BULLER WAS MAPPING.

The Boers Trained Masked Guns on His Camp at Elandslaagte.

Ladysmith, April 11.—The Boers opened fire this morning early, sending shells into the British camp at Elandslaagte from three positions widely separated. The shells did no damage. The troops moved out to reconnoitre, and found the Boers in strong force and well fortified. A naval 4.7-inch gun replied to the Boers, who have again placed a Long Tom in position.

When the Boers commenced shelling the British were drilling, and one private was killed and another was wounded before the soldiers were withdrawn from range. Then the Naval Brigade opened fire and drew a heavy Boer fusillade and two of the cruiser Philomel's gunners were killed. The naval men stuck to their positions, however, and the Boers unmasked six guns, including a one-hundred pounder, and shells fell in all the British camps. After three hours bombardment, the Boer fire slackened, and the burghers cleared from a kopje on the right, when a British shell lit on the spot occupied by their gun. Another command was seen moving toward the British left, apparently with the intention of flanking them, but the British shell forced them to retire. The British advanced pickets were continually sniped, but few casualties have been reported. In the afternoon the Naval Brigade again fired a few shells. It is rumored that a body of Boers have gathered southwest of Elandslaagte, with the apparent intention of cutting the British line of communications. Gen. Clery directed to-day's operations. Gen. Buller visited Elandslaagte to-day.

BOER GUNS SILENCED.

London, April 12. In a despatch to the war office, Lord Roberts says: "Buller reports that the enemy attacked his right flank yesterday while he was engaged in changing his position, but our artillery silenced their guns and they did not press the attack. Our losses were four men killed and eight wounded."

NOT FULLY EXPLAINED.

London, April 12.—The operations in Natal have not yet been fully explained. There appears to have been an attempt to outflank the British at Elandslaagte and to sever them from their base at Ladysmith.

An Elandslaagte despatch of the 11th says: "Last night the Boers set fire to the grass on two hills, almost on their extreme wings. The motive has not been ascertained but the incident disclosed the fact that their position extends over fully 15 miles in a continuous row of hills from Jones' Kop, on the British left, to a kopje commanding Sunday's River bridge, on the British right. During the night the Boers moved most of their cannon. There has been some important skirmishing to-day. The British still command Sunday's River bridge. No development from yesterday's affair is expected."

IS BADEN-POWELL DEAD

Boer Reports Say so but the News is Discredited in London.

London, April 12.—A despatch from Pretoria, dated Tuesday, April 10, says: "It is reported here that Col. Baden-Powell, the British commander at Mafeking, is dead. The War Office, however, has no news of the death of Baden-Powell, and utterly discredits the Boer rumor to that effect."

There is little fresh intelligence from the seat of war in South Africa. It looks as though Lord Roberts may be preparing to send a strong force to clear the Boers from behind him. A Cape Town despatch says he will not move for another week, owing to the necessity for gathering stores and supplies.

Gen. Gatacre's sudden removal is the theme of much speculation. The exact manner in which it is announced causes comment.

BOER MOVEMENTS.

The Bloemfontein correspondent of the Morning Post, telegraphing Tuesday, says: "The Boers to the south-east are exhibiting indications of movement, possibly in consequence of our occupation of the railway."

"Bodies of the enemy are still moving from Winburg southward through Thaba N'Chu. Their destination has not been ascertained. The Boers in the neighborhood of Phardeberg show no disposition to interrupt our communication with Kimberley, from which point civil convoys are still arriving."

The Bloemfontein correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, in a despatch dated Tuesday, says: "The permanent defenses are nearing completion so that the town can be held by a relatively small garrison."

"A British scout who has visited the Bloemfontein water works reports that the machinery and dams are intact. Only a few Boers remain in the neighborhood. The enemy have trekked six miles north and formed a laager near Waterfall."

"News from Gen. Brabant at Vepene shows that all is going satisfactorily there. The troops are getting new khaki serge uniforms and boots."

The Bloemfontein correspondent of the Times telegraphing Wednesday, says: "It is announced in general orders that Gen. Sir Herbert Cherride has been appointed to the command of the Third division, vice Gen. Sir Wm. Gatacre, ordered home to England."

"Gen. Brabant's force is confident of being able to hold out. The Boers, after showing considerable dash, have wavered when it came to the final issue, and have struck at last the vital point, where they are greatly handicapped by their proximity to the Basuto border."

TOUGH CHICAGO GANG.

The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Lorenzo Marques, telegraphing Wednesday, says: "The departure of the Chicago ambulance corps for Pretoria was delayed on suspicion of filibustering. The members left by special train this afternoon, accompanied by a motley following of French and German 100 in all. The departure only occurred after many stormy interviews with the Portuguese authorities. The members have no passports and no credentials beyond a letter from Miss Clara Burton to the effect that she knows some of them personally and believes them to be genuine, but many have openly expressed their intention of fighting. The Boers are paying from thirty to forty pounds sterling per month for such recruits."

The Lorenzo Marques correspondent of the Times, telegraphing Wednesday, says: "Epler, an Austrian financier, who is acting as captain of the Rand mines police, in order to frustrate the destruction of the mines, sent a reconnaissance to Pretoria against boring, with the result that State Engineer Munnik's order for boring was cancelled."

