICTATOR.

2. An effort to make AN ACTUAL REDUCTION in city taxes. The city's budget will not be "padded" to provide funds for expenditures struck out at the time the tax rate is decided.

3. A determined effort to secure provincial and federal assistance to provide relief work for unemployed.

4. Public ownership of municipal utilities. Assistance for the public utilities commission and the London railway commission. railway commission.

5. A four-square stand on the trans-5. A four-square stand on the transportation issue. The London Street Railway Company entered into an agreement with the city and must abide by its provisions. When the time comes for purchase or extension of franchise, the ratepayers will have ALL THE FACTS available placed before them for open discussion.

6. Efficient municipal government. A two-year term for the council, one-half to be elected each year, preferably two for each ward.

7. Aid for Western University, an institution of vital importance to London.

8. Honest economic service in all city government branches, respect and consideration for every ratepayer's petition.

9. Making all city officials strictly accountable, but giving them reasonable freedom of initiative and control. They are servants of the public and entitled to fair treatment.

10. The exercising of COMMON-10. The exercising of COMMON-SENSE PRINCIPLES in city business by centralizing authority to secure co-ordination and greater co-operation be-tween departments.

NDERSON has no political ambitions. His object in seeking the mayoralty is to press for dignified and businesslike administration of the city's affairs, the harmonious and judicious conduct of London's business at home and abroad. His conception of the mayor's job does not view it as a dictatorship. He will not seek to be a one-man administration, but just to be a good guide for the 1925 council. He has no idea that the wheels won't run without him, but has the energy and the experience to co-ordinate the branches of civic government into a much-needed unit.

Anderson believes there is only one way to make 1925 taxes lower than those of 1924, and that is to curtail un= profitable expenditures. This might have been done in 1924, but it was not. Under his administration there will be no false surpluses. Economy is best registered in the taxpayer's pocket and not on the city's books.

Anderson stands four-square on the most important municipal issue—the transportation problem. He is in favor of reforms necessary to make the city government more efficient. He stands for law enforcement and a square deal for all the citizens. Read the outline of his platform and follow his clean campaign.

ANDERSON FOR MAY

A meeting of Alderman Anderson's supporters will be held tonight (Tuesday) at 8 o'clock at his Committee Rooms, Dominion Savings Building, corner Richmond and King Streets. All willing to assist in his election are invited to attend.

L. PATON COMES TO CANADIAN CLUB

Other Interesting Speakers Include Dr. Caroline Brown on Monday Next.

Two distinguished speakers will address members of the Women's Canadian club next week in the persons of Dr. Caroline Brown, Toronto educationist, and John Lewis Paton; retiring high master of Manchester grammar school.

The first speaker is promised for Monday afternoon. Dr. Brown is a member of the Toronto school board and was sent as a delegate from that body to a triennial empirical educational conference held in London, England, last July. Her address will be an account of that confer-fore a combined meeting called by the Western Ontario university extension department, the men's and women's Canadian clubs and the women teachers' guild. His lecture, which will be on 'The School and International Relations," will be given in the Central collegiate auditorium on Tuesday night, Nov. 25.

Mr. Paton, who is retiring high master of the Manchester grammar school, has come to Canada on the invitation of the national council of education, and is spending a year in this country on work of a general educational nature. His career in the educational world of England has been unique, and among many great school masters his work has been outstanding.

On Dec. 3 the club will entert. the members of the writing profession of London at a reception, whe the chief guest will be Madge Mac beth of Ottawa, who will speak of "Untravelled Waterways and By ways of Canada." Another interesting speaker comes on Dec. 10, when Captain State of England will address a joint meeting

GOES ABROAD FOR WINTER.

Canadian society will miss Mrs. Basil Wedd from events of the late fall and winter season, for Major and Mrs. Wedd have left for the old country. It will be remembered that while His Royal Highness was in town the Prince of Wales danced several times with Mrs. Wedd at both the York club and "Strathrobyn." At the York club Mrs. Wedd was the first person to catch the eye of the royal visitor, who, although he had not seen her for five years, recognized her instantly and walked across the ballroom floor to greet her personally.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box THE SEA HAWK

The Self-Made Man Whose Wife and Children Now Look Down Upon Him-Shall He Allow His Wife to Thwart His Career? Is a Man or a Woman More Appreciative?

