The Only Perfect Emulsion

Any well made emulsion of good Cod Liver Oil is good as far as it goes, but if it lacks Iron it is not a perfect emulsion, because Iron is even more necessary and more valuable than the oil.
Ferro! is not only made of the best Cod Liver Oil, but it combines with the oil Iron and Phosphorus and is the only emulsion that contains Iron at all.
Moreover

FERRO!

is finer, more palatable and easier to digest than any other preparation of Cod Liver Oil. Anyone can take Ferro!; few can take Cod Liver Oil in any other way.
Every intelligent person knows that three of the greatest remedial agents known to science are Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus. To get them in combination and in proper proportion you must have Ferro!. There is no other way.
Sufferers from Anæmia, Bronchitis, Chronic Coughs and Colds, Lung Troubles of any kind, Nervous Prostration, Chronic Rheumatism, Neuralgia, General Debility, Loss of Weight, Whooping Cough, Croup, La Grippe or any of the ailments known as wasting diseases, can take Ferro! with the confident assurance that it will cure them if a cure is possible.

REMEMBER

Each dose of Ferro! contains a full medicinal dose of iron and in no other way can iron be properly administered.
Ferro! holds the record for increasing the weight.
Ferro! contains neither alcohol, "dope" nor dangerous drugs of any kind.
Ferro! is the Ideal Infant Food. If your baby is not thriving, give it Ferro! and watch it grow.

FERRO! is not a patent mystery. The formula is freely published. It is prescribed by the best Physicians. It is endorsed by the most eminent Medical Journals. It is used in the greatest Hospitals, Sanitariums, etc.

The Common Things.

The sunshine and the gentle rain,
The clear bird song that fills the morn,
The meadow land which flowers stain,
The swaying banners of the corn,
The grass that whispers to the breeze—
What common, common things are these.

The broad, blue mirror of the lake
That smiles back at the sleeping sky,
The billows, too, that leap and break,
And ding their foamy jewels high;
The silver clouds that one by one
Have back the lanes of the sun.

The stars that blink at jewels black,
And make the world-old mystery,
While they on their appointed ways,
Go speeding through eternity,
Across unfathomed vast of space
On paths that we but dimly trace—
All these are common—brook and hill,
And yet there is no day or night
But borrows all of its delight.

No common thing is held apart
From us, or parted with lock and key,
But in the goodness of its heart,
They are all made for our use.

Without Your Man.

Abner Wilson slipped out of bed, and dressed in the semi-darkness of the early spring dawn. Without looking at the little clock on the shelf, he knew it was a few minutes till five.

Habit, born of continual custom, had taught him to arise at that hour. He tapped lightly on his wife's door and hurried down to the kitchen to start the breakfast fire. He found the bundle of pitch kindling in its usual place at the end of the woodbox, the matches in the cornec holder on the wall, and the waste paper in the rack near the stove. Abner left the damper open, knowing his wife would be down by the time he reached the barn.

It had always been a delightful thing to him to be bathed from hat to boots in the cool fragrance of the early morning. The bawling of the calves in the lot, the squealing of the pigs from the sty, and the hungry nickerings of the horses as they bobbed their heads over the stanchion when he opened the feed-box had always been music in his ear.

But on this morning it all seemed a mockery. The cries of his beloved beasts were a bedlam of discord that rassped in his ear. It was all because Mary was going away—going to leave the ranch and return home. She was weary of the Oregon mountains, tired of looking always out over the endless array of fir-clad ranges, and her heart ached for the level prairies of Iowa.

She would only be away three or four months—just long enough to visit the home folks and the old home place—but even that would seem a long time to Abner, since the two had been constantly together during the four years of their married life, all of which had been lived out in the hills. Most of all, he feared she would never again be content with the solitude of the fir-covered mountains.

They ate in silence, Abner concluding his second cup of coffee, his third slice of ham, and his fourth biscuit with the remark: 'I'm afraid my fashions will be mighty heavy diet, Mary, after fasting so long on these light slim gins of yours.'

'Oh, you will manage that part of it all right,' she assured him; 'the only thing I hate, Abner, is the thought of leaving you out here all alone. It seems selfish in me to go away without you.'

'Don't worry about that, little one,' replied Abner. 'I owe it to you.
You've been loyal these four years.
Most girls would have given up in despair. You should see your folks away. I've kept you from them long enough. It is possible that a sawmill will be placed in the gulch this winter and I can sell my quarter section of timber at a good figure.
'Then, we can both go back.'

'Probably I ought to wait, but I'm awful homesick—awful tired of the hills,' said the young wife.

'I know it, Mary, and there will be no waiting. We've planned for this trip of yours a long time, and I am just as happy as you in the thought that you can go. I'll have the roads around to the gate in ten minutes.'
He shoved back his chair, and giving his wife an affectionate pat on the head with his broad palm, bounded out of the door.

A half hour later the two were in the saddle, and cantering briskly down the winding road toward the railway station. It was a clear May morning, and the air was wood-scented with the fragrance of cedar and balsam fir. Though she had been secretly happy in preparing for her return home, she now felt a pain of regret at leaving. She had believed it would be as if leaving a prison that had walled her in with mountains that could not be scaled, but somehow, this morning where she had never seen it before—in the dancing of the light and shadows across the road, in the nimble scampering of the silver-grey squirrel across the road and in the tall fern that formed a noble canopy of broad fronds over the trail. She heard music and laughter and merriment in the chatter of the creek over the boulder, the whistling of the larks and robins, and the barking of the chipmunk's. Greatest of all, she felt hearted the stout man flushed.

He smiled at her o' that,' he abruptly said, herself she were worthy people, and the boy and his good boy. Neither my partner thought of a sister sort o' seems like a son to

It was there's no question about mon-rival of I don't think that I ever met a cir-rums, a performer before, said the young near the door.

Only one of the man laughed.
little of guess we're all human,' he said, 'I have all joys and sorrows, our stall, a felled face against the baggage trunk on which rested a long line box, ominously suggestive. She recognized the greeting of the two new arrivals with the unexpressed steedman of the people of the hills.

Mary was at once interested in the woman, and while Abner purchased her ticket and checked her trunk that had been brought down by wagon two days before, she opened a conversation with her.

