CHAPTER VIII.

But Gaunt was in a queer mood that afternoon. Perhaps the sight of the old place in which he had been born, and which he had neglected so long, had told upon him. Perhaps the girl's innocent frankness and candor had had their effect. Anyway, he yielded to the impulse, and began.

"I suppose it was your Aunt, Lady Pauline, who told you that I was so wicked?" he said.

"Yes," said Decima. "Ah!" He smoked for a minute or two. "Did she tell you of what crime or crimes I had been guilty? But, no; I suppose not."

Decima shook her head.

"Lady Pauline is a very religious woman, is she not?" he asked.

"Yes—oh, yes; she is very good—goodness itself," said Decima.

"Yes; I have heard so," he remarked. "Now, I think you will admit that so good a woman as Lady Pauline Lascelles would be disposed to regard other persons who were not so good as—well, let us say, very great sinners!"

"No," said Decima. "Aunt Pauline—" Then she stopped.

"You would like to say 'No,' but are forced to admit that I am right. Lady Pauline, for instance, would consider a man whose life was entirely given up to amusement as a member of the earth, a useless member of society, scarcely worthy of living in a workaday world?"

"Yes," said Decima, reluctantly.

"Quite so," said Gaunt, with a grim smile. "And for some of his amusements Lady Pauline would find no word of condemnation too hard. For instance, if he played cards—" he had to choose his words carefully, for he felt that the girl beside him was as innocent of the world as a child—"she would call him a gambler—an habitual gambler."

"Yes," said Decima.

"Thanks. I am coming to my point, though I seem to skate round it. And if he went to the opera, and the theatre, and to balls, she would call him a worldling—I think that's the word—and a slave to dissipation."

"Yes," said Decima again.

"Very well," he said. "Then, I am

Could Not Sleep

Mr. Earnest Clark, Police Officer, 338 King St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"For three years I suffered from nervousness and sleeplessness. I believe my condition was brought about by overwork. I had frequent headaches, neuralgic pains and twitching of nerves and muscles. I had indigestion, was short of breath and easily tired. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and seven boxes of this medicine cured me of all my symptoms. I am now feeling one hundred per cent. better than I was, and have to thank Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for the good health I am now enjoying."

afraid, I am, according to Lady Pauline's code, a very wicked man. But, Miss Deane—"

He paused. Was it, after all, worth while to defend himself before this sweet girl-judge?

"Yes!" said Decima. "Why do you not go on?"

"I beg your pardon," he said, with a slight start, as if he had lost the thread of the subject. "Yes, I am rather absent-minded. Please forgive me. I was going to say that it is very difficult for a man to work who has never learned to do any. And that's my case. Unfortunately, my parents and guardians neglected to teach me to use either my hands or my brains. I can neither sow nor spin. I can do nothing that would earn me a glass of the cheapest ale. It is sad, but there it is. I can only amuse myself, and"—he sighed—"I can't always do that—very seldom, indeed."

Decima looked at him. There was a smile in his eyes and on his lips, but it was rather a sad and self-mocking one.

"But that's all the point I wanted to make," he went on, knocking the ash off his cigar and looking at her as if—Decima felt—she were a long way off. "I wanted to show how unreasonable, how inconsistent you were in cutting me just now."

"Yes?" said Decima, flushing slightly. "Inconsistent?"

"I am, I will admit, very wicked; and you, of course, are very good."

"No one is really good," said Decima, rebukingly.

He regarded her with a half smile.

"Ah, well; fairly good. Now, Miss Deane, do you think there is no hope for the wicked? Do you think that it is impossible for a bad man to become good?"

Decima looked shocked.

"Oh, no, no! There is always hope! It is never too late—"

"To mend," he said. "And don't you think it is the duty of the good folk to help the wicked on to the right road? Poor wicked! Perhaps they have strayed through no fault of their own—have only lost their way. And think! A helping, directing hand may put them on the right path again. Do you think it is the duty of all the good people to stand a long way off and watch the bad ones drifting down the broad, the Primrose Path, that steep descent down the hill of Avernus, without making an effort to stop them?"

Decima glanced with a troubled little frown at the handsome face with its half-grave, half-bantering smile.

"I never thought of that," she said in a low voice.

"Just so; so I suspected. But you are not singular. It's a way most good people have. They look upon the poor black sheep as lost forever—"

"Oh, no, no!" said Decima, breaking in with a piteous little eagerness.

"You do not?" he said, still smiling at her. "Thank you. And, after all," he said in a moment or two, "perhaps the sheep is not so black as he is painted. Some persons, especially when they are so good as Lady Pauline, have a knack of exaggerating. Give a dog a bad name, and you may as well hang him right away. Now I, apparently, have a bad name; but don't hang me, please—I mean, don't cut me as if I were quite too black and criminal. Who knows? If you knew the story of my life—"

He paused, and bit his lip as if he were trying to catch his words; but Decima looked at him waiting.

"I was going to say that even for such a one as myself it might be possible to find some excuse; and it is, again, just possible that you would let me off 'with the option of a fine.' But the poor prisoner at the bar has spoken, and his prayer is that the sentence will be less severe than the cut direct.—Is the judge inclined to mercy?"

Decima looked straight before her. Notwithstanding the smile, there was a certain sadness and gravity in his eyes which revealed the seriousness under the tone of banter.

"I will not avoid you again," she said in a low voice.

He inclined his head.

"Thank you," he said, gravely. "I shall not abuse your indulgence, for it is not very likely that we shall meet often, or for a very long time."

"Are you going away? Do you not live near here?" asked Decima.

He ignored the latter question.

"I am going abroad very shortly, and shall be away for some time," he said.

