

ARE GERMAN TROOPS GOING OUT OF RETREAT OF HUGE ARMY?

Belief is Growing that a Gigantic Enveloping Movement is in Progress—They Must First Win Big Battle at Verdun.

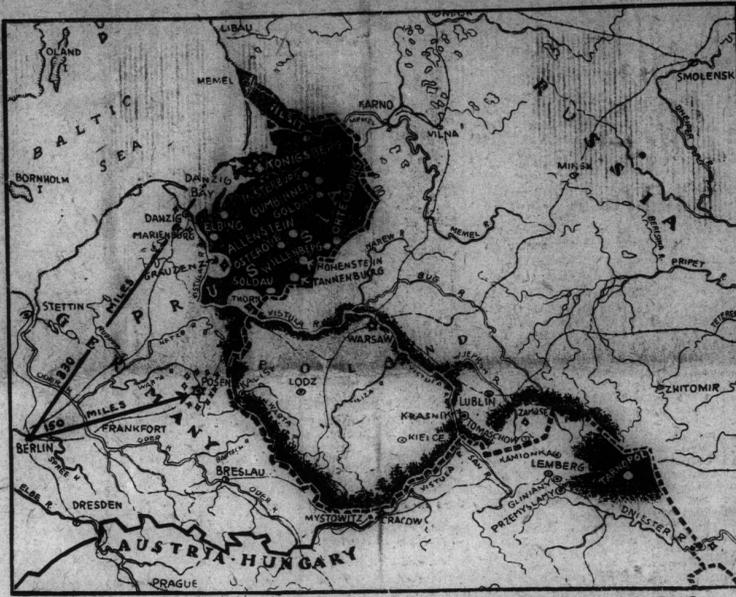

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The belief is growing that the great decisive battle is being fought at Verdun, the strong fortress at France on the Meuse near the French frontier. If the fourth German army marching southward, cuts off the retreat of the French eastern armies, which recently have been holding the Germans in check between Toul, a fortified town 14 miles west of Nancy and Epinal, a strongly fortified place and near the Alsace frontier, it might repeat the coup which in 1870 drove General Charles Denis Sauter Bourbaki and his army of 150,000 men into Switzerland.

back during the last fortnight. These preliminary movements, if showing nothing else, at least prove that the Germans realize that the siege of Paris, even if successful, is quite worthless, from the strategic viewpoint while the allies are free.

Corroboration of the above mentioned theory is contained in a despatch from Berlin which describes a battle in a difficult country between Verdun and Bethel as the deciding conflict, so far as France is concerned. This despatch states that the opposing forces are almost equally divided, but that the French have the advantage of a fight from a defensive position of their own choosing.

Another significant feature is the general agreement that Emperor William is inspecting the field of operation in this neighborhood. Reports disagree as to his exact whereabouts, but all agree that he is in the vicinity of the Franco-Prussian border. A conflict in this region must have decisive results. The capture of the great French fortresses would be a terrible blow to German army would give the French the opportunity to assume the offensive, a course needed on account of its morale effect in the western theatre of the war. GREAT REVIEW WAS HELD OF CANADA'S FINE ARMY

Over 23,000 Paraded Before the Field Marshall Connaught at Valcartier—Officers are Highly Pleased.

VALCARTIER CAMP, Sept. 7.—

When 23,000 officers and men of Canada's infantry, cavalry and artillery marched past the Duke of Connaught yesterday afternoon the greatest military review in the history of the Dominion occurred. The weather was decidedly unfavorable for such a display, rain falling heavily throughout the entire day, and on that account part of the program was eliminated. Prominent people came from all parts of Canada, including Sir Robert Borden, Colonel Hughes, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. J. D. Hazen, Senator Loughheed, Hon. Frank Cochrane, the Japanese consul-general and several members of Parliament.

Notable Train.

A special train arrived early in the morning, and from the standpoint of notable passengers it was one of the most important handled by a Canadian railroad in many years. Over 2,000 visitors inspected the immense mobilization camp and witnessed the review.

For 40 minutes the soldiers paraded before the governor-general, and considering that they have been in training for only a few days and many had never before been connected with the militia, it was a wonderful showing. As they approached the saluting base where the duke, Colonel Hughes, Colonel Williams and a number of officers were stationed on chargers, and the premier and party were seated in a motor car, practically every company marched in perfect alignment, with a brisk stride and with rifles slung at proper angle. The procession was led by the Minister of Militia and Colonel Williams who, on reaching the saluting point, wheeled into a position near the governor-general.

Then the Artillery.

Then followed the artillery, comprising every Canadian battery. The showing of this section of the force exceeded expectations. There was every evidence that much care had been used in the selection of horses. There were rows and rows of them, followed by carriages carrying guns of the latest type. Then came the infantry, led by Lieutenant-Colonel Mercer, commander of the First Brigade. Most of the men wore khaki service uniforms, while a few red coats were also in evidence. The Kilties, comprising one brigade, made a striking appearance, marching to the sturdy music of the bagpipes.

There were three brigades, comprising an army division which had never been assembled before in Canada. They were commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Mercer, Colonel Turner, V.C., D.S.O. About 8,000 or more troops did not march as many had not received their uniforms, while others were doing duty about the camp, and one whole battalion was indisposed owing to the members having been inoculated on Saturday.

Premier Pleased

"I am more than pleased with the sanitary condition of the camp, astonished at the wonderful work that has been done in organization and particularly delighted with the appearance and physique of the men. They did remarkably well, indeed. The governor-general was quite satisfied with everything he had seen."

"Every man who saw this review should be proud of the achievement," said Colonel Hughes. "Every man should feel proud that he is a Canadian."

The Japanese consul-general, Mr. C. Yadda, who was accompanied by Kabayma, a Japanese commander, was particularly impressed in particular with the work of the artillery. He had no idea that Canada had so many guns, and he was almost envious of the calibre of the horses. His Government for years had been endeavoring to obtain horses that as good as those which he saw today. Besides this, the most important fact to his mind was the spirit of every man."

Colonel Williams Proud.

But no man was so gratified as the camp commander, Colonel Victor Williams. "That with so little training these thousands of troops should do so well, speaks highly of the efficiency of the officers in command of the battalions," he said. "They know their business."

RUSSIAN STRATEGY WAS DARING KIND WHICH WON LEMBERG

Two Huge Armies Crushed the Austrians and Effected a Junction at Right Angles—Budapest is Not Far Away.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Petrograd correspondent of The Post in an article dealing with the capture of Lemberg and Halics says: "The establishment of Russian authority in this region is being enormously facilitated by the fact that the native Slav population after long experience with the annals of Germanism in time of peace, welcomed the advent of the Russians even under the stern conditions of war.

The Lemberg victory is a signal triumph for the daring strategy of the Russian commander-in-chief, and entirely reconciles the public to the severe censorship which enabled him to carry out protracted operations over a vast territory without the enemy getting a single hint to give them alarm.

Until the two Russian armies operating in a direction that met almost at a right angle, succeeded in effecting a junction in the enemy's country, they were offering, during the whole fortnight, a magnificent opportunity to a vigorous enemy to get in between them and deal with them separately, and by extreme secrecy, could have justified this task.

"That the Russian forces during the preparation of the real attack were merely playing with the Austrian advance into undemanded Poland, may be safely assumed from the fact that when the Austrian main force did finally attempt a forward movement they only covered four miles from Savikhoft to Ogpele. At that, Russian forces marched and fought over more than seven times this distance. As I understand the situation, the Austrian main armies are well held by adequate Russian forces in the front. The Austrian centre is broken and her right wing is demolished.

The Russians have occupied pass Belgrade, the easiest and most direct route to Budapest. Budapest is about twice as far from the present Russian position as has been covered by them since they left Podolia for the invasion of Galicia.

"On the east Prussian front, nothing important has happened during the last few days and it seems evident, therefore, that Germany has hurried troops to the eastern frontier from the west, not on account of the Russian advance in East Prussia, but in order to help the Austrians. "The spirit of the Russian troops is excellent and events on this frontier are moving with great rapidity."

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Sept. 4 (delayed in transmission)—Few people know that the royal flying corps have made aeronautical, as well as military history by sending at short notice aeroplanes across the channel by the air route, without mis-

TERMONDE TAKEN BY GERMANS

6,000 Belgians Put Up Gallant Defense For Several Hours.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Sept. 7, 3.20 a.m.—The correspondent of the Express wiring from near Termonde, 16 miles from Ghent, under date of Saturday, says:

"Termonde has fallen after hours of fighting. The little force of 6,000 Belgians, made a gallant defense, but the enemy was 20,000 strong, and the Belgians were unable to reply effectively to deadly fire of the German siege guns. The Germans began the attack between three and four o'clock Saturday morning and the rain of shells over the town was incessant until nine. It was a hopeless task attempting to hold earthworks against such odds and one by one the slender defenses were abandoned.

"The defenders were able to leave in good order, without serious losses and went by way of (Continued on page four.)

GERMANS LOST AT LEAST 5,000 MEN

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Telegraphing from Ostend, a correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company says the German casualties in the fighting around Termonde, 16 miles east of Ghent, on Friday and Saturday are estimated at 5,000 men. A number of German soldiers were drowned when the dykes around Termonde were cut, and several German guns were lost in the flood.

Continuing the correspondent says the Germans advanced in the northerly direction from Brussels, between Ghent on the Antwerp. To-day all telegraph and railroad communication between these towns is interrupted.

Several hotels in Ostend are closed for fear of the arrival of the German invaders.

An engagement occurred Sunday at Cordegen, south of Ghent. Belgian cyclists and Gendarmes had a sharp conflict with the enemy which resulted in the Belgians retiring before a superior force. A Belgian major was killed.

SEVERE REPULSE

Was Inflicted by the Belgians on the Germans Near Antwerp.

LONDON, Sept. 7, 9.30 a.m.—A despatch to The Exchange Telegraph Company from Antwerp, dated Sunday gives a Belgian Official communication which says:

"The repulse of the German attack against Antwerp at Cape Pellet-au-Vois yesterday was successful Sunday, the Germans leaving thousands of bodies on the field retreating in disorder on Villvorde, six miles northeast of Brussels. They are demoralized by the complete check of the attempt

SPLENDID WORK

BORDEAUX, via Paris, Sept. 7.—An official announcement says that in a recent combat two soldiers of the 137th infantry, Broussard and Turcot, captured the flag of the 28th regiment of German infantry, whose colonel was also made prisoner. As a recompense, President Poincaré has signed a decree conferring the Cross of the Legion of Honor on the flag of the 137th regiment.

SERBIA'S CLAIMS

GENEVA, via Paris, Sept. 7.—2.54 a.m.—Austria having denied the announced Serbian successes, Nikola Pachitch, the foreign minister, telegraphed the Serbian consul at Geneva Sunday inviting two members of the British press to come to Serbia at Serbia's expense to verify the victories.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT CONCERNING PROGRESS OF THE WAR TO DATE

British Troops Much Superior to Germans is Report of General—Great Numbers of Enemy Commented Upon—New Troops for Front.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The operations of the British army in France last week are reviewed in a statement issued by the official press bureau to-day. The statement says:

"It is now possible to make another general survey in continuation of that issued on August 30 of the operations of the British army during the past week.

"No new main trial of strength has taken place. There, indeed, have been battles in various places of the immense front, which in other wars would have been considered operations of the first magnitude. But in this war they are merely incidents of strategic withdrawal and contraction of the allied forces caused by the initial shock on the frontier and in Belgium caused by the enormous strength which the Germans have thrown into the war theatre while suffering heavily through weakness in the eastern.

"The fighting having been in open order upon a wide front, with repeated retirement has led to a large number of officers and men in even small parties, losing their way and getting separated. It is known that a very considerable number of those now included in the total will rejoin the colors safely.

"These losses, if heavy in so small a force, have in nowise affected the spirit of the troops. They don't amount to one third of the losses inflicted by the British force upon the enemy, and the sacrifice required of the army has not been out of proportion to its military achievements.

"There is no doubt whatever that our men have established a personal ascendancy over the Germans and that they are conscious of the fact that with anything like even numbers the result would not be doubtful. The shooting of the German infantry is poor, while the British rifle fire has devastated every column of attack that has presented itself.

"Their superior training and intelligence have enabled the British soldiers to use the open formation with success, and thus cope with the vast numbers employed by the enemy. The cavalry who have had even more opportunities for displaying personal prowess and address, have definitely established their superiority. Field Marshal Sir John French's report dwells on the marked superiority of the British troops of every arm of the service. (Continued on Page 6.)

