PREFACE

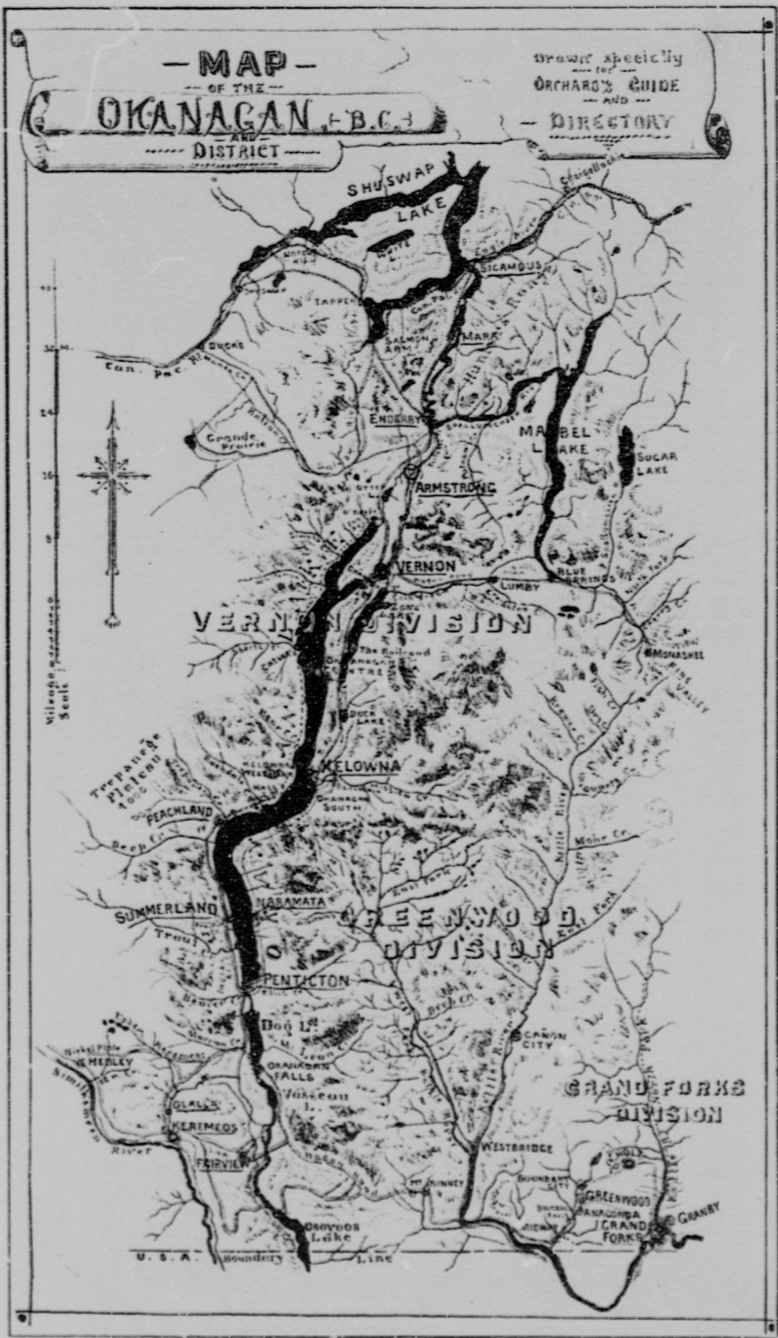

In bringing this Guide and Directory before the public the author wishes it distinctly understood that he does not claim for it absolute immunity from error, for the subject matter is derived from many sources, and even since the work of compiling it commenced slight changes have taken place in all parts of the Valley. Moreover, this being the first edition, it is only natural that some omissions may have occurred, and the author would be pleased to receive any suggestions regarding such, so that they may be rectified in future issues.

Hitherto, those seeking information respecting the Okanagan Valley have been compelled to search through a miscellaneous assortment of documents, and it is to avoid this inconvenience that the present work has been compiled. It only remains to thank the many friends who by the kindly assistance of their knowledge and experience have made this work not only possible but a pleasure, and to express the hope that they, as well as the public generally, may find it of some practical use.

The following is a list of the names of the persons who have been named in the various chapters of this book. The names are given in the order in which they appear in the text. The Okanagan Valley

IN the "early days"—the "days of '49"—the great rush to the gold-diggings in California brought a motley crowd to the western slopes. Men of almost every nationality, class and creed, fought their way through difficulties and dangers in their eagerness to get rich quickly; much in the way that they do today, only, perhaps, with less method. Shortly after this, in 1858, gold was discovered in the alluvial sands of the Fraser and Thompson rivers, and again in 1863 the same excited, feverish rush into Cariboo was repeated. This, so far, is a matter of history, but it is a history full of import to those who travel over the same ground today. Then it meant scant rations long eked out over a footwearying trail, with not even a hut to shield the traveller from the weather; railroads were unknown, stage lines undreamed of, hotels, of a kind, few and far apart. Nothing but hard work lay ahead of those intrepid men—few of whom remain today—hard work, and, perhaps, gold. Some became rich, and acquired large tracts of land, which formed the nucleus of some of British Columbia's most valuable agricultural districts. But gradually the gold became more difficult to find, as it grew less year by year, and men were forced to return to the soil for solid support. From those times to the present, agriculture, that great civilizing influence, has been of paramount importance with all the other industries as they have succeeded each other. One might almost trace these in their successive stages. First gold-mining, then cattle-ranching and crude farming, next lumbering and salmon fishery, and coeval with these quartz-mining; and now—perhaps the most important—at all events the surest—fruit-culture.

Such, then, is the history of the more thickly populated districts of British Columbia today; excepting, of course, those of the far North. At the present time the insatiable demand for fruit is in direct ratio to the rapid increase of Canada's population and the call of the foreign markets; so that we come to judge the importance of a district from its productive capabilities along these lines.

The achievements of British Columbia, both in fruit and horticulture, during recent years, have been little short of marvellous. Amongst her many victories we find her carrying off in 1908 the Gold Medal at Bath and the Silver-gilt Medal at London (Eng.) Again, the fact stands out boldly that, for the past four years in succession, she has gained the Gold Medal—the highest award—of the Royal Horticultural Society, at London (Eng.) Towards these distinctions the Okanagan has contributed handsomely as every new success attests. Hence we may readily understand the great popularity of the Okanagan Valley. A short history of it may not be amiss.

The name "Okanagan" means stormy (or treacherous) waters, and was applied by the Indians to the lake, which is seventy miles long, from one to three miles wide, and, in places, at least 1800 feet deep. It covers an area of 56,240 acres and extends from near Vernon to Penticton, or about half the length of the Okanagan Valley. At the time we first mentioned, this vast territory was peopled almost entirely by Indians, the only white people being the pioneer clergy of the Roman Catholic religion, who about the year 1863 established their headquarters at what is known as the Mission, a point some $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles south by east of Kelowna. Shortly afterwards a few of the earliest settlers came in from the south and acquired large tracts of land which they used for cattle raising. In course of time people in search of agricultural land followed. At present the population of the Okanagan would be about 13,000, not including Indians, whose numbers are rapidly decreasing.

The various classes of industry before named have all, with the sole exception of salmon-fishing, played greater or lesser parts in the upbuilding of the district, but today the resources of the Okanagan Valley, if we except lumbering and dairying and mixed-farming, may be summed up in the one word "Fruit." It is to this that we turn for assurance when we speak of the future. This it is which has attracted such a large number of settlers, especially within the last two years, and which will continue so to do until the limit of accommodation has been reached.

Topographically the Okanagan Valley is some 150 miles in length and from two to six miles in width, and may be roughly described as lying at the 50th parallel, between the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Washington, U. S. A., boundary line. It is about 300 miles from the Pacific Coast.

Sheltered by the mountains from the cold winds of winter and tempered by cool lake breezes in summer, this garden spot of Western Canada rests secure in its climatic advantages, in the fertility of soil, in its immunity from drought and flood, in its widespread popularity, its general prosperity, in its great past and in the still greater future now irresistibly drawing nearer. Traverse its great lakes, drive over its mountain roads, visit its picturesque nocks, wander through its orchards and meadows, fish in its streams, bask in its sunshine, go where you will you shall not find in Western Canada a fairer spot, nor one which combines so well a means of making a good livelihood with the comforts which make life worth living.

The Valley may be approached on the south, via the Great Northern, from Spokane (Wash.) and other points, and so by stage to Penticton; but the majority prefer to come via the C. P. Ry., since travellers from Eastern points are enabled by means of the Soo Line to connect at Moose Jaw. From Sicamous Junction the Shuswap and Okanagan branch line will take us through Mara, Enderby, Armstrong and Vernon to Okanagan Landing, and a fine C. P. R. boat will still further convey us to Kelowna, Peachland, Summerland, Naramata, and Penticton. Thus we may for simplicity divide the Valley into two parts—the Upper and the Lower districts. The former comprising the portion watered by the Spallumcheen River and its tributaries, and the latter the area tributary to Okanagan Lake.

Midway between these two lies Vernon, the central and largest of the Valley cities (see Vernon). From here, as elsewhere, good roads lead to all outlying towns, notably the Kamloops and Grand Prairie road, and the Vernon and Salmon Arm road via Armstrong and Enderby, and the Kelowna and the White Valley stage roads. This last passes through the Coldstream Valley, with its celebrated ranch of that name, (see Coldstream) and on to Lumby, Blue Springs, etc.

If we take the stage road from Enderby up the Spallumcheen Valley in an easterly direction to Mable Lake, some 25 miles distant, and then turn southward 16 miles on the Lumby road we shall, after passing the village, eventually arrive at Vernon, having, en route, included almost every diversity of landscape and agricultural resource that the Okanagan Valley has to offer. Other charming drives are from Enderby to Salmon Arm, and from Enderby to Vernon via Armstrong. The roads and trails, of which there are many throughout the Valley, are of that picturesque nature which one might expect to find amid such surroundings. It therefore remains but to mention the Long Lake road—which is the stage road to Kelowna—the roads connecting Westbank with Penticton, through Peachland and Summerland, and the Naramata-Penticton road. From Penticton two stage roads, one through Fairview to Osoyoos and the other to Keremeos (on the G. N. Ry.) lead us towards the boundary line. (See "Transportation" in compendium).

Lakes and streams are numerous throughout the whole Valley, and many of the irrigation works are well worthy of a special visit. The fishing, too, is of the best. Rainbow trout weighing upwards of ten pounds are not uncommonly found in both Okanagan and Long Lakes, whilst the streams and lesser mountain lakes abound in smaller fry. Hunting is also good in certain localities, but the hunter must go farther afield than heretofore, owing to the encroachments of the agriculturist.

At certain times of the year wild duck, geese, and other waterfowl are to be seen in large flocks on the lakes, and in sheltered ponds and sloughs. Whilst upon the mountains and in the more secluded ravines grouse of different varieties, bear, cougar, deer, lynx, coyote and other forest game are quite within the scope of the hunter's rifle if he have the necessary knowledge of such sport. Amongst other items in this book is a compilation of British Columbia Game Laws showing restrictions, etc. We would, however, draw attention to the fact that non-residents in the Province are required to procure a license for permission to hunt. This may be obtained through any Government Agent at a fee of fifty dollars. (See "Hunting and Fishing" in Compendium).

The following table may be of use to the Fisherman, as it applies equally to all parts of the Valley:—

Fishing season opens March, closes December (see "Fishing" notes). Trolling may be indulged in throughout the season.

Bait for the Lakes.—Otter bait, common spoon bait, large Devon minnow.

Fly fishing from April to September (best during summer months). Ordinary trout rod and tackle obtainable at local stores.

Flies for Lake and Stream.—March, April and May—Red Palmer, March Brown, White Moth in evenings. June, July and August—Parmachee Belle, Grasshopper, Queen of Waters, Professor, Montreal, Cowdung, Blue Upright, Wickham's Fancy, Silver Doctor.

