DEER HUNTING OUT NORTH.
 Ye Scribs of the Reporter Accounts His Many and Varied Experiences While Hunting for Game in the Wilderness.
 A farmer living near the station was engaged to take the camp equipment, etc., to the common rendezvous and at early dawn he was on hand and the goods loaded on the wagon.
 When everything was secured the pack was fastened on the wagon, the pack, the Butcher Boy shouldered his firock and started on ahead as an advance guard, while the Fox Hunter and Historian took passage on a "pumper" for the next station, from which place there was a short cut across the hills to intersect the road taken by the team. It was nearly three o'clock in the afternoon when the company all got together at the end of the wagon road near the lake and with cheerfulness they set out and wait for the arrival of the rest of the party. Accordingly all hands set to work and in a short time the tents were erected, the provision boxes, extra clothing, firearms etc., stowed away in one and made ready for living in. A large sheet iron stove was set up near the door and the space allotted for the sleeping ap-partment divided off from the rest by a log across the middle of the tent which answered the double purpose of a platform and seat. The first thing in preparing the bed was to cut down a pine and cedar tree near by and strip off the smaller limbs which were spread on the ground to the depth of a foot or more, then liberal covering of marsh hay was pulled from a stack in the vicinity and the whole covered with buffalo robes and blankets which made a very comfortable resting place.
 It was nearly dark when these preparations were complete and in the meantime our Commissary General had not been idle and as the party sat down to their first meal in the woods they congratulated themselves on the excellent prospect of having their meals served up not with a much style, at least in as large quantities and as well cooked as at any country hotel. The next day was spent in perfecting arrangements about camp, cutting a kennel for the dogs, and putting the boat about 2 1/2 miles to the lake. The Butcher Boy was the first of the party to draw blood, having knocked several partridge, which were found very plentiful, very large and fat. While getting supper on that evening the party was agreeably surprised to see a party of five from near Lanark village come up the lake and pitch their tent in the same door yard. They had been on Red Horse for a couple of weeks and had met with but indifferent success.
 They had captured only two deer and caught a small quantity of salmon.
 They were a strong, hardy company of men and their poor success put a damper on the spirits of the newcomers. They brought their own team, which had been kept for them by the settler living nearest to the end of the wagon road. They had two boats, one of which was bought by the other party and taken down to the lake to be used on some one of the many lakes in the vicinity of Red Horse. Sunday was spent in camp, it always being a strict rule of the party to observe the Sabbath as a day of rest.
 Early on Monday morning preparation was made for the first run.
 The Fox Hunter was to set off the dogs, the Rabbit Hunter and Butcher Boy going to the lake, and the Historian to a runaway. The forenoon passed but no sound of the hounds having started game came to the straining ears of the watchers. Late in the afternoon a halo from a dis-

The Reason Why.
 Mary had a little lamb, his fleece was white as snow; it strayed away one summer day, where lambs should never go. Then Mary sat down and tears streamed from her eyes; she never found the lamb because she did not advertise. And Mary had a brother John who kept the village store; he sat him down and smoked his pipe and watched the open door.
 And as the people passed along and did not stop to buy, John still sat down and smoked his pipe and blink-ed his sleepy eye. And so the sheriff closed him out, but still he lingered with him a sympathizing tear. "How is it, sister, that those other merchants here sell all their goods and thrive from year to year?" Remembering her own bad luck, the little maid replied: "I think the other fellows get there, John, because they advertise."

How to Run a School.
 A subscriber from a "rural" district not a dozen miles from Athens handed us the following clipping the other day with a request that it be inserted as it just suited the case of the school in his section.
 1. Elect the most ignorant, else fisted old fogies in the section as trustees.
 2. Employ the cheapest teacher you can get, regardless of qualification, reputation or experience.
 3. Never visit the school, or encourage the teacher.
 4. Never advise your children to be obedient to the teacher, and when on the school in his section.
 5. Be indifferent about sending your children to school regularly.
 6. Put all the fault you can with the teacher, and toil everybody; especially let the pupils hear it.
 7. Do not be concerned whether they have the necessary books.
 8. If any of the scholars make slow progress, blame the teacher for it, and give the public to understand that yours are particularly smart if under a proper teacher.
 9. In general, conduct your school on the cheapest possible plan, and your chief object be to find fault, and devise ways of retrenchment.
 10. If you are fortunate enough after all this to secure the services of a teacher who understands his business be sure and make a relection in the way.

Obituary.
 Thos. Hayes of Athens, who died on Thursday, Nov. 26th, 1891, in the 78th year of his age, was born in the county of Monaghan, Ireland, and came to Canada in the year 1836 with his widowed mother, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Scott. Soon after coming he located in this village where there were only a very few houses in it. Joshua Bates, Wellington Landon, Philip Wing and Arza Parish started business here about the same time that he did. For more than a quarter of a century he bought butter and cheese for Messrs. Haviland, Routh & Co., Montreal; therefore, was well known to the people of these united counties as an upright business man. In 1840 he married Isabella Niblock, by whom he had nine children. These all grew up to man and womanhood. The names are as follows: Mrs. Thos. Leggett, Mrs. W. Elliot, Mrs. Geo. Ferguson, Mrs. Jas. Murray, Mr. W. F. Hayes, Mrs. H. H. Miller, Mrs. H. Layng, Miss Emma Hayes, and Mr. Fred S.
 Hayes. His wife and two of his children, seven sons and five daughters and two sons, survive him.
 In the year 1856 he and his wife were converted and united with the Baptist church of Farnersville, and for nearly fifty years was constant worshiper of that church, and no man in it did more to promote the cause he loved than did he.
 In the year 1850 he was appointed coroner of the united counties of Leeds and Grenville, which appointment he held and efficiently filled for over forty years. He was a life-long Reformer and always took a very active part in politics. Being a man of very keen perceptive faculties, he was not slow to detect wrong and boldly denounce it wherever he saw it. The community has lost an old, intelligent, respected, christian man, and the family a kind and loving father who has gone as a shock of corn fully ripe.
 The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. W. W. Weeks, pastor of Baptist church, Brockville, on Rev.
 xiv. 13—"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord henceforth: Yes, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them"—assisted by Rev. J.
 Grenfell (Meth.), Rev. D. Flemming (Pres.), and Mr. Waring (Bapt.).

 circumstances and owned considerable land.