LATEST MOVE MUCH OF A MYSTERY FOR THE ALLIED FORCES

German Plan of Campaign is Hard to Understand—It is Thought That Two Large Armies are Gathered to Crush the Allies.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The German plan of campaign is for the moment a mystery. The great sweep through Belgium and the plains of France with constant reeling on the west to turn the flank of the allies, was understandable and foreseen even though the allies refused to believe the Germans could move so far and fast.

Yesterday's bulletins stating that the main German army of invasion from the north was turning away from Paris and driving toward the south and east appeared to be confirmed and a theory that finds support is that the German purpose is now to strike through the centre of the French army, leaving Paris partially invested from the north and crush the main French force by co-operation with another German army advancing from Lorraine.

The news that the Germans are attacking the fortress of Nancy and that Emperor William with his staff are attending operations tends to fortify this theory.

The British War Office made public yesterday a more complete account of the operations of the British army than it had given heretofore. While this bulletin was far from satisfactory in great eagerness of the people for a detailed description of the parts different regiments played in the heavy and continuous fighting it sent a thrill of pride through the kingdom.

"Our men have established a personal ascendancy over the Germans and are conscious of the fact that with anything like even numbers the result would not be doubtful," says Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the expeditionary forces. The field marshal shall ascribe this success to the superior training and intelligence which has enabled the British to use the open formation. He expresses a poor opinion of the German infantry's shooting as compared with that of the British and claims that the British cavalry do as they like with the enemy, until they are confronted by a thrice number. He says also that the British artillery has always been opposed by three or four times its strength. The war office describes the allies' operations as a strategic withdrawal and contraction of the forces. It concludes with an appeal for more men.

Road to Berlin Will be Opened

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The correspondent of The Times at Petrograd, under date of Sunday, referring to a battle just begun, which, if as successful as the Russian operations against Lemberg, will overthrow the Austrian forces and practically open the road to Berlin, says:

"Reliable information as to the progress of the battle enables us to state that the outlook is no whit less promising, but that several days may elapse before the final overthrow of the Austrian army. The enemy disposes at least thirty divisions besides several German corps and will fight with the courage of despair.

"On the East Prussian front there is news of the appearance of part if not the whole of the third Bavarian army corps. The troops were installed at Allenstein, which is being reconnoitered by Russian cavalry."

RED SOX OUTSCORE SAINTS WHEN REILLY WEAKENS IN THIRTEENTH

Each Team Uses Four Hurlers - Errors Account for Saint Loss.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 7.—The Red Sox made it three out of three here Saturday, when they took a 13 inning battle by a 9 to 7 score. It was a good game in spots and some brilliant plays featured, but for the most part it was a slugging and booting bee for both clubs. Both teams used two pitchers, Nichols and Chase, who both worked on Friday, worked again and Wilkinson and Reilly did the heaving for the Saints. Wilkinson and Reilly were both wild and got themselves into many holes. Nichols, although hit hard, pitched good ball. Chase really won the game, going in with the score tied and allowing but one hit in the remaining four innings. Gillespie, for the Saints, and Dudley and Taylor, for Brantford, starred at bat. The score:

P. S. A. put up a great bluff, however, and were unlucky in not netting a solitary consolation.

Duffs made home with four when up against the Tigers of Homedale who managed to notch a single goal. The game, which was much more hotly contested than the result would suggest. The Duffs had the men with the shooting abilities and so carried the day.

Paris were in good form and whitewashed the plowmen by three tallies to one. Going strongly, the Frenchmen never relaxed their efforts, and frequently bombarded the enemy's citadel and thrice it fell. Cockshutt's retaliation but once and retired a beaten team. They are like the others, sorely weakened by players leaving for the front. Perhaps the hottest and most closely fought game of the day was that of the Scots and Englishmen. The fact that only one goal was scored and that by the Scots denotes the fastness and hardness of the struggle. With British grit, the Sons stuck to their task, but the worrying tactics of the Scots at last broke them down for a temporary spell, and in their moment of weakness the Scots netted. Try as they would the Sons could not pierce a solid defence and the game ended in favor of the Scotchmen.

EMPEROR AT METZ LONDON, Sept. 7.—9.10 a. m.—A despatch from Paris says that the Emperor's Basel correspondent telegraphs his paper that the German Emperor and the imperial headquarters staff are reported to be at Metz.

TO-DAY THE DAY

Whether Red Sox Will Finish in the Cellar or Not All Depends.

Our victory over the enemy on Saturday at St. Thomas, while the allies were defeating the forces of Hamilton, on our left flank made a big change in the Canadian League war which will be brought to a close to-day. The allies at Hamilton inflicted terrible injury, the encounter lasting several hours and consisting of two engagements, both of which were won by Peterboro. On the other hand Generals Chase and Nickel fought a strenuous affair at St. Thomas, winning in thirteen entrenchments by 9 to 7. The result of the day's strategy put Hamilton in the cellar, if the valiant Red Sox can win one of the two engagements to-day, the Hamilton contingent will hibernate in the basement. If our red-hosed brigade loses both battles they will have the job all winter taking the ashes out of the furnace.

Accordingly this is some day in the baseball world. London lost one game on Saturday, and the result is the Senators win in a walk for the third time in succession. There is still however, a possibility of the Kockneys winning the bunting, but it is a remote one. London must win both games and Ottawa must lose both. If Ottawa wins their two games the Senators will have several points margin. If they only take one game however, and London wins two, the Senators will squeeze through for the pennant by a mere fraction of a point. Had the race been hand made it could not have been better than this. To-day tells the tale.

Thirty-five hundred plunks are reported to have gone smash this year in an effort to provide Brantford with a Canadian League pennant winner.

Ottawa and London are the only two clubs to have gotten better than an even break financially this year. Shaughnessy wants only six teams in the Canadian next year. As the whole league works for Shaq, no doubt he will get his way.

Increasing the salary limit of the Canadian league, proved costly. It didn't mean one more cent in at the turnstile. Either Berlin or Guelph attracted as many people as did Toronto this year. The Toronto franchise has cost McCaffery over $5000 this year. The rumor is denied that Bill Roth is to be drafted.

Paris Team Wins PARIS, Sept. 7.—In a well played game of baseball on Saturday afternoon Paris defeated the strong Preston team by 9 runs to 6. The batteries were: Preston, Pfeiffer and Bowman; Paris, Loomis and Gibbs. The Paris football team defeated the Cockshutt United team, Brantford on Saturday evening by 3 goals to 1 in a Brantford-Paris league fixture. The score at half time being 1 to 0 in favor of Paris.

Obituary

The Courier recently received news of a serious accident which befell Aleck Duncan, a former well-known Brantford man who had the misfortune to have one leg severed by a train near St. Louis. On Sunday the family received the intelligence that the accident had proved fatal, and it is expected that the remains will be brought to this city for interment. The deceased was the son of a Brantford hotelkeeper, the late James Duncan, who prior to his death, ran the City Hotel on Market St., where the Royal Loan Bank now stands. In his younger days, he was engaged in sport, and was a member of the old team of Clippers. He leaves to mourn his loss a bereaved mother and family of brothers and sisters.

THE REAL REASON.

The Chicago Tribune, one of the great papers of the United States, has the following editorial:

"A wonderful wave of enthusiasm and loyalty is passing over India. It has been the Marquis of Creve, secretary of State for India, in Parliament, Friday.

"Native Indian troops will be employed in the war in Europe," is, in substance, the declaration made by Earl Kitchener, war minister.

Indian troops anxious to fight in the war for Great Britain. Irishmen, Ulsterites and Nationalists, ready to help the Empire! Australia prohibiting the export of food anywhere except to the Mother Country!

Canada preparing to send a strong contingent! The same story in England, Scotland, Ireland, and all the Dominions and colonies!

What a queer, queer thing the British Empire is when you come to think of it!

In ordinary times you would naturally judge from the way Ireland and the Dominions and colonies talk about Great Britain that the poor old country didn't have a friend on earth.

In ordinary times some part of the British Empire is always berating the Home Government.

In times of peace everybody feels at liberty to assume a possible revolution in India; separation of the Dominions, and all sorts of other disastrous things.

In times of peace the Empire is always more or less "doomed," according to the statements of many gloom-laden British subjects.

But in time of war how suddenly things look up in that queer, queer British Empire!

"I haven't a thing to take back," says Ireland, "but under the circumstances kindly show the enemy as soon as possible. I want to get at him."

"Yours of recent date received," says Canada, "Am sending men as fast as they can be gotten ready and transportation secured."

"Reserving for a more auspicious time any hatred a part of our population justifiably bears to England, we, your South Africa, we are prepared to do our utmost in the present war."

"Serious local dissatisfaction will arise, sahib, unless Indians are permitted to give their lives for the honorable Empire, now that it is at war with a foreign nation," says India.

It's everywhere the same story. In each it's "Confound your stupid flat-headed, doomed, arrogant soul!" In time of need it's "Count on us to the hilt!"

"Which is why we say that the British Empire is a queer, queer institution!"

In reality there is nothing queer about it. The undoubted truth of the matter is that the words "British Empire" stand for the greatest republic the world has ever seen.

The great Roman Empire came to an end because in her latter days the licentious sensuality of her leading men and also for the reason that autocrats in various districts taxed the people to death and so on.

The British Empire on the other hand has waxed mighty and still mightier because of the absolute and continued freedom of the people. The institution is monarchical in name and custom, but most emphatically not that in practice. The court is maintained, of course, but the reigning monarch is subject to the advice of his ministers of the time being and they in turn have to submit to the approval or otherwise of the electorate.

With the exception of India all the overseas dominions are absolutely at liberty to do what they like in the matter of laws, taxation, policy, etc., and they are not taxed one cent from Downing Street.

It is this splendid and unique situation which leads to such magnificent and spontaneous support in time of threatened danger to the old lion, wherever the grand old Union Jack may float.

THE SITUATION

After several days of fighting, it may be said that the condition of affairs from the standpoint of the allies is satisfactory, although not in any sense conclusive. After several days of outflanking movements on the part of the Kaiser's troops, which were successfully checked, the intention now is apparently to defer a direct attack upon Paris and instead to mass troops for a big battle to the East of the French capital. A source of pride from the Empire standpoint is the testimony upon all hands of the British troops. Infantry, cavalry, and artillery alike have withstood far superior numbers, and the Germans are said to fear all of them, as well they might. The Times correspondent reports that in more than one instance when the Scotch Greys made a charge at the enemy, members of the Black Watch hung on to the stirrup leathers of the horses and thus also got into the thick of it, helping in the fearful havoc. The French soldiers are also living up to the best traditions of their country, and are showing a steadiness in marked advance to that of the Franco-German conflict.

The Russian army continues to work such havoc in Austria that a large force of Germans has had to be sent to their assistance, and more will undoubtedly have to go.

At this writing it seems altogether likely that there may soon be fighting in the North Sea.

The following is a translation of first proclamation of the brave King of Belgium to his troops:—

"Soldiers,—Without the slightest provocation from us, a neighbor, haughty in its strength, has torn up the treaty bearing its signature. It has violated the territory of our fathers. Because we have been worthy of ourselves, because we have refused to forfeit our honor, it has attacked us. But the whole world marvels at our loyal attitude, which its respect and esteem strengthen in these supreme moments.

"Seeing its independence threatened, the nation trembled, and its children sprang to the frontier. Valiant soldiers of a sacred and just cause, I greet you in the name of Belgium. Your fellow citizens are proud of you. And you will triumph! Australia prohibiting the export of food anywhere except to the Mother Country!"

"Caesar said of your ancestors: 'Of all the peoples of Gaul, the Belgians are the most brave.'"

"Glorify to you, Army of the Belgian people! Remember in the face of the enemy that you are fighting for the Fatherland and for your menaced homes. Remember, men of Flanders, the battle of the Golden Spurs! And you, Walloons of Liege, who are at the place of honor at present, remember the six hundred men at Franchimont!"

"Soldiers! I am leaving Brussels to place myself at your head."

"This is rather strange at first, but one soon gets used to paying for one's lunch with one pound note (swank). Postal orders are also legal tender and are accepted without question at all shops. The A. P. Co. have just given ten thousand pounds to the Prince of Wales fund for the relief of distress occasioned by the war. One of the most trying things we have to put up with at present is the absence of news. I expect you have heard that a press censorship has been started, with the result that we are getting no news through as to what the navy is doing or what the army has done. Of course, there are any amount of rumors about, but no reliable news there will be nothing to do at all, at all and at a time like this it is most annoying to pick up a paper in the morning to find that the news in it is the same as the day before.

"Work is practically at a standstill in the office because there is no business being done at all. All our German business has gone up the spout and those of us who are left are gradually reaching the point where there will be nothing to do at all. The firm have practically guaranteed to keep on all the staff at full pay, but of course if the war goes on indefinitely it is almost bound to mean that we shall be shoved on half pay and really one can't expect anything else. I think altogether you are better off where you are, for I don't suppose the war affects you very much except to lower the value of the dollar.

