"Would Wake Up Screaming"

"The Least Sudden Noise or Loud Talking Would Startle Him."

"Up to the age of eight, my boy was a strong, healthy lad, full of life and energy. While playing leap frog one day with some boys of his own age, and, while in a stooped position, a big boy jumped on his back and in falling my boy caught his foot in an iron grating and dislocated his hip. The pain was so great that he fainted and the other boys were so frightened they ran away. For hours he suffered terrible pain and when found and brought home was very weak, with his thigh and leg swollen twice its size. The doctor set the bone but the pain and exposure were too much for the poor boy and he became unconscious. A high fever set in and for weeks he lay in a stupor, his death raving for hours at a stretch. One day he opened his eyes and murmured 'Mother, this is the only word he could utter. He was so weak, but I knew the worst was over. He got stronger but for months was in a nervous condition. The least sudden noise or loud talking would startle him and he would begin trembling. He was quite lame and the swelling still remained. The doctor gave him a strong, healthy liniment to rub the leg with olive oil. This reduced the swelling and took away the lameness, but the nervousness remained. The poor child would waken in the night screaming at the top of his voice. The doctor gave him several different tonics but they were no use. I found a circular about Carnol and it seemed so different from other tonics I had heard of, that I thought I would get a bottle. Three bottles were all that was needed to make my boy like his own self again. It is hard to convince my friends that the change in him now is entirely due to Carnol. Of course I still have to watch him and give him Carnol occasionally but I know that he will soon be as strong again as ever he was."

Mrs. F., Montreal.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you still have to watch him, after you have tried it, that it has done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

which almost made the stranger smile. "I hope you are not hurt," he continued.

"No," replied Lady Iris, "not in the least; but I was rather frightened."

"He will not be able to stir just yet," said her preserver; "so I can send a policeman to him as soon as I can find one. In the meantime, if you will permit me, I will take you to a place of safety."

She was grateful to him for the assistance he had rendered her, and also for the offer he had made. Although she would not own it, the fright had been a severe one; and he saw that her face was pale and that she trembled.

"Will you take my advice," he went on, "and rest for a few minutes? I am sure you cannot walk far; and I dare not leave you, or I would go for a carriage. If you will permit me, I will remain near you till you have somewhat recovered."

She was glad to sit down upon the green bank, and it was a relief to throw off the white-plumed hat and let the summer wind play on her brow. A few minutes later the earth and the sky seemed to meet, a mist came over her eyes, and she knew no more. It was the first time that Lady Iris had ever fainted, and the sensation was new and terrible to her.

When she opened her eyes again, she found the dark face bending over her and strong arms sustaining her. "Are you better?" said the stranger, kindly. "What can I do for you?"

"I am more frightened than hurt," she answered. "I am much obliged to you for your kindness, and am sorry to have given you so much trouble. I can walk well enough now."

"You had better sit still a little longer," said her protector; and there was such a charm in his voice that she obeyed without thinking.

He stood at some little distance, with the air of one who wished to take care of her, yet did not wish to be obtrusive; her eyes lingered on him, for she had seen no one like him. He was an exceedingly handsome man, a man who would attract attention wherever he went. He was a stranger in the neighborhood, and she wondered who he could be. He must be a gentleman, she thought; his whole manner showed him to be one.

"What can I do for you?" he asked, coming near her. "I should not like to leave you alone while I go to seek help; but, even if you live in the neighborhood, you will not think, be able to reach home on foot."

She was relieved from all further anxiety by hearing the sound of carriage-wheels; and looking down the lane, she saw the groom in her basket-carriage driving toward her.

"Your carriage, I imagine," said the stranger. "I am very glad."

So should she have been; but her first feeling was one of regret that she must leave him. He had been so kind and so gentle, and he was so unlike every one else. As they walked slowly toward the carriage, she said to him—

"You have been very good to me; you have saved my life—for no doubt that man would have killed me. Will you add one favor by saying nothing about it? My father would never let me come to King's Forest again if he knew of my adventure."

"I will not mention it; but let me beg of you to be careful. It is not safe for ladies to wander through these lonely lanes. May I know whom I have had the happiness of assisting?"

"I am Lady Iris Fayne," she answered quickly.

"And I," he said, raising his hat, "am Captain Allan Osburn—at your service."

Fads and Fashions.

A bertha collar and wrist frills of plaited organdie add charm to a dress of finely plaited crepe satin. Brooches are exactly right for the newest of evening gowns. Yellow and white is a favorite combination. A girle of carved wooden beads in beige and black reconstitutes a frock of black velvet to a normal waistline. All-over tucking from neck to hem is the smart feature of a coat of velveteen collared and cuffed with black fox.

Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Fashion Plates. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

AN UP-TO-DATE ATTRACTIVE COSTUME.

4097. Comfortable and practical is the development of this style. The skirt with its stiffening plait fullness, is mounted on an underbody. The blouse long of line, and with a smart vest finish, may have its sleeve short or in wrist length. This model is excellent for silk, kasha, crepe, and for linen and other wash fabrics.

Crying Over Onions.

In a sense, we are always "crying," and onions only make our eyes weep more rapidly than usual. Our body is perpetually supplying tears to our eyes, and every time we blink, these tears are smeared by the eyelid across the ball of the eye in order to clean it.

Onions contain between their layers an acid oil. This oil is highly volatile, that is, on reaching the air it quickly turns into a vapor and releases a sulphur compound which it contains.

This sulphur makes the eyeball smart, and the eye perves at once signal to the brain for an additional supply of tears, as an added protection against the sulphur. This extra supply is produced so rapidly that it cannot be carried away imperceptibly down the nose in the usual way, but overflows—and so we weep.

FOR THE WOMAN OF MATURE FIGURE.

4082. Fashion has planned this style for grace and comfort. Striped and plain raitie are here combined. This is also a good model for tub silk, tafeta and crepe.

LADY IRIS' MISTAKE;

Hero of 'Surata'

CHAPTER XIV.

"No one but an artist can do justice to the green lanes of 'merric England,'" thought Lady Iris as she walked through the long lane called the Lover's Lane, outside King's Forest.

She had been visiting her poor, and had driven over in her little basket-carriage with its usual load of good things for their benefit. That morning she had been somewhat longer than usual, as there were a greater number of people ill, and thinking that her ponies looked tired, she had sent the groom with them to the Caldon Arms, and had then walked on to her favorite haunt, the Lover's Lane. She had a real affection for the place, and never went to King's Forest without passing through it.

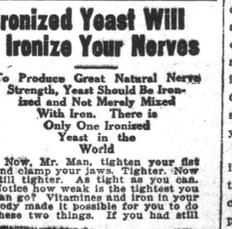

The lane was entered from the high-road that led to King's Forest, and ended in a copse which led to the woods. It was a lovely spot, a place for lovers to tell love stories in, for a poet to cull sweet fancies, or for happy children to play in. Lady Iris, her face slightly flushed with the wind, was walking slowly down the lane when she suddenly became aware of a very unpleasant sight.

A powerfully-built, dirty-looking man, evidently of the lowest order of tramps, lay upon the grass, and by his side graced an ass, a most miserable-looking animal. The man was apparently a travelling tinkler, for some of the implements of his trade lay near him. He watched her as she stepped daintily along, with an evil smile on his face, a terrible smile that, brave as she was, made her shudder.

Ironized Yeast Will Ironize Your Nerves

To Produce Great Natural Nerve Strength, Yeast Should Be Ironized and Not Merely Mixed With Iron. There is Only One Ironized Yeast in the World.

