Students, Attention! Rare Chance to Secure a College Education.

We have made arrangements that enable us to place within the reach of a limited number of deserving students, opportunities for securing, on easy terms, a classical or commercial education. A little work during the vacation season will secure this for the one worthily striving for such a boon. But who may not be in possession of sufficient money to realize his heart's desire. The facilities at our disposal enable us to offer a year's board and tuition at

St. Dunstan's College

to any three young men who will fulfill the necessary, easy conditions required. These may be beginners, or former students of the College who have not been able to complete their course. In addition to this we have at our disposal four scholarships at the

of Charlottetown. A full course in this excellent Commercial College may be won by any four young men or women, in town or country, who will fulfill the easy conditions we require. Whenever anyone satisfies the requirements in either of the cases enumerated he or she will be given a certificate entitling the holder to the educational advantages offered. A rare opportunity is here placed within reach of those desirous of acquiring a good education, and no time should be lost in taking advantage thereof. Only a little work is required in order to secure the coveted boon, and all can easily be accomplished during this summer's vacation, so that the winners may enter either college at the opening of the next academic year.

Letter-Writing.

FROM "A GENTLEMAN."

If you happen to have a rich father, you may say. "It does not make much difference! I shall have an easy time of it all my life. I can spell 'applicant' with two 'o's' if I like and it will not make any difference."

This is a very foolish idea. The richer you are, the greater will be your responsibilities, the more will you be criticized and found fault with, and you will find it will take all your ability to keep together or to spend wisely what your father has acquired. The late John Jacob Astor worked harder than any of his clerks; in the street he looked care worn and preoccupied; and he often lamented that poor men did not know how hard it was to be rich. His hearers often felt that they would like to exchange hardships with him. But he never, in spite of his sorrows, gave them an ounce. It is true, however, that a rich man needs careful education even more than a poor man. And even politicians have to spell decently. You have perhaps heard of the man who announced in a letter that he was a "g-r-a-t-u-l-a-t-i-o-n man than Grant."

Usage denotes certain forms in the writing of letters; and the knowledge and practise of these forms are absolutely necessary. For instance, one must be very particular to give each man his title. Although we Americans are supposed to despise titles, the frequency with which they are borrowed in this country shows that we are not free from a weakness for them. You have perhaps heard the old story of the man who entered a country tavern in Kentucky and called out to a friend, "Major!" Twenty majors at once arose.

You will find that if you desire to keep the regard of your friends you must be careful in letter-writing to give each man his title. Every man over twenty-one years of age is "Esquire" in this country. Plain "Mr." will do for young people—except the youngest—"juniors," who are only "Masters"; everybody else, from the lawyer, who is rightly entitled to "Esquire," to the hod-carrier, must have that title affixed to his name, or he feels that the man who writes to him is guilty of a disrespect. A member of Congress, of the Senate of the United States, of the State legislatures, has "Honorable" prefixed to his Christian name, and he does not like you to forget it. But a member of the British Parliament is never called "Honorable."

When Mr. Parnell and Mr. William O'Brien, both members of Parliament, were here, this rule was not observed, and they found themselves titled, much to their amusement "Honorable."

There are two days in the year on which this miracle takes place. The first occasion happens early in May, the second on September 19. We had the privilege of being present yesterday in the Duomo while the miracle was wrought and we believe few things would be more welcome to our readers than an account of it.

Januarius, protector of Naples, suffered martyrdom under Diocletian about the year 305, in company with Festus, his deacon, and Desiderius, his lector. As Bishop of Benevento he attracted the attention of Draconius, the governor, and on refusing to sacrifice to the gods, was by his orders decapitated at Poggioreale, two miles from Naples. Immediately after the execution a pious woman collected some of the dead Bishop's blood, which she brought to Naples in two phials. This is the blood which, after sixteen centuries, we beheld yesterday—fresh, living blood, as it had come from veins but a few hours before.