"All the Dutchmen in the office have left to join the colors in Holland. They are very hot on the spy question in London and several successful raids have been made, which all go to prove that without doubts there is a properly organized system of spying going on in London. To quote an instance of the sort of thing that is going on:—

"In Forest Hill there is a large number of Germans, about 8,000, I believe, and near us there is a German church. Well, the other night the church was arrested and the church and in the basement they found over 2,000 rifles and a quantity of ammunition. A fine example of the church militant, eh?"

"At any rate, I think the Germans have bitten off more than they can chew this time, and there is very little doubt, in my mind that they will go under."

"This is rather strange at first, but one soon gets used to paying for one's lunch with one pound note (swank). Postal orders are also legal tender and are accepted without question at all shops. LONDON BRIGADES ARE ALL OFF TO THE FRONT OF BATTLE

An interesting account of war conditions in England is contained in a letter received here by a well-known Hamilton man from a friend in London. The letter says:—

"The way every one has rushed to join some regiment is really marvelous and speaks well for the patriotism of Englishmen. All the London territorial regiments are full up and unable to take any more men. This includes the L. R. B., H. A. C., Westminster's Queen's, London Scottish, Artists and all the rest of the London brigades. They have all volunteered for foreign service and in some cases they have already gone abroad.

"The H. A. C. have, I understand, sent a battery to Belgium, and one or two other regiments have been sent to such other places as Malta, Gibraltar and Egypt, to take the place of the regulars who have moved from these places. The firm for which I am working has gone up the spout and those of us who are left are gradually reaching the point where there will be nothing to do at all. The firm have practically guaranteed to keep on all the staff at full pay, but of course if the war goes on indefinitely it is almost bound to mean that we shall be shoved on half pay and really one can't expect anything else. They are very hot on the spy question in London and several successful raids have been made, which all go to prove that without doubts there is a properly organized system of spying going on in London. To quote an instance of the sort of thing that is going on:—

"In Forest Hill there is a large number of Germans, about 8,000, I believe, and near us there is a German church. Well, the other night the church was arrested and the church and in the basement they found over 2,000 rifles and a quantity of ammunition. A fine example of the church militant, eh?"

"At any rate, I think the Germans have bitten off more than they can chew this time, and there is very little doubt, in my mind that they will go under."

"This is rather strange at first, but one soon gets used to paying for one's lunch with one pound note (swank). Postal orders are also legal tender and are accepted without question at all shops. The A. P. Co. have just given ten thousand pounds to the Prince of Wales fund for the relief of distress occasioned by the war. One of the most trying things we have to put up with at present is the absence of news. I expect you have heard that a press censorship has been started, with the result that we are getting no news through as to what the navy is doing or what the army has done. Of course, there are any amount of rumors about, but no reliable news there will be nothing to do at all, at all and at a time like this it is most annoying to pick up a paper in the morning to find that the news in it is the same as the day before.

"Work is practically at a standstill in the office because there is no business being done at all. All our German business has gone up the spout and those of us who are left are gradually reaching the point where there will be nothing to do at all. The firm have practically guaranteed to keep on all the staff at full pay, but of course if the war goes on indefinitely it is almost bound to mean that we shall be shoved on half pay and really one can't expect anything else. I think altogether you are better off where you are, for I don't suppose the war affects you very much except to lower the value of the dollar.

"All the Dutchmen in the office have left to join the colors in Holland. They are very hot on the spy question in London and several successful raids have been made, which all go to prove that without doubts there is a properly organized system of spying going on in London. To quote an instance of the sort of thing that is going on:—

To The Editor

RELIEF MEASURES.

Editor of the Courier:

Sir—Perhaps you have noticed that the British Government are showing the way to Canada in the manner of safeguarding the interests of the workers, viz.: A commission has been appointed to investigate the artificial raising of the prices of food, etc., and to prosecute the offenders very severely. A bill has also been passed dealing with "Withholding of Food Stuffs." The government intend to take severe measures.

Again, instructions have been given to the police under an order-in-council known as the Aliens Restriction Order, 1914, that all alien registrars at nearest police station, their place of residence, place of business and so on, heavy penalties being enforced for non-compliance. Also, in respect to the possession of motor cars, motor cycles, petroleum and other articles.

Then again, the English government is passing a bill to the effect of £200,000 on the housing of the workers, to give employment to men during the continuance of the European war. What will patriotic Canada do with the unemployed question? What will Brantford's factory owners do? Echo answers!

Yours truly, FRANK BUSH.

TERMONDE TAKEN

Berlaer and Overneire in the direction of Ghent.

"After entering the town the Germans set it afire and throughout the morning dense clouds of smoke over hung the town. Not three miles away the peasants with a strange and dull apathy were still working in their gardens, sometimes turning to watch the smoke. Only the children were afraid and they ran and hid from every motor car.

"I sighted German outposts from Termonde to within ten miles of Ghent and there are indications that they will almost immediately occupy Ghent. The people are greatly excited and many are preparing for flight.

A NEW VIOLATION.

PARIS, Sept. 7, 10.10 a.m.—An Ostend despatch to the Havas Agency says: "A new violation of the laws of war has been committed by the Germans. The military governor of Brussels has forced the civil guards, all of the fortifications of the city, especially disarmed, to help on the work of trench digging."

STRIKE STILL ON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—War department officials to-day announced that preparations were being made to keep the federal troops in the Colorado coal fields throughout the winter. This was taken to indicate that no prospect of a settlement of the strike have come out of the negotiations which have extended over several months.

TREASURES DESTROYED

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Telegraphing from Ostend the correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says the $17,000 which was found in the pockets of General Von Buelow after he was killed in the battle of Haen, has been turned over by King Albert for Red Cross purposes. Advices from Louvain state that priceless works of art were destroyed by the Germans there, namely "The Dressing from the Cross," "The Last Supper," and the fifteenth century screen entitled "The Martyrdom of St. Frasmus." The Last Supper was in three sections of which the middle one was destroyed.

ARTILLERY DUELS FEATURE FIGHTING IN FRENCH TOWNS

Times Correspondent Tells of Battles Fought in Villages Near Paris.

GERMANS ARE USING HEAVY ARTILLERY

Shells Having Very Little Effect on the French Batteries, which Use Melinite Shells With Deadly Effect.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The correspondent of The Times, describing the fighting in the villages near Paris says that at Chantilly, Senlis and other places, the Germans and the allies engaged in cannonading with little effect. Then they tried the strength of their infantry, with a slight advantage to the Germans, who however, were ordered to retire. These tactics are characteristic of the fighting for several days previous to September 3.

He gives a description of an engagement near Senlis on a large open plain, over which the three main roads converge into Senlis. A French battery hidden in an orchard, and another behind earthenworks, engaged the German artillery, which occupied a position on a ridge, three miles distant on the opposite side of the plain.

Whistles of Melinite "One heard the curious whistle of the French melinite shells," says the writer, "when a cluster of little lead white balls prepared over the ridge, to be followed a few seconds later by the report. The Germans were using mostly heavy guns, though there was a battery somewhere in the orchard along which from time to time shelled the French troops concealed in the folds of the rolling plowland. The Germans succeeded in dislodging some of the French batteries.

A couple of squadrons of dragoons appeared suddenly out of the hollow and trotted 200 yards to the rear, they were changing their ground. An infantryman who sought cover under the same haystack as myself, told me that a shell had burst in the middle of this section and put four men out of action.

French Keep Position "Heavy shells on the other hand, seemed to have little effect on the French batteries. It kept its position in the orchard and maintained a regular fire, while the German artillery was trying to find it, and which crashed into the ground behind its position now to this, now to that side of the road.

The French guns fired at frequent intervals. First would come the deep report of the German guns, the most of which dominated the scene. Then came the sharp sound of the French field pieces. On the roads outside forces of French cavalry flamed and went. I waited for a fusillade to break out in the open country, where the French appeared to be pushing forward, but it did not come. An attack at Senlis, might come to the right and left of the wood country, where the French position to Chantilly, to see what was happening there.

Chantilly Deserted "Chantilly was also deserted. There was no sign of fighting, but much talk in the few inns still open. Presently a frightened woman shouted that Senlis was burning. I started back along the road and a German aeroplane stream of cart laden with household goods. Over the woods a column of smoke was rising. A battalion of French infantry, retreating through the fields, was moving in the direction of Chantilly.

The Germans fired about 40 shells into the town and then the bombardment ceased. I went back through the streets to the damage was surprisingly little to be seen.

The Germans had evidently taken the tower of the cathedral as a mark and were firing at it, and a trail of smoke go up, but only one gargoyles had been broken from its place and lay in fragments on the ground. The telegraph wires were down in places and lay in a tangle, but on the whole there was not much more havoc than would have been caused by a heavy gale.

MORE MURDER GENEVA, via Paris, Sept. 7, 3 a.m. News has reached here that early Sunday morning a German aeroplane dropped three bombs on Belfort, one falling on the Red Cross hospital and injuring three wounded soldiers. The other bombs did no harm.

CUT UP REGIMENT LONDON, Sept. 7.—4.23 a. m.—A Petrograd despatch to the Daily Mail dated Sunday, says that the Bourse Gazette reports that a squadron of the Death's Head Hussars, of which the crown prince was commander during his stay at Danzig, was defeated and completely cut up near Rocoizin in Poland. Count Stolberg, the commander, a German aeroplane, all the other officers were among the fallen. The sale of spirituous liquors has been prohibited for the duration of the war, according to a Petrograd despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company.

ARE GERMAN OFFICIAL STATEMENT

(Continued from Page 1) FLEE BEFORE BRITISH "The cavalry," he says, "do as they like with the enemy until they are confronted with twice their numbers. The German patrols simply fly before our horsemen. The German troops will not face our infantry fire. As against the artillery, they have never been opposed by less than three or four times their numbers."

"The following incidents have been mentioned during the action of Le Chateau on August 26 all the officers and men of one of the British batteries had been killed or wounded and the exception of one subaltern and two gunners. These continued to serve one gun and kept a railing war, as came out unhurt from the battlefield."

"On another occasion a portion of a supply column was cut off by a detachment of German cavalry. The officer in charge was summoned to surrender. He refused, and starting the motor off at full speed, dashed safely through, losing two horses."

"It is noted that during a rear guard action of the Guards' Brigade on September 1, the Germans were seen giving assistance to our wounded soldiers."

"The weather has been very hot with almost a tropical sun, which has made long marches trying to the soldiers. In spite of this they are not let and the horses in consequence of the amount of hay and oats in the field, are in excellent condition."

"In short, it may be said that the war has advanced has come to more prominent opportunities of adding to the reputation of British arms and achieving notable and substantial successes. But we must have more men so as to operate on a scale proportionate to the strength and power of the enemy."

ACCEPT FRENCH PLAN "The British expeditionary army has conformed with the general movement of the French forces and acted in harmony with the strategic conception of the French general staff. Since the battle at Cambrai, on August 26, where the British troops successfully guarded the left flank of the whole line of French armies from a deadly turning attack, supported by an enormous force, the British have been in constant operation on the British left."

"This in conjunction with the fifth army on our right, has greatly taken the strain and pressure off our left. The fifth French army in particular, on August 29, advanced from the line of the Oise River to meet and counter the German offensive movement and a considerable battle developed to the Town of Guise. In this the 11th French army gained a marked and solid victory, driving the German forces back and inflicting heavy loss and disorder three German army corps, the tenth, the guard and a reserve corps. It is stated that the line of the Meuse and the German army corps was among those killed."

GERMANS PERSISTENT "In spite of this success, however, the German forces, which followed from it, the general retirement to the south continued and the German armies seeking persistently to break through the British troops, remained in practically continuous contact with our rear guard."

"During the whole of this period fighting has been continuous and in the whole period the British casualties according to the latest estimates, have amounted to about 15,000 officers and men."

REINFORCEMENTS "Drafts of 19,000 have been received by our army or are approaching the men on the line of communication and advance has been made during the five quiet days that have passed since the action on September 1, to fill up the gaps and re-entrench the units."

"The British army is now off the Marne and is in line with the French forces on the right and left."

"The latest information about the front is that they are neglecting Paris and are marching in a southerly direction towards the Marne and towards the left bank of the French line."

"The German army is reported to be between La Ferté-Sous-Jouarre and Eiffes Goffort."

"The second German army, after taking Rheims, is advancing on Chateau and Thierry and to the east of that place."

"The fourth German army is reported to be marching south and on the west of the Argonne, between Fieppes and Ville Joubert. All these points were reached by the Germans on September 3."

A GERMAN REPULSE "The Seventh German army has been repulsed by a French corps near Lienville. It would therefore appear that the enveloping movement on the Anglo-French left flank has been abandoned by the Germans because it was no longer practicable to continue such a great extension, or because the attempt to a direct attack upon the allied forces is preferred."

