

JEAN BAPTISTE

Best Day Joyfully Celebrated

Members of the Society Have a Picnic, Listen to Speeches and Enjoy Themselves.

Celebration of the feast day of Jean Baptiste by the society of the same name yesterday was successful since the formation of the society in Dawson. Nearly 200 participated in the excursion gotten up as an extra attraction and a more enjoyable time has not been had this season on the water. The steamer ran on the river to Sixteenmile creek where a pause was made and a ramble through the woods was had. In the collection of many kinds of wild flowers. While tied to the bank a stroll by many was taken to an Indian village near at hand and the customary exchange of presents was made. The return an impromptu program was indulged in, the proceeds of which, with the exception of the amount made by Commissioner Conger in French Mr. J. C. Noel, president of the society, was on hand and charge of the literary part of the program, his brilliant repartee and brilliant shafts of humor and his bon mots dropped here and there creating much hearty laughter at the expense of a speaker. The speech of the commissioner was proposed though he confessed to disadvantage in being compelled to speak in the English tongue rather than in the liquid sounds of la belle langue. Mr. Justice Dugas, patron of the society, spoke in eloquent French of the day, its celebration and the effect of its observance. Assistant Gold Commissioner in M. Valiquette and Com. Mousseau were listened to attentively and much enjoyed. Acting Consul, M. Turenne, French consul, M. Turenne was heard in a few remarks much enjoyed. Rev. Father Leclapain of the society. The was introduced, as well as all others, by President Noel and in so by making a play upon the unintelligible when literally translated into English, he made a hit with the audience and caused much laughter. Father Lefevre, in charge of the mission on the river, was referred to as the first man in the Dominion. The orchestra was aboard finished the music for the songs for the dancing. Dinner served at 5.30 and upon the return of the steamer to the dock it was hurriedly gotten up excursion never been had.

In the number, have been drilled in all exercises for today and will be demonstrating to her production the care and attention that has been exercised in the work of preparation. Governor and other officials are present and also the fathers and mothers of the children. The exercises were held in the gymnasium and the pupils displayed by the Sister Superior in guiding hand is due much of success of both the teachers and the lateness of the hour of the exercises were held we are unable to give the program in paper, but it will appear to-morrow.

On Way to America

June 9—Two hundred Roumanians passed through Vienna on their way to America. They are the first of the Roumanians to leave the country. The anti-Semitic press is opening the people to follow the lead of the Russians at Kishinev. A Tufovei of Ferlat, Roumanian, concludes an article on Kishinev as follows: "The orthodox priests have done their duty. They have turned the Roumanians into a cross and begin the battle against the wretched Jewish race and your reward in heaven is greater."

Clark will be held this evening after the Choyiski-Burley Athletic club.

HIGH ROLLER OF THE PAST

"Swiftwater Bill" Again in the City

Has Spent the Last Two Years in Following Up Stampedes in Nome and Valdez

There blew back into the city yesterday a man who at one time was the most talked of personage who ever stepped foot on the golden shores of the Klondike. Some who received column after column of advertising in the coast and eastern papers, one who told a reporter on the Examiner in San Francisco would cost him a thousand dollars a minute to interview him, and the reporter fell dead. A man who in the winter of '97 bought every egg in the camp in order to cut out a rival who was seeking the smites of a fair game, then filling an engagement at one of the variety theatres, or the story goes. The hero of so many adventures who several years ago burned up money by the fistful and who was a passenger yesterday on the Columbian was W. C. Gates, otherwise known as "Swiftwater Bill," one of the greatest high rollers Dawson ever knew and the Klondike ever produced.

The present is Bill's first visit to the scenes of the hot times of the past in two years. Asked where he had been in that time his answer was very laconic: "All over." Leaving here a couple of years ago he struck the camp at Nome where he remained some weeks but it did not look good to him then as everything above ground as far as could be judged was in litigation and buying a claim was the same as buying a lawsuit, one being indistinguishable from the other. Before the time of navigation he drifted back to California where the winter was spent and the next spring found him with the stampede headed for the Valdez country and there he has remained practically all the time ever since. Bill regards the Valdez as being a country with a splendid future before it, the copper alone being sufficient to work wonders as soon as there is an outlet to the sea for the ore or at least in case it is smelted where mined. The quantities are inexhaustible and the ore carries enough gold to pay for the mining and smelting, leaving the copper values clear yet. The gold will run from $8 to $22 to the ton.

