SIR WILLIAM MEREDITH EXONERATES INSPECTOR JOHN AYEARST

CHIEF INSPECTOR AYEARST IS COMPLETELY EXONERATED OF CHARGES MADE BY DEWART

Sir William Meredith in Report Following Probe in License Department Officials' Affairs, Renders Verdict That He Had Not Shared in Profits Made by Private Detectives.

Toronto, April 29.—Sir William Meredith, royal commissioner, probing the charges made by H. S. Dewart, M.P.P., against Chief Inspector Ayearst of the license department, after hearing argument this morning, gave his report on the evidence, completely exonerating Ayearst from the charges that he had shared in profits made by private detectives while these men were in the employment of the license department.

Mr. Robert McKay had argued that Ayearst's story as to the division of the money was not clear, but the commissioner ruled that the putting of the funds given Ayearst by these men in a separate account was quite reasonable. Ayearst had been indiscreet in borrowing money from Solomon and handling the fund—that was all.

FRENCH PRESS NOT AT ALL ENTHUSIASTIC OVER NEWLY FORMED LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Paris Newspapers Claim That Concessions Made by France Virtually Amount to Surrender — Hope Is Expressed That Later Amendments Will Remedy Faults Mentioned

Paris, April 20.—The covenant of the league of nations arouses little enthusiasm in the press of this city. Indeed, many of the provincial newspapers abstain from comment altogether. L'Oeuvre, which has always been a champion of the league, says: "Speaking generally, we are bound to say the pact of the league of nations causes a certain amount of disappointment. Its twenty-six articles constitute really the statutes of the league of governments to safeguard their territorial sovereignty, and are not a new charter of the law of nations which had been hoped for."

The newspaper thinks that the resignation shown by Belgium, Japan, and France must be due to promises or special guarantees which will be known perhaps "when diplomacy is no longer secret."

"Dead Before Birth."

Writing in the Echo De Paris, Pertinax, spokesman of the Nationalists' declares outright: "The league of nations is dead before birth." He also refers to rumors of treaties being made between the allied powers, remarking "to reassure us, Premier Clemenceau and Foreign Minister Pichon allege they hold favorable alliances in their portfolios. These parchments must be beautiful, complete and eloquent to justify such docility on the part of the French ministers."

All the newspapers point out that great concessions were made by France. Some of the journals go so far as to declare that these concessions amount to a surrender. As a whole, however, the press expresses the hope that later amendments will result in satisfying what are regarded as legitimate claims of France and the other countries which, as the Havas Agency summary of the comment words it: "Showed their moderation by abstaining from insisting yesterday upon an immediate vote" on the changes in the covenant which they were advocating.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA TO EXPROPRIATE LARGE ESTATES

Government Will Take Over Ten Million Acres of Land.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—The expropriation of large estates in Czecho-Slovakia has been ordered by national assembly, according to an official dispatch to Commissioner Pergler of the Czecho-Slovak Republic, made public today. Under this law the state will take over 3,250,000 acres of cultivated land and 7,500,000 acres of wooded land, which, it is estimated, will provide a livelihood for 430,000 families. By the new law all estates of more than 375 acres of land under cultivation or possible of cultivation and 250 acres of wooded land will be expropriated.

ITALIAN DELEGATION EXPECTED TO RETURN TO PARIS SHORTLY

Departure of Representatives Is Not Regarded as Rupture.

TODAY DECIDES ISSUE

Orlando Presenting His Case to the Italian Parliament Today.

New York, April 29.—The Associated Press this morning issued the following:

The stage is rapidly being set for the final phase of the peace negotiations. Yesterday's plenary session of the peace conference stamped its approval on the covenant of the League of Nations, while this evening the leading members of the German delegations are expected to arrive at Versailles.

Some points in the peace treaty to be presented the Germans are as yet unsettled, but it is considered probable that the clauses involved will shortly be ready for incorporation in the document, so that the completed treaty will be ready for the enemy delegates by the week's end.

Italy Not Represented.

Italy was not represented at the plenary session yesterday, but dispatches from Rome indicate the probability that her delegates will return to Paris after a brief period. The Italian parliament will meet today, and it is expected Premier Orlando will at once appear and lay before it the situation, which arose at Paris when President Wilson made his public statement relative to Fiume and the Dalmatian coast.

Will Be a Mandate.

Action by the parliament, which will be in effect, a mandate to the Orlando ministry, will be requested, there being an effort to secure an unanimous vote on the resolution demanding that Italy's claims on the eastern coast of the Adriatic be recognized. If this is done, it is probable that Premier Orlando and his colleagues will immediately reappear at Paris.

Advices from Rome state that the semi-official view of the situation there is that Italy has not definitely withdrawn from the peace conference, but has merely suspended participation. If the vote of the Italian parliament is favorable to the position taken by Premier Orlando, it is probable that the diplomatic battle will be resumed in Paris.

BELGIAN DELEGATION TO PRESENT CLAIMS

Paris, April 29.—The Belgian delegation will be heard today by the council of three regarding Belgium's share in the reparations to be paid by Germany.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY AND EQUALITY OF PAY FOR MEN AND WOMEN

Washington, April 29.—The nine clauses proposed by the commission on international labor legislation for insertion in the peace treaty, as adopted by the peace conference in plenary session at Paris yesterday, were made public here today by the state department.

Among the principles incorporated are a standard eight-hour day, a weekly day of rest, the abolition of child labor, equality of pay for men and women and workmen's "right of association for all lawful purposes."

GERMAN WOMEN MAKE UP ONE-THIRD OF THE LATEST DELEGATION TO VERSAILLES

Enemy Commissions On Limitation of Armaments and Commercial Affairs Arrive At Scene of Peace Congress—Mayor of French City Appeals to Populace To Remain Calm and Dignified.

Versailles, April 29.—Eighty-seven members of the German peace commission arrived here last night, being the second party to reach the scene of the presentation of the peace terms. Of these, thirty were women. The Germans included the commission on limitation of armaments, composed of Doctors von Becker and Schall and Major Bottticher, and that on commercial affairs.

Sixteen of the latter commission are women.

The party left the train at the little station of Vaucresson, twelve and a half miles from Paris, from which place they drove to Versailles in automobiles. The mayor of Versailles posted a proclamation appealing to the population to maintain a dignified and calm attitude, and has also appealed to the visitors to abstain from "inopportune manifestations and indiscretions."

While there will be but few witnesses to the signature of the treaty in the Hall of Mirrors, the mayor has asked that the public be admitted during the days following that event, so that they may see the arrangements of the historic apartment.

PEACE CONFERENCE TO DECIDE VALIDITY OF TREATIES MADE BY GERMANY DURING THE WAR

Clause Approved For Insertion in Treaty Provides That Germany Shall Renounce the Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest Agreements.

Paris, April 28.—One of the eleventh-hour questions awaiting decision at the peace conference is the validity of treaties concluded by Germany during the war. A clause which has been approved for insertion in the treaty provides that Germany shall renounce all advantages from the treaties of Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest, and an additional clause is still before the council of three which provides for a similar renunciation of "all treaties concluded by Germany since August 1, 1914, including those with Poland, Finland and the Baltic provinces.

This would operate to terminate various telegraphic and other conventions negotiated with neutrals during the war.

MAIN DELEGATION TO ARRIVE THIS EVENING

Versailles, April 29.—The leading members of the German peace conference delegation are expected to arrive here at 9 o'clock this evening.

CHALLENGES WILSON TO GO TO COUNTRY AS ORLANDO DID

Italian Newspaper Declares American President Cannot Secure Same Degree of Support.

Rome, April 28.—President Wilson is challenged by the Giornale d'Italia to "appeal to his own Parliament, as Premier Orlando has done, and to show the world that his policy has not unanimous support, like that given the Italian premier, but that of simply a majority of congress."

200 DETROITERS WHO FAVOR BOLSHEVISM PUT OUT OF MEETING

Police Aided by Soldiers Eject Hecklers of Madame Breshkovsky.

Detroit, April 29.—Police, aided by soldiers and sailors, last night ejected about 200 alleged Bolsheviki sympathizers from a hall in which Madame Catherine Breshkovsky, "Grandmother of the Russian Revolution," pleaded for the emancipation of Russian from the rule of the soviet government. Before the meeting opened Police Commissioner Inches warned the audience against interference with free speech. Heckling began soon after Madame Breshkovsky started her speech, and upon the commissioner's orders the program was halted while the disturbers were taken out and made to disperse.

Federal Government Operation Of All Industries Is Urged As A Solution Of Labor Problem

Victoria Contractor and Builder, in Giving Evidence Before Industrial Commission, Expresses Opinion That Such a Change Is the Only Satisfactory Way of Ending the Present Difficulties.

Victoria, B. C., April 29.—At the evening session of the Industrial commission yesterday, J. C. McDonald, builder and contractor, said that the solution of present situation is for the Dominion Government to take over industries of country and produce for use, not for profit. The main thing is to feed the people first and sell anything left. The working class has the brains of the world and ought to use them. It is useless to attempt any other solution of our social and economic problems, he said.

James Baker, president of the Victoria Metal Trades Council, expressed the opinion that no industry should be allowed to exist which could not pay a living wage. The rate of 35 to 40 cents an hour paid Orientals in the lumber mills, was not a living wage, he said, and he suggested the enactment of a minimum wage for the industry below which no employer might go.

"There is bound to be serious trouble unless something is done to relieve unemployment," he said. "Returning men want better living conditions and they are expecting a good deal more from the Government than they are receiving."

Situation is Helpless.

J. Hawthornthwaite, M. L. A. for Newcastle, the last witness before the commission here, held that the world today was passing through a change in the methods of production. The world has suffered from overproduction of goods in the past years, and from the standpoint of reconstruction he considered the situation absolutely and positively hopeless. Unemployment was becoming greater over the world.

Civilization demands that this must stop, he said, and a better method substituted. With the establishment of monopoly and the failure of competition no more progress is to be looked for from this system.

If representatives of capital would view the matter rationally, he thought, some means could be devised to avoid a catastrophe, such as had occurred in Russia. Germany and Great Britain were ready for social changes in the methods of production by which the worker would receive the full value of what he produced. Competitive ownership is confronting you. The first step would be the enactment of a seven-hour day, then some of the larger industries, coal mines, etc., should be taken over.

"You recognize state capitalism as one transitory step?" asked Mr. Moore.

"It is one step in the revolution," was the reply.

DECIDED SLUMP IN C. P. R. NET EARNINGS

Decrease of 48 Per Cent Is Shown in March Reports of This Year and Last.

Montreal, April 29.—After the more favorable showing in net earnings made in January and February of the current year, the Canadian Pacific Railway's net earnings for the month of March declined to the extent of $1,453,737, from the level for the same period last year, the total of $1,539,044 last month, comparing with $2,992,781 in March, 1918. This represents a drop of some 48.5 per cent from the 1918 monthly figures.

Returns for the first quarter of 1919, owing to the substantial decline in March, show a decrease in net earnings of $678,000, the 1919 figures of $4,073,672, compared with $4,751,672 in the same period last year, representing a falling off of over 14 per cent. Working expenses for the three months increased $4,352,643, or upwards of 15.5 per cent.

Revived Agitation Is Reported in All Parts of Germany.

Paris, April 29.—Renewed agitation in almost all parts of Germany is reported in German advices received here. The railway employees in the Berlin district are threatening to bring on a general strike on May 7 if their claims are not satisfied, while in the Ruhr industrial district the Spartacans are again displaying great activity and endeavoring to organize a general strike in this region. Already there have been outbreaks in which casualties have occurred, the advices show. Electric railway employees in Silesia are generally reported to have struck.

The newspaper says it understands that Mr. Asquith was "informally offered the post a few months ago and declined, but not in such a way as to preclude an offer later."

The Evening News states its belief that all the Cabinet ministers strongly favor Mr. Asquith's appointment, and that he may consider it his duty to accept.

AIRMEN WILL START FLIGHT ACROSS THE ATLANTIC THIS AFTERNOON, BOTH CONFIDENT

Raynham and Hawker Have Machines Tuned to the Highest Pitch For Trip Across Ocean—The Sopwith Machine Is Equipped With Life-Saving Apparatus — Martinsyde Plane Is Considered Faster.

St. Johns, Nfld., April 29.—The transatlantic airplane race is expected to start from St. Johns some time this afternoon. Reports received here this morning were that weather conditions over the ocean were favorable, and Capt. F. P. Raynham, British aviator, and H. Hawker, his Australian rival, each had his belongings packed and the wings of his machine preened this morning for flight toward Europe.

It had already been decided that the start when made would be in the afternoon, preferably about 3 o'clock. This was in keeping with the plan of both Raynham and Hawker to minimize flying in the darkness by meeting the west bound sun as they flew east and also to effect a landing on the other side before dusk on the following day. The pilots' watches have been adjusted to Greenwich time. It would be necessary to set out here three and one-half hours before sundown in order to arrive in England before a second twilight, but the aviators believe they could land on the Irish coast within twenty hours if conditions dictated.

Study Weather Maps.

While pilots and navigators studied weather map curves this morning, their mechanicians put finishing touches on the machines. At the Martinsyde hangar in Quidividi Valley nothing was left undone to prevent sluggishness of oil or mechanism; workmen had blanketed the Falcon motor beneath which an oil stove was kept burning through the night. The steel flying and landing wires were cleansed of their anti-rust grease coat. On the Mount Pearl plateau the hangar of the Sopwith plane also was the scene of activity. The mechanicians had received orders during the night to be at their posts early, and gasoline tanks and the water supply were being replenished. The two-bladed propeller which was attached yesterday instead of the four-bladed screw, was still in place this morning, but Hawker said he was undecided which one he would use.

The Martinsyde plane is admittedly the faster machine, but Raynham said this morning he was ready to concede that Hawker, by dropping his under carriage probably could equal Raynham's estimated speed of 110 miles an hour.

Resembles Racing Car.

Raynham's plane, named the "Raymor" (after Raynham and Morgan), resembles a racing automobile stripped for a long race. The Sopwith is equipped with an emergency boat, two rubber life-saving suits and other accessories, in case the plane falls into the Atlantic Ocean. Discussing the possibility of mishap and the lack of equipment on the Martinsyde, Capt. Morgan said today: "I am afraid these life-savings gadgets will be of little use. For myself, I have decided that I might as well take one deep breath if we strike the water. We will be a small speck on a big ocean out there."

The Martinsyde carries no sending wireless instrument to call for aid, but the Sopwith has one of small range. Each has a receiving set with a radius of from 250 to 350 miles.

Referee Must Be Present.

With the possibility of an early start from rival fields eight miles apart, Major Arthur Partridge, R.A.F., the referee, considered this morning how to meet the situation. It was understood he would appoint an assistant. Raynham, in his eagerness to get away yesterday, neglected to inform the referee of his intention to leave, and today word was sent both to him and to Hawker that the conditions of the competition for the $50,000 prize offered by the London Daily Mail required that a referee be present at the start. Hawker retains possession of the letters postmarked "first transAtlantic mails. These include a message from Governor Sir Alexander Harris to King George. A special message and a set of mails have been intrusted to Raynham.

GERMAN FLAGS ARE HOISTED TOO SOON

Military Police in Coblenz Act Quickly and Avoid Trouble.

Coblenz, April 28.—Enthused by prospects of peace and newspaper reports that the German peace delegates had passed Cologne en route to Versailles, five Coblenz citizens today hoisted German flags. The colors fluttered from their staffs only a short time, all having been taken down by the military police. A crowd of 200 allied soldiers on leave assembled in the street near a downtown building, where a large German flag was flying, but a military policeman relieved the situation by hauling down the flag himself. It is indicated that the Germans believe peace will soon be signed and the suspense which has prevailed since the armistice will be broken.

HOTEL PROPRIETOR LOSES LIFE IN FIRE

Sydney Business Block Is Destroyed With Loss of $130,000.

Sydney, N. S., April 29.—It is believed that John I. Robinson, manager of the Sydney Hotel, lost his life in the fire which totally destroyed the hotel block last night. The night bellboy reports that Mr. Robinson was upstairs when the fire started. He has not been seen since.

The absence of wind was the only thing that saved the business district of Sydney from being fire-swept and a firewall prevented the Royal Bank Building from being destroyed.

The damage is estimated at $130,000.

With Kitchener to Khartoum, With Buller to South Africa, and Then With 18th to France

H. Harding of Local Y.M.C.A. Has Wonderful War Record —Holds Medals and Bars and Was Wounded at Courcelette.

When peace reigns in the world, H. Harding, caretaker of the local Y. M. C. A., follows civil pursuits, but when the British Empire goes to war, he goes too. For twelve years in succession he served in the imperial army. Mr. Harding was 18 years of age when he enlisted with the 2nd Battalion of the Rifle Brigade. Four years later he was marching under General Kitchener to the relief of General Gordon at Khartoum. After serving five months there, during which time some heavy fighting occurred, he left Egypt. As recognition of his service during this campaign he received the Khedive's medal and the Queen's medal.

Went After Turks.

His next experience was on the Isle of Crete. His regiment was sent there to restore order, as the Turks had massacred the Cretans and caused considerable disturbance. Although there was little fighting, the regiment was stationed there for twelve months. General Shermaides led this expedition. There has been no issue of it yet, but it is said that as soon as the present peace terms have been signed the British Government will present the Cretan Star to those who served in that engagement.

In South Africa.

At the close of the nineteenth century the Boer war began, and Mr. Harding went away to it, as a private in the 1st Battalion of the Rifle Brigade. Under General Buller he served three years in this war. With his Queen's medal for this campaign, he has five bars, one for each of the following places: Laing's Nek, Transvaal, Relief of Ladysmith, Tugela Heights and Cape Colony. He also has the King's medal. While in South Africa he was wounded.

Britain Called.

