SAVE THE FLAG.

"Don't you think it would be well," queried a citizen this morning of The Planet, 'for your great family jour-nat to extend its influence from the advocacy of reforms in the city and vicinity and get after the government at Ottawa for one or two much needed statute enactments?

"Now, would it not be both a dignified and appreciated enactment to prohibit the using of our nationa flag as an advertisement? I understand that in the States the statutes provide a penalty for the utilizing of the stars and stripes for this purpose, and why should our Dominion be less loyal to the interests of the Union Jack? It deteriorates the value of partiage more especially in the flaunted as a showy ad. on a biscuit box or a spool of cotton. Our flag has too many moble and revered asso-ciations for this flippancy, and I be-lieve such an enactment as I have suggested would meet with general

A PROPHETIC STATEMENT.

In the course of an article on Mr Chamberlain's recent speech on the unity of the Empire, the London Times makes this prophetic statement, a statement that will be heartily endorsed in this country.

"If the war did nothing more than finally dissipate our craven fears of being great, and finally decide our colonies to unite their destinies with those of an empire which thus reinforced its claims upon their re-pect, it would have justification stronger than can be alleged for many struggles of the kind. We are not to suppose that the new chapter in history is closed. It is still to write, and the writing may be long. Sr Michael Hicks-Beach has been couldly setting forth at Liverpool some of the questions which will have to be solved, and the solution of which he does not at present uerceive. But the chapter has been opened, difficulties have been overcome which no one twenty years ago knew how to grapple with, and we may go steadily forward with the assurance that the sober wisdom of great self-governing communities knit together by common interests, common sentiments, common traditions, common speech, and common aspirations, will in the future, as in the past, prove equal to the task of consol dating, defending, and advancing the Enpire to which they are proud to belong."

A TALE OF TYRANNY.

Mr. Alex. Mills, one of the three commissioners appointed to look into the grievance of the Fox bay settlers, told the sad story of these people at the Sherbourne Street Methodist Church Toronto. Mr. Mills visited the Island of Anticosti, talked with the settlers, and took evidence in the case. He is practically a co-defendant with Rev. Dr. Griffiths, of Quebec, in an action for damages brought by Menier, the French chocolate king, which will be heard next week.

Mr. Mills related the circumstances under which the settlers, then 36 in number, migrated from Newfoundland to Fox bay, Anticosti, in 1873, on the invitation of Capt. Forsythe. Afte: great hardships they succeeded in establishing homes for themselves, and lived peadeably by hunting and fishing until Menier bought the island in 1895. Menier appointed as Governor one Comettant, a hard-headed Scotchman, who drew up a list of rules, which virtually forbide the settlers hunting or fishing, and prevented them from buying from anybody but Menier Goods had to be ordered from English bay, at the other end of the island, 130 miles from Fox bay, and sometimes articles ordered in August were not delivered until November. During one of thes long delays the settlers protested to the Governor that they would have to buy goods from the mainland. He wired back: "I will take none of your impudence; I will deliver them when I like." Mr. Mills saw this telegram when he visited Anticosti. In 1898 diphtheria broke out and a doctor was permitted to hastily visit the 'sland, but was not allowed to return. As a result eight of the children died Complaints having been made that some of the settlers were not obeying the rules, a young lawyer named Gibson, in the employ of Menier, went to Anticosti with four policemen, and threatened that if the alleged offenders did not get out within 2! hours they would be ejected by force, and their houses burned down. He would allow them nothing for their property. Finally, they were compelled to sign an agreement to leave within one month at their own expense. Rev. Dr. Griffith' appealed to Hon. F. R. Marchand, Premier of Quebec, who told Gibson that he must not enforce such an agreement, as it was against the law. The matter reached the ears of Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, who applied to the Dominion Government for a report. The Dominion Government in turn asked the Quebec Governments for particulars, and the latter commissioned Hon. Mr. Angers, counsel for Menier, to prepare a report. Mr. Angers admitted he never saw the Fox bay settlers. Mr. Mills showed that the report sent to Mr. Chamberlain was not in accordance with the facts. It stated that the Queboc Government had provided counsel for the settlers, and would look after their legal interests. The truth was that their lawyer, a young man, was left to fight eleven actions against a millionaire, with his clients 500 miles away, and with no money to meet ex-