Concerning Okanagan, the Provincial Government Official Bulletin, No. 10 for 1907, on Agriculture, says: "The district is traversed from Sicamous to Vernon by the Shuswap and Okanagan branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which connects at Okanagan Landing, at the head of the lake, with Canadian Pacific steamers running to Penticton at its southern end. The railway runs for almost its whole length (51 miles) through a magnificent farming country, a large part of which is open, some lightly wooded, and the rest more heavily, but all very fertile when brought under cultivation. Many large farms in this section are devoted to wheat, which yields well and is a sure crop. The wheat ground locally, at Armstrong, Enderby, and Vernon, makes an excellent flour. This part of the district is especially adapted to mixed farming, dairying and fruit growing. The soil produces large crops of vegetables of all kinds and fruit of excellent quality, while native and cultivated grasses grow luxuriantly. The rainfall in this section of Okanagan is sufficient for all purposes, and irrigation is not necessary. The climate is bracing and pleasant, fairly hot in summer with cool nights; cold in winter, averaging 44.7, with occasional dips to zero and below. Snow lies from three to five months, the average fall being about 37 inches."

Just as there are no hard and fast rules concerning the prices of land obtaining throughout the Valley, so it is in the case of prices realised for the different products. But we have, by enquiries and by careful comparison of the statistics, in various localities endeavored to give the reader fairly good ideas, from which he may make his own deductions. (See tables of produce and land values in Compendium).

The cost of building may be deduced from the general prices of lumber and other material compiled from the lists of the various lumber companies. Living expenses throughout the Valley may not be stated in figures as the food supplies are governed more or less by the cost of importation, etc.

Wages, again, vary slightly, according to the locality and the class of labour. To the mechanic we would say the need for skilled labour is greatly governed by the season; and it might be advisable to write for further particulars before deciding to come to the Okanagan for work. Regarding this, the Vernon Board of Trade pamphlet for 1908 says, speaking of settlers: "In general, two" (classes should come to the Okanagan) "the man of steady purpose and good judgment, with some capital and a liking for horticultural pursuits, and the clerk, mechanic, or laborer who has friends already settled in the country to give him a start, or who is prepared to take his chances of a promising but not altogether reliable labor market."

Elsewhere in this Guide will be found a general Compendium, and Statistics, dealing with these and similar matters, together with lists of Public Institutions, Churches, Lodges, Schools, Civic Bodies, Sporting Notes, Transportation Facilities and so forth. With regard to these the reader must remember, however, that here and there slight variations occur from time to time; but they need not be considered of vital importance.

SICAMOUS

TO the ordinary individual the name Sicamous Junction conveys but little, beyond the fact that it is situated "somewhere" in British Columbia; but to the man of affairs, whose interests lie along the lines of commerce, it has a far greater significance. It means the entrance to the Okanagan—that famous valley stretching for one hundred and fifty miles to the southward and embracing within its confines thousands upon thousands of acres of orchards, miles upon miles of meadow-lands, farms innumerable, rapidly-increasing townships and budding cities; all pointing unmistakably to the prosperity and welfare of this—the fairest of all British Columbia's valleys.

Sicamous or, what would seem more appropriate, the "Okanagan Junction," is as the gateway of a garden, through which are borne vast quantities of fruit and produce out onto the great highroad beyond; whilst from the outside a constant stream of humanity presses in. Some come to work in the garden, others to view the prospects and, finally, to purchase a portion whereon they may establish a home. Others again—their day's work being completed elsewhere—come to seek rest and contentment in some sheltered spot or to search amongst the timbered groves and in the lakes and streams for such sport as is to be obtained.

Lying at an elevation of 1300 feet, at the junction of the Spallumcheen River with one of the many arms of Shuswap Lake, Sicamous, small as it is in respect to the number of inhabitants, possesses other attractions, apart from its relationship to the Okanagan, for it is a charming resort, and full of interest to the tourist, whom it is our intention throughout the following pages of this Guide to conduct in a faithful manner on his travels throughout the Okanagan, no matter on what errand he comes.

We would first point out the natural beauty of these surroundings which are of a somewhat different character to those of the Okanagan Valley proper. Here, the mountains are rugged and steep, ending abruptly at the water's edge; whereas, there they descend to the lakes in terraces, and often wide stretches of meadow-land intervene. Here, is a sense of wild grandeur rather than the pastoral beauty which there obtains. To the "Old-timer" this cool morning vapour rising from the surface of the deep-shadowed lake; the occasional whistle of the wild duck's wing, as he flights off to the feeding grounds; the play of a stray sunbeam, shot through some far-distant gap; the splash of a fish after an early fly, all bespeak the British Columbia of yesterday; whilst the Okanagan Valley itself is truly the British Columbia of today.

The trout fishing in the lake, both with fly and artificial minnow, or with spoon-bait, is excellent; the same may be said of the fishing at White Lake, near Copper Island, and of Annestey Lake, near the head of Seymour Arm; both of which are reached by boat, and by a short trail cut by the C. P. Ry. Company for the special convenience of tourists. By means of these facilities the hunting and shooting also become a less arduous undertaking. Duck, Geese, and other waterfowl are abundant here in the season, and Blue Grouse, Mule Deer, Bear, and, within a day's march, even Caribou are possible. By these signs we know that we are in the heart of a hunting district.

Since there are no farms of note owing to the confined surroundings, it may be conjectured that Sicamous is not a farming district. But the absence of notable mines does not necessarily imply that the mountains are deficient in mineral; moreover, efforts have been made from time to time to develop various properties in the neighborhood, but the facilities for handling the ore have proved inadequate. Placer mining, however, appears to be entirely out of the question.

So much for Sicamous in its relationship to the Okanagan Valley and as a tourist resort. We will now in conclusion regard it as the junction

MARA

IF we were to take the trip from Sicamous Junction to Mara by launch as did some of the settlers before the branch line was built,—for the Spallumcheen is easily navigable even to Enderby,—we should traverse a succession of lakes and broad stretches of river meandering amongst low-lying and partially-submerged brush land, and so save twelve miles of a railroad trip, through somewhat uninteresting country.

At one time Mara boasted a sawmill, a stopping house, a public school, and similar signs of activity; but since the sawmill closed down all that remains of importance, other than a few outlying farms, is the school. This, too, would seem strange, as the district is by no means deficient either in quantity or quality of land. Beside being on the S. & O. branch line this settlement is connected with Enderby and other parts by a good government road and by bush trails and roads.

There is little more to be told of this charming but (at present) dormant spot, and since we must depend for accommodation on the hospitality of those inhabitants who live near by, it might be as well if we continue our journey by rail to Enderby and, while so doing, take a passing glance at the wonderful changes of country en route.

Hitherto the river and the railroad seem to have monopolised most of the Valley, but as we near Enderby the country opens out in all its most attractive manner. Farms and young orchards, meadows and green pastures, belts of timber alternating with freshly plowed land follow one another in quick succession; all creating a vivid impression of genuine rural prosperity which, a moment later, is brought home to us by the bright and busy aspect of the surroundings.

ENDERBY

THIS thriving little city of some 900 inhabitants, incorporated in 1905 with its mayor, G. Bell, Esq., and five aldermen, is admirably situated, 1200 ft. above sea-level and at the junction of the Spallumcheen and Okanagan Valleys. The view from Cliff Street, the upper end of the main thoroughfare, embraces, eastward, the whole Spallumcheen Valley to the mountains on the farther side of Mable Lake, which is 25 miles away; northward the river almost as far as Shuswap Lake, and southward a vast portion of Okanagan Valley.

The Spallumcheen ("Beautiful Vista") River, now called by some the Shuswap River, furnishes excellent trout fishing and abounds in salmon during the later summer months. Flowing almost due west from Mable Lake it takes a semi-circular sweep around the Indian reservation opposite the town, and passing thence in a northerly course empties its waters into Shuswap Lake.

Westward, behind the city, stretches a short mountain range intersected by a ravine through which the Salmon Arm road defiles. If we climb over the summit of the pass we find ourselves in another valley whose luxuriant mountain vegetation and natural beauty only end at Salmon Arm itself. This is one of the most charming drives in the district. From Brash's Creek on this range the city water is piped a distance of about three miles, having a fall of nearly 300 feet.

Enderby depends chiefly on its agricultural pursuits combined with fruit-growing, its sawmill and its flouring mills; nor should we omit to mention the coal mines situated four miles north on the east bank of the river, at which a certain amount of work is being done. The soil around the district varies from a rich, black loam to a light clay, the bench land being mainly decayed rock with alluvial deposit. The usual sub-tropical fruits, such as apples (winter varieties especially), pears, plums, and small fruits, strawberries, etc., do remarkably well, but as yet peaches are only in the experimental stage. Hay and vegetables as well as grain—particularly fall wheat—give good returns and are largely grown. Added to this we find much dairying. The climate does not alter much in character from that which obtains in the rest of the valley, except perhaps in the matter of a few more degrees of frost, a heavier snowfall in winter, and a slightly greater rainfall in summer.

From here onward, in our travels south, we shall find social conditions much the same in every town, and since the sporting, as the working instinct, is strong, we find no lack of recreation and other clubs.

The educational advantages, too, are second to none, so that the youth who fails herein may chiefly blame himself. Enderby in this respect has a good Public School of three departments, with High School work being done, all under the hands of able teachers.

The religious denominations are represented by the Anglican, Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches, and the Roman Catholic Indian Mission and Seventh Day Adventists.

The following lodges sit: A. F. & A. M., I. O. O. F., K. of P., Pythian Sisters, L. O. L., C. O. F. (See "Churches" and "Fraternal Societies" in Compendium).

We also find a Civilian Rifle Association (a branch of the Okanagan Rifle Association) and a volunteer Fire Brigade equipped with all the appliances deemed necessary for their work. There is also a good Town Band.

Nearly all branches of business are well represented. Two good hotels are situated near the station; there are also a branch of the Bank of Montreal; a produce association, for the receiving and shipping of produce; a printing and publishing office (See "Walker's Weekly"); brick and tile works, Enderby brick being of a high standard; a flour mill with daily capacity 500 barrels; and by far the largest lumber mill in the Valley. This last runs day and night, and has a capacity of 25 million feet annually.

It is, moreover, from this source that Enderby obtains the electric light which it uses.

There is no sewerage system in vogue other than that of septic tanks.

As elsewhere throughout the Okanagan Valley there is no land available for pre-emption within many miles, and since the prices of land vary considerably it would, perhaps, be unwise to hazard a definite statement. Therefore, reference to "Statistics" or to the local authorities is recommended.

The position of the city—lying as it does on a gradual incline—affords excellent advantages for the building of residences, all of which command a beautiful prospect of the surrounding country.

The cost of building material, of fuel, of living, and other necessities of life generally, is much the same at Enderby as throughout the Valley, but varies slightly according to prices ruling in the different markets. But we may here remark that every year there is a large increase in the number of good residential buildings; which seems, after all, the surest criterion to judge by in matters of this sort. (See Compendium of Statistics).

The Post Office is situated at present at Harvey & Dobson's store, and mail may be obtained at the usual hours except on Sundays.

ARMSTRONG

THE panorama which unfolds itself as we near Armstrong would at-hunter, for they shelter and protect from inclement weather an around play an additional role to that of furnishing sport to the dane. Large tracts of country open out, and the rugged mountains tract and absorb us were our nature or our affairs ever so mun-area now fast being swallowed up by the incoming farmers and fruit-growers—a flat and open area comprising 70,000 acres, whose population of 3,600 represents the Municipality of Spallumcheen (incorporated 1892 with J. M. Wright, Esq., as Reeve).

Armstrong is named after a banker of London, England, who succeeded in floating the original bonds of the S. & O. Ry., and could that gentleman see his namesake today and note the vast progress she has made in all branches of industry he might well feel proud, for not only has the town itself grown rapidly, but the outlying districts which support it are filling up with a class of people whose keen foresight and business acumen augur well for the prosperity of the town.

The Armstrong Farmers' Institute, numbering some 300 members, as well as the Armstrong and Spallumcheen Agricultural Society, which holds its Annual Fall Fair, testify unmistakably that here is a farming community. A visit to the Fair in September would give us a glimpse of the great capabilities of the district. We should see splendid samples of Alfalfa and clover (large crops of which are stacked every year); of apples (especially Spitzenburg, Ontario, Wagner and Spies), of plums, pears, cherries, of all the smaller fruits and vegetables, and even of peaches, although these last are mostly grown for home consumption. Wheat, too, is on view, but it is not produced on so large a scale as formerly, since the land is being subdivided into fruit lots of various acreage. A comparatively new cult is that of celery, which is shipped to outside points in large quantities; also cabbage, which is now shipped in carload lots.

Both the soil and climate are very similar to that throughout the rest of the Valley. Irrigation is not considered necessary. If it were, there are many sources of supply in the numerous creeks at hand. Chief among these is Davis Creek, three and a half miles east of the town. Two good roads take us to it, and there we may camp in a shady grove and listen to the roar of the water as it leaps down to the valley, in a succession of falls, or climb to the intake of the electric light and power house, which is 300 feet up.

