Poetry.

The Pine and the Walnut.

A mile or so from the gray little town
Of Normanville, mirrored also in the sea,
On the Estuary d'Or—where the tourist she to do-ers
Go the length of Bray's golden broom—
There loom red, long vines, on old pine tree.

And across the stream, in a right bar-line—
Like a vanity running the ruined face—
Was a large-limbed walnut, where the blue
Hustled together in shower and shine,
Nibbling the berries, spare and choice.

Summer and winter those friends were true
Whatever the to-ne river then slipped between—
Leaned to theseashore and drank the heaven,
Clothed like emperors, taking their cost,
Now in sunshine and now in gloom.

Many a time when I was a lad
I drifted by with suspended oar,
The wind in the walnut seemed so sad!
But ah! what a blustering voice it had
In the rugged pine on the other shore!

And often in restless slumbers tost
I seemed to be drifting down the tide,
Hearing the ocean wind as in a coast—
To die away like a murmuring ghost
In the drooping boughs on the other side.

Perhaps 'twas a boyish fantasy—
The dream of a dreamer, half effaced—
That the wind in the walnut sang to the pine;
But surges through the pine like the surging sea,
With a sound of a distant cannonade!

Only a fantasy! Who can tell?
But I think 'twill haunt me to the end,
Such a curious things befell
The walnut tree, and the pine as well—
For they went together, friend and friend.

From a sullen cloud broke war at last,
And a crim son dog of the quarter-deck
Took the guant old pine for a mizzen-mast;
In less flame of battle his spirit passed,
And the mizzen raged by the shattered wreck.

With the Union Jack torn s him laid,
They bore him back to the town by the sea;
The guns as the yard his requiem played,
And the Admiral's wife, it is said,
Was shaped of the plank of the walnut tree.

CHAPTER XXXI.

IN PURSUIT.

Weary and jaded with travel, Frank Dalton found himself, at the expiration of a week, entering London for the second time. He had traced the fugitives from place to place, often confident that they could not escape him, but as often only to find himself mistaken.

On first arriving in town, and inquiring for Lord Glanore at his chambers, he was assured that his lordship had only remained there for a few hours, on his way to a country house he possessed in Devonshire. Thither Frank followed, but was again disappointed. The Viscount had merely stayed long enough to direct some improvements and alterations which were to be made directly, in order to fit the house for the reception of a lady, and had then taken train back to London, where he might most probably be heard of at his solicitors'.

Here, however, the indefatigable inquirer found that his lordship had only remained long enough to sign some leases, and had said nothing from which his lawyers could judge whether he intended to make any stay in town. In fact, they admitted that he had acted throughout the brief interview with a haste and impatience quite at varience with his usual courtesy, and at the close had jumped into the cab in waiting for him, and driven away, no one could say where.

One fact Frank had elicited which puzzled him. From the moment Lord Glanore first reached London, his lordship had been alone. That he and Kathleen had travelled from Dublin together under the name of Tresilian, his researches had satisfied him. Where, then, was she now? Deserted already? or left pining in some obscure suburban lodging? This was what he now set himself to ascertain.

Bribery at last effected what all his perseverance had failed to compass. One of the Viscount's servants remembered being sent to post a letter to a Miss or Mrs. Tresilian, whose address was a small town in Buckinghamshire. The clue was found at last, and in a few hours Frank had taken up his quarters at the principal inn at T——, and was questioning the garrulous waiter.

"Yes, there were now comers at a shabby little cottage just beyond the town; very quiet, reserved people they seemed to be, though the gentleman was quite the gentleman—a tall, dashing fellow; young?—well, not so very young. Looked as if he had led rather a gay life. The lady was extremely pretty—at least that was the report of those who had contrived to get a glimpse of her; looked sorrowful, and had been seen weeping when the gentleman was away, which often happened. Indeed, she was too much alone."

"Was Kathleen finding thorns in her path already?" Frank asked himself, as he listened to this account, and divined the wretchedness she must be suffering. Pushing aside the tray of refreshments that had been his excuse for detaining the waiter, he went off to seek her without delay.

A stupid-looking servant-girl answered his imperative rap. The master was out; and her mistress had told her never to admit any one during his absence, but she would take in the gentleman's name if he liked.

"I will announce myself," said Frank, stepping past her, and making for the nearest door. Pushing it open, he found himself in a poorly furnished sitting-room, in the presence of Kathleen.

She had been reading, or trying to read, but the book had fallen from her hand at the sound of Frank's voice, and she had flown towards a window that looked upon the plot of ground behind the cottage, as if meditating an escape. But he had entered too quickly to permit of this, and leaning against the frame of the casement, with her face averted, she waited for him to speak.

"Kathleen," he said, when he could command his voice sufficiently to address her, "why have you committed this mad act? Where did you learn to know the villain for whom you have left us?"

"Question me not!" she replied. "For your sake, I have bitterly regretted the necessity of my flight. But I hoped that you would have too much pride to seek to discover where I had gone, and why."

"Don't speak of me, of my pride, or the love you have recklessly trampled under your foot, lest I should utter the reproaches I would fain withhold!"

Kathleen grew paler than before, and lost the self command she had hitherto evinced. "Why have you followed me, Mr. Dalton? Was it wise to inflict this additional pain upon yourself as well as me?"

He drew himself up. "I am not here to dwell upon my own feelings," he answered, "but as the bearer of a message from Mrs. Carroll, who entreats you to return to the shelter of her roof."

Tears began to well into Kathleen's brown orbs.

"She was always kind to me—always! Tell her that although my flight may have seemed ungrateful, I do not forget her goodness. I wish I were with her now!"

"Come, then; a few hours shall see you restored to her." And advancing, he would have taken her hand to lead her away, but she retreated from him, saying, in a low, sad voice, "It is impossible, Mr. Dalton. I have promised to devote my life to one who, however faulty he may be, loves me deeply, devotedly! I will not leave him!"

"This is madness!" was the angry comment. "Does he merit the sacrifice—this false, treacherous man, who sports with the happiness of credulous women, and mocks at the sufferings they endure?"

"He regrets the past; he has vowed that from thence forth he will live for me; and that my happiness shall be his sole care!" she faltered. "Don't try to shake my faith in his penitence—pray don't!"

"And you believe his promises!—will place your fame, your future, in the hands of one who has already shown himself so reckless, so unstable?"

"Heaven help me, I will, I must!" she answered with a sob. "Spare me, Mr. Dalton! I know all I am renouncing. It has cost me much to do this, but it is too late to go back."

"Not so!" he exclaimed. "Your warm-hearted friend, Mrs. Carroll, is ready to receive you. Indeed, I promised that I would not return without you. In mercy to yourself, Kathleen, be persuaded, and let us depart ere he can return to prevent it!"

But still she resisted his pleadings. "Urge it no longer; I cannot accompany you. And, Mr. Dalton—Frank—try and forget that you ever loved me. It was an ill-starred attachment from the first."

"And you would have me leave you here, in the power of a man whom, in your secret thoughts, you must despise? Think what you are doing!"

"I have well considered the step I have taken," she answered, sadly; "and I entreat you not to torture me by remaining here!"

Angered by her obstinacy, Frank walked to the door, then paused irresolutely. It was terrible to go away, knowing that this was the last effort he could make, and that it had been utterly unavailing.

"Kathleen," he cried, "if you will not return with me to Ireland for your own sake, then let it be done for mine. You have been very precious to me, and I must save you, in spite of yourself. My love, though you have flung it from you, gives me a claim to be considered."

"Not so great as his for whom I have renounced it," she replied, firmly. "I dare not listen to you any longer. He will be angry, if he returns and finds you here. If I can sometimes hear of your welfare through Lord Glanore, I shall be content; and if you still feel any pity for me, come not near me again."

She stepped through the window before he could make any attempt to detain her; and the baffled Frank, after a moment's consideration, rang the bell furiously. Compassion for Kathleen was fast giving place to darker passions.

"Your master—where is he?"

The girl, half frightened at his stern looks, stammered out that she did not know.

"Have you been told to say this? When did Lord Glanore leave the cottage?"

"This morning, sir. He went by the early train to London."

"When do you expect him to return?"

But the girl said so positively that she did not know, that he was forced to go away unsatisfied.

With every thought now bent upon revenge, Frank Dalton went back to town. The Viscount might contrive to evade him a little while longer, but, eventually, he must succeed in finding him; and then——

With a start, he flung open the door of the compartment in which he had travelled, and sprang out on to the platform at the terminus. He had caught a glimpse of the Viscount's well-known face amidst the throng, and determined to pursue him. With infinite difficulty, he succeeded in keeping him in sight till Lord Glanore jumped into a cab, which drove off at a rapid rate. Hailing another, Frank bade the driver follow, and finally came up with his lordship at the door of a fashionable jeweller in Bond street.

As Lord Glanore was entering the shop, Frank laid a hand on his shoulder. The moment for a just retribution had come at last, and Rosamond's wrongs, as well as his own, should be amply avenged!

CHAPTER XXXII.

NOT TO BE CONCILIATED.

Naturally surprised by the unexpected apparition of a person whom he believed to be many miles away, Lord Glanore stared at Frank for a few seconds before he found voice to accost him.

"Dalton! you here! When did you arrive?"

"Some days ago. I have been looking for your lordship ever since," was the reply, spoken drily and significantly.

With a little embarrassment audible in his tones, the Viscount answered, "Indeed! I suppose it is this unfortunate affair of Miss Sidney's that has brought you to England? It was in direct opposition to my advice that she left Mrs. Carroll. So you must not blame me for it, as you look inclined to do."

"Then you objected to being fettered with the helpless girl who trusted you so implicitly?" cried Frank, hotly.

His lordship hesitated. "As to trusting me, our pretty Kathleen knew precisely how much I had promised to do for her, and the sort of life she would have to lead if she persisted in coming to England. But she is too self-sacrificing; and you know, Dalton, our sex never thoroughly appreciates these good little souls. I tried hard to persuade her to stay and accept your handsome proposals. It would have been the wiser plan, though I could not induce her to think so."

The exasperated Frank ground his teeth as he listened to these coolly-spoken sentences. "You tried to prevail upon Kathleen to stay in Dublin and marry me? How kind! Of course I was to be left in ignorance of the tie that existed between you?"

Lord Glanore's handsome face clouded. Why, no; not exactly. It was not a pleasant subject to be expatiated upon; but I told Kathleen I would take the task upon my own shoulders; and, my dear Dalton, if you can induce her to listen to you, I will give her a dowry——"

Before he could say more, Frank had struck him in the face, furiously exclaiming, "What! you would make me the cloak for your profligacy? How dare you meditate such an insult?"

Glanore, who had reeled beneath the force of the blow, now recovered himself, and springing upon his antagonist, seized him by the throat, but as instantly regaining his self-control, loosened his hold, and transferred his hand to the young man's shoulder. "Are you mad, Dalton? You carry your pride a little too far; but, for your sister's sake, I'll not resent your rudeness. Only don't be tempted to repeat it," he added, provoked by the contempt with which Frank was surveying him. "You may not always find me so forbearing."

"Or so timorous," which I" sneered the angry youth. "Don't try to shield yourself behind my sister's name. How dare you mention her, and to me! Glanore, you are scoundrel!"

