A Vacation Bureau.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Here is a suggestion for women's clubs, teachers, in short for any persons or organizations interested in young people, and anxious to see them find themselves.

Every high school and grammar school needs a trade and vocation bureau. That is some sort of an organization which will make an effort to tell young people about the trades and vocations open to them and help them find what they are fitted for.

Congenial work is perhaps the greatest source of happiness in the world.

Uncongenial work is one of the greatest sources of unhappiness. And yet every year thousands of square pegs are unsuccessfully trying to fit themselves into round holes just because our young people's choice of a trade or vocation is left so largely to chance.

I wish that in every town or city in this country the women's club, or some other organization interested in young people, would form a trade and vocation bureau.

The work of the bureau would be to investigate and classify the various occupations and to tell the young people about them.

Where possible someone who had made good in each occupation would be asked to speak to them before the school. When this was not possible, it would be the work of the various members of the bureau to look up the necessary facts about the occupation and present them to the pupils.

By the necessary facts, I mean the cost of training and the best place to get it. The kind of temperament and ability required; the salary to be expected; the advantages, and any other facts which might help each student to make up his mind whether that was the kind of work he would like to take up.

Some of the talks would be given in the grammar school and some in the high school. The bureau would have to study the situation in its town and decide such matters accordingly. I should advise that the high school talks be given as early as the sophomore year, as the choice of a high school course might be affected by the decision of this sort. I required an extra year of preparation because I didn't decide what I wanted to do with myself until my last year in high school.

Besides giving these talks, the bureau would hold itself ready to help any student who cared to come to them for further information.

I met a woman whose daughter is in her last year at high school, the other day, and asked what they were going to do with her when she was through high school.

"We haven't any idea," she said. "It worries me, but I really don't know what to do about it."

The case is typical. That girl will probably drift into any opening that presents itself. She will not find the work that she could do best and be happiest in doing.

Imagine a factory in which the tools and machinery were used haphazardly for any kind of work. How efficient would it be?

The highest efficiency in a community can only be obtained when each human tool is being used for the work for which it is best fitted.

So it is a question not merely of individual happiness, but of the usefulness of the whole community.

Here's hoping this little seed of suggestion will find a root somewhere.

Ruth Cameron

Boston's Nfldrs. Are Up and Doing

Editor, Evening Telegram.

It is with the deepest regret that we Newfoundlanders who reside in Boston have heard of the terrible calamity that has befallen our island home; the first news received in itself was terrifying, but when later messages announced the possible loss of the Southern Cross with 173 souls on board, the Newfoundlanders of Boston assembled decided to take immediate action in making necessary arrangements to help the bereaved, so a public meeting of all Newfoundlanders was called for. I shall now describe to you the routine of business transacted:—

On Easter Sunday evening, April 12, a mass meeting of Newfoundlanders in Boston, ladies included, assembled in the Paine Memorial Hall, Appleton Street, to devise ways and means of providing a relief fund to help the families of our stricken countrymen at home. Fully 800 Newfoundlanders were present which showed the sympathy expressed for our loved ones. Long before the hour of opening the street was lined up with people waiting to gain admittance. On entering the hall each one was eagerly scanning at each other, either to form an acquaintance or to meet a friend whom they have not seen but known since childhood days. A re-union of Newfoundlanders such as was never seen in Boston before, and the one topic of discussion was the dreadful tragedy that left so many homeless, destitute and fatherless.

On the meeting being called to order by the President, James P. McCormack, of East Cambridge, and after stating the object which we had assembled for an Executive Board was then formed comprising a strong committee with power to increase its members, and volunteers called for to canvass in soliciting subscriptions.

Our aim is to get $20,000 in Boston, and as some of the prominent men in public and commercial life have requested that their names be added to the Executive Committee and have promised us every assistance, among those are:—Ex-Mayor J. F. Fitzgerald, aid, of Boston; Hon. Frederick W. Mansfield, State Treasurer of Massachusetts; Mayor James M. Curley, and the Hon. J. L. Taylor, of East Boston ex-Senator of Massachusetts, a son of a Newfoundlander, who made an excellent address in appealing to the public, referring to the hardships the sailors have to undergo, and to the men who were exposed for 48 hours and having nothing but the sky for a blanket and a pinnacle of ice for a pillow, he was greeted with an ovation when he resumed his seat.

The next speaker was W. J. Ellis Mayor of St. John's, on rising to speak he was greeted with tremendous applause which lasted several minutes, and he described in brief form telling of what financial assistance other cities have given.

Among others seated on the platform we noticed John Fitzpatrick, of Plank Road, West End, who stowed away in a sealer years ago, and who made a capital speech. Others who spoke were:—George E. Benister, of Carbonet; Edward Moulton, of the West Coast; Thomas Farrell, of Ferryland; Mr. Vinnicombe, of Cochrane St. a brother of Jim and Nix Vinnicombe; John F. Powers, D. J. Cantwell, W. E. Somerville, Simon J. Hogan, James J. Mulcahy; the last speaker of the evening was Hon. James M. Curley Mayor of Boston, who referred briefly to the tragedy and assured us that the people of Boston would respond liberally to our aid, he himself requested the Treasurer to put his name on the list for $50.00.

The Executive Committee comprises:—John P. McCormack, of East Cambridge, as Chairman; Simon J. Hogan, Roxbury, Secretary; William B. Somerville, of South Boston, Treasurer; Mayor Curley and Miss Margaret Murphy, of Cambridge; James Bennett and P. A. Buckley, of Lynn; Richard J. Powers, of South Boston; James J. Mulcahy, of Medford; Edward Molloy, of Cambridge; John F. Powers and Miss Maggie Kelly, of Dorchester; Thomas O'Rourke, of Somerville; Jeremiah W. Halleran, of Roxbury; Dennis J. Cantwell, Roxbury; Stephen Puddister, East Boston; Thomas E. Williams, Cambridge; and John O'Connell, of Broomton.

