GLENCOE, Cct. 4.—The Mosa and Ekfrid union fall fair held here was a success. The new crystal palace, which has just been completed, added greatly to the appearance and convenience of the occasion. The exhibits were far ahead of previous years. The show of horses and sheep was appealally good. In the crystal palace the grain and tancy work all drew much attention. The C. P. In the running race there were several entries. McVickery's grey mare won the race after a close heat. Among other attractions in the ring were the Highland dancing, in costume, of Messra. McMillan and Miller, Mr. Wm. Donnelly's little girl, 11 years old, drove a speedy horse in remarkably good time, drawing the applause of the crowd. The show of horses at Springfield is always good, while this part of the country is noted for its fine herds of cattle. In both these classes the fair always excels other shows of equal proportions.

FOUND A HOARD OF GOLD. Their Old Grandmother Told Them of

Their Old Grandmether Teld Them of the Treasure Ridden for Over Twenty-Five Years.

Coalton, Ohio, Oct. 4.—One of the most peculiar and rich finds in the way of hidden treasure in the history of Southern Ohio was that made at the farm home of Charles W. McKinniss, Mr. McKinniss was one of the pioneer settlers of Jackson county, and was the owner of a large farm three miles from here, and amassed a handsome fortune.

For several years Mr. and Mrs. McKinniss resided alone at the old homestead, their children all having grown up and married off. Some time ago the old gentleman died, and still "grandma," as she was called by everybody, continued to make the farm residence her home. But her step became tottering from age, and she was induced by her children to break up housekeeping and to go and live with them. On the day of the removal of the household goods her son, Granville McKinness, and her grandson, Charles W. Haslett, both prosperons business men of this place, were present. The goods were all loaded into the wagons, when, just as they were going to start the old lady called her son and grandson into the kitchen and there conveyed to them a profound secret. She directed them to remove a certain plank in the kitchen floor, to dig in a particular spot, stating that there they would find a bag of gold.

Her directions were strictly followed and the treasure was struck. The counts showed the amount to be exactly $2,222, every cent gold, considerable of it being British coin. The meacy was wrapped in a piece of heavy drill. Mrs. McKinniss stated that a good portion of the money had been buried there for the last 25 years.

NOTICE is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in sections o and to the Ontario Voters Lists Act, 1889, the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered of the list, made pursuant estable act, of all persons appearing by the last revised assessment roll of the said the legislative been titled to vote in the said municipality to be entitled to vote in the said municipality at elections for mention of the Legislative Assembly and at municipal elections; and that said list was first posted up in my office, at City Hall, in the city of London, on the 20th day of September, 1892, and remains there for imagnetions.

[From the New York Telegram.]

The sudden death of Mrs. Sarah Roberts at Manhattan Hospital revealed one of the most remarkable cases of lockjaw known in the metropolis in many years. Mrs. Roberts was a washerwoman living on Thirty-first street. She was brought to the hospital on Thursday evening by her sons, Louis and William, who told House Surgeon Purdy that they could not understand their mother's condition. They had been told by a neighbor that she was suffering with the lockjaw.

No wound could be seen until after the patient died, and then a small hairpin incision was discovered on her sea p just over the right ear. When Mrs. Roberts' sons were informed of this they recalled an occasion two weeks ago, when their mother had slipped and fallen backward down a short flight of stairs and drove a hairpin into her head. A comparatively small scalp wound was the result, and it appeared so trivial that she declined to send for a physician. In the evening, when her sons returned from business, they insisted upon sending for Dr. J. P. Johnson, of Amsterdam avenue, between One Hundred and Thirty-first street and One Hundred and Thirty-first streets. But the message was not received by the doctor, and consequently he didn't respond to the call. The wound was washed and dressed by Mrs. Murray, a neighbor, and Mrs. Roberts retired for the night, laughing at what she termed the foolish fears of her children.

The next day she stated that the wound didn't pain her. Louis Roberts, her eldest son, advised his mother to go to the Manhattan Hospital and have the wound at once dressed by a competent physician, but she was obstinate and refused to go. Ten days later Mrs. Roberts, her eldest son, advised his mother to go to the Manhattan Hospital, with all the symptoms of lockjaw. She was of lockjaw, and that night Mrs. Roberts was entered at the Manhattan Hospital, with all the symptoms of lockjaw. She was in a continual state of hysteria and had several spasms during the evening and the teeth became suddenly closed. Articula inspection.