KITCHENER ON THE MOVE.

An Aliwal North despatch says: "Lord Kitchener arrived here to-day and left soon after. A Boer big gun was knocked over yesterday at Wepener. The garrison is holding its own. There has been heavy cannonading there again to-day. Lord Kitchener inspected the positions across Fier Bridge with Gen. Brabant and staff, after which he sent a sympathetic message to the Wepener garrison, hoping for an early change in the circumstances."

DAILY AND WEEKLY
Chatham, Ont.

THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY TO SECURE GOOD ROADS

Mr. W. H. Campbell, provincial instructor on public highways, in a special report to the Government states that the agitation in favor of good roads, carried on by the Government during the past few years, has greatly advanced public opinion in the cause, and has further shown that the system used at present to make and maintain our roads has been by no means conducive to the best results. Mr. Campbell held that the popular idea which at first prevailed, that the chief object of the movement was to increase the expenditure on roads, has been largely dispelled, and that it has become generally recognized that the aim of the reform already accomplished in Ontario has been to produce a proper administration of the money now being spent upon the highways. He further says that this applies to both city and town, as well as country roads, in all of which a great annual waste has been going on.

The report shows that the actual money expended upon roads, streets, and bridges, from 1887 to 1896, amounted to $30,623,938. Added to this is about 11,000,000 days of statute labor expended in the townships, which gives a labor and money value of $41,025,358, an average of over $4,000,000 per year. Mr. Campbell contends, after a careful examination, much of this is wasted by methods pursued in townships, villages, towns, and as a general thing in cities, through faulty administration and careless and inexperienced supervision. His report further says: "Ratepayers generally are possessed of the idea that the roads are now built and maintained by statute labor, and that if this work is not performed in the most faithful manner, no serious crime is committed. They fail to realize, however, that owing to the very imperfect manner of doing this work, municipal councils are obliged to impose a direct tax, the amount of this tax, the indifference in expending it, and the inferior results produced, comprise the serious phase of the whole question."

In the county of Middlesex, for example, in the past ten years only 187,580 days of statute labor have been placed on the roads. (Bar in addition to this, in the townships alone, a direct tax of $724,868 has been imposed and expended on the roads and bridges of the county. This means nearly half a million days of statute labor, and about three-quarters of a million dollars; in all equal to an expenditure of $1,212,558 in one county. It is known that previous to the making of this expenditure all the main roads had been gravely by the county and were in practically as good condition as they are to-day. This also is true of the principal lateral roads. An improvement has no doubt been made upon those of less importance by placing upon them large quantities of gravel. During the dry season these roads present a most favorable appearance, but it is generally admitted that from the dirty, inferior and improperly prepared material used, and the want of proper care in shaping the road and preparing the foundation, only a crust has been formed which dissolves after every shower, and breaks up in the spring and fall, demanding a new application of material each year, making the expenditure an annual one, and this enormous taxation is perpetual.

In this county, Middlesex, within the past few years, the building of durable bridges of iron and steel has secured the profitable expenditure of about one-tenth this amount. When it is remembered, however, that this important work of highway construction is done without any plans, specifications, organization or regular supervision, it can easily be understood that money is wasted and labor misapplied. That this should be permitted is due to the indifference of the people and their blindness as to what the roads are really costing them. Had business methods been adopted in Middlesex ten years ago, proper principles of roadmaking followed, and doing the work cheaply and expeditiously with a proper scheme for supervision, Middlesex should have at least 1,000 miles of first-class macadam roads good at all seasons and requiring only attention to preserve them, while the remaining road mileage should have been much improved.

This county affords evidence of what is going on throughout the province. With a knowledge of the true condition of the roads, the returns filed at the Bureau of Industries showing the millions of money and labor expended upon our roads, are simply alarming. They form one of the most interesting features in connection with the agitation for road reform, arousing at all public meetings an expression of amazement and an absolute condemnation of present methods. In no branch of public work is there more cause for scrutiny and criticism, or greater necessity for economy and reform.

In giving some of the underlying defects of the present system, the report states that the control is so scattered that no one can be held responsible for a proper expenditure of the Backs That Ache.

Kidneys That Won't do Kidney Work.

CHATHAM TALK

It is but a short time, (counted by days) since Dr. Fitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets first came to Chatham. It was said they were something entirely out of the common as a specific for Backache and kidney complaints, and that they acted very quickly and made startling cures of cases that all other medicines failed to influence. Chatham people are quickly coming to the front to substantiate this statement. One of them is R. Hart, North Chatham, who relates his experience as follows:—

"I have always worked hard at day labor and odd jobs in different places. Have been very lame, stiff back as a result. To this I lay my kidney trouble; the pain was bad, and the water troublesome and thick. I could not rest at last in any position. I had been using different medicines without much relief until I got a bottle of Dr. Fitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets at A. I. McCall & Co's drug store. They did for me what other medicines could not; stopped the pain and soreness and cleared up the kidney trouble. I am grateful for this and will do all I can wherever I go to let others know of my cure."