"If you want to quarrel with me, let it be in some less conspicuous place," the Viscount replied, making a strenuous effort to keep his temper. "I don't choose to be made the centre of a crowd. You can hear of me at my club, the Athenæum."

He turned away, but Frank followed him.

"I see; you are afraid to encounter me."

"Afraid, sir!" And now Lord Glanore began to grow angry too, and surveyed him with haughty indignation.

"Repeat it—afraid. Such sins as you have committed would paralyze the arm of the boldest. Mean contemptible rascal, I use you too well when I offer you the weapons of a gentleman! Where will you meet me?"

"Surely you are not seriously contemplating a duel!" his lordship exclaimed. "I thought the day had quite gone by for such follies, and I don't see why I should peril my life because pretty Kathleen has vexed you. Is there no alternative?"

"Yes; worshipping in the most public place I can find. It is no use attempting to escape me. Neither insolence nor ridicule shall turn me from my purpose. I came here to punish your vile profligacy, and I will do it!"

"Nonsense! A few hours in the station house may teach you to talk in a different strain. You must have been drinking, Dalton. I can find no other excuse for this attack. Do you think I shall permit you to lecture or dictate to me? It is only for Rosamond's sake that I have borne so much."

"Do you dare to sully her name again by taking it upon your foul lips!" cried Frank, so completely beside himself with passion, that snatching a cane out of the hands of a gentleman who had paused at the sound of his raised voice, he would have inflicted summary chastisement upon the Viscount; but now some bystanders interfered, and forcibly held him back.

"Let him go," cried Lord Glanore, imperatively. "My good friends, Mr. Dalton already regrets his violence. Release him. I decline to take any notice of an attack which has arisen out of a mistake. If Mr. Dalton will walk this way with me, we shall be able to adjust our differences amicably."

He put his arm through Frank's, and half led, half pushed him into the shop of the jeweller, where the deferential manager ushered them into a private room, and the spectators, agreeing that the young man must be inebriated, quietly dispersed.

But Lord Glanore was not as calm as he appeared to be. The insults heaped upon him had roused his equally hot temper, and he no longer cared to expostulate or learn the cause.

Hastily closing the door, he came towards Frank, who stood eyeing him defiantly.

A Vast Estate in Kansas.

Among the prominent visitors at the fair is Mr. George Grant of Victoria Colony, Kansas, the owner of the largest farm in the world, with the exception, perhaps, of that of the Duke of Sutherland, whose broad acres consist largely of hilland heather. Mr. Grant's domain covers 576,000 acres in the heart of Kansas, about 290 miles west of Kansas City to Fort Hays, the centre of the track. His effort is to establish a model farm, for which great credit is due him, as well as for his successful efforts in introducing imported with native stock, and also the best methods of sheltering and feeding cattle in winter. Mr. Grant is going back to Europe in about five weeks to arrange for the bringing over of more people and a large portion of high-bred stock, which he will exhibit at the centennial, with the intention ultimately of shipping it to Victoria. Mr. Grant states that one herd of eighty-one short horns of the Booth strain sold five weeks ago at the sale of the late Mr. Torrs' property in England at an average price from young to old of $2,000. They were of the same family that he has at Victoria, and many of the animals were bought for America.

Mr. Grant's colony has largely swelled this season by immigrants, and another English company has just bought 40,000 acres adjoining the Victoria colony. One of the New York Gunthers has started with 5,000 acres and Mr. Dickson, of St. Louis, has bought two square miles, and is out there now making arrangements for putting up a house. Mr. Grant says he is more than satisfied with the produce of his crops this season.

The rains have been abundant, but last year the grasshoppers swept everything. One field of eighty acres of Hungarian grass on his farm has produced 776 tons of fodder and 5,114 bushels of seed, giving a profit of more than 500 per cent on the cost of putting in the seed. He put in 300 acres of alfalfa, a kind of fodder much used in California. The land will grow three crops of this grass in a year, at the rate of six tons to the acre, but it affects a dee, dry soil. Mr. Grant has increased his flock of sheep to 16,000, and has 1,000 cows. In less than five years he expects to increase his sheep to 100,000. His wool alone this season brought $11,700 in Boston, at thirty three cents per pound. Sheep farming is evidently destined to be a profitable business in Kansas.

There was a merry fellow who dined at Plato's some ages since, and the conversation over the wine turned upon love and matrimony, he said he had "learned from a very ancient tradition that man was originally created male and female in one, each individual being provided with a duplicate set of limbs, and performing his locomotive functions with a kind of rotary movement like a wheel; that man became in consequence so excessively insolent that Jupiter, indignant, split him in two. Since that time," added the merry guest to the philosopher, "each half runs about the world in quest of its other half, and, if the two congenial halves meet, they are a very loving couple. If the contrary, they are subject to a miserable, peevish, nagging, and uncongenial matrimony. But the quest is rendered difficult by the fact that, one man alighting upon the half that never belonged to him, another necessarily falls into the same error; and thus, in the course of many centuries, society has been thrown into irretrievable confusion.

Sergeant Bates.

HE VISITS HAMILTON—HIS OPINION OF THINGS GENERALLY—HE INTENDS CARRYING THE STARS AND STRIPES THROUGH CANADA THIS FALL.

Hamilton Spectator.

Last evening our reporter was standing on the platform of the Great Western Railway station he noticed the train from the West disgorge an American infantry soldier in uniform. The stranger was one who would immediately draw the attention of the most unobserving. He walked with a swaggering air, carrying himself with soldierly precision, but this was not all. There was something in his face that could not easily be forgotten, an eager, insolent, triumphant, self-satisfied look, which told of some object of his life attained, and besides he had a determined air about him which marked him as no ordinary man; still upon catching full view of his face and eyes, there was a vacancy visible which could be accounted for in only one way. On dismounting from the train he, his cigar and stalk, ed leisurely down the platform. As he passed the American Consul's office, he started perceptibly and saluted the eagle with the greatest reverence. The professional curiosity of our reporter was aroused at this, and he commenced hammering at his brains to discover some excuse for interviewing the man. Suddenly remembering that he had a cousin somewhere in the States, he accosted, tapped the stranger on the shoulder, and enquired the name of the regiment to which he belonged. The reply was that he belonged to no troop since his great and glorious trip through haughty England.

Reporter—"—— through haughty England; you are then doubtless the note—beg pardon, the celebrated Sergeant Bates."

Stranger—"I am, sir, and I'm proud to say it. Behold in me a man who fears not England's dread power, who has carried the flag of the free and brave, of the good and the true—the unconquered flag of the land of liberty—and great deeds, through the heart of haughty England, and who will yet, if God will be his help, carry it triumphantly through every colony and province belonging to her in spite of her boasted ——"

Reporter—"Will you have a smile or somethin'."

Bates—"I scorn your offer, young fellow; I take no intoxicating liquors or drinks of any kind till I have accomplished——"

Reporter—"Pardon me, but I assure you it was done with the best intention. But to get back to our subject—suppose you receive opposition in your march.

Bates—(excitedly)—"They dare not—they dare not lay a hand on that flag! (pulling a small silken American flag from his bosom)—they dare not touch that flag, and if they did it would be over my dead body, and then the whole United States would arise like a young giant refreshed with sleep and avenge my death in the blood of millions."

Reporter—"What's your opinion of things generally, any way, old fellow?"

Bates—"My opinion is that before another five years passes away the flag of the free will be floating over the citadel of Quebec, over this fair town and over the whole length and breadth of the land."

Reporter—"Don't you call the Union Jack a flag of the free?"

Bates—"The Union Jack the flag of the free! free!!—stuff and nonsense, your flag is prostituted—you are slaves, ground under the heel of a government across the greatest ocean of the earth. You are very barbarians. You follow the customs of thousands of years ago. You have a king set over you, and your lives are in his hand."

Reporter—"Je-roo-o-salem!"

Bates—"But I will come and deliver you. I will show you our flag; and then you will be converted. You never saw the flag of the free floating proudly on the breeze, but you will see it if I'm alive this fall."

Reporter—"Where do you start from?"

Bates—"From Windsor and I will carry it straight to Quebec and plant it in the citadel."

Reporter—"Do you receive any remuneration?"

Bates—"Nothing but the gratitude of a great nation."

He also stated that he would start in September. He said he would not carry arms. He had heard that the Canadians were a hard crowd, but the great and glorious flag he held above him would protect him. "This country," he cried excitedly, "will never be a country until it belongs to the States, and then my name will be handed down to posterity for ever and ever. The world will remember me as one of the greatest philanthropists that ever lived. I love my fellow-men too well to see them in bondage—but I will free them—yes, I will free them, and strengthen them. Monarchies will have to be swept from off the earth; thrones will have to be overturned; crowns ground to death. The millenium is coming, and the millenium will be a republic of the whole world under one president and one flag—the stars and stripes." At this moment the train for the Bridge commenced to move away, and hastily shaking our reporter by the hand, and reverently saluting the American Consulate, the eccentric Sergeant Bates sprang upon the train and disappeared like a strange dream.

Birds the Farmer's Friends.

Not long ago, near Rouen, in the valley of Monville, the crows had for a considerable time been proscribed. The cockchafers accordingly multiplied to such an extent that an entire meadow was pointed out to me as completely withered on the surface. The larvæ had pushed so far their subterranean works, that every root of grass had been eaten, and all the turf could be rolled back on itself like a carpet. The multiplication of insects is almost incredible, but our birds seem equal to the emergency. Michilet says: "The swallow is not satisfied with less than 1,000 flies per diem; and a pair of sparrows carry home to their young 4,300 caterpillars weekly; a tomtit, 300 daily. The magpie hunts after the insects which lie concealed beneath the bark of the tree and live upon its sap. The humming bird and the fly-catcher purify the chalice of the flower. The bee-eater, in all lands, carries on a fierce hostility with the wasp which ruins our fruit. A large number of insects remain during the winter in the egg or larvæ, waiting for the spring to burst into life; but in this state they are diligently hunted by the mavis, the wren, and the troglodyte. The former turn over the leaves which strew the earth, the latter climb to the the loftiest branches of the trees, or clean out the trunk. In wet meadows the crows and storks bore the ground to seize the white worm which, for three years before metamorphosing into a cockchafer, gnaws at the roots of our grasses."—The Animal Kingdom.

Political Notes.

Mr. Paxton has been returned for his old constituency, North Ontario, by the large majority of 207 votes over his opponent Mr. Patterson. Strong efforts were made to defeat the old member, who was unseated by the election court, but Mr. Paxton was too firm in the popular estimation for their best efforts to avail the enemy anything. His present triumph is the most creditable and proudest in his career.

Halton is occupied with its approaching election, the result of the disqualification of Mr. Barber. Mr. Lyon, Reformer, and Mr. Clay, Conservative, are the candidates, and a very active canvass is going on. The nomination took place yesterday. Mr. Lyon has everything in his favor, being a very popular man well known to the people of the constituency as a Councillor and Warden of the County. The Reformers who have long held supremacy, feeling the injustice done their late representative, are working faithfully, determined to give a greater victory than ever to their candidate.

The nomination of a candidate to represent North Wentworth in the Local Legislature, took place last Friday. Dr. McMahon, Ministerial, and Dr. Miller, Opposition, were nominated, and the voting takes place on Friday next. The Tories are seeking to make the contest of a religious nature and resorting to every unreasonable and unworthy measure that their minds can invent to gain their end. Dr. McMahon has the lead, is a well tried and staunch Reformer and a popular man. Friday, no doubt, will see a victory for him.

