TO AID FIGHT FOR HEALTH OF PUBLIC

Canadian Medical Association Which Opened This Morning Takes Up Fight to Wipe Out Diseases
That Menace the Public.

The new Masonic Temple on Queen's avenue presented a busy spectacle this morning when five hundred or more physicians and surgeons from all over America gathered for the 46th annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association. The bustle of preparation, which all day Monday was in evidence throughout the building, gave place this morning to the orderly routing of the general program.

The registration office on the ground floor was a busy place both yesterday afternoon and this morning. The majority of the local physicians and those who arrived Monday have already registered, and the delegates are coming in on every train this morning. It is expected that all will be here by nightfall.

Hotel accommodation is being taxed to the utmost. The Tecumseh House have put in seventy extra cots, all of which have been taken. A number of the physicians are staying with friends in the city, and this helps somewhat to relieve the congestion.

Amid the many highly technical discussions taking place at the Canadian Medical Association meeting today, the majority of which are unintelligible in some degree to the average layman, the meeting of the Public Health section stood out as being intensely practical, both to the medical profession and to the public in general. The questions discussed this morning bore directly upon public welfare, and they were discussed in a frank and free manner, which should have far-reaching results. The greater part of the session took the form of a symposium on venereal disease as a practical health problem.

To Ask Government Aid.
The general consensus of opinion seemed to be that the time had come when the doctors were justified in asking Government assistance in fighting these diseases, which formed so serious a menace to public health. The doctors want the Government to assist them in gathering statistics showing the actual extent of the diseases in this country, where they are most prevalent, etc., in order that a more intelligent campaign might be waged against them. As Dr. Adams, of Montreal, put it: "We should demand as medical men that the state take this matter up as a matter of public health."

Committee Appointed.
A committee, comprising Prof. Harris, of Halifax, convenor, and Drs. Hill and E. L. Williams, of London, Dr. Halpern, of Winnipeg, Dr. Adams, of Montreal, and Dr. Bapty, was appointed to consider the points brought out in the discussion, and to report to the public health section on Wednesday morning as to the proper means to be employed in combating the evil. It is possible the committee will counsel approaching the Government in the matter.

Paper By Dr. Hill.
Dr. Hill, of the London Institute of Public Health, opened the symposium with an able paper on some of the aspects of the venereal diseases in relation to the public welfare.

The prevalence of these diseases he showed to be startling. They were

TATTOOS COSTLY;
MAY BE DROPPED
AT CAMP GROUND

Final Arrangements Made For Sham Battle Which Starts
Thursday.

Fifteenth Field Ambulance Put
In a Night of Warlike Experiences.

There is a possibility that the tattoo, which was to have been held on Carling's Heights Thursday night, will be dropped. A vote of the officers in camp was taken Monday night to see whether they were agreeable to holding the tattoo, although all the votes are not yet in. It is said that the majority of the officers do not favor holding it this year.

Tattoos Are Costly.
The tattoo costs in the neighborhood of $250 and has to be paid for by the subscriptions of the officers. It also entails considerable training and work and these latter factors will likely cause the officers to decide to abandon the idea. Lieut.-Col. Macdonell said this morning that although he was not sure whether the vote would be against holding the tattoo, and would not know until this evening's general meeting of the officers led him to believe that they would not vote in favor of the tattoo.

Final arrangements have been made by Major Gordon-Hill for the tactical exercises and sham-battle, which are to be held on Thursday morning. The fight will be staged north of the city in the vicinity of the camp, and will start shortly after 8 o'clock. The contending armies, which will be known as the "Red" and "Blue" forces, will be commanded by Lieut.-Col. Wilson, of the first brigade, and Lieut.-Col. Welch, of the second brigade.

The Sham Fight.
Every unit in camp will take part in the manoeuvres and strict orders issued by the officials say that fields in which crops are growing must not be entered, and that fences or other property must not be damaged. A number of N. C. O.'s are writing examinations for commissions and captaincies, and a number of "provisionals" are writing on the examinations for lieutenancies. Major Gordon H. Hill, G. S. O., First Division, has been appointed president, and Captain F. A. Seely Smith, R. C. R., a member of a board of officers, which will assemble to conduct an examination of infantry officers for qualification and promotion.

A meeting of the Canadian Infantry Association, First Division, will be held at 4:30 in the divisional staff officers' mess on Wednesday.

Ladies Invited.
A number of invitations have been sent out, through the kindness of Col. Hodgins, D. O. C., and the members of the camp staff, to the different ladies' organizations of the city. Members of the W. C. T. U., the Daughters of the Empire, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Sisters of Mercy, and the Women's Christian Association will be the guests, and will be taken all over the camp and entertained at Wolseley barracks.

The meeting which was to have been held in the Y. M. C. A. tent Monday night to make arrangements for the day sports, which are to be held Saturday afternoon, was postponed, and will be held tonight at 8 o'clock instead.

Early this morning the Twenty-first and Twenty-eighth Regiments arrived in camp recently, left the ranges for rifle practice.

WINDING-UP ORDER
FOR UNION LIFE CO.
IS NOW DEMANDED

Superintendent of Insurance and Attorney-General Take Action in Toronto.

Papers Filed Show That Whole of Firm's Capital Is Gone.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, June 24.—Acting for the Attorney-General, at the request of W. Fitzgerald, superintendent of insurance, C. A. Masten, K. C., at Osgoode Hall, today applied for an order winding up the Union Life Assurance Company. The application was adjourned till tomorrow to permit of negotiations looking to the reinsuring of the policyholders in the Metropolitan Insurance Company of New York.

G. F. Shepley, K. C., I. F. Hellmuth, K. C., and A. W. Holmes, appeared on the motion.

Offer of Reinsurance.
G. D. Finlayson, an actuary on the staff of the superintendent of insurance, makes a statement for the benefit of the court as a result of his investigations into the affairs of the company. He states that an offer of reinsurance has come from R. Hegman, president of the Metropolitan Life, who will reinsure the policyholders on the transfer to the Metropolitan of the assets of the Union Life on condition that he has only to deal with an official liquidator who must be the superintendent of insurance or some Government officer, and that no fees will be charged for liquidation.

Incorporated in 1902.
The company was incorporated on May 15, 1902, with head office in Toronto, and an authorized capital of $2,000,000 in 20,000 shares. Of these shares 6,420 were subscribed, allotted and fully paid up, and 10,000 shares subscribed and partially paid up. The total amount paid on the company's shares was $742,705.63.

The directors of the company on the 22nd of May last were: Poliman Evans, Harry Symons, Dr. G. E. Millicham, W. H. Carrie, of Toronto; Col. G. E. Allan Jones, Quebec; E. G. Smith, Halifax; Dr. P. G. Hughes and Dr. A. Ochs, of Galt. On the board of directors at the time of incorporation were also Charles Percy, of Montreal, and A. E. Valerand, of Quebec.

The license of the company expired on May 8, 1913. There was a loss on operations each year from 1902 to 1912, inclusive.

Capital Gone.
From the papers filed in connection with the application it appears that not only is the whole capital of the company wiped out, but that the insurance reserve fund has also been impaired.

In his letter requiring the Attorney-General to act, the superintendent states the formal grounds that the company is insolvent, that the capital stock is impaired, and not likely to be recovered within one year, and that is for other reasons just and equitable that the company should be wound up. It is added that the license has expired and has not been renewed within 30 days. The appointment of an interim receiver is asked.

Capital Impaired.
"The capital of the company," said Mr. Finlayson, "was $2,000,000, and in 1910, the impairment has progressed from that time until the capital stock of the company is wholly lost, and in addition to such loss the insurance reserve fund of the company has been substantially impaired."

The department has for some time urged reinsurance upon the company, holding that this would work out more advantageously to the policyholders than any other method of dealing with the undertaking of the company. To secure such a reinsurance an order of the supreme court putting the company in liquidation is necessary.

T. H. Wright, local manager of the Union Life, could not be located this afternoon, but it was stated at the office in the Dominion Savings Building, that nothing had been heard of the action at Toronto.

A proposition was submitted to the London Life Company over a month ago by the Dominion Insurance Department to take over part of the business of the Union Life, but nothing was ever done, according to Assistant Manager E. E. Reid, of the London Life. Mr. Reid, while knowing of the difficulties of the Union Life, was surprised at the developments that occurred this morning.

today of the diary of the intrepid explorer who gave his life—An epic of adventure as told from beyond the grave.

[Special Correspondence of The London Advertiser.]
New York, June 24.—When Captain Robert F. Scott, after discovering the South Pole and suffering incredible hardships, was starved and frozen to death with four of his men in the Antarctic waste, he left, in a sealed tube, a complete diary of the trip up to the hour of his death.