Electors are called upon to examine the said list and if any omissions or other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to the said errors.

A Little Boy Wandered Off Through a Wild Hot Plain and Was Found Dead.

Los Angeles, Oct. 4.—At Lancaster, a own 30 miles from here, in an open valley at the edge of Colorado Desert, lived Stephen Hansdorf, with his wife and 20-months-old boy.

Thursday he left home for another part of the place where he was working. Late in the afternoon the mother went in search of a stray cow. The baby, clad only in a calico wrapper, hatless and barefooted, without the mother's knowledge, started after her. When she returned and missed him she alarmed the neighborhood.

A searching party hunted until night without avail. Excitement spread through the whole town, and by daylight next morning a strong party of organized searchers renewed the quest. There was no timber in the region, but the cactus and sage brush were so high as to render it impossible to see the child at a short distance, even from the back of a horse. The region is one of intense heat, and infested with rattlesnakes, coyotes and many poisonous insects.

The earth in many places is crusted with alkali. For a long time the party discovered no signs whatever. Finally a coyote trail was struck. On it could occasionally be seen the footprints of a child, with now and then splotches of blood on the cactus. Arranging themselves so they should not lose sight of each other, the searchers followed the trail, spreading themselves over a width of half a mile.

The trail led direct to the desert and to a phenomenon known as Dry Lake. This lake is nothing more than a solid bed of white alkali, the crust of which is perfectly hard and level. Standing on rolling sand on the edge of this lake, a traveler beholds a wonderful mirage of a sheet of silvery, clear water, concluded that the child, con-

The party concluded that the child, consumed by thirst, had toddled over to this lake, and though the indurate crust would reveal no footprints, the party pressed on over it. Four miles from the edge was found the dead body of the little wanderer lying on his face, his feet, legs and hands torn and the blood crusted over them.

He had been dead but a few hours, yel his body was blistering under the burning sun. The party seized the child and the party seized the child and sun. The party seized the child and sun. The party seized the child and sun. The party seized the child and sun the party seized the sun the su

ATTACKED BY A HEN HAWK.

For Twen'y Minutes Mrs. Hinckley Fought Till Rescued by Her Daughter.

North Lyme, Conn., Oct. 4.—Mrs. James Hinckley, of Walnut Hollow, near here, had an encounter recently with a hen hawk that nearly caused her death. Mrs. Hinckley is a widow and manages a farm with the assistance of her only child, a 15-year-old girl. While she was throwing corn to her fowls an immense hawk swooped down and caught a hen in its talons. Without apprehending the danger to herself, Mrs. Hinckley picked up a stone and threw it at the hawk. The missile struck the bird fairly and seemed to madden it, for it flow at the woman. Mrs. Hinckley was unable to get hawk's anger was apparently at the woman's cries. MANITOBA SCHOOLS AND SIR

JOHN THOMPSON'S PROMISE. Despite the fact that the British Privy Council has decided that the Manitoba Provincial law refusing to give Government sanction to separate schools is constitutional, the Dominion Government has resolved to review the legislation, with what result remains to be seen.

It may be of interest at this stage to briefly state the facts of the case.

The points at issue embrace the history of the Province of Manitoba from the time of the Red River rebellion in 1869-70. At that time the Governor-General, acting on the advice of the Macdonald Government, advice of the Macdonald Government, issued a proclamation in which he declared: "Her Majesty commands me to state to you that she will be always ready through me, as her representative, to redress all well-founded grievances. By her Majesty's authority I do therefore assure you that on your union with Canada all your civil and religious rights and privileges will be respected."

As a consequence of this declaration the people of Manitoba consented to join the Dominion, and the Manitoba Act was passed. It guaranteed to the minority that passed. It guaranteed to the their rights and privileges with regard to education, acquired by law or practice, should be protected.

The Manitoba Government, two years ago, took the ground that separate schools were not recognized by law before the passage of the Act of Union, and passed a law countenancing no schools except non-sectarian public schools. Against this act Archbishop Tache petitioned the Governor-General on April 12, 1890, ending his

"2. That it may be declared that such Provincial law does prejudicially affect the rights and privileges with regard to denominational schools which Roman Catholies had by law or practice in the Province at the union.

"3. That such directions may be given and provisions made for the relief of the Roman Catholics of the Province of Manitoba as to your Excellency in council may deem fit."