"Whether this change of plan by the German is voluntary or whether it has been placed upon them by the strategic situation and the great strength of the allied armies in their front will be revealed by the course of events."

GOVERNMENT IS ESTABLISHED AT BORDEAUX NOW

(Continued from Page 1) BORDEAUX, via Paris, Sept. 7, 5:50 a.m.—The installation of the government administration is rapidly nearing completion in offices occupied by all the city buildings, including the university, in which the war department is housed. The foreign office street near a handsome public garden.

Most of the offices are equipped in an exceedingly scant manner. One leading official, several other Parisians, after many exertions, succeeded in obtaining a kitchen table, two plain chairs and a pen and pencil. There is very little ink here and the fluid is regarded in official circles as almost priceless.

The foreign embassy are lodged in mansions provided for them by the French government in various quarters of the city. The embassies still remaining in Paris are represented here by secretaries of embassy.

The Temps appeared here for the first time to-night. It printed a single sheet, preserving, however, its characteristic aspect. Several other Parisian newspapers also are being printed here in the offices of one of the principal local newspapers.

Summing up the military situation, in its issue, the Temps says: "Without any exaggeration, we are justified in affirming that notwithstanding the falling back of our army the situation as a whole cannot be considered as alarming."

SPANISH HOPE Is Expressed by Ambassador that France Wins Victory.

(By Special Wire to the Courier) BORDEAUX, Sept. 7.—Lieutenant-General Marquis De Valliera, the new Spanish ambassador to France presented his credentials to President Poincaré yesterday and made a short address in the course of which he said: "The traditional relations that bind our two nations are strengthened still more by the common mission they are realizing in north Africa, which is profoundly appreciated by the Spanish people who wish earnestly that the French nation may continue in the bosom of beneficent peace, its progressive development. May it please heaven that Spain may contribute to accelerate the happy moment."

In reply, President Poincaré, after thanking the ambassador and referring to his sentiments of friendship for King Alfonso, said: "I did not want war. It did all that was possible to avoid it, and now its duty is to pursue it with its allies to victory and to the ends of justice."

BRITISH FLEET Preparing to Attack Enemy LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Admiralty has ordered the North Sea closed to all navigation. The notice adds: "All aids to navigation on the east coasts of England and Scotland may be removed at any time without further warning than is contained in this notice."

"The following neutral merchant vessels are known by the Admiralty to have been destroyed by German mines, in most cases with loss of life among the crew: Five Danish, two Dutch, one Norwegian and one Swedish."

The action of the Admiralty is ascribed to the continued laying of floating mines in the North Sea by the Germans. But it is believed here that the British fleet is preparing to attack the German fleet, the capture of fishing boats and further mine laying indicating that some of the German ships have left their station under the protection of the forts at the eastern end of the North sea.

HOPEFUL OF BATTLE Decisive Battle Can not be Very Much Longer Postponed.

The Franco-British Armies Are Reinforced.

(By Special Wire to the Courier) LONDON, Sept. 8, 9:40 a.m.—The public is waiting breathless with the hope that the allies have finally taken the offensive, but te cautious tone of the official communications issued from France indicate that the forward movement of the allies is only a feeler to ascertain the reason for the German right. No matter however, what this forward movement may mean a decisive battle cannot long be postponed, Mean time the western valley of the Seine, recently over-run by Germans, has been cleared of the enemy and has been given a breathing spell.

The unexpected swing of the Germans has caused a readjustment of the lines of the allies. The movement of the German aeroplanes of the allies, the abundant, time was given for the shift.

It is evident that the German now have before them the frontiers of the allies' left wing which underwent a terrible battering along the Franco-Belgian border. The Franco-British forces have been reinforced and the casualties have been replaced by fresh men. Another advantage enjoyed by the allies is the fact that the great fortresses of Paris and Verdun while in the German rear, though still held by the French, despite the fall of three of its fortresses.

In the eastern war theatre General Ruzsky's tactics may not have a single stronghold been checked by the strong force of Przemyel, but this delay will not prevent the general forward movement of the Russian forces along the border from sit to Lemberg. It is considered necessary, however, to capture Przemyel so that the Austria left in Galicia. Remarkable reports continue to come in of speed of General Ruzsky's campaign. The soldiers sleep on an average of three hours night and made 35 mile marches daily. It is evident from reports received in Petrograd that the A

BRANTFORD, CANADA, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1914

LONDON HOPEFUL
OF BATTLE

Decisive Battle Cannot be Very Much Longer Postponed.
The Franco-British Armies are Reinforced.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 8, 9.40 a.m.—
The public is waiting breathless with the hope that the allies have finally taken the offensive, but to cautious tone of the official communications issued from France indicate that the forward movement of the allies is only a feeler to ascertain the reason for the strange eastward swing of the German right.

It is evident that the Germans now have before the front of their wedge-like advance the veterans of the allies' left wing which underwent a terrible battering along the Franco-Belgian border. These Franco-British forces have been reinforced and the casualties have been replaced by fresh men. Another advantage enjoyed by the allies is the fact that their flanks are protected by the great fortresses of Paris and Verdun, while in the German rear Maubuisson is still held by the French, despite the fall of three of its fortresses.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 8.—There has been a complete change in the aspect of the line of battle in France within the last forty-eight hours, says the Havre correspondent of The Morning Post. "During the first half of last week the entire valley of the Seine from Paris to Havre was closely menaced by the Germans. This menace has suddenly been frustrated and the Germans seem to have disappeared from that section. The complete manner in which the Germans last week had penetrated into the valley of the Seine is shown by consultation of the map. The Germans held Beauvais and their cavalry outposts had reached as far as Pontoise, Rouen, Harfleur. A line drawn through these three cities is virtually a straight line from Havre to Paris.

Germans Are Losing Ground Everywhere

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
PARIS, Sept. 8 (3.25 p.m.)—
Violent encounters have occurred on the French front between Fere Champeoise and Vitry le Francois, at the southern point of the forest of Argonne. The French have fallen back nowhere. The Germans have lost ground.

ENEMY RETIRES.
PARIS, Sept. 8 (3.29 p.m.)—
Near Vitry the movement of retirement is confirmed on the Germans' side. On the French right a German division on the Aisnes of Chateau Salines and Nancy, but was repulsed to the northward, passing the forest of Champanoux. Further to the east the French troops re-occupied the crest of Mandry and the Peak of Fourneux.

WAR HITS BERLIN IN HARD WAY

Thousands are Out of Employment in Big City.
(Berlin, Aug. 27.—War has brought in its train widespread involuntary idleness, in spite of the millions of men withdrawn from productive employment. Factories are closing down or running short handed, and the pinch of non-employment is felt everywhere among the working classes. Symptoms of it are seen in the numbers of workmen appearing in the streets as newsboys or seeking other unusual employment and in the heavy calls for assistance from the municipal and labor union funds. A picture of the extent of unemployment is given by statistics of the greater Berlin employment register. The largest labor union in the Berlin district, that of the metal workers, with 88,000 members, reports 11,000 unemployed although some 16,000 members are with the troops in the field.

FINISH FIGHT OR DIE

Intense Dramatic Situation in the War Zone To-day
Both Armies Must Clash Where They Are Now.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—A cable to The Tribune from London says All military experts agree that the battle which is expected to be fought through the advance of the French Official Communiqué, is now joined, is critical for both armies and of exceeding strategic importance. "The Daily Chronicle says: 'The battle front is said by the Boreaux Communiqué to extend from Nanteuil, a place northeast from Paris half to Soissons, through Meux, Sezanne and Vitry-Le-Francois to Verdun, total distance of about 160 miles. The allied army therefore, is extended through a great segment of a circle. The situation is exceedingly interesting. A great deal depends on the strength of the allies. If they have sufficient force to break through the allied center would offer superior opportunities to powerful armies, well led, striking at an enemy's flank and working around to his rear. On the other hand if the force and leading of the Germans should give them supremacy by breaking through the allied center, they may be able to divide the line and strike at both its parts in succession. The movement of the German right wing may have been determined by operations of which little has been heard. The French evacuated Lille some days since in a surprising manner, but it may yet be recovered. The Germans have abandoned the western part of France, and are no longer at Lille. It would not be surprising if a new army developed in this quarter advancing rapidly eastward. Certainly there are possibilities in this campaign which are not generally recognized. The allies will grow in strength. The military expert of The Star asks: 'Has some movement been initiated from the coast making the Germans sweep southward, from motives of precaution?' The Daily News says: 'The situation is one of intense peril to say the least. It looks as though four German armies, coming through Belgium and Luxembourg were manoeuvring so as to surround the French army on the Marne, and three French armies still on the upper Meuse and Moselle. If so, the German commander, whoever he may be, is again setting the rules of war at defiance by marching along the front of the Anglo-French army, which is enveloping the right flank. In the course of this daring manoeuvre, he is giving a chance to his adversary to make a defensive stand by resuming the offensive, and by striking at both his flanks simultaneously, force him to retire to save his line of communication through Belgium. If such a movement could be undertaken in cooperation with a subsidiary force of the navy, from one of the French ports, say the defended ports of Calais or Dunkirk, the German right wing, thrown forward with such reckless impetuosity, would be placed in a position from which it could extricate itself only after heavy fighting and enormous loss. Our sea power has hardly yet begun to make its influence felt. The fleet has an offensive as well as a defensive role, for while it is patrolling up and down our own coasts, it lays open the enemy's frontiers and gives us opportunities which are denied our adversaries. If not now then later in the campaign must come when we shall use our sea supremacy.'"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The French embassy here received from Bordeaux, under last date the following: "The German right wing (first army) on the Oureq and Grand Moris has been attacked with advantage on our troops. On the line Meaux-Vitry-Le Francois the battle to-day became general. "The Campine (Belgium) and the Limbourg have been evacuated. Transports of German troops from the west to the east are reported from several sources. "The fact that at the time of the capture of Le Mans, twelve Austrian divisions were annihilated, is confirmed."

PARIS CHEERFUL, SUCCESS OF ALLIES WAS A REAL ONE

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
PARIS, Sept. 8, 6.40 a.m.—
Paris is optimistic this morning, even the surprise at finding that the Germans have been able to traverse nearly the entire Champagne country does not shake confidence in the outcome of the great battle which after all the manoeuvres, is being fought on ground selected by General Joseph Joffre, the French commander-in-chief. The famous turning movement of the Germans has finally resulted in a battle formation that puts their own right in jeopardy as yesterday's advance of the allies left proved. As far as may be inferred from the meagre official news the army now called the army of Paris must be acting as an independent force holding the convex side of a curved battle line and free to menace the communications of the enemy. Bits of news already coming in from the wounded show that the allies gained a distinct success on the left, the enemy suffering greatly while trying to cross the River Marne. As fast as pontoons were finished, the French inch guns demolished them before they could be utilized. The wounded are being brought in by tramway. Among those arriving yesterday were two Irish troopers, who separated from their regiment during the fight at Compiègne, could give no other account of their wanderings and that the last they knew they were fighting at Copenhagen. The allies may lose the battle and still make the siege of Paris difficult for the enemy, while if the Germans lose the situation of their army will be critical.

KIPLING'S GREAT SPEECH TO PEOPLE OF GREAT BRITAIN

Stirring Address--No Fault of Empire That it Has Been Dragged into War--Germans for Two Generations Thought of Nothing Else.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 8.—"It is not conceivable that we should fail. If we do fail, the lights of freedom go out over the whole world."

This was the statement of Rudyard Kipling, the author, in a stirring address to a mass meeting at Brighton, where an immense crowd had gathered in the Dome to listen to speeches in support of Lord Kitchener's crusade for recruits. The meeting was presided over by the Lord Mayor of Brighton, seconded by Herbert Samuel, president of the Local Government Board. Mr. Kipling said: "Through no fault nor wish of ours we are at war with Germany, the power which owes its existence to three well-thought-out wars—the power which has devoted itself to organizing and preparing for this war—the power which is now fighting to conquer the civilized world. "For the last two generations the Germans, in their books, lectures, speeches and schools, have been carefully taught that nothing less than this world conquest was the object of their preparations and their sacrifices. They have prepared carefully and sacrificed greatly. "We must have men and men and men if we, with our allies, are to check the onrush of organized barbarism. "Have no illusions. We are dealing with a strong and magnificently-equipped enemy, whose avowed aim is our complete destruction. The Germans' real objective, as she has always told us, is England and England's wealth, trade and world-wide possessions. "If you assume for an instant that that attack will be successful, England will not be reduced, as some people say, to the rank of a second-rate power, but we shall cease to exist as a nation. We shall become an outlying province of Germany, to be administered with what severity German safety and interest require. "We are against such a fate. We enter into a new life, in which all the facts of war that we had put behind or forgotten for the past hundred years have returned to the front and test us as they long and a hard road, beset with difficulties and discouragements, but we tread it together to the end. "Our petty social divisions and barriers have been swept away at the outset of our mighty struggle. All the interests of our life of six weeks ago are dead. We have but one interest now, and that touches the naked heart of every man in this island and in the empire. "If we are to win the right for ourselves and for freedom to exist on earth every man must offer himself for the service and that sacrifice, while the state sees to it, that his dependents do not suffer. "There is no middle way in this war. We do not doubt our ultimate victory any more than we doubt the justice of our cause. It is not conceivable that we should fail, for if we fail the lights of freedom go out over the whole world. "They may glimmer for a little in the western hemisphere, but a Germany dominating half the world by sea and land will most certainly extinguish them in every quarter they have hitherto shone upon mankind so that even the traditions of freedom will pass out of remembrance. If we do our duty we shall not fail."

