Bishop Baldwin was born 88 years ago last June in the city of Toronto. He came of the Baldwin family, whose eloquence was traditional. After graduation he joined a band of young clargymen whom Bishop Cronyon was gathering about him and whose names were about him, and whose names were well known in the church to-day and were the following: Bishops Sullivan, Carmichael, Dumoulin and Maclean, Carmichael, Dumoulin and Maclean. The late Bishop Baldwin was ordained in April, 1860, to the curacy of the English church in St. Thomas, Afterwards ho, became Rector at Port Dover. In 1865, he was made Rector of St. Luke's Church, Montreal, and in 1872 was called to be Rector of Christ Church Cathedral, in that city. Eleven years afterwards, November 30, 1883, he was consecrated Bishop of the diocese of Huron.

DANGEROUS JOKE

Everyone enjoys a good practical ioke on some one else but there is sometimes a danger of the joker earrying his joke too far. This was done at the William Street Baptist carrying his loke too far. I has was done at the William Street Baptist Church last evening.

A crowd of young boys are in the habit of congregating outside of the church every Sunday evening and sometimes their noise interrupts the service in the church. They have heen repeatedly warned in the matter and unless the practice is stopped prosecution will fullow.

Last night they tried a new game and while church was in, they locked the outer door. If a fire had occurred the foke might have ended seriously. As it was, when church was over, Mr. Dyer, the caretaker, had to break the door open before the congregation could get out. No doubt the boys did not realize how serious their joke was.

Sunday. Mr. Trotter is an eloquent preacher and his discourse was much enjoyed. Taking G deon as an example, he pointed out the different qualities required in a true Christien. His text was, "And the Lord said unto G deon, the people that are with you are too many."

The Englishman when a man was undertaking anything asked who his father was. The German wanted to know what education he had. The Frenchman enquired as to his manners. The American asked how much money he had. The Lord when he desired a man for ar undertaking chose one who was courageous. Mr. Trotter, said that he had read the Bible several times and he had never found the Lord picking on a man found the Lord peking on a man who lacked courage. Although the Lord might select a modest man, still when the test came the one chosen was not found tacking in fortitude and valor.

Mr. Trotter went over the history of G deon. When the Lord lirst came He found him threshing grain at the wine press with his father. They were at the wine press so that the Midianites might not suspect that they were threshing grain. The Lord called Gideon and told him to go and save Israel from the Midianites. The latter said that he was the least of his father's house and he wondered at being chosen. He, however, asked for proof and then the Lord wet first the fleece and then the earth as requested by Gideon.

the earth as requested by G.deon. This showed Gideon's caution. Satisfied, the chosen one called all the people of Israel together and 32,000 responded. Then the Lord said that this was too many and all who were Recryons interested in the good cases of Herenert S. Clemerts, is specially unged to be present ux time, as business of importance is to be transacted.

St. Thomas Liberal Organ States that West Kent is Uncertain -Work for the Big Clements Victory.

The St. Thomas Journal, Liberal, on Saturday published a Liberal outline of the election prospects, which, of course, is strongly Liberal in its results, and gives the present Government a substantial majority.

Aluding to the scats it calls doubtful it instances them one by one and naturally predicts that the majority will go Liberal.

Of West Kent, however, it says: "KENT WEST IS UNCERTAIN—MAY GO TO BITHER PARTY."

And this is from an uitra-Liberal estimate!

POLITICS AND THE MILITIA.

Lord Dundonald was dismissed for a breach of etiquette in making a public protest while General Officer Commanding.

Against what abuse was this protest that he felt forced to make sonal interests?

Partizan interference by members of the Liberal Cabinet to effect military efficiency.

To be a Liberal is a more important qualification than to bold a military certificate.

The General objected but his objections did not commend themselves to the Minister of Agriculture, who on at least one famous occasion was appointed by Sir Fred Borden as "Minister to fix this."

He finally protested and told the public of our "fixed" Militia,

Was it right to protest? Who can deny that the defence of the country ought to be jealously safeguarded if the "fix" system pre-

Let us profit by the Dundonald protest and see that it was not made in vain.