FOUND WITH HIS BODY.
This great epic of adventure was found with Captain Scott's dead body, and was brought back by the relief party which found the dead bodies of the party and the records they had preserved. A few of the main facts of the expedition were printed, when the news of Scott's death reached civilization. But the diary itself was turned over, still sealed, to Captain Scott's widow, and has been religiously guarded.

The Advertiser today is able to print the chief passages from this remarkable document, by special permission of Everybody's Magazine, which begins publication of the diary in its July number.

FROM BEYOND THE GRAVE.
The heroism of Scott and his loyal followers appears in every line of this living narrative, told from beyond the grave. The story opens with the sailing of the Terra Nova from New Zealand on Nov. 26, 1910, and its immediate struggle with a disastrous storm in the "roaring forties" of the southern seas. After the great gale came baffling currents and cross-currents, huge icebergs and much ice that held the ship back. But says Capt. Scott in his diary, they kept their nerve, and arrived at last at the vessel's destination in Ross Sea, anchoring in the shelter of Cape Evans, on Ross Island, in the lee of the great ice barrier that holds the southern continent as with a rampart of steel.

STRANGE CASE OF
NURSE ALEXANDER
AGAIN TO THE FORE

Claims To Have Been Shunted
From One Asylum to Another for Years.

Now Awaits Canadian Govt. to Take Up Deportation From Illinois.

St. Thomas officials and St. Thomas papers are now dealing with the case of Miss Jennie Alexander, a trained nurse, and former inmate of the London Hospital for the Insane, which has been prominent for the past eight years. According to the woman's own statement, she has been debarrd from the practice of her calling, has been subjected to countless hardships, and has been a human football for various officials, who have driven her from pillar to post and offered no redress.

Fears of Hardship.
This week Miss Alexander appeared before the St. Thomas city council and asked transportation to Ottawa in order that she might take up her deportation from Illinois, with the immigration department. She was deported from an asylum in that state in February last and has been living in St. Thomas ever since.

The story she told the council was one of eight years of hardship, in which physicians' and lawyers' fees have taken every penny she possessed. Her story has won for her great interest in the Railroad City.

Locally she is well known. About six years ago she was confined to the local asylum. She was discharged on probation and left for the States. In Detroit she was arrested and brought back to London, because of traces of alleged insanity.

At that time she figured prominently in the limelight, for she entered suit against the sheriff of Wayne County, Michigan, and against the doctors who had declared her insane. For two weeks the case was fought in the courts of Michigan, but the complainant lost on a technicality.

Lost a Neat Sum by Breakdowns of Hydro

Trades and Labor Council's Share of Ferrari Show Receipts Just Enough to Pay Expense, Owing to No Lights on Two Nights.

The members of the Trades and Labor Council who were responsible for bringing the Ferrari shows to this city are sufferers through the way the hydro failed them during two of the busiest nights last week.

They contend that they lost several thousand dollars by the failure of the light on Monday and Wednesday nights, there being large crowds present.

The Trades and Labor Council worked hard to bring the shows to London, and were to get part of the proceeds, but after paying for the advertising and other expenses, they found that they had broken even. "If we had had light on those two nights we would have done quite well," said Mr. H. Bastia, "but as it was we were quite fortunate in making enough to clear our expenses."

The city council at a special session today at noon passed a bylaw ratifying the agreement between the city and the Molsons Bank, whereby the latter effects a loan of $250,000 from Parr's Bank, London, England, civic debentures to be given as security for the payment of the loan.

Resolutions were passed to divide the newly-annexed districts so as to make them parts of Wards 3 and 4. All north of Dundas street will be added to Ward 4 and all south of Dundas to Ward 3.

Those present were Mayor Graham, Ald. Stein, Rose, White, Moore, Splitt and City Clerk Baker.

Estavan, Sask., June 24.—Many buildings were wrecked and several people injured by a cyclone which struck town last night. People watching a ball game hurriedly fled just before the bleachers were totally wrecked and lay on the ground in a soaking rain to avoid being carried away. The lighting plant was put out of business, telephones badly damaged, and barns in the country wrecked. The loss aggregates over $25,000.

ARRESTERS ARE NOT DEPENDABLE

No Satisfactory Apparatus That Will Cope With the Bolts of Lightning.

General Manager Warburton, of the London and Lake Erie Railway and Transportation Company, recently wrote the Canadian Westinghouse Company in regard to the securing of lightning arresters for the line, and also inquired as to the quality of the lightning arresters on the hydro-electric power line from Niagara Falls in an effort to ascertain whether or not the arresters could be depended upon in heavy electrical storms.

At Mercy of Storm.
A reply was received this morning from the company which makes it clear that at the present time there is no dependable type of lightning arrester, and that to a great extent the hydro line is at the mercy of every storm that occurs between Niagara Falls and London.

The reply was as follows: "With regard to matter of lightning arresters, this is a very open question, and the factory make the following statement as far as lightning arresters are concerned:

"No arrester is sold with a guarantee of an absolute relief from line surges or lightning disturbances, and while we are glad to recommend the type which we think best suited for various operating conditions, the company's responsibility goes no further than the quality and workmanship of the arresters guaranteeing it to be first-class, that is, in other words, that lightning is a very erratic proposition, and our company, as well as others, have been working for years on the satisfactory lightning arrester, and one has never been perfected as yet by any concern that we know of, which will absolutely relieve any lines from lightning."

PROMISE TO WED;

Hamilton Man Convicted of White Slavery in Court at Detroit.

Prisoner, Who Has a Wife,
Claimed To Be Very Wealthy.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Detroit, June 24.—C. H. A. Anderson, of Hamilton, was convicted in the United States court late Monday afternoon of white slavery, and sentenced immediately to serve four years in the Detroit House of Correction by Judge Tuttle.

Anderson's conviction was the direct result of him, bringing Esther Nicholson, of Hamilton, to Detroit by promising to marry her when he reached this city several weeks ago when the couple were arrested.

Miss Nicholson told her story to the police officers, and she was the star witness against him. "You are the prince of prevaricators, the prince of fairy tale tellers, and I do not believe anything you have said in this court. You have left only disaster in your wake, and have done wrong that can never be righted. I would like to send you out of this country forever, but I cannot do so until you have had the penalty for your violation of the laws of the United States," said Judge Tuttle in sentencing Anderson.

Has Wife Living.
Anderson is 40 years of age, and Miss Nicholson is three years his senior, and her home is in Millgrove, Ont.

He became acquainted with her after she went to Hamilton, where he lived with her as man and wife under the promise of marriage, although he already had a wife living.

Anderson when arrested claimed to be worth several hundred thousand dollars and said he was heir to a large estate in England. He is wanted in several Canadian cities for obtaining money from his friends and those of Miss Nicholson's, under false pretences.

When Anderson and Miss Nicholson came to Detroit he went to the National Bank of Commerce and obtained a $100 loan by representing himself as a property-owner in the city.

Claims He Is Heir.

Anderson claims he was the only heir of his father's estate, but the United States officers joined his father is not yet dead. Although Anderson claimed to be a man of wealth he did not have any and could not get sufficient money to pay an attorney. It was necessary for the court to appoint one for him. Just before Judge Tuttle sentenced him, Anderson declared his innocence, and said it was because he did not know of the United States immigration laws, and that it was his ignorance of these laws that was responsible for his plight.

SCOTT'S DIARY TELLS STORY OF FATAL JOURNEY

Graphic Pictures of the Terrible Hardships Polar Party Went Through.

Description of the Remarkable Escape Whole Party Had From Horrible Death.

New York, June 23.—Serving as a postlude to the great Antarctic tragedy, the first installment of "The Uttermost South—the Undying Story of Capt. Scott," as told by his diaries, is published in the July issue of Everybody's Magazine.

The present installment begins with the sailing of the Terra Nova from Lyttelton Harbor on Nov. 28, 1910, and the enthusiastic farewells of the New Zealanders, and extends to late in February, 1911.

From the first the expedition had more than its share of ill-fortune. The first day out of Port Chalmers, where Scott joined the ship, a severe storm nearly sent them all to the bottom.

Storm Came On. Capt. Scott describes how the storm came on and the ship began to plunge heavily, cases of goods breaking loose, and loose coal bags being hurled here and there like battering rams. Sail was shortened, the engine stopped, and the ship hove to, but to little purpose, as the storm rose.

The pumps choked and water rose over the gratings, got in contact with the boiler and grew warmer, and hot at last that no one could work at the engine.

Heavy seas were sweeping over the sea rail, and Scott says that on one occasion he was waist-deep when standing on the rail of the poop.

Narrow Escape. The night before they reached safety camp, Scott and Wilson nearly went down in a crevasse. The diary tells the story: "Suddenly Wilson shouted, 'Hold on to the sledge,' and I saw him slip a tag in a crevasse. Five minutes after, as the teams were trotting side by side, the middle dogs of the sledge began to sink. In a moment the whole team was sinking. Two by two we lost sight of them, and the leader, exerted all his great strength and kept a foothold—it was wonderful to see him. The sledge stopped, and we leaped aside."