Before the meeting adjourned over $50,000 had been subscribed, then a re-union of Newfoundlanders took place and for fully one hour people chatted merrily of boyhood days, old-time friends and pleasant scenes in dear old Newfoundland.

Hoping, Mr. Editor, that you will let the public see that we exiles in Boston join in the sorrow of thousands of Newfoundlanders both at home and abroad.

I remain, yours in sympathy,

Eugenics.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old S'wash."

It takes a brave man to talk about Eugenics and a still braver one to listen.

Eugenics is the science of producing better babies. Two different methods are being followed in this country. One crowd brings up children scientifically and the other brings up parents. One crowd takes the babies after they are born and perfects them according to the best modern knowledge. The other crowd takes the prospective parents and puts them through a stock judging-class. If they score enough points they are allowed to marry. If not, they are only allowed to live and this is regarded as somewhat of a concession.

The latter is the real Eugenics system, the former being only the old-fashioned job of bringing up children. The Eugenists have the greatest faith in heredity. They believe that when heredity and environment meet the latter goes to the mat for the count in the first round. They believe that by allowing only perfect babies will arrive thereafter and that we will in time become a race of physical gods and goddesses immune to chickenpox and appendicitis, and able to swim thirty miles an hour while chasing a street car.

Some states have already begun the process of perfecting their citizens by demanding physical examinations before issuing marriage certificates. But the real third degree Eugenists go farther than that. If they have their way, the thin, puny poet, and statesman will be given the coarse guttafay when he asks permission to marry and the woman who catches cold easily in the winter and hasn't a single Venus de Milo measurement will be sent off to the Old Maids' home at the age of eighteen.

Eugenics, if made mandatory, would produce splendid Americans. Unfortunately if put into effect at the present time about the only men who would be eligible to marry would be prize fighters who are ravishingly beautiful in form. Still, the statesmen, inventors and scholars of the country might work up to the measurements some day if they feel deeply enough in love with some specimen of perfect health.

W. C. T. U. Lecture.

As will be seen by our advertising column, to-day, an illustrated lecture is to be delivered on to-morrow (Thursday) evening, by Mr. W. H. Jones, the popular Manager of the Seamen's Institute. This lecture was to have been given on the evening of the day that the news reached the city of the Sealing Disaster, but was postponed. The original arrangement was that the proceeds were to benefit the funds of the W.C.T.U., but at the last meeting of that organization, it was unanimously decided to devote the proceeds to the Marine Disaster Fund. Choice musical selections and an abundance of home-made candy, a popular lecturer with a fascinating subject and so worthy an object will, we feel sure, fill the Grenfell Hall to overflowing on to-morrow evening.

The Enquiry

BEFORE JUDGE KNIGHT.

We have repeatedly pointed out that the inquiry which is now going on before Judge Knight is what is known in England as an "Inquest." It is an enquiry into the causes which led to the deaths of the men of the S. S. Newfoundland on the recent sealing voyage. It is thus limited in scope even as an inquest, for the question of those who perished in the Southern Cross is not before the coroner. The reason of this particular limitation is obvious. At the time the inquiry commenced, hope for the survival of the Southern Cross was not abandoned. But that is no reason now why a most searching inquiry, as far as the circumstances allow, should not be made. Indeed, it is highly imperative that the loss of 173 men on one bottom at the seal fishery should be investigated. For this alone would make a disaster unparalleled in our sealing annals. The circumstances, however, of the two disasters are quite different as every one knows, and the inquiry into the Newfoundland disaster only touches a few points, mainly weather conditions, where there is a similarity. Each of these disasters is more than sufficient to warrant and to make absolutely essential, a searching inquiry into our whole sealing venture, with a view to the dissemination of knowledge among those engaged in such ventures and the enactment of such protective measures as may safeguard the lives and limbs of men from such disasters as have befallen them this spring.

Judge Knight has allowed every latitude possible at this inquiry, and full advantage has been taken of it, so far as the scope of enquiry would allow. But that is not enough as we believe we have shown, and we have had abundance of opportunity to form an opinion.

It is not possible for any Government to withhold such an enquiry. They must grant it for humanity's sake.

Vera Cruz Occupied.

Special to Evening Telegram

VERA CRUZ, To-day.

Vera Cruz is in the hands of forces from the States' Warships, but the occupation was not accomplished without loss of American lives. Four Americans were killed by the fire of Mexicans and twenty-one fell wounded. The Mexican loss is not known. Rear-Admiral Fletcher, in command of the States' warships prefaced his occupation of the port by a demand through the American Consul for its surrender. Maas declined to accede to this demand. Shortly after ten whaleboats were sent off from the side of the transport Prairie loaded with marines. Soon bluejackets and marines marched through the streets leading from the waterfront and along the railroad yards, others proceeded to the United States Consulate while still others were scattered along the approaches to Central Plaza, in which Maas had concentrated his men. These manoeuvres were effected without opposition, but suddenly Maas challenged the advance, with a volley fired from a point three blocks from the marines. The marines replied immediately, but the action ceased in a moment. There was a lull of ten minutes, then another brief exchange. At 12.30 the fire became general. At one o'clock the transport Prairie went into action. Prior to this, a detachment of bluejackets from the Utah, holding the ground between the Consulate and the waterfront, opened with two of their three inch guns. The first shot from these pieces were directed against an ancient tower, which once served as a lighthouse. This was occupied by Mexican sharpshooters. Five shots brought the tower down. The post office, the government telegraph office, the cable office were the first buildings occupied after the Custom House. The telegraph wires were found intact, though Mexican operators being retained to man the lines to Mexico City. After Maas had been driven from his position in Central Plaza, the Americans found themselves the object of fusillades from the tops of houses where small groups of soldiers and citizens had taken up positions. The greater part of these engaged in this resistance, were civilians who refused to accept the occupation passively. Towards the middle of the afternoon, a large body of Mexicans evacuated their positions and are now in the sand piles back in the interior, where it is reported from Mexican sources they are expecting to be joined by reinforcements sent down from the capital.