There is so scarcity of good water here, and the power generated by its fall is largely made use of at the manufacturing shops, mills, etc. The perfecting of the system cost upwards of $40,000. A glance at the Directory will show us that Armstrong is well equipped with all the branches of business essential to towns of its size—or even much larger.

The community is presided over by a Reeve (B. Francis, Esq., 1908) assisted by five Councillors. The streets and houses are lighted by electricity, and an ample water supply flows through the mains. Hydrants, 1,000 ft. of hose, and a volunteer Fire Brigade of 23 members comprise the fire equipment. The septic tank system of sewerage is the only one in vogue.

The churchgoer may attend either the Anglican, Baptist, Methodist, or Presbyterian Churches, or the Seventh Day Adventist services, whilst the following lodges hold regular meetings: A. F. & A. M., I. O. O. F., I. O. F. whose hall is used for entertainments, etc., L. O. L. (with Black Knights Preceptory) and the "True Blues" (a sister organization for both sexes).

The Spallumcheen Municipal School District comprises eight public schools, of which six are outlying; the two in town being the High School and the Public School, the latter having four divisions.

The Armstrong Town Band and the String Orchestra furnish music in the summer and winter respectively, while the Civilian Rifle Association of over one hundred members and the various Sporting Clubs provide ample recreation to those whose bent lies in such directions. The Armstrong Independent Company of Infantry has just been organized with a roll of 42 members.

The Bank of Montreal has a branch office here, and this, together with sawmills, a flouring mill, a creamery, a sash and door and box factory, and brick and tile works, sum up the principal characteristics of this interesting and extremely thriving town and district.

The Board of Trade now formed will still further assist in making Armstrong all that it should be from a purely business point of view.

The Post Office is situated opposite the C. P. R. station. Hours are 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Saturdays 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. for the convenience of late shoppers. Private boxes may also be rented at a nominal figure.

The physical situation of Armstrong, surrounded as it is by lakes and valleys, admits of many forms of recreation in the way of hunting, fishing, riding, driving, mountain climbing, etc. As regards the first it would be useless to specify any exact directions, as much depends upon the hunter himself. Suffice it to say that game in the Okanagan is no longer to be found (as many suppose) at one's back door, therefore it would be wise to consult local sportsmen on these matters—and this applies also to the fishing.

There are many charming rides and drives in the neighborhood, for good roads lead to all the outlying towns; e. g.—to Enderby, 9 miles; to Vernon, 15 miles; to Kamloops, 74 miles, and the stage road to Falkland, 15 miles.

Boating, Bathing and camping may be indulged in at Otter Lake, 4 miles away, and at many other picturesque spots.

In the foregoing remarks regarding Okanagan Valley and Enderby, touching upon prices of land, cost of living, etc., we may add that they apply equally to the Armstrong Municipality, therefore they need no repetition here.

VERNON

THE city of Vernon derives its name from Forbes G. Vernon (at one time Minister of Lands and Works in the Provincial Government) and his brother, Charles, both of whom formerly owned large properties in the district, including the Coldstream Ranch. These were the days when Messrs. O'Keefe, Tronson, Price Ellison, Greenhow, and other "Old Timers" ran their large herds of cattle over the very ground which is now being split up into fruit lots. What cattle-raising meant then, to the village of "Centreville," as it was termed, that, and more, does fruit-culture mean to the city of Vernon today.

Over the vast Prairie Country to the eastward of the Rocky Mountains is spreading a nation whose local climatic conditions absolutely preclude any attempts at successful fruit-growing; therefore their needs must be met by those who are best able to do so. In this respect the Okanagan has demonstrated its fitness for the position of caterer: hence, all available land is in great demand, and has consequently become very valuable.

The position of Vernon (with its immense tributary district) lying as it does, at the centre, or "Hub" of the Okanagan, has been largely instrumental in the upbuilding of the city, for it is on this account the shipping point on the railroad for the large quantities of produce destined for the outside world. During the busy season boatloads of all manner of fruit arrive from the lake towns on the south, whilst from the Coldstream Valley to the eastward hundreds of tons are brought by wagons, and from all other directions fruit pours into Vernon for shipment—and not only fruit, but hay and grain, potatoes and every variety of garden and field produce, as well as lumber, cattle, canned goods, and the many other necessities of life.

Situated on elevated ground, and girt about with sloping hills, whose orchard-covered benches extend back to the mountains, the situation of the town is admirably chosen. If we take the letter "Y" and invert it, Vernon would lie at the junction of the forks. We should have, as it were, the main valley stretching northward through Armstrong and Enderby, and terminating at Sicamous, forty-six miles distant. The south-west arm ("Priest Valley," an open farming country) would bring us to Okanagan Lake. The south-east fork reaches to the Mission Valley at Kelowna, embracing Long and Wood's Lakes, which extend for 15 miles almost parallel to the Okanagan Lake. Another branch from this fork, in an easterly direction takes us to Lumby through the Coldstream and White Valleys, along good Government roads, such as are to be found connecting Vernon with all the outlying towns. (See stage roads). These roads, since they for the most part wind through the valleys, present an ever-changing scene to the eye of the traveller. In every direction lie the farms, orchards, green pastures, meadows and market gardens all flanked by grassy uplands terminating in timbered bluffs and rocky crags, from which, through the ravines, one or more streams ripple in a succession of trout pools on their way down to the deep, blue lakes. Along the route at various points irrigation ditches branch off, and, intersecting the land, re-branch until they become finally absorbed by the rich, warm soil—for, although not all the land here needs irrigation, yet the presence of water in this manner is a certain assurance of successful crops.

On reference to the latest pamphlet of the Vernon Board of Trade, and to statistics elsewhere in this "Guide," we shall see how the opening remarks relative to fruit and produce are borne out, but we must here confine ourselves to the mere statement that all kinds of sub-tropical fruits have not only done well in this locality, but have materially assisted in the distinction which the Okanagan Valley has gained at the various great exhibitions, as well as contributing to the individual prestige of Vernon itself.

The soil here varies little from that in other parts of the Valley, since it consists of a light clay loam and decomposed rock on the higher lands,

Real Estate and Financial Agents

WE make a specialty of Okanagan Valley fruit lands and Vernon city property. Being brokers purely and simply, we are in a position to give perfectly unbiassed advice as to values and location; and, having had many years experience in the west, our advice is based on actual knowledge of circumstances.

WE ARE AGENTS FOR

The United Canadian Underwriters, Ltd., of Vancouver.

The Railway Passengers Accident and Liability Insurance Company of London, England.

The Standard Life Insurance Company of Edinburgh, Scotland.

We have many opportunities to lend money on absolutely gilt edged rural and city property security, and will, if so desired, act as agents for the collection and transmission of interest on such loans. Our charges in such cases will be found extremely moderate.

Write us for any information you desire about the Okanagan Valley. We take pleasure in answering questions and to the best of our ability give facts, not fancies.

whilst, on the bottom lands, this alternates in places with a rich black loamy soil.

The climate also—as elsewhere throughout the valley—is mild and dry. The summers, as the winters, do not show any great and prolonged extremes, owing to the tempering effect of the large lakes. Some years the thermometer may indicate zero, and even fifteen, or perhaps twenty degrees below, but these “spells” are only a matter of hours and are not usual. The hottest days—the ripening days of fruit—seldom reach 100 degrees, and cool evenings afford pleasant hours for rest and recreation. In short, the climate is ideal.

From the sportsman's standpoint the immediate vicinity of Vernon cannot be considered a “happy hunting ground”; for, in common with all thickly-settled districts, the encroachments of the agriculturist have caused the game to retire into the mountains. But if we are prepared to camp out overnight we may find very fair sport amongst the headwaters of the creeks in the neighborhood, or, again, on the west side of Okanagan Lake. Guides and horses may be procured if desired. (See Guides.)

The fishing is very good. Trout, weighing 10 pounds, are often caught in the larger lakes, especially in Long Lake (the summer resort), which is only two and a half miles from the town, and along whose beaches the boat-houses and tents of the summer campers are picturesquely strewn.

Vernon has its full complement of sporting clubs (See “Clubs”), and from time to time interesting matches take place with outside towns. So that the lover of football, cricket, lacrosse, baseball, etc. will find ample scope for recreation. In the winter the spacious skating rink permits the holding of carnivals and curling and hockey matches. Season tickets will here save the skater a journey to Long Lake, on the off chance of finding clean ice.

Vernon was incorporated as a city in 1893, with a mayor (W. F. Cameron, Esq.) and five aldermen. It lies at an altitude of 1258 feet above sea-level, is 1196 miles from Winnipeg, and 382 miles from Vancouver. It is virtually at the end of the S. & O. branch of the C. P. Ry., if we except the short extension to Okanagan Landing. As an instance of the growth of Vernon we may here record the fact that the townsite of the city once sold for forty dollars, and later, changed hands for sixty dollars. At present although cheap properties may be obtained, it is not too much to say that six thousand dollars will not buy some of the business lots. In point of population the census within the city limits showed over 2500 for 1908 as compared with some 700 at the time of incorporation.

The city boasts of shady tree-bordered streets and avenues and has excellent electric lighting and telephone systems. Furthermore, the Council is spending some 60,000 dollars on a sewerage system which will place her to the fore amongst the cities of the Interior as soon as the problem of an increased water supply is settled. The central location of Vernon in the Okanagan Valley accounts no doubt for the Provincial Government Offices and Court House, wherein are held the Assizes semi-annually. The City Hall does duty for minor sessions, and for meetings of the various Civic Bodies, besides embracing within its walls the Police Station, the Public Library, and the Fire Station.

Vernon's hotels are spacious and modern. The new 50,000 dollar Hospital; the branch institution of the Provincial Asylum for the Insane (mild cases only being treated); the Churches and Public Schools (See “Churches” and “Schools”) in most cases re-modelled, or entirely rebuilt, to suit the needs of the rapidly-growing population; the sash and door factories, the steam laundry, two printing and publishing offices, viz., those of the Vernon News (published Thursdays) and the Semi-Weekly Okanagan (published Wednesdays and Saturdays), and a meat-packing factory and a brick yard, both on the outskirts of the town, still further swell the number of local industries and bear witness in other ways to the importance of Vernon as a growing city.

The present Post Office (C. B. Lefroy, P. M.) is situated on the main street (Barnard Avenue), four minutes' walk from the station. Mails may be had during the usual business hours and boxes can be rented at a nominal figure. A new Post Office, which will supplant the present one, is shortly to be erected near the station, and will include the Customs Offices. The Bank of Montreal, too, will build a costly structure on Barnard Avenue during the coming year.

The Coldstream Packing Co., Ltd., ships a large quantity of fruit and farm produce; and a Farmers' Association assists in the furthering of technical knowledge amongst the many who are interested in Agriculture. Again, the Vernon Fruit Co., Ltd., handles fruit and produce in the city and district, whilst a Board of Trade, composed of the leading business men of the city, looks after the welfare of local business.

A company of The Okanagan Mounted Rifles, numbering some 120 members (and having its own band) has recently been formed, and the calibre and membership of this and the various sporting clubs are very high.

Music is dispensed by three good bands—the Fire Brigade Band, which is in a high state of proficiency, and gives public entertainments throughout the summer months; The Okanagan Mounted Rifle Band, and that of the Salvation Army which is well organized. The Drama is upheld by a very capable Amateur Operatic Society.

Churches, Lodges, Clubs, etc., together with particulars concerning them, will be found under their various headings in the Compendium, to which the reader is referred.

LUMBY AND DISTRICT

SIXTEEN miles east of Vernon, and nestling among the hills in what is, no doubt, Okanagan's prettiest valley, lies the village of Lumby. It is composed for the most part of merely such buildings as are necessary to a farming community. Two Hotels lie side by side on the main street at our entrance to the village. At the next corner is the General Store and Post Office; whilst opposite and just behind it, respectively, are the two blacksmiths' shops. These buildings, together with a few scattered dwellings, and a creamery, comprise the sum total of the compact little settlement. There is a stationary sawmill about half a mile away, down in the flat, and two portable sawmills work close to town, as well as a box factory. The creamery and the sawmills, together with agriculture and dairying, may be considered as furnishing employment and sustenance, either directly or indirectly, to the people around the district.