"The situation was clear in another moment. We had actually been traveling along the bridge of a crevasse, the sledge had stopped on it, while the dogs hung in their harness in the abyss suspended between the sledge and the leading dog. Why the sledge and ourselves did not follow the dogs we shall never know. I think a fraction of a pound of added weight must have taken us down."

The imperiled animals were rescued with great difficulty. The sledge was hauled down on a rope to save the last two. The rescued dogs immediately started a fierce fight with those of the second sledge.

Would Spring Out Of Her Bed. She Was So Nervous.

Diseases of the nervous system are very common. All the organs of the body may be sound while the nerve centers may be affected.

Many women become run down and worn out by household cares and duties never ending, and sooner or later find themselves with shattered nerves and weak hearts.

On the first sign of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown, do not wait until your case becomes chronic, but at once quiet the nerves, strengthen the heart, and build up the whole system.

Avail yourself of a perfect cure by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. E. Beers, Upper Main River, N.B., writes: "I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for over three months. I was so nervous I would imagine everything, and would spring out of my bed at night."

I tried the doctors, but they did me no good. My brother advised me to take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did, and I can give them the greatest thanks, as they completely cured me."

BACHELORS AND SPINSTERS MUST PAY HEAVY TAX

Most Notable Legislation Ever Proposed in Congress Is New Income Tax.

Aim Is to Strike the Heaviest Possible Blow at Unmarried Ones.

Washington, June 23.—As finally agreed upon by the Senate finance committee, the income tax provision of the tariff bill discriminates against bachelors and spinsters and favors babies.

The Underwood bill, passed by the House, provided that a graduated tax should be imposed on all incomes of more than $4,000. When the bill reached the finance committee Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, who has children of his own and knows something about the cost of raising them, advocated a special exemption for family men. So ably did he urge his contention that the income tax provision was rewritten.

Graduated Schedule. It now provides that unmarried persons—of both sexes—shall pay the graduated tax on all their income above $2,000. Married persons shall pay on all in excess of $4,000 and enjoy an additional exemption of $500 for each minor and dependent child, providing the total additional exemption does not exceed $1,000.

This is probably the most notable legislation bearing upon the married relation that has ever been proposed in Congress. Proposals for the taxation of bachelors or old maids have been reported from state legislatures, but this policy emerges from the finance committee. It is based on a realization of the increased cost of living for families.

Taxation Unchanged. The rate of income taxation carried by the Underwood bill was unchanged by the finance committee. It is one per cent on taxable incomes up to $20,000, with progressive increases beyond.

This table shows how married and unmarried persons will fare on an income of $5,000:

Persons	Unmarried	Married (one child)	Married (two children)
Exempt. None	None	None	None
Unmarried	$200	100	50
Married (one child)	100	50	5
Married (two children)	50	5	0

Thus the father or mother of two children having an income of $5,000, or less need not pay the state any thing, while a bachelor or spinster with a similar income must pay $200 so long as he or she remains single and equally prosperous.

This was the text of a telegram from Mayor Harrison sent Sir William Mackenzie. The board of trade also wired Sir William expressing their resentment at its statements in the interview.

Another telegram was sent to Hon. Robert Rogers, minister of public works, in which the board asked to be informed what action the minister proposed to take regarding the statements.

Payne, who is the controlling director in London of the Mackenzie and Mann interests, was said to have advised the British investing public against investing in any Canadian municipal issues.

This is the aim of the Kansas Agricultural College, and the state is spending $40,000 a year to help.

Seven hundred girls completed the domestic science course at the Agricultural college this week and the college has just closed its movable cooking schools, attended by 11,000 women during the ten weeks they were operated. In five years almost 8,000 girls have completed the domestic science course of the college and 15,000 women have attended the movable cooking schools which the agricultural college is sending out each spring.

In addition to the work of the college there are 400 high schools which teach domestic science. It is estimated not less than 12,000 high school girls are taking the course.

The state pays $200 a year to every Kansas high school with a complete course in domestic science.

Kansas decided two years ago the way to do this was to have a high school waste that goes out of kitchen doors.

"The college girls, the women who attend the movable schools, and the high school girls are doing more to reduce the high cost of living than any congressional or legislative investigating committee ever appointed," said the attendant here yesterday.

"They know how to purchase, how to prepare and how to cook the foods and how to use the leftovers."

For 100 Men: Special Purchase PANAMA HATS

REGULAR $6 to $7.50 - $2.95

This is most unusual for June, and just as unexpected for us, as we did not dream of getting our price so early in the season. In fact before most men had thought of buying to get an opportunity of this kind is most unusual, but here they are. About 100 in all in several good styles, both bleached and unbleached. A clearing lot from a wholesale dealer in which assortment you will find collectively all sizes; if not in one shape you will find your size in another, and even if you wait until August when the season is over, it is not probable that you will meet with such an opportunity as this. Besides, these hats will be doubly appreciated at this price now rather than later in the season after most men have invested in their summer hat. Come early if you want some particular shape you fancy in the window today, Richmond street. About 100 Panamas, $6 to $7.50. Your choice $2.95

THE OFFICE OF THE SENATE.

The spasmodic outbreaks of abuse directed against the Senate by Conservative papers and politicians in connection with the naval bill would seem to indicate that in the opinion of its assailants it has committed two serious offences. The one is that it has attempted to nullify the will of the people. The other is that it has tried to force a general election.

The two charges do not harmonize. It is the will of the people to give a money contribution to the British Government a general election, or a plebiscite is necessary to show it. There is no other way. The people have never had an opportunity to express their will. They never voted on the question. Nobody knows the popular will. The Senate is only trying to find what it is, in order that it may be enforced.

While the Government and its supporters claim that they are acting for the people they are not at all sure of it. Some of the Conservative papers admit that if a plebiscite were taken it might go against any naval assistance, whether in the form of a contribution to Britain or a Canadian navy. If Mr. Borden had been perfectly sure of his position he would have brought down a redistribution bill, and then gone to the country. It would have solidified his power for the next five years at least. It would have been good policy.

As a matter of fact, it is doubtful whether Mr. Borden and his supporters are really as indignant as they profess to be. The naval question has been for him an embarrassing problem. An important section of the people to whom he is indebted for his place do not want any naval policy. They said so in the last campaign, and some of them still sing the same tune. Others, for reasons satisfactory to themselves, have agreed to an "emergency" contribution to Britain. But to quiet their more sincere supporters they have thrown out the suggestion that the contribution is only for its moral effect, that there is no time fixed in the bill for paying over the money, and no likelihood that it will be paid. See the utterances of the Nationalist papers that are recognized as the special organs of the Postmaster-General and the Deputy Speaker.

It has not been an easy task for Mr. Borden to satisfy the jingoes of Ontario and the Nationalists of Quebec at the same time. And he needs them both. Nor is it easy for the Nationalist members of the Government to square their conduct with their promises to the satisfaction of their constituents. The action of the Senate relieves the situation. Mr. Borden can now say to his imperialist supporters that the wicked Grits in the Senate blocked his efforts to sustain the empire in its hour of need. And his Nationalist colleagues can say to their supporters that the contribution was only a bluff to satisfy the Tories, that they knew the Senate would throw out the bill. So the difficulty will be smoothed over for the present. There will be no election; there will be no naval policy; but the Tory-Nationalist coalition will hold on to office.

WESTERN DISSATISFACTION.

Hon. George Langley, minister of municipal affairs for Saskatchewan, is revisiting his English home. He has been expressing to Englishmen his views on high protection. He said:

"The fiscal system in Canada is operating to make settlement on the land less inviting and less attractive every year, in spite of the fact that there are many millions of acres of virgin prairie inviting the husbandman to set free its enormous latent wealth. The proportion of population is growing larger in the urban centres and smaller on the land, not only in Eastern Canada, but in the prairie west as well.

"The policy of high protection is making all the farmer buys artificially dear, while what he sells is cheapened by the open competition of the world, and to such an extent is this felt that farming the prairie, even by men of experience, has almost ceased to be a profitable or even a paying occupation."

This is a sad thing for a Canadian administrator to have to say. Perhaps there is some exaggeration in it. A writer in the current number of the "Round Table," however, corroborates this view:

"The grain growers have many grievances, but first and foremost all times comes the protective tariff. They even assert that the effect of the tariff is adverse to the continuance of the west within the Empire. The American, with his capital and his knowledge of pioneer life, and the Canadian with his standards of comfort, can struggle through; but the Briton, who is often a novice at farming, always at western farming is overwhelmed by the burden of the tariff, despairs and drifts away, with the result that eventually there may be comparatively few inhabitants of British-born stock engaged in farming on the western plains."