"That will be nice," said Decima. But, even as she spoke, she was conscious of a vague sensation of regret. He had been so kind to her at the Zoo, and—well, a young girl could scarcely help being flattered by such a plea as he had addressed to her.

"Nice? Ah, yes, yes; I dare say you would enjoy it," he said.

"And will not you?" asked Decima, regarding him inquiringly.

"Not very much, I am afraid. "Do you know the story of the boy who started everybody by refusing a raspberry tart, until he informed them that he was employed at a pastry-cook's? He had got tired of jam tarts. I have got tired of travelling, and most other things. But—I don't know how it is—I have dropped into a fine display of egotism. Will you tell me how it is I find you down here so unexpectedly?"

Decima rose and took the path through the fir toward the river, as she answered:

"My father sent for me quite suddenly. Our house, The Woodbine, is near here—down the road to the village. Perhaps you passed it. It is a very pretty cottage overgrown with ivy, and with an old-fashioned garden in front."

"Yes; I noticed it," he said.

"But all the place is pretty," said Decima. "And isn't this lovely?"

She paused and looked round her and at the great house, a glimpse of which they could still see between the straight fir trunks.

"Yes," he said. "May I go down as far as the river with you? I should like to know what sport your brother is having."

"If you like," she said, walking on again. "Isn't it a pity that the place is so neglected?"

"Is it neglected?" he said, after a moment.

"Oh, yes; so my brother says. He was telling me all about it last night. We strolled down after dinner, and you can not imagine how lovely it looked in the moonlight; and yet so weird and—and melancholy; for there were no lights in the windows, and no signs nor sounds of life."

"Yes, it would look rather eerie," he said, very quietly.

"It is a pity that the law does not take it away from its owner, and give it to some one who would appreciate it and love it," said Decima.

Gaunt put up his hand to his mustache to hide the grim smile. It was evident that Lady Pauline had not told the girl his name.

"That sounds like a kind of socialism, Miss Deane," he said. "But do you know he doesn't appreciate it?"

Decima stopped short and looked over her shoulder at him with faint surprise.

"How can he, seeing that he never comes near it?" she said. "I think he must be very heartless."

"Heartless?"

"Yes. My brother was telling me how the steward had written to him, asking him for instructions to manage the estate. And he will send no answer. Is it not—well, yes, it is wicked. For, think! surely it is wicked to neglect one's duty. And it is his duty to take care of people—the tenants and laborers who live on the estate—and naturally look up to him as their friend and protector as well as landlord."

"Is he a hard landlord, did you hear?" said Gaunt, quietly.

"Oh, I think not. It is that he neglects them. Why does he not come and live in that beautiful house and in this lovely place instead of deserting it?"

"Perhaps he can not help himself," said Gaunt. "I ventured to plead for mercy for myself just now, Miss Deane; let me now plead for him. We don't know his story. It's likely enough that if we heard him in his own defense, he might not seem so—heartless was what you called him, was it not?"

Decima nodded.

WOMEN FROM NORTH, SOUTH, EAST, WEST

Recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a Reliable Remedy for Women's Ills.

Spokane, Wash.—"I want to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for women's ailments as it helped me so much during middle age."

—Mrs. MARTHA CONNOR, 1027 Mansfield Avenue.

Abilene, Texas.—"For almost a year I was unfit to do my work as I suffered so from female ill. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health after physicians had failed."

—Mrs. E. OWENS.

Rockville, Conn.—"I suffered so long from female ill. I was tired and melancholy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health after everything else had failed."

—MARY WELB, 3 Chamberlain St.

Oakland, Cal.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave me such relief during Change of Life, I wish every woman could know about it. I surely praise this great remedy for women's ill."

—Mrs. MARY S. ASHLEY, 6789 Dover Street.

The reason Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful is because it contains the curative, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act directly on the female organism.

Prince Welcomed Home By Brothers.

Formal Reception Set for To-day
--New Brunswick Government
Breaks Even--Derry Prisoners
Made a Night of it--Imperial
Navy Will Sink Soviet Submarines--MacSweeney Emaciated
But Bright.

PRINCE ARRIVES HOME.

LONDON, Oct. 10.
The cruiser Renown with the Prince of Wales on board arrived to-day at Spithead, on the southern coast of England, and anchored for the night. The formal landing of the Prince and the popular reception planned for him in London will take place to-morrow. The Duke of York and Prince Henry, brothers of the Prince of Wales, boarded the Renown to-night to welcome the Prince home. They will remain on board the cruiser to-night.

FOSTER WILL CARRY ON.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 10.
With some doubt still existing regarding at least one seat the best figures available for the Provincial general elections held on Saturday give the government twenty-four of the forty-eight seats, the Opposition thirteen, United Farmers nine and labor two. The Government claims an additional seat from the Opposition in King's County. Even with this extra seat the Government will find it necessary to depend on support of some farmer or labor members in order to carry on, but in his speech on Saturday night after the results had been made known Premier Foster announced that the assurances of support he had made him perfectly confident that he would be able to carry on. Two of his Ministers, Hon. Robert Murray, Northumberland, Provincial Secretary, and Hon. J. F. Tweeddale, Victoria, Minister of Agriculture, were defeated. The success of Premier Foster and his three colleagues in St. John City, where formerly he had held only one seat, was one of the interesting features of the contest.

CLEVELAND WON LAST TWO GAMES.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10.
In a game filled with sensational situations beyond the wildest dreams of fiction the Cleveland Americans defeated Brooklyn Nationals eight to one in the fifth contest of the world series here this afternoon. In unassisted triple play by William Wambsgans, native born son of Cleveland, and home runs by Elmer Smith and Jim Bagby were individual features that will linger in memory. Saturday's game Cleveland won five to one.