THREE GREAT ISSUES.

There are three national issues standing out above the strife of par-

The railwway agreement is reaching. You may believe it will only enrich the Grand Trunk Pacific promoters or you may consider it a wise and sensible contract-you may think it the result of genius or the outcome of vanity "held up" by finan-

But you cannot shut your eyes to the fact that its endorsation forfeits for 50 years the country's control of freight rates in the Northwest. If the Grand Trunk secure it; Canada loses it. No commission can effectively rule two great railway corporations. They can bleed the farmer white, while he is calling on the commission for its rulings. No er gentlemen ever used any such country can expand unless it can se- words or anything that could be concure fair rates of transportation for strued to mean them. The Banner's its chief products. Are Canadians statement is simply and absolutely prepared to sell this priceless privilege for a doubtful bargain?

The second great issue is a stable tariff. There was a time when we would have been glad of rec.proc.ty but we have grown strong without We don't want it now-we can keep the flag flying. What is a "minimum tariff for those who treat us well" but reciprocity in disguise-we don't need it-we prefer to trade with our kith and kin-and we must protect our own industries-adequately and effectively by a stable tariff.

The last great issue is our defence. Are we going to exist by the forbearance of the United States? Is our Northwest to be defenceless? If we have had a surplus every year of thirteen millions need we have starved our militia? Is it of no consequence whether that militia is composed of those who fight pelifical battles with their mouths or of men who can defend our frontier with brain and arm. Lord Dundonald has gone but the fool's paradise we live in still remains to remind us of his

No Canadian can, whatever his party allegiance, willingly see the third of November result in throttling our expansion for 50 years, the advent of reciprocity, and the stifling of our capacity for defence.

It is the wave of victory!

Once again, watch for the roorbacks that "start in the Stephens committee rooms.'

Why are all the corporation bonus seekers-both Grit and Tory-working so hard to elect George Ste-

Everyone will be welcomed at the Grand Opera House Thursday night to hear the returns. The balcony for the ladies and their escorts.

Hansard shows that the only time George Stephens spoke in the house was when he read his long address on the Grand Trunk Pacific,

As between the interests of big bonus-seeking corporations and the interests of the people of Kent, vote for your own interests, Mr. Bleetor, and mark your ballet for Clements.

Shoe Polish At all Dealers

It will be Herbert S. Clements, M P., all right.

Herbert S. Ciements stands for the interests of Kent County and its people; George Stephens stands for the railroad corporations and the bonusseekers. Remember these facts when

If Messrs McKendry and Dunn, the Toronto corporation promoters and bonus-seekers, are Conservatives as they say, why are they so all-fired anxious to see George Stephens elected? Awfully strange, isn't it?

There is nothing in Hansard, th ofifcial report of all that is said n Parliament, to show that George Stephens ever threatened to resign, And it was James Clancy who spoke for the dredging of the river.

By-the-way, isn't it peculiar hov the Stephens organ persistantly refuses to mention the fact that George Stephens was afraid to let Reeve Purser and Councillor Boyer speak at his Dover meetings after challenging them to be present and meet him.

Since Herbert S. Clements, the Liberal-Conservative candidate, and W. E. Gundy, the Liberal speaker, both pointed out the inaccuracies and distortions in the Stephens organ, the people pay little attention to its sayings. Read this great home journal and get the facts.

The Stephens organ says that Stephens' work on the committee on railways was "the object" of much utes to Messrs. Clements and Pike false. That is quite plain, we hope, even to the Banner itself, but Mr. Pike, we understand, has decided to emphasize it upon the organ in the proper official way.