These few remarks are sufficient previous to giving a detailed account of the liquefaction. The event may take place at any moment between seven and twelve and therefore it was no wonder to find a crowd in the church at an early hour. By 9 o'clock the Duomo was filled, while in the chapel of the cathedral treasury there were about fifteen hundred persons laboring under intense excitement. On the steps of the high altar of this chapel an aged canon stood, holding the phial half full of dry, hard blood. Priests, laymen, soldiers and gendarmes stood around. Outside the rails young and old, rich and poor stood jammed together, praying, singing, crying out to the protector of Naples that the miracle might take place. The tension was great for Neapolitans believe if the blood does not liquefy they shall suffer either pestilence or scarcity of crops. They regard St. Januarius as a father from whom they expect almost everything. Their confidence in him is strong, but they know that on more than one occasion the blood did not liquefy and a plague followed. His protection saved the city of which they are so proud from being destroyed by Vesuvius two or three times especially in December 1631; but they must admit they have not always deserved it. It was not a thing to be surprised at, therefore, that those vivacious people were rather hysterical.

THE MIRACLE.—From the moment the canon held up the phial to the light of a candle before the concourse until the liquefaction occurred forty minutes passed by. Litanies, hymns and various prayers succeeded each other, yet no sign of any change in the hard mass was apparent. At length it began to grow soft. Pieces of the dark lump commenced to fall off. Then, the next moment the whole phial was almost filled with blood—and the miracle had taken place.

A cry went up from the crowd, and a wild scene followed. "Ecco il miracolo e fatto!"—"Look, the miracle has taken place!"—came from every side. Words of thanks repeated in a hundred forms, were given to "San Gennaro," only to be drowned by the strains of the "Te Deum," in which all joined.

From the heights of the citadel canon boomed out the glad tidings over the city and on every tongue were the same words—"Ecco il miracolo e fatto!" And Neapolitans always merry and happy, were more so than ever. The coming year was to pass without mishap, for "San Gennaro" would still protect the city.

And that day in restaurants, in the streets, in hotels, at railway stations the miracle was the dominant theme. Men wrangled over the precise moment the liquefaction had taken place; shrill-voiced women argued about how long "San Gennaro" had delayed them, but all were happy and agreed on one point—their protector has not forsaken his beloved city.

Items of Interest.

It is pleasant to record in the midst of so much that is distressing in Church affairs in France that, according to Parisian papers, every Sunday at about 10 o'clock a handsome closed brougham, sets down at the door of the French Republic and Mile. Fallieres, who attend Mass with the utmost piety. This being the case, why does President Fallieres punish poor postmen because they allow their wives and children to go to Mass and sometimes go to Church themselves?

Concerning the tomb of Pope Leo XIII., now in course of construction in the Lateran Basilica, the Roman correspondent of the London "Catholic Times" says: "Giallo Tadolei is well on with his work, the figure of Leo XIII. blessing a throng during a Pontifical triumph. When the whole is ready the tomb will be set in its place, and those connected with the proceedings expect that this will be done in November. And the burial? This is another question. Some wish the Lateran clergy to receive the remains at once and deposit them, as is usage at Rome, the place being that time enough has passed and that the temporary tomb reserved for each successor of St Peter in the Vatican Basilica should now be vacant. But the Lateran authorities demur, because they allege that they have not a suitable place of deposit. The statement about an immediate transfer, and another which I have on authority, viz., that if the removal does not take place soon it will not take place for a long time, quite bear out what was said recently about there being a difficulty as to the funeral through Rome. How the question will be settled no one can yet say. The Holy See will not take any part in determining what shall be done, but will leave everything to the archbishops of the two basilicas concerned Cardinal Rampolla, Archbishop of Palermo, and Cardinal Sastri, Archbishop of St. John's. The matter will not be put before any other Italian authorities except the police. Of course, these are now swayed by influences very different from those which permitted the scandal on the occasion of the funeral of Pius IX. Besides, there was an appearance of protest in that Pontiff's giving up his empty tomb in the Confession of St. Mary Major and electing to rest with the poor and martyrdom crypts at San Lorenzo, while Leo XIII. is the first Roman Pontiff to be buried intrinsically—something which the law allows only to the Italian sovereign family. None the less, there is the idea of a quiet transfer of the body from St. Peter's to St. John's."