"One thing that assures the future of the Valdez-copper country to a large extent," said he, "is the fact that many very wealthy people have taken hold of the propositions. Senator Clark of Montana, a personal knowledge has had five different experts there at different times and they all dipped in very liberally. The Nizina, too, is going to prove an excellent country. The ground is shallow and easily worked from the top. How extensive it is no one knows as the creek has never been crossed, but I have seen ground there that would pan from 17 to 23 cents to the pan." Other values that will soon be developed in the same section are the oil fields in the Kyak district about 100 miles south of Valdez. Prospectors in that vicinity gather the soapstone on top of the hills, strain it through a cloth and burn it in the lamps the same as the kerosene purchased at the stores. One well has been sunk that is really a gas well and others are preparing to further develop the find this season. The oil is said to make an excellent illuminant and will burn if poured out on a plank or a stone. There is but little residue and experts pronounce it far superior to that found in California. Last winter there was quite a stampede from Valdez to the Tanana, but there in speaking of the Tanana that portion about Fairbanks is not referred to, that being considered on the lower river. By the Tanana is meant the extreme upper reaches, within a few miles of the foot of the pass through the mountains. A strike was made on some tributaries of the Tanana at that point late last fall, but how extensive it is or how good is somewhat of a mystery, rather vague. The railroad at the head of which was Captain John Healey has fallen through and again been re-organized, but whether the last venture will be any more successful than the first is largely a matter of conjecture.

"Swift" is here on a little private business of his own, the nature of which he will not divulge to anyone. He still has property in the Klondike that requires his attention occasionally and there is a scheme up in the air which if it materializes as it is expected to will again put him in possession of money to burn. He will remain here two or three weeks.

IN COURT TOMORROW

Max Steinfeld Will be Up for Further Remand.

Max Steinfeld will be brought into police court tomorrow morning when sentence will again be deferred and he will be remanded back to jail until after the trial of Sam Levy in which case Steinfeld is an important witness for the crown. Steinfeld has already pleaded guilty to having stolen goods to the value of $850 from Isaacs-Bros. and in his confession he implicated Levy. The latter was held over from the lower court and is now in jail awaiting his trial in the territorial court which is set for July 2nd.

PENALTY IS VERY HEAVY

For Starting of Fires in Forests

Fine of Not Less Than $25 or Exceeding $200 May be Imposed.

For the reason that the crown failed to secure conviction as the result of a recent case in court regarding the starting of forest fires persons should not be possessed of the idea that official vigil has in any way been relaxed or convictions for such offence can not be made. On the other hand the law is very clear and any violation of it proven will result in severe punishment. The act under which such cases are brought reads: "Any person who shall directly or indirectly, personally or through any servant, employee or agent kindle a fire and let it run at large on any land not his own property shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $25 or more than $200. In case the fire is not put out or extinguished a fine of not less than $25 or more than $200 may be imposed."

Daring Robbery

Seattle, June 5.—Mrs. Robt. Seater, wife of a furniture dealer, was chloroformed and robbed of about $1,900 in her apartment in the McSouth block on Pike street shortly before noon today. The men entered the room, and Mrs. Seater thinking they had come to pay a bill, walked to the opposite side of the room to get an account book. While she was looking for a name one of the men had given her she was seized and a gag placed in her mouth. Mr. Seater tried to summon assistance but was overpowered, and a cloth saturated with chloroform placed to her nostrils. In a few seconds she was unconscious, in which condition she was found by her husband about an hour later.

Mrs. Seater says that the robbers were strangers to her, and that when they first entered the room she did not suspect them. They seemed to be aware that there was a large amount of money in the house, and she probably advised that the money was kept on Mrs. Seater's person. When she was found by her husband she discovered that the robbers had stripped her of the money from a satchel which she had kept in a room on the floor which showed that she had struggled with her assailants before the drug had taken effect.

Shoot Automobists

New York, June 7.—James Craig Way, M.P., who suggested the passing of an act against automobists, has been outdone by Sir Ralph Payne of Galway, who desires nothing better than to shoot the transgressors of the ordinances against excessive speed. Says the London correspondent of the Herald: "Sir Ralph is quite serious about the matter. He writes to today's Times to suggest what he calls 'legislative use of the shotgun,' saying: 'In the case of an automobilist inflicting an injury on a pedestrian or causing damage to the property of a person riding or driving on the highway, followed by an attempt to escape detection by continuing his rapid progress, I consider that the injured party should be legally permitted to fire at the offender.'"

Sir Ralph believes that a gap should not be used at a range exceeding forty yards, while the shot should not be larger than snipe shot. He also recommends that cylinder bore guns be employed, by reason of their scattering propensities. For, says he, the more an automobilist is peppered the more easily he could be identified when the police finally checked him in his mad career. Sir Ralph assumes they would do Sir Ralph's state of mind may be judged from the following sentence from his letter: "The precaution as to small shot is a necessary one in the interests of the motorists themselves. One might be enraged publicly would certainly lead with a nail, backshot or dum-dum bullet."