Dear Dorothy Dix-I am a plain, self-made man, with very little education, but by working overtime and possessing the trading instinct, I have table of massive oak, and the officers that," was the flippant answer. accumulated quite a nice fortune. I have reared a family of six children, the blaze of sunshine on the poop
"Let me beg your sir, in your was in charge given them good educations, started them in life and built for each a nice, given them good educations, started them in life and built for each a nice, modern home.

My children are all married, and they, as well as their husbands and wives, hold themselves far superior to me and ignore me in every way possible, except at such times as they desire assistance. My wife also treats me with contempt and spends all of her time while I am away at work visiting them, and on Sundays and holidays she goes off with them on long motor trips.

There is nothing in common between them and myself. The people in the vicinity in which I live now are not interested in any thing that I am interested in and my whole environment is very distasteful to me. Now, what am I to do? I want to go back to my old home, even if I have to live alone. I would then be among my old friends and my own kind of people, alone. I would then be among my old friends and my own kind of people, and I fee! that I would be far happier. Please advise me.

DISCOURAGED FATHER.

I think you will be very wise to go back to your own people and spend the balance of your life with those whom you find congenial, and who will respect and admire you instead of snubbing you as your ungrateful family does. You have done your full duty toward your wife and children, and if they repay your kindness with neglect and insults you are certainly under no obligation to endure

There is no more tragic figure than that of the father who raises his children above himself: who gives them the education that he had no opportunity to acquire; who lavishes advantages on them that he never had, and who knows that they look down upon him and are ashamed of him.

Nor are there any other such contemptible snobs as these children who mock the hand that feeds them; who deride their father for a moneygrubber, yet who wring the last cent out of him that they can get; who live in ease and luxury on the money he has won with toil and sweat, and who do not even ask him to share the cakes and ale he is paying for nor ride in the imported cars that he has bought.

They are too dull and blind to vision their father as he really is. They have not eyes to see the genius, the strength, the intelligence, that a man must have to start with nothing but his bare hands, not even an education, and win his way to success. They have not soul enough to realize the weariness, the self-denial it takes for such a man to make a fortune. They have not heart enough to think how often he has toiled beyond his strength to make things easy for them, or how many things that he wanted himself he has done without to give to them.

And the most pitiful part of it all is that nine-tenths of the self-made men in America have that kind of brood of vipers for

It is too late to make your children over now, Discouraged Father, but save your own happiness by going away where their ingratitude cannot sting you and where you can live the kind of life you want to live. That much you owe yourself.

Dear Miss Dix-I am offered a fine business proposition in my own old-home town, but my wife refuses to go because my mother lives there and she dislikes my mother. I tell my wife that she will not have to live with my mother and need not have anything to do with her, and that I feel that I cannot afford to let this opyortunity slip, but she will not listen to reason and declares she will never go. What do you think I should do? I want to be fair to my wife, and yet I do not want to throw away the chance of my life.

The courts have decided this matter for you, John. They have ruled that the husband has the right to choose the domicile, and that a wife must go where a husband's interests call him. This is fair and just because the man is responsible for the support of the family, and he should not be hampered in his efforts to succeed by the prejudice of his wife.

Of course, a kind and considerate husband takes his wife's desires into consideration, as you are doing. He does not wantonly ask her to go and live in a place that is distasteful to her. Also a good wife puts her husband's interests and his career above her own wishes, and she goes with him willingly and gladly wherever fortune calls him.

When a man is unlucky enough to have a wife who is not willing to put aside her own inclinations for the sake of his career, but who is so narrow and selfish that she is ready to sacrifice him for her own pleasure, I think that he should be man enough to go along and do what his judgment tells him is the best thing for the family, regardless of her feelings in the matter, for he has his children to consider and their welfare is at stake.

