WARD TWO SHOWS SLIGHT DECLINE

Assessment Commissioner's Report Shows Decrease of 132 Persons.

ASSESSMENT GROWS

While the city proper will show a substantial increase in population, when the assessment commissioner's department has completed its annual survey, ward two is standing a loss of 132 persons, as revealed by the statement for that district sub-mitted today.

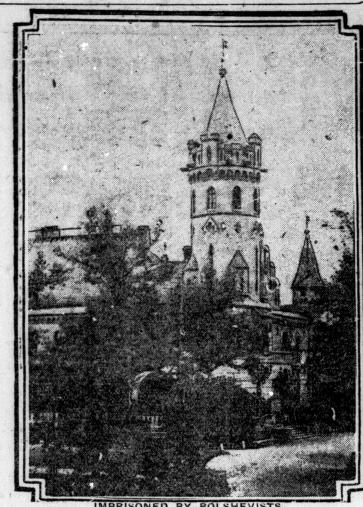

Commissioner Bennett attributes this minor decrease to the fact that there are fewer "boarders" and "roomers" in the downtown section of the ward. A number of the boarding establishments have also closed up shop, while many of the roomers in other houses have either left the city or moved to lodgings in other sections.

A business assessment decrease of $14,000 is noted, but the commis-sioner reminds that a similar amount was slashed from the Grand Opera House assessment a year ago. The record is by no means discouraging in any event, he asserts, as certain vacant business establishments will vet be cared for, while other firms The commissioner's report follows.

Gibbons Best in Fourth.

Gibbons did his best work in the fourth and fifth rounds, the only rounds we won in the fight, although he held Jack even in the second, and then, as Jack came dancing in on his toes, standing straight and wide open, leaped back with a hard left hook on the jaw that caught Jack off guard and jarred him back so that he rocked on his toes as he renewed the attack. Jack tried doggedly to force his way in and reach Tom's body, but was met time and again with jarring left and right hooks. Jack's right eyebrow, often cut in fights, was slightly cut in this round, and the crowd all around the ring yelled, "Tom's got his eye open; get him boy—go get him."

In the fifth Gibbons took the aggressive and went after the champion, grinning and talking to him, and landed hard left hooks on the jaw that threw Jack against the ropes. Jack ran at Gibbons and chased him around the ring, but could not catch him with a punch as Tom turned, twisted and wriggled out of danger.

Looked Tough for Jack.

Looked Tough for Jack.

That fifth round looked tough for Jack. The St. Paul boy outguessed and outfought the champion in streaks. After Dempsey had been plastered to the ropes amidst an uproar of wild yells, Gibbons got him on the jaw again. Jack rushed and could not land a blow. He let go a hard right and grazed Tom's eye, and for a moment Tom held on. Letting go, he retreated. Jack, dodging and swaying and looking for an opening, shot over one hard right to the ear and dug into Tom's body. Tom gave way, stopped suddenly, and cracked Jack on the nose. Dempsey slowed up and seemed bewildered. Gibbons was in like a flash with another hard left and got away untouched. Looked Tough for Jack.

dered. Gibbons was in like a liasa with another hard left and got away untouched.

At that moment it looked as if Tom had a real chance, and he was the picture of confidence. But in the next round Jack went after him with fresh determination, and drove him into and through the ropes, started a punch, held it back, and, catching Tom by the wrist, pulled him back into the raig, and went after him again, reaching in for his body time and again. Some of Jack's blows landed on Tom's belt line, but Tom had his fighting trunks so high that they were well above the waist, and the blows were fair enough. From this time on Tom was breathing hard, and showed signs of weakening under the battering in the clinches. Still he covered well, and held Jack's left arm in the old grip that made Jack powerless to inflict much punishment.