The London "Times" and the other daily papers are perpetually quoting, as supporting their opinions on the actual ecclesiastical policy of France, certain French and Italian papers, while their correspondents endeavor to puff off on the public as leading and authoritative organs the "Sicula," the "Lanterne," "L'Aurore," "L'Action," "L'Humanite" and the Italian "Secolo" and "Tribuna," these two according to the "Times," being "the most widely read and most authoritative Italian papers. One and all of the papers named are not only ferociously anti-Christian but anti-theistic and even blasphemous."

Rev. Peter Gallway, S. J., died the other day in London, aged eighty-six years. Born at Killarney November 13th, 1820, he was educated at Boulogne and Stonyhurst. In the Society of Jesus in England he filled at various times the chief offices of trust.

The Right Hon. Charles Owen O'Connor (The O'Connor Don) left personal estate valued at £33,272. He left £300 to the Catholic Bishop of Elphin for the convent recently established there and £200 to be distributed among such charitable purpose or for Masses as his wife shall determine.

"The American press keeps telling its readers," says the casket, the French separation Law merely requires the formation of corporations for the management of Church property such as are formed in the United States and Canada. But the fact is ignored—whether ignorantly or dishonestly, it is hard to say—that our Church corporation must always act in conformity with the laws of the Church. If a body of laymen managing church property in Canada or the States were to do anything with it which the Bishop declared the church could not permit the Bishop would only have to call upon the courts and the offending layman would be brought to order. In France on the contrary the associations for worship are absolutely independent of the Church, and M. Clemenceau, at least, is frank enough to say that they have been made so on purpose with a hope that a conflict between people and pastors will lead to schism.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A fashionable young lady, the other afternoon, visited a cooking school, where her attention was equally divided between the new dress worn by an acquaintance and the directions for making a cake.

Upon returning home she undertook to write down the recipe for making the cake for her mother, and the old lady was paralyzed when she read:—

"Take two pounds of flour, three rows of plaiting, down the front, the whites of two eggs, cut bias, a pint of milk, ruffled round the neck, half a pound of currants, and seven yards of head trimming, and add graded lemon peel and three-quarters of a pound of butter in a moderately hot oven until the underkirt is tucked from the waist down on either side, and finish with large satin bows."

A company of militia were marched to the railway station to contain for the range, but the captain miscalculating the time the walk would take, brought his men to the station in time to see the train go without them. Next day some men of the same company were firing at the butts.

Captain (as one of the men cuts up the dust)—"That's a bad miss, Peters; I don't believe you'd hit a furniture van."

"There's worse marksmen than me in the regiment, sir."

"Are there?"

A Protestant clergyman on an Atlantic voyage had to share a stateroom with another man. "After a short while," said the clergyman, "I began to worry about some valuables I had with me, and at last I took them to the purser, saying, 'I should like to explain to you that I am very pleased with my fellow-passenger. That is, I find him a gentleman in every respect, and I wouldn't have you think that I would have you think that my coming to you with these valuables is to be taken—er—er—as any reflection on him.' The purser interrupted me with a broad smile, and said, 'Oh, it's all right, sir; your friend has come to me with some valuables of his own and he said precisely the same thing about yourself.'"

There is nothing harsh about Lax-Liver Pills. They cure Constipation, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, and Bilious Spells without griping, purging or sickening. Price 25c.

The Increased Subsidies.

As stated in our last issue the Provincial Premiers, at their recent conference at Ottawa, arrived at an agreement with the Dominion Government regarding the increased subsidies to be paid the Provinces from the Federal Treasury. The total increase of subsidies amounts to $2,347,000. This Province's contribution to the increased annual expenditure thus required will be about one fiftieth or about $45,000.

