The large and increasing sales of these PERFECTED GLASSES is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our celebrated Perfect Spectacles by the residents of this locality. With full knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

On the 21st inst., Mr. Jacob Large, of Elms, was kicked in the face by a colt. The chin and upper lip were badly lacerated, several teeth knocked out, and the upper jaw fractured.

Rev. John Smiley, M.A., of Elora, was presented with an address and a purse containing $20 last week, previous to his taking his departure for another circuit. Numerous other presents also bore testimony to the esteem in which he was held.

DR. McTAGGART.—We learn that Dr. McTaggart, of the Hamilton Infirmary, will again visit Guelph on Friday the 25th of June, and will remain until the evening of Saturday the 26th, at Coulson's Hotel, where he can be consulted by the afflicted. None should lose the opportunity of seeing him. He is highly recommended by the Press and medical men. dw

THE WORLD OVER.

One Armstrong, a carpenter of Montreal, has fallen heir to $75,000 in Ireland.

The Orangemen of Montreal will celebrate the 12th with a picnic, instead of a procession.

The city of Charleston has had no rain for three months, and is now enduring a drought beyond anything remembered in that locality.

The Chicago journals already propose a jubilee for 1870, to be held in that mushroom town. They announce that it must be far larger than the Boston one.

Com. Vanderbilt has leased for the summer one flat of the Royal Hotel, at Niagara; and it is reported that Mr. Bonner is also going to stay awhile there.

A sausage vender of New Orleans has procured the arrest of all the neighboring butchers because they barked and mewed when customers came to buy of him.

Councillor M. A. Hearn was throtted by Alderman J. Hearn at a late meeting of the Corporation Finance Committee of Quebec. He has sued his assailant for $5,000 damages.

On Monday last, while one of the Messrs. Story, of Goderich, and an apprentice were digging for a tank in the back yard of their shop they discovered, about two feet from the surface, a small iron pot, which contained $51 in gold and silver.

There is likely to be serious damage done about Listowel by careless shooting. Last week a ball lodged in Mr. Tremain's house, having passed close to his son's head, and this week a cow grazing in a field hard by the village was seriously injured by buckshot.

A Norwegian who settled in Detroit about two years since found, among a party of his old neighbors who arrived by the Cleveland boat a few days ago, and who had passed close to his pen, a head and legs were completely severed from the body, and scattered around the track.

An old resident of the vicinity, named Davis Cline, while walking along the track of the G.W.R. near Ontario station, on Tuesday evening, was struck by a passing train and horribly mutilated, two trains having passed over his body. The head and legs were completely severed from the body, and scattered around the track.

After Mr. Raymond's death there was found lying on his desk an unfinished editorial paragraph referring to Major-General McDowell, probably the last words that flowed from his pen. It breaks off abruptly, leaving the sentence incomplete, as if the writer had been suddenly interrupted at his work and called away—a sadly suggestive incident.

SMALL THINGS.—The Galt Reporter says:—In noticing the "Improvements in Guelph," the Advertiser pays particular attention to the fact that the bar-room of one of the Hotels has been "painted and renovated." Our friend is very minute in his researches. Perhaps he will devote a column in his next issue to the last stake-and-ride fence that has been erected in his flourishing clachan.

MASONIC.—The union of all the Masonic bodies in Nova Scotia was effected on Wednesday night, under the name of the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia. Hon. Alex. Keith, President of the Legislative Council, was elected Grand Master; A. A. Stevenson, Grand Master of Canada, presided. At the installation ceremonies six hundred Masons walked in procession to St. Paul's Church, where religious services were held.

ACCIDENT TO DR. FRAZER.—We regret to learn that Dr. Frazer, of Fontibell, for many years M. P. for Welland, met with a serious accident at Port Robinson on Tuesday last. In turning his buggy, the wheel crumpled and the heavy vehicle was overturned upon him, bruising him very severely. When picked up he was unconscious, but had recovered slightly on Tuesday evening. His physicians considered his condition precarious.