When Hon. Mr. Tarte was taunted in the House of Commons by Mr. George Taylor, the Conservative whip, with travelling about in a yacht with Mr. Menier, flying the tricolor, Mr. Tarte retorted very severely, saying that the Fox bay people were not de sirable settlers, as they were wreckers who would display false lights in order to lure ships to destruction. Mr. Mills cited the testimony of elergymen who had ministered to the settlers, and of other prominent men who knew them well, to show that they were earnest Christians. Mr. Tarte afterwards apologized and with-

Mr. Fitzpatrick, Solicitor-General of Canada, to intercede for them, as he had just returned from France, and had met Mr. Menier there. Mr. Fitzpatrick replied:-"Do you think I am fool enough to ask Menier for $10,-000 when he has judgment against them?' Mr. Mills contrasted this with the language of Judge Andrews, who expressed deep sympathy for the settlers, and remarked that while the pound of flesh must be given Mr Menier, it was one of those cases which led the poor to believe that society was organized in the interests of the rich, and which tended to make anarchists and murderers.

The Government offered the victims home elsewhere and free transportation. Sir Wilfrid Laurier suggested Cape Breton on account of the similarity of the climate, but they chose the Dauphin district in Manitoba, and now regretted it. Typhoid fever had broken out, and they were in a lamentable condition. It was likely the Methodist Church would shortly make an appeal in their behalf.

When Mr. Mills concluded, Ray, Jas. Allan remarked his story resembled something that happened in France before the French Revolution.

MY SISTER'S BABY

My baby is full of abounding life and joy; my sister's boy is a puny thing.

The difference is: my baby is healthy. He takes his fill and sleeps; and he grows. My sister's boy gets fully as hungry, he cries with hunger; then cries, I think it must be, from weakness; his food is a burden to him.

The day for receiving nominations of candidates for the office of county councillors throughout the province will this year be, Monday, the 24th day of December.

The returning officer in West Durham seems to be following the course which once led to some unpleasanta ness and injustice in an election in this section. If returning officers would follow the returns and leave technicalities to the courts they would avoid the suspicion that they were either politically crooked themselves or were the tools of crooks.

If our esteemed contemporary th Banner-News is so anxious to find fault it might give its opinion on why the Bell Telephone Company was dragged into the suit of Atkinson vs. Chatham. The supreme court seems to say the city made a blunder in this matter, and has saddled it with the Bell Telephone Company's costs, which will likely amount to more than the extras on King street. NEW WAY OF PRESERVING PORK. Weekly Sun.

Here is something in the way of preserving meats that is new to me attail events: "In the fall," said Jas. Stainton, of Enniskillen, in explaining how it is done, we kill one or two hogs for our own use, as soon as the carcasses are cool Mrs. Stainton commences slicing and cooking, as if preparing a meal. But the slicing and cooking go on until the whole carcass has been disposed of. 'As each lot of meit' is cooked it is put in a crock, or candy tub, and the gravy poured over it. This continues during the whole process of cooking-first a layer of meat, and then a layer of gravy. When the crock is filled a cloth is Rev. Mr. Halstead, of Portage la tied over the top to keep out the flies. Prairie, Man., also declared that it Sypreserved the meat will keep for a Reemed like a tale of oppression two year; and, when we want pork for a meal, we just go to the crock, take or three hundred years ago. Which Were Made in Chicago.

New York, Nov. 16.—Dr. Christopher Ahlstrom, of this city and an unknown woman were found dead in a bed room in the Boulevard hotel, Broadway. Both had been suffocated by illuminating gas.

Rheinhold Busse, proprieter of the hotel, said the couple came to theihotel about 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. They drank together in the restaurant, and scemed in the best of spirits. About 7 o'clock the man asked for a room for himself and the wowan. He registered as "John Mutlen and wife, New York city." He was assigned to a room on the third floor. The room was a small hall bedroom. About 2 o'clock this morning Busse found gas was escaping from the room. An entrance was forced and the woman was found on the floor and the man on the bed. Both were dead. The woman was a handsome brunette about 27 years old. Her clothing was of good quality. On her left hand were four rings, which the police say, are worth $1,000. In the room was a seal skin sacque with a tag upon it bearing the name "Marshall Field & Co., Chicago."