'Are you going on this train?' Mary asked pleasantly.
'Yes,' the woman replied.

'That is good. I am going tomorrow, I'm going back to the States—back to Illinois,' said the woman, without taking her saddened eyes from the pointed firs of the surrounding hills.
'Tom and me came from there twenty year ago. Our two boys are grown up and gone, and I have to go. Tom's here in this box. He was killed by a falling tree. Oh, it's hard—hard to give up Tom' hard to leave the hills where Tom and me have lived so long.'

The woman spoke without emotion, but there were lines in her face that told of hidden sorrow. She paused, and then, as if to change the subject asked: 'Are you going far?'

'I'm going back to Ohio on a visit.
I have not seen my folks in four years.'

'Is your man going?'

'No, he can't leave now. But I can't stay out here any longer, even though I have to leave him for a while.'

'Your man ought to go too,' said the woman. 'There ain't anything when your man is away. Tom and me got a little boy, he's about two years old. I'll be mighty glad to see why I'll see him now. It's much better out here in the hills where it is all so quiet and peaceful, and where everything is so wide and high and deep; but Tom won't be here any more. No, there ain't anything without your man.'

For the first time a tear trickled across the wrinkled cheek. Mary turned her face away. The great truth of the woman's words weighed suddenly heavy on the young wife's heart. It was a relief to her when Abner came out and gave her the ticket and check.

'There's no need of my waiting,' said he. 'I'll get back up to the ranch and do some planting in the garden.' He put his arm around her and pressed a kiss on her cheek.

'Good-bye, little one,' said she, 'have the best time possible and don't worry about me. Give my love to all the folks and write often.'

Mary clung to his neck, tears filled her eyes. She could not speak. She raised her face and he kissed her again full upon the lips. He turned from the platform and walked hurriedly across the clearing to where the roads waited. The woman by the truck put her hands up on the box and turned to the sobbing girl, repeated: 'It's too bad to have to leave him. There ain't anything without your man.'

With a burst of tears, Mary retired to the waiting room, and dropped sobbing into a seat in one corner.
Once she lifted her face to the little window and saw Abner and the two roads disappearing in a roll of dust up the road. She ran out on the platform as if to call him back; but he was gone—gone from sight around a turn of the fir-braded road.

She came suddenly to the decision to ask her own doctor.

'That's enough, parson. You've

done your duty and now we'll do ours. Get to work, lads.'

There was a roar from the crowd,
but the young pastor was undaunted.
As his voice arose again the ruffian
in the van tried to howl him down.
'Quit your yawp!' he shouted.
'You've had your say. Come on,
lads!'

The stout man had been leaning forward, his eyes on the mob. Now he suddenly leaped from the steps and struck the noisy fellow with a swift blow across the mouth with his open hand.

'Take that, you loafer,' he roared, boarded the train. She had it cancelled at once and the price returned.
It was as if a great load was lifted from her heart. With dried eyes and smiling face she went out of the little station and across to the general merchandise store where she asked the privilege of the telephone. A branch wire ran out to the trading post five miles from the ranch and directly on the road. She waited a long time, and then by her request, Abner was stopped when he reached the post and called to the telephone box.

'Hello, Abner,' said the wife, ju-liantly. 'I've decided not to go.
I'm not going till you can go with me. You'll you come back and get me?'

Abner was too greatly surprised to make immediate reply. 'Well, well,' he said at length, 'you're certainly a little thoroughbred. I had better remain and put you on the train.
Come and get you? Yes, I guess I'll have to and might be glad of the chance.'

There was a pause and Mary started to hang up the receiver when Abner again spoke: 'Say, little one, I met Major Simmons on the way up, and had quite a talk with him. He's going to build a sawmill down in the gulch at once. I sold him the quarter section. We'll close the deal next week. That means we can both go back next fall after the crop is in.'

Light of heart, Mary tripped joyously over to the depot. The train was delayed and the woman still stood by the truck and waited. 'I've changed my mind,' said the wife,
'I'm not going now. Abner and I will both go this fall.'

'You're a wise girl,' said the woman.
'You'll soon get the spell of the hills, and you won't care to go. Then the train rushed in and the woman was the only one to see that the luggage box was deposited safely in the baggage car. As she mounted the steps she turned and delivered her farewell message to the young woman on the platform: 'There ain't anything without your man.'—Farm and Home.

NEED A TONIC TO PUT THE BLOOD RIGHT.

Spring blood is bad blood. Indoor life during the winter months is responsible for weak, watery, impure blood. You need a tonic to build up the blood in spring just as much as the trees need new sap to give them vitality for the summer. In the spring bad blood shows itself in many ways.
In some it breeds pimples and eruptions.
In others it may be through occasional headaches, a variable appetite, perhaps twinges of neuralgia or headaches, or a lazy feeling in the morning and a desire to avoid exertion. For these spring ailments it is a tonic you need, and the greatest blood-making, health-giving tonic in all the world is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red, health-giving blood, which reaches every nerve and every organ in the body, bringing heat, strength and energy to weak, dependent, ailing men and women. Here is proof:

Mrs. Geo. Merritt, Sandy Cove, N.S., says: 'I was weak, feeling miserable and terribly run down. The doctor whom I consulted said the trouble was anaemia, but he did not help me.
A friend advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and it is simply impossible for me to over-estimate the good they have done me. I shall always recommend them to all my friends.'

But if you want new health you must get the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale people, manufactured in Canada at Brockville, Ont.
Other so-called pink pills are fraudulent imitations. The genuine Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all reputable medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Those who have least patience at home are the promoters of peace abroad.
Some people never have a call to go to the heathen until they have to get down to brass tacks at home.
Many a preacher spoils a good interpretation of the Scriptures by a poor understanding of the saints.
When you complain of the sermon having nothing in it, stop to ask how much you put into it yourself.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAR. 15, 1907.

The College of Technology.

The government's promised scheme for the establishment of a system of technical education in this province has doubtless some features which are commendable. There are features of the proposed venture, however, which will stand very careful consideration from our legislators before it actually becomes an assured fact.

At a time when the finances of the province are insufficient to enable the government to pay our common-school teachers their legitimate grants, but necessitates an annual paring down of these grants in order to make ends meet, it seems a trifle questionable if we are in a position to go to the cost of maintaining at government expense the most costly of all higher institutions of learning—a technical college.