In the seventh he had one of his sudden rallies, and he caught the champion with a left and two crashing rights to the jaw. The last punch landed on Jack's upper lip and drove it between his teeth, just as one of Joe Choynski's punches drove Jeffries' lip between his teeth, just as one of Joe Choynski's runches drove Jeffries' lip between his teeth, just as one of Joe Choynski's runches drove Jeffries' lip between his teeth, just as one of Joe Choynski's runches drove Jeffries' lip between his teeth, just as one of Joe Choynski's runches drove Jeffries' lip between his teeth, just as one of Joe Choynski's runches drove Jeffries' lip between his teeth, just as one of Joe Choynski's runches drove Jeffries' lip between his teeth, just as one of Joe Choynski's runches drove Jeffries' lip between his teeth, just as one of Joe Choynski's runches drove Jeffries' lip between his teeth years ago, but they did not have to use a knife on Jack. The arena was nearly full as the end of the fight drew near. Gibbons made a great fight, and Jack did everything he could against a man who knew every trick of the game, and was there to stay, but Dempsey's showing was not anything to promise that Willard or Firpo, whoever wins the big fight in the east July 12, won't have a shot at the title. Jack proved that he can fight over a distance without losing speed, but the great punch that put Willard down seven times in a single round at Toledo never appeared.

The lands around which the dispute centers are railway lands which were originally given by the province as inties to the builders of the old Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific roads. In the agreement by which they were granted, however, there was a clause which is held by the province to provide that the lands should be restored to it in event of either of the two roads under government owner ship, as has since been the case. The G. T. P. lands have fallen into the possession of the Dominion Government with its acquisition of the rail-road. The C. N. R. lands, however, not having been turned over, are still in the hands of the province.

The resultant situation is that both governments believe themselves to be entitled to that which the other holds. The province believes that is should have handed back to it the should have handed back to it the G. T. P. lands, and the Dominion Government believes that it should ave turned over to it the promised Making their first appearance since the highrecent musical festival held in Toronto, where they carried off premier honors, the Strathroy High School orchestra formed of pupils of Prof. Howard Gordon, gave a grand concert, in which they were assisted by the Glencoe Public School orchestra and a choir of little girls, the latter of whom will compete at Toronto next year, in an effort to bring a provincial public school shield to To-

Dr. MacMillan Thinks Another Glacial Period Has Already Begun.

Observations of prime importance to the entire world are to be undertaken on his present Arctic expedimonths' voyage in polar regions will act as special radio correspondent

Is the unusually cold weather experienced throughout the country this spring and summer the harbinger of a new ice age? Will mankind face another ice cap similar to those which more than once have ground from North America all trace of human life? These are questions not raised casually by laymen but under onsideration today by scientists.

Dr. MacMillan, after extensive observations on several of his polar ex-peditions—including that on which he accompanied Peary in the discov-ery of the North Pole-holds the belief that another ice age has already begun. Bring Out All the Facts.

The presence of a few troops in the Sydney, N.S., area, where steel mill and coal mine workers to the number of 10,000 are involved in a strike and walkout, creates a bad situation.

It is a situation that should be fearlessly probed and brought to a conclusion as quickly as possible.

Troops keeping order, 30,000 idle workers resenting their presence—it all goes to make a situation that is

It is a mistake to imagine that the Dominion government sends troops to Sydney. It is certainly not the desire of Premier King or his colleagues that troops be sent there to throw their weight in a fight against the mine workers. They were called there because local authorities wanted them to preserve order.

wisely decided to go ahead and get one. There is nothing mysterious about the idea; in fact it is not worth mentioning again in council or out of it.

There are dozens of firms in London and elsewhere which provide road cars for certain of their men. They do this because it pays them.

If London considers it advisable that its city engineer should be enabled to get around quickly from one part of the city to another, the sensible thing to do is nut him in a civic car and send him.

It would be poor business to have him walking or standing on a corner waiting for a street car that. when it did come, might not take him within blocks of where he wanted to go.

It Is Not Their Fault.

That is a sentence from an ad in the current issu of a magazine, in which a savings society urges the purchase of a certain number of its debentures annually. The statement is attractive and interesting. Its only defect lies in the fact that it is not true. There are thousands of men who have been careful and thrifty, and yet in old age they have nothing; some may have a few hundred dollars, but it melts against expenses that keep on after earning power has departed.