Now, Mr. Man, lighten your feet and clamp your jaw-tightener. Now still tighter. As tight as you can. Notice how weak is the tightest you can go? Vitamins and iron in your body made it possible for you to do these two things. If you had still is He Run-Down, Exhausted? See That He Takes Ironized Yeast!

more vitamins, ironized, you could lighten your jaw and your jaw almost as tight as a vice. Ironized Yeast will enable you to do so, because ironized yeast combines concentrated vitamins with natural organic iron, in such strength that it gives amazing power to nerves and organs in half the usual time. It is the most powerful reconstructive in the world today for tired, exhausted men and women. It is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. Give your nerves the natural food-strength they lack. They do not find stimulation, but give you natural strength. Here it is, Ironized Yeast! This will give you greater blood power, great nerve power, an avalanche of energy, brain clearness, stronger muscles, finer teeth, a clearer eye and memory—and you'll smile the smile of health and power. Ironized Yeast is sold at all drug stores, or at the nearest health food store. It is sold in bottles, each bottle containing 30 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. Get it at the nearest health food store. Get it at the nearest health food store. Get it at the nearest health food store.

der. As she came nearer to him he half rose, and said—

"Have you anything to give, lady, to a man who is starving and tired?" For a few moments she was irresolute. If she gave him money, she might be encouraging idleness and vice, and, if she refused, he might die of starvation. The ass certainly looked half-starved, if its owner did not.

While she hesitated, the tramp sprung to his feet; he was a tall gaunt man, with a powerful frame and a savage-looking face.

"Did you hear me? I am starving. You can walk about with silk gowns and gold chains, while I can get nothing to eat. I say it's a shame!"

"You have no right to speak to me in that way," said Lady Iris bravely, although her heart beat with something like fear. "I have not refused to help you."

"If you help me, it will be all right; but I say again it isn't fair. Why should one wear gold chains and another have to lie down because he is too weak to stand?"

Lady Iris made no answer. The man certainly looked hungry, and something to eat might be what he really wanted. She took out her purse; but, when she saw the evil gleam in his eyes as they rested upon it, she knew that she had done a very imprudent thing to allow him to see it. If he became rough or violent, there was no one near to help her.

"I tell you what," he said gruffly, "you seem one of the right sort. I will make a bargain with you. I will say nothing about the gold chain if you will give me the purse just as it is. I could snatch it from your hands if I liked; I could drag the chain from your neck and tear the rings from your fingers; but, if you will give me the purse, I will let you go. Now what do you say?"

"I shall give you what I think proper for your relief," she replied, and nothing more.

She spoke bravely, yet her heart was beating with fear. She had heard of ladies being murdered for plunder, and she looked from the brutal face of the man to the bright blue sky above. Was she, the idol of the fashionable world, to die in a ditch, murdered by a common tramp? Yet it seemed to her easier to die than to yield to the insolence of the man.

"I'm starving while you are thinking," he said roughly. "I never like to hurt women; but a man's patience cannot last forever. Give me that purse, and you walk on free; refuse it, and one blow will place you at my mercy."

She looked at him, and the courage of her race arose within her. He drew nearer to her with his arm raised; in another moment he would have felled her to the ground; but a strong arm intervened.

"You contemptible coward!" she heard a voice cry; and the next instant the burly frame of her enemy was stretched upon the grass. "You scoundrel, to terrify and insult a lady!"

Lady Iris looked from the prostrate footpad to her preserver, and her eyes rested upon the handsomest man she had ever seen, a man with a dark noble-looking face. He raised his hat and bowed, while the tramp moaned in the ditch.

"I am very sorry," he said, "that you should have been frightened by that fellow. I think it disgraceful that a lady cannot walk through a country lane without being insulted by a wretch like that. He is not fit to live!"

One of Incorporators of Knights is Dead.

Daniel Colwell, one of the original incorporators of the Knights of Columbus and supreme secretary of the order for twenty-seven years, died at New Haven, Conn., on Sept. 19, after a long illness.

"Uncle Dan," as he was familiarly known to thousands of members, was historian of the Knights at the time of his death, having been elected to that position in 1909, after having held the office of secretary from the time of the foundation of the society in 1882. Illness prevented him from attending the fortieth supreme convention of the order last August in Atlantic City.

There are now only three surviving members of the original incorporators, Cornelius J. Driscoll, William Geary and William Selwood.

I'm coming around to see you!

I'm the Fuller Man. I represent the largest manufacturer of high-grade brushes for personal and household use in the world.

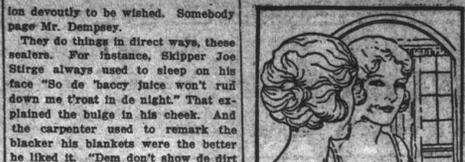

I am located in your city. Hope to call on every woman who reads this ad.

To every one I wish I give a Fuller Handy Brush—without cost of obligation—to prove the quality and usefulness of my line. By this token, you'll know why Fuller Brushes are to-day used in over 3,000,000 homes!

Identify me by the Fuller trade-mark button I wear on my lapel. Identify Fuller Brushes by the Fuller Red Tip Tag and the Fuller trade mark on their handles.

"I'll meet!"

Cuticura Beautifies Your Complexion

The daily use of the Soap cleanses and purifies the pores of the skin, thus preventing blackheads and pimples. The Ointment soothes and breaks away irritation.

They are excellent for the toilet as is also Cuticura Talcum for powdering and perfuming the skin.

think how very little satisfies these brave and simple souls. Why, some of them would even view the cap'n's dingy little cabin as "wonderful fine," and hardly dare to enter it; and these are pure-bred white men, splendid types of our own race.

Newfoundland is still living in the remote past. Much of her population is still—in thought, dialect, outlooks on life—what ours was two hundred years ago. Cut off from the world, this quarter-million of splendid stock constitutes an outpost of the English-speaking race.

Like all people living outside the pale of the present, the sealers have developed endless picturesque ideas. Fortunes and misfortunes lie in every triviality. If you drop your knife you drop your luck for the day. A black cat on a ship may link it. You mustn't look at the setting sun and talk about it; bad luck! You must put your hat on when you play cards, so as to show disrespect for the Old Boy Himself—the cards being the devil's picture book. Some say it's unlucky to kill a rat. You mustn't cut tally sticks before you get seals; that will keep the seals away. Nor must you throw ballast overboard before leaving port. A bad voyage, sure. An aluminum ring will keep away rheumatism; and again, if you can slip such a ring on a woman's finger she'll have to marry you, willy-nilly. I could fill a dozen pages with such quaint lore.

Lacking a written literature, the sealers have innumerable chants, come-all-ye's and long narrative poems—regular sagas. The phonograph is doing its best to stamp out these epics, but many still linger. I tell you, it's something to see a Bonavista Bay man holding his quid in his hand and intoning a chanson de geste, while the audience shouts between verses: "Go it, William!" "Lane lard on it, by!" "Kip'er swaind!" After the song is o'er, pop goes the quid back into the tuneful mouth again. The last few syllables of every song are always spoken, that means the song is done.

Many of these bits of primitive and unwritten literature are a trifle unintelligible, due to the archaic dialect; but the songs themselves are gems. In passing, let me say the dialect varies a good deal from bay to bay. In all, ancient Elizabethan and even Chaucerian words are still in use. It gives one add sensation to hear some gory-handed, black-faced giant saying, "Lave de lassy-puncheon bide where her'm to," or affirming, "Even so, my son," or declaring, "Thees wid me, there," meaning that you agree with him. The dialects include some highly interesting vowel changes and an enormous number of words wholly outside of American usage. For instance, try this: "Spell in a yaffe of crunnocks, by!" Get it! Easy enough: "Bring in an armful of firewood, boy!" This, however, isn't an essay on dialects, so let's pass.