The creamery is a company concern, formed for the purpose of supplying butter to outside markets—and excellent butter it is—which speaks well for the quality of the milk furnished by the local herds of cows. And how can we expect it otherwise, since Lumby lies in the heart of what we may call a dairying and mixed-farming area.

At this altitude of 1620 feet the meadows are still meadows, for fruit-culture is a secondary consideration. The rain and snowfall are much greater here than in other parts of the Okanagan proper, consequently we find bright green pastures intersected by sparkling streams instead of the usual orchards with their irrigation ditches and flumes. The White Valley, from here to its extreme end at Long Lake, where it is known as the Cold-stream Valley, runs almost S.W. and the mountains to the south and south-east are well-wooded and steep, with streams and lakes in plenty; whereas the north-western range is more open and less thickly timbered, thus affording splendid pasturage for the cattle owned by the ranchers along the main road.

Above Lumby the road will take us to Blue Springs and Cherry Creek and up to the Monashee Mines. (See Stage Lines). These mines were worked to a certain extent some years ago, but they are now closed down and only a desultory attempt is at present made in this line near the old spot.

Over the mountains some five miles in a south-easterly direction there is a charming and fertile tableland of many miles extent known as Harris Creek Plateau, and this is traversed by a number of valleys said by those who have visited the spot to resemble very strongly some parts of the Yosemite Valley in Colorado. But the land in general is at a high altitude, and the precipitation of rain and snow is too great to admit of successful farming. Therefore this part is little travelled except by the denizens of the forest. It is here that the hunter will find excellent sport, but to strangers a guide is necessary.

In our remarks on Enderby we spoke of a road from Mabel Lake to Lumby (16 miles). There is also the Shuswap-Mabel Lake road, which, like its neighbour, is a credit to the Province. Any of these, through the thickly-wooded mountains, afford cool and pleasant drives in summer time. Apropos of this region, there is but little mention made concerning Mabel Lake, since it lies somewhat outside the main Okanagan Valley.

The streams in the Lumby district abound in trout, and Bissette Creek, which skirts the village, teems with fish in the summer, when they leave the lakes and come upstream to spawn.

On our way down to Vernon we come to the "divide," close to Lavington Ranch. A little further down Earl Grey's fine ranch opens out before us. At the present time the "Grey Canal" is being engineered along the mountains at the north side of the valley and will shortly be extended around the "B-X" mountain overlooking Vernon. It will eventually be used to irrigate a large portion of the district around this city, including, besides the White and Coldstream Valleys, the B-X subdivision and much of the late "O'Keefe and Greenhow" lands, now owned by a Belgian syndicate.

This large undertaking was commenced in 1906 by the White Valley Irrigation and Power Co. under the management of W. C. Ricardo (manager of Coldstream Ranch) and consists of a ditch eleven feet wide at base and having one foot batter to one foot rise—thus, we are told, easily carrying three feet of water. The intake is at the Lavington Ranch, where the huge wood-stave pipe, after crossing the valley from the opposite range, pours its lake-obtained water at high pressure into the canal through a solid masonry head gate.

Across the valley from the stage road are two more ditches, or irrigation systems, one leading to Learmouth Ranch, the other extending over the Coldstream Valley itself. This last comprises the district between Coldstream Ranch and Long Lake, and is part of the Coldstream Municipality. It is best seen by taking the branch road at the ranch and continuing straight to Long Lake (about three miles). By so doing we shall connect with the Vernon-Long Lake road, (See "Long Lake District") through which, by a narrow but fertile valley, the Long Lake Creek enters the city on its way around to Okanagan Lake. This is not the usual route from Vernon to Lumby, for the stage road runs direct from the town, passing the Coldstream Ranch at the 4½ mile post; whereas the road through the Coldstream Valley to Vernon forms two sides of a triangle.

In order to get a better idea we must turn to the Coldstream Municipality, which is a very interesting section of the Okanagan.

COLDSTREAM MUNICIPALITY

THE name "Coldstream" is derived from the creek or stream flowing through the valley, and the municipality extends from about Lavington Ranch at the 11½ mile post from Vernon on the Lumby stage road, to Long Lake. Throughout the entire length and breadth (it varies from 1 to 2 miles in width) are orchards and farmlands, all brought under a high state of cultivation. Foremost among them all is the famous Coldstream Estate. This vast acreage is now split up for the most part into planted fruit lots, and it is due to the rapid influx of settlers, who have availed themselves of these ready-made homesteads, that a large community has grouped itself about the Coldstream district.

Concerning the Coldstream Ranch itself we need say but little. The soil is excellent, and the management is equal to the important task of handling so large a demesne. The fruit orchards—show-fields in themselves—the hop yards, the poultry yards and the cattle and agricultural divisions are suggestive of military precision in their order and perfect condition.

Earl Grey's recently acquired property lies just above the Coldstream Ranch, and this fine estate when brought to perfection, will no doubt rival its older neighbour in fruit-growing.

There are not a few other fruit and "mixed" ranches in the district and in every case we find evidence not only of quality in the soil but also of quantity in its production.

The Municipality was founded in 1906 with a reeve (W. C. Ricardo, Esq.) and five councillors. There is at the present time no store or post office, since mails pass through the Vernon P. O.

The Government or stage road from Vernon to Lumby first enters the Coldstream Valley at the Coldstream Ranch 4½ miles from town. From this point onwards we are in what is known as White Valley, although we shall still be in the Coldstream Municipality for another 6 or 7 miles. The trip throughout is indeed enjoyable, as the road commands a very extensive view, and the practised eye takes in the immense value of such a district at a glance.

There is no lack of water, and no end to the variety of uses to which such fine land may be put. Pastures, orchards, gardens, wheatlands, hay meadows, all are equally prolific, and the individual acreage of each is well proportioned to the requirements of the farmer.

If, instead of continuing the journey to Lumby we were to turn at the Coldstream Ranch and take the road down to Long Lake we should pass through what may be considered as one vast orchard, broken only here and there by the small meadows along the course of the stream, or by the kitchen gardens of the settlers.

In a few years every fruit tree will be in full bearing, and the sight of what is already one of British Columbia's Orchard-Spots, will then be beyond any adequate attempt at description.

The drive from Vernon to Coldstream Ranch and the return via Long Lake is the first consideration of every visitor—Verbum Sap., etc.

LONG LAKE DISTRICT

WE may divide this district into two portions: the lower or northern end—which is included in Coldstream Municipality—and the upper part embracing the country contiguous to Wood's Lake. Since the visitor to Vernon will sooner or later find himself in the vicinity of this large and beautiful body of water, a short description may not be amiss. Long Lake is the second largest lake in the Okanagan and the road from Vernon will take us here direct, for, as before stated, it is the Summer Resort. An entire village is scattered around the shores in shacks and tents during the warm season but in winter the visitors are mostly skaters, or those whose business takes them to the sawmill three-quarters of a mile down the west side. The road along the lake shore ends here at a high bluff, and those who wish to go farther must retrace their steps $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles to Vernon and take the Kelowna stage road. This, after climbing a spur of Mission Hill, drops down to the lake shore and so continues along it to the end of Wood's Lake, whence it becomes once more a mountain road.

At the end of Long Lake, which is $9\frac{1}{2}$ miles in length, is a bank, or low lying barrier. This is generally conceded to be the work of beaver in bygone times and is popularly termed the "Railroad" on account of its remarkable resemblance to a railway embankment. Except for an artificial canal 40 feet wide which has just been completed in order to admit of steamboat connection with southern points, this shingle beach, backed by a narrow strip of low meadowland, separates Long from Wood's Lake. The latter is $5\frac{1}{2}$ miles in length, and, like its sister lake, varies from one to two miles in width. It is flanked on its eastern and southern shores respectively by sloping bench lands and by meadows, for the most part used, as in former days, for grazing and hay lands. Latterly, however, fruit trees of all descriptions have been planted in different parts, and the results appear to be most favorable.

At the "Railroad" a branch road crosses to the opposite, or eastern, shore, takes us through Wood Lake Fruitlands, a newly-surveyed site, and, some six miles further on, brings us to the old homestead from whose owner the name of the lake is derived.

The route of the proposed Vernon-Midway Railway follows here almost this identical course along the lakes.

Other roads branch from the main one and lead into the Duck Lake district farther down, but since these will terminate at Kelowna sooner or later we need not follow them at this time as we shall find them spoken of in connection with that city. Mention may be made, however, of another important branch road which runs due west from the south end of Wood's Lake. This, after crossing the low watershed, brings us to Caesar's Landing, a mile and a half away on the near or east side of Okanagan Lake. At the 17-mile post another road leads to Okanagan Centre—a growing settlement on the east side of Okanagan Lake. (See "Okanagan Centre").

OKANAGAN LANDING

FOUR and a half miles from Vernon, on the east side, and almost at the head, of an arm or bay of Okanagan Lake, lies the village known as Okanagan Landing. This spot must not be confounded with the actual head of the lake which lies 10 miles northward behind the western rampart of Vernon. "The Landing," as it is popularly termed, is situated at the foot of Mission Hill range, where it begins to form the eastern boundary of Okanagan Lake.

On the opposite shore one sees the result of some enterprising, but futile, attempts at mining, in the shape of buildings and an ore dump of many tons of rock. Beyond this and some scattered groves of timber there is not much on that side to attract the eye, nor, in fact, anything of importance commercially.

At the actual head of the bay is a sawmill with a well-stocked timber yard, and the cottages of the employees and others are grouped about the precincts and along the shore.

The long stretch of water on our left indicates the route we must take towards the lake towns of the valley—for after this we have done with trains and shall go southward by boat.

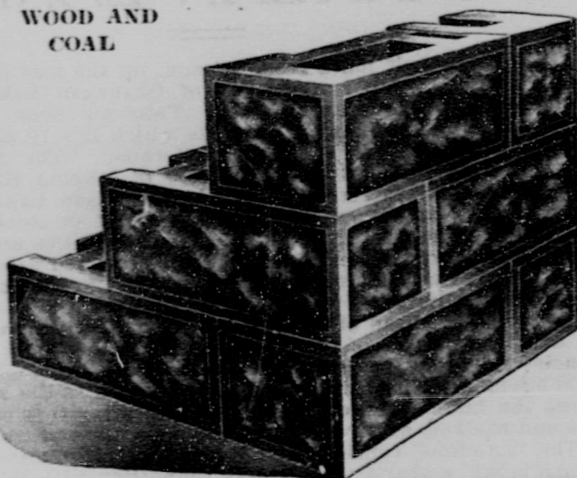

The "Landing" consists mainly of a C. P. R. station, and a wharf, on to which is laid a spur track for easy connection with the fine new C. P. R. passenger S. S. Okanagan and the freight boats Aberdeen and York. The Strand Hotel, standing near, the general store and Post Office opposite the station, a public school and a few cottages grouped picturesquely along the water front, together with some outlying farms, comprise the settlement.

Since this is for the most part only a shipping point the visitor will not find much to interest him. We may add, however, that in the quiet restfulness of its surroundings, as well as in its situation both on the lake and the railroad, Okanagan Landing has much to recommend it.

VISITORS to the Okanagan are cautioned against buying property from irresponsible persons. A careful investigation of the many inducements the Valley offers to settlers is the surest means of obtaining complete satisfaction. Do not be in a hurry to buy the first thing you see. OKANAGAN LAKE POINTS

ON turning to the pages dealing with government wharves we shall note that at every few miles along the Okanagan Lake are "Landings." These are for the most part called after the ranch, or point of communication with the property of someone or other who, from time to time, has need of a wharf or landing in order to ship provisions, mail, produce, etc. They are not all regular points of call, consequently they will not need a lengthy description. The reader may take it for granted, therefore, that where no such details are given the magnitude of the place is not sufficient to warrant it.

Besides the larger towns there are a few small post offices scattered along the west shore at different outlying points. These will be found in the pages dealing with government wharves and landings.

It may be of interest to the stranger to know that the old Hudson's Bay trail follows the west side of the lake. This was used in bygone days by the trading parties of the company on their periodic trips to Indian settlements around the mouth of the Columbia River. It is still used as a trail. Now, however, the steamboat obviates the necessity of using the trail except as a secondary means of point to point travel. Further south, the government road from Peachland, through Summerland, to Penticton constitutes a pleasant means of progress.

