BOOTLEG LIQUOR JUMPS TO $10 BOTTLE IN SARNIA

A Sarnia despatch says:—With the recent arrests in Port Huron and the active work of the liquor license department officials on this side of the border, the path of the blind-pig and rum runner is becoming exceedingly hard these days, with the result that the report was circulated last week that "wet goods" now cost $10 per bottle on this side of the border as against $6 a week ago.

A large consignment of liquor arrived in the city from Montreal during the week-end, and the authorities are holding up a number of cases until they ascertain if all the goods received are for personal consumption.

A number of those receiving shipments will likely have to make a sworn statement concerning their shipments of liquor.

A meeting of the Town Council was held Tuesday evening, His Worship Mayor Murray presiding.

There were present Couns. Devereaux, Bissett, Ingram, Matthews and Currie.

The minutes of the previous meetings were read and approved.

Coun. Currie moved that the regular order of business be suspended and that the matter of vocational training be taken up.

The motion was lost.

A letter was read from an aged widow asking for assistance as she was unable to earn her living.—Referred to Public Charities Committee.

Mr. Thos. Ellsworth wrote notifying the town that he considered the road up to the Doherty pond his private property and would take all steps necessary to protect his rights.

Mr. M. A. Kelly wrote on behalf of the citizens conveyed at a public meeting asking that the police officers be instructed to give every assistance in the enforcement of the prohibition law, and if thought necessary another policeman be engaged.

This was referred to the Police and License Committee.

Engineer F. W. Holt wrote in reference to proposed improvements in water service. He recommended that a new dam be built at Smith Lake and that it be about twelve and a half feet higher than the present one. He succeeded in tracing him on Wednesday and at once had him arrested and the case will come up later.

The man is well dressed and possesses three well filled grips and hats from Dawson City, Yukon.

WAS SAVED BY HIS WOODEN LEG

Suicide of New Yorker Prevent- ed By Well Fastened Leg.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The police reported yesterday that the excellent timing on Alexander Frank's wooden leg alone prevented him from committing suicide.

Crowds on Second Avenue in the morning were startled to see Frank hanging head downward from a fifth story window, with another man clutching one of his legs to restrain him from breaking away and casting himself into the street.

The leg, of stout oak was so well hitched that it held until Frank was lassoed and pulled back into the window.

Frank was taken to a hospital for observation.

BALLOTS THROWN OUT.

In the Restigouche recount many ballots are not being counted as the deputy returning officers failed to replace the ballot papers back in their respective envelopes.

LOCATING AT BATHURST.

Howard Luke, a former Chatham boy who has been engaged in the tailoring business for a number of years in Chatham, Bathurst and recently in Campbellton, has concluded that Bathurst is the most promising field available for the establishment of an up to date ladies' and gentlemen's custom tailoring business. Mr. Luke has engaged the Jaffet store on St. George St., and his many old friends and all new ones will find him ready for business this week.—Bathurst Light.

Mr. Luke is a returned soldier and was severely wounded while serving overseas. He has recently returned from New York where he completed an advanced course in cutting.

RETURNED SOLDIER IN TROUBLE

Arrested Here And Taken to Rogersville For Trial.

On last Wednesday afternoon a book agent, visited several Campbellton homes and obtained subscriptions to the Canada Home Journal, which paper he claimed to be agent for and gave his name on subscription receipt as C. Byrnes.

At one house, shortly after his call, the lady of the house, missed her purse containing a sum of money and immediately suspected the agent, she had Chief of Police Adams call and he with another, proceeded to round up the man.

At one hotel a man answering to the description given, was registered under the name of Magee but no C. Byrnes could be found, however the man was located shortly after coming by the Subway and the Chief at once, inquired his reason for giving two different names, but no reason could be given, so had him taken before Judge Matheson.

The lady whose money was taken, owing to the crippled condition of the prisoner, who was a returned soldier, decided to withdraw case, if money was returned but only succeeded in obtaining about $10.00 of the amount, but prisoner was released.

However he had a past record to deal with and was being diligently sought by a gentleman from Rogersville, who had also been visited by the agent, whereby he lost a gold watch, ring and a much valued painting and as the agent had bought his railway ticket from Rogersville to Dalhousie and thence to Campbellton had only succeeded in tracing him on Wednesday and at once had him arrested and the case will come up later.

The man is well dressed and possesses three well filled grips and hats from Dawson City, Yukon.