The subsidies paid to the Provinces by the Dominion is under two heads; an allowance of 80 cents per head of population, and an allowance for legislation and government bearing a certain proportion to population. The last named specific subsidy bears the following relation to population: For a population of less than 150,000, $100,000; for a population of not more than 200,000, $150,000; for a population of not more than 400,000, $180,000 and so on.

At the time of the union of the four original Provinces of Confederation, viz. Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, the per capita allowance was on the populations of these Provinces at the last census preceding their union, namely the census of 1861. The specific allowance to these Provinces for legislation and government was also regulated by that census as will be readily understood. All these Provinces with the exception of New Brunswick have increased in population, Ontario and Quebec increasing very largely. From this it will be readily understood that a removal of the barriers, that is a regulating of the subsidies, both per capita and specific, according to the decennial census last preceding the change, would greatly benefit the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, as well as Nova Scotia. This is what has been done and this brings us at once to the consideration of the effect the changed conditions have on our own Province.

Under the new arrangement Ontario receives an increase on per capita allowance of $629,484. Quebec receives an increase of $429,865; Nova Scotia receives $47,659. New Brunswick receives no increase. Manitoba and British Columbia came into the union since Confederation and their subsidies are on the basis of the last decennial census and consequently increase according to population at each census. Prince Edward Island also came in since Confederation and its subsidies are also arranged as to increase according to the last preceding decennial census. But Prince Edward Island has not increased in population, on the contrary it has decreased and there is where the difficulty comes in.

In consequence of our exceptional position, our population decreasing and not much hope of improvement in this particular, we should be entitled to exceptional treatment in regulating the per capita allowance, and the representatives of our Province should have most persistently pressed this feature of our case on the attention of their colleagues and on the Dominion Government. We should have had our per capita allowance based on our maximum population at any census since we entered the union. The Premier of the Province should have entered his solemn protest against any less favorable arrangement. But we have no record that he made any attempt to secure for us the best terms possible. The result is that henceforth our per capita allowance is not to be 80 cents on our maximum population; but 80 cents per head according to the last decennial census. The consequence is that we lose immediately and directly $5,262,000; for the allowance last year, under this head was $37,262,000; but under the new arrangement the subsidy from this source is $32,000,000. Under the new arrangement, then, we have Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and all the western Provinces starting out with large increases under this head, in some cases reaching nearly three quarters of a million; but Prince Edward Island starts with a loss of $5,262,000, and this is only the beginning of her losses in this connection.

The increase of these per capita subsidies will be contributed by all parts of Canada without distinction, and Prince Edward Island's contribution being about one fiftieth part will amount to about $25,000. This added to the direct loss of $5,000 to start with, brings her loss on the arrangement up to $30,000. But this is not all we stand to lose. Future readjustments of these subsidies, after each census, will most assuredly largely augment the increases to Ontario and Quebec and the Western Provinces, while our population is likely to show a still further decrease and the consequence will be that we shall lose both ways. We shall lose directly by loss of population and we shall lose indirectly by increased contribution to the subsidies of the other Province from which we reap no benefit. Does any reasonable man think such an arrangement of the subsidy question is the most advantageous and profitable that could be made for Prince Edward Island?

Let us now consider the increase subsidies for government and legislation. This is the only increase in which Prince Edward Island participates and it is of the utmost importance that we should in no way suffer concerning it. According to the scale referred to above, we should receive an increase of $70,000 a year. But at the very start we are met with a reduction, as the proposed increase is not $70,000 but $65,345. Here we have the only increase in which we could participate, at once clipped to the extent of almost $5,000. Add this to the $5,000 reduction in the per capita allowance and we start the proposed increase of subsidies with a direct loss of $10,000. From these figures it will be seen that this Province receives from the proposed increase of subsidies only $60,000 a year and by her proportionate contribution to the increased subsidies of the other Provinces from which she receives no benefit she loses $25,000. That is to say, the Government of this Province receive $60,000 annually from the Dominion but the people of this Province contribute $25,000 towards the increase of subsidies to the other Provinces from which we receive no benefit at all. But the worst feature of this arrangement is that this annual contribution is likely to increase and our annual subsidy to decrease.