OKANAGAN CENTRE

AS an example of what may be achieved by energy and perseverance, backed by a good soil and a perfect climate, this little settlement is a witness. The township and all the incidental works in the way of road-making, ditching, irrigation schemes and so forth, originated first in the brain of a Winnipeg firm who conceived the idea of acquiring a large tract of land whereon fruit might be raised, and a community thus be formed.

Having found what seemed to them good they wasted no time in surveying the townsite and fruit lots and putting the whole on the market.

The result of two years' work has been the planting of a small colony of some 200 people, equipped with a store, a hotel, a school, and the usual complement of trade-craft. The soil is much as we find elsewhere on the benches along the lake—for this is a benchland, or rather, a series of bench lands, throughout.

A government wharf, at which the steamboats stop on their way up and down the lake is built at the edge of the townsite and the Vernon-Kelowna stage road permits overland travellers to choose an alternative mode of reaching the outside world. The Post Office is, at present, at the Hotel.

KELOWNA

THE name Kelowna means, in the Indian tongue, "Grizzly Bear" and the origin of its present application is as follows: The townsite was formerly a ranch owned by one August Gillard who sold it to Lequime Brothers. These gentlemen had the property surveyed and subdivided into town lots, and, in 1891, at a meeting of a few residents the question of naming the embryonic city arose. After many suggestions had been made it was finally decided to call it "Kelowna" in consideration of the fact that the country around Bear Creek, which is opposite the townsite, was then noted as a great haunt of grizzly bear. Be this as it may, there is nothing suggestive of the grizzly in connection with the present city of this name. Far from it, for Kelowna in point of situation, in its lovely surroundings, in its magnificent stretch of country, in its orchards, its streets, its lake frontage, its busy and businesslike people, is truly a charming spot.

There is much that is historical attaching to Kelowna. In fact, its earliest days constitute one of its most interesting features. But we must first take a glance at its physical surroundings.

Some miles from Okanagan Landing, on its eastern side, the lake shows a large bay or elbow. Stretching back from this in an easterly direction is a fine open valley, rising gradually, and here and there breaking into broad benchlands, drained by one or two streams. This is the Mission Creek Valley, one of Okanagan's finest pieces of country. Two miles from the lake front, "Dry Valley" debouches on to the townsite from behind Knox Mountain (a high headland, overlooking the lake, whence one may get a birdseye view of the surrounding country). Parallel with this, and a few miles further back, another and wider valley emerges. Herein are situated the famous Rutland property—another of Kelowna's fruit-growing treasures—and the great area owned by the Central Okanagan Land Company.

If we were to take the stage road southward from Vernon (see Stage Roads) we must emerge onto Kelowna through one or other of the last-named valleys. On our way we might branch off to the left at the "railroad," as it is termed, between Long and Wood's Lakes. This would take us across to Fruitlands, a new townsite 11 miles from Vernon, or we might take the next branch road (on our right this time) leading to Okanagan Centre, a townsite on the Okanagan Lake. Later on the road forks, and we may choose either the Dry Valley road, which brings us out close to Kelowna, or else pursue our course through the Rutland Valley. Here again we may either turn to the right and go westward some five miles into the town, or by continuing south reach Benvoulin, a small settlement $3\frac{1}{4}$ miles south-east of Kelowna. From this point a road running eastward for about a mile and a half conducts us to the property owned by the Kelowna Land and Orchard Co.

From Benvoulin, due west, we may reach the Mission which is in the district known as Okanagan South, and from the Mission we may return northward to Kelowna by a good level road through most pleasant surroundings, especially as we near the suburbs.

The tourist will find much to interest him in his peregrinations throughout the Kelowna and Mission Valley country, for not only will the motorist or the cyclist find the road-surface good, but he will see thousands of broad acres fast being laid out in orchards, from whose trees apples, pears, plums, prunes, etc. hang invitingly. He will note the evidences, too, of new settlers, whose houses are dotted all over the landscape, with here and there some old homestead nestling among its cool, shady groves; and the variously-tinted green patches will tell him if he understand farm lore that here be turnips, or wheat, or oats, or garden produce—for in no way does Kelowna fall behind her sister towns in the productiveness of her soil or in the variety of her growing. It may be of interest to note that the 1908 Gold Medal for the best District Exhibit of fruit at the Provincial Exhibition held at New Westminster was won by Kelowna. Next to her came Vernon with the Silver Medal. But it is only just to add that some of Vernon's exhibit was hurriedly taken from the local stores; nor did she fill up all the varieties; the prizes, too, were awarded on points, so that she was perhaps handicapped. Curious as it may seem to him who does not know the Okanagan we would remark that tobacco is grown in this neighborhood which is pronounced by experts to be of the highest grade, and what is not exported is used by local cigar factories.

We may not here single out any particular farm or orchard in a district so well favored, but would say that a glance at her record in fruit contests will show Kelowna's claim to the name of the "Orchard City" to be based on good grounds. The expression one hears throughout the Okanagan applies equally to this area, "Everything grows well here."

The sportsman will find—as in the case of Vernon—that he must go farther afield for his quarry, although there is no lack of sport of various kinds. So far as shooting is concerned the wild duck and geese will amply compensate in a single day's hunt for the lack of larger game. Bear, deer, goat, etc., may be obtained, but a guide is necessary to insure good success. Fishing is unsurpassed—i.e., lake fishing, but the Waltonian system is here enlarged upon, since in the absence of the trout stream and the light rod we find the broad lake and the trolling more satisfactory. Near the opposite shore and four and a half miles south of the town are spoken of as very good spots for the fisherman.

In the matter of field sports there are many varieties—all represented by strong clubs. The Kelowna Rifle Association itself numbers over 170 members, and the Yacht Club makes a very brilliant showing at the annual regatta. For the numerous clubs the reader is referred to the Compendium.

We may say to the lover of music, that this city boasts a remarkably large number of competent musicians, and the Kelowna City Band and the Orchestral and Choral Societies are of a very high order indeed.

The summer camping resort lies close to town and rejoices in the ambitious name of Manhattan Beach. This is a sandy promontory close to the race track one mile north of the town, commanding an extensive view of the lake and surrounding country.

Kelowna was incorporated as a city in 1905 with a mayor (H. W. Raymer, Esq.) and five aldermen (see "Civic Officials"), and since this time the town has increased at a marvellous rate. So far as may be gathered the present population numbers over 1,300.

The following churches are well attended—the Anglican, Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian and Roman Catholic. This last has no church at Kelowna, but a good one at the Mission. Other denominations there are, but they are not yet fully organized. The Catholic Church at the Mission was founded in 1863-4. The old church and a good building still used as a church are still extant. The old burial ground is close by.

A good High School, a Graded School with four divisions, and six tributary schools, in the outlying district, represent the educational facilities.

At Raymer's Hall, which is the local theatre, the following lodges meet—A. F. & A. M., L. O. L., C. W. O. W., K. of P., C. O. F. (See Fraternal Societies in Compendium). A new and commodious opera house is just now nearing completion.

The water system, from an outlying source, has not yet been installed as it is proposed to do, but windmills are greatly used for pumping and irrigation purposes. A by-law has recently been passed authorising the borrowing of $40,000 to carry out a system of waterworks and electric lighting, and a power house is in course of construction on the lake shore close to the city. The septic tank system is the usual method of dealing with the sewerage question, yet, despite the fact that the town lies at a low level, outbreaks of zymotic disease are extremely rare, consequently the new hospital, which is well situated and organized, is starting under favourable auspices.

Royal Bank of Canada, for both have branches on the main street (Bernard Avenue).

The farmers and fruit-growers derive great help from their Farmers' Exchange and the Agricultural and Trades Association. (This last holds annual shows and race meetings). The Kelowna Board of Trade still further assists in the progress of all who engage in business. We have but to note the fine new business blocks recently erected, the new cement sidewalks and similar general improvements to know that here is a growing city—a city with transportation facilities, and other ready connection with the outside world by means of telephone, telegraph, steamboat, and stage line. Added to this a ferry-boat makes regular trips to Kelowna-Westbank across the Okanagan Lake, thus connecting with the north and south points on the opposite side.

Kelowna Sawmill Co. (capacity 25,000 feet), the cement block factory, the brick and tile works, the furniture and the engineering shops, the canning factory, and the boat-building yard, together with the well-equipped, up-to-date stores and full complement of professional and mechanical skill are matters which cannot fail to impress the visitor at first sight. And that these impressions are lasting is proved by the rapid expansion of the city and the whole district.

The position of Kelowna, facing the water, adds not only to its picturesqueness (and it is indeed picturesque, but gives it also every facility for the handling and shipping of the large quantities of fruit, vegetables, hay and grain, and canned fruit, besides tobacco and other products.

The Post Office (E. R. Bailey, P.M.) is situated facing the wharf on the main street. Mails arrive in winter on alternate days from north and south respectively, leaving Okanagan Landing on Mondays—the Vernon mail stage alternating with the boat. In summer months the boat mails arrive both ways daily—the stage still continuing its schedule. (See Stages and Transportation).

The Okanagan Valley is beyond doubt the fruit district of Canada. The only discontented people are those who have not used good judgment in the purchase of their home. For the careful, solid, willing man the Okanagan has much—for the drone, nothing—to offer.

WESTBANK

AT Kelowna the long distance telephone dips under the lake to the west shore, for, from here to Penticton we find, with the two exceptions of Okanagan South and Naramata, no important points of call. We will, therefore, cross to the new Westbank townsite. This is situated just out of sight from the lake on a bench-land behind a narrow strip of Indian reserve. It is some five miles from the Kelowna-Westbank ferry landing, but may be approached either from this or from Hall's Landing near at hand. (See Kelowna-Westbank Ferry). The townsite property consisted originally of about 600 acres, but the Townsite Company have disposed of a large part of the fruit lots, and active work is being commenced by the new owners.

Beyond a sawmill, store, post office (N. S. Marshall, P. M.), and the offices of the Townsite Company not much headway has been made in the building line so far, but lumber will soon be cut for the church, hotel, school, and dwellings which it is proposed to erect.

Tourists will find the hunting and the fishing both very good around here: the duck shooting in the neighbourhood being hard to excel. The climate is much the same as that of Peachland and Summerland, and the local scenery is well worthy an artist's brush.

Communication with the outside world is by no means perfect, as the mails are brought from Peachland by road on Thursdays. But it is probably only a matter of time until Westbank will take an important place among its sister fruit towns on the lake.

Our next point of call is Gellatly, another spot from which produce is shipped. It is called after the owner of the property, who, in addition to his horticultural pursuits, notably that of tomato-raising, also manages the little local Post Office.

PEACHLAND

SITUATED at the foot of sloping hills, and flanked on its north-western extremity by an abrupt rocky bluff, under which a beautiful lake-shore road winds for nearly two miles, is one of Okanagan's most interesting towns. In point of size Peachland does not at first strike the visitor as being out of the ordinary, because most of the inhabitants live just outside on the bench-lands, but a more exact knowledge of its inception, and of its growth since that time, is necessary before we pass criticism.

Let us go back to the time (1898) when Peachland was first founded by Mr. J. M. Robinson, a well-known newspaperman and politician of Brandon, Manitoba. Being interested in mining, he and some friends purchased a small townsite from Mr. C. A. R. Lambly, for residential purposes, and called it Peachland. In 1899, when development work on the Canadian American and Camp Hewitt mining properties shut down through lack of funds, Mr. Robinson turned his attention to benchland fruit-farming, on the principle of ten-acre lots under irrigation. The result of his campaign of immigration through the Northwest is the present community of 800 people and the success which has been achieved in all matters pertaining to fruit and agriculture.

In founding his small colony Mr. Robinson brought with him, as school teacher, Mr. C. G. Elliott, who still resides here, and the Rev. A. T. Robinson, M.A., at present the publisher of the Missionary Arena at Summerland.

Peachland is, as its name implies, largely given over to the cultivation of peaches, although we find growing to perfection, on the orchard-dotted terraces, all the different varieties of fruit and vegetables that are to be met with elsewhere throughout the Valley; whilst, on the higher lands above the town, we find hay and grain as well as fruit, for the country is more open.

Good roads lead from Peachland southward to Penticton, northward to Westbank, and westward to Meadow and Prairie Valleys; but most of the travel is by steamboat and launch.

As regards the climate, we may combine that of Summerland and of Kelowna and take the average as being fairly representative of the climatic conditions at Peachland.