The professional loyalists had better consider this aspect of the rejection of reciprocity. The pact of 1911 would have brought about a reasonable compromise between the free trade and low tariff aims of a large body of westerners, and the industrial interests of Eastern Canada. When the west gets a chance under redistribution, there will be a tumbling of Mr. Borden from his uneasy seat.

HOME RULE WINNING.

If there were any seriousness in the Belfast talk of civil war arising in Ireland on the final passing of Home Rule, it would be necessary to remember that the Nationalist leaders have given plain hints that the Carsonites afford them a cue. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. Great Britain would have to choose between a rising of a Belfast handful and an insurrection of four-fifths of Ireland.

That only a handful at the most of the new "Covenanters" really mean business has been indicated by some evidence in a recent libel action tried in Dublin. Three different witnesses being examined on the point of their intentions in signing the Ulster covenant of forcible resistance to Home Rule declared that they did not mean to fight. One said he expected "to be out of the country by that time." Another said he would be like the English passive resisters—contrast this with Sir Edward Carson's bloody talk. Another said he did not know what was in the covenant before he signed it. One declared that Home Rule meant Rome rule, had not read the pamphlets of his leaders which asserted this, had "been a student of serious literature all his life." This was the most unkindest cut of all. The sentiment of the three witnesses, doubtless that of most of the signers of the covenant, was well expressed by the simple answer of one of them: "I didn't believe there would be any fighting, and that is why I signed."

The evidence given by these men was not printed by the Unionist London Times, which professes to give all the news. Of course, British Liberal papers did their best to supply the deficiency. There is not much danger of war in Ireland. As far as England is concerned, apathy reigns except that politicians occasionally raise a little dust. As Mr. Asquith pointed out in his recent speech on the bill, since its introduction the voting in 21 by-elections has been:

Majority for 15,701
Of the four seats lost by the Government out of the twenty-one contested, two suffered by a three-cornered contest, one (N. W. Manchester) were represented by Sir George Kemp, who was a non-Home Rule Liberal, and in the fourth (Newmarket), the Times itself admitted that Home Rule hardly affected a vote. On the other side was the gain in Derry, which gave Home Rule a majority even in Ulster.

Mr. Balfour practically gives up the fight in admitting that only four courses are open for a settlement of the Irish question: (1) provincial councils or devolution for Ireland, with a federal system for the United Kingdom; (2) Home Rule for Ireland except Ulster; (3) an independent Irish republic; (4) the Government's bill. Of these the first has already been rejected by the Nationalists, the second by the Balfours, the third by everybody. The fourth has been approved by a majority of British voters, by the House of Commons, by Ulster, and will in all probability receive the King's sanction in 1914.

A RIDICULOUS COMPARISON.

The next thing, some of our Whitney papers will be saying that Sir James and Mr. Hanna are no worse than Sir Rufus Isaacs or Mr. Lloyd George.—The Advertiser, June 21.

Prophecy fulfilled at once. The Toronto World says: "No one imagined that Hon. Mr. Hanna, in a recent transaction, did anything more corrupt than the Chancellor of the Exchequer."

If Mr. Lloyd George had really committed the sins charged against him by the British Tory press, there would even have been no comparison with the possibly equal, but very different and uninvestigated misdeeds of Mr. Hanna. To compare them would be like the famous darkey debate as to whether fire or water does the most harm.

Mr. Proudfoot has not suffered the misfortunes of Mr. Cecil Chesterton. That is one big difference between the British and Canadian cases.

Between the jail-fasters and the Bel-fasters, Great Britain gets no rest.

Many a British immigrant laments that a dollar is no more than a shilling. Still, in these good times, it is plentiful.

A cry arises about futurist cookery, which dishes up beef and bananas, herring with rosewater and raspberry jelly, and a dessert, say, of oysters and whipped cream. This "new art" would hardly have interested the ancient Romans. It won't affect any of us but the "malefactors of great wealth."

Lieut.-Col. T. S. Hobbs, head of several of London's largest industries, believes the hydro system needs an auxiliary plant. For expressing this opinion Col. Hobbs will no doubt be described by a certain newspaper as an "enemy of hydro," although he uses hundreds of times more hydro power than the newspaper.

An interesting celebration is that going on at New Rochelle, near New York. La Rochelle in Old France was the stronghold of the Huguenots in the time of Henry of Navarre. When Louis XIV. revived the persecutions, Huguenots fled the country in all directions, some settling in New Rochelle, 1688. These were the French Pilgrim Fathers. A number of eminent Americans have had Huguenot blood in their veins, e. g., Faneuil, of Boston, Roosevelt, etc.

They simply can't understand Bordenism in England. The London Nation of June 7 was still expecting a Dominion election. The rejection of Mr. Borden's bill, it says, "converts the struggle into an attack by the Conservatives upon the constitution of the Second Chamber. That struggle was sure to come in any country committed to principles of direct self-government." Mr. Borden has no more intention of Senate reform than of civil service reform, until he has cut both to suit himself, and perhaps not then.

GETTING HIS MONEY'S WORTH.

[New York Post.]
A very pompous and officious judge fined a young lawyer ten dollars for contempt of court one morning. After it had been paid, a serious old attorney walked up to the bench and laid down a ten-dollar bill.

"What is that for?" asked the judge.
"For contempt, your honor," was the reply.
"But I didn't fine you for contempt," said the judge; "there must be some mistake."
"Oh, no, there isn't," replied the old lawyer. "I have cherished a secret contempt for this court for a long time, and I'm willing to pay for it."

LONG TROUSERS.

[Puck.]
First Trump.—Strange how few of our youthful dreams come true.
Second Trump.—Oh, I don't know. I remember how I once yearned to wear long trousers. Now I guess I wear them longer than almost anybody in the country.

SOME LAWYERS' FEES.

[London, Eng., Citizen.]
The fees paid to the leading lights of the bar and to the law officers of the crown are scandalously exorbitant. A thousand pounds a day is not an unusual fee. The attorney-general and his colleagues are said to have received £20,000 for their "services" in the Titanic inquiry.

It is interesting, too, to compare the salaries of our judges with those received by French judges. We have a lord chief justice at £10,000, while the rank and file receive a modest £5,000. The highest paid judge in France receives no more than £1,200 a year, and £1,000 is the usual salary. In England a police court stipendiary receives as much.

AS TO KEEPING LETTERS.

[Boston Transcript.]
A sharp English lawyer who made a specialty of insolvency proceedings once observed to a client that keeping books was one of the worst habits a business man could fall into. The Krupps of today must be somewhat of this opinion about correspondence, since the discovery of a letter written by the Krupp of 1868 recommending his guns to Napoleon III. as just the things the French army needed. Letters are always turning up at the most inopportune time for their writers, as several American statesmen have doubtless reflected.

The golf bug's soul came back from a little lounge around St. Augustine with a smile as wide as the Amazon River.

"I say," it exclaimed, "I don't call this much of a hell. They have the finest golf course out there I ever saw in my life."
A droll-looking old soul who was sitting on the safety-valve looked up. "But did you see anybody playing on it?" he asked. "No," the newcomer admitted. "I didn't." The oldtimer chuckled. "That's it," he said. "Haven't let anybody play on it."

Joy Unconfined
At Boy Scout Party

Seventh Troop Treated to a Lawn Social by Col. Smith.

Jupiter Pluvius was unkind to the Boy Scouts on Friday evening, but the ideal weather and the large crowd more than made up for the postponement to Monday evening. Col. A. M. Smith allowed the boys to use his lawn for the garden party, and the boys were unconfined last night as the fine lawn looked like a fairy garden with the lights twinkling among the trees. The vocal music was contributed by Mrs. L. Dockstader. Mrs. Hungerford and Mr. R. W. Habbeshaw. The band music was supplied by the Twenty-seventh Regiment Band. The seventh troop of Boy Scouts gave an exhibition of first aid work.

The King's Scout badge and a gold watch was presented to Fred Hunt by Canon Tucker for being the first King's scout in the city. When presenting the badge Canon Tucker said that the Boy Scout movement was accomplishing a great work in laying the foundation of a sturdy Canadian manhood. He was pleased to find that Fred Hunt had had the ambition to attain the honor.

The King's Daughters of St. Paul's Cathedral had charge of the refreshments that were served at the close of the program. The success of the party was due to the efforts of the ladies and the kindness of Col. Smith in giving the boys the use of his lawn.

ROYAL WELCOME IN ENGLAND FOR FRENCH PRESIDENT

Big State Banquet at Buckingham Palace Will Be Brilliant Event.

Gold Plate Worth Five Million Dollars Will Be on the Table.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 24.—The friendly feeling between Great Britain and France was manifested today on the arrival in London of President Raymond Poincaré, who is to be the guest of King George and the British nation until June 27. All the newspapers in editorial articles heartily welcomed the chief executive of the republic across the channel, and it is expected that his sojourn in London will impart additional solidity and warmth to the existing relations.

