PROF. KOCH'S ANNOUNCEMENT NOT GENERALLY ASSENTED TO

Evidence of Contagion Through Milk Overwhelming in Lord Lister's Opinion—Delegates Received by King.

London, July 26.—The Daily Mail publishes an interview with Lord Lister, in the course of which he is represented as having said he was absolutely unable to believe the statement of Prof. Koch that human beings could not get consumption through drinking the milk of diseased cows, the evidence to the contrary being far too overwhelming.

Sir William Broadbent declined to say how far Prof. Koch's statement might be correct, in view of the fact that tuberculosis, while generally decreasing, was on the increase among children.

Dr. Edward Neumann, of Davos-Platz, one of the Swiss delegates, said Prof. Koch was already prepared to meet the objections of Lord Lister.

In the House of Commons to-day, Rt. Hon. Walter Long, President of the Local Government Board, and formerly President of the Board of Agriculture, said the views of Prof. Koch relative to human non-infection from tuberculosis cattle did not meet with the assent of the general body of scientific men. He added that the government will not take any steps in the matter.

RECEIVED BY THE KING.
King Edward received the foreign delegates to the tuberculosis conference at Marlborough House yesterday. The delegates were accompanied by the Earl of Derby. Sir William Henry Broadbent, who was physician-extraordinary to the late Queen, and others. The King shook hands with each of the delegates, and spoke briefly. He expressed the hope that good results would come from their discussions.

THE HERO OF MAFeking WELCOMED IN ENGLAND

Enthusiastic Reception to General Baden-Powell—British Wounded Shot Dead by Boers While Binding Wounds.

Southampton, July 26.—Gen. Baden-Powell arrived here this afternoon. He was formally welcomed by the Mayor and civil authorities of Southampton, at the pier head. He boarded a train for London amid a scene of intense enthusiasm.

"PRESIDENT" KRUGER.
Berlin, July 26.—The official North German Gazette announces that on the death of Mrs. Kruger, July 20, Count von Buelow, the Imperial Chancellor, conveyed his cordial sympathy to "President" Kruger through the German minister at The Hague. To this message Kruger replied, expressing his hearty thanks, through Dr. Leyds, representative of the Boer republics.

BOER TACTICS.
London, July 27.—The Daily Mail publishes Lord Kitchener's official report regarding the Vlakfontein affair.

which is as follows:—

"Lieut. W. S. B. Duff gives me the following:—
"On the day after the fight at Vlakfontein, May 29, Lieut. Hearn told me that, while lying on the ground wounded, he saw about 20 yards from him Lieut. Spring and Sergt. Findlay, both slightly wounded. They were binding up each other's wounds, when a young Boer with a pink pug nose around his hat came and shot both dead. Lieut. Hearn lay quite still. The Boers, thinking him dead, contented themselves with taking his pipe and leggings. Lieut. Hearn also said that others who were wounded were shot by Boers. Lieut. Duff collected this testimony of eight privates and non-commissioned officers who affirmed that they saw Boers shoot our wounded."

"Several of the men saw a Boer, evidently some one in authority, trying to shoot his men from shooting our wounded."

The forgoing is taken from Lord Kitchener's first mail report on the subject. He has wired that he would supplement it by sworn testimony.

THE FIGURES BEAT THEM

There were Several Hoodoo Numbers but the Most Disastrous Were 5 and 0.

Lacrosse Club Badly Beaten in Blenheim in a Good Game—Referee McNab a Disciplinary.

The Chatham Lacrosse Club played in Blenheim yesterday and were defeated by a score of 5 to 0. The only explanation that the Chatham boys can give for their defeat is that they were "hoodooed." The Chatham aggregation were 26 in number, they left Chatham on Friday, the 26th of July, when they got to Blenheim they were assigned to room 13 in the hotel, and the number of their players in the match, including the field captain, was 13. Under these contrary conditions it was no wonder that the Chatham boys were defeated. The Boer who seemed to be all over the field at the same time. Every time the ball was thrown in the air it was invariably caught by a Blenheim player, who lost no time in passing it to one of his partners, who in his turn passed it on and on until one of them had a chance to shoot. Williston, at centre, is another Chatham player who deserves a certain amount of credit, and Poole, for a beginner, did well.