An American Writer at the Seafishery.

What George Allan England Wrote About Our Winter Fishery.

On investigating I found their stumblers were their lungs. Many a heavy chest I painted with iodine; and that, plus marvelous health, brought everything right in no time. My iodine and bandages earned me the title of "Doctor," from some of those and my precious quart of whisky.

That whisky didn't last long. The first night I rashly gave a glutch—walked to the big-hearted carpenter, Edwin Tucker, who went to sleep in a bare board so that I could have a bunk. Presently another husky hored up himself. I fell for the bunk. Another came, and another, and less more; and right away I had myself a full-fledged bar-keep. The proverbial celluloid cat has no more chance than a bottle of spirits as on board a sealer.

Incidentally the men consumed most of my tobacco to be without which I called a tarmentin' thing—also my me juice, raisins, and shaving soap. They used my brush comb and stroop, and got away with all but one of my pipe by the very next expedient of smoking them; after which, somehow, I just sort of let the pipes go. These hardy sons of the North smoke freely in such communistic fashion; even a cigar is passed round. But I never did manage a fourth-hand butt. No, couldn't be done. The idea is, there is no mine or thine. Hospitality is a Newfoundland virtue. The seals will share everything with you in perfect freedom. They shared several little things with me, but the doctor helped me to get rid of 'em. However, what I started to tell you about was the cap'n's mysterious bottle.

He found this bottle, one uproarious day, among his supplies. It had a suspicious-looking label. He could make it out so he summoned me. "What's this?" he asked. "It says 'Cocognac, Taste-Qua-Lite.' Now that d'ye think that is 'poison.' " "Some people call it 'poison,' " I subtly replied. "The worst kind."

"Oh, you take it then!"

Forthwith he handed me over a quart of absolutely life-saving elixir. This proves the advantages of the higher education.

My popularity after that grew by leaps and bounds; there was always somebody coming to see me, for a while. I don't know how many "cats"—whitecoat pelts—were promised me. "So laang as me an' you stays chums." And this reminds me that one of the oddest sights in the world was to see huge brawny men six or seven feet tall creep into my cubby-hole of a cabin, hint for a drink, crouch in a corner and gulp it, scared to death the cap'n might see them. The meekness these husky giants show in presence of any kind of authority is pathetic. It makes you think of medieval serfdom, and all that.

My cubby-hole, by the way, contained just two hundred and sixteen cubic feet of air space, and in it slept two men besides myself. Also, a lamp burned all night, two infant seals, departed this life—reposed under the bunks, and there was no ventilation whatever. It only shows you what a man can stand, and still grow fat. About the infant seals: "I kip 'em dere," one of the men explained, "so dem'll soften up an' skin cleaner."

Draw the curtain.

Coming in on the Eagle the Dr. didn't want to bring any drugs or medicines back to port, so he gave them all away. The men used to trickle into his cabin, inspect the shelves, and choose their tipples with all the airs of connoisseurs. They drank the medicines straight or mixed cocktails with 'em. One man consumed so much vallis' extract that his breath smelled like a cake bakery; and in fact he acquired the nickname of Cake.

To be stunned seemed a consummat-fellow confided to me. "Ain't narry thing, nowhere, dat'll stun ya like liniment!"

And as for leaks in the deck, why worry, when a bit of tar-paulin over you would shed the drip?

GREAT OVERGROWN CHILDREN.

This drip always set in with a thaw. Ice, tea grounds, blood, coal, sea oil—"and much that wasn't so nice by half"—would blend to what motorists call a very rich mixture. If you had an upper bunk, as I did, you were completely out of luck. I rigged canvas gutters and hung tobacco tins to them, to catch the most of what descended upon me; but one wild night the string of one of my tins broke over my head, and—How ever, as I was saying, bathing was impossible. The second engineer tried it in the engine room. He got a wooden tub, filled it with warm water and got in; but the bottom fell out of the tub, so he was out of luck. It was a merry life we led.

The vikings' emotions are primitive like their mentality. Schools are the one supreme need. The calm contentment of these men, in adversity, is primitive. Life to them is all external; they have few inner resources. When they describe their exploits, killing the seals all over again; or, it may be, once more shooting the water bear they shot five years ago. For the most part, unable to read or write, they adore stirring deeds and lurid narratives. Unlettered, they are profoundly wise concerning everything on, in, under the sea. They argue passionately, with reddening faces, about local politics, fish, seals, ice and weather. Their method is simple they affirm and deny, and the man with the best pair of lungs wins the point.

Their points of view, however, surprise one. An old fellow asked me one day: "You tink us got much hope o' heaven, sir, wid all dis sheddin' of innocent blood?" But den, he solaced himself, "dey swiles was sent down in de ni"—net—"from heaven, fer de use o' men. Ain't us got de right to kill 'em?"

Another, as very special favor, volunteered to take me out on the drifting pans and round up seals for me to kill!

"Ain't nature wonderful, the way she provides for everything?" second officer explained to me, pointing out how the hole left in the sealskin by the removal of one flipper made a place for the towline. Another complained because his mate hit seals too hard with the gaff. I thought this kind-hearted till the man explained: "You hit dem dat hard, you break de skull; an' brok en bones dules y'r sculpin' knife."

Capt. Keen one time confided in me that I seriously pained him to kill a certain spot of seals, adding: "Because they're so small. Why, sir, hardly worth the bother!"

That icebergs slink in southern waters is a firm article of their faith. They inform you that the only place in the world where the sun shone once but never again, is the bottom of the Red Sea. The Miquelon Frenchmen speak French, while they themselves speak English, because of the Tower of Babel. To listen to them is like going back a century or two. A doctor aboard one of the other ships told me that whenever quarrels arose he had only to play on a little sither he had, and sing a bit of song, to have them all happy and peaceful in a very few minutes.

"Sharks ain't got no life into 'em," an officer assured me. "Dem'll come up an' suck de swiles' blood off de ice. No life to 'em, at all. You catch 'em wid a hook an' whipline an' h'ist 'em on deck, an' cut 'em in pieces, an' dem'll live till night an' den perish. Dere ain't no life to 'em!"

One powerful young fellow, a full-grown man, boasted to me that he could smoke now that he was away from home, adding that his father would beat him if he tried it on shore. Said he: "I'd like to advertise for a woman wid lots o' money. Den I'd walk round all day laang wid a neck-

Hard Fighting in New Fox Picture.

Dustin Farnum, again a Fox star, will be seen at the Majestic Theatre to-day in "The Primal Law," a story of wild times in a region of the West where plotters seek to compel ranchers to sell valuable property for almost nothing, and hard fighting follows. In marked contrast to the struggle between determined men is the touching friendship existing between Brian Wayne, rancher, and his little pal, Bobbie Carson, seven years old, and the scenes between Janice Webb, the lovely Eastern girl, Brian and the boy, Mary Thurman is Farnum's leading woman.

There is a fascinating element of mystery in the story, touches of humor and pathos, and many surprises which occur in startlingly dramatic fashion. The production was directed by Bernard Durning.

Cathedral Bazaar.

OPENED BY THE ADMINISTRATOR.

His Excellency the Administrator, formally declared the Cathedral Bazaar open at 3 p.m. yesterday in the C.L.B. Armoury.