Many of them never made good wages; they simply a majority into a monopoly? went to work, untrained, and took what some person else was willing to pay them. Out of their hard-earned give the children a chance.

EVIDENCES OF CHRISTIANITY.

He that hath clean hands and a pure heart-Psalms. 24:4. An honest, earnest, true heart; a hand that will not stain itself with unjust gain, or hold an unequal balance, or sign a deceitful letter, or fraw an unfair contract; a tongue that will not twist itself to a falsehood or take up an evil report; a soul that points as true as a compass to the highest ideal of manhood or womanhood—these are the marks and qualities of God's people everywhere.

And when these qualities are exalted and manifested, when a Christian means one whose word is his bond, who can be trusted with untole treasure without fear of his stealing, whose praise is an honor and whose friendship is a jewel of priceless value; one who does duty towards his fellowmen as a service to his God; one whom you can more certainly trust to paint your house, or make your clothes, or draw your will, or take care of the health of your family, because he is a Christian; one whose outward integrity is the proof of inward purity—then the church will have great praise and large triumph.

REPLIES TO QUESTIONS.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir.—Replying to a letter in your issue of the 22nd uit. signed Iconoclast," may I state that Christian Scientists are ready and willing to answer at any time any question of a sincere seeker for information. They refrain from any argument or controversy. They do not try to force their opinions or criticize those holding different ones. "By their fruits ye shall know them," is the Scriptural test for all.

The writer asks: "Could a Christian Science farmer or gardener put into practice a statement from "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, 'the plant grows, not because of seed or soil, but because growth is the aternal mandate of mind?" Knowing this fact, he plants his seed, and continually and publicly on the national thanksgiving day in his church by preclamation of the king, thanks not the seed or the soil, but God, the giver of all good, for "the bounteous harvest veuchasfed to us."

Mrs. Eddy's teaching "There is no ance of him—which is death. To know "the truth that sets us free" is to know the infinite eternal allness of God, life truth and love, which naturally and scientifically destroys any belief of such opposites as death, ignorance and fear being real or existent. Christ Jesus, our great wayshower, proved his understanding of God by destroying sin and sickness, God by destroying sin and sickness, and for our eternal example he destroyed the last enemy, death, by claimed exultingly, "O death, where is thy sting? O Grave, where is thy victory?" Mrs. Eddy's statement There is no death," is a scientific that believeth on Me, the works that lo shall he do also."

'Iconoclast misquotes Mrs. Eddy
"Science and Health" as follows: "While His disciples thought He was dead, Jesus was alive and hiding in the tomb." The truth conveyed is that while his disciples believed him dead while he was hidden in the senulchre, he vanguished and overcame material beliefs, and stepped forth "crowned with the glory of a success, an everlasting vic nstrated divine S ictory over death and the grave." Again I state, the writer should not style himself an Iconoclast. It is

STRATFORD BATTLE ROVERS TO 1--1 TIE IN ONT. CUP GAME

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, July 4.—Stratford and Brueefield Rovers battled to a 1 to 1 tie here tonight in the first of the Ontario Cup football games. A year ago Stratford was put out by the Brucefield eleven, and a little more than usual rivalry existed between the teams when they stepped on the field tonight. Both teams presented their strongest line-ups. Stratford forwards are fast and tricky, and the Rovers steady and experienced. On the play there was life to choose between the teams. In 32 early stages of the game the play waged back and forth without either team being able to score, and it was only in the latter part of the game that the Rovers were able to edge one past Murray. Stratford, battling strong at the finish, were able to tie up the score about five minutes before the full.

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wis. - "I feel that I ought to let you know about my case.

I was ailing and could barely do my washing I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do every thing that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAIECHECK, 944 28th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

A new quick service to St. Thomas

On and after Monday, July 9th, on Station-to-Station calls from London to St. Thomas, you won't have to call Long Distance. Your local operator can connect you.