British Make a Big Capture

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
PARIS, Sept. 8 (3.23 p.m.)—French and English troops engaged in the battle now progressing to the east of the capital have taken numerous prisoners, including a battalion of German infantry and a company serving rapid-fire guns. They captured also many gun carriages.

Says Austrian Emperor is Dead

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 8 (3.55 p.m.)—The African World, a weekly publication, has received information through what it regards as a reliable Austrian source to the effect that the Austrian Emperor, Francis Joseph, died twelve days ago. The news of the Emperor's death was suppressed in Austria-Hungary, the paper says, on account of the dangerous internal situation.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 8, via London.—The Nieuw Van Dag says that the Germans are steadily drawing nearer to the Dutch frontier. The inhabitants of the Belgian villages are fleeing to Dutch territory forsaking their property. BACK TO GERMANY. LONDON, Sept. 8.—3.41.—A large number of German troops continue to repress 1 liege on their way back to Germany, says an Antwerp despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

WAR SUMMARY

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
PARIS, Sept. 8.—2.15 p.m.—An agreement reached by the Belgian and Russian governments, according to the correspondent of the Havas Agency, at Petrograd, authorizes Belgian reservists and recruits of 1914 to attach themselves to Russian armies. The agreement referred to in the foregoing despatch would appear to be confirmatory of previous reports, notably to-day from Rome that Russian forces have landed in Belgium. [By Special Wire to the Courier] What is believed to be one of the most important battles of the European war, continues to rage to-day to the east of Paris, along the front of the allied armies, extending from Nanteuil-Le-Haudouin to Verdun. The Germans in their turning movement have swept through the entire Compiègne country, and the five German columns are now hurling their strength against the front of the allied forces, which extends for a distance of 140 miles. The news was filtering from the zone of the fighting to-day, indicates that the allies have gained a decided success against the German right wing, which is reported to have suffered heavy in attempting to cross the River Marne. A report which was passed by the French and British censor says that 250,000 Russian troops have been landed in France, presumably with the object of flanking the Germans in Belgian territory. In the eastern theatre of the war, the Russians, following their brilliant success at Lemberg, the capital of Austrian Galicia, are throwing their forces against the first Austrian army which for three days has been desperately trying to break through the Russian line between Lublin and Kholm. Details of the fighting around Lemberg, contain the statement that the Russians took as prisoners 38,000 Austrians. On the other hand, advices received from Berlin by the German embassy at Washington say that the Austrian eastern army advancing on Russian territory repulsed a violent Russian attack and captured 600 prisoners. Reports from the Balkans say that the Turks are concentrating 80,000 men along the Chatalja lines, outside Constantinople with a view to opposing a possible Russian landing on the Black Sea coast. A serious controversy has occurred between Emperor William and Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg and Minister of Foreign Affairs Jagow, according to a newspaper despatch from Berlin, over the abdication of responsibility for the isolated diplomatic position in which Germany found herself at the outbreak of the European war.

Atrocious Are These Methods

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 8.—A news agency despatch from Antwerp received to-day says that the report of the commission appointed by the Belgian government to investigate the charges of German atrocities finds that atrocities were committed by the Germans at Louvain, Visé, Aerschot, Ormeland and in the District of Malines. Inoffensive pedestrians, cyclists and peasants, the report says, were shot by Germans who also robbed the public treasuries and burned and pillaged houses and towns on the pretext that the inhabitants feared the German troops. Commission found that Belgians were deported to Germany to aid in gathering the harvest and that in some cases the Belgians were now compelled to fight against the Russians. It also is declared that men were shut up in churches while the women were outraged. Men, women and children, the report concludes, were compelled to march in front of the German troops showing the white flag, in order to induce the French troops to approach.

GERMAN MOVEMENT IS HARD TO FIGURE OUT-- STILL A GREAT PUZZLE

Great Aim is Said to be to Reach Southern and More Weakly Fortified Side of Paris— May Envelop Huge French Army.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
LONDON, Sept. 8.—3.20 p.m.—"The world's great puzzle" to-day says The Chronicle's Paris correspondent is the disappearance southeastward of the German host which was supposed to be ready to dash itself against Paris. "To the close student it appears that the incidental aim may be to reach the southern and somewhat less strongly fortified side of Paris, but I think on the whole it is somewhat larger and bolder than this. "In the first place the official communication of Friday reveals that there are three German armies moving southward. Friday's communication stated that the enemy had reached La Ferte, passed Rheims and is pushing along west of the Argonne. "It is evident that it cannot be the same army which reached La Ferte, 25 miles from Paris, which passed Rheims, 85 miles from Paris and which passes the Argonne forest, 125 miles from Paris. "The chief necessity of the German tacticians now are as follows: First, to get out of reach of the Belgians; second to keep as far as possible from the ever increasing British contingent; third to immobilize the army of Paris; fourth to reduce the harvest of the line of communication and recover direct touch with the German fifth army, while accomplishing these ends to smash the other French armies; sixth, when the German armies are united to be able to march directly on either Berlin or Paris as circumstances may direct. "The present movement to the eastward is apparently with the object of accomplishing these things. The German army which has come south from Mons will join at Epernay, 15 miles southwest of Rheims, other German armies of which we have so far heard nothing, but which evidently have been moving southward from Luxembourg and the Ardennes. "This immense strategical overturn may involve the German abandonment of Belgium and northern France, but it immediately threatens the French armies before the Vosges with a rear attack."

RUSSIAN ADVANCE

Official Statement Issued by the Embassy at Washington. [By Special Wire to the Courier] WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The Russian embassy here to-day issued the following statement in regard to the movements of the Russian army: "On September 5, our troops took the strong fortifications of Kikoliev on the Dniester River. The fronts of these works were received by flanking fire, the artillery placed in steel cupolas and the whole of the works surrounded by a triple line of wire entanglements. We took forty guns and large stores of supplies and ammunition. "In Northern Galicia, serious fighting is going on at Rawa Ruska. The first Austrian army, which had been advancing toward Lublin and Hovly, is retreating before the onslaught of our troops. We are taking prisoners, guns and ammunition. "In one of the field hospitals that fell into our hands were hundreds of Austrian soldiers ill of dysentery. This illness is sweeping the ranks of the enemy. "In East Prussia only skirmishing is taking place."

KITCHEN--DUFFEE WEDDING EVENT BRILLIANT AFFAIR

(Jamestown Morning Post) The first of the early fall society weddings took place last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Duffee of 515 Washington Street, when their daughter, Daise Dorothy Duffee, was united in marriage with John Franklin Kitchen of Brantford, Ontario, Canada.

The full Episcopal ring service was read at 8 o'clock by Rev. Charles T. Shaw, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Guests were received by host and hostess assisted by Mrs. Henry Wells Odell, Mrs. Don Allen Curtis, Mrs. Hurlbert, Mrs. William Bealer, Mrs. G. Godard, Mrs. L. L. Duffee, Mrs. W. F. Stitt and Miss Grace Barrows with W. G. Eckman, W. A. Gokey and D. Curtis acting as masters of ceremonies.

Throughout the home a color effect of pink and blue was artistically maintained and a profusion of gladiolas and roses were harmoniously touched by glimpses of blue, with nature's green as a background. Baskets were everywhere in the reception room of the floral scheme being primarily "basket decoration," all under supervision of B. A. Bartlett. The reception room in which the ceremony took place was particularly effective. Pink and blue festoons were seen upon mantelpieces and chandeliers, with flowers everywhere visible. Behind a large French window a drapery of pastel green velours was arranged as a "fondo," for masses of palms. On either side stood white pedestals bearing huge baskets of pink roses, with pink and blue garnishings. Before this bow the bride party stood during the wedding ceremony. Fleeting before 8 o'clock when practically all of the large number of guests had assembled, Irving C. Black, of Cleveland rendered a vocal solo, "When Song is Sweet," by Gertrude Sans Sauci. The accompaniment at piano was given by Miss Mabel Heath Following this, the Lohengrin Wedding March was played by Bratt Orchestra, and the wedding party appeared in the following order: Descending the staircase, the railing of which was crested with red and white four ribbon maids, Miss Louie Kitchen, a sister of the bridegroom, Miss Ma Belle Alton, Miss Gertrude Crooks and Miss Mildred Barnhart. As they marked the ribbon aisle, the minister, Rev. Charles T. Shaw, appeared, followed by the bridegroom, and his best man, John Noble, Next came the page, Ralph Duffee Eckman, a nephew of the bride, bearing upon the white satin cushion the wedding ring. The maid of honor, Miss Frances Duffee, followed the bride, preceded her, the bride being met by her father who gave her in marriage. After the bride party had assumed their respective places in the procession the orchestra rendered Liszt's "Love's Dream," the strains of which were softly continued during the ceremony.

Following the marriage service the bride party took their places among their guests, the Mendelssohn Wedding march being the finale of the ceremony. The bride was exquisitely gowned in white charmeuse over white tulle with long court train. Her hair was styled with tasteful effect and her veil, worn a la Juliet, was held by orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a necklace of gold, with pearls and diamonds. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a chic gown of pink crepe de chine over pink tulle with court train en Grecque. A jacket of silk lace with basque girle of light blue chiffon completed the costume. The bridesmaids wore pink crepe de chine with pink roses tied in light blue tulle was carried. The bride's mother, Mrs. Duffee, wore satin de l'or, entraine, the gold color being heightened by a beaded tunic of silver, corsage bouquet of lavender and pink sweet peas, Mrs. Kitchen's mother, Mrs. Godard, appeared in an elegant gown of black satin en traine. Ribbon bearers and page were all costumed in white, the young girls wearing orange, chocolate brown, pink and blue tulle, butterfly design, with bouquets of pink roses suspended from the arm.

A reception followed the wedding ceremony at which the guests adjourned through a canopied entrance to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Odell, where an elaborate wedding supper was served under direction of Miss Isadore Allen. Gay colored Japanese lanterns prettily toned the electric lights, and punch was served upon the veranda. The reception room was made brilliant by many pink roses, the centre being occupied by the bridal table. An enormous gold basket of pink roses and filmy tulle held aloft its long handle covered with graceful streamers of pink and blue tulle. Gold candelabra were in use bearing pink candles, and each guest received a tiny blue basket with pink tulle rosette, containing wedding cake. Place cards showed dainty baskets of lily of the valley. The adjoining rooms and verandas were decorated in pink and blue, pink gladiolas being prominent, and small tables accommodated the remaining guests. The gifts received by Mr. and Mrs. Kitchen were manifold, and included generous offerings from a host of both American and Canadian friends. Many gifts from the latter are awaiting the bride and bridegroom at their home in Brantford, Ontario. Among the special remembrances were a complete dinner set of Haviland from the father and mother of the bride, a full silver tea service from the mother of the bridegroom, and a chest of silver from other relatives. The maid of honor was remembered by the bride with a lovely necklace with a diamond pendant, while the groom chose for his best man a choice scarf pin of pearls.

Mrs. Kitchen as the daughter of one of Jamestown's prominent merchants has attained a wide acquaintance. She was a student in the High school, and her musical success has been pronounced. She has studied at the Jamestown Conservatory of Music where her talent was at once recognized. Both in her church and social affiliations she has achieved highly and her winning manner and pronounced amiability make her an ever welcome presence. Mr. Kitchen, coming to "the States" from Canada, has assumed the position of secretary and treasurer of the Kitchen Overall Shirt Co., Ltd., of Brantford, Ontario, which is sufficient testimony to his business ability. While American friends will regret the departure of Mrs. Kitchen for a Canadian home, they will rejoice that she goes with such an auspicious future.

WILLIAMS WILL HOOT SATURDAY AT THE RANGES

y Names Were Enrolled at Night at Enthusiastic Meeting.