RECOUNT OF VOTES IN RESTIGOUCHE

Hon. H. F. McLatchey Now Counting Ballots Cast Oct. 9th.

On Saturday Mr. M. A. Kelly in behalf of Mr. S. S. Harrison made application to His Honor Judge McLatchey, for a recount of the ballots cast in the late election. The request was granted and His Honor appointed Tuesday, Oct. 26th at 11 o'clock, at the Court House, Dalhousie as the time and place for the holding of the recount.

When the Court opened His Honor stated the business and proceeded to work.

H. A. Carr, Esq., was present in the interests of Mr. D. A. Stewart, A. J. LeBlanc, for Henry Diotte, P. J. Hughes of Fredericton for Mr. S. S. Harrison, Mr. A. T. LeBlanc appeared in his own interest as did C. H. LaBelle.

There was considerable argument as to the legality of Messrs. LaBelle's and Duncan's nomination papers, but on statement of the Sheriff they were accepted.

The matter of marked ballots was discussed and His Honor, decided to accept all with an X or cross marked opposite the names of candidates.

Wednesday morning the council was proceeded with. His Honor refused to count all the ballots cast in the town of Dalhousie as they were not in the prescribed envelopes.

The Colborne ballots were also thrown out as were the ballots for a poll, held contrary to the act, at Upper Balmoral.

The recount will likely be completed Friday or Saturday as only poll No. 6 had been reached last evening.

ALLEGED ATTEMPT AT MURDER

Fredericton Men Face Serious Charge—Warrants Out.

FREDERICTON, Oct. 28.—Edward Burke and Charles Ore were arrested this morning on warrants issued by Magistrate Limerick charging the men with wounding with intent to kill Arthur Estey, of this city, on Tuesday night last, while the latter was walking to his home.

GREAT COAL STRIKE SETTLED

Lloyd George Wins Another Great Achievement—Terms Agreed to.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The strike of coal miners throughout England and Wales was settled this afternoon, but the settlement is contingent on a ballot of the miners.

Frank Hodges, a member of the miners' executive body, announced:—

"We have got terms from the government which the executive is submitted to a ballot of the men for their judgment. The executive are recommending their adoption as a temporary measure until a national wages board is established.

The terms which the executive body of the miners is recommending to the men provide for an advance of two shillings per shift for persons of eighteen years of age, with a corresponding advance for younger miners. The miners pledge themselves to co-operate to the fullest extent to obtain an increased output.

The government issued a statement similar to that of Mr. Hodges, adding that the ballot of the men would be taken immediately.

MUST HAVE PROHIBITION

Entire Dominion Must Come Under Law Says Toronto Globe.

Of the situation in regard to prohibition, the Toronto Globe says:—

"This continent can no more be half dry and half wet than the United States could be half free and half slave. The international boundary, if Canada—or a large part of Canada—refused to prevent the manufacture, importation and storage of liquor, would become a sort of Mason and Dixon's line in its capacity for mischief. When the stores of liquor vanish in the United States it will not make for good neighborhood or enhance Canada's reputation if this country continues to be a reservoir for the continent."

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

At Tuesday evening's session of the Town Council five hundred dollars was unanimously voted to establish vocational night classes here. This is a move in the right direction.

TIME FOR ACTION.

The electors of Restigouche are waiting patiently for some evidence of activity on the part of Hon. C. H. LaBillicois to bring his "translations and slanders" as he styled them to court. If Messrs. Harquail, Quinn and Anderson have made false statements about the Hon. Mr. LaBillicois it is time he took some action to bring them to account.

If the charges they made are untrue, then they have committed a serious offense not only against the Honorable gentleman mentioned but against the whole community.

The real part of it is that the longer Hon. Mr. LaBillicois puts off taking the necessary action to vindicate himself the more people are convinced that the charges are true.

Another unfortunate outcome of his lack of action is that another story is being circulated and is finding many who believe it. It is whispered and the whisper comes from the best of sources, that Hon. Mr. LaBillicois was slated as the Union candidate against Mr. Michael in the last Dominion election. In fact it was all but settled, but when the Union committee met Mr. LaBillicois to finally settle the matter, so large a sum of money was requested by that gentleman that they left in disgust and had to fall back upon Mr. Stewart. This is the story, we give it for what it is worth, but hope it is not true.

These are serious matters and if Hon. Mr. LaBillicois wishes to clear the atmosphere there is one sure way for him and that is through the courts.