In August, 1914, the Germans advanced through neutral Belgium thinking that Britain would not interfere. However, she did, and before long the old soldier was sailing for France with the 18th Battalion. After serving two years with the unit he was wounded at Courcelette in September, 1916. Another medal is soon expected by him, namely, the Mons Star.

STORE ENTERED BUT NOTHING IS STOLEN

Police Blame Youngsters For Crime in North End.

The store of A. J. Cawston, 719 Richmond street was broken into last night and the till forced open. The small change and coppers it contained, were not taken. Marks found in the vicinity of A. J. Clarke's store next door, looked as if attempts had been made to gain entrance there, but those who were committing the crime had evidently been disturbed and had run away. This is the second attempt in two months to gain entrance into Cawston's store, the last one having failed. The police believe the burglars are youngsters.

Choir Concert at Chalmers Church a Great Success

ReRadings and Vocal Selections Receive Most Enthusiastic Encores.

A program of much merit was presented at a concert held in Chalmers Presbyterian Church Monday evening, under the auspices of the choir, when Miss Jean Walker, reader, was assisted by prominent local musicians.

Miss Walker gave several selections, revealing a most pleasing voice, a manner natural and appealing, and much dramatic ability.

The fact that Miss Lila B. Thompson, soprano; Miss Gladys Topping, contralto; Bert Howcroft, tenor, and Mr. Branch, baritone, were obliged to respond to encores after each of their numbers was evidence of the extent to which they were appreciated.

Several selections were given by the orchestra of the First Presbyterian Church, under the direction of George C. Lethbridge, the playing of the organization revealing careful preparation and a thorough grasp upon the part of the performers of the numbers presented.

After the concert, a tempting supper was served for the artists of the evening and the members of the choir.

SOLDIERS ASKED TO HELP RED TRIANGLE CAMPAIGN IN LONDON

Special Canvass For Funds During Next Week.

EFFORT RECOMMENDED

Headquarters Staff Issues Indorsement of Drive and Its Object.

A special canvass for funds for the Y. M. C. A. in connection with the coming Red Triangle Campaign next week is to be carried on in military circles in this district under the direction of Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, A. A. G., Military District No. 1. This campaign is fully recommended to the soldiers by the headquarters staff.

In the orders of the day issued, the officer commanding commends the campaign as follows:

G. M. Reid, Chairman.

"George M. Reid, president of the London Chamber of Commerce, has undertaken the chairmanship for the Red Triangle Campaign for the city of London, which takes place on the 5th and continues until the 9th of May. Mr. Reid has already organized the canvass among the business and professional men of the city, and has undertaken to cover with individual canvassers the whole field with the exception of those on military duty. He has asked me to undertake the organization necessary for this campaign through district headquarters, military hospitals and military units in the district.

Probably the Last.

"The Red Triangle Campaign is probably the last of the financial appeals for institutions engaged in patriotic and philanthropic work during the great war. Everyone is more or less familiar with the work that the Y. M. C. A. has been doing in camps and barracks in Canada, on trains and transports, in the various centres in England, and at the front, not only in France, but in Siberia, Northern Russia, Mesopotamia, Egypt, etc. The Canadian Y. M. C. A. has borne its full share of these large undertakings and has made a most creditable record for itself.

Total $30,000.

"The amount of money that London is expected to raise is comparatively small, namely: $30,000, and we are asked to do what we can towards raising this amount. Subscriptions may be paid in cash or may be deferred covering a portion of the year. This information will be supplied on the forms furnished.

DEPARTMENT ISSUES INFORMATION AS TO WAR GRATUITIES

Statutory Declaration Must Be Forwarded Through District Paymaster.

Ottawa, April 29.—The following information is issued by the department of militia with a view to clearing up existing difficulties regarding soldiers' war service gratuities:

The statutory declaration must be forwarded through the district paymaster of the military district in which the applicant was discharged, after a certificate has been attached, showing the amount of post-discharge pay already paid.

Up to April 25 there have been received 33,931 applications for war service gratuity from those struck off the strength, prior to the 11th of November, 1918. Of these 2,800 have been received since April 1, and to date 82,190 checks have been issued, of which 34,841 checks represent the first payment to soldiers and their dependents, 27,445 the second payment, 25,104 the third payment, and 1,800 the fourth payment.

Cases have also arisen where the service as shown by the record office in Canada differs from the service claimed by the soldier. This necessitates references to overseas authorities.

In the case of any applicant whose claim was forwarded to the district paymaster of the district in which he was discharged prior to April 17, and who has not received either a check or a communication in connection with this claim notification, should be sent addressed to the paymaster-general, militia headquarters, Ottawa, advising the date on which the statutory declaration was forwarded, and the military district in which the soldier was discharged.

COMMITTED TO JAIL TO AWAIT TRIAL ON CHARGE OF STEALING

Joe Soen and Dong Wai Go To County Court.

HOOK APPARATUS FOUND

One of Prisoners Had Suspicious Appliance Fixed To His Braces.

Pleading "Not guilty," Joe Soen and Dong Wai, arrested a week ago by Sergeant of Detectives Thomas Nickle and Robert Egelton, were today committed to the June county court session by Police Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon following their preliminary hearing at the Carling street court on charges of theft.

A week ago Soen and Wai were arrested on the charge of stealing cloth from A. Tillmann's Richmond street store and from John A. Selak, a Dundas street tailor.

Missed Cloth.

Giving evidence, John A. Selak stated that a week ago the two Chinamen entered his store and after staying there a few moments they departed, saying that as he was busy then they would return in the afternoon. Later the witness said he read in the papers that cloth thefts had been committed here, and in going over his stock he discovered that a piece of blue and a piece of black material were missing. He valued these two pieces at $60. In the witness box the witness identified two pieces of material found in a club bag alleged to belong to the Chinamen, as his.

Found the Hooks.

Detective Robert Egelton said in searching the prisoner Soen the latter attempted to hide his braces and do away with a hook apparatus he had attached to them. These hooks were so arranged that they would hang out over the vest, and in a suitcase and club bag found at the Richmond Hotel a piece of black cloth and one of blue were found. The detectives also discovered an opium pipe and complete outfit in the club bag.

Sergeant of Detectives Thomas Nickle in the witness stand stated that on Wai he likewise found some very sharp "fish-hooks," and on one a clothing ticket identified in court by A. Tillmann as one of a series that belonged to him.

Did Not Miss It.

Evidence given by A. Tillmann was similar to that of A. Selak. The Chinamen entered his store, and asked to be shown some cloth of a brown shade. Until notified by the detectives he did not know a piece of cloth had been taken from his place. This piece has not as yet been found.

During the entire court hearing Soen and Wai were most keenly interested in the proceedings. As each witness took the stand both the prisoners, with expressionless faces, watched closely and listened to every word of evidence. A young woman, said by the police to be the wife of one of the prisoners, was in the court room occupying a seat among the spectators. Following their committal for trial, she held a lengthy consultation with J. M. McEvoy, who is conducting the case for the defendants.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

PERMANENT ARCHES AT GATES OF CITY.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

As a suggestion from an interested citizen and one that believes in the progressiveness of our city, I have a suggestion to make. After seeing the arch in front of the city hall lit up on Saturday night it cannot but help remind every citizen that he is living in a real city. Why not have the city build permanent arches similar to this one just at the outskirts of the city on all the leading roads entering, Dundas street, Hamilton road, Wharncliffe road, and some other roads coming in from the north, and light them up. For the small sum that it would cost to do it, it would be one of the biggest advertisements that this city has ever had. We are spending annually a great many thousands of dollars in a reckless and shiftless way in which we get no returns whatever. Our council and other officials do a great deal of talking from time to time, but the percentage of action in proportion to the talk looks to the writer about .0003—a very small "batting average." I can assure you what we really want is an aggregation of real live active men to handle the affairs of our city, and if the aggregation that are now in power want to place themselves on record as being of that calibre, let them perform some real act that would stand out like quills on a porcupine, something that will show, something that will attract outsiders to this city. Talk alone never will do it.

Here is a fine chance for some of the live ones to come across with some more suggestions along the same line. During the course of a season we have thousands of tourists come through here, and if they would see an electric arch on entering the city and another one on leaving the city, it would do more advertising in our city for one season than our whole publicity department could do in a lifetime at the rate they are going.

Yours truly, G. A. WENIGE,
Care Bicycle and Motor Sales Company,
Believers in Advertising.

Mrs. Cousins Tells What She Did To Regain Strength.

Coatesville, Penn.—"The grippe left me with a bad cough and in a weak, nervous, rundown condition. I tried Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil without benefit. I read about Vinol, tried it—my cough disappeared, my appetite improved, and I gained strength and flesh by its use."—Mrs. Alice Cousins.

We wish every person in this vicinity—who suffers from a weakened, rundown, nervous condition, would try this famous cod liver and iron tonic. We have been recommending it for years and never knew it to fail.

AFTER INFLUENZA, GRIP

And Other Prostrating Diseases That Exhaust the Strength.

There is always a depleted condition of the blood, that extreme tired feeling, nervousness and digestive weakness from which recovery is slow unless a good medicine is taken.

The lack of red corpuscles in the blood makes it too thin properly to nourish the body, and the general prostration, annoying humors, boils, loss of appetite and poor digestion prevent progress towards health.

Hood's Sarsaparilla meets these conditions perfectly, as many people know. It has proved the greatest blood-purifying, vitalizing medicine. Nothing else so good in spring.

It is made from a formula comprising ingredients often used by the best physicians for impure blood, scrofula, rheumatism, weakness. Truly it purifies the blood and makes the weak strong. For a fine family cathartic take Hood's Pills.

WEEK'S PAY KEPT FROM GIRLS WHILE WORKING IN FACTORY

One Firm, At Least, Admits This Practice.

TRIES TO JUSTIFY IT

Manager Says It Takes Several Days To Make Up Accounts.

"Is this the custom in London?" was a question raised today in connection with a little incident of employment, employer and employee.

A young woman, industrious and prepared to give the best service of which she was capable, obtained work with a local firm which pays once in two weeks.

At the end of two weeks, she received her pay envelope and found in it only one week's pay. Inquiring about this, she was told that the firm was in the habit of holding back one week, a pay in this manner to guard against the sudden departure of employees or anything of the kind that would involve lose for the firm.

No Contract Made.

At the same time no mention of this was made to the young woman when she was engaged, nor did she enter into any contract to this effect.

The young woman, who could not afford to do without even one week's pay declared that she would not work for a firm that dealt with employees in such an unfair manner, stated that she was going to leave, and demanded full pay for the work she had done, in other words, the pay for the week that had been withheld. This was refused.

Fact Admitted.

The manager of the firm in question admitted that the rule in the factory was to pay on Friday up to the Friday previous, or in other words that employees were always one week's pay to the bad. He defended the practice on the ground thata at least four or five days were required to make up the pay accounts. He also stated that a similar arrangement was in effect, to the best of his knowledge, in every factory in London.

Will Get Pay.

When told that the complainant stated that she had not been advised beforehand of the rule which was in force regarding pay his answer was: "She could easily have found out if she had inquired." He added that the pay for her second week's work would be forthcoming on the following regular pay day.

There Are Smiles That Are Annoying, So Lawyer Believes

One of Them Appeared in the Police Court Today.

Prior to Police Magistrate A. M. M. Graydon fining Mr. McEvoy's client $200 and costs for a breach of the liquor license act, J. M. McEvoy and R. G. Fisher staged a wordy battle during the Carling street court session today.

As the crown's witness, P. C. Thomas Noonan, was leaving the box, Solicitor Fisher smiled.

"I'll try and take that smile off your face," shouted Mr. McEvoy, as he sprang to his feet at the solicitor's table.

At this juncture R. G. Fisher stated that he wished to ask the witness a single question.

"If you attended to your work instead of smiling, you would not have to do that," was J. M. McEvoy's hot retort.

At this juncture Police Magistrate A. M. Graydon warned both the lawyers that they would have to subside and order was demanded in the court. Following his worship's action both lawyers, in an inaudible undertone, carried on a battle of repartee until the case was finally settled.

LONDON BOYS PLEAD GUILTY TO ROBBING ST. THOMAS STORE

Are Remanded To Jail For One Week While Investigation Proceeds.

St. Thomas, April 29.—Amice Lamontaigne and Victor White, the two London youths, who were caught last night while getting away from the Kilpatrick Hardware Store of this city, after they had broken and entered the premises, and carried away a large quantity of fendant making a promissory note on hardware stock, pleaded guilty this morning when they appeared before the city police magistrate to a charge of burglary. In order to consider the case and find out a little more about their past history, they have been remanded to jail for one week. Both young men told a story of hard luck this morning. They have been in trouble before, and one of the youngsters admits having served a term in jail in London on a minor offence. The burglary in this city was committed at 8 o'clock. The lads attempted to get away just as Mr. Kilpatrick, the proprietor, entered the store.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Verdict On Death of William Proctor in Windsor.

"Accidental death," was the verdict given last night at the inquest into the death of William Proctor, the local Grand Trunk brakeman who was killed in the Windsor yards Monday April 21.

Evidence showed that Proctor's death was the result of an accident in which he was run over by a freight train passing through the yards at the border city. The jury made certain suggestions for improvements which it was thought would make future accidents of the same nature almost an impossibility.

Proctor, who was an employee of the Grand Trunk for some considerable time, lived with his aged parents at 10 Inkerman street.

JUST FOUR YEARS TODAY SINCE 18TH REACHED ENGLAND

Few of Originals Remain With the Unit.

If the 18th Baattalion departed from England today it would celebrate thus the anniversary of its arrival four years ago. The transport leaving the shores of the old land will bring back few of the originals of the battalion. This is shown by the fact that more than 500 notices have been sent out to old members of the battalion and 500 are yet to go.

Lieut.-Col. G. W. Nelson, formerly of the 18th, has been sending notices to all the former members of the battalion who can be traced. Major Ingram is also having literature printed to be handed around by London commercial men notifying all the former members to be on hand for the celebration, when the unit reaches home.

CHEERS AND HISSES.—There is by no means unanimity in the city on the subject of daylight-saving time. When the notice was flashed on the screen last night at the theatres that standard time would be observed, there were cheers which were quickly drowned by hisses. Then cheers rose again and the impression left was that opinion on the subject was pretty well divided.

DR. REID THREATENS TO SHUT OFF WORK ON WELLAND CANAL

Delegate of Niagara Trades Federation Reports Interview With Minister.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, April 28.—"The minister refused to meet representatives of the men with a view to an adjustment of the working conditions. He said he had a report from the department of labor of the rates of wages in the industry paid by private corporations, and that as far as he was concerned when told that the men were taking a strike vote, it would suit him all right, since the Government could close down the work indefinitely," said James Marshall, in a verbal report to the members of the Niagara District Trades Federation, who had sent him to Ottawa to affect a settlement of the wage demands of workers on the Welland ship canal.

The contention of the Government is that the Lemieux act cannot be applied to the dispute of the workers of the canal. The men claim that the figures quoted by the minister of railways and canals are ten cents lower in some cases than the rate of wages paying in the Niagara peninsula.

PASSENGERS OBJECT MOST STRENUOUSLY TO CHANGED HOURS

Nearly Start Riot On Early Morning Cars.

COSTS MORE TO TRAVEL

Those Getting To Work Before 7:30 A. M. Use Dearer Tickets.

Something akin to a small riot was nearly precipitated on several of the cars of the London Street Railway Company this morning when the early passengers were told that they could not use the cheap tickets until 7:30 o'clock new time. This means that all of those who must be at work by 7:30 and who have been accustomed to riding on the nine-for-a-quarter tickets now have to use the seven-for-a-quarter tickets. It is unnecessary to state that the employees of the railway company who brought about the change to old time came in for a deal of criticism. The angry passengers threatened to clean up on the conductors, and the wrecking of the whole system was suggested in the heat of the moment, so it is said.

Another Change.

While the cheap tickets are good only from 6:30 to 8 a.m., it has been the practice for the conductors to accept them any time up to 8 o'clock, as but few people rode the cars before 6:30. This has been changed on account of the majority of the citizens maintaining the daylight saving time, and the conductors are adhering strictly to the rule.

One of the conductors the other day said, when speaking of the reversion to old time, that there were only a few who used the cars before 7 o'clock new time. It appears that many had to walk to work this morning. Among those were the employees of the city engineer's department, who are working on the sewer and paving works. They have asked Engineer H. A. Brazier to take up the question with the city fathers, and it will be discussed at the meeting of No. 2 committee this evening.

May Change Hours.

It is probable that the men will be allowed to start work at 8 o'clock new time and quit at 6, thus making a nine-hour day.

Several of the manufacturing establishments in the city are reverting to the old time since the street railway has changed. The Empire Manufacturing Company and the McCormick Manufacturing Company are among those who are adopting the old time.

As far as the wholesale and retail business of the city is concerned, it is more than probable that the daylight saving time will be maintained. Wholesalers are practically compelled to adopt this plan on account of the railroads.

The schools are still under the new time also.

Object to Method.

One of the mechanics working on a building on Dundas street yesterday expressed the opinion that the workingmen were not opposed to the new time as such, but they objected to the council putting the new time in effect. The workers claim, according to him, that the council put the question through without proper consideration and in a high-handed manner.

This is denied by the city fathers and Mayor C. R. Somerville. They point out that sufficient time was given for any opposed to the plan to place their claims before the council. Deputations favoring and opposing it were heard. In the opinion of the mayor, the council still maintains the same attitude to the daylight saving plan as it had when the bylaw was passed.

In any event that old bromide, "How old is Ann?" bids fair to be cast into utter oblivion in London by the up-to-the-minute question: "What time is it?"

Mayor's Advice Is Free But At Times Not Just Workable

As Expert On Getting Tenants Out He Is Good Mayor.