Enthusiasm ran high at the second meeting of the Civic Rifle Club, which was held last night in the Colby Institute, when the principal business was the signing of the Ber-roll. In all sixty six names were subscribed to the list last night, and more are expected as some who already signed before, were out of town, owing to the holiday. A ceremony of swearing in was performed by Norman Andrews and witnessed by Sam Seago, white Captain. It was expected that some twenty would be about 150 present who heard addresses upon the rifle which were of a technical character by the Captain and Instructor, and a brief discourse from his former experience and a thorough insight into the component parts of the rifle was given.

Arrangements are under way for the Collegiate ranges on Saturday and it is likely that there the target practice will take place. The unanimity of the gathering is well for the future success of the newly formed Rifle Club.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market a weaker feeling prevailed, and prices were the somewhat lower than last Monday for butchers' stock, which was attributed to the increased offerings and the somewhat limited demand, as packers in most cases had carried over fair supplies of dressed beef from last week. Trade was rather slow, even at the lower range, and demand was principally for choice to choice steers, of which a few loads changed hands at $3.25 to $3.50. Some choice butchers' cows went at $7.25 to $7.50 per 100 pounds, and a few yearlings, and prices declined 10c to 25c per 100 pounds. Demand was not so keen for bulls, and cows at $2.75 to $4.25 per 100 pounds.

THE SITUATION.

The outstanding feature of the last few hours is the fact that the Allies, in one direction, at least, have commenced to assume the offensive. The British and French troops are certainly acting in capital union, and it is now hard to realize that there was at one long-continued period such bitter enmity between the two powers.

In fact, a Paris paper, Le Journal, says, referring to the signed agreement between Britain, France and Russia, that peace will never be entered upon until such time as all three Powers agree, says:

"The declaration consecrates the new Triple Alliance. The question is no longer a Slavic, French or English one, but a struggle against Germanic hegemony. Should France be exhausted, and Russia, too, all Germany's forces will break against Albion's untiring tenacity which will work down Napoleon. The protocol of London sounds the death knell of the enemy."

The airships which were expected to take so formidable a part in the existing hostilities have thus far failed to do anything of disastrous moment. They have been very valuable, of course, in the matter of observation, but any missiles dropped have failed very largely of the intended purpose. In their stead, as a deadly instrument, has come the devilish floating mine.

It is a dirty—yes, a damnable—form of alleged fighting, for the reason that it endangers not only belligerents, but also all other craft. At the last conference of the representatives of the powers respecting rules of war, Great Britain fought hard to have those diabolical instruments of destruction excluded, but was defeated by the opposition of the Kaiser's representatives.

The world now knows why. Even the mightiest of dreadnoughts can be blown to smithereens by such means, and there is no doubt that the enemy is constantly, by subterfuge, sowing the North Sea and other waters with them, in the hope of thus weakening the British fleet. The circumstance is just one more illustration of the Satanic and utterly foul methods of the Emperor and his advisers. They are lords of war lust and must be taught a lesson right up to the hilt, and then some.

The Russians continue to do well, but it is a mistaken idea to suppose that they have got very far towards Berlin, because they haven't—probably less than two miles in a direct line. However, they are doing good and very valuable work, and Austria would practically seem to be down and out.

Over in the China Sea the Japs are getting at the German fort there from the rear, in the same way as they did Port Arthur.

Generally speaking, the situation amounts to the fact that after many days of manoeuvring the Allies have, at any rate, held their own in good shape. This is well as far as it goes, but it must be remembered that no actual battle as such has yet taken place. It would be idle to under-rate the magnitude of the conflict or the exertions and sacrifices which will be imposed upon the people of this Empire before the thing can reach any kind of a conclusion. The foe has myriads of trained men, he is well equipped, and he is a fearless fighter.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Who rang that bell? Had a chance to let off some enthusiasm, anyway.

Any nation which would sow mines on the high seas ought to reap the whirlwind, and so it will.

Things are looking brighter overhead, as the man remarked who was at the bottom of a well.

Premier Asquith hit a palpable nail on the head when he spoke of the barbarian brutalities of the Kaiser's buccaners.

Buy "made-in-Canada" goods, and see how much more cheerful you will feel. And get them in Brantford stores, also, which will add still further to your satisfaction.

Press Comment

Britain's Usual Role
New York Tribune: "Belgium has arranged to get a loan from London through the British government. It is a concession to the Kaiser's process which held alliances against Napoleon. Britain has always managed to finance rather more than her share of whatever European war she entered."

Staining Its Record
Springfield Republican: "The truth is that with the introduction of military aircraft, minus adequate regulations, we have introduced a new and untried standard of warfare which had already been attained, belittled and savagely, whichever side in this war stains its record with such atrocities as that of the Zeppelin airship at Antwerp will deserve the condemnation of posterity."

A Crusade
London Daily Mail: "And therein is a burlesque—the truth in it of all burlesque—of the spirit of the people. War was thrust upon us, insolently and brutally; they entered upon it heavily and sad; but it has now become a crusade. Hence the patience and restraint. The new brood of all classes, the vast organizations that are springing up for the relief of the wounded, the bereft, and the impoverished, the long sacrifice to harmony with the military machine to make. All our gross metal of humanity goes into this fiery retort of trial, and lo—it comes out as refined gold!"

Might Make Trouble
London Express: "The possibility suggested by the American cables, that the United States Government may purchase the German ships, imported by lease of our navy in American harbors may have serious consequences. These ships, flying the American flag, might be used to carry foodstuffs to Germany, and in the event it would be essential that the British navy should establish an effective blockade of all the German ports. Foodstuffs, can be carried to Germany from Rotterdam, and difficulties may arise. But whatever these difficulties may be, Great Britain will continue to respect the rights of neutral shipping and will in this respect, conduct a war on a humanitarian and long-sighted policy."

Absolutism Did It
Chicago Tribune: "The explosion took place because the combustible of national ambitions and race antagonisms were brought into collision in a special atmosphere. The men who had control were men saturated in the spirit of autocracy, dynastic pride and militarism. To point out as do ardent Germanists, like Professor Münsterberg, the loyalty of the German people and their willingness to fight does not in the least detract from the view that constitutional statesmen from civil life with responsibility to a body like the House of Commons would have acted with greater deliberation and taken chances on the side of peace rather than upon that of war."

Condemned from Her Own Mouth
Boston Transcript: "As for the attitude of the American press, it never more accurately reflected the sober judgment of the American public than in condemning Germany's course in the present conflict. The indictment against Germany is founded upon the statements of her own defenders, whose admissions are far more damning in their evidence than any charge of the allies. A nation whose Imperial Chancellor pledged faith not only of his own but of other governments, can find nothing but condemnation on this side of the Atlantic so long as America remains true to her ideals as a nation. And may the day never come when such a barbarous doctrine shall fail to evoke the protest of the American press."

Germany must be Disarmed
Philadelphia Public Ledger: "It is always to be expected in a conflict between a democratic and an autocratic nation that the latter will score initial advantages. The military machine can act with unity and precision not to be expected of a control less rigid. This is being shown in the terrible magnitude of the German advance, but it remains to be seen how far it can be carried against a united people, battling for liberty and for escape from burdens which have become well nigh intolerable. If Germany succeeds in her burden of militarism will be fastened anew upon the world; if the allies win, Germany must be disarmed and the fear of German aggression, which has been a tune for a generation like a pall over Europe, will be removed. The immediate result must be to lighten the military burden and the spread of genuine democracy."

WASTED MANY SHELLS.
PARIS, Sept. 8, 12.25 p.m.—An English cavalry officer who was wounded in the fighting at Compeigne and who to-day, is recovering from his hurts in Paris has given the following account of an engagement at that place: "The fighting lasted for three days and two nights, this officer said. 'The German artillery has wasted a good many shells in locating the position of our trenches. Their shots fell to the right and to the left of us in front of us, and behind us. Finally they got the range.'"

The Tsar and the Poles.

London Times: "The Tsar has invited German and Austrian Poles to face more than those common risks of war to which his own subjects are exposed. Many who may be ready to share with his soldiers the ordinary dangers of the field are not unlikely to hesitate about incurring the additional perils of insurrection. Hesitation of the kind will be best removed by a formal and explicit promise that come what come, Russia will protect with her whole strength all who rally to her flag. We have not the slightest doubt that it is what she fully purposes to do. All of us in Europe who fight beside her in this war will construe her appeal as involving this obligation and conag tinshing this obligation and containing this pledge to her allies, as well as to the Poles within her borders and without. All across the Atlantic who share our English views and traditions will place, we are confident, their interpretation upon it. If that condition be fulfilled, the summons to the divided Poles may prove a master stroke of policy."

GREAT REINFORCEMENTS

LONDON, Sept. 8.—A special to The Star from Petrograd announces that many German aeroplanes are appearing on the Russian frontier, heralding the arrival of reinforcements. The Germans seem to possess a powerful force in the Posen district. The Star correspondent says, as they move their troops from Posen to East Prussia or Galicia as occasion demands.

The casualties on the British cruiser Pathfinder were four killed, 13 wounded and 242 missing.

Laid Low With Rheumatism—But Cured By "Fruit-a-lives".
CHATHAM, ONT., April 3rd, 1913.
"I am a veteran of the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny, volunteering from the Royal Artillery into the Royal Engineers, and served under Lord Roberts during the Indian Mutiny, and am a pensioner of the British Government. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting and continual exposure left me a great sufferer from Rheumatism, so much so that my legs swelled up, making it impossible for me to walk. "Fruit-a-lives". They cured me of both the Rheumatism and Constipation. In my regular employment, I walk thirty miles a day and enjoy perfect health."

Council To-night.
The city council meet in full session at the City Hall to-night. Business is not of very great importance.

Hydro Meters
The total number of hydro electricity meters in the city of Brantford has been certified at 1300 since inauguration of the system.

Asks Extension
W. H. Sweet of Mount Pleasant asks for an extension of the time wherein he must connect up his pipes with the city sewer system. His losses have come against him, says, and have caused the delay.

Same Old Complaint.
Mayor Spence has again taken the "same old" situation. Yesterday he sent a wire to the President of the company which has headquarters in New York, that unless some improvement was shown immediately any action would be launched by the city.

Meet To-morrow.
"Wanted, sixty pairs of socks." This sign is out at the Children's Shelter where the ladies of the house committee meet to-morrow to prepare supplies for the Brantford soldiers. More material is needed for trousers, jackets and cholera bands, all who can help are asked to do so.

Will Help Some.
It was the opinion of local municipalities this morning that a grant of $20 per month by the Dominion Government towards the help of soldiers, would considerably help the local situation. There were, however, families of reservists and others, who will have to be looked after by the city.

Directions Given
The following directions for the influenza and cholera belts the soldiers have been sent to the office:
Materials: grey wool and four knitting needles, No. 12 or 13; cast 60 stitches and rib two and two eight inches.

Cholera Bands: Same wool, 4 fingers. Forty-eight stitches in four steel needles, 10 1/2 inches in three; plain, three full for two inches on four wooden pins, fine garter; that is plain; then five three-plain, three purl, two inches steel needles.

DENIAL IS MADE
ROME, Sept. 8, via Paris. Kroupenski, the Russian ambassador to Rome, has issued another denial of the report being again circulated here that Count Witte, former premier of Russia, came to Italy with a mission to induce Italy to the triple entente. Count Witte, according to Ambassador's statement, simply crossed into Italy in order to return to Russia by the only way open, via Brindisi, Constantinople, Odessa, taking this opportunity to visit his sister in the Turkish capital.

New Fall Dress Fabrics

WE are devoting this week to an early showing of the NEW FALL DRESS FABRICS, COATINGS, ETC. A window display of these beautiful fabrics is out of the question just now, on account of the extensive alterations to the front. But we assure you that a visit to the different departments showing these beautiful fabrics will amply repay you. Worthy of special mention are the lovely dress and suiting materials being shown in our large dress goods department on the main floor. No pains have been spared, and every market has been visited or represented in order that we might show you the very newest and best of materials.

PRICES

This, of course, is the most essential part when buying, and there is no doubt a lot of current talk of prices being this and being that, but we assure you that there will practically be no difference in prices this season—at least, not with us. We were fortunate enough to have all orders placed long before THIS TERRIBLE WAR broke out, and, in fact, most of the materials and goods bought for this season were on their way. Then, again, there are lots of goods that we will not get at all, but our stocks being so large, we will not feel this to any great extent.

New Fall Corset Models

One of the most essential accessories to a perfect-fitting gown or suit is for MY LADY to have perfect-fitting Corsets. We are sole agents for the famous "GOSSARD CORSET," the only front-laced Corset recommended by the medical profession. We also carry a full range of all other leading makes.

CORSET FITTINGS GRATIS

COATINGS! COATINGS!