President Poincaré arrived off Portsmouth early in the morning, and his passing in review a notable gathering of the most modern British war vessels, landed at the dockyard where he was met on behalf of King George by the young Prince of Wales, who on this occasion of his first important representative function displayed great composure.

The president and the Prince of Wales then after receiving an address of welcome from the civic authorities of Portsmouth, departed on the royal train placed at their disposal for London, accompanied by a brilliant staff of military and naval officers, who had been attached to the president's staff.

King George was waiting at Victoria station to greet the president, with whom was Stephen Pichon, French minister for foreign affairs. His majesty, after exchanging a few cordial words, then escorted President Poincaré to York House, which has been placed at his disposal during his stay.

They passed through lavishly decorated streets lined by the regiments of the brigade of guards and their car.

An Official Visit.
President Poincaré of France, will not see real London during his state visit. Such pleasure will be reserved for some incognito trip. The London which he will see from today onward will be the metropolis in masquerade, full of Venetian mists, draped and festooned with banners, shields and trophies. Flags will line the west end streets, with the tricolor and "R. F." monogram everywhere.

City decorators have brought all their French to bear in choosing mottoes to stretch across streets. These are some of the greetings which M. Poincaré will encounter when he raises his eyes aloft: "Liberte, egalite, fraternite," "Soyez le bienvenu," "Vive Notre Conive, Monsieur Poincaré," "Les Nations Ont Leur Lendemain."

State Banquet.
The state banquet at Buckingham Palace tonight in honor of the French President will be a brilliant event. The King will propose the health of the guest in French, and the same language will be spoken exclusively throughout the banquet. The famous service of gold plate, which weighs between four and five tons, and is worth $5,000,000, will be taken from Windsor Castle for use on the buffets and tables.

It is needless to say that wines of the best will be put before the president of a wine-producing country, but it is a curious fact that neither he nor any other guest will know exactly what brand he is drinking unless he is a marvellous connoisseur, for the rule at the royal table decrees that labels be removed from all wine bottles so that no particular brand will be advertised.

Printed in Gold.
The menu will be printed in gold on ivory paper, with embroidered edging, and when the procession enters the state dining-room the band will play the "Marseillaise," as well as the National Anthem.

The fact that M. Pichon, foreign minister in the cabinet of M. Barthou, accompanies the French President, and that Sir Edward Grey, England's minister of foreign affairs, will be with King George all the time M. Poincaré is here, convinces many that important political developments will be decided within the next few days.

Used Red Cross For Purposes of Trade

Toronto Man Sent for Trial as Result of Complaints Made.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, June 24.—Walter J. Harvey, president of the Royal College of Science, Red Cross School of Nursing, was committed for trial today by Magistrate Kingsford on a charge that "not being lawfully entitled to use the sign of the Red Cross did, contrary to law, use the said sign and insignia colored in imitation thereof, for purposes of trade."

The charge was laid by provincial police authorities and Inspector Greer, of that force, was the only witness. He said that the alleged imitation of the Red Cross had been used in an advertising pamphlet and in a sign over the building where the school is conducted. The defence claim that their cross is radically different from the Red Cross.

Harvey will be given his liberty on $400 bail, and will have his trial before a jury.

THE IMPROVED DRESS SHIELD.

Now as to 60 cents—but anyone can do the lace trimming herself, though, for the extra ten cents, it is hardly worth the trouble to do it one's self.

Another device for making the dress shield a more attractive article is to incorporate it in a brassiere—or tight fitting corset cover, cut in shape like the old-fashioned basque, crossing in the back and tied in front with tapes. The brassiere is made of both coarse and fine mesh according as one can afford it. When perfectly fitted, and cut in a point front and back at the neck, it is bound round with white tape or ribbon, and the dress shield firmly sewed into the net, leaving loose only the crescent that slips into the sleeve. This again is held to the arm with a lace-covered elastic. The brassiere, thus made, is put on directly over the corset, and over this corset cover is worn. It is a cool, snug, and very excellent method of keeping the dress shield in place. If liked better, the brassiere may be made of all over embroidery or fine batiste lace inserted and edged. But in this case the shield should be merely tacked in, so that it may be easily removed for washing.

PROBLEMS OF THE FAIR SEX SOLVED BY CYNTHIA GREY

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received. No letters can be answered privately.]

At an Afternoon Wedding.

Dear Miss Grey: Would you please inform me how a young boy of 15 years should dress to go to an afternoon wedding? I am wearing long trousers. An early answer will be appreciated. ANXIOUS.

A.—If the affair is a very stylish one you should wear the regulation frock coat, gray trousers, silk hat, gray gloves and necktie. However, if you do not possess these garments and are not in a position to get them, your very best Sunday suit, with nice gloves, and a boutonniere, will answer.

She's Just Fourteen.

Dear Miss Grey: I am going to ask you a few questions:

1. What time should a girl of 14 or 15 be in at night?
2. I am 14 years old, 5 feet 2 inches high. How long should my dresses be?
3. What do Gladys, Marjory, Addie, and Gertrude mean?

Hoping to receive an answer soon, yours truly, KIDDO.

1. Nine o'clock.
2. Eight inches from the floor.
3. Gladys, charming; Marjory, derived from Margaret, meaning a pearl; Addie, from Adeline, a princess; Gertrude, spear-maiden.

"He May Ring Up."

Dear Miss Grey: I invited a young man to my house the other evening, and he did not come. He has not even rung up to let me know why he did not come. He has taken me to numerous parties, where I have always had a very nice time. He seemed very attentive. Last night a friend of mine rang up and told me she was going to a party with him. If he wants me to go out with him what should I say to him? I have been going with him since November, 1911, and have been going out with him to theatres and parties quite often. I am a young lady attending high school, and I have

A PRETTY COSTUME

For the young girl just out of school there is nothing prettier than the little frock illustrated today. It is of pink and white striped silk, with a little coat and pleated ruffle about the bottom of American Beauty charmeuse. On the waist is a white lace bertha which crosses in a front surplice fashion and ties in the back with ends that reach to the bottom of the skirt.

A white tulle hat trimmed with white roses and a band of black velvet on the rim is a girlish head covering to wear with this costume.

Don't forget to carry a parasol, as everyone is carrying them this summer. Either a black or black and white will look well with this or any other summer dress.

Children's Dresses Pretty and Simple

Children's dresses are always supposed to be "no trouble at all," and yet the more ideas one puts into them the more attractive they are. A little frock worn the other day by a sweet little miss showed a very good idea—good in various ways. It was a simple little kimono rig; the remarkable part of it being the shoulder seams.

These were not seams at all, but rather were finished off with facings. On the front piece were buttonholes, while along the sides of the back there were rows of buttons. These buttoned easily, the buttonings running from the neck (there was no collar) to the ends of the elbow sleeves. The dress was thus easily put on.

Also it greatly simplified the ironing. Touches of embroidery added greatly to the little dresses. A pretty one that belongs to a certain dear little girl is of gingham in shades of blue and white. The collar, cuffs, shield and belt are of plain blue gingham, matching one of the bars in the plaid, and all of these are more or less embroidered in white and also broadly buttonholed in it.

A checked gingham (a broken check), in brown and white is very attractive. The brown gingham is very attractive. The accessories in this case are of the plain brown gingham, not a dark shade. The brown is embroidered in white bow knots. Instead of buttonholing the collar and cuffs of this one, mamma found some dark tan embroidery, the edge being done in white. This is just set in narrowly along the edge and appears to have been buttonholed by hand.

THE HORSE'S FOOD.

Don't overfeed the horse. The best of hay and oats should be used and double handful of dry bran should be mixed with each feeding. Don't neglect to water often. Horses should be watered on a hot day every hour or so.

"The Mental 'Health' of Your Baby Is Fully as Important as Its Physical Health"

[BY DR. MARGARET VAUPEL
CLARK.]

Children must early learn to understand that everything in this world into which they have been thrust is governed by laws. Any infringement upon these laws will be followed by evil consequences.

It is sometimes thought rather funny when a tiny mite of a baby defies some one who is twenty times his size. But those who laugh at him should remember that the child who does not learn early in life to obey will probably make an unprofitable citizen.

When marking for points the babies who are brought to me, I place tractability at five, which makes it of just the same importance as disposition, and only one point behind intelligence. It does not make a mother find a child is, if it is not tractable, its fine intellect will be more probably a hindrance than a help.