It is the opinion of the hoteh proprietor and the police that the deaths were accidental, the occupants of the room failing to properly shut off the radiator's gas supply.

Ahistrom was a widower. His daughter Rachel, who lived with him, was uanble to give any information bearing on the tragedy except that yesterday afternoom a woman of the description of the one found dead called at her father's office. Rachel admitted her, believing her to be a patient.

DULL TIMES AT DAWSON.

Miners' Wages Decreasing-Work and Pay are Uncertain. Rossland Miner.

Rossland Miner.

Mr. Emanuel Pilon, a pioneer of Rossland, returned a short time since from Dawson and Nome. He left here a year and a half since and went to Atlin, and from there to Dawson, and from the latter place to Nome. He says wages are coming down at Dawson. When he first went there, $5 a day and board was paid to miners, but now $3 to $3.50 per day is the rule. In cases where the claims do not pay, or where the pay is small, the miners either lose all their wages or receive only a fraction of what is due them. He was one of the fortunate ones, however, as he worked on No. 16 chim on Eldorado Creek, which is a very rich claim, and he was paid in full for his services. The Klondike section is getting very dull, and the population is decreasing. The number of people has dwindled from 47,000 to 27,000. In the spring of the year 5,000 left Dawson for Cape Nome. About 2,000 went down the Yukon River, over the ice on dog sleighs, while 3,000 waited for the breaking up of the ice in the Yukon, and made the trip down the river in steamers and row boats. There is but little work at Nome and the e are but two creeks that amount to anything—Anvil and Daxter. The othe 's, he says, are practically worked o't. As for the beaches, they were worked '1-st year. He says the crowd of disappointed people at Nome was the largest he ever saw, and the United States Government was compelled to bring a large number of them to the coast. Nome, he thinks, will have a very poor future, unless new discoveries are made in its vicinity.

The section around Dawson is rich, but the mining laws are poor, and their administration is such that the proven prespector is often defrauded of

The Country Editor, The country editor of a quarter of a century ago, says Congressman Landis, was not a college-bred man, but he could "chop logic" with the best products of the universities, quote poe ty apily, and, at an hour's notice, deliver a political speech or address a Sunday school convention. From the standpoint of the useful citizen, he was an all-around finished product.

The country editor of to-day is a different person. He is a good business man. He can "set type," but is seldom found at the "case." He employs compositors, or has ornamented his office with a type-setting machine. The young woman you see bending over the ledger is also a stenographer and typewriter. The country editor now dictates his editorials and employs a bright young man to write local news. His newspaper is printed on an improved press, the power is furnished by a gas engine or electric motor, and the paper is folded by machinery. He owns his own home, keeps his own horse and carriage, and has credit at the bank. A pleasant trip of a month is likely to be offered at any time, and he takes it gladly; while the young woman who keeps the books and the bright young man who writes local news keep the pape! in a straight line.-Success.

American Lecomotives Abroad.

American lecomotives have been found cheaper to maintain in foreign countries than English lecomotives, and this is largely due to their greater simplicity and easy accessibility for repairs. American engines are the most comfortable and easy to fire and mest comfortable and easy to fire and run, and as a rule are easier riding. These qualities win the admiration of enginemen, and constitute a powerful factor of success on the railways of the world. English manufacturers are beginning to appreciate the truth of this, and to modify the construction of their engines accordingly, and in recent English engines intended for export we find efforts made toward the adoption of some of the popular features of the American locomotive.—National Car Builder.

Barrister W. F. Smith, acting for Samuel French, Harwich, has issued a writ against David Wilson, of Howard. The defendant owns a farm near Fargo, and last October leased it to the plaintiff, French, for three years. It is an uncleared farm and the plaintiff was to clear it off and reduce it to a state of cultivation. This much the plaintiff alleges and further more that the defendant agreed to furnish a team of horses, the necessary implements, seed grain and other articles. team of horses, the necessary implements, seed grain and other articles, and did so. The plaintiff was to give defendant, two-thirds of produce and keep a third. The plaintiff cleared 40 acres and raised corn and beans. The defendant in September notified the plaintiff that he was going to terminate the lease and forbid him, doing any more work. One the 27th of Oct. ate the lease and forbid him doing any more work. Onn the 27th of October, the defendant is alleged to have come to the place and taken away the team and a plough. This is what the plaintiff says, and he states that this stopped him doing any more work, as, he could do nothing without horses. Defendant also served a written notice, that he desired to terminate the lease. The plaintiff sues for damages for breach of contract, an injunction re-straining defendant interfering with plaintiff and asks for an order for the return of the horses and the plough.