The Hall was splendidly decorated and the many stalls were done in a color scheme of red and yellow. The general view was further enhanced by a number of colored balloons suspended in midair, which harmonized perfectly with the general color arrangement. The stalls, some 20 in number, were laden with a variety of goods for which there was a good demand. The feature of the stalls was a quantity of beautiful China and fancy goods which were specially imported for the Bazaar. Teas and refreshments were served in the Gymnasium and were well patronized. In the early evening a variety of entertainment was held in the Band Room and the amusing antics of Mr. A. E. Holmes, delighted the audience. Mr. Wheeler, with his doll, gave a splendid ventriloquial display, which, in addition to a number by the Pittman Bros., was heartily applauded.

The bazaar will be continued this afternoon and will conclude tonight. The attendance yesterday was very large and a considerable quantity of goods was disposed of.

Octogenarian

Passes Away.

An old and respected resident of Topsail passed to his eternal rest on Tuesday night in the person of Mr. Alfred Hibbs, who had reached the great age of 81 years. This venerable gentleman, whose end came after an illness extending over a period of two years, was widely known both in the neighbourhood of his native place and in the city. His long life was one of industry and amiability and wherever he was known he was held in the highest esteem. Descended from one of the earliest settlers in Topsail, he lived up to the high traditions of a race to whose splendid qualities Newfoundland's sons to-day owe those qualities which win for them confidence and trust both in their own country and outside it. In the passing of Mr. Alfred Hibbs, Topsail has lost one whose wise counsel will be greatly missed, and the country has lost a citizen whose integrity and industry were proverbial.

Left to mourn are three daughters, Mrs. Peter Somerton, and Mrs. John Cochrane of Montreal, and Mrs. Robert Skene of this city and two sons, George and Edward residing at Topsail. To the bereaved family the Telegram tenders sincere sympathy.

Sealing Ships on Dock.

RECEIVING REPAIRS AND OVERHAUL.

Both the S.S. Ranger and S.S. Neptune are now on dock receiving repairs. The former is having a new crank shaft and propeller installed, as well as receiving minor repairs. The Neptune is having repairs effected to her keel which was damaged when she grounded on the passage to this port from Labrador. The ship will also receive a general cleaning up in preparation for the sealherring next spring.

Personal.

The many friends of Mrs. Evans, wife of John J. Evans, publisher of the Newfoundland Quarterly Magazine, will regret to learn of her admission to the General Hospital, for the purpose of having an operation performed, which all hope will be successful.

Rumors of British Election

To Take Place Before Christmas --- Gloucester Elimination Tests To-day --- Peace Conference at Scutari-

BRITISH POLITICS AT WHITE HEAT.

LONDON, Oct. 11. The announcement in the ministerial organs that a general election is a practical certainty before Christmas, and that Prime Minister Lloyd George would open the Campaign with a fighting speech in Manchester on Saturday, has all but swept the Near Eastern situation from prominence in the newspapers, and has set the political temperature to a white heat with startling rapidity. Government opponents, particularly the Labor Party are delighted with the prospects of a fight at the polls, and the campaign machinery of all parties has already been put on at full speed in preparation for struggle. Thus far the Premier has not indicated, publicly what line he proposes taking and the newspapers are filled with speculation. Some writers express the opinion that he will attempt to continue the Coalition while others think he will return to party politics and make a stand with one of the established organizations. Some quarters on the other hand maintain that he will form a new Progressive Party, which would more closely represent his views than any of the old factions. The only

HALIFAX, Oct. 11. The Gloucester fishing schooner, Marshal Foch is ashore on the inner bar, on the south side of Sable Island. Sixteen of the crew have landed, but one story of five men is unreported. The missing men, who are expected to turn up, are John O'Neill, Gilbert Bennett, Harry Veno, Patrick James, and any of the old factions. The only Does Your Roof Leak?

If your roof is in good condition it now with Special Roof Coating and keep it good. You know it is easier to keep a good roof than to make a leaky one. Prevention is always better than cure. Special Roof Coating will prevent your roof from leaking and will keep it water-tight for next few years. A 5-gallon can costs $3.50.

If your roof leaks, fill up the cracks with Lasty-gum; put it on like putty. It won't crack like cement and it runs like tar. Lasty-gum will stop the worst kind of leaks. Use it in chimneys and skylights. Use it in window boxes to exclude wind and rain. A 5-pound pail of Lasty-gum costs $1.50 after stopping the leak with Lasty-gum, coat the entire roof with Special Roof Coating.

If you require a new roof contact us and we will estimate the cost. We recommend VULCANITE ROOFING, which is made and guaranteed by The Beaver Board Company. Vulcanite Roofing can be had in rolls to cover 100 square feet of surface at $5.00 per roll, complete with nails and cement; also in rolls (18 inches wide) at $2.70 per roll, complete with nails and cement. A half size roll will cover a porch bay window roof.

We guarantee the good quality of Special Roof Coating, Lasty-gum and VULCANITE ROOFING. Each is the best of its kind, warranted to give satisfaction. When you buy Beaver Board take care to look for the HEAVY BOARD BRAND on the back of each board. If it isn't there you are being cheated.

NEW CANADIAN FACTORY PURCHASED BY N.C.R. CO.

Mr. F. B. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Company, in an interview to-day, announced the purchase from Gibson Bros. of the fine four-story building located at Bloor and Dufferin streets, by his company.

The new home of the National Cash Register Company in Canada, said Mr. Patterson, "is in keeping with N. C. R. standard in all parts of the world."

The building was constructed in 1914, is modern in every respect, of concrete, fireproof construction, and is 14 feet clear with large windows on all four sides, affording maximum light and best of ventilation, assuring our factory people of working conditions that will assist them in turning out the best possible product.

"We have purchased sufficient property to permit of increasing the plant so as to provide for three times the present floor space."

Asked about Canadian business conditions, Mr. Patterson said, "I believe Canada is entering a period of sound prosperity, as is evidenced by the very considerable investment involved in the purchase of the new plant."

"Prior to the war period our sales force in Canada for a number of years led all of the divisions in the United States. Since 1914, although our business has more than doubled, our sales force in the United States accounted for, proportionately, a better business than was secured by the Canadian division."

"However, with the expanding prosperity on a sound basis we expect a big increase in our business and know of no good reason why our Canadian organization should not soon again lead the entire American selling force."

"Possession of the new plant places us in a better position than ever before to serve our users in the real 'N. C. R. way.'"

THE FLAG OF NEWFOUNDLAND

Pink, White and Green, Traditional Colors.

(H. F. SHORTLIFF.)

"Fling out the flag—
O'er creek and crag,
Pink, White and Green, so fair, so grand,
Long may it sway
Around the shores of Newfoundland."

In the issue of the Evening Telegram of 10th inst. appeared an Open letter, addressed to me, from Mr. G. Benson, Brooklyn, New York, seeking information with regard to the "Flag of Newfoundland." About six or six years ago a controversy had entered into with regard to this question and quite an interesting argument was kept up for a considerable period. I did not enter into the controversy because I was, as I am at this moment, fully convinced that the Pink, White and Green flag was recognized for very many years as the "Flag of Newfoundland." From its earliest days up, this has been acknowledged by all classes and by both sexes. One had only to attend any political demonstration, dancing assembly or public gathering to witness the Newfoundland colours of pink, white and green prominently displayed by the ladies and gentlemen, old and young. The tradition had been handed down about the formation of the flag is: The Native Society was formed in 1840 (June 24th) and Mr. G. Benson was the first President. Amongst the members of that time were Sir F. B. T. Carter, Sir F. D. Shea, Hon. J. J. Rogerson, F. E. D. Shea and many other Newfoundlanders who, in after years, occupied the most prominent positions in our country. The Society was formed as a protest against the alleged favoritism shown to foreign-born settlers to whom it is said, all the better positions were given, very few people now alive can remember the motto or flag distinctly, but an old reliable friend of mine, present in the flesh informs me that he had seen the flag many years ago and he is clear in describing it as pink, white and green in full mat-

Bannerman Park in the sunset, on the French Shore Question. The flag has been immortalized by that brilliant little poetical gem by the illustrious Newfoundland patriot, Archbishop Howley, and the late Sir F. B. T. Carter related to me many of the details recorded above during his summer vacation at Whitehorse, when I was in the Telegraph office there over thirty years ago. For the benefit of Mr. Benson and our other countrymen abroad I herewith give the beautiful little poem in full, and surely our patriotic countryman, Archbishop Howley, would not have penned the following lines if he was not a firm believer in the Pink, White and Green.

