STREET RAILWAY EMPLOYEES MAY TAKE A STRIKE VOTE; CALL ANOTHER MASS MEETING

Ways and Means of Obtaining Increase in Pay to 52 Cents an Hour Will Be Discussed — Keen Interest Is Being Taken in Outcome of No. 1 Committee Meeting On Wednesday.

To discuss ways and means of obtaining an increase in pay to 52 cents an hour the street railway employees will hold a mass meeting at midnight next Saturday. The men who were receiving 44 cents an hour last year asked for a much larger increase this spring, but on consultation with the railway board, the city council and other bodies agreed to accept 52 cents.

While it is impossible yet to say what will be done, a strike vote may be taken.

The Ontario Railway Board would not guarantee to pay them more than 44 cents an hour and as much additional as surplus earnings warranted. This proved to be only one cent an hour. The men have been receiving this wage of 49 cents an hour throughout the summer, but they were far from satisfied with it. They held on in the hope that the heavy summer traffic and that of Fair week would yield a slight increase in their wages.

May Only Get 48 Cents.

With the approach of winter weather the prospects are that business will decrease to the extent that they may receive only 48 cens. With this possibility in view, they are considering pressing their demands for the full wage of 52 cents an hour, which the street railway committee of the council admitted was a fair one.

Just what steps they will take to do this are not known. Officials of the union would not advance any opinions on the matter today. It is likely, however, that any formal demand of this kind would make the situation acute once more. The railway board cannot pay higher wages unless the earnings are greater, and if it came to a deadlock between them and the employees there is a possibility that they might give up the operation of the road and turn it back to the company or to the city. If means of providing higher wages were provided they would be willing to operate the road, it is thught.

Keenly Interested.

More interest than ever is now attached to the meeting of No. 1 committee of the city council Wednesday afternoon. They will deal with Mayor Little's suggested solution of the difficulty, which was referred back to the council for further consideration. This was to take a plebiscite on five different means of dealing with the problem. The one which proved most popular would have been submitted as a bylaw at the January election. The committee will decide whether to go ahead with this plan or to evolve some new settlement for the city's tangled transportation problem.

MAILS EXPECTED TO PITCH TODAY FOR CLEVELAND

Brooklyn's Star Southpaw, Sherrod Smith, To Hurl For Dodgers.

BOTH ARE CONFIDENT

Superbas Not At All Downcast Over Week-End Results.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 11.—With the count in games three and two in their favor in the battle for the baseball championship, the Indians today were prepared to face the Brooklyn Dodgers in the sixth contest of the series confident of continuing their mad onrush of the past two days, and that tonight the world's championship pennant will be within one game of their grasp. The Dodgers, somewhat downcast over two successive drubbings were far from beaten in spirit, however. With Sherrod Smith, the brilliant southpaw, who sent Cleveland back from Brooklyn on the short end of the third series game, scheduled to hurl, they felt the turning point had been reached, and that by evening they again would be on even terms with the American League champions.

Manager Tris Speaker planned to send his youthful southpaw, Walter Mails, to the mound. While Mails has had only a brief major league career, his work has been on a par with that of the veterans. Coming into the league in midsummer from the Pacific coast and after a failure as a big league pitcher in Brooklyn, the youngster won his spurs when Cleveland was on the verge of being shoved out of the pennant race. In Brooklyn in the third game of the series, after Ray Caldwell had been knocked out of the box in the first inning, he went in and kept the Dodgers away from the plate until late in the game, when he was taken out for a pinch hitter. Mails, however, has never starred in a world series contest, while Smith is a veteran.

All Backing Indians.

Back of the Cleveland team today was a city which had lost interest in everything but baseball, and which no longer even gave Brooklyn a chance to win the series. On the street corners, in the hotels, the restaurants, the theatres and everywhere the only subject discussed was baseball, and to Cleveland "baseball" means Jim Dunn's Indians.

Of the 20 on guard at 6 o'clock last night, only four were there to see the game. The other sixteen were "speculators"—holding their place in line for Harry McHugh of Cleveland, the first in line, voiced the sentiments of many when he explained that "It really wasn't worth waiting in line all night, because Cleveland had practically won the series."

By midnight, however, the line had approached the proportions of previous days. Experience, apparently had taught the waiters several lessons, for few were standing as they did Friday and Saturday nights. Those waiting for the bleacher gates to open had brought chairs, boxes, tables and other comforts and played cards, matched coins and found other lucrative (?) ways to pass the time.

With southpaws in the box, both managers planned to make the usual changes in the lineups, so as to increase the number of right-handed hitters. The early selections follow:

Brooklyn—Olson, ss.; Sheehan, 3b.; Neis, r.f.; Wheat, l.f.; Myers, c.f.; Konetchy, 1b.; Kilduff, 2b.; Elliott, c.; Smith, p.

WESTERN FARMERS LEAVE WORK AND COME IN HUNDREDS TO HEAR ADDRESSES OF LIBERAL LEADER

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King Is Greeted With the Utmost Enthusiasm All Along the Line—Gathering At Calgary Tonight Promises To Eclipse All Other Demonstrations of Tour.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Calgary, Alta., Oct. 10.—During his two days' trip from Edmonton to this city, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and his party have been traveling through a section of the country in which the United Farmers' party of Alberta has succeeded in highly organizing the bulk of the voters. It is extremely significant, therefore, to note the large and attentive audiences that have gathered to hear the Liberal leader enunciate the policies of his party. At Wetaskiwin, not only did the farmers forsake their farms on an afternoon which was ideal for threshing, but the United Farmers, who had scheduled a meeting for the same afternoon postponed it until after the Liberal leader had concluded his address to an audience which packed the town's largest theatre to the doors. It was an extremely attentive gathering which heard Mr. King at this place, and his speech, wherein he outlined the general policies of the Liberal party and criticized in no unsparing fashion the financial policies of the Government, was listened to with the closest attention.

Throngs Greet Statesman.

At Red Deer a big crowd had gathered at the station to greet Mr. King and his party, but the Liberal leader was only able to make a very brief speech from the steps of his car during the process of changing engines on the train. Reaching Calgary late in the evening, Mr. King held a reception at the Palliser Hotel, standing for two hours to shake hands with the throngs who came to greet him. The leader was assisted in receiving by Hon. J. R. Boyle, attorney-general of the province, who accompanied the party from Edmonton; by W. C. Kennedy, M. P. for North Essex; William Duff, M. P. for Lunenburg; Ernest Lapointe, M. P. for Quebec East; Andrew Haydon, secretary of the National Liberal Committee, and the Hon. Frank Oliver, who came from Edmonton to Calgary to join the party here.

Sunday was spent quietly by the party, Mr. King attending church in the morning, and in the afternoon by a drive out into the country. Tomorrow will be spent in preparing for the mass meeting in the evening, which promises to exceed all meetings of the western journey so far, judging by present indications.

BABY COUGHLIN WAS SMOTHERED, DECLARES CRANK

August Pasquale Makes Confession Regarding the Missing Child.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 11.—August Pasquale, "the crank," has confessed to Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Police, that he stole Blakely Coughlin from his home in Norristown, Pa., and smothered the child under his coat. He declares he buttoned the coat around the baby when he heard a noise and he was descending the ladder and that when he had gone some distance from the house he found the baby dead.

ROYAL BLACK KNIGHTS CONVENE AT LUCAN

Decide To Initiate New Preceptory At Greenway.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Lucan, Oct. 11.—More than a hundred of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland gathered here on Saturday evening, when preceptories from Huron and Perth convened to consider establishing a preceptory for Greenway. County Preceptor Ed Noel of Seaforth was in the chair, with J. B. Armitage as deputy chairman. A class of 25 candidates was admitted to the mysteries of the order. The question of instituting a preceptory in Greenway was thoroughly discussed and at 12:30 a.m. the sir knights unanimously voted that a preceptory be established there.

They adjourned till 1:30, and during that time lunch was served to them at the Temperance House. At the morning session addresses were given by several of the sir knights, while J. B. Armitage led in the sing-songs. Hackett L. O. L., No. 805, Fife and Drum Band from London attended and supplied the music. The meeting continued until 4 a.m. During that time speeches were made by a few of the past county preceptors who told how the order had grown during the last few years.

Sir knights from London, Clinton, Seaforth, Granton, Woodham and Kirkton were present, among others being Past County Preceptor Walter De Coursey of Lucan, Past County Preceptor Joseph Murray of London, Past County Preceptor Richard De Coursey of Lucan; Worshipful Sir Knights Nevin, Shoebottom, Carson and Keyes of London; Cook of Granton, and Rev. Moulton of Clinton.

C. OF C. PLANS LARGER EFFORTS

Campaign Committee Meets Tonight To Discuss Reports.

The continuation campaign committee of the London Chamber of Commerce will meet at luncheon in the Tecumseh House at 6:30 o'clock this evening to complete arrangements for the campaign to be waged this week with the fourfold object of re-enrolling delinquent members, securing new members, discussing and deciding upon the plans for the ensuing year's work, and securing the opinions of the members as to what the Chamber of Commerce should do next. The annual report of the organization will also be submitted tonight. A. Gordon Scott of the American City Bureau, New York, is in town, and will speak at the meeting tonight.

The annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce will be held in the Masonic Temple Wednesday evening, when addresses will be given by President George M. Reid and Lucius E. Wilson, the leading spirit of the American City Bureau.

No Party Pull Says Rollo Of Appointment

Minister of Labor Says Fitness For Office Only Consideration.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Hamilton, Oct. 11.—Hon. W. R. Rollo, minister of labor, was a visitor at a meeting of the central branch of the Independent Labor party, and in answer to some inquiries made an explanation of the workings of the mothers' allowance act. He stated also that the administration of the act was in the hands of the provincial commission, which is responsible to the Government. The board had full authority in the matter of appointments of officers, and he wished to say emphatically that he had not anything to do with some appointments objected to and wouldn't interfere with the commission in such matters.

In referring to the trouble at London over the appointment of a local investigator, he said that the I. L. P. had always stood for appointments being made on account of fitness for office, and not as a reward for work for any party.

The report of the survey committee, which conferred with a committee from the chamber of commerce, was adopted, and the proposition that the city build a number of small houses, costing from $2,200 to $3,000, was indorsed.

LIBERALS OF NEW BRUNSWICK EXPECT HOUSE MAJORITY

Charlotte and King's Believed To Have Elected Reformers.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 11.—Announcement that the Government had elected 25 members in the New Brunswick elections, as against 23 by the Conservative, Farmer and Labor opposition, was made here this afternoon by E. S. Carter, secretary of Premier Foster. Mr. Carter said that the vote in King's County had been re-checked, with the result that Keith (Liberal) was shown to be ahead of Jones (Conservative) by one vote.

Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 11.—The supporters of the New Brunswick Government were confident today that with the final checking up of the votes cast in the provincial election last Saturday their candidates would be found to be elected in King's and perhaps in Charlotte County.

The return of the Government candidates in these two constituencies would give Premier Foster a majority, whereas, according to the returns avaliable Saturday his party only broke even with the Opposition, the Farmers and Labor parties.

PREMIER FOSTER WILL CARRY OUT SAME POLICIES

St. John, N. B., Oct. 11.—In the course of an editorial on the election Saturday in New Brunswick, the Daily Telegraph says:

"The Government (Liberal) will continue to carry on, and it may be expected to pursue the progressive policies which have marked its course during the last three years. The Farmer group in the House, among whom are men of outstanding ability, have little in common with the Opposition. They have much in common with the Government. Saturday's verdicts save the province from any danger of return to old conditions, from which it was rescued by Hon. Mr. Foster and his followers in 1917."

COX DECLARES LEAGUE IS READY FOR JURY

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 11.—"The League of Nations case is about ready for the jury," Governor Cox of Ohio, Democratic presidential candidate, declared here today in an address launching his Illinois campaign.

Senator Harding, his Republican opponent, Governor Cox said, has given what appears to be an "ultimatum" against the league, and the American electorate, the Democratic nominee said, has an unequalled opportunity of "making a contribution to the civilized world."

POLES AND REDS TO SIGN TRUCE THIS EVENING

Armistice Will Run For Period of Twenty-Five Days.

VILNA IS CAPTURED

Stronghold Reported Occupied Contrary To Orders.

Riga, Oct. 11.—The Polish and Russian Soviet peace delegates have arranged to sign a preliminary peace treaty at the Blackhead House here tonight. The treaty contains seventeen articles and two annexes, one the armistice to be concluded tonight, and the other a map.

Riga, Oct. 11.—Polish and Bolshevik delegates engaged in negotiations here will sign an armistice at Blackhead House at 7 o'clock tonight. Hostilities will cease six days after signature of the convention.

The armistice will run for 25 days, and 48 hours notice will be necessary before either side can legally break it. If it is not broken for the period of 25 days it will continue automatically in effect for an indefinite period, with a provision that it may be broken on ten days notice.

VILNA IS OCCUPIED.

Warsaw, Oct. 11.—Occupation of Vilna late on Saturday followed the rejection by Gen. Zeligouski of proposals by the French governor to create Vilna a free city. The forces occupying the city were Poles and Lithuanians, and not White Russians and Lithuanians, as reported on Saturday night. Before entering the city, Gen. Zeligouski and his chief of staff sent their resignations to Polish army headquarters.

The troops which marched into Vilna were from the Grodno and Lida districts, and mutinied because of dissatisfaction ove: the terms of the Lithuanian-Polish armistice. This agreement left the fate o Vilna in suspense, and caused much bitter feeling throughout the division that it was resolved at all costs to wres the city from the Kovno government.

Negotiations between the Poles and Lithuanians at Suwalki were under the supervision of the representatives of the League of Nations. The Poles agreed to accept the demarkation line defined last December by the supreme council of the League of Nations, but notified Lithuanian delegates that Poland would not recognize the treaty between Lithuania and Soviet Russia. This convention gave Lida, Grodno and Vilna to Lithuania. Owing to the latest complications in the situation, Prince Sapieha, Polish minister of foreign affairs, has sent a note to the Lithuanian foreign minister, proposing that further negotiations to be held at Orany on October 13.

REPORT OF OCCUPATION DENIED.

Paris, Oct. 11.—The Polish Government disavows the occupation of Vilna by General Zeligouski and his troops, according to advices received by the foreign office here this morning.

A conference of the Polish cabinet was called last night to consider Gen. Zeligouski's occupation of Vilna. It is understood the League of Nations representatives may be asked to come from Suwalki to straighten out the situation.

REVOLT AGAINST BOLSHEVISM.

Harbin, Manchuria, Oct. 11.—General Ungern, chief lieutenant of General Semenoff, the anti-Bolshevik Cossack leader, is reported to be gathering insurgents against the Bolshevik regime in Siberia in his march to cut the Kyasksma high road, 70 miles south of Verkhne-Udinsk, capital of the Far Eastern republic. A general revolt against the Bolsheviki is said to be in progress in the Southern Baikal district and the Gerkhne-Udinsk Government is moving its treasury to Misovaia on the western shore of Lake Baikal.

In spite of the reported evacuation of the Japanese, it is alleged, on what is considered here to be good authority, that there are 3,000 of them still in the Chita district, where General Semenoff is renewing his activity.

The proposed buffer state remains unrealized, the Chita and Vladivo administrations apparently being leagued against these at Verkhne-Udinsk and Blagovestchensk.

The two latter regimes are dominated by Soviet leaders from Moscow.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO RECONSIDER DECISION

Washington. Oct. 11.—The United States Supreme Court refused today to reconsider its decision of last June 7, sustaining validity of the prohibition amendment and portions of the enforcement act.

URGES GREATER EFFORTS.

Hyde Park, Oct. 11.—Miss Robertson of Toronto, president of the Ontario Women's Missionary Society, took charge of the services in the Presbyterian Church Sunday. Opening with the annual thanksgiving address, she explained clearly the principar workings of the Women's Missionary Organization, touching on the work being done in the Western province, and telling about the plans for the Indian school. While the offering was being taken Miss Philis Gray and Miss Ann Ramsay sang a very pleasing duet. Rev. Mr. Ballantyne of London closed the services with the benediction.

MOTHERS' ALLOWANCE ACT MAY BE AMENDED SO AS INCLUDE DESERTED WOMEN

Important Proposition Is Under Consideration, As It Is Found There Are Many Such Cases To Be Looked After —Women To Get $40 a Month and Will Be Allowed To Work If They Wish.

Although deserted mothers are not included among those qualified for mothers' allowances, according to the mothers' allowances act, there seems to be such a large proportion of these mothers that it is probable that steps will be taken shortly to amend the act so as to include them.

Major Murphy to The Advertiser today stated that it was wholly probable that the mothers' allowances commission would shortly send in some recommendations to the Government asking that deserted mothers be included to receive allowances with widowed mothers.

Secretary Ed Lance of the soldiers' aid commission, when asked if the proportion of deserted mothers in this district was large, declared that although his investigations were made among soldiers' families only he felt that even among the civilians the percentage of deserted mothers was very large, and that the Government allowances act should be amended to include them. He said that the deserted wives of soldiers were very many, but that they were being looked after by the patriotic fund.

Allowed to Work.

In answer to the question as to whether mothers receiving allowances should be allowed to earn money by working, Major Murphy stated that as long as the allowance was as small as at the present time, $40 a month, mothers would be allowed to eke out that allowance to help support their children but that the time might come when the allowance was big enough to support both mother and children without work. Then the commission would probably take measures to prevent the mothers working, as the whole idea of the allowance was to keep the mother at home as much as possible.

The commission has been unable to estimate the amount of money required for a year to carry on this work and supply the allowances, as they have no idea how many mothers in the country are needing help. Mrs. Adam Shortt of Ottawa, vice-president of the mothers' allowances commission, estimates that it will take well over $1,000,000 for the first year.

Will Be Paid $1,500.

Each investigator is paid $1,500 a year, and there will have to be no less than sixteen of these permanent investigators in the province. Their railway expenses will also be heavy, as they must travel from town to town, and this together with the allowances themselves will be costly.

The flat rate of $40 per month for each mother was arrived at because of the great amount of work which will be entailed through the deluge of widows who would come for help at the beginning of the scheme. It is hoped that by January the commission will be able to arrive at something more definite in regard to the family budget.

TAKING DRASTIC ACTION TO DISCOURAGE ELECTRIC HEATERS

Rates Will Be Advanced 1,500 Per Cent in an Effort To Conserve Power—Heavy Drain On Hydro Must Be Stopped, Declares General Manager Buchanan.

Because the use of electic heaters is believed to be making the power situation unnecessarily acute the Hydro-Electric Power Commission next week will inaugurate a system which will advance the cost of power for this purpose 1,500 per cent. This order will apply in London, as well as in all other municipalities where hydro is used.

In order to determine what customers are using heater power bills from June to September will be examined and an average struck as to the amount of power used for lighting and cooking. It is thought that this will give a fair basis, as heaters are used comparatively little in these months. When the average amount of power used by a customer is found this will be set as his maximum. When he exceeds that he will be charged for the power at the rate of 15 cents a kilowatt hour stead of one cent, as at the present time.

Ample Allowances.

None of the maximum rates fixed will be below what a customer is now allowed of two cents for three kilowatt hours per 100 square feet, and all maximums will allow power for lighting and cooking, as special arrangements will be made for customers who use electric cook stoves. It will even be possible to use electric heaters to some extent and still come under the maximum.

This measure will place an effective check on the use of power for heating purposes, General Manager Buchanan of the system thinks. From estimates compiled with local power bills some customers would be penalized to the extent of $300 a month for using heaters. Others would have to pay as much as $150, while $20 a month's heating would be a common charge.

To Conserve Power.

It is expected that few people will pay such high rates. "They are not being instituted with the idea of bringing revenue to the system, but to conserve power for necessary uses," said Mr. Buchanan. "We could not very well take the heaters away from the people, so some means of limiting their use had to be found. The Hydro Shop has not sold heaters for about a year because of the power shortage, but a number of private dealers have been selling large quantities of them and they have become a serious addition to the local load. So far as I know the restriction will apply only for this winter. After that the heaters will be generally useful again."

WILLIAM MAHON KILLED IN AUTO CRASH AT WINDSOR

Former London Hotel Man Meets Death When Car Driven by Emery Mullin, Also of This City, Collided With His Auto—Glaring Headlights Believed To Be Cause of the Accident.

William Mahon, formerly proprietor of the Clyde Hotel, near the market, was killed at Windsor last night, when an auto in which he was driving, collided with another car, driven by Emery Mullin, also a former Londoner. The accident occurred on Sandwich street, and is believed to have been caused by glaring headlights. Mullin was thrown out, but escaped with slight hurts. A man named Machin from Detroit, who was riding with Mr. Mahon, was also killed. Both were rushed to the Hotel Dieu, but died soon after arrival.

James Mahon, of 457 Ontario street, received word of the accident today at noon. William Mahon is survived by three brothers and five sisters, James and Angus of London, and Samuel, on a farm near Thorndale; Mrs. Patton of Montreal, Mrs. Perkins of Parkhill, Mrs. Harding of this city, Mrs. A. Campbell of Galt, and Mrs. Davis of Woodstock.

Emery Mullin is a brother of Miss Kate Mullin, who was killed in the Reid wreck, being pinned under a counter in a 5 and 10 cent store, when the falling walls crashed through the building. The family formerly resided on Hill street.

"DRY" FORCES TO MEET NEXT WEEK

Plan Campaign To Stop Interprovincial Shipments of Liquor.

Professor James H. Bowman will call a meeting of the executive of the Middlesex County temperance organization during the coming week to discuss the question of holding a convention in the near future of all interested in total prohibition in the county of Middlesex. The date of the convention has not been fixed, but Professor Bowman stated that when held it will be in London.

Other matters of importance will be brought up at the executive meeting, and the advisability of a campaign against interprovincial shipment of liquor, to be commenced the latter part of this year or early in 1921, will be discussed.

It is proposed at the convention to have a number of prominent speakers interested in temperance address the meeting, and consider the literature, which will be distributed during the campaign.

SURPLICE CHOIR FOR LUCAN ANGLICAN CHURCH

Special Services Conducted by Canon Carlisle Largely Attended.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Lucan, Oct. 11.—Thanksgiving services were observed here on Sunday by all three churches. At Holy Trinity Church, Canon Carlisle of Windsor was the preacher. The feature of the service was the inauguration of a surplice choir. This was the first time in the history of Lucan that a surplice choir has been connected with any of the churches. Special music under the capable leadership of Mrs. C. W. Hawkshaw added to the impressiveness of the service. At the morning service, the anthem, "I Will Feed My Flock," was sung, with T. Hodgins taking the solo. Mrs. J. Hodgins and Mrs. (Rev.) K. McGoun sang a solo in the anthem, "The Desert Shall Rejoice" at the evening services. Canon Carlisle preached both morning and evening. He is a former rector of Holy Trinity Church.

Rev. E. G. Powell conducted the services at the Methodist churches here and at Clandeboye. Rev. Johnston preached both morning and evening at the Presbyterian Church.

AVIATORS ARE FORCED TO LAND OWING TO TROUBLE WITH ENGINE

Regina, Oct. 11.—Engine troubles caused the pilots in the trans-Canada flight to make a forced landing at Regina at 8:40 this morning. The machine came down just south of the aerial service company's aerodrome, and a good landing was made. Several hours will be lost in making the necessary repairs before the flight can be continued to Moose Jaw, where the relay machine is stationed. Capt. J. B. Home-Hay is the pilot.

SASK. GOVERNMENT INDORSES REQUESTS FOR LOWER TARIFFS

Regina, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Unanimous indorsement of the farmers' request for tariff reductions by the Saskatchewan Provincial Government was a feature of the morning session of the tariff commission today. Attorney-General Turgeon read a resolution passed at the last session of the Legislature to this effect.

RETAIL PRICES ARE NOW BEING BASED ON A COST VALUE

American Drygoods Markets Restricted During the Deflation Period.

New York, Oct. 11.—Henry Clews & Co's market letter discusses the situation at the present time as follows:

The unsatisfactory state of the yarn and finished goods market, the rapid progress of the price-cutting campaign for commodities generally, and ideal weather conditions for the final development and harvesting of the crop, have all combined against the maintenance of any material improvement in the cotton market.

The determination of farmers to market their cotton on a more moderate scale, owing to the comparatively low prices, is attracting considerable attention, but so far has not been followed by an increase in the demand. It is possible that if such a movement spreads it will aid in sustaining the market around the present basis, but sharp price advances would in all probability be followed by renewed selling against some of the unsold cotton held in the South, and unfortunately as long as there is no improvement in the demand for goods, the mills will doubtless continue the policy of buying for immediate requirements only.

The drygoods market is still in an unsettled condition, with a general lack of interest shown on the part of buyers for finished goods. Commission houses report that a broader business cannot be obtained until some of the credit restrictions are removed and increased banking accommodations are furnished to facilitate plans for forward delivery and export of manufactured goods. Both manufacturers and jobbers are offering cotton goods reductions at concessions, but merchants are holding off in hope of disposing of old lines of goods bought at higher values.

Retailers who have reduced prices are doing an increased business, but the public generally are holding aloof for a still lower level on the basis of decline in raw material. Most retail prices are said to be based on cost rather than on replacement values, which has a tendency to restrict trade, as there are no indications of where the deflation movement will end. There is no stability to the yarn market, with only a small business doing, and offerings are increasing at low prices, which fail to interest consumers.

GOV. COX ATTACKS HARDING'S OPINIONS

Democratic Nominee Takes Exception To League Pronouncements.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 11.—Scathing attack was made here by Governor Cox of Ohio, upon the recent league pronouncements of Senator Harding, his Republican opponent.

"To preach such a gospel of selfishness is an offset to the decency of America," said Governor Cox, citing humanitarian and commercial and other world relationships. "Such a proclamation of provincialism is little short of treason to our traditions."

MANY CHANGES ARE UNDER CONSIDERATION IN POSTAL RELATIONS

Madrid, Oct. 11 —Changes of sweeping importance in the postal relations of the world will be effected as a result of the deliberations of the International Postal Union Congress during the past week. Several committees dealing with various subjects already have drafted their reports, which must be submitted to the full general committee and thereafter to the whole congress for final approval, but as the committees in most cases fairly represent the views of the entire body of delegates, their reports are virtually certain of acceptance.

HOBOES ARE HARD HIT BY ADVANCE IN "HOTEL" RATES

New York, Oct. 11.—Patrons of the lodging houses of New York's famous Bowery, knights of the road, hoboes, panhandlers and more prosperous individuals, are aroused with the announcement that rates have risen. The Bowery "hotels" have increased their prices from the fifteen and twenty cent schedule, maintained for many years, to double those rates in many cases, with an average rate now of forty cents.

In connection with the increased rate, many of the proprietors have eliminated the clean towel, formerly thrown in with the night's lodging.

King Alexander Is Recovering From Bite Of Monkey

London, Oct. 11.—A turn for the better in the condition of King Alexander of Greece, who has been ill as the result of having been bitten by a monkey several days ago, was reported in a bulletin issued in Athens at 7 p.m. Sunday. The bulletin said the general state of the king's health seemed to show marked signs of improvement.

TRADE UNIONISTS IN CANADA MUST FIGHT DOWN RED ELEMENT

IS CREATING UNREST

Menace Must Not Be Ignored, Says Labor Leader.

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—"The underlying currents of the present day labor unrest although to the average man of little consequence, appear, in the minds of the officials of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, as something decidedly serious and possessing the probability of having far-reaching results, said Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada when asked whether any steps are being taken to combat the social upheaval among the working classes.

"The trades union continues to be the centre of attack by those in all countries who would substitute direct action and revolutionary methods for orderly progress through constitutional changes. Not only are the trades unions being attacked by these groups locally and nationally, but attempts are now being made to destroy the International Federation of Trades Unions itself, of which the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada holds membership, by substituting another federation with headquarters at Moscow, and then through that body destroying the effectiveness of the international labor office, a connection of the league of nations."