A NEW PATENT.—Mr. Jas. Braash, of Linwood, county of Waterloo, has obtained a patent for a machine for the manufacture of horse-shoes. It is called the "Ontario Horse-shoe Maker." It turns the shoe, cuts the groove, and punches the nail holes, and it is estimated that with three men to attend it, it will make from 800 to 1,000 shoes per hour. Mr. Braash is about to remove to Galt and devote his attention exclusively to the working of this invention, by which he expects to be able to supply shoes at only a little more than the cost of the iron.

Grand Social Pic-nic.

A day more favorable than Thursday for the holding of a pic-nic could not be desired. About the time for assembling the sky became overcast, but the weather performed better than it promised, and the afternoon was beautiful. Whether the threatening aspect of the clouds deterred any, living at a distance, from making their appearance it is impossible to say, but we should imagine that the third annual pic-nic in aid of the aged and orphans of the St. Joseph's Hospital was no less successful than either of its predecessors. There could not have been less than two thousand persons of every age and creed on the ground. The country contributed a heavy quota, and the youths and maidens, and old folks too, seemed to enjoy themselves as they only can to whom a holiday, with such an attractive accompaniment as they saw on Thursday, is a novelty. The committee must have had hard work to make the arrangements they did; but Nature worked with them in their efforts to please, for it would be difficult to find a more attractive spot for holding a pic-nic than the grounds near the Hospital. The crowd poured in from different gateways, some on foot, but the majority being taken from town in waggons or carriages which were as busy all afternoon as the cabs at the Falls on an excursion day. Union Jacks, on lofty staffs, fluttering in a gentle breeze, invited attention at every turn the visitor took, while on the summit of the hill, shaded by the dark green foliage of the maples, Guelph chivalry was walking about in holiday attire, and the beauty of Guelph fluttered around decked out with a scrupulous regard to the latest fashions. Merry peals of laughter from the depths of the innocent heart of childhood were echoed by the woods—the little ones, at least, were taking all the comfort and amusement that were to be found. At one end of a long booth or tent ladies were dispensing provisions, and it was proved that no amount of fun will frighten away hunger, for the edibles found ready and extensive sale. At the other end were exposed to view the articles contributed for the Bazaar, a number of them being of considerable value, while in the middle ladies and gentlemen, standing behind improvised bars, supplied patrons with raspberry, lemonade and other soft drinks. A few paces distant was the tent where those fond of dancing might enjoy their favorite pastime. The music was excellent, and it may be imagined that the musicians were not spared, for no sooner had one party finished a quadrille or cotillon than a fresh party took their place. Mr. Ferguson, the blind piper, was present, and favored as many as could crowd round to hear him, with a comic song and a tune or two on the pipes. Besides those who amused themselves as mentioned above, there were men knock-kicking a foot-ball twice as big as the head of any one of them, and shouting like mad; and there were girls in swings suspended between trees, enjoying themselves as much as anybody. At short intervals the execution of a piece of music, by Lawrence's Cornet Band, gave fresh animation to the scene. The excitement was considerable when the drawing of tickets for the Bazaar began. Many, of course, got blanks, and were more or less disappointed according to their different natures, while the unavailability, to their sex or condition, of the articles drawn by some who held numbers, provoked the usual amount of witticism and banter. The Post Office was established, and the owner of "a mind diseased" could have it "ministered" to for the small consideration of five cents. Late in the evening the party returned to town, and the young folks filled the Town Hall, to finish their dance, Watt's Quadrille Band supplying the music. The amount of the profits has not yet been ascertained, but it is estimated that they will at least be $600.

A Bloody Affray in St. Catharines.