What do the Conservatives think of Dover anyway !- Stephens' organ. The Conservatives, my son, think highly of Dover and its good people. They also think that the people of Dover will decline to hand over a big bonus of $75,000 to a big electric railroad corporation, and will take occasion to let Charter-owner and Provisional Director George Stephens know their sentiments in this matter quite distinctly on Thursday next. Just keep your eye on the vote and you won't need to ask foolist ques-

SOMETHING REAL GOOD

That Miss Marie Wainwright main tains her popularity as the leading exponent of the highest class of drama, her enormous popular success this season in the revival of Shakespeare's great comedy, 'Twelfth Night," demonstrates. Miss Wainwright achieved a positive triumph as Viola Although she has played all the Atthough she has played all the Shakespearean heroines—Portia, Rosalind, Juliet—in none has her rare talent been seen to better advantage than as Viola. Of all Shakespeare's comedies, perhaps "Twelfth Night" is the most right woven with various railways was "the object" of much favorable comment. Shouldn't wonder. All these railway corporation promoters and bonus-seekers seem powerful auxious to see him reelected.

It should be stated for the benefit of those who don't know the Stephens organ that the statements it attributed. fun the languishing sentiment of the cultivated love-lorn Duke stands out seven times refined, and goes with exquisite touch to the innermost sensibilities.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 29.—Cornelius Shields, general manager of the Lake Superior Corporation, died early yesterday morning at his home here. Briefly the tale may be told—
A girl who has been deceived by the villian through a mock marriage, villian through a mock marriage, goes away to a New England village to begin anew a life that has been all shattered. She becomes a sort of a companion and assistant in the household of a farmer whose son is engaged to a niece of his. The son falls in love with the newcomer, he and his betrothed not caring overmuch for each other anyway. Just he and his betrothed not caring over-much for each other anyway. Just as the love-making of the son and the companion has reached a climax, the village busy-body learns something of the girl's story, and tells the farm-er. He investigates just far enough to learn that there is some truth in the story and then orders the girl to leave the house. It is night, and here is where is shown one of the most realistic bits of stagecraft ever given on any stage. A terrific bliz-zard is raging and the storm is seen as the girl opens the door to leave. As she goes she denounces her be-trayer who by a strange coincidence is visiting the farmer. The son defices trayer who by a strange commencement is visiting the farmer. The son defies his parents and goes after the girl. He finds her in a snow-drift and takes her to a deserted sugar camp for shelter. Of course, the farmer relents and goes out to look for his son and the girl, and everything ends happily.

WORKINGMEN MAKE DEMAND

Montreal Tailors Condemn Government's Tariff Policy

stonishing Revolution of Feeling Throughout Quebec Province

Montreal, Oct. 30. - There appea in La Patrie and La Presse the following declaration on the tariff question. It has created a profound im pression, as showing the way the current is running:-

"To the Editor :-"As is generally known ,we have interested ourselves for many years as workingmen in all matters, concerning the laboring class, and we venture to believe that none will question, in our opinion, the sincerity of the statement that the main question of this present election should be the improvement of the workingmen's condition.

"As to the workingmen, we believe that the right policy should be STRAIGHT PROTECTION.

But for Messrs. Fielding, Sifter Sutherland, Mulock, Fisher and some other members of the present Government, who seem to impose their own views on the Cabinet, we would have had before to-day a true protection ist policy. It is a well known fact that Mr. Tarte resigned his position in the Cabinet because of his strong pretec-tionist views. The present Government's policy needs to be altered in that regard.

"Why is there such a strong curcent against a good many Liberal candidates in Montreal and elsewhere? Why is it, for instance, that Mr. Lane, the protectionist candidate in St. Lawrence division, has every prospect of defeating Mr. Bickerdike prospect of defeating Mr. Bickerdike Why is Lr. Liernard, in Liochelaga, hundreds of votes stronger to-day than he was at the time of the byelection? It is because we had been promised a revision of the tariff before dissolution, which revision did not take place. We have been deceived.

"If the Government loses twelve or fifteen counties in this province it may as well understand that

IT'S OSCILLATING POLICY, IT'S OSCILLATING POLICY, or rather its want of policy, on the tariff is the cause of it. We like Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but so long as he allows himself to be influenced by Messrs. Fielding, Sifton, Sutherland, Mulock, Fisher and others of that calibre, he must not be surprised if he continues to lose ground. It is better for him to be out of power for one parliament, so as to get rid of these men.