Lips Made From His Arm.

Patient Now to Have a New Nose Fashioned From Rib Cartilage.

With a part of his forearm substituted for new lips, Ross Allen, a young Canadian, at a Baltimore hospital, seems to be in a favorable way to have a large section of his face newly shaped.

Allen entered the hospital about two months ago with his face disfigured from an accident in a saw-mill five years previously. His nose and lips were missing.

A section of flesh shaped to the form of the lower lip was cut on his forearm in December and a grafting puncture made with the lip base. The arm was bound about the head until the grafting was complete. This consumed about two weeks, when sufficient adhesion having taken place the lip section was severed from the arm and the lip shaped.

The same procedure was followed in the upper lip treatment, a section of the arm flesh being grafted across the upper gum and the arm strapped to Allen's head and shoulders until this section, too, had taken hold.

When Allen accumulates sufficient strength for another operation the surgeons will try to build a new nose for him. It is planned to cut a piece of healthy cartilage from one of the ribs at the junction with the breast bone, shape it to the form of a nose with the nostril openings and insert it in place of the missing organ.

The skin, which will have been previously slit for the insertion of the substitute bone, is then to be drawn over the bone and healing awaited.

Turned Tables on Dan.

Dargavel Was Revenged and Ladies' Aid Waxed Rich.

Since Dan Derbyshire, the "Cheese King of Canada" was translated to the Senate a few years ago he has not been much in the public eye, but when the Senator was an M. P. and used to address farmers' institutes and dairymen's meetings all over Eastern Ontario there was no more genial or popular idol with the rural folk. They would flock in crowds to hear him, and he usually had a good story or two to narrate which never failed to catch on. He went out one night to a tea meeting in Leeds country, accompanied by J. R. Dargavel, then M. P. The good ladies of the church had prepared what was called a "birthday cake," and "Uncle Dan," as he is familiarly styled in and around Brockville, was asked to auction off the interesting object. Bidding was slow, and when a couple of dollars had been reached, the amateur auctioneer halted. "Two dollars, I am offered. Two dollars. Are you all done? Fair warning, last call. Last call, do you hear me and sold to J. R. Dargavel for five dollars." The shout of laughter that went up at the expense of Mr. Derbyshire's friend and associate was enough to shake the building.

Mr. Dargavel accepted the situation good-naturedly, but there was a twinkle in his eye. His admirers thought he might be able to get even but did not exactly know how. Mornning the platform Mr. Dargavel said "I have just bought this birthday cake for five dollars," and he handed over the money.

"Now," he continued, "the property is mine, and it is the privilege of any owner to do just as he pleases with his own goods. I propose that we have another little sale for the benefit of the good ladies. Some of the men catching an inkling of what was up, started the bidding in lively fashion, and the price of the cake ran up speedily. Then all of a sudden the bidding ceased, and quick as a flash Mr. Dargavel closed the sale with the words "and sold to Mr. Dan Derbyshire for the sum of ten dollars." The tall, heavyweight form of Uncle Dan rose slowly from a seat but the smile was rather sheepish, as he remarked: "Occasionally a politician gets caught in his own trap."

The offer of the Ladies' Aid Society was, however, enriched by a ten-spot from a source that was totally unexpected.