I have known many men who let their wives shut the door of opportunity in their faces. I have known women who made their husbands stay in little towns where they could barely make a living, because they didn't want to go to a city to live where they didn't know people. I have said the prisoner, with mock humilknown city women who nagged their husbands into giving up prosperous businesses in small towns. I have known women who made their husbands turn down good offers to go abroad, or to a different part of the country, because they didn't want to leave their mothers

But I have never known one of these women who was satisfied with the failure she made of her husband. Every one of them wanted the money and luxuries she kept her husband from making. So my advice is to tell friend wife that you are going where fortune beckons, and that she will have to pack her trunk and come along or else lose you. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix-Are men or women the more appreciative? NANNY

Women, I think. Men are more apt to feel that they are the lords of creation, and that no matter how much love and devotion is given them or how many little things are done for their comfort, it is no more than their just due and what is coming to them But neither men nor women are appreciative enough.

It is lack of appreciation that is at the bottom of the domestic misery in the world. It is so easy to do things for those who appreciate them, and so hard to do them for those who never even say "Thank you!

SENIORS BEGIN FINAL DRILLS FOR CLASH WITH STRATFORD

Workout Brings Forth More Action Than Any Previous One.

RARE BATTLE SEEN

The London senior O. H. A. squad shot through the gate last night and on to the ice for the first of three strenuous drills calculated to put them in at least fair trim for turning back the invasion of the Stratford Indians Friday night. The affair is labelled "exhibition." but it's a fair bet that the tag will be partly torn off before the evening is finished. Both teams have too much at stake in the "Big Five" campaign to carry out the exhibition spirit to the strict letter, and hockey games are the most difficult of all to play according to plan and intentions, especially when the latter are mild and inoffensive.

Jerry Lowrey was the only absentee last night. The popular youngster developed a bad cold over the week-end. and he was laid up under doctor's orders. Bill Starkings one of the rolypolys of the squad, who has shown only flashes of the form that made him one of the best defence men in the Oasis province for several seasons past, distending down the ice and finally some terrific crives that had Alex Renaud stepping lively to turn them aside.

It was a lively workout all the way through, with more form than has been shown at any practice to date.

Tickets go on sale for the Friday game at Strong's and at the arena this morning, and inquiries yesterday indicated that there will be a rush of the fans whose curiosity will get free rein for the first time at this clash.

Stratford will workout tonight at the arena and possibly Wednesday.

BRITISH POLO LEADER DECIDES TO RETIRE

England Believes Lord Wimborne Will Re-enter Political Field.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Nov. 17.—Lord Wimborne has decided to retire from polo and sell his ponies, the Daily Express says. It is understood, however, that he will remain on some of the committees of which he is a member.

It has been stated that he is about to re-enter politics, but it is unknown which side will have the call on his energies. He has been attached successively to the Conservatives and Lib-league arrived here over the weekenergies. He has been attached successively to the Conservatives and Lib

Lord Wimborne was manager of the British polo squad, which this year played a series of matches for the historic international challenge cup, which a United States team took away from England in 1921. He unexpectedly returned to England, however, before the first game at Meadowbrook, and his departure gave rise to reports of dissension among the players and supporters of the British team. The players were defeated.

FINAL BOWIE MEETING TO LAST TWELVE DAYS

Associated Press Despatch.

Bowie, Md., Nov. 17.—The final meetling of Maryland's 1924 racing season opened here today to continue for twelve days. The meet will be marked by the distribution of between $150,000 and $160,000 among the supporting horsemen with four big stakes on the program. The $7,500 Prince George handicap at a mile and a furlong for 8-year-olds featured today's card. On November 22, the Bryan Memorial, $10.000 added, will be run; November 27, the U. S. Thanksgiving Day, will see the $10,000 Thanksgiving handicap. The Endurance handicap, also worth $10,000, is scheduled for the last day, November 29.

Thistles Prepare For L.O.B.A. Year

Ten Players Turn Out For Practice at "Y."

Ten members of the Thistles' basket-ball team were out under Coach Jerry of Goodman at the Y. M. C. A. last night and went through a hard hour's practice in preparation for the coming games this winter. Besides the veterans there are many new faces in the ranks, and all appear to have enough basketball knowledge to shove the team a long ways in the LO.B.A. race. For some time this year there was a rumor that there would be only one team to represent London, but in spite of several attempts to make this scheme a reality, the Thistles are intact and are overparing to present a strong front.

Among those present a the practice last night were, Ann Hazelgrove, Rena Curnoe, Francis Talbot, Billie Graves, Bessie Graves, Doris Thorne and Sterling Westland.

