dangerous allies.

For Parnell.

Dublin, Dec. 15.—Four well-known Irish newspapers have declared openly for Mr. Parnell. One of them is the Leicester Leader. The others are the Western People, published at Ballina, county Mayo: the Westmeath Examiner, published at Mullingar, county Westmeath, and the Derry Journal, published at Londonderry. At Middletown, Cork, the local league branch voted 44 to 26 to support Parnell. A procession of 400 torebbearers, accompanied by bands of music, waited for Parnell at Waterford Saturday night. When he failed to come the paraders marched to the Town Hall, where they were addressed by the mayor and members of the council, and passed a resolution in favor of Parnell. A dispatch from Dublin says: A: Tullyrone Mr. Parnell addressed a meeting of 500 persons. His speech was brief, and was mainly a repetition of utterances in previous speeches. It was delivered amid a running commentary of cries such as "Down with Judas Healy?" "Down with Hennessey, the Zulu king!" from certain of his hearers. Mr. Parnell apologized for the weakness of his voice, but he appeared in good health. From Tullyrone Parnell and his friends drove to Freshford, where he addressed another meeting, referring furning his speech to the seceders as and his friends drove to Freshford, where he addressed another meeting, referring during his speech to the seceders as "miserable gutter sparrows," whom he had pushed out of obscurity and given a better chance than he gave himself. After winning in Kilkenny he said he would go to every quarter of Ireland and ask the support of the people. Here a gathering of his opponents interrupted Parnell with shouts of "To — with the adulterer!"

shouts of "To — with the adulterer!"

The Irish Situation.

London, Dec. 15.—The contest between Mr. Parnell and the majority of the Irish party still fills the public mind here to the exclusion of all other topics. The chief journals are daily crammed with variously colored reports from Ireland of the different phases of the struggle, and they daily give the public long editorial articles commenting on each new move played in the game of surprises of the ex-leader. But though the interest in the contest is as high as ing on each new move played in the game of surprises of the ex-leader. But though the interest in the contest is as high as ever, the events of the week have produced a rapid and complete revulsion of opinion on the matter in the minds of all thinking men. Mr. Patnell's prolongation of the debates, his marked unfairness, his sublime disregard of the great question under discussion, were matters which it was felt might be condoned when once the decision of the majority was recorded. People saw that he must go, and therefore that he did only harm to his own reputation by futile endeavor to stave off the evil day. But Mr. Parnell's determination to continue the fight after the verdict has been given, his immediate arraying of his forces in line of battle, and the methods and manner of his appeal to the Irish people have cast into the deepest dismay all sincere well-wishers of the Irish cause in England and Scotland. The cause of home rule, they say sorrowfully, is ruined. Mr. Parnell's action in Ireland, his triumphant defiance of all the decencies and all the proprieties, his deliberate and scornful repudiation of every constitutional principle that has avowedly formed his creed during the whole course of his political career, his calculated appeals to the worst passions of an ignorant and passionate people, his unblushing exality and his virtue, side by side with broad-cast imputations and libelous attacks on his late friends and colleagues, can have,

be able to handle the situation with tact and with courage at this end of the line."

Daritt on the Situation.

Dublin, Dec. 15.—Mr. Davitt has returned from a vibit to Castle Comer and the coal mines on the edge of Queen's county. His reception was enthusiastic. Between these two points are 1,400 electors. "Parnell," he said, "will not get more than twenty votes outside the Conservatives, and they are all for him. There are about 4,000 votes in North Kilkenny, and as sure stones were thrown and sticks were used as I live we will have at least a majority of freely and a serious conflict was averted for the said of the said the grant was planted and an and segment of the control of the con

THE WORLD OF WORK.

Prospects of a General Strike of Railway Men in Scotland.

The Operative Plasterers' International Union, No. 48, Toronto, appointed Samuel Dunbar and James Armstrong delegates to the convention to be held at Boston in the first week in January.

An abrupt close. He was completely exhausted, and was entirely unable to make a further effort.

Messrs. Healy, Kenny, Tanner and Davitt addressed meetings in support of Sir John Pope Hennessey. Mr. Healy declared that if Parnell were allowed to retain the leadership he would stump Ireland with a new banner made of Mrs. O'Shea's peticoats. Parnell, he said, put Capt. O'Shea in Parliament, the price paid being the honor of O'Shea's wife.