The economy practiced by the government in the management of the public schools and the payment of the common-school teachers is responsible for a weakening in our educational system which in itself is a serious menace remedied before any such ambitious scheme as is proposed is at all warranted.

In the year ending July, 1905, which is the last year for which we have any data, there were 240 school-children in Nova Scotia in which no school was taught during any part of the year. This was an increase of sixty-one of such sections over that of the preceding year. This means that in a considerable portion of our province children are growing up into citizenship without an opportunity of getting even the rudiments of education.

This deficiency is due in almost every instance to an inability upon the part of the sections to procure teachers at the wretched salaries they can now offer. Our teachers are leaving this province for the west and other places where they may procure a living salary, and throughout Nova Scotia the padlocked school-house is becoming a usual spectacle in many places where a few years ago a prosperous school was conducted.

Will an elaborate system of technical education supply to our population the lack of the public school privileges? What sort of a position will the youth brought up in those sections of the padlocked school-houses be in to avail himself of the opportunities of the technical college later on?

The government scheme provides for an initial expenditure of $100,000 for the establishment of a technical college at Halifax, which will be maintained at an annual cost of at least $50,000. This is a very small amount for an up-to-date College of Technology. The plant for the technical department of McGill cost over a million and a half, and the annual current cost of maintenance is enormous.

The figures estimated by the government are pitifully inadequate for the maintenance of anything but an inferior and ill equipped school, and the student who attends such an institution will be at a great disadvantage as compared with the student of McGill or of any of the higher institutions of learning. It is a question if a man who wishes to qualify as an expert engineer can afford to spend his time of preparation at any but the best equipped schools.

While the expenditure proposed is very small as applied to the object intended, yet it applied to the improvement of our common schools and the better payment of our teachers it could accomplish much, and in our judgment would be much more wisely used.

In expending money upon education the government should carefully consider the result of that expenditure upon the permanent benefit of the people. A large sum of money expended to make of young Nova Scotians electrical and civil engineers, who will be obliged to leave the province to find employment, wisely expended from the standpoint of Nova Scotia?

No doubt Halifax will appreciate the establishment in its midst of such an institution. No doubt the friends of Dalhousie will appreciate the advantages which will accrue to the Dalhousie student from the opportunity of affiliating his course of study with that of the College of Technology, but to the province as a whole the advantages so large an expenditure are not so apparent.

The movement in the direction of the establishment of a library in connection with our public school is certainly a good one. Such an institution cannot fail to be of great benefit. The amount to be appropriated for the purpose this year is small, but it is a wise choice of books is selected and additions made from time to time it will not be long before we have a school library of which we may feel proud. In the meantime we are authorized to say that the School Board will be glad to receive contributions of suitable books from any person. No doubt in every home there are books that could easily be spared which would be of great interest and use.

The rate of taxation for the present year must be very gratifying to the citizens. In spite of the fact that all the services are generously provided for, the Council has been able to reduce the rate from $1.60 to $1.40. An unusual appropriation has been made for streets and also for schools and certainly no department has been neglected. The affairs of the town are certainly in a good condition, and considering what we have in the way of improvements the rate of taxation compares very favorably with that of any town in the province.

Halifax Notes.

Our civic problems continue to be discussed, sometimes with and sometimes without much intelligence by our city fathers. Wedded for so many years to the idea, that to be financially prosperous, we must propagate the Ram traffic, cold shivers and spasms beset them whenever Prohibition is mentioned, and it works out like this:—

1. The 'traffic' pays the city a good bonus to exist and do business.
2. The city uses up this bonus and so per cent. more in taking care of the victims of the traffic.
3. The city fathers provide the extra 50 per cent. by taxing the citizens, many of whom have no use for the traffic in any shape.

Query: How long will it take a grade 8 schoolboy to figure out the city's profit off the traffic? And yet so called shrewd business men, including our City Recorder, are publicly eulogizing the wonderful profits derived from this kind of business.

That other bugaboo, less of Provincial trade by our wholesalers, is periodically trotted out, too, on these occasions in the interest of the 'trade.' The closing up of our wholesale liquor houses would not seriously affect too employees, and other lines of business would soon open up for these. If Quebec and N. B. houses sell liquors in N. S. a remedy will much more easily be found for this abuse when a prohibitory law of some kind becomes general throughout the province. Our out of town M. P.'s need not therefore worry about injuring Halifax by voting out the liquor traffic. They will be doing us an mighty good turn.

The spectacle of ships' crews full of Water street booze, groping on hands and knees down joy wharves, of drunken loafers squinting tobacco juice over one sidewalk and filling the air with profanity; of women and children being thumped and battered by a manlin brute, made so by the very trade that is lauded as such a blessing to Halifax; the dead body of the stranger sailor carrying with him the palm book from father and mother expressive of their love, all of which was probably forgotten while the cup of good fellowship was being handed round in one of our licensed saloons; these are the blessings and benefits the city stands to lose by the passage of a prohibitory law. Good speed the day.

Ladies Frequently Suffer Losses Through the Dishonesty of Their Merchants and Dealers.

The women of Canada frequently suffer money losses and great inconveniences through the desperate greed of some of the merchants who sell substitutes and common preparations to buyers who look for standard and reliable goods.

This is especially true of the merchants and dealers who handle and sell the weak and adulterated package dyes put up by speculators and gold-diggers. These dyes are sold at a price as low as the genuine DIAMOND DYES, and are so popular all the world over.

DIAMOND DYES are made from the finest and most expensive anilines that can be produced, always guaranteeing uniformity in strength and coloring power. The crude package dyes are made from materials that cost about one quarter the price of anilines composing DIAMOND DYES. These common and crude dyes are not of sufficient strength to give a decent color to a farm fence. Think of such dyes being used to color valuable dresses and other garments!

The safeguarding of our financial interests and home happiness depends upon the regular use of the DIAMOND DYES. Send your full address to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., and you will receive free of cost Diamond Dye Booklets and card of 50 Dyed samples.

The death of Levi Eaton, one of the oldest and most respected farmers of Lower Canada, occurred on Saturday last. He was 74 years of age and leaves besides a sorrowing widow, three sons, Leverett, of Milton, Mass., who arrived home on Saturday evening; James E., who owns an adjoining farm at Casard; and Walter H., who resides on the homestead; and two daughters, Mrs. John Borden and Miss Carrie, who resided with her parents. The deceased was a son of the late James Eaton, of Conard.