A Dominion election was pending and the Government at Ottawa let many months

The clause of the Manitoba Act of 1870, under which Sir John Thompson professes

"22. In and for the Province the said Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education, subject and according to the said provisions:

come have by law or practice in evidence may be but circumstantial, but it any Provincial authority, affecting any right or privilege of the Protestant or Roman Catholic minority of the Queen's subjects in relation to education.

"3. In case any such provincial law as from time to time seems to the Governor-General in council requisite for the due execution of the provisious of this section, is not made, or in case any decision of the Govarnor-General in council on any appeal under this section is not duly executed by the proper provincial authority in that behalf, then, and in every such case, and as far only as, the direumstances of each case require, the Parliaments of Canada may make remedial laws for the due execution of the provisions of this section, and of any decision of the Governor-General in council under this section."

The British Privy Council having decided hat the Manitoba School Act was valid that the Manitoba School Act was valid, having held that under the Act of 1870 the Roman Catholic minerity did not enjoy the same privileges as the Roman Catholic minerity in Ontario and the Protestant minerity in Quebec enjoy under the Act of Confederation, Sir John Thompson has now been called upon by Archbishop Tache to implement his promise to consider the petitions sent him by Archbishop Tache to implement his promise to consider the petitions sent him by the religious minority of Manitoba and supported by the Roman Catholic bishops. The Government has been further requested to provide the remedial measures referred to in Sir John Thompson's reply to the Manitoba appellants, as published on the eve of the bye-elections last year. The Dominion Cabinet has agreed to sit as a Court of Appeal for the disposal of the At this stage the case has now MR. IVES, a member of the Dominion All. Since the McKinley Tariff became operative he has removed the machinery to New Hampshire and erected a mill there. Mr. Ives is a strong of the property of the propert

DEHORNING.

In Canada we speak of "dehorning" attle; in England they call it dishorning. The practice, it seems, is likely to be permitted, under certain conditions. When the commission appointed by the Ontario Government present their report they will say that this course is warranted from the incidental benefit to be derived, though there can be no doubt that as dehorning has been carried out by some men it has been a cruel operation. Dehorning has been dopted to enable cattle to feed comfortably and to provent goring. Evidence has been given that by dehorning animals intended for export can be packed closer, and with greater comfort, in the cars, but on the western ranches the horns are not sawn. with greater cominst, in the day with greater cominst, in the day of the warm off. They are not permitted to grow. At the time of branding the calves the red-hot iron is applied to the budding horn and nothing more is seen of it. A leading English cattle raiser says that he has pursued this course with the result that the stock so treated are quieter and take nothing like the shed and manger room they otherwise would in the winter yards, squeezing in and feeding, as they now do, like pigs at a trough. An observer will notice that the artificially and natural polled Irish and Scotch cattle wintered out in the midland pastures uddle together like kittens for warmth. General on April 12, 1890, ending his memorial as follows:

"I therefore most respectfully and also most earnestly pray that your Excellency, as the representative of our most beloved Queen, should take such steps that in your wisdom would seem the best remedy against the evils that the above-mentioned and recently enacted laws are preparing in this part of her Majesty's domain."

This appeal was backed up by a petition from members of the Roman Catholic Church in Manitoba in the following terms:

"I. That your Excellency the Governor-General in council may entertain the said appeal, and may consider the same, and may make such provisions and give such directions for the hearing and consideration of the said appeal as may be thought proper.

"D That it may be declared that such sitizens who believe that dehorning is cruel and unnecessary. What must be provided, if dehorning is to be regarded as legal, is that the process shall be of the most scientific and least hurtful nature that can be adopted. MURDER WILL OUT. The Montreal Witness, referring to the ecent developments in the Caron investication, says:

the Government at Ottawa let many months clapse without taking action. After the election, however, Cardinal Taschereau, of Quebeo, and the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada again stirred up the Ministers, petitioning them for "a remedy to the perulcious legislation above mentioned, and that in the most efficacious and just way."

By this time bye-elections were pending in many constituencies, and Sir John Thompson, to whom the matter appears to have been remitted, deemed it wise to make a promise with the view of tiding over (the Administration and temporarily pacifying the memorialists. He reported in favor of letting the law be sent to the Privy Council in England, and added this remarkable statement, which was interpreted by the Roman Catholic pesitioners as a promise that remedial legislation would ensure if the school law passed by the Manitoba Act were not upset by the imperial authorities:

"If the legal controversy should result in the decision of the Court of Queen's Bench adverse to Catholic views being sus-

Manitoba Act were not upset by the imperial authorities:

"If the legal controversy should result in the decision of the Court of Queen's Bench adverse to Catholic views being sustained, the time will come for your Excellency to consider the petitions which have been presented by and on behalf of the Roman Catholics of Manitoba for redress under sub-section 2 and 3 of section 22 of the Manitoba Act, quoted in the early part of this report, and which are analogous to the provisions made by the Eritish North America Act in relation to the other Provinces."