The Graphic has always been a staunch supporter of Hon. Mr. LaBillicois, and we assure him and all his friends that no one would be more pleased if he could through the proper channels clear his good name of the charges contained in a signed article published in our columns.

But action must not be further delayed.

LORD BEAVERBROOK'S VIEW.

Lord Beaverbrook, on his return to England from his recent Canadian visit, said one or two things in an interview which are of particular interest to New Brunswick readers. According to a special correspondent of the Montreal Star he emphasized "the enormous industrial development awaiting his native land, especially New Brunswick, because of its timber limits and power sites, valuable beyond any power of calculation." The significance of this remark cannot be strongly impressed. It may mean that Lord Beaverbrook has knowledge of development projects of great importance. But if it means only that he sees in the wealth of our forests and water powers great possibilities for the future the remark is encouraging because no man in the world of finance is better able to formulate a judgment on the potential wealth of those great assets. In that connection it is a satisfaction to reflect that the beginnings have been made by the local government in a wise and progressive policy of forest conservation and that the first steps are being taken to make our water powers play their part in our industrial development. Quite as significant as his optimistic predictions of industrial development was Lord Beaverbrook's comment on the attitude and responsibility of Canadian banks toward development enterprises, particularly in Eastern Canada. He is reported as saying:

"Banks with head offices in Montreal and Toronto which collect much money in New Brunswick are apt to become a little sticky when there is question of making loans there. These banks seem to me to think too much of the West and ignore the East. They lack a proper perspective."

Clearly the intention of Lord Beaverbrook was that this remark should be considered in connection with his first mentioned prediction of the Canadian industrial outlook. It is to be interpreted in no other light, than as a suggestion to our bankers to give sympathetic and friendly and favorable consideration to the financial requirements of those who are endeavoring in a business like way to make good and practical use of our forest wealth and our water powers. Considered together the two remarks strongly suggest that Lord Beaverbrook was doing more than prophesying when he spoke so optimistically.

FILL VACANCY.

It seems too bad that the Town of Campbellton must carry on without the chairman of one of its most important departments, and only one representative from Ward III. If these Councillors cannot possibly attend they should resign or His Worship should declare their seats vacant and have them filled.

His Worship stated at Tuesday's meeting that he understood Comm. Dickie, Chairman of the Water & Sewerage Department would not be able to attend to town business until the end of the year.

The Water and Sewerage Department needs a head in the worst way. Mr. Walsh, the capable superintendent has resigned and the department is being run by other town officials.

His Worship should lose no time in settling this matter.

NOT CORRECT.

The Tribune published a long letter from Mr. John Dickie addressed to the Editor of the Graphic. A foot note states that this letter was refused publication in the Graphic. This is not so.

Shortly before publication of our issue of Oct. 7th the letter was handed in to the Graphic but we made it clear to the young gentleman who brought it that at the late date it would be impossible for us to get it in the current issue. He, informed us that if The Graphic could not handle it his instructions were to take it to The Tribune.

We presume he followed his instructions. We may add that several reports of political condemnations of Mr. Dickie's friends being among them. We are sorry that the enormous industrial development awaiting his native land, especially New Brunswick, because of its timber

Montenegrins Want Scutari

THE problem that worries more than anything else the people of the former kingdom of Montenegro—now a federal province of Jugoslavia—is that of Scutari, writes the Cetinje correspondent of the London Post. Scutari is (in their opinion) the only city on which all their eyes are set, all their desires are concentrated, as they have been centuries, the correspondent says. This is not a movement of the politicians, not a movement inspired from Belgrade, indeed, people of Cetinje speak somewhat bitterly of the capital. Scutari is far off—five or six days' journey at the least—does not really, is but lukewarm in the matter, and they gaze down at the coveted city, thing of D'Annunzio's yonder, with the north and mitter darkly to another tag from some national poet.

While the wise were fighting each other with their wisdom, the fools were looking after their own business.

In plain words, they are itching to lay hands on Scutari, and only the presence of the Serbian troops has hitherto prevented them from doing so. During the last few weeks demonstrations have taken place all over the country. At two of them the day in each case was market day. The peasants from the neighborhood are taking the village square, buying, drinking, smoking. Then some carry a table from an adjacent village, mount it and begin to harangue the crowd.