Grand Pre Items.

Mrs. Craig, of Cambridge, spent last Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. C. A. Patriquin, on Long Island.

The British emigrants are beginning to arrive. Some have been successfully placed but through the blunder of somebody two families were sent to people who do not require their class of help. One family returned to Halifax, the other will try for employment in this country.

Tenders are asked for carrying the mails between the Grand Pre post office and railway station. Mr. Edward McLachy has had this contract for several years but now intends to give it up.

A fox has been seen several times on the Grand Pre dyke during the past week.

MISS B. K. SAXTON.

W. C. T. U. Anniversary.

The fifteenth anniversary of the Wolffville branch of the W. C. T. U. was celebrated by an "At Home" in their rooms on Friday afternoon. The invitations were limited to old members of the Union. Mrs. Walter Mitchell, the esteemed president, welcomed the visitors and gave some account of the present work of the society. Various branches of work are being carried on by the society, and special effort is being made for the Labrador stations. For several years, each spring, boxes of clothing and comfortable for the hospital have been forwarded. The outlook for the society is hopeful, and the whole work is educational in a marked degree. Mrs. R. V. Jones, one of the charter officers, gave a most excellent and instructive paper on the past history of the Union. When the society was started there were three places where liquor could be bought; at present, not one. The combined efforts of the W. C. T. U., the Division and the men of the town, accomplished this desirable achievement, and in view of the large number of young men being educated here this was a long step in advance. If the temperance people of the town never accomplish anything more, this one act of freeing the place from this terrible curse, will be a sufficient cause for their existence. As the last saloon keeper was packing his effects, he made this memorable remark: "The women of Wolffville are not willing for me to make an honest living, therefore I go." May the time never come when the citizens of the town will be willing for honest livings (?) to be made in that way. Mrs. D. W. Crandall sang very sweetly an appropriate selection. Refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour spent.

Never So Well Since Girlhood

Mrs. E. J. Vanderburgh, of Eastern Welland avenue, St. Catharines, Ont., and, reading about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I decided to try it. After having used half a dozen boxes of this preparation my old trouble had entirely vanished and I was enjoying better health than I had since girlhood. I am now past middle life and am in perfect health. I would not take words today and go back to my former state."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is especially popular with the women because of its gentle action and remarkable restorative influence; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

BEVER FLOUR

Beaver Flour is the best for Pastry—just as it is best for Bread.

Our Friend the Enemy.

DEAR SIR:—The issue of the Townsendside organ of Thursday last, 7th, contains another letter from the—of late—regular correspondent of that paper.

In the best interests of Union Reform it is much to be regretted that the circulation of the organ is so extremely limited. What ever opinion the public might have formed regarding Mr. Campbell's conduct as a representative, no one could read the letters which this correspondent has published over various signatures without feeling that, at all events, that conduct had incurred the displeasure of the friends of the liquor traffic; that Mr. Campbell was the man the Townsendsides did not want, and therefore a man to whom the friends of Temperance and Moral Reform were safe in giving their confidence.

This latest effusion is dated from Berwick. It, however, contains internal evidence—if such were needed—that it was not written by a resident of this town.

Baby's Smile.

Baby's smile indicates that he is well and happy. It is only the sick child who is cross and restless. And the mother can depend upon it that when her baby cries he is not crying simply to be ugly—that is not his nature—he is crying because he is in pain—most probably his little stomach is out of order. The mother will find Baby's Own Tablets a never failing cure for all the minor ailments of little ones. In the homes where the Tablets are used there are no cross, crying babies—nothing but bright, happy and playful babies—the kind that are a joy to the home.

Letters to the Editor.

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN. In view of the fact that doubt seems to have taken hold of the minds of many of our towns-people as to the wisdom of continuing work for the Labrador Fishermen, undertaken by the charitably-disposed amongst us, it seems a propos at this stage to place before the public a few facts as to the merit of the work, and as facts are stubborn things they should also be convincing.

These people, who are, no doubt, sincere in their protest, claim, as the basis of their argument, that the supply exceeds the demand. Doubtless the readers of THE ACADIAN are familiar, to a greater or less extent, with the able work of Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, and of his self-effacing efforts to minister to the wants of suffering humanity on the inhospitable coasts of Labrador.

A writer in speaking of the rigor of the climate of Labrador says: 'As a permanent abode of civilized man, it is on the whole one of the most uninviting regions on the face of the earth, yet here is where Dr. Grenfell, with a true altruistic spirit, labors and endures hardships, that we of more favored climes have but scant knowledge. We subjoin the following extracts from one of his recent contributions to a Toronto Magazine: 'I want to say to working societies that we are very much in need of patchwork quilts, and forms of warm bed-covering. Such things are exceedingly hard to get and the labor of love which so many kindly sewing societies bestow upon the work might be very profitably turned in this direction for a time. Over and over again this last year I have been unable to help a poor family by giving them patchwork quilts for bed-coverings which they greatly needed yet could afford in no other way. Will you kindly make this last a feature of your next appeal? We also value very much any supplies of invalid foods and food that we can give to ill-nourished and weakly children. Even the odd tins that W. C. T. U. barrels have sometimes contained are always eagerly called out and laid aside for emergencies. I mention the matter of any kind of footwear, boots and shoes, especially for boys and girls, that will keep out water, or that are strong. Shirts for women and girls we get very few of, and boys' clothing we very rarely get any. And we want some underclothing very badly, especially children's, also boys' shirts. A most generous gift of men's shirts that we had was very welcome. It is more children's things we need now. Table linen for the Orphanage is badly needed, also a chest of drawers. A couple of trays for the Hospital, any buckets that stand hard wear, that are used on Canadian farms, we should like. For the surgery we need bandages, rolls of lint, plaster of paris and some sheets of poro-plaster felt for making splints. These are the main things we need at present. There are so many small things needed about an empty house like the Orphanage that we shall have to write out unless someone is kind enough to think of doing them.'