The soil is mostly a light sandy loam, with here and there a warm clay loam. Parts of it also are largely composed of decayed rock. But of whatever nature it may be, the expression, "Bore a hole in the rock, stick in a tree and it will grow," seems to hold good. As an example of the value of land hereabout we may mention that in 1898 an acre could be bought for $2.50, but to-day an acre of the best improved soil, under irrigation, is worth over one thousand dollars. (See Tables of Produce and Land Values.) The various systems of irrigation are controlled by the Peachland Townsite Co., Lt., which obtains its water from Trepanier Creek on the north and Deep Creek on the south of the town, and the perfect system of piping and fluming are only equalled by the results obtained.

The following churches are represented, viz.: Anglican, Baptist (new church being erected), Methodist and Presbyterian. Services take place at present either at the Orange Hall or at the Presbyterian Church. (See Churches.)

Although almost all the usual lodges have members scattered around the district, there are only two fraternal societies holding regular meetings, viz., the L. O. L. and the C. O. F. The L. O. L. Hall is also used for church services and for public entertainments.

Peachland boasts a fine new four-roomed—and very well conducted—school facing the lake, and the daily attendance is quite satisfactory. (See Schools.)

For the benefit of those who like good literature, we would say that the Free Library, adjoining the church, is a great boon, and a credit to its founder, Rev. C. W. Whyte.

In the way of recreation Peachland's sporting clubs and her musical talent range from a football club to the string orchestra, but the fact of the community being scattered precludes the possibility of thorough organization.

Small as Peachland is in population, her business element is never the less strong. The Peachland Cannery with its up-to-date plant (daily capacity 200 cases), and the Fruit-growers' Association are both doing great work in their respective ways. There is a large box factory, also, near the town. Added to these are the usual stores, a large general store, a temperance hotel, a telephone, telegraph and post office (P. M., Mrs. McDougall), and an express office.

There is no local governing body at Peachland, nor do we see the rapid changes in the town itself which in some of the other towns seem to be the principal evidence of their natural resources. This is, perhaps, accounted for by the fact that, up to the present, Peachland has no large outlying area to draw upon, nor is her own territory large. Yet her growth has been steady and solid and the results of her efforts are justified in the very enviable reputation she has attained. For statistics regarding prices of produce, etc., the reader is referred to the "Compendium of Statistics."

NOTE.—Since the above facts were gathered Peachland has been incorporated as a rural municipality. A Board of Trade has also been organized. For particulars see "Civic Boards and Bodies" in Compendium.—Ed.

SUMMERLAND

THIS town, like its sister Peachland, owes much of its popularity and rapid growth to Mr. J. M. Robinson, who, after enlisting the financial sympathy of Sir T. Shaughnessy and other directors of the C. P. Ry., purchased in 1902 some 5,000 acres or more of fine bench-land which he divided into fruit lots and called by the appropriate name of Summerland. A splendid and very costly system, or rather three systems of irrigation were organized, which, drawing their water from Eneas, Prairie, and Trout Creeks, brought this large area into prime condition for the raising of fruit. Since that time a further quantity of land has been acquired and added to the first, and the successful handling of this whole great undertaking has been the direct means of placing Summerland side by side with the other and older towns of the Okanagan.

Under the cliff where the bench-lands end is the town itself, which, as we enter the bay gives us the impression of being smaller than its fame has led us to expect; but this is because we cannot see the full extent of the settlement. From the lake we can plainly distinguish part of the main street (Shaughnessy Avenue) with "Crescent Beach" at the south end of it. This latter is the pleasure resort, and includes, besides boat-houses and cottages, the race-track and athletic sports grounds. The road along the north shore would bring us, shortly, to a pretty little ten-acre park, and, continuing in this direction we should reach Peachland. The opposite route would lead us to Penticton; but by taking any of the branch roads we arrive on the bench-land above. This may be described as a diversified plateau 200 ft. above the lake and 1200 ft. above sea-level.

Looking westward from the bench behind the town we can see the entrances to three fertile valleys. That on the right is Garnet, whilst before us lies Prairie, and between Giant's Head Mountain and the range on our left, which overlooks the lake, is Peach Valley. Fertile and luxuriant, these sheltered spots are fast filling with settlers, and each year sees a large increase in their output, which goes to swell that of the area lying immediately before us.

This last mentioned consists of Jones' Flat, Gartrell Flat (called after J. Gartrell who exploited peaches in the district some 17 years ago), and Siwash Flat, and comprises many of the oldest ranches in Summerland. Good roads from all directions lead down to the town, and throughout the whole extent streams, ditches, pipes and flumes cross and re-cross each other—sometimes under the surface, at others 100 ft. high on trestles. The whole irrigation system is a fine piece of engineering, and represents an expenditure of over $80,000.

The soil is, generally, a warm sandy loam, or a whitish clay silt; and its depth may be gauged by glancing at its section in any of the ravines, or broken banks, along the shore. Its fertility is beyond question, as we find it producing excellent peaches (viz.: Crawford, Alexandra, Yellow St. John, Foster, Elberta, Triumph, etc.); apples, e.g. Newton Pippins, Hubbardson, Spy, Wagner, Gravenstein, Ben Davis, MacIntosh Red, Jonathan, Wealthy, and so forth; walnuts, almonds, quinces and grapes—chiefly Moore's Early Concord, Delaware, Black Diamond, etc. Cherries also do remarkably well; the demand for Royal Anne, and Black Tartarian being very great. Pears, prunes and plums, melons, as also all manner of small fruits, succeed admirably, and, in the vegetable line anything that may be raised anywhere else in the Okanagan Valley will grow equally well here. (See fruit statistics). Apropos of fruit, it may be mentioned that one local orchard has for the past three years won the silver Knightian medal at the London (Eng.) Horticultural Society's exhibition, open to the colonies of the Empire. It would seem invidious to single out any one name for publicity in these pages, since many other ranches throughout the Okanagan have distinguished themselves in similar ways at the great fruit exhibitions of the world: but a special feature will be made of these matters in a future edition of the "Guide."

The climate of Summerland is ideal, in fact we may almost leave zero out of the question. The summers are not unduly warm, the winters mild, and, between times, there may be one or two "raw" days. Snowfall is not deep, and a curling rink would often prove a disappointment owing to lack of ice. Rainfall averages between 6 and 10 inches. As a rule the lake does not "freeze up" in winter, although the shores are generally fringed with thin ice.

In 1906 the Municipality was formed with reeve (J. M. Robinson, Esq.) and council of four. This was about four years after the birth of the community, as such, and if the growth of the district has been great, no less has been that of the town.

Good water and electric lighting systems have been installed. Telegraphic and telephone connection with all points north and south are perfect, and the roads, trails, and lake transportation cannot well be improved on.

The spiritual welfare of the district is ministered to by the Anglican, Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches. The local lodges are: The A. F. & A. M. (just being formed), the C. O. F. and the L. O. L.

Okanagan College, a fine structure on the "Giant's Head," commanding a comprehensive view of the whole district, has just been completed and a large staff of competent teachers instructs the pupils in all branches, leading almost up to the Bachelor's Degree. There are also four graded Government schools in the Municipality. A printing and publishing office, viz.: that of Summerland "Review," (published Saturdays), and the editorial offices of the "Missionary Arena" (published monthly by the Rev. A. T. Robinson), together with the W. C. T. U. library comprise the local literary advantages.

The Bank of Montreal has a branch on Shaughnessy Avenue, opposite the post and telephone office. This, together with a hotel (not licensed for a bar) and all the usual civic appurtenances in the way of opera house, stores, livery, blacksmith and other shops, play an important part in the make-up of the town.

In addition to the foregoing Summerland has a well-organized Farmers' Association, a Fire Brigade with all necessary equipment, an Athletic Association, Boating and Sporting Clubs, and a Brass Band of some twenty-five members.

As a summer resort this is a delightful spot, and since there are good roads leading back into the mountains, where game is somewhat plentiful, the tourist and hunter are both well suited.

There are trout lakes in the vicinity, as well as creeks; and boats may be hired for a day's outing on the Okanagan Lake where the fisherman will not be disappointed in either the number or the size of the catch.

Through lack of space we may not, here, tell half of what we would, therefore the reader is referred elsewhere for statistics which, we trust, will be found of some use.

Real Estate and Insurance.

I am prepared to offer some of finest Fruit Land, improved and unimproved, at prices and terms that will be within reach of persons of large or small means, in the finest climate of Canada. Summerland, B. C.

NARAMATA

ABOUT three miles across the Okanagan Lake, directly opposite Summerland, is the new townsite of Naramata. This little community of less than two years' growth has foregathered at one of the most beautiful spots in the whole Okanagan. From the mountains behind, long benches slope down towards the water, terminating in a triangular sandy beach which juts out into the lake. A good wharf admits of the landing of passengers and freight, and, although not much produce is shipped as yet in the way of fruit, there is every evidence that great business will be done here in the near future.

On our way from the beach to the fruit-lands which have been plotted out on the benches to the extent of some 5000 acres we shall pass the offices of the Naramata Trust Co., Ltd., a hotel, a store and post office, a large number of cottages and tents, and all the signs of a busy little population arranging itself for solid work.

Over the post office and store is the opera house, the home of the Naramata Dramatic and Musical organizations, and which is fitted up with a stage and the necessary scenery and effects. Not far from the wharf is a sawmill and an up-to-date boat factory, where all kinds of boats and launches are turned out. There is also a Rest Cure Sanitarium for invalids—now small, but it will shortly be greatly enlarged and perfected for the accommodation of visitors.

The soil here is (as at Summerland) a warm sandy loam or whitish clay silt, and, backed as it is by a climate second to none in the Valley, the prospects of bringing all kinds of fruit to perfection are in favor of the many settlers who have acquired portions of the land.

The Bridal Veil Falls and other creeks near, besides being objects of beauty, are more than capable of supplying all the water wanted for irrigation, as well as power for an electric light and power station.

Church services are conducted at the "People's Church," as it is termed—a title indicative of the general state of communism which prevails. There is also a fine new school.

The hunting and fishing—more especially the latter,—the boating, bathing and camping are of the best, and it only remains to add that this coming town, also, owes its origin and well-being to Mr J. M. Robinson's foresight and energy.

PENTICTON

AT the southern end of Okanagan Lake lies Penticton, a pretty little town of 800 inhabitants, whose roads and streets are hewn through the cottonwood groves even to Lake Skaha (Dog Lake) $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles away; whose sidewalks and buildings are of a high order for a small town, and whose touches of ancient and modern British Columbian life (combining the backwoodsman, the prospector and the old "Prairie Schooner," with the fruit-grower, the steamboatman and the carriage) are real object lessons in progression.

The situation of Penticton at the end of the lake, and connecting as it were the Okanagan with the Boundary country, has much to do with its progress. But perhaps the greatest factor in bringing about the advancement of this charming locality is the splitting up of what is known as the Ellis Estate, with its many thousand acres, into fruit lots. The opening up of this large tract of valuable land, the placing of water upon it by means of an expensive and perfect system of ditching and fluming, followed by the extensive planting of fruit trees and their equally prolific growth, and the consequent widespread favour with which all these things have been met by those interested in the fruit industry, attest the growing popularity whilst auguring well for the future of the district.

From the Southern Okanagan Land Company's benches on the east side we look down over an immense tract of low lying land. On our north, or right hand, is the great lake. Before us on the west lies a terraced mountain, at whose foot runs the Summerland road, much as the Naramata road runs behind us. The mountain and a great portion of the country south of it is the Indian reservation.

Most of the large meadow at the "foot" of the lake—and through which the Okanagan River winds towards Dog Lake—was formerly part of the immense Ellis estate, now owned by the S. O. Land Co. who are fast splitting it up into fruit lots, whilst, directly beneath us, is the picturesque little town, half hidden by the vegetation. The gap in the mountain opposite us gives egress to Beaver Creek which flows into Okanagan River two miles below the town. From an easterly direction the Ellis Creek emerges through a gorge and empties itself into the Okanagan River $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of the town and close to the Beaver Creek outlet.

As we look southward our view comprises part of the western range and Dog Lake (8 miles long) close at hand. We can even note the line where the main street cuts its way from lake to lake, and can almost mark the position close to the end of Dog Lake where the Keremeos road joins that from Fairview.

At the southern end of Dog Lake are the Okanagan Falls, 14 miles from Penticton. These are a bifurcated series of rapids capable of generating tremendous power. At this point the Fairview road from Penticton bends eastward, crosses the river, and, after passing Vasseaux Lake, which is about 4 miles long, takes a course S. and W. until it reaches the mining "camp" or town of Fairview which is some 30 miles or so from Penticton.