Cannot Ignore It.

In supporting this statement, Mr. Moore quoted some extracts from a statement issued by this new federation at its meeting in Moscow on August 1, 1920, which state in unmistakable language the objects they have in view. "It is well that the source from which this propaganda springs should be made known," continues Mr. Moore's statement. "The stabilizing influence of bona fide trades unions is realized by these would-be wreckers of society and it is necessary not only for trade unionists, but all other classes, to realize the dangers that lie ahead. The propaganda directed from Moscow cannot be killed by ignoring it. The best method is the fullest publicity and trust in the sound common sense of Canadian citizens to do the rest when they once

FRENCH PARLIAMENT TO VOTE ON 1921 BUDGET

Paris, Oct. 11.—The French Government has decided to convoke Parliament in extraordinary session about the middle of November for the purpose of voting on the 1921 budget, Paris newspapers announce.

HOUSING SHORTAGE IS STILL ACUTE ALL OVER THE DOMINION

Hundred Thousand Marriages and Only Fifteen Thousand New Homes.

Construction contracts awarded in Canada during September, according to figures compiled by MacLean Daily Reports, Limited, totaled $20,820,100, compared with $23,474,800 in August and $16,843,900 in September, 1919. The total for the first nine months of this year is $213,290,300, compared with $138,597,400 during the corresponding period of 1919, and $82,545,400 during 1918, being an increase of 54 per cent over 1919 and 160 per cent over 1918.

Contracts for 507 frame residences, valued at $1,806,700 and 357 brick residences to cost $2,228,,300, were awarded during the month. In August, contracts were let for 835 homes, at a cost of $4,-032,900, compared with 864 homes, costing $4,195,000, in Seutember. Of these homes, 29 will be built in the Maritime Provinces, 133 in Quebec, 515 in Ontario and 158 in the west. When one considers that over 100,000 couples were married in Canada last year and but 15,000 homes erected, it will be seen how very far short the present rate of building is overtaking the demand.

Business Buildings.

During September, 280 business buildings were started, involving an expenditure of $6,318,300; 49 industrial buildings, costing $2,342,500, and 73 engineering contracts, valued at $8,126,400.

In Western Canada new construction during the first nine months totaled $59,495,100, compared with $21,369,100 in 1919, and $14,055,700 in 1918. The value of work reported in September was $7,-447,500, compared with $7,028,100 in August and $2,422,700 in September, 1919.

A Big Increase.

In Ontario, contracts awarded during the first nine months of this year amounted to $92,076,900, compared with $7,045,200 last year, and $25,437,200 in 1918. The September figures were $8,-151,300, compared with $9,878,600 in August and $9,778,800 in September, 1919.

Quebec shows up very favorably with $44,340,700 in construction contracts awarded during the first nine months, compared with $37,656,000 in 1919 and $21,123,300 in 1918. In September, the value of new work started was $3,490,-000, compared with $4,797,000 in August and $2,461,000 in September, 1919.

In the Maritimes.

The figures for the Maritime Provinces show a considerable gain over the first nine months of last year, when the total was $12,656,500, compared with $17,277,600 in 1920, and $21,925,600 in 1918. The large total for 1918 was directly due to the reconstruction of Halifax. The value of contracts awarded in September was $1,731,300, compared with $1,171,100 in August and $1,-167,900 in September, 1919.

CITIZEN MUST HAVE FOURFOLD EDUCATION

Children's Leaving School Early Great Economic Loss To Country.

"As Canada is a democratic country populated by democratic people, every every citizen must be so educated that he will be able to take his place in a social group and be of service to his fellow men," declared Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown of this city, while addressing the Men's Brotherhood of the Askin Street Methodist Church on Sunday morning. His subject was, "The Education of a Citizen."

It was absolutely necessary that the education of the individual must be fourfold in order that he might be most useful to his community. He must be educated physically so that being healthy he could better cope with the problems of his country, socially so that he could serve his fellows, mentally so that his scope might be broader and his work made intelligent, and spiritually as well as morally.

The speaker strongly condemned the belief, which, he said, was prevalent that a education is to be desired because it is the door to wealth and power. Education, he said, should only point out ways of serving one's fellowmen and one's God.

He told of the large percentage of children who left school before they received sufficient training. The loss, he said, was not only the individual but it resulted in a great economic loss for the country. Every child, he stated, must be given every opportunity for development.

While close attention was given to juvenile education, the fact that the education of the adult was forever going on must never be lost from sight, he continued. Men were continually being educated from the pulpit, the newspaper and the platform. Because this was true it was essential that the men who occupied the pulpits and the platform, and who ran the newspapers must be sane, educated and well trained.

A vote of thanks was moved to the speaker by J. F. Maines of the brotherhood.

MILITIA CHANGES IN LONDON DISTRICT

A number of militia changes of interest to London and district are announced in the Canada Gazette. The appointment of Lieut.-Col. Harry L. Milligan, D. S. O., as commander of the Middlesex Light Infantry, is cancelled.

Lieuts. H. A. Barnard and T. R. Meredith of the W. O. R. are retired, and Capt. P. M. Millman and Major Wm. T. Gregory are transefrred to the reserve of officers.

Lieut.-Col. F. T. Goghlan of Guelph is gazetted to the command of the 15th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery. Capt. W. A. Townsley, 29th Battery, Guelph, is transferred to be major in command of the 31st Battery, 15th Brigade.

Capt. T. R. Rundle is appointed signalling officer and Capt. S. E. McKegney, M. C., chaplain of the Huron Regiment. The latter relinquishes his appointment in the Dufferin Rifles, Brantford.

The new slate of officers for the Perth Regiment, under Lieut.-Col. J. L. Youngs, M. C., is also promulgated. In this connection, Majors T. G. Delamere and J. D. McCrimmon are given brevet rank of lieutenant-colonel in the militia. Lieut. F. J. Picking, Kent Regiment, is transferred to the South Saskatchewan Regiment.

RALLY FOR YOUNG PEOPLE ON SUNDAY

Missionary To Ruthenians Is Speaker At Wellington Street Methodist.

The Sunday evening service at the Wellington Street Methodist Church took the form of a young people's rally, the address being given by Miss Ellen Ferguson of Sarnia, just recently returned from Alberta, where she has been engaged for the last five years in missionary work among the Ruthenians.

"The Ruthenian colony in Alberta is larger than most people conceive," said the speaker. "It is sixty miles square and is populated with 60,000 Ruthenians, eight or ten children in each family.

"These people make splendid citizens when they are given a fair chance. On the whole, they are a clean, hard-working and hardy people and their home life is simple. One great objection, however, is that their women are made to work in the fields with the men. The Alberta Government is insisting that all the children go to school, so that they are having educational advantages hitherto unknown.

"My work was in the 'Wanstao' boarding school, supported by the W. M. S. of the Methodist Church, where the results have been most promising, although the big difficulty there, as everywhere, is the lack of workers. In the school, we are able to teach the girls our ways of living and domestic science, which makes them educational factors in the colony, when they return to their homes."

THINKS LAW SHOULD BE MORE STRINGENT

Rev. Roy Flays Gamblers—Missionary From India At Morning Service.

The recent revelation of the baseball scandal which has incited interest throughout the world was what Rev. T. S. Roy of Talbot Street Baptist Church took as the basis for his sermon, "Selling the Game," on Sunday evening.

Rev. Roy flayed the gamblers who were responsible for the outrage, and stated that the Government should put into force more stringent laws restraining gambling. The gambling element is not conscientious, and is actuated only by the love for money. The Government when making its laws should listen to the expression of the conscience of the people. He said that the reason that the winner of a horse race could be paid $5,000 was because the gambling machines were in operation at the race track.

After it was proved that the players who have made themselves famous in the sporting world, threw the game which decided the championship of the world, lovers of the sport lost faith in human beings. The players threw the game for the money which the despicable gamblers offered them. They did not only throw away the game but their honor and their families' honor with it. Gambling is going on under the eyes of our Government, Rev. Roy stated.

Dr. Pearl Chute, a member of the board of the Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, addressed the congregation at the morning service. Mrs. Dr. Chute is on furlough, having just arrived from India, where she has been an active medical worker. She spoke to the children of the mission band and outlined to them the conditions under which the children in India live. She said that the children of Canada have many things to be thankful for. The story of the conditions which the children in India live was graphically told by the missionary. In speaking to the adult congregation, she spoke on the four objects of the missionaries, which were educational, evangelical, industrial and medical.

"The medical work is the most powerful of the four objects, as a person in that pursuit can obtain entrance to any home of the rich or poor while those engaged in the evangelical work can very seldom get into the homes of the rich. The medical workers can then obtain first-hand information as to the conditions in the homes of all," stated the missionary.

STATES PERSONALITY TO RENOVATE WORLD

Task of Church To Dethrone Selfishness and Enthrone Righteousness.

Rev. Capt. A. Graham conducted the evening service in the First Methodist Church Sunday. In the course of a forceful sermon, he referred to all parts of the world being brought closer together within recent years by the telegraph, telephone, fast steamships, and other means of rapid communication. Yet at the height of all these inventions and improvements to bring the people of the world into easier and closer contact, there befell the earth the greatest calamity of the ages, the great world war. Selfishness, pure unadulterated selfishness, caused this great catastrophe, he said; yet out of this great catastrophe and out of all the world unrest and turmoil of today, good would yet come. The great task of the church today was to dethrone selfishness and enthrone righteousness.

The sob of the broken heart of the world must be heard and heeded. Men must get a vision of other lives than their own. The Cross of Christ, said the speaker, was the meeting place of the souls of men and the spirit of God. The world must be renovated, but it would not be by creed, nor by dogma, nor by book, but by personality.

During the service, a solo was very beautifully sung by Mrs. Wyatt.

DRILL TEST WELLS ON FRONT STREET

Utilities Board Is Trying To Find Source of Supply.

Well-drilling operations on Front street were commenced by the public utilities commission today. It is expected that it will be seevral days before any results are obtained. If water is struck, pumping tests will have to be made, and this will require several days more, so that it likely will be close to the end of the month before it is known whether this latest venture will prove a success.

In the meantime tests are likely to be started at the asylum. There is a deep well already in existence there which has never been tested to its capacity. There are also several shallow wells with apparently good water-bearing qualities. Pumps will be finstalled and the capacity of all the wells will be tested to the limit to determine whether it would be worth while to connect them with the city system.

The location is an ideal one if water is found in sufficient quantities. E. V. Buchanan, general manager for the commission, states that the level is 100 feet above that of the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets. This would make it easy to obtain pressure in the eastern part of the city.

ADVISES LETTING HOUSING SHORTAGE WORK ITSELF OUT

The Whole Situation Centres Around Costs of Labor and Material.

The only solution of the high cost of building and the housing shortage is to let it work itself out hindered as little as possible by Government intervention, say a bulletin issued by MacLean Daily Reports. Priority shipment of materials, with perhaps some municipal discretion in the issuance of building permits for unnecessary construction should be the extent of interference with the natural working out of the difficulties. The first would help to solve the embarrassments due to transportation and the second would divert short materials into essential lines.

Will Be Readjusted.

The problems of labor and material costs and financing difficulties will work themselves out without artificial stimulus. The last-named is in great part the result of the first two and will largely disappear when the cost is stabilized at a level which guarantees the security of a building investment. The labor and material factor then furnishes the biggest obstacle in the path of building expansion.

It is generally conceded that the peak of labor costs has been reached, and that while there will not be any immediate drop in wage scales the efficiency of the individual worker will increase and greater production will be attained. It is conservative to say that for every dollar spent for brick, cement or steel, from 75 to 85 per cent ultimately goes back to the laborer who dug the clay, mined the coal, ground the cement, rolled the steel, transported the materials and constructed them into buildings.

Need Higher Output.

Higher output on the part of labor, coupled with the rapid strides made toward relieving the fuel shortage, paves the way for increasing the supply and decreasing the cost of building materials. Once the heavy overhead charges of material producing plants can be spread over a capacity output, materials can be stabilized at levels even below some prevailing prices. Leave the building field as free as possible from outside interference and it will find its own healthy level unaided.

Many of the larger contractors in Canada are advising their clients, if they need any additional building facilities and the condition of their businesses justify the expenditure, it is far wiser to build now and enjoy the benefits of the improvements, than to wait and lose the use of this money-making space for several years.

BIRR SCHOOL FAIR LARGELY ATTENDED

Pupils of S. S. No. 5 Had Many Excellent Exhibits.

The annual Birr School Fair brought out an unusually fine lot of entries and aroused keen interest all over the district. There was a good attendance, and much favorable comment was aroused by the work of the pupils. Following are the results of the judging:

MEMBERS OF HOLY NAME SOCIETY HOLD ANNUAL PROCESSION

Many From Outside Parishes Journey To London For Demonstration.

PLEDGE IS REPEATED

Promise To Refrain From Profane or Immodest Language Is Made.

Sixteen hundred or more members of the Society of the Holy Name of Jesus participated in the annual parade and demonstration of the society held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral. With the exception of about 200 members from the Holy Angels Church, St. Thomas, the procession was composed of London branches of the society. The procession formed on the grounds of the Sacred Heart Convent and marched to the cathedral by way of Queen's avenue. The parade was headed by the papal colors and the Union Jack, followed by the banner of the Junior Holy Name Society and the boys of the Christian Brothers' School with their teachers. The men of St. Peter's parish followed about 600 strong, the St. Thomas delegation and the men of St. Mary's Church following, each about 200 in line. Smaller sections, but each with more than 100 members, representing St. Martin's and St. Michael's Churches. The seating capacity of the cathedral was taxed to the limit by the membership of the society itself, but throngs of women and visitors crowded the gallery and organ loft, and stood at the rear of the church auditorium. Several hundred people were unable to obtain admission, so great was the crowd.

Repeat Pledge.

Following the singing of several hymns, the Litany of the Holy Name of Jesus was read by Rev. Father Young, and the sermon was preached by Rt. Rev. D. O'Connor, vicar-general of the London diocese. After the sermon the new members of the society repeated the pledge and the old members renewed their pledges. The pledge comprises chiefly a promise to refrain from the use of profane, immodest, unbecoming or blasphemous language, to be faithful in attendance at Holy Communion, to do all in their power to extend belief in the divinity of Jesus Christ and honor and respect His name.

The congregational singing was directed by Rev. Father Brisson, Mons. McKeon, rector of the cathedral, and the other cathedral priests were in attendance. The meeting was closed by the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, just before which the papal Blessing of the society was given.

Commencing his address, Rt. Rev. Father O'Connor pictured the first eleven humble disciples receiving the injunction of Jesus to go out into all the world and preach the gospel to all men. They went forth to humble paganism and humble human pride and on the ruins of idolatry to establish a new faith. On the day of Pentecost 3,000 souls were added to the little following, and these, gradually augmented, formed the nucleus of a Christian community. They had community of property as well as community of faith and ideals. In a few years Paul was able to send word triumphantly to the Romans, "Your faith is known throughout the world."

Much Opposition.

Opposition was not wanting, the opposition of imperial Rome and other worldly forces. Heresies, too, sprang up, but today the names of these heresies are scarcely known.

"In the days of the so-called reformation," said Mgr. O'Connor, "the church was confronted with human arrogance and human pride, but the church has survived and lives on today after the lapse of centuries."

It was, he said, the greatest church in the world today, having an absolute majority of all adherents of Christianity, 300,000,000 strong. In the Society of the Holy Name of Jesus pastors and people were united under obligations of mutual sympathy and mutual understanding between the two classes in the church, the hierarchy and the faithful followers. The society afforded to all a great opportunity to teach both within and without the church the truths for which it stood.

Throughout London diocese, twelve demonstrations in all were held by the society on Sunday. About 600 London members attended a special communion service in St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday morning.

BIG PARADE AT CHATHAM.

CHATHAM, Oct. 10.—Approximately 1,000 men attended the annual rally of the Holy Name Society in St. Joseph's Church here this afternoon, where a special service was conducted by Rev. Father Brednan, Wallaceburg, assisted by Father Lowry, Merlin, as deacon; Father Binde, Wallaceburg, subdeacon; Father Ethelbert of this city acted as master of ceremonies. The address of the day was given by Father John Doe, Ridgetown. Branches represented at the rally were Wallaceburg, Dresden, Ridgetown, Merlin, Tilbury, Paine Court, Big Point.

PARADE AT INGERSOLL.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 10.—Members of the Holy Name Society of the Church of the Sacred Heart and district churches to the number of 300 held a rally this afternoon. The parade took place from the Rumsey property, Thames street north, recently acquired for separate school purposes, and was one of the largest witnessed in Ingersoll in years. It was headed by the Ingersoll citizens' band. Woodstock, Tillsonburg, Norwich, La Salette and Simcoe Holy Name Societies were well represented, 100 being present from Woodstock. Appropriate services were held in the Church of the Sacred Heart.

800 AT KINKORA.

STRATFORD, Oct. 10.—Many men members of the Holy Name Societies of Stratford, St. Marys, Hesson and Kinkora gathered at Kinkora Sunday afternoon and took part in a monster demonstration, "honoring the name of Jesus." Between 700 and 800 men marched, each communtly being distinguished by a handsome hand-painted banner.

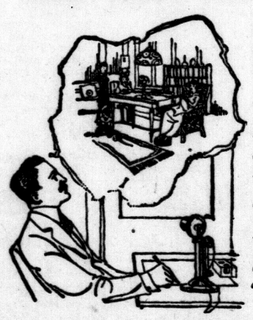

The men were welcomed as they gathered on the parish lawn by officers of the Kinkora society. Subsequently, benediction was pronounced by Rev. D. J. Egan of Stratford, assisted by Rev. Father Gaffney of Stratford and Rev. Father Webber of Hesson. Major Rev. Father McCarthy preached, making a powerful appeal to the men to be true to their pledge of honoring the name of God. He told of the formation of a Holy Name Society among the soldiers in France with a membership of 80,000, Protestant as well as Catholic soldiers, and how Gen. Sir Arthur Currie had given his unqualified support and name to the proposal.

Captain Rev. Father Hussey is pastor of Kinkora Church.

A similar gathering of Holy Name men from Logan, Dublin and St. Columban was held at the latter place this afternoon.

WHEAT FIVE CENTS HIGHER THAN FRIDAY

Good Demand For Oats, Barley, Flax On Winnipeg Market.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 10.—After a firm opening Saturday with buying fairly general, weakness developed after the first hour, and prices broke about three cents from the high spots. This was only temporary, however, and prices again began to advance on some short coverings over the week-end, closing about five cents higher than Friday.

The volume of business was not large. Canadian and American millers were in the market today for cash wheat and premiums increased one cent. With a good demand for oats, barley and flax the coarse grains were active today with prices showing a substantial advance.

DENIES CHARGE OF GAMBLING

Police Magistrate Hears a Peculiar Case Against Julius Siskind.

Although the police discovered Julius Siskind standing behind his counter in his second-hand store at 338 Richmond street with a complete gambler's paraphernalia spread before him on the night of October 5, and an interested group of men gathered about the counter, one of whom had money in his hand, Siskind was able to prove in police court today that he was not guilty of operating a gambling house. He claimed that he was endeavoring to sell the outfit to Charles Lewis, one of the men.

The store was raided by Police Sergt. Thomas Lucas, accompanied by a police constable at 7:20 o'clock in the evening. They acted on information which had been given them. After watching the group of men, whom they claimed were deeply interested in something on the counter, from across the road the constables investigated. When they entered the door while a man, who was alleged to have been watching had his back turned, Sergt. Lucas said that the group of men scattered, one trying to make a getaway through the back door.

What They Found.

On the counter he found a canvas with gambling designs and a dice box, two dice in one of the men's hands and 50 cents in the hands of another. The equipment was produced in court. He took the names of all in the store. One who claimed to be a witness of the game, not a participator refused to divulge his identity. A man under the influence of liquor was found lying behind some boxes.

Julius Siskind claimed that there was no game in operation, nor had there been during any part of the evening. One of the men, Charles Lewis, came to the store to buy a game, which, he said, he wanted to use on board the boats. As Mr. Siskind had no crown and anchor game, he tried to sell him the outfit he was showing. He used the dice merely to demonstrate how the game was played. He was not aware that anyone had money in their hands until the police found it. He made the game himself, so that he might follow the fall fairs, which accounted for its worn and dirty appearance.

Corroborated Story.

Charles Lewis was called and corroborated the evidence given by Siskind. He said he was a sailor on the great lakes.

Peter Sansone, who was found with money in his hand, claimed that he had not used it in the game. He was not aware what the men at the counter were doing, as he was caring for the sick man at the time of the raid.

William Patterson was also called, but was able to prove that he was merely a customer of the store.

Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon said that it would be a waste to convict Siskind, although the case against him was black. He dismissed the case. A. M. Judd appeared for the defence.

THOUSANDS CHEER AS PRINCE ARRIVES IN BRITAIN'S CAPITAL

Heir to Throne Completes Australian Tour.

London, Oct. 11.—The Prince of Wales, who reached Spithead yesterday on the battle cruiser Renown, made a triumphant entry into London today, on his return from his six-months' tour of the Empire. Hundreds of thousands of persons turned out to give the prince one of the greatest welcomes of the kind in the history of the country.

From Victoria Station, where he was met by the royal family, Premier Lloyd George and other dignitaries, all along the route to Buckingham Palace, the streets were lined with vast, cheering multitudes eager to catch a glimpse of the prince.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

Special Sermons Were Preached at Church of St. John the Evangelist.

On Sunday, both morning and evening, harvest thanksgiving services were repeated in the Church of St. John the Evangelist. Large congregations attended, and the rector, Rev. A. L. G. Clarke, at the morning service, spoke of the great need of missionary work in the foreign and home fields.

The choir rendered special music in a creditable manner. St. John's now has one of the largest boys' choirs in the city, and under the leadership of Sidney G. Martin, they are becoming a great factor in the musical service. Their rendition of the solo portions in the anthem, "While the Earth Remaineth" (Maunder), was splendid, the quality of tone being especially fine.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, arches of wheat and oats in the centre aisle proving very effective.

The Sunday school orchestra accompanied the hymns, and altogether it was one of the most successful services yet held in the church.

CHILDREN'S HOSTEL IS BADLY NEEDED HERE

Soldiers' Aid Commission Will Likely Establish One Shortly.

The Soldiers' Aid Commission is taking active steps towards the establishing of a children's hostel in the city. So great is the need for such a home that it is possible the commission will go ahead and establish one in the near future without waiting for Government aid. Two such homes already exist in Toronto supported by the Ontario Government, and a third home is being opened there in a few days. As things stand at the present time soldiers' children from London and district round about, needing a home, must be sent to Toronto with the chances that the homes there are filled, as they almost invariably are.

The Soldiers' Aid Commission here maintains that Western Ontario children should be kept in Western Ontario where they may occasionally see friends. It is also a great advantage to have the home near at hand for cases that need immediate attention. For example, a baby had to be given a home late Saturday night and there was no time to send it to Toronto.

Mrs. A. T. Edwards, vice-president of the local commission, is now investigating along these lines, so as to have data on hand when it comes to an actual question of establishing the hostel. There is absolutely no place in the city where infants can be taken care of except in the Salvation Home, which is constantly full, as well as other homes for children in London. It is felt that the hostel for soldiers' children should be not merely an institution, but a real home, where the children would be disciplined by love.

Ed. Lance of the Soldiers' Aid Commission reports that their welfare department is called on almost daily to care temporarily for children of ex-soldiers, the mother, for example, is seriously ill in hospital, leaving no one to care for her children. A hostel where these children might be put would surely be an advantage, thinks the commission.

HEAVY STORM, BUT NO DAMAGE DONE

Sharp Lightning and Thunder Featured Downpour at Noon.

For a few minutes this afternoon London was the centre of one of the heaviest electrical storms of the season. The lightning was particularly sharp, and was accompanied by terrific crashes of thunder. Heavy rain fell.

Outside of some damage to telephones no serious loss was reported.

Shell shocked during her services overseas in the Women's Royal Ambulance Corps with the Imperial forces, Mrs. R. O. Cromwell of Talbot street, was overcome and collapsed unconscious on the pavement at one of the very severe lightning flashes about ten minutes after noon today as she was crossing Dundas street, just west of Richmond street. She was carried into the store of Graham & Co., and recovered after a few minutes, but appeared quite unconscious when she was lifted off the street.

BOYS MAY FACE SERIOUS CHARGE

County Constables Working on Case Near Manor Park.

County constables were sent out this morning to investigate the case of a small boy maltreated by an older group of boys in the woods near Manor Park Sunday afternoon. A number of small boys were playing in the woods, when it is allaged, they were attacked by a group of larger boys, and one of the smaller boys, named Husband, was assaulted and severely injured, his clothes being almost completely torn off. High Constable Watterworth has sent out several officers with instructions to arrest the culprits.

LOCAL NEWS

GOES TO KITCHENER.—Miss Mabel A. Nichol of Wilton Grove has been engaged for the Victoria school, Kitchener, at a salary of $1,175 per annum.

GONE TO EDMONTON.—Capt. J. H. Warburton, who was acting assistant to Donald E. Campbell, manager of the London office of the Board of Pension Commissioners, has gone to Edmonton, where he will enter the real estate and insurance business. Mr. Warburton will be succeeded by F. W. Burgess.

PUPILS' RECITAL.—The regular Saturday afternoon recital of the London Conservatory was given by the following pupils: Misses Margaret Steven, Lillian Edmondson, Annie Wilmer, Thelma Roberts, Sybil Hill, Annette Linton, Wilhelmine Lind, Delia Peckham, Minnie Gardiner, Margaret Cook, Pearl George and Gladys Roedding, the pupils of Misses Munroe and Burns, Mr. Sydney Martin and Mr. Thomas Martin.

SELECTING JURORS.—Selection of jurors for the spring assizes was commenced today by Mayor Little, City Clerk Baker, Assessment Commissioner Stephen Grant and Assessors Martin Sullivan and Harry Bennett. They are required to select 241 citizens from the four wards of London to serve in the capacity of grand jurors of the high court division; grand jurors of the high ferior courts; petit jurors of the high court division and petit jurors of the inferior courts.

TOURING DISTRICT.—Major and Mrs. Crichton of the local command of the Salvation Army conducted services in Woodstock over the week-end. During their absence, Staff Captain and Mrs. Ritchie, also of London, had charge of London No. 1 Corps. Adjutant Richards, also of the local command, conducted special services in Seaforth. Major Crichton began his tour of welcome in the district this afternoon, when he went to Ridgetown. From there he will go to Dresden, Wallaceburg, Chatham, Windsor, Walkerville, Essex, Sarnia and Forest. He is expected to return next Saturday morning.

REPLANKING BRIDGE.—Replanking of the Ridout street bridge was commenced today. The structure will be closed to vehicular traffic for several days while the work is in progress. It is believed that repairs of this nature will lessen the vibration somewhat. City Engineer Brazier, however, is firm in his opinion that the bridge still will be unsafe for traffic of more than four tons after the repairs have been finished. Building a new bridge was voted down at the last municipal election. The bridge will remain open to street cars and pedestrians.

PARADE OF HOLY NAME SOCIETY MEMBERS

ADMITS HE PASSED WORTHLESS CHECK

Norman Belcher May Be Cared For in Westminster Hospital.

After Norman Belcher, a local youth who was arrested last week on a charge of obtaining $25 under false pretences from Herbert Mills, had heard the evidence against him, in police court today, acting on the advice of his counsel, he changed his plea to guilty. Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop told Magistrate Graydon that Belcher was addicted to the use of drugs, and therefore should be put in a place of safekeeping, where he could be treated.

The prisoner may be sent to Westminster Hospital, although judgment was reserved for one week, pending a return of the money to Mills. A. M. Judd, who appeared for the defence, stated that the authorities at Westminster Hospital had signified their willingness to accept Belcher, who is a returned soldier, as a patient, providing the jail physician would pass upon his condition. Secretary Ed. Lance of the soldiers' aid assured the magistrate that the accused would be given treatment and would be kept confined to the institution.