The other day I was riding on a street car and a pretty young mother got on with the daintiest doll of a baby girl in her arms. I was just

In English Gardens

Gardens ought to be used more. People ought to live in them, read in them, eat in them, play in them, sleep in them, entertain friends in them. A small, comfortable, well-furnished, well-kept garden (immediately adjoining the dining-room), with proper facilities for these various activities, becomes an extension of the house itself. It ought to be the best room in the house—at least all summer. One who goes from America to visit the gardens of the old world, especially the home gardens of England and Germany, is most immediately and strongly impressed with the spirit of privacy which he finds there. The whole garden is apt to be surrounded by a high wall of masonry, and every access is guarded jealously. In the garden one is quite safe from intrusion as in the master's den or the mistress' boudoir. It is very different from the American town-lot garden, wide open to observation from the street, published broadly to all the neighbors' windows, especially the kitchen and bedroom windows, and subject to visit at any moment from the grocery lady, the plumber, the coal dealer, the laundry boy, or any other errand body. Why, the privacy of English and German gardens is so great as to make them favorite places of "engaged couples!"—Women's Home Companion.

BENEFITS OF FRUIT.

The apple is one of the greatest friends. Stewed, baked or eaten with a little salt, it is nourishing, antiseptic and a great stimulant to the appetite. Since a large amount of carbohydrate is present, it should be thoroughly masticated. Berries are important in food value and also medicinally. They are laxative (except blackberries), and contain mineral salts which have a counteracting effect on acids in the blood. They are, therefore, beneficial in cases of gout and rheumatism on account of the potash, lime, soda and other salts in their chemical composition. The main point to be observed in the eating of ripe fruit is that it be cleaned, that the protective skin be not eaten and that it be not overripe or green. Insist upon thorough mastication, and a regular habit of eating it. You will find that the children will show a decided improvement in health.

A woman can think the baby has a bright way of yelling.

Oh! how I wanted to tell that young mother she was not only tiring herself, but she was doing her little girl an incalculable injury. She was creating a selfish, fretful character in her, that would make her unlovely and unloved.

The mother must not only look out for the physical health of her child during the hot weather, but its mental health, as well. A selfish, fretful child like the one I saw on the street car will more quickly become physically ill than the one who is sweet and tractable. The hot weather will affect it more because it has been unconsciously taught to consider only itself instead of being taught the great law of patience.

The things psychological and physical I have touched upon in these little talks are only sign posts pointing to the right road to "better babies" through the summer months. Every mother in following this road will find her common sense telling her many things to do to help her baby. She must do everything she can to make her baby become a "better baby," clean and comfortable as an animal, and as tentative, tractable and peaceful as a human being.

was so good that he went to Cincinnati and made an impression on Joe Tinker. In the spring recruits were let go. He was actually tried out in the role of a farm hand, but then he was taken out and sent out to a Class B league club. Since then he has hit the tobacco and beer trail. Finally, he has come to the Cincinnati League where he had created such an impression. He has been in the line of hitting only one game he is reported to have hit, but he has not been released not fast enough for the league, which seemed to be the last year.

Fryer Going Back.

And then there is the case of Joe Fryer. He was in the Cincinnati line last season, and this year it was expected that he would come back and play for the Cincinnati Reds. He was to move into faster company. But early in the spring he sprained his ankle and was sent to the Canadian League club. Now it looks as if he, too, was left out of the discard.

Smith, Brantford's defensive catcher, who stayed a whole season in the international League, finally finds his way back to the Canadian League.

Who will be the next one? Probably in a few days we will be hearing the Edil Baker has been let go by the Boston Braves. Manager Deneau has released Eddie Linneborn, while Ottaviano Chase has come back to the Boston Red Sox. The Berlin is thinking of releasing Bradshaw and Bramble. ONE WONDERFUL NIGHT

BY LOUIS TRACY.

"Now for it!" roared Steingall, and over went table and crockery with a crash. Of course, this added to the turmoil, and some women in the cafe began to shriek. Not knowing in the least what was causing the commotion, the crowd surged into that particular corner, and Steingall, apparently frenzied, sprang to the window, opened it, and said to Count Vassilani:

"Get out, quick! They'll be knifing you in a minute!"

The Italian girl screamed at that, so that the street was filled with the safety of the street. Vassilani followed, or rather was practically thrown out, and the young Hungarian could have climbed after him, but he was too busy trying to get out of the car, and pinning his arms, forced him head foremost over the sill, but not so rapidly that Steingall should be unable to "go through him" scientifically for the note.

"Be off, you two! Take the car and go home!"

It was no time for argument. Both Curtis and Devar, realizing that Steingall's muttered injunction the belief that the hunt had ended for the night. They knew that the detectives could take care of themselves, and they had scrambled through the window and made off rapidly in the direction of the waiting automobile before the despoiled Hungarian regained his feet. The hour yet wanted nearly ten minutes of being one clock, so the chauffeur had not budged from his post in the park. Devar told him to start the engine and be ready to jump off without delay. Then they waited, and watched the corner of the square intersected by East Broadway, but neither Steingall nor Clancy appeared, so they judged it best to obey orders and make for the police headquarters. There they washed and resumed their own clothes, an operation which consumed another quarter of an hour. Still there was no sign of the detectives, and they decided, somewhat reluctantly, to do as they had been bidden and go home.

"What sort of witches' sibboleth was that which you brought off in Sigmund street?" asked Curtis, while the car was humming placidly on Broadway.

"Oh, that was an inspiration," chuckled Devar.

"An inspiration founded on a solid basis of fact. Now, out with it!"

"Well, I was a year at Heidelberg, you know, and a fellow there told me that one evening, in a safe at the university, a student kicked up a shindy by singing that song. In less than a minute an officer had been stabbed with his dagger, and the student was shot, and it took a squadron of cavalry to clear the street. He learned the blessed dirge, out of curiosity, and I picked it up from him."

"What is it all about?"

"I don't know, I believe it tells the Austrians their real name, but I couldn't translate a line of it to save my life."

Curtis laughed, and said:

"You are by way of being a genius," he said. "I have seen a child go stark, staring mad because some idiot waved a black flag, but that was a symbol of the Boer rebellion, and it meant something. In this instance, among people so far away from their own country, one could hardly expect."

He broke off suddenly, and leaned forward.

"The car had just entered Madison Square, at the junction of Broadway and Fifth avenue, south of Twenty-third street. A Columbia avenue street car had halted to allow traffic to pass, and a gray automobile which was coming out of the tunnel had been held up by a policeman stationed there. Curtis's attention was caught by the color and shape of the vehicle, and in the flood of light cast by the powerful lamps and brilliant electric devices concentrated on that important crossing, he obtained a vivid glimpse of the chauffeur's face.

"Devar," he said, and some electrical quality in his voice startled his mercenary companion, "tell your man to overtake that car and run it into the sidewalk. The driver is 'Anatole,' and it is our duty to stop him."

At that instant the policeman signalled the uptown traffic to move on.

CHAPTER XI.

One O'Clock.

Devar had the minute wits of a fox, and the blood which raced in his veins was as volatile as quicksilver. The same glance which showed him the gray automobile stealing softly across the network of car lines of one of the city's main thoroughfares revealed a roundsmen crossing the square.

"Friend Anatole may be heeled," he said. "Let's get help."

Leaning out, he shouted to Arthur, whose other name was Brodie:

"Pull in alongside the cop. I want to speak to him."

The chauffeur obeyed, and the policeman turned a questioning eye on the car, thinking some idiot meant to run him down.

"Have you heard of the murder in 27th street, outside the Central Hotel?" he said, almost bewildering the man by his eager directness.

"Of course I have," came the answer, quickly enough.

"Well, the car mixed up in it is right ahead. There it is, making for Fifth avenue. Jump in! We'll explain as we go."

The roundsmen needed no second invitation. Obviously, unless some brainless young fool was trying to be humorous, there was no time to spare for words. He sprang inside, and Devar, over the surprised chauffeur, followed him.

"Follow that gray auto. Don't let anybody, but hit up the speed until we are close behind it, and then I'll tell you what next to do."

Little recking what this order really meant, for it was his own hidden wish at the moment from the ken of those far better versed than he in the tangle of events, Brodie changed gear and touched the accelerator, and the machine whirled past Admiral Paragat's statue at a pace which would have caused even stoutly "Old Salamander" to blink with astonishment.

While four pairs of eyes were watching the fast-moving vehicle in front, Curtis gave the policeman a brief resume of the night's doings since he and Devar had gone with Steingall to the police headquarters. There was no need to say much about the actual crime, because the man had full details, with descriptions of the man-slavers, in his notebook.

He was a shrewd person, too. His name was McCulloch; his father had emigrated from Belfast, and a man of such ancestry seldom takes anything for granted.

"I suppose you are not quite certain, Mr. Curtis, that the chauffeur driving that car ahead is the 'Anatole' concerned in the death of Mr. Hunter?" he asked.

But Curtis was of a cautious temperament, too.