NO JOKE FOR THE BOY

James Herman, night engineer at the waterworks station, is somewhat of a joker. Young Murphy was playing around the engine room with a can of carbide of calcium used in furnishing light for acetylene lamps. Mr. Herman warned the lad that the can would explode, but the boy would not believe it. Shortly afterwards the young fellow went down into the filter room. At this stage, Mr. Herman took a piece of board and struck it against the door. Young Murphy thought that the can had exploded sure and he made a few rapid jumps for out-doors and safety. Herman scattered some of the carbide around and then put the can in the furnace and got it all black and then he battered it a bit. Chief, Engineer Murphy had heard the noise and, on seeing the can battered and the stuff lying around, was a little bit cross. He went out to hunt up his son to deal with him for bringing explosives around the engine room. The last and concluding chapters of this tale are not procurable owing to the woodshed door having been shut,

MEMORIAL SERVICES

Memorial services for the late Bishop Baldwin were held in Christ Church yesterday. Both services were very largely attended—a fitting tribute to the departed gentleman. In the morning Rev. Mr. McCosh addressed the congregation on the life of the deceased Bishop, drawing therefrom valuable lessons which it would be well to think over and follow. Bishop Baldwin was well-known and highly esteemed in Chatham. In the evening the church was crowded to the doors. Mr. McCosh preached a gospel sermon.

The music on both occasions was solemn and impressive. In the morning the "Dead March in Saul" was aplayed on the organ after the benediction by Prof. Doleman, and in the evening, besides the usual musical service, a solo, "Thy Will be Done," was splendidly rendered by Miss May Peate, and a quartette, "Beyond the Smiling and the Weeping," was sung by Misses Thomas and Peate and Mcssrs. On the same day, the Japanese captured the Russian trenches on the slope of Rihlung Mountain, also a fortified position protecting the forterss. THE TRUE SYMPATHY. ank Leslie Tells of Friends Whos Light Touch Never Hurt the Wound They Healed.

Mrs. Frank Leslie writes: Is Sympathy, with its pretentious great S, the most precious balm for nded heart?

hat there are forms and measures of sympathy that are indeed healing and weet, but how seldom are they ound! It must be unobtrusive to begin with. Like violets or lilies of the valley, it is to be known more by the subtle fragrance of its shy pre-sence than, like the sunflower, by it-breadth and insistence of form and olor.

I have had friends whose very sil nce was the sweetest of sympathyfriends whose light touch never hurt the wound they healed; who never, by word or even look, suggested that there was a wound until I threw of the covering with which we all in-stinctively cloak our hurts from the ommon gaze.

A friend like this, a friend who is ontent to prove sympathy by sil nce until the sufferer invites speech, far more likely to be admitted to the innermost chambers of the hear than the one who loudly knocks at outer door, clamoring:

Open, ope I have come to sym 'Open, ope athize with you!" To be pitied openly and avowedly and to bear it sweetly is probably the last test of a saint ripe for canonization, but I for one have no didea of how such a being may feel.

It is not my metier, and I fully believe in at least one old and vulgar adage, last!" So, not claiming saintship, present or prospective, I am free to confess that to be pitied frankly rouses the most murderous qualit es of my nature, and, although the etters of civilization may claim both my tongue and my hands, the pityist ould probably be very much alarmd if she could see my heart.

That phrase "Tell me all about t!" is one that the acceptable sympathizer never uses. It is as fatal to the desired end as it is to throw open a window and burl a handful of grain at a bird which you wish to lure to a cage it has deserted. The true way is to softly open the win-dow, strew the grain inside where it is quite obvious, but may be taken or left, as the victim may choose, and then yourself retire out of sight. It is pretty sure that by this stratagem you will finally have your bird just where you want him, and in process of time he will warble out all the secrets of his heart to you. But rushing at him and shouting Now, tell me all about it!" is the very last way to win his confidence.