To prove the wonderful merits of Dr. Fitcher's Backache and Kidney Tablets, arrangements have been made whereby every reader of The Chatham Planet can obtain a sample package absolutely free by addressing The Fitcher Tablet Co., 48 Adelaide St. East, Toronto, and enclosing two cent stamp for postage. Kindly mention the Chatham Planet when sending address.

labor and money devoted to roads; and further that the payment of a tax in labor is too vague and clumsy to meet modern conditions. Another evil, the instructor maintains, is the divided responsibility in township governments.

In his opinion statute labor should be abolished, as has been done in a number of townships.

BRITISH LOSSES UP TO DATE.

The total number of casualties to date in the British army in South Africa, is 17,901, made up as follows, the deaths from injuries being deducted from the totals of wounded: Officers killed 219
Officers died of wounds 44
Officers died of disease 59
Officers died of accidents 3
Non-commissioned officers and men killed 2,029
Non-commissioned officers and men died of wounds 417
Non-commissioned officers and men died of disease 1,168
Non-commissioned officers and men died of accidents 29
Total deaths 3,958
Officers wounded 630
Non-commissioned officers and men wounded 8,850
Total wounded 9,480
Officers missing and prisoners 171
Non-commissioned officers and men missing and prisoners 4,292
Total missing and prisoners 4,463
Grand total 17,901

Of the total number of deaths no fewer than 1,207 are from disease, and the proportion due to this cause is steadily rising. Last week it was 28 per cent; this week it has gone up to just over 31-1-2 per cent, or very nearly one-third. On the other hand, the mortality from wounds remains exceptionally low, only 4.7 per cent of those injured in action having succumbed to their hurts.

WHY DON'T THEY FIRE HIM?

The Liberal leaders cannot muzzle Mr. Bourassa. Neither can they prevent him calling himself a Liberal if he wants to. But they can and ought to fire him out of the position of party whip, when he expresses such views as this, in talking to the electors of Quebec:

"When men do not enlist quickly enough, a commissioner will be appointed, and he will visit your homes, knock at your door, and if it is not opened he will break it in, for he will have the law on his side. Then he will choose your ablest son, perhaps the very one you depended on to support your family in your old age, put a uniform on his back, a rifle on his shoulder and send him off to Asia or Africa to fight for the glory of England. While the shrieking loyalists of Toronto and Halifax will indulge in banqueting and drinking champagne, the poor old mother will be weeping at home for the son who has been carried off to the war."

It is to be hoped Lord Roberts soon gets those horses he is waiting for. The South African situation is again becoming trying on the nerves.

Couldn't the Government aim a blow at the combines by including an anti-trust clause in all franchises or charters henceforward granted.

The present war goes to show that the horse breeder who raises animals suitable for artillery and cavalry use is the man who is going to make money.

When Admiral Dewey gets through with this presidential contest he will be better able to realize just how the Spanish admiral felt the day after the battle of Manila Bay.

We don't believe the report that the opposition intend to obstruct the session over June so as to prevent a dissolution of parliament this spring. The quicker both sides get done talking, finish up business and go home, the better the country will like it.

Before he left Detroit Frederick Kerr, Mrs. Lingtry's leading man, dropped an affectionate note to the editor of the Detroit Tribune, in which he says: "Sir, You and your staff are paid to be liars, are you not? What a miserable set of 'De-regenerates' (vide Webster), are the little newspaper folk, of this enlightened continent." As Kerr offered to thrash a Philadelphia editor in the same sacred cause, the Tribune editor may be thankful he contented himself with dropping a note instead of calling in person.

The education department of Ontario has issued a circular in which the following suggestions are made with reference to the observance of Empire day, May 23: "It is desirable that every suitable means should be adopted to foster among the youth of our country a high national sentiment. The subject is specially important this year, since the struggle in which England is now engaged, and in which Canada is taking a prominent part, will call forth increased love for British institutions. For the children of our school to appreciate rightly what they owe to the British Empire, it is necessary for them to know something of the traditions, its perils, its stages of growth, its source of power and its many glorious achievements."

There is no love between equals.

Man drunk, Block Signals sober. The introduction of block signals on railroads running fast express trains has lessened the danger and also created a feeling of safety in the minds of those who are compelled to travel to any extent.

The pilot on the engine of the postal express when it reached New London, bore the signs of an accident in which some track walker had lost his life. The engineer knew nothing of it, nor could he tell when the supposed accident happened.

None of the operators could shed any light on the mystery, but, strange to say, the operator in the tower just east of the Westerley station failed to respond. Repeatedly he was called up, but to no purpose.

An investigation showed that he was lying on the floor, dead drunk. From the appearance of things it looked to those present at the station as if the man had set out deliberately to celebrate. All the signals were set at safety, and there was no reason why the accident should have been avoided.

Not Polite to Interrupt. "I want to get off—the man with the round, expressionless face remarked slowly, and the thin, bustling conductor runs up the car and glared at the impassive passenger who did not move, but continued with the same even tone: "a good joke I heard the other day."

"Say, do you want a transfer to Bellevue?" was the ungrateful way the belligerent received this contribution to contemporaneous humor.

Reason for Not Hiding.

At an auction sale of miscellaneous goods at a country store the auctioneer put up a buggy robe of fairly good quality. An old farmer inspected it closely, seemed to think there was a bargain in it, and yet he hesitated to bid.

"Think it cheap?" asked the auctioneer, crying a ten-cent bid.

"Yes, kinder," was the reply.