The work of the Chatham team was mostly on the defensive, the Blenheimites taking good advantage of their knowledge of the grounds, which are far inferior to the grounds here. The Blenheim team worked well and worked together. It is almost impossible to select those who did the best as they are all fast players. Each man understands his fellow, and this, combined with the fact that they are all excellent stick handlers, accounts for their victory. Of course Knight and Shillington are the life of the team and are evidently the favorites with the Blenheimers. Burke in goal is another "old-timer" and, judging from his playing yesterday, he has forgotten none of his old tactics. Stevenson, who did not play in the match here, was in his place yesterday, and also added materially to the strength of the team. Gibson, played centre and did remarkably well. Hewett also played a very even game. Gray is a prominent man on the Blenheim home. He made some fine shots and did the most of the scoring. The game was a very even one decidedly interesting to the spectators. It was free from any quarrelling or disputing and everything passed off smoothly and well. There was not much "slugging." McNab, who refereed the game to everyone's satisfaction, was very firm in this particular. "We are going to have a clean game of lacrosse," said he, "and if I see a man wrongfully fouled, I will give him the benefit of it." And he kept his word. The Chatham boys have no reason to complain of the way they were treated by the Blenheim boys and everyone voted the Blenheim crowd to be jolly good fellows.

The following is the line up of the teams:—

KING'S TITLE

His Majesty's "Dominions Beyond the Seas" Will Be Fittingly Recognized.

London, July 26.—In the House of Lords to-day, Lord Salisbury, the Premier, introduced a bill authorizing King Edward to assume by proclamation within six months of the adoption of the bill, such title as he may think fitly recognize his dominions beyond the seas.

The Premier added that this title would probably be as follows: Edward the Seventh, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith and Emperor of India.

THAT HOODOO

Once Again R. L. Gosnell, of Blenheim, Goes Down in the Fateful Semi-Finals.

London, July 27.—The "hoodoo" in whose companionship R. L. Gosnell, of Blenheim, has struggled through the bowling tournament, haunted him again to-day. Three times previously the skillful western skip has met defeat in the semi-finals of the various competitions. To-day the same fate was his in the singles contest, when in the semi-finals J. McDougall, London, secured the narrow but decisive majority of one point. G. J. Gibb, also of Blenheim, made an excellent showing in the novice singles, defeating Moore, St. Thomas, and Smoke, Paris, ere he met defeat from his own townsman, Gosnell.

Mr. J. H. Ferguson won from Lochhead, London, and Heyward, London, and succeeded to Thorburn, Brampton.

J. Mulholland was defeated by Southampton, London, 12 to 13. Mr. Gosnell's record was as follows:—
Defeated Southampton, London, 15 to 11.
Defeated Taylor, Clinton, 13 to 7.
Defeated Gibb, Blenheim, 13 to 11.
Defeated by Finchamp, London, 10 to 13.
Defeated by Lochhead, London, 13 to 11.
Defeated Hayward, London, 13 to 12.
Defeated Wood, Mitchell, 13 to 12.
Defeated in semi-final by J. McDougall, London, 13 to 15.

In the final McDougall lost to Weld, London, by the same score.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

NOTIOUS WADDELL

"Rube" Waddell, formerly of the Maple City club, was suspended from the list of inactive Chicago ball players because he spent a week in gay and riotous living. He went to a hay ride on Tuesday night. Wednesday night he tore into a raspberry festival, Thursday night he was the star in a game of "clap in, clap out," and he wound up Friday night at a square dance. He strained his arm during a quadrille and this was too much for Manager Hart.

LORD SALISBURY'S PLAIN.

It is not often that a public man of Lord Salisbury's standing allows himself to be heard in public saying: "Who are we that we should try to stem the tide?" comments the Toronto Star. It is a hopeless kind of speech, suggesting that he disapproves of the course of events, but has not the courage to try to guide matters as he would prefer them to go.

The speech reveals a weakness in Lord Salisbury that is not welcome to people in Canada, who have been of the opinion that the Imperial Government was resolute and undimmed by the difficulties of pacifying South Africa, notwithstanding the differences of opinion that exists in England. If, then, the British Government is but floating with the stream, why should colonial Governments and populations follow after? What causes the stream and makes the tide to which Lord Salisbury refers? It is public opinion; and if public opinion is carrying the Imperial Government it knows not whether the imperative duty devolves upon editors, teachers, and preachers to be fearless and frank in expressing their views. Lord Salisbury has enjoyed the confidence of the colonies, his policy has been approved as that of one who knew his course well, and it is not pleasant to now hear from him, the whimper of a weak man.

A BROAD HINT.

The following story from the New York Sun has a moral, which, we think, is easy of discovery.

George Schaefer, 17 years old, the son of Jacob Schaefer, an undertaker at Fortieth street and Third avenue, Brooklyn, and two companions, George Watson, 15 years old, and Charles Johnson, 16, got away last night and went out about a half mile from the foot of Thirty-fifth street, Brooklyn, to bathe. They dived several times, and finally Schaefer did not come up. His companions waited a few seconds, and then Watson dived for him. He did this four times without finding Schaefer. The fifth time he brought up his body.