Another kind of sympathizer and a very offensive one is the person who essays to "keep up your spirits" in some season of bereavement and af-fliction. I once saw a friend of mine driven nearly mad by this sort of a Job's comforter. She came to the house of mourning to a stay of some days and apparently had laid in a stock of funny stories, society gossip and all sorts of conundrums, epigrams and frivolities generally. We never sat down at the table but this flood was loosed upon us, until one day my friend burst into tears and left the table, very greatly to the surprise of Mme. Malaprop, who in-quired of everybody:

Why what is the matter? Did any body say anything to remind her? And I was trying so hard to keep up her spirits and all!"

A kindred spirit to this, but not so objectionable because she is not se funny, is the officious sympathizer the person who insists upon distract-ing the mind of the sufferer by force ing all sorts of ordinary details up-on it. If it is bereavement and the comforter is a woman, she insists upon discussing the mourning clothes and offering to run out and bring atterns, or send in some bonnets, o tell about the present mode of wear-ing a widow's veil. She discusses sleeves and has an opinion upon the new skirts and absolutely drags as-sents or dissents from the pale lips of the sufferer.

Time is not a healer. He is a destroyer. Time is the most heartless of sympathizer or comforter, for he brings no thought of comfort or self-justification. In fact, the harsh and bitter and cruel points of a great sorrow are those that time preserves and insists upon to the very last. Some kinds—nay, I will allow all kinds—of grief grow less poignant after awhile, but it is not because time has healed the wound, but because him has destroyed the sensibility and the of the sufferer. has destroyed the sensibility and the memory and the environment of the orrow.

The best of all the sympathizers this world has ever produced was that eastern sage who, being require by his king to produce a motto suited to every state of mind possible to humanity, enunciated, "This, too will pass."

A School in the Woods.

A School in the Woods.
The school in the woods, which was started this year near Berlin, Germany, for the benefit of weakly children, has proved very successful, says The London Standard. It was attended during the summer by 195 children who were allowed a free railway journey thither daily. They began their work at 7.45 o'clock with a wholesome meal of warm bread and milk and slices of bread and butter and Jam. Lessons went bread and milk and slices of bread and butter and jam. Lessons went on till 10, when they were again served with similar refreshment. After further lessons they had dinner at noon, consisting of meat, vegetables and potatoes. After an hour's siesta and further lessons they had bread and milk and bread and jam and at 6 o'clock warm soup, chocolate or cocoa. The children have been found to gain on an average of five pounds in weight. The school will be closed for the winter in November.

THE YOUNG WOODPECKERS. They Found a Defender In a Brave Little Boy.

Philip was a brave little boy. All the other boys looked up to him and liked to have him in their parties when they went swimming or tramping. But they all agreed that he was queer about "birds and things."

The others liked to collect brids' eggs and did not hesitate to take all they could find, leaving many little bird homes perfectly empty. Philip never disturbed so much as one egg. All spring he watched a beautiful yellow plumed woodpecker drilling a hole in a hollow tree and building his nest there. The hole was quite high, but one of the boys determined to get the eggs. He knew, however, that he would have to do it when Philip was away. So one day when he thought Philip was off on a tramp he took a small saw and went to the tree. He had reached a conrenient limb and was commencing to saw when Philip came running and

The boy was so startled that he slid down, dropping his saw, and ran as though he had seen a ghost.

Three weeks afterward, when Philip happened to meet him one day, he called out good naturedly: "Hello, Bob! I have been wanting to tell you there is saw up at our house belonging to you. Come over some time and get it. By the way, all those little woodpeckers can fly for themselves, and they are as cunning little birds as any one ever saw."

THE BRITISH RACE. ature As Described by Sir Arthur Great Britain.

Great Britain.

In the case of every man who eaves the laboring class and ocomes a member of the middle or ealthier class, his progeny are likely to be diminished, owing to the act that marriages are later in that fass, says Sir. A. J. Balfour, Premer of Great Britain. The result is that the more we contrive our systems of education so that every man woman of capacity in the lower lass has a chance of what is called sing in life, just by so much we to something to diminish the actual ising in life, just by so much we to something to diminish the actual quality of the breed of the country. I cannot see any escape from the ather melancholy conclusion that scrything which opens up every car-er to the poor child of ability does onder existing social conditions tend comewhat in the direction of deter-

Dr. Shrubsall seems to indicate that the effect of town life is to encourage the dark haired and to dis-opulation. I presume anthropologists will admit that on the whole the light haired people were those who came from northern regions, de-scendants of the Danes and Angio-Saxons. If this is so, the gradual increase in the proportion of our population who live in towns as compared with those who remain in the country can only have the effect of de-Germaniz-ing our people, or of altering the balance of our population against the tall, light haired element decended from northern immigrations.