The Lady Smith Strike

Nanaimo, June 8.—At a meeting of the union held at Lady Smith this afternoon, the collectors reported as to the amount contributed to the fund by the Nanaimo business men. Telegrams were also read from Parker Williams stating that fairly satisfactory action had been taken by the Denver convention for the purpose of providing relief for Lady Smith men. Also one from W. D. Hayward, general secretary, stating that active relief measures had been taken for Lady Smith, and that a representative of the Federation was on route to the scene.

The reading of these telegrams was greeted with loud applause by the large body of the men who continue to favor the strike, and they claim that the Federation is now in the light for help, and will do all its resources if necessary to win. The more cooperative of the men, however, express grave doubts as to the sufficiency of the relief appropriated.

IDYLE HOUR IN THE LEAD

Civil Service Drops to Second Place

Excellent Game is Witnessed by the Largest Crowd of the Season.

The ball game last night was the most exciting and best attended of any that has been played in the league series this season. Such was expected long before the call of time and the crowd was not disappointed. Even further admission to the grand stand was refused soon after the first inning, so great was the crowd and so many the number who desired a place to sit down. And the managers of the respective teams at play beamed with delight. The crowd in the grand stand was a noisy one and many of them did not care particularly what they said, there being present strong partisans of both teams.

As the quality of the game is largely judged by the score it could be said of the game last night that had it not been for the awful slaughter in the latter half of the third when the Idylers piled up seven runs the game would have been a crackerjack. But that awful holocaust in the third was a little bit worse than maddening. It was fiercely fierce and strenuously strenuous.

A resume of the summary shows rather a remarkable state of affairs considering the result. Brazier struck out ten men while Lowery fanned but six. Lowery gave away three bases on dead balls and Brazier none. The Service committed five errors and the Idylers three while both sides had six men left on base. The Idylers beat their opponents to a standstill on stealing bases, having eleven to their credit and the Service but two. The Service made ten assists and the Idylers nine. By reason of both teams being at the head of the list and also on account of a deplorable state of animosity between them, which in several instances is very bitter, the result of the play was more eagerly anticipated than in any game yet played this season. At least a couple of thousand dollars changed hands, all placed at even money.

The hall was opened by the Service who succeeded in getting but one man by first. Bennett hit for a single to center field and made the initial hit, only to be caught napping a moment later by Boyer at the plate. Winters hit to third and went out at first. Dowd dropped a little hit in front of the plate and on an error of first made the cushion flying later on second when Harrison failed to find the leather. The Idylers drew first blood and it was a peach. Krelling was first at the bat and the second ball that crossed the plate he hit squarely in the eye and sent it out in left field under the slough bridge making a home run. Henderson went out at first on an assist of pitcher. Boyer took a walk on balls and was retired 44 second in endeavoring to purloin the bag, the assist being made by Bennett at home, and Doyle put a high fly to Harrison which was promptly nailed.

The Service scored in the second. Sullivan retired at first on an assist of third, McAvill fanned and Culligan took his base on a dead ball. Delfel hit to third and on a series of bad throws that followed stole second and scored on a passed one after the other made the third cushion where he died on Brazier's out at first. Coffey hit to short and would have gone out at first had Winters had his foot within three feet of the base. Smith followed and as he dropped a little chap in the same position as Coffey the latter was retired at second on a forced run. Smith circled the bases and on the race for home collided at the plate with Bennett which resulted in a mixup, a shove, a poke in the face and police interference. Lowery fanned, Harrington hit for a single, stole second and died on Krelling pounding the air.

The beginning of the third was the commencement of a long line of ciphers for the Service, lasting through five innings. Bennett put a line to center field; Winters took his base on a dead ball and died on third, Dowd slammed out a two bagger but got no further, Harrison fanned and Sullivan went out on a fly to Coffey. The last half of the third was the scene of the awful carnage. The Service was battered all over the field and fumbles and muffs piled up at an alarming rate. The crowd yelled and shouted itself hoarse and the Idylers who were not on bases hugged each other in ecstasy. The first seven men to go to the bat scored. Then Barrington fanned; Krelling hit to left field and stole second where he fanned, Henderson went out at first on an assist of short and Boyer put a liner to Winters-Henderson, Boyer, Doyle, Forrest, Coffey, Smith and Lowery brought in the runs.

From the fourth to the eighth neither side scored. In the beginning of the fourth McAvill retired at first on an assist of short, Culligan fanned,

..The Breakfast in the Shoe Box..

The young master had been out of college for a year and he had spent that time in his father's bank. But he was as youthful in two particular as on the day he first went to school. He feared then just as much as he does today the fat and bald butler who could look very stout and amiable sometimes and at other times tremendously serious and impressive. Fear of this respectful and ancient servant had become a sort of tradition with him. He had imbibed it at 1, and at 21 it was not easily shaken off.