"No," he said, "that is more than I dare state, even if I had an opportunity to look at him closely. As it is, I merely received what I may term an 'impression' of him. That, together with the marked similarity of the car to the one I saw outside the hotel, seems to offer reasonable ground for inquiry, at any rate."

"Did you notice the number of this car?"

"No, not exactly. I believe it differs from that which I undoubtedly did see and put on record."

"Of course, the plate must have been changed, or he would never venture in this locality again. If you are right, sir, the fellow must have been in the good luck because he is just passing Twenty-seventh street, within a few yards of the hotel."

Somewhat, the fact had escaped Curtis's remembrance; excellent though his topographical sense might be, he was still suffering from the shock of the night's events, and he was not to appreciate the bearings of particular localities with the prompt discrimination necessarily displayed by the policeman.

To Be Continued.

Ingersoll Woman Was Awarded $50

Ingersoll, June 24.—His Honor Judge Finkle, of Woodstock, presided at a sitting of the division court here yesterday, when a number of cases were on the docket. The most interesting was that of Ingersoll vs. Snively. This was an action brought by Miss Wood, of Ingersoll, for services rendered for a period of eight weeks. The work for which she claimed compensation was not disputed, but it was contended by the defendant that the plaintiff could not recover at all, because it was claimed there had been an infringement of an act respecting the profession of medicine, which was not conceded by the plaintiff. A settlement was eventually reached, the plaintiff being allowed $50.

Rev. Father Oram left yesterday for Sandwich to attend the annual retreat given to the clergy of the diocese.

That the summer carnival held last Thursday night under the auspices of the Church of the Sacred Heart was a pronounced success was evidenced by the proceeds, which after meeting all expenses, amounted to $550.

Police on Trail of Chinese Murderers

Blackmail, Opium Smuggling and Killings To Be Revealed.

[Canadian Press.]

San Francisco, June 23.—Blackmail, murders, opium smuggling and smuggling of coolies across the border, were revealed in letters and documents taken yesterday upon the arrest of Wong King, head of the Bing Kung tong, according to information given out today by federal immigration officials.

The deportation of Wong will be sought at once, and other Chinese, powerful in many American cities, will be prosecuted.

Wong for 20 years has been head of the Bing Kung, the most warlike and powerful of the Chinese gangs.

Widespread levying of blackmail, said to be the principal activity of the Bing Kung, was made effective by a score of gunmen, on salaries with bonuses for killing "big men."

The gunmen also protected gambling dens and owners of Chinese and American slave girls, the letters show.

Many letters bear upon the recent tong war, which extended the length of the Pacific coast, some of them giving specific instructions for the killing of various men.

One of the letters was a catechism for smuggled Chinese, asking questions by immigration inspectors if apprehended.

Did Not Hear Hisses.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:
Allow me a little space in your columns to comment on a subject which is somewhat agitating the minds of a free people at the present time. I refer to the statement made that Mr. McElheran was speaking in the synod on the subject of women in vestries that he was hissed from the gallery. If there was anything of the kind or no, I am not prepared to say, not having heard it although I was present. But that such impudent remarks were made by the speaker were allowed to go unchallenged by the members of the synod is past my understanding and I think instead of a threat to clear the gallery, an order for the speaker to be put out would have been more fitting. In all the years that the synod has met in London, the women in the gallery have never been insulted before, and I can very easily imagine that no self-respecting or right-minded woman will run the risk again. The age of chivalry is indeed dead when men can sit calmly by and hear women so insulted, without a protest. There were some who ventured a hiss or two, but beyond that no objection was made. As for Mr. McElheran's ideas of a "modern woman," as expressed in his letter in Saturday's Free Press, I consider them too vulgar and impudent to take any notice of, and I shall be more than surprised if he does not get called down by some indignant husband, father or brother. I wish to add that if there was any protest from the gallery, while this rampant speaker was on his feet (though I still deny that there was), it was not caused by his opposition to the vote, but that he should dare to turn around and address the gallery, a thing unheard of in any synod in past years, and such an action should have been condemned by all the members present.

Famous for Beauty Of Her Hair

Mrs. Esther Emery Has Hair Which Reaches to Her Knees. Was Once Threatened With Baldness. Tells How She Made New Hair Grow.

"People say I have the most beautiful hair in the world," says Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting in the city. I don't know about that, but certainly I am proud of my hair, for it has grown so in just twelve short months till now it reaches my knees. Last year it was anything but beautiful. I thought I was growing bald. A year ago my hair was thin and scraggy and coming out at an alarming rate. Little bald spots appeared all over my scalp. I was covered with dandruff and itched like fury all the time. I cannot tell you how many hair tonics I tried to save my hair and make it grow again. Some of them helped by taking out the dandruff for a while, but it came right back again and my hair grew thinner than ever. "My success is no secret, and I think that any man or woman can do the same with their hair if they will persevere as I have done. A friend, knowing my condition, sent me a clipping from the New York Herald, which advised people who were growing bald to use a preparation consisting of 6 ozs. Bay Rum, 2 ozs. Lavender (de Compose) and 1/2 dr. of Menthol Crystals. I got these things from my druggist and mixed them myself. I allowed the preparation to stand several hours before using. Then I applied it each night and morning, rubbing right into my scalp with the finger tips till the skin fairly glowed. The results were immediate. When I combed my hair next morning only a few straggling hairs came away instead of the handful I was accustomed to gather. The dandruff left me this time for good, for I have never seen a speck on my head since. In less than a week tiny little hairs appeared all over my scalp and these grew so rapidly that soon I looked like a different woman. They have kept right on growing until they are as you see them now. A physician has told me that Lavender contains the pure juice of a rare, savoury quality for forcing a growth of hair, and certainly after my own experience I can well believe it. Did I use more than the first treatment? Oh, certainly I am using it today. I go to any drug store and have 8 ozs. put up at a time. It lasts about a month and costs very little. I'm not going to stop, any way, until my hair reaches the floor!"

that phrase in the sense in which I used it, was a tendency to induce young men to enter the army, which was the issue, then.

A Critic Criticized.

According to press reports the apologists for militarism have been surprising themselves in wild extravagance of language within the past few days. The Toronto News of Saturday reports a statement by Major Barker regarding the school of the Toronto Industrial School. To get the full significance of his remark it must be kept in mind that the Toronto Industrial School is a reformatory for boys. After inspecting the school, the major is alleged to have said that "if these boys were tough" then the tougher they were the better soldiers they would make. There's a tribute to the army for you! But this is mild when compared with the shocking phrasology of the reported utterance of Rev. Major Robinson, in his address at the London camp yesterday. The soldier of today, said the reverend, is a "man of peace, to give his life, like Jesus Christ, the one for the many." Could anything go beyond that speech for blatant irreverence?

The least offensive element of the statement is the absolute disregard of facts in attributing to the average soldier, as the ruling motive of his life and character, a willingness to sacrifice his life in the interests of his fellow-men. No sane man can be induced to go into the army from many motives, most of them entirely common human motives, and not at all divine. There is the desire for social enjoyment, the desire for the admiration of the unthinking, especially of women, and the desire for worshipers of a red coat, the desire to escape from the grinding monotony of the factory or the farm, and other quite ordinary motives. In the face of the well-known facts, how absurd it is for colonels and majors, reverend and lay, to pretend to believe, and to try to make us believe, that the average soldier is a person of exalted character and "self-sacrificing character! There is more heroism and self-sacrifice shown by any one of hundreds of mechanics in London in the performance of their daily labors, ten hours a day, five days in the week, for fifty-two weeks in the year, and year after year working with slavish toil and spending their wages with cheerful self-sacrifice in maintaining a wife and family, than is shown by the average soldier. It is a wonder that the soldiers themselves did not laugh out in the reverend gentleman's face when they heard him attributing to them the possession of such remarkable virtues.

Finally, there are some of us London people who feel like criticizing the good taste of a clergyman who comes from Stratford to scold us for not turning out on the Lord's Day to contribute to the glorification of a great crowd of quite ordinary individuals, dressed up in uniforms, and incidentally also to the glorification of a speaker who addressed them. Yours, A PLAIN CITIZEN.

Sellers Recital Was of Universal Merit

Noted Organist Performed on Instrument of First Presbyterian Church.

An organ recital of unusual merit, in fact, one of the best musical treats accorded to Londoners this year, was rendered by Gatty Sellers, of London, England, last night in the First Presbyterian Church. Mr. Sellers played to a thoroughly appreciative audience, which, while ready with applause, perhaps paid the best tribute to his skill and the rapid attention given to every number.

As a descriptive organist, Mr. Sellers excels. He has, furthermore, a thorough command of the organ, and understands perfectly its possibilities. Whether grave or gay, jubilant or reposeful, in the inspiring chords of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus," and in the soft melodies of "The Angels," or in the more rapid, he is a master of his art.