Apparently Schaefer was dead and the boys took a rope around the body and towed it ashore. Schaefer had been in the water so long and his body was so evidently lifeless that they did not even hurry. It was a half mile row to the dock. When they reached it the boys were in doubt whether to leave the body in the water and await the action of the coroner or to put it on the dock.

"While they were discussing what to do," Dr. G. E. Barney, of 401 Third street, Brooklyn, came up in his launch Alma. Dr. Barney said that at first he didn't see any signs of life, and had made up his mind that Schaefer was dead, when he noticed a quiver of the eyelid. The doctor then made the boys carry the body to the dock where he began to work on it, though it seemed a hopeless job. The doctor and the two boys rolled Schaefer on a barrel, worked his arms/breathed into his mouth and bathed him with ammonia. After nearly half an hour's work Schaefer showed signs of reviving. In another half hour he was conscious. An ambulance was called and Schaefer was taken to the Norwegian hospital. It is said there late last night that he was doing nicely and would probably be able to leave the hospital this afternoon.

"Schaefer was in the water twenty-five minutes after becoming unconscious," Dr. Barney said it is the most remarkable case of recovery he has ever heard of.

CRITICISM OF A FRIEND.

The Seaford Expositor, an excellent Liberal journal, has a much better memory than most of its Liberal contemporaries. It recalls the fact that the Liberals went into power pledged to reform the Senate, and it is not blind to the fact that up to date the Liberals are as far from carrying out this pledge as they are from carrying out some of the others they made. In a sense the Senate is undergoing reconstruction; as Conservative members die Liberals are appointed in their place, and in the course of events it will not be long until there is a Liberal majority. But the Expositor points out that this is not the kind of Senate reform to which the party was pledged. "Even should the Liberals gain a majority in the Senate," says our contemporary, "it would not be any more responsible to the people or any less susceptible to evil influences than it was when the majority was Tory. The Liberals promised that, as soon as they had the opportunity, they would either abolish the Senate or reconstruct it as to make it in some way responsible to the people. They have not been in power for six years, and it is about time they were making some steps towards fulfilling that pledge. The people look for the fulfillment of that pledge, and if it is not in some measure redeemed before the next election the people will have something to say about it. They will not be satisfied with simply a Liberal majority in the Senate, and the friends of the Government are not true friends of the Liberal party who counsel leaving the reconstruction to Providence."

Doubtless the Expositor will not receive many thanks from its party friends for this unpleasant reminder, but experience proves that the candid friend, though seldom the most welcome, is usually the best friend.

BOURASSA ON LAURIER.

Mr. Henri Bourassa, M.P., lost no time after his arrival in London, en route for Paris, in getting his views formulated. Through the pro-Boer Daily News of the metropolis. In the course of an interview he laments the Imperialism of the Dominion and attributes it altogether to self-interest. At the same time he maintains that he represents in his pro-Boer views, "a tremendous body of yeomanry in Canada—nearly the whole of the Province of Quebec and a large part of Ontario." The assertion that so much of Canada is affected this way, coupled with the fact that we sent our contingents, startled the interviewer, who immediately asked how it happened that Laurier had bowed to the British sentiment when opinions ran so strong in the opposite direction. Mr. Bourassa was quite ready with a solution of this problem. He said:

"If Laurier had persisted in the original position which he stated to the Toronto Globe on the way back from Chicago on the autumn of 1899 he would have lost the Anglo party of Ontario and the Northwest, but he would have kept the whole of Quebec and this part of Ontario. He then refused to send the contingents without consulting Parliament; but on arriving at Ottawa, finding the storm too fierce, gave way."

Sir Wilfrid's original position was that of Mr. Bourassa. But it was abandoned owing to the ferocity of the storm it raised. This is an interesting commentary upon the situation of two years ago. Here is another on Laurier's present attitude:

"But Sir Wilfrid Laurier," observed the interviewer, "said that he pledged his reputation on behalf of freedom for the Boers. Does that not mean that he will place his influence on the side of a generous peace?"

"No, I do not think so," said Mr. Bourassa. "Laurier is a man of great charm and fascination, and his speeches are perfect models of the peace."

great political art of wielding opinions—of sweeping behind him even inconsistent opinions. That phrase was thrown to Quebec, just as the Imperialistic phrase was thrown to Ontario. It means nothing. Laurier would probably tell you that if the Boers became British subjects they must necessarily be free."

In Mr. Bourassa's opinion Sir Wilfrid's language has a double meaning. The Premier "throws" one phrase to Quebec and another to Ontario. But the Quebec phrase is capable of such an explanation as to make it mean something different to the idea which it conveyed to the hearers. In other words, Laurier can talk clean through it. At the present time Laurier seems to side with the view of the Imperial Government. But, says Mr. Bourassa:

"Laurier with all his political virtues is not a Cato. He does not love the beaten side. If you English Liberals can show him that you are likely to win, then he may think of you."