Mayor C. R. Somerville is generally ready and willing to help any person in trouble, but there are times when even he can be of no assistance, as witness the following telephone conversation overheard in his office this morning. The telephone tinkled, and taking down the receiver, he listened for a short time and replied, "Order them out."

A short pause, then, "Well, move the house with them in it, but be sure you charge them rent while moving it."

Another pause, while those sitting in the office began to smile as they sensed somewhat the gist of the conversation.

"They refuse to get out." Another pause, during which the mayor listened intently to the voice coming over the wire, while his brow began to assume an extremely thoughtful appearance.

"You want to tear the house down. Can you not do it while the tenants are in the house?" Still another pause while the mayor was listening and thinking up another answer. "What would you have me do?" he queried.

"No, I am afraid I cannot take any action. You will have to get them out yourself."

As the mayor was about to suggest that part of the roof be allowed to blow off some night quite accidentally, the party at the other end of the line rang off and this valuable bit of advice was not given.

It appears that a descendant of Abraham bought one of the houses on the site of the new medical school, and his tenant refuses to vacate. He appealed to the mayor with the foregoing result.

ADVANCED IDEAS ON EDUCATION APPEAL TO LONDON PEOPLE

Some Would Make Schooling Free or Profitable.

AGE LIMITS DISCUSSED

Increase To 16 Years Thought Likely To Cause Some Hardship.

In connection with the proposed boosting of the compulsory school age from 14 to 16 years, many different opinions are being expressed in civic circles. Many citizens point out that this will entail a hardship on a great many people inasmuch as they are able now to have their boys go to work at 14 and help themselves.

Some citizens have expressed the opinion that the fees at the Collegiate Institute are also a detriment to many pupils who otherwise would take up two or three years in the Collegiate.

Would Abolish Fees.

Speaking of this today, Alderman E. S. Little stated that if this is true he would favor the abolition of the fees altogether. He thinks that nothing should be put in th eway of the children being given the best possible education.

James Thomas, one of London's lawyers, proposes that all children should be paid to go to school after they reach a certain age. He calls attention to the fact that the reason so many quit school when they reach the age of 14 is on account of financial reasons. In many instances the parents cannot afford to maintain the children at school longer, and in other cases the boy or girl begins to feel independent and wants to earn some money for himself or herself. By paying them both these difficulties would be overcome, according to him.

Make Them Apprentices.

Mr. Thomas also points out that apprentices to the various trades receive wages while learning, and he does not see why the puvils, who are apprentices in a sense, should not be paid. If this were done the professional men would not have any reason to charge the high fees which now obtain. They must have a high price for their work now because their education costs so much. If they were to be paid while studying they would not need this.

Would Open Way.

Another great advantage of his plan is that many who, through circumstances over which they have no control, are compelled to forego the advantages of an advanced education, would be able to adopt any profession which they might desire and for which they were naturally fitted, according to Mr. Thomas.

Mr. Thomas admitted that he was several decades in advance of his time with this plan, but he held out the hope that it will eventually be adopted by the leading nations, Canada for instance.

MOTOR COMPETITION ON HENSALL ROUTE FOR EXPRESS FIRMS

Young Man Starts Enterprise Today.

The Grand Trunk Railway will have to contend with competition in the freight-carrying business between here and Hensall in future. A new motor-truck freight line has been established between here and Hensall, serving the intermediate points, including Hyde Park, Ilderton, Denfield, Lucan, Clandeboye, Exeter and Centralia. The truck made its first trip over the route this morning and so long as business warrants it will repeat the journey each day.

The venture was really an outcome of the recent strike of Canadian Express Company employees. An enterprising young man thought that he saw in the situation an opportunity to inaugurate a remunerative business. He made a canvass of merchants between Hensall and London, who were doing business with London wholesalers, and already several local wholesale houses have received orders to be shipped via the new express company's line. These orders were called for by the organizer of this business this morning and were duly dellvered to him for transportation to their respective destinations. The complete journey from here to Hensall is one of 52 miles.

ONLY ONE CASE ON DOCKET OF SUPREME COURT AT WOODSTOCK

WOODSTOCK, April 28.—Supreme court opened here today, with Mr. Justice Logie of Toronto, presiding. Only one case is on the docket, a non-jury one, the American Cyanimid Company of Centreville, vs. Thomas Waterhouse & Co., of Ingersoll. The dispute concerns the flooding of certain lands, about one mile east of Ingersoll, bought by the plaintiff for the purpose of constructing quarries, by the defendants' dam on the Thames River, which runs through the lands. Mr. Johnston of Toronto, and S. G. McKay of this city, are acting for the plaintiff and I. F. Hellmuth of Toronto, and Col. McMullen of this city, for defendants.

ALDERMEN ASSURED CITY'S ASSESSMENT REQUIRES EQUALIZING

Agree With Mayor That a Change Is Needed.

PER CAPITA CHARGE $716

Commissioner Objects to This, Claiming It Should Be $762.

Alderman John Colbert declares that the assessment of London needs equalizing. He claims that the assessment burden is not properly divided among the owners of city property. This has been expressed by Mayor C. R. Somerville also, and several of the other members of the city council have concurred in this. They point out that no reflection is cast on the assessment department of the city but they all think that some way should be taken of bringing about a more equal assessment.

City Clerk S. Baker has prepared a tabulated statement giving the population and assessment of several cities of the Dominion. According to this London has an assessment of $716 per capita.

Takes Exception.

Assessment Commissioner Stephen Grant takes exception to this. He points out that it is unfair to include the annexed district when making such comparisons. According to him the assessment within the old city limits is $762 per capita and in the annexed district it is $224 per capita. The total population of the old city limits is 52,826 with a total of $40,250,351 while the population in the annexed district is 5,595 with an assessment of $1,457,336.

Fixed in District.

Mr. Grant also points out that the assessment in the annexed district cannot be changed materially on account of the agreement which was made when it was taken in with the city. The assessment which existed when it was annexed was the fixed assessment for fifteen years. Any new buildings or additions are assessed according to the regular practice, however. Mr. Grant contends that it is manifestly unfair to his department to consider this annexed taxation with that of the city in the comparative statement.

L. AND P. S. MEN AND COMMISSION AGREE ON SECRET POLICY

No Word of Meeting's Result Made Public.

POINTS OF CONTENTION

One of Them Is What Constitutes An Eight-Hour Day.

Strict censorship methods have been applied in reference to the negotiations between the London and Port Stanley Railway Commission and the employees. The two parties held a conference on Saturday respecting the proposed agreement for this year, and the men held a meeting last night. From neither source is it possible to get any news as to what is the result of the conferences and meetings.

Bond of Secrecy.

One of the union men, when questioned last night, stated that at the request of the commission the men had decided not to give anything to the press. He intimated that the commission had agreed to adopt the same clamlike attitude. In this one point, at least, there appears to be perfect harmony between the employers and employees, but it seems that in the other points there is not the same unanimity.

One Contentious Point.

As far as can be learned, one of the contentious points is what constitutes an eight-hour day. The commission offered what it calls an eight-hour day, which provides that the men may be asked to work more than the eight hours, and overtime pay will not be given until after ten hours have been put in. Some of the men have objected that this is not an eight-hour day at all. The same subject was discussed at some length at the last meeting of the commission. In any event, some agreement, of necessity, will have to be made shortly, as the old one is expected to expire on the 1st of May.

SHAVER—LANGFORD NUPTIALS.

On Wednesday, April 23, a quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Langford, 3 Brighton street, when their only daughter, Miss Tessa, was united in marriage to Edward G. Shaver of Allandale, Ont. Rev. J. C. Morris performed the ceremony.

ST. ANDREW'S EASTER SERVICE OF PRAISE A RARE MUSICAL EVENT

C. E. Wheeler's Choir Ably Assisted by Visiting Artists.

St. Andrew's Church was well filled last evening for the annual Easter service of praise, presented by the church choir under the direction of Chas. E. Wheeler. In addition to the most excellent program rendered by the choir and soloists, an attractive feature was the presence of W. A. McCutcheon, bass, of Hamilton, formerly soloist in St. Andrew's choir here, and Miss Anna Catherine Arnold, a solo organist of much ability. And as if to fill the cup of enjoyment even to overflowing, Miss Irene Symons, gifted soprano of Toronto, was heard in several attractive numbers.

Miss Symons possesses a voice of rare beauty, especially in the lower register which is like an organ in richness, and although she might be termed a dramatic soprano, yet maintains a certain restraint throughout, which lent even greater charm to her sacred selections. Only in her final number, "O Divine Redeemer" (Gounod), exquisitely rendered, did she for a moment break away from that characteristic restraint, and give the audience a glimpse of dramatic fire lurking underneath. A smooth, enameled quality in her voice enhances its beauty.

Her Best Number.

Another number, perhaps her best number of the evening, was the last of a group of three, "Ave Maria" (Luzzi), sung with artistic finish and at the same time with almost sacred fervor. A selection from the "Biblical Songs" of Dvorak and "A Prayer Perfect" (Stenson), completed this group. "Out of the Depths," by Norris, was her first number on the program, and proclaimed her at once an artist of ability.

Mr. McCutcheon was first heard in "The Trumpet Shall Sound," from Handel's "Messiah," which displayed the beautiful deep tones and majestic quality of his voice. His second group included "To the Forest (Tschaikowsky) and "I Think" (d'Hardelot), both popular numbers.

Anna Catherine Arnold, solo organist, showed herself to be a musician of rare talent and big promise. She introduced herself in the "Suite Gothique," by Boellmann, in which the color work, and tone production was exquisite. "Elegy" (Noble) and "Intermezzo" (Callaerts) were her final numbers and equally well rendered.

Choir Was Excellent.

The choir itself scored last evening in the negro spiritual "Listen to the Lambs," by R. N. Dent, displaying a finish which comes only with long and skillful training. In this end in their other numbers they were ready for the note, quick to respond to the leader and were thus able to produce color effects and shadings most pleasing to the listener.

"Softly Now the Light of Day" (Donald Haines), was a popular number and beautifully rendered, as was the final chorus, "The Christians' Battle Song" (Jude), a glorious, triumphant mingling of voices and majestic harmonies.

Miss Anna Cochrill maintained the solo part in Schubert's triumphant chorus, "Great Is Thy Glory, O God," and Mr. Webster, Miss Cochrill and Miss Kunz took solo parts in Heinrich's "The Silent Land," a thing of exquisite beauty.

Quartet Applauded.

A quartet, "Only Fear the Lord," (Pinkham), in which Miss Cochrill, Miss Kunz, Mr. Pink and Mr. Webster took part, was one of the best numbers on the program, their voices blending with the most pleasing effect. A bass duet, "The Lord Is a Man of War" (Handel), sung by Mr. McCutcheon and Mr. Webster, completed the program.

A supper provided by the managers of the church and their wives was tendered to the choir and soloists at the close of the service, when several short speeches were made, in which the choir and its leader, Mr. Wheeler, received great praise. Mayor C. R. Somerville, who had presided at the service of praise, spoke of the excellent work being done by the choir, and in reply Mr. Wheeler thanked all for the co-operation they had given.

SERGT. McDONALD, A.M.C., PRESENTED WITH M. M.; HAS LONG SERVICE ALSO

Regimental Sergt.-Major John McDonald of the A.M.C. Training Depot No. 1, has been awarded the Meritorious Medal. Brig.-Gen. L. W. Shannon made the presentation on Saturday at headquarters.

Sergt.-Major McDonald has seen 26 years' service under the British flag, being for twelve years with the Imperial army and eight years with the R. C. R. prior to the outbreak of war. He served in Egypt and the northwest frontier of India, and enlisted with the C. E. F., being appointed sergeant-major of the 110th Battalion. He went to England with the 110th, but was returned to Canada because he was over the age limit. He has been awarded the long service and good conduct medals as well.

Lieut. John McDonald, son of Sergt.-Major McDonald, went overseas early in the war and gave his life for the cause at Givenchy.

Undeveloped, Both the Mental and Physical Curable

Dr. Lindsay Gives an Interesting Talk to Health Association.

In the absence of Dr. W. J. Tillmann, who was to have addressed the Public Health Association at the Institute of Public Health last evening on the subject of infant feeding, Dr. J. C. Lindsay gave a paper on "Cretinism," a condition of endemic or inherited idiocy and its treatment. Many cases of mental and physical under-development, he said, were due to sub-normal secretion of thyroid and the feeding of thyroid extract often gave good results in such cases.

He showed photographs of a boy, thirteen and a half years old, who was afflicted with the disease, and who was deformed to the point of extreme ugliness, who could not walk without assistance and whose stature was that of a child of about one year. Two months ago the thyroid extract treatment had been commenced and already there was some improvement. In the case of a cretin treated from infancy the child, a girl, at twelve years of age was similar to a normal child of nine in both mental and physical development.

Dr. D. A. Craig, who presided, read a number of extracts from the provincial health act relating to the reporting of cases of tuberculosis. He pointed out that one great handicap under which Ontario suffered was found in the fact that, while the regulations were fairly well observed in Quebec, which adjoined the province, a person might have any kind of communicable disease and there was no restriction of the patient's actions or movements. He went on to say that the habitants believed that a woman who died in childbirth or a person who succumbed to smallpox escaped purgatory, and for this reason it was considered rather fortunate to contract smallpox and to die from it.

LUMBER WAGON DRIVER IS INJURED IN RUNAWAY

Geo. Fontaine, 209 Horton street, was taken to Victoria Hospital in the police ambulance about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon suffering from cuts about the head and a bruised leg, sustained in a runaway near the London Box and Lumber Company. The injured man, who was employed by the lumber firm, was hauling a load of lumber at the rear of the company's yards when the horse bolted, throwing him beneath the wheels. At first it was thought that his leg was broken, as he could not move it. Dr. Hadley Williams is attending him.

WINDSOR PUBLIC MEN PAY FINAL TRIBUTE TO JUDGE DROMGOLE

School Children Line Streets —Many Friends at Depot Here Yesterday.

WINDSOR, April 28.—More than 500 persons filled St. Alphonsus' Church this morning, where high mass was sung at the funeral of Judge J. O. Dromgole, senior judge of Essex county court.

School children lining both sides of Goyeau street, formed a guard of honor as the procession went to the Grand Trunk station. City policemen led the procession. Mr. Justice Sutherland, Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle, W. C. Kennedy, M.P., Leo Page, Gerald McHugh, John R. Boyd and Edward O'Leary acted as pallbearers.

All barristers of the city attended the funeral. Flags on all public buildings were at half-staff. The police court and other municipal offices discontinued business during the hours of the funeral, while the employees attended the services.

Mayor Winter and the aldermen attended in a body and followed the procession to the station. The Knights of Columbus had charge of the funeral.

A large number of London friends of the late Judge Dromgole were at the depot in London when the body arrived here, and joined in the cortege which followed it to its last resting place at St. Peter's Cemetery.

LONDONERS HELD AS BURGLARS BY ST. THOMAS POLICE

One Was Caught in Act of Robbing Hardware Store.

ST. THOMAS, April 28.—Amice La Montaigne and Victor White, two London youths, were arrested by the police tonight, and will appear tomorrow morning on a charge of breaking and entering the Kilpatrick hardware store. The robbery was the most daring and sensational in years. The proprietor of the store, Mr. Kilpatrick, went to the building on his way downtown about 8 o'clock and, on entering the front entrance, he heard some one running toward the rear. He made a rush to the back of the store and caught one of the young men as he was getting away. He was taken to police headquarters and searched. In his pockets they found $33 in cash and a miniature hardware store. He later gave the name of his accomplice and Officer McKeown and Constable A. Taylor went to the M. C. R. depot, where they finally managed to capture him. They gave the police the names of their parents in London, and Sergeant Ketchebaw notified them tonight to be here tomorrow morning.

REFRIGERATORS

Bring Less Ice--We Have a New Refrigerator

So effective is the insulation of its walls that you could place the Barnet beside a hot stove and not increase ice consumption inside. To get low temperature you, of course, use ice—but to keep it cold you must depend upon insulation.

The better the walls of your refrigerator can shut out heat, the more ice you save. The Barnet Refrigerator has no less than eleven walls to keep the heat out and the cold in. Every ounce of ice is used up without waste to maintain low uniform temperature.

Less than 40 degrees Fahrenheit means perfect refrigeration. The Barnet maintains temperature as low as 36 degrees.

To keep the food clean and wholesome there must also be rapid circulation of pure, fresh, dry air over food and ice, and there must be a proper ventilating system to withdraw odors, so that there can be no contamination through flavor of one food mixing with another.

Our patented syphon and ventilating system of circulation has proven itself over and over again to be the most effective possible method. It is the system used by some of the United States and Canadian Railroads, who, you may be sure, would select the very best. It is this system which enables the Barnet to preserve foods for long periods fresh, dry and sweet as the day they were put in—with least ice. The Barnet has patent adjustable shelves.

The Barnet is always the cheapest in the end, because it is absolutely effective in every way. It is made in twelve different sizes, in oak, natural birch or ash.

PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

EATING OF DINNERS IS BAR TO WOMEN BECOMING LAWYERS

Objectors Say Women Cannot Fulfill Old Requirements.

LONDON, April 28.—British conservatism sometimes finds strange obstacles in the path of progress. One of these threatens the proposal now before Parliament, and strongly supported by a former lord, Lord Buckmaster, for the admission of women to the bar to practice as barristers. It is the ancient requirement that candidates for the bar must eat a certain number of dinners in one of the Inns of Court of the Temple to qualify to take their parts in the administration of the law.

There are four of these inns, each maintains a large mess. Every student must be enrolled in one, and must dine there a fixed minimum of evenings before he may appear in court in wig and gown.