Ald. Turner, (Ministerial) and Hon. J.B. Robinson (Opposition) are out in West Toronto as candidates for its representation in the Commons. The former is certainly the "people's candidate," and is credited by the Mail with being moderate, fair, independent and possessed of ability. He, besides, is more deserving of support from the people of West Toronto, inasmuch as he has represented the interests of a large portion of the inhabitants of the city and has proved himself worthy of the people's trust. Beverly Robinson may now condescend to step down from the aristocratic level to shake hands with the workingman, and by his gracious smiles endeavor to win their support; but Ald. Turner is practically a workingman, and popular as a successful and worthy one.

On Saturday the nomination for North Grey took place at Owen Sound. Mr. McKnight (Ministerial), and Mr. Creighton (Opposition), are the candidates. This constituency was lately represented by Mr. Scott, who has been disqualified. What the result will be is doubtful, but there are good hopes for the Ministerial candidate.

The verdict in the Gilmour abortion case has met with very general approval. As an example to men of "Dr." Davis' class, his fate will have a salutary effect. The evidence of the criminality of Davis and his wife was unquestionable, and indicated that they had exercised unusual recklessness in performing this dangerous and criminal act. So frequently has fatal effects attended these operations of late, that a warning was needed to repress an evil which was alarmingly on the increase. In the United States meagre punishment is meted out to such offenders, and the effects upon morality and society are quite noticeable. The crime in this country is not so wide-spread as in the States, and the characterizing of it as a hanging offence will have a manifest effect upon quasi physicians as well as upon public morality. Sympathy is expressed with Mrs. Davis who is to suffer death with her husband, but that she is deserving of it is unquestionable.—She was his assistant in this instance and has evidently had much experience in this line, and a woman whose natural modesty and tenderness were not sufficient to keep her from assisting in such revolting acts, is unworthy of sympathy.

The Steel Rail affair is still an interesting topic with the Opposition press, and every effort is being made to gain an advantage in the elections shorty to take place by misrepresenting the matter. Mr. Mackenzie has simply denied that any of his relatives were benefitted by the contract given; but it now transpires that Mr. Chas. Mackenzie, a brother to the Premier, was at one time a sleeping partner in the firm which received the contract. When this was first found out the case looked truthful enough, but it has since been announced that Mr. Mackenzie's interest in the firm expired long before the time of letting the contracts. The transaction was fair, if giving contracts by tender can be deemed a fair proceeding.—A good deal of harsh opinion is expressed upon the policy of letting the tenders at that time, instead of waiting until the price fell. This is simply a miscalculation possible with the most acute business man; and as the needs of the case were pressing, and the possibility was that the price might as likely rise as fall, Mr. Mackenzie deserves to be universally defended in the course he took. When we consider the price at which he secured the steel rails, with that which Sir John paid for a lot some years ago, we fail to see any reason why the Tory press should complain.

The Question is asked on all sides, "who knows anything about this distiller of theatre thunder in Durham, that wants to snuff out Hon. Geo. Brown." It has certainly made itself notorious, and is at present quoted amongst its confreres as speaking with authority, although previous to the present time when it has beaten the Mail at scandalizing, it was never heard of. The rumor is abroad that the plant of the paper is to be removed to Toronto, and the [illegible] of its great fellow is to be undermined.

Thanksgiving Day.

> Some hae meat that canna eat,
> And some wad eat that want it;
> But we hae meat and we can eat,
> And sae the Lord be thankit.

Robert Burns had an excellent faculty for putting his sentiments in most expressive terms, and the above quotation is a fine example of that faculty. Associated with the celebration of the day of public thanksgiving, which this year has been appointed for Thursday, its beauty is very appreciable. A year that has proved propitious to the agricultural interests of the country is drawing to a close, and with the crop securely housed and the principal causes of anxiety at an end with the farmers, they can devote, with hearty readiness, a day wherein to express their appreciation of the mercies bestowed by Providence. Everyone rejoices in the success which crowns the farmer's efforts, and they who reap benefits from his prosperity and enjoy the fruits of their labors, are ready to unite with their fellow-beings in giving expression to their feelings of thankfulness.

The fitness of time and circumstances is happy, and the services which will be held throughout the country on Thursday will no doubt be participated in with great fervor. We hope that in the universal rejoicings those who want will be remembered; and that from the many blessings which gladden the hearts of those who rejoice and are merry, an ample share will be drawn to gladden the hearts of unfortunate ones. Let this spirit temper your rejoicings, and your enjoyment of the day's pleasures will be increased with the thought that you have made good use of the means which God has placed in your hands.

Services will take place in the churches in town as follows:

St. George's Church.—At 9 a. m. the consecration will take place, with full morning prayer. At 11 a. m. Archdeacon Elwood, assisted by Rev. Mr. Channer, will conduct ordination, confirmation and holy communion services. Five candidates for ordination will be present—two for pries's orders, and three for deacon's orders—and 33 candidates will be confirmed. At 7.30 p. m. a missionary service for the Diocese of Huron will take place, when the Bishop of Huron, Dr. Hellmuth, will occupy the chair.

Methodist Church, North Street. The Rev. W. C. Henderson, M. A., will preach at 11 o'clock, A. M., from Hosea 2d, 21-22—"And it shall come to pass in that day I will hear saith the Lord; I will hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth; and the earth shall hear the corn, and the wine and the oil; and they shall hear Jezreel." The excellent choir of the church will be in attendance, and the music will be suited to the spirit of the day. A thanksgiving offering will be taken up in aid of the Superannuated Ministers' fund.—In the evening a "Thanksgiving Social and Evening of Song" will be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Association. Tea will be served at 7 o'clock. A pleasant social gathering is anticipated, and will suitably close the day. Admittance, 20 cents.

Knox Church.—Morning service at 11 a.m. and evening service at 7.30 p.m. Collections in aid of the Ladies' Aid Benevolent Society.

The H. & Q. Railway scheme goes slowly on. Peterboro County, last week voted the sum of $150,000 to its aid by a considerable majority. This is the second bonus secured since the opening of the present campaign, and the success so far augurs well for the future events of the canvass. We hope the scheme will soon be happily settled, so that our interest will not thus be alternately exhausted and encouraged by its fluctuating vitality.

Provincial Ploughing Match

On Wednesday last the ploughing match of District No. 4 open to all ploughmen in the Province, took place on the farms of Mr. John Avery and Mr. Geo. Stanbury on the London road about three miles south of Clinton. The weather was all that could be desired, but the ground was rather on the wet side after the long spell of rainy weather, and in other respects better ground might be found. To do full justice to ploughmen on such an occasion the ground in each class should be of the same nature throughout, it should be as level, and smooth as possible. After cutting hay for two years and grazing one year, the sod would be compact and the grass well connected and short so that a ploughman could exhibit his skill in "clean cutting," "angling," "grass covering," "packing" "feering" and all the other necessary points, and such ground should always be chosen. At nine o'clock nearly all the ploughmen were on the ground but before the position tickets were drawn and the ground staked off another hour was consumed and the start was made about ten. Five hours was the time allowed to complete the work, but several did not start at ten and so were later in finishing. The interest throughout was noticeable, the friends of each competitor being gathered in consultation over the merits of their champion and in their rounds criticising keenly the weak points of all others. In the first class men, there was some "light" ploughing and two who had "packed" very poorly. Mr. Douglas Frazer, who took the first prize, had the most difficult ridge on the field to plough, and many a ploughman would have lost courage, but he wrought skilfully and manfully against the hill and was justly rewarded. Mr. Frazer is a 'crack' ploughman having taken six first prizes this season already and many others in former years in Perth where he was born and brought up. It was impossible to cover the grass in this field as it was long, irregular and tufty and the ground too fresh and breaky. The second class men, were more fortunate in some respects, their field being smooth and dry; but the worst feature on the other land was, that the ground was poorly covered with grass and hence very breaky. The boys were blessed with tough grass and but rather wet for clean cutting and smooth packing and setting. The first prize-man in this class was a boy of only sixteen years, but in experience at the plough he was ahead of many a man on the field. After the work was completed, Mr. Sheriff Gibbons presented the boy with $5 as an expression of approbation. Altogether we can truthfully state that there was not an inferior ploughman on the field. Each ploughman had some failing, of course, and each excelled in some point.

In the first class there were 1[illegible] entries; in the second 22 and 8 boys. The following is a list of prize takers:—

Men—First Class.—1st D. Frazer, Bluevale, Yeandle plough, $50; 2d J. L. Courtice, Goderich T'p, McTavish plough, $40; 3d Val. Otto, N. Easthope, Yeandle plough, $30; 4th Wm. Phipps, Goderich Township, Dundas plough, $20; 5th David McLean, Tuckersmith, Munro & Hogan plough, $15; 6th A. Thompson, Brucefield, McTavish plough, $10; 7th Wm. Dixon, Elma, Yeandle plough, $5.

Men—Second Class.—1st W. Delaney, Hibbert, Humphrey plough, $40; 2d J. Gardiner, Hibbert, Yeandle plough, $32; 3d Wm. Bell, Tuckersmith, $2[illegible]; 4th W. White, Hibbert, $15; 5th G. T. McGee, Kippen, $10; 6th A. Innis, Stanley, McTavish plough, $5.

Boys.—1st D. McEwen, Stanley, McTavish plough, $30; 2d Thos. Forsyth, Brussels, Wilson plough, $25; 3d James Ross, Stanley, McTavish plough, $20; 4th Wm. McKercher, Howick, McTavish plough, $15; 5th J. Hoggarth, Hibbert, Munroe & Co. plough, $10; 6th R. M. Curry, Wingham, Mulloy plough, $5.

Judges for Boy's and First Class Men.—Jas. Thomas, Seaforth; Jas Ferguson, Thamesville; Geo. Hyde, Stratford.

Men — Second Class.—Mr. McArthur, Lobo; Geo. Ross, Chatham; Alex. Monteith, Hullett.

Directors.—R. Gibbons, Esq., Goderich; L. E. Shippley, Esq., Falkirk; S. White, Esq., Charing Cross; Wm. Young, Esq., Carlow; G. Anderson, Esq., Varna; and W. G. Hingston, Esq., Brussels.

The prizes were distributed at Mr. Joslin's Commercial Hotel, Clinton, where an excellent supper was prepared for all the officers as well as the ploughmen.

THE HARBOR WORKS.

How the Work is progressing.

THE RIVER PIER NEARLY COMPLETED.

GIANT MUD-LIFTERS.

THE NATURE OF A SCOW.

SOME INTERESTING NOTES.