THE FLAG OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

The pink the rose
Of England shows,
The green, St. Patrick's emblem bright;
While in between
The spotless sheen
Of Andrew's cross displays the white

Then hail the pink
The white the green
Our patriot flag long may it stand
Our shirelands twine
Their emblems true
To form the Flag of Newfoundland.

Chorus:—
Fling out the flag
O'er creek and crag,
Pink, White and Green, so fair, so grand,
Long may it sway
O'er high and bay
Around the shores of Newfoundland.

What e'er betide
Our ocean's bride,
That nestles mid'at Atlantic's foam,
Still far and wide,
We'll raise with pride,
Our Native Flag o'er hearth and home.

Should e'er the hand
Of fate demand,
Some future change in our career
We ne'er will yield
On food or field,
The Flag we honor and revere.

TO DECORATE A BALL COSTUME.

I may here mention that many years ago there was another beautiful silk flag of the Native Society in the possession of a certain merchant on Water Street, and his daughter cut out the caribou and other emblems to utilize the pink portion of the silk in decorating her dress which was used at the first Ball given by the Native Society in the year 1842. This information I have received from our general friend, Mr. Charlie Barnes, who is a nephew of the famous Richard Barnes, first President of the Society, and one of the foremost advocates of education amongst our people, during his term in the House of Assembly. Those were troublesome times in St. John's, and the natives of the country labored under many difficulties and great oppression at the hands of the foreign element, who had banded themselves together to deprive Newfoundlanders from attaining any position in the public service, or, in fact, any position of emolument or prominence. They ruled with a rod of iron, but the granting of Responsible Government broke the shackles of the wrists of the natives, and they gradually attained positions of trust and influence, and the tyranny of their task-masters was broken forever. But it is unnecessary to go into details upon these matters, as much has been written up by Rev. Dr. Harvey, Tocque and many others, and a great deal more has never found its way in print, perhaps it is just as well that it did not. However, the Pink, White and Green from almost time immemorial has been looked upon as the Flag of Newfoundland, and long may it continue to wave over us. Of course it is needless for me to say that the Empire's flag, the Union Jack of old England takes precedence of her Eagle, Canada of her beaver and Maple Leaf, but Newfoundland can proudly hold up its head for its emblem of her caribou and her pink, white and green, which has been the recognized flag of our country from generation to generation.

A CALL TO REMEMBRANCE.

I have answered Mr. Benson as clearly and correctly as possible, and I am sure the older portion of our Newfoundland exiles, who have been compelled to leave the land of their birth to seek a living in the land of their adoption, will remember with tears in their eyes, the old days—the days of their youth—when the Pink, White and Green Flag was always prominent at every public function in our Island Home, and if the Old Flag was loved and cherished by our ancestors and themselves, surely we who boast of our patriotism in the present day, should feel proud of that flag which has been handed down to us from generation to generation to defend in the interest of our beloved country. I trust these few brief remarks will be of interest to Mr. Alan

G. Benson, of Brooklyn, New York, as well as to our countrymen generally in the United States and elsewhere, and I can assure them they need not be ashamed of the Old Flag of Pink, White and Green taking a prominent place at all their functions, and, better still, let them send to Professor Hutton of this city for the music of the beautiful little Ode, written by his Grace Archbishop Howley, the patriotic Newfoundland, and have it played before their social gatherings of our countrymen in New York and elsewhere, and the melodious strains will remind them of the days when they were young, as they trudged through the streets of St. John's, their souls stirred with patriotic feelings, as the famous Band of Professor Bennett discoursed sweet music to the strains of the Banks of Newfoundland and other pleasing melodies. It is needless to say I am always ready and willing to give our countrymen abroad any information I possess, and to wish them every success in the land of their adoption. The latter is the gainer and Newfoundland is the loser by their absence.

Northern Delegates Arrive in City

Refuse to Make Statement of Reason for Coming

Seven Northern delegates who were appointed at recent meetings at Greenspond and Westville to come to St. John's with a view to obtaining improved conditions of living, arrived in the city on the express to-day. Interviewed on the train by a Telegram representative they absolutely refused to make any statement whatsoever. The delegation consists of the following:—F. Green, Greenspond; J. S. Hill, Westville; S. G. Barbour and E. Blackler, Trinity; J. Parsons, New-Town; B. Davis, Valleyfield; S. Warren, Gooseberry Isld.

The Archbishop's Silver Jubilee.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS TONIGHT. The presentation of the Catholic citizens' address to his Grace Archbishop Roche takes place this evening at 8.15 in the auditorium of the K. of C. Memorial School, Cathedral Sq. The address which will be accompanied with a purse was to be presented some time ago on the occasion of the sacred silver jubilee but owing to his Grace being taken ill the function was postponed. At to-night's affair Hon. J. D. Ryan, J.C.S.G., Chairman of the Committee, will preside while the address will be read by Secretary J. C. Pippy, and the cheque will be presented by Councillor C. W. Ryan. The C.C.C. Band will also be present on the occasion. On tomorrow evening in the auditorium, the members of the Catholic Ladies' Societies and Associations will make a similar presentation to his Grace.

Notable Events.

THIS DATE IN HISTORY—OCT. 12th. America discovered by Christopher Columbus, 1492.

Columbus Day.

CELEBRATIONS BY TERRA NOVA COUNCIL, E. of C.

The annual Terra Nova Council celebration of Oct. 12th, Columbus Day, began this morning when the members attended Mass and Holy Communion in the Auditorium of the K. of C. Memorial School. The Mass was celebrated by His Grace Archbishop Roche, who was assisted by Rev. Dr. Carter and Rev. P. Kennedy. Following Mass a number of tablets containing the names of the brothers of the Council, to whom the school was erected as a monument, were unveiled by His Grace, following a brief address by State Deputy C. J. Cahill.

MEETINGS HELD.

A message received by Capt. A. Kean on Tuesday told of other meetings which had been held in Bonavista Bay and that the fishermen had determined to hold on to their fish until better prices were forthcoming. The message received by Capt. Kean was as follows:—
"Two mass meetings held. People greatly alarmed owing to recent conditions and outlook for coming winter owing to low price of fish. Statement starting them in the face. Demanding everyone to hold back fish. Motor boats come around Bay holding meetings demanding every shipper to hold his fish for satisfactory prices, which all have agreed to do. Deputation of twenty going to St. John's."

WILLIAM WICKS, SAMUEL ROBERTS.

Mr. Abraham Stanford, of Winsor and Warfield's also received a message from Westville, regarding the meeting there, as follows:—
"Mr. Abram Stanford, of Winsor and Warfield's, and Mr. William Wicks, of Westville, are going to St. John's to-day to see the Governor. They are going to see the Governor to-day to see the Governor. They are going to see the Governor to-day to see the Governor."

MESSAGE FROM GREENSPOND.