"Then why don't you bid and get it?"

"Well, I've bought heaps o' things in dry goods and so on," slowly rejoined the old man, "and I never yet took home anything that the old woman thought was worth the price. If I got that 'ere robe for fifteen cents she'd grab it up, pull at one end, chew on a corner and call out 'Cheated again—more'n half cotton!' That's why I don't bid."—Ohio State Journal.

While going to the fire yesterday, Watchman Coyne discovered a bad chimney blaze on Baidoon street, which required his assistance in getting under control.

Mrs. John Pritchard, who has been staying with her son, ex-Ald. Robert Pritchard, was removed to the Public General Hospital to-day for treatment.

Next Monday the patrons of the C. L. Star Course will have a delightful evening of humor, pathos, song and story, in Collegiate Institute Hall. J. W. KILLED BY A GRAIN OF CORN.
Little May Reid, aged five years, passed away at the Public General Hospital last night. The little girl was the daughter of a prominent Big Point farmer. While playing with some corn, she got a kernel lodged in her lung. The child was brought into the Public General Hospital last week. The physician attending her perceived that the only chance of saving the child's life was to take out the grain of corn by means of an operation. Saturday an operation was performed but the child never recovered from the shock.

W. S. RICHARDS

Mrs. G. W. Cornell left for Toronto to-day.

Wellington Chapter of Royal Arch Masons will meet this evening.

There will be Good Friday services to-morrow in Holy Trinity, Christ church and St. Joseph's.

To-morrow, Good Friday, being a statutory holiday there will be no issue of The Daily Planet.

Mrs. John Waddell, Master Tracy and Miss Marjorie, left for Bowmanville to-day.

An appeal to the supreme court has been taken in the case of Atkinson vs. Chatham and the Bell Telephone Co.

Miss Gertrude Mac Swan, Clara Blight, Maude Oliver and Dr. L. C. DeCew, of this city, took part in an enjoyable concert near Blenheim last evening.

Yesterday afternoon Foreman Walter Dezelia, of the S. Hadley Co., had two of his fingers split open by some heavy timbers falling on his hand.

Stephen Gray, from near Darrell, Chatham Twp., was brought into the Public General Hospital suffering from nervous paralysis. His arms and legs keep twitching all the time and his throat is in such a condition that he cannot swallow.

Robert L. Hughes, a well-known colored man, whose home is in Windsor, was killed in Buffalo Tuesday afternoon. He was a lake fireman and had gone there to take a position on a boat. The word received did not state how he had been killed. The body will likely be brought back to Windsor.

In response to a request from a committee of the Provincial Legislature, James Rhody, Sr., left on Tuesday for Toronto to give expert testimony before the committee in regard to the value of the boat Gilpie, purchased from Capt. Bowman, Southampton last fall. The Government was accused of paying more for the boat than it was worth. The Gilpie was rebuilt under the supervision of Mr. Rhody a few years ago.

About one o'clock to-day an alarm of fire was telephoned in from the establishment of John Northway & Co. Some material had caught fire from the stove in the millinery work room on the third floor. A line of hose was laid but the water was not turned on, the chemical extinguisher proving sufficient to cope with the flames. There was, however, every prospect of a bad fire. When the firemen arrived smoke was pouring from the windows. A box of straw hats had caught fire and was thrown out of the window. It broke open and a crowd of school children started to carry them away but they were stopped by P. C. Darr. The firemen used only one extinguisher and about two gallons and a half of water. Damage, however, from smoke was considerable but is covered by insurance.

DRILL INSTRUCTORS WANTED.
When Barrister Charles Macdonald leaves for the Klondike, the corps of cadets he formed, about 60 in number, will be without an instructor. Here is an opportunity for one or two ex-military men to freshen up their knowledge as instructors and also do some good work for the boys at the same time.

The hardest part of the work has already been done, said Mr. Macdonald. "The boys have already acquired the rudiments of drill and from this on it will be a pleasure to instruct them. They form a fine little corps and it is a pity to let the company drop out of existence; but if no one will come forward to carry on the work there is nothing else to do."

Dr. Munson will go on with his company, but has all the boys now he can handle.

BOER SUCCESSES

Have Not Panned Out as Their Reports Boasted.

The Queen Welcomes the Marines Who So Gallantly Defended Ladysmith.

London, April 12.—Elandslaagte and Wepener still monopolize attention. At both places a series of indecisive actions are occurring. The Boer report of the fighting on April 10 at Elandslaagte, avers that the advance of the British camp was made with the loss of only three mules and two horses, while the British losses, says the same report, must have been heavy. The bombardment lasted all day.

Nothing has been learned regarding the rumor of Colonel Baden-Powell's death, nor is there anything to show how long the general advance toward Pretoria will be delayed.

In the absence of exciting developments public interest centres more on the personality of the new commanders and in the supposition as to who the next general will be to be sent home.

GREETING FROM THE QUEEN.

The sailors of the Powerful are coming in for enthusiastic greetings, equalling those which met them on the first arrival at Portsmouth yesterday, when young and old women kissed officers and men indiscriminately as they came off the dock.