We might repeat extracts 'ad libitum' but it is unnecessary. To those who wish further information on the subject we would refer them to the magazines, 'Fishers of the Deep' and 'Among the Deep Sea Fishers,' published the former in Toronto, Canada, the latter in London, England.

Does Coffee disagree with you? Probably it does! Then try Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee. 'Health Coffee' is a clever combination of parched cereals and nuts. Not a grain of real coffee, remember, in Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee yet its flavor and taste matches closely old Java and Mocha Coffee. If your stomach, heart, or kidneys can't stand Coffee drinking, try Health Coffee. It is wholesome, nourishing, and satisfying. It's safe even for the youngest child. Sold by T. L. Harvey.

MR. EDITOR.—Allow me a little space to add a small portion of information to the public by way of keeping the chaffron boiling—not by criticism, praise or disparage; I prefer to let Union Reform work its own, etc.

I must quote the Scotch lassie: 'Hark! hark! I hear the pibroch sounding.' It bearded laugh her to scorn, she only exclaimed the louder, 'The Campbells are coming.' Soon the battle was raging.

Is it not so now? The Campbell has come and with his prop (sawyer). The slogans have sounded—their seven-leagued boots on their buckled, and over the hills and vales they bounded to plant the standard of purity and to crush corruption. Victory crowned the Campbell of Kings by

The Joys of Cuddletime.

As the evening shadows gather,
Then 'tis cuddletime, I know,
When my baby, dressed for Dreamland, Comes a-sleeping to me so:
Come and beg of me to hold him
On my knees and 'rock-a-bye."
As the purring on a sofa lower
To the glowing western sky,
And he cuddles to me nearer,
And the firelight softly glows,
And across the dusky portals Dimly, flickering shadows thrown,
And two dimpled arms about me
Are clasped tighter for a kiss—
And, was ever richer neckless Placed about one's neck than this!
Soon the drooping, drooping lashes
Cover up two eyes of brown,
And the tucked head so golden
On my breast sinks lower down,
On my breast sinks lower down,
And the sweetest of the pleasures
Makin' life an golden crown,
With a diffident little sigh
When it comes to cuddletime!

SHOULDER
TO

The young pastor stood by the gate and shaded his eyes as he looked down the road. As the approaching figure came a little nearer, he understood the oddity of its appearance.
There were two men, and one of them was carrying the other on his back.
When they reached the pastor the burden bearer passed. He was a stout fellow of more than medium height.
'Howdy, sir,' he said in a deep voice, 'I trust you are quite well?'
'Quite well, thank you,' the young pastor replied.

The burden on the stout man's back squirmed uneasily. 'Lemme down, Tom,' it said.
The stout man's voice suddenly softened. 'You ain't a bit heavy, Phil. Don't you get down unless you're tired or riding.'
'I am tired, said the burden.
'Friend of mine who's a little bit under the weather,' the stout man explained. 'Got a bit tired coming up that long hill, and that's how I happened to be totting him.'

The pastor looked at the stout man's friend. He was only a boy of eighteen, perhaps, whose appearance showed the ravages of a wasting disease.

'Phil ain't what you'd call pretty robust,' the stout man somewhat haz-ily explained. 'He's a little chabby, about the legs and wants fleshing up a bit. All he needs is a breath or two of this mountain air, and a plateful of good country feed.'

The boy shook his head.
'Tom knows better,' he said in his hoarse tones. 'I aint a-goin' to get well, an' he knows it. It's my lungs.'

The stout man gave the boy a playful shake.
'We want to find a boarding place, Phil and I. Just a quiet house where the air is good and the feed is good, and where we can see the sun rise and set. And we'll pay well for it.'

The pastor reflected for a moment.
'I think the place for you is the Widow Langley's,' he answered. 'She has plenty of room and I have no doubt will be glad to receive you. She lives just beyond the turn in the road. You can see her chimney through the trees there.'

'Thank you,' said the stout man,
'Come Phil!'
The pastor stood in the roadway watching the two strangers until they passed around the curve. The stout man was merrily whistling and keeping step to the music. The sick boy's head dropped upon his bearer's shoulder.

That evening the pastor had a caller. It was the stout man. He came up the walk a little diffidently. The pastor was on the broad porch. 'Come up,' he said cordially. 'I am glad to see you again. Take this easy chair.'

The stranger hesitatingly accepted.
'Thanky,' he said. 'You are very good. You see, he hesitated again, 'you see I thought it would be well to know somebody in the neighborhood —and it struck me the parson was the very one I ought to know.'

'The boy is in a critical state,' said the parson.
'Yes, he is.'
There was a little silence.
'Do you wish me to recommend a doctor?'

The stout man shook his head.
'No. The boys had all the doctoring he can stand. He's going to take his tonic out of the mountain air.'

'Have you come far?' the pastor asked.
'From Amityville. My partner's there at the hot springs trying to boil out his rheumatism. We're all show people, you see, he presently added.
'And is the boy in the show business, too?' the latter asked.
'Yes, he was born into it. His father was a trapeze performer and his mother a bicycle rider. The lad is a leaper and tumbler. Father and mother are both dead and since the boy got so sick he couldn't work, my partner and I have been looking after him.'

The sight of the boy aged 17th, before the pastor, Phil, aged
'You are a feeble.

That's enough, parson. You've
done your duty and now we'll do
ours. Get to work, lads.'
There was a roar from the crowd,
but the young pastor was undaunted.
As his voice arose again the ruffian
in the van tried to howl him down.
'Quit your yawp!' he shouted.
'You've had your say. Come on,
lads!'
The stout man had been leaning forward, his eyes on the mob. Now
he suddenly leaped from the steps and struck the noisy fellow a swift blow across the mouth with his open
hand.
'Take that, you leafer,' he roared,
and snatched from the fellow's hand a stout cudgel, and fiercely menaced the mob. You should be afraid of me. You should be afraid of me.
'You've heard the parson—now listen to me! There are two men here, standing shoulder to shoulder for order and decency. They're not going to let you get into this jail without a fight—and somebody will get hurt.
I'm good for any half dozen of you myself. Now get to your homes before it's too late.'
He leaped back to the pastor's side, the cudgel in his hand, his eyes blazing.
For a moment the mob was still.
Then a hoarse voice shouted 'Kill him!' and a stone thrown from the outsirts of the crowd grazed the stout man's forehead. Another missile flew by him and struck the jail door. There was a forward movement of the mob.
But the stout man leaped forward again and caught hold of the ringleader whom he had singled out. The fellow was wiping his bleeding mouth in a dazed fashion. The stout man caught him around the waist and lifting him quickly flung him on to the upper step. Then he followed him and held him up so that he formed a sort of shield for the pastor and himself.
'Now fling your stones,' he roared.
'Here's your own target for you.
Bring on your battering ram. But I'll promise you it will go hard with this big leafer if you try any of your cowardly games.'