On Tuesday afternoon a terrible encounter took place in St. Catharines, on board the schooner Welland, between the captain and mate of the vessel. It appears that the captain, whose name is Coolahan, and who had been indulging pretty freely in liquor, went into the cabin about six o'clock to enjoy his evening repast. While seated at the table, the mate, whose name is Norton, came in, and was immediately ordered by the captain to take off his hat. The mate replied that he would not remove his hat at the command of anybody, or words to that effect. This at once aroused the captain's ire, and he forthwith launched a knife at Mr. Norton. The mate then clutched a slight scuffle ensued, without injury to either. The mate then sat down to his supper, when the cowardly captain stole up behind him, got his arm around Norton's neck, and holding him fast in that position, savagely bit a large piece completely out of his lower lip. The piece was entirely severed, as though it had been done with a sharp knife, leaving a ghastly wound. The mate quickly freed himself from the deadly embrace of his chief, and ran to procure a weapon. He soon returned, armed with a revolver, and finding the door locked, fired several shots through the door, but the captain being hit twice in the neck, and once in the leg. The mate then got an axe, smashed in the door, and gave Captain Coolahan a tremendous and well-deserved castigation, but did not make any further use of deadly weapons. The mate afterwards had his injuries attended to by Dr. Goodman, who skillfully restored the piece of flesh to the man's lip, by sewing it on, and is sanguine that the operation may prove successful. The captain and mate were subsequently arrested.

A Converted Jew Elopes with a Young Girl from Kincardine.

A telegram from Galt to the Hamilton Times says: Letters and telegrams from Kincardine have been received here making inquiries about Joseph Stearn, a converted Jew, who was baptized and received into the communion of Knox's Church, Galt, and occasionally officiated as a lay preacher at the revival meetings during the past winter. He has been conducting revival services at Tiverton, Southampton, and Kincardine, but on Tuesday, the 15th inst., he disappeared from the latter place, taking along with him a girl named Moran. The girl's parents followed them to Goderich, and found that they had stopped all night at the Matilda House as man and wife. Stearn is of medium height, stout build, black hair and whiskers, face red and blotched as if it had been frozen, and marked Jewish features. He speaks a number of languages, is well versed in Scripture, and has lately been quite successful as a revival preacher. When he left Kincardine he said that he was taking the girl to Galt as a servant in the household of the Rev. Mr. Smith, but this was a fabrication.

The Globe gives the following additional particulars regarding the heartless proceedings of this consummate hypocrite:—Stearn took up his residence with a doctor at Tiverton, and it so happened that near the doctor's residence, an innocent young girl about 17 years of age lived, who attended Joseph's meetings. The girl belongs to a most respectable family and is good-looking, and Stearn "set eyes upon her." He courted her and promised to marry her; but a stumbling-block was in the way. He said he belonged to a Presbyterian denomination, and could not consummate the marriage till his three months' probation were completed. What Joseph meant by his probation does not well appear, nor does three months seem a very long period to wait; but Joseph thought differently and suggested to the innocent girl, that she should leave her father's house and go with him. No doubt this suggestion was backed by many pious arguments, and these at last prevailed, and the poor girl left her father's house and went away with the scoundrel. He represented to her, that he was going to take her to Mitchell, where he was to leave her with a certain Reverend gentleman. Instead of proceeding to Mitchell, however, Joseph took her to Goderich, where they stayed together at a hotel, and at last the villainous scheme was consummated, by the poor girl's seduction. They left Goderich and arrived in Toronto last Thursday and stayed that night in a hotel near the station. On Friday Stearn went out for the purpose, as he stated, of proceeding to the college, to attend to some business there, which would detain him till Saturday. Saturday came, but brought no Joseph along with it; Sunday passed, and so did Monday. Then it was seen that the contemptible scoundrel had decamped, leaving his poor victim in a state bordering on despair. The facts came to the ears of Capt. Prince, who humanely sent the broken-hearted creature from the hotel, and placed her in the hands of Sergeant Major McPherson, at No. 2 Police Station, who kindly took her to his own home, where she now is, till her friends are communicated with.

The Terrible Explosion at the Farnale Colliery in South Wales.