This is really rich. It is somewhat suggestive of Mr. Pickwick, who in the great Stumkey election judged the merits of the opposing causes by the strength of the applause awarded to the respective candidates and threw himself heartily on the side of the crowd that made the most noise. Mr. Bourassa seems to be quite unconscious of the fact that he is describing Laurier as a trimmer and a time-server. Atterly destitute of opinions or principles. "A good many politicians would not care to have such a reputation affixed to them by a faithful admirer and friend," Mail and Empire.

This seems to be Chatham's growing time in the athletic arena.

Dr. Koep can have our share of all beef that is affected with tuberculosis.

The Brantford Expositor office was struck by lightning. And still the paper keeps right on being Grit.

There's bowling and cricket. Is there any other sports in which Chatham can win a few more championships?

And now, what about the Rond Eau regatta? Isn't it about time the Regatta Association was commencing preparations for its big annual event?

Even the Tilbury News is after the Banner. It says editorially:—

"A newspaper, that wilfully lies does not deserve the support of honest people."

The Toronto Globe has just "met" Principal Grant, of Kingston, and prints his picture. But the Globe might have met him a little later in the day, after he had exchanged his robe de nuit for a street costume.

It is reported that King Edward, in acknowledging a medal commemorative of the work of the hospital ship Maine, presented by the members of the American committee which fitted out the ship, thanked the committee for their "loyal and dutiful sentiments." It is possible that the King might have made a slip of the tongue—it is hard to say the right thing in the right place at all times. Or it is possible that the King knew what the members of the American committee wanted, and made no mistake at all. There is another possibility, which in this case is a probability, and that is that the King did not use the words attributed to him at all.

No organ in the human body has a greater influence on the general health than the liver.

A torpid, sluggish liver leaves poisonous, morbid bile in the blood, which upsets the action of the whole system.

There is indigestion, fullness, fermentation, flatulency and oppression in the stomach.

The tongue is coated, the head aches and there is loss of sleep, depression of spirits, and spells of dizziness and weakness.

The bowels are constipated and loose by turns, and gripping pains are frequent.

The skin tells of the poisonous state of the blood, by pimples, blotches and liver spots.

In sympathy with the liver the kidneys become clogged and inactive, the urine highly colored, and there are pains in the back and under the left shoulder blade.

Shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart and derangements of the menstrual functions are among the symptoms of liver complaint.

Both these filtering systems are affected in these ailments, and if any of them are present, it is time to take prompt action to relieve the system of these morbid poisons.

The liver must have assistance. The process of restoration will be hastened if the kidneys are also invigorated and strengthened.

Both these filtering systems are acted on directly and promptly by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It is through the liver and kidneys that the blood can be freed of all impurities and the morbid matter which collects there when the liver is deranged.

Many a suffering man, many a dependent woman, has been cured of the above distressing ailments by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the only remedy that has a combined action on both liver and kidneys.

The wisdom of Dr. Chase in preparing this wonderful remedy has been proven in scores of thousands of cases of complicated diseases of the liver and kidneys, which could not be reached by any other remedy.

You do not require faith to be cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The first dose will help you, and a few boxes at most will positively cure the most severe case of liver complaint or kidney disease. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or postpaid by Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are immensely popular among women, because it restores them to perfect, vigorous womanhood, and does so by naturally and gradually toning up and invigorating the system, gently regulating the bowels, and strengthening the action of the heart. Fifty cents a box; six boxes for $2.50. (At all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Company, Toronto.)

Mr. Quinn then remarked that his black feline had come of its own accord and had brought good luck, for the very day it arrived, Mr. Quinn drove to the lake, where he had to be in time for 10 o'clock breakfast. Mr. Quinn was an hour late and the people at the house had slept in that morning and he was just in time for breakfast. For all of which he blames the black cat and now won't part with it.

THE START

Shamrock II. has commenced her Trip Across the Ocean.

Thousands Shouted and Whistles
Shrieked as Lipon's New Challenge
er sailed From Gourock.
(Special to The Planet.)

Gourock, July 27.—Shamrock II., accompanied by the Erin, sailed at 10.20 o'clock this morning for New York.—Great enthusiasm was displayed as the challenger departed.

Capt. Sycamore desired to go out under canvas and was favored with a light easterly wind, sufficient to keep the flags streaming in the direction the yacht had to sail.

The challenger cut a strange figure with stunted spars and scanty canvas as it lay ready to start.