If, as is most probably the case, it is the most enterprising and getic who leave the country for th towns or who leave our shores for the colonies or other countries, this fact must have a permanent effect, tending in a downward direction.

If, in addition to that, these energetic and efficient classes in towns suffered a process of elimination not to the advantage of the race, evi dently the gradual draft from the rural into the urban districts gains in significance and presents elements even less reassuring than those we have been accustomed to take into consideration. We can improve drain-age, ventilate schools, diminish overcrowding and make the urban sur-roundings better, but when we have solved these problems we have not touched the root of the larger questions which I have brought under your notice.

We shall not have altered the per nament causes upon which depends not merely the well being of this or the next generation, but the actual quality of the race, looked at from a quality natural history point of view.

Kaiser William, it is well-known, delights in throwing off the mask of royalty, and dining with favored subjects. On one occasion he came to the house of somewhat unexpectedly beautiful women."

With these words the Emperor took his seat between the Princess of Pless and the Duchess of Ratibor.

Again, at another surprise dinner the Emperor undertook the entertainment of the guests. "I have a surprise for you," he said. Therewith had a box brought into the drawingroom. It was opened, while every one waited, some eagerly, some with apprehension.

A ping-pong outfit was produced, and as the Emperor proceeded to put it in position on a table, he explained that it was a present which his uncle Edward had sent him.

Crematien.

It will be surprising if the remarkable weight and number of names practically subscribed to the cause of cremation within the past few months—names like those of Sponcer, Edwin Arnold, Leslie Stephen, Watts, Henley and Antoinette Sterling—are not some day noted as almost marking an epoch by the historian of what promises to be the method of the future. The Roman Catholic Church, as is well known, still refuses its last rites to those who thus defy one of the dogmas of the Nicene and Athanasian creeds, and students will be interested to learn the fate of the petition just sent by the Berlin Cremation Society to the Pope, wherein not far short of 10,000 persons pray for the abolition of the Church's official disapproval thus expressed.—London Chronicle.

A HUNDRED BEST BOOKS

SELECTING THEM A PENCIL GAME ON A LEVEL WITH PING PONG.

Says the Erudite Andrew Lang in the London Morning Post-Mr. James Payn's Opinion-Lord Avebury Has Revised His Century of Best Books-There Are No Hundred Best Books.

Mis Century of Best Beoks. There are

No Mundred Best Beoks.

To select "The Best Hundred Books" is, in fact, to play at an "intellectual pencil game." The sport is on a level with ping pong, and at best may help elderly bookish people to pass a wet day in a country house. There are no Hundred Best Books. The question is relative, books good for whom, and for what purpose? Lord Avebury has revised his cantury (his purpose shall later be declared), and we look at the new list rather for amusement than for instruction.

Mr. James Payn, with unwented tariness, remarked that the old list contained "admirable and varied matarials for the formation of a prig."
The saying was unjust; prigs are been, not made, and may be the least bookish of mankind. If, Mr.
Pays meant that prigs would turn te the books in the list, not from natural interest, but because they were recommended by Lord Acton, then his saying can hardly be contraverted. Mr. Payn was all for freedem of taste, and his own tasts led him to spurn many of the classics, especially the works of the Greek tragedians. At these, and at anything Greek in translations. Mr. Herbert Spences alse smorted. I do not wonder at it. If you try the "Electra" of Sophocles, in Plumptre's translation, you wonder how. Sophocles ever won a prize for dramatic excelence, and why Lord Avebury includes "The Oedipus Trilogy" in the Hundred Best Books. It is not even a Trilogy as it stands, if that translation, except the English, reader.