PRISONERS MADE A DIN.

BELFAST, Oct. 10.
People residing in the vicinity of the prison at Londonderry passed a sleepless night owing to the din made by Sinn Fein prisoners who wrecked cells, smashed windows and shouted Republican songs. Eventually troops were summoned and surrounded the prison. They first fired in the air and that suppressed the disorders.

BRITISH WARSHIPS ORDERED TO ATTACK SOVIET-SUBMARINE.

LONDON, Oct. 10.
Any Russian submarines encountered on the high seas will be attacked on sight by British naval forces, according to the note sent by Earl Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, to M. Tchitcherin, Russian Bolshevik Foreign Minister, on October 2nd, which is published along with the other correspondence recently exchanged between Great Britain and Soviet-Russia. Earl Curzon points out that he previously sent a communication regarding the submarine launched in the Black Sea, in which he said that in view of repeated declarations of leading members of the Soviet Government that Government considered itself in a state of war with Great Britain, and in view of the possibility in these circumstances of waiting to ascertain whether the intentions of the submarines controlled by the Soviet Government were hostile or not, there was no alternative but to issue orders to British ships to attack the submarine should it be encountered on the High Sea.

MACSWEENEY BULLETIN.

LONDON, Oct. 10.
The Irish Self-Determination League issued a long bulletin to-day to the effect that Lord Mayor MacSweeney's condition was not greatly changed. His mind is still bright, says the statement, and vigorous, but he is very much emaciated.

Want 500 Men for Lumber Industry.

Collishaw-Tulk Co. Ltd., Have Acquired Large Timber Areas.

(Trade Review.)
As will be seen by advertisement in the papers, Mr. E. Collishaw is looking for 500 men to go to work at the lumber industry at St. George's. The new company lately organized, will be known as "The Collishaw-Tulk Co. Ltd."

The mill at Nardin's during the past two years, was operated by Mr. B. Tulk, who is an experienced man, and who was general woods manager for the A.N.D. Co. with 3,000 men under his supervision. His four sons who were all in the war and returned safely, have now all managing jobs in the enterprise under their father, and have all had experience in lumbering at Grand Falls.

Mr. Collishaw bought out all the previous grant holders on the river, and his property is now 250 miles in area and extends 15 miles up on each side of the river. They have contracted with the A.N.D. Co. for the delivery of all the pulp wood per year that the R. N. Co.'s available freight cars can carry to Grand Falls.

There are now 100 men employed cutting pulp wood, and it is expected that the additional 400 will be secured this month. There are two saw mills already on the shore, one at Nardin's, the other at Barachois, but it is the intention to erect a third at once which will turn out 100,000 feet in 24 hours.

It will be an up-to-date mill in every particular, and will turn out veneering for export. Mr. Collishaw lately visited Campbellton, N.B., and personally selected the machinery for this mill, which will be equipped with modern gang splitters. The company will also turn out matched pine and clapboard so that it will be unnecessary to so largely import these qualities as has been the case in recent years.

The idea that the price of lumber has slumped, Mr. Collishaw says, is misleading, when you apply it to all kinds of lumber. It comes about in this way.

There were about 250 small kerose-mine mills sawing the past year induced by report of high prices. What they mostly sawed was small scantling 2 x 4, 3 x 4 and coopers' stock. This flooded the market, but they turned out no matched lumber nor clapboard, so that only the prices of the small mill stock has declined. As wages to loggers this winter will be higher than last year, prices of lumber turned out by the big mills cannot decline. The smaller stuff referred to will remain cheap for a time as the town is now stogged with about ten million feet, chiefly small scantling. Only mills that have planers can turn out planed board and these are the few large ones.

The Collishaw-Tulk Co. Ltd., are preparing for a big cut and are building 25 camps up the St. George's River. They will give issuing of the smaller supplies for loggers to the small stores already in the vicinity and will themselves run the big store for heavy supplies, like pork, beef, flour, etc.

They will pay the current wages and give a bonus to the men who will stick to the job all the winter till the "drive" begins. Sidings are now being laid down at Nardin's to take the logs to the main line. The available cut includes pine, spruce, fir, birch and witchazel.

Express Passengers.

The Kyle arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.30 a.m. yesterday from North Sydney and landed the following passengers who boarded the incoming express:—E. Parsons, W. J. Wall, G. T. Tucker, Dr. and Mrs. Burden, C. Lannore, Mrs. D. Moore, Miss M. Morton, Mrs. J. Brophy, J. Ware, Mrs. F. C. Barnes and daughter, L. Parsons, P. Simon, Mrs. A. Bennett, Mrs. A. LeMoine and son, Mrs. J. Fowler, W. Hennett, H. J. Bouthillier, Miss R. Slattery, Miss M. Slattery, Mrs. O'Connell, J. H. O'Connell, Miss H. R. Egan, J. Hanham, Mrs. C. W. Hayward, J. D. Ince, C. R. Blackler, Mrs. M. Burke, G. Hinde, J. Thomas, J. W. Morris.

Clean -- Sparkling -- Inviting

A GOOD meal, daintily served, is most fully appreciated when eaten in a room that sparkles with sunshine and cleanliness.

Your dining-room will always have this much-to-be-desired appearance if you use O-Cedar Polish, as directed, on the wood-work, floors and furniture.

A few drops of O-Cedar on a wet cloth will form a soft lather which removes any dust and grime the furniture may have collected.

Over this clean surface simply rub a dry cloth. The "polish" that results from this treatment is bright and lustrous—it will cheerfully reflect the rays of sunlight that enter the room by day, and mirror the soft radiance of shaded lights after sunset.