The anti-Parnellite leaders say they are satisfied with their progress at Kilkenny.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

List of Meetings To Be Held During January.

With the approval of the Minister of Agriculture, and in consultation with Mr. Nicholas Awrey, Mr. P., president of the Central Farmers' Institute, Prof. James Mills, of the Ontario Agricultural College, has arranged for the following list of Institute meetings, among others, to be held in January, 1891. Assistance at these meetings will be given by 6 practical farmers, 8 representatives of the fruit growers, 2 assistants on the college staff, 3 members of the College Board and 6 of the college professors:

Weekly Temperance Rally Victoria Hall.

Interesting Addresses by Rev. C. E. M. Intyre and Other Advocates of the Cause,

The weekly temperance meeting in Victoria Hall Saturday evening was of an earnest, enthusiastic character. Rev. G. Trotter Carr was to have been a speaker but was prevented by illness. Rev. C. E. McIntyre had therefore double duty to do. Rev. W. M. Roger presided, and on the platform were Rev. Messrs. E. B. Lanceley, M. P. Talling, A. C. Courtice, G. W. Henderson, Geo. Boyd and S. Bond; Dr. Ziegler and Dr. Arnott, Messrs. D. A. McDermid, C. R. Sayer, J. H. Bowman and others.

Dermid, C. R. Sayer, and severessed have theres.

The chairman, in opening, expressed have pleasure at being present, and dwelt on the advancement of the cause. He remembered the first temperance lodge organized in Peterboro-called "the Broadcloth Society." If one of the members broke the pledge he was obliged to buy a broadcloth suit (Laughter.) In the old land, as well as fight, the people were waking up. A hun (Laughter.) In the old land, as well as this, the people were waking up. A hi dred years ago the depleted finances Great Britain were temporarily increa by means of a gigantic lottery, a met which any civilized nation on earth we now scorn to use; it was to be hoped tha now scorn to use; it was to be hoped that in another hundred years a nation would be ashamed to raise a revenue from the accursed liquor traffic. (Applause.)

Dr. Ziegler favored the audience with a solo in his excellent bass voice, Mr. W. Bevin being the accompanist.

Rev. C. E. McIntyre claimed his experience with liquor to be a very limited one. His parents had been teetotallers and as he had united hinself with a church that prohibited intoxicants, it was little wonder that he had espoused the temperance cause, and used his efforts in forwarding its interests while endeavoring to preach the doctrines of his church, in endeavoring to observe its requirements, and to keep and observe its requirements, and to keep a enforce its discipline. "As I have gro in years," said he, "and gone into world, and had an opportunity of judg for myself, the conviction has become thoroughly fixed in my mind that noth at all will advance or help the true interest of this country in this time except prohition. I practice it myself I teach it.

for myself, the conviction has become thoroughly fixed in my mind that nothing at all will advance or help the true interests of this country in this time except prohibition. I practice it myself, I teach it, I preach it wherever I go, and I do all I possibly can to forward it. I am here to show I am in thorough sympathy with this movement, and that you have my best wishes. A great deal has been said about the evils that prohibition would inflict upon the people, upon business in general; but the temperance people believe that by its adoption every possible interest would be subserved and advanced. I understand in this city there are 69 places where liquot is sold. At a very low estimate each one of these places takes in on an average SS per day—in fact, I'm told that is much under the figure. Well, suppose that the parties who keep those barrooms believed the law, by keeping them closed on sundays, election days, and other days stipulated by law. That would allow them 300 days in the year, in which they could legally sell liquor, with average receipts of SS each per day, that would make a total of S2,400 per annum, which, when multiplied by 69, leaves something like $165,000 spent in the city, but large enough the city, but large enough the city, but large sold in legitimate business, what would rejoice! But instead of being dishursed in that way it is spent in a manner than end the country altogether. There are a great many who do not earn more than sold in the sum of $165,000 in a year, and yet have to maintain families on that. The sum of $165,000 spent in liquor would support 414 families. There are a great many who do not earn more than the country altogether. There are a great many who do not earn more than the country altogether. There are a great many who do not earn more than the country place of the same as a manufacturing in continuous to the man earns by wolling 390 days in the year. It would be the same as a manufacturing in the proposition of the same and the would be the same as a manufacturing