Never have we shown such a beautiful range of FALL COATINGS. The weaver's art has been brought to the very front in these beautiful materials—not only in materials, but in designs also. Of course, checks are the prevailing designs for the coming season, and really to try and describe to you the designs and materials on paper would be an advertising man's delight, but an impossibility. The only other course left is to issue you A SPECIAL INVITATION to visit the department, and, as we have already said, you will be amply repaid by your visit. You will see what is being shown and worn in the fashion centres of the whole world. Prices of the materials range from $1.25 to $5.00 a yard.

Special Showing of New Fall Dress Fabrics and Coatings in the Dress Goods Dept. (MAIN FLOOR)

ONE AND ALL ARE INVITED TO COME!

VELVETS

Velvets this season will be more prominent than in any previous season, not only for the full suit and gown, but also as a trimming. In fancy velvet there are some beautiful effects shown in stripes, brocade and two and three-tone effects. Plain velvet, brocade velvet and moire velvet will be used very extensively for suits and gowns, also in combination with plain silk. Visit us when you are down town and let us show you the beautiful effects produced.

MEREST TRIFLES HAVE CAUSED WAR

A King's Clean Shave Started One and an Old Bucket, Still in Existence, Another

Opinions may differ as to whether the dispute which led to the present war should have been considered sufficient to justify the loss of blood and treasure, but it is certain that many great wars in history have resulted from much more trivial causes.

According to the story, the Archbishop of Rouen persuaded the King to remove his beard, in common with his subjects, the act to do so much friction with the Queen that at last Louis divorced her, to become a few months later the wife of Henry II. of England.

In an iron case in the tower of the cathedral in Modena, Italy, there is to this day a bucket which 900 years ago was the cause of a territorial war between the King of France and the Emperor of Germany.

A broken teapot started a war in China 270 years ago, which cost half a million lives. The teapot was the cherished possession of a dignitary high in favor with the Emperor.

6,000 German Suspects Are Imprisoned

LONDON, Sept. 8.—There are at the present time about 6,000 German suspects and prisoners of war in the concentration camps of Great Britain.

These camps are located at Aldershot, Newbur Dorchester, Queensberry, Lancaster, Dyrinshall, which is near Chester, Edinburgh, and Templemore, Ireland. The Aldershot camp is at Frith Hill. At Dorchester the men are in barracks. The Newbury is on the famous race course and two disused factories are being used at Queensberry and similar accommodation have been secured at Lancaster. The Irish station at Templemore is using the military barracks for the housing of these prisoners and Edinburgh has a large camp in the open. Dyrinshall is a country mansion, and has been given over to the use of the officers.

Other branches of industry report similar conditions.

WANTS A DUEL.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—The war spirit infected a member of the board of control when this morning Controller MacDonald announced in a letter to the press that if Mayor Martin persisted in spinning yarns about him he would send him his seconds. This will enable the mayor, says the field troller, to prove his valor on the field of honor. The deliberations of the board of control have been rendered exciting for the past month or so by the scraps between the mayor and the controller, recently the former announcing that he would not sit at the board of control meetings or allow it to meet until the controller apologized to him.

Over a Glass of Water
The war of the Spanish succession in which the great Duke of Marlborough played a brilliant part, was said to be the outcome of a glass of water at a ball at the Tuilleries in Paris. One of the court ladies had expressed a wish for a drink of water and the British and Spanish Ambassadors, who hastened to get it for her. Returning each with a tumbler they found the fair blond had flown and was dancing with a French statesman. The English diplomat, accidentally, it is presumed, brushed against the Spaniard and upset the glass he was carrying. This ridiculous incident inflamed the jealousies of the nation and turned the balance in favor of war.

The Seven Years War was largely due, according to his own confession, to the vanity of Frederick the Great in wanting to see his name figured largely in the gazette.

The Sepoys believed that cartridges served out to them were greased with the fat of animals unclean alike to Hindu and Mohammedan, and the Indian Mutiny was precipitated.

The Turkish War was said to have been started by the tanner with which a Herzegovian blacksmith killed a tax collector who had insulted his daughter.

The stealing of a Seattle lady's lace petticoat by a Moor led to many years of fierce warfare between the Spaniards and the Moors.

Borrowing a tobacco pipe and falling to return it kindled a civil war which lasted for years among the rival roons in Persia and Afghanistan. A dispute as to the relative attractions of snails and vipers as food started fifty years of fighting between Milan and Pisa.

Autos Haul Huge Guns
One of the most modern of the German guns is a howitzer which is hauled by motor cars. Its calibre is 11 inches and the piece weighs 22 tons. When being moved it is in four pieces, the piece, the carriage, a slide and the platform, and a battery of six pieces exclusive of ammunition requires 24 vehicles that weigh 130 tons.

Kitchener Fought Prussians
Few people are aware that the first man to fall in the Franco-German war of '70 was an English officer of aristocratic birth who was serving with the German troops against France. Large numbers of English officers fought on both sides. Lord Kitchener fought for France in that war as a volunteer.

my behalf, I am certain that I will be able to satisfy the court of my innocence.

There is much behind and included in this case that no one ever thought of that must come out at a full and complete investigation. I am but just started in practice. My parents—the best in the world—at great self-sacrifice, educating me and looked forward to my career and hope. To cause them suffering and disgrace is the hardest cut of all. I can bear all else but that. But I know that I shall receive a fair trial, prove my innocence, and recover and redeem the good name I used to bear.

(Signed) C. K. Robinson, M.D. The arrest of Robinson revives the recent memory of one of the most astounding, tragic mysteries in the history of the Province. The late Blanche York was missed from her home on the 6th of July last, and the subsequent hue and cry spread over the whole of the continent, even Dr. Robinson himself took part in the search, driving around with the girl's brothers. Three weeks afterwards the bailiff made the ghastly discovery of the remains in the house at Tanqueray vacated by Robinson, when seizing furniture on a distress warrant. A coroner's jury later placed the responsibility for the girl's death with Dr. Robinson.

"The railway lines are now guarded by German marines, apparently because the German reserves are becoming exhausted. "A German military doctor acknowledges that the German losses at Sappelle-au-Bois Friday amounted to 2,000."

RUZSKY'S ARMY DID A GREAT RUSH ACT

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Sept. 8, 4.01 p.m.—The correspondent of The Chronicle at Petrograd describing General Ruzsky's brilliant feat at Lemberg says: "He hurried his men to the attack by marches so rapid that the men slept only three hours each night and frequently transport trains were left behind. "Blow after blow was delivered, now to the north and now to the south, that staggered the Austrians and final battle. Lasting a week, drove them to headlong flight. "The Russians are now able to concentrate their attention on the first Austrian army whose task it has been to break the Russian line between Lublin and Kholm. Rarely has an army been in a more critical position than this Austrian force and the next few days should decide the issue."

DRUGS EXCITE YOUR KIDNEYS, USE SALTS If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Drink Lots of Water

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active. Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grape and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; it cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and back-ache.

KITCHENER VISITS MEN IN HOSPITAL

"More Germans Waiting for You" is His Cheering Remark.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Lord Kitchener, the Secretary of State for War, paid a surprise visit on Saturday to St. Thomas Hospital, and some of the proudest men in London to-day are the hundred and more sick and wounded soldiers, just back from the firing line, whom he saw and spoke to. It was just after 4 o'clock in the afternoon when the nurses came hurrying in to the Alexandra, Flycatcher and Victoria wards with some what cryptic announcement: "A visit from the War Office." In a thrice furrowed countenance and tumbled sheets were smoothed and tucked in, while the thick slices of bread and butter and jam which these patients seem able to consume all day long, were hastily stowed away in bed-lockers or placed on window sills and covered with newspapers. A tall deep-chested man, who carried himself as straight as a lance, appeared on the threshold of the Alexandra Ward, preceded by the senior sister. "Why, it is Kitchener!" A sudden thrill of mingled awe, delight and astonishment seemed to penetrate the entire ward. "Why, it's Kitchener—Lord Kitchener!" was the surprised whisper that ran from lip to lip. Each patient, instinctively straightened his shoulders on his pillow. Some tried painfully to sit bolt upright in bed. It was not a stern-faced squire that the eyes of every patient followed, but a kindly, smiling, solitary civilian, in morning dress and carrying a silk hat. Lord Kitchener made a point of stopping at practically every bed in all three wards, inquiring as to each patient's condition, the nature of his wounds and his regiment. "There are some more German waiting for you, you know," was Lord Kitchener's parting remark as he left.

GERMAN CASUALTY LIST. BERLIN, Sept. 7, via London, Sept. 8, 4 a.m.—The twentieth casualty list just issued contains 1,180 names, included in the list are 187 dead and nearly 1,000 wounded. The total casualties thus far published aggregate 2,273 dead, 10,714 wounded and 3,240 missing. Freda Gold, a two-year-old child, was run over and killed by an automobile at Toronto.

TURKEY NOT ANXIOUS FOR FRESH WAR LONDON, Sept. 7.—A despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Constantinople, dated August 31, declares that the idea of fresh war is distasteful to Turkey. Even among the army there appears to be lack of enthusiasm. Practically all business has been suspended, and distress is beginning to be sorely felt. To-day the number of German officers and men in Constantinople is over 2,000, the correspondent goes. The fresh arrivals are being either drafted into the navy or sent to the forts along the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles, the entrances to which already have been mined. German reports of recent success against the British and the French armies are being exploited in Constantinople to the utmost by the German embassy. In anticipation of the possibility of Turkey going to war, British, French and Russian residents are beginning to send their families away. Already a number of French families in Smyrna have gone to Mytilene, on the island of Lesbos, for greater safety. In conclusion the Reuter correspondent says that the value of German gold which has reached Constantinople is placed at £120,000 ($500,000).

THEY'RE CRAZY IN THIS TOWN Even the Kaiser Called Him the Greatest General of His Time—Won the V.C.

As all the world knows, Earl Roberts, colonel-in-chief of the Overseas forces of the Empire, is an Irishman. He was born in Cawnpore, the son of General Sir Abraham Roberts and Isabella, the daughter of Major Dunbury, of the Sixty-second Foot. He was educated at Eton, and later on went to the military school at Sandhurst. Afterwards he was gazetted to the Bengal Artillery as second lieutenant. As a mere strapping young fellow he was sent to the Indian Mutiny, taking his part at the siege of Delhi and at the relief of both Lucknow and Cawnpore. On one occasion he had a horse shot under him, an experience that was twice repeated in later years, and of several occasions he was mentioned in despatches. At the close of the war, though still a youngster, he was made a major. In the Abyssinian campaign, which closely followed, he won the Victoria Cross, and in the Teshat Expedition he won his colonelcy. In 1878 he was promoted to Major-general. Before these honors came to him, however, Roberts, then a lieutenant, had received the greatest distinction

MANY PRISONERS Russia Doesn't Know How to Dispose of All the Austrians. LONDON, Sept. 8.—A telegram from Petrograd to the Reuter Telegram Company, says it is estimated that 2,000 prisoners taken in recent battles on the Austrian frontier, of whom 12,000 came from the Austrian centre, have all been sent to the interior government of Russia, and that there is difficulty in knowing how to dispose of them. A Reuter special correspondent travelling over the western frontier telegraphs that in Bielsostok and all other towns voluntary militia are organizing for the transporting and feeding the wounded. The ladies committee, comprising Christians, and Jews, are working hand in hand in the women's work. All are laboring devotedly, it is stated, in the common cause.

IS EARL ROBERTS A REAL FIGHTER

Even the Kaiser Called Him the Greatest General of His Time—Won the V.C.

As all the world knows, Earl Roberts, colonel-in-chief of the Overseas forces of the Empire, is an Irishman. He was born in Cawnpore, the son of General Sir Abraham Roberts and Isabella, the daughter of Major Dunbury, of the Sixty-second Foot. He was educated at Eton, and later on went to the military school at Sandhurst. Afterwards he was gazetted to the Bengal Artillery as second lieutenant. As a mere strapping young fellow he was sent to the Indian Mutiny, taking his part at the siege of Delhi and at the relief of both Lucknow and Cawnpore. On one occasion he had a horse shot under him, an experience that was twice repeated in later years, and of several occasions he was mentioned in despatches. At the close of the war, though still a youngster, he was made a major. In the Abyssinian campaign, which closely followed, he won the Victoria Cross, and in the Teshat Expedition he won his colonelcy. In 1878 he was promoted to Major-general. Before these honors came to him, however, Roberts, then a lieutenant, had received the greatest distinction

MANY PRISONERS Russia Doesn't Know How to Dispose of All the Austrians. LONDON, Sept. 8.—A telegram from Petrograd to the Reuter Telegram Company, says it is estimated that 2,000 prisoners taken in recent battles on the Austrian frontier, of whom 12,000 came from the Austrian centre, have all been sent to the interior government of Russia, and that there is difficulty in knowing how to dispose of them. A Reuter special correspondent travelling over the western frontier telegraphs that in Bielsostok and all other towns voluntary militia are organizing for the transporting and feeding the wounded. The ladies committee, comprising Christians, and Jews, are working hand in hand in the women's work. All are laboring devotedly, it is stated, in the common cause.