O-Cedar Polish 30c. and 60c. a bottle, $1.50 to $3.50 per can.

O-Cedar Polish Mop, with 54-inch handle, $2.00.

Gorton Pew Co. Buys Green Fish.

Fishermen Sell Catch from the Knife at $2.25 per 100 Pounds.

The Gorton Pew Co., are buying fish from the knife on the Southern Shore at $2.25 per 100 pounds. There is no more trouble with the fish once it is split, and the men engaged in this business are making good pay, especially at Renew and Ferryland where they have kept steadily at the fishery with hook and line since the traps were taken in.

Seeing that this mode of selling fish gets clear of the Regulations, it is likely that if the Rules remain in force there will be a great many more fishermen engaged in this mode of disposing of their fish next season, especially on the Southern Shore and the South Coast.

The same applies to all green fish for which there is always a good market in the New England States. Of late years the tendency has been in this direction owing to the fact that as time goes on it is more and more difficult to get fish curers, women or men, and is quite the reverse of the old times in this respect, when every crew had a staff of fish curers on the room, whose special work it was to cure the catch in all its stages after being thrown up out of the boats. They were mostly women and girls of the planters and fishermen's families.

To-day people like this cannot be found and it is a rare thing to find women and girls to work at curing codfish.—Trade Review.

Many Passengers on Kyle.

Added to the woes of those of the one hundred and two passengers who arrived on the steamer Kyle this morning, who were obliged to comply with the law regarding vaccination and get a jab of the needle at the cost of one dollar a jab, was the fact that all who intended going out on the morning's westbound express were obliged to take it easy here until tonight. The Kyle was held at Port aux Basques owing to the late arrival of the cross-country express, hence the delay.—North Sydney Herald, Oct. 7.

Wesley Epworth League

At a meeting of the Wesley Epworth League which takes place to-night Mr. Isaac Morris will give a discourse on the following topic: "In old testament times prophets were called of God to arouse His people to a fuller sense of duty. Would such men as the prophets arouse God's people to-day?" There will also be a quartette by Wesley talent. Leader, Mr. Walter Sparkes. Everybody will be heartily welcomed.

Attempted Burglary.

Yesterday morning, about three o'clock, three young men were disturbed in their efforts to gain an entrance to Stafford's Drug Store. That they would have succeeded in getting in, there is no doubt, but that a woman who lives nearby hearing the noise of the trio raised her window and shouted for the police, when the would-be burglars decamped. The attempted entrance was made at the rear of the store and the putty from one of the windows had been removed, before the men were disturbed. It is thought the thieves were after liquor, which is dispensed at the store.

Personal.

Mr. Andrew J. Moore is in town on a business visit from Bay de Verde. Mr. H. T. Butt, the Superior School teacher of Freshwater, Bay-de-Verde, was in town on Saturday for a week and visit.

Mr. James N. Butt, of Freshwater, Bay-de-Verde, was in town on Saturday and went home by the evening's train.

Messrs. John and Joseph Lockyer, who were in town on a business visit from Bay-de-Verde, returned home by the Prospero on Saturday.

Mrs. Norman McLeod will be a passenger by S.S. Digby sailing October 18th next. Mrs. McLeod is going to visit her friends in Ayr and will remain for the winter.

Messrs. J. M. Devine and J. T. Meaney, who will represent the local Irish Self-Determination League at the Ottawa Convention left for the Canadian capital by yesterday's express.

Mr. J. F. Carey, of the Furness Withy Co. left by yesterday's express en route for New York where he attends a meeting of managers that is being held there.

Shipping Notes.

Schr. Annie M. Nadreau, 8 days from Sydney, arrived yesterday with coal cargo, consigned to the government.

FINDING THE ROAD TO SLEEP.

How many Mother Goose rhymes can you remember straight through?

Having been called up in the middle of the night recently and having some difficulty in getting back to sleep because my mind was determined to busy itself with certain plans, I sought for some way to exercise this devil of untimely activity, and Mother Goose came to my aid.

By the help of Mother Goose, I could only remember four rhymes—just fancy, two rhymes completely and two partially. "Hey diddle, diddle, the cat and the fiddle" was the first one to come to my call. I always loved that because the picture in my Mother Goose book of the dish running away with the spoon, was so intriguing. They looked as if they were going to travel all over the world and have the most wonderful adventures. The second was "Little Jack Horner." Then came the Queen of Hearts and her tarbs, but I could only get part way through that, and then fragments of the "queen in the parlor eating bread and honey, the king is in the counting house counting out his money" began to drift through my brain in that delicious way that means one is very near to the gates of dreamland.

When I awoke in the morning there came to me in quick succession little Miss Muffet and her tuffet, Old Mother Hubbard and her poor dog, and the old lady who "lived on nothing, but vittles and drink" (I am surprised that I did not think of her first for she was a most dramatic character in my childhood. I thought then that "vittles" was a kind of pickles, and my sister used to assure me that the old lady lived behind the head of our big walnut bedstead, and tell me long tales about her doings.)

How Many Could You Remember? These are all of that big army of wonderful folks—who were as real to most of us in our childhood as any but our immediate family and playmates—that I can summon back without consulting the book.

I wonder if others will find they have so surprisingly lost touch with the Mother Goose folk?

Try it sometime when you have a little gathering and want something amusing to do. Let everyone take a paper and pencil and see who can write out the most Mother Goose rhymes.

Drive Out the "Planning Devil" This Way.

Or, if you are of that big army of people who sometimes have trouble finding the road to dreamland, try it as I did, and see if it does not exercise the devil of a too-active mind and wait you off to sleep.