Simply say to your operator, "St. Thomas 1234" (or whatever the number may be in the directory) and hold tha line. In a minute you will have your party on the line, or be told that the line is busy.

Occasionally all the trunk lines to St. Thomas may be busy. The operator will tell you.

If you call from a party line, your operator will ask, "your letter, please." Tell her the letter which follows your number, or your ring number.

This new quick service applies only to a Station-to-Station call—that is, a call from a number in London to a number in St. Thomas.

First consult your directory, give your operator the number, and hold the line.

A five-minute talk costs 15 cents.

SUMMON THE OLD BOYS FROM ALL OVER WORLD BACK HOME NEXT MONTH

Committee Sends Out 15,000 Programs of Old Home Week Attractions Following Invitations Issued Several Weeks Ago.

LONDON PLANNING FOR GREAT WEEK

Fifteen thousand pamphlets fore-casting the doings of Old Boys' Week were broadcasted all over the United States, Canada and parts of Europe today. These were mailed by Secre-tery Edwin Smith of the London Old *Boys' Association as a follow-up on invitations issued to former Londoners living in all parts of the world several weeks ago.

The booklet urges ex-citizens to elect officers in their communities and come home as an association. It adds that August 4-11 are the days set aside by the proclamation of Mayor George Wenige to officially welcome the old boys and their families as guests of the city.

"We wish you to share the hospitality of those whom you have left behind and to frolic on the greens where you in your childhood days wandered, little thinking that now wandered, he obread "the folder." you would be abroad," the folder

Transportation arrangements for the old boys have been completed, giving them excursion and tourist rates that will substantially reduce the cost of returning to London. Full particulars outlining the best method of securing cheap transportation are contained in the pamphlet. On the cover is a sketch of the original Macgregor home which was the foundation of the city which is today London, Ontario. In red letters beside the sketch are the words 'Come On Home.' Final Program.

The final old boys' program was announced today. As the big carnival approaches there may be minor changes made, but the following is approximately the time and dates of the various events: Saturday, August 4th.

P.J. Watt Loves To Fight His Way In a Good Ship

The Commodore Has Made Sailing His Hobby For Fifty Years.

Fighting the elements in his good ship Barbara, far out in Lake Erie -that's where you see the real P. J. Watt, the P. J. Watt, who is lovingly called the "Commodore," even by his non-sailing friends. The alderman, who acted mayor. on the first of July, is not the real man at all. And the man who was found yesterday afternoon caring for his roses in his Riverview home is not the real P. J. Watt.

He admitted as much himself in these words: "I feel like a fish out of water. After puddling about in the lake for fifty years, a rose yarden not much to my liking. It cannot apared to a good ship out in a

And the Commodore's garden is no mean little bush or two. On Dominion Day he had no less than 2,500 roses in bloom. Built on rather generous lines, with drooping, flaxen moustache slightly tinged with gray, and bright blue eyes, nearly always hidden behind a twinkling smile, the skipper is a comfortable sort of person to meet. Yet, when he is at the helm of his ship in the teeth of a gale, it is a very difficult sort of person you meet, although the sense of humor never Sailed Fifty Years Ago.

Mr. Watt began sailing fifty years ago, and ever since that time it has been his chief hobby. He is a mem-ber of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto, and is one of the few skippers who may fly a royal Huggins, Riddell street, Woodstock, who was best man at Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie's wedding.

Mrs. MacKenzie was formerly Elsie Marjorie Sutherland, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sutherland of Embro. She was born in Ancaster, in what is known as "the Scotch Block." Mr. MacKenzie is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacKenzie. The marriage ceremony was performed at the ceremony was performed at the bride's home on the 10th Line, East Zorra, by the Rev. John McTavish of Chalmers Church, Woodstock. For a year after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie lived in Embro, afterwards coming to Woodstock.

In business Mr. MacKenzie is best remembered as city passenger and ticket agent for the G. T. R., which position, after 45 years continuous service, he resigned at the close of 1922, owing to ill-health. As chair-man of the parks board for many years he was instrumental in secur-ing for Woodstock beautiful parks.