At 10 o'clock Thomas Lipton and Watson, the yacht's designer, boarded, and a few minutes later the challenger's moorings were slipped, headsails broken out and the Shamrock II. started on the voyage across the Atlantic.

Thousands gathered along the shore and on the pier at Gourock, and greeted the yacht's departure with great outburst of cheering, again and again renewed. Hats and handkerchiefs were waved, guns saluted and steam whistles and sirens shrieked.

The Shamrock's crew were all mustered on deck, and led by Lipton, gave a hearty response to the greetings.

For miles along the shore crowds occupied every vantage point, and the cheers passed from group to group until the challenger, with racing flag at the masthead, and the Erin, with the stars and stripes flying at fore, disappeared from sight.

Sir Thomas Lipton remained on board the challenger until off Cumbrage, when he returned on a tug. Before leaving he addressed the challenger's crew, thanking them for what they had done already and wishing them goodspeed on the voyage and a successful finish to their task.

ARRIVED HOME

Mr. Piggott Sr., returned from Sudbury and Parry Sound—Tells of his Trip.

John Piggott, Sr., has just returned from a pleasure trip to Parry Sound and other northern points. In speaking of his trip to the Planet this morning, he stated that he had had a very pleasant time. He left Detroit last Saturday evening, on the large freight steamer, J. R. Fisk, Jr., which plies between Buffalo and Parry Harbor.

"I find that the trip is far more enjoyable by this boat," said he, "than by the regular liners. It is more comfortable, the accommodations are superior, and the tables are a great improvement on that of the liners. The weather throughout the voyage was delightful along the lakes. From Cutler I took the C. P. R. to Sudbury. The C. P. R. track is in a very demoralized condition, and the trains are all running from 15 to 20 hours late. There are no men working between North Bay and the Soo, except three plug trains. The work on these is mostly done by Italians. I find that lumber is stiffening in price. The great bulk of the lumber of the Georgian Bay District, is already sold and is going to Chicago, Buffalo and other American ports. At Cutler while I was there the government agent was paying off the Indians, and they are the cleanest and most respectable lot of Indians I have ever seen."

Mr. Piggott spent Sunday at Rose Point, Parry Harbor. This place he describes as the most beautiful spot in the Muskoka District. He was accompanied on his trip by Robert Ferguson, M. P. P. of Cutler, also, he met Walter Verrall, formerly of this city. Mr. Verrall is about to leave the company for which he is working to accept a more lucrative position with the Detroit firm.

Mr. Piggott reports that there is an immense travel on the lakes at the present time, the steamers being well occupied. In order to secure berths travellers are forced to telegraph for some time ahead.

THE HOME FOR THE FRIENDLESS.
The regular monthly meeting of the ladies of the Home for the Friendless, was held yesterday (Friday) afternoon in Harrison H. H. There were Mesdames Ferguson, Fleming, Tisdeman, Eberle, Laird, Thurst and McDonald. The usual business was transacted. The ward accounts submitted were: Ward No. 1, J. J. McConnell, $6. Ward No. 2, J. J. Dyer, $7.30. The home accounts for July were: Taylor & Williamson, $15.47. Wm. Somerville, $9. Patrick Keenan, $1.25.

The visiting committee for August will be Mrs. Thurst and Mrs. Laird, Miss Kingston and Mrs. Ball.

An exchange of electric light signals between Buffalo and Toronto is proposed by the Exposition managers.

HIS THANKS

General Baden-Powell Writes Canadian Premier Acknowledging This Country's Quota of Men.

Ottawa, July 27.—The Premier has received a letter from Major-General Baden-Powell, dated Zandfontein, Transvaal, of which the following is a copy:

"Will you forgive my writing you a short note to tender my gratitude for all that you have done in assisting the development of the force with whose organization I am charged? By your good offices the Canadian contingent has been added to our establishment, and with the excellent material of which it is formed it will be a valuable addition to our strength. I have learned in the recent campaign to admire and appreciate the worth of the Canadians in the field, and am, therefore, truly glad to welcome your contingent to our corps. Comprising, as it does, men from every one of our great colonies, as well as from the home country, the South African Constabulary is far excellence as Imperial corps, and as such I hope it will typify the empire itself as working honestly and harmoniously in the great work of bringing peace and prosperity over the territories now added to our rule. And in this good work the Canadians will have a prominent share. I trust the connection thus commenced between Canada and South Africa is but an augury of a close and profitable connection in the future. I am, sir, yours faithfully (signed) R. Baden-Powell, Inspector-General, South African Constabulary."

Thousands gathered along the shore and on the pier at Gourock, and greeted the yacht's departure with great outburst of cheering, again and again renewed. Hats and handkerchiefs were waved, guns saluted and steam whistles and sirens shrieked.