Speaker follows speaker; all take the same tale. Scutari is ours, for reasons historical, ethnological, judicial, geographical, economical. It is ours because the memories and traditions of the ages sanctify it to us. The home of our early kings, the appanage of their eldest sons. We lost it, indeed, to the Turk, but the Turk failed to make it his own. To this day its folk are our folk, or nearly so.

And if we lost it we surely brought it back again a hundred fold. One-third of our whole army died for it the other year.

These are arguments that leave one cold. And yet if the South Slav stage is to have any sort of freedom of life in the future, it must either be Serbian or in the hands of those who unreservedly ally to Serbia. The valley along which the Bujana flows, the waters of Lake Scutari drain to the Adriatic, a few miles distant, forms the only break in the mountain system that shuts off both Montenegro and Southern Serbia from the sea. This gap is not only the most possible, but the most desirable route for the two car-poleable roads that lead into the country, an interesting possibility of engineering rather than practical commercial routes—but it is also the natural and obvious outlet for the whole western interior of the Balkan Peninsula, especially the hot lands of the Metohia and Kosovo. Through it will pass, time, a railway line which will be of great importance to the commerce of the future, the line which, down the valley of the Drin, will link Belgrade (and Sofia and Bucharest and Odessa) with the Southern Adriatic.

At the inner end of this break in the mountains, commanding it, and in transit through it, stands Scutari. It is the point which any one who wishes to transport his person or his goods into or from the interior must necessarily pass. Scutari, or the freedom of it, is as essential to Montenegro and the south of Serbia as Plume is to Croatia and the north. But this is not all. The Drin has of recent years cut for itself a new channel, entering the Bujana just below Scutari, and now keeps the latter river choked with the silt it washes down. The consequences are not only that the navigation of the Bujana is rendered impossible for the larger sort of craft, but that the waters of the lake have been raised vastly beyond their earlier level.

The change welcomed by the Serbs, folk about Scutari, but it has been a disaster to Montenegro. Year by year the lake has crept further northward and eastward, swallowing up the rich soil wealth, until now thousands of hectares of hectares lie beneath its waters. Another result is that all these districts are now infested with malaria; the encroaching waters largely dry up in summer, leaving great stretches of marsh for mosquitoes to breed in. Serbian official policy is that if the powers set up a really independent Albania, then to such an Albania—with which it would be possible to have close relations, including perhaps a military and certainly an economic convention—might Scutari safely be handed over. But Montenegro frankly doubts the possibility of such an Albania and the will of the powers to create it. And she is afraid—afraid for her ten thousand graves, for her unborn children. And if she says, the sacred principle of the self-determination of nationalities is to be invoked she has as good a right to invoke it as anyone else.

Praise! Little Gerald was visibly perturbed. "Daddy," he asked, "what does a fellow mean when he says you're a 'hot sketch'?" Daddy was almost equal to the occasion. "He simply means you're a warm baby, son," he explained.

A thirsty individual called at a hotel in North Wales the other day and asked for a glass of beer.

When he tasted it, he asked: "What do you call this?"

"Victory ale," was the reply.

"My goodness!" he exclaimed "then I lost the war after all."

THREE SUGAR PRICES IN HALIFAX

Not Much Buying for Some Time Say Merchants—Bottom Not Reached.

HALIFAX, N. S. Oct. 27.—There were three official wholesale prices for sugar in Halifax yesterday—$16, $16.75 and $17.90 per hundred.

While $16 is a much lower price than the $24.10 which prevailed not so long ago, dealers feel that the bottom has not yet by any means been reached, and some expressed the opinion that there would not be much buying for some time yet.

WE WONDER WHY.

One of the peculiarities of the ballot cast in the Durham poll, where Mr. Arthur Calligan, worked as delivered in the recount was that many had a corner slightly torn. It was always the same corner. Can any of our readers explain this peculiar circumstance. Was it a case of identification of the "delivery of the goods?"

Evangeline Immortalized in Bronze

(1) At the unveiling of the statue of Evangeline by Lady Burnham, when the Imperial Press Conference party visited Grand Pre, N.S.

(2) Some members of the party assembled around Evangeline's well.