Detroit Free Press:—Representatives of six different wagon manufacturing concerns, called the Ontario Wagon Makers' Association, held a conference with Curry & McGregor, of Windsor, yesterday, with a view to purchasing the stock in the Milner-Walker Wagon Co., of Walkerville, now held by Harper's Hospital and the Children's Free Hospital, of Detroit. Of the stock in the company, $25,000 was left to the two hospitals by the late Hiran Walker, and some weeks ago the factory was closed down, as the directors of the hospitals wished to realize on the stock. The association proproses to buy part of the plant and remove it. The proposition, however, is considered undesirable, and the money consideration offered is believed to be too low. FIRE TEAM RAN AWAY.

Last evening the hook and ladder team broke through the doer at the fire hall and got away. The Chief and John Kelly hitched the team and before the Chief could seize the reins and get into the seat the horses had burst through the door. The Chief pluckily held onto the reins and was dragged across the platform in front of the hall. The horses with the truck attacked ran as far as the corner of Harvey and Centre streets where one of the horses fell and the team was stopped. FIRE TEAM RAN AWAY.

hat is the Opinion of an American Methodist Bishop.

New York, Nov. 16.—Bishop Chas. H. Fowler, of Buffalo, presided at last night's session of the general missionary committee of the Methodist Church, and in specking of the lately developed opportunities for mission work, he said:—"The three greatest events in Christian history are the labors of St. Paul, the firing on Fort Sumter and the blowing up of the Maine. The latter event helped to make the great Anglo-Saxon race one, Sumter and the blowing up of the Maine. The latter event helped to make the great Anglo-Saxon race one, when the men of the North and the men of the South marched side by side drinking out of the same canteen and wrapped in the same blanket. In the far East the spirit of St. George aand the Union Jack moved forward and anchored side by side with the Stars and Stripes, so that they were in an adjustment and relation that not a soldier can move foot on the face of the earth without their consent. If England must come out of China it will be destructive to civilization there for a century to come." Bishop Fowler said it is the duty of missionaries to get into China, no matter at what cost. The next speaker was the Rev. A. C. Leonard, who had done much missionary work in China, and who also spoke of the desire that England, and not Russia, shoulff be paramount in China. Other speakers were the Rev. George B. Smyth, who gave a detailed account missionary work in China, where he had been for several years, and the Rev. Dr. Oldham.

How Do You Like This New Fad?

Vegetarians, anti-coffee drinkers and food cranks of every description, must now take a back seat, for a new fad has the floor:

A society has recently been formed, the members of which pledge themselves to eat no food whatever that has been cooked. They claim that uncooked food is the only rational healthful diet; that our remote ancestors at mo cooked food and therecestors ate no cooked food and there-fore if we do the same vigor and Raw meat, raw potatoes, raw wheat, raw eggs, raw everything, is the enticing bill of fare held out to the enthusiastic food crank of the future and the society proposes to establish restaur-ants in the larger cities, where this delightful menu may be served daily.

Modern cooking is often a dyspepsia producer, because we fry so many broiled, or boiled; fried food is indigestible because each particle of food, is incased in hot grease which the directive interest of the storage country. gestive juices of the stomach cannot easily penetrate; but properly cooked food is more easily digested than the same food uncooked, and we predict for the new food a very limited folowing.

The real cause of indigestion is the lack of hydrochloric acid and peptones in the stomach, so that no matter how well cooked the food, it can not be well digested unless the gastric juice is abundant and contains the necessary amount of peptones to dissolve the food. Therefore the most sensible cure for poor digestion is to take after each meal some safe and reliable digestive like Stuart's. Dyspepsis Tablets, which curply performs to digest the which supply peptones to digest the meat and eggs and diastase to digest the bread, potatoes, and similar starchy foods.