(The Authorman says that this would be bad advice for some people as it would only make their minds more active to try to remember. He suggests that such should try, instead, to visualize the characters in Mother Goose.)

Steam Trawlers the Next Need.

The time is come when Newfoundland fishermen should take up steam trawling if we want to keep up with the progress made by other fishing countries. It must be an economic system of getting fish, otherwise it would not be adopted and followed up in yearly increasing ratio by Norway, France, England, Scotland, the United States and Canada.

We realize that it involves a large outlay, but the fishing results are so great that it is well worthy of investigation. All is needed is some enterprising man to break the ice and we have no doubt that others will soon follow, as in the case of the motor boat.

The French at St. Pierre are preparing to use steam trawlers on a large scale next summer. Lord Leverhulme has a fleet of 90 trawlers fishing out of British ports this season, and will have an increased fleet next year.

We understand that it is an opportune time to buy trawlers in the United States, Canada and England, second-hand craft, but only a few years old and well suited for the fishery on our coast.—Trade Review.

S. S. Lake Furnas Towed to Port.

The S.S. Sartartia having in tow the steamer Lake Furnas arrived in port yesterday evening. The Lake Furnas was bound to Manchester from Norfolk, Va., with part cargo of tobacco, and left the latter port 7 days ago. She experienced the same heavy weather that was reported by the Delco, and on Friday last when 340 miles from this coast, lost three blades of her propeller, thereby becoming unmanageable and forced to call for help. The S.S. Sartartia, which was on her way from New York to Hamburg, heard her call for help and immediately responded, picking up the disabled ship early Saturday morning 250 miles south of Cape Race. Lines were made fast and the ships made good progress to port, arriving here at 3.30 p.m. yesterday. The Sartartia is quite a large ship and has over 3000 tons of general cargo which is being taken to Germany. It comprises everything imaginable, copper, grain, oil and all sorts of foodstuffs. She took water last night at the Furness Withy Co's wharf. This is the ship's first visit here, but Capt. Geetes, her commander, has been here on several occasions. The Lake Furnas is a smaller ship than the Sartartia, having about 2500 tons capacity. Both ships are oil burners and are owned by the American Shipping Board.

THE GOSSIP.

I burn some joss-sticks every night, and as they burn I say, "Preserve me from the evil plight that Jinks is in this day!" For Jinks possessed the gossip's tongue, and every spiteful tale by him was far and farther flung, until the foul and grim was sure to make a hit, and baseless rumor seemed to him like proofs of holy writ. A man may thus traduce his friends in safety for a time, but soon or late his effort ends in a carnival of crime. And Jinks passed on some vicious yarns, as he was prone to do, concerning J. Adolphus Barnes, which tales were far from true. Alas, alas, my spirit shrinks from setting down this line; for J. Adolphus climbed on Jinks and skated down his spine. This J. Adolphus is a gent of mighty bones and thews, and when he for his victims went steel spikes were in his shoes. And Jinks, to spread his gossip vain, no longer blithely trots; he's lying on a bed of pain, all tied in sailors' knots. The doctor says he's but a wreck, who once wild rumors chased; his arms are round his neck, his legs around his waist. No neighbors seek his humble cot to say that Barnes was wrong; and people cry, "He merely got what he's invited long."

C. L. B. Cadets Attend Divine Service.

The Church Lads' Brigade Cadets under Lt.-Col. Goodridge together with a detachment of the Old Comrades attended service at the Cathedral yesterday afternoon the occasion being the opening of the C.M.B.C. His Lordship Bishop White was the preacher and gave an excellent address on discipline and character, which made a great impression upon the large congregation. He particularly appealed to the young men of the C.L.B. and C.M.B.C. to volunteer as priests of the Church. After the service the Brigade reformed and accompanied by His Lordship Bishop White marched back to the armoury via Gower and Cochrane Sts., Military and Harvey Roads. At the armoury His Lordship the Bishop gave the lads a short address, congratulating the Brigade upon its efficiency in all its branches and hoped that it would always keep up to the same high standard. Lt.-Col. Goodridge spoke briefly; and after the presentation of long service medals to some members of the band, the Brigade was dismissed.

Newfoundland Coal.

Dear Sir,—Having noticed with interest the many references appearing in the columns of the press from time to time regarding our coal areas, and the undoubted assurance that we have areas worthy of the best consideration, it seems surprising that there has not been done to develop our possibilities in years gone by. The most disinterested person of years past, cannot help but realize that something should be done now in order that we should no longer depend on outside sources for our coal supplies of the future.

People of this country who supported the St. George's Coal Fields in their effort to prove that our coal areas were worthy of development, deserve the gratitude of the whole country, for they have not only proven conclusively that we have coal in abundance, but that we possess in this little island some of the very highest grade bituminous coal that can be found anywhere in the world.

Take one example, the Jukes Seam the property of The St. George's Coal Fields, Limited, which gives the following analysis, made by Mr. G. T. Pollock, 57 Chancery Lane, London, England.

Moisture	3.036
Volatiles Matter	30.344
Fixed Carbon	60.142
Sulphur	1.963
Ash	4.515

Let us compare it with the requirements of a high grade Bee-hive coking coal. Leading authorities say that since a great proportion of coke produced in Bee-hive ovens is used for metallurgical purposes, it follows that the suitability of a coal for coking depends not alone on its physical structure, but on the absence of such impurities as sulphur. From a physical standpoint it has been demonstrated that coal, having in the neighbourhood of 32 per cent. volatile matter, gives the best results, and with coal of this composition, the proportion of gas content is about what is needed to maintain the heat of the oven, thus serving the fixed carbon and showing a high yield of coke to coal used; those having a higher volatile content, produce a coke which is brittle and spongy, lacking strength for metallurgical purposes, and show a lower yield of coke to coal used; those having a still lower volatile content produce a coke which is porous and weak and at a reduced yield, owing to some of the fixed carbon of the coal being burned to supply the necessary heat to the oven. Assuming a coal of about 33 per cent. volatile matter, so that there is required about 1½ tons of coal to produce a ton of coke, it will be found that the resulting coke usually contains a slightly reduced percentage of sulphur over that found in the raw coal. In brief coals adapted for Bee-hive coking are those in which the volatile matter is about 32 per cent., ash under 7 per cent., and sulphur not over 2 per cent.