The admission of women would ruffle the old traditions, and bring in a new and unwelcome atmosphere, say the objectors. The messes are subdivided into parties of four who combine on wine rations, and they ask, how could the other sex fit into this arrangement? No racial lines are drawn in the temple. Many natives of Africa, of India and all the races of the Orient and other far-away lands are admitted and sit harmoniously at the table with the British members and candidates of the courts. But the suggestion of throwing down the barrier of sex seems to the barristers an alarming innovation.

Just why the eating of dinners should be a necessary feature of training for the legal profession is a mystery to the outsider. But the higher caste of the legal trade union is a close corporation and a law to itself.

Daily Bible Question Club

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY. May 4, 1919.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION.

[By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.]

Man Made in the Image of God.—Genesis i., 26-28; ii., 7-9. Ephesians iv., 20-24.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

4. Verse 27. Why would you say, or not, that God can be seen with outward eyes or heard with outward ears?

5. God's image is spiritual or immaterial, mental and moral, consists of personality, free-will, reason, memory, love, righteousness and creative force. To what extent and in what way was man patterned after God?

Verse 28. In how many respects do men resemble other animals, and in what respects are men superior and different?

Golden Text.—God created man in his own image.—Gen. 1:27.

MAN MADE IN THE IMAGE OF GOD.

God is infinitely holy, loving and kind. He made the world for man to dwell in, and made man with the capacity for happiness, giving him wisdom to take charge of the earth and subdue it. The Creator gave man qualities in a finite degree for the purpose for which he was intended, the same as God possesses in an infinite degree. When we see the wonderful things which man has done since the creation of the world, it is not difficult to detect that man has the same remarkable characteristics as his maker. When we see things which man has accomplished in the development of cereals, of fruits, of vegetables, of animals, and marvelous mechanical contrivences, it is not difficult to see the image of God stamped upon him.

Mother's Care Best.

Dear Miss Grey,—I thank you very much for sending me the song; many thanks to you, "Silverlocks," for the words of "The Wild Cowboy." I see in your Mail-Box where someone was speaking about mothers' pensions. I think it would be one of the best things ever was thought of. Whoever started it ought to get a reward; there is no one better able to take care of children than their own mother. It must be a heartbreaking thing for a mother to have to give her children to others to rear. I have four dear children, and I would hate to give them to strangers to take care of.

"Neoma." I made your chocolate pie. It was just lovely. I am going to make more of them. "Bean Pole," I know what a lot you miss by being deaf. I am troubled with deafness myself, but better be deaf than blind. As before,

TIRED MOTHER.

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL-BOX

Wants the Book.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you kindly let me know, through your columns, if there is a book on "Revelations of a Wife"; if so, where to obtain it? Sincerely, SMILES.

Ans.—So far as The Advertiser knows, the "Revelations" are not purchasable in book form.

C. A.'s Wounded Feelings.

Dear Miss Grey,—I know you are going to use a very naughty word when you read on a bit, 'cause I'm "axshually" going to ask for a copy of the "goat" reading. I have heard it several times, and would like so much to have it. I'm some of a spouter, you see, and I'd be glad to exchange readings with anyone. The reading I refer to is the "Mason" one, and I think is called "When Father Rides the Goat." Eh? What's that you said? Uh-huh! I was sure you'd say it, and I surely can't blame you.

My word, R. M., but you are in a bad way, and wasn't that positively mean of Miss Grey to say "I refuse!" and in such thundering letters too? You see, R. M., if you should care to correspond with ME you will have to change your name to Miss Muffet or something and ask if I would write you personally and tell you how to—— Oh, say, get rid of freckles! You see, I once had an admirer, a Pageite too, and he's forgotten all about me, so if there is any heart balm, salve or ointment flying around, Miss Grey, why, steer some my way, will you? R. M.—Don't let anything like that spoil your life. I fancy we all get a jolt in the love business some time or other, and be glad yours are coming now. Get me?

My sincerest good wishes go with you, Evangelist, in your journey and wonderful mission; sincerely wish you could have been one of the brothers (adopted) that call this street and number Home. I do hope none of the Readers are ill after Easter, from eating colored eggs. Yours, CALAMITY ANN.

Ans.—No, Calamity Ann, you misjudge me; I never even thought a naughty word upon reading your request, and as the Boss was in the room at the time, I wouldn't dare utter anything out of place, anyway. As to your needing heart balm, anybody of such thriving proportions can't possibly be wearing away with a broken heart, so I'll have to save it all for R. M.

English Women's Heroic Work.

Dear Miss Grey,—In the Mail-Box of April 18 I chanced to read "Mazele's" letter in which she mentioned that the "beer drinking" English wives which the Canadian soldiers had brought out would be amongst those women who would have a vote, and hinted that they should be prevented from doing so, as they would not favor prohibition, and thus be a menace to this fair Canada. At least this is the interpretation I placed upon the matter. "Mazele" asks "Are the English women beer-drinkers? May I answer her query by saying that the class referred to are very greatly in the minority. The most highly-prized beverage in England is a good cup of tea, and in return for this luxury the English housewife is quite content to watch her husband smoke his pipe and drink his glass of ale in the chimney corner, knowing full well that by giving him this privilege she is keeping him from worse dangers and temptations.

Now, may I call "Mazele's" attention to the fact that the women of England played a part in the great war which will never be forgotten. In France, Flanders, Egypt, Mesopotamia and at home they did their duty, and did it faithfully even when it called, as in the case of Edith Cavell, for life itself.

In munitions plants alone thousands of women and girls toiled on day after day and night after night, many with the purple band round their arms denoting the loss of husband on the field of battle, widows, in many cases with a family of little ones to support, while others who had perhaps lost brothers or friends worked in "yellow rooms," with face and hands so yellow that they were practically disfigured; some victims of recent explosions, wherein they had lost a hand or an arm, still "carrying on" as messengers or office girls, thus releasing one more man or young fellow for "active service." Again, hundreds worked in T. N. T.—the deadly poison which in time caused death.

Personally, I could relate numerous circumstances of heroism and self-denial where these women carried on fearlessly in the fight for right against the unscrupulous Hun. Time or space will not allow for me to go into further details or mention nurses, land-workers and every other branch of women worker, but actions speak louder than words, and I am sure all broad-minded people will agree that the hundreds of English brides which the gallant laddies brought back will prove to be excellent Canadian citizens in future if given a fair deal, and quite capable of handling a husband, a home, and a vote.

Now, "Mazele," I wrote this letter in no spirit of antagonism, and may I say, in conclusion, that of all the soldiers of different countries none were more highly prized than the brave Canadians, and as they in return were by no means slow in succumbing to the charms of the "English Rose," won't you, too, for their sakes, be a "sport," and realize that they are fit mates for the boys you all hold so dear. As before,

A PATRIOTIC MOTHER.

Let's Wake Up.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been an interesting reader of the Mail-Box and do certainly enjoy the letters of many minds, but Mazele has struck the keynote of which we writers and, all others should be interested at the present time. I do hope as Mazele says we will all wake up to the realization of our duty, as mothers, wives and sisters, and not sit idly by and say oh, there is not the real danger of liquor coming back. That is just where the danger is. Let us be up and doing all we possibly can to keep out this awful traffic. As one man puts it, "Say No to all the four questions that is on the ballot," and try to save our young boys from the ruin and curse of liquor in any form. I will sign myself. HOLLY HOCK.

How Glad They Are.

Dear Miss Grey,—Isn't it nice to have that horrid war over with? I felt as though some big load was lifted off my mind. I had no dear ones from Canada to go, but several in England, and one from the States. Having lost two that were very dear to me, I can feel for those here. How glad the boys must be to get home again.

I inclose some coupons for boy for bicycle. Please may I have the foot pattern? I have three boys, and, oh, the stocking darning, but I guess there are a good many people who would not mind the darning to have three healthy, growing boys. I don't, for one.

Original "Cowboy" Song.

A correspondent, giving no name, incloses the following song, the words of which are so much in demand by Pageites. He (or she) writes: "These are the original words by the original author, as sung by the boys on Stewart's ranch on the Sweetwater River, Montana, in A. D. 1878."

THE WILD COWBOY.

I wandered along through Abilene City,
Quite early one morn, near the break of the day,
And saw in a corner a handsome young cowboy,
Sore-wounded and dying the poor fellow lay.

Chorus—
Now, ride your horse slowly,
And swing your rope lowly,
Nor weep and lament as they carry me by,
Take me to the prairie,
And lay the sod o'er me,
I've been a wild cowboy, and there would I lie.

I saw by his looks that his life would soon leave him,
And thought I would act, if I could, as a friend;
So went to him swiftly and spoke to him kindly,
For clearly I saw he was nearing his end.

Chorus—
"When riding my pony I used to be happy,
When out on the ranges I used to be gay;
But started in gambling and took too much whiskey,
Was shot by a 'un-horn,' and dying today."

Chorus—
"So break the news gently to father and mother,
As well as to brothers and sisters so dear;
But there is another, that's dearer than mother,
Her heart will be broken with sorrow, I fear."

Chorus—
"Please bring to me quickly a cup of cold water,
To cool my parched lips," so the poor fellow said;
But long ere I reached him, his spirit departed,
Had gone to his Maker, the cowboy was dead.

Rural Women's Rest Room.

Dear Miss Grey,—I was wondering how many of the rural readers have a rest room in their town? A nice, comfortable place, where they can go and leave their extra wraps and get brushed up before they do their shopping. Will someone please let us know right away how these places are managed, and who supports them? Such a place seems necessary in every town for the women from the country.

2. Could any of the readers send me readings, songs and helps of any kind for a temperance meeting?

I wonder if all the home "paperhangers" know that if a little white glue is added to the paste it will prevent the paper from falling off.

Someone wanted to know if seeds from Jerusalem cherries will grow. We sowed seeds two years ago. The trees are now over a foot high and in bloom.

SUNSHINE.

Ans.—Should be very glad to have any suggestions for "Sunshine," regarding rest rooms for rural women. Am sure many a woman from the farm would welcome such a place, during enforced waits in the town. The Women's Institutes in various places have established rest rooms, I believe, so may we not hear from some branch as to their management of the same?

Advice for R. M.

Dear Miss Grey,—I just came in to offer a few suggestions to "R. M."

Now, "R. M.," if you are 18 or thereabouts, just forget it. Your heart isn't broken; it's just your vanity that hurts. If you are over 25 and under 35, sit down in the camp light and muse," if you wish, but for goodness' sake analyze your actions the twice you went a courting. Were you wholly unselfish?

I have a very dear friend, who thought the world of a man, but his parents and their interests came first (they didn't approve of her), so she married another man, who could be trusted with complete confidence, and has a home with children in it, and thanks goodness she didn't go husband hunting either.

Now, "R. M." let's hear how you succeed. We all know there are few eligible young ladies in your community, but try and make the acquaintances of the school teachers and minister's daughters, and if you find one who suits, try and persuade her to change her name quick, before she has time to change her mind (the fickle thing).

B. E.

An Electric Ring

Dear Miss Grey,—My mother is subject to severe headaches, she used to have an electric ring that cured them but it broke and they are coming back as bad as ever. Do you or any of the readers know where we could get another as we can't get the address again? Thanking you in advance,

I remain, MARIA.

Ans.—I am sure we're all sorry to hear of Maria's mother's headache trouble. Has she had her eyes examined? So many headaches come from eyestrain. I do not know where an electric ring might be had, but hope some Pageite may be able to advise.

HOME-MADE BREAD

Home bread-making reduces the high cost of living by lessening the amount of expensive meats required to supply the necessary nourishment to the body. The increased nutritious value of bread made in the home with should be sufficient incentive to the thoughtful housewife to give this important food item the attention to which it is justly entitled. Bread made with Royal Yeast will keep fresh and moist longer than that made with any other.

EIGHT BASEBALL PLAYERS REPORTED HERE MONDAY

Members of London Baseball Team Unable to Hold Workout Yesterday—Other Players Expected to Report to Manager Keenan Today.

Eight players for the London baseball team reported to Manager Keenan yesterday. Owing to the rain in the morning the players were unable to get on the field and have the first workout of the season, but it is expected that they will make their first appearance at Tecumseh Park today.

The players who reported were: Donnelly, Clark, Vermily and Flanders, four infielders who hail from New York State. Clark and Donnelly are first basemen, while the other two men will take the other positions in the infield. Pitcher Leishman of Walkerville was the only pitcher who has reported so far. He played in the Detroit City League for some time. Catchers Frank Hess of Woodslee and Sunmerhayes of Brantford are in the city. Alex. Hill, who tried out with the Toronto Leafs, made up the party already received.

"Dad" Roberts is busy at Tecumseh Park getting the diamond ready for the players to start practicing, and also for exhibition games.

"Jo-Jo" Keenan expects a number of other players to report today, and the entire team will be ready to start off shortly.

The local players are putting up at the Harrison House, and arrangements are being made for the visiting teams to stay at the same hotel.

A meeting of the directors of the Tecumseh Baseball Association will be held today, when the ordinary routine business will be handled.

Manager Keenan returned from Toronto yesterday and brought Pitcher J. Hansen of St. John, N. B., with him, whom he secured from President McCaffrey of the Toronto Leafs.

BLAKE McCOIG MAY NOT JOIN THE LONDON TEAM

CHATHAM, April 28.—Blake McCoig has received transportation from the London baseball team, but today declared that he did not think he would report. He has a good reputation as a pitcher, and would make good, but his interests in business with his father, A. B. McCoig, M.P., will keep him here, it is expected.

NEW YORK GIANTS WIN FROM BRAVES BY SCORE 5 TO 4

Dodgers Continue Winning Streak — Two Games in National Postponed.

BOSTON, April 28.—Burns made a single, a two-bagger and a three-bagger in five times at bat, and was largely responsible for New York's win from Boston, 5 to 4, today. His catch of Wilson's long drive in the eighth inning, with three on bases, shut off Boston runs. The Braves rallied in the ninth inning, but after they had scored three runs Benton relieved Causey in the box and forced King, a pinch-hitter, to ground out. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Boston .....000 100 003—	4	11	4

Causey, Benton and McCarty; Rudolph and Wilson.

DODGERS DEFEAT PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—Brooklyn continued its winning streak today by a 10 to 1 victory over Philadelphia in the opening game of the series. The visitors clinched the contest in the first frame by three runs on hard and consecutive hitting, continuing it in the second and driving Prendergast from the box. Woodward was but little improvement, and the visitors hit his offerings freely throughout the remainder of the game.

Meanwhile Pfeffer held the Phillies safe, except in the sixth inning, when Baird drove the ball over the right field wall, saving a shutout. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn .....320 011 021—	10	16	0
Philadelphia .....000 001 000—	1	9	2

Pfeffer and Krueger; Prendergast, Woodward and Adams.

CINCINNATI, April 28.—Pittsburg-Cincinnati postponed; rain.

BENNY LEONARD PUTS RITCHIE OUT IN EIGHTH

Lightweight Champion Trims Former Title Holder Before Crowd of Eleven Thousand.

Newark, N. J., April 28.—Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion of the world, stopped Willie Ritchie of San Francisco, the former holder of the title, here tonight in the eighth round. Referee Jim Brennan stopped the bout a minute and a half after the round started, when Ritchie was helpless on the ropes. Except in the third round, when Ritchie made a rally and forced the champion backward around the ring, Leonard had the best of the bout.

Ritchie's gameness was the only thing which kept him in the battling. The former champion took all the punishment which Leonard handed out, and without flinching took rights and lefts to the jaw which would have battered down many another boxer.

Leonard's hard punches began to weary Ritchie in the second round, and wicked rights and lefts to the jaw sent him down for the count of nine. He got up and staggered his way through this session gamely. His revival in the third round was a big surprise, and he tore into Leonard with such fury that the champion kept backing away. This round was the only one in which Ritchie had any advantage.

After Leonard had reached his opponent with a shower of blows in the seventh, Ritchie came up at the bell for the last round, a weary boxer. Leonard went at him coolly and began to tantalize him with stiff jabs to the face. Ritchie used all the defensive tricks he knew to stop the blows which were coming at him.

A stiff left jolt sent Ritchie's head back and when Leonard followed up this blow with a terrific right to the jaw, Ritchie's knees sagged and he went to the floor. As the referee tolled the nine seconds above him, there was a forlorn look of helplessness on Ritchie's face. He staggered to his feet, and Leonard again went in with rights and lefts.

Ritchie tried in vain to block the onslaught of blows, but once again Leonard's driving attack broke down his guard and again the rights and lefts landed on Ritchie's jaw. Another terrific right sent Ritchie back against the ropes. His arms fell to his sides and he sank to the floor. Ritchie had completed the tough journey to pugilistic oblivion. Leonard weighed 137 pounds and Ritchie tipped the beam at 129½ pounds.

It was the biggest crowd that ever witnessed a bout in New Jersey and every foot of room in the spacious armory was taken up by the enthusiastic spectators. When the two boxers came together in the ring more than 11,000 spectators were crowded into the arena.

Leonard was in fine condition, and from the start it could easily be seen he was bent on redeeming himself for the four-round decision which Ritchie gained in their recent bout on the coast.

Leonard had his man measured from the start. He went at his work cautiously and hit hard from the first bell.

Tex Rickard, promoter of the proposed Jess Willard-Jack Dempsey bout, purchased $10,000 worth of Liberty bonds during a short impromptu campaign in the interim, preceding the main bout. Leonard, Ritchie and Mackay each contributed $1,000.

LONDON 'Y' BOYS WIN CLASS B CANADIAN HEXATHLON HONORS

ATHLETICS LOSE TO YANKEES IN 12-INNING GAME

Vick, a New York Youngster, Gets Two Triple Hits—Red Sox Win.

NEW YORK, April 28.—New York won its first game of the season here today, defeating Philadelphia in twelve innings by a score of 3 to 2.