The Queen has telegraphed to Capt. Lambton, of the British first-class cruiser Powerful, which arrived at Portsmouth yesterday afternoon, as follows: "I sincerely welcome you all on your return home, and heartily congratulate you on the gallant and valuable services you have rendered in South Africa. I hope to see you all shortly after my return to England."

IS REITZ CRAZY.

London, April 12.—A despatch to the Times from Lorenzo Marques says that the secretary of the Transvaal state that State Secretary Reitz raves against the British with such vehemence that the belief prevails in Pretoria that he is suffering from a recurrence of his old malady, softening of the brain. The story seems to come from British subjects who were recently expelled from the Transvaal.

SCALCHI TO-NIGHT

One of the Greatest Organizations in the World.

Citizens May Never Have Another Opportunity of Hearing Such a Company of Celebrated Singers.

This is the night the Scalchi Company appears at the Grand. No such complete musical organization has ever visited this city as the Scalchi Operatic Festival Co. Each and every member of it is a star.

The bright and particular star being the world-famous Scalchi, whose voice has been and is the craze of both hemispheres.

Sig. De Pasquelli is an artist of great ability in operatic rolls, being at one and the same time an actor and singer with a beautiful sweet tenor voice which he uses with splendid effect. He has a most pleasing personality, and is a great favorite everywhere.

Sig. Franceschetti is one of the three great baritones of to-day—he possesses a most wonderful voice which is like velvet in its texture and sings like a past master in the art. He enjoys an advantage over the great Campanari (his rival) in that he possesses a much more pleasing personality.

Sig. Lo Verdi, of Italy, the pianist and musical conductor of this distinguished coterie, is an artist of extraordinary power, who is bound to prove a revelation. He comes direct to this country. His success in Europe has been phenomenal as pianist, conductor and composer.

America is most worthily represented in this grand organization by Mr. De Pasquelli, who can justly claim the distinction of being America's greatest prima donna soprano. Aside from having a marvellously beautiful voice full of sympathy, of velvety quality well modulated, and of a throat, with rare flexibility and range.

To miss this event to-night will be to miss a happening of a life time. Thousands of people have travelled hundreds of miles to hear Scalchi. Here we have the coveted opportunity at our own doors.

Just as much to have cheap paper put on a wall as it does to have good paper put on. It takes just as much paste and time, and disturbs the occupants of the house just as much. And cheap paper does not look quarter as well, or retain its cheerfulness nearly as long. We sell cheap papers, but we advise our customers to buy what, at first thought, they may consider expensive.

LEAVING THE STAFF.

Miss Kate McCorvie, who has been a teacher in the McKeough school for the past 11 years, taught her last day to-day. It was the intention of the teachers to have given Miss McCorvie a farewell supper to-night in the school, but owing to the illness of her father, Mr. John McCorvie, Sr., who lies in a precarious condition at his home near Mull, it was decided not to have the supper. This afternoon the classes congregated and Miss McCorvie, presented her with a beautiful sterling silver, gold-lined cream ladle. Miss McCorvie had scarcely recovered from the surprise when she was again made the recipient of a beautiful jardiniere stand and a handsome chair, the gifts of her fellow teachers. Principal Brackin, in his happy way, made a few remarks complimenting Miss McCorvie on the good work she had done for McKeough school during her term of service on the staff. No teacher had ever done better work and it was a source of regret, not only to the Principal himself but to the other teachers and the parents, that Miss McCorvie was leaving the school. Mr. Brackin concluded his few words with the warm hope of a bright future for the popular teacher. Miss McCorvie suitably acknowledged both presentations and thanked the doorman and teachers. During the time Miss McCorvie has been teaching on the McKeough staff she has made many friends, and with none was she more popular than with the parents of her pupils.

The caps will cost about $1 apiece, made to order, and the patches the same. Each lad will pay for his own.

FINE FLORAL DISPLAY.
One of the most beautiful and attractive Easter displays ever exhibited in the Maple City is made by the Victoria Ave. Greenhouses at their large town establishment in the new Oddfellows' building, and is securing a delighted response from the public. The greenhouses have spared no effort or expense in their elaborate preparations. The establishment, which is under the superintendence of Robert Killen, is becoming stocked with the season's favorites in flowers and foliage. The plants are exquisitely arranged for effect, while on Saturday cut flowers will be on regular sale. Among the popular floral favorites of the season exhibited are carnations, Easter lilies, sprays of palms, ferns, roses, carnations, tulips, daffodils, etc., all in great quantities and admirable condition. The enterprise of this exhibit in receiving practical commendation by the citizens at large in the immense patronage extended.

EASTER WINDOWS

Something Novel Presented at Hugh Malcolmson's Grocery.

They Are Filled With Seasonable Articles and Well Worth an Inspection.