So this year she got ready for long, comfortable mornings spent in the shade of a home-made beach tent which she invented and made herself, much to Dad's admiration. First of all, she got two yards of 60-inch wide any page oleth in bleck and of all, she got two yards of 60-inch wide awning cloth, in black and orange. This she hemmed neatly around all four sides. Then she made a scalloped valance of the awning cloth and stitched it to the top piece.

When Mother started for the beach in the morning she put the awning into her big beach-bag, laid the poles in the bend of her elbow and set out. It took only a moment to dig her poles into the sand at such an angle that the sun was shut out, hook the awning on, and settle herself com-fortably. When the sun got too much for Sonny, there was plenty of room for him under this improvised portable tent. And when Dad came was big enough to shelter him, too.

lada Confide the Future

ANADA is endeavoring to regain her after-the-war stride in the midst of many difficulties-debt, deflation and depression being some of them.

Quack remedies and academic theories beset her path on every side. Some suggest that our debt worries can best be eased by going further into debt. Others preach blue ruin, decry their own country and indulge in mischievous propaganda generally, while still others look for a new social order or some miraculous sign to indicate a better coming day-all this in apparent forgetfulness of the fact that just as there was no royal road to win the war, there is now no royal road to pay for it or regain our former buoyancy, vigor and confidence.

Some are leaving Canada hoping to escape taxation, only to find there is no escape anywhere. In seeking for easy remedies too many of us overlook the fact that the greatest remedy is honest, hard work faithfully and intelligently performed, accompanied by old-fashioned thrift.

It takes time, it takes patience, it takes grit. But every Canadian knows in his heart that Canada is coming through all

Our Experience Proves It

Look back over the path Canada has trod. The French Colonists, cut off from civilization by 3,000 miles of sea, faced a continent-a wilderness-without the aid of even a blazed trail. They had to fight savages, frosts, scurvy, loneliness, and starvation.

The United Empire Loyalists subdued an unbroken forest in one generation, growing their first wheat amid the stumps and snags of the new clearing.

The Selkirk secciers came to Manitoba when the prairie was a buffalo pasture, and grew wheat where none had grown before and where those who knew the country best at that time said wheat never would grow. To-day the Canadian prairies grow the finest wheat in the world.

In proportion to population Canada stands to-day among the wealthiest nations in the world, with average savings on deposit per family of $800. Canada's foreign trade per head of population stands among the highest of the commercial nations, being $192 per capita in 1922-23, as compared with $135 in 1913-14, the "peak" year before the war.

New Opportunities for Canada

In Canada, although prices in the world markets fell below war level, our farmers reaped last autumn the largest grain crop in Canadian history, and Canada became the world's largest exporter of wheat, thus in large measure making up for lower prices.

Last year, Great Britain, after an agitation extending over thirty years, removed the embargo on Canadian cattle, and a profitable and practically unlimited trade is opening up for Canadian stockers and feeders.

"The 20th Century belongs to Canada" -if Canadians keep faith.

The next article will suggest practical opportunities for profit making on our Canadian farms.

able Prices. 58% 59 51 76 16% At the local market this morning cherries were making a strong bid to assume the position in regard to supplies which has been held by strawberries. Several truck loads were brought in, and, taking into consideration the fact that this is just the beginning of the season, the prices are fairly attractive. For an 11-quart basket of red cherries $1 was the prevailing quotation, while for the black variety $1.25 was asked for the same amount. In smaller quantities 12c to 15c per quart was quoted. Most of the receipts came from the Lake Huron district around Forest. In size, this fruit seems to be below the average, but this may be accounted for by the fact that the first picking is not usually up to the standard. The crop this year will not be a record one, but will be medium-sized.

Strawberries are still a heavy offer-medium-sized.

Strawberries are still a heavy offering, and the quotations are slightly lower than last week. By the crate sales were made at 15c to 12c per box and retail at 11c to 13c, two boxes for 25c being the popular price. It is expected that supplies will continue to come to the city till next Tuesday or Wednesday, when the tapering-off process will begin.