'Smash him, Sam!' screamed a shrill voice in the midst of the mob.
'Yes, Sam, smash him!' said the stout man. He was behind the ringleader, holding him by the wrist.
'Sam couldn't be more helpful if he was a baby, could you, Sam?'

There was confusion in the mob,
Here was an unexpected opposition.
The stout man noted the hesitation.
'All the same to you,' he heard the ring-leader whisper to the ring-leader's ear, and the request was followed by a significant twist of the ring-leader's wrist.
'Go home, boys, go home, roared the helpless leader.
'Once more, demanded the stout man.
'Go home, boys, go home!
The mob wavered—and just then the ring-leader's hoofs were heard in the distance.
'The sheriff,' murmured the pastor.
'The sheriff!' repeated a half dozen voices.
The rider came nearer. The mob suddenly turned and fled.
Less than a week later the sick boy quietly fell asleep and the little town had seldom seen a larger funeral. All the pastor's flock was there, and the flowers were many and beautiful.
The lad was laid away on the sunny hillside of the old cemetery.

'You've been very kind to me, and to the boy, parson,' said the stout man as he stood on the station platform and waited for the train that was to bear him away. 'I'm afraid I may have said something that jarred on your feelings, and I'm sorry for it.'
The pastor smiled and said: 'I've learned to judge you by your deeds, not your words.'

The stout man flushed.
'The show will be at Colebrook the early part of the coming season,' he said, and looked hard at the pastor.
'Let me know when it will be there, the latter stonily said, 'and I will come over to see it.'
The stout man wrung the pastor's
hand.
'Good-by,' he cried.

Hard on the Teacher.

At the annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association at Ottawa on Feb. 27, Sir Frederick Borden said that his idea was to use the permanent corps for teaching in the Normal Schools physical training and the use of the rifle. No teacher would get a certificate until he had such an education. There would be special classes set apart for teaching physical training.

'Think of the young ladies, who constitute ninety-five per cent. of the attendance at the Normal Schools, being

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes, 100,000 times each day.
Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health;
bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is sluggish bowels. This prevents circulation, causing the blood to become impure. It makes the blood open with Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

SPRING ADVICE.

DO NOT DOSE WITH PURGATIVES AND WEAKENING MEDICINES—WHAT PEOPLE NEED AT THIS SEASON IS A TONIC.

Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That's the spring feeling.
You are easily tired, appetite variable, sometimes headaches or a feeling of depression. Or perhaps pimples and eruptions appear on the face, or you have twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order, that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.
Don't dose yourself with purgative medicines in the hope that you can purge your blood right. Purgative gallons through the system, and weaken instead of giving strength.
What you need is a tonic medicine that will make new, rich, red blood, build up the weakened nerves and thus give you new health and energy. And the one medicine to do this speedily and surely is Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose of this medicine makes new, rich blood which makes weak, easily tired and ailing men and women feel bright, active and strong. If you need a medicine this spring try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will never regret it. This medicine has cured thousands in every part of the world and what it has done for others it can easily do for you.

The head-quarters for the genuine
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in Canada is Brockville, Ont.
So-called pink pills offered by companies located at other places in Canada are fraudulent imitations intended to deceive. If your dealer does not keep the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People send to Dr.
Williams Medicine Co. will mail the pills to you at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

That's why catarrh is invariably cured by inhaling 'Catarrhozone.' The healing vapor spreads to every part of the breathing organs. Germs infecting the tissues of the nose,

Spots that are sore are healed. Discharge is cleared away and catarrh becomes something of the past. Use 'Catarrhozone' and your recovery is guaranteed. Two sizes, 25c. and

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAR. 22, 1907.

Pure Speech.

Mr. George Wright, of Halifax, has been for some time waging a very laudable warfare against the use of profane language. His zeal is certainly to be commended and all those who have the best interests of humanity at heart will join him in this righteous campaign. The use of profane language is becoming altogether too common, as all who have occasion to visit the streets and public places of any town can attest. There are stringent laws in most cities and towns throughout the United States and Canada against profanity, and if such laws had been enforced at the right time profane and bad language would not be in such common use among so many classes of men and small boys at the present time.

In a recent sermon the Bishop of Carlisle made a remark that is favorably commented on by the Halifax press. "Anyone who swears," said the Bishop, "manifests the beggarly nature of his vocabulary." Getting at the same idea in another way the patriot says: "People swear with Civil English, or have the skill to manipulate it so that it will yield the amount of fire they want. . . . The cure for profanity—reformers and educators please take note—is merely wit enough to handle your words so that swearing will seem like baby talk in comparison." There is yet another view, that of an Englishman newly come to Canada, and shocked by the profanity he hears about him: "Any man," he remarked, "who curses in that way is a cad."

We presume that Wolfville is no worse in this regard than other towns, but certainly every citizen must have felt that a great improvement is possible in the language heard on our streets. An educational reform should be inaugurated, and the town authorities through the existing laws, or new ones, should put the machinery in operation in the direction of procuring a less objectionable speech.

Helping Mothers.

"I always tell my neighbors who have children how good I have found Baby's Own Tablets," says Mrs. L. Reville, Gawas, Ont. Mrs. Reville further says:—"I would not be without the Tablets in the house for I know of no medicine that can equal them in curing the ill from which children so often suffer." It is the enthusiastic praise of mothers who have used the Tablets that makes them the most popular childhood medicine in Canada. Any mother using Baby's Own Tablets has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine does not contain one particle of opiate or harmful drug. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dr. L. H. Morse, one of Digby's popular physicians, returned home from New York Wednesday, where he has been taking a special course of study in gynecology and abdominal surgery at the Post Graduate Medical School in that city. He was accompanied home by his mother who had been the guest of the Doctor's brother, Rev. Dr. A. H. C. Morse, pastor of one of Brooklyn's (N. Y.) leading Baptist churches.—Courier.