In his two most descriptive selections, "The Russian Patrol," by Rubenstein, and "A Storm at Sea," by Liszt, his compositions, Mr. Sellers was heard to especially good advantage. In the former number, the advance of distant troops, the bugle calls faintly heard, the approach of the main body in passing, the gradual dying away of the marchers' footsteps, and once again the bugle calls fading into an echo, were rendered by Mr. Sellers in a most realistic manner. Perhaps some of our audience will always remember the organist as "the man who made thunder." At any rate, his imitation of a thunderstorm at sea was intensely real, aided to some extent by the lightning effects in the darkened church. The introduction of the hymn "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and the striking of the hour, added a solemn note. Mr. Sellers' rendition of a portion of the coronation music, with cathedral choir effect by Mr. Vivian Reeves, organist of the First Church, was also a most pleasing feature of his excellent concert.

Other numbers rendered were: "March Militaire," "Gigue," "Hallelujah Chorus," "The Angels," "Tannhauser," Wagner; "The Angels," Sellers; Mendelssohn's "Fourth Sonata," a most difficult number, but rendered by Mr. Sellers with rare technique and beauty; "Toccata" in D minor, by the organist; "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel.

Mr. Sellers has just completed an eight months' tour of some 500 cities and large towns in the United States and Canada, and sails this week for England. He completed the engagement of the First Presbyterian Church upon the new organ, stating that it was one of the finest he had played upon on this continent.

During the evening Miss F. Cullis and Mr. George White, rendered two pleasing numbers, being a duet entitled "O For the Wings of a Dove," and a solo by Mr. White, "The Song of the Lark," to the accompaniment of the organ.

The only regret remaining at the close was that the audience hearing Mr. Sellers had not been three times as large.

Work Under Way

For Big Exhibition

Western Fair to Advertise Extensively and Handsomely.

Preparations for the great exhibition have been going quietly on for months at the general offices. Advertising matter of different kinds is being sent out daily. About four hundred billboards with a very attractive poster on them will be placed in the next few days at all the railroad stations along the different lines of Western Ontario. The staff is busy at present preparing material for the programs to be issued shortly. The wisdom of the directors in adding $2,000 to the prize list of this year is apparent, as increased interest is shown, and it is fully expected that there will be the largest exhibit of live stock in the history of the exhibition. Several new sections have been added to the horse department, some of them for farmers only, in the roadsters and carriage coach classes. This should encourage farmers throughout the country who have a good horse or two to bring them to the exhibition, as they will not have to compete against professionals. Application for space for exhibits and concessions are coming in every day and the buildings and grounds are being rapidly filled up. Prize lists, entry forms and all information given on application to the secretary, London, Ont.

OFFICER "HIKED" TO

HELP A PRIVATE

Surrendered Seat in Auto So

That Indian Would Reach

Camp in Time.

Hon. Col. A. E. Somerville, of the Twenty-sixth (London) Regiment, has a large heart. At least his fellow officers in the regiment say so, and they should know on account of being associated with him continually.

They point out the evidence of their contention the fact that any man who will get out of his own automobile in order that an Indian, a private in the regiment, may ride into camp, so that he would not be censured for overstaying the time limit of his leave-of-absence, must have a large heart.

One of the Indians at the Heights this year has a relative in Muncey, who is very much of the same opinion. He obtained permission to visit the sick one. He was on his way back after visiting the relative, and, although exhausted, was hurrying to get into camp in time, when an officer in an automobile, also on his way to camp.

The story goes that the officer, realizing the predicament of the man, got out of his car, told the man to take his place, and walked into the Heights, nearly an hour late, while the Indian arrived in plenty of time.

The Indian is uncommunicative, and refuses to say anything about it, Col. Somerville is, however, of the same opinion as the Indian, but the story leaked out, and is going the rounds, and Col. Somerville has, if possible, become even more popular.

PLEADS FOR MUSIC

WITH HUMAN APPEAL

Delightful Lecture-Recital by

Madame Stephali at Auditorium Last Night.

If you have been wont to confuse the world of art and artists with eccentricities, affectations, and with eccentric personalities, and that mild-eyed insanity that is supposed to be the hall-mark of genius and greatness, go and hear Sofia Stephali at the Auditorium tonight and you will be delightfully disillusioned. If you have been clinging to the fond belief that art and music exist for the exclusive enjoyment of a few highly-vrought, nervously-strung, neurotic, impressionable, finely appreciative temperamentalists, Madame Stephali will crush and rudely shock you.

She is a really accomplished artist.

Were the standards of art in vogue today more moral and sane, she would be at once acclaimed as a great artist.

On her part, she would compromise by adopting some little freak-iness of personality that the musical high-brows would deign to accept as the olive-branch of peace, undoubtedly the elect would praise her, audiences would crowd to hear her, and her fame would grow like that of De Pachman and Paderewski. But she chooses to dress with the plain and taste, without the least affectation, and to use her beautiful and clear mezzo-soprano voice in singing well-chosen selections in a way that everyone can understand.

Sings in English.

Most of her songs are sung in English, and one knows from her first note that they are in English. The question which a musical audience usually has to decide before it can begin to appreciate a song, namely, whether the singer is singing in pidgin

English, old French, modified Italian, or simple Bulgarian, is, obliterated

once when Stephali begins to sing.

It will be difficult for the Culturists to resist the temptation to give her praise, whatever that may mean, for give her for her extremely rude, evangelistic zeal in attempting to interest the lay, bourgeois classes in music. In her address on the "Influence of Music," which preceded her recital Monday night, she observed that the middle classes have largely lost the primal attachment of humanity to music.

And she lays at the door of the peculiar evolutions in the musical world, the music too, and at only charges the music too, and at only an aesthetic and restricted appeal.

Music has lost its humanity, its motive and power, according to Stephali, emotion to which man is given, but the use of song to produce mood or action was understood far better in the train, which the versatile, unaffected and natural Stephali well knows how to interpret. Bond's "A Perfect Day" was simply and delightfully rendered. In Meyerbeer's "Deer Prophet," scene Cavatine and Aria, Stephali admirably pictures forth the warring of the primal, God-implanted emotions of the mother's heart with the stinging consciousness of a son's ingratitude. Her rendering of De Pinna's "Gaily Chant the Summer Birds" thrills with the wholesome melody of forests and wild songsters, and breathes the sweetness of meadow flowers and the freedom and unaffected joyousness of the sun-shine.

Wholesome art, music with a human appeal, harmonious life and joyous, natural living; of these things Stephali is the prophetess, the forerunner, the sane, useful dreamer, who not only dreams but sings, and, judging from her cordial and delightful personality, also lives her message.

This afternoon she lectures on "Music and Childhood," this evening on "Music and Life," with illustrative songs for each lecture.

CORPS DINES

COUNCILLORS

Guests of the Twenty-Sixth

Regiment at the Officers'

Mess.

ON CARLING'S HEIGHTS

Again did the officers of the Twenty-sixth Middlesex Regiment make a name for themselves as being excellent hosts when they entertained members of the county council at a dinner in the officers' mess Monday night.

Invitations were sent out to every member of the council but on account of the season, and the great volume of work which practically every farmer has on hand at present, it was next to impossible for some of them to be present.

An excellent menu was provided by the chef of the officers' mess and a brigade of waiters saw that no one was neglected. All during the dinner the regimental band, composed of Indians, which, by the way, is one of the best bands in camp, played stirring airs.

A short speech following a toast to the King, Col. Robinson thanked the visitors for their attendance, and said that instead of having the usual speeches and toasts, he would ask the guests to step into the reception room where a smoker would be held.

The dinner is an annual one when the soldiers are in camp in London, but during the last two years it has been abandoned on account of the camp being held in Goderich.

A vote of thanks was tendered the officers before the visitors left camp.

Industrial School

Issues Circular

Explains To Parents Great Advantage of Training For Boys and Girls.

The Industrial and Art School has just issued an interesting and up-to-date circular to the parents and senior pupils of the public and separate schools. This was preparatory to the registration, which takes place this month for next year's class. The Industrial and Art School authorities are to be congratulated on their businesslike methods in bringing the work of the school to the attention of the parents. Quotations from such eminent educationalists as President Elliot, of Harvard University, who says of this class of school: "This combination of book work and shop work is the most perfect education that the world has ever seen," should have great weight with parents who have felt that their school system should be more closely related to the life-work of the boy and girl.

Principal Beal will be in the Alexandra School every evening this week from 7:30 to 9:30 to meet parents. The registration promises to be very large.

We desire to express our sincere regrets to our patrons for the inconvenience to which they have recently been subjected on account of the stoppages which have occurred upon our line.

We trust that they will understand this most unsatisfactory service is not due to any fault of ours.

In the past when we were generating power from our own power plant, situated in the city of London, our line was noted for its prompt and regular service under all conditions.