The Newfoundland Disaster Enquiry Before Judge Knight.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.
GEORGE F. SHEKLEN (sworn), examined by Hutchings, K.C.—I am Marconi operator on board the Stephano. The code words in the messages now produced referred to seals, ice and weather conditions. The time recorded on the messages is New York time, or an hour and a half earlier than St. John's. The message marked "G.F.S.1" was received by Stephano from Florizel at 6:10 New York time, or 7:34 St. John's time, and reads: "Have you Newfoundland's crew on board?" The code words refer to seals and has no reference to Newfoundland. The message March 31st, marked "G.F.S.2" from Stephano to Florizel, sent 6:55 New York time, or 8:19 St. John's time, signed "A. Kean," reads, "Carried Newfoundland's crew within 3 miles of ship before noon, have no doubt they are aboard their own ship." The message marked "G.F.S.3" has no reference to Newfoundland's crew. The message marked "G.F.S.4" from the Florizel to Stephano was received 8:29 p.m. local, April 1st, signed "Joe" and reads, "We have done nothing today, ship practically jammed, cannot see our flags, wireless me any news others and yourself." Message marked "G.F.S.5" has no reference to Newfoundland. The message marked "G.F.S.6" has no reference to Newfoundland, but refers to position of Florizel and distance travelled by her. The message marked "G.F.S.7," signed "Randell," addressed to "Capt. A. Kean," received 9:02 April 2nd, reads: "Two Newfoundland men in pretty bad shape got aboard us this morning; reported on ice since Tuesday morning, and several men perished; suggest you work 'tween us and Newfoundland, may pick up men." Message marked "G.F.S.8," from Capt. A. Kean to Randell, of Bellaventure, was sent 9:06 a.m. April 2nd, which reads: "100 men out from Newfoundland since Monday, send your crew out eastward from you in search. Capt. Newfoundland reports seeing 9 men south of him this morning." The last message was sent just before the previous message was received. Message marked "G.F.S.9," signed "A. Kean," to Captain of Florizel, was sent 9:08 a.m. April 2nd, and reads: "Over 100 from Newfoundland caught out in storm, he reports seeing 9 men coming towards him this morning, all my crew gone on search; if ice loosens come and help." Message marked "G.F.S.10," signed "Randell," to Capt. Kean, Stephano, received at 10:14 a.m. April 2nd, and reads: "Apparently Tuff started for you yesterday afternoon; men have not seen them since; we have five on board. I think one serious case; our men reported 15 dead on pan, trust this exaggerated, but think from Newfoundland men's story it may be true. Have sent men with drink, blankets, stretchers, etc." This message was in answer to one marked "G.F.S.11," sent at 10:09 a.m. April 2nd, by "A. Kean" to Capt. Randell of Bellaventure: "Have you sent anything in shape of spirits or refreshments to perishing men?" Message marked "G.F.S.12," from Capt. Randell, Bellaventure, to Capt. Kean, received 12:59 p.m. April 2nd, reads: "26 Newfoundland men aboard, ice tight, doing very best to get to them, fear ted and the time transmitted is placed on the message. It is then filed with the rest of my messages. In the incoming messages the sending station calls this station stating that he had a message for us. We give him the letter "K," which means to go ahead and transmit, then upon receipt of the message, we give him an "O.K." The copy is then given to the captain. Our copies are filed the same way with the rest of the other messages. We have such a form called an abstract. This gives a summary of messages received, transmitted and relayed. I may say that there are two forms, one for received and relayed messages, the other for messages transmitted. These abstracts would not contain any reference to conversations, but would contain a record of every official message. I have abstracts of such messages up to the 25th of March, but not later, because I had not any more forms. These abstracts are supposed to be made up for each trip. We are not supposed to have messages of one month on the same form as messages of another month. I cannot finish the abstracts until I get new forms. These abstracts are no check on the messages of the week of the disaster. I will produce the abstracts up to the 25th of March. In order to make it plain that messages are official we prefix them and give them a number. They are also checked, giving the name of the station from, and the number of words, and marked "Radio." If it was not to be official I would not send the aforesaid. All these matters of prefix are always sent in official business. I was not asked by Capt. Kean to gather the information in the two conversations that are recorded in his evidence unofficially, in order that there may be no record. I feel almost certain that there was no reference by conversation by means of wireless to any other ship regarding the Newfoundland's crew on Tuesday, and that the only exchange was in the first message marked "G.F.S.1," and the reply marked "G.F.S.2." The only expressions of anxiety I heard on board our ship on Tuesday, was that which I heard on Tuesday late in the evening, when the doctor who resided in my own cabin, said to me, "If Newfoundland's men are out to-night they are going to have a hard time of it." The doctor was the only one in the room with me at the time. His name is Dr. Wallace. I don't think there was any general anxiety on board the ship on Wednesday. I felt satisfied as I think the rest of the officers did, that the Newfoundland's men were back on their own ship. I heard casual expressions regarding the weather, saying that they supposed the men were back on the ship. On Wednesday morning I remember asking Capt. Kean what he thought of the Newfoundland's men, and he said "Oh, undoubtedly they are back on their own ship." This is my first spring to the icefields.

JOSEPH ROPER (sworn). To Dr. Lloyd.—I am a Nautical Optician. I have a barograph. I have the sheet of my barograph for the week commencing on the 30th of March and ending on April 6th and I now produce it. On the sheet are the days of the week and hours of the day, each two hours. This record is given transversely. This sheet is marked vertically in tenths reading from thirty-one to twenty-eight degrees. It is thus plotted out in squares. These sheets last for a week and are replaced every Monday morning about 9 o'clock. Attached to the drum of the instrument is a pen, which rises and falls as the pressure may act upon the drums of the barometer. This pen carries a blue ink, which indicates upon the paper the hourly raising or falling of the barometer; therefore giving a daily record of the rise and fall of the instrument. Monday at 10 o'clock a.m. the barograph registered 28.80, at 2 p.m., on Monday it registered 29.70, and continued till 2 a.m. on Tuesday. At 6 o'clock a.m. it registered 29.60; at 8 a.m. it registered 29.50; at 12 it registered 29.40; at 2 p.m. it registered 29.00; at 4 it registered 28.80; at 10 p.m. it registered 28.40, and at 12 it registered 28.30. It then commenced to rise gradually and continued to rise gradually until midnight on Wednesday, when it read 29.10. On Friday at 12 o'clock the glass registered a little lower than 28.30, but we did not get that storm here as heavy as the one on Tuesday. From Tuesday morning at 4 o'clock until Tuesday midnight, a period of twenty hours there was a fall from 29.65 to 28.30, or 1 degree and three tenths. On Friday the barometer registered slightly lower than 28.30. During the previous twenty hours, there had been a drop of seven tenths, the barometer at 4 p.m. on Thursday afternoon registering 29.00; so that the drop on Tuesday was about twice as great as the drop on Friday, because the glass on Monday was higher. I noticed after 12 o'clock on Monday the 30th of March, the wind increased as fast as the glass was falling, and continued to do so until the glass commenced to rise on Tuesday at 12 o'clock—midnight. As the glass was dropping and the wind increasing so was the wind veering towards the north. On the Monday the record

To Dr. Lloyd.—I am certain I received no such message as Captain Kean refers to as having been received from the Florizel about 1:30, which is, "You look after my men." I will look after yours." When I used the word message I mean one written out on an official form. I don't remember any such conversation having passed between the Florizel and Stephano, but at the same time it is likely that the conversation could have taken place without my remembering it. Though it was not customary to do wireless business between ship and ship by conversation and not on official forms, yet the same was often done. The official method of doing wireless business is for the captain to write out a message on the official form, of which he is usually given several pads, bring the same to the wireless men and ask to have it transmitted. Thence it is transmitted and the time transmitted is placed on the message. It is then filed with the rest of my messages. In the incoming messages the sending station calls this station stating that he had a message for us. We give him the letter "K," which means to go ahead and transmit, then upon receipt of the message, we give him an "O.K." The copy is then given to the captain. Our copies are filed the same way with the rest of the other messages. We have such a form called an abstract. This gives a summary of messages received, transmitted and relayed. Hot Time in Commons.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day.