The following message, dated Oct. 10th, was received from Greenspond late Tuesday by the Evening Telegram:—
"Resolutions to co-operate with Westville and other places re price of fish and reduction of taxes passed unanimously. Last night the Hall was packed. Determination stamped on countenance of everyone. Sending representatives to St. John's with power to fight to the finish anything or anyone found to be the actual cause of the Country's present condition."

GREENSPOND, Oct. 11.

The delegation was given a grand send off amid the roar of cannon, blowing of horns and display of flags, and cheering from the crowd on the wharf. All fishermen and sympathizers in the city are expected to give them a good reception; they expect to reach St. John's to-morrow. WALTER CARTER, Chairman of the Delegation, is now in town, but in view of their refusal to talk, the public has only wait until they are ready to talk in detail the purpose of their coming and the demands which they intend to make.

Sagona Coming South.

MADE CONNECTION WITH SENEF. The following message was received this morning from Capt. F. Sagona of S.S. Sagona by the shipping Dept. "S.S. Seneff sailed North from Grady at 8 a.m., after taking a supply of coal and transferring her freight to us. We left Hulton at 2 p.m., cleaning up all fishermen and we have eighty-one on board with many scattered crews to be picked up." The Sagona is due in Conception Bay early next week.

Fishing on Labrador.

BANKERS DOING WELL. Passengers who arrived by S.S. Portia from Labrador report that when the ship was coming south they saw many bankers fishing off the coast. One arrived at Dominion, when the Portia was there, from the fishing grounds, around Round Hill Island, with about 200 qts of round fish on deck. This quantity was taken in one day's fishing and the crew report fish plentiful with both figger and trawl.

Shipping Notes.

Schr. Edward Roy sailed from Wood's Island for Halifax yesterday with 1225 qts codfish, 28 barrels salmon, 87 barrels herring and 4 barrels cod oil.
Schr. Maagen (Danish) has entered at Little Bay Islands to load codfish for Gibraltar.
Schr. E. H. Mackintosh is loading herring at Sandy Point for Halifax.
Schr. Edith M. Cavell has arrived at Hames, 27 days from Oporto, with a cargo salt to J. Panny & Sons.
Schr. Aramis has cleared from Bay Roberts for Sydney to load coal.
S.S. Dagfish is loading limestone for Sydney at L'Anse-au-Loup.

FIRE ENQUIRIES.

Several fire enquiries have been conducted in the Magistrate's Court during the week and Magistrate McCarthy will have his time occupied with them until Saturday. Yesterday an enquiry was held into the fire on Thursday night and this afternoon the inquiry will be resumed on Monday afternoon. There are only two more witnesses to be examined.

Methodist Pastor Dead.

PASSING OF REV. W. H. BROWNING.

Rev. W. H. Browning, Methodist Pastor at St. George's, died early this morning from heart failure. William Browning was born in England 1858 and was ordained in 1887, five years after coming to Newfoundland. His circuits since that time have included St. George's, Britannia, Petties, Random North, Little Bay, Lower Island Cove, Pouch Cove and Harbor Grace. He held various offices in the Methodist Conference for many years. In 1905 he was elected Secretary and in 1908 President of the Newfoundland Methodist Conference. He was frequently a delegate to the general conferences and General Board of Missions. An able administrator, a loyal minister of the gospel, a true friend, hundreds of his children had died over the country, and in other lands, will mourn his passing. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Currie of Britannia, to whom the Telegram extends sympathy.

Supreme Court.

MR. BURNSTEIN APPEALS. The appeal of Mr. Joseph Burnstein against the judgment of Judge Morris in which he was fined $200 for arson arising out of a fire at his tailoring establishment on Water Street some time ago, was heard in the Supreme Court to-day before the full bench. Mr. Burnstein appeared in his own behalf, and submitting the evidence taken before Judge Morris, he claimed that there were many discrepancies therein. Mr. H. A. Winter appeared for the Crown and up to recess hours had not finished his presentation of the case. Mr. Burnstein addressed his appeal from the barrister's benches, and stated his case from manuscript copy.

Ferryland Regrets Departure of Rev. Mother.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—For a small space in your paper to put on record an event which transpired here on Wednesday morning last which was of more than usual interest to the people of Ferryland. I refer now to the departure from among us of Sister Mary Joseph, late Reverend Mother of the Presentation Convent here who had been with us since 1813 directing the education of the children of this parish and endearing herself to parish and old by her gifted talents in the good cause of religion and culture of the rising generation. Sister Joseph came to Newfoundland as far back as 1836, and was a worthy disciple of the noble band of Irish ladies, the followers of the great Nanao Yangle who sacrificed so much to come out to this country in 1833 at the solicitation of the late Bishop Fleming to found the first branch of the order in St. John's. Sister Joseph is a Dublin lady and a daughter of the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Handran of that city. She was sixteen years of age when she sacrificed all the ties of family relationship and home comforts and left a devoted mother to come to this country in 1836 at the solicitation of the late Rev. Fr. Clarke of Torbay whose convent she entered in that year as a postulant to devote her life to the cause of religion and education. In 1838 at the Church of St. Michael in Torbay she became a Professed Nun, the late Bishop Macdonald of Harbor Grace having been invited there by Fr. Clarke specially to officiate on the occasion. She had charge of the Convent there for 29 years as Rev. Mother and to her is to be credited a great deal of the good work in the cause of education which had such an uplifting influence on the ensuing generation of Torbay under the late Fr. Clarke the past quarter of a century. Her great administrative abilities are so much in evidence that his Grace Archbishop Howley transferred Sister Mary Joseph here to Ferryland in 1912 with a special view to the new convent there and giving her impetus to education in this historic town. This work was successfully accomplished with the sympathetic co-operation of the late Rev. Fr. Vereker of happy and unimpaired memory, and the zealous Irish missionary spirit of the great Parish Priest combined with the self-sacrificing religious zeal of Sister Mary Joseph working in harmony with the best aspirations of the people resulted in erecting a Convent second to none in the Island and one which will stand as a lasting memorial of their labors. As an educationalist Sister Mary Joseph has a splendid reputation and her pupils always come out with credit records in the public C. E. Exams. Last year she sent up eight for the Intermediate and five out of the eight passed, in addition to the record in the Preliminary. As an efficient and painstaking and accomplished teacher no words of praise are needed to establish the fact. The record of her work is there and that was done in our Convent in the cause of religion and education was a continuation of what was accomplished at Torbay. Much to the regret of the whole community here she left us on Wednesday to retire to the Mother Home at Cathedral Square, St. John's. A large gathering assembled to wish her good-bye, which in itself was a sufficient evidence of the esteem in which she was held, especially by the younger generation who had personal experience of the benefits of her instruction and counsel in the school all these past ten years. Old and young turned out to say farewell and to utter a wish and a prayer that Sister Mary Joseph may be long spared to continue her happy and useful life in her sphere of labor, and that complete peace and contentment may accompany her declining days which is the sincere wish also of Yours truly,

Signs and Symbols.

In speaking of the signs and tokens of our brotherhood, Benjamin Franklin wrote: "They speak a universal language, and act as a passport to the nation and support of the initiated." All parts of the world. They cannot be lost so long as memory retains power. Let the possessor of them expatriated, shipwrecked, or imprisoned, let him be stripped of everything he has got in the world; still his credentials remain, and are available for use as circumstances require. The great effects which they produce are established by the most incontrovertible facts of history. They have stayed the uplifted hand of the destroyer; they have softened the asperities of the tyrant; they have mitigated the horrors of captivity; they have subdued the rancour of intolerance; and broken down the barriers of political animosity and human alienation."

NO LAV.