Laxative medicines never are indigestion because they have no digestive effect whatever upon the food; on the other hand, if the food is properly di-gested there will be no need of laxa-tives; good digestion does away with constipation.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain

pure aseptic pepsin (government test) diastase and the digestive elements which weak stomachs tack and they cure indigestion by assisting the over-worked, rundown stomach in its hard worked, rundown stomach in its hard work, until it is restored to its 'nor-mal condition, when the tablets are no longer neeled, but there are thounever eat a meal without taking one or two of Stuart's Tablets, because by so doing they can eat what they please and be free from any bad after effects. Last evening, shortly after six o'clock, the fire alarm sent the brigade to the residence of Mrs. Cameron, William street, where the large barn, used a street, where the large barn, William street, where the large barn, used as a store-house, was in flames. The timber was dry and ere the arrival of the department the building was wrecked. The athletic ground fence adjoining was badly burnt. How the fire started is a mystery, but it is thought that tramps must have sought shelter in the barn and caused the blaze. It was only partially insured. Thirty-two minutes exactly sured. Thirty-two minutes exactly elapsed, it is said, from the sending out of the alarm to the turning on of the water by the department.

It's Your Nerves.

tt's the Condition of Your Nerves That Either Makes Your Life a Round of Pleasure or a Use'ess Burden.

To many women life is one round of sickness, weakness and ill health. To attempt even the lightest household duties fatigues them. Many of the symptoms accompanying this state of decline are: a feeling of tiredness waking, faintness, dizziness, sinking feeling, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, loss of appetite, cold hands and feet, headache, dark circles under the eyes, pain in the back and side and all other accompaniments of a run down and weakene dconstitution.

All these symptoms and conditions are simply the result of a poor quality and defective circulation of the blood, with a wasting away of the nerve forces.

walled, writing in a ing inward torture.

"Madame, I do not understand you at all. Surely you are raving when you talk like this."

Still recepting on the edge of the Still moaning on the edge of the plague-pit, she half rose up, with both hands clasped tightly over her heart, as is she would have held back from all human ken the anguish that was destroying her.

'No-no, I am not mad-pray heaven I were! Oh, that they had strangled me in the first hour of my birth, as they would a viper, rather than I should have lived through all this life of misery and guilt, to end it by this last, worst crime of all." Norman stood and looked at her with a dazed expression. He knew well enough whose murderer she called herself; but why she did so, or how she could possibly bring about his death was a mystery altogether too deep for him to solve "Madame, compose yourself, I be-seech you, and tell me what you mean. It is to my friend, Ormis-ton, you allude—is it not?"

Yes-yes; surely you need not

'I know that he is dead and buried in this horrible place; but why should accuse yourself of murdering him, I confess I do not

"Then you shall," she cried pasonately. "And you will wonder at no longer. You are the last one to whom the revelation can ever be nade on earth; and now that my hours are numbered, it matters little whether it is told or not. Was it not you who first found him dead?" "It was —yes. And how he came to his end, I have been puzzling myself in vain to discover ever since."
She rose up, drew herself to her full Rice Block, Market Square | majestic height, and looked at with a terrible glance.

"Snall I tell met" 'You have no hand in it," he answered, with a cold chill at the tone and look, "for he loved you." "I have had a hand in t-I alone have been the cause of it. But for me he would be living still."
"Madame!" exclaimed Sir Norman Sir Norman shrugged his should-in horror. You need not look as if you thought me mad; for I tell you it is heaven's truth! You say right—he loved me; but for that love he would be living now!"

"He told you that, did he? "He did." He told me you were to remove your mask, and if, on seeing you, he still loved you, you were to be his wife."

"Then woe to bim for ever having extorted such a promise from me. Oh, I warned him again and again, and again. I told him it would be, I begged him to desist, but he was blind; he was mad; he would rush on to his own doom! Litulfilled my promise, and behold the result!"

She pointed with a frantic gesture to the plague-pit and wrung her beautiful hands with the same moaning of anguish.

"Do I hear aright?" said Sir Norman, looking at her, and really doubting if his ears had not deceived him. Do you mean to say that in keeping your word and showing him your face you have caused his death?' "I do. I had warned him of it before. I told him there were sights too horrible to look on and live, but nothing would convince him! why was the curse of life ever be-stowed upon such a hideous thing as

Sir Norman gazed at her in a state of hopeless bewilderment. thought, from the' moment he saw her first, there was something wrong with her brain, to make her act in such a mysterious, ecentric sort way; but he nad never positively thought her so far gone as this. In his own mind, ae set her down now as being mad as a March hare, and accordingly answered in that soothing tone people use to imbeciles:

"My dear Madame Masque, pray de not excite yourself, or say such dreadful things. I am sure you would not wilfully cause the death of anyone, much less that of one who loved you as he did."