The explosion which took place in the Farnale colliery on Thursday morning, the 10th inst., has not been attended with such fatal results as was first anticipated, but still is of such a character as to stamp it as a most appalling one, inasmuch as fifty-three poor fellows have been hurried into eternity without a moment's warning, and who but a short time before were in the enjoyment of health and vigor. The shaft is about 200 yards in length, and the colliery is divided into three districts, namely, the Rhondda, Blaueiloch and Duffryn, and at the time of the explosion there were nearly 600 men in the three districts. The explosion took place in the Duffryn district, and upwards of 100 men were at work when the catastrophe occurred, which is now supposed to have been occasioned by a large fall of the roof, and the large escape of gas by some means became ignited, and those who were uninjured escaped to the surface. Up to last night forty-four bodies were brought to the surface, some of whom were frightfully burned, while others appear to have died of suffocation. The recovery of the bodies was prevented in the afternoon by some part of the works taking fire, to extinguish which it was found necessary to wall in the fire, and this is a matter of course, occupies some little time, and from yesterday evening up to ten o'clock this morning no bodies were brought to the surface.

He reminded the army that this was the anniversary of the battle of Solferino, and said he was pleased to see that they had not forgotten the great cause for which they fought ten years ago. The Emperor continued as follows: "I revive the remembrance of battles fought by your fathers and yourselves, for our recent victories are the history of the progress of civilization. FROM CUBA.

Horrible Slaughter at Puerto Principe.

New York, June 25th.—A special from Cuba to the Sun says that a great number of families from Puerto Principe abandoned that city together, and guarded by a force of Patriots, encamped in the woods. When Latona, a Spanish general, knew that these families were almost unprotected, he attacked them at night with a large force and slaughtered a large number of women, children and old people. The news given to the Captain General shows that the number of those whose throats were cut was 2,000. The barbaric monster excused himself by saying the night was dark, the place obscure, and he could not see so favorable an opportunity.

Affairs in Cuba—Desertion, &c.

New York, June 25th.—Recent dates from Cuba state that a considerable number of regular Spanish soldiers have deserted to the Patriot army. There is also a great deal of sickness among them. Transit of Emigrants by the G. T. R.

The transit of emigrants from Quebec en route to their several destinations by the Grand Trunk Railway, arriving as they do, sometimes a thousand at one time, requires the employment of considerable rolling stock for their transport, and that by special trains. Already nearly 5,000 emigrants have been conveyed this season across the lines of the Grand Trunk, and we learn that better accommodation and facilities have been provided them than formerly. To meet the requirements of the above traffic, the Railway Company have had a large number of "conductors' cars," fitted up as passenger cars, equal, if not superior, in accommodation to the usual second class cars. The number of passengers to each car is limited to about one half that usually carried by the regular cars of the same size. The employment of the much so-called "Box Cars" of previous years, is thus guarded against. Mr. Spion, the local superintendent of the Montreal and Western districts of the line, has grants, which in transit along the line... Instructions have also been issued to train and station employees to do everything in their power to supply the emigrants with what is really necessary for their comfort on route, and to take every precaution for protecting such trains by proper signals, while running or when standing at or between stations. Officials, before starting with their train, must see that each car is provided with two water buckets, and a tin drinking cup for each bucket, and a supply of good fresh water must be kept in each car without fail. Each car must also be provided with two lamps, which are to be kept burnt during the night. These trains are to be stopped at almost every station, and sufficient time must be allowed for the emigrants to get out of the cars for necessary purposes.—Montreal Witness.

RECEIPTS OF THE ATLANTIC CABLE.

It is instructive to trace the gradual increase in the receipts of the Atlantic Cable, in proportion to the reduction of rates for transmission. From July 23rd to October 31st, 1866, under the £20 tariff, the daily average number of messages was 20, and the receipts £905. From November 1st, 1866, to November 1st, 1867, under the £10 tariff, the daily average number of messages was 64, and of receipts £577. From December 1st, 1867, to August 1st, 1868, under the £5 5s, the average of messages was 131, and the receipts £635, while from Sept. 1st, 1868, to May 31st, 1869, under the £3 7s 6d tariff the messages averaged 218, and the cash received £253. So that with the successive reduction of rates, the public have been better served, and the exchequer of the company better supplied. The increase of the rate of the receipts has not been less than $50,000 a year, and the annual rate of messages from 1,177 to 68,234 as between the dearest and cheapest periods.