There is no law compelling us to read the books we think are rot; so it is vain to raise a fuss because such books don't hit the spot. For there are books for every taste, and we may choose the ones we like; and it is vain our scorn to waste on Author Pete or Author Mike. There is no law compelling men to sit through lectures long and flat, so why assail with tongue or pen the evening's wordy scrobbler? There is no law requiring gents to hear a sermon or a play, so it is vain to raise laments when to our homes we wend away. We mark the poet with his harp, and say he should be sawing wood; we like to beef and kick and carp, and punk things please us more than good. We go to concert or to show like martyrs who must bear their cross; quite well before we start we know that it will be a total loss. But oh, it is a pleasant thing to roast the artists one by one, to say such people always sing when we're not furnished with a gun. We're fussing knocking all the time, denouncing things that do not please; the latest novel is a crime, your painting makes us think of cheese. Methinks if we were truly wise our troubled souls might find some rest; there is no law requiring guys to stand for things that they detest.

Fads and Fashions.

A tailored jacket of duvetyn printed in a black and white crossbar has revers and cuffs of black crepe satin. Taffeta is used for charming evening gowns of Second Empire style with tight, fitted bodice and long full skirts. Barbary color pipes a heavy crepe with a self-color crossbar, and forms rosettes around the metal ornament fastenings. The circular idea recently appeared in cuffs, which were of black velvet and flared away from long loose sleeves. A gayly colored Canton crepe dress has a yoke in a banded type of plain crepe de chine, and sleeves with the wrists caught in light.

Just Folks

AMBITION.
My father says when I grow up I ought to study law.
My mother knows an artist once, an' hopes I'll learn to draw.
My uncle says that maybe I could study medicine.
An' give the children castor oil to make them well again.
But it's all settled now an' they can let the subject drop.
I made my mind up yesterday to be a mounted cop.

My sister says my pug nose an' my bunch of freckles are an indication I can be a comic movie star.
She says the whole wide world would laugh if just my face were seen.
The way it is this minute on the picture silver screen.
But some day she'll be proud of me when I am at the top.
An' own a horse an' uniform—a dashing mounted cop.

I'll gallop down the avenue upon my coal black steed.
An' every day I'll risk my life to do some dandy deed.
I'll snatch the children from the path of trucks an' motor cars.
An' hand some desperado safe behind the prison bars.
When times are dull I'll ride around to where the clover grows.
An' let the youngsters pet my horse an' pat his neck and nose.

There's been a lot of talk of late 'bout what 'I'm goin' to be.
An' all my folks are dreamin' dreams an' makin' plans for me.
But I won't read the lawyer's books, or study medical pills.
An' give the children castor oil or bitter-tasting pills.
I'm goin' to ride a dashin' horse an' all disorder stop.
Let him who will be President, I'll be a mounted cop!

Sunshine Makes You Shave.

The sun is the barber's friend.
Every man has more haircuts and shaves in summer than in winter.
However much we may like to keep our hair as a protection against the winter blast, when the warm days come we all want to be spruce and smart.

But men have a stronger reason for visiting their barber more frequently in the hot weather.
Their hair usually grows far more quickly than in the winter months. This is probably noticeable with men who have strong beards.

In winter a daily shave is enough. But on the sunny days a man who has been shaved in the morning will have a dark chin towards the end of the afternoon, and will certainly have to visit the barber again if he wishes to be clean shaven in the evening.

In August many a barber's regular customers are shaved twice a day. So if your beard grows quickly during your holidays, don't put the blame entirely on the razor blade.

Are You Succeeding?

Many people are drifting in the world, failing to succeed, because they don't know how to get success out of themselves.

There are many things that hinder them. Some are too different—they are afraid to let themselves go for fear of adverse criticism. Others ruin their chances by lack of faith in their own capabilities.

The first rule for success is—Study yourself. Find your weak points. Know them yourself, but don't let others know them.

Learn to concentrate. Read a column of the news, and then run over it in your mind, attempting to recall all the important points. You will be surprised that time to find how few you remember!

But, after a few days of this gentle brain exercise, you will begin to read things in a different and more compelling way. Instead of letting the matter drift across your brain, you will be keenly attentive, not only to the broad idea, but also to details.

Soon you will begin to believe in yourself, and once you feel like that you will be getting success out of yourself.

That Settled It.

The dear little birds sat in the railway carriage, trying to look as though she had been married for years. Her spouse, being hungry, had departed for a rapid-bath-bus, he called it.

"And how do you like being married, my dear?" asked the old lady, opposite, who was wise enough to know.

The young bride yawned.

"Oh, well," she answered, "when you have been married for eight years, you know."

"There, there!" exclaimed the lady, throwing up her hands in surprise.

"And I took you for a little honey-mooner!"

"Oh, dear me, no! My husband will tell you—here he comes—that we have been married eight years. Haven't we, Jack?"

"Yes, yes; certainly!" replied the husband, with a wriggle. "And, do you know, I've some of that beastly confetti down my neck yet!"

FUSSING ABOUT MONEY.

A neighbor of mine was going down the street the other day and I asked her if she would stop at the post office and get me five stamps.

When she came back with the stamps and I started to hand her the money she drew back. "Oh, don't bother about a little thing like that," she said. And then, as I naturally insisted that she should not be charged ten cents for the privilege of doing an errand, she still protested. So foolish of me to bother about such a little sum, as if I didn't do things for her, etc. It wasn't until we had talked about the matter for several minutes that she accepted the money.

I hate that sort of thing, don't you? Be Master of Fact.

I hate fussing about money. The best bred people are always most simple and matter of fact in regard to money, small sums as well as large.

And I think that is the way to be. The natural thing was that having asked that woman to buy me something I should pay for it. Had she been moved to come over and make me a present of five stamps that would have been one thing. I should have tried to accept it gracefully. But she would scarcely have done that and I can see no more reasons why she should try to do it because I asked her to do an errand. Of course the inevitable result of yielding to her and letting her pay for the privilege of doing an errand would be that I should not want to ask her to do an errand again. Unless she wanted to accomplish that result I think it was silly of her to try to avoid payment.

Too Much Emphasis.
To make cheese biscuits siff together a fuss in public as to who shall pay a carfare, or for a theatre ticket, or an ice cream soda is another sign of lack of breeding. Well bred people simply wouldn't share their affairs with the public or put that much emphasis on the matter any more than they would go about telling what things cost or how much money they made.

About the Air.

FRENCH SCIENTIST TALKS ABOUT SPACE UP ABOVE.

What is above the air we breathe? This is a problem which is more and more engaging the attention of science, and it is a matter of deep interest and fascination for the man race. In the Revue de Paris Houleuvre, a French scientific great eminence, gives the most recent theories on the subject.

"The air which we breathe," writes, "extends upwards for 12 1/2 miles, after which it contains so little oxygen that it would support human life. Explorations have been carried out by 'sounding balloons' to a height of about 100 miles, these balloons being fitted with instruments which record the temperature and bring back specimens of the atmosphere to the earth.

"Well above the level of 24 miles according to the latest theory, is a film of ozone, a form of oxygen which differs from oxygen in the molecule is a condensation of the atoms, whereas in the molecule this film serves as a protective oxygen there are only two atoms against radiations from the sun which would in the long run destroy life if they were not intercepted by this thin and fragile protective were to vanish, life as we know would become impossible on earth.

"Above this film ozone from 100 miles above the earth is probably an atmosphere of hydrogen, helium, two of the lightest gases known. The existence of this atmosphere has recently been verified by two observers, who have discovered the characteristic lines of hydrogen in the spectrum of shooting stars (meteorites) passing through it. It is confirmed by the presence of drogen in meteorites that are high enough to reach the earth. Meteorites on passing the lower layers of the hydrogen layer and in contact with oxygen detonate and are reduced to dust. It is not the heat which they generate in their fall that they are destroyed, but in these upper regions of the atmosphere matter is extremely rare like the vacuum in X-ray tubes.