La Masque broke into a wild laugh almost worse to hear than her former despairing moans.

"The man thinks me mad. He will not believe, unless he sees and knows for himself. Perhaps you, too, Sir Norman Kingsley," she cried, changlike to see the face behind this -would like to see what has slain your friend, and share his fate?"

"Certainly," said Sir Norman. should like to see it, and I think may safely promise not to die from the effects. But, surely, madame you deceive yourself; no face, how ever ugly, even supposing you to pos sess such a one—could possibly produce such dismay as to cause death.

"You shall see." She was looking down into the plague-pit, standing so close to its cracking edge, that Sir Norman's blood ran cold in the momentary expectation to see her slip and fall headlong in. Her voice was less fierce and wild, but her hands were still clasped tigntly over her heart as if to ease the unutterable pain there. Suddenly she looked up and said, i an altered tone: "You have lost Leoline."

"And found her again. She is in the ower of one Count L'Estrange.
"And If in his power, pray,

"He has." "And you have no doubt what he decision will be?"
"Not the slightest.

"How came you to know she was carried off by this count!"
"He confessed it himself."
"Voluntarily?"

"Then you know him, said Sir Norman, pointedly "There are few things I do not know, and rare are the guises I cannot penetrate. So you have discovered it too?"

"No, madame, my eyes were not sharp enough, nor had I sufficient cleverness, even, for that. It was Hu-bert, the Earl of Rochester's page,

A DOE AND HER FAWNS

What's that? Looking intently toward the point, I see two from the bushes, says a writer in The Forest and Stream. Not more than four or five feet, but there they are as plain as life can make them, They are certainly not over 2 or 3 weeks old, spotted like two leopards, ears so large and awkward looking their knees hardly seem able to support their ungainly little bodies, bu happy as the children of the forest only know how to be when no dan ger is nigh and big mamma is present to warn and watch over them.

But where is mamma? Ah, here comes the stately old dame. First she puts only her nose out of the bushes, looks up and down the stream, snifs the air, and, seemingly satisfied that all is well, she slowly and majestically walks out midstream and takes a drink. The little ones by this time are cavorting like two kittens, splashing the water and making a great deal of noise. Mamma is afraid evidently there is too much noise, for she backs out of the water, and the little ones obey her instructions and reluctantly follow.

Fortunately there is quite a clear-ng along the left bank, and, slowly and stealthily backing about ten feet up the hill. I gain a position where I can plainly see mamma and the babics without being seen or heard The old lady is quietly feeding, nipelish. The little ones think it is time for their breakfast, and to watch them as they pull at their source of nourishment reminds me of a full blooded Jersey cow with a calf. I wonder if long years ago there was any relationship between

The doe is a big female. She weighs 200 pounds. She wears her spring and summer garments—her red petticoat. The duties of maternity evidently agree with her, for she is sleek and Now mamma compels the toddlers to stop eating and even gives the largest of the fawns a slight tap on the head to prevent his rushes for mcre sustenance. This furry thing promises to be a buck, for he is determined to get what he wants, but his mother is too quick for him. She leaps from one side to the other with he agility that only a deer posseses, and now both little ones, entering into the spirit of the play, run and in imitation of their mother Now the dame runs 20 rods up the hill, and the little ones follow, Now they all come back pellmell. No soon-have the little ones reached the water's edge than they repeat the performance aga n and again.

How proud mamma looked! Were here ever two such lovely fawns? Not to her way of thinking. After having run about ten times evidently tire and come up to par-take of the maternal font. But instinct teaches that it is not good to eat when so heated from violent exercise, so the mother leads them to water, lets, them drink, and then again tempts them to repeat their performance of running and romping. It strikes me the mother has an object in view. Can it be to teach her young to gain strength and sure footedness? I think so. Now the two urchins come tumbling down the hillside with an impetuosity that is un-deniable. The smaller one of the two is enabled to stop just at the water's edge, but the baby bick is coming so quick and he has so little control of hinself he tumbles from the embankment and falls with a resounding splash into the water and then begins to bleat exactly like a calf, as much as to say: "Mamma, mamma, sister pushed me in the water! Come nelp me! I am hurt!" And now I make my mistake. The entire, affair is so ludicrous I laugh and that very loud, and then you should see the doc. One quick look in my direction, one quicker jump into obscurity, a call to her offspring, and that settles it.