The clause of the Manitoba Act of 1876, ineves the expansion that he gave the money and had it initialed to A. P. C., the Minister who has been charged with using it for the wholesale bribery of the electors, out of pure benevolence. Shrewd Yankees are not that kind of philanthropists, and it is safe to say that if the in vestigation had not been so burked as to in prevent a full exposure of the whole rascality a very different side would have been revealed. But enough has been shown to thoroughly vindicate the stand taken by Mr. Edgar when he made his charges. The

TOPICS OF TO-DAY.

The Review of Reviews for October in various ways recognizes the completion of four centuries since Columbus discovered America, and the preparations which are making to celebrate that event during the present and the coming year. Especial at-tention is given to the great World's Con-gresses to be held at Chicago next year.

The speed of electricity is so great that The speed of electricity is so great that its passage from point to point along a conducting wire may be regarded as practically instantaneous. Various attempts have been made to measure the rate at which it travels, and observers, with delicate instruments, have affirmed that it was not less than 114,000 miles per second and one or two places its speed as high and one or two places its speed as has 240,000 miles. Such swiftness is inceivably great; the mind cannot controllate it without staggering.

"The Acadian Province-by-the-Sea" is the attractive title of an interesting article in the October New England Magazine on in the October New England Magazine on the historic Province of Nova Scotia, so closely allied to American history as the wilderness of the loyalist exedus at the close of the War of Independence. The article is brightly and fascinatingly written by Arthur Wentworth Eaton, who is an authority on Nova Scotian legends, tradi-tions and history. It is finely illustrated by Louis A. Holman, a rising young Boston artist, who made a special pilgrimage to Acadia to make the skotches.

One of the leading painters of New York says that artists are just beginning to learn how to paint moonlights. He says that they, like other people, have not appreciat the persistence of local color after dark The Dutch painters and the old school Americans had one patent way of doing a moonlight, and that was to make it of blue and white. It was cold and stupid and untrue. One night I was strolling in Central Park as the moon came up, and I was astonished to find how much green there was in the grass and trees, and yellow in the paths, and gray in the rocks, and bright this in the flowers. It was toned down, but it was all there. It was a revelation to me, and I have never painted a blue and white moonlight since. moonlight, and that was to Ingenuity is a good thing at times, and every cook ought to have a spark of it lurking somewhere in his or her composition. "Plain" cooks, of course, don't possess it; and, therefore, what is called a "good plain cook," doesn't exist. To boil a potato or broil a steak may seem a very simple operation, and so it is; but to do it properly, heaven defend us from the "polain" cook! The palate, if it be a healthy one, is delicately discriminating, and quickly discovers there is very little ingenuity in a sodden potato or a juiceless steak. We advise all those so-called "plain cooks," for their own sakes, as well as for the stomach's aske of their victims to read Table Talk. Published by Table Talk. Publishing Company. 1113, Chestnut street, Philadelphia. One dollar a year.

If it were possible to shut all the strong interest of the month between the covers of a monthly magazine, the October as much to the point as is consistent with a literary finish; and one has the sense of a vigorous and newly-appreciative grasp even of subjects which in themselves are familiar. Perhaps this quality of vigor or freshness is most conspicuously displayed in the three articles contributed by Henry Cabot Lodge, John A. Crockerill and Murat Halstend, of which the themes are, respectively, "As to Certain Accepted Heroes," "Phases of Contemporary Journalism, "and "Liberal Tendencies in Europe." The intense practical interest of home things will be found in Nathaniel T. Taylor's article on "An Old Southern School," and President H. B. Plant's article. Other contributors are Thomas Wentworth Higginson, D. B. St. John Rooss, Louise Chandler Moulton, Charles F. Lummis, Edgar Fawcett, John Vance Chency and Jonathan Sturges.

There need be little wonder that some people have a difficulty in Jetermining the capacity in which Sir Adolphe Caron attends the investigation of his doings now going on before the Royal Commission. lips, and the mud would fly with redoubled enect.