SINGULAR ARREST.

An arrest of rather a singular character took place the other day at St. Henri, about nine miles from Quebec. Two gentlemen just arrived from France were arrested at the instance of the priest of the parish charged with selling him a copy of the New Testament. No fine was ultimately imposed, but the one guilty of selling a copy of the Gospel was condemned to pay nearly $6 in costs. It is also positively stated that one of them, who are both Colporteurs of the French Canadian Missionary Society, was arrested without a warrant. Influential gentlemen in Montreal are determined, it is said, to have the matter fully investigated, and legal measures taken against all concerned in the extraordinary proceeding. It is to be regretted in the present state of political feeling among the British of Lower Canada that a religious question should arise calculated to stir not only their anger, but also that of every Protestant in the Dominion.

FENIANISM NOT DEAD IN IRELAND.

On the person of a prisoner lately taken to Dublin, were found letters calling upon his countrymen to join the Irish army. The following was also found upon him:—"Soldiers of the R. Catholic, your services are required for soldiers of Christ. Your oath and wicked promise to serve heretics is not binding at this critical period. You must officer your countrymen—take your arms, &c.—come into town and city, and enter all gunshops, provision shops, hotels—take cooked food, gold, silver, arms and the best horses, everywhere. Force the shopmen and constabulary into the ranks.—Prince of Green."

The British Parliament have been inquiring for the reason why the cost of the Abyssinian expedition was so greatly exceeded the estimates. At the time of the war, the Government estimated its expenses to be under $30,000,000, but it is now found that they were nearly double the sum.

In 1851 India and the colonies imported British goods to the value of $100,000,000 something over one-fourth the whole export trade of the United Kingdom. In 1866 their consumption of British manufactures amounted to $305,000,000, thus tripling her imports in fifteen years. In 1851 the raw material imported by Great Britain from her colonies reached $160,000,000, while in 1866 it reached $370,000,000. This shows the money value of the colonies to England.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

MARKET-DAY AT SHAWNEE—THE TWO TRAVELERS—AN IMPORTANT CONVERSATION OVERHEARD—SCENES AT THE BANK.

"I'm safe," he muttered. "I may count Cleve's mine, and to-morrow afternoon I'll go up and take possession. I haven't been asked to the grand wedding that all the Strath is going to, but I will have something as pleasant as that, and a long sight more profitable. Oatley, my horse."

"Dinner is in, sir. They are just sitting down to it," said the landlord, who stood in the doorway.

"Don't want dinner to-day, Jobson. I'm in a great hurry. I must be home early. And with a wave of the hand, McQuirk passed round to the stable yard to receive his horse from the hands of the ostler.

"You said stony buffer," muttered the landlord. "If everybody was like you on market day, my horse would get purly on."

Notwithstanding his inward disgust, mine host managed to look quiet pleasant when the factor came riding out under the archway and gave him a parting nod as he moved away down the street.

Just at that moment the roll of wheels was heard, a horse was blown, and the coach from the south, laden with travellers, came rattling round the corner, and entering the market place, pulled up at the inn door.

Down they tumbled from the roof, out they poured from the interior, and hastened with alacrity into the parlor to eat the dinner which had been prepared for them, while the horses were being changed—the more experienced among them knowing that the time given for mastication was something of the shortest, and that if they were to get anything like the worth of their half-crown, they would require to be sharp in their action.

The group of travellers that day seemed to be much about the usual stamp—commercial gents, students, lawyers' clerks, sportsmen, and the like. As we have to do with but two of them, we shall let the rest pass, and direct particular attention to the couple we have indicated.

One of the two was a shabby dressed individual, with an air not for a moment to be mistaken for that of a gentleman. His face had what might be called a knowing cast, got only through a career of questionable character, as if he and the world in its respectable phase had been long acquainted.