Belcher pleaded guilty to passing a worthless check on Norman Mills, the manager of a local poolroom on August 20 last. According to the evidence given by Mills, Belcher asked him first to cash a check on the Market Branch of the Bank of Montreal for $15. He assured Mills that the money would be deposited in the bank, as a pension check for $42 was expected. Later in the day the check was raised to $25 at the request of Belcher, and $10 more given him.

Mills claimed that next morning he discovered there was no funds at the bank to the credit of Belcher. Several times since he found the same thing to be true. Secretary E. Lance had assured him that there was a check expected for Belcher before the loan was made.

On the stand, Mr. Lance claimed there was a check received from the Government for Belcher, but that it had been applied in full on a debt which Belcher owed to the soldiers' aid.

James D. Mills, accountant at the branch of the Bank of Montreal stated that no account had ever existed in the bank under the name of Norman Belcher for the past few years.

The prisoner's father expressed the desire that Belcher be sent to an institution where he would be treated.

HEAVY RAINS FLOOD LARGE AREAS IN ALL PARTS OF FRANCE

Damage to Vineyards in Many Sections of the Country.

Paris, Oct. 11.—Torrential rains in virtually all parts of France have sent rivers out of their banks and have resulted in heavy property damage. The Garonne and Tarn Rivers have overflowed, and reports state that many domestic animals and other property have been destroyed. In several localities in the Department of Sevennes the people have been obliged to leave their homes. Vineyards have been submerged in the Department of Herault, and the city of Hyere, in the Department of Var, has been cut off from neighboring places. Lower sections of Toulon are reported to be inundated.

Along the Mediterranean coast the storm is still raging, and several rivers in the neighborhood of Marseilles have overflowed. Railroad and highway communication around Nice have been interrupted.

WILL NOT LOSE SIGHT.
[Special to The Advertiser.]

Lucan, Oct. 11.—Alden Stanley, the local high school ball player who was struck in the eye by a baseball but in the high school field day at Parkhill is much improved. He was standing about fifteen feet from Earl Powell, who was batting. Mr. Powell swung at the ball, and the bat flew out of his hand, striking Stanley in the right eye. Six stitches were required to close the wound. It was thought for a time that the sight would be affected, but examination by the doctors shows that it will not.

RUSH WHEAT TO MARKET.

St. Marys, Oct. 10.—Owing to the reported declines in the price of wheat, local farmers are rushing their grain to market for fear of a further decline. Although the local potato growers have suffered some loss from rot, the crop will still be large enough to bring down the price, so that cheap potatoes will be available this season.

Thomas W. F. Tamblyn, aged 5, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tamblyn, who died at Woodstock on Thursday, was interred in St. Marys Cemetery on Friday.

EXPECT FIREWORKS AT VETS' MEETING

Some Members Are Incensed Over Action of F. B. Lavendar.

Fireworks is expected at the meeting of the Army and Navy Veterans, to be held tomorrow night. Several members of the organization are incensed because F. B. Lavendar, who is their representative on the Central Veterans' Council and on the Provincial Command, has accepted a position as secretary of the Grand Army of United Veterans. It is likely that they will suggest that Mr. Lavendar resign his positions in connection with the Army and Navy Veterans. On the other hand, Mr. Lavendar, who sees nothing wrong in the course he has pursued, likely will ask for a vote of confidence.

He is a member of three organizations, the Great War Veterans, the Grand Army of United Veterans and the Army and Navy Veterans. Mr. George Tustin was secretary of the G. A. U. V. until a short time ago. He moved outside the city and resigned his position, as it required too much of his time, but was appointed vice-president instead. Mr. Lavendar was elected to the secretaryship by unanimous vote. He sees no reason why he cannot fill this position and represent the Army and Navy Veterans as well.

FEWER POSITIONS IN ONTARIO AVAILABLE

Employment Service Reports Decline in Vacancies.

Toronto, Oct. 11.—Reports from the Ontario offices of the employment service of Canada show a slight decrease in placements, positions being found for 2,438 men and 170 women, while during the preceding week 2,455 men and 181 women were placed. During the same period other provinces shipped into Ontario 150 men.

The past two months show a decline in vacancies to the extent of 500 jobs, while during the same period the applications were increased by 339.

The greater demand at the present time is for laborers, lumbermen, agricultural workers and manufacturers of metals. The supply of laborers was 222 in excess of the demand for lumbermen, however, the demand exceeded the supply by 88. The excess of agricultural jobs was 20 in excess of the supply, while the building trade workers fell below the demand to the extent of 40. In the metal trades the difference was more marked; here there were 192 more jobs than applications.

Charges of Invasion and Piracy Threatened Against License Officers

Proprietor of Vendome Hotel, Sandwich, and Owner of Palatial Yacht Alleged To Have Appealed To Attorney-General For Protection From Raids Made in Search For Illegal Whisky Supplies.

WINDSOR, Oct. 10.—Charging that the special liquor sleuths appointed by the Ontario License Commission to assist in cleaning the border of rumrunners had "violated his sacred rights of personal liberty, disturbing the peace of his home without cause or reason, and had persecuted him by almost nightly visits at 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning," A. C. Berryman, proprietor of the Vendome Hotel, Sandwich, late on Saturday forwarded an appeal for protection, through his solicitor, A. B. Drake, to the attorney-general at Toronto.

Invaded Hotel.

The complain is based on dispositions made by Berryman and his daughter, who charge Hallam brothers, special inspectors with invading their hotel almost nightly for two or three weeks past, often breaking in after the doors have been locked for the night and searching the premises without a warrant.

On several occasions, the complaint states, guests were taken from their beds, and one night four were taken from the hotel for no reason whatever, and no charges were later preferred against them, nor were they locked up. No liquor was found during any of the visits, nor were any intoxicated persons arrested. In that the hostelry is operated under a standard hotel license, protection is sought from a repetition of these raids.

Piracy Alleged.

That technical charges of piracy on the high seas are pending as the result of a raid on the yacht of one of Windsor's best known citizens recently while the owner, with his family, was fishing in Lake Erie, is reported here.

The penalty on conviction in a case of this nature is hanging. The raid was made, it is stated, by a party of liquor sleuths, led by Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin of Sandwich, appointed some weeks ago as special officer under the Ontario License Commission.

The owner of the yacht is alleged to have sent an appeal to the attorney-general, in which he states that a body of armed men boarded his yacht, with revolvers drawn, and without showing any authority, searched the vessel. When no whiskey was found they departed. Unless action is taken by Toronto, it is intimated that legal redress will probably be sought in the local courts.

A high-powered automobile for the use of Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin and his associates in chasing rum-runners arrived on the border today from Toronto. The officers have complained recently of lack of proper facilities to cope with "liquor marchants."

SPEEDERS WILL BE ARRESTED

County Police in Receipt of Many Complaints From People Imperiled.

More prosecutions will follow occurrences of reckless driving and speeding on the country roads, High Constable Ben Watterworth announced today.

"There has been a great deal of talk about the county constabulary in connection with the number of prosecutions for speeding throughout the county," said Mr. Watterworth. "During the past summer I received a number of letters asking that constables be stationed on certain roads. I am in receipt of a letter this morning from a resident of Broughdale, asking that something be done to protect the people from the furious driving on Richmond street north, between Huron street and the bridge.

"While these conditions continue I intend that the county officers shall prosecute all parties guilty of violations of the motor vehicle act.

"Personally I have taken considerable abuse from parties who have had to pay fines. This of course, I pay no attention to. I receive no remuneration whatever from the fines imposed, and the county officers only get their fees."

Mr. Watterworth instanced a recent complaint from a Broughdale resident that two high-powered cars had been observed racing on Richmond street between Huron street and Brough's bridge, occasioning imminetn danger to other people using the road, as well as to themselves. It was further intimated that it would be well for motorists to drive slow and carefully on Richmond street through Broughdale hereafter.

Police Probing Mystery Shooting

Bullets Whizz Past Wingham Motorist and Companion.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Wingham, Oct. 11.—While towing his car to a garage after it had broken down about nine miles from here on Saturday night, Mr. Dobbie and Gordon Rintoul were fired upon by some unknown parties. One bullet narrowly missed Mr. Rintoul, while the other shattered the windshield of the car. Immediately after the shots were fired a car passed at high speed. Neither of the men were able to obtain its license number. The police were notified and are investigating the shooting.

Real Whiskey Ousts "Hootch" in New York, Now Wide Open; Bogus Dry Sleuths Get Rich

New York, Oct. 9.—Intoxicating liquor flows freely in New York in defiance of the federal prohibition amendment and the Volstead enforcement act, and it is possible to get a drink anywhere in Manhattan if you have the price, says a competent authority.

Drunkenness is more prevalent than it was at the same time last year, according to police officials. The two city hospitals caring for inebriates not only have had to reopen their alcoholic wards, but are treating more patients than for the same period a year ago.

The city magistrates' courts have arraigned more alcoholic cases recently than for a corresponding period in 1919, and the drunks have been more disorderly.

"Squirrel hootch" has been displaced by "straight goods."

Smuggling on an enormous scale from Canada is said to be responsible for the wide open town.

It is charged by law enforcement advocates flagrant violation of law is tolerated, if not encouraged, by politicians to get votes.

The federal enforcement agent for New York says he is doing the best he can, but his job is thankless—and hopeless.

Bogus revenue agents, apparently working in concert and under some central organization, are collecting a huge aggregate of tribute from victims, recent developments have shown.

In fine, prohibition for the time being is a dead letter in New York City. This is a verdict based on official figures and the statements of responsible men in position to observe conditions.

KEEN INTEREST IN SAFETY WEEK

Hearty Co-operation All Over City in Work To Prevent Accidents.

"Safety Week" was safely launched in London today to the accompaniment of a brilliant lightning display and peals of thunder. No exceptional events marked the first efforts of the Safety League, but much valuable propaganda was distributed.

Perhaps the most noticeable feature of the campaign was the series of signs painted on the pavements at intervals, and the safety zones marked out across Dundas and Richmond streets. The signs were placed on the streets with the object of ending the pernicious habit of "jay-walking." At points where the careless pedestrian is apt to step from the curb and dash across the thoroughfare in front of automobiles and street cars, a large legend on the pavement confronts him. "U-J-Walker," and "O-U-Jay" are the most common.

This it is expected will discourage the practice of crossing at other than intersections, but the novelty brought several people into danger today. They halted in the middle of the street to read the signs, and were almost struck by automobiles.

Public school teachers gave talks on accidents and fire prevention to their classes today. Theatres showed slides drawing attention to the campaign, and various other means were used to bring the campaign before the public.

Five hundred pupils of Lord Roberts School participated in a fire drill at the school this morning. The children were out of the school within one minute after the alarm was sounded. The school has four doors that are used as exits. These offer every facility to get the children out on record time. The drill was staged in connection with the accident and fire prevention week now in progress.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF MRS. STINSON.

The death of Mrs. Ellen Stinson, wife of McLean Stinson, took place at the family residence, 5 Dean street, on uSnday. Besides her husband she survived by two daughters, Mrs. William Greene, of Canton, Ohio, and Mrs. Reuben Aldus of this city; one son, Clifford, and two sisters, Mrs. Hunter McRae of Ilderton and Mrs. Edna Lawson of Bruce street, this city. The funeral will be held from her late residence on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Services will be conducted at 3 o'clock by Rev. J. T. C. Morris of Askin Street Methodist Church. Interment will be made at Woodland Cemetery.

LAWRENCE HOPWOOD DIES.

Lawrence Steven Hopwood died on Saturday at Byron Sanatorium. He was 24 years of age and served overseas for some time. Prior to his enlistment he had been employed as accountant at the Bank of Toronto, and also for a short time since his return. He later was engaged in the vocational department at Byron Sanatorium. He is survived by his wife, who resides in this city, and his mother in England. The funeral, which will be of a military nature, has not yet been arranged.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

New York, Oct. 11—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Despite the improved exhibit of clearing house banks at the close of business last Saturday, stocks were again under pressure at the opening of today's session. Rails, oils, coppers and various specialties, including food shares, were especially heavy. Texas and Pacific made a further decline of 1½ points, and Reading, Union Pacific, Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio and New Haven forfeited large fractions. Cuba Cane Sugar dropped almost 2 points; Royal Dutch 1¾, and most of the steels and equipments reacted. Atlantic-Gulf and Harvester were the only issues to rally appreciably over last week's final quotations.

1:30 p.m.—Lighter money favored the shorts at midday, call loans rising to 8 per cent. Selling for both accounts contributed to the further heaviness. Obscure specialties were weak; Coca Cola fell almost 5 points, and pressure against leather and paper shares was more severe.

STANDARD STOCK EXCHANGE.

Toronto, Oct. 11.—Dullness characterized the first session for the week of the mining exchange. Activity was fairly well scattered, but sales were small and infrequent. Porcupine Crown was somewhat in demand from 23@ 23½.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 11.—Morning sales: Dome Extension, 500 at 39½; Dome Lake, 1000 at 4¾; Gold Reef, 3000 at 3¾; Keora, 1000 at 16½; Kirkland Lake, 500 at 46½; Monita, 5000 at 10; McIntyre, 150 at 203, 100 at 204; Porcupine Crown, 2000 at 23, 5000 at 23½ cash; Teck-Hughes, 2000 at 8; V. N. T., 500 at 26; West Tree, 300 at 5; Beaver, 200 at 35½, 500 at 39; Crown Reserve, 500 at 27¾; Foster, 500 at 2½; Hargraves, 5000 at 1⅞; McKinley, 200 at 50, 1000 at 54; Mining Corporation, 300 at 160; Trethewey, 500 at 24¾, 800 at 25. Noon sales, 29,650 shares.

Court Will Not Accept Excuses

Motorists Must Have Lights Burning or Pay a Fine.

Magistrate Graydon announced in the police court today that he will not accept pleas of run-down batteries, engine troubles, short circuts or any other accidents as excuses for cars being driven without proper lights. He said that too many people are making these excuses, and the practice must be stopped, because it is a serious matter, and extremely dangerous to drive cars without these lights.

As a result of this decision, J. E. Mack was assessed $2 and costs for driving a car without three lights on the night of October 4. He said engine trouble had caused his lights to go out. W. C. Hurd, G. Ingram, and A. Wheable were also fined $2 and costs for the breach of the motor vehicles act, while Frank Mitchell, L. Murphy, L. Lotteroff, J. B. Tanton, Jacob Harris, and W. A. Hodges paid $5 and costs into the coffers of the court for breaches of the same act.

Harry Gillhook and two other youths charged with creating a noise and disturbance at Ann and St. Georges streets were allowed to go with a warning.

Sid Jackson, Marvin Gilles, and Frank Schielding were fined $2 and costs for breach of bylaws.

Social Survey To Start Shortly

On Friday, October 15, a joint meeting of all the committees appointed to work on the social survey of the city of London will meet in the Y. M. C. A., when the commencement of the survey will be definitely announced and all committees fully organized.

The Chamber of Commerce will assist the Social Service Council in every possible way in making the survey. Professor Robinson of Toronto and Dr. W. H. Hill will direct the survey. It is expected that it will take until Christmas to complete it and then reports will be made to the public.

EXAGGERATED ESTIMATES OF BANKING CONDITIONS BLAMED FOR CRISIS

Havana, Cuba, Oct. 11.—Blame for the Cuban financial crisis was placed on "exaggerated estimates" of banking conditions in the decree issued last night proclaiming a moratorium. Under the decree the government reserves the right to declare off the moratorium, which will expire legally on December 1, or to extend the period, if deemed advisable.

Present conditions in Cuba are said by the decree to be "due, in large part, to the mass of business transacted during a state of prosperity, the tightness of foreign markets, and the fall in price of sugar."

During the moratorium period depositors may demand only 10 per cent on current accounts, and 12 per cent of savings deposits of less than $2,000.

Officials of the National Bank of Cuba, government depository bank, which met all demands of depositors during the run yesterday, today reiterated their statements that that institution is perfectly solvent.

THANKSGIVING SUPPER. — On Thursday evening, the Men's Club of St. James' Anglican Church have undertaken to provide a harvest thanksgiving supper with the assistance of the ladies of the congregation. The supper is being held with the understanding that the men will provide all the meat and potatoes needed. Following the supper, which will be held from 6 o'clock until 8 o'clock, a varied program will be given in the schoolroom of the church.

O. T. A. BREACHES COST PAIR $400

Port Stanley Man and Friend Had Bottles of Whiskey.

Found guilty of having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling contrary to section 55 of the O. T. A., Peter McAuley of this city and William Bossinger, a fishermen from Port Stanley were fined $200 and costs each or three months in jail in police court today. The two were apprehended while in possession of a bottle on the platform of the L. and P. S. R. station.

Bossinger pleaded guilty, but McAuley claimed that the bottle he had was owned by Bossinger. P. C. Leo Chamberlain stated that he found a bottle on Bossinger, and he saw McAuley throwing away a bottle which was half full. McAuley denied throwing the bottle, so Bossinger was called to testify.

He admitted bringing two bottles from Port Stanley early in the day. When he went to the car at night, he said, he gave one to McAuley. It was his intention to leave it with his friend. On the strength of his evidence, McAuley was found guilty.

Three drunks were fined $10 and costs each.

CHEMICAL RESEARCH SUBJECT OF LECTURE AT ROTARY LUNCHEON

Thomas Faust Gives Instructive Talk On "Industrial Chemistry."

An interesting address on "Industrial Chemistry" by Rotarian Thomas Faust of the Yocum-Faust Company, was the feature of the Rotary Club luncheon at the Tecumseh House at noon today. The address was illustrated with some chemical experiments and dealth largely with the preparation of chemicals for tanning leather, sulphurated oils and emulsions for use in combing and carding wool, preparing raw silk for market and other industrial processes. A research laboratory is conducted in connectica with the industrial manufacturing branch of Mr. Faust's company, and for research work very expensive equipment is required. Failure of many firms in the industrial chemistry line, Mr. Faust attributed to spending too much money in research work, out of all reasonable proportion to the revenue proposed by the manufacturing end of their business. For chemical experiments platinum vessels are required, as few if any metals react on this metal. A platinum dish, the size of a very small pin cushion was exhibited by Mr. Faust. It was worth $125.

Charles Jones won the prize, some valuable lingerie, donated by President James Gray, to be drawn for by the club members. Each week hereafter, one member will donate a prize to be won by one of the other members.

T. D. McCullough, secretary of the Social Service Council, asked for five volunteers to appear as "big brothers" in police court and offer to assume responsibility for the five boys arrested, and now awaiting trial for stealing bicycles. As they are first offenders, it is hoped to save them from being sentenced to the industrial school.

A 100 per cent attendance meeting is planned to welcome President Gray back from England. W. R. Yendall presided today.

Daughter Killed, Mother Dying

Auto Accident At Windsor May Result in Two Fatalities.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Windsor, Oct. 11.—Gertrude Collins, aged 7, daughter of Alfred Collins of this city, is dead, and her mother so badly hurt that no hopes are held for her recovery, as a result of their auto upsetting near Cottam last night. Mrs. Collins had her jaw broken and sustained serious internal hurts. The accident occurred when the driver turned out to pass a wagon.

THE DREAD PYORRHEA BEGINS WITH BLEEDING GUMS

Pyorrhea's infecting germs cause many ills. Medical science has proven this.

Diseased conditions, which not long ago doctors were unable to trace to a cause, are now known often to be the result of Pyorrhea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth. Rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders and other diseases have been traced in many cases to this Pyorrhea infection.

Don't let Pyorrhea work its wicked will on your body. Visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection.

And watch your gums yourself. Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, begins with tender and bleeding gums; then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of poisons generated at their base.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

REAL CABARET LIFE IN "EXPERIENCE" AT THE GRAND TONIGHT.

Cabaret life as seen in the larger cities, is vividly shown in the Golden Cabaret act on the primrose path of pleasure in "Experience," which F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest will present at the Grand tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Among the characters are Fashion, Beauty, Excitement, Song, Slander, Deceit and Frivolity, and with them are their escorts, typical men who frequent the cabaret, especially where dancing is indulged in. They are Sport, Style, Snob, Conceit, Blue Blood, Travel and Drivel. To look at those gay and festive diners, one would think they were simply intent on eating and chatting. But the moment the orchestra strikes up a one-step, all is changed. Knives and forks are hurriedly dropped and the ladies and their escorts get up and dance. For this is the realm of enjoyment, where Pleasure is ever reigning queen and in this scene the famous battle of the bottle and the bird is fought. Drivel describes it best by saying: "Here is where the wine is always perfect and the birds just melt in your mouth," while ever restless Excitement says "Here is where we have an ever-glorious time."

The music in the Golden Cabaret in "Experience" is typical of the sort one finds in such places, and Sport, one of the characters in the play, replying to a question by Song: "What shall I sing — something classical?" says, "Classical nothing. Sing something we can move our feet to. When you are out on the Primrose Path of Pleasure you don't want any music that gives you time to think. You know that classical stuff is all right on the piano, because you can get up and leave the room, but for me, something with pep in it—something with a little ginger behind it. My brain is all wrapped up in dancing and I don't want to take the cover off."

"ON THE HIRING LINE," BIG NEW YORK SUCCESS, AT THE GRAND FOR THREE DAYS, COMMENCING THURSDAY EVENING NEXT.

Perhaps the best view of how good is "On the Hiring Line," which appears here at the Grand Opera House, Thursday next, for three days, can be obtained from the criticism appearing in the New York Evening Journal on Oct. 23, 1919, as follows:

"On the Hiring Line," by Harvey J. O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, at the Criterion Theatre, is a comedy based upon the much mooted "servant problem."

As is usual with a Tyler production, the settings and stage direction are all that could be desired. The play turns upon the predicament of the Fessenden household in New Jersey. Beautiful as is the country home, it is yet hardly livable because of the absence of servants. To make matters worse, Mr. Fessenden has married a young actress, who is not pleased by country life, and who uses the dearth of help as an argument in behalf of going back to town or to a livelier summer resort. But her husband is determined to solve the problem, and to remain at his country home. He telephones to a detective agency and engages the services of two sleuths, who are able to officiate as cook and butler respectively. He gives as a reason for hiring the detectives that mysterious letters are being written to members of his household.

The detectives arrive. They are Ritchie, a professional operative, and his wife, who has embarked upon the enterprise for the sake of adventure, never having indulged in the art of Sherlock Holmes before. And then the complications develop. Suspicion falls upon Steve Mack, chauffeur to Mrs. Capron, a presentable youth, who is paying ardent court to Dorothy Fessenden, the pretty daughter of the house. Miss Fessenden realizes that Mack is not what he seems, and he will not disclose his real identity, saying she must love him for himself alone. The tangle is further involved by the arrival of Ronnie Oliver, a mediocre actor, acquaintance of Mrs. Fessenden, made in her stage days. Fessenden conceives a violent dislike for the Thespian, and likewise is jealous of the man. Mrs. Fessenden shows Oliver a letter, written to her before their marriage by her husband, and the actor copies it, intending to use it as a basis for a comic love epistle in a sketch he has in mind. He loses the copy, the detective finds it, and hands it to Fessenden, who thinks it has been written to his wife by the actor—forgetting that he himself ever indited such letters. The arrival of Billy Capron further complicates the plot, which is worked out with deft cleverness.

"DEVIL'S PASSKEY," PICTURE OF PARIS THE WONDERFUL, AT THE ALLEN TODAY.

Paris the wicked, Paris the wonderful, city of endless pleasure. You'll think you're there, when you see the sensational photoplay of Von Stroheim's "The Devil's Passkey," which is showing at the Allen today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

The glittering shops, the races at Longchamps, the whirl of society, the beautiful interiors of the Theatre Francais and the famous Rue De La Paix. They're all there, even to the notorious cabarets of the Quartier Latin, the Montemarte. And in the midst of it all a man and his wife, one day on the crest of popularity in the cosmopolitan society of the world's pleasure centre, the next in the midst of the greatest scandal that ever tickled the ears of a gossip. Suspense! You said it, for once you'll see a picture that your eyes can't leave until it's over. And when the last big scene comes you'll tremble for fear the husband will refuse to see what you see. Suspense? When you see "The Devil's Passkey" you'll realize at last what that word means.

Overture will be a selection from the new comic opera "Irene," and among the extra attractions will be the always interesting Allen News, Chester Outing Pictures, Bray Pictographs and that amusing Illiterate Digest of Will Rogers.

MARY PICKFORD, THE DARLING OF THE SCREEN, AT LOEW'S TODAY, IN HER NEW JOY-BRINGING PICTURE "SUDS."

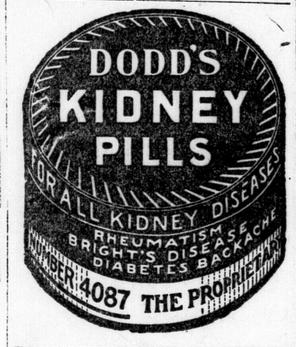

"Who is Mary's Sweetheart" could well be the title of her forthcoming United Artists' production "Suds," which is to be the attraction at Loew's Theatre for the next three days, as in this wonderful production Mary Pickford defies all conventions and appears as a homely little drudge in a French hand laundry in the east side of London.

Two men come into her life—one of them, Horace Greensmith, with whom she has fallen desperately in love, and the other, Benjamin Pillsbury Jones, driver of a dilapidated delivery wagon of the laundry. Mary weaves wonderful romances around Horace to the other girls in the laundry, but Ben, with his pathetically small bouquet of faded flowers, stands bashfully in the offing. Upon whom the prevaricating little genius shall bestow, as she says, "her jewelled hand," is a mystery to the audience until the very last flicker.

A screamingly funny Sunshine comic with the ever popular Loew pictorial of world events in pictures, and Loew's Supreme Vaudeville, make for one of the tidiest programs of the season at London's amusement centre for the next three days.

AT THE PATRICIA.

Carmel Myers returns to the screen in a wonderfully human picture, "In Folly's Trail," is another little "Human Document," to employ a rather bromidic description. And like the other pictures that have confined themselves to the realities of life, in which there is a world of drama, it is bound to highly satisfy all audiences. Its drama is never clashing, but always potent, coursing along beneath the surface and making itself felt at all times. Certainly Miss Myers could not have wished for a better picture in which to be re-introduced to her fans. The vaudeville bill presented with this feature will be Nellie Bennett & Co., in "Mit and Mat Manouevers," which brings the gymnasium to the stage. A Universal Western Drama, and a Century Comedy "The Profittering Blues," completes an excellent program.

TRAGIC END TO HUNTING PARTY ON SATURDAY

Victim Used Butt of Gun To Knock Down An Apple.

WEAPON DISCHARGED

Lloyd Schefter, 15, Killed Instantly—Charge Tore Hole in Chest.

GUELPH, Oct. 10.—Tragedy followed closely in the wake of a hunting party on Saturday afternoon, in the Southeastern outskirts of the city. Two young men, Lloyd Schefter, aged 15, and his chum, B. Lefneskie, 17, took advantage of the fine day to go shooting, and were working their way in from Victoria road to the Dundas road, when, at the rear of the McCarron farm, they espied an apple tree on which several apples were still hanging.

Schefter tried to get one about ten feet from the ground, and finding he could not reach it, took his rifle to knock it down. Unheedingly he held the weapon by the muzzle in endeavoring to dislodge the apple with the butt when either a twig caught the trigger, or the jar caused the rifle to discharge, the charge lodging in the centre of his breast, tearing a great hole therein and severing the vital organs. Schefter never spoke after the accident happened, and within two minutes he was dead.

His chum's cries for help were answered by several people who were nearby, and physicians were summoned but nothing could be done. Coroner Dr. MacKinnon was soon on hand, but it was quite clear that the tragedy was the result of an accident. The victime resided on Oliver street and is survived by his father and a number of brothers and sisters.