The grocery establishment of Hugh Malcolmson offers Easter greetings to the citizens of Chatham in a manner that evinces artistic taste. The windows of the store have been dressed in response to the deepest customs of this period of the year and the dressing has been done with skill and care. White doves suspended from above joined by a circle of green ribbon offer suggestions of peace. Below these white harbingers of peace and gladness, is shown a wealth of Easter associations. A large nest is shown with the mother in her own true place while a motley crowd of little chickens just from the shell crowd round the nest in various cute and unconscious attitudes. These little chickens are wonderful imitations and seem but to want breath to make them move and have been. Rabbits, chickens, ducks and birds of all sorts and sizes occupy points of vantage. Chocolate chickens, chocolate eggs and chocolate candies, Easter lilies and flowers add to the picture. Taken altogether the window is a novel creation and is attracting much attention. The candy counter and the store throughout has been decorated and given a bright and rosy appearance. The other window being the eastern one was a decoration in itself. It has, however, been decorated with pickles and canned goods of foreign flavor imported from Europe. A special line of chocolates is being sold at 30 cents a lb. They are called a delicious flavor meeting in the mouth like snow beneath the rays of the sun. Throughout the store the choicest of groceries and foodstuffs are kept and Mr. Malcolmson's splendid trade is a tribute to the merchandise he sells.

April 12.—F. E. Nettles left this morning for Toronto, to spend Easter with his parents.

Some time ago, J. H. Magee, it is said, traded horses with Chas. Palmer, of Tilbury North, but last week Palmer decided that he had got the worst of the deal and, coming to Magee's stable during the night, traded back. The latter secured a constable and, going to Palmer's stable, brought the horse back again, and it remains here under the constable's charge, while the other horse is in pound without an owner. Each is now swearing out a warrant against the other for alleged horse stealing, and interesting developments are looked for.

FOR LOVE OF COUNTRY

By Ellen Vavasour Noel.

The day is fast breaking night's dark shadows in far off South Africa. It is as calm and bright, a morning as ever God sent to gladden the hearts of men; but, oh how often the fair vision of loveliness is dimmed by sorrow and suffering.

"Dick, my lad, if I should fall to-day, and you live through it, write to my wife and let her know that I thought of her and the little ones to the last."

"I will, Tom, but cheer up, old fellow, we'll come through all right," and the speaker turned his boyish face full of eager excitement, to his companion, a stalwart, grave-looking man; who with hands full of others stood waiting the word of command to advance. Calmly, apparently, those brave soldiers awaited the signal to go forward and meet their comrades already in deadly combat with the enemy. God alone knew the thoughts which filled their breasts, as the sun rose higher flooding the valley with its glorious sunshine, resting brightly on many a dead soldier's face. An hour passed, more anxious and excited the men got, to move forward and engage in the desperate struggle which is evidently going against their comrades.

The signal at last is given! The commanding officer steps briskly forward, raising his sword aloft he cries: "Steady, my lads, and follow me!" "God be with us," murmurs Tom reverently under his breath. "Here's at them!" shouts Dick, as with a rousing British cheer the gallant fellows rush to meet the hated Boers. The evening shadows deepen across the battle field. The deafening roar of the guns is silenced. The deadly shrieking of the shells is heard no more. The awful struggle is over and the cry of "Boers have gained the day" hidden behind their rocky parapets and breastworks. Our brave troops against this terrible odds have fought, as only British soldiers can fight, but in vain. Many a brave heart has failed, many a proud head laid low, to find their last resting place in a foreign grave. The cries and moans of the wounded in their agony is almost the only sound heard now on the field.

Among a group of the dead and wounded we recognize Tom's manly form. His left arm lies shattered and bleeding at his side. Fatigue and pain have left him utterly helpless, in silence he bears his sufferings; while the groans and prayers of his companions in misery fall on his ears. Over thousands of miles of land and ocean his thoughts wander to his loved home in a quiet English village. Mentally he sees once more the ivy-clad porch, where his old father sits watching with his wife and children the sun set over the peaceful road from his daily labor. "Ah, God of Heaven!" he silently cries, "Will I never again see them? Must I die here alone in this awful place?" "God's will be done," to him I trust my soul." Again, in his delirium, he pleads, "Alice! wife! little wife, come to me!" and faintly he is beside himself with pain, suffering, he becomes unconscious.

The stars come out one by one, and the moonbeams softly light up hill and dale, with their quiet beauty and calmness on the ghastly plain the white faces of the dead lie, and the cool evening breeze carries the anguished moans of suffering to the silent heaven above; while over the distant sea, in the humble abodes of those also gone to battle for their country, men and women wait and pray for tidings of those lying there.

In a pretty English village at the end of which the towers of a great castle are seen above the surrounding park, a young woman is walking quickly down the principal street one morning towards the end of December. Her face is pale and the newspaper she carries trembles in her agitation. She turns at a narrow lane leading to a comfortable cottage, where in the ivy-clad porch an old man is sitting, evidently watching for her. Swiftly she goes to him and sinks with a low despairing cry on the rug beside him, holding out the paper. He takes it regarding her anxiously.

"What's that Alice? Is there bad news today?" he inquires.

"There has been another great battle father, and his regiment in the midst of it. They were driven back leaving hundreds of dead and wounded on the field."

"Is his name here?" he tremblingly asks opening the paper.

"No, only the officers. Whether he is dead or wounded we know not. Oh my God how can I bear this terrible suspense; it should be killed father!" Her eyes are wild with misery, her voice full of despairing inquiry.

"Not that child," he answers, "Oh, good Lord, not that!"

Alice takes the paper and reads out the dreadful news. "Oh, my Tom, where are you?" she cries. "Will you ever come back to us?"

The old man tries to comfort her. "Don't give way child. Wait till you hear the worst."