The other was a short, stout, middle-aged man, very sunburned, and ruddy as if from constant exposure to the weather. His dress and appearance gave sufficient token that he was a sailor, probably a sea-captain.

In two minutes or less the announcement was made that time was up, and the coach would start that minute. Whereupon, amid many indignant exclamations, a rush was made for the street and the room was almost immediately cleared of all but the two men we have alluded to, who continued to converse the while on their plates with steady determination.

Presently, the landlord's rubicund face looked in at the open door.

"Is you gentlemen gawn wi' the coach?" he inquired.

"No," answered the showily-dressed individual.

"Yes," roared the sea-faring man, with his mouth full.

"Haste ye, then, sir, or ye'll lose yer seat."

"Nonsense, sir. I haven't had my dinner yet. The coach daren't start till I have had my dinner."

"But it will start, sir. It canna stay a moment about its time."

"That's humbug. I was told it would wait here for the passengers to dine, and I'm not going to rise half-fed."

"Very well, sir, ye canna blame me if ye are left in the lurch."

"No fear of my blaming anybody, for I won't be left in the lurch."

"There, I tell ye, sir," shouted the landlord. "The coach is awa'."

The sea captain—for we have rightly divined his profession and standing—dropped his knife and fork, and sat staring at the landlord in consternation, listening at the same time to the retreating sound of the coach wheels. The landlord stood staring at him in turn, till the belated traveller rushed to the open window and thrust out his head and shoulders just in time to see the coach dash round the corner.

"Confound them, how durst they do a thing like this!" he roared. "Harkee, landlord, I'll raise an action of damages against every one of you. See if I don't, and make you pay sweetly for this trick."

"Beggins yer pardon for sayin' sae, sir; it was yer ain fault," remarked the innkeeper.

"My fault, Boniface? How dare you stand there and say it was my fault—answer me that, Boniface!"

"Bonny-face!" echoed mine host, reddening like a peony. "I dinna like nic-names, sir. As to my face, it may be bonny or no; I canna tell; but it's just as my Maker made it."

"What infernal stupidity!" roared the sea captain. "Don't you know that Boniface is another name for innkeeper?"

"No I didna. Oh, very well, if that's a' sae be it. But I will say that this is a' your fault, sir, for I came and warned ye that the coach was gawn, and ye wanted heed me. I tak' this gentleman here to witness if I didna."

"Unquestionably you called him," said the person appealed to.

"Yes, when I had'n't well begun my dinner. I was told the coach stopped till dinner was had, and how can a man be expected to swallow a plotting hot dinner like this in the dog days in ten minutes? On board ship, sir, we take two hours."

"Two hours! Lord help us, sir. Did you think the coach wad stop here for two hours?"

"Well, not exactly, but I expected half-an-hour at the least. And here I am left here like a ship in a calm. Lost the breeze, by Jove, and must stay here where I am till another tide. Well, confound it; since it is so I'll make myself comfortable at any rate—bring me a bottle of wine, and I'll have my after-dinner snooze in that old bulk of a chair. Nothing like making your berth snug when you are in it."

HEADACHE—How many ladies, both young and old, who are abject slaves to Headache and Neuralgia, making them unfit to enjoy society, rendering life almost a burden, and robbing them of beauty, youth, and amiability of temper, for who can avoid looking haggard and old when the brain is crased with pain. Who can deny the fact that disease accompanied by pain is a greater ravager of beauty than time? J. Briggs' Alligator will cure Headache and Neuralgia in a trice, and all will hail with delight this never-failing remedy, which is the best yet known to relieve pain. Sold by druggists and country merchants—Dr. J. Briggs & Co., proprietors, 208 Broadway, N. Y., and No. 6 King-st., West Toronto. Sold by E. Harvey & Co., Guelph.