Last week our reporter visited the harbor for the purpose of gleaning some information respecting the work being done by the Government in that vicinity. During the season the contractors have been occupied upon the new breakwater, and those who closely inspect the work will have some idea of its immensity. The breakwater is a little less than one-half mile in length, and as the river is shallow along the line, the dredging of a channel 16 feet in depth was a big job of itself. Messrs. Carkin & Stickney set a strong force to work, and four dredges, assisted by two steam tugs, worked twelve hours daily at the task of scooping out square yard after square yard of mud, gravel and "hard pan" from the bottom of the river, lifting it into scows and carrying it out to the lake where that which is not required for filling is deposited. One of the dredges, No. 1, is counted the best on the lakes, using a dipper of 1½ cubic yards capicity. The amount of stuff taken out during the season was very great, being sufficient to fill the crib work which is 20 feet wide and 32 feet deep, and to form a bank on the inside of the breakwater about 60 feet wide and 16 feet deep. At present two of the dredges are employed dredging out the baisin, of which about 11 acres of the 20 proposed to be dredged are yet to do, or between 200,000 and 300,000 cubic yards. The other two are engaged filling the crib work, which is being done at the rate of 150 feet per day. Mr. Stickney, who is in charge of this work, (and, by-the-way, he is a man of energy and ability in his line) informs us that he has 30 men employed, and his expenses amount to $100 per day, in wages, fuel and oil, whilst his repairing bill has already amounted to about $2,000. He has done more dredging this year than has been done by any other person in Canada or the United States, which is saying a good deal. In dredging near the Point, a fine bed of blue clay was reached; fine gravel was the deposit along the greater part of the breakwater, and "hard pan" and solid rock were found at the shore end. "Hard pan" is a very compact mixture of clay and large boulders, and tested the full strength of the dredges.

IN THE BASIN.

When the basin has been dredged out a space of 20 acres will be provided, of deep water. The work yet to be done will occupy another season. The scows which are used for carrying the gravel out to the lake, have been the source of many curious inquiries by the uninitiated, and for their information we print the explanation given by Mr. Stickney in 200, more or less, cases. "Take a tub, for instance; cut a hole in the bottom and place therein a pail. Fill the pail with dirt, and the tub being water tight, when the bottom is dropped out of the pail in order to let the earth fall out, the buoyancy of the tub keeps the whole structure above water." Scows are constructed on this principle and are emptied with very little trouble.

THE TIMBER WORK.

Moore & Co., of Walkerton, who have the contract for the crib work are getting on well with their work. At present they have about 60 men employed, but during the season they had a great many more. Early in the spring the work of preparing timber was begun, and as soon as the foundation was prepared the first cribs were floated into position. Railroad ties were first used for sinking them, but latterly the plan adopted was the gradual laying on of the courses of timber. Each crib is 30 feet long, and has a floor of flat timbers. Anchor timbers project from the back of the cribs, and these being buried in the gravel which will intervene between the two tiers of crib-work make the work still more solid. Great difficulty was experienced in getting the proper curve in the breakwater, but the work has been done very neatly. The timbers are dovetailed, and very compactly put together. The superstructure of 53 cribs will be completed this week; eight are partially built above water level; 16 are ready for levelling, and four are yet to be sunk. The latter will take up some little time, as the channel has to be dredged to the beach. When the outside breakwater, or "river pier" as it is called, has been completed, 405,000 feet of timber will have been used. The gentlemen who have the crib work in hand have shown great activity and energy, and are deserving of praise.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE.

The outside breakwater will be completed this Fall, and next Spring the inside one will be built. The crib work on the river side is 16 feet above the water level, is 20 feet wide; that of the inside work will be 18 feet wide and stand 7 feet above water level. Between these tiers will be a space of 60 feet filled with gravel, and thus a body 98 feet wide will be formed to resist the forces of the mighty Maitland. It is proposed to run a pier from Attrills Point out in the lake, to protect the new outlet from being choked by the sand carried to the beach during storms. The new outlet will not be dredged this season, it being expected that the spring freshet will save this expense.

SOME OPINIONS.

Opinions expressed at the present time as to how the work should have been done are partly useless now, but almost every one questions the wisdom of curving the breakwater so that its concave side is presented to the current, and of making the outlet so much narrower the channel proper. If the breakwater had been run in a straight line and the outlet been left as large again, the power of resisting the freshets would be greater. Mr. Attrill will certainly lose a large portion of his property through this mistake, and he has already entered a suit in chancery to recover damages. The grounds of his suit, however, are that he is shut out from the harbor, should he try any kind on manufacturing on his own property.

As the new works will form a splendid dock, the advisability of having a road from the town leading directly thereto is at once apparent. A plan has been suggested for building a road from the foot of Waterloo Street along the face of the bank, bridging the railway track and making a grade to the point where the inner crib work will converge from a direct line to the Grand Trunk dock. The grade will be easy, and the road could be constructed at slight expense, and would be the most convenient route to that portion of the harbor.

The eastern point of the harbor will be very valuable, and it is said the Grand Trunk Co. are endeavoring to secure it; whilst it is reported that the Q. & L. H. R. have put in a claim.

When the work has been completed we shall have just reason to boast of the magnificent extent and construction of our harbor, and it will certainly be the best on this side of Lake Huron.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Jas. Wilkinson holds the position of overseer for the Government, and in this capacity he has had his time fully occupied with an arduous task. He has done his work creditably, and to the satisfaction of the potentates whom he represents.

ABOUT TOWN.

Goderich Harbor Mills.—Business has been very brisk of late at the mill, the receipts of farmer's grain averaging 1,000 bushels per day.

New Dominion Monthly.—This publication shows a decided improvement in its contents and appearance of late, and the issue for November contains some very fine articles.

Screw Broken.—Week before last as the tug Mildred was passing through the slip in the new breakwater, her screw struck on some obstacle in the bottom and broke. The breakage caused considerable delay, but was repaired in a few days.

Notice.—To Grocers and Traders.—We are now prepared to furnish all grades of flour and feed. Also, will exchange flour for wheat to farmers.

Ogilvies & Hutchison,
Goderich Harbor Mills.

Groceries cheaper than ever. Trull & Field have determined to sell the whole of the large stock of fresh Groceries and Liquors at cost for cash or farm produce. Give them a call before purchasing elsewhere.

Personal.—Patrick Kelly, Esq., of Blyth, and Chas. Farrand, Esq., Newbridge, have been appointed commissioners for taking affidavits in the Queen's Bench, for the County of Huron. These appointments will great ly convenience the inhabitants in these respective localities.

—Messrs. Jos. Hickson, W. J. Spicer and J. Hannaford, Grand Trunk Railway magnates, paid a flying visit to this place on Saturday.

The Centennial.—The time for receiving applications for space in the Canadian Department of the Philadelphia exhibition has been extended to 1st December. A show of ladies' work is to be made, and as we have some justly celebrated producers of fancy work in this vicinity, we would like the pelasure of making some entries.

Popular Science Monthly.—D. Appleton & Co., have reason to feel proud of this publication, which holds such a high reputation throughout the continent. The November number is a superior one, and "Relations of women to Crime," "Insectivorous Plants," &c., are articles of great merit and worthy of perusal.

Lecture.—Mrs. S. A. Sims will deliver a lecture in the Temperance Hall this (Wednesday) evening. Doors open at 7, lecture to commence at 7.30. The people will have the privilege of selecting their own subject, from several which will be named. Temperance and the Home Culture of Children are two of the lady lecturer's principal subjects. Admission 25 cts., children 15 cts. If the lecture is not satisfactory, according to the judgment of the people, money will be refunded.

Book Notice.—We have received from Messrs. Jas. Campbell & Son, of Toronto, a copy of a new "History of Canada," of which J. Frith Jeffers, B. A., is the author. After a careful inspection of the neat little volume, we must express our appreciation of its completeness, comprehensiveness and other excellent qualifications as a valuable acquisition to private and public libraries. More especially is it adapted for the use of schools, and it gives the history of the country from the period of the discovery of this continent until the year of the confederation of the Canadian Provinces, in the most concise manner, together with a fair amount of contemporary history." The author is thoroughly patriotic in sentiment, and writes of the disruptions of the past in a manner calculated to instil that feeling into the mind of the reader, without being injust to his subject. This work will prove a great acquisition to Canadian literature, and is destined to encourage the feeling of patriotism, which is divided between respect for the Mother Country and love of our native land, in the direction of Canadian nationality and its pleasant associations with Great Britain. The book will become popular, without doubt. Hunter & Rose, Toronto, are the printers, and the typography does them credit. Mr. Theo. J. Moorhouse has the work for sale at his bookstore.

Temperance Sermon.—On Sunday evening Mr. Thos. Flynn, Provincial Deputy of the Grand Lodge, I. O., addressed a large audience in the temperance hall on Sunday evening. Mr. Stephen Yates occupied the chair. Mr. Flynn treated the subject as a moral question, and showed the appalling effects of the habit of liquor drinking upon society and morals. By statistics and voluminous medical testimony he supplemented his remarks, and the startling declaration was made from the testimony of the famous English physician, Dr. Edmunds, that "300,000 babies in London spend the greater part of their first eighteen mouths in one prolonged fit of drunkenness." This statement was made from actual observation, the drinking habit having a powerful hold upon all classes of society in England, and during the period of weaning children, thousands of them are really being sustained upon strong drink. From elaborate statistics of crime and the effects of drinking in England, Mr. Flynn showed the following table: There are 1,840,000 paupers in the country; 700,000 are made annually through drink; 100,000 criminals, 14,-000 insane people 20,000 vagrants, 300,000 fallen women are made per annum; there are 25,000 insane persons through its effects; 800,000 living drunkards, and 82,000 persons die annually. This table costs the country £102,225,-000, and the revenue from the traffic is only £26,000,000. In Canada the loss through the traffic was nineteen millions. Many other convincing arguments were brought forward in support of the subject, and the lecture was certainly a powerful and convincing one. It was listened to with unflagging attention throughout, and had a very favourable effect. Our space will not admit of a more lengthy report of the lecture, such as we desire to give; but we have presented some of the principal facts. Mr. Flynn, we are pleased to say, will visit us again soon.

A Bad Case.—We have received some information regarding the man John Hopper lately charged with the crime of bigamy in Toronto, which places him in a bad light. When he married the wife now residing in Goderich it was in opposition to the wish of the bride's parents, but while he conducted himself properly the families got on very agreeably. The young couple removed to Buffalo and then to London, from which latter place they came to Goderich. Whilst in London, Hopper was on intimate terms with a young lady, and succeeded in getting two gold rings from her, on promise of marrying her, which she subsequently recovered from him in Goderich. Whilst here he promised to marry a young woman, and got the wedding dress prepared, when she fortunately discovered that the man was married. He courted another girl under the assumed name of John Hart. To many persons he represented that he was not married to his wife, that he simply kept her as a mistress. When he was burnt out last winter he sent his wife to collect money, and between them they got $97 in money and goods. When this was secured, Hopper packed his trunk, left his wife $2 and betook himself to Toronto. He never sent any funds home, but gave himself to the task of enjoyment and captivating the heart of a respectable young lady of that city. During the time he spent with his wife his treatment of her was unmanly, and on one occasion whilst she was confined he entered her room with a bayonet and plunged it through the bed clothing in numerous places in order to frighten the poor woman. He for a time denied that he was married, but the minister who issued the certificate pronounces as to its validity. The poor wife is deserving of sympathy, as through the unscrupulous misrepresentation of her husband, she has been subjected to the ill-treatment of roughs and been unjustly characterized as everything bad.

Fishing Islands.—News from the fishermen reports that the season has not proved successful, the weather being unfavorable. They are expected to return about the middle of November.

Penny Readings.—The entertainment announced to take place this evening has been postponed until Friday evening next. An excellent evening's enjoyment will be furnished. Be sure and attend.