"It is just that waiting which is killing me, and thousands of others in this unhappy land and it seems so hopeless; for our poor fellows have gained nothing, only giving up their precious lives, butchered, slain by those cruel Boers; whom God send to favor!" she starts up at the crying of a child within the cottage and goes to it.

The old man leans heavily on his stick and, with bowed head, mentally ejaculates, "Is this right? Does the Lord favor those savages? The like was never known to befall British soldiers. He is punishing us for our sins! My son! My boy! Heaven still keep you, if yet alive!"

Day after day, week after week went by, and to that humble home came no word of their dear one. Who can express the despairing sorrow which filled their hearts! But God was good, for at last a letter in a strange hand brought the tidings that Tom, whom we left insensible on the battle field, had at length been rescued by the other wounded cared for, and after weeks of suffering had been invalided home, and was then in an hospital in London. Poor young Dick had been killed early in the fight on that sad day. When Tom could think of anything, the letter he meant to his wife never reached her. We will pass over the unspeakable joy this news brought. Alice at once declared she must go to him and bring him home, but where were the needed funds to do this? She had saved a little, but not enough for that purpose.

"Father," she cried, a happy thought struck her. "I will go to the castle and ask Lady Emily to lend me some. When her maid she was always good to me, she will feel for me; for is not her dear lord away with his regiment in Africa?"

Her father consenting, she lost no time in making her way to the castle, where she was shown into Lady Emily's boudoir. The fair, gentle lady received her very kindly, offering at once to assist her.

"Thank God, Alice!" she said. "Although I am old, I am still alive and you will have him with you again. My dear husband has escaped so far, but we do not know from day to day what may occur, and her sweet eyes filled with tears. "We can only hope and pray, but many homes have been, and will yet be, saddened and lives made desolate for the loss of those who will never come back to them, before this awful war is over."

It was not very long afterward that Tom once more stood in the sunny porch at his cottage home with his old father. His empty coat-sleeve and attenuated form show what he has suffered; but his face lights up with a glad smile as he tells his happy father how strong and well he is getting, and his heart is filled with deep gratitude to the All Merciful, as he listens to Alice singing a lullaby as she puts their little ones to sleep; then, coming out, she tells him he must come in, as she thinks the air rather chilly. He rises to obey, looking tenderly at her, but her eyes are fixed sorrowfully in the direction of the castle, where the flag is at half-mast, and she sighs deeply, saying: "Poor Lady Emily! Heaven comfort her! For her dear husband will never come back to her and his grand home again; he is lying in his lonely grave far away."

FRANKING ABUSE.

Premier Ross Said to Send His Political Literature to Ottawa

And so Have It Mailed Free to the Electors.—Mr. Foster's Caustic Comments.

Ottawa, April 12.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Clancy asked for explanations as to the authority for campaign speeches of Hon. G. W. Ross, being franked through the mails as official matter.

Mr. Foster scored the Government on the franking abuse generally. Referring to Sir Richard Cartwright's dead-heading nearly half a million copies of his Massey Hall speech, Mr. Foster asked what right had he to take $20,000 of the people's money for the purpose of carrying his inter-sectional speeches for the benefit of the Liberal party any more than he himself had to frank his reply for the benefit of the Conservative party. The fact was neither said he, "have no right to pay for your literature, any more than for ours."

Mr. Fisher—"The people pay for yours."

Mr. Foster regretted that the Minister of Agriculture could not get beyond the argument that it was "all right because you did it." There was Mr. Fisher, a man of means, committing the same abuse in regard to his pamphlets distributed in Sherbrooke, and in his reputation he also had an advertisement for a book sent out free through the mails with the frank "W. L." If Sir Richard Cartwright had the right to send out free half a million copies of his speech, why could a poor devil do it who wants to sell books. And so the Ontario Premier does it. He is a Grit, and what is the use of being a Grit if you haven't privileges. But what legal right had Mr. Ross send out at the public expense, copies of a speech delivered in the town of Whitby and sent out in an envelope which purported to contain an official document which it did not contain? Mr. Foster went on to know what the Government was going to do about it. There was the Postmaster-General, who would skin a poor letter-carrier who made his four long trips a day, and would trim down the poor mail contractor, who was carrying by mail for a few cents daily but had not a word of condemnation for the wholesale mulcting of the treasury by men like Sir Richard Cartwright and Hon. G. W. Ross. Mr. Fisher's justification was that the Tories did it.

A LAWYER'S STORY.