THE STORY OF Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN. Copyright, 1913 by Kate Douglas Wiggin.

Waitstill Baxter came from an inner room and stood on the threshold. The name "Waitstill" had always had a charm for her ears, from the time she first heard it years ago until it fell from Ivory's lips this summer, and again it caught her fancy. "Waitstill!" she repeated softly. "Waitstill! Does Ivory know you?" "We've known each other for ever so long—ever since we went to the brick school together when we were boy and girl. And when I was a child my stepmother brought me over here once on an errand, and Ivory showed me a humming bird's nest in that lilac bush by the door. "Mrs. Boynton smiled. "Come and look!" she whispered. "There is always a humming bird's nest in our lilac. How did you remember?" "The two women approached the bush, and Mrs. Boynton carefully parted the leaves to show the dainty morsel of a home thatched with soft green and lined with down. "The birds have flown now," she said. "They were like little jewels when they darted off in the sunshine." Her voice was faint and sweet, as if it came from far away, and her eyes looked not as if they were seeing you, but seeing something through you. Her pale hair was turned back from her pale face, where the veins showed like blue rivers, and her stride was like the flitting of a moonbeam. She was standing very close to Waitstill.

would see two wonderful men. They went away together to do some missionary work in Maine and New Hampshire, and perhaps they will come back together. I do not welcome callers because they always ask so many different questions, but you are different and have asked me none at all. "I should not think of asking questions, Mrs. Boynton." "Not that I should mind answering them," continued Ivory's mother, "except that it tires my head very much to think. You must not imagine I am ill; it is only that I have a very bad memory, and when people ask me to remember something or to give an answer ever quickly it confuses me more. Even now I have forgotten why you came and where you live, but I have not forgotten your beautiful name. "Ivory thought you might be lonely, and I wanted so much to know you that I could not keep away any longer. For I am lonely and unhappy too. I am always watching and hoping for what has never come yet. I have no mother, you have lost your daughter, I thought—I thought—perhaps we could be a comfort to each other. And Waitstill rose from her chair and put out her hand to help Mrs. Boynton down the steps, she looked so frail, so transparent, so prematurely aged. If it could not come very often, but if it could only smooth your hair sometimes when your head aches or do some cooking for you or read to you or any little thing like that as I would for my own mother, if I could, I should be so glad." Waitstill stood a head higher than Ivory's mother, and the glowing health of her, the steadiness of her voice, the warmth of her hand, the strong refusal to let this storm tossed derelict, the deep furrow between Lois Boynton's eyes relaxed a trifle, the blood in her veins ran a little more swiftly under the like the flitting of a moonbeam. She touched the young hand that held hers so closely. Suddenly a light came into her face and her lip quivered. "Perhaps I have been remembering wrong all these years," she said. "It is my great trouble, remembering wrong. Perhaps my baby did not die as I thought; perhaps she lived and grew up; perhaps—her pale cheeks burned and her eyes shone like stars—" "Perhaps she has come back." Waitstill could not speak. She put her arm round the trembling figure, holding her as she was wont to hold Fatty and with the same protective instinct. The embrace was electric in its effect and set altogether new currents of emotion in circulation. Something in Lois Boynton's perturbed mind seemed to beat its wings against the barriers that had heretofore opposed it and, freeing itself, mounted to clear air and was stinging the girl's face with a little sob. "Oh, let me go on remembering wrong!" she sighed from that safe shelter. "Let me go on remembering wrong! It makes me so happy!" Waitstill gently led her to the rocking chair and sat down beside her on the lowest step, stroking her thin hand. Mrs. Boynton's eyes were closed, her breath came and went quickly, but presently she began to speak hurriedly as if she were relieving a surcharged heart. (To Be Continued.)

TURK SITUATION BETTER LONDON, Sept. 8, 5 a.m.—A despatch to the Times from Constantinople, commenting on conditions there says: "Although there is still a large section of influential Turks clamoring for intervention in the present European war, the situation seems to be improving, owing to the precarious situation and the unwillingness of the reservists to take part in any except a defensive war. "The total number of German officers now in Turkey is estimated at 500. All British merchantmen in the Black Sea have been ordered home. "Recuperation—There is not so much in the ordinary vacation as there is in a single bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which freshes the tired blood, restores the dulled appetite, restores the lost courage. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla this summer. THE COOK MEDICINE CO., TORONTO, ONT. (Formerly Watson)

Victory Was Doubtful One

The Courier last night summoned its staff together in order to get out an extra paper early this morning to give the public the latest news concerning the reported crushing of German forces by the British troops. Unfortunately the victory, if one there was at all, did not reach any such proportions, and on learning of the real situation this paper declined to indicate any special extras on the public. When news warrants the same, our readers may be sure of getting the very latest and most authentic in Courier special editions.

Colony is Happy At the Success

By Special Wire to the Courier WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Sir Edward Grey, Minister of Foreign Affairs for Great Britain, sent this message to the embassy here today: "The government and people of Australia have telegraphed expressing their intense admiration of the gallant manner in which the troops have acquitted themselves."

"Their splendid valor," the telegram concludes, "has made us proud of the grand old flag." "The Governor-General of the Commonwealth has telegraphed as follows to the Colonial Office: "All ranks Commonwealth defense forces congratulate army and navy on their splendid achievements. Australian forces early look forward joining their comrades in the field."

TO SEIZE BANKS

As a Counter-move Against Britain's Attempt to Starve Out Germany.

By Special Wire to the Courier COPENHAGEN, Sept. 7.—via London, Sept. 8.—10.25 a.m.—The Vossische Zeitung asserts that as a counter-move against England's attempt to starve out Germany, the Germans will take compensation in Belgium by seizing the financial services, taking control of every Belgian bank and all branches of the British, French and Russian banks.

The Vossische Zeitung, commenting on the triple entente agreement not to conclude peace separately, says to speak about peace at present is simply "political futurism." The Vorwaerts says that the agreement will make the war last longer.

NOW THEY QUARREL

ROME, Sept. 7 (via London, Sept. 8).—According to a despatch from Berlin to the Messagero, a serious controversy has arisen between the German Emperor and Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg and Minister of Foreign Affairs von Jagow, the two ministers being regarded as responsible for the unreadiness of German diplomacy which led to the coalition of European states against Germany. It is reported, according to the published dispatch, that their resignations have been tendered.

LITTLE LEFT OF THE PATHFINDER AFTER EXPLOSION

Terrible Devastation When Scout Cruiser Struck German Mine.

ACCIDENT HAPPENED OFF SCOTCH COAST

Late Report Says That Fifty of the Crew of About Two Hundred and Fifty Were Saved LONDON, Sept. 8.—It is learned on reliable authority that the captain and 80 of the crew of the British scout cruiser Pathfinder, which was sunk by a German mine in the North Sea, have been saved. The crew of the Pathfinder numbered about 280.

The destruction of the Pathfinder occurred about 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at a point 10 miles northwest of Saint Abb's Head, Scotland. While she was patrolling the coast, the cruiser struck a mine which exploded near her magazine, blowing her into two pieces and destroying her.

The devastating effect of the explosion of the Pathfinder is emphasized in the report of Coxswain Nisbet, of the Saint Abb's motor lifeboat. He says that for a mile and a half the water was strewn with wreckage of every kind in a description. "There was little of the pieces that was larger than a man's leg. In the midst of the debris he found a ship's Bible floating in the water. A torpedo boat destroyer, according to official announcement the casualties among the officers were eight missing, one seriously wounded and slightly wounded.

AID COMES QUICKLY. An eyewitness, describing the sinking of the cruiser, said: "In less than a minute after the explosion we saw the wreckage of two vessels and suddenly two torpedo boats came into view tearing through the water. We tried to attract their attention, but they were too busy to do anything. I don't know how any wireless operator could have sent a message from the cruiser, as there seemed to be no time for anything. The ship's back must have been broken and the two minutes following the explosion and before she sank must have been practically all that was left to her men standing by the guns and on the lookout for submarines."

The skipper of a trawler, who witnessed the blowing up of the Pathfinder from a distance of less than three miles later reached Berwick. He said he was on deck and the men below getting a meal when our vessel was suddenly shaken. I turned in the direction of the report and saw the cruiser in a perpendicular position amid a fountain of smoke, water and steam. Her stern was uppermost. She poised thus for a moment and then came another explosion and the vessel was practically blown to atoms. She went down in less than four minutes from the time that she struck the mine. The crew of the rescue boat immediately and within an hour there were on the scene five destroyers, four trawlers and six steam drifters.

"We picked up all the survivors that we could find and then remained a long time searching amid the wreckage. So terrific was the explosion that only one piece of wreckage large enough to support the weight of a man was found."

The Pathfinder flew the pennant of Captain Francis Martin Leake, whose ancestor was admiral of the fleet and first lord of the admiralty in the time of Queen Anne. The cruiser had a displacement of 3,000 tons. She was slightly smaller than British cruiser Amphion, which was sunk by the same mine on August 6. Apparently the Pathfinder was on the same sort of duty as the Amphion, being the parent ship of a flotilla of destroyers in Scottish waters.

The Pathfinder was built for scouting purposes and was very fast. She re-entered the service last October and was reported a short time ago as having engaged a German cruiser.

The admiralty is not alarmed by the fact of the disaster, as they expect such incidents and are taking steps to reduce their number. It is now believed that the Germans are using trawlers and other fishing boats to plant mines.

Labor Day parades and sports were held in several cities.

Tennyson's Latest Poem

By Special Wire to the Courier LONDON, Sept. 8 (4.55 a.m.)—Lord Tennyson, son of the poet, at a patriotic meeting last night quoted the following hitherto unpublished poem of his father:

"O who is he the simple fool Who says that wars are over? What bloody portent flashes there Across the straits of Dover? Are you ready, Britons all, To answer 'Yes' with thunder? Arm! Arm! Arm!"

"Nine hundred thousand slaves in arms, They seek to bring us under— But England lives and still will ponder— For we'll crush the depot yonder. Are you ready, Britons all, To answer 'Yes' with thunder? Arm! Arm! Arm!"

Battle Between Austrians and Russians is a Serious Affair.

LONDON, Sept. 8, 10.50 a.m.—A despatch from Rome to the Exchange Telegraph Company says: "A telegram from Vienna states that General Ruzsky, who following the capture of Lemburg executed a flank attack northward against the Austrians under General Auffenberg, the Austrian war minister, is to-day engaged in a desperate attempt to annihilate Auffenberg's army. The battle has already continued three days and is likely to continue several more."

GERMANY'S NAVY

To be Immediately Strengthened by Building New Craft.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—A despatch to the Express from Amsterdam says, according to a Berlin despatch, statements made by members of the Reichstag on the subject of naval expansion, point to the building of twelve torpedo boat divisions, six airship divisions, a number of mine layers and other craft. The rapid construction of three large warships and two smaller cruisers is also advocated.

GERMANS MADE BIG MISTAKE

By Special Wire to the Courier PARIS, Sept. 9.—The German progress seems to have been too rapid and too precipitate in its eagerness to get to the gates of Paris, for they arrived out of breath and to all appearances out of ammunition, which may explain why they did not pursue their original plan.

All prisoners, of whom 300 more arrived in Paris yesterday, appeared fagged and harassed, and the spirit of the army seems to be everything that differs from the conquerors, who pushed back the army of defence from the capital in ten days. Whether the Germans hoped to gain time by a tangent movement away from Paris or, as some military critics suppose, aimed to effect a junction with the army of the crown prince, which was to come from the north, is not known. The developments of the last four days prove that it was a grave error. The enemy is now weakened by forced marches, constant fighting, and entrapment, now further entangled by the arrangements of the last four days, and in the opinion of experts, the result of the German advance is not in the northern districts, as the siege of Paris, even if it retrieve its fortunes in the battle now in progress.

The only hope of the German therefore lies in the armies of the northeastern frontier coming to the rescue, and this hope now seems too long a prospect.

A large number of refugees from the regions north of Paris returned to their homes yesterday as the country is entirely free of German troops, although the fields in the region of Dammartin-en-Goele is still covered with German dead. Traffic on the northern frontier will be resumed at once to the suburban districts.

Excavators to the number of more than 5,000 were called to the surface yesterday. A large number of them is needed to enter the desecrated battlefield. Well known trades union leaders took charge of the recruiting of the necessary forces, and it is being carried out with military precision and discipline.