Coals that are high in sulphur and ash may be brought within the limits of such devices as washers, jig or breakers, and with the gradual disappearance of the best coking coals, recourse to these will need to be more general in years to come. The coking quality of coal taken from the Jukes seam runs as high as 65.5 per cent., which from the above authoritative opinion makes it a coking coal of the highest quality, and one that is much sought after. What a great pity a rival station to that of North Sydney could not be located at LaPelle, a port very easy of access from the coal seam, and in addition would provide a sailing station for the North Atlantic; possessing a fine harbor which is ice free all the year round.

Whilst speaking of the possibilities of a coking station at LaPelle, the qualifications of coal for bunker use might be referred to. In the first instance "The amount of space in the hold of a ship allowable for storage is limited. If a coal running high in ash and moisture—both incombustibles and low in heat units is selected, it would require a greater tonnage of coal, and therefore more bunker space, than if a high grade coal was used. The essentials, therefore, for bunker coals are, that they be low in ash and moisture, about 2 per cent. in sulphur and high in thermal value. The Jukes, Howley and Cleary Seams are equally valuable for bunker coal, they comply with the above requirements, and have a thermal value of 871, which rates them collectively as individually as some of the finest coal procurable for bunkering ships. It may not be amiss to conclude by giving the qualifications of coal for Product Coking, or Gas Coal: A coal adaptable for this purpose must invariably be a coking coal, and must have other qualifications besides. Coal for such use must be low in sulphur and reasonably low in ash. The percentage of volatile matter according to present day practices is preferably 25 to 33 per cent. In general the chemical qualifications of a bituminous coal well adapted for by-product coking may be said to be: Volatile matter 25 to 33 per cent. Ash 4 to 8 per cent. Sulphur about 1½ per cent.

The references made to the qualifications necessary in bituminous coal for the purposes referred to, are obtained from the highest authorities and seeing that the analysis of our local coal compares so favourably with these requirements, it seems unfortunate indeed that immediate steps cannot be taken to bring to fruition the efforts undertaken by local Capital.

It is not because this coal is lacking in quantity or quality. WHAT IS IT? Yours truly,

The McInnis Tragedy.

TWO GIRLS ARRESTED.

Last week the North Sydney police arrested two girls Mary A. Edwards and Catherine Tobin, both living at Sydney Mines. When taken in charge by Chief Cowan both girls gave way to unbounded grief and wept copiously as they were being driven to North Sydney. On arrival there the suspects were given a room on the main floor of the goal in apartments away from the other prisoners, where they cried themselves to sleep. MacDonald who is held as being the person who drove the car that killed Miss McInnis, has recovered from the effects of the shock caused by his apprehension on a murder charge, and is now taking his position quite calmly. The defending counsel will have no trouble, it is said, in proving his client's innocence, and the latter awaits the enquiry hopefully. With the arrest of the girls named the police consider that they can now rest their case.

The following afternoon (Wednesday) the girls Edwards and Tobin, were admitted to bail, and mightily pleased they were when released. They will be used as witnesses for the prosecution when the case against MacDonald comes up for hearing.

Shave With Cuticura Soap The New Way Without Mug

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)

Codfish.—A few more schooners arrived this week laden with dry codfish, including half a dozen cargoes of Labrador. The latter fish shows a marked improvement in cure as compared with recent years, and is selling at $9.00 to $9.25 for No. 1 and $8.00 to $8.25 for No. 2. There is very little cullage here so far. The price of Shore fish in Oporto has been advanced 2½¢ this week and is now 77½¢ for No. 1 and 72½¢ for No. 2. The export this week amounted to 6687 quintals ashore. Local prices are unchanged $10.00 and $9.00.

Cod Liver Oil.—The market is tending lower. We do not hear of any dealers offering any more than $1.00 per gallon. There were a few transactions this week and the export mostly to New York amounted to 804 gallons. The Norwegian oil is coming into the New York market in larger volume than ever.

Cod Oil.—The fishermen are holding back what little they have this year with the hope of getting a better price. The foreign markets are all dull and there is no life in the situation. We quote $200 as the nominal price although we heard of sales at $220 which were made to fill contracts and are the exception. The exports this week were 12,991 gallons.

Lobsters.—We learn from the West Coast that more than half the pack of 1920 Lobsters is still held by the Packers there. They refused $30.00 a case last July and now there is no one who is willing to make them any kind of an offer. How the situation is going to resolve itself out, it is difficult to foresee. The market for tinned Lobster in New York is practically dead owing to the ban on luxuries in which class the Lobster stands prominent. It is impossible that things many improve and that there will be a better demand later, but there is no indication that it will come this side of the New Year. In St. John's to-day no one wants to buy Lobsters in quantity because they see no prospect of selling abroad. The normal price is $20.00, but no one is anxious to make a purchase at this figure.