Pretty soon, out of the plastic chaos, emerged a nose. It was not much of a nose of commercy, but it was great in the matter of size. Next came a vague imitation of an eye. Then a piece of clay, slapped on either side of the unhappy dummy, gave fair represe on of two pugillatic ears. Gradually out of general nothingness, emerged the head of a man 175 years of age with only one eye. A swift gauge of the long dexterous thumb and the other eye was there. So the slender sculptress worked, fluttering around the pedestal as swiftly as a bird. Very seldem did she cease laughing and talking. Slowly the mass of clay took on the lineaments of a recognizable face. Nose, eyes, mouth, ears and ohin were all there, rough hewn but artistic. Then anddenly Miss Beveridge turned around and looked appealingly at her companion. Once more the good-natured woman came to the girl's assistance.

"Mr. Cerbett, will you kindly loosen your coat? No, that will not do—more your. You see we want to get the exact contour of the muscles of your neck and chest. Rasilly, you must."

"Oh, pull off your coat, Jim," interrupted Manager Brady.

special content of the service of th son is condition. Alloworth is three miles from the village and one mile from the nearest house. Not only the poet, but also his wife and son, are complete strangers to the people thereabouts. The solitude of the place, however, has been banished since yesterday noon. Hundreds of telegrams of inquiry and sympathy are being received from friends and admirers of the poet. Queen Victoria, Gladstone, the Earl of Rosebery, Emperor William and dozens of other persons of world-wide reputation are sending messages and receiving news as to his condition. The Queen receives reports three times daily. The messages are so numerous, however, that most of the inquirers get answers only through the newspapers, as there is nobody at Aldworth to return individual replies. The only persons at the bedside of the patient are the physicians, who pass practically the whole day and night in the house, Lady Tennyson, who is a chronic invalid, Hallam Tennyson and his family.

It seems highly improbable that Lord Tennyson will recover, or even last more than two or three days, although his physicians refuse to speak as to the result of his illness. His physical health has been far from satisfactory for some time, and he is thought to have hardly the vitality to rally from such severe illness.

to the New Hebrides. Rev. Mr. Clark presided. The edifice was packed, seats having to be placed in the aisle.
Dr. Paton's remarks were entertaining, instructive and heart-stirring.
It was largely descriptive of the South Sea Islands and their inhabitants. He told of their wonderful ingenuity and application in tilling the fertile soil and producing abundant crops, of their manner of living, their social and religious condition, and of the hallowed effects of Christianity.
One striking feature was his statement

One striking feature was his statement that in the New Hebrides, cannibals though the natives were, there were no poor people. Every tribe had its section of the land, and every man, woman and child his or her own plantation. If a man had five children, five plantations were allotted for them. Nature had dealt layishly with the islands. The speaker felt assured that one of them would become a preat health resort owing to the remark-

For the first ten months of baby's life it should be fed on Lactated Food, if it is deprived of its natural food—breast milk. It is a grand mistake to suppose that solid foods are more nourishing because they are solid. Infants cannot properly absorb solid foods, as their organs of digestion are not fully developed.

It is owing to this foolish and ignorant system of feeding young infants that so many of them die before they are 2 years old.

A HANDSOME TRIBUTE.

Waterworks Attaches Honor Mr.

By Presenting Him with a Compliment-ary Address and a Magnificent Water Service—The Recipient's Reply—A Pleasant Wind-Up.

Mr. George C. Davis was a surprised man last evening. Those connected with the waterworks department determined to show their appreciation of his good qualities in a substantial manner and arranged a little reception in the secretary's office, proceedings to commence at 9 pm. One of Mr. Davis' friends was sent to inveigle that gentleman to the City Hall. The scheme was successful, and when the genial ex-chairman of the water commissioners entered the apartment he was dumbfounded to find about 25 of his civic associates gathered together, with malice aforethought. Mayor Spencer stepped forward and read the following address:
Mr. George C. Davis:

Dear Sir.—At the time when we have to say the word "farewell" to one who has so long been in our midst our thoughts naturally turn to a retrospect of an association with each other, and our feelings at the parting are largely influenced thereby.

at the parting are largely influenced thereby.

For four years you have been with us and now upon making such a review we experience nothing but pleasure when we remember your kindly courtesy, your genial and friendly bearing and your ever diligent regard to the interests of the department, but feelings of regret that such an association must now for a length of time be terminated.

We have much pleasure in requesting an association must now for a length of time be terminated.