The Commons met yesterday; there was a conference between Premier Asquith and General Paquet, which was also attended by Churchill and ex-Sec. War, Seeley. True to his promise of yesterday, Bonar Law yesterday afternoon demanded from the Premier a judicial inquiry into the recent Ulster revelations. "I do not know exactly what is meant by judicial inquiry," replied the Premier. "I see no grounds for such a procedure. If the honorable gentleman's charge is that the Government advised and organized a plot with the object of promoting an armed rising in Ulster, if such a charge is seriously made in this House, I will gladly give a day for the making of such a charge at earliest possible date. This point-blank refusal of a judicial inquiry led to a remarkably heated series of exchanges between the leaders of the Government and the Opposition. Bonar Law asked heatedly, "Is not the Rt. hon. gentleman aware that statements made by him have been proved false?" "What guarantee have we that a similar line of defense will not be taken on a future occasion?" "Why," asked Mr. Law, "if the Premier has nothing to be ashamed of, should he object to have the truth tested at an inquiry where the statement could be made under oath." Again the Premier rose with every sign of anger. "I am not aware of anything of the sort," he declared. "If the Hon. gentleman is prepared to sustain his allegations, I will give him a day for that purpose at the earliest possible date." "I have made the charge twice and the Right Hon. gentleman has not dealt with it," retorted Law. "Then am I to understand that he does want a day for this discussion?" asked the Premier. "This House and country wants to know the truth," replied Law. "It is only by getting testimony of those directly implicated by the Government that we shall get at the truth." "I really do not know on what authority the Hon. gentleman claims to speak for the country," replied the Premier. There was an angry growl from the Opposition at this taunt. Asquith proceeded to say that the additional papers which had been promised in reference to these incidents, regarding the army's duty on Ulster would be ready to-day. "When we see these papers we shall consider what steps we may think it worth our while to take, retorted Law amidst laughter from the Opposition ranks. "Why is the Right Hon. gentleman afraid of a judicial inquiry," proceeded Law. "Is it that all evidence must be under oath?" "I am not the least afraid," retorted the Premier. "But if the leaders of the Opposition are to make any charges against hon. Ministers, they must make them in this House." Law's reply to this was lost in general noise, he being heartily cheered by his followers at the firm stand he had presented.

THE GREATER QUESTION

At this season of the year for Farmers with up-to-date ideas is, what are the best means to use to get the best returns from the land.

Fertilizers must be used liberally if large returns are looked for. There are several good chemical fertilizers which may be recommended, but Sulphate of Ammonia has been proved to give the best returns, and is the most valuable and economical source of Nitrogen for agricultural purposes.

For vegetables, grass, and all leafy crops, about one and a half cwt. per acre is the best quantity to use, and this should be applied when the plant is making its growth, as well as before sowing the seed.

If a liquid manure is preferred, a 1/2 oz. of Sulphate to one gallon of water should be used, and applied once a week for a month. This quantity should not be exceeded.

It is a good plan to reduce the Sulphate to a fine powder, and mix with four or more times its own bulk, for the purpose of diluting the manure, which is very powerful.

For potatoes the following mixture is strongly recommended:—
40 lbs. Superphosphate.
26 lbs. Fine bone meal.
10 lbs. Carbonate of Magnesia.
15 lbs. Sulphate of Potash.
21 lbs. SULPHATE OF AMMONIA.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to 43 square yards.

The use of Carbonate of Magnesia, in conjunction with Sulphate of Ammonia, is of great importance in potato culture.

For turnips use the following:—
66 lbs. Superphosphate.
12 lbs. Fine bone meal.
13 lbs. Sulphate of Potash.
20 lbs. Sulphate of Ammonia.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to square yards.

Sulphate of Ammonia of excellent quality is now made by the St. John's Gas Light Company, and may be obtained on very reasonable terms.

Full particulars may be obtained at the Gas Works, or at the Board of Trade Building. Ask for special booklet on the use of Sulphate. It will be found of great value in securing the heaviest crops.

Portia Sails.

The S. S. Portia, Connors, sailed at 10 a.m. to-day for Western ports, taking a full freight and these passengers in saloon:—

J. H. Forsey, H. Lukins, W. Campbell, Mrs. Moulton and twenty in steerage.

A Claim Upon The Empire.

Times Editorial, April 7th.

We feel sure that the appeal on behalf of the Newfoundland sealers which we publish to-day will meet with a ready and a generous response. It has a double claim upon us—a claim upon our charity and a claim upon our patriotism. British hearts are never insensible to either. The story of the Newfoundland and her crew as it has been told in our columns has moved them deeply. Not less tragic, we must fear, has been the fate of the Southern Cross and of those she carried. Hope for them, the appeal tells us, must now be abandoned. It is almost certain that they perished in the blizzard which overtook the sealers of the Newfoundland a week ago. As she carried a crew of 170 men, while 85 men of the Newfoundland have perished and most of the fifty survivors have suffered injuries which will unfit them to earn their bread, the number of dependents and of cripples to be provided for is very large. It is estimated that they will include some 150 widows and from 600 to 800 children. To meet the wants of so many helpless souls is altogether beyond the resources of the Colony. A subscription has been opened at St. John's and our fellow-subjects of Newfoundland will give, and give freely, as is their wont. But so great a calamity is too overwhelming for their abilities, and in their need they turn to their fellow-subjects and fellow-countrymen at home. They will not turn to us in vain. The charity which has so often supplied funds for the widow and the orphan who are tied to us by no bonds of blood, will not be deaf to the cry of those of our own Empire and of our own stock. These Newfoundland fishermen are of English and of Irish race and they possess the finest gifts of their people. They are brave and enduring; honest, sober, and laborious. They are deeply religious, and loyal to the heart's core. The sealers are the flower of the fishing population, for none but picked men can face the hazards and the hardships of the work. They are men in the prime of life, and almost all of them are the breadwinners of a home. These homes are now laid desolate by a sudden and appalling calamity which no foresight could have prevented and no exertion remedied. It is for the countrymen and countrywomen of the victims and of the afflicted to mitigate the sufferings of the survivors, and to relieve, so far as in them lies, the lot of the widows and of the fatherless who are left. It is a duty of charity and of patriotism which they will feel it a privilege to discharge.