From the facts above set forth it will readily be seen that the arrangement underlying the increased subsidies is inequitable and prejudicial to the interests of this Province. Owing to our peculiar circumstances we should be entitled to special treatment in the matter, and our representatives at the conference should have earnestly pleaded for exceptional treatment, and failing to receive it should have entered their solemn protest against the injustice done our Province. This is what was done by the Premier of British Columbia with the result that the other members of the conference agreed to allow his Province an additional specific grant of $100,000, owing to that Province's exceptional position. Even then the Premier of the Pacific Province was not satisfied but promised to carry his case to the Privy Council. But there is no record that the Premier of Prince Edward Island uttered a word of protest or made the slightest demand for a more equitable and just arrangement in favor of this Province. When the resolution regarding these increased subsidies was before our Provincial Legislature last session, the Leader of the Opposition and his followers in the House pointed out the injustice this Province would suffer under the Government's resolution, and the Opposition moved a resolution asking for more equitable and just treatment for our Province. In course of the debate in this connection, the Leader and other members of the Opposition pointed out to the Government what would happen unless the Government so modified their resolution as to embrace the contention of the Opposition. This advice was unheeded and just what was predicted has happened. Do the people of this Province think the Government's course in this matter redounds to their credit or to the benefit of our Island Province?

The Patriot in its reference to the conference and the new subsidies indicates that it is very much pleased with itself for having advised the electorate, before the last general Provincial election, to "keep in line with the Government at Ottawa," so as to ensure settlement of our claims. Such a declaration is not only silly but vicious, as we took occasion to point out at the time of the election. We said then and we say now that if we have a just and equitable claim against the Federal Government, we should enforce and eventually obtain our rights, regardless of the political complexion of the Dominion or Provincial Governments; and this is just what has happened. The Governments of Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia are Conservative; but each of these Provinces have obtained their rights in the Conference and have secured very large additions to their annual subsidies. Some of them have had specific additions made to the subsidies coming to them on the general plan of the readjustment. They secured all this because their Premiers were alert and exerted themselves to the utmost in behalf of the rights of their respective Provinces. But the Premier of Prince Edward Island seems to have sat dum satisfied to accept whatever sop might be thrown him. This subject is by no means exhausted.

London Election Scandal.

 The witness continued: "After the west Elgin election Lewis came to my house and told me to get out or I'd be arrested. 'I did, so.'
 "What did you get?"
 "I got $25 for a year's banishment."
 "And who paid you?"
 "O'Gorman gave me the first $100 and the rest came by letter."
THE RAILWAY COMMISSIONER.
 "Just before you went away, what Mr. Reid spoke to you?"
 "Mr. Robert Reid. He is now on some railroad commission, I think. I volunteered to go down to St. Thomas and fix the ballot box, and make it right in the event of an investigation. My idea was to substitute McDermid and McNish ballots as to make everything all right. I thought I could get the sheriff to permit me. Mr. Reid told me, however, it would be attended to by a Mr. Grant, of Toronto, a lawyer, I think."
A CONTINUOUS CONSPIRACY.
 The Pritchett evidence connects the London conspiracy closely with the operations which have gone on for years under the auspices of the Liberal organization for the regular and systematic stealing of seats by skilled persons retained and regularly engaged and paid for their work. Pritchett himself ran a ballot switching normal school, and had under training at various times a host of expert deputy returning officers, some operating locally, some moved from riding to riding where they borrowed local names for temporary use. Certain of Mr. Pritchett's employers, paymasters and fellow conspirators have been promoted to high positions in the public service. Politicians elected through their criminal plots, are important members of parliament and the legislature. Some are Ministers of the Crown. It is not surprising when these facts come to light and are established in detail beyond all doubt, that fair-minded Liberals are revolting against the machine.