QUEEN'S INTERMEDIATES BEAT ST. MIKES IN FINAL

Victory by 22--2 Score Gives Kingston Gridders Championship.

VOSS AND ADA SHINE

Toronto, Nov. 17.—Queens added another championship for their college halls, when their intermediates won the intercollegiate rugby championship by defeating St. Michaels, 22 to 2 and 41 to 10 on the round here this afternoon. Voss and Ada, Queens' star backfielders, were responsible for all the tri-color points. The general play of Carl Voss, former star of Riverdale C. I., was the bright feature of the game. If not kicking, Voss would run ap and make sensational tackles. His broken field running was an added feature. Queens have a future great one in Voss. Ada and McKelvey led the rest of the Queens aggregaten.

St. Michaels were badly outclassed throughout the entire contest. Lebel and O'Brien did most of the ball carrying. Lowrey's kicking had not its usual effect. Trotter was the best lineman for the losers.

Canadian Bantam Champion Decisively Outpoints Motor City Miller.

Detroit, Nov. 17.—Joe Lucas could not whip Howard Mayberry, Canadian bantam champion, if the code of boxing discriminated to the point of permitting him to adjust his gloves to his feet and applying them alternately with his hands.

Ands.

Of this everybody in the crowd that packed the Elks auditorium to eyelash capacity was satisfield, when Mayberry finished shellacing the Detroit boy for 10 rounds tonight. Due to the fact that he is tough and soaked up a lot of punishing on his frontpiece between his brow and chin Lucas stayed on his feet through the entire bombardment.

For the first seven rounds Lucas didn't lay a glove on Mayberry, except when he went into a clinch. Howard shot his punches from so many angles, and with so much accuracy that poor Joe must have been under the impression that he was surrounded by the Bolshevik army. Beginning with the eighth Joe got a little courage from some quarter and had better success. Thereafter it was more of a contest, though Lucas still was on the receiving end of a sharp attack which terminated near the close of the tenth round, when Mayberry nearly upset him with the cleanest and hardest punch of the night. It settled in the vicinity of, Joe's chin and sent him, reeling across the ring, where Mayberry went in hot pursuit just as the concluding gong sounded. Of this everybody in the crowd that Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Nov. 47.—A capacity house and 34 rounds of boxing, or imitiations of the manly art of self-defence, ushered in the local winter fistic season at the Standard theatre tonight, and, with the exception of the main event, the bouts were thoroughly satisfactory. The "eight-rounds-or-less" main bout, with Fred Snell of Birkenhead and Johnny Kleisch of Cleveland as the principals, was the weak number on the program. At times a little incidental music might have helped. The affair went eight round, with Kleisch getting the decision without a dissenting vote. Die-Hards— Leedham Le Suer Dalton have helped. The affair went eight round, with Kleisch getting the decision without a dissenting vote.

The bout was alleged to have been arranged to find out which of the pair would be sent against Jack Reddick as soon as he is reinstated, but it did more than that: it demonstrated that neither of them was a fit opponent for the Moose Jaw blonde. Kleisch was, much the better of the two, and after a slow beginning, he went out in front in the third, and steadily piled up a good lead. Snell to put it briefly, was a disappointment.

The majority of the fans did not like the judges' decision in favor of Alex Burlie of this city over Willie Davis of G. Pittsburg. The pair put up a pretty battle. Davis did most of the leading but was frequently beaten to the punch by Burlie. The Pittsburg man finished strong, and to many looked to have earned a draw at least.

Rube Waddell Threw It-Ty Cobb Hit It-It Won a Pennant.

CHAPTER XVII. -

By H. G. SALSINGER. Baseball historians, setting down how a pennant was won, often point to one series that was the break in a to one series that was the break in a season's race. One can go deeper in this analysis. One can point to a certain game as the deciding one of that particular series and that game probably had one play that was the preak of the game, and that one play came on a certain pitched ball.

Ask any major league pitcher and he will tell you that one ball pitched wrong can decide a ball game; it not alone can, but often does.

The fact that St. Marys had asked for particulars of entry fees from the O. A. B. A. may solve a few of the grouping difficulties if the stone town decides to enter, especially in the inter-

Philadelphia, was later told by Waddelelphia, was later told by Waddelelphianself. We have a vivid recollection of his recital and the story follows:

"Up comes this Cobb, and I feeds him a fast one on the inside where he wasn't supposed to particularly like to see "em pitched. I always figured that if this fellow had any weakness it was on a ball pitched ball robbed the Athletics of a victory, and that one pitched ball mabled Detroit to win the pennant in 1907.