A road connecting Fairview with Keremeos on the V. V. & E. Ry. in the Similkameen Valley completes what we may call the southern triangle. Thus, on reference to the map and to stage routes we shall plainly note how the Okanagan Valley may be reached from the southward. But as this Guide treats only with Okanagan Valley it is not permitted us to enter into details regarding this part of the country other than by saying that the scenery is in many parts passing grand, the climate, as elsewhere in the district, is par excellence, a fruit-growing climate, and the soil is equally well adapted to this form of culture.

From our own point of observation looking over Penticton we may see around us on all sides young orchards laid out with a precision denoting great care, and a disposition to make the most of the valuable, though limited, holdings.

Apples of all varieties, pears, plums, peaches, cherries—in short, all the fruits found elsewhere along the lake are making strenuous efforts to be on hand when the exhibitions take place, and, if the cherries grown here are any criterion, the other fruits will prove an invaluable asset to those who make "fruit" their business. (See statistics of fruit).

Irrigation is here largely employed, and the S. O. Land Co., whose property extends over some 30,000 acres, is installing a perfect system wherever water may be obtained.

The soil in this neighborhood varies from a black loam in the lowlands to a deep, warm sandy, or a light to medium clay loam on the benches. The sub-soil is a somewhat heavier clay reaching to a great depth, and experts pronounce it excellent for fruit-growing. For the favorite varieties of these fruits we would refer our readers to any of the local authorities.

The climate of Penticton and the surrounding country is dry, sunny, and mild, with the purest of mountain air. The warm summer days are tempered by lake breezes, and the nights are always cool. In winter zero is not often experienced. The snowfall varies from almost nothing at times to six or eight inches. As at other points on the lake, the season generally opens about the middle of March when spring comes in with rapid strides and as rapidly merges into summer.

Apropos of climate throughout the Okanagan we would point out the fact that it is quite unlikely that two consecutive years will show similar thermal or barometric readings, but it may be taken as a rule that extremes of heat or of cold are decidedly unusual, and are always of short duration. One thing, however, is absolutely certain, and that is the ultimate settling-up of the Okanagan Valley. Land is being rapidly split up into smaller plots, and the day is not far distant when even this will end. The influx of settlers into Penticton has been rapid, and this district is no different to any other throughout the Valley.

Between Okanagan Lake country and the U. S. boundary line lies a vast territory, mainly composed of mountainous land, and the settlements at present are fewer and further apart than heretofore on our route, hence the hunter will find that game is fairly plentiful. (See Game Laws). Mr. J. W. Edmonds (hunting guide) gives us the following data regarding sport around Penticton:

Hunting—Bear, brown, black and silver-tip, within a few hours' ride from town; cougar (mountain lion), lynx, etc., near town; mink, marten, coyote, etc., within thirty miles; timber wolves, scarce and far back; mountain sheep (bighorn), ten miles; goat about forty miles away; duck (14 varieties), geese, occasionally swan, prairie chicken on the benches; blue and ruffed or willow grouse on hills near town, and ptarmigan and fool hen (Franklin grouse), higher up.

Fishing—On Okanagan and Dog Lakes: Silver and rainbow trout and grayling; in spring, salmon trout; fish with otter bait, spoon, minnow, or fly. On Ellis and Penticton Lakes, and Okanagan River: Brook trout and rainbow trout. Flies: Blue Upright, Blue Dun, Coachman, Royal Coachman, and Professor.

Penticton has had until the present year (1909) no form of civic administration other than an efficient Board of Trade which attended to matters of this nature, but in January the charter was granted which gave her the standing of a rural municipality. (See "Civic Boards and Bodies" in Compendium).

In the matter of churches there are the Anglican, Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic (church on Indian Reserve 2 miles south of Penticton), and Seventh Day Adventists, although only the first two have churches in town.

The lodges are represented by the A. F. & A. M., C. W. O. W., I. O. O. F., and L. O. L.

There is also a fine new graded school with three assistant teachers.

A good cannery is kept busy during the season canning tomatoes, peaches, and other fruits, and the Southern Okanagan Fruit Growers' Exchange and the Southern Okanagan Fruit Growers' Association do good work in their several ways.

Spirit and enterprise go hand in hand at Penticton, hence we find, in addition to the foregoing, a Civilian Rifle Association of over 60 members, although but newly formed; a Volunteer Fire Brigade, an Anti-Tuberculosis Society, a Literary and Debating Society, a Dramatic Society, and an Athletic Association whose grounds cover 23 acres. The tennis and boating and other clubs devoted to sport show a large membership. Entertainments are usually held at Steward's Hall (See Opera Houses) and smaller gatherings at the Woodmen's Hall. There is a branch office of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and the different trades and professions seem to be well represented.

In the matter of stores, hotels, livery and feed barns, etc., Penticton ranks well, not only in point of numbers, but in their generally up-to-date appearance. The post office (at Schubert's Block) is three minutes' walk from the government wharf, where the C. P. R. sheds and Dominion Express offices are situated. The Telephone Exchange is on Main Street opposite the offices of the "Penticton Press" (the local newspaper, published on Saturdays). Regarding rate of wages, prices of building material, etc., the reader is referred to the compendium of statistics.

Having conducted the traveller from north to south throughout the length and breadth of the Okanagan Valley it may be finally mentioned that, should he wish to continue his journey southward, he may take the stage to Oroville (Wash., U. S. A.), via Okanagan Falls, Fairview and Osoyoos, or the Keremeos and Hedley stage lines. (See Transportation).

In conclusion we may add that it is a matter of important comment that a short railway route will connect Penticton with the coast cities, in the near future. If this be so—and we have little cause for doubt—then the welfare of the community, as, also, its rapid development into a large and thriving population, is definitely assured.

ADVICE TO IMMIGRANTS

(See also "Outlay and Returns" and Tables of Produce and Land Values.)

Those desirous of emigrating from the British Isles may obtain full information from the Dominion Emigration Agents at Birmingham, Cardiff, Dublin, Liverpool, Belfast, or Glasgow, or from the Agent-General for British Columbia (Offices—Salisbury House, Finsbury Circus, London), The High Commissioner for Canada, 17 Victoria St. London, etc., etc. Under the heading of "Miscellaneous" will be found particulars regarding the class of articles permitted to enter Canada, as Settlers' Effects—duty free. If such should amount to any large quantity it would be well to get them insured.

Surplus sums of money may be paid into the Dominion Express Company's Offices in London, Liverpool, or Glasgow, and a money order therefor obtained, payable at any point in British Columbia. Or, again, money may be paid into any Bank in London having an Agency in British Columbia. This system applies equally to persons coming from Eastern Canada or from the United States, etc.

It only remains to commend the prospective settler, firstly to the above-mentioned agents, and, secondly, to his own energy and resources.

The following comparative Money Tables (Canadian and English) may be of assistance to those unused to the decimal system of coinage:

|--|----|----|
| One dollar ($1.00), 100 cents, equals 50 pence.... | 4 | 2 |
| $\frac{3}{4}$ dollar (\$.75), 75 cents, equals 37½ pence.... | 3 | 1½ |
| $\frac{1}{2}$ dollar (\$.50), 50 cents, equals 25 pence.... | 2 | 1 |
| $\frac{1}{4}$ dollar (\$.25), 25 cents, equals 12½ pence.... | 1 | 0½ |

Allowing for rate of exchange, one sovereign equals about $4.80.

Similarly, a five pound Bank note equals about $24.00.

The rate of exchange varies from about $4.80 to near $4.86 to the pound sterling.

See also "Wages," "Miscellaneous," "Produce and Land Values," and concluding remarks in general write-up of Okanagan Valley.

WAGES.

Goodhousehold help is very scarce. Domestic servants command $12 to $24 per month with board.

A first-class mechanic or labourer who is steady and industrious need have little fear of making a living the the Okanagan. There is not an inch of room for a drone. The worker who has a small amount of capital has an undoubted advantage, and should not fail to do well. The following may be taken as an average of wages throughout the Valley.

Bricklayers, $4.50 to $5.00 per day.

Plasterers, $4.00 to $5.00 per day.

Masons, $5.00 per day.

Carpenters, $3.00 to $4.00 per day.

Plumbers, 40 to 45 cents per hour.

Fruit labourers, $2.00 to $2.50 per day without board.

Teamsters, $2.00 to $2.50 per day without board.

Teams, $4.00 to $6.00 per day (including driver).

Painters, 35 cents per hour.

Blacksmiths, $3.50 per day.

Camp cooks, $45.00 to $70.00 per month and board (according to size of camp).

Cook's help, $30.00 to $40.00 per month and board.

Bush hands, $30.00 to $40.00 per month and board.

Store clerks, $45.00 to $70.00 (according to competency).

A large tile will carry more water according to its size than a small one. This is because there is less surface on the inside of the large tile compared with the size of the stream, and therefore less friction. More water will flow through a straight tile than a crooked one having the same diameter.

Example:—A nine-inch tile at 6 inches fall to the 100 feet will flow 493 gals. per minute.

Measurement of Hay and Grain.

Good timothy hay will average about five hundred cubic feet per ton. Finer hay is heavier. Hay cut when nearly ripe is lighter than that cut green. Hay in a stack usually occupies a little more space per ton than in a well-filled mow. Clover hay is much lighter than hay from the grasses, usually requiring from seven hundred to eight hundred cubic feet for a ton. in a well-filled mow, or somewhat more if in smaller bulk. There is much guesswork in measuring hay.

How to Find the Number of Shingles Required for a Roof.

Rule.—Multiply the length of the ridge pole by twice the length of one rafter, and, if the shingles are to be exposed $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches to the weather, multiply by 8, and if exposed 5 inches to the weather, multiply by 7, and you have the number of shingles.

Note.—Shingles are 16 inches long, and average about 4 inches wide. They are put up in bundles of 250 each.

One thousand shingles, laid four inches to the weather, will cover 100 square feet of surface, and five pounds of shingle nails will fasten them on.

One-fifth more siding and flooring is needed than the number of square feet of surface to be covered, because of the lap in the siding and matching of the floor.

One thousand laths will cover seventy yards of surface, and eleven pounds of lath nails will nail them on.

Eight bushels of good lime, sixteen bushels of sand and one bushel of hair will make enough mortar to plaster 100 square yards.

A cord of stone, three bushels of lime and a cubic yard of sand will lay 100 cubic feet of wall.

Four courses of brick will lay one foot in height on a chimney; six bricks in a course will make a flue four inches wide and twelve inches long, and eight bricks in a course will make a flue eight inches wide and sixteen inches long.

A close season has been declared by Order in Council for the following animals in the districts named:—

Mountain Sheep.—All that portion of the Province to the south of the Canadian Pacific Railway from the Coast as far east as the Columbia River, from Revelstoke to the International Boundary.

HUNTING.

The hunting in the Upper Okanagan Valley itself is, as may be surmised, not of the best. This is owing to the thickly-settled condition of the district. Therefore, in order to obtain a good day's sport, it is necessary to ascend the mountains, and even to go into the adjacent valleys. There the game is both varied and fairly abundant. In the Lake district, and more especially toward the Boundary line and vicinity, game of all the usual varieties may be had within comparatively easy reach.

The most favoured hunting grounds in the Valley are as follows:

SICAMOUS—Across the Shuswap Lake and in secluded parts along the shores. (Guides furnished by C. P. Ry. Co.)

MARA—North-east of the village and towards Mabel Lake. (Guide, M. Huppel, Mabel Lake Road).

ENDERBY—In the Spallumcheen Valley, and amongst the mountains to the West. (Guide, M. Huppel, Mabel Lake Road, Enderby).

ARMSTRONG—In the mountains on the East and West and South-west, in Salmon River district. (Guide, enquire locally).

VERNON—Amongst the mountains on North-east and South-east (East of Long Lake). Also on the West side of Okanagan Lake. (Guides, C. H. Christie, Del. Thomas, Vernon).

LUMBY—This is a good hunting locality, especially on the plateau to the South-east and on the mountains around Mabel Lake. Also Eastward about Cherry Creek and Monashee districts, around the headwaters of Kettle River. (Guides, C. H. Christie and Del. Thomas, Vernon).

KELOWNA—Amongst the mountains S. E. of K. L. O. Co's benches and the headwaters of Mission Creek, and at the head of Deer Creek, on the West side. (Guides, D. McDougall, Victor Boree and T. Simpson, Kelowna).

WESTBANK—In the mountains on the West almost from here to Peachland, and, as in other parts, at the headwaters of the different creeks. (Guides, D. A. Reid, Peachland, also see Kelowna).

PEACHLAND—Almost anywhere to West and Northwest (See Summerland) and across the Lake on East side.

NARAMATA—This district is large, and good hunting may be had among the mountains to North-east and East. (Guides, J. W. Edmonds, Penticton; Geo. Gartrell, Summerland).

SUMMERLAND—The usual hunting is somewhat limited amongst mountains close at hand. Mountain sheep and grizzly bear 15 to 20 miles North-west of town; goat 40 miles back. (Guide, Geo. Gartrell).

PENTICTON—(See "write-up" of Penticton). Good hunting amongst the mountains in almost any direction. The country toward the Boundary Line is more sparsely settled than Northward throughout the Valley. Hence the hunting is, on the whole, distinctly good, and the variety of game large. (Guide, J. W. Edmonds, Penticton).

For the information of the "Old-Country" sportsman we would say, discard the Express or Elephant gun, as this class of weapon has been proved useless in B. C. The favourite rifle here is the .303 and 30-30 and 25-35 which may be obtained locally, together with such ammunition as may be needed.

NOTE.—The word "hunting" is here used to include Bear, Deer, Cougar (or Panther), Lynx, Beaver, Marten, and the class of animals usually met with, as well as Grouse and other game birds.

FISHING.

The fishing throughout Okanagan Valley is of two kinds, viz.: lake fishing, mostly deep trolling, for large Rainbow and Silver Trout; and creek, or river, fishing, for Silver and Rainbow Trout and Grayling. Where a stream connects two lakes, and at other places where the fish "run" in spring, good fly or bait fishing may be obtained, and the catches are at these times large. During the later Summer months a curious species of fish—very palatable, and resembling a diminutive salmon of bright red colour—swarms up the creeks from the Shuswap and Okanagan Lakes in myriads, and these are speared and salted for winter use. (The local term for these is "Kickaninnie"). Some consider them a kind of degenerate land-locked salmon.

The favourite haunts of the fisherman are not sufficiently well-defined to merit a special notice here, but the stranger will experience no difficulty in selecting his own fishing grounds. (See "write-up" on Okanagan Valley).

Since the same class of bait holds equally good throughout all Okanagan Valley waters the following may be taken as a general standard:

Baits for Lake Fishing.

Lake-trolling.—Otter bait, spoon and minnow. (Near shore, rod and fly).

Flies, in order of preference.—(March, April, May)—Red Palmer, March-Brown, White Moth in evenings. (June, July, August)—Paramacheen Belle, Grasshopper Fly, Queen of Waters, Professor, Montreal, Cowdung, Blue Upright, Silver Doctor, Wickham's Fancy.

Baits for River and Creek Fishing.

Devon Bait.—Small Spoon or Artificial Minnow for trolling.

Fly Fishing.—(Flies smaller than used on the lakes.)—Blue Upright, Blue Dunn, Coachman, Royal Coachman, Professor.

Use long and strong tackle on lakes (rod for trolling is optional) and light rod and tackle in smaller streams.

The local stores are well stocked with all kinds of fishing requisites.

JUDICIARY

(See also Justices of Peace and Notaries Public.)

Vernon is the county town of Okanagan Judicial District and twice a year (viz. in May and October) the Assizes are held here. One or other of the following Judges of the High Court preside, viz., Chief Justice Hunter of the Supreme Court of B. C., Justices Clement, Irving, Martin and Morrison. The County Court Judge, W. W. Spinks (of Vernon), presides over Yale Division, which includes Vernon, Kamloops, Fairview, Princeton and Nicola.

The Sheriff for Yale County is Wentworth Woods (Kamloops).

Deputy Sheriff—Charles Godwin (Vernon).

The following have jurisdiction in Small Debts Court cases in Okanagan District: Enderby, G. Rosoman; Armstrong, J. M. Wright; Vernon, none; Kelowna, J. F. Burne; Penticton, Messrs. J. R. Mitchell, J.P., and I. M. Stevens, J.P. (acting together); Fairview, J. R. Brown.

The Courts of Assize are for criminal and capital offences, and, as stated before, are presided over by one of the Supreme Court Judges. Jurors are empanelled by the Sheriff, and prisoners sentenced to a term of less than two years are sent to Kamloops Jail, or, for a longer term, to New Westminster Penitentiary.

Judge Spinks adjudicates in all County Court cases, also in all speedy trials of criminal offences.

Minor criminal cases are tried by one or other of the Stipendiary or Police Magistrates, whose business is to try all summary conviction cases and to investigate indictable offences. Upon conviction, the prisoner is either sent to Kamloops or, for a short term, held at Vernon.

Any two Justices have the same power to commit to jail as a Stipendiary Magistrate. One Justice has power to commit only for trial, except in certain minor offences.

The Chief of Prov. Police (E. C. Simmons), has jurisdiction over the area known as Okanagan Electoral District, with headquarters at Vernon. Under him are the Provincial Constables at Enderby, Armstrong, Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton.

OUTLAY AND RETURNS

Being a Rough Estimate, Showing as Nearly as Possible the Principal Primary Expenses Incidental to Settling in the Okanagan Valley.

From time to time the question arises, "What will it cost me to go to the Okanagan and settle down on my own fruit ranch, and what returns may I expect?" Or, again, from the workingman's point of view, "What would be my expenses and chance of employment?"

These are the most difficult of all questions to answer. And, even with certain figures before us, we can only expect to arrive at a general impression since no two persons' needs—as no two temperaments and capabilities—are alike. The same rule will, of course, apply to all settlers, viz.: Firstly, they must arrive in the Okanagan; secondly, they must live whilst deciding what their course is to be; thirdly, there are the expenses of actually settling down. Therefore the initial outlay may be briefly classified under the following headings:

1. Transportation to Okanagan Valley.
2. Living expenses whilst looking around us.
3. Cost of purchase of property (fruit ranch, farm, etc.)
4. Cost of building and furnishing the home. (This may be disregarded if there are buildings on the property purchased, and if the settler bring his own effects).

Concerning No. 1—The Transportation Agents will furnish rates, or they may be found in "Waghorn's Guide" (Winnipeg).

Concerning No. 2—These will be shown presently.

Concerning No. 3—See Tables of Produce and Land Values and closing items in these remarks.

Concerning No. 4—See Tables of "Wages, Building Material, Etc."

Concerning No. 5—See Statistics on "Estimated Cost of Fruit Ranch."

We will now divide the settlers into three classes, viz: Class A, those in comfortable circumstances; Class B, those whose means are limited; and Class C, those whose income depends chiefly on the daily wage. In each case the family shall be supposed to consist of husband, wife, son, and daughter.

According to the above-named expenses (omitting transportation to the Okanagan and the fact that Class A generally stays at an hotel whilst deciding where to settle), we may consider the following figures as a fair average for the first month; allowing that Class B probably buys new goods as quoted under, and that Class C may find it more economical to buy at secondhand as cited under C:

|--|--------------------|--------------|--------------------|
| Rent | $15.00 to $18.00 | | $12.00 to $15.00 |
| Fuel (wood) | 4.50 | | 4.00 |

| Foodstuffs | 35.00 " 40.00 | | 25.00 " 35.00 |

| *Utensils | 5.00 | | 2.00 |
| *Plain Table..... | 5.00 | | 2.00 |
| *Crockery, etc.... | 4.00 | | 2.00 |
| *6 Chairs..... | 6.00 | | 3.00 |
| *Carpet | 8.00 | | 3.00 |
| *Beds and Mattresses | 30.00 | | 18.00 " 20.00 |
| Bedroom Ware... | 3.00 | | 2.00 |
| *Bedroom F'rni'tre | 10.00 | | 7.50 |
| Total for first month | | Total..... | |
|$147.00 | |$92.50 | |
| Items marked thus (*) may be omitted for subsequent months | |$49.50 | |
|91.00 | |$43.00 | |
| Household expenses second and succeeding months.. | | | |
|$ 56.50 | | | |

We may add that hotel expenses vary from $1.00 to $2.50 per day, with special rates by the week and month and for families.

Concerning Returns, see also tables of "Produce and Land Values."

The following estimated cost of a fruit ranch, which is taken from the Vernon Board of Trade pamphlet for 1908, may interest the reader:

|---|------------|
| 10 acres cleared land at $200 | $2,000.00 |
| Fencing | 100.00 |
| Cost of setting out trees, cultivating, spraying, etc., for first year | 250.00 |
| Cost of cultivation, etc., after first year ($200 per year) for 4 years..... | 800.00 |

Total.....$3,250.00

"A very conservative estimate of the value of a 5-year-old ten-acre orchard in bearing is $6,000, while annual returns from such an orchard may vary from $1,200 to $2,000 per year."

PRODUCE AND LAND VALUES

The following Tables gathered from different sources and extending over a period of two years will furnish a good general idea of prices paid to the farmer for produce, whilst showing at the same time the average prices paid for land in the district. It must, however, be remembered that in no one instance is it deemed wise to depend on the statistics absolutely, as they change almost daily in some cases. These figures are merely offered as a guide. Moreover, in the matter of improved land much depends upon the nature and the amount of such improvements. Hence some of the quotations may seem rather confusing to the reader who is not acquainted with the conditions and method of classification. In such cases it would perhaps be wise to apply to reliable local authorities for the latest ruling prices.

FRUIT TREE STATISTICS

(With Notes Thereon).

The following is an approximate estimate of the acreage planted in fruit trees in the Okanagan Valley up to the Spring of 1908. The information is gathered from reliable sources, and, if anything, is somewhat underestimated:

| District. | Acres. |
|------------------------------------|--------|
| Enderby | 250 |
| Mara | 100 |
| Armstrong | 500 |
| Vernon (including Coldstream)..... | 1,500 |
| Okanagan Centre..... | 120 |
| Kelowna | 1,500 |
| West side Okanagan Lake..... | 250 |
| Peachland | 850 |
| *Summerland | 2,000 |
| Penticton | 1,000 |

Total.....8,070

*We are given to understand that these figures reached 4,000 acres during the summer.

Including Wood's Lake, Naramata, Okanagan Landing, Lumby and minor outlying points we should find a total of at least 10,000 acres.

At an average of 75 trees to the acre we should have a total of 750,000 trees.

When all these trees are bearing, say in 1911, at an average of 10 boxes of fruit per tree, 7,500,000 boxes. At an average of 600 boxes to the car, 12,500 carloads. At an average profit of 75 cents per box, $5,625,000.

One may allow a cost of about 28 to 30 cents per box for picking, packing and laying down at the depot.

[To the Semi-Weekly Okanagan Publishing Company and to Mr. F. R. E. DeHart, the well known fruit expert of Kelowna, our thanks are due for much assistance in arriving at the above information.—Ed.]

SCHOOLS IN OKANAGAN VALLEY AND SCHOOL TRUSTEES

[NOTE.—The schools are corrected to Jan., 1909, but the School Trustees are corrected only to Oct., 1908, subsequent changes will appear in the next edition.—Ed.]

Apropos of Schools it might be worthy of remark that the Public School system of British Columbia is free and non-sectarian, and is of as high a state of efficiency as that of any other province in the Dominion. The annual expenditure hereon amounts to some $400,000.

The Government builds a school-house, makes a grant for incidental expenses, and pays a teacher in every district where twenty children between the ages of six and sixteen can be gathered together. At the head of the Education Department is the Minister of Education. There are also the Superintendent and four Inspectors, and, locally, the Boards of Trustees. The Public School system in B. C. was established in 1872 with 28 schools and as many teachers. There are, at the present time, more than that number of schools in Okanagan Valley alone, irrespective of private schools and colleges. The Inspector for the District is Mr. A. E. The Wise Tourist Engages a Guide

WHY?

Because he knows that a good guide will enable him to see and know the most interesting points in the shortest time, and know them better than if he were to go on a tour of investigation by himself.

The Wise Prospective Settler Should Also Engage a Guide

WHY?

Because when he is looking for a spot where he wishes to make a home he naturally wants to be reasonably sure that he has selected the most satisfactory place. And how can he do this unless he has made himself familiar with the special features of the various sections of the district he has in view? Ask us to send you The Vernon News FREE FOR ONE MONTH, and we are satisfied that if it is the Okanagan District you are thinking about, The Vernon News will be your guide.