Pork.—The recent advance in Hogs is attributed to the important decrease in stocks of Pork according to latest American advices. The exports to the European Continent are reported to be of good volume and show a steady increase during the past month. The advance which was equal to $4.00 per barrel on Pork, reacted $1.00 to $1.50 from the high point. The reaction seemed to be the result of a sharp break in the Corn Market which carried this grain to the lowest point for a long period. The fact seems to be, that there is an extraordinary good feed crop this year with a record corn crop, and unless the supply of live Hogs in the United States is small (as is reported) the conditions would seem favorable for the expectation of lower pork prices as the season progresses.

Beef.—The high grades of Beef such as Special Family and extra Family continue to show considerable firmness, which is said to be due to scarcity of the better grades of Corn fed steers. The other grades remain unchanged. The demand for cheap Beef is inactive according to latest cable reports Local movement of both Beef and Pork continues at a minimum owing to the uncertainty of the trade outlook. Special Family is $36.00, Extra Flank $34.00, Family $31.00, and Boneless $30.00 to $32.00 in the local market according to quality.

Flour.—The Fall Trade has set in and buyers are now taking hold of larger quantities. Everyone has been holding off till the last moment, but now purchases are very liberal, and has resulted in many mills being over-sold, and there is likely to be considerable delay in getting shipments forward. The European trade has been taking wheat in preference to flour, and this has created considerable strength in the wheat market, and reflected its strength on the flour market in Argentina and Australia the crops are reported in excellent conditions with the prospects of considerable quantities of wheat to be shipped from there in December and January. We hear of sales on the spot of Highest Manitoba Patents at $17.00 to $17.50, but there will be lower prices in November and December.

Sugar.—The F.C.B. contract is now keeping the sugar situation in an unchangeable condition, which will prevail till the balance of the fall. When consumption reaches a point when stocks are nearing the end, the Regulations will be lifted. When this period will arrive is hard to determine for the simple reason that the high price has the tendency to retard consumption and renders it difficult to judge the length of time the Government holdings will last. We understand that an import of 500 sacks of Light Brown sugar shortly due, will not be allowed to be landed.

Molasses.—Under the recently considered trade arrangement between Canada and the West Indies there is to be greater attention paid to the Molasses business than heretofore. Larger quantities are expected to be used next year, and greater efforts are to be made to popularize this class of food by selling it in smaller and better packages instead of the huge puncheons now in general use. The Fancy Molasses which contains all the sugar is meeting a greater demand than ever, and is a very much superior article to the "Choice" grade, the quality of which is going from bad to worse owing to the improved methods of manufacture, which now extracts all the sugar, and leaves the "black strap" which is only fit for the manufacture of rum. The above are extracted from one of our Canadian Contemporaries and shows what they have in view. The market here in Newfoundland is a little easier. We quote "Fancy" Molasses at $1.75 per gallon, and "Choice" at $1.55 per gallon in wholesale lots.

Potatoes.—There is no change in the situation. Home-grown potatoes are selling under $4.00 and in the outports are offered as low as $3.00 the barrel. The local crop is excellent and the potatoes are dry and large. The P.E.I. potatoes will be arriving in a few weeks, and will sell at the prevailing low prices. The St. John's price for local at the stores is $4.00 to $4.50 for the 180 pounds barrel.

MRS. ROSE E. TUTTLE, of Portland, Maine, who says she feels like she has taken a new lease on life since taking Tanlac. Her rheumatism and other troubles have been overcome.

"Tanlac is the grandest medicine on earth, and I just wish it was so every woman who suffers like I did could know what it will really do," said Mrs. Rose E. Tuttle, of 293 Congress Street, Portland, Maine, recently.

"No one will ever know how I suffered," she said. "My stomach was so disordered I had to be very careful about what I ate. Potatoes and other starchy foods would completely upset me. Frequently after meals I would have terrible pains in my stomach, my breath would get short, and I would have a depressed and uneasy feeling about my heart. Often I was troubled with pains under my shoulder blades and I frequently had bilious attacks.

"I also suffered with rheumatism, and this, together with my other troubles, was simply wrecking my health. I felt weak, nervous and run-down all the time, and seemed to be losing weight and strength every day. My sleep was poor, and often I was in such misery I wouldn't close my eyes all night long.

"Before I finished my first bottle of Tanlac I realized I had at last found the right medicine. My condition improved daily as I continued taking Tanlac, my appetite picked up and I was soon eating three hearty meals every day without suffering in the least afterwards. That horrible indigestion has disappeared, I am no longer nervous, I sleep soundly all night and feel splendidly all during the day. My strength has been increased until I can now do all my housework with ease. I am praising Tanlac every opportunity I have."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Paradise by Mrs. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gullies by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph, Salmonier by Mrs. J. Gushue, in Millertown by Ex-Plots Valley Royal Stores, Ltd., in Flat Island by William Samson, in Jamestown by Christopher Haines, and in Lewisporte by Uriah Freake, advt.

port, Capt. MacKinnon, from Panama for San Francisco, which left here yesterday afternoon for Corinto, caught fire, but arrived at that port this morning. The fire was still burning but no loss of life is reported, though passengers, it is said, lost most of their luggage.

WILL BE SIGNED TO-NIGHT.
RIGA, Oct. 11. Polish and Bolshevik delegates engaged in negotiations here, will sign an armistice agreement at Brockhead House at seven o'clock to-night, and hostilities will cease six days after signing. The convention armistice will run for twenty-five days, and forty-eight hours' notice will be necessary before either side can legally break it.

MONKEY BITES MONKEY.
LONDON, Oct. 11. A turn for the better was reported in the condition of King Alexander of Greece, who has been ill, as a result of having been bitten by a monkey several days ago.

FLOODS IN FRANCE.
PARIS, Oct. 11. Torrential rains in almost all parts of France have sent the rivers beyond their banks and have resulted in heavy property damage. The Garonne and Tarn overflowed, and reports state that many domestic animals and much other property were destroyed.