In the vegetable section the homes grown products are increasing, the offerings of tomatoes, cucumbers and cabbages being quite heavy. Tomatoes sold at 35c per lb, and cucumbers range from 5c to 15c, according to size.

Imported melons are 15c to 20c apiece.

Old potatoes are slow of cale at the conditions are size at the conditions. Imported melons are 15c to 20c apiece.

Old potatoes are slow of sale at $1.35 per bag. It will be two weeks yet before the new crop is offered to any great extent, the late spring having retarded growth, but the recent rains have assisted the tubers materially.

Six loads of hay met with a brisk demand and sold readily at $12 to $13 per ton. The old crop is much desired by teamsters and others for their horses at this time, and this fact has speeded up sales before this year's product makes its appearance.

Oats were a little higher in price at $1.90 per cwt, the absence of receipts causing a brisk trade in this grain.

Otherwise market quotations were at the average established at Saturday's session, and will remain there till the usual heavy offerings at the week-end market.

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, July 5.—Unexpected higher prices at Liverpool led to an upturnhere in the wheat market today during the early dealings. Weather conditions likely to promote black rust counted also as a builish factor. A reaction, however, soon took place as a result of profit-taking sales and of other selling that appeared to be in the nature of hedges against newly harvested wheat. The opening, which ranged from ½ to ½ higher, was followed by a setback to about the same as Tuesday's finish.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. After opening unchanged to be a set of the same as the same as Tuesday's finish.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. After opening unchanged to %c higher, the corn market hardened a trifle more and then began to sag. Oats started at a shade decline to %c advance. Later the gains were wiped out.

on the two markets this morning

Much Higher Than Last Week.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, July 5.—With the light runs for yesterday and today, making a comparatively light offering for the total week's run, the market today closed good and strong at from 25c to 40c higher than last week for choicest butcher cattle. There are so few fresh cattle in this morning that buyers were almost afraid to touch them. A few yery choice butchers sold strong from 7.65 to $8.25, and a small bunch of baby beeves sold at $9. The balance was easily cleaned up at firm prices, according to quality.

The present strength of the market is due to the light offerings, and it must be understood that these prices would not hold under pressure of a too heavy run of common and umfinished grass cattle. Export trade was quiet, being for the present between seasons. In the small meats the light run of calves and lambs firmed up the market from 50c to $1.

A few choice lambs sold at 16%c to 16%c. Special to The Advertiser.

Hogs steady at $7.75 f. o. b., and $3.35 fed and watered.

An ordinary-looking man wearing a last season's negligee shirt stepped into the business office and unrolled clerk (counting words)—Sixteen into the business office and unrolled a strip of manuscript some three feet long.

"I wanted to see you about this little thing I want to put in the paper. There are fifteen verses besides the other reading matter. The verses are on spring. My handwriting is a triffe illegible, and I may have to read it over to you. This is the way it runs:

Clerk (counting words)—Sixteen dollars and ninety-five cents, ma'am. Young lady—Goodness! I've only thirty cents with me. (Suspiciously.) How is it you charge so much, when the postoffice only requires two cents?

Clerk—We claim to deliver messages quicker than the postoffice, ma'am. You can send ten words for twenty-five cents.

"The air is full of gentle zephyrs, Grass is growing green; Winter new has surely left us, Spring has come, I ween,

"When the sun has set, the vapors Rise from out the meadows low; When the stars are lit like tapers

Then the night winds chilly blow.

fooling away your time on rot like "I didn't mean to bother you," said the other man, rolling up his manu-script. "Is there another paper in the city?"

"Yes, there's a few. Have you go! a family?"

said the ordinary-looking men as he walked toward the door. "I tell you how it is. I cleared over $89,000 last year on these little things I write. I am placing my spring and summer ads for the sarsaparilla firm of which I am a member. I had decided to place about $1,000 in advertising in this term. I will see the other placers. But now to celebrate the derivative of the content of the content twenty-five cents.