Board of Trade.—Notwithstanding the many calls, no actual business has been transacted by this board yet. It has been dragging out a sickly existence so far; is it expiring?

A Good Haul.—On Sunday a large quantity of shingles was observed floating in the lake, and the tug Mildred and a number of fishermen started out to collect them. About 300 bundles were gathered. They probably formed the deck load of a vessel, which had experienced rough weather.

Marine.—Among the arrivals during the past week were one cargo of coal for Dominion Salt Co., from Cleveland; schr. Evening Star with cargo of fish from Fishing Islands; two cargoes lumber to Secord, Cozzens & Co.; two cargoes to Williams & Murray. J. C. Detlor & Co. shipped to Chatham 700 barrels of salt, per schr. Alliance.

Accident.—Mr. Hugh McGrattan, on Saturday, met with a painful accident. He was engaged in teaming salt, and whilst hurrying back to the International well to get ahead of another teamster, he turned the corner at Mr. J. Blake's residence too short and the empty barrel on which he was seated tipped over and he fell to the ground striking on his head. His wounds were not serious but painful, an ugly scalp wound and a few bruises being the result.

How it Happened.—On Wednesday last a rumor was current to the effect that Mr. Geo. B. Johnson's exchange office had been robbed of a large amount of money. It appears that on the previous evening a drunken sailor was passing by the office, and tripping on the iron grating fell against the window and broke a pane of glass. The night watchman saw the accident, and promptly arrested the fellow and put him in "durance vile." The circumstance was considerably embellished by Wednesday noon, and it was a current rumor that $70,000 had been stolen. Nothing, however, was taken, as the unfortunate author of the trouble didn't know enough to take advantage of the opportunity.

St. George's Church Organ.—The new organ in this church was tested on Sunday last, and proves to be a very fine one. Its appearance is handsome, being constructed of walnut and chesnut in their natural colors and the pipes in front artistically painted. The stops are numerous introducing all the most beautiful and latest invented effects, and the tones are sweet and powerful. All who were present at the services on Sabbath were highly pleased with the beautiful effects of the music. The organ is from the well-known factory of Mr. G. House, Buffalo, N. Y., and cost $1,000. It is spoken of by the builder as one of the neatest and most perfect instrument of that size which he has constructed.

Surprise Party.—On the evening of the 15th inst., a party of about 40 persons belonging to the congregation of Rev. J. Rose, surprised that gentleman and his lady at their residence. The surprised party submitted gracefully to their capture, and after the mutual salutations had been ended, Mr Globensky stepped forward and in a few well-timed remarks, on behalf of the congregation, presented Mr. Rose with a handsome purse of money. Mr. Rose was taken by surprise, but responded in a few remarks thanking his friends for their kind gift and for the many favors they had extended to himself and lady. A liberal supply of provisions having been brought by the visitors, a few minutes were devoted to satisfying the "inner man," after which the party soon dispersed, having spent a most enjoyable evening.

Waterloo Mutual Insurance Co.—This excellent life insurance company is doing an excellent business in Canada. Its headquarters are at Waterloo, and by dispensing with the usual accessories to insurance companies of handsome head offices costing large sums of money, officers drawing large salaries and other ostentatious outside exhibitions of affluence, they are enabled to give policy holders the best possible terms. Mr. Wood one of the general agents of the company has been in town for the past few days and taken a large number of risks, the very many advantages it offers and its being a purely Canadian company recommending it to all. Dr. McLean is examining physician. The following card of thanks is one evidence of the company's honesty:

Seaforth, Oct. 8, 1875.

Mr. Hendry,

Dear Sir,—I received the amount of Assurance on my late husband's life last Wednesday, and I hope it will prove a blessing to me and my father-less boy. Please convey my thanks to The Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Company for the full and prompt payment of my claim.

I remain,
Yours respectfully,
Margaret Kellam.

TUCKERSMITH.

Accident.—On Thursday morning last, as Mrs. Solomon McDonald, of Egmondville, was getting over a fence near her husband's house, she slipped and fell, severely fracturing her leg. She lay in a helpless condition for nearly an hour before assistance came to her, when she was conveyed into the house and medical aid secured.—Expositor.

WINGHAM.

Bengough lectured to a small audience here on the evening of the 15th.

Hen Roost Robbers are on the rounds, and mysterious disappearances are numerous.

Miss Mary Fisher daughter of Arch. Fisher, Esq., of Lower Wingham, is the successful applicant as teacher for the Lower Wingham school.

Nearly Finished.—The Bridge at Lower Wingham is so far completed that teams can cross at any time, as the planking is all laid.

Illness of Peter Fisher, Esq.—Mr. Fisher is again confined to his room with that old enemy, the Asthma. We are pleased to learn, however, that with careful nursing he is doing as well as can be expected and recovering rapidly.—Times.

Accident.—A son of Mr. Ed. Phair, of Howick, met with a painful accident the other day. A cow belonging to his father had got its head fast under a building, and the son went to extricate it. The cow as soon as its head was out, raised it up, and caught the young man with its horn in the cheek just under the eye, making a severe wound of about two inches in length, and reaching to the cheek-bone. The wound is healing nicely.—Advance.

BRUSSELS AND VICINITY.

Mr. Dixie Watson of Goderich, sang with great acceptance "Dear Little Shamrock of Ireland," at the Oddfellows concert on Friday evening.

Street Row.—A diagraceful street row occurred on Sabbath evening the 17th, about 10 o'clock, between a couple of intoxicated men, and several heavy hits were given and taken.

Robbery.—A robbery was committed at Moore's Hotel on Friday night, the 15th, the proprietor losing a silver watch, and a boarder losing a gold watch and silver chain. Suspicion rests strongly on the hostler, who was missing next morning.

Plowing Match.—The following is the prize list of the Morris and Grey plowing Match, held on the 18th inst:—First class men—7 entries—1st, Douglas Frazer; 2nd Thos. Gibson; 3rd Alex. Forsyth; 4th Wm. McCrae. Second class men—2 entries—1st Jas. Johnson; 2nd Daniel Robertson. Boys class—4 entries—1st. Thos. Forsyth; 2nd, Wm. McKercher; 3rd, Duncan McLauchlin; 4th, Wm. Martin. Best Crown in Field—Douglas Frazer.—Post.

CLINTON AND VICINITY.

From the New Era.

Malicious Injury.—On Monday night of last week, some person removed a shutter from the shop of Mr. W. Taylor and smashed two lights of glass in the window. Nothing was stolen.

Accident.—On Thursday last Mr. George Lavis, of Holmesville, met with a severe accident. It appears he was riding a colt, which shied, throwing him, thereby dislocating his wrist, and otherwise injuring him.

L. H. & B.—Work on this road is progressing favorably, and the track was expected to be finished to this place by Saturday last.

DUNGANNON.

Division Courts.—The next sittings of this court will take place at Dungannon as follows:—At the hour of ten o'clock a.m. on Thursday the 28th of October, and on Monday the 27th of December.

LUCKNOW.

Bengough furnished the citizens with a large amount of laugh at 25 cents per head, on the night of the 16th.

The By-Law.—The by-law to give a bonus of $2,500 to a manufacturing company investing $8,000 here, was carried by a vote of 31 to 11.

Arts Exhibition.—The Masonic fraternity are making great preparations for an exhibition of works of art, curiosities, &c., here sometime next month.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES.

Men are at work on the Exeter station buildings.

—Exeter has two dentists, and is not yet happy, although their presence has a drawing effect upon the neighborhood.

—Five new buildings have been put up in Centralia this season. Mr. T. Greenway, M. P., has erected a handsome new residence, and we understand he will remain in this Province, instead of going to Manitoba as some time ago announced.

—The members of the L. O. L. No 492 Woodham, intend celebrating the fifth of November by a grand tea meeting.

—The Presbyterians of Kirkton and Thames road showed their liberality by subscribing $1,050 towards the new Knox College just opened in Toronto.

—The potato digging season is about over, and the crop is very large. Many reports are brought from all sections of the great size of the Murphys. One instance is reported of a potato being rolled over and falling upon a pet dog, killing it instantly.

—The Globe of the 20th says: Yesterday Thomas G. Jackson, of Wingham, was arrested on a charge of defrauding his creditors. Jackson was in business at Wingham, and recently compounded with his creditors. It is alleged that he represented that certain property belonged to him whereas it afterwards turned out that his wife owned the property. He obtained goods from several firms in this city. On arriving in the city for the purpose of meeting his creditors, he was given into custody. His case will be tried in Toronto to-day.

—The Great Western Railway Company are building snow fences along the line of the southern extension of the Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway.

—Division Courts will be held during the present month in the County of Huron at Bayfield on the 29th, and Exeter on the 30th. The courts will open at 10 A. M.

—Mr. John Leslie, Con. 14, Grey, planted one potato, of the white cup variety, and this one potato yielded 70 potatoes, some of which weighed two pounds.

—A few days ago, as Mr. Louis Walper, of Hay, was returning from Exeter, his horses became alarmed at some object and jumped into the ditch, upsetting the carriage, and ran away. Mr Walper, while endeavoring to prevent their escape, had his arm put out of joint and two ribs broken.

Editor Huron Signal:

Dear Sir,

In your issue of the 20th I observed a letter from a Kerry man, condemning the Guibord rioters, and also the late Toronto riots over the Roman Catholic pilgrimage. Now, in each of these cases I quite agree with him, but I do not quite agree with his wholesale condemnation of all secret societies; for instance the Good Templars and Sons of Temperance I think excellent societies. I do not know whether friend Kerry included the society of Jesuits or not, but this I do say without fear of cantradiction, that it is the most dangerous secret society that ever existed; and when I say dangerous, I mean dangerous to civil and religious liberty; and I mean to say the Vatican at Rome is today completely under the thumb of these miserable sycophants. Scattered throughout the world, they are canker worms gnawing at the roots of civilization, more subtle than the serpent, more deceitful than Judas Iscariot. Take for instance the late pastoral of the Bishops assembled at Quebec, and there we find they claim complete jurisdiction over the church and state, both civil and religious; that all the nations of the earth are theirs, and that none but their church can be permitted to explain the scriptures: in fact, that the Roman Church holds in her hand life and death and the keys of heaven and hell. Now if human ingenuity can invent a scheme better calculated to make those who believe such a doctrine their merest abject slaves, it has yet to be heard of. They boast of their unity of faith and speak of the Roman Catholic Church as the only true Church, but I can see no unity except a unity of error, superstition and ignorance—just as all colors agree in the dark.

But it is said by Romanists that St. Peter, was the first pope, and that all the bishops of Rome were popes after him; that the keys were given to Peter and his successors, and that he transmitted to his successors the office of authority of chief bishop and pastor over his church. This then, I say, has no authority in scripture or history.—Peter never assumed authority or superiority over the other apostles, nor did they ever grant it to him. The power of "the keys" bestowed on him was equally bestowed on all the apostles. Christ himself rebuked all pretentions to supremacy when he declared, "He that is greatest amongst you shall be your servant;" and again when he said, "he that exalteth himself shall be humbled." Does not the pope exalt himtelf above the kings of the earth, in grasping for the temporal power.