Dr. Morse is a brother of Mrs. Hugh Fowler, of this town.

Sir Robert L. Weatherbe, chief justice of Nova Scotia, has retired from the bench, his resignation going into effect on Tuesday. Sir Robert is over seventy years of age and retires with the allowance which the Statute gives him. The opinion is expressed that his place on the bench will be filled by the appointment of Mr. W. E. Roscoe, of Kentville, and that Hon. Arthur Drysdale will succeed him in the chief justiceship.

We are glad to know that there is a prospect of street improvement in Wolfville during the coming season. Wolfville is in many respects an ideal town, and we may reasonably be proud with improved streets our town will be some of the best in the province. Several citizens should show his interest in the movement and do all in his power to help along the good work.

Does any person know what steps are being taken to secure a government building for Wolfville? It was supposed that some move was made a year or two ago, but whatever was done appears to have proved ineffectual. If we are to get what is due us in this direction some combined action must be taken. Won't the Board of Trade try and do something?

Several incorporated towns are considering the advisability of increasing the poll tax rate. Tryro has raised the tax to four dollars. This refers only to those who do not have any real or personal property rates, and will come into force in that town during 1908. Moncton, Sydney, and several other towns have made the poll tax five dollars.

The health officers of Nova Scotia are now in session at Halifax, for the formation of a Public Health Association. Dr. DeWitt is in attendance, having been appointed to read a paper on "Tuberculosis, the house and the workshop." The program includes a wide range of subjects, and the meeting should prove of great interest and profit.

Institution for the Deaf and Dumb.

The annual report of this most excellent institution has been issued, and from its pages we cull the following facts:

The Principal reports that the total attendance for the year was 110, of whom 87 were from Nova Scotia, 9 from Newfoundland, 8 from New Brunswick, and 6 from P. E. Island. On the subject of compulsory education the Principal reports that he has called attention in his report to the desirability of a law making it compulsory for parents of deaf children to send them to school. Since my last report I have communicated with the superintendents of schools for the deaf in every State of the Union, and have obtained information regarding this matter from the British Isles and Europe. In some of the States in the Union a compulsory education law is in force and in every place where such is not the case the superintendents of schools for deaf deplore the fact, and declare how much it is needed. In England, Scotland and Wales the compulsory education of the deaf is enforced the same as with hearing children. In Ireland no provision has been made by the Imper-liament for the education of the deaf, and though the most interested and influential persons in the country have for the last fifteen years or more petitioned parliament annually to make provision for the education of the deaf nothing yet has been done, and the schools are still entirely dependent for support on charitable contributions. When provision is made by government, compulsory education will there be enforced also. We have at present pupils who were not sent to school until they were sixteen or seventeen years old and for whom but little can be done compared with what might have been accomplished if they had been placed under instruction at the proper age. I would respectfully urge you to seek this legislation to have the law so amended that it will not be possible for any deaf child of sound body and mind to grow up uneducated in the province of Nova Scotia.

The pupils in attendance from this county are: William Taylor, Parker Wood, Loran Taylor, Ethel Hodges and Vera Reid.

The "Come Into My Parlor" Story.

The invitation of the manufacturers of muddy, blotchy and adulterated package dyes to the ladies of Canada to use their poor colors for home coloring is as dangerous as the call of the spider to the fly. The invitation of the makers of common dyes if accepted, means loss of money and ruin of valuable clothing and materials; the acceptance by the fly of the spider's offer, is death.

To-day, many ladies know too well that in the past they have been victimized by the false stories told by makers of crude dyes, and have suffered serious losses.

The DIAMOND DYES, used all over the civilized world, have always done good and profitable work for our women and girls. No other package dyes are as strong, bright, full and as lasting as the DIAMOND DYES; old and young can use them with equal success and pleasure.

Ladies should see that the words "DIAMOND DYES" appear on each package they purchase. Refuse all imitations and substitutes if you would avoid loss and trouble.

Lord Strathcona.

WILL HE RESIGN?

The Boston Transcript, a high class paper, usually well informed on Canadian affairs and enjoying the advantage of having access to information often difficult to procure, publishes a communication from London indicating that pressure is being exercised to induce Lord Strathcona to resign.

For a long time it has been known that certain statesmen at Ottawa have coveted the High Commissionership, and if Lord Strathcona were not so endeared to the Canadian people as he is some of the ambitious gentlemen referred to would have found a way to make the position untenable. The fact is the man who would put a slight on Lord Strathcona would offend the whole Canadian people. In the hands of an unscrupulous man, the High Commissionership has immense possibilities in the way of encouragement to schemers and grafters. The boomers and promoters know that they cannot get Lord Strathcona to lend his aid to any project, knowing it to be dubious, and they yearn for the time when they will have a man in the position who is not above persuasion in these matters.

Mass Temperance Meeting.

A few days ago the Hon. Sir Charles Tupper, M. D., G. C. M. G., was presented at the Westminister Palace Hotel with a portrait of himself, painted by the late Mr. A. G. Turner, and subscribed for by friends of different political views, as a mark of their appreciation of his services to Canada. Among those present were the Agents-General for Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island, and Mr. Henrick Heaton, M. L. The presentation was made by Lord Strathcona, who read an address setting forth the services which Sir C. Tupper had rendered Canada during the past sixty years, first in his native province of Nova Scotia, and later in the wider sphere of the Dominion. As Premier of Nova Scotia, Prime Minister of the Dominion and the High Commissioner in London, he had rendered valuable service, and his name would pass down to posterity as one who had done much to place Canada in the high position she now occupies in the Empire and among the nations of the world. Sir Charles Tupper, in returning thanks mentioned that he was the senior survivor of the sixteen representatives of Canada who met in connection with the British North America Act. Sir Charles Tupper is one of the many men whose beginning their career as members of the medical profession, have achieved distinction as statesmen and administrators. Born in 1821, he studied medicine at the University of Edinburgh. He represented his native county in the Canadian Parliament for thirty one years, and at one time or another held nearly every office in the Government of Canada. He has been President of the Privy Council, Minister of Inland Revenue, Minister or Customs, Minister of Public Works, Minister of Railways and Canals, Minister of Finance, and Prime Minister. He has been twice High Commissioner for Canada in England, and was one of Her Majesty's Plenipotentiaries on the Fishery Commission at Washington in 1887, and to negotiate a treaty between France and Canada in 1892. He was created a K. C. M. G. in 1897, a G. C. M. G. in 1886, and a Baronet in 1888.—British Medical Journal.