BEACHVILLE MAN INSTANTLY KILLED BY G. T. R. FLYER

Accident Believed To Have Happened On Saturday Night.

BODY BADLY MANGLED

Wm. McDonald, Aged 75, Unseen Victim of Crossing Tragedy.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 10.—William McDonald, 75 years of age, was killed by a Grand Trunk train at Beachville Saturday night. His body was discovered early in the forenoon about 60 feet west of the crossing. While no definite information is available as to how or when the fatality occurred. It is supposed he was struck at the crossing by the westbound flyer which passed through the village shortly after 7 o'clock.

The body was badly mangled, and death had apparently been instantaneous. McDonald was a blacksmith and had resided in the village for nearly 30 years. He was widely known in the neighboring districts. He is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters.

Coroner Williams of Ingersoll, who was called to the scene of the accident, ordered the removal of the body to McIntyre's undertaking parlors, and at 11 o'clock this morning an inquest was opened. After the jury, of which A. L. Law is foreman, had viewed the body the inquest was adjourned.

EYEGLASSES FOUND.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 10.—Later information received here as to the death of W. McDonald, who was found near the Beachville crossing of the G. T. R. this morning, confirm the report that he was killed by the westbound flyer which passed that point about 7 p.m. Saturday night. It is stated that on arrival of the train at Sarnia a pair of eyeglasses were found on the running board, part of which had been broken off.

The train No. 5 was drawn by engine No. 1511 and was in charge of Conductor McNamara and Engineer McLaughlin. The train crew stated, it is said, that they saw nothing of the man and did not know that they had struck anything till the glasses were found on the engine.

The crossing is protected by an electric bell, and it is reported that following the discovery of the accident an order was issued restricting the speed of all trains passing this point to ten miles an hour.

NO FOUNDATION FOR REPORTED ADEQUATE SUPPLY OF GAS

President of Windsor Gas Company Declares—Claims Windsor Is Discriminated Against.

WINDSOR, Oct. 10.—Declaring that Mayor Winters has absolutely no foundation for his repeated assurances to the people that there will be an adequate supply of gas for heating this winter, President T. P. Pinckard of the Windsor Gas Company, in a statement today, declared that all indications point the opposite way, and based his claim on the recent statement of Gas Commissioner Estlin of Chatham, who, after a thorough investigation has reported gas would be scarce this winter. President Pinckard said it was his opinion that large quantities of gas are now being used by industrial plants of Chatham, and that in this regard Windsor is being discriminated against by the Government.

Horse Electrocuted.

An investigation of the loss of a horse owned by the city when it came into contact with an exposed high voltage electric current wire, is to be conducted here. Residents of Park street school district, where the horse was killed, declared that children were playing in the immediate vicinity of the wire only a short time previous.

Windsor is to have a juvenile court, if recommendation of the finance committee is accepted at Monday night's council meeting. This project, long in abeyance, has finally been approved by the committee appointed to inquire into the matter, and little further delay in establishing it is anticipated.

An Elaborate School.

A battle is expected in Windsor City Council on Monday night, when a recommendation from the finance committee is submitted advising that debentures be issued at the amount of $508,000 to cover the cost of the erection of the new school proposed by the board of education at Ellis and Victoria avenues. The recommendation provides for the issuing of debentures without a vote of the electors, while Mayor Winter will fight this plan, advising that such an expenditure should first have the approval of the ratepayers expressed in a vote. If carried the new school will add five mills to the tax rate. Several of the local labor aldermen are strongly opposed to the elaborate plans of the education board for swimming pools, gymnasiums and other facilities of this nature contemplated.

FIRE CAUSES DAMAGE TOTALLING $2,500,000

LONDON, Oct. 9.—A fire on Wednesday which burned three theatres, 100 shops and several large khans at Basra, Asiatic Turkey, is reported in a dispatch from Basra to the London Times. Damage estimated at £500,000 was done, and foodstuffs valued at £150,000 was destroyed.

CANADA'S FIELD CROPS LARGER THAN IN 1919

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9.—The total field crops of Canada will this year reach nearly 1,250,000,000 bushels, while the products of hay and corn will exceed 25,000,000 tons, as compared with over 1,000,000,000 bushels of grain and 20,000,000 tons of hay and corn in 1919, according to official figures compiled by J. Bruce Walker, director of publicity for the department of immigration and colonization. It is estimated that the price of 1920 wheat will average $2 per bushel, said Mr. Walker. The field crops of Canada represent about $170 per head of the population, as compared with $110 per head in the United States.

BODY OF WOMAN IS MUTILATED BY TRAIN

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—The mutilated body of an unknown young woman was found on the Grand Trunk tracks in the eastern section of the city at 2:30 this morning by William Hitch, engineer of the Grand Trunk East Toronto pumping station.

The girl met a tragic end. Her body was cut in two above the waist. One part was found 100 yards from the scene of the accident, while her head was found farther along the track. There was nothing on the clothing to identify the girl, who appeared to be between twenty and twenty-five years of age.

KING OF GREECE IS BITTEN BY MONKEY

ATHENS, Oct. 9.—King Alexander, who has been suffering for several days from a bite inflicted by a monkey, when he went to the rescue of his pet dog, which was being worsted in a battle with the monkey, passed a bad night last night. He had two attacks of fever, it is stated, and intestinal complications and jaundice are declared to have set in.

GROWERS PLAN WHEAT CORNER TO BOOST PRICE

Association Asks 70,000 United States Farmers To Stop Selling.

WANT THREE DOLLARS

October 25 Is Date Set For Trading To Cease, Says Bulletin.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 9.—The Wheat Growers' Association of the United States, with a membership of 70,000 in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Nebraska and South Dakota, has issued from its office here a proclamation to all its members, urging them to refrain from selling any wheat after 8 p.m. October 25 until such time as the price of good wheat is raised to $3.00 a bushel at growers' terminal.

Agricultural colleges, farm bureaus, state boards of agriculture and similar organizations are urged to co-operate with the association in its effort to raise the price of wheat.

The proclamation is signed by W. F. McMichael, national president, and W. H. McGreevy, national secretary. The latter said today that he expects the members of the organization to refrain from selling their wheat until the price of $3 is re-established.

LENINE PLANS TO STRIKE AT CIVILIZATION THROUGH SOCIALIST PARTY OF GERMAN REPUBLIC

If Germans Go Over To the Third Internationale, Liberty and Democracy Will Face Terrible Menace.

[By Mrs. George Hambleton, M.A.]

Germany is the natural gateway through which Russian communism would pass to Western Europe. It is for this reason that the meeting next week of the Independent Socialists of Germany is fraught with such consequences to Western Europe and to America. The Independent Socialists—who have, at present, probably a larger following than any one party in Germany, and very largely control the policy of the workers—are to decide whether or not they will join the Third Internationale.

The Third Internationale.

The Third Internationale was organizen by Lenine, and the Russian dictators put an end to haphazard riots and revolutions among workers the world over, and, in their stead, to instigate a world-wide revolution of manual workers. Already the Third Internationale has had three conventions in Moscow. Many well-known leaders in the Socialist world were at the second, but few at the third. At the second meeting several members were present of the Italian Socialist party, who, later, were prominent in the seizure of metal-working shops. English, Scotch and French Socialists were present in meagre numbers. The majority of foreign Socialists were from Scandinavia, Germany and the Balkans. Many came, few were chosen. Some were touched with superstitions about liberty and democracy, so Lenine discovered. They failed to pass the test of pure communism. Lenine there and then enunciated the principles of the Third Internationale and ordered all Socialist and Labor organizations affiliated therewith to cast out of their ranks all moderates, liberals and unbelievers. They fell under the ban in large numbers—especially in France.

What Lenine Demands.

Since then Lenine has more fully detailed the conditions under which affiliation with the Third, the Red, Internationale will be permitted. They practically deny to individual members the rights of nationality. They place members under the autocratic authority of an international body. The Lenine ukase demands that:

(a) The Socialist party must unveil the falsity of social, pacific theories; demonstrate systematically to the workers that, without overthrowing capitalist systems by revolution, no arbitration, no disarmament policy, will avoid new imperialist wars.

(b) The Socialist party must obtain . . . the complete subordination of the parliamentary group.

(c) The party must change its name, and present itself as the Communist party.

(d) When the middle classes decree a state of siege against the workers and their chiefs, "comrades" must recognize the necessity of combining legal and illegal action.

(e) All adhering parties must consider, as directly obligatory, all decisions of the Communist (Third) Internationale.

Accompanying the conditions are detailed directions as to what methods Communists should use. So far as France, Italy and Great Britain were concerned, national pride is a pretty safe barrier against an international dictatorship, whatever guise it may assume.

What of Germany?

What is the case in Germany? Here, Lenine is counting on at least a partial triumph. These hopes are without foundation.

Germans are at present apparently interested even more with events in countries to their east and south than in countries to their west. Their newspapers follow at great length the doings of the various conferences growing out of the peace settlements. Beyond that, there is comparatively little space given to the affairs of western Europe or of America. But even the minor details of political intrigue in the Balkan states in Austria and Hungary are treated with detailed comment. The everyday events of Russia, which to us have been much of a mystery since the Russian revolution, are matters of common knowledge, even among German workmen. Policies pursued by Russian Poland, Finland and Lithuania are made more familiar to the Germen than are the provincial affairs of British Columbia to the inhabitant of New Brunswick. Hence, the Communistic theories of Soviet Russia have not the quality of strangeness, so far as the German workman is concerned.

And a large section of German workmen is still in a mood to welcome that violent action which Lenine's theories are designed to encourage. In Berlin, the German Communist party numbers about 140,000 members, according to an estimate by the Berliner Tageblatt. All members physically fit for military service belong to the fighting organization of the Communists, which is technically illegal. The Communist committee has divided the city into twenty-three sections, and groups organized in companies and battalions are placed in each section. The smallest unit is 100 men. At the moment of "action" to which Lenine refers, the groups are to try to secure adhesion of the indifferent workmen and of the proletariat as a whole. The Berliner Tageblatt asserts, moreover, that the Communist party has its own system of secret police, and has in its possession arms and ammunition. This organization has its counterpart in other parts of Germany, chiefly, it is interesting to observe, in the east.

Communist Militia.

In Koeningsberg, the leader of the East Prussian Communists, "Brother Dyck," as he is called, and his brother organized a small body of Communists into a military unit. The brother, Fritz Dyck, was in the fourth Red army of Russia and collected many Germans living in Russia, sympathizers with the Bolshevists, into a group which was to join with the Communists of Koenigsberg. But the Polish force brought the plans of Fritz Dyck to nought. In despair, Brother Dyck took his own life. But the Allgemeine Zeitung of Koenigsberg declares that the Communist militant group there is still undaunted.

Even where there is no active revolutionary organization the great extent of unemployment creates an atmosphere in which men turn to extremes and harbor violent thoughts. At the very beginning of September, unemployment was so extesive in Berlin that the mayor promised that 90,000,000 marks should be devoted during the fall and winter to giving work and relief to the unemployed. Yet almost daily during the past few weeks thousands have paraded the streets in protest against the lack of work. On one day recently the crowd of idle men, carrying red flags, was calculated to number 5,000.

In Dresden, the unemployed busied themselves in upsetting in the street barrels of herrings which had been sent to them for food. They explained that they were acting in protest against the objectionable character of the herring.

The sympathy of the German workers for Russia, even in large, highly organized and developed trades, was disclosed when the head of the Metal Workers' Union interviewed the German minister of labor, Dr. Brauns, on the question of sending locomotives to Russia. The head of the union asked why the locomotives had not been sent.

"International difficulties lie in the way," replied Dr. Brauns.

"It is a capitalist boycott against Russia," retorted the workers' representative. "Very well," he threatened, "we shall send them ourselves."

The Present Position.

The position at present with regard to the adhesion of German Socialists to the Moscow Internationale may be summed up as follows: Four prominent leaders of the Social Democratic party have taken a strong stand on the subject. Herr Dacumig and Herr Stoecker are in favor of German Socialists giving full adherence to the Third Internationale. Herr Crispien and Herr Dittmann oppose, with equal violence, any union with Russian Communists. All four have but recently returned from Russia, which they visited as leading members of a delegation sent by the German Social Democratic party. The trump card which opponents of adhesion, Dittmann and Crispien, are using is an interview they had with eighty German workmen sent into Russia by the German Emigration Association of Berlin. The eighty emigrants are working at the Kolomna factory. Sixty-nine of them had dinner with the delegates. Almost all wished to return to Germany. The Russian Government refused permission. "Here we must starve," said the workmen. "Bread is bad and unpalatable. It is full of chopped straw. What profits it a workman to make 11,000 to 12,000 roubles a month when a pound of butter alone costs 3,500 roubles?"

Four months, dating from September 1, have been given to Socialists throughout the world in which to join with the Moscow Reds. Already conflict over affiliation has been raging in Germany for five weeks. A split in the Independent Socialists is certain. There seems little likelihood that the party as a whole will join the Third Internationale, as a two-thirds majority is required. But it also is very probable that an influential section will do so. Socialists in Bremen, Halle and Cologne have already voted for affiliation with the Russians. Berlin and Hamburg Socialists will follow suit, if current prophecies are any indication. A general Communist conference has just been held in Vienna. Local elections in Belgrade recently went in favor of Communists.

The vote to be taken by the German Independent Socialists on their future policy will therefore be of especial significance.

CANNOT DESCRIBE TERROR IN LONDON

Air Raids Almost Completely Shattered Mrs. Hunt's Nerves, But Tanlac Restores Health.

"Tanlac has built me up from a nervous wreck to where I am a well woman, feeling finer than I have in years," recently said Mrs. Kathleen Hunt of 32 Dartnell avenue, Toronto, Ont.

"I was in London during the war, and as the result of the air-raids, my nerves were almost completely shattered. Night after night, I used to lie awake in fear of the Zeppelins and Hothas, and when they did come we all had to get down into the basement of the house, and the noise of the bombs dropping all around, and our guns trying to bring the enemy down, was most terrifying. I simply can't describe what we went through, and it is no wonder that the health of thousands of people gave way under the strain.

"I lost all desire for food and my digestion became so upset that I couldn't eat a thing without suffering distress afterwards. My blood became thin and I fell off in weight until I was a mere shadow of what I used to be. I constantly had headaches that almost drove me distracted and altogether I was in a sad plight.

"Well, that was the condition I was in when I came out to Toronto, and soon after I got here I was advised by a druggist to try Tanlac as the best possible medicine for troubles like mine. It was really surprising how it helped me. It wasn't long before I had a good appetite and could sleep better at night.

"I soon found that I could eat anything I wanted without suffering in the least from indigestion, and I improved right along. I haven't had a trouble of any kind now and, in fact, never felt better in my life. I shall always have a good word to say for Tanlac, for I think it is a perfectly splendid medicine.

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

BODY OF AN UNKNOWN WOMAN FOUND UNDER ST. THOMAS BRIDGE

Believed to Have Been Struck by L. and P. S. Train.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 10.—The body of an unidentified woman, about 40 years of age and weighing between 150 and 160 pounds, was found in a badly decomposed condition under the west end of the Talbot yards bridge of the Pere Marquette Railway this morning.

Dead for a Week.

The condition of the body is such that it is surmised that it had been there it was found about a week. The body is dressed in a dark blue dress, with a pink hat trimmed with pink ribbon, an expensive pair of shoes and black stockings. The complexion of the woman was apparently very sallow and gives the impression that she is a squaw, but an Indian who has been the body declares it is that of a white woman.

Not a Local Woman.

No report having been made to the local police of any woman being missing from her home in the city or locality, it is thought that she came from some outside point. This theory has been strengthened by the fact that none of the hundreds of people who viewed the body today at Williams' undertaking parlors were able to identify the remains.

Many Ugly Rumors.

A medical examination of the body showed that the back of the head is crushed and the right arm and left leg broken. On the opposite side of bridge from that on which the body was found is a railed pathway used by the employees of the railway to cross the bridge, and the fact that the body was found on the unprotected side of the bridge has led to many rumors hinting at foul play one report current alleging that the woman had been assaulted and then thrown over the bridge.

Police Theory.

The police theory is that the woman traveled to St. Thomas on an L. and P. S. R. car, and finding herself carried too far, got off while the car was in the yards and tried to find her way back uptown. It is surmised that she was trying to cross the bridge, not knowing of the protected pathway, and was struck by a train or a shunting engine. Neither handbag nor money was found on or near the body.

An inquest will be held tomorrow morning.

CLEAR STATEMENT OF LIBERAL TARIFF

CAMROSS, Alta., Oct. 9.—A clear and definite declaration of the tariff policy of the Liberal party in Canada, a policy the same as drafted by the national Liberal convention, and by which the Liberal party was prepared to stand or fall, was delivered to the electors of Camross, several hundred strong, in two large meetings last night by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, and other members of the party who addressed the gatherings.

MAGISTRATE AT AMHERSTBURG.

WINDSOR, Oct. 10. — After being without a permanent occupant for two years, the post of magistrate at Amherstburg has finally been filled by the appointment of W. A. McCormack, town clerk. Since the resignation of Magistrate Kevill, the duties of the office have been filled by Mayor Parke and his brother.

RE-EXPORTS DECREASE.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Trade return figures for September show increases in imports and exports, but decreases in re-exports.

The total imports for the month of September are given as £152,692,000, and the total exports as £117,456,000. The total re-exports are announced as £13,551,000.

DUKE OF YORK STAKES.

LIBERAL GOVERNMENT OF NEW BRUNSWICK AGAIN SUSTAINED

Liberals Sweep Whole Four Seats in St. John—Of 48 Ridings, Opposition Holds Only 13, Farmers 9 and Labor 2—Premier Announces Assurances of Support From Other Parties.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 10.—With some doubt still existing regarding one seat, the best figures available for the provincial general election held on Saturday give the Government 24 of the 48 seats, the Opposition 13, the United Farmers 9, and Labor 2.

The Government claims one additional seat from the Opposition in King's County. Even with this extra seat, the Government will find it necessary to depend on the support of some Farmer or Labor members in order to carry on, but in a speech Saturday night after the results had been made known Premier Foster announced that assurance of support he had received made him perfectly confident that he would be able to carry on. Two of his ministers, Hon. Robert Murray, Northumberland, provincial secretary, and Hon. J. F. Tweeddale, Victoria, minister of agriculture, were defeated, and his three colleagues in St. John City, where formerly he had held only one seat, was one of the interesting features of the contest.

The Results.

The candidates elected were as follows:

Madawaska—(By acclamation), Michaud and Daigle, Government.

St. John City—Premier Foster, Hon. W. F. Roberts, minister of health; W. E. Scully, R. T. Hayes, Government.

St. John County—J. B. M. Baxter, leader of the Opposition; Dr. L. M. Curren, Government.

Moncton City—Hon. C. W. Robinson, Government.

Westmoreland—Hon. Fred Magee, F. E. Bourgeois, F. L. Estabrooks, Reid, McManus, Government.

King's County—O. W. Wetmore, Government; H. V. Dickson, G. B. Jones, Opposition.

Queen's County—Hon. Dr. J. E. Hetherington G. H. King, Government.

Northumberland—F. Fowlie, J. W. Vanderbeck, Farmers; J. S. Martin and C. T. Morrissey, Labor.

Sunbury—D. W. Mersereau and R. B. Smith, Government.

Carleton—R. Tracey, Fred Smith, S. Burlock, Farmers.

York—J. A. Young, S. B. Hunter, J. K. Pinder and C. D. Richards, Opposition.

Kent—A. A. Dysart, P. P. Melanson and A. J. Bordage, Government.

Restigouche — David A. Stewart, Henry Dyottem, Opposition.

Gloucester—Hon. P. J. Veniot, Hon. J. P. Byrne, S. R. Leger, John G. Robichaud, Government.

Albert—J. L. Peck Lewis Smith, Opposition.

Charlotte—Dr. H. I. Taylor, J. M. Flewelling, Opposition.

Scott—D. Cuptill, Chauncey Pollard, Farmers.

Of the 48 members elected, 24 were members of the last Legislature.

ONLY FEW VOTES SEPARATE SOME OF WINNERS AND LOSERS

FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—The general impression here as to the outcome of the provincial elections held on Saturday seems to be that Hon. Walter E. Foster, Liberal premier since 1917, will be able to carry on, although the returns at this moment show an absolutely even division of the House between the Government and the groups opposed to the administration.

There are several counties in which only a few votes separate the winners from the losers, and friends of the Government here are hoping an additional member or two of the Government party may prove to have been elected.

On the other hand, it is said tonight that the Opposition will carry on the objection raised on nomination day in Queen's County to the candidature of George H. King, Government supporter re-elected yesterday, deficiencies in his nomination papers being claimed by the Opposition. It is stated that Hon J. B. M. Baxter, leader of the Opposition, is prepared to carry the objection to the courts and endeavor to upset Mr. King's election. There are also questions of by-elections to be considered. Two cabinet ministers, Hon. J. F. Tweeddale, minister of agriculture, and Hon. Robert Murray, provincial secretary-treasurer, have been defeated at the polls. It is suggested that Premier Foster may take the finance department to which he has been giving personal supervision, but there are few constituencies which are regarded as safe to open, and in those which are safe there does not appear to be many cabinet possibilities.

Import Constituency.

Northumberland County once more looms up as an "import" constituency on New Brunswick's political horizon as it did in the days of the late Hon. A. G. Blair, when the famous "Northumberland deal" resulted in Mr. Blair getting enough support to carry on. This county has elected an independent ticket of four members this time, and these may control the Provincial Legislature. Two of them were nominated by the Labor party—J. W. Vanderbeck and J. M. Martin; the United Farmers nominated Fred Fowlie and the Opposition convention nominated Charles T. Morrissey, son of Hon. John Morrissey, who was minister of public works in the Government of Sir Douglas Hazen.

Women Vote.

Saturday was the first time women voted at a provincial election in New Brunswick. Reports as to the number of women voting in the various constituencies differ widely. It appears that in the cities and towns women took a more active part than they did in the rural districts. In Fredericton, for instance, both the Government and the Opposition parties had strong committees of women and they were very active at the polls throughout the day. However, if the women voted in very large numbers a large lot of men must have stayed at home, as not more than half of the total number of eligible voters, if quite half, appear to have cast their ballots, although the vote was considerably larger than in the plebiscite on prohibition last July.

MINNEKAHDA SAILS IN SPITE OF STRIKE

Tilbury, England, Oct. 10.—The steamship Minnekahda, the crew of which struck Saturday, refusing to take the vessel to New York unless arrangements were made for the return of the men to England, sailed today. A new crew evaded the strikers during the night, got aboard the Minnekahda, and took her to sea.

A DISCREDITED REMNANT.

The remnant of the Conservative party is apparently through with Hon. G. Howard Ferguson as leader. The light that has been thrown upon his department would have driven him out of office had an election not done so already, and it makes him an impossibility as a leader in this province. The revelations made before the investigating commission dealing with the department over which Mr. Ferguson exercised jurisdiction indicate a state of affairs that must have cost this province hundreds of thousands of dollars loss, and that permitted unscrupulous lumber firms to grow rich on their ill-gotten gains. The Drury Government uncovered the rotten condition and the Drury Government, being in power, will have to see to it that the losses can never again occur.

With Hon. Mr. Ferguson out of the leadership the Tories are hard put to find anyone with the abilities needed for the past. The name of Dr. A. E. Ross of Kingston is suggested, chiefly, it would appear, on his creditable war record rather on any reputation for political sagacity or recognized power of party leadership. The Kingston Standard has it all figured out that there will be a split between the Labor and Farmer members, that an election will be brought on, and that the Conservative party will be returned to power. The Standard says that stranger things than that have happened. We will admit it, but say that not many stranger things could happen. If there is a discredited party in all of Canada today it is the Tory wing that survived the avalanche of public feeling in 1919. This province has about as much idea of re-establishing G. Howard Ferguson & Company in office as it has of establishing itself as a Soviet republic.

It is amusing to recall the noisy way in which the Ferguson crowd came back after the provincial election. They had been tricked, they had been fooled, the people had been tricked and fooled, but everything would soon be set right. The dominant elements could not form a government, could not carry on if they did form a government. But as a matter of fact, the new and dominant elements did form a cabinet and did carry on and are carrying on today, while the boastful Tories are going around with a scared look as if they expected to be arrested and jailed. They are not anxious for any more investigations, revelations of one department have quite upset their balance of mind, and if they are fearful it is that some other department of the late administration may also be put under investigation. One thing the country has learned is that the much-vaunted Hearst administration had feet of clay and its tumble was bound to come, even if the Farmer-Labor combination had never appeared on the scene.

SAFETY WEEK.

This week is "Safety Week" in Ontario, when by various demonstrations the vital importance and value of safety first will be impressed upon citizens. But like everything else, this crusade narrows down to the individual. Unless the individual citizen gives the fullest co-operation to this humanitarian movement it will fail.

With reasonable care and precaution such as is common sense dictates there would be one of the lamentable accidents, fatal or non-fatal, which occur in home, factory or on the street. Because of financial importance, too, the educational campaign of "Safety Week" should be given the heartiest support by all the public-spirited citizens and organizations. The losses by needless accidents and fires annually in Canada have reached stupendous figures. Let the Ontario Safety League receive the active and moral backing of all classes throughout the province this week as they endeavor to make life happier, healthier and more prosperous.

THE SPEED CRAZE.

Startling figures have been gathered and issued on the speed craze in the United States. At the annual convention of the American National Council of Safety, held at Atlantic City, it was officially stated that fatalities due to automobiles amounted to three times the number of fatal accidents in factories, mines and railroads. During June, July, August and September one person was killed by an automobile every thirty minutes, and the deaths from this cause during that period were 25 per cent greater than the corresponding period last year. The executive of the council finds that the reasons for this reckless destruction of life are recklessness and fast driving. The country, according to these investigators, has gone speed crazy.

In a lesser degree this motor menace exists in Canada. Commenting on the speed craze, the Winnipeg Free Fress expresses the following timely opinion:

> But because the killings have increased in an even greater proportion than the number of automobiles in use has the situation should be given immediate consideration by the automobile makers of the country, unless they expect soon to be confronted by a great volume of hostile public opinion. It must be clear that such a staggering death-rate cannot continue without causing unusual action.

A GREAT SAILOR.

Spain is celebrating the fact that four hundred years ago this month Ferdinand Magellan, one of the greatest of Spanish captains, sailed through the straits that bear his name, and rounding into the Pacific, completed his circling of the globe, as on the previous journey he had gone to the eastern limits of the Indian Ocean It was his Pacific adventure on which his fame will rest. He started on his bold venture with five small vessels, the largest registering 110 tons. One of the ships was wrecked, while two others were burned by mutineers. But one ship, the Victoria, reached Spain after an absence of three years. Magellan himself perished while fighting cannibals in the South Sea Islands.

Compared to Magellan's daring trips, that of Columbus was but a small affair. Columbus stumbled on America. On the other hand, Magellan knew what he wanted to find, and also knew of the terrific obstacles that he would meet. And he reached his objective. His feat required greater endurance, was a greater test of courage than that of the Genoese whose fame has overshadowed all other captains of his time. Magellan discovered a new land, and by his worldgirdling explorations demonstrated that the world is round. He was greater than Columbus.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Powder may have been plentiful on the battlefield, but there's more on Dundas street on a Sunday afternoon

Campaigning for prohibition in Scotland seems to be a task equivalent to the one of bearding the lion in his den.

The Johnson family is certainly not having its innings just now. The famous Jack is in jail; "Pussy" was chased by a mob, and some of Ban's American League players sold a world series.

A dime for the Memorial Hospital fund may be but a drop in the bucket, but it's the continual drip-drip-drip that will bring showers of blessing.