ONTARIO'S WEALTH IN THE SUD-

The visit of the Toronto Board of Trade to Sudbury serves to call attention anew to the very promising mines of that district. Coming so soon upon the heels of the visit of the Iron and Steel Institute and of the experts sent by the Government of the United States, it may be hoped that it will have the result of arousing Canadians more than ever hitherto to the vastness of the possessions we have in that once despised possessions we have in that once despised cation is no longer confined to a few students who receive it within some special the Georgian Bay. The utility of nickel in making an alloy with steel has been amply astrated now in Europe and America. The experiments carried on during the past three years in France, Scotland and Eng-land, and during the past few months under direction of officers of the United States navy at Annapolis, leave no room to doubt that nickel-steel is the metal for the future. Neither can it be doubted that the country which possesses the ore in abundant quantity destined to gather a more than golden harvest, as a consequence of the demand which must arise for the metal in all the iron-making centers of the world. Other countries are able to make shows of it, and until recently the French penal island of New Caledonia in the Indian Ocean, has been believed to possessa practical monepoly of it. But within the last four years it was tound that the deposits of norther Outario. Those who sought thus to imsubject. Those who sought thus to imsubject the control of th tound that the deposits of northern Ontario far exceed in extent and richness those of say that the nickel-producing formation of that region has been more than glanced at by explorer a survey of a few locations that there are 650,000,000 tons of ore in sight. The vastness of these figures simply daze the mind. They mean at a moderate estimate about 20,000,000 tons of refined nickel, enough with 5 per cent. to make 400,000,000 tons of nickel steel, besides about 40,000,000 tons of refined copper. But who can estimate the bulk of the ore when in one mine it is proved to have a depth of at least 600 feet ! It is not extravagant to say that the supply is illimitable; and so regarding it, what a boundless capacity for wealth the Province of Ontario has in the possession of these copper and nickel ores! Taking the figures Cambridge universities, between which of production given by our correspondent who accompanied the Toronto Board of Trade to Sudbury, it will be found that the furnaces now in operation have a yearly capacity computed on a campaign of 280 days of about 7,000,000 pounds of refined nickel, valued at $3,500,000. But multiply these figures by ten, and Mr. Ritchie is quoted as saying that his own company will have ten furnaces in blast within a year's time, we have a product which far exceeds in value all the exports of the Dominion in effort to secure refining works for nicke and copper in Ontario, and worth untold wealth to establish in the country furnaces and works for the production of nickel steel. We have abundance of the raw ores of nickel and iron. What we need is energy and enterprise on the part of our capitalists and a liberal policy on the part of our Governments to bring ores and fuel together, and to secure the foreign markets depends on cheapness of production, much on favorable conditions of foreign trade, and much on our ability to take advantage of our opportunities. Let us hope that the business men of Toronto will show that they

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION IN ENGLAND in itself vague, has now a very definite and well understood meaning, as used by those engaged in this department of educational work. It may be described as an attempt to bring university culture within the reach of those who are not able to receive that kind of culture within the hours and walls of a teaching university. It has been defined by one of its chief promoters in England as "university education for the whole nation on itinerant lines," and the The phrase "University Extension," whole nation on itinerant lines," and the definition is a fairly accurate one, as a brief analysis will show. It is real university education—no sham. The subjects are ordinary university subjects, and the treatment is as nearly as possible the better kind of university treatment. It is for the whole nation, in this important sense, that it is brought within the reach of those who in any particular locality desire it and are willing to make an effort to get it. That is to say, this university eduget it. That is to say, this university eduhours of the day. Shortly, this education is given on itinerant lines, because those who impart it go to those who receive it instead of requiring those who receive it to