Staford's Liniment is the strongest and most penetrating Liniment for sale in Newfoundland.—apr9,14

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferers and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percie Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?—ap17,14

S. S. Association Increasing Fund.

The members of the Star of the Sea Society held a very successful card tournament in their rooms last night, the funds of which will go, towards supplementing their donation to the disaster fund.

Despite the inclemency of the weather, and the many other attractions there was a large attendance. The winner of the first prize, Mr. A. Abbott, of Pennywell Road, very generously placed the same at the disposal of the committee in order to further increase the proceeds.

Arrangements are being made for a lecture in aid of the fund, to take place at an early date.

Ore Shipment.

The S. S. Wascona sailed from Bell Island yesterday for Philadelphia taking 7,800 tons of ore. This is the first ore shipment to leave the Island for the season.

The Tellus and Themis will follow shortly.

Rain Storm and Blizzard.

Last evening a S. E. gale accompanied by rain, raged on the West Coast and in consequence the express train did not get away from Port aux Basques until 4 o'clock this morning. On the Topsails a blizzard prevailed and a rotary plow left Kitty's Brook this morning to clean the road for the east bound and west bound trains.

LAST GULF SEALER.—The S. S. Neptune, the last sealer to come out of the Gulf, is expected to reach here the later part of the week. It is thought that she is doing well with old seals.

he Boy Hero.

Here's a hand to the boy who has courage
To do what he knows to be right;
When he falls in the way of temptation
He has a hard battle to fight;
Who strives against self and his comrades,
Will find a most powerful foe.
All honor to him if he conquers,
A cheer for the boy who says "No!"
There's many a battle fought daily
The world knows nothing about;
There's many a brave little soldier
Who's strength puts a legion to rout.
And he who fights single-handed
Is more of a hero, I say,
Than he who leads soldiers to battle
And conquers by arms in the fray.
Be steadfast, my boy, when you're tempted,
And do what you know to be right!
Stand firm by the colors of manhood,
And you will overcome in the fight.
"The Right!" be your battle cry ever
In waging the warfare of life.
And God who knows who are heroes,
Will give you the strength for the strife.

Winard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

The Untiring Energy of the Wolf is proverbial. Practically no energy is required where SUNLIGHT SOAP is employed. SUNLIGHT SOAP is energy itself. The Wolf is the enemy of mankind; Sunlight Soap is the enemy of all dirt. It is the friend of the housewife, and is made for her profit. To the housewife it means less labour, less dirt, more leisure, and time and money saved. SUNLIGHT SOAP does away with needless rubbing and scrubbing, and so preserves the clothes.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hessong Fuesle

A Visit to a Hospital

It occurred to Marian one morning to visit her friend Margaret Hale, who was taking a course for nurses at Lake View Hospital. In certain moods nearly every woman who has her way to make thinks of taking up the occupation of nurse. The idea of devoting the rest of her life to the service of the sick often comes as a reaction after a certain amount of self-pity.

It was in such a mood that Marian telephoned Miss Hale, and made arrangements to go for a walk with her at two, that afternoon. On her way to the gloomy, smouldering hospital building, Marian made her way down a sombre street which bores out of the gray waters of the lake, and is lined with ramshackle dwellings of the poverty-stricken. Taverns leered at her as she passed nervously by, and tattered women eyed her sullenly as they hurried from the musty grocery stores back to their sordid homes with parcels of food. Marian had never had occasion to pass this way before, and she had never literally brushed elbows with dire and sickening need. This picture of life strengthened her resolution to become a nurse. The chance to sink her other ambitions into the task of helping a suffering world hung like a romantic miasma on her horizon, and she hurried with faster steps toward the hospital at the end of the street.

She was ahead of her appointment, and was directed to the reception room. The air was heavy with the smells of medicines. On the walls of the waiting room were dignified and gloomy portraits of surgeons of former days, and of fat philanthropists who had tossed the hospital benefactions. A little woman in black, seated in a corner, was weeping silently, as she waited word from the operating room.

"Come on, Marian," said Miss Hale, as she made her appearance, dressed for the street. "Let's get out of this."

"Don't you find your work fascinating?" began Marian as they emerged.

"Say that again," replied Margaret. "It may be fascinating in story books, but in real life—where! I've been on the job for a month, and I'm going to quit. If scrubbing floors, dusting and polishing furniture, and doing other household chores is supposed to be the proper training for a nurse, then excuse me! I'm done—or will be, as soon as the foils send me a railroad ticket back to the old homestead."

"Is it as bad as that?" put in Marian.

"It's worse than that. It's the positive and unmitigated limit. The nearest I've come to medical experience has been the privilege of watching a doctor take several stitches out of a man's wrist. No more nursing for mine. I'm through. Why, I'd rather go to work in someone's kitchen. There'd be a little money in that."

Marian had never had occasion to pass this way before, and she had never brushed elbows with dire need.

"Well, I'm mighty glad to get your idea of it all," answered Marian. "I've had half a notion to go in for it myself."

"For heaven's sake don't do it. Believe me, it's awful. Besides, what do you want to work for? 'You're married—'

"And divorced," put in Marian.