Twelve months had elapsed since
I had passed my trying examination and been admitted to the bar. I hired a cozy little office in a building filled with scores of prominent law firms.
After arranging my well-stocked library,
I nailed up my new sign among the rest and waited for my clients to appear. It soon became a sad trial of patience.Among the many brilliant lights of the day my own name passed unnoticed.Day after day, and month after month, I attended the courts or passed the time in pursuing celebrated cases. Like Mowbray, I was waiting for something to turn up. The small capital with which I had started was dwindling away at an alarming pace,
and, as yet, I saw no prospective future.One pleasant afternoon Stanley Ferris, a young lawyer, who, like myself, was unwillingly idle, dropped in to see me."What news, Jack?" he asked carelessly."Same as usual," I replied, despondently. "I've a notion to pack off in the wilderness for a few weeks. Everybody is out of town, and there is little prospect of picking up a fee until they return."My friend was about to reply, when there came a low rap at the door.As the door opened my heart gave a great bound. I felt that my long-looked-for client had arrived at last.At a single glance I took in all the details of my visitor's appearance. He was a middle-aged man, dressed in plain costume, and with a seemingly good natured face. Most men would have set him down as a jolly, open-hearted individual; but I did not.My constant attendance at the courts had taught me much. There was something underlying his only smile and obsequious manner that made me distrust him."Is this Mr. Burns?" he asked blandly.I bowed in the affirmative, and requested him to be seated. Stanley left the room at that moment, and the stranger continued."My name is Brown, sir,—Martin Brown. I have called upon you in a case of emergency.""In what way can I be of service?"
I asked."My friend, who is in a dying condition, wishes you to draw up a will at once."I seized my hat and hurriedly followed my visitor. In the elegantly furnished room of a hotel we found the man.Owing to the heavily darkened room
I could distinguish nothing of his features. He lay with his face turned toward the wall, and in feeble tones dictated the terms of the will, as I drew it up.I accomplished my task to his satisfaction, and placed the document before him to sign. As he did so I noticed a deep red scar running across the back of his hand. The whole of the dying man's property—an immense one, by the way—was left to his dear friend, Martin Brown.Gunn's

STOMACH ACHES

Stomach aches are due to dyspepsia. A woman who complains of stomach aches is in almost every case constipated. Her stomach is sour;
she has a heavy weight on her stomach, she is dizzy, she has palpitation and does not sleep.
She is weak, has discoloration of the skin and a burning sensation. A woman who suffers thus is most miserable, she has the blues and is ill-humored all the time. To these women we would recommend two of Dr. Coderre's Red Pills after each meal, and half an hour after each meal half a teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in half a glass of hot water. Further information can be had by reading the circular around each box of our Pills. We assure these women a permanent cure if they follow the hygienic rules given by our doctors, which are to be found on each circular around each box of Pills.The following ladies, who have been cured, will be pleased to answer your letters if you write to them, but, there is no doubt but Dr. Coderre's Red Pills cure women's diseases in all their forms. They are for women only; they are not cure alls. Fifty Pills for 50c. will last longer than any old-fashioned liquid remedy.Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for Pale and Weak Women will cure every disease of woman just as sure as day follows night. This remedy is the result of a lifetime's practice; although we do not claim that it will cure everything as old-fashioned alcoholic remedies are advertised to do, yet we do claim that it will cure all diseases of women. This is known to the world through the newspapers and through suffering women and girls telling from one to the other how their cases were hopeless, how they were given up by eminent physicians after spending fortunes, and last of all they have found relief by taking Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. They are pleased to publish this for the benefit of those who are disheartened, as they were themselves.Write to-day for our booklet Pale and Weak Women. We will mail it to you free. It will tell you how to become strong and healthy, and it will prove to you the efficacy of our remedy. You cannot afford to be without this book;
it is an encyclopedia of knowledge.For anyone suffering from constipation we advise the use of Dr. Coderre's Purgative Tablets, as our Red Pills are not a purgative. A consen-tious use of these two remedies taken together has a marked effect on the whole constitution.If you have been suffering for a long time, write a full description of your case to our Specialists. Their consultations are free and their advice the best. You can write them or call at their offices, and they will be always pleased to give you such advice as you may require. The Red Pills are sold at 50c., the Pur-gative Tablets at 25c. a box.Address all correspondence to had only half a box taken when I found relief. I trust that every sick woman will take these Pills, as they are the cheapest remedy as well as the best that has ever been known."Mrs. J. Demars, 330 N. Water St., Bay City, Mich., writes:

"I take pleasure in giving you my name to publish in the papers for the benefit of poor women who suffer as I did. I suffered from stomach troubles, headache, in fact everything from which a woman could suffer. I have taken your Pills and have not felt so well in years as I have since taking them. They are a blessing for all sick women."Mrs. A. Zahin, 444 Antoine St., Detroit, Mich., writes:
"I have been a great sufferer from female weakness, was very weak and all around. I have taken your Pills and can strongly recommend them to anyone who suffers as I did.
They are a wonderful remedy and I thank God for having at last found something to cure me."

Built for ServiceWE are manufacturing the most complete line of vehicles to be found. They are all made of the best material and by honest workmen, skilled in their trade. In every sense of the word they are "Built for Service." Hundreds of satisfied customers can testify to their reliability in this regard. The fact that we have been in the business so long and that each year we are making great strides should convince you that we are building vehicles to suit the people.
Do not take any chances when buying a rig; buy one that you can rely upon, one that has a reputation back of it. We invite you to call and see our work "in the white."

LIMITED

There are no better . . .
Mixed Paints in the . . .
world than those we sell
and our price is only . . .

$1.40 gal.

Or

35c. per Quart

Our competitors will try and persuade you that because our price is low, our mixed paints are of an inferior quality or scant measure, but the fact is we sell the "Prism Brand" Paint, made by the Canada Paint Co., of Montreal, the largest paint makers in the Dominion, and every gallon of their paint we sell is warranted to be fresh and pure, and of full imperial measure. We sell more paints than all the other dealers in Chatham put together, and this is why we sell cheap as quantity counts and our customers get the benefit of it.