Five continents were represented at the unveiling of the statue of Evangeline, Grand Pre, Nova Scotia. Nearly all those present belonged to the Imperial Press Conference party, and the unveiling ceremony was performed by Lady Burnham, who said:

"Evangeline is the beautiful conception of an American poet whose verses we learn to read on both sides of the Atlantic when we were children. History has shed another light on the Acadian story. We see today that British policy was not as black as it was painted. Whatever may be the truth of this story, as a woman and an English woman, I shall always regard it as one of the most painful episodes in our annals. Thank God these cruel old days lie behind us forever, and from the fate of Evangeline has sprung a great wave of sympathy which has been carried on the healing hand of time. It is a good omen that the beautiful sun, God's healing hand, should be setting upon us all today, who are here to do honor to that sweet woman. Under those rays in your wonderful land so full of beauty and promise the old hatred is dead. I have now the great honor and

Bernier, The Tailor

British Oppose Return

To Old Scarlet Uniforms, As They Prefer the Khaki

THE British War Office has decided to restore scarlet as the full dress uniform of the army. The plan is now attacked by the noted military expert, Maj.-Gen. Sir Frederic Maurice, in the London News. The general writes:

"I have been trying to test the opinions of those who have to wear uniforms on the question of the re-introduction of some form of the old full dress. It is commonly assumed that the change is advocated by the old regular officers, but I can find no evidence of this among those of them who are still serving."

"At a recent gathering of regular officers I took the opinion of 21 who had worn scarlet tunics and may have to wear them again, and I found that 19 of them were in favor of keeping khaki as the full dress of the army. The old regular officer will, in fact, be much harder hit in his pocket by the change than will the ranker, for the grant which the War Office proposes to make to those who have received commissions since 1914 is liberal and should cover the initial expenses, but the officer who was serving before the war will get nothing."

"The slim subaltern of 1914 does not often find when he goes to his tailor in 1920 that his waist measurement is what it was, and most men, when they take their tunics out of cupboard, will find some difficulty in buttoning them. This will mean a new tunic at double the pre-war price, and without official help to meet the cost; so that from the narrowest and most personal point of view there is ground for asking, Is it worth it?"

"The idea that a scarlet coat will help recruiting is laughed at. Regular officers believe that it will have the exactly contrary effect. The modern soldiers hate the time over 'spit and polish,' and the old full dress meant hours of work with button-stick, brass polish and blance, the 'real soldiering' of the pre-war sergeant-major. When he goes out for a walk he wants to be reasonably comfortable, but if he is in a red coat he has to be thinking all the time of what he is doing. He puts his elbow on a dirty bar or leans against a greasy counter he has to send his coat to the tailor's shop and pay for having it cleaned."

"The pleasure of going to the tailor in a fancy kit does not compensate for its disadvantages, and I believe it to be an illusion that all dress of the old type is popular with the men. Recruiting will be helped by giving the soldier while he is serving the chance of fitting himself for civil life when he leaves the army, and by finding for him an assured position when he has taken the chance. The worst enemies of the recruiting sergeant are the unemployed ex-service man and the man who through no fault of his own has suffered from the war."

"This brings me to one of the arguments against spending money on scarlet which appeals most strongly to the serving soldier. He knows that there are to-day thousands of disabled and thousands of widows who are in dire distress. He knows also that the sum of $15,000,000, even if its expenditure were spread over a term of years, as the War Office proposes in the case of the new uniforms, would go a very long way to relieve this distress."

"The Prime Minister tells deputations of ex-service men that we cannot afford to do more than has been done for those who have suffered fighting for their country, and says, as is the case, that he is doing more for the sufferers than other countries."

"These statements convince no one who can be found for scarlet and trimmings. Lord Haig has even up his hard-earned leisure and has lost an opportunity of appealing to the Government to raise the allowances of the disabled, the widow and the orphan to a scale which will allow them to live in decency. As he has not been able to get this done, he is asking the public to come forward. Only those who, like myself, are in daily touch with the conditions, know how great the need is, but obviously the charitable will think twice before giving when money is to be found to dress soldiers and is not to be had for distressed soldiers."

"There is another argument against the change which has great weight with the army of to-day. The scarlet coat was the full dress of the army. The tailors in peace time altered it almost out of recognition in the search for smartness, but every loop and button at one time had a meaning. Helmets and busbies were worn for exactly the same reason as the 'tin hat'—to save the head, not merely to look pretty. The ration d'ete of the red coat was that it had been worn at Blenheim, Minden, Vittoria, Waterloo and Inkerman."

"The raison d'etre of the khaki tunic is that it was worn at the Marne, Ypres, the Somme, Amiens and Cambrai. The old tunic has become a fancy dress, khaki has won its place as the historic dress of the British army. It is respected throughout the world and on that ground alone it should be the soldier's dress of honor."