"You are! Well, that's different. Tell me about it. You're the fourth girl I know who couldn't go it in double harness. What was the trouble—"

When Marian had given a swift recital of her affairs, Miss Hale said: "Well, if you must go to work, get a real job. Don't whatever you do get mixed up with a hospital. I'd rather enter a convent."

Special to Evening Telegram.
WASHINGTON, April 21. Secretary of the Navy, Daniels, hurried to the White House before 6 o'clock for a conference with the President. A report is in circulation that Fletcher has reported the seizure of Vera Cruz with the loss of four marines killed and 21 wounded. Bryan and Garrison were in conference with the President a few moments later.

WASHINGTON, April 21. In response to a question by Senator Weeks from the floor of the Senate, Senator Shreve said, "I don't want to speak with positiveness of just what has occurred at Vera Cruz because I might be mistaken, but my impression is that the City of Vera Cruz has been taken without the firing of guns and that it is now in possession of our forces."

BERLIN, April 21. The 'Post' this morning closes its bitter anti-American editorial with the following words: "Germany has no reason to desire an American victory. The American Colossus would grow more gigantic, and become more dangerous to us than it already is." The press emphasizes the difficulty that War would bring to the United States on account of guerrilla bands.

WASHINGTON, April 21. The first important step in the new Wilson policy active interference in Mexico, has been taken. The Customs House at Vera Cruz has been seized in order to prevent Huert from receiving 2,000,000 rounds of ammunition and 200 field guns, which might be turned against American invading forces. Rear-Admiral Fletcher, to-day, landed a force of marines that took charge of Vera Cruz. This action was taken as the result of a wireless message from Arlington station by direction of the President at 4 o'clock this morning.

WASHINGTON, April 21. The American flag to-night flew over Vera Cruz. Four American were killed and twenty wounded when a detachment of American marine and bluejackets seized the Custom House, raising the American flag and skirmishing around the Mexican garrison. Firing was in progress late to-day, according to a despatch from Admiral Fletcher, received at 6 o'clock. At first the garrison appeared to be withdrawing, but when the American forces reached the Custom House the Mexicans opened fire. The Americans immediately began shelling the garrison, which slowly moved out, and kept up the fire from their house tops and in the streets.

LONDON, April 21. A stormy scene was created in the House of Commons to-day when Bos. Law demanded a judicial inquiry into the naval and military movements recently contemplated by the Government in Ulster. The Unionist charge that these movements constituted a plot to provoke an uprising in Ulster. Premier Asquith refused a judicial inquiry. He said that Law's charges had been proved false, and he challenged him to make any accusations he wished in the House, and said that he would be given the full opportunity for discussion. Anti-chairs and angry threats, their supporters took their places alternated at the table, challenging each other. Upvoted followed Law's declaration that Asquith's challenge and assertion had been proven untrue. Law said that after he had seen what the promised White Paper contained he would consider what steps it might be worth while to take.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your Office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland. ap17,14

Newfoundland Disaster.

URGENT NEED OF ASSISTANCE.

URGENT NEED OF ASSISTANCE. Sir—It is now known that 77 of the sealing crew on the steamer Newfoundland met death on the ice floes off the coast of Newfoundland on the night of March 31st. The steamer left St. John's on the 28th of March and the bodies of 69 of the crew who had been frozen to death, and of those who survive 50 have been disabled, probably for life. Eight bodies have not been recovered. Hope must now be abandoned for the safety of the Southern Cross. This ship has probably gone down with all hands, and at least 170 more of the best fishermen of the colony have perished with her.

These disasters, without parallel in the history of Newfoundland, signify that probably 150 widows and some 300 or 400 children are bereft of their breadwinners and are left as a charge upon the colony.

Of all the risks which beset the fishermen who seek their living on the seas around the coasts of Newfoundland none are so hazardous as those to be met with during the annual seal hunt in March. As the time during which the seals can be taken is limited, the captains make a dash for the icebergs and force their ships through the ice as far as possible; and the crew leave their ships and range over the floes for miles in the search for seals. It was while employed that the crew of the Newfoundland were overwhelmed by the sudden snowstorm. It needs fortitude to withstand the cold often below zero, as well as extraordinary skill to traverse the broken and rattled ice; and no race of men other than the Newfoundlanders, attempt this task; but when an unexpected snow-blizzard overtakes the men at a distance from shelter it is beyond even their endurance to survive a night's exposure.

The Government provides a grant of $100 to the dependants of any fisherman who has lost his life at sea. The well-to-do classes, moreover, are exceedingly generous, and appeals for any good object are never made in vain; but the present disaster is beyond the ordinary scope of our endeavors. A subscription fund has been opened in St. John's, and we feel that there are many people in the old country who have associations with Newfoundland and would be glad to know how they can help us.

The committee in St. John's will undertake the administration of funds for the benefit of the sufferers from this great disaster, and we will gladly receive contributions on behalf of this committee. In this appeal we represent the whole of our community.

W. E. DAVIDSON, Governor.
E. P. MORRIS, Premier.

IN TWO REELS.

The present run of high class pictures exhibited at the Crescent Picture Palace is winning the favour of the people who nightly attend the big shows. The three reel feature of Monday and Tuesday has set them talking. For to-day and to-morrow Shakespeare's great tragedy, Macbeth, will be the leader. The famous act is divided into two parts and the characters are some of the world's noted performers, the leading lady is Madame Moyiski. The story is a very fascinating one and is bound to create no end of comment and interest. Three other pictures: "The Woman and the Law"—a Crystal drama with Pearl White; "Beautiful Bloritz"—a very interesting film; and "Hypnotized"—a sparkling comedy, are also very good. The vocalist, Sidney Earnshaw, is certainly an entertainer of merit; his songs are certainly good ones, and for this mid-week bill will sing: "Just a Little Bit of Green."

On Friday and Saturday the feature picture is "The Spect" in two reels. Business every afternoon.

Long Life.