It was almost the same kind of fear that made him stand in dread of the paternal displeasure. He had the healthy horror of childhood of arousing his father's anger. It was above all the combination of the two forces that he dreaded. The butler was faithful to the father's interest in reporting any suspected departure from the path of propriety that all young men are supposed to follow. Thus the two, fear and respect, were doubly terrible, together.

It happened that various episodes caused the young master's career to be the subject of the father's grudge. The butler to be somewhat stricter than it might have been had his indignation at the young man's conduct to be degraded career been free from the least bright and highly colored splashes. He was strictly under the eye of the father and father's deputy the butler.

One morning last week young master emerged from his room with the conviction that whatever happened he could not eat breakfast. He hesitated when he fell into bed a few hours before that food would be served in the morning. He was absolutely certain of it as he put on his clothes.

He had escaped the notice of both his father and the butler as he came down to breakfast. At least one of them was certain to be with him at the table. There was no trace of fatigue or weariness in his fresh pink and white face and his yellow hair curled about his head as crisply as if he had been sleeping out ten hours. He was in no danger of exposure so far as his appearance went. But the ordeal of trying to eat breakfast under the butler's eye was too much.

The young master pondered. He would have to go to the table on the departure from custom would get him into a mess from which he could never extricate himself. He realized all this, but decided rebelliously that he would not eat, come what might.

Then he looked about the bathroom and a sudden inspiration came to him as he gazed at the rubber sponge bag on the wall.

When he appeared fresh and smiling on the dining room table, the butler would think that the young master had been very well. He was, in fact, very well. He was, in fact, very well.

The young master's head went through all the suds in the padded eggs and bacon, and the coffee would be served by the butler. The young master had a sponge bag in his pocket. The sponge bag was at hand, and James had to be out of the room.

At lunch he told the story to a friend and wondered what the result would be. Thus it happened that a messenger arrived at the depot for lost articles bearing a letter. It requested the return of a shoe box containing a sponge bag in which were:

SURE THING GAME

Says He Must Have Forgotten the Combination

It happened a few nights ago, since which time J. H. Rogers of the White Pass has been looked upon as something of a philanthropist. He lives in the vicinity of one of these long tangled water meters where you drop in a slug and draw off a five gallon can of water. He considered it a good scheme and invested in a dollar's worth of slugs. On the evening in question it was beastly hot and he wanted something better to drink than water. Then another a day or two until five had gone the way of the first and still no water and then it was he made up his mind it was a sure thing game. He returned to his home and within five minutes another neighbor went after water, but with a different result. He put one slug in a rush but when the water came it refused to run, keeping up a steady stream for nearly ten minutes to the height of over a foot in his neighborhood, and proceeded to fill up all the old cans, tubs and everything else handy until everyone in the block had enough water to last them a week. Then an employee of the company, named alone, and the signature gusher was again successfully capped.

To Bring Many Jews
New York, June 27.—Plans to bring a new Jew from Russia to the United States are under consideration by the order of Rev. Dr. McArthur. That in this country and in American conditions it is to be found the solution of the Jewish problem was never an act of justice before the United States and a committee of the order of Rev. Dr. McArthur, who is in charge of the order, has been formed to prepare in detail a plan of action that shall bring to the United States the Jewish people. The order of Rev. To be an Inspector Yesterday a new face was seen behind the wickets in the gold commissioner's office, but its presence there will be only temporary for as soon as the fun of the office is thoroughly grasped the owner of the face will be given an inspectorship at one of the out-of-town stations to which he will remove the aforementioned face. The possessor of said face is the illustrious John Forderol Sarge, better known to his many friends as "Harvey" the "valent" man. He is a government man and has been rewarded and promoted. He will sign the payroll on his behalf, becoming alacrity and fast.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Washburn, the former occupying a high position in the N. C. Co., will arrive this afternoon at the Selkirk. They are accompanied by Senator Dietrick and his daughter.

ENJOYABLE EXERCISES

At Close of St. Mary's School

Excellent Program Admirably Rendered—Suitable Addresses.

As stated in yesterday's paper the closing exercises of St. Mary's school took place in the afternoon at 7 o'clock. The title affair was, as Father Smith declared, the most enjoyable of the kind ever witnessed, reflecting credit not alone on the pupils but on the accomplished and painstaking teachers—Sisters Mary Edith and Genevieve. At the completion of the program addresses suitable to the happy occasion were made by Governor Osgood, Father Buzo, Father Smith and other. The program was not lengthy but it had not a dull or prosaic number in it. The march drill was led by all who witnessed it—the finest thing ever seen in Dawson. The program was as follows:
