MACKENSEN RETIRES BEFORE ALLIES IN DOBRUDJA French Continue Successful Fighting North of Somme

FOE RETREATS HASTILY FROM DOBRUDJA LINE

Von Mackensen Fires Village Before Withdrawing South Before Allies.

STOP JUL ADVANCE

Roumanians Cease Pursuit When Teuton Reinforcements Arrive.

Special Cable to The Toronto World. London, Nov. 6.—The feature of the news from Roumania today was the official announcement of the retreat of Von Mackensen in the Dobrudja before the strong pressure of the allies and much speculation exists as to the exact nature of the allied action that caused the Kaiser's trusted field marshal to decide on a retrograde. No news has been received of any big battle beyond the ordinary reports of activity by scouts issued from Russian sources.

Bucharest announces today that advanced Roumanian detachments have won several successes in sharp clashes with the enemy. Before retiring Von Mackensen ordered to be set on fire the village of Dnestr, Caritzi, Roman and Gaidar. This is the first intimation of the retreat.

Concerning the operations in the Dobrudja, the Russians report that cavalry and advanced infantry detachments of the allies engaged in successful encounters. The chief new features of the operations on the Transylvanian front comprise the arrival of hostile reinforcements in the Jul Valley, and the halting of the Roumanian pursuit and the fact that after stubborn battles the Roumanians fighting in the direction of Feredal were compelled to fall back southward a little distance. The situation in general on the Transylvanian front is unchanged. All along the Danube the artillery firing has become lively.

GERMANY IS TO HAVE DICTATOR OF ECONOMICS

Gen. Groener's Appointment Probably Means Von Batocki's Retirement. London, Nov. 6.—A Berlin despatch forwarded by way of Copenhagen says The Berlin Post announces that Gen. Groener, who, according to a recent report, was to become head of the department of munition will be made dictator of economics with absolute power to deal with exports and imports and to have control of the appointment of all officials connected with food question. According to The Post, Adolf Von Batocki, president of the food regulation board probably will be placed under Gen. Groener, unless, "as expected," he prefers to retire.

ITALIANS SECURE CAPTURED LINES

Straighten Out New Front Between Gorizia and Sea by Assaults.

FOE ATTACKS LESSEN

Ally Lays Siege to Fortified Village of Castagnievizza.

Special Cable to The Toronto World. London, Nov. 6.—The Italians are firmly established on the new line which they have captured on the front between a point east of Gorizia and the sea, and they are engaged in completing the consolidation of their position. Here and there along their line they attacked points jutting out as salients and broke them off so as to straighten their line. Fifty prisoners were taken in these operations.

The Italians are now proceeding with the siege of Castagnievizza, which the Austrians had strongly fortified with machine guns and other implements of resistance. This place is being violently bombarded by the attacking forces, and it is expected that it will be stormed by bombing squads in a short time. The Austrians have been launching fewer counter-attacks than on the first two days of the offensive on account of the severe punishment which has been given them. At one place described as in the direction of Lukar the fighting got to close quarters, and the Italians drove back the foe with the bayonet.

At other points on the front the artillery of the enemy was very active. The Austrians who have not admitted the Italian success, but who rather have reported the action as if the Austrians were winning, claim tonight that in the coastal region the attacking activity of the Italians had diminished considerably. They make the assertion that the Italian losses during the last days of the battle were exceedingly heavy and proportionate to the massed employment of the Italian infantry.

ALLIES BATTLE WITH TEUTONS IN HEAVY GALE

Wind Blows at Velocity of Eighty Miles Per Hour.

GUNS FIRE WILDLY

Bombardment of Hundred German Batteries Escapes Aerial Control.

BY ASHMEAD BARTLETT. With the French Army on the Somme Front, Sunday, Nov. 5, via Chantilly, Nov. 6.—The battle today in the district between Sully-Sallise and St. Pierre Wood, was fought without the assistance of aeroplanes.

The wind, blowing 80 miles an hour, prevented the planes from ascending, and consequently the artillery fire from 100 German batteries, as well as from the French and British, was uncontrolled aerially. Every inch of the battleground was a danger spot and the correspondent of the Associated Press and other correspondents were compelled to take shelter in a dugout.

When the French infantry attacked a powerful series of trenches with trench mortars and grenades they found a strong garrison, which in one position surrendered in a body, with their officers, more than 500 running at a racing pace into the French lines, and for two miles and a half to the rear, accompanied by only half a dozen French guards. It was a strange sight when they ran the gauntlet of the German barrage fire.

St. Pierre-Vaast Wood is more than two kilometers square, with many positions enfolding each other, and proved a most difficult problem for the French. The British infantry finally rushed the place and held it with slight losses. The battle continued into the night.

ADMIRALTY REPLIES TO BERLIN CHARGE

No Orders That Survivors of German Subs Need Not Be Rescued.

PRETEXT FOR PIRACY?

Such May Be German Motive in Making Baseless Accusation.

London, Nov. 6.—The admiralty tonight, in a published communique, again denies that it ever issued orders that survivors of German submarines need not be rescued. The communique states that the German press "is trying to make capital out of what they describe as a second Baralong case, possibly in order to incite American opinion against Great Britain, or as a pretext for an unrestrained submarine campaign."

The communique cites the facts of the case, showing that a British auxiliary flying a neutral flag, on Sept. 24, 1915, approached a German submarine in the western channel, engaging in sinking a British merchantman. When within range the auxiliary hoisted a white ensign and fired on and sank the submarine, and then rescued the crew of the merchantman from their boats. When this was done, she also rescued two of the submarine's crew who had climbed into a drifting boat.

The communique claims that the use of a neutral flag was justifiable, as shown by the German practice in the case of the Moewe, and in other instances, and says that "nobody but a German could base an allegation of brutality on the lapse of a few minutes between the rescue of Britishers and Germans."

As described by the German admiralty, the submarine was engaged in the examination of a steamer in the neighborhood of the Scilly Islands, apparently innocent merchantman flying the American flag. The steamer, according to the account, ostensibly prepared to lower a boat, but when the submarine approached to within 200 yards the supposed merchantman suddenly opened concealed ports and began firing. The submarine was sunk, but two of the crew reached the water and swam for an empty boat. The German admiralty alleges that the steamer attempted to ram the boat and the Germans sprang from it and clung to the wreckage for half an hour, when the steamer finally plied them up.

Quantity of Hay, Fowls and Machinery Burned, and No Insurance. Cornwall, Nov. 6.—The large barns of Jacob Miller, almost in the heart of the town, were completely destroyed by fire this morning, together with about 200 fowls, ten tons of hay and four of straw, some farm machinery, harness, derricks and other hoisting apparatus, and a large quantity of lumber. The firemen were fighting a fire in the east end of the town at the time and the Miller fire had gained considerable headway before the brigade reached the scene. Mr. Miller's loss will be nearly $3000, with no insurance.

ITALIAN SUBMARINES FIRE ON BIG WARSHIP

Bold Exploit in Austria's Great Naval Post of Pola Reported.

Rome, Nov. 6.—Italian submarines entered the harbor of Pola and ineffectively fired two torpedoes at a large warship and returned unscathed after making a comprehensive reconnaissance under the guns of the fortress.

Italian torpedo boats sank a large enemy steamer moored under the shelter of the defenses at Durazzo the night of Nov. 3.

Pola is the great naval port and arsenal of Austria at the extremity of the peninsula of Istria on the Adriatic, south of Trieste.

Lord Shaughnessy Says Canada Objects to Peace Patters

Canadian Associated Press Cable. London, Nov. 6.—Lord Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific, interviewed, said: "We have no patience with peace prettlers in Canada. Your chief concern is to win the war. When Great Britain thinks the hour has come to discuss peace terms, then Canada will be perfectly satisfied, but not till then."

ALLIES TO JOIN BATTLE WITH MACKENSEN SOON

Big Forces of Russians and Roumanians Pursue Retreating Foe Southward in Dobrudja.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.

Special Cable to The Toronto World. London, Nov. 6.—The Roumanians and Russians in the Dobrudja have rallied and struck back at Von Mackensen. Infantry and cavalry detachments drove southward along the Danube today and forced the invader back along the whole western flank of the front. Von Mackensen's troops, under the strong pressure of the advancing columns, were compelled to abandon four villages north of Hirsowa. These positions—Dacai, Garliet, Bosman and Gadder—were set on fire by the retreating Bulgars and Germans, and were almost consumed by the flames when the entente troops reached them.

The reorganized forces of the Russians and Roumanians are tonight less than 12 miles north of Hirsowa, the nearly 40 miles from the Cernavoda railroad.

Sharp Battle to Begin.

The main forces are quickly catching up with the advance detachments, according to advices from the front, and a sharp battle between the opposing armies is expected at any moment. The entente troops are believed to have received reinforcements and fresh equipment since the last clash with the enemy and are expected to launch a wide offensive movement to wrest back the lands of upper Dobrudja. Striking along the Danube they are apparently aiming first to recapture Cernavoda and shatter the enemy's plans for a march on Bucharest from that sector.

TORPEDO STRIKES HUN DREADNOUGHT

British Submarine Attacks Big Warship Near Danish Coast. RESULT IS UNKNOWN

German Squadron May Have Ventured Out Into North Sea.

London, Nov. 6.—An admiralty announcement says: "One of our submarines operating in the North Sea reports that she fired torpedoes at a German battleship of the dreadnought type near the Danish coast yesterday. The vessel was hit. 'The amount of damage is unknown.' The announcement gives no intimation whether any considerable portion of the German high seas fleet was in the North Sea yesterday."

FRENCH PRESS ON IN BATTLE AMONG TREES

Allies gain more German positions in St. Pierre Vaast Wood.

BOMB WAY ONWARD

Gallic Infantry Does Great Execution With Grenades in Somme Action.

Special Cable to The Toronto World.

London, Nov. 6.—In the fighting north of the Somme, which was continued chiefly by the French today, the Germans were ousted from more positions in the northern part of St. Pierre Vaast Wood and 600 of them fell as prisoners into the hands of the French. The Germans started an attempt some time last night to recover the ground which they had just lost. They launched furious counter-attacks, and regained a portion of the high ground about the Butte de Warlencourt that had been taken by the British. But east of Les Boeufs, where the British right had advanced, the gains were secured by consolidation. This was accomplished today. The Germans heavily bombarded the British front between the Ancre and the Somme today, according to the despatch of Sir Douglas Haig.

The French continued their pressure by grenade attacks on the St. Pierre Vaast Wood. They found in a report of their progress that the Germans had lost heavily in the murderous fighting of the night. The dead Germans encumbered the ground over which the French made progress. The Germans still retain some ground, but it is the southwestern portion of this wood.

In the village of Sully, which the French had captured in part, and in which the German pendulum swung back a little as a result of their desperate struggles of the night before, the situation was little changed today. Both sides remained under cover for the most part, waiting for night to resume their struggle for the slightest movement in daylight would attract a bomb from the opposing quarters.

POLISH PROBLEM DISTURBS BERLIN

Conservative Newspapers Fear Effect on Future Attitude of Russia.

DREAMS OF VENGEANCE

Bismarckian Advice to Cultivate Russia's Friendship is Recalled.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—Via London.—The newspapers discuss the Polish problem broadly, but with some reservation. The Liberal, Catholic and Socialist organs favor it, while the Conservatives are more disposed to see objections. The latter, affected by the Bismarckian tradition that Germany must have a firm friend in Russia, express doubt whether the present solution will prove, in the long run, wise.

The Telegraph also hails the restoration of the Polish kingdom with the proviso that Germany succeed in preventing Russia from permanently including in dreams of vengeance. The difficulties of the Polish problem however, are apparent in all the editorial minds. The papers, generally, assume that the kingdom necessarily will lean upon Germany and Austria-Hungary, not only for protection against Russia, but because its cultural sympathies have a westward, not an eastward trend. Some of the papers express the expectation that Germany's military power will be strengthened thru a close alliance with Poland and also expect that Polish troops will be forthwith organized and assist in establishing Polish freedom.

FARMER BELIEVES BARN FIRE WAS CAUSED BY AN INCENDIARY

Belleville, Nov. 6.—At an early hour Sunday morning a large barn and some outbuildings, the property of John Stewart of Actinolite, Elzevir Township, was destroyed by fire. A horse, cow and some pigs and hens were burned, and implements and vehicles were destroyed. Mr. Stewart is convinced the fire was incendiary in its origin, as at a late hour on Saturday night he visited the barn and everything was all right. The damage is estimated at $3000, one-third of which is covered by insurance.

WAR SUMMARY THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

EXCEPT for the prosecution of their advance further into the northern horn of the St. Pierre Vaast Wood, the French had little new to communicate concerning the actions north of the Somme yesterday. The position of this strongly organized wood is too close to the Bethune road to permit the attackers to advance on that highway in the direction of Bapaume until this wood has been reduced. The French general staff is not specific as to the amount of ground overrun in yesterday's fighting, but the taking of 600 prisoners in the disputed area shows that their gains were considerable. The Germans were severely punished, the French say, when they counter-attacked them along the fronts of their Sunday's advance and regained a part of Sully Village and the southwestern outskirts of St. Pierre Vaast Wood. This wood appears to be too formidably prepared for resistance by the German engineers to permit its succumbing to assault, and so it has to be mastered by the slow process of hand grenade and bombing attacks. Eastward is another, the Vaux Wood, not so wide, but doubtless also thrown into a good state of defence. This position will be among those next to be attacked. Government farm is also a strong point of support for the foe northwest of St. Pierre Vaast Wood.

The British did not do much for publication beyond completing the consolidation of the ground which they had won east of Les Boeufs in Sunday's fighting. They were compelled under force of German attacks to cede some ground in the neighborhood of the Butte de Warlencourt, won on Sunday. Sir Douglas Haig reports that the German artillery heavily shelled the British battlefield between the Ancre and the Somme. Fortunately they have lost their eyes in the loss of the command of the air, and their guns continue to fire blindly, so that much ammunition is wasted. The allies have also been handicapped by a wind attaining the velocity of eighty miles an hour. This was an obstacle to aeroplane scouting on Sunday, but British airmen went out in spite of the gale and they did

Allied Conference Agrees to Have No Trade Whatever With Enemy

Preferences Given Entente Powers During Reconstruction Period and After

A gigantic zollverein, including nearly one-half of the world's population, was outlined by Sir George Foster in his address before the Canadian Club yesterday upon the "economic conference of the allies at Paris."

The delegates to the Paris conference, he said, had assembled under unusual stress and strain. The war had then lasted twenty-two months, and France had borne the brunt of the battle.

The war has brought about, Sir George continued, by Germany's effort to commercially dominate first Europe and then the world.

The conclusions of the conference, he said, grouped themselves into three divisions. First, there were agreements among the allies as to what should be done on an economic and commercial standpoint during the war.

Then the conference agreed as to what should be the policy of the allied nations during the reconstruction period following the war.

They bound themselves not to export basic resources to the central powers until the needs of the allies were fully served. Neither during the reconstruction period would they purchase from Germany or Austria.

They bound themselves not to export basic resources to the central powers until the needs of the allies were fully served. Neither during the reconstruction period would they purchase from Germany or Austria.

On the other hand, Belgium would find compensatory markets for what she is able to produce in the allied countries. During the reconstruction period the allied nations would conserve their resources and trade with one another preferentially to the central powers.

Counting all the British dependencies, Sir George said, the proposed zollverein would include nearly half the population of the globe. The delegates at the Paris conference, however, did not attempt to say what arrangements should be made within the British Empire towards making Great Britain's adherence to the resolutions effective.

How that reconstruction was to be brought about he did not suggest, but he said it was the duty of every Canadian man and woman to give the subject most serious consideration.

Allan Smith Gookin, at one time prominent in Republican organization work in New York, has written to his son, W. S. Gookin, general manager of Canada of the Vitagraph, in regard to the presidential election which takes place in the States today.

Mr. Allan Smith Gookin says: "I am going to vote for Wilson. Why? A man like Wilson will help in relieving 'T. R.' as in my opinion he deserves to be relieved."

"I have no use for these men who would have done so and so. Vanderbilt's quotation comes in here (guess you have heard me use it before). 'It is not what he did do.' President Wilson has made mistakes. Who has not? I believe him to be a man that will try to do right."

"Charles E. Hughes should have remained on the bench. It is a great mistake (mostly made by politicians) to get out when the time for a presidential election is at hand."

"In war, in peace, in the building up of the great nation as we want to see it, we need a man of his caliber."

TORONTO FAILS TO OBTAIN INJUNCTION

Application for Order to Restrain Suburban Railway Refused at Osgoode.

STANDARDIZE GAUGE

Court Enlarges Motion to Trial of Action Entered Against Company.

The City of Toronto yesterday lost a motion for an injunction to prevent the Toronto Suburban Railway Company from changing the gauge of the railway on Keele, Dundas and Danforth, until the company obtains an order from the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

The company has an order from the board permitting the construction of the line including a 14-inch concrete base, laying a new rail and changing the gauge.

Mr. Hellmuth, for the company, pointed out that it was merely a matter of bringing the rails 3/4 inch closer together. I. S. Fairly, for the city, argued that it was a matter of alteration of the line of railway, and that he was not prepared to proceed under this order.

Mr. Hellmuth pointed out that the order of the board was merely permissive and not mandatory, and that if the city wanted to object, it would have to pay for it.

MONDAY MORNING, NOV. 6

Science and Industry

Prof. McLennan's inaugural address as president of the Royal Canadian Institute last Saturday evening, brought forward once more certain important principles in the building of the nation, which cannot be neglected without disaster to its future. Nor has Dr. McLennan waited until the war made the consideration of such matters an urgent necessity to bring them before the public. For years he has been a prominent advocate of the necessity of organized and well-supported activity in research work, both industrial and scientific, without progress in which no nation can expect to maintain a place in the van of the nations.

The present position of the empire both directly as a leader in the naval and military forces of the great war, and indirectly as the source of supplies for a large body of the allied troops, is due to a great extent to the mobilizable character of her scientific and mechanical talent. It is somewhat of a sad commentary on human nature that it remained for war to do what had so often been brought forward in times of peace as an essential factor to success. In labor alone the energy spent in digging trenches, for example, had it been directed to agriculture, or the building of canals, or the construction of highways or any similar operations would have enriched the world to a vast degree. Anyone who would have suggested that the forces of Europe should have been employed in times of peace in such more or less remunerative and useful work would have been regarded as mad. Now that the actual energy is being expended on work that, however useful, will be of no more eventual use than the construction of sand-castles by children on the beach, it is easy to see that the labor and the money expended upon it might have been more profitably employed as mere labor. There is, of course, another element to be considered in trench digging, which gives it a value beyond the material result. Utilization and conservation of our natural forces and resources come, therefore, to be the important side of Dr. McLennan's address. His selection of electric power was an obvious one, as an example of what has already been so successfully done. It is gratifying also to note that the university can speak with practical leadership on a question which has faced somewhat badly at the hands of theoretical advisers. It may appear to some as a long look forward to consider the time when Canada might have to look to something else than coal for heating purposes. But in our climate we depend so absolutely for life on proper heating facilities in winter, the question cannot too early or too fully be investigated, and such alternatives for coal as may be decided upon set apart for public use and properly conserved. Dr. McLennan can readily perceive the possibility of heating the whole city by electric energy. Amateur engineers, stimulated by corporation applause, may raise objections, but scientific men have a flat of their own, and speak with an authority which cannot be denied when they deal with facts in their own sphere.

Dr. McLennan spoke of the British Commission on Industrial and Scientific Research, established two years ago, and of the intention of the government voiced by Sir George Foster to establish a similar commission in Canada. Just what may be accomplished on scientific lines must necessarily during the war remain hidden, but there is practical unanimity among men of affairs on the necessity of such work. Dr. McLennan is no pessimist. His glimpse of the future is a most encouraging one, and while the young and gallant lives that have been sacrificed for the moment weaken the state, their devotion has made possible greater efforts and higher attainments. The example of the achievements in war industries is also an encouragement to faith in our national character. Dr. McLennan laid especial stress on the necessity for conserving and cherishing the spirit of co-operation among science, industry, labor, finance and government, and there will be a general desire on the part of all Canadians that the government will not be the least in forwarding this purpose.

"IN A MOMENT, MY DROWNING FRIEND; CAN'T YOU SEE I'VE GOT A BITE!"

How About the Canadian Manufacturer?

Sir George Foster is always interesting, often eloquent and his public addresses never fail to be suggestive and instructive. Those who were privileged to hear him address the Canadian Club yesterday, got a vivid pen portrait of the economic conference of the allies, held at Paris last June, and glimpsed a coming transformation in the history of the world. They could not but be impressed by the proposed Zollverein which is to include Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy, Serbia, Belgium, Portugal and Japan. That a commercial union embracing half the world would benefit the constituent nations seems to go without saying. It would probably benefit Canada, as an integral part of the British Empire, and it would certainly make our farmers more prosperous. But what is to become of the Canadian manufacturer?

Evidently the proposed commercial union must present a uniform tariff wall to the outside world. That was the insuperable objection to unrestricted reciprocity with the United States. The objection, of course, will not be the same to free trade within the empire or to a commercial union between the entente powers and their overseas dominions, but would it benefit us economically? We can see how the Canadian farmer will flourish if the British miller were permitted to buy a bushel of wheat from the United States so long as there was a bushel in Canada ready to be exported; and we can see how many consumers would get much cheaper commodities, if the highly organized industries of England, France and Japan had free entrance on something like free entrance into Canada. What we fail to understand is, how the Canadian manufacturer, paying his men three dollars a day, can compete even in the home market with the European manufacturer paying his men $1.50, or with the Asiatic manufacturer paying his men fifty cents a day? Nor would our manufacturer find it easy to compete in Russia with British, French and Japanese manufacturers. It may be that Canada would be richer by devoting herself to the production and export of lumber, fish, raw grain and live cattle, but we have always felt that to build up true nationality, there should be diversified industries. We have been willing to pay a few cents more for a pair of boots or nearly anything else we need, if by so doing we kept our mills running and sent our artisans to work every morning. We want our factories to keep running and the men who work in them and their families to live in comfort, own their own homes and pay by a little money.

We cannot imagine Sir George Foster turning his back on the national policy. The Borden government was elected upon the distinct issue that Canada must always retain absolute control of her fiscal policy. The "reconstruction" of the British Empire, at which Sir George hints, must not transfer the control of our tariff to anybody other than the Dominion Parliament. If it is proposed either to depart from the national policy or to give up in the slightest degree our fiscal independence, the government should ask a mandate from the people. We think, however, that Sir George will soon take occasion to make it clear that nothing of the kind is contemplated, and perhaps at the same time he will tell us just where the Canadian manufacturer will get off if we go into the gigantic commercial union which as the representative of Canada, he helped to plan at the now historic Paris conference.

German Influence at Work

In the effort to prevent pernicious literature from entering Canada, no doubt many mistakes are made, since more usually of omission than of commission. Some of the offenders exercise considerable subtlety in their methods, and it is a pity that the government cannot feel safe to trust the alert intelligence of the people to detect the false friends and hidden foes among the offenders. Humanity has, however, a tendency to take the wrong turning if there be any opportunity to deviate from the straight road, and in the interests of good citizenship the censor's duties must be recognized. Possibly the censor might occasionally be wiser or more penetrating, but the post is not one to be coveted.

The activities of the German secret service render necessary much vigilance that would otherwise be unnecessary. An example of this appears in yesterday's papers, where a German doctor is represented as coming over on an adventure in Mexico with Villa bandits, who looted a Mexican Central Railway train. Dr. Hoffman declared that his life was only saved because he was a German subject, and had been recognized by some former patients among the bandits. These bandits who were so complacent to one of German birth swore great oaths and "Death to Americans," which is an interesting illustration of the effect of German secret service money in stirring up trouble in Mexico.

The Chinese newspaper Mun Hey Weekly, published in New York, prints its front page partly in English, and Prof. Munsterberg is apparently one of its angels from references and quotations made. The Chinese weekly is assiduous in its endeavor to sow discord between Japan and China, an obvious German game.

The point of view may be judged from the following sentence: "The fact is, the seeds of future wars are being sown right along, and no matter which set of belligerents emerges victorious from the present struggle, there will be quarrels over the division of the spoils. There will be less fear of this if the Germans win. But if the entente allies come off victors there is no knowing how soon they will be at war between (sic) themselves. It will be hard to gratify all their ambitions to satisfy the greed of all of them."

THIEF ENTERS STORE NEAR POLICE STATION

Gets Away With Big Load of Furs Without Disturbing Sleeping Owner Above.

Sometime between midnight on Saturday and Sunday morning thieves made a daring entrance into Kendrick Bros. store at 1065 West Bloor street, and got away with $3000 worth of furs. The theft was not discovered until Sunday morning, when a member of the family went down to the store and found that the lock had been tampered with. He entered the store and discovered that the larger portion of the stock had been removed. Mute evidence of a wagon having been employed in the robbery was disclosed by the imprint of its tires in the soft earth at the back door.

The robbery occurred adjacent to the busy corner of Bloor street and Dundas street, close to where two car lines operate, and almost within the shadow of Ossington Avenue Police Station. So elaborate were the preparations for the robbery, that Alexander Kendrick, a member of the firm, who, with his sick wife and family, sleeps over the store, never heard them at work. Naturally the robbery has caused much comment in the neighborhood, and criticism of the depletion of the police force in No. Seven Division is rife.

Both the members of the firm and the police refuse to discuss the matter.

Majority of People Are In Sympathy With Allies

Mrs. Nellie McClung, authoress, lecturer and ardent suffrage advocate in Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. A. B. Ormsby. Last night she spoke at Deer Park Presbyterian Church, and this afternoon will be the guest of honor at a reception given by her hostess at the ladies' club. Mrs. McClung has just returned from touring the States, where she spoke in West Virginia, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Providence and Baltimore. Mrs. McClung has returned from across the line firmly convinced of the sympathy of the majority for the allies. In many places where she spoke the American and Canadian flags were entwined. One woman declared that if Germany had been favorable to suffrage the war would not have come about.

What A Manufacturer Found Out "I wish I had let you people look after our advertising three years ago." These words were spoken by a well-known manufacturer who had looked after and prepared his own advertising for several years—and thought no one else could do it as well. What changed his mind? Well, for one thing, he found that we knew selling conditions in Canada a great deal better than he expected. Another, that we could make his advertisements look more attractive and could put more human interest and selling punch into them. He also found that we knew more about newspaper and magazine circulations and rates than he did. Then, again, he discovered that we knew all about line drawings, wash drawings, screens, Ben Day tints, zincs, electros, stereotypes, nickeltypes, mats, etc., that were pretty nearly "Dutch" to him. Our knowledge has prevented mistakes and saved him money. To summarize, he found that we knew how to make advertising PAY—and, at the same time, relieved him of time-consuming and, often, puzzling details. It costs this manufacturer no more to use the services of our large and experienced organization than if he were doing his advertising direct. Since connecting up with us his advertising appropriation has increased. He is using more space and more publications. He is getting bigger results. Placing his advertising in our hands has proven a good thing for himself, the newspapers, the magazines and ourselves.

PLAYS, PICTURES AND MUSIC

ADMIRABLE COMEDY OF VILLAGE LIFE NOTHING BETTER SEEN FOR YEARS

"Zack" at the Grand Opera House Given by Fine Company.

PRESENTATION IS GOOD AT THE ALEXANDRA Stage Setting is Becoming and Audience Enjoyed Play Thoroughly.

An admirable comedy of life in a Lancashire village is presented at the Grand Opera House this week by John D. Williams, with Richard Bennett in the stellar role. The play is by Harold Briggs, author of "Hobson's Choice," and is a satire on the humor and pathos of the struggles and plans of a village family.

The playwright portrays the fortunes of a family consisting of the mother and two sons, one of whom is hard and cold and the other rich in tenderness and humanity. The mother sees virtue only in the hard business men, and in that she has a useless burden.

Last night's production was extremely good, and those who desire to see life portrayed in natural colors, without the artificiality of the stage, will find it far more often found in drama than in life, will enjoy this production.

The engagement is announced of Miss Mathilde Casgrain, daughter of Mr. P. B. Casgrain, clerk of the Superior Court in Hamilton, Ontario. This is William Casgrain of Montreal and Abbe P. Casgrain, who is at the front in Hon. Sen. J. M. Gauthier's cabinet.

Ben Pierce, Helen Worsland, Leona St. Clair and Maybelle Malmgren are a splendid quartet.

The Electric Studios

No purely utilitarian object in the household has had such attention paid to it lately as the electric lamp. The ideas of the very best artists have been focussed on bringing the electric fixture or lamp from the unsightly thing it once was to a truly decorative object that is a feature in the furnishing of any room.

Our electric studios contain fixtures that are artistic without being expensive; fixtures to suit rooms of any period; fixtures that you'll never grow tired of.