MASONIC.—The Orangeville Advertiser says: We have great pleasure in being able to state that a lodge of Free Masons has been organized here, called the "Harris Lodge," in honor of the Grand Secretary, Thomas B. Harris, Esq., Hamilton. Its meetings are held on the first Tuesday of every month. Officers—S. H. McKittrick, W. M.; John Fleisher, Senior Warden; George Irwin, Junior Warden. We have heard that quite a large number seek admission to the new lodge, and it is likely to be strong in numbers before next year.

There are many Swedish emigrants at Point Levi brought out by Canadian steamers. They are unable to leave, and are on the point of starvation. The Swedish Consul applied at the Emigration Office to send them on or get the Steamship Company to do so, but the department could do nothing. He says that foreign vessels bringing pauper emigrants were compelled to forward them to the port of the company?

This really superior remedy should be in the possession of every family, as it is only one of its kind of a recent cold will afford immediate relief, while cases of long standing and of apparently insurmountable character readily yield to its powerful soothing and curative properties. Its universal adaptation to the wants of mankind make it an indispensable necessity in every household. The Balsamic virtues of the Wild Evergreen as an agent in the cure of the numerous diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Chest, which always in our ever varying climate prevail to a greater or less degree are well known, but the power of relieving, healing and during these diseases is enhanced when by scientific principles it is combined with other ingredients of equal value as healing agents. Until recently that terrible disease, Consumption, has been considered an affliction beyond the reach of medicine, or the healing art. But a new era in the management of Pulmonary Diseases seems to be dawning upon the scientific world, and, since many distinguished physicians have acknowledged that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED, few there are who attempt to controvert their opinion. SALMON FISHING.—The fishing in Gaspe is the best this season that has been for the last thirty years. One gang of nets at the Peninsula caught 63 salmon on Monday last, another gang 47, the fish being of a much larger size than usual. The cod fishery on the coast is much better than last season. One firm, having 13 boats, landed in one day 108 drafts of fish, the fish also being larger than former years at this season. All our whaling vessels seven in number, have left for the Labrador and Newfoundland fishery with the exception of one, which will carry on the fishery between the north shore and Gaspe.

ERYSIPELAS OR ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE.—It is a spreading inflammation, characterized by a redness of the skin, accompanied by a sensation of heat and itching, and more or less a constitutional derangement with swelling of the subcutaneous cellular tissues. Every part of the body is liable to erysipelas inflammation, but it most frequently appears on the face, legs and feet. Females are more subject to it than males. After a short time small vesicles, similar to those produced by blisters, present themselves. They are filled with a thin watery fluid, and are a great source of annoyance until destroyed. Dr. J. Briggs' Ailventor is a never-failing remedy. For sale by E. Harvey & Co., Guelph.

BISHOP STRACHAN MEMORIAL CHURCH.—The corner stone of the Bishop Strachan Memorial Church at Cornwall, was laid with appropriate religious services on Thursday, by the Lord Bishop of Ontario. Besides the Bishop and Archdeacon, there were fourteen other clergymen present. The services were of an interesting and impressive character.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.
 The necessity of a due proportion of iron in the blood is well known to all medical men; when it becomes reduced from any cause whatever, the whole system suffers, the weakest point being first attacked, and a feeling of languor, lassitude and "all-goneness" pervades the system. Stimulants only afford temporary relief, and have the same effect as giving a tired horse the whip instead of oats. The true remedy is to supply the blood with the necessary quantity of iron. This can be done by using the PERUVIAN SYRUP, a protected solution of the protoxide of iron, which is so prepared that it assimilates at once with the blood, giving strength, vigor and new life to the whole system.

To take medicine to cure diseases occasioned by a deficiency of iron in the blood, without restoring to the system, is like trying to repair a building when the foundation is gone.

An eminent divine says: "I have been using the Peruvian Syrup for some time past—it gives me new vigor, buoyancy of spirits, elasticity of muscle."

Pamphlets containing certificates of cures, and recommendations from some of the most eminent physicians, clergymen and others, will be sent free to any address.

The genuine has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass. Sold by all druggists.