But the reader may say, what has all this got to do with the Roman Catholic pilgrimage? Well, I would say let them walk. The worshippers of Moloch carried, we read in ancient times, their pagan deities through the streets sitting on an altar, and burnt incence before them. The Mohammedans turn their faces towards Mecca at the rising and setting of the sun, and cry—"God is God; there is one God and Mohamed is his prophet;" and why not let the Roman Catholics turn their faces towards Rome and cry "there is one God, and the pope is his vicegerent on earth." These innovations of the church have been brough about by jesuitism, for as late as 595, Pope Gregory First, commonly called "the great," declared "whosoever should call himself universal bishop, or desire to be called so, would deserve to be regarded as the forerunner of antichrist." In short no one acquainted with ecclesiastical history is ignorant that the supremacy of the bishop of Rome was a plant of late and slow growth. The seed was early sown by ambitious men, but it was not till the Roman Empire was destroyed and the dark ages had overshadowed the world, that the poisonous tree of papal usurpation shot forth in all its luxuriance.

It is a notable fact that the Church of Rome tries to keep her votaries in a state of spiritual darkness; they are not allowed to put any meaning on the scriptures except what the church dictates, therefore, they are practically prohibited from reading the scriptures. But God has prepared us to expect an extensive diffusion of error and superstition in the latter days.

"For the Spirit speaketh expressly that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrine of devils; speaking lies in hypocrisy, having their conscience seared as with a hot iron; forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from meats which God hath created to be received with thanksgiving of them which believe and know the truth."

Here we have the features of the great apostacy so correctly portrayed that we cannot be mistaken in the application. And as if to prevent all disputes we find the very locality of the imposture, the headquarters of the man of sin, pointed out by the spirit of the Apostle John "The woman which thou sawest," described as "drunk with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus," is that great city "which reigneth over the kings of the earth," meaning of course the city of Rome,—"the city that sitteth on seven hills."

And now before offering this for publication, I wish to say that I do not do so for the purpose of giving any Roman Catholic offence, for I believe there are many good and sincere but misguided men in her communion; in fact what I have written are mostly matters of history and scripture, and if my friend Kerry will take the troube to examine he will find them true; and in doing so he will be obeying what their patron Saint, in places in his epistles too numerous to mention, has exhorted us to do so, viz: "Search the Scriptures." I will not trouble you further, Mr. Editor. By publishing this you will much oblige

AN IRISHMAN.

Consistency's Reply to the Star.

To the Editor of the Signal.

I must confess the editor of the Star has the coolest way of getting out of a difficulty I ever saw; he simply backs out, and while in the very act, he loudly boasts of his British principles. Well, that may be his idea of exhibiting British pluck. Though I despise his courage, I must admit his discretion; for in his present dilemma, at least, it proves the better part of valour. I charged him with the most palpable inconsistency in his former articles on the Toronto riots, and instead of attempting any reasonable explanation of his very apparent inconsistency, he simply replies by saying "we will not pretend to answer all he asserts—to do so would be labor thrown away." Very discreet that indeed, sir, because my charge against the editor of the Star is simply unanswerable, without placing him, if that were possible, in a still more absurd light before the public. Now, let me call attention to the manner in which the very valiant editor of the Star has replied to such other parts of my letter as he had the courage to attempt.

He first begins by pluming himself on the fact that he is "decidedly Orange," and to use his own interpretation of these words, "that is, attached to the Protestant church and the British constitution."

Now, from what I know of Protestants generally, I question very much if the majorrity, or in fact any of them, outside of the Orange order will be willing to accept the interpretation placed by the editor of the Star on these words, "decidedly Orange." On the contrary, every respectable protestant will agree with me in saying that "decidedly Orange," in his experience, means as a general rule, decidedly indifferent both to Protestant principles, and British loyalty proper, and equally subversive of both. In truth, next to their irradicable hatred of Catholicity, the majority of the members of that order have rendered themselves most notorious for their total indifference, not to say contempt, for all religious principles. I infer, therefore, that the editor of the Star's interpretation wilf be regarded by many Protestants as simply presumptious. And as to their vaunted loyalty, surely the editor of the Star can't suppose people so stupid as to have forgotten the disgraceful manner in which the Orange order treated the representative of the British Empire, and heir apparent of our most Gracious Queen, in the person of the Prince of Wales, on the occasion of his visit to this continent.

There are men in this town to-day who saw those hypocritical defenders! of the British Constitution, pelting with eggs, His Royal Highness and the noble Duke who accompanied him. This is only one of many samples I could quote of Orange "attachment" and "loyalty." The editor of the Star is trying to play the same old game, and on the self same chords, resorted to by the order ever since its origin—Protestantism and the British Constitution. This game may have served the order well in days now happily gone by, but like the old cry of "Wolf, Wolf," in the fable, the deceit then practiced is now recoiling on their own heads. Sensible protestants cannot be any longer humbugged by such clap trap; they see very plainly it is only a dishonest pretence to gain their sympathy in an infamous cause. I have said the cause is an infamous one, and that it is regarded as such, by protestants, outside of the order, I propose to prove by quotations from a respectable protestant periodical. The Canadian Monthly for August last, in an article on the Orange Institution says: "The Institution as it now Exists supplanted the 'Peep-o'-Day Boys,' and its first lodge was instituted in Longhall in 1795. It proposed no less a task to itself than the forcible ejection of the Roman Catholic population from Ulster, beginning at Armagh. Lord Gosford, then governor of that country, reported as follows: "it is no secret that a persecution, accompanied with all the circumstances of ferocious cruelty which have in all ages distinguished that dreadful calamity, is now raging in this country. Neither age nor acknowledged innocence as to the late disturbance, is sufficient to excite mercy, much less afford protection. The only crime which the wretched objects of this merciless persecution is charged with is a crime of easy proof; it is simply a profession of the Roman Catholic Faith. A lawless banditti have constituted themselves judges of this species of delinquency, and the sentence they pronounce is equally concise and terrible; it is nothing less than a confiscation of all property and immediate banishment." After declining to put himself or his readers to the pain that a detailed account of the attendant horrors would inflict, his lordship continues as follows: 'Where have we read—or in what history of human cruelty have we read of more than half the inhabitants of a populous country deprived at one blow, of the means as well as the fruits of their industry, and driven in the midst of an inclement winter to seek shelter for themselves and their helpless families where chance may guide them. This is no exaggerated picture of the horrid scenes now acting in this country; yet surely it is sufficient to awaken sentiments of indignation and compassion in the coldest heart. These horrors are now acting and acting with impunity.' Molesworth's Hist. of England, Ed. 1874, vol. I. page 376."

Surely the editor of the Star ought to pride himself on the fact and proclaim it with an air of dignity to the world that he belongs to an organization, which has such a clean historical record to boast of. No wonder respectable Protestants denounce the organization, and insist on a distinctive line being drawn between Protestantism and Orangeism.

The editor of the Star as I expected, sees everything good and nothing bad in the Orange Young Britons, and attempts to defend them against the charge of being the cause of the riots, by trying to shift the blame on unknown rowdies. In this attempt he can hardly hope to succeed against their own admissions in the shape of resolutions and public boasts to the contrary, and against the overwhelming fact that on the Wednesday preceding the last riot, the city walls were placarded in the most conspicious places and are so to this day, with posters headed in large letters: "Organize! Organize!! Organize!!! O. Y. B.!!!" Furthermore it was well known a month before the riots, in Toronto, that the Orange Young Britons intended to attempt to prevent the processions. How can any person be so audacious in the face of such notorious facts as to tell the public that the riot was not caused by the Orange Young Britons. Again how ridiculous to point to the efforts of Ogle R. Gowan and other leading Orangemen at the so called public meeting, when the utter absurdity of their propositions were so apparent to all, "what right had these men to say to an equal or even lesser number of persons: 'you had better stay in your houses to-morrow, otherwise I'm afraid I'll be tempted to commit a breach of the peace.'"

It is not a fact either, as asserted by the editor of the Star, that Archbishop Lynch requested "his people to line the sidewalks for the purpose of protecting the procession." The editor of the Star will not stick to facts. He also complains of my being captious, and that I use what to him seems a "pseudo nom de plume."

Well, in conclusion, I may say, if I desired to be captious, I could point out several unintelligible sentences in his last article; but, as it is evident he can't help it, I will be charitable. As to his second complaint, I have no doubt "consistency" does seem peculiar, in fact new to him, yet I may add, for his information, it is a word which of late years has crept into the English language.

CONSISTENCY.

To the Editor of the Huron Signal.

Sir,—The tub of packed butter which was awarded the first at the West Riding Fall Show, at Dungannon, on the 5th inst., was superior to any there in salting and working, was extremely solid and of magnificent color. Previous to the show it had a superfine taste, and I know for a certainty that afterwards it had a flavor superior to any exhibited. It has to be seen to be appreciated.

Yours respectfully,
A SUBSCRIBER.

The trial of Irvine, Murphy, and Hamill, for the murder of Mr. Burke, of Toronto, was concluded on Wednesday. Irvine was found guilty of manslaughter, the other two were acquitted.

An Indian of about thirty years of age, named Frederick Tahwah was run over by a Canada Southern railway train on Sunday, and killed. A broken bottle, that had contained whiskey, was found near him.

The residence of W. R. Davis, of Mitchell, was entered on Thursday night by burglars, and ransacked. The thieves carried off two silver watches and chains, valued at $50, and $3 in money.

A telegram from England says that proposals for a new Canadian loan have just been issued. It is for two and a half millions sterling. Three-fifths of this sum are guaranteed by the Imperial Government; the other two-fifths are issued on the credit of Canada alone. The rate of interest of both is four per cent. The scheme has been favourably received.

A French paper in Montreal says:—"A rumour has reached us from the Capital, which, if correct, does credit to the Guibord burial society. It seems that the famous Barnum has made an offer to buy the body of the immortal Guibord. The proposition was so attractive that the bargain was concluded and the body sent some time ago to New York." The concoctor of the hoax then goes on to advise the religious and civil authorities to assure themselves, when the stone casket is being buried, that Guibord's body is really within it.

The Davis Abortion Case.

The trial of the Toronto abortionists, Arthur Paul Davis, and his wife Alice Davis for the murder of Jane Gilmour, terminated at the York Assizes on Saturday, 16th. The case was tried before Justice Morrison, and lasted four days. The case for the Crown was ably conducted by Mr. Kenneth Mackenzie, and Mr. M. C. Cameron, with equal ability, defended the prisoners. Some sixty-six witnesses were examined, and the guilt of the prisoners was so clearly proven that there seemed not to be a single loop hole left for their escape. After the jury were addressed by both counsel for the Crown and the defence, and charged by the judge they retired to deliberate upon their verdict. As it was expected that the jury would only be absent a short time, his Lordship, the counsel and a large body of spectators remained in their places. The prisoners maintained their cool demeanour, occasionally conversing together for a few minutes. The jury returned into court at 6.20 p m., having been absent one hour and twenty minutes. Amid intense excitement, the foreman, in answer to the question whether the prisoners were guilty or not guilty of the charge of murder, replied "Guilty." Mr. Mackenzie at once moved that the judgment of the court be passed upon the prisoners. His Lordship put on the black cap, the emblem of death, and asked the prisoners—"Have you anything to say why the court should not pass sentence of death upon you."

DAVIS SPEAKS.