In the West the cry is "Canada for Canadians." If Premier Meighen had his way it would be "Canada for the Conservatives," judging from the tone of his Aylmer speech.

Such a thing as "comin' through the rye" might have been possible in the good old days, but after imbibing some of the brand the bootleggers sell nowadays one has a small chance of "pulling through."

From Here and There

A REAL FIGHTING VESSEL.

[Quebec Chronicle.]

Canadians will learn with interest that the light cruiser Aurora, which the Dominion Government has accepted as a gift from the Imperial Government, and will leave Devonport in company with the destroyers Patriot and Patrician as soon as she can be got ready, was launched in 1913, one of the original vessels of the Arethusa type, and the first oil-fired cruiser to be launched for the British navy. The Aurora served in the Harwich forces during the war. She has a displacement of 3,500 tons, and is armed with two 6-inch, six 4-inch and lighter guns, with four torpedo tubes. Turbine engines of 40,000-horsepower give her a speed of 30 knots, and her complement includes 270 officers and men.

The Niobe was of a much older, larger and slower type, with a displacement of 11,000 tons, and a speed when built in 1899 of 20½ knots. The Rainbow, launched in 1891, was of 3,600 tons, and a speed of 19½ knots. The full crews of the two vessels numbered 600 and 273 respectively.

Evidently, although some people may consider that our embryo fleet is lacking in quantity, there will be no room for complaints on the ground of quality.

CANADA LEADS THE WORLD.

[London Daily Chronicle.]

The autumnal "apple war," which during recent years has taken the place of the Victorian contest about the "big gooseberry," seems to have set in early and with great severity, but neither the 20-ounce Kent apple nor the slightly larger Essex rival comes near the "record." A specimen of Gloria Mundi, a big Herefordshire cooking apple, which weighed 37½ ounces, was sold seven years ago at Covent Garden for 16 guineas. But the "world's record" for large apples is still held by the variety of Spokane Beauty, a specimen of which, weighing 38 ounces, was exhibited at the first Canadian Apple Show in 1910. It was grown on rough land in British Columbia without special cultivation.

LAND TITLES IN CALIFORNIA.

[San Francisco Daily Chronicle.]

Foreign Minister Uchida of Japan is said to be urging the Washington Government to make the question of land titles in California a national matter—apparently imagining that the Washington Government has, or can get, jurisdiction in the matter. It has none, and can get none. The only way it could get jurisdiction is by treaty. The present treaty with Japan does not give Japanese subjects the right to own land in the United States. No treaty granting such rights could be ratified. If it were ratified an act of Congress could override it just as the Chinese exclusion act repealed a treaty, although we made a new treaty afterward.

A LITERARY CRITIC'S MISTAKES.

[New York Evening Post.]

One of the most interesting phases of Meredith's career was his 35 years as a publisher's "reader." When he first acted in that capacity for Chapman & Hall, his judgments on the manuscripts submitted were all entered in a book which has been carefully preserved. The most startling incident in this part of his career was his refusal of Mrs. Henry Wood's "East Lynne." Harrison Ainsworth urged the book upon Chapman & Hall, who actually sent the rejected manuscript a second time to their reader, but Meredith was obdurate, and a rival firm secured that most lucrative of best sellers. Oulda and Mrs. Lynn Linton also failed to secure Meredith's approval, as did Samuel Butler when he submitted "Erewhon," and Bernard Shaw with his first and still unpublished novel "Immaturity"; in fact, Shaw states that Meredith rejected all four of his novels, certainly "Cashel Byron's Profession." Thomas Hardy's first story came to Chapman & Hall, and Meredith, while not accepting it, saw sufficient promise in it to ask the author to call. Hardy received much sage advice and wrote "Desperate Remedies" according to Meredith's precepts, but the book was published elsewhere.

JAPANESE WOMEN IN BUSINESS.

[Boston Globe.]

Travelers returning from Japan report that Japanese women are entering business offices and stores in increasing numbers as stenographers, clerks and saleswomen. They serve as conductresses on all the bus lines of Tokio. Unlike the men, the women of Japan prefer the native costume. Over here the kimono is regarded only as a dressing-gown.

GENERAL BOOTH UPON WORK.

[Country Life.]

General Booth, whose sympathy with the workingman will not be questioned, has been making a tour of Australia, New Zealand, Canada and Ceylon. He comes back with an uneasy feeling in regard to labor questions. It arises from a discovery that in every country there is emerging what he calls "a kind of antipathy to work." It is different altogether from the ambition to obtain better wages. He seems to think that the laboring man is cultivating the idea that "there is something inimical to human life and happiness in work per se." He was asked in Australia to use his influence in favor of a five-day week, and found, on examining the proposition, that it meant four and a half days, whereupon he told them about an old Book which says "Six days shalt thou labor."

General Booth is of opinion that the backbone of labor in this country is made up of men of sound religious training and moral integrity, and the rank and file of the Labor Party consists largely of men of moral character who "look with contempt on this Bolshevist cackle." He wants them to come out into the open and not be led by extremists. There is no doubt about his having struck the right nail on the head. The vast majority of workingmen are anything but lazy. They are perfectly content to do a full day's work for a full day's wage; but, unfortunately, are under the influence of a little gang of leaders whose aim is not to improve the condition of the poor, but revolution pure and simple.

AN AWAKENING CHINA.

[Singapore Free Press.]

There are signs now that the passions engendered during the war are dying down, quenched by the experience they have brought to those concerned, an dthat the opposing factions in China are drawing closer to each other. Such an approach would be rendered the easier had the country in view an issue on which all patriotic men could unite. It is more than possible this issue will be found in the question of the Japanese rights in Shantung. If China refuses to open negotiations on this question it may lead to an effective fusion of north and south, resulting in a China which will create a good deal of surprise in many circles.

WASTED WEALTH.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.]

Instinctively everyone seeks wealth. Whenever announcement is made that gold prospectors have struck "pay dirt," even in the remotest corners of the world, or whenever news dispatches tell of discoveries of new diamond fields, there is a rush of wealth-seekers to share in the gains which nature offers. A monster gusher in a barren plain soon brings a throng of people anxious to toss their coin into a new oil well. In the face of this tendency it would seem impossible at first thought to imagine the American people permitting a perpetual source of virtually unlimited wealth to be wasted. Yet this is what they have been doing, and economic necessity alone seems to be arousing them to their shortsightedness.

SOMEWHERE OR OTHER.

[Christina Rossetti.]

Somewhere or other there must surely be
The face not seen, the voice not heard.
The heart that not yet—never yet—ah, me!
Made answer to my word.

Somewhere or other, may be near or far;
Past land and sea, clean out of sight:
Beyond the wandering moon, beyond the star
That tracks her night by night.

Somewhere or other, may be far or near;
With just a wall, a hedge, between:
With just the last leaves of the dying year
Fallen on a turf grown green.

TRUTH.

[G. K. Menzies.]

Truth stole away
One day
To some deep well,
Where out of sight
She might
For ever dwell.

Then Wisdom sought
Distraught,
But naught she did
Availed to tell
The well,
Where Truth lay hid.

But Love, I chance,
To glance
In your dear eyes,
And in their cool,
Deep pool,
Behold, she lies.

Every Man For Himself

BY HOPKINS MOORHOUSE.

CHAPTER I.
Fog.

Except for the lone policeman who paused beneath the arc light at the Front street intersection to make an entry in his patrol book, Bay street was deserted. The fog which had come crawling in from the lake had filled the lower streets and was feeling its way steadily through the sleeping city, blurring the street lights. Its clammy touch darkened the stone facades of tall, silent buildings and left tiny wet beads on iron railing and grill work. Down towards the waterfront a yard-engine coughed and clanked about in the mist somewhere, noisily kicking together a string of box cars, while at regular intervals the fog-horn over at the Eastern Gap bellowed mournfully into the night.

After tucking away his book and re-buttoning his tunic the policeman lingered on the corner for a moment in the manner of one who has nothing to do and no place to go. He was preparing to saunter on when footfalls began to echo in the emptiness of the street and presently the figure of a young man grew out of the grey vapor—a young man who was swinging down towards the docks with the easy stride of an athlete. As he came within the restricted range of the arc light it was to be seen that his panama hat was tilted to the back of his head and that he was holding a silk handkerchief to one eye as if a cinder had blown into it.

"Good night, officer," he nodded as he passed without halting his stride.

"Some fog, eh?"

"Mornin', sir," returned the dim sentinel of the law with a respectful salute as he grinned recognition. "Faith, an' 't is, sir."

High up in the city hall tower at the head of the street Big Ben boomed two ponderous notes which flung eerily across the city.

Already the young man had faded into the thickening fog. He was in no mood to talk to inquisitive policemen, no matter how friendly or lonesome. It was his own business entirely if concealed under the silk handkerchief was the most elaborate black eye which had come into his possession since Varsity won the rugby championship some months before. If his face ached and his knuckles smarted where the skin had been knocked off, that was his own business also. And when the judgment of calmer moments has convinced a respectable young gentleman of spirit that there is nobody but himself to blame for what has happened he is inclined to solitary communion while taking the measure of his self-dissatisfaction.

It was indeed the end of a very imperfect day for Mr. Philip Kendrick. As he descended the stairs to the Canoe Club his thoughts were troubled. At that hour there was nobody about, but he let himself in with a special key which he carried for such contingencies. He found the suitcase undisturbed where he had left it and soon had his canoe in the water. A moment later he was driving into the thick wall of fog with strong, practiced strokes, heading straight across the bay for Centre Island.

The fog gave him little concern. This land-locked Toronto Bay he knew like a well-marked passage in a favorite book and at 2 o'clock in the morning it was not necessary to nose along cautiously, listening for the approach of water craft. Away to the right the lights of the amusement park on Hanlan's Point had gone out long ago, before the fog settled down like a wet blanket. The ferries had stopped running for the night. Even the "belt line boat," Lulu—last hope of bibulous or belated Islanders—was back in her slip, funnel cold, lights out. The whole deserted waterfront lay wrapped in the shroud of the fog, lulled by the lap of water against pilings and the faint creakings of small craft at their moorings.

As the solitary canoe poked out for the open bay these minor sounds fell behind and were replaced by the steady purl of water under the bow. It filled with pleasing monotone the interludes between the fussing of the yard engine back on the railway trackage and the blatancy of the fog horn at the Eastern Gap, every half minutes bawling its warning into the open lake beyond.

There was nobody over at the big summer residence on Centre Island except Mrs. Parlby, the housekeeper, and her husband, who acted as gardener. The place belonged to Kendrick's uncle, the Honorable Milton Waring, and it was usual for them to open the big house about the end of May. This year, however, his aunt and uncle had chosen to spend the summer at Sparrow Lake and for the past week they had been up at a rented cottage in the woods, leaving Phil behind in charge of the Island residence.

In response to a wire from his uncle, requesting him to join them at once and bring along certain articles which had been overlooked, he had packed his suitcase and paddled across to the city in the morning, intending to take the train for Sparrow Lake. A chance meeting with an old classmate, however, had resulted in a sudden decision to delay his departure for another twenty-four hours in favor of a good time with Billy Thorpe.

As if in punishment, things had seemed to go wrong with him all day. In the afternoon the Rochester baseball team had knocked three Toronto pitchers out of the box, a blow-up which had cost the loyal Mr. Kendrick twenty-five dollars and a loss of reputation as an authority on International League standings. Then in the evening, in the crowd out at The Beach, someone had taken hold of his silk ribbon fob and gently removed the gold watch which his aunt had given him on his birthday. Later still—!

It was the left eye, so swollen now that it was closed to a mere slit. There was no optical delusion about its nomenclature and in diameter and chromatic depth it was at the head of its class; in fact, it gave promise of being by daylight in a class by itself. It was the sort of decoration which could be relied upon implicitly to fire the imagination of misguided acquaintances through several merry weeks of green and yellow recuperation. And withal it cast a reflection upon the fistic prowess of young Mr. Kendrick which was entirely unjust, it being the produce of what is known as a "lucky punch"—for the other fellow.

No it was not in the result of the fight that dissatisfaction lay, but in the cause. McCorquodale's remarks about the Honorable Milton Waring had been addressed to McCorquodale's two companions; there had been no intent to insult the Honorable Milton Waring's nephew, who sat at the next table in the restaurant, none of the three worthies being aware that they were within earshot of a hypersensitive member of the honorable gentleman's family. That being so, it had been distinctly foolish for the aforesaid nephew to walk over to the other table and demand an apology. He should have finished his coffee and cigarette and strolled out. Or, if he had deemed it imperative to participate in the political discussion, why in the mischief hadn't he just stepped across, proffered his cigarette casé and made a joke of the situation?

Of a truth the expression upon this fellow McCorquodale's homely, good-humored face when Kendrick revealed his identity had been sufficiently quizzical. He had grinned widely as he waived the indignant young man to a seat at the table and even then the situation would have adjusted itself had it been left to the principals. But McCorquodale's companions were a pair of flashily dressed young "sports" who, thinking they saw a chance for some fun at Kendrick's expense, had proceeded to tread upon Mr. McCorquodale's professional pride—Mr. Corquodale, one time known to ringside patrons as "Iron Man" McCorquodale, one time near middleweight champion.

"Y'see, it's this way," the ex-pugilist had explained earnestly. "I ain't said nothin' about y'r uncle as ain't pulls anyways. It's in the papers off an' on, see? An' now another election's comin' down the pike, y'll have to be gittin' used to all kinds o' spiels. Fac's is fac's, kid, an' when I says the Hon. Milt ain't no sweet-scented geranium, but's ort fer all the simoleons he can pick off the little old Mazuma Trees,—why, I on'y says what I reads an' hears, believe me. You bein' his nephew ain't changin' public opinion none. See?"

Kendrick's anger at this brazenness had prevented him from thinking clearly. He was getting "touchy" about his uncle's political record of late and had had occasion to defend it with some heat during certain discussions among friends; there had been several newspaper attacks which he had resented greatly also. His uncle's reputation as a public man he had been Quixotic enough to take to heart as a personal matter of family honor and as everyone knows, family honor is a thing to uphold. He had demanded that McCorquodale retract his statement. McCorquodale had refused flatly to do so.

One of the two grinning "sports" knew a place where they could settle it undisturbed—just around the corner in the basement of a poolroom. It had been a brisk little mix-up while it lasted; but it had not taken the expugilist long to discover that he was facing the best amateur boxer Varsity had produced in a number of years and right in the middle of it he had put on his coat deliberately, to the overwhelming disappointment of his two friends.

"Six, you guys!" he had grunted, breathing heavily. "I knows when I'm up against it. Y'see, I got a date with a Jane tomorra an' I ain't hankerin' to lose me way with a mussed man. Not on y'r tintype!"

Whereupon the "Iron Man" had proceeded to demonstrate his malleability by assuring Mr. Kendrick that he was ready to agree that the sun rose in the south and made a daily trip straight north to escape the heat, if Mr. Kendrick said so. His anxiety to make friends had been positively funny; but there had been a sincerity in his handshake that somehow had seemed to rob the apology of its satisfaction. And when McCorquodale had proffered a broken cigar Mr. Kendrick had accepted it with an uneasy feeling that he had made somewhat of a fool of himself; for Phil was no prig and he found that McCorquodale was a pretty good sort with a certain whimsicality that was not to be denied.

He rested his paddle for a moment and floated in the dark, listening. As soon as he got home he would go to the refrigerator for a piece of raw beefsteak for his swollen eye. Darn that eye anyway! He would have to hibernate up in the woods till it became more presentable. Far behind him in the mist somewhere the yard engine was still coughing; across the water came a subdued squeal of protesting flanges, followed by the distant bang of shunted box cars. He listened for any sound of the harbor patrol boat; but even had he bothered to show a light it would have been obliterated in the fog, which was the worst Kendrick ever had experienced. A raw beefsteak poultice—— He fancied the fog horn was a little louder; he would need to keep more to the left or he would find himself hitting Mug's Landing, west of Island Park, or wind up away over at the Point somewhere.

He resumed his paddling. This matter of his uncle—— Was it possible that in pursuit of political ambitions his uncle was forgetting the principles of which he professed to stand as a public man? Was it just possible that this fellow, McCorquodale, knew what he was talking about? Wasn't it the men of that stamp who became the tools for corrupt practices — the boodlers, the heelers who did the actual ballot-stuffing, the personating at the polls, the bribing? Did McCorquodale know of what he spoke?

The thought brought with it a sense of disloyalty to his uncle; but the young man forced himself to face the deal seriously. He was beginning to realize that there were many things about which he was woefully ignorant—practical things entirely outside academic curriculums. For twenty-two years he had eaten his meals regularly and lived a life uncolored by any event more significant than his recent graduation from 'Varsity with honors. That he had captained the football team to victory the fall before was nothing extraordinary; many another fellow with equally broad shoulders and an equally well balanced head upon them had done the same thing before him. Financial worries had never intruded upon his good times, while social standing was something which he had come to accept as a matter of course. Only of late had he begun to analyze things for himself and it had been something of a shock to discover that a college education was just a beginning—that beyond the campus of his alma mater spread a workaday world which scoffed at dead languages and went in for a living wage, which turned from isoceles triangles and algebraic conundrums to solve the essential problems of food and clothing and shingled roofs. It was a new viewpoint which planted doubts where what he had supposed to be certainties had been wont to blossom.

The Honorable Milton Waring's very position as a cabinet minister in the government of the day always had seemed to carry its own credentials. As a youth Phil had thrilled with pride on occasions of public demonstration in his uncle's honor and there had been times of speechmaking when the Honorable Milton's eloquence had swayed his audience to unrestrained applause. To the unsophisticated eyes of youth a shiny silk hat, a long-tailed frock coat, a gold-headed cane, a diamond ring and a prominent place upon the platform had been indicative of the top rungs of fame and success and honor among men. The goings and comings of society's votaries, the bright lights of the big Waring residence in Rosedale, the orchestras and bands and public processions and cheering and flags and bunting—these things had contributed to the awe with which Phil had regarded the Honorable Milton Waring in the days of boyhood impressions, the mere fact that his uncle received the acclamations of the people and held high public office by their gift had seemed to invest the Honorable Milton with all the attributes of an honorable gentleman of distinction.

Such early impressions are tenacious of place. Yet with maturer years had come certain doubts that thrust their shadows across moments of serious thought. Phil Kendrick had begun to think for himself and his study of political history had awakened him to the knowledge that there was a very "practical" side to politics as they existed throughout the country just then—that successful politicians too often were men who regarded the whole thing as a game wherein the end justified the means, the end being to carry elections. Was the uncle of this ilk? It had been hinted. There were those who said that the Honorable Milton Waring knew much about assembling political machinery around election time and oiling it for a smooth run. And such rumors aroused thought which Phil had been very loath to entertain.

After all, though did he really know his uncle? Between them there had never been any very close bond of sympathy—such, for instance, as always had existed between Phil and his aunt. His uncle's share in the growing lad's upbringing had been of the superficial sort—a pat on the back, a "run along now, my boy; I'm busy." Always it had been Aunt Dolly to whom he had taken his childish difficulties for sympathetic adjustment. It had been that way from the first when the sudden loss of both father and mother had thrown him upon Aunt Dolly's care. His own mother could not have meant more to him and Kendrick's smile was very gentle as he thought of his aunt. First and last, her happiness—

Ah, but was she happy? That was the question. She pretended to be, of course; but how much of it was mere pretence? Beneath her smiles Phil had sensed of late a vague unrest, disappointment—he hardly knew what to call it, so illusive it was. She had laughed at him fondly and called him "a foolish boy" when he had ventured to ask her if anything was wrong. After that she had been careful that he did not surprise any look upon her face but one of cheerfulness.

The possibility that in some way his uncle was the source of that subtle change in Aunt Dolly had disturbed Phil's peace of mind not a little. In his presence she had been the same gentle, smiling, thoughtful Aunt Dolly that she had always been; but once or twice he had read fleeting anxiety in the glance with which she had followed her husband's departure from the room. Her love for the Honorable Milton was unqualified, Phil knew. It was, in fact, the directing force of Aunt Dolly's whole life. It had enabled her to overcome her innate dislike for the everlasting round of social trivialities and assume her place as a society leader with a brilliance and tact which had earned the commendation of even her exacting husband. What was going wrong in the Waring household? Or was it all imagination and Aunt Dolly's look of concern sumtotalled by the weather in relation to a change to lighter flannels?

Certainly when it came to considering his uncle's political record there was always the Rives case to fall back upon, to cast a halo about the Honorable Milton's head. The Rives case had provided a sensational aftermath to a strenuous election campaign which had resulted in the complete overthrow of the former government. The "Honorable" Harrington Rives, with his large head and bushy shock of black curls had been a picturesque figure on the rostrums of the country districts. He took a good photo—and knew it! It was displayed in every conceivable pose in the newspapers and fought the weather on the side of many a livery barn long after the "grand rally" with its crops of cheer-strained throats was a thing of the past. His ability as a stump speaker and his hail-fellow-well-met-and-how's-the-baby way of mixing with the crowd had popularized him to the bamboozlement of his admirers. So that in election forecasts his seat in the legislature always had headed the list at party headquarters, while in the opposition camp it had been chalked up as "election conceded."

But as is the law of it, there cometh a day when the evil a man doeth findeth him out. Whispers had stolen abroad in the land and the rumors had drawn men together in scattered groups. Rivulets of resentment had run together in widening pools of public opinion till the mysterious forces which slowly arouse the "great common people" had broken loose suddenly in one of those periodic reform waves which sweep everything before them. And into the arena with shining sword drawn had stepped a brilliant lawyer named Waring to pick up the gauge of battle against Rives and his corrupt associates, with Rives himself as his individual opponent.

The fight in Rives' constituency had gone to bitter lengths. The government forces had poured money into the campaign and under the practiced hand of Harrington Rives the "machine" had gone to indiscreet lengths to defeat Waring. Bribery and corruption, which for a long time had characterized the administration's political organization, had become more open and Rives' opponent quietly had gathered the irrefutable evidence which ended in the arrest of Rives and several of his henchmen on the eve of the election. The exposure had been so complete and far-reaching—actual misappropriation of public funds in Rives' case—that the reform forces had made a clean sweep amid great public rejoicing.

It would require a short memory indeed to forget all this, thought Kendrick. Remembrance of the Rives case, which he had taken the trouble once to look up in the old newspaper files, never failed to re-establish his faith in his uncle and it was with a sweep of irritation now that he dug in his paddle—and veered sharply to the left as the rustle of reeds against the canoe warned him that he was close inshore somewhere. Mechanically he tried to peer through the dark. This ought to be the sandbar to the left of the Island Park ferry landing if he had not gone out of his reckoning. He waited for the fog horn that presently bellowed loudly off to the left. If this were the sandbar he would have to skirt it east to the cut that ran in beside the Yacht Club.

A moment's paddling convinced him that he had guessed correctly. Something scraped alongside—a yacht, moored in the channel. He turned to the right and presently was gratified to find himself in quieter water. A moment later he was safely within the inner channel that followed the park embankment and led east past private boathouses.

From the canal short streets here cut south across the island to the lake-front, where many fine residences of the wealthy faced open water. The steady rhythm of the waves against the breakwater reached him in sharp contrast to the brooding stillness of the channel water.

Kendrick was almost home now. The Waring boathouse was within a stones throw. He edged the canoe forward gently, close to the bank, feeling his way toward the familiar landing.

And there was not one thing to prepare him for what immediately followed. A voice which seemed to be almost at his elbow spoke to him out of the darkness in low hurried tones a woman's voice! At the same time he felt the bow of the canoe pulled in against the bank. Before he could recover sufficiently from his surprise to speak she had stepped aboard and he could hear her adjusting a cushion beneath her knees. Then came her tense whispered warning:

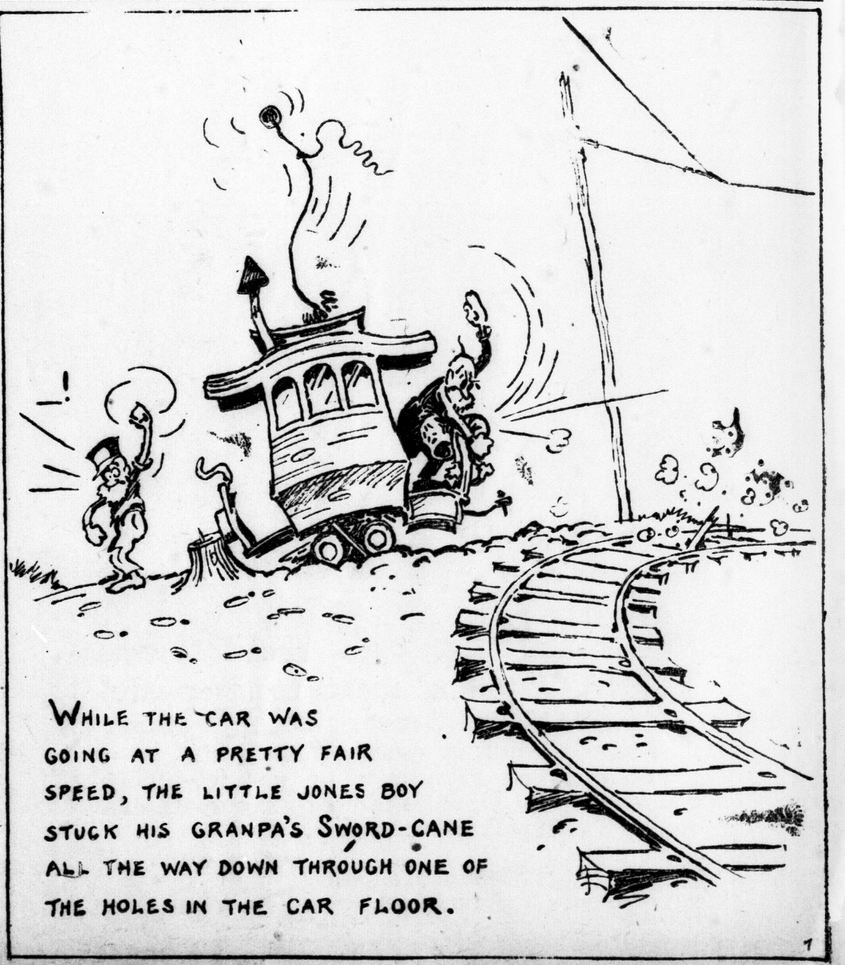

"Stick right here and don't talk. We haven't time to get away, but they can't see us. Sh! Here they come!"

CHAPTER II.
Blind Man's Buff.

With difficulty Phil Kendrick restrained a desire to laugh outright. The totally unexpected situation in which he found himself paralyzed his speech and by he time he had recovered from the first shock of it a further development held him silent. With senses sharpened he listened in the dark to approaching footsteps and a murmur of voices, his wonder growing as he recognized the unmistakable accents of Stinson, his uncle's personal servant—Stinson who, by all the rules of valet service, should be up at Sparrow Lake at that very moment with the Honorable Milton Waring.

A key was being fitted into the padlock of the Waring boathouse. The planking creaked as the strangers tip-toed inside. There appeared to be several of them. A sloshing of water as they boarded the big launch, then the first fitful rustlings of the engine as it was turned over. Soon its loud staccatto rose above the wail of the fog horn.

Many parties are already being made up to attend the dance, the proceeds of which are to be given towards the Sick Children's Hospital.

BELL—ZUEFLE.

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Zuefle, Hensall, on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, when their youngest daughter Gertrude was united in marriage to Mr. W. Bell of Windsor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Rivers, in the presence of only the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who was unattended, wore a handsome gown of blue georgette and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. After a dainty wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Bell left by auto for London en route to their new home in Windsor. The bride's traveling suit was navy blue velour with hat to match.

SMITHSON—NESBITT.