Thomas F. Collins, charged with the murder of Miss Mary Ann McAulay, Father McAulay's housekeeper at New Ireland, New Brunswick, on or about the 19th of August last, has been formally committed for trial.

DIED

At Head of Hillsborough on the 30th September, Catherine Margaret daughter of late Alex McDonald, in her 49th year, after a severe illness of three months borne with Christian patience and resignation. She leaves to mourn an aged mother and one brother. In her last illness she devoutly received the Sacraments for the dying and departed this life fortified by all the rites of our holy religion. Her funeral took place to St Andrew's on Tuesday Oct. 22nd and was very largely attended. The Requiem Mass was celebrated by the pastor Rev A. P. McLellan and the funeral service was performed by his Lordship Bishop McDonald. May her soul rest in peace.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

The Serbian Government in France has resigned and a new administration has been formed with Clemenceau as Premier. Now look out for squalls.

An earthquake shook severe enough to rattle windows and shake articles from shelves was felt at Biddeford, Maine, on Saturday last.

It may be some weeks before the British dock yard properties at Halifax will be handed over to Canada, though the principle of the transfer has been accepted by both parties. There are still some details to be settled.

The Bank Head Colliery at Reserve, C. E., was destroyed by fire Sunday morning, and the Colliery will be idle at least a week, but it will be much longer than that before it will be running full blast. The eleven hundred men will be given work in other collieries.

A wreck occurred on the C. P. R. near White River, Ont., on Monday between two freight trains. One train was standing on a siding and another train crashed into the caboose of the standing train, overturning it and setting it on fire. Conductor Neely was killed and his body was burned.

During the progress of a football game between teams from Syracuse and Colgate, Universities at New Star Park at Syracuse Saturday afternoon, a portion of the bleachers collapsed and four hundred people were precipitated under the stand. Of a hundred or more injured three will probably die.

In the by-election in Quebec County yesterday, Robitaille, the Independent Liberal, championed by Bourassa, was elected by a majority of about 600, over Amyot, Government candidate specially chosen at the instance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The result is regarded as a hard blow to the Government.

As a result of eating gelatine dressing in chickens boiled in copper pots, eighty-five guests were taken suddenly ill in Osoquia township, near Caledonia, Ontario, lately, and three have died. Ninety guests were in attendance at the dinner of Hoober and Mrs. Foster, and shortly after partaking of the chicken, eighty-five took ill and two died.

A young man named Wakeling, working on the roof of the Charlottetown Club's new building on Great George Street, fell to the ground, a distance of twenty-five feet. The step ladder on which he was gave way, and, with some boards and scantling, fell on top of him. Although he received some bruises and had a bad shock, he was not seriously injured.

The autumn session of the Imperial Parliament opened yesterday. It is reported that at the close of this session or the beginning of the next, important changes will take place in the Cabinet. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, it is said, will be raised to the peerage and lead the Government in the House of Lords, remaining Premier. Mr. Asquith will lead in the Commons. Other changes are also spoken of.

The accidental discharge of several sticks of dynamite at the works of the Belleville Portland Cement Works at Point Ann, three miles from Belleville, Ont., on Monday, resulted in the death of two men, Wm. Bowler, aged 19, and George Rion, 32. They were engaged in loading blast holes with dynamite and carrying boxes of the explosive. It is thought that in ramming the dynamite down, the percussion cap was struck. Bowler was thrown sixty feet. Not a vestige of clothing remained on his body. Both feet and hands were blown off and half of his body was gone. Rion was blown in the opposite direction over 80 feet, landing among some trees and then falling to the ground. Parts of his body were picked up in different places.