It was the third straight extra-inning game played by Philadelphia since the opening of the season.

The hitting of Vick, a New York youngster, turned the tide for the Yankees after Philadelphia let up in the eighth inning. His triple in that inning started a rally which enabled the New Yorkers to tie the score.

He tripled again in the 12th inning and scored the winning run when Peckinpaugh bunted safely on a squeeze play.

Pitcher Perry struck out five times, three time by Quinn and twice by Shawkey. The score:

Among the events will be Indian club-swinging (the clubs to be electrically lighted), maze dancing by junior boys, mid-air evolutions, posing by Dutton and Rae, and drills by various classes. ZBYSZKO DEFEATED "STRANGLER" LEWIS

Polish Wrestler Wins Right To Meet Earl Caddock.

Chicago, Ill., April 29.—Wladek Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, now has but one grappler to overcome in order to reach the championship, it was said today by followers of the sport. That one is Sergt. Earl Caddock of the American Expeditionary Forces, whose return from overseas is expected so soon that already there is talk of a match between the Pole and the soldier in July.

Zbyszko clinched his right to be Caddock's challenger by defeating Ed ("Strangler") Lewis, a second time, in a match last night. The men wrestled two hours, four minutes and nine seconds, the end coming suddenly with a side roll and body scissors after a headlock—the seventh Lewis secured the match—had slipped. For the greater part of the time Lewis was the aggressor, but could not pin his skillful antagonist to the mat.

By the terms of the match one fall was to decide the contest if no fall was procured within two hours.

PLAYERS REPORTING TO ALL M-O CLUBS

DETROIT, April 28.—The clubs of the Michigan-Ontario Baseball League are all beginning their training seasons this week, in preparation for the championship race, which will start on May 15. The battery players of some teams reported several days ago, but the other athletes have not been called until now.

In a majority of cases no large squads will be requisitioned. The same salary limit that has been adopted and the ease with which experienced minor league players can be secured is responsible for this. Most managers in signing their men are satisfied to go with the players that they have picked for the start-off.

The league will have its final business meeting preparatory to the season on Sunday next in Detroit. A call for this session will be sent out by President Jackson tomorrow. Its main purpose is to ratify the constitution and bylaws and to approve of the umpire staff that has been selected.

It is possible that one of the openings will be big league in style. Several Detroit fans have become interested in the league, and may go with the president to the city whose opening game he attends.

President Jackson probably will go to the cities that are the circuit's extremes —Battle Creek, Mich., and Hamilton, Ont.—for the openings. Secretary Wilson has not yet picked his locations.

OPPOSITION GUILLOTINED SO BILL AND DAN GANG MAY RUN NATIONAL RYS.

C. N. R. Bill Is Jammed Through Committee by Closure—"Cowardly Act of Cowardly Government," Says Cahill, Who Calls East Peterboro Member's Bluff by Agreeing to Resign and Test Issue at Polls—Euler Flails White.

OTTAWA, April, April 29.—At 2 o'clock this morning the bill to incorporate the Canadian National Railway Company passed the committee stage, having been "closured" through by the Government. Speeches were limited strictly to 20 minutes. Hon. Arthur Meighen's motion for closure was carried by a majority of 64 on a standing vote. Messrs. Fred Pardee and D. D. Nicholson, Unionists, voted with the Opposition.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, April 29.—Unseemly haste has always characterized the actions of the Government in connection with any piece of legislation by which Mackenzie & Mann and the coterie of financial magnates from Toronto who are connected with them are to benefit. During the session of 1917 conscription, supposed to be necessary to provide reinforcements for the men overseas, was permitted to drift along for weeks before the Government decided that debate should cease and the closure be enforced. Not so the bill to provide reinforcements for the pockets of Mackenzie & Mann. The bill whose purpose it was to pay their debts and relieve a financial institution which was heavily their creditor of an exceedingly embarrassing position, and incidentally to tie the country up to a burden from which it will probably never free itself, was jammed through in a period of three days. Closure was imposed at a time when the pages of Hansard contained more words from the Government than from the Opposition on the subject.

History Repeats Itself.

History repeats itself. Once more a bill has come before the House in connection with which the Government shows unseemly haste. For two months the Government has helped to fritter away the time of the House in idle talk. Then it brought into Parliament a measure by which it is proposed to incorporate the 20,000 miles of publicly-owned railways of the country into one company, the control of which is largely in the hands of Mackenzie & Mann and their friends. The measure is probably the most important from the standpoint of national responsibility which has ever come before Parliament. It was prepared by Zebulen A. Lash, confidential solicitor for Mackenzie & Mann; fathered by Hon. Arthur Meighen, father of all former Canadian Northern relief legislation, and piloted along by Gerald Ruel, counsel for Mackenzie & Mann. Apart from that it commits the country to a liability bordering upon a billion dollars.

Didn't Want Light In.

Debate on the measure had not been long in progress before the Government realized that the less debate and the less publicity the better. The Opposition had a nasty faculty for discovering "jokers," asking embarrassing questions and seeking for information, the giving of which would not be "in the public interest." For a time the Government got along by simply refusing to grant the information in question. The climax came when Hon. Dr. Reid, minister of railways, declared that he did not know the amount of salary which was being paid to D. B. Hanna for running the road, which, as Mackenzie and Mann's former chief operator, he had run into the ground. This interesting show of ignorance had come just after the minister had refused to disclose the name of the contracting company which had been given large contracts for ties, etc. Naturally the Opposition was suspicious.

When, however, Liberals sought to know the reason why the Government intended to revive some 44 ancient and time-worn charters of the Canadian Northern in the west the thing had gone just a little too far, and the Government decided that there should be an end to these embarrassing questions.

Apply the "Gag."

The Opposition asked who owned the real estate along the projected rights-of-way along these projected branch lines. The Government refused to tell. When somebody intimated that the reviving of these charters was intended to revive the falling political fortunes of Hon. J. A. Calder, the die was cast. Closure was at once decided upon, after the acting prime minister had endeavored to draw a red herring across the trail by accusing the Opposition of being opposed to public ownership, and of being disloyal to the national weal.

"The cowardly act of a cowardly Government," was the manner in which Cahill of Pontiac, yesterday (Monday) characterized the imposition of the closure. He was bidden to withdraw his words by Mr. Speaker, whereat he said:

"I know of no stronger terms that would meet with your approval, and I know no milder ones that will express my sentiments." The member for Pontiac thereupon suggested that the Government test public opinion on the issue by throwing open one of the present vacant seats.

Bluff Quickly Called.

Burnham of East Peterboro, arose valiantly to his feet and declared that he was prepared to resign and throw his seat open if the member for Pontiac would do likewise, whereat the member for Pontiac declared: "Done. I am with you." The member for East Peterboro collapsed amid cries of "resign." The bluff was called.

To charges that the Opposition is opposed to the principle of public ownership, Euler of North Waterloo, made an effective reply during the afternoon. The gag, he declared, had been imposed after the Government had refused to supply vital information or give any consideration to suggestions made by Liberal members. On Friday the acting prime minister had launched into a violent attack upon the Opposition, and had declared that it was opposed to public ownership.

Euler Jumps on White.

"I have," said Mr. Euler, "a good deal of admiration for the acting prime minister. He has ability. He has urbanity. But I will resent with all my power his statement that this is a fight between public and private ownership. His speech was an out-and-out appeal to the gallery which sits behind him. But what he said was not founded on fact. It was mock heroics. He declared that not one man on this side of the House was in favor of public ownership. Why, I could count on the fingers of one hand all those on that side of the House who believe in public ownership. They have made a view of necessity. They have given no proof that they believe in the principle of public ownership. When the acting prime minister says that we are the tools of any private corporation, I desire to resent his statement with all my power. Why doesn't the Government take the C. P. R.? They won't do that. They all say: 'Let the C. P. R. alone.'

"I believe in public ownership absolutely," declared the member for North Waterloo. "I believe that the time will come when the public will control all utilities. That is why I oppose this bill. I want to give public ownership a fair trial. I don't want to see the cards stacked against it.

Damning the Principle.

"I believe that public ownership should not be damned in its infancy, and set back for a generation. I believe that the common people will demand in a few years taking over even the banking business."

Mr. Euler concluded that the people had a profound mistrust of the personnel of the present board, which is to control the National Railways, and of the purpose behind the reviving of the 44 western charters.

E. B. Devlin said that once more the Government had resorted to the rules of gag and that men on that side of the House had shown that they were opposed to liberty of speech. Parliament was no longer free.

With regard to the bill he said that the Canadian Northern Railway was now under government control, subject to the jurisdiction of the Canadian Northern Railway system.

When Lash Says "Dance."

The bill had been drafted by Z. A. Lash, who said to the Government, "You are little dummies, dance and pass this bill. When the Opposition ventured to ask questions on the bill, as to salaries, etc., they were told to put it through and finally the Government resorted to closure.

Mr. Devlin said the stock of the Canadian Northern had cost the country $228,253,250, and the deficit would be $13,000,000 a year. At a time when the people were clamoring to reduce the high cost of living this Government did nothing. It was a government for the rich people. The poor people were having difficulty in getting enough food. The price of Canadian butter was now so high that it was cheaper to buy New Zealand butter in Canada than our own product. This, said Mr. Devlin, was not because Canada was short of butter. It was due to the fact that butter was being hoarded by cold storage dealers. The burdens of the people would be further increased, he thought, by taxation due to the acquisition of the Canadian Northern Railway.

CONVENTION OF LIBERALS WILL CROWD OTTAWA

It Will Be Most Democratic Gathering Canada Has Known.

THE PEOPLE'S CONVENTION

Final Details Will Be Arranged at Caucus of Party This Morning.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, April 28.—The Liberal caucus on Tuesday morning will decide on the details of the big convention to be held in Ottawa on August 5, 6 and 7. The method of selecting delegates for the country organizations will be decided on and other matters of interest dealt with.

Reports coming in to headquarters are to the effect that the convention will see a full representation of all shades of Liberal thought. The quota of official delegates will be on hand, with all the leaders in Liberal sentiment in every province. The only difficulties in the way are those connected with the accommodation of the visitors. These will be settled very shortly.

It is the intention to make the gathering the most democratic that it is possible to make it. It will be the people's convention, and they will run it. There will be the freest and frankest possible discussion.

Conventions must be called by the country organizations to select the delegates. It is desirable that every appearance of "hole and corner" methods should be obviated, so that there will be no charges of a fixed or "loaded" convention.

Resolutions by the score are being prepared, and the committee in charge of this work will be the busiest in the history of the party.

James A. Robb, chief Liberal whip, is sending out the notices calling the convention.

The Monthly Cheque That Never Fails

How the Money was Lost

"You see I had only a few thousand dollars left after the estate was settled—and my brother borrowed some to help him along; of course that went and then—

I simply had to help father with his business, he was so worried—and I thought it best to invest something in real estate at once. Well, that failed—and, really, if it were not for the monthly income cheque from the Canada Life I don't know how I should be getting along now."

It is all so simple and effective!

Just a few dollars set aside regularly, and the Canada Life will guarantee to your home a continuous monthly income.

What a relief to know that no matter what may happen, the monthly cheque that never fails, issued regularly by the Canada Life, will come to your home!

Your present Life Insurance will no doubt "clear the mortgage," pay off the obligations of your estate, and leave something for your family, but

Consider This:

In addition to a "lump sum" of money, you should provide a definite income that cannot fail.

A weekly or monthly income is the natural thing for most people.

A woman can keep a family together on even a small income, provided it is regular.

Financial problems should not be thrust upon a woman who is not used to business deals.

The hands of unscrupulous men are always outstretched for money held by the unwary.

The Monthly Income Plan

You will be surprised to learn what a reasonable proposition can be made to you; how only a few dollars saved and set aside from your regular earnings can be multiplied into a substantial income for your Beneficiary.

A Democratic Convention Should Choose Leader

The forthcoming provincial convention of the Liberal party at Toronto will consider the choosing of a permanent leader to guide the Opposition and to advance the fortunes of the party. Delegates will be selected by each Liberal association in the province, and at the present time it is not possible to forecast the decision to be made regarding a personality worthy of the place and capable of bringing Liberalism in sight of the goal toward which it has been striving for some years without success.

The delegates should go to the convention well informed as to the possibilities and capabilities of the men who are discussed in connection with the leadership. Not since Mr. Rowell was chosen leader has the provincial party held a convention, and it may be expected that the demand will be for a democratic method of securing the man. He should be chosen by the party as a whole, rather than by a few members or committeemen, from the floor of the meeting, rather than by cut-and-dried nomination. A delegate should be permitted to nominate any candidate for the honor and the vote of the assemblage should decide the leadership. This will be in keeping with Liberal principles, and, in the meantime, the Liberal associations will do well to investigate the merits of the men who will be considered. Among the men spoken of in connection with the leadership are Mr. Proudfoot, Mr. Dewart, Mr. Elliott, Mr. Bowman, who are now in the House, and Mr. Charlton of Elgin County. Other names may be suggested and brought before the delegates in June.

Trial For Emperor and the War Lords Logical and Just

The Peace Conference officially announces at the League of Nations covenant provides r trial of the ex-kaiser and the lesser criminals. unt Hohenzollern is to appear before a trinal of judges, one from each of the five leading wers of the allies, to answer the charge of vioing the sanctity of treaties and offending ernational morality. The trial is to be public d the Dutch Government will be requested to rmit its being held in Holland. Specially apnted courts, civil and military, will attend to s prominent offenders.

To vast numbers of the Allied and neutral blics this intention to pin the responsibility r the war and Hun barbarisms to definite perons will seem the most important decision yet nade at the peace table. The fear had become widespread that another imperial rogue might escape chastisement, which would amount to a fresh recognition of the old, mischievous principle that a king can do no harm. "Never again" is the attitude of a world that is still reeling from the blows of the Great War, and one way to head off another such adventure, Teuton or otherwise, is to make it clear that the chief conspirators, no matter how exalted, will have to answer in court.

Defenders of the ex-kaiser claim that, as Europe has always recognized the right of monarchs to make war, bringing him to trial is illogical. But the contention, in the opinion of the average man, is one of the best reasons why trial should be held. This tradition which exempts royalty from responsibility, has as much as anything else accounted for countless wars and unspeakable miseries. It is an imperial prerogative on which despotism is based. Its elimination from the mind of the old world will add to the safeguards of democracy. Illegal breaking of international pacts and pledges will be carefully avoided by "all highests" if a gallows or a "St. Helena" looms in the background.

It is also reassuring to learn that the Ludendorffs, Von Tirpitzs and Von Klucks, who, with a host of minor criminals, organized and carried out the frightfulness, are to be punished. Many of the higher-up brutes who introduced the innumerable atrocities and infamies of the Hun campaign may have escaped to neutral lands, but they should be pursued, located and their extradition insisted upon as we would have that of any common murderer or thug. The red infamies practiced in Northern France, Belgium, Serbia and Italy, the savageries of the unrestricted submarine and aerial warfare constitute a crime against the Allied nations directly and humanity generally that a League of Nations dare not overlook. Mutual confidence is, of course, the basis of the proposed world association and it will be the more soundly established if the members know that treaty-breaking and organized barbarism will bring swift and full punishment to those individuals who are directly to blame. Bringing the ex-kaiser and his war lords to public trial is logical and right.

Hard Swats For Bolsheviki

It is cheering to learn that things are not going at all well with the Bolsheviki of late. Lenine's outlaw armies have been soundly trounced by the Ukrainians, have had reverses in South and Southwest Russia that offset the recent success in the Crimea, and have suffered heavy blows from Allied forces in the Archangel district and Siberia. The failure of the Red campaign in North Russia and Siberia is what might have been expected. The Allied troops engaged have with their excellent morale and complete equipment stiffened and steadied their Russian comrades. Against skillful organization and leadership the half trained, largely irresponsible Red Guards are not likely to make permanent headway.

Still more encouraging are the reports of Bolsheviki defeats in the west and south, as it indicates a widespreading determination on the part of decent Russians to clean out the destroyers. Russia is heaving mightily to shake off the monster of anarchy.

Tossing the torch into other countries too has not caused the conflagrations hoped for and without which Bolshevism cannot progress. Hungary, lukewarm towards the Bolsheviki from the beginning of its revolution, has turned cold and turned out Lenine's agents. Poland and Rumania are standing pat, giving the Allies valuable assistance in keeping back the Red tide and restoring order. Apart from Bavaria, where the issue is still undecided, Germany has successfully resisted supreme efforts of Bolshevism to secure a footing, and Germany, mad and reckless from disaster, furnished the most promising material Lenine has ever had to work on. With the Allied nations expanding and increasing their food distribution throughout starving sections of Europe there will be a steady decrease in recruiting sources for the Bolsheviki. That and continued military pressure on all sides may presently destroy these pests.

Death of Judge Dromgole

The death of Judge John O. Dromgole of Essex County removed a native Londoner known to all with whom he came in contact for his sterling integrity and kindly disposition. Few lawyers have held the universal esteem of the profession in greater measure than Judge Dromgole, and his quiet and unassuming manner endeared him to a great many others in the community. His elevation to the bench while still a young lawyer was pleasing to his fellow members of the bar and his fellow citizens, and his untimely death came as a shock to the whole community. Those who had been associated with him in practice, and especially members of the legal firms with which he practiced, were grieved beyond words, while his church and the educational affairs, both of London and Windsor, suffered the loss of a man peculiarly fitted and vitally interested in the advancing of schooi conditions.

Since he became senior judge of Essex County, many important cases had come before him for decision, and his reputation was for even-handed justice applied with an understanding of human nature and a fine intelligence. The family will have the sympathy of the community in their loss of one who ranked with the best as citizen, father and son.

HELEN'S DAUGHTER.
By Izola Forrester.

The judge sat with one leg stretched out before him on a green plush settee. It was wrapped and swaddled like a pampered baby, but the expression on the owner's face showed no affection for it. He glared at it resentfully, while Letitia sat on the edge of a chair and waited anxiously, wondering if the big oil painting over the mantel was a portrait of her mother. Neither of them noticed the buzzing of the street door-bell.

"It's preposterous sending you on to me without first obtaining my consent," fumed the judge. "How many are there besides you?"

"Only Bob, and he's older. He's working. If there had been only little ones I'd have stayed and looked after them with mother gone." Her tone seemed to say that the judge should have understood this in the first place, and he caught its hint.

"You can't possibly stay here. No place to put you. Nobody lives here with me but Flint and Aoki—Flint looks after me and Aoki after the house. We don't want any female on the precincts."

He eyed her quizzically to see if she got any of his sardonic humor, but Letitia was frankly tired after her long journey, and only looked at the situation from a personal angle. Her eyes glanced around the large, high-ceiled old study in the back of the house Here the judge lived most of his life, she knew. It was untidy and dusty, papers and books piled indiscriminately everywhere, books in their tall black walnut cases jammed in without regard to order.

"I could help you a lot, grandfather. I always worked with father in his study, and I know how to dust and file and arrange papers, and I can do typewriting too."

"Think it needs it here, don't you?" demanded the judge. "I like things this way. Never let anyone touch any of my papers in my life."

The street door opened and closed, and somebody came along the polished hallway with a quick soft step. Letitia did not know she was taking her first look at her champion when John Farley stepped in and smiled at her, a slender, almost childish figure in black at the mercy of the judge's wit and favor.

"Helen's daughter," was the way in which the judge introduced her, curtly adding, "She just suggested living with me in order to put my place in order. Do you agree with her, John?"

"I certainly do," said Farley heartily, as he seated himself at the broad, flat-topped desk and opened his case of legal papers. "I wish I had somebody this minute to take dictation and help me, sir."

"Humph!" growled the judge; "take off your hat and coat, Letitia. If this doesn't work out right I'll hold you responsible, John."

Farley laughed roundly and met Letitia's tired, appealing eyes, the loveliest eyes he had ever seen.

"I stand responsible," he agreed.

From that day on Letitia's work was cut out for her, as they said back home. She was given a little room upstairs, and every day found her laboring under the judge's watchful eye, straightening out the library and the melee in the old study. And every day at 4:30 came Farley, with his case of papers, to go over the business of the day with the judge and look at Letitia.

She had become plumper and rosier since that first day. Aoki, the Japanese house boy and cook adored her very shadow, and delighted in making dainties to tempt her appetite. Another duty which she had taken upon herself was airing Becket, the big English bulldog, and Rienzi, the Italian greyhound. This gave her an excuse to get out on the drive for long walks, and Farley found that, by finishing his work about 5:30 he could join her for a short tramp.

And during these times their friendship ripened until one day Letitia ventured to tell him her new trouble. She even showed him the ring on her left finger, a very plain little ring, with a forget-me-not in turquoise surrounded by pearls.

It was a very old affair, she assured him, quite two years. Bert was twenty-two now, and when he left for college she had promised to marry him. It was only to encourage him, she added, plaintively. She had never thought he would care for her so long, especially when he didn't even see her. Of course she was eighteen now, and old enough to know her own mind, and——

"And you don't want to marry Bert, is that it?" asked Farley briefly, trying to hide from himself how her words hurt him. "Is he coming on here?"

"I don't know. He says he won't let me stay here half killing myself working for somebody who doesn't care for me. Don't you think grandfather cares for me one single bit, Mr. Farley?"

"I don't see how——" Farley checked himself and stared over at the Jersey shore with its twinkling rows of light. "You're the only relative the judge has. Of course, you know all he has will be yours in the event of his death, about $200,000, besides the residence itself. He has changed his will in your favor recently, so I am sure he has a deep affection for you."

"Oh dear, why did he do that?" sighed Letitia, hopelessly. "Now he'll expect me to stay here with him forever won't he? I didn't want any of his old money. Mother always told me that if she were to die, I must be sure and come to him and try and make him happier."

"And you're not happy?" asked Farley.

"Happier than I was at first, but it's pretty lonesome. If it wasn't for the dogs and you, Mr. Farley, I don't know what I'd do."

Farley laughed and stroked Rienzi's silken, soft nose.

"I am flattered," he said teasingly. "Some day, Rienzi, I hope to get ahead of you, old boy, and even of Becket and Bert. Some day when the judge is specially irritable, and she feels like flying away, I think we'll take her for a long walk and tell her a number of things."

Letitia's head was higher than usual, and eyes very bright as she hesitated on the first step. She wished he would say more instead of just standing and looking at her that way, but John was a lawyer and knew when to stop his summing-up speech to get the best effect on the jury.

"I think," said Letitia finally in a little flurry of uncertainty, "that they'd like to walk a little farther on tonight."

PUNISHMENT SHOULD BEGIN AT HOME.

[Topeka Capital.]

Another Topeka woman, we see by the public prints, has been "pinched" for whipping her husband in public. There is, in Topeka, no criticism of the woman who occasionally chastises her husband, but the feeling is that the punishment should be administered in private.

BECAUSE.

[Chicago Tribune.]

Because you only publish half I send you,
Because this is a grey and weary earth,
Because the nicest men are always married,
Because my work does not conduce to mirth.

Because the vows they swear are always false ones,
Because they love so madly, leave so soon,
Because the soup is cold, the meat too salty,
Because the orchestra was out of tune.

Because I'm young enough to think that sighing
Is more romantic than a cheery smile,
Because the things I want I never get, or
The things I get I like so short a while.

Because I haven't got a million dollars,
Because I didn't like that tenor's voice,
I sigh; in fact, I have a thousand reasons
For my "constant sadness." Take your choice.

THE STORY OF THE LONELY RICH MAN.

A rich man who had sums of golds,
Discovered he was growing old;
Was coming to that time of life
When he must quit its sordid strife
And spend his few declining days
In restful, less-exciting ways.
But when he sat down to rest
He found his ease no joy possessed.
The hours dragged, the days were long,
His nights brought neither mirth nor song,
And with the gold he'd fought to own,
He found that he must live alone.

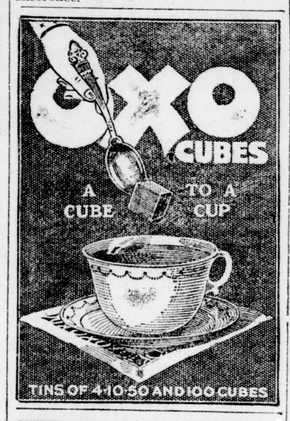

He called a trusty servant nigh
Who often had gone forth to buy
The things for which he wished, and said:
"You long have bought my wine and bread,
And bargained here in shop and store
For all that I have hungered for.
Now I've another task for you,
Go buy for me a friend or two,
I want the comradeship of men,
Men who will gladly cheer me, when
I am depressed, and talk with me,
Go fill this room with company."

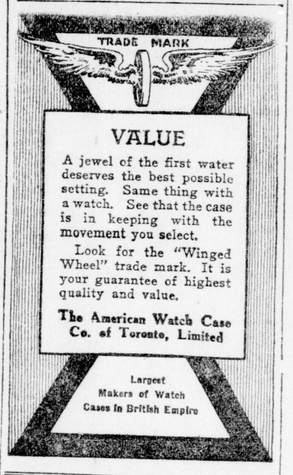

The servant left as he was told,
And talked about his master's gold.
He tramped the streets both up and down,
Searched the far suburbs of the town,
And sought to buy a friend or two,
Who to a rich man would be true,
But all who heard him loudly jeered,
Refused his proffered coin and sneered,
And this he said, when he returned:
"For once your money has been spurned,
With all the gold you have to spend,
You cannot buy one faithful friend."

SOME DIFFERENCE.

[Renfrew Mercury.]

Rev. Dr. J. W. Graham, who held forth in the Methodist Church, Renfrew, on Sunday, said he came of Irish stock. Like that other Graham, the Hon. George P., he scarcely needed to make a statement of the kind. Between the Graeme of Claverhouse and the Graham of Tipperary there's some difference.

"DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR

Stop dandruff and double beauty of your hair for few cents.

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Your hair appears soft, glossy and twice as thick and abundant. Try it!

As Old as his Arteries

The doctor can't help it.

He knows that the man has hard arteries, high blood pressure, and beginning kidney and heart disease, due to long neglected chronic constipation.

It isn't the other man's fault—directly. He's only 45—but he never realized that his constipation was a serious thing.

He never knew how to treat it. He has taken bushels of pills, gallons of castor oil, mineral waters and salts, which have battered and tortured his alimentary canal from one end to the other; and he wonders why his health keeps getting worse. He doesn't know that his food waste has poisoned him, and has bred disease that is going to "get him" before his time.

Nujol is for just such a man—for every person whose bowels do not move easily and thoroughly at regular intervals—especially for those in advancing years whose body machinery will not stand rough treatment.

Nujol softens the accumulated food waste in the large intestine, and moves it gently out of the system, carrying those poisons with it, which, if allowed to remain, cause over 90% of human illness. Nujol supplies the lubrication that Nature can't supply as age begins to make itself felt.

This man might have known in time—but Nujol is new—the accepted modern treatment for constipation.

You can avoid such a misfortune as his. Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and send for free booklet "Thirty Feet of Danger" expressing clearly the soundest medical authority on constipation and self-poisoning.

Warning: Nujol is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. At all druggists. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

Cut the Fetters That Bind You To Autocratic Street Railway Rule

RIDE A BICYCLE

And Be Independent of Street Cars And Changing Time

Go Where You Want To, Whenever You Want To, Any Day, Any Time.

The street railway company announces that today it will start running its cars on the old time because the present time interferes with the schedule of workingmen's tickets, and the workingman who MUST be at work at 7 o'clock in the morning will either have to get up an hour earlier in the morning and walk to work or go into work an hour late and lose an hour's pay, which he cannot afford to do in these days of high prices.

Can You Imagine Anything Slower Than the Present Street Car Schedule?

The long waits for cars; the standing and crowding in aisles after a hard day's work; the insanitary conditions; the inhalation of germs of all descriptions; the possibilities of power breakdowns, and the probability of increased fares.

When You Own a Bicycle You Are Independent

It pays for itself in car fares saved in a year; its cost of upkeep is practically nothing, and a bicycle takes you from your door to your destination. No waiting, no transfers, no crowding, no standing; you simply hop on and ride in God's pure air and sunshine.

Every Man, Woman and Child Can Use a Bicycle

For practical purposes as well as for pleasure. It means health and exercise, as well as money and valuable time saved. Note the healthy, satisfied expression on the faces of all bicycle riders. Ask the bicycle owner about it. See how enthusiastic he is about his bicycle. Let him tell you what it means to him; the many pleasant Sunday and holiday trips he takes; the way he uses his bicycle to go to work, to get home early after work; the little trips to the store.

A BICYCLE HAS EVERY ADVANTAGE AND NO DISADVANTAGES. THERE IS NOT A PLAUSIBLE ARGUMENT AGAINST IT AND ITS USE. It's up to you, Mr. Workingman, Miss Officegirl, Mr. Professionalman, mothers and fathers, to be up and doing; to be progressive and create an atmosphere of thrift, contentment and health.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS FORMED, BELGIUM, BRAZIL, GREECE AND SPAIN COMPLETE THE COUNCIL

Japan and France Express Disappointment That Their Amendments Are Not Incorporated in the Document —Revised Covenant Adopted Without Division.

PARIS, April 28.—The revised covenant of the league of nations was adopted by the plenary session of the peace conference this afternoon without division and without amendment.

Presentation of the amended league of nations covenant by President Wilson marked the opening of the session. He then explained the various alterations.

The president moved that the powers name representatives to form a committee of nine to prepare plans to organize the league and establish the seat of the league. He said it was not necessary to emphasize the significance of the great covenant, and the opinion he entertained that a conference of the free nations of the world would maintain justice in their international relations and peace between the nations.

Regarding the composition of the executive council, the president said that Belgium, Brazil, Greece and Spain would be represented on the council, in addition to the five great powers until a permanent choice had been made.

Japan Voices Regret.

Baron Makino of the Japanese delegation, spoke after President Wilson, and said he regretted that the president's speech had not been translated. He then moved the Japanese amendment on racial equality. He said it was a race question, with the possibility of becoming acute. The equality of nations, he asserted, should be a fundamental principle of the league. Japan, he added, was obliged to revert to her original position on this question.

Baron Makino announced that the effort would be continued to have the racial equality principle adopted as a part of the covenant, adding that he felt it his duty to declare the poignant regret of the Japanese delegation over the failure of the league of nations committee to do justice to the Japanese demand, which was based on a deep-rooted national conviction.

Leon Bourgeoise, former premier, spoke for France. He said that the French amendments to the league, including a demand for a national army and police force and the limitation and verification of armaments of all nations, had not been adopted. France, however, would sign the pact, M. Bourgeoise declared.

Amendments Withdrawn.

The Japanese and French amendments were withdrawn and it is understood that they have been left for decision by the league of nations itself.

M. Clemenceau announced the withdrawal of the amendments and President Wilson's proposal that the covenant of the league of nations be adopted was carried. There was not more than a moment's pause in honor of the creation of the league of nations, the conference then proceeding with the regular program.

The text of the labor principles for insertion in the treaty was adopted and the conference adjourned without considering "responsibilities for war."

George Nicoll Barnes, British delegate, explained the nine points which the labor commission wished embodied in the peace treaty. Sir Robert Borden, the Canadian Premier, then read the revised nine points.

48-Hour Week Aimed At.

The revised clauses say that the standard set by law regarding conditions of labor should have due regard for the equitable and economic treatment of all workers lawfully resident in a country, and also that a 48-hour week should be aimed at. The commission had asked for this, except where climatic conditions interfered.

Sir Robert Borden said that the changes in the phraseology were the result of suggestions by different delegations, and they had been accepted by all the great industrial nations.

M. Clemenceau, the president, declared the revised nine points carried.

Mrs. Riches Proves Once Again That Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure.

She Suffered for Seventeen Years From Kidney Trouble and Now a Well Woman, says: "Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Me."

St. Denis Riviere, Richelieu, Quebec, April 28—(Special).—One of the most remarkable cures in the long record made by Dodd's Kidney Pills is that of Mde. Alf. Riches, well known and highly respected here. For seventeen years Mrs. Riches was a sufferer from kidney disease in its worst forms. Today she is a well woman. And she says with an earnestness born of conviction, "Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

"I suffered for seventeen long years," Mrs. Riches goes on to say, "from backache, headache and sleeplessness my troubles grew to rehumatism and diabetes. I tried the doctor and other medicines, but I got no lasting good till I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took 12 boxes of them in all. They cured me."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. But no case of kidney trouble is too severe or of too long standing to resist them. If you haven't used Dodd's Kidney Pills, ask your neighbors about them.

TORONTO, April 28.—The hearing of the evidence in the probe into the Dewart charges against the Ontario license department concluded today. Sir Willam Meredith will hear the argument of counsel tomorrow.

John Ayearst, the suspended chief inspector, was the last witness, and he was subjected to a hot crossfire by Robert McKay, K.C., counsel for Mr. Dewart. The witness' testimony showed that a multitude of criss-cross money transactions took place between him and his employees, in the handling of the private bank account and also in various loans which the chief inspector got from his operatives. Mr. Ayearst said he is still some $380 indebted to Solomon.

"If having heard of the $40 taken out for an overcoat, and knowing that Hinch got $333 and that $380 stood to your credit, would it not occur to you, Mr. Ayearst, that an equal division had taken place between the three parties concerned?" asked Mr. McKay of Mr. Ayearst.

"No, that would never occur to me at all," replied Mr. Ayearst.

Mr. McKay's question related to the special bank account which Mr. Ayearst kept. He said that Solomon, one of his "spotters," had handed him $1,192 to keep for him and Hinch, another spotter.

Prepared Divison.

Earlier in the hearing Mr. Ayearst admitted that Solomon made a proposition to him about the middle of the summer that he should share in the moneys paid by the Duncan agency, and making up the special account held by him. "I told him I didn't want any of the money and I would not have it." They had worked hard enough for it, and their wages were low.

"Have you accepted any of it?" "Not a cent."

Mr. Ayearst said that Solomon had told him to give Hinch a check for $383.85 on the special account. He did.

"When the money was originally placed with you, you say it was to be kept for Solomon and Hinch. At that time so far as you knew they were equally interested in it?" "I didn't know what their relationship was."

He never spoke to Solomon or Hinch about any division of the money unless Solomon spoke to him about it. He remembered no conversation on the matter.

"You were simply receiving moneys up to $1,192 and you received some of these in checks which came from the Duncan Detective Agency?" "I don't remember what the checks were. Some were checks and some was cash."

Knew Little About It.

Pressed on this point he said he knew of course where the checks came from when he indorsed them.

"And you had thus received this total amout which with interest aggregated $1,192 and all you knew about it was that it belonged to these two men?" "Yet."

Mr. McKay—When you gave Hinch his check for $385 did you tell him how much was in the account."

Mr. Ayearst—If he asked me I told him. Some one asked me, I do not know whether it was he or not.

Mr. McKay pointed out that in the Royal Bank special account, if one took away the interest and the price of an overcoat, it looked very much as if the remainder were divided into three equal sums. Mr. Ayearst had not observed this.

Gave I. O. U. Once.

Mr. McKay—Did you ever give Mr. Solomon any acknowledgment for money he loaned to you?

Mr. Ayearst—I gave him an "I. O. U." on one occasion. I do not know whether that was the time or not. I told Mr. Solomon I might die and offered him acknowledgment of the loan, but he would not take anything.

Mr. McKay—So it seemed to be merely a withdrawal by Mr. Solomon from an account in his name?

Mr. Ayearst—It did.

"Could anyone have told that the money belonged to Mr. Solomon?"

"Yes. Mr. Solomon could, I did everything with his permission."

Continuing on the item of a withdrawal of $400 from the "special account" by Mr. Ayearst, the latter under examination admitted that he had deposited $231.50 to the credit of his own general account.

Witness, on being questioned as to why he had closed out the "special account" without the consent of Hinch, said: "I had nothing whatever to do with Hinch."

No Money From Hinch.

Mr. Ayearst, despite the strenuous crossfire brought to bear against him by Mr. McKay, stoutly maintained that he could not recollect having received any money from Hinch for deposit in the "special account." To the best of his knowledge all the money had been given him by Solomon.

Furthermore, all withdrawals by Mr. Ayearst had been made with the consent and knowledge of Solomon.

Mr. McKay's probe into Ayearst's borrowings was in detail.

"When, if at all, before December 24, 1914, had you borrowed any money from Solomon?"

"I could not recollect."

"Did you at all?"

"I don't think I did."

"So that the commencement of your loaning operations with Solomon began about that time as far as your memory serves?"

"Yes."

"That was the time when he had on deposit $1,192 in a special account?"

Other Loans Secured.

The next occasion he had any money transactions with Solomon was when he had the $400 loan on February 6, 1915. This was followed by a loan of $280 on December 14, 1915, and since that time he had received short period loans of $100 or $200 which he had not repaid. These $100 or $200 loans were not passed through the special account and had no relation to it.

"So that your loaning transactions commenced with the loan on December 24, and were out of this special account, and until the special account was exhausted you had no other loaning transaction except out of this special account with Solomon?"

Witness agreed that was so.

"When the money was originally placed in the bank, what took place so far as you can recollect about the first amount you received for deposit?"

"Solomon handed it to me and asked me to deposit and keep it for him and Hinch, as they could not agree for either one to keep it."

A friend came to Mr. Ayearst with a hard luck story and said he was on the verge of bankruptcy. Ayearst at that time could not help him personally, but he asked Solomon for the money. Solomon would not advance the money, but he would let Mr. Ayearst have it and hold Mr. Ayearst responsible. This accounted for the $7 check issued by Mr. Ayearst on the account. Sixty dollars is still owed to Mr. Ayearst on this debt.

Withdrew $280.

Ayearst, continuing, said that on the 14th of December, 1915, he withdrew $280. He had asked Solomon if he might use the balance of the money, and he assented on condition that it was forthcoming when wanted. "He said he did not need it very soon," explained witness. This was transferred to his other accounts, leaving a small balance to hold the account.

Ayearst said he had incurred a responsibility of $3,000 in 1914. "I had been paying it off in all those years and I made the last payment on January 31 this year."

After paying for the house, he commenced to deposit money for the purpose of removing his indebtedness to Solomon. He now owed Solomon $350 with interest from the middle of 1917. Against that he had a special account of $182.

CITIZENS OF LONDON

THE Y. M. C. A. Red Triangle needs no introduction. It comes recommended by men of the rank and file, as well as by the highest generals in the Allied Forces.

Y. M. C. A. officers, its organization, its good work and beneficent influence have been with the boys from the recruiting centre into the front-line trenches, back on the ship and railroad train to demobilizing points.

The Red Triangle is truly everywhere. Its sign has been seen from Valcartier to the Rhine—and back.

The Red Triangle was the sign of comfort and good cheer during four years of horrible hardships in the war zone. Until reconstruction is completed the Red Triangle will be the sign of encouragement and assistance to the men who are going to refit themselves back into business, commercial and industrial life.

The organization that stood by and still sticks by the boys has our hearty indorsation and universal co-operation. Each one of us must help the Red Triangle to represent us in this big task.

Let us contribute our big and small sums for the accomplishment of this great work. Twenty Thousand Dollars is not too much to ask considering the work which still remains to be done.

London has always "gone over the top" in these campaigns. We are confident that she will succeed in this one, but success is only measured by the enthusiasm and generosity of the individual citizen.

Therefore, fellow-citizens, let us stand to and carry on to complete our task for them, as they stood to and carried on to complete their task for us.

Testimonials From 1st Battalion Boys

FROM THE FRONT LINE—HOME.

London, Ont., April 24, 1919.

Mr. E. C. Rice, Troop Train Secretary, Y. M. C. A.:

Dear Sir,—Permit me to express my appreciation of the work of the Y. M. C. A. as I have come in contact with it in France. Coffee stalls and canteens were established in support and reserve positions in close proximity to the main communication trenches, thus enabling incoming and outgoing reliefs to take advantage of the refreshments provided.

When in rest, sporting equipment was provided, while Y. M. C. A. officers assisted in organizing and promoting the various games.

In the latter days of fighting in 1918 and during the march into Germany, when transportation was most difficult, the "Y" never failed us.

On the ocean the "Y" man was in evidence with cinema show, concerts and deck sports! At Halifax, coffee and cake were served on the pier, while on the train a Y. M. C. A. officer accompanied us to our dispersal centre, providing smokes, fruit and chocolate, arranging sing-songs, providing reading material, and supplying official information on soldiers' problems.

Summing up, I would say that my experience is that the Y. M. C. A. is a good, live organization from the front line right to our homes. Very truly yours,

(Signed) ATWALL SPARLING, Co. Col.,
Commanding 1st Cdn. Inf. Bn.,
W. O. Regt., B. E. F.

"THANKS, Y. M. C. A."

E. C. Rice, Esq., Troop Train Secretary:

I am taking the pleasure of letting you know how good the Y. M. C. A. has been to us, both on the boat across from Southampton to Halifax and from Halifax to London.

On the train they have kept the boys in smokes, chocolate and apples, which the boys in our battalion were well pleased with, and I myself thank the Y. M. C. A. for the work they were doing, both on the boat and train, and also for the good work done while in the line in France. I remain, yours truly,

PTE. A. J. BENNINGER, No. 2458368.

"Y" NEVER FELL DOWN!

On Route, April 23, 1919.

Mr. E. C. Rice, Secretary Troop Train:

Dear Mr. Rice,—On the eve of my demobilization I want to express my appreciation of the splendid work of the Y. M. C. A. among the troops of the Canadian boys. Although an infantry officer since December, 1915, I've been in close touch with the work during that time, and have had special opportunity to observe the work alone in camps in Canada and England, in the trenches and back of the line in France and Belgium, on the long, long trail to Germanp, in hospitals and on the boat and train en route home. I have never seen the "Y" fall down on its job.

The "Y" met all our spiritual and physical need. Someone has said "War is hell," but it would have been greater hell for the soldiers of the Canadian corps if it were not for the work of the Y. M. C. A. Yours thankfully,

(Signed) W. L. McKAY, Lieut.,
1st Canadian Division.

OUR PARTY IS GRATEFUL.

Troop Train, No. 1393.

To the Y. M. C. A., London, Ont.:

Gentlemen,—I wish to testify as to the fine treatment of the party to which I was attached for the journey from Halifax to London, Ont. During the trip we were supplied at frequent intervals with fruit, chocolates, cigarettes, etc., all of which came very welcome. When we arrived at Montreal we were taken to a theatre, and from there to the Y. M. C. A. for refreshments (ice cream, pastry, etc.). I wish to say that all our party are grateful to all your helpers for the care and trouble taken by your organization for their welfare and on their return to this country.

Yours sincerely, (Signed) F. G. ROBINSON, Sergt. No. 401504.

FROST DAMAGE NOW REPORTED TO EARLY CROP NEAR WINDSOR

Thousands of Tomato and Cabbage Plants Frozen, Say Growers.

WINDSOR, April 28.—Heavy frosts have caused considerable damage among fruit growers, thousands of plants being frozen near Hamburg. Lionel Robinson & Sons lost approximately 5,000 tomato plants which had been transplanted for the third time, and were already in bloom. Judson More was probably the heaviest loser. Nearly 100,000 late tomato plants being grown by him under contract for the H. J. Heinz Company were frozen.

Even cabbage plants already transplanted into the field were frozen. Fruit growers in the district declare these heavy frosts have inflicted a severe setback on plants that escaped freezing, and it may make tomatoes about two weeks later than usual. In the late tomato crop also a serious delay is threatened, because these plants are usually grown out of doors in hotbeds covered by white canvass, and are more easily frozen.

ONLY 17,000 FOOT PASSENGERS AND 400 AUTOS CROSS FERRY

WINDSOR, April 28.—Seventeen thousand foot passengers and four hundred automobiles crossed on the Windsor-Detroit ferry boats yesterday, according to the figures of "clockers" stationed at the ferry dock here by the city council in its efforts to obtain first hand some idea of the daily traffic on the ferry line.

The attempt to collect the statistical figures follows the refusal of the ferry company to permit its books to be looked over by a Windsor city auditor. President Campbell of the ferry company, however, in a statement, declares that the refusal was based on the ground that at the time the audit was to have commenced, the promotor of a proposed rival ferry line was allowed to be present, and under the circumstances, it was not considered "good business" to go on with the examination of books that would have supplied valuable information to possible competitors.

Capt. Robt. Pyette Gets Silk Hat; Is First at Goderich

Pleased With Improved Harbor—Favors Further Work.

GODERICH, April 28.—The first boat to arrive here this season was the Sarnian, with a cargo of grain for the Goderich Elevator and Transit Company. Captain Robert Pyette gets the new silk hat which, according to the custom of the town council, is presented to the captain of the first boat to dock here.

FAVORS IMPROVEMENTS.

Captain Pyette, speaking of harbors to The Advertiser, said that he was pleased to note that the harbor here had been greatly improved by the construction of the outside breakwater, and that he made port easily with a draft of nineteen feet. While he considered this harbor was the only safe harbor on Lake Huron for boats of large draft, it could be still improved by a further extension of the north breakwater for about 300 feet and by slightly deepening the harbor. This would make the harbor first class and capable of accommodating the largest vessels on the lakes, he said.

TO SAIL SOON.

Captain James Buchanan is also here fitting out his boat, the SS. Breitung, of the Cleveland Cliff Iron Company Line, and expects to sail in a few days.

Pte. Fred Hunter arrived home last week from overseas.

East Huron Agricultural Society is holding a field crop competition in oats again this year with the prospect of a large number of entries.

Monday James Turnbull, ex-reeve of Grey Township, was buried in Brussels Cemetery. He is survived by his wife and an adult family. Deceased was one of the old settlers. He had been in failing health for some time.

Thursday afternoon will see the inauguration of the weekly half-holiday for May, June, July and August. Business places close at noon on Thursday.

A number of rose bushes have been received by D. C. Ross, president of the local Agricultural Society. They were sent by Dr. Geo. Ross, who is with the Dental Corps in England. Mr. Rose has now about 75 rose bushes in his rose garden.

PARTICULARS OF DEATH.

TILLSONBUR, April 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Fairs have received word from the department of militia at Ottawa a statement of the circumstances of the death of their son, Pte. Geo. H. Fairs, who was killed in action on September 27, 1918 in France. Just after the company of the 2nd Battalion to which Pte. Fairs belonged had reached its objective on the Arras-Cambrai road, near the village of Haynecourt, he was struck by an enemy machine gun bullet and killed instantly. Before enlisting in "C" Company, 168th Oxfords, he was a popular employee of the Maple Leaf Harvest Tool Company, Limited.

Chicago, Ill., April 29.—Tremendous price smashing took place today on the board of trade. Holders of grain and provisions competed on a big scale in efforts to unload and to stop losses on a declining market. A long threatened free movement of corn and hogs from rural sources was largely responsible for the general rush to sell.

Breaks as shown after midday amounted to 8¼c a bushel on corn and $1.30 a barrel on pork.

WALL STREET.

New York, April 29—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Shippings were the foremost features at the opening of today's stock market, overshadowing such recent favorites as rails and oils. Atlantic-Gulf, Pacific Mail and Marines ranged from fractions to 5 points. Further buying served to strengthen Texas Company and Sinclair, while Hide and Leather preferred enhanced yesterday's substantial rise, but Royal Dutch and Mexican Petroleum were distinctly heavy. United States Steel moved within a small fraction of yesterday's final price. Sugars were among the most active and strongest of the specialties.

True bills for robbery with violence were also presented against these same men, and Thomas Malott, who is alleged to have been associated with them in the robbery of Mike Handbury. CANADIANS IN SIBERIA HELD BIG SPORT EVENT

Northwestern Mounted Police Featured in Program.

Vladivostok, April 21.—(Delayed).—In order to demonstrate to Russians Canadian equestrian sports, the C. E. F. (Siberia) held a gymkhana on the Vladivostok race track on the afternoon of April 19, in which western cowboy stunts were staged in the same bill with the usual features of military horsemanship. The Northwest Mounted Police was responsible for a large part of the program, but other mounted units also entered teams.

The bill contained the following events: Musical ride, platting the Maypole, tent pegging with swords and lances, wrestling on mules and horses, V. C. race, musical chairs, bucking competition, roping display, picking up the handkerchief, and tug-of-war.

To vary the thing, humorous features were introduced. One of the latter was a droshky race, with Canadian officers driving the Russian vehicles.

The committee in charge of the sports included Col. D. B. Young, Canadian Red Cross, chairman; Col. Taschereau, director of veterinary service; Major Worsley, commanding the R. N. W. M. P.; Major Black, C.A.S.C.; Capt. Lou F. Scholes, brigade sports officer, 16th Infantry Brigade, and Capt. W. E. Playfair.

REVIVAL OF AMATEUR SPORT IN ALBERTA

CALGARY, Alberta, April 24.—That Alberta is not entertaining the thought of breaking away from the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, and that the present movement on foot to revive athletics throughout the west is directed at the complete reorganization of sport on a strictly amateur basis, with the understanding, however, that amendments be made in the constitution which will eliminate veiled professionalism with its attendant perjury and hypocrisy, were the facts brought to the notice of Thomas Boyd, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada at a meeting of athletic representatives from all over Alberta, held here today.

PLAIN TALKS ON INVESTMENTS

By Mark Harris

Every once in a while some Canadian newspaper editor wakes up to the fact that the vast natural resources of Canada are owned to a great extent by outsiders—mostly Americans —and then the newspaper editor writes a strong article on the subject which usually does more harm than good.

Everybody will admit that the riches of Canada rightfully belong to Canadians, but when those Canadians refuse to put up the money to get the riches it won't do them much good to scold the other fellow who recognized the opportunity and grasped it.

Right at the present moment several Canadian companies are vigorously developing the oil and gas resources of Ontario, and at least one of these companies is offering good Canadians the opportunity of sharing the prosperity that must come to the successful pioneer.

This Canadian company is the Castle Oil and Gas Company, and if there ever was a meritorious proposition it is this one.

"Castle Oil" has paid its shareholders regular dividends of 4½ per cent every three months (the next quarterly dividend being due May 10th to all stockholders of record April 30th), and I think even the pessimist will agree that 18 per cent a year is a mighty fine income.

Three months ago I called attention in this paper to "Castle Oil." The stock was then selling at one dollar a share, while today it is selling at $1.25, and when another three months goes by I expect it to be much higher.

There is a reason for this advance and a mighty good reason at that.

The reason is not the large dividend of 18 per cent yearly, although any security paying such a high rate is certainly worth a premium.

The advance in Castle Oil, however, was not caused by the dividend. It came from an achievement that must eventually bring fame as well as wealth to the company, this achievement being the opening up of a new gas district known as Shetland.

Some readers of this may not fully appreciate the value of a new gas district, so I will explain that a gas well is usually preferred to an oil well because it means less trouble and more profit.

The Castle Oil Company holds leases on more than 5,000 acres at Shetland, therefore, when they brought in a 300,000 cubic feet per day gas well it caused values in that district to jump rapidly, and unless I am a poor prophet these Shetland properties alone will soon be worth more than the total capital of the company.

Natural gas is not only in big demand in Ontario, but it also commands a high price at the well, so with 5,000 acres to drill, Castle Oil certainly has a bright future.

The company is now drilling its second well at Shetland, and this well should be finished within a week or two.

These wells cost about $8,000 to $10,000 each, therefore, if the company drills only ten more wells, and these average only 300,000 cubic feet per day (the general manager expects much larger wells), it would mean a total of 3,600,000 feet per day, worth at the present rate of 20 cents per thousand, about $720 per day, or more than $250,000 yearly.

These figures cover only twelve small wells, while there is ample room on the property for 80 to 100 gas wells, so when I say that there are great potential possibilities in Shetland alone I only speak the truth.

You won't find an investment like Castle Oil every day, and if you think differently, look around and compare some others with this company.

Compare the capitalization, the officials of the company, which form the management, the earnings and dividends, and last, but not least, the record showing what has been accomplished, and when you do all this you will appreciate why I recommend the purchase of Castle Oil at $1.25 per share.

If you have money for investment buy "Castle Oil," and buy it today so you can secure the next regular dividend of 4½%.

All orders reaching my Toronto office May 1 will be included in this next dividend providing your letter is postmarked on April 30.

I don't like to rush anybody into making a purchase, but this is one time when it pays to act quickly.

Write, call or phone.

Faithfully Yours,

Mark Harris

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND
ADELE GARRISON'S NEW PHASE OF
REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Why Madge Tore Up Dicky's Speech After She'd Written It.

"Dicky!"

My husband raised his eyes a trifle impatiently from his book.

"Well?" I knew that rising inflection. It should have been a warning to me, but I was too deeply worried to be able to keep silence.

"Do you realize that it is tomorrow we are going to Bayview?"

"What of it?"

The inflection was a distinct growl this time, but I didn't dare abandon my attack.