The Shamrock's crew were all mustered on deck, and led by Lipton, gave a hearty response to the greetings.

Sediment in the urine, no matter what its nature, whether it be brick dust, white particles floating through it, or slimy deposits, is indicative of serious kidney derangement.

There is no remedy so quickly clear up the urine and cure the kidney trouble as Dr. Fitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, the modern medicine for backache, kidney, bladder and urinary disorders.

Mr. W. Patterson, electrician, Whitby, Ont., says: "Permit me to say that the bottle of Dr. Fitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets I got at the store of J. E. Willis, Kingston, Whitby, has done me a great deal of good. I have tried other kidney remedies without result, and find in these just what I needed. My water, that used to be dark, bad and full of sediment, is now clear and my bowels move easily, regularly and gently, with no griping."

The growth of this institution during the last two years has been wonderful. The attendance has been doubled on account of the thorough course of training which we give. One of our young men is now drawing a salary of $1,800 a year; another $900; others from $400 to $800. Within the last month two of our students have gone direct from the College to positions paying $500 a year.

WE QUALIFY OUR STUDENTS TO FILL THE BEST POSITIONS. Young people are foolish to spend the best part of their lives learning Latin, French and the dead languages, when a few months spent in our Commercial or Shorthand Department will fit them to earn salaries like the above.

Eighty-seven per cent. of all our students who have written on the examinations of the Business Educators' Association of Canada this year have been successful.

SUMMER WRAPS.

NOW ENGROSS THE ATTENTION OF FASHION.

The Visite is a Convenient Garment. Some are Lovely and some are a New Development.

You have one visite? No? Then some form of smart short outer garment, newer than an Eton, neater than a cape, nicer than a mere jacket is in your summer wardrobe certainly.

No? You have been too busy thinking about gowns to bother with wraps, and you thought the little cape from last season would do, anyway. But it might not. Some of the new wraps are so irresistible, withal so simple to make, it seems a pity not to have one if it is at all possible to manage it. The visite, for example, modish among the recent novelties, is a simple, but circular, sack, and so pleasing is the line of it that it may be made from so hackneyed a material as Black taffeta, and yet have cachet. The visite is no less than the little garment of half a century ago, modernized in some mysterious way so that it is the most appropriate thing possible to wear with skirts and bodies of this period, which in no way resemble the dresses of the epoch that initiated the visite.

Of black Louise silk and outlined with a ruche grill of black chiffon, a garment of this order has a willing collar of Cluny lace and a deep border of it on the pagoda sleeves. The lining of the coatlet is white satin of the softest sort. A king's ransom could not make this little wrap becoming to a woman did she not possess the savor faire with which to grace it.

Another visite, this time called a casacook for truth's and variety's sake, is from beautifully flowered (brocaded) black taffeta. It is outlined with two narrow ruffles and a flat band application of the brocaded material. These ruffles are edged with narrow black velvet. At the corsage the velvet ends knot and fall in the fashionable lingerie fashion.

The shirred flat collar is an engaging novelty, and the pagoda sleeves, if not novel, at least are modish, with their undersleeves of chiffon. The entire conception is a French idea, and was designed for special use with a dress of rose-colored voile, shirred at the neck and trimmed with lace. A "Duchesse" hat from softest pink felt has a big bow from pink, soft silk, and a black "willow" ostrich feather. This is a feather which is curled only a little.

Lovely beyond anything in recent novelties for wraps is a mantle of soft changeable violet Louise silk. It falls in beautiful ripples from shoulders to half the depth of the skirt, and is outlined for its entire shape with small ruche ruffles of violet chiffon, exactly matching the mantle. The pagoda sleeves are so full that they, too, ripple over Luzeul lace undersleeves. At the throat is a cravat of violet chiffon. A picture hat from violet hand-sewed straw is pierced by the stem of an "angelique" blue feather. The gown is angelique blue voile over one of the new soft silks in self-color. When one sees such an enchanting garment as this mantle, she marvels that she ever could have thought a tightly-fitted jacket becoming.

The nearest approach to a cape in the summer novelties is a paletot which is a portion of a gray cloth costume. The skirt is plaited to the knees at the back, and then allowed to stand out at will. The paletot, which is a sort of fitted double cape, the sleeves defined, is cut into "lozenges." Each section is outlined with a double row of stitching. The flat collar is an insertion of flowered taffeta in which black predominates. Some women whose fingers achieve needlework-magic might be able to convert an old double cape into a paletot of the hour. But the task is forbidden to clumsy fingers.

In the way of novelty among familiar things is a box coat from black glace silk all over except the lower sleeves in side-plaitings of inch width. The collar, which is an especially good shape combined with revers, is from white moire silk appliqued with cerise lace and embroidered with black silk polka dots. Of course the lining is from black satin.