Music lovers who know the splendid promenade concerts at Queen's hall, London, will be glad to hear that the beautiful Miss Miriam Timothy, whose performances on the harp have been a feature of these concerts for several years past, has now the honor of playing in Her Majesty's private band.

The post of harpist to the Queen has for many years been held by Mr.

Thomas, who retired early in the present year, his place being taken by his clever pupil, Miss Timothy, who is the first lady musician to appear in the Queen's band. Although he has retired, Mr. Thomas still retains the title of the Queen's harp-t-This new appointment, which at the beginning of the Queen's reign would have been considered scarcely respectable, is still another proof that Her Majesty is more and nore inclined to utilize the services

It never pays to get new varieties of seed wheat. Now this is not said to boom any particular hand of wheat or to sell a single bushel. It is simply the result of experience. When we were on the farm we remember that the Little May and the Big May wheat the Little May and the Big May wheat met all the requirements. In a few years they deterioriated to such an extent that they were cast aside and the Fultz and other varieties were secured. The reason for this was a common sense one, although we did not inderstand it at the time. Wheat needs a change of soil and of climate. The big yields come from some new varieties. We are apt to think that we hear of these big yields because there is seed of that particular kind to sell. While in a measure this is true it is not wholly so. The wheat that is given a different soil from which it was grown does better than which it was grown does better than it would when planted on the same soil again. So that variety is needed. Variety is the spice of life and this is true in seed wheat also.

New York, Nov. 16. — A Chicago special to the Journal says that Miss Margaret Potter, daughter of O. W. Potter, formerly president of the Illinois Steel Co., and a relative of Clara Ward, who gained so much unenviable notoriety as the Princess de Chimay, has another surprise for society. A year ago the young society girl caused a sensation by the publication of a book called "The Social Lion," so daring in its conception that it had to be withdrawn from sale and suppressed by the family. Now, she is having a life-sized portrait of herself painted, posing as Cleopatra, with all the realistic details that can be suggested.

The painting is being made by Franklin P. Knott, of this city, who has been in Chicago for several weeks and Miss Potter is posing for him daily. The picture will represent Cleopatra reclining on a divan.

Miss Potter wants the painting of him to be a realistic and as high-

CLAIMS THE SEAT.

The Conservative Candidate in Nipissing Will Ignore the Coming Election.

Mr. McCool, the Liberal candidate in Nipissing, has commenced his campaign. J. B. Klock, the late Conservative member, who claims the seat, because he holds the returning officer had no right to postpone the election says he will ignore the new writ, and he states that his friends will do so also. He adds:—"Moreover, the lists which it is proposed to hold the elections on next month will be found to be illegal. They are only now in course of preparation, while the Franchise fact provides that the lists to be used are those which 60 days before nomination were the legal Provincial lists in force."

SAVES THEIR LIVES.

London, Nov. 15 .- Rev. Evan Mor gan, the last foreigner to leave Sian Fu, has arrived here. His life and the lives of the other missionaries in Shen-Si province, were saved by Governor Tuan, a kineman of the notorious Prince Tuan. Governor Tuan, when he received a decree from Pekin to kitl all foreigners, warned Mr. Morgan and his colleagues, and gave the man escort. Mr. Morgan describes the governor as a "brave, friendly and noble man, who, at the risk of his life, saved us. The only foreigners left in Shen-Si are twenty priests, mostly Italians, and twelve nuns, who are occupying a sort of fort near Sian-Fu, defended by ma-chine guns" It is thought probable that Father Hugh, of London, is in that Father Hugh, of London, is in the fort, and possibly it is to relieve this party that Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee's expedition, under Colonel Count Von Wartenberg, has gone from Pekin. The German move towards Kalgan, and the combined towards Kaigan, and the combined march down the grand canal, indicate, the Rev. Mr. Morgan says, a move-ment of the allied troops on Sian-Fu. Diners dashed to death.