Renshall, of Sutton, "I never used any other romedy but Nerviline and find it serves as a general household liniment best of aff. Children's colds and inflammatory pains are quickly cured by Nerviline, and its action on colds, coughs and sore throat is unequalled by anything I ever used. Nerviline is both powerful, pleasant and reliable." Every mother should use Nerviline. Price 25c.

LEARNED A GREAT TRUTH.

miserranged. Certainly the enquiror will as easily procure the "Essays of Moliere" as the "Essays of Homer," unless a few introductions to plays are intended. The inclusion of Moliere among the essayists must be a cross division of the press.

Indeed, evoss divisions abound. The Koran, in Lord Avebury's opinion, is not one of the best books, it seems to him "dry, uninteresting, and in many places repulsive." Yet it is in the list, not because it is good, but because many persons, including millions of our fellow subjects, think it "inspired." Parhaps it is, the term is not easily defined, but the inspiretion lacks literary merit. The "Shoking" and "The Analects" of Confucius do not win Lord Avebury's personal affection, but they appear because the Chinese think well of them. The Yellow Peril threatens literature! If popularity be the test, why not insert the works of Hall Caine, or America's darling, "The Virginian?" To be sure, the authors are yet in our midst. The "Ramayana" and the "Mahabharata" Lord Avebury does afmire, and they are also "of great importance as regards our great Oriental Empire." They may be, but they are of much less importance than the Rig Veda, which also includes better poetry. The same may be said for the "Kalewala" and "The Song of Roland," of which there is an excellent new American translation. Naither of these deserving epics is in the list, though one is much admired by the Finns, the ether by the French, and both by every person of taste who has read them. While Moliers is "a book," Voltaire is not; he is merely ropresented by one tale, "Zadig," not even by "Candide." Why this exclusiveness? Plato's Dialogues are "a book," but "at any rate the Phaede and Republic." Plato is in danger of being scamped, like Voltaire, but Hesiod takes in sli his opers, and in what sense these dismal poems are "the very beet vine," while Theocritus has no look in at all, I cannot conjecture. Theocritus is a delightful poet; Hesiod is hardly a poet; he merely wrote varse because there was as yet no p A report of the standing of the pupils of S. S. what sense is Southey "better" than Keats? Carlyle's masterpiece allowed to him with "The French Revolution" is "Past and Present," which keeps company with Green's "Short History of the English People."
Smiles is the friend, not Mr. Pepys.
"Mr. Bryce suggests that Lewes
"History of Philosophy" should he take Schwegler's, which loses no graces in the process of translation, and is short enough for any hurried pursuer of culture. Lucretius has been turned out as "too difficult," while Hesiod keeps his pride of place, though too dull. For whom is a good book supposed to be "too difficult," Lucretius is certainly one of the hundred foremost names in human literature: Kalidasa is not, nor is Mr. Smiles, nor Canon Kingsley.

Livy appears en masse, and Tacitus has every reason to feel bitterly anneyed. The whole of Emerson is ia, but nothing of Rabelais or of Hawthorne, a greater than Emerson.
Nobody can say that, regarding the best as the best, Smiles should be elected, and Jane Austem, Coleridge, Keats, Fielding, Marlowe, Horaca
Walpole, Papys, Herrick, Lovelace, left behind Talboys Wheeler, his epitome of the Mahabharata. This century of books does net really pretend te represent the absolutely best century. Neither the Frophst of Islam, nor the Apostolic Fathers, nor the late Mr. Green, nor Southey, nor Captain Cook, nor Schiller in his "William Tell" were, or are believed by any sound critic to be among the hundred best of the world's authors.
Some of the enigmas are solved when we observe that Lord Avebury does not call his list the best books, but the best for the students of the Working Man's College. Why, even so, Hesiod should be the ness Odes" and Firdusi?