Constipation, Kidney Trouble.

Mr. J. A. Buchner, Port Robinson, Ont., writes:—"For many years I was the unhappy victim of kidney trouble, rheumatism and constipation, which became bad as to make life a burden. I was a constant sufferer and at times could not get up for anything. The appetite was feeble, and I became thin and emaciated. I could not sleep and would arise languid and enfeebled. "A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I am thankful that they fell into my hands. The first box gave relief and hope and I continued to use these pills until the time came when I was enjoying my former good health and vigor. He took about eight boxes to make the cure complete, and I shall always recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as an ideal medicine. I am giving this testimony for the benefit of others suffering as I did. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all druggists, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto."

Letters to the Editor.

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN.

Sir,—There has been a rumor that Mabel Soloman died of a contagious disease (cerebro spinal meningitis.) This is incorrect. The disease was tubercular meningitis, the tubercle bacillus affecting the brain instead of the lungs which was the immediate cause of death. The room, bedding and clothing were thoroughly disinfected as all cases of tuberculosis should. The case was no more infectious than any ordinary case of consumption. Sincerely,

G. E. DeWitt.

Bourassa is Right.

Criticism of Mr. Bourassa because he desires that Parliament should purge itself of the suspicion cast upon it by some prominent members by Mr. Fowler's insinuation regarding the Ministers and their supporters in connection with 'wines, wine and graft,' will not attract much public sympathy. Mr. Bourassa is entirely in the right. Parliament cannot adjourn without an investigation into this matter. The Ministerial delegation to the Imperial Conference in London ought not to depart with so grave an insinuation hanging over the heads of the Ministers as a body.

It would be a national humiliation if some of these Ministerial delegates of ours should be recalled from the midst of the festivities in London to play a part in so sordid and disgusting a drama.

Mr. Bourassa is jealous for the honor and good name of Parliament; and it is not at all strange that he finds himself almost alone in this feeling. The last thing which appears of late to have occurred to the majority of the members of Parliament has been to safeguard the honor and protect the good name of that body. Their callousness on this point could not be better illustrated than by the indifference with which they have permitted these Fowler insinuations to hang over them. Sensitive men would have demanded immediate action. In the days of duelling, they would have challenged without an hour's delay, and our boasted advanced civilization, which has done away with duelling, is a poor thing, indeed, if it has also done away with the sensitive personal honor that went with that practice.

Then there is another point. Mr. Fowler is quite frank in saying that, if he is left alone, he will let his opponents alone. Now, if he does not speak—and if the Ministerialists permit him to remain silent—what inference will the average man draw? Will it not be that Mr. Fowler's 'notice' has been not d and that he has been spared? This would amount to a 'saw off' of the most dangerous description; and the degradation of Parliament could hardly go deeper.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Bourassa will insist upon keeping this matter before Parliament. If Parliament intends to swallow its shame, it should be compelled to do so in public. Mr. Bourassa may get himself disliked in the smoking-rooms and the lobbies of the Commons; but he will gain the respect and the confidence of the decent people of the country who are blushing to-day for a Parliament that can be publicly insulted to its face and meekly take no notice. — Montreal Star.

An exchange says of a former Bridgetown Presbyterian clergyman,—

The name of Dr. H. S. Davidson, the clever young Canadian Semitic scholar who has won a name for himself in research in Arabic, and an important work for those who pen in that department is shortly to appear in a Semitic series in Germany. It is mentioned in connection with an appointment to the Semitic faculty of Columbia university, New York.—Bridgetown Monitor.

Does Coffee disagree with you? Probably it does! Then try Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee. 'Health Coffee' is a clever combination of parched cereals and nuts. Not a grain of real coffee, neither. In Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee you get first flavor and health-giving elements of Java and Mocha Coffee. If your stomach, heart, or kidneys can't stand Coffee drinking, try Health Coffee. It is wholesome, nourishing, and satisfying. It's sold every where for the youngest child. Sold by T. L. Harvey.

While away in Boston recently Mr. F. J. Porter bought four automobiles, which are expected here shortly. Evidently the automobile has come to stay, and next summer it will be a common occupant of our streets.

Ladies Play Hockey.

A large number of spectators witnessed the game of ladies' hockey on Friday evening last in the Evangelical rink. The game was between the Windsor and Wolfville teams and was a good one. The ice was in fine condition, and the attendance of the band added to the pleasure of the evening. The line-up was as follows: Windsor:—L. Vaughan, goal; M. McCardy, point; M. Smith, cover point; B. Smith, left wing; H. Sexton, right wing; J. Mosher, rover; L. Roach, centre.

Both teams this year are very strong skaters, and the combination work was excellent. The visiting team, the white and reds, but up a strong game against their opponents, the white and blues, and the play was fast and exciting, and the spectators cheered the fair maidens heartily through it all. When time was called for the first half, Wolfville stood 1-0. Miss Erid Tufts, one of the best and swiftest players, shot the goal. In the second half the play became more strenuous, and most evenly balanced until near the end, when Miss Sexton, of Windsor, succeeded in landing the puck. The Wolfville team was most desirous of playing off, but the Windsor team preferred to keep the goal they already had, to risking the good of an uncertain future, so the score stood 1-1. The visiting team was entertained by the Wolfville team at a course dinner at Acadia Villa hotel, after the game.

A return game was played at Windsor on Wednesday evening, when the score was 2-1 in favor of the Windsor girls.

Rev. Dr. Trotter Seriously Ill.

The latest news from Dr. Trotter is that a hospital examination of his case in a hospital in Ohio has revealed the distressing fact that sciatica was only a secondary thing as the surgeons found that the hip and thigh were inflamed and that he was suffering from disease of the peritonium of the thigh bone. He is neither to sit nor stand for long periods and must avoid any muscular action. After three weeks in the hospital he is at his home in Toledo. The church refuses to accept his resignation while recovery in the near future is at all possible.