To Raise the Creed Cry is Ontario a Failure.

Ir. Foy Snows That if Any Party Been Anti-Catholic it is the Liberala,

The Globe's attempt to discredit the Conservative party with the Roman Catholics has called forth a crushing reproof from Mr. J. J. Foy, who may be said to be the most representative man of that to be the most representative man of that religion in the province, and whose position as one of the leaders of the Ontario Opposition would force him to take notice of and resent a movement within his party hostile to the members of his faith. Mr. Foy points out that the London canvaser, on whose language the Globe founds its sweeping charge against the whole body of Conservatives, was, from his own admission, formerly a Liberal. Though even had he been a Conservative, he put it to the common sense of the public whether it is right to try to fasten on the Conservatives party the odium attached to the words of one individual, who was neither a candidate nor a leader, nor in any way authorized to individual, who was neither a candidate nor a leader, nor in any way authorized to speak for the pirty. His own election in South Foronto, he reasens, is a proof that there is no anti-Catholic feeling in the party, while the appeals made by the Liberals against Mr. Kloepfer in South Wellington and Mr. Clancy in Bothwell on the score of religion, shows that that party has not been sequally free from bigotry. A further proof of the baselessness of the Globe's cry is furnished by the

A further proof of the baselessness of the Globe's ery is furnished by the fact that Mr. Foy was himself solicited by the Conservatives to run in the Dominion election in Centre Toronto, the constituency in which Mr. McBrady, the young Cathodic whom his friends thought entitled to the nomination, was rejected by the Liberal machine with scant ceremony. If, indeed, isolated instances of bigotry are to be taken as proof of the feeling of the parties on the religious question, the Liberals must stand convicted of intollerance. Peter Ryan aspired to be the candidate in East York pired to be the candidate in East York but in spite of his life-long services to the Liberal party, he was set aside for a young man whose name had scarcely been heard in the constituency, and who, religion apart, had not a tithe of Mr. Ryan's chance of carrying the riding.

ency, and who, rememon apart, had not a tithe of Mr. Ryan's chance of carrying the riding.

Reviewing these and other instances in conjunction with the letter which Mr. James Sutherland, the Liberal whip, wrote advising that Roman Catholic candidates be kept out of the field wherever possible, impartial readers must conclude that the Liberal managers were playing the very game which the Globe now charges against the Conservatives. We have no wish to ascribe bigotry to any party in the province, but if the Corservatives are to be branded as enemies of the Catholics because an irresponsible agent in one, of the constituencies used language offensive to them, how much more culpable are the Liberals, who in more than one county canvassed against Catholic Conservative candidates on the ground of their religion, and in one instance at least, following the suggestion of the chief narry whin. and in one instance at least, following the suggestion of the chief party whip, rejected an aspirant to nomination for no other reason than that he was a

RESCUED AT LAS

Before He was Dug Out-Saved With

Sallivan Ind., Nov. 16 .- After 4 ours at the bottom of a well, buried under a heap of sand, Thomas Mc-Pheters was resoued, little the worse for his long imprisonment.

When the first cavein came and tons of sand filled the bottom of the well, of sand filled the bottom of the well, the boards used for a wall were forc-ed in and formed a room which pre-vented the crushing of 'McPheters. A small opening at one side permitted the carrying on of conversation, and a two-janch rubber hose was let down to convey water and food to the im-prisoned man.

McPheters finally extricated himself from the broken boards, but as he gained his feet another fall of sand buried him to the neck. He got the end of the hose to his mouth, when again came a caveln, and the top of his head was two feet below the sur-face of the sand. The rubber tube face of the sand. The rubber tube gave him air, and water and food were poured in when he asked for them. Yesterday morning the second well was completed by the rescuers, and a tunnel was cut to the shaft in which McPheters was a prisoner. The walls of the tunnel were boarded up and the sand dug away until the man and the sand dug away until the man was released.

COMING HOME. Mr. J. L. Bradshaw, son of the late Colonel Bradshaw, has arrived from England, and is the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Brough, Mr. Bradshaw, who was a member of the first Canadian contingent, was severely wounded at Paardeberg, and at one time the physicians thought he would lose alto-gether the use of the vocal chords. Happily, the gallant young soldier's voice is returning again, and there is every hope for complete recovery.