"Beyond the hydrogen layer probably a wide belt of a rare gas, coronium, which has not yet been discovered on the earth, but which is known from the spectroscopic observations in the sun, and then beyond that the nothing of cosmic space—either the ether which pervades everything, and which no one can understand. Comfort on the earth largely affected by the equilibrium set up through the ozone film between the sun's destructive and pleasant rays. There are days seasons when the film lets the destructive rays through in a proportion and when the temperature rises.

"Modern meteorology holds that the movements of the barometer temperature are in close relation with changes in the upper atmosphere, so that there had or weather may be prepared for volcanic dust in the lower atmosphere has a great influence on the sun, though it is only temporary. It may even cause a fall for two or even three degrees as compared with the normal average. Paris may for some years have climate of Rotterdam when there more dust in the air."

GENERAL OFFICES, UTICA, N.Y., U.S.A.

70,000 farmers guarantee this

The men of the Dairymen's League—seventy thousand farmers—with many hundred thousand cows, devote their lives to the production of pure milk and milk products.

They are as much a permanent part of American life as New York State or Florida is. When they make a dairy product and put their collective name on it, that product is good. It is made and sold not merely for a fickle demand of the moment, but for to-day, to-morrow, next year, and for the years to come.

Not all the farmers in this territory are members of the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, Inc. for to be a member, a farmer must have the right kind of farm and clean, healthy cows subject to a regular rigid inspection and to unscheduled inspections by government officials. This means much to all who buy milk or milk products.

For these seventy thousand men are in business to stay. The farms MUST produce all they can. The cows MUST give milk. It is the privilege and the desire of the farmers to give the people the best dairy products that can be made.

The storekeeper who sells Dairymen's League Dairy Products can depend upon the products now and in the future.

Household Notes.

Salads, with their accompanying tang of lemon, add real interest to ordinary rice croquettes. Of course they should be well chopped before using.

A deliciously flavored sherbet made with 1 1/2 cups grated pineapple, 2 cups raspberry juice, 1/2 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/2 cup white sugar, 1 cup water and 1 egg white is advisable to use a little gelatin with so much acid.

Nice for Him.

"I am so sorry, Mr. Portly," apologized the boarding-house keeper, "but I have no cheese in the house."
"Pray do not mention it, Mrs. Phipps," said the genial old boy. "I'm sure—"

His little compliment was cut short by the small son of his hostess, at his side, bearing a piece of cheese upon a plate.

"Well, now, that is very kind of you, little man," he said, as the child stood there, watching him swallow the tit-bit. "You knew more than mother that time. Where did you find the cheese?"

The youngster intently watched the last morsel disappear before he answered:—

"I found it in the rat-trap."

Wonderful Bow and Arrow.

Most of us think that prehistoric man must have been a pretty dull sort of fellow, and far below the level of intellect that we possess. The exact reverse is the case, according to Admiral B. A. Fiske, whose new book, "Invention: the Master Key to Progress," is being so widely read and discussed.

Prehistoric man, he tells us, displayed creative genius so brilliant that nothing in the annals of historic man can possibly compare with it.

Take, for example, the invention of the bow and arrow. A mind that could conceive such a device to-day—make it as an original invention, that is to say—would show a creative faculty of a supreme type.

For the bow and arrow was no accidental discovery. It consists of three independent parts—the straight bar of wood, the string, and the arrow. To fashion these, to put them together, and to use them as prehistoric man used them, would tax the keenest intelligence.

When we realize the many centuries during which the bow and arrow held sway, the millions of men who have used it, and the important effect it has had in the conquest of wild beasts and in the deciding of many important battles, we must admit that its invention was one of the most important in the history of mankind.

Have you a Suit or Overcoat to be made. Bring it to FARRELL THE TAILOR, Adelaide Street. First class work at moderate prices.—sept28.1f

No system of physical exercises yet invented can compare with new silk stockings for giving an erect carriage to the female head.

The Spirit of Masonry.

Wm. Hutchinson, in the "Spirit of Masonry," writes: "Masonry directs us to divest ourselves of bigoted and confined notions, and teaches us that Humanity is the Soul of Religion. We never suffer any religious disputes in our Lodges, and, as Masons, we only pursue the universal Religion, the Religion of Nature. Worshipers of the God of Mercy, we believe that in every Nation he that teacheth Him and worketh righteousness is accepted of Him. All Masons, therefore, whether Christians, Jews, or Mohammedans, who violate not the rule of right, written by the Almighty upon the tables of the heart, who do fear Him, and work righteousness, we are to acknowledge as brethren; and, though we take different roads, we are not to be angry with, or persecute each other on that account. We mean to travel to the same place; we know that the end of our journey is the same; and we affectionately hope to meet in the Lodge of Peace and Happiness."

Household Notes.

You will have no trouble in making the buttons for children's coats if you buy only two kinds—one for underwear and another for outer garments.

Tomatoes stuffed with butter, breakcrumbs and baked, sandwiched with buttered brown bread, makes a delicious light supper.

Poached apples are delicious for breakfast. Quarter, core and slice. Cook until tender in syrup made by boiling for two minutes equal parts of sugar and water, then pour over apples, and serve hot.

House Flags.

THESE FLAGS TELL YOU THE SHIP'S OWNER.

Every shipping company has its own "House or Company Flag." At the seaside you will notice them flying from the mainmast when a vessel is making or leaving port.

But though every company has its flag, only the largest companies insist on their vessels flying them these days.

Time was when it was an easy matter to choose a flag. It is not so easy now, with the result that many firms fly flags bearing their initials only. It is often hard to recognise these, but those of the older companies can be spotted at a glance.

One of the best known is the White Star flag. This is a red flag with a swallow-tail, bearing a five-pointed star. This flag is some fifty years old, and was the first ever to be flown by an armed merchant cruiser.

Equally well known is the Cunard flag, a red flag bearing a yellow lion rampant holding the globe in its forepaws. Formerly the Cunard ships flew two pennants, one a blue one with a white cross and a red one underneath.

The P. & O. Line has a flag made up of four triangles, blue, white, red, and yellow respectively; the Anchor Line uses a white, red, and yellow flag bearing a red anchor.

A flag divided into six squares, coloured white and red alternately, is the Canadian Pacific's house flag, while the Union-Castle Line has a blue flag with white St. Andrew's cross and white diamond in the centre, superimposed by a red St. Patrick's cross.

The famous "Blue Funnel" boats fly a blue flag bearing a white diamond. On this diamond are the initials "A.H." which stand for the owners, Alfred Holt & Company. The Allan Line has for its flag a red pennant over a square flag striped vertically in blue, white and red.

The flag of the British & African Steam Navigation Company is a blue swallow-tail with a white cross. This type of flag, with many variations of initials, is the commonest of all house flags.

Great care has to be taken that these flags do not clash with those of the International Code, as a vessel flying two flags as her distinctive badge might easily be thought to be signalling an important two-flag message.

Asking For It.

Medicine Man: "What is the matter with your majesty?"
Cannibal King: "Oh, I've an awful indigestion!"
Medicine Man: "What have you been eating?"
Cannibal King: "I've just polished off an American millionaire."
Medicine Man: "Good heavens! No wonder you are ill! I've told you repeatedly to beware of anything rich."

Cub Cigarettes are appreciated, not only by the smoker but by those in his company.