At the home of the bride's mother, 227 Spadina road, Toronto, the marriage took place of Kathleen C., second daughter of Mrs. Margaretta Nesbitt, to Earle W. Smithson, B.A.Sc., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Smithson, Waterloo, street, London. The Hon. Dr. Cody officiated. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. S. Victor Nesbitt of Chicago, was gowned in ivory charmeuse, combined with embroidered georgette, over which fell a veil of tulle, surmounted with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried an ivory prayer book, from which fell streamers adorned with Sweetheart roses. Her matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. George Howe, who wore a pretty gown of flowered taffeta and carried yellow mums. Her bridesmaid was another sister, Miss Norah Nesbitt, who wore aero blue taffeta and carried pink roses. Still another sister, little Miss Patricia, acted as flower girl, wearing a frock of pink charmeuse and carrying a basket of Sweetheart roses. Mr. Peach was best man.

The bride's traveling suit was of navy blue gabardine with velour hat. She wore a fitch fur stola and corsage bouquet of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Smithson left amid a shower of rice and confetti on an extended honeymoon to New York and other American cities and will reside in Syracuse, N. Y.

BROWN—HUTCHISON.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hutchison, North Oxford, was beautiful with autumn flowers and foliage on Tuesday evening, when their eldest daughter, Mabel Elizabeth, was united in marriage to Erwin Ross, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown of Embro.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. Wood of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Ingersoll, in the presence of over seventy relatives and intimate friends. The wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Miss Mildred Heaney, heralded the approach of the bridal party, who took their place beneath a beautiful arch of flowers. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in her nuptial robes of white georgette and satin, with bridal veil of tulle arranged in coronet fashion, and carrying a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Hutchison, who looked winsome in a little frock of peach organdie, also carrying a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Lloyd Brown. The groom's gifts to the bridesmaid and pianist were beautiful brooches, and to the groomsman, a tie-pin.

Immediately after the signing of the register the bridal party repaired to the dining-room, where a wedding dinner was served, and during the evening telegrams of congratulations were received.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown left later by motor via London for Detroit, the bride traveling in a smart navy suit with tricolette blouse and chic little hat and wearing the groom's gift, a beautiful set of black furs.

ARMSTRONG—GREEN.

A wedding of interest to Londoners was that which took place at the Northern Community Church, Toronto, on Wednesday last, when Ruth Angelsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Green, formerly of this city, became the bride of Dr. Gordon Wilson Armstrong of Toronto, the Rev. Mr. McLeod officiating.

The church had been beautifully decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves, chrysanthemums and smilax. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked lovely in a gown of ivory kitten's ear crepe, brocaded in gold with long court train and conventional veil of Carrickmacross lace. Her only ornament was a gift of the groom, a diamond pin, and she carried a bouquet of butterfly orchids in pretty yellow tones, from which fell a shower of Sweetheart roses. Attending the bride as bridesmaids, were her cousin, Miss Isabel Ivey of this city, Miss Helen Hantchett of Salt Lake City, and Miss Inez Wood of Toronto, while the bride's sister, Mrs. Wray Barraclough of Bridgewater, N. S., was matron of honor. The matron of honor wore her wedding gown of silver brocade with large black hat, while the bridesmaids were in accordion-pleated georgette gowns of a pretty mauve shade, with touches of blue and silver, wore large purple hats and carried orchids and Sweetheart roses. Mr. Frank Lucas of Toronto acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Jack Rumball, Dr. Curry, Dr. Brown and Mr. Bob Wilson, all of Toronto.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the house being effectively decorated with roses, smilax and autumn foliage. Later Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong left on a motor trip through the Adirondacks, the bride traveling in a smart tailored suit of dull blue with small blue hat and silver fox stole.

Among the London guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ivey, sen., Miss Isabel Ivey, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ivey and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Robinson.

TALKS ON HEALTH

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D., Noted Physician and Author.

Traumatic Pneumonia.

Traumatic is good English, not medicalese, and it means pertaining to injury.

When the sensitiveness of the throat is benumbed, as in unconsciousness from any cause, be it an illness, accident, poisoning or surgical anesthesia, minute foreign particles may be aspirated (drawn in) and convey into the chest a mass of Pneumococci, which germs are found in nearly every mouth and in about 20 per cent of individuals examined, they are present in virulent or business-like condition. A severe blow upon the chest may produce a form of pneumonia.

The so-called "ether pneumonia", which follows the administration of ether in rare instances (some three cases in eight thousand anesthetizations) is probably purely and simply an aspiration pneumonia and has nothing to do with chilling or the temperature of the operating room. It is best prevented by very thorough cleansing of the mouth before the administration of the anesthetic—a feature which is sometimes not properly attended to. Pneumonia has been found no more likely to occur when the operating-room temperature is kept comfortably cool than when it is kept depressingly hot, but we have a lot of old fogies doing surgery nowadays and they like to keep it nice and warm so nobody will "take cold." One notes in some of these torrid operating-rooms that the mossback surgeons are not nearly so careful about keeping the patient warm as they are about keeping all hands in a profuse sweat. Aside from his technical expertness, the average surgeon is a poorly trained doctor.

It is a common thing to hear that John Jones fell in the river and was rescued and if he escapes pneumonia he will live. John languishes for a few hours, probably dodging pneumonia by whatever means the old ladies in charge deem best and lives. In fact, John's cold ducking is no more likely to cause pneumonia than it is to cause bookworm disease. If John inhales portions of the water, that is another question, for along with the water that finds its ways into his breathing passages there may be a few virulent pneumococci from his mouth or throat and a fine chance for a pneumonia to follow.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

How Fear Gets In Its Work.

? fear I have a touch of appendicitis and would thank you to tell me the symptoms. (S. S. B.)

ANSWER—You might thank me now, but maybe not later on. If I were to suggest some symptoms for you you might proceed to adopt them and tenderly nurture them until you would feel that they were your own, and then some eager surgeon might get hold of you, and first thing you knew you'd be showing it around in a bottle. No, sir, we are just out of symptoms.

Should Girls Play Basketball?

I just dearly love to play basketball, but mother thinks I should not because I am nervous. Last year I had to stay out of school some on account of my nerves, but . . . (Miss P. R.)

ANSWER—My daughter, if I knew what you mean by nervousness I would be in a better position to answer. As a general rule I think basketball a fine game for girls to play.

Sediment Insignificant.

Does it indicate any kidney or other disease if a sediment forms after the urine has stood twenty-four hours?

ANSWER—No, that is a normal occurrence.

Corns.

Will you be kind enough to publish in your column your excellent remedy for corns and calluses? I have mislaid the recipe. (Mrs. B. E.)

ANSWER—Paint the corn or callous every night for a week or ten days with a solution of 30 grains of salicylic acid in half an ounce of flexible collodion. It is better to give the foot a hot soaking first, and then dry it thoroughly before applying the solution.

INTERESTING CLUBS AT THE Y. W. C. A.

Class in Social and Industrial Problems Led by T. D. McCullough.

SOCIAL SERVICE CLASSES.

T. D. McCullough of the Social Service Council is starting a class in social and industrial problems at the Y. W. C. A., King street, tonight, under the auspices of the extension department of that association. This class will be open to all interested in this subject as well as to those who are thinking seriously of going into social service work as a profession. The class will study such works as "William Lyon Mackenzie," "Industry and Humanity," "Labor in the Changing World" (Prof. McIvor), and "Gospel to the Working World" (Ward). There will also be given opportunity for simple discussion.

GIRLS' CANADIAN CLUB.

Another interesting branch of Y. W. C. A. work will be the Girls' Canadian Club, which will hold its first meeting on Thursday, October 21, when Mrs. D. C. MacGregor and Mrs. Frank Leonard, president of the local Women's Canadian Club, will be the speakers. This club is about to be affiliated with the organization of Canadian Clubs of Canada and will be the first girls' club. The advisory committee to this club includes Mrs. D. C. MacGregor and Miss May Wilson, representing Canadian authors; Miss Beatrice Taylor, representing the press; Mrs. McEvoy, representing the Y. W. C. A., and Miss Marjorie Ross and Miss Hazel Tanner to give help in library research work.

The first meeting will be held at the central Y. W. C. A., King street, and the subsequent meetings at the Wellington street Y. W. C. A.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN THIS YEAR STUDY SOCIAL CONDITIONS

May Bring Disinguished Lectures Through the Province.

At a meeting of University Women's Club held at the Western University on Friday night, plans for the coming season's program were made. It is possible that distinguished lecturers may be brought to London under the club's auspices, this being made feasible through co-operation with McGill, Queen's and Toronto Universities, the lecturer being brought on a tour through the province visiting all those university centres in close succession.

It was determined, through an expression of opinion on ballot, that the club study work for this year would be along the line of social conditions, particularly relating to women. And a committee was appointed to draw up a program for the year, this committee including Miss Minhinnick of Queen's; Miss Marjorie Ross and Miss McCamus of Toronto. The meetings will be held on the first Saturday evening of every month.

Delegates' Reports.

Reports of the delegates, who attended the meetings of the Federation of University Women in Canada, held in Toronto at the end of August, were given. Miss Minhinnick, who reported for the general meetings of the convention, referred to the great international convention of University Women held in London, England recently, as well as to the Toronto convention. "The aims of the organized women," she said, "were to facilitate research work, to promote higher education, and to interest women in public affairs." She mentioned the fact that the Ontario Government had already responded to their efforts and offered a $1,200 scholarship for a university woman to spend a year in France, and the Federation of University Women itself had undertaken a $1,000 scholarship to be used at some European university by a Canadian woman student. Another matter, which was strongly advocated at this convention, was the establishment of an information and employment bureau for university women in Canada.

Assessed For Scholarship.

Miss Bessie Mossop of Toronto, who represented the London club on the Dominion executive, was not present at Friday's meeting, but her report was read by Miss Marjorie Ross. According to this report the London University Women's Club and the Western University Alumnae Association will each be assessed $10 this year towards the scholarship fund.

At the close of the meeting, of which Mrs. Shanks of Cornell, the president, was chairman, refreshments were served and a social time spent among the university women.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB ADVOCATES A BRITISH NEWS CABLE SERVICE

The paper read by Mrs. Livesay to the Canadian Women's Press Club at Montreal on Wednesday draws attention to a matter of vital interest to Canadians. She pointed out the necessity for a British cable service which would supply the press of Canada with news which was entirely free from American bias, which service might be rendered, she thought, by the Canadian Association in affiliation with Reuter's agency. Under present arrangements it is inevitable, in spite of every precaution, that the information received by Canadian newspapers should be tinctured to some extent by American opinion. By far the greater supply of news emanates from New York and other United States centres, so that matters of interest to that country naturally take precedence over the affairs of the British Empire.

It is not a desirable condition, and its undesirability increases with the growth of the country. Canada is wholly British in sentiment, and should be provided with news congenial to its temperament. An inter-imperial news service is a great desideratum.—Hamilton Spectator.

Advertiser Patterns

Owing to the pattern manufacturers increasing the price of patterns to us, all patterns advertised from this date will be 15 CENTS EACH.

A Dainty Frock.

Pattern 3195 is here portrayed. It is cut in four sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size will require 3¼ yards of 36-inch material. Shantung in a natural shade, with fancy stitching in red, blue or white, would be pretty for this model. It may be finished without the sleeve portions. Gingham, chambrey, percale, poplin, linen and repp are also desirable for this style.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

Name .....

Town .....

Province .....

Age (if child's or misses' pattern).....

Measurement: Bust..... Waist.....

CAUTION: Be careful to inclose the above illustration, and send size of pattern wanted. When the pattern is bust measure, you need only mark 38, 44, or whatever it may be. When in waist measure, 22, 24, 26, or whatever it may be. If a skirt, give waist and length measure. When misses' or child's pattern, write only the figure representing the age. It is not necessary to write "inches" or "years." Patterns cannot reach you in less than one week from the date of application.

THE MARRIAGE OF ANNE

BY MAY CHRISTIE

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

XXVI.—An Embarrassing Request.

That finished me, that little phrase. "It may make all the difference to our getting married soon, or not."

I turned to Fred.

"I'll do it," I said, weakly. "I'll ask Neil Saunders for the money, dear."

The following morning broke delightfully fresh and warm.

Outside my bedroom window I could hear the soft splash of trout and minnows leaping in the river. And a little breeze went murmuring with a soothing sound through the plumes of grasses in the fields.

As I lay in bed I could hear the lark singing her heart out in trills of ecstasy. And, leaning on one elbow, I could see her soaring, from a reedy marsh, up, up, into the illimitable blue.

Indeed, the air was sweet with the rhapsodies of many birds. The fevered quests of spring were satisfied. The long midsummer days were crowned with plenty, and with happiness.

I, too, felt happy. Fred—my lover—had returned. Golden times lay ahead of us.

From my window I could see the butterflies, a daring maze of white and gold and yellow. They loved the summer day, just as I did.

I rose and dressed in leisurely fashion. I must look my best for Fred.

What clothes should I wear? How could I render myself most attractive?

I found a well-cut skirt of white corduroy, with big side pockets, and big ivory-looking buttons. It was very chic.

These things I donned. Then I rummaged through my store of hats until I unearthed a rustic straw of delicate blue, wreathed 'round with yellow buttercups. It was a hat that suited my piquant little face. I wore it at a jaunty angle.

White buckskin shoes, with high French heels and ankle straps completed my toilette. They weren't country footgear. But they were immensely smart. Literally, I must put my best foot foremost, I told myself, laughingly.

And then I rubbed a snowy vanishing cream into my cheeks and chin, and applied thereon an expensive brand of scented powder. I took infinite pains with my complexion. I wanted to maintain the reputation for prettiness which Fred had generously given me.

"One must work hard to keep the affection of a man," I assured myself, staring at my image in the glass. Yes, I looked real chic, and "rivery." The rustic hat cast a becoming shade over my cheeks and eyes.

I seated myself on the edge of my bed, and began to manicure my nails, putting concentration into the task. First a dab of rosy paste, and then the polisher. And then more dabs with a sort of pinkish stone, and another vigorous application of the polish.

Fred had kissed my finger-tips last night. Well, they must be specially beautiful today. I began to compare myself with Mrs. Browning, the poetess, who wrote a poem about lovely hands and lovers' kisses. Just what it was I had the haziest recollection. But today I was romantic.

Then I remembered aunt, and the prosaic interview that lay before poor Fred. Aunt could be very material, I knew. She would ask my lover how he proposed to "keep me," and dreadful questions of that sort.

But I wasn't going to be discouraged. No, not I.

I emerged from my room, and strolled along the river's bank, reveling in the glorious sunshine and warm, scented air. Oh, how good it was to be alive!

Gorgeously-hued dragon flies were out in force that morning, darting in a whirl of brilliant green and peacock-blue. Through the plumed reeds they went. They skimmed among the meadow-sweets and pretty irises.

Stooping down I gathered a bunch of clovers and speedwells, and fastened them in a cluster at my waist. Oh, I felt gay today!

Swallows twittered by me, and the marsh wrens sang a song of summer and of youth.

"Good-morning, Miss Anne! Early afoot this morning, aren't you?" Neil Saunders' pleasant, kindly tones fell on my ear.

The blood rushed to my cheeks. I hadn't heard his footsteps on the meadow grass.

"Good-morning. A heavenly day," I stammered. "I was just taking a little saunter before breakfast. I'm not generally such an early bird——"

"Don't call me the proverbial worm," he laughed. "I—I'm awfully pleased to see you. How delightfully cool and fresh you look!"

I felt glad I had taken such pains with my toilette. If this man admired me—and I could see the admiration in his blue eyes—then Fred, too, must admire!

"I was really coming to pay an early call on you," he continued, "and so I'm lucky to have met you. I wanted to ask you if you'd come for a motor-spin today. The new car's running gloriously. But—I'm kind of lonely. A congenial companion makes all the difference to one's enjoyment. Don't you think so?"

What could I say? How could I possibly go motoring with a man whom Fred disliked?

And then I recollected the embarrassing mission that my lover had charged me with—where this man was concerned. The borrowing of a thousand dollars!

Tomorrow: "A Favor Granted."

APPEAL FOR MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS MADE FOR BYRON PATIENTS

Women's Auxiliary Says $300 Would Purchase Them.

It has been brought to the attention of the Women's Auxiliary of the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium that a number of the civilian patients were greatly interested and benefited by free musical instruction on the violin and guitar, instruments being loaned them, and instruction provided by the vocational department of the Byron Vocational School. Owing to the great demand for musical instruction from the military patients, it was necessary for the department to call in the loaned instruments. The ladies of the auxiliary feel that as the civilian patients were making such splendid use of the privilege offered they should be encouraged to help themselves in every way, and by bringing this to the attention of the citizens of London the sum could easily be procured to purchase new instruments. The sum required would be about three hundred dollars. Subscriptions can be sent to the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. H. Ziegler, 554 Waterloo street.

MAPLETON W. I.

The October meeting of the Mapleton and Kingsville Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon last at the residence of Mrs. Harry Cloes, New Sarum.

The president, Mrs. James Drake, presided. The following excellent program was furnished: Readings by Misses Vivian Martin and B. Brown, Alma College; piano solos, by Miss Irene Ratz, Alma College; vocal solos, by Mrs. C. Haggan, Luton; Mrs. William Legge, Belmont, and Miss Rhea Baker, Alma College; addresses by the district secretary, Mrs. Dunn, ex-district president; Mrs. Fred Haggan, Miss Andress, Alma College; Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. W. A. Barons, Belmont, and Mrs. D. D. Finch, and a socal duet by Mrs. A. Baker and Miss Baker.

About eighty women were present, and at the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

And I have seen your fingers hold
this glass;
These things do not remember you,
beloved:
And yet your touch upon them will not pass.

More C. H. F. Seeds.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—We are watching that C. H. Fund grow with much interest. The children have gathered some poppy and hollyhock seeds, and are sending them in for anyone who may wish to have them. The popples are really beautiful with curly tops like asters. Have you any cosmos seeds? If so I shall send for it later on.

THE NUN.

Ans.—Thank you for sending in the seeds that the kiddies gathered. With so many interested ones like yourself our fund is growing rapidly. Yes, there are still some cosmos seeds left.

Christmas Gift for Fund.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—I have been an interested reader of your Mail-Box for a long time now. I see so many sending a mite for C.H.F., I feel as though I should do something also, so I am sending my mite now.

I was just wondering how the Boxites would like, just for once, to save a few dimes now and then and send in what they can for a Christmas present to the fund. I know it is almost three months till then, and surely we can raise a little mite by that time.

ANS.—I think the Christmas present for the fund a splendid idea, and I am sure all the Boxites will agree with me and begin to save up their dimes, as every little bit helps. Thank you for the suggestion, Mrs. M. McN., also for your mite.

MRS. M. McN.

Attention of Lois.

Dear Miss Grey,—I would not be back so soon only I noticed the request made by Lois for the words and music of "Carolina Sunshine." As I had it I am mailing it to you, Miss Grey, for Lois. The price of it is 35c. Please keep the amount for the hospital fund.

Please inform me what kinds of flower seeds you have on hand for C. H. F., Miss Grey. PUSSY WILLOW.

Ans.—Have forwarded song to Lois. I thank you, Pussy Willow, for donating the proceeds, when Lois remits, to the C. H. F. There are Hollyhocks, Cosmos, Marigold and Poppy seeds all waiting to be sent for.

Preserving Pears In Crocks.

Dear Miss Grey,—We have a quantity of lovely pears and we cannot get cans to put them in. Is there any way to grind them up and keep them in crocks? If so, I wish you would print it in your column.

Isn't this lovely weather? It is October and not any frost yet. Although Jack is never welcomed though he seems a jolly fellow.

March Wind has my sympathy with the rest, for I know what it is to lose a loved one. I lost my mother last May.

I am keeping house for my father and brother, so you see I need quite a lot of help, as I am only a young kid.

Here are a few helpful hints:

To remove ink stains—Saturate with turpentine and let remain several hours and rub spots.

To remove paint—Rub with vaseline and then benzine.

To clean silver—Soak in buttermilk for two days if real dark.

To remove spots from clothing—To one quart soft water add one-half ounce liquid ammonia, 2½ drams alcohol, 1-8 ounce chloroform, ¼ ounce borax, 3-8 ounce castile soap, ½ ounce saltpetre.

For Burns—Rub in equal parts of linseed oil and lime water. Mix and shake well.

Getting ahead of the wind—To a convenient place outside of the front door attach a spring clothespin and ask the paper boy to snap your paper in it. By this simple device your paper avoids a journey down the street and is kept clean.

If anyone has any dialogues to trade I will copy them and trade with someone who has some. It soon will be time to be preparing for Christmas entertainments. Please find Hospital gift inclosed. ALARM CLOCK.

Ans.—Here is a method for preserving pears in crocks, provided the crocks have corks, not open mouths: Prepare as for canning, put in crocks, cork and seal corks over tightly. But perhaps some of the Boxites could give another method, as I am sure they will all be willing to help such a young housekeeper. Thank you for useful hints and Hospital gift.

Keeping Butter For Winter.

Dear Miss Grey,—I thought I would like to write to you once more, as I had a few things to write about. I got a letter from the lady that asked for my address and I answered it and I guess it was too long, for I never got another, so think she has dumped me overboard. I heard the other day how to keep butter for winter. Make it up in pound balls, tie in cheese cloth and drop into strong brine and it will keep fresh. Here is how I make wine, if a can of fruit works: I put this juice in a can, put more sugar in it, leave for two or three weeks, let it have air. Cherry or any kind of juice will do if it is good and sweet. I told a lady there was no kick in it and she tasted it and said. "Well, if there isn't a kick it's not far off." May I have the stocking-foot pattern. Here is 10 cents for S. C. H. TIRED.

Ans.—Thank you for the Hospital dime. Pattern has been mailed.

A GOOD meal, daintily served, is most fully appreciated when eaten in a room that sparkles with sunshine and cleanliness.

Your dining-room will always have this much-to-be-desired appearance if you use O-Cedar Polish, as directed, on the woodwork, floors and furniture.

A few drops of O-Cedar on a wet cloth will form a soft lather which removes any dust and grime the furniture may have collected.

Over this clean surface simply rub a dry cloth. The "polish" that results from this treatment is bright and lustrous—it will cheerfully reflect the rays of sunlight that enter the room by day, and mirror the soft radiance of shaded lights after sunset.

SUPERBAS DROP FOURTH TILT OF WORLD'S SERIES

Cleveland Evens Up On Home Grounds Saturday Afternoon To Tune of 5 to 1.

COVELESKIE WINS AGAIN

Manager Robinson Sends in Four Pitchers in Vain Effort To Stem Tide—Myers Fields Splendidly.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9.—The Clevelanders romped off with the fourth game of the world's series in easy fashion, trampling over the prostrate forms of the Brooklyn Nationals by a score of 5 to 1. Coveleskie's strong pitching stopped the Brooklyns cold. Brooklyn used four pitchers to stop the eruption of hits from the Indians' bats. The official box score shows how the Indians massacred the Dodgers.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cleveland—Wamby up. Wamby got a single into right field, hitting the first pitched ball. Speaker up. Strike one, foul, strike two, foul. Speaker got a long single into centre, Wamby going to third. Speaker went to second on the throw into third to catch Wamby. Mamaux was taken from the box and Rube Marquard went in to pitch. Burns batted for Smith. Burns up. Ball one, two, three, strike one. Wamby and Speaker scored on Burns' single to left, when Wheat fumbled the ball for an error. Burns went to second. Gardner up, stike one, two, ball one. Gardner struck out. Wood batted for Johnston. Wood up, strike one, ball one, ball two. Wood flied out to Myers. Sewell up, strike one. Sewell scratched an infield hit, Burns going to third. O'Neill up, ball one, two, three. O'Neill was purposely passed and the bags were full. Covey up, strike one. Covey forced O'Neill at second, Kilduff, unassisted.
Two runs, four hits, one error.

FOURTH INNING.

Brooklyn—Burns went to first for Cleveland and Wood went to right. Olson up, stike one. Olson flied out to Speaker. Johnston up, foul strike one. Johnston got a line single into left field. It was Brooklyn's first hit. Griffith up, strike one, Griffith crashed a long hit into right field, and Johnston scored. It was a two-base hit for Griffith. Wheat up. He flied out to Speaker, and Griffith went to third after the catch. Myers up, strike one. Sewell threw out Myers at first.
One run, two hits, no errors.

Cleveland—Evans batting for Jamieson. Evans up, ball one, strike one, ball two, three, strike two. Myers made a spectacular shoestring catch of Evans' line drive. Wamby up, Marquard threw out Wamby at first. Speaker up, ball one, strike one, ball two. Speaker went out, Kilduff to Koney.
No runs, no hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING.

Brooklyn—Koney up, strike one, two, ball one, two, three. Koney walked. Kilduff up, strike one, ball one, foul stike two. Kilduff fanned in a most approved fashion, from the Cleveland standpoint. Miller up, strike one, two. Miller hit into a double play, Sewell to Wamby to Burns.
No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cleveland—Burns up, strike one, two, ball one, two. Burns struck out. Gardner up, strike one (Burns playing first base, Wood playing right field, Evans playing left field for Cleveland), strike two. Gardner lined out to Myers, who took the ball with his back to the centre field bleachers. Wood up, strike one, two, ball one. Olson threw Wood out at first.
No runs, no hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING.

WOODSTOCK COLLEGE OUTCLASSED AT SARNIA

Imperial City Collegiate Juniors Have Walkover in Saturday Rugby Game—Score 34 to 0.

SARNIA, Oct. 10.—The Woodstock College rugby team proved no match for the Sarnia Collegiate juniors in an exhibition interscholastic game, the Sarnians outclassing the visitors throughout the game and winning by a 34 to 0 score at Bayview Park before a good crowd today, despite the intermediate game at Petrolea.

The losers had a lot on the Sarnia team in weight, but the smooth working attack of Jack Newton's proteges proved too much for them, the halves going around the Woodstock wings at will and the Sarnia line plunging for gains repeatedly. Both teams used spares freely. The work of the Sarnia wings in getting down under Hayes' punts and in breaking up the play of the collegians was conspicuous. The teams:

Sarnia.		Woodstock.
Garvey	L. E.	Golloway
Newton	L. M.	Jackson
Potter	L. I.	Denman
Randolph	L. S.	Rutherford
Richardson	C. S.	Adams
Watson	R. S.	Furlonger
Pugh	R. I.	C. Broadway
Teakey	R. M.	Swartzman
McKay	R. E.	R. Broadway
McGibbon	Qtr.	Second
Hayes	L. H.	Fulton
Lebel	C. H.	Bentley
Corsy	R. H.	Mitchell
Simson	F. W.	Spencer
Parks	Spares	Holland
Donohue	"	Martinez
F. Simpson	"

DIFFICULTIES ARE ADJUSTED.

SARNIA, Oct. 10.—The Sarnia Collegiate Interscholastic rugby team will not be compelled to play in the same group with the Sarnia and Stratford juniors. This was vouchsafed by Secretary Harry McKee of the O. R. F. U. over long-distance telephone last night.

Immediately upon the publication of the suggested draft of the junior schedule for this district, the S. C. I. rugbyists started out to block the idea. Last night Captain "Poke" McGibbon had Mr. McKee on long-distance, and told the O. R. F. U. man flatly that the S. C. I. would drop out of the union rather than abide by the ruling of the secretary.

Mr. McKee, after hearing the S. C. I. complaint, assured the collegiate captain that they would not be compelled to play with the junior teams, and that he would make some provision for them in the interscholastic grouping.

TWO HOME RUNS PUT SUNDAY GAME ON ICE FOR CLEVELAND CLUB

Indians Whitewash Brooklyn and Take Lead in World's Series—Wambsganss Makes Unassisted Triple Play—Grimes Purposely Passes O'Neill To Get Bagby, Who Hit Homer, Scoring Three Runs — Smith Does Same Stunt With Boxes Full.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10.—In a game filled with sensational situations beyond the wildest dreams of fiction, the Cleveland Americans defeated the Brooklyn Nationals 8 to 1 in the fifth contest of the world's series here this afternoon. An unassisted triple play by Wambsganss and home runs by Elmer Smith and Jim Bagby were individual feats that will linger in the memory.