After having batted against all kinds of pitching over a stretch of weakness it was on a ball pitched ball. "Well, I shoved the first one in over the inside corner of the plate and he never looks at it. The umpire calls it a strike, but he pays no attention to it. I immediately figures this bird is looking for a certain ball, thinking Ted give him just what he wanted on the next one or the one after that. He figures Tr going to be working on him. So I see my chance to cross him up. I says to myself. "Il feed this cuckoo one in the same spot an' get him in a hole, then let him guess on what's comin."

In the Same Place.

"One mes this Cobb, and I feeds to Cobb. Then he knew that one pitched ball robbed the Athletics of the was wrong until he talked to Cobb. With a page like that the gent should make a first-class without venturing to expose their hearts on their sleeves or on their glassware, did then, and still do, regularly invite the toiling walker to "have a ride." But there were, and are, certain discouragements. For are, certain discouragements. For example, during the last street car strike a motoring man invited a lady whom he did not know to ride. She strike a motoring man invited a lady whom he did not know to ride. She replied with I suppose "withering scorn," "I'm not that kind of a girl." Anyway, the motorist duly withered and has since that kept his invitations strictly to the less weary but ess cautious sex.

Now comes another terror for the car owner who would share up a bit with a brother or sister of the sidewalk. It is found in 26 O. W. N. (which C. W. N. means Ontario Weekly Notes of reported law cases) at page 338. The case is Welsh vs. St. Lawrence Oil company and Mc-Arthur. The company owned a truck, and their servant McArthur was driving it. He pleked up his friend Welsh for a free ride; but the conversation grew so interesting that versation grew so interesting that McArthur forgot that he was driv-ing and ran the truck into a teleing and ran the truck into a tele-phone pole or something, quite negligently on the face of it. Friend Welsh was hurt and he sued the owners of the truck and friend Mc-Arthur for damages. It was tried before Mr. Justice Lennox at Toronto, and judgment was given on May 21, 1924, against both defendants for $1.350

This was not new law, but a fresh reminder of what had been decided in earlier cases. For example: Parlov vs. Lozina and Roalovich (47 O. L. R. 376), tried at Sault Ste. Marie in 1920. Lozina and Roalovich (47 O. L. R. 376), tried at Sault Ste. Marie in 1920. Lozina and Roalovich together owned a car. While Roalotook the car out, collected some of his friends and took them for a joy ride. They had a time, for a time, till the car met a street car and went at it. One passenger was killed and another, Parlov, was badly hurt. As soon as he was able to talk he sued Lozina and Roalovich for Lozina's carefree mode of driving and won $1,500. and won $1,500.

All this raises a further alarming question. What if the injured free passenger were the driver's wife. Here is a free passenger, whom, of course, he cannot refuse or neglect to take. When fairly going he looks around to make a withy remark or to

CHURCH PRESENTS SPLENDID CONCERT

St. Andrew's Choir Gives Fine Program as First of Season.

St. Andrew's church choir kept faith with its audience last night and presented a program which was of the finest type. Mrs. Charles Ivey of this city and Miss Agnes Adie of Toronto rendered violin and vocal numbers which lent pleasing variety to the program, the background of which was made up of splendid choral numbers. Charles E. Wheeler, choirmaster, led the different sections of the chorus through the difficult passages of the evening with ease and finish.

Although applause was barred by a head-note on the program sheet, the listeners broke the rule following the first violin number by Mrs. Charles lvey, who was undoubtedly the favorite artist of the evening. Mrs. lvey was first heard in Handel's "Sonata," Op. 94, which she played with williams, and feeling after the result of the resu with brilliancy and feeling Ivey's work on the violin has achieved an important place in London, although she plays only too infrequently.

Mrs. Ivey was heard again in a delightful group including "A Swing Song" by Ethel Barnes, "On Wings of Song" by Mendelssohn and "Caprice Viennois" by Kreisler. Temperament and artistry work for the control of the cont perament and artistry were found in her playing here, the Kreisler number coming as a brilliant conclusion to her share on the evening's program. Mrs. Harris Elliott at the piano was t most adequate accompanist.