Capt. J. A. Wayland of the ship Alex. Gibson reports from Victoria, B. C., to the United States hydrographic office that at 7:05 p. m. on August 3, 1906, when in latitude 38 deg. 25 min., longitude 110 deg. 6 min., he experienced a tremendously heavy shock of earthquake, lasting about forty seconds, and shaking the ship from stem to stern as if she was bumping over a ledge of rocks. It shook tools out of the racks in the carpenter shop, pots and pans down in the galley, cups and pitchers from hooks in the pantry, and all glasses off the lamps. The crew came raining aft, not knowing what was the matter, and the captain thought the yards were coming down. The sea at the time was perfectly smooth, the wind light from the southwest no land in sight and all sails set, in fine, clear weather.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS

Fire at the Exhibition grounds, Toronto, Thursday night destroyed the grand stand causing a loss of about $100,000.

Clinton Wray and Chas. Hixon formerly teller and book-keeper respectively, of the Union Trust Co. of Pittsburgh, who several days ago pleaded guilty to embezzling $125,000 of the funds of that institution were sentenced in the Criminal Court to eight years hard labor in the penitentiary.

An Ottawa despatch of the 19th says, the steamer Lady Grey, the new ice breaker, arrived at Sydney after a very stormy voyage with only ten tons of coal left. The same despatch says the steamer is to be equipped at Quebec for the work of keeping the Cape Rouge ice bridge from forming. This is the new ice-breaker that was promised to Prince Edward Island for service between this Province and the Mainland.

Snow, wind and cold extended over nearly the entire country between the Rocky Mountains and the Missouri River, Monday, causing heavy losses to the stock and fruit. Telegraph wires were prostrated and train schedules were disarranged. Up to six o'clock Monday evening twenty inches of snow had fallen in Denver, and on the highest point of the Moffat Railroad two degrees below zero were recorded.

An Ottawa despatch says it is the intention to have three big motor cars running on the Intercolonial next spring, the number will be increased to ten as fast as they can be built. The result of the investigations in Europe, just completed by G. R. Joughins, of Moncton, Mechanical Superintendent of the I. C. R., has justified this arrangement. He recently reported at Ottawa after a tour of investigation which took him through France, Australia, Hungary, Germany and England.

Homer Taylor, a well known railway supply agent of Montreal was killed under sad circumstances last Saturday morning on the Grand Trunk railway near Alexandria, between Montreal and Ottawa. He was returning from Ottawa and Alexandria he left the car and went into a lunch room. When he came out the train had started and he ran and jumped on the step of the hind car, which was vestibuled car. He was noticed by a passenger, but before the trap could be raised and the door opened he became exhausted and could hold on no longer. He fell to the rails and was instantly killed.

A cyclone of unprecedented severity, accompanied by a terrific downpour of rain, swept over the provinces of Havana and Pinar Del Rio, Cuba, on Wednesday night last resulting in twenty deaths in Havana and the injury of a dozen or more persons. The money loss is fully $2,000,000. The dead are all Cubans of the poorer class. The United States Cruiser Brooklyn disaged her anchor until her stern grounded in the canal of La Roca. She was got off on Friday morning without injury. The storm caused havoc and confusion among shipping in the harbor. Many buildings were damaged, and nearly all the trees in the city and suburbs were uprooted. One hundred and fifty tobacco barns in Algriz were destroyed. The recently planted tobacco crop was also damaged. Enormous damage is reported from Cera Centre to the banana and plantain growing industry. These crops were practically destroyed. Many small farmers losing their all, and coming to dire distress.

There is much regret in the community on account of the death of Hon. George Simpson, of Bay View, on Monday morning last, from blood poisoning. A week ago Friday he received a scratch on his right hand, while installing a boiler on his premises. This came in contact with the rust of the iron; but he treated the matter lightly at the first, but it soon became inflamed. The trouble rapidly spread to his arm and on Friday last the arm was amputated. But the poison had already got into his system to such an extent that the operation proved to be useless, and he succumbed, as above stated, on Monday morning. Mr. Simpson was only forty-eight years of age at the time of his death. He was elected to the Legislature as a Government supporter at the general election of 1900, and reelected in 1904 for the first district of Queen's. He became a member of the Executive in April, 1905, and continued so till his death. Last spring he was chosen as one of the Liberal candidates for Queen's County for the House of Commons. He leaves a widow and two daughters to mourn.