The victory broke the tie existing between the two teams and tonight Cleveland is confident that the world's series banner is within its grasp.

The Dodgers, crushed by the two reverses of Saturday and today, are clinging desperately tonight to the hope that Sherrod Smith, their left-hander, may be able to check the savage batting onslaught of the Indians tomorrow, but in view of Cleveland everything is over but the shouting. The Indians believe that they have solved the mystery of the Brooklyn pitching staff.

Two records were established during the hectic hour and 49 minutes occupied by today's contest. Never before in a world's series had a triple play been made by one player. So seldom has this feat been accomplished in any league that many fans recount the occasions from memory. A home run with the bases full was the other epoch-making incident. Another home run, four doubles and a score of fielding and batting features were thrown in for good measure.

Wambsganss' feat is a "Cleveland special." The Indians' second baseman is a Cleveland product and Cleveland was the scene of a similar play eleven years ago. If the annals of baseball are to be relied on, triple plays unassisted have been accomplished only eleven times and only twice in the major leagues.

Neal Ball of the Cleveland Club of 1909, carried out a triple play unassisted. In a game between the Boston Red Sox and the Indians played July 19 of that year, Stahl was on first and Wagner at second, with McConnell at bat, when Ball pulled his great play. Today the stage setting was much the same. Both Kilduff and Miller had singled to centre in turn at the beginning of the fifth inning and were perched on second and first, respectively, when Mitchell came to bat. He drove a hot liner high and to the left of second base. Wambsganss leaped into the air and speared the ball. Then before the spectators could grasp the play, he had sprinted to second and stepping on the bag, eliminated Kilduff, who was well on his way to third. Miller was making for second in the belief that the hit was a safe one. It was an easy matter for Wamby to run up the base line and touch him, completing the first triple play ever made by a single player in any world's series.

Cleveland's attack opened with another play that would have been a feature under any other circumstances. With the bases loaded with Indians, who had singled in succession off the slants of Burleigh Grimes, Elmer Smith stepped to the plate and, catching one of Grimes' fast spit-balls on the very end of his bat, lifted the sphere up and over the screen that tops the right field fence for a home run. The ball was so hard hit that it not only cleared the screen but struck a house across the street from the ball park. The thing was contagious. In the fifth inning, after O'Neill had been purposely passed, Pitcher Jim Bagby hit another homer, when there were two men on bases.

Bagby's hit furnished another novel feature in world's series ball. Never before in such a series have the first seven runs of a game been scored on home run hits.

There were many other sensational plays, and Catcher O'Neill of Cleveland was responsible for two of these. In the first innings he threw his body full length back of the plate and blocked a wild pitch by Bagby, which, had it passed, would have permitted Olson to score with two out. Again in the second inning O'Neill took Jamieson's perfect throw from deep left field and checked Konetchy's rush to score from third, where his triple had placed him a moment earlier. In another respect the contest was peculiar, for while Brooklyn scored thirteen hits off Bagby, as against twelve accumulated by the Indians, the Dodgers were unable to score their solitary run until the ninth, and they did it then due to the strange antics of a ball. Wheat and Myers had singled and were on bases, when Konetchy hammered the ball out. The sphere hopped and zig-zagged towards Johnston, the Cleveland first baseman. But in such an eccentric course that the baseman could not get in front of it. Johnston threw up his hand, either to catch the ball or protect his face and it ran up his arm and bounced from his shoulder into right field. On this weird play Wheat came home and Brooklyn was saved from a shutout.

The attendance exceeded any previous gathering during the present series, the official figures being 26,684, with receipts of $82,059. The streets for miles about the park were packed solid on both sides with automobiles. There was not room for more than one person in the stands. Speculators unloaded tickets at fabulous prices. Girders and fences were festooned with men and boys, and every point of vantage outside was thronged. Roofs, trees and telegraph poles bore burdens of humanity.

Viewed from a technical standpoint, the pitching records indicate that Bagby's superior control and ability to keep the Brooklyn batters hitting the ball into the air where the fielders had a better chance was the big feature in the Cleveland pitcher's success, for in other respects there was little to choose from in the work of the opposing boxmen.

Bagby threw the ball 109 times, while Grimes and Mitchell sent it plateward on 128 occasions. Bagby allowed thirteen hits and the Brooklyn pitchers twelve, but the latter threw 52 called balls to Bagby's 35. Eleven of Brooklyn's outs were grounders, while eight were flies. Bagby threw 27 strikes, 9 foul strikes and 6 fouls, as compared with 29 strikes, 9 foul strikes and 5 fouls for the Brooklyn pair. Six Incians went out on flys and 15 on grounders.

PLAY BY INNINGS.
FIRST INNING.

Brooklyn — Olson up; strike one, strike ball two, foul; Olson singled to left. Sheehan up; foul, strike one, ball one; Sheehan sacrificed, Bagby to Wamby. Griffith up; Griffith went out to Johnston unassisted. Wheat up; ball one, ball two; Wheat flied to Jamieson. O'Neil saved Bagby a wild pitch by a nice catch near the ground.
One hit, no runs, no errors.

Cleveland—Jamieson up; Jamieson singled. Wamby up; Wamby singled into left field, Jamieson going to second; Speaker up; Speaker bunted safely and the bases were filled. Grimes fell down trying to get the bunt, and it went for a safe hit. Smith up; strike one strike two; ball one; Smith hit a home run, scoring Jamieson, Wamby and Speaker ahead of him. The ball went over the right field fence. The crowd was in an uproar. Gardner up; ball two, strike one, foul, strike two, foul; Gardner popped to Olson. Johnston up; ball one, foul, strike one; foul, strike two, ball two, ball three; Johnston scratched an infield hit which neither Grimes nor Kilduff could reach. Sewell up; strike one; Sewell hit into a double play; Olson to Kilduff to Konetchy.
Four runs, five hits, no errors.

SECOND INNING.

Brooklyn—Gardner threw out Myers at first base. Konetchy crashed a long hit to left centre for three bases. It was his first hit of the series. Kilduff up; strike one, ball one, strike two, ball two; Kilduff lined to Jamieson, who threw Konetchy out at the plate, O'Neill touching the runner as he slid into the plate.
No runs, one hit, no errors.

Cleveland—O'Neill up; strike one, ball one, strike two; Olson threw out O'Neill at first base. Bagby flied out to Wheat. Grimes tossed Jamieson out at first.
No runs, no hits, no errors.

THIRD INNING.

Brooklyn—Miller up; hit a long single down the left field foul line. Grimes hit into a double play, Gardner to Wamby to Johnston. Olson singled sharply into right field for his second hit. The Brooklyns were hitting the first ball pitched. Sheehan singled into right field, Olson going to second. Griffith popped to Gardner.
No runs, three hits, no errors.

Cleveland—Wamby went out, Kilduff to Konetchy. Speaker was thrown out at first by Kilduff. Smith came up and the crowd cheered him. Smith shot a long hit into left centre for three bases. Gardner was thrown out by Kilduff to Konetchy.
No runs, one hit, no errors.

FOURTH INNING.

Brooklyn — Wheat fanned. Bagby fooled him on a big drop. Myers singled through Sewell. Myers went to second on a wild pitch, but was out when he tried to go to third, O'Neill to Gardner. Konetchy sent a hot smash to Sewell, who knocked it down and threw him out at first.
No runs, one hit, no errors.

Cleveland — Johnston singled off Grimes' legs. The ball went into left field. Johnston went to second on a short passed ball. Sheehan threw out Sewell at first, Johnston going to third. O'Neill walked. He was purposely passed by Grimes. Bagby hit a home run, scoring Johnston and O'Neill ahead of him. The ball went into the temporary stands in centre field. Jamieson singled off Konetchy's bare hand. Grimes was taken out of the box at this juncture and Clarence Mitchell, a left-hander, took up the hurling burden. Wamby flied to Wheat. Speaker up; Jamieson went out stealing second, Miller to Olson.
Three runs, three hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING.

Brooklyn—Kilduff singled into left field. Miller singled into centre, Kilduff going to second. Mitchell hit into a triple play. Wamby took Mitchell's line drive and touched second, doubling Kilduff, and then turned and touched Miller for the third out. It was a triple play unassisted, the first time in a world's series.
No runs; two hits; no errors.

Cleveland—Speaker grounded to Sheehan, who threw the ball over Konetchy's head, Speaker going to second. Smith singled to centre, Speaker going to third. It was Smith's third hit. Gardner scored Speaker with a line single to left field, Smith moving up to second. Johnston sacrificed, Konetchy to Kilduff, Smith going to third, and Gardner to second. Sewell fouled out to Sheehan, who made a nice catch near the grandstand. O'Neill was purposely passed, filling the bases. Bagby forced O'Neil at second, Olson to Kilduff.
One run; two hits, one error.

SIXTH INNING.

Brooklyn—Olson lined out to Sewell, who made a leaping catch. Sheehan went out Wamby to Johnston. Griffith flied to Speaker, who caught the ball in right field.
No runs; no hits; no errors.

Cleveland — Jamieson went out, Konetchy to Mitchell. Wamby got a great cheer when he came to bat; ball one, Wamby flied to Wheat. Speaker walked on four pitched balls. Smith forced Speaker at second; Kilduff to Olson.
No runs; no hits; no errors.

SEVENTH INNING.

Brooklyn—Wheat singled sharply over second base. Myers forced Wheat, Sewell to Wamby. Konetchy struck out, and Myers was almost caught asleep between the bags, but O'Neil made a wild throw to second, Myers reaching second. Kilduff up. Sewell threw out Kilduff at first.
No runs; one hit; one error.

Cleveland—Krueger went in to catch for Brooklyn. Gardner up; Gardner fouled out to Krueger. Johnston up; Kilduff took Johnston's easy roller and got him at first. Sewell was patient and got a base on balls. O'Neill up; Sewell was out stealing; Kreuger to Kilduff.
No runs; no hits; no errors.

EIGHTH INNING.

Brooklyn—Krueger got a long single into Speaker's territory. Mitchell hit into a double play, Johnston to Sewell to Johnston. Olson up. Gardner fumbled Olson's grounder, and Olson was safe at first. Sheehan went out to Johnston unassisted.
No runs; one hit; one error.

Cleveland—O'Neil went out, Olson to Konetchy. Bagby got a line single over Kilduff's head. Graney batted for Jamieson and fanned. Wamby forced Bagby, Olson to Kilduff.
No runs; one hit; no errors.

NINTH INNING.

Brooklyn—Graney went to left field for Cleveland. Thomas now catching for Cleveland. Griffith fanned. Wheat crashed a single into right field. Myers singled over second, Wheat taking second base. Konetchy up. Wheat scored when Konetchy's grounder bounced off Johnston's glove for a hit, Myers went to third on the play. Kilduff up. Bagby threw out Kilduff at first, Konetchy going to second. Krueger popped to Wamby.
One run; three hits; no error.

PETROLEA AND SARNIA RUGBY TEAMS BATTLE TO A DRAW SATURDAY

Opening of Intermediate O. R. F. U. Season At Petrolea Is Real Clash.

PETROLEA, Oct. 9.—The O. R. F. U. intermediate season was opened in Western Ontario today, when Petrolea and the Sarnia team, champiosn of 1919, clashed in the initial struggle for the district championship. The result was a drawn battle, each team scoring 12 points in one hour's fast and strenuous play. It is doubtful if two more evenly matched teams ever battled on an Ontario gridiron.

The local team was superior on the wing lines, but lacked the speed possessed by the visitors on the back division. Wilson of Petrolea out-punted Harding, the Sarnia centre half, throughout the game, and it was in no small measure due to his work that the locals were saved from defeat. While Stevens, Brown and Currie one the line for Petrolea showed up exceptionally well, and hit the line for gains repeatedly. Karn at right half for Sarnia was the star on the opposing team, and to his runs is due the credit for saving the game for the county town.

Sarnia kicked off, and Petrolea received, gradually working the ball toward their opponents' goal line. After five minutes of play, Wilson made a neat drop from the 25-yard line, which sent the pigskin over the cross-bars for the first score of the season, netting his team 3 points. A fumble by the Petrolea backs gave Sarnia the ball on the local 35-yard line, and after two minutes' futile attempt to break through, Harding went around the end for 30 yards and a touchdown, which he failed to convert.

Sarnia 5, Petrolea 3. This ended the scoring in the first quarter. Petrolea added another point before half-time by forcing Sarnia to rouge on a long kick by Wilson.

A few minutes after play was resumed Petrolea again forced Sarnia to rouge, tieing the score. Sarnia worked the ball towards Petrolea territory, and when Wilson fumbled near his own line, went over for another touchdown, which was converted. On a kick by Harding, Petrolea secured the ball in mid-field. An end run by Wilson netted 5 yards. Whiting of Petrolea broke through for a further gain of 20 yards. Bucks by Currie and Stevens put the ball over the Sarnia line. Wilson converted.

Shortly afterwards Sarnia kicked, forcing Petrolea to rouge. The Petrolea wings were outplaying the visitors at this time, and repeatedly broke through blocking attempts to kick. Sarnia was always fortunate, however, securing the ball on all occasions. With Petrolea in possession of the ball on the Sarnia 30-yard line, Wilson kicked, forcing Harding to rouge. Petrolea 12, Sarnia 12. Time was called a few minutes later.

ORIOLES DEFEATED BY ST. PAUL SUNDAY

American Association Champions Score First Win Over International Leaders.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10.—St. Paul broke into the win column this afternoon, when it captured the fourth game of the inter-league series from Baltimore by a count of 8 to 4. Making the most of lapses in the Baltimore defence and bunching hits, the Saints managed to get more runs than hits, while the Orioles could not dent the rubber until the closing round, when they made it sufficiently unpleasant for Coumbe to make Manager Kelley send Griner to his relief. Up to that time the crack southpaw of the American Association champions had pitched good ball.

Both teams left tonight for St. Paul, where the series will be continued next Wednesday.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
St. Paul	8	7	1
Baltimore	4	12	4

Coumbe, Griner and Hargrave; Frank, Groves and Styles.

GALT DEFEATS GUELPH

GALT, Oct. 9.—In the opening game of the Interscholastic Rugby League here this afternoon at Victoria Park, the local collegiate squad took into camp the fast Guelph team by a score of 9 to 1. A large crowd witnessed the game, which was featured by hard tackling on both sides.

Rainer, Galt half, was star of the game, his punting being the feature, while Pequegnat was the pick of the visitors. The score by periods was 1 to 0 in favor of Guelph, 6 to 1, 7 to 1 and 9 to 1.

Teams:
Guelph—Flying wing — Lafontaine; halves, Ryde, Pequegnat, Morton; quarter, Cray; scrimmages, Maher, Gibson, Ebby, Middles, Bell, Hearl; insides, Price, Oaks; outsides, Hamilton, Ritchie.
Galt—Flying wing, Lunn; halves, Warren, Raynor, Rolofson; quarter, Gaskins scrimmages, Henderson, Braggman, Pearce, Middles, Panabaker, Donnell; insides, Kribbs, Fink; outsides, Conochie, King.
Officials—McKelvey, Brantford; McGuire, Galt.

HOCKEY OFFICERS ELECTED.

TILLSONBURG, Oct. 10.—The annual meeting of the Tillsonburg Hockey Club was held last evening, when the following officers were elected: Honorary president, V. A. Sinclair; honorary vice-presidents, Mayor McQueen, W. C. Coloff; president, T. W. R. Taylor; vice-president, C. W. Conn; secretary-treasurer, F. R. Flood; executive committee, W. S. McDonald, C. E. Parlow, G. A. Prior, A. S. Rennie and J. S. Vance; manager, Deloss Hicks.

Tillsonburg has the material for a good fast team, and the prospects are that this will be a banner year for the hockey club. It is the intention of the club to secure the services of a good coach.

RUBE MARQUARD FACES CHARGE OF "SCALPING"

Dodgers' Southpaw Hurler Arrested in Cleveland For Alleged Illegal Sale of World's Series Tickets.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9.—Richard (Rube) Marquard, one of the star left-handed pitchers on the Brooklyn National League pennant winners was arrested here today on a charge of ticket "scalping." Marquard was arrested in the lobby of a downtown hotel on a warrant issued by Assistant Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton. He was charged with offering for sale eight world series box seats, the original cost of which was $52.80, for $350. He was released on his own recognizance to appear before Municipal Judge Hilbert Monday to answer to the charge of ticket scalping.

NO SURPRISE THAT COVELESKIE FIRST CHOICE OF SERIES

Work in Starting Better Than Any Other This Season.

STANLEY NOT BLAMED

Fault of Team That He Was Not Winner in the Games.

[By Ernest Lanigan.]

It was not surprising that Tris Speaker gave Stanley Coveleskie the pitching assignment in the first game of the world's series, for the Peerless Pole was Spoke's choice oftenest during the championship season for the kick-off game of a set and he did better work starting a series than anyone else to whom the job was intrusted. Most of the defeats chargeable aginst Stanley in the first game of a series were his team's fault more than his, it being an exception when the Tirbesmen did any .302 clubbing behind him.

The Indians engaged in something like 41 real series last season, a one-game or two-game set not being considered a series, and they copped the opener 26 times, letting it escape on fifteen occasions and having an average for drawing first blood of .634.

The man who subdued the Superbas in the blow-off game of the world's classic of 1920 had the honor of pitching Cleveland's first championship game of the year, turning in a shutout at the expense of the Browns. Coveleskie pitched fifteen other opening games of series, his record for the year along this line of endeavor being ten victories and six defeats.

Disgrace generally was absent from the half dozen lickings sustained by the Indians when a series was started with Coveleskie on the rubber. The meek and lowly Athletics beat him twice, and each time the score was 2 to 1, Speaker & Co. making four hits behind him once and three hits behind him the other time.

Coveleskie stumbled once against Chicago, Detroit, New York and Washington, when he was Speaker's first choice for a series, and about every time his foot slipped the Indians failed to back up his boxwork with any offense.

Stanley won every opening game he pitched against the Browns and was not called on to hurl any inaugurals against the Red Sox.

Against the other Sox, Coveleskie started three series. He won the first time out, 3 to 2, and the second time out by the same score, but on his third attempt he was beaten 6 to 3 by a man who will not be in O. B. next season. Chicago then made seven hits in 21 times at bat off Coveleskie, while Cleveland obtained eight wallops in 32 trips to the plate off a southpaw who couldn't resist temptation.

When he started series against the Tigers, Coveleskie was successful three times, unsuccessful once. His wins were by scores of 11 to 4, 9 to 3 and 10 to 3, his defeat on the basis of 1 to 0. Hubert Leonard was the Pole's conqueror and he allowed seven hits to the right-hander's five, yet won out.

Coveleskie, when he faced the Yankees in blow-off games, won twice and lost once. The reverse came on May 15 in New York, when Jack Quinn, in the eighth, with a man on the runway, deposited the ball in the right field stand, knocking in the only tallies of the game. Quinn yielded four blows; so did the man he beat.

The inaugurals Stanley won when he had the Yankees as his adversaries were by scores of 7 to 1 and 10 to 4.

The Shamokin southpaw started two series against the A's and lost out each time, once to William Bryan Harris and the other time to Edwin Augustus Rommell, jun. How feeble the Indians' attack was behind Coveleskie in these two games has been told.

Coveleskie's luck in opening games of series with the Browns was better. He started the season by limiting the Burkemen to five hits and shutting them out and followed this up by wins on the basis of 11 to 3 and 7 to 4.

Coveleskie started only one series against Washington and was beaten then, 3 to 2, Courtney being his conqueror and Frank Brower, late of Reading, the man who broke up the game. Brower knocked in all his club's counters.

Of the other 25 pry-off contests, Caldwell pitched ten, Bagby eight, Mails three, Morton three and Myers one. When the Salamancka Sliver was nominated to start off, Cleveland won seven times and lost thrice; when Sargent Jim was chosen, the Dunnmen won five times and lost thrice; when Duster Mails was picked they won twice and lost once; when Guy Morton was selected the reverse was the case, and when Elmer Myers was tagged they were successful.

These men, however, were not always to be credited with the wins or charged with the defeats when they started series: Coveleskie always was the responsible party.

Stanley was the logical selection for the opening game against the Sassy Superbas, and as Tristram E. Speaker would say, "He was selected."

ASSUMPTION TEAM TRIMS WESTERN HERE SATURDAY

Local Crew Holds Visitors Scoreless At Tecumseh Park During Half Under Canadian Rules, But Is Routed During American Style of Play—Lack of Condition and Practice Tells On University Players—Final Score 27 to 6.

Despite the fact that they were defeated by the Assumption College team, Western University rugby players made a creditable showing in the first game of the season here, staged at Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon. The final score was 27 to 6. The Western outfit held college scoreless during the first half, which was played under Canadian rules, but in the latter part of the game, in which the American style of play was exemplified, the border huskies romped away with the bacon. Western was sorely handicapped in the last half, while the advantage was with the locals playing their own style during the first stages under Canadian regulations.

The Assumption College team is a heavy one, and members had interference and forward pass plays under the American style down to a science. This style of play is followed throughout the season by the Sandwich boys, who must necessarily do so owing to the fact that the majority of their games are booked with American universities. About five hundred local fans turned out to witness the battle, and a fair-sized crowd of rooters accompanied the victors from Sandwich. They took up position in the north bleachers and vied with the Westernites, led by "Doc" Thompson, in making a big noise to encourage their favorites.

More Kicking Needed.

Had Western resorted to more kicking in the first half the final score might not have been so one-sided, and in future games more protection from the line is required by Traynor ere his kicks have a more certain and telling effect. Western's one and only touchdown was made in the first quarter, when Cline broke through for a 50-yard end run. Traynor converted. Several times during this period Western broke through the college line and thwarted kicks, thus gaining possession of the ball.

At this point the visitors showed their lack of practice under Canadian rules, signals becoming mixed several times with near disastrous results. In addition the quarter called the signals so slowly that the referee cautioned him to expedite matters and the opposition had an opportunity to fathom the plays. A beautiful running kick by Traynor featured the first quarter, and he also ran ten yards through a centre hole in the college line a few moments later.

Engage In Fight.

Jacques, who starred for Assumption, brought the rooters to their feet shortly before quarter time by a brilliant 40-yard end run. He was brought down by Cline. The second quarter was quite young, when Sheehan of Assumption and Wainwright of the home team engaged in a little fistic battle, with the result that both were ruled off the field, and the latter did not play again until the second half. An opportunity to run up a score was consequently lost by Western playing a man short, Wainwright's absence being noted.

In this period Assumption's signals became more confused. Williams, for the university, distinguished himself time and again by brilliant tackling the little fellow taking them all regardless of stature. A buck for Western, led by McPherson, ripped a hole in the college line, and when Traynor fumbled on a kick, losing the ball, Williams was again to the fore with his tackling stunts. At this point Barron, for the visitors, injured his knee, which has given him trouble before, and he was carried off the field. The crowd gave him a cheer, and Burke substituted at right half. On their last down the Westernites kicked, Assumption returned to Traynor, who made yards before being brought down by Sheld. The half ended with Western leading by six points.

Where They Won.

The third quarter opened under American rules with eleven men to a side, and the college crew proceeded to demonstrate their superiority in this line. Continuous bucks by them obtained the first touchdown, which was not converted. Jacques did the trick. A moment later Assumption lost the ball by a forward pass, which Wainwright nabbed. Sheehan later broke through for a run, did not hear the whistle and continued on the rampage until Traynor indulged in a little tackling practice and brought him down near Western's ten-yard line. Shortly after Cline went through for a run, he was replaced by Heard and McInnis went on to substitute for Dyer. The quarter closed with the score six all.

At the opening of the final quarter Jacques went over with a touchdown for Assumption, which was converted and therefore, under American rules, counted seven points. After the kick-off Jacques made a thirty-yard end run and brought the ball into Western's danger zone again. A penalty on Jarrot made it more dangerous, and a dandy buck with Shield leading added six more points for the visitors, and a convert made it seven. The forward pass was now introduced more extensively by the Sandwich crew and it worked fine. Tackles by McPherson and Heard were noted at this stage, and Wiliams kept up his good work. Wainwright made a good flying tackle, but was carried off the field as a result. Callaghan substituted.

All Our Own Way.

Traynor took a forward pass from Assumption once more, but after that the visitors had everything their own way. Fisher brilliantly brought Shield to earth, but it merely delayed the scoring. Traynor was temporarily laid out and gamely continued. In the last minute of play Assumption plunged through Western's line and Shied made a touch, which was converted.

Coach Mel Brock believes that his team has a fine chance to win against Toronto and St. Michael's College, who come here this month, and the belief is founded on what he saw Saturday. Loss of two weeks' practice compared to other teams evidenced itself in the game and the defects will be ironed out in grilling workouts this week.

Public Utilities Down Grand Trunks in City Cup Tie Soccer Semi-Finals

Wasps Eliminated At Springbank Saturday Afternoon When Winners Finish Strong—Finals With Princess Pats This Week—Victors To Take McCutcheon Cup — Large Crowd of Fans Turns Out To Witness Best Game of Season.

[BY UNOMI.]

Over seven hundred enthusiastic soccer fans saw Public Utilities win out in the last five minutes of play at Springbank Park Saturday afternoon, thereby eliminating the Grand Trunks from the McCutcheon City Cup Tie series. With the score one against them the winners finished in great style, when Green shoved two [illegible] Garr[illegible] the Wasps' goal keeper. They will play the final game with the Princess Pats on Saturday next and the victors will take the silverware.

The battle was one of the best seen here this season, and both teams had their best lineup on the field. Utilities won the toss and elected to defend the west goal. Stockley kicked off for the Wasps, who immediately made things interesting for the Utilities' defence, both Hunt and Dennis tackling, blocking and clearing well. Ruddell and Lownie tried hard to score for the Wasps. Smith got into action and secured the ball which he passed to Green, who in turn played excellent combination with Leigh. He ultimately sent the sphere out of play, and on the kick-off Spillsbury secured it for Grand Trunks.

Ince, for the other side, repeatedly broke up the Wasps' vigorous rushes which followed, during which Askew was temporarily laid out. Play seesawed for a while, both Garrow and Brown clearing well, although Public Utilities almost scored when Green took a pass from Whitworth. The ball was returned to the winner's territory by Spillsbury, Allday and Bearchill working together, but clever work by the Utilities' custodian saved. He was the object of a barrage of shots, which he stopped by very clever work. Finally, on a rebound, Stockley scored the Wasps' one and only counter.

Undaunted by this setback, Utilities bombarded the Wasps' goal, and Leigh was blown off-side just as he was about to take a sure shot. Play was vigorous at this stage, and Astrell was put out of action for a while. Playing with ten men, the Wasps gamely continued to beat down Utilities' defence, but failed to score. Numerous offsides on the part of all contestants kept the referee busy, and Garrow distinguished himself by numerous clever saves. The score at half-time showed that the Wasps led by the solitary goal.

With play resumed in the second half the Wasps assumed the aggressive, several splendid rushes being noted. Utilities' halves repeatedly broke up the Wasps' combinations, and in conjunction with their fast and clever forwards besieged their opponents' goal. Hard luck prevented them from scoring during this play. The Grand Trunks' defence was severely tested, and Green took a penalty kick, which he shot past Garrow, thereby tying the score.

With seventeen minutes to play, the game became more exciting, both eleventh driving hard for mastery. A free kick granted the Utilities just outside the Wasps' penalty box, was taken by Short, and Jimmy Green caught the ball with his head, sending it past Garrow with seven minutes to play. The Grand Trunks tried in vain to tie the score, but the victors kept up their terrific pace until the final whistle. A feature of the game was the stubborn defence maintained by both teams. Spillsbury and Garrow starred for the Wasps, while players on Utilities' side vied with themselves for premier honors.