THE LATE Q. F. WATTS. Presented Most of Ris Life Work as a

Mr. G. F. Watts, who was one of the most famous of English artists and sculptors, was bern in 1817, and died on the afternoon of July 1, 1904, first exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1827. He presented to the nation the greater part of his lifework, now called "the Watts collection," in the National Gallery of British Art. He inaugurated a record of heroic deeds done in everyday life, and built the first memorial wall at St. Botolph's, Aldersgate, recording the names of some who lost their lives in the endeaver to save life. On its institution by the King he received the distinction of the Order of Merit.

Recently The London Chronicle had the following regarding his last big work: Mr. G. F. Watts, who was one the following regarding his last the work:

"Mr. G. F. Watts' great equestrain statue, 'Physical Energy,' which is erected in the courtyard of the Royal Academy, has engrossed his attention, on and off, for many years. 'I sometimes wonder if I shall live to finish it,' he said to the writer seven or eight years ago. It was such a big piece of work that the roof of the studie had to be made specially high to accommodate it, and Mr. Watts has felt at his advanced age the strain of completing the statuary far more than painting pictures. His plan has always been to turn from one work to another, as a monfrom one work to another, as a monfrom one work to another, as a monuary far more than paisting pictures. His plan has always been to turn from one work to another, as a montal relief, and he has often had half a dozen pictures going at the same time, passing from one to another with refreshed interest. Some years ago, when 'Physical Energy' was started by the sculptor, the Office of Works was approached with a view to its erection in London. A site near the Serpentine was, we believe, suggested as a suitable place. The present idea is that the great piece of statuary is destined for South Africa, but would it not be possible to take a cast of it for the benefit of London? It would be a noble monorial of the physical energy of G. F. Watts, who has completed it in his 85th year."

Sir Godfrey Lagden.

Sir Godfrey Lagden, who has been doing useful and conciliatory work as head of the South African Native Affairs Commission since the settlement, is lying ill with an attack of malaria and influenza at Maritzburg. Sir Godfrey was our Resident Commissioner in Basutoland when the war broke out, and it was only his personal popularity and powerful influence with the Basutos that kept them quiet while the campaign was raging all round their frontier. At one critical period in the early stages of the war he contrived to send Lady Lagden out through the Orange country to the Cape, to put her in safety in case any serious disaster occurred. Sir Godfrey has not long passed his half contury, but he spent some years in the General Postoffice before he went sut to the Transvaai over a quarter of a century ago to act as private secretary to Sir Owen Lanyon, whose name was so familiar in counter with sur first great treatle with the Boers, London

Details to Be Worked Out.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The details of the convention for the constitution of the international commission to establish the facts in the North Sea incident are being worked out in London. The agreement between the two Governments, it is authoritatively stated here, goes no further than to have recourse to a commission under The Hague Convention to determine the facts, which, in the language of article 14, "leaves the conflicting powers entire freedom as to the effect to be given to the statement." The finding of the court, however, will constitute a binding moral obligation upon each power, which is expected to take the action called for without further representations from the other, but leaving the aggrieved Government free in case the action taken is not considered adequate to make such demands as it deems the occasion warrants. The commission is expected to be constituted promptly.

Double Drowning.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Word has been received of the drowning in Lake Pythonga, Pontiac County, Thursday, night, of Frank Richten and Angus McLean, of Buffalo, NY. Aye, -and the purse finds them out too, when you draw the wrong pair of shoes in the usual store lottery.

Why should you gamble on shoes when you might, at the same cost, invest in them?

Why purchase a shoe of unknown value (price-fixed by the Retailer) when you might, at the same cost, buy a surevalue, Maker-priced shoe, with a twenty year record of uniform merit behind it.

'The Slater Shoe" is the only shoe in Canada made in a factory which makes nothing else-and which has specialized on the making of that single grade, uniformly as its best and surest, for two decades.

It is the only shoe in Canada which is price-controlled by the Makers, who alone can know the hidden value in each pair without guess-work.

Nearly all other shoes are sold for what they look like, or for as much as the Retailer thinks he can get for them.

A genuine "Slater Shoe" is price branded at the factory for exactly what it is known to be worth in wear and comfort, with no charge whatever for its extra fine appearance

When a "Slater Shoe" goes bad, if it ever does-you know where to get your money back.