Young lady—Give me another blank, please! I guess that will be enough.

After five minutes hard work she produces the following:
"Ring was awfully lovely. Come down as soon as you can."
"MAMIE."

Clerk—This contains eleven words.
That will be thirty cents.
Young lady—Oh, gracious! I wanted that nickel to buy gum with.
Clerk—Let's see. You might strike out "awfully," and that will make it "Take that stuff up to the editorial départment," said the business manager shortly.

"I have been up there already," said the ordinary-looking man, "and they sent me down here. This will fill about a column. I want to talk with you about the price. The last verse runs this way:

"Then it is that weakening languors Thicken in our veins the blood, And we must ward off these dangers Ere we find our names are "mud."

wanted that nickel to buy gum with. Clerk—Let's see. You might strike out "awfully," and that will make it all right.

Young lady—Indeed I shan't. You ought to see that ring. I'll give you thirty cents.

Clerk—To whom is this to be sent? Young lady—It seems to me you are rather inquisitive, sir. Clerk (wearily)—I assure you there is no personal interest expressed in the question. We have to know the name and address in order to send the message.

Ere we find our names are "mud."

"The reading matter that follows is, as you see, typewritten and easily read. Now, I—"

"D—n it," said the business manager. "don't you come in here read.

"D—n it," said the business manager, "don't you come in here reading your old spring poems to me. I've been bored already today with a let of ink and paper drummers. Why don't you go to work instead of fooling away your time on rot like. ou telegraph and have it changed

Clerk—Is it anything important?
Young lady—Yes: I wanted to underscore the words "awfully love-" Will you have that attended to a family?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then, way in thunder don't you get into some decent business instead of going around writing confounded trash and reading it to busy people? Ain't you got any manhood about been so accommodating. Good morning. Clerk—Certainly, and we have ome real nice violet extract; would this town. I will see the other papers you spoke of. Good morning!"

Heater

The Hotpoint Water Heater is the fastest and most economical electric water heater manufactured. Its pat-ented metal-clad element is practically indestructible. The heater itself, is extremely neat in appearance and may be attached to any domestic tank. The controlling switch may be located in any convenient part of the house.

Hotpoint Water Heaters are made in two styles—the circulation type, as illustrated, will give you hot water almost as soon as the current is turned on, while the immersion type is made for continuous operation.

WANT AD TIPS

Five Kinds of Slogans

Question a professional slogan writer, and he will tell you this: The campaign manager who adopts the right slogan has his victory three-fourths won. "The Full Dinner Pail" and other famous political cries, he will cite in proof. He may mention Dick Wick Hall's famous slogan advertising Salome, Arizona-"Where She Danced." Slogans are powerful things for the molding of public thought and sympathies. And that is just why they do valiant service for the classified advertiser. Repetition drives them home. The place of the slogan is with the frequent advertiser. Repeated in each Want Ad, readers ultimately habitually associate the slogan with the advertiser-to his great advantage, if the slogan is well selected. The following are typical slogans: Price slogans: "Satisfied With Small Profits," "Walk Upstairs and Save Half," "The Best For Less," "Meets Competitive Prices," "Eliminates the Middleman," "Buy For Less—From King," "Where Prices Are Lower." Policy slogans: "One Price-Plain Figures," "Satisfaction or Your Money Back," "The Envelope Tells the Truth" (A used car dealer's slogan, based on an envelope giving a car's whole history, such an envelope being exhibited with each Command Slogans: "Use Bell To Sell," "Take It To Taskins. Service slogans: "One Thousand Satisfied Customers," 'Second-Helping-With-a-Smile Service.'

Quality slogans: "Like Mother Used To Make," "Not the Oldest, But the Best." Though slogans can be successful without it, the best ones have invariably an element that makes them "catch on." In the above list a minority possess this valuable characteristic. Even if a slogan isn't "catchy," it can still have the great merit of stating some powerful selling argument in a few