The consensus of opinion among experts is that the best team won, the score being an indication of play. A large representation of the postoffice staff was present to witness the battle. The Wasps were unbeaten in city games up until Saturday, which reflects great credit on the players who finally did the trick. The teams lined up as follows:

Public U.		Grand Trunks.
Whitworth	Goal	Garrow
Hunt	R. back	Ganny
Dennis	L. back	Brown
Ince	R. half	Astell
Smith (capt.)	C. half	Spillsbury

BOTH TEAMS DEFEATED.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 10.—Collingwood junior and senior rugby teams, which accompanied the collegiate students on a fraternal visit here yesterday, defeated Owen Sound collegiate teams. The scores were 16—0 and 25—0, respectively.

AGGIES 21, ST. JEROMES 0.

GUELPH, Oct. 10.—The annual exhibition rugby game between the O. A. C. and St. Jerome's College of Kitchener was played Saturday afternoon before a large crowd at the college campus. The Aggies proved superior in all departments and won the match, 21 to 0.

Orients Are City Baseball Champions

Defeat Grand Trunks in Final Game At Queen's Park Saturday—Nopper Proves a Puzzle To Losers.

The Orient Club baseball team won the city championship at Queen's Park Saturday afternoon, when they blanked the Grand Trunks in the final game of a series and obtained five runs. The fixture Saturday was the third battle between these teams, both having been credited with a win and a loss. Nopper, on the mound for the Orients, was a puzzle to the railwaymen, who secured but four hits off him. Two of these were infield scratches, and the winning hurler fanned ten men.

McLeod, pitching for the Grand Trunks, was nicked for nine hits, one of which was a home run made by Smith in the lucky seventh. In the third spasm the winners got to McLeod and, aided by two errors, they scored three times. This put the game in the refrigerator, and the Orients, who are Inter-Club champions, later added more for good measure. McLeod issued three walks and fanned nine batters.

Failure to connect when hits meant runs spelled defeat for the Grand Trunks. A large crowd of well-satisfied fans turned out to witness the final game of the season here. The following box score explains the situation:

SPORTING EDITOR OF MONTREAL GAZETTE "PANS" HOME TEAM

Montreal, Oct. 11.—Discussing the Argo-Montreal game of Saturday in the Inter-Provincial League, in which the former won by 10 to 6, the sporting editor of the Gazette writes: "From the community viewpoint, it is regrettable to report a local loss, but in all frankness one is compelled to state that Montreal did not deserve to win. It was not that Argonauts displayed any marked superiority, except that the double-blue had the better line, but the play of the Montreal lot was far below championship par. Briefly, it was disappointingly bad, and good only in spots. The machine was creaky and out of plumb; lacking cohesion, it failed in its purpose."

In the first of the home-and-home games, played at Orangeville, the latter won by 9 goals to 6, and yesterday at Scarboro Beach grounds, Toronto, Orangeville again won, 7 to 4 making the total on the series 16 to 10 in their favor. The game yesterday attracted 8,000 spectators.

THOUSANDS POURING INTO WINDSOR FOR BIG RACING CLASSIC

Sir Barton and Man o' War Are Closely Guarded.

MAN O' WAR FAVORITE

Canadian Horse Is Likely To Give Him Greatest Race of Career.

Windsor, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—Speculation here is rife as to the outcome of the classic matched race at Kenilworth track tomorrow between Sir Barton, J. K. L. Ross' 4-year-old prodigy, and Man o' War, conceded to be the best of the 3-year-olds. Every hotel is crowded to capacity, and many citizens are throwing open their homes to the followers of the turf in an endeavor to accommodate the overflow. Many have gone to Detroit, but it appears certain that even Detroit's hotels will be practically all filled if the number increases to any great extent. Not a small number of the Canadians are adverse to staying in Detroit owing to exchange and other conditions. Crime is rampant in the big city, and a civilian squad was organized on Saturday to co-operate with the police force in the suppression of crime.

Yesterday it is estimated that a crowd of 3,000 people visited the Kenilworth track to see Sir Barton and Man o' War. The two racing celebrities were well watched by the Pinkerton detectives squad, so that no harm could be done them. Every preparation has been made to safeguard the principals in the match race and their attendants. Special stables of the bungalow type have been constructed, the quarters of the trainers and the grooms being above the stalls. Surrounding the house is an abbreviated oval on which Man o' War and Sir Barton may get exercise, and around is a high fence through which the curious may not pass without having secured the permission of the owners and trainers of either horse.

Big Crowd Expected.

When Man o' War and Sir Barton leave the barrier tomorrow it is safe to presume that Kenilworth will contain a crowd considerably larger than has gathered at any Canadian track during the many years of racing. Detroit, being situated across the border, will naturally supply the largest quota, but it is also learned that delegations are expected from Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal, Ottawa, New York, Philadelphia, New Orleans and as far west as Vancouver. A perusal of the hotel registers shows that practically every city of racing importance in Canada and United States is represented. Mr. Orpen states that he has completed negotiations with the Michigan Central Railway to run its trains through the tunnel from Detroit. The service will be every half hour, commencing Tuesday at 11 a.m. Special trains are also being run from Toronto and other central points.

Man o' War to date is favorite for the title event, but there are many who will back Sir Barton. Some of the "experts" saw both horses in trial on Saturday, and they are of the opinion that Sir Barton will give Man o' War the biggest race of his life. Sir Barton worked the distance that he is required to run tomorrow, and his time for the mile and quarter was not discouraging. He made the fast and fleet-footed Baby Grand step to the first half mile with him, and on the last three-quarters he was picked up by His Choice, another fresh pace-maker. Sir Barton negotiated the distance in 2:09 flat.

Man o' War in trials and in races has worked the distance before. Before his arrival here he worked the distance in 2:02 3-5. After his long train journey he galloped the same distance in 2:07 4-5.

BASEBALL PLAYERS MUST PAY STATE INCOME TAXES

New York, Oct. 11.—The long arm of the law in New York State will reach out for taxes due from about 125 baseball players sharing in the receipts of the world's series.

Under the terms of the recently-enacted income tax law in this state, not only will the players who live within the state be taxed on their share of the receipts of world's series games played here, but those who reside in other states as well. The law affects not only the Cleveland and Brooklyn players, but the runners-up and third teams in each league—Chicago and New York in the American and New York and Cincinnati in the National.

The non-resident players, it was explained today, are taxable because they rendered "personal services" in New York. The National Commission will take out from the checks to non-residents an amount sufficient to pay the tax, whenever their shares are greater than the exemption allowed by the law.

TRAINER FEUSTAL WILL APPEAR IN VAUDEVILLE

[By Staff Correspondent of Canadian Press, Limited.]

Windsor, Oct. 11.—It is stated here on good authority that Louis Feustal, trainer of Man o' War, has signed a contract to appear in vaudeville during the coming winter. His itinerary, it is understood, will include every large city on the American continent. Feustal already receives a reported salary of $10,000 for his services as trainer of Riddle's horses, and 10 per cent of the total earnings of all horses under his jurisdiction.

Last year Man o' War won in the neighborhood of $85,000. His recent winnings have brought the amount to approximately $200,000. Should Man o' War win the match here it is likely that he will be exploited in the movies. D. W. Griffith has already secured the privileges for the race tomorrow, paying, it is said, $10,000 for the rights.

SEVERAL MINOR AUTO ACCIDENTS IN RAILWAY CITY AND VICINITY

Occupants Escaped Any Serious Injuries—Cars Badly Damaged.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 10.—A number of auto accidents occurred yesterday, but fortunately in no case were serious injuries sustained by the occupants of the cars. The cars of Miss Nellie O'Brien, Hughes street, and Alex DeGroat, Chestnut street, collided as Miss O'Brien was turning out of Horton street, and Mr. DeGroat coming west along Talbot street. Both cars were damaged, and Mr. DeGroat has been summoned for an infraction of the motor vehicles act.

A lady driving a Ford, and a boy riding a bicycle collided at the corner of Hinks and Talbot streets, with the result that the lad, Earl Nitzel, was knocked off his wheel. The boy's arm was hurt and his wheel damaged, but it was not till a spectator interfered that the lady promised to foot the bill for its repair.

Confused by the glare of the lights on an approaching automobile, the driver of another car, proceeding in the opposite direction, ran into the abutment of a bridge near Yarmouth and wrecked his car, but he and his companion escaped injury.

The steering-gear of their auto not responding to the wheel as Rev. J. B. and Mrs. Brown were returning to their home at Springfield, the auto ran into the fence, and Mrs. Brown was seriously cut about the face. The car was undamaged.

BRITISH WARSHIPS TO FIRE ON SOVIET SUBS, DECLARES CURZON

Rumors That Russian Submarines Had Put To Sea in Baltic Given As Reason by Bitish Government For Announcement—Curzon Charges Bad Faith On Part of Russians.

London, Oct. 10.—Any Russian submarines encountered on the high seas will be attacked on sight by British naval forces, according to a note sent by Earl Curzon, British foreign secretary, to M. Tchitcherin, the Russian Bolshevik foreign minister, on October 2, which is published along with other correspondence recently exchanged between Great Britain and Soviet Russia.

Earl Curzon points out that he previously sent a communication regarding a submarine launched in the Black Sea, in which he said that in view of repeated declarations of leading members of the Soviet Government that the Government considered itself in a state of war with Great Britain, and in view of the impossibility in these circumstances of waiting to ascertain whether the intentions of the submarine controlled by the Soviet Government were hostile or not, there was no alternative but to issue orders to British ships to attack the submarine should it be encountered on the high seas.

Upon hearing rumors that submarines of the Bolshevik fleet had put to sea in the Baltic, Earl Curzon sent his note of October 2. To it M. Tchitcherin replied that Leonid Krassin, Soviet representative in London, would receive instructions in the matter.

Demand Compensation.

Earl Curzon also demanded compensation for the widow and son of Charles Frederich Davison, who is alleged to have been "murdered in cold blood with no charge preferred against him" by the Soviet authorities in January last.

Yesterday Earl Curzon sent a lengthy reply to M. Krassin's note of October 6, in which the British foreign secretary says some of Krassin's points are trivial and far-fetched, based on erroneous information or widely removed from the facts. He pointed out that Great Britain, more than any other power, has sought to bring about peace between Soviet Russia and Poland, and "has only been called upon to stand by its treaty engagements to its allies by the bad faith which characterized both military and diplomatic movements of the Soviet authorities."

Concerning the use of Danzig for the transmission of munitions, Earl Curzon asserts this was an obligation imposed up on the Allies by the treaty of Versailles. Should Great Britain give to Gen. Wrangel the kind of assistance indicated in the Russian reply, he said, the position of Southern Russia would be very different from what it is at present.

Repatriation Delay.

Delay in repatriation of Russian subjects, the British foreign secretary explains, has arisen solely from the constantly shifting demands made by the soviet authorities and the imperfect data supplied. He charges the soviet with trifling with the question of the return of British prisoners and with sending troops to Persia in open violation of its promises.

Earl Curzon also charges the soviet with having engaged in a military conspiracy which it assisted by the dispatch of considerable numbers of Bolshevik troops to operate with the Turkish nationalist party in Asia Minor, the movement ostensibly being directed against British interests; with threatening an invasion of Khorassan, in Persia on the Russian trans-Caspian border; with having created a great organization in Tashkent for marshalling the forces of Central Asia in an attack on British territory and British interests; with having brought about a revolution in Bokhara with the same object and with having maintained envoys in Afghanistan in an attempt to conclude a treaty with the Amir openly aimed at inciting a tribal rising on the Indian frontier.

The soviet launched a tornado of propaganda, intrigue and conspiracy against British power in Asia, the foreign secretary declares, and spent large sums thereon, while Russian representatives were enjoying the hospitality of the British Government and were engaged in friendly negotiations in London. This is a situation, Earl Curzon says, which must come to an end if the trade negotiations are to be concluded.

Notify British.

Regarding the repatriation or Russian subjects, the foreign secretary suggests they be taken to Riga or to Reval and Odessa, to be held at the disposal of Great Britain until the British Government learns that the British prisoners have crossed the Russian frontier. He further suggests that the Soviet Government notify all British subjects they are free to leave Russia with their removable property.

Earl Curzon concludes by saying that Great Britain will hold the Soviet Government faithfully to the redemption of its renewed pledge to desist from hostile propaganda, either direct or indirect, and more particularly from military action or propaganda aimed at British interests or the British Empire in Asia.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

FARMERS TOO BUSY TO COME TO MARKET

Very Little Produce Offered and Prices Show No Change.

Very little produce was offered on the local market today. The farmers state that owing to the unusually large crop of all products they cannot come to the city. In three weeks most of the work will be done, and it is then expected that the market will reach its usual fall dimensions. Many changes in prices are expected, especially in potatoes, owing to the big crop. Potatoes were slow sellers on the market on Saturday and again today. Housewives are not buying their winter supply until they become more plentiful.

Hay was in good demand but scarce at $29@31 a ton.

Oats sold at $1 90@2 per cwt., with a good demand, but very little offered.

Wheat remains the same at $2 per cwt.

Peaches sold at 75@90c for a large basket. It is not expected that there will be a large trade in peaches now, as nearly all housewives have in a good supply for preserving. Those purchased now are being used mostly for eating. The scarcity of sealers has tended to hinder the sale of peaches in large quantities.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—Wheat opened ¼c to 1¼c higher for October at $2 24@2 23; November 1¼c higher and December 1⅞c higher.

Oats opened ⅛c to ⅜c higher for October; December ⅛c higher and May ⅛c higher.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Opening: Wheat—Dec., $2 03; March, $1 99½.

Corn—Dec., 84½c; May, 89½c.

Oats—Dec., 56⅜c; May, 60¾c.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Wheat prices today reflected the bullish influence of an organized movement of growers to force the market up to a minimum of $3 a bushel. Offerings were unusually light until values had scored a substantial upturn. Commission houses then took to the selling side, and something of a reaction ensued. Opening prices, which ranged from 1c to 4½c higher, with December at $2@2 03, and March at $1 96½@1 99½, were followed by material further gains before the market began to sag.

Corn was firmer with wheat. After opening ⅝c to 1⅝c higher, including December at 86@86½c, the market steadied at slightly under the intial figures.

Oats paralleled the action of other grain, starting ¼c to ¾c up for December at 59¼@56⅝c, and then receding a little.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Toronto, Oct. 11.—With light transactions, which, however, were spread over the greater portion of stocks on the list, narrow price fluctuations this morning afforded a clear indication of the mixed sentiment prevailing among traders on the Toronto Stock Exchange regarding industrial and financial conditions in Canada.

Among the listed stocks, price variations of over a point were confined to three issues, while practically all stocks dealt in showed fractional gains or losses from Saturday's close. Atlantic Sugar's gain of 1¼ points was in the nature of a recovery from last Saturday's weak showing, while Spanish River, common, made a similar gain on light transactions. The preferred stock declined 1¼ points.

Slight losses were sustained by Brazilian, Canada Bread, Cement and C. P. R., while firmer stocks included Steamships, preferred, Steel Corporation.

MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE.

Montreal, Oct. 11.—The local stock exchange was very dull and uninteresting during the first half hour this morning. With the exception of a few fractional declines, nothing worth mentioning took place. Abitibi opened at 77¾ after cvlosing at 78 on Saturday. Brazilian also lost a quarter point to 37, as did Brompton to 81½. Laurentide was unchanged at 111. Atlantic Sugar gained a point over the week-end to 121. Breweries and Wayagamack were unchanged at 64 and 138 respectively. Spanish River was steady at 109½, and Riordon gained a point to 215. Other issues were quiet.

Morning sales: Abitibi, 125 at 77¾@77½; Breweries, 20 at 66; Asbestos, 75 at 101@100; do, pfd., 100 at 107@105½; Brazilian, 50 at 37¼@37; Brompton, 1175 at 81¼@81; Cement, 35 at 62¾@62¼; do, pfd., 20 at 90½; Detroit Railway, 150 at 108; Howard-Smith, 250 at 163@162; do, pfd., 30 at 104; General Electric, 5 at 99; Dominion Bridge, 35 at 86; Dominion Steel, pfd., 30 at 66@65½; Dominion Textile, 35 at 130; Laurentide, 170 at 110½@110; Montreal Power, 55 at 82⅝@82; Price Bros., 25 at 383@385; Riordon, 150 at 215@214; Shawinigan, 15 at 108½; Spanish River, 265 at 111¼@109½; do, pfd., 140 at 116¾@115; Sugar, 360 at 121@120; Dominion Glass, 25 at 66¼; War Loan, 1925, $500 at 92¼; do, 1931, $5,200 at 90¼@90; do, 1937, $1,500 at 91½@91¼; Bank of Montreal, 32 at 186; Bank of Commerce, 36 at 175; Merchants' Bank, 12 at 168; Bank of Nova Scotia, 6 at 246@245.

WILL CONTINUE FIGHT TILL THE BOOTLEGGERS ARE WIPED OUT

Declared Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin in Address in Stratford Church Sunday.

STRATFORD, Oct. 10.—That the authorities are determined to continue their fight against the bootleggers in Essex until the traffic is stamped out, was the declaration of Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin of Windsor at Trinity Methodist Church today. Mr. Spracklin in the course of his sermon referred to the power behind the law-breakers and of the desperate methods which they have adopted, including an attack upon his own life. Rev. Mr. Spracklin's visit was in connection with the harvest home services of the church.

Police Court Case Follows Quarrel of Cornith Women.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 10.—Leopold Diome was taken off a M. C. R. train today in an intoxicated condition by Captain Kast, the company's detective, and is locked up. Diome was not short of funds. He had about $60 on his person, and refused to say where his home town was located.

Half of Corinth Interested.

Mrs. Annie Pitcher, Corinth, was fined $20 without costs Saturday afternoon for an aggravated assault on Mrs. Nellie May Donaldson in August last. The row grew out of some remarks made concerning the children of one or other of the ladies, and Mrs. Donaldson received a severe pummeling. Half of the population of Corinth and many from the sideroads filled the court room.

Will Dine and Sup.

The representatives of the Edison Company will be entertained to a dinner in the engineer's auditorium Monday evening, and the Nujol Company will give a supper to its salesmen at the Empire Hotel on Tuesday.

Fish Inspectors Retired.

The recent retirement of about 250 fish inspectors throughout the province affects three appointees in Elgin County. So far they have received no notice of their reappointment on the new staff, which is being selected by the provincial fishery department. According to the revised plan of fishing superintendents the province will be divided into 43 inspectorates instead of six times that number, but the area of their jurisdiction will be widened.

Control City Nurses.

The Red Cross Society has agreed to take over the management of the city nurses so that hereafter the three nurses on their department will work under the city's direction. The hours and fees will remain the same as at present.

Tag Day Contributions $631.

The result of the tag day, held yesterday, on behalf of the Children's Shelter, was very satisfying to the management. The voluntary subscriptions amounted to $631.

Stansell on a Pilgrimage.

Candidate Stansell of Bayham, the National-Liberal-Conservative nominee, was getting acquainted in Port Stanley yesterday, and will go on a far and wide itineracy of the Township of Yarmouth next week. Mr. Stansell, like Elder Charlton and Sydney McDermand, is confident of his election.

BRANTFORD TO HOLD OLD BOYS' REUNION DURING SUMMER, 1921

BRANTFORD, Oct. 10.—An old boys reunion will be held here during the summer of 1921, and a committee has been named to select officers and executive for the management of the celebration. A grant will be asked from the city for preliminary expenses.

The first complaint from Bellview, annexed to the city last year, has been received from the ratepayers, and the city council is already being reminded of broken promises. Residents of the district are wrathful that city water connections have not been made, and the hydro situation is also a grievance. They have organized an improvement society to secure redress.

RUPTURE KILLS 7,000 ANNUALLY

Seven thousand persons each year are laid away—the burial certificate being marked "Rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the sign (swelling) of the affliction and paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

But science has found a way, and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a FREE test right in the privacy of their own home. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO PAD when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore, cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. To be used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture CAN'T come down. Send your name today to PLAPAO CO., Block 413, St. Louis, Mo., for FREE trial Plapao and the information necessary.

ONTARIO PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

This Commission has been appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to inquire, consider and report upon the best mode of selecting, appointing and remunerating Sheriffs, Local Masters, Deputy Clerks of the Crown, Local Registrars of the Supreme Court, Surrogate Registrars, Crown Attorneys, Clerks of the Peace, County Court Clerks, Registrars of Deeds, Masters of Title, Police Magistrates, Justices of the Peace, Issuers of Marriage Licenses, Jailers and Turnkeys, all officers of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario at Osgoode Hall, Toronto; Division Court Clerks, Division Court Bailiffs, Coroners, County Constables, High Constables and any deputies and officers acting under them, or any of them, and the advisability of consolidating any of such offices, and as to what qualifications should be required of appointees, the remuneration such officials should receive, and the source from which it should be derived, and how the surplus revenue, if any, from such offices should be applied, and whether or not the Public Service Superannuation Act should apply to such officials in whole or in part, and generally to consider and report upon all matters pertaining to the placing of such offices upon the most efficient and businesslike footing, and, further, to inquire into and report upon the advisability of extending the operation of the Land Titles Act throughout the Province of Ontario.

The Commission will sit in the Court-house at London, in the County of Middlesex, on Wednesday, Oct. 14, 1920, at the hour of 9 o'clock a.m.

All persons desiring to appear before the Commission in regard to any of these matters will kindly communicate with the Secretary, J. W. Mallon, whose address is Osgoode Hall, Toronto, in order that arrangements may be made for a hearing.

Dated at Toronto, this 7th day of October, 1920.

JAMES W. MALLON, Secretary.
W. D. GREGORY, Chairman
Oct. 11, 13.

Notice to Creditors

In the matter of the estate of James J. Flanagan, late of the City of London, in the County of Middlesex, Clerk, deceased.

NOTICE is hereby given pursuant to Section Fifty-six, of the Trustee Act (R. S. O., 1914, Chapter 121), that all creditors and others having claims against the estate of the said James J. Flanagan, who died on or about the twenty-first day of August, 1920, are required on or before the first day of November, 1920, to send to Murphy & Gunn, Bank of Toronto Chambers, London, solicitors for the executors of the last will and testament of the said deceased, their names, addresses and full particulars of their claims, and the nature of the securities (if any) held by them.

AND take notice that after such last mentioned date the executors will proceed to distribute the estate of the said deceased, having regard only to the claims of which they shall then have notice, and that the said executors will not be liable for the said assets to any persons of whose claims notice shall not have been received at the time of such distribution.

Dated the 2nd day of October, 1920.

MURPHY & GUNN,
Solicitors for the Executors.

De Laval Separators

Are By Far the Most Economical!

Real economy is never short-sighted. It never confuses PRICE with VALUE.

PRICE is what you pay for an article.

VALUE depends upon the amount and quality of service the article gives you.

You get by far the greatest actual value for your money when you buy a De Laval—BECAUSE a De Laval will give you much better and longer service than any other cream separator.

From the standpoint of its greater durability alone the De Laval is the most economical cream separator to buy, and when you also take into consideration its cleaner skimming, easier running, greater capacity and less cost for repairs, the price of the "cheapest" machine on the market is most exorbitant compared with that of the De Laval.

And there is no reason why you should let its FIRST COST stand in the way either, because the De Laval may be purchased on such liberal terms that it will actually pay for itself out of its own savings.

Call on the nearest De Laval agent, or write our office.

COLLINGWOOD PUPILS PAY FRATERNAL VISIT

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 9.—What will, it is expected, prove to be the first of many fraternal visits was made yesterday by Collingwood Collegiate Institute to the institute here. The visitors, including students and several members of the staff, came over 60 strong, bringing in two rugby teams and a basketball team, and three good games were played, the rugby resulting in a victory for the visitors, while the local girls won the basketball after a hard fight.

After the games, the visitors were entertained at a banquet in the gymnasium, prepared and served by the girls of the household science department, under the supervision of their instructor, Miss Prichart, and at the close of the banquet an informal dance in the assembly hall filled in a couple of hours before the guests left for home.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe To Bring Back Color and Lustre To Hair.

You can turn grey, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning grey or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the grey hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Grey-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight, and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

TURN BACK RATHER THAN BE JAY-WALKERS

Those persons who persist in crossing Dundas street between intersections were told just what they were on Supnday by signs which had been painted on the pavement. At intervals on the road signs reading "O. U. Jay" and "U. J. Walker" were very prominent. Rather than admit that they were "jay-walkers" many citizens turned back, thus lessening their chances of being knocked down by an auto. At each intersection safety zones had been marked out for the guidance of pedestrians and motorists.

TURKS BORN BEASTS, SAYS MISSIONARY

Rev. Ira Pierce At Congregational Church—Tells of Armenian Tragedy.

A graphic description of the suffering Armenians and the brutality of the Turks toward this downtrodden nation was given by Rev. Ira Pierce, a missionary who has only recently returned from Asia Minor, where he has been engaged in missionary duties, at the Congregational Church last night.

Rev. Mr. Pierce was of the opinion that other nations were not coming forward very readily to lend a hand to the Armenians. "I have heard it said that the Turk is a good soldier and a gentleman, but my opinion after witnessing their brutality to men, women and children of Armenia, is no less than that the Turks are born beasts.

"The horrible massacres of women and children, and the atrocious manner in which they handled deported Armenians is past description. One could not travel along the country roads without seeing evidence of the brutality in the piles of bodies on the roadside. Whole families of well educated Armenians have been wiped out by the Turks." Mr. Pierce gave some instances of the cruelty of the Turks to the Armenians, and appealed for prayers and help for this suffering nation.

AUTO IS DEMOLISHED, BUT DRIVER ESCAPES WITH FEW INJURIES

S. J. Prouse Has Rib Broken When Struck by L. and P. S. R. Car.

S. J. Prouse, 536 Elizabeth street, miraculously escaped death when the motor car which he was driving was completely demolished by being struck by a northbound London and Port Stanley electric car at Wellington street at 5:05 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Mr. Prouse sustained a broken rib, and was badly bruised and shaken up. He was in the act of moving some articles from a house on Grey street to his new home on Elizabeth street when the accident occurred. It is stated that a string of freight cars obstructed the view of the train, and also obstructed the view of the crossing from the motorman.

The motor car was shoved up against a telegraph pole and crushed before the train could be brought to a stop. Those who saw the wrecked car state that they could not see how an occupant could come out of the wreck alive. The car was a Ford coupe. Mr. Prouse was removed to his home after receiving medical attention

FIRST WEEKLY RECITAL.

The first weekly pupils' recital was held at the London Institute of Musical Art last Saturday afternoon. The following pupils were heard by the musical director, A. D. Jordan, and marked according to the excellence of their performance: Lois Purdom, Nellie Milligan, Valeska Harrison, Lenore Crawford, Alma Rutledge, Helen Rutledge, Gladys Morrisson, Will Baldwin, May Attrill, Lucy Harding, Miss E. Scanlon and Kathleen Yeates. The teachers represented were Miss Minnie Raymond, Miss Irene Foster, Miss Jean Walker and Mrs. A. D. Jordan.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? SMALL BOY'S IDEA OF MAN-O'-WAR

WINDSOR, Oct. 10.—(By Canadian Press.)—Man o' War, the idol of American racing fans, precipitated a near-riot here on Saturday, but it was of a friendly sort, so no casualties are reported. The streets of the border city were crowded with race-track followers, eager to gain entrance to the paddock that they might gaze upon the much-famed horse. To the surprise of all, a boy passed the word along: "They've got Man o' War just around the corner."

"This was the signal for a rush of men, women and children to the place indicated, and a fast-growing mob was gathering around the supposed racing marvel, but after sharp orders by Windsor patrolmen the crowd parted and revealed a very small, amazed and indignant Shetland pony, wearing saddle and bridle, patiently waiting for his young master. It was a small boy's idea of Man o' War.