"Why, you know you told me a week ago that you wanted to dictate some facts and points about the talk you were going to give to the pupils. I've spoken so many times to you about it, but you've never been ready, and here it is the night before and you haven't done a thing. It will be awful, Dicky, if you don't have some sort of memoranda, for you're not used to public speaking, you say."

"No, thank goodness!" he ejaculated fervently. "It's enough to have one lecturer in the family"—I flushed at his covert sneer at my experience in leading a club history section—"without my getting into the game."

He took up his book again with provoking unconsciousness of my uneasiness. I sternly repressed an inclination to snatch the book from his hands and shake the indifference out of him, and resumed my outwardly meek entreaty.

"Go Ahead and Write It."

"But, Dicky," I resumed inexorably, "when are you going to dictate those things to me? I'll have no time in the morning, you know, for I have to be at the school. And it will take some—"

"For the love of Mike!" Dicky slammed the book on the table with a force that must have loosened its binding.

Involuntarily I winced, for to me a book is almost a living thing, to be treated tenderly. Dicky saw the movement, unfortunately for his rising temper.

"That's, you all over!" he snarled. "I'll bet you wouldn't shiver half so hard if my slats were jarred. Now just let me tell you something. If you want me to make any spiel tomorrow you'll just go ahead and write it off. You know all the dope about what I've been doing anyway, and you ought to be happy writing me out a nice little piece to speak. You'd better get busy, for I give you notice right now I'm not going to bother fixing anything up myself."

I managed a hasty "Oh, all right," beat a quick retreat to my room, for there was no time to lose if I successfully carried to a conclusion this unexpected task. But my heart was not with indignation for Dicky's lack of consideration in waiting until this last night to give me the work.

The Last Straw.

I had no doubt of my ability to write the simple talk which he was to deliver to the pupils, for I was, as he had said, familiar with the saga of his adventures, and because of my long experience in teaching I was also skilled in the phraseology which would hold the attention of school children. But the time was so short, and I had so wished to get a good, long sleep that I might be fresh and at my best at the Stockbridge reception. However, there was no use in wasting time in vain regrets. I pulled out my typewriter and set to work, rejoicing in the memory which made it unnecessary for me to apply to Dicky for confirmation of the details of the story.

It was three hours later when I rose from my chair, numbed and nervously tense, and gathered the finished sheets together. I had not heard Dicky come upstairs to his room, and so went down to the library, where I found him stretched luxuriously on the couch, reading by the shaded light adjusted to his convenience. He looked up lazily as I entered.

"Hello! Thought you went to bed hours ago."

He evidently had forgotten all about our controversy of the early evening. I silently laid the little pile of manuscript before him.

"What the de—oh, the speech! Well, what do you know about that?"

He sat up, took the manuscript and read part of the first page before he burst into explosive laughter.

"By George! This is a scream!" he gurgled.

"What is the matter with it?" I asked icily.

"Nothing, except that it's about the finest little example of what a real he-man would NOT say that I ever came across. I think I see myself spouting this! Nay, nay, Miss Professor, as a lady lecturer you're no doubt a peach, but as a writer of speeches for—"

"And officer and a gentleman," I interrupted freezingly, although I was aflame inside. "Yes, I admit that I made a mistake both in the type of speech and man. Pardon me, please."

I snatched the manuscript from his hands before he knew what I intended doing, tore the sheets once from top to bottom, dropped them contemptuously to the floor, and turning, went out of the room.

DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL
BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE.

She Discusses the Charms of Georgette Crepe For Dinner Gowns.

"I want a dinner gown for summer," Mrs. Charlton said. "One that will look cool and at the same time be quite durable in color. Can you manage that combination, Madame?"

"I think I can, Mrs. Charlton," Madame smiled. "When you say it must be cool, one fabric above all others suggests itself—georgette crepe. There's nothing cooler than the soft folds of this fabric. Its clinging chiffon texture makes of it the perfect choice for a summer gown for almost any hour of the day. Its color is governed by the function for which it is designed.

"For instance, you will want to wear a dinner gown in the early twilight. It must also look well under electric light and softly-shaded lamps. Therefore, rose is my first thought for color. We have already solved the fabric, so then rose georgette must make your gown. Am I right?" Madame inquired.

"Rose georgette will be perfect. That color is more becoming to me than any other," said Mrs. Charlton. "Women all like it, and I never saw a man in all my life who didn't admire a rose gown if it was at all passable."

"That's true," madame agreed. "Men like warm colors in women's clothes."

"How will you trim this frock?" inquired Mrs. Charlton.

"I think I'll keep it all one color. Therefore, dyed lace will make the most effective trimming, because it gives sheerness for a vestee or chemisette. Then I'll put a little embroidery of rose beads somewhere. Now let me see," Madame said as she pensively picked up pencil and bristol board. "I'll sketch you a frock whose charm rests solely on its color and line."

Madame began to sketch rapidly, because with her thought is action. As she evolved the dress in her mind her fingers worked it out on paper, and this charming sketch was the result.

"We will have a soft blouse of georgette," she explained. "See?" she said, handing the sketch to Mrs. Charlton for inspection.

Then, looking over her shoulder, Madame described the gown in detail.

"This blouse is laid over a camisole bodice of thin shadow lace, dyed to match the rose georgette crepe. A snugly-fitting lining of flesh-colored charmeuse will hold the gown in place and furnish a petticoat. The lace camisole shows in front as a vest. Over the shoulders and on the sleeves of the georgette blouse I will run a little design of rose beads."

"Oh, the lines of this gown are lovely, and I know they'll flatter my figure," exclaimed Mrs. Charlton.

"Every gown should flatter the figure," Madame replied.

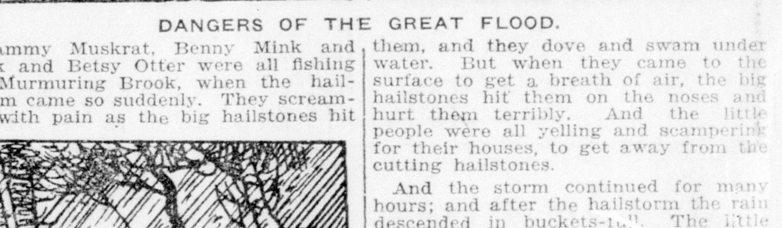

"I love that bias line of the waist and skirt. That line looks as though the waist and skirt were cut in one," said Mrs. Charlton.

"No, they're joined beneath that girdle of rose georgette, embroidered in beads. This gives a chance to drape the skirt in a bias line over a little yoke of dyed lace, which also shows at the back. The left side of the skirt is draped more in a panier than the right. The lace yoke is covered on the left side, except where the panier falls loosely. The edges of the drapery are picot finished to give the effect of complete lightness to the gown. It will look cool."

"It will look lovely as well as cool," enthusiastically exclaimed Mrs. Charlton. "Please finish it for me soon."

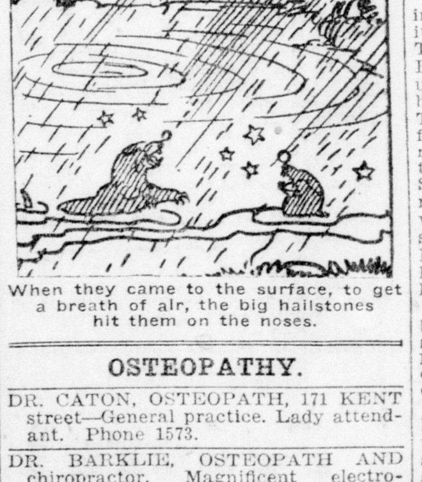

Summer Dinner Gown of Rose Crepe Trimmed with Dyed Lace.

DANGERS OF THE GREAT FLOOD.

Sammy Muskrat, Benny Mink and Dick and Betsy Otter were all fishing on Murmuring Brook, when the hailstorm came so suddenly. They screamed with pain as the big hailstones hit them, and they dove and swam under water. But when they came to the surface to get a breath of air, the big hailstones hit them on the noses and hurt them terribly. And the little people were all yelling and scampering for their houses, to get away from the cutting hailstones.

When they came to the surface, to get a breath of air, the big hailstones hit them on the noses.

And the storm continued for many hours; and after the hailstorm the rain descended in buckets-full. The little people had been working, or hunting, or playing all night, and they were very tired and sleepy. So all went to bed, to get some sleep during the big rainstorm.

As the rain fell in torrents, Murmuring Brook got full of water, and poured its rushing waters into Mirror Pond. The new and higher dam, which the Beavers had built, held the waters, until Mirror Pond grew bigger and bigger, and it looked like a big lake. The high water began to run into the front doors of Dick and Betsy Otter's new house, into the front hall of the houses of Benny Mink and Sammy Muskrat, and into the bedrooms of all the little people. But they were all fast asleep, and so they didn't see nor hear the rising waters of Mirror Pond. It did certainly look as if the little people would be drowned in their little houses.

You see, Sammy Muskrat was to blame, for their danger, as he had forgotten his promise to tell all the little people of the Beavers' higher dam, and of their plan to have a bigger and deeper Mirror Pond.

A Great Flood had come to Mirror Pond. There was no Noah's Ark to take these little people to a place of safety! The water was getting deeper and deeper in all their houses; and they were all sound asleep, and did not know there was a Great Flood in Mirror Pond.

In the house of Dick and Betsy Otter, the water had reached the pantry, and their food was ruined. The muddy water had gotten into Betsy's new parlor, ruined the new carpet, and her brand-new furniture was floating around the room, soaking wet. And in all the houses the dirty water was creeping up the front stairs, and would soon reach the bedrooms, where the little people were sound asleep.

"TREAT 'EM ROUGH" A THRILLING PICTURE AT THE PATRICIA

There is something fascinating about a story of the western plains, and "Treat 'Em Rough," with Tom Mix in the stellar role, is one of the best cowboy stories screened.

"Treat 'Em Rough" was presented at the Patricia Theatre yesterday, and will be repeated today and Wednesday. It is the cinema version of Charles Alden Seltzer's famous novel, "The Two-Gun Man." It is replete with action, romance, thrills and suspense.

Tom Mix as Ned Ferguson, the two-gun man, has the best role of his career, and does stunts that will make patrons marvel at his daring. One in particular, that of bulldogging a steer to stop a stampede, is the most thrilling sight of all his sensational feats. It is here shown for the first time on the screen.

This is only one of the dozen or more thrills that have been put in this picture to make it the best Tom Mix has ever done. Tom Mix rolls down a steep incline in a horseless wagon and batters away a small fort occupied by the cattle bandits he is running down. The love interest in the story is the cause of many daring acts on Mix's part. It is to save the girl, that Tom bulldogs a steer and stops a herd of stampeding cattle running straight for her prostrate form.

ELSIE FERGUSON AND FRANK CALLAN DRAW WELL AT MAJESTIC

Daylight-Saving Time For Today's Shows.

Full of situations of unusual strength, "The Marriage Price," beautiful Elsie Ferguson's latest Artcraft success, made a pronounced hit with the patrons of the Majestic Theatre at all performances yesterday. It is a strong, well-directed society melodrama, possessing heart - interest, human appeal and brisk action. As Helen Tremaine, Elsie Ferguson is provided with a role in every way suited to her talents and alluring personality.

Helen Tremaine, New York society girl, favors the suit of Kenneth Gordon, an idler, and refuses Frederick Lawton, friend of her father and a wealthy westerner. Her father becomes bankrupt and dies. Lawton protects the girl from the insulting advances of Van Orden, a married man. She attempts to earn a living, but makes little progress, and weds Lawton, who presents her with a block of stock on the pretence that it had been confided to his care by the dead father for his daughter. Gordon, engaged to look after Lawton's western interests, conspires with Van Orden to ruin his employer. The wife is convinced by Gordon that her husband has tricked her, and she gives him her stock to use in the market. With this aid the conspirators plan their campaign against Lawton. Helen determines to leave her husband, when she learns that the stock given her was really his own property. In a revulsion of feeling, when she hears that the man she has wronged has lost his fortune, she offers her jewels to help him. But it transpires that the tables are turned, Lawton triumphant and his enemies defeated. Husband and wife are reunited.

Frank Callan, late of the Ziegfeld Follies, fills the vaudeville end of the bill in a way that, to say the least, delights the audience. His actions and his songs brought down the house, the audience giving applause long after the lights had been turned off for the screening of the feature film.

"Nobody Home," a Sidney Drew comedy, is two reels of screams, without a break. All the actions of an absentminded hubby are shown, and what Sidney Drew doesn't do in that role is not worth mentioning.

Government pictures of the return to Canada of the famous Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and Burton Holmes' travelogue, showing life in Java, complete this wonderful performance, which is sure to draw packed houses at all performances today.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating, are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation, and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people, who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advt.

LORD AND LADY ALGY AT GRAND BY WELL BALANCED COMPANY

Wm. Faversham and Maxine Elliott Delight London Audience.

When Londoners are offered an opportunity to see William Faversham and Maxine Elliott together in such a vehicle as "Lord and Lady Algy," they go to the theatre housing the attraction in the expectation of a treat in the acting of the two principals, but reconciled to the probability of the supporting cast being weak, very weak, in comparison. Those who attended the Grand last night were most pleasantly disappointed; there was not a really weak spot to be found. If a captious critic could not be contented until something was discovered which might have been improved, he must have selected the book, which, perhaps, has not the strongest plot in existence.

In Lord and Lady Algernon Chetland the audience was introduced to a genuine pair of sports, in the strictly proper meaning of the word. A couple who had ceased to live together because of some differences on such vital (!) matters as the brand of cigarettes, and, principally, because the family supply of cash was running low, and making life rather difficult, yet sporting enough to stick up for each other through thick and thin, and endeavor each to shoulder all the blame, is bound to be interesting, and as these two characters, William Faversham and Maxine Elliott—well, they were Lord and Lady Algy; they did not act; they behaved perfectly naturally.

At the end of the second act the audience gave not one or two recalls, but insisted on reappearance after reappearance, and were not satisfied until Faversham had made his little speech of thanks, which he did gracefully and humorously.

If there were any regret it was that too seldom were those in the body of the theatre afforded an opportunity to see those marvelously beautiful eyes of Maxine Elliott's, the hats she wore shading her forehead too much. Possibly the ladies found full consolation for this in her gowns, but the mere man was unable to take in their beauty and value it at their full worth.

Brabazon Tudway (Robert Ayrton) had an arduous and none-too-happy part as the husband of the impressionable young wife, Miss Mary Compton. There were endless possibilities of exaggeration, and to his credit be it said he missed them all, his work being characterized by restraint without flatness. The Marquis of Quarmby (Harvey Hayes) had a somewhat thankless role as the elder brother of Lord Algy; an elderly prude on the verge of taking a wild dive into the maze of the eternal triangle. He was sufficiently distasteful and lukewarm to portray the character to the life, and that is a tribute to his artistic ability.

With Swepson, the valet (Herbert Belmore), who was fully capable, the rest of the cast maintained the balance.

That London wants first-class plays and actors was shown by the lack of empty seats, and the hearty applause.

The scenery was adequate.

REV. G. N. HAZEN IS DOCTOR OF DIVINITY

Former Londoner Honored by Victoria College.

The announcement is made that the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity has been conferred upon Rev. George Neal Hazen, B.A., of Sarnia, by Victoria College. Dr. Hazen has a host of friends in London and throughout the London Methodist Conference.

Dr. Hazen, who is a former president of the London Conference, was stationed for eight years in London, four years in the Centennial Methodist Church, then four years in Wellington Street Methodist, going from there to Devine Street Church, Sarnia, three years ago.

One of the exceptionally able men of the church, he was popular alike with old and young in the city, and the soundness of his judgment was thoroughly appreciated by his brother ministers not only of the Methodist Church, but associated with him in the Ministerial Alliance.

While in this city, he took an active part in promoting the interests of young people's and religious educational work.

The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him at the convocation exercises of Victoria College held last Friday evening when Rev. James Livingstone Stewart, B.A., B.D., of Chengtu, China, also well-known in London, was similarly honored.

MINISTERS INTERESTED IN MOVEMENT FAVORING MOTHERS' DECORATION

Churches Taking Lists of All Eligible—Ceremony in May.

Several local clergymen on Sunday drew attention in their pulpits to the movement which is on foot to recognize the mothers who have lost sons in the war by bestowing decorations upon them on Mothers' Day, the second Sunday in May. Steps are being taken by the various churches to obtain lists of all the mothers who have thus lost sons within their congregational bounds. Some of the ministers took occasion to add that contributions towards the decoration fund would be gratefully accepted if forwarded to Mrs. H. A. Boomer, president, or Mrs. H. M. Graham, treasurer, of the Local Council of Women.

In addition to the decoration ceremonies in the churches on Mothers' Day, a special service has been arranged for 4 o'clock in Kinsmen Hall, at which Bishop M. F. Fallon, representing the Catholic Church, and Bishop D. Williams and Rev. Dr. R. G. Peever, the Protestant, have been asked to take part in presenting the emblems to the mothers.

Mrs. Sandford of Hamilton, president of the National Council of Women, and Mrs. H. A. Boomer are also expected to be present and take part in the service.

The mayor and city council have been invited to attend.

The Canadian Pacific Railway announces that, weather and ice conditions permitting, their first Upper Lakes steamer for this season will leave Port McNicoll for Fort William Thursday, May 1, followed by five sailings each week thereafter. Freight for Fort Arthur, Fort Williams and northwest points is now being accepted for routing via Port McNicoll.

A Watch.

No matter what article you buy you naturally expect it to serve the purpose for which it was bought well, or to give what is called "service." If it does not give service you are naturally provoked; and rightly so.

In the selection of all our watches, we have borne this fact in mind. Why? Because if every watch we sold came back to us out of order, once or twice a year, we would be obliged to turn our store into a workshop for the repairing of these watches.

So it is to our best interests, as well as to yours, for us to carry only the highest grades of watches.