The World Creates No Finer Skates

PEOPLE who skate for the first time on C.C.M. Automobile Skates are delighted with their easy, free-running qualities.

The reason for this is largely due to the Special Chrome Nickel Steel used. This steel takes a hard, keen, smooth-running edge, which enables you to get full power out of every stroke. A little effort gives much speed!

The blades of C.C.M. Skates have a peculiar springy toughness and flint-hard edge, thanks to an ingenious C.C.M. method of heat treatment, which eliminates brittleness and makes C.C.M. skates practically unbreakable. They will stand very severe usage without bending or snapping.

There are C.C.M. Skates for hockey, for racing, for figure skating, for pleasure skating. Skates for men, women, boys and girls, from 90c to $15 per pair. Each one a good skate for the price asked. Ask your dealer to show you the C.C.M. line

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL.

A. E. Barbour Addresses Gathering on Improvements During Past Year.

A E Barbour, for the past three years president of the London and Middlesex county children's aid society, addressed that organization at its annual meeting this afternoon at the children's shelter at considerable length.

Among other things Mr. Barbour said:

said:
"The society has grown from infancy to sturdy manhood strong and active in the prosecution of the work which has been assigned to it and

"We are indebted as a society to the liberality of the citizens of Lon-don and the county of Middlesex, which enables us to carry on such a necessary and wonderful work. The city council increased its grant to us this year by $1,000, having in view the additional work that we would be called upon to perform. I would, say, however, that the city council should be asked for a further grant to assist in the greater prosecution of our work.

Infants Ward.

Infants Ward.

"We have installed today the infants ward, which has been fully equipped, free of all cost to this society and to the public, by six South London ladies—Mrs. Isaac Marlatt, Mrs. A. F. Nash, Mrs. B. F. Brighton, Miss K. Moore, Miss Kompass and Miss E. S. Emery—who are known as "The Happy Six."

"I must say that Mr. Kelly and Miss Tufts have been very energetic and active in the face of many difficulties. Miss Tufts has performed her work in a truly creditable manner and is deserving of the appreciation of this society.

"To Miss Jackson, the matron of ciation of this society.

"To Miss Jackson, the matron of the shelter, and her staff a great deal of credit must be given, for the year has been one of unusual difficulties. They have had a great deal to contend with, severe illness, epidemic and cases which we cannot mention here that are brought to the shelter with children whom we are obliged to take! All of this has required exceedingly careful handling and great faith, but I am pleased to say that we have pulled through in a manner that is very creditable indeed to those in charge.

indeed to those in charge.

New Playhouse.

"We have added to our equipment a splendid playhouse, which will add greatly to the pleasure of the chil-dren and also in many ways save the home of wear and tear. This playhouse has been made possible pretty much through the liberality of pretty much through the liberality of private citizens.

"I also wish to add my appreciation of the sympathy and active support of Crown Attorney A. M. Judd. who has given of his time and of his ability very freely in any case that we have brought before him for consultation and advice.

"I believe it has now come to the time when the city of London and county of Middlesex should provide better office quarters for the children's aid society. The rooms now occupied in the city hall are not in keeping with the work. They are not easily accessible, have no protection for our books or records in case of fire or damage by water. The quarters are not easily reached The quarters are not easily reached by those wno are infirm or crippled, as well as aged. I would suggest to your incoming officers that this matter, in connection with the mayor of the city and warden of the county, and all the new world a century ago.

There is this fall's hat, for instance. It's a piece of felt—a flash of satin. It's nothing much more than a color note with a costume, an outline in the air. But that is its surprising—and becoming-secret.

jewels that are heirlooms.

Fashion is a very particular person. She may present a dress without a bit of trimming, but she insists that all the accessories must be perfect; that the glove must match the stockings; that the handbag be just the correct size and the newest shape. She must see that the shoes, which are simple almost to the point of plainness, should play just the right part in the costume.

Fifth Avenue and fashion have had to leave quaintness and some formality and much elaboration behind them, but charm isn't a lost art even if smartness is a new one. The woman of today may not have learned how to manage a train, but she will never forget how to handle a fan!