We have much pleasure in requesting your acceptance of the accompanying water service as a slight token of our regard, friendship and esteem, and possibly slightly emblematic of the department.

We wish you health, strength and prosperity in all your undertakings, or, to put it tersely, that you may do as well in everything as you have done in the capacity of water commissioner, as we feel that it must give you unmixed satisfaction to know that the department under your supervision has been successful to a remarkable extent. Signed: W. M. Spencer, mayor; Wm. Jones, commissioner; John M. Moore, engineer and superintendent; John Pope, treasurer; O. Ellwood, secretary; J. H. Cook, clerk; Wm. Platt, inspecior; James Alaten, foreman; J. McDonald, turnecck; T. Sumner, caretaker; A. Findlay, first pumping engineer; A. McLean, third pumping engineer; Geo. F. Jowell, auditor; Geo. W. Cetterell, Accompanying the address was nificent silver water service — pitcher goblet and stand. On the pitcher were en graved the names of the departmen officials and on the goblet she words, "T graved the names of the depar officials and on the goblet the words Chairman George C. Davis, L.D.S.

graved the names of the department officials and on the goblet she words, "To Chairman George C. Davis, L.D.S., from the water commissioners and employes, London, Oct. 4, 1892."

Mr. Davis, after the applause had subsided replied with his usual fluency. It was unnecessary, he said, to present him with any testimonial to assure him of their good will and esteem. From the moment he had entered public life be had received nothing but kindness from thore with whom he had been brought in contact. He could flatly deny the assertion that public men received no reward, as the courtesy and consideration shown him had more than repaid him for any exertions put forth to serve the citzens. The employes of the service had done their duty faithfully and well, and though at the head of the department four years he had yet to have a cross word with any of them. He thanked them again for their handsome tribute, and was loudly applauded upon concluding.

The party then adjourned to the Hub Restaurant. There a capital supper was partaken of, and the remainder of the evening devoted to speech, song and sentiment. Water Commissioner Jones presided and City Treasurer Pope was the vice-chairman. The various interests of the department were toasted and Mr. Davis' name was enthusiastically honored.

The toasts and responses were: "The Queen," National Authem; "Guest of the Evening," Mr. George C. Davis; "The London Waterworks," Messrs. Moore, Platt, Findlay and Sumner; "Corporation of the City," J. Pope and G. F. Jewell; "Employees of the Department," general reply; "The Professions," Fred. Henry; "The Ladies," George C. Davis; "The Secretary," O. Eliwood; "City Employees," J. Austin. Songs by R. Simmie, A. Findlay and George F. Jewell; recitations by the latter and speech (extra) by H. A. Plastow were artistic gems.

Misfortunes of a Giri Made the Victim

Misfortunes of a Girl Made the Victim of a Fortune Teller.

Detroit, Oct. 4.—Lizzie Lyter, the 19-year-old girl sent to the Woodbridge street station on Sept. 29, insane, was taken to her home in Toronto yesterday by Mrs. Bennett, a relative. The girl was employed as a servant by G. A. Devlin, East Warren avenue, and Mr. Devlin generously pays her way back home. The fact that she was without money excited the curicity of Mrs. Bennett, who made an investigation and found that the poor, simple-minded girl has been systematically bled, imposed upon, swindled, and had her mind destroyed by the greed and machinations of a fortune teller.

The girl was picked up by a paid "capper" for the fortune-teller, her history defily wormed out of her, and this being told the fortune-teller by the confederate, the former was able to impose upon the girl to the extent of all the money she had and the destruction of her reason. The poor girl was induced to pay $6 on one occasion, the female charlatan agreeing for that amount to go into a trance and bring back from Chicago a young man for whom Miss Lyter entertained a deep regard. When the Bells Charmed the Snake.

The Bells Charmed the Snake.

Denison, Tex., Oct. 5.—Mrs. D. M. Madden is a lady of nerve. Her little girl Mary, aged 2 years, was seated on the ground under a tree playing with a tin hoop, to which were attached bells. The noise of the bells attracted a large blacksnake, which crawled to the feet of the child and stretched at full length, with its head resting on her left foot. The jingle of the bells seemed to charm it, for the snake closed its eyes and was motionless. Mrs. Madden saw the snake. She did not scream for assistance, as most women would have done under the circumstances. She darted to the child, grabbed the snake by the tail and hurled it through the air. The peculiar music of the bells had evidently placed the snake outder a spell, as it did not move until it felt the touch of Mrs. Madden's hand.