Both the prisoners arose, and Davis in a slow, sad, yet wonderfully firm voice under the circumstances, said that after the evidence had been gone over in the presence of his Lordship and the jury, he had nothing to say about it further than that given by Mr. Chalk was false, as was also some parts of Mr. Anderson's. As for himself, he threw himself upon the mercy of the court; but he hoped that in the case of his young wife, justice would be tempered with mercy, as she was entirely innocent of the affair.

His lordship said after a long and patient investigation, the jury had found them guilty. He thought the evidence fully warranted the conclusion which had been arrived at. He had only one more painful duty to perform. He would not refer to the past life of the prisoners, nor say anything to embitter their present position; nor did he desire to do so. But he would say one thing to them, and that was to implore them to divest themselves of any hope that the sentence of the Court would not be carried into execution. He had no hope to hold out to them. He also implored them that during the short time allotted them to live, they would call some minister of religion to aid them to prepare to meet their God. His Lordship then formally pronounced sentence of death, the same to be carried out on Wednesday, the 8th of December.

RECEIVING SENTENCE.

Contrary to the general expectation, the male prisoner showed least signs of emotion. While sentence was being pronounced his head and eyes, however, were bowed, and there were the tell-tale twiethings of the mouth. He has always, since he has been arrested, expected to be hanged, and the verdict did not therefore cause such a shock as it otherwise would. With his wife it was different. All along she has been buoyed up with the hope of getting off, on the ground that she as a wife could not be held to be a principal in the fact. As it was, she showed that she possessed great nerve for a woman. For the first time during the trial she shed tears, and that was when her husband was pleading in her behalf.

After sentence had been pronounced, she sank down in her seat and had to be aided by her husband while being taken out of court. It is said that her shrieks were awful when she parted from him at the jail, and each was taken to the "condemned" cell.

MELANCHOLY SCENE.

On the first day of the Davis trial in the Assize Court and up to the close of the case, an old gray-haired man might have been seen sitting at the back of the prisoners, on the left hand side of the court room. The attention he paid to the evidence and the eagerness with which he scanned the faces of the jurors after any point in the statements told in favor of the prisoners, was remarked by many present. When the judge had finished his address and the jury retired, his excitement seemed to reach the fever point, and the restless way in which he moved about upon his seat attested the agitation which he felt. At the knock on the jury room door, he leaned forward on his seat and seemed all attention. At the word "guilty," his head dropped forward on the back of the seat in front of him, and when he heard the awful sentence passed he burst into tears and sobbed bitterly. This was the female prisoner's father, Mr. Chaplin, and he was taken from the court room moaning piteously for mercy for his child.

Miss J. Stewart, Agent for Cornwall's Self-Fitting Chart and Patterns.

The superiority of our patterns is manifested in all parts. Now to satisfy yourself that this claim is well founded, examine them carefully, and compare them with others, and you will notice among other things that ours have different shoulder measurement, by which any shaped shoulder—high, low, square or sloping—can be thus accurately fitted. Again, you will observe in our patterns for close fitting waists, the sizes of the darts are determined by a mathematical rule, thus producing a perfect fit. For example: If a given bust measures 38 inches, and the waist 24 inches, the difference—14 inches—will be the exact amount taken up in the darts. These two never-failing methods are embraced in our Patents, and can be used by no other establishment. This is the only system in the world that will produce a perfect-fitting dress or pattern. Furthermore, each separate part is cut with such exactness, that the whole when brought together, fits perfectly. Lustres, Switches and Braids, Gloves and Hoisery, Mantles, Corsets and Dress Caps. Huron Presbytery.

A special meeting of the Huron Presbytery was held at Brucefield, on Tuesday, 19th October, 1875. The design of the meeting was to ascertain officially the attitude of Rev. Mr. Ross, and the majority of his congregation, to the recent Presbyterian Union. Mr. Ross and Mr. Walker, elder, addressed the Presbytery on the position taken by the Brucefield congregation. It was then moved by Rev. J. Sieveright, seconded by Rev. T. Goldsmith, and agreed to unanimously, that the Presbytery, having had official intimation of the fact that the Brucefield congregation at a congregational meeting duly called by a vote of 50 for and 45 against, adopted the following resolution, viz: 'That this congregation continue to hold to its old basis, that of 1861,' and having ascertained that by the above resolution is meant that the congregation does not accept the terms of the recent union, nor consent meanwhile to enter the United Church, the Presbytery having taken the whole circumstances of the case into consideration, agree to the following deliverance:—

"That they deeply regret that the congregation do not at present see their way to continue in formal union with the church, express their unabated esteem and affection for their brother Mr. Ross and their undiminished interest in the people who remain under his pastoral care, their earnest hope and prayer that both pastor and people may be blessed with ever increasing prosperity, and that before long they may be led to see their way to fully indentify themselves with the Presbyterian Church in Canada."

A petition from 119 members and adherents of the Brucefield congregation, who adhere to the United Church, was then read, asking supply from the Presbytery. Appointments were made to give service every Sabbath to the close of the year.

It was then agreed that the ministers of the Presbytery exchange pulpits on the 12th December, and address the congregations on the mission work of the church, and that missionary meetings be held on the 13th, 14th and 15th December

The Council of Middlesex have determined to oppose any action that may be taken by the Government to compel them to build a new gaol.

His Excellency the Governor-General arrived at Quebec, on Thursday night, from his European trip, and proceeded to Ottawa by the afternoon train on Friday.

Sir John Macdonald paid ninety-one dollars a ton for steel rails, and the Tory journals, with a unanimous voice, pronounced it all right. Mr. Mackenzie pays an average of fifty-four dollars a ton, and those same Tory journals call on the country to condemn him for being extravagant.—Hamilton Times.

Mr. Ellis, of the Geological Survey, arrived at Winnipeg from Fort Carleton, on the 21st, and reported that having been prevented by Indians from sinking a test hole at the elbow of the North Saskatchewan, he put down a hole within Fort Carleton under a protest from the Indians, who sought to prevent him boring even within the walls. The boring disclosed many important facts in regard to the geological features of that part of the country. Excellent water was obtained at a depth of fifty feet. Mr. Ellis penetrated as far as Rocky Mountain House, and obtained many good specimens for the Philadelphia Exhibition, including iron and coal, the supply of which seems to be unlimited in the North West.

—The channel tunnel between France and England will be begun next week by the sinking of a shaft 100 metres deep near Calais.

AGUA MIRACULOSO.

This Exquisite Spanish "Toilette Preparation," for beautifying and preserving the complexion and skin, has for years been exclusively prepared by DON MANUEL ACOSTA, an eminent chemist of Seville, Spain, and by him sold in large quantities to the elite of that city, Madrid, Havana and elsewhere, as an incomparable beautifier and preservative of the complexion, and certain preventive of Wrinkles, Freckles, Pimples, Sunburn, Tan, and all blemishes of the Skin. While making a voyage to Cuba some years ago, on one of the British Royal Mail Steamships, DON MANUEL was overtaken by severe sickness, and his life for days despaired of, but ultimately, he rallied and recovered, and as an acknowledgement of his appreciation of Dr. Campbell's services, (Dr. C. being at that time Medical officer on board the steamship), he presented the Doctor with the formula from which he prepared his famous 'AGUA MIRACULOSO,' (Miraculous Water.) So many lady patients for whom Dr. C. has prepared an occasional bottle, having expressed themselves most enthusiastically in regard to its merits, he has determined for the future to prepare it as a STANDARD TOILETTE PREPARATION. Its use imparts to the skin, a dazzling brilliancy, healthy freshness, transparent clearness, velvety smoothness and exquisite softness. A few applications will convert the roughest skin into one of Alabaster delicacy. It is not a "Paint" or "Enamel," but a Deliciously Fragrant Medicated Water for the skin, of marvellous efficacy. WARRANTED harmless as pure milk. Price One Dollar per bottle. Six bottles for Five Dollars. Expressed to any address. PREPARED ONLY BY JAMES P. CAMPBELL, M.D., Chemist, 66 FULTON ST., N. Y. Beware of dangerous and worthless imitations. 1473-1yr

Heart Disease.—A Card.

New York, December 24, 1874.
JAS. P. CAMPBELL, M. D. 66 Fulton St. N. Y.
Dear Sir—

For many years my wife has had serious Organic, and of course, Functional Disease of the Heart, and frequently has 'seizures' of the most terrible description, menacing her with instant death. I have tried many prominent Heart Remedies without avail, but in Dr. Campbell's 'Heart Regulator' I am free to confess, we have found the "Supreme Palliative," if not the "Radical Cure." Your preparation, Doctor, always relieves her instantly and perfectly, while the 'seizures' are much less frequent and severe. I have also prescribed your remedy in my practice, I can and do, most conscientiously commend its use to all suffering from Organic or Functional Cardiac Derangements.

Very truly yours,

CHANGE IN MODE OF DOING BUSINESS.

The subscriber finds that long credit accounts is not the order of the day and is neither profitable to the giver nor the taker of such credit.

Hence a change is needed.

The subscriber will on and after the first of April next render his credit accounts, invariably on the first day of each month and if not paid by the 15th following, no further application for credit need be made.

This course will in future be taken believing it to be for the interest of both buyer and seller.

Any accounts now owing to me must be paid forthwith as I require every cent due me for the purpose of paying my own liabilities, or otherwise they will be handed over to other parties for collection.

At the same time the subscriber begs leave to say that all his goods will be sold at the smallest possible profit for cash or such credit as above named.

Hoping the proposed change will be duly appreciated by all persons who may be wanting

Each daughter's farm contained 107 acres 2 roods, 31 25 perches. The mother retained 176 acres, 3r., 26.34 per. The distance from one daughter's house to the other was 148.119817 rods. From the mother's house to the daughter's was 85.51 rods.

Mr. E. Rothwell, Goderich, sends this solution, the difference occurring in not carrying out the decimals further:

Area of daughter's circles, each 107 a. 2 rds. 36.-per. Mother retains 176 a. 3 rds. 12 per. Daughter's houses distant, 148.14 rods. Mother from daughter's, 85.507 rods.

The Isinglass Industry.

One of the most notable industries of Russia depends upon the sturgeon, the swimming bladder of which is manufactured into isinglass. The bladder is first placed in water and left there for some days, with frequent changes of water and removal of all fatty and bloody particles—the warmer the water the more rapid the accomplishment of the operation. The bladders, on being finally removed, are cut longitudinally into sheets, which are exposed to the sun and air, being laid out to dry with the outer face turned down, upon boards of linden or bass wood.

The inner face is pure isinglass, which when well dried, can with care be removed from the external lamellæ. The finer sheets thus obtained are placed between cloths to keep them from flies, and are then subjected to a heavy pressure, so as to flatten them out and render them uniform, and after this they are assorted and tied up in packets. The packet composed of the isinglass of the large sturgeon usually contain twenty-five sheets, weighing a pound. Eighty of these packages are usualy sewed up in a cloth bag, or inclosed in sheet lead.

The other lamellæ of the air bladder, after the isinglass proper has been removed, also contain a considerable quantity of glue, which, when softened in water, is scraped off with a knife and moulded into small tablets, and then dried; this is less expensive than the other.

A LADY SPEEDILY CURED by Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines, after being under medical treatment for two years, which left her in an emaciated and very feeble condition, with horrible suffering from pain, and hope of recovery gone, writes:

ROME, N. Y., June 15, 1874.

DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:

I feel it my duty to express my gratitude to you and the Divine Power that assisted you in the study and acquirement of means to relieve suffering.—When I commenced the use of your medicines I was in a rapid decline. I had been under medical treatment for nearly two years—had been obliged to wear an internal supporter most of the time for four or five years, and for six or seven months previous to commencing the use of your medicines I suffered intense pain almost constantly, nothing giving me even momentary relief (much of the time) except opium or morphine, the action of my stomach and liver being almost destroyed by their use. I was rapidly growing weaker, losing in flesh, and could take no nourishment, save a little beef-tea or gruel, could not sit up but a few minutes at a time, could not walk across the room, and had formed the opinion that nothing could help me, but that I must soon leave my little children and family. In the midst of my despondency, one of your circulars was brought into my room. I paid little attention to it, thinking little of patent medicines, and supposing yours were such; but, after throwing it aside, I was impressed to look at it again, and, becoming more interested, I wrote you, thinking it useless to purchase any of the medicines before stating my case to you fully. Your reply gave me so much encouragement that I commenced the use of your Favorite Prescription, Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, according to the printed directions accompanying them. Their effect upon me, and the struggle to rid my system of those poisonous drugs, was indeed wonderful. Some of the time my body has been completely covered with a rash. I can eat and sleep well; walked to church yesterday morning, besides a block in the afternoon, without any supporter, and I consider myself almost entirely well.

With untold gratitude,

MRS. T. A. SEYMOUR,

A QUESTION.—Why will people keep four or five ill-looking sickly horses to do the work that one good horse might perform? If the horse has the heaves, is broken winded, has a cough or cold, or his wind in any way affected; if his appetite is bad, or his digestive organs, deranged, has a rough skin or is hide bound, we would in all cases recommend the use of "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy"—it never fails to benefit and almost always removes the disease; it is free from anything that can injure, and may be used at all times with safety. Try it and you will be satisfied. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

—Is your throat sore, or are you annoyed by a constant cough? If so, use promptly "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers."—They will give you instant relief. They relieve the air passages of phlegm or mucus, and allay inflamation, and no safer remedy can be had for coughs, colds, or any complaint of the throat or lungs, and if taken in time their efficacy will soon be proved. Sold by all druggists and country dealers. Price 25 cts. per box.

Letter from Capt. Coffil, of the Brig "Potosi," of Windsor, N. S.

ST. JOHN, N. B., May 21st, 1868.

MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS, Chemist,

DEAR SIR:—In May, 1866, I was attacked with a severe dry cough, which continued in harshness for some time, when I commenced expectorating a thick, whitish substance, then I raised a greenish yellow and slate-colored matter, then bleeding of the lungs set in, and other symptoms of a very alarming character showed themselves. I consulted the leading physicians in Philadelphia and other cities, who gave me no encouragement, as my disease was Consumption. I entered no caveats to obtain relief, but found none. In August, I had fallen in flesh from 155 to 136 pounds, and sinking rapidly every day. My friends in Philadelphia advised me to leave the ship and go home. At home they considered my case hopeless, and wished me to remain there and not die in a foreign country. I visited St. John in October of the same year on my way to Philadelphia to join my ship, and was advised by a stranger, who noticed my shrunken form and racking cough, to try your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites; and, as a drowning man will grasp at straws, I saw a ray of hope in the suggestion, and procured a bottle. The effect warranted a further trial, and I bought a dozen bottles, and left St. John, and have been knocking about the Atlantic ever since.

As this is the first time I have visited your city since, I feel under an obligation to let you know the effects produced by this syrup. I continued taking the remedy regularly. At first my appetite improved—I regained strength—then my cough gradually left me, and finally the expectoration ceased; and although the bronchial was gradual, I could note the change for the better every day, so that after having taken ten bottles I considered myself well. This was about five months from the time I commenced taking the Syrup. A short time after I had considerable trouble, and feeling some of the old symptoms returning, I finished the other two bottles; and now I consider myself as well as I ever was in my life. My present weight is 162, seven pounds above my usual healthy standard. My nerves are good, my appetite good, and general health excellent. I heartily recommend your Syrup to all persons troubled with any difficulties or disease of the Lungs or Nervous System, firmly believing that had I not used it, I would not now be living.

Hoping this letter may meet the eyes of others similarly affected, and induce them to use the same means of cure.

I remain, yours very truly.

HARRIS COFFILL,

Master of brig "Potosi," of Windsor, N. S.

I recently heard from Captain Coffill that he continues to possess vigorous health. INVENTOR:

SCIENTIFIC ITEMS.—A writer in Putnam's Magizine says: "It is a curious fact that there is never a white colt nor a black calf. The whitest horse was blackest in its birth, and the jet black cow was unmixed red." Whether this is correct or not, we cannot positively say; but this we do believe, that the best medicine for removing pain from the system a the "Canadian Pain Destroyer." In cases of rheumatism, sprains bruises or severe colds and summer complaints, it stands unequalled. For sale by all Druggists and country dealers. Price 25 cts per bottle.

What They Say of It.

Notices from the People.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people for any great length of time. One of those is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thomas Rylands, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for one half on years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried D. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and more than half had no attack of it. I can recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years and have tried different remedies without any benefit until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. As one should be without it, I have tried it on my horses in case of colic, wounds, &c., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A Maybee, Merchant, Warworth writes, "I have sent some hundreds of bottles of the Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public one of the best medicines they have ever used; it has given wonderful relief in colds and rheumatism, and in short is the greatest medicine of the age, and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Hastin, Town ship Percy, writes, "I was persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing in a season. It is a great public benefit."—A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which caused me very much. Mr. Maybee of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine."

Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cts.

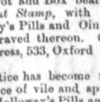
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—For the protection of the Public of British North America, I deem it my duty to state that my Pills and Ointment are neither manufactured nor sold in any part of the United States.

Each Pot and Box bears the British Government Stamp, with the words, "Holloway's Pills and Ointment, London," engraved thereon. On the label is the address, 533, Oxford Street, London.

This notice has become necessary, in consequence of vile and spurious imitations of "Holloway's Pills and Ointment," being fabricated at 78, Maiden Lane, New York, by parties styling themselves "Holloway & Co.," with an assumed trade mark, thus—



Unprincipled vendors can obtain this trash at a very low price, and so deceive you by selling the same for my genuine Holloway's Pills and ointment, which are manufactured only at 533 Oxford Street, London.

Persons who may be so deceived will be pleased to communicate with me.

Many respectable Firms in the British Provinces, who obtain my medicines direct from here, have very properly suggested that I should, for the benefit of themselves and the public, insert their names in the papers, that it may be known that my medicines can be had genuine from them.

The following is a list of the Firms alluded to; and I particularly recommend those who desire to get my medicines to apply to some of the Houses named:—

EVANS, MERCER & Co., Montreal.
Messrs. Avery, Brown & Co., Halifax, N. S.
Messrs. Forsyth & Co., Halifax, N. S.
Messrs. T. B. Barker & Sons, St. John, N. B.
Apothecaries' Hall Co., Charlottetown.
Messrs. Langley & Co., Victoria, B. C.
Messrs. Moore & Co., Victoria, B. C.
Dr. John Pallen, Chatham, N. B.
Messrs. Munro & Co., Montreal.
Messrs. J. Winer & Co., Hamilton, Ont.
Mr. H. J. Rose, Toronto.
Mr. A. Chipman Smith, St. John, N. B.
Mr. John Bond, Goderich, Ont.
Messrs. Elliot & Co., Toronto.
Mr. J. Chalomer, St. John, N. B.
Messrs. Hanington Bros., St. John, N. B.
Mr. R. S. Priddy, Windsor, Ont.
Mrs. Orpen, Morden, N. S.
Mr. George C. Hunt, Jun., Fredericton, N. B.
Mr. W. H. Thompson, Harbor Grace, N. F.
Mr. J. M. Wiley, Fredericton, N. B.
Messrs. W. & D. Yuile, Montreal.
Chas. I. Davies, Fredericton, N. B.

The medicines are sold at the lowest wholesale prices, in quantities of not less than £20 worth—viz, 8s. 6d., 22s., and 34s per dozen boxes of Pills or pots of Ointment, for which remittances must be sent in advance.

Chemists and other vendors of Holloway's genuine Pills and Ointment may have their names inserted in the local papers if they will please apply here—

ESTABLISHED IN DETROIT IN 1859,

THE oldest established physician in Michigan who treats exclusively and CURES where all others fail, every form of DISEASE, and is the only regularly physician in Detroit for all diseases and difficulties of a sexual nature of Both Sexes, whose skill and experience is required. Old Sores and cases, where the blood has become poisoned, causing Blotches on the face, small watery blisters, pains in the head and bones, sore throat, nose, etc., and all diseases of the kidneys and Bladder, are permanently cured by Dr. DeLOS.

TO THE LADIES,

Ladies can consult the Doctor in all private and delicate troubles. Remember that all cases and correspondence are

SACREDLY CONFIDENTIAL.

TO YOUNG MEN,

Middle Aged and Old Men.

You who, by the indiscretions of youth, excesses and abuses of mature years, or from any cause, are suffering from that mind-and-body-destroying disease, can be quickly, perfectly, and permanently cured by applying, either in person or by letter, to Dr. DeLOS, and stating particulars and symptoms of your trouble.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS,

Charges moderate and within the reach of all.

Patients living at a distance can be cured at home just as well, and without any one knowing it.

Medicines (with full and plain directions for using) sent to any part of the country by mail or express (perfectly secure from surprise).

Send for a Circular, which will give you all particulars and will be sent in a plain and sealed envelope.

Come to Detroit and call at the Dispensary. Remember the number, 217 Jefferson avenue. At the office (which is so arranged) persons never meet each other, and no one but the Doctor, Himself, knows the feelings of modesty or bashfulness enter you from making immediate application, as her in person or by letter. Do not risk your health or happiness for a life-time, but go or send at once to the physician, when business it is, and he will fully restore you to health. If you cannot come, write, and address letter to Dr. DeLOS drawer 414, Detroit, P. O., Michigan.

Avoid Quacks and Impostors.

If you are afflicted in any way, before placing your case in the hands of any one, go or send to this OLD, RELIABLE Medical Dispensary, where the consulting physician has had over 20th years' experience in treating the unfortunate, which is a sufficient guarantee to all that it is the ONLY Medical Dispensary in the West where a perfect and permanent cure can be had for all troubles of a private nature. 1485

Local Agents Wanted.

An Agent wanted for each Town and County in the United States,

Parties desiring to act as agents, must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility, from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which agent proposes to act. The agency is to be the books of the Industrial Exhibition Co.

Whole Bonds	$20 each.
Half "	10 "
Quarter "	5 "

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with Circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where agent is located, will as soon as agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers, so long as agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments, of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium, either of $50, $100 $200, $5 0, $1,000, $3 000, $5,000, $10,000, $25 000 or $100,000. The interest, which is certainly distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest added, and in consideration of taking this small rate of into est, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered the premium paid, and the bond cancelled

The Industrial Exhibition Company under a special charter, granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessment for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money, can say, "I aided to erect in our country, the most magnificent building the world has ever seen a palace which, in truth represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their invenli ns and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents, or to purchase bonds will address

Iron in the Blood

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protéed Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "those wasting ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