"I would not live away," some poet planned to say, when to his humble shack eight in a u-s-c-r-i-p-t s e a m e back. I would not live away, c'en though each passing day brought a o b l i c s i t s to me, and writes fair to see. If daylight never ceased, if in the golden East the setting sun should stand, at Jove's secret command, no longer go its way, and shine day after day, we'd weary of the light, and we would long for night. And so with life, my friend; if it should never end, how tired we all would grow, of everything below! All things would then seem old, a tale that has been told too oft, without recall; the whole world would seem stale, and we would stand and rave: "Ten dollars for a grave! Won't some accomplished guy instruct us how to die? We've hung around too long, a crowd of mortal joys, we're tired of drawing breath, we're tired of all but death, which we'd regard a snap, but it is not on tap. We'd like ten yards of doan! Bring on the misfit tomb, the casket and the hearse, for life's become a curse!" I would not live away, my friend, by half a day!

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mrs. John Griffin is now at the General Hospital, St. John's, under treatment. Her friends hope the good treatment of the nurses and skill of the medical staff will cause her to return to them soon in perfect health.

The funeral of the late Mr. John Sheppard, light-keeper at Harbor Grace Island, took place from his home on the Southside, yesterday afternoon.

The s.s. Sagona arrived in port at 2 o'clock yesterday, and the Fogota at 8.30 this morning, both from the ice via St. John's.

At a meeting of citizens held in the Court House, on Friday night, a committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions towards the Disaster's Fund. The collectors are out to-day, and are meeting with much success in their appeal for help for the widows and orphans.

Dr. Ames has since started private practice at the mines and he lately assisted Dr. Giovannetti in successfully performing two difficult operations, one being Mr. T. Dwyer, for cancer of the lip, and the other a child named Crawley for club foot. These were the first operations of the kind performed here and it goes to show that the medical skill of the Island is able to cope with these cases without sending them to hospital.

Bell Island Notes

The Sealing Disaster was felt at Bell Island, as several of the victims had worked here.

The collection towards the Disaster Fund is very large here. The Council are conducting one. The mining companies are doing likewise and the churches also, so a large amount will be forwarded from Bell Island.

Sickness was prevalent here this past winter, and for the first time we, at the front of the Island had a resident physician of our own in Dr. H. A. Giovannetti, whose medical skill was largely availed of.

shows little or no warning of the coming storm. The reason of this, I think, was that we were just on the margin of the storm. We use an Aneroid and also one of Adie's Mercurial. The readings of these instruments were practically the same as this recorded on the sheet. The only steamers I have known to carry barographs are the Allan Lines, some of them, and the White Star Boats. They cost from $30 to $75. A barograph would not be as satisfactory on sealing steamers as an Aneroid. The butting or going through ice may interfere with the tracing by the needle or pen on the chart of the barograph. The barometer carried by sealing steamers is from eight to ten inch dial Aneroid with an oak case. I am acquainted with the Admiral Fitzroy Barometer. This instrument is used principally in halls and clubs and in observatories. It always carries with it a thermometer. It has other instruments for scientific purposes with it. I know that directions are given as to the reading of the barometer and thermometer at the same time. With a low barometer and low thermometer we would take that as an indication of a wind from north to N.E., and visa versa on the other hand, with a high glass from S.W. to S. The Fitzroy is not used in marine purposes in Newfoundland. At the sealfishery the only steamers that carry bridge thermometers are such steamers as the Stephano and Florizel, and those engaged in the Atlantic trade. The ordinary sealer does not carry a bridge thermometer. There are of course thermometers carried in the engine room for the use of the engineers. I cannot assign any reason why this is so. The principal reason is that they are lying up all the summer and they have no Atlantic work for them. When the steamers like the Florizel and Stephano come out here from England, they are fitted with the thermometer. It is a usual thing to fit steamers with them, leaving the Old Country. I am acquainted with the act that the ordinary log book contains a column for recording the thermometer at different hours of the day. In any foreign work it is usual for the navigator to observe the thermometer and record it in the log. I have not known the thermometer to be used very much at the ice. I cannot give any reason, but I know that it is only since the steel ships that engage in an Atlantic trade have come out here that the thermometer has been used at the ice at all on the coast. My opinion why thermometers are not carried on the wooden steamers is because the masters are without certificates, and not passing the Board of Trade examinations have never learnt the use of thermometers in their barometer calculations. I think if a mariner at the sealfishery as a good barometer, a good reliable one, the non use of the thermometer would not affect him in getting the right idea of approaching storms by strict attention and watchfulness of his barometer. For all practical purposes, I think the careful use of a barometer, without the use of the thermometer in navigation generally, would be sufficient, although the Board of Trade Log Books calls for both. There are sealing steamers that leave for the ice with their barometers not adjusted for sea level reading. The record of my own barograph and that of the Board of Trade are of the same.

To the Judge.—I would not say that the reading of the barometer as I had it for Tuesday morning the 31st of March, without the thermometer would indicate a mild spurt. It was not snowing in St. John's on Tuesday morning about 9 o'clock. I do not know when it began to snow here, but I believe between 11 and 12 the snow was falling very fast, with a very high wind.

HAVE YOU READ IT?

No! Then you have missed one of the best Novels of the day.

Queed is a solitary, pedantic young Queen is a solitary, pedantic young man who drifts mysteriously into a Southern City, settles down in a boarding house and applies himself to the composition of a learned work on "Evolutionary Sociology," oblivious of all human interests and associations.

By degrees, the life around him begins to touch him. First at one point, then at another, until in the course of time, he develops into a full-fledged hero of an uncommonly admirable and attractive sort, editor of the important newspaper in the city, and at the last, the successful lover of one of the most sterling heroines in fiction. An intensely human story, original, stimulating, permeated by a delightful humor and a charming spirit. You get it in cloth, 50c.; 2c. more if mailed.