Women who object to lace collars on boleros because of their prevalence will rejoice in a late mode which is simple to the point of wonder; why has the fashion not been brought in before? Two tabs of lace, either shaped or cut from all-over lace, not more than four inches wide, nor six long, come out from under and lie back on the corsage at the corsage. The tabs have a fourlation of white glace. Tight undersleeves of lace (gimpure, Cluny or Irish crochet) and a facing of the give a neat, becoming finish to the pagoda sleeves. The jacket is worn over a waist of taffeta which has a front of white chiffon draped crossways instead of up and down after the usual style.

Painted lace is a development of the season's love of dress decoration. A tea gown on which this trail, beautiful material is used with distinguished success is described thus: From white crepe de chine, made with tunic which has a deep border of the painted lace, the edges of it are outlined with gauze, the edges of it are outlined with a waved gold galon. The method of painting here, as in much of the new lace, is in little bouquets at intervals. The meshes of the lace, which is only a fine net, give an indescribably soft effect to the water-color painting. The skirt is trimmed with many frills of white chiffon. The bodice, which is made from the crepe, finely tucked, opening over a vest of white chiffon which is transparent at the throat. Over the shoulders falls a deep collar from the lace galon in which the color pink predominates, as it does in the painted lace of the tunic. The deep, shaped belt is of Pompadour gold galon into which shades of faintest pink and blue are woven. It fastens at the back with paste buttons. The sleeves are of white crepe de chine tucked lengthwise, ending just above the elbow, from which undersleeves of white chiffon flow. At the waist they end in a gold wristlet.

Women with maid to help them in dressing find a fresh pleasure in the new belts which close at the back. They are beyond the resources of most women who must wait upon themselves. Newer than the pancake hats of current mode are some not quite so new. They are like the chapeaux of Sir Walter Raleigh, Henry VIII, and other great ones of stained glass and famous picture memory. The brims are outlined closely with black feathers. Angeliens is the name of the lightest, freshest blue of the season. It is bluer than the "ice" color of last season, yet nothing like so blue as ciel or forget-me-not. There is a golden, silverish light in it, like the spirituelle blue in the dash of an opal.

Dressmakers are rather glad that the vogue of hand-sewing has come back. Not alone because it is more refined in appearance than that done by machinery, but because it is far less difficult to find good helpers who sew by hand than on machine. The least carelessness by machine is a fatal error in a fine costume. The excessive running of machines is harmful, and few seamstresses care to take the trouble to learn how to manage machines by hand. Even when dressmakers are willing to have the power put into their rooms, hand sewing certainly is in best repute now. "Lingerie effects" are called the beautiful results which are gained by its use on our gowns.

Tea coats are modern and great improvements upon what used to be called dressing sacks. They are made of anything choice and pretty which one happens to have in the house. The tea coat is the garment of all in one's wardrobe which is nearest a lawn unto itself. The skirt of an old ball dress makes a tea coat. For that matter, so does the lawn petticoat.

There is no reason why even that the body of the coat and the sleeves shall be of the same material, if a woman can think of a beguiling combination. A fine example is of primrose yellow China crepe. The waist of black velvet ribbons is used to plaid the coat all over. The elbow sleeves are fashioned with cuffs turned back and finished by eyelids of velvet and buttons of gold. A shaped collar of black velvet and appliques of black velvet and shaped lace. The prettiest novelty for a vest is just a piece of black polka-dotted angelique-blue chiffon, beginning with a choux at the corsage and ending by a turn under at the waist.

The low neck is the afternoon privilege of women for informal dressing. And there are women who think that they cannot rest at all if their throats are covered. A woman said lately that she did wish the fashion writers would stop using the word "bewildering" in commenting upon the fashions. But what less is it than bewildering when we have taken to calling our garments for outdoor wear paletots and casacooks and visites and our negligee coats! The tea coat is an informal garment in which one slips her feminine friends who have dropped in. It is not a costume to be worn in it by any callers. But one does not deliberately put it on in which to receive guests. One of the uses of the tea coat is for most informal wear when dining in family. It sometimes may happen that dinner is served before one is dressed for the evening. The tea coat is donned easily with whatever skirt you mean to wear after dinner, and a pretty toilette thus made with surprising rapidity.

FORCED TO EAT

Position of a Montreal Woman Caring to Eat, Spas.

There are many ways by which dyspepsia tortures its victims but the experience of Mrs. Blair, of 1010 St. Denis street, Montreal, was surely not the least distressing.