This university extension system began in England eighteen years ago, and, like many another great reform, it had what may be called an accidental origin. Long pefore 1872 the Universities of Cambridge and Oxford carried on examinations at local centers for the double purpose of setting a standard for the scho enabling individual students to secure some mode of university recognition. Prof. subject. Those who son the United States experts have been able to report to their Government as the result of might be added such other exercises as the might be added such other exercises as the conditions of the case permitted. into the university extension move Some idea of the rapidity with which the ovement has expanded may be obtained from a few statistics. The work is done mainy under the auspices of the two great universities and of a society organized in London for the promotion of extension work in that city and it suburbs. In short, inside of London and about it the work is the London society; the rest of England is Cambridge universities, between which there is friendly emulation, but no unseemly rivalry. The universities keep clear of each other, each taking towns and cities not taken by the other as its fields of operation. No educational movement of scent times can boast of such a celerity of growth, and yet there is good reason to believe that the development is strictly normal. In other words, the happy idea o university extension work came forth in It is not hard to understand why this should be so. In 1870, after long and

The impulse thus given to public education created in the course of system. mand for something more advanced in the way of culture, amongst those who had leisure to read and study, but not enough leisure to give up four years of life ex clusively to reading and study. The read ing of the many is frivolous, and it will probably continue to be so for an indefinite time; but the reading of the few always has been and always will be of a when the product is finished. Very much depends on chapness of production, much movement sprang up like springs of water in a thirsty desert. The chief development of the movement set in after the public school system had been about ten years in are equal to their opportunities. They are operation, and its chief expansion has taken place during the past eight years.

The most singular thing about university strong enough to make their power felt at Ottawa as well as Toronto, and we look to extension is that it should have taken its them to show the country the lesson of an origin and derived its impulse, character and direction from two medieval universities, which are usually regarded as the abodes of the most high and dry conservatism. Had a few of the foremost American universities initiated such a movem there would have been less cause for surprise, but no American university made any "high and dry" character which formerly belonged to Cambridge and Oxford, and are poses of saie, and "dairyman" means any still popularly attributed to them, has been falsified by other developments than the and will affect every person who has any dealings with milk in all places where the ing in the world, showing an eagerness to local authority sees fit to adopt the act. Clever Surgical Operation.

Mrs. Jenkins, wilê of Robt. Jenkins, of Turnberry, was in London last week, having an operation performed on one of her eyes. She has been perfectly blind for about a year, thick scums having grown over the sights of both eyes. Dr. Wishart removed one of them and will operate on the other in about a week. The part taken from the eye was about the size of the skin of half a large pea, but not quite so thick. The manner in fwhich this delicate operation was performed reflects credit on the skill of the London physician.—(Wingham Advance.

Wellington Street Methodists.

Anniversary services were held yesterday in the Wellington Street Methodist Church Rev. Dr. Hugh Johnston, of Toronto, occupying the pupit at both services. The new organ was also opened, Mr. Rosell-Pococke ably filling the position of organist. In the morning the choir sang the authem. "Oh, Taste and See." The reverend gentleman took his text from Psalm Ixavii., 13: "Thy way, O God, is in thy sanctuary who is so great a God as our God?"

At the evening service the choir sang "Send Out Thy Light," and Mr. Evans solo, "Not a Sparrow Falleth," was very fine. Dr. Johnston took for his subject Matthew xxii., 42: "What think ye of Christ?" It was the most important question of humanity, of the personal salvation of every one that yearned after his forgivness. Conflicting and widely differing answers had been given to this question Voltaire and his band flung out the watchword "Crush the Church." Some talked about him in human iffe who rejected him as their to the heart and faith of all his people. They were more certain of him to-day than they were of their own existence. Was Jesus the Messial? Israel's hopes centered on the coming Messiah; Moses in a vision she held him. With death before him he was challenged by the high priest, "Are you the Son of God?" and then came the calm answer, "I am." At the age of 30 he came before the world. He rebuked the storm, he rebuked the fever, pardoned the sinful and healed the leper. America, Europe and most of the countries on the globe acknowledge him, and the truth is spreading every day.

The collections taken at the services were in aid of the Trust fund. The organ was manufactured by a Toronto firm and has, together with improvements, cost $2,500.

—Willie Prindle, the 12-year-old boy who has been the guest of the police for some time, came up on remand before the police magistrate this morning. The child was examined and said he was born in Picton, where his father and mother died, and from where he was sent six years ago. Since that time he has wandered around the country, living the best way he knew how. The magistrate decided to send him to the reformatory for six months or an indefinite period, as the youngster can find no better home.