DENIES OCCUPATION.
PARIS, Oct. 11. The Polish Government disavows the occupation of Vilna by Gen. Zeligowski and his troops, according to advices received by the Foreign Office here this morning.

Salvage Ship Arrives.
S.S. BASAN BROUGHT TO PORT. S.S. Daisy left here for Trepansey at 11 o'clock Saturday night where in conjunction with the s.s. Portia she took in tow the s.s. Basan, the three ships leaving Trepansey yesterday at 3 p.m. The weather all the way proved very stormy and only by the most careful navigation on the part of Capt. Couet and Connors did the ships make port. Several times on the way along the tow lines of both ships gave way. However port was safely reached this forenoon and the Basan was left at anchorage near the King's Wharf.

Obituary.

EX-PRIVATE JAMES McGRATH.

There passed away at his parents' home, Central Street, on Friday morning last, Ex-Private James McGrath. Deceased was amongst the first to join when the call for Overseas came and he saw quite a lot of active service being severely wounded in the "1st of July drive." He was invalided home about a year before the armistice, and for a time he was engaged cab driving on the West End stand until illness forced him to abandon all work. Everything that medical skill could do was availed of but all to no purpose, and on Friday last he passed peacefully to the great beyond. Surviving are father and mother, five sisters and five brothers to whom the Telegram express sincere sympathy. Interment took place yesterday afternoon, the funeral being one of the largest seen in the city for some time, a contingent of cabs from the West End stand closing the procession.

Great Value of Labrador

London, Ont., Oct. 6.—That Labrador is a portion of Canada, that going to prove of immense value to the Dominion, was the declaration at the Masonic Temple here last night, of Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, famous Labrador missionary, and medical man, in inaugurating a campaign for funds in support of his humanitarian work.

More hospitals are needed for the sick and money is needed in order to equip these, declared Mr. Grenfell.

Dr. H. L. Paddon, assistant to Dr. Grenfell, said that one of the greatest scandals in Labrador is that pulp lands are held up.

"This would not be the case if we had a representative in Parliament," he declared.

233 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Disabled Ship Delco Towed to Port.

S.S. Nyanza, having in tow the disabled steamer Delco arrived in port at 7 o'clock Saturday evening. The Nyanza picked up the Delco on Wednesday evening not far from where she left her earlier in the week when the tow lines parted. The weather was very rough and some difficulty was experienced in getting the new 15 inch hawser made fast to the Delco. It did not, however, stand more than a half hour's strain, so that the chain cables of the Delco were brought in to commission, and with these and a 1 1/2 inch wire hawser, the ships were nursed safely to port. Arriving off the narrows at 6 o'clock Capt. Martin of the Nyanza did not think it wise to enter until he got some assistance in order to steer the Delco, so the Ingraham and John Green were sent for and getting made fast to the disabled ship the narrow passage was safely navigated and the ships anchored at 7 o'clock. The Nyanza berthed at A. J. Harvey & Co. yesterday morning and took on board 100 tons of coal sailing for New York yesterday evening. The Delco is now berthed at Harvey & Co.'s. The Delco left Philadelphia on September 19th bound to Copenhagen with a cargo of coal and oil, and from the outset she experienced very heavy weather. The winds were mostly westerly and northerly with mountainous seas and the ship received quite a drubbing. On September 29th when about 500 miles from this coast the rudder was carried completely away and the vessel became unmanageable. The crew rigged a jury rudder which lasted about 12 hours, when it also was carried away by the heavy seas. In the meantime the S.O.S. had been sent out and on Friday morning, the 1st of October, the Nyanza responded to the call for help. She used up all her hawsers and was forced to make this port, leaving the Delco to do the best possible until her return. The Nyanza had 2 sets of "bits" and two sets of chocks carried away, whilst the Delco had her windlass disabled. The Delco is commanded by Capt. W. T. Coad, whilst the first officer is Mr. Wm. Crowell. The ship is owned by Moore and McCormack, New York, and Furness Withy and Co. are her agents whilst in this port.

Re-Opening of Roller Rink.

The Prince's Rink will re-open this evening for roller skating, after a close from this sport of nearly five years. Mr. Charles Bulley will be in charge, and with several capable assistants the needs of patrons will not be neglected. Four hundred pairs of skates are available and should the rink be patronized more so than in the past, it is the intention of the management to order more. This evening the C.C.C. Band will furnish the music, the T.A. and Terra Nova Bands have also been secured and will play during the season in conjunction with the former. Much time and attention has been given by the management in making the floor in A1 condition. Several new floor spaces have been rebuilt and the surface for the rollers has been coated with cod oil and resin which has worked out very satisfactorily. During the season it is the management's intention to hold races, hockey games and other amusements which will be heard of with interest by all.

Work at Grand Bank.

Considerable construction work is going on at Grand Bank, Newfoundland, judging by the many shipments of material, etc., going from here to that place says the North Sydney Herald. At present one large schooner is taking on board at the terminus wharf, a large quantity of cement and other building material which will be used in the construction of a new branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce as well as a new pier being built there by the Government.

One thing essential in your Winter Coat is QUALITY. One has to wear their Winter Coat for many months, and to stand against this you require the best of material in it.

We have carefully selected our stock of Winter Coatings and feel we have goods that merit your approval. You can purchase enough excellent material to make a coat for $24.00, and if you wish we can make it up for you, and deliver the finished garment in a week or less if necessary. The material is equal in quality to that in coats which retail at $70.00 to $90.00.

We ask you to come in and see the goods, examine them, get samples and prices, compare with others, and come back and purchase the goods.