Mrs. Blair is one of a host of those who have been cured of their stomach troubles by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Those who suffer with dyspepsia in any of its many forms cannot do better than read Mrs. Blair's statement printed below.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are expressly compounded to act on the food in the stomach. They are natural digestants, actually performing the work of digestion with or without any aid from the stomach.

In this way they cure all the effects and painful symptoms of undigested or fermented food, prevent sour stomach, heartburn, acidity, pain in the stomach, water brash, wind, and other unpleasantness. They rest the stomach, which grows strong and capable of work once more. As a permanent cure for chronic dyspepsia, Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have an unequalled reputation all over the world.

"For more than twelve months," writes Mrs. Blair, "I suffered with a gnawing sensation in the stomach, and what I was informed was a pressure of wind on the heart. I had a marked indisposition to eat and in fact had to force myself to take food. My symptoms were unmistakably those of dyspepsia, and my misery was continual."

My son told me one day when I was suffering more severely than usual that a number of his friends had been cured of dyspepsia by Dodd's Tablets, and he induced me to give them a trial. Before I had finished the first box, I felt great relief. Since then I have taken four boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and today I am completely cured. I willingly and gladly testify to the great merits of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets."

POWLEY'S LIQUIDIFIED OZONE.

Before very long you will find Powley's Liquidified Ozone an established stand-by in every household; the best and most perfect antiseptic, cleansing, healing, useful in a hundred little ways; a preventive of disease and a cure for it. For example:

For a burn, cut or bruise, wet the part thoroughly in Ozone, clear, and the injury is healed by first intention promptly and perfectly. For a sore throat, gargle with dilute Ozone at bed time; sore throat gone in the morning. For a common cold, breathe the Ozone, clear; you will be surprised at the quick relief. For a cough, diptheritic sore throat, and the like, use Ozone as a spray or on a saucer. For a headache, take it internally. It will cure like magic. For a cold, the effect is equally prompt and decisive. A bad headache will usually yield quickly to a few doses of Powley's Liquidified Ozone taken twenty minutes apart.

Powley's Liquidified Ozone is oxygen in a stable form; liquid; it does what you would naturally expect oxygen to do; antiseptic, stimulating, healing. This letter evidences the many uses it has:

I must congratulate you in being so fortunate to possess such a wonderful remedy for humanity's ills. I think it is the acme of science. Your remedy seems to cure every disease in the body. It goes directly to the weak place and fixes it on a solid basis. Your remedy is so simple and so easy to use, that it is a great blessing to the human race. (Signed) JOHN N. GILLIES, Markham, Ont.

Anecdotal.

In "War's Brighter Side." Mr. Julian Ralph tells the following story of sentry humor: A French-Canadian member of the Royal Canadian Regiment of Infantry was doing sentry-go one night at Enniskillen (Glasgow). The counter-sign for the night was "Halifax." Presently there came a strolling soldier, whom our gallant Canadian promptly challenged: "Who go dare?" "Friend," "Advance, then, and pace on—and say 'Haversack'—all is vale."

The burial service of the Church of England is not very well known in Scotland. An English parson touring in the North was hurriedly called upon to read the service over the mortal remains of an old resident of the Episcopal faith. Reaching that part of the burial service, referring to "the soul of our dear brother (or sister) departed," he paused momentarily to ask the nearest mourner in a stage aside, "Brother or sister?" The mourner addressed at once answered: "Sister, relation at all, sir; just the auld landlady from the inn."

Lord Cardwell was in the habit of using the church prayers at family prayers. One day his valet came to him and said: "I must leave your lordship's service at once." "Why, what have you to complain of?" "Nothing personally, but your lordship will read every morning. We have done those things which we ought not to have done, and have left undone those things which we ought to have done. Now I freely admit that I have often done things I ought not, but that I have left undone things that I ought to have done, I utterly deny; and I will not stay here to hear it said."

In one of the later settlements of New South Wales a man was put on trial for stealing a watch. The evidence had been very conflicting, and as the jury retired the judge remarked kindly that if he could give any assistance in the way of smoothing out possible difficulties he should be happy to do so. Eleven of the jury had fled out of the box, but the twelfth remained, and the expression on his face showed that he was in deep trouble. "Well, sir," remarked the judge, "is there any question you would like to ask me before you retire?" The juror's face brightened, and he replied eagerly: "I would like to know, my lord, if you could tell us whether the prisoner stole the watch?"

An English lord of the manor was returning home one night, when he found a country bumpkin standing by the kitchen door with a lantern in his hand. "What are you doing here?" the lord asked, roughly. "I've come a-courting, sir," was the reply. "A-courting? What do you mean by that?" "I'm a follower of Mary, the kitchen maid." "Is it your habit to carry a lantern when you are on such errands?" "Yes, sir." "Nonsense!" retorted the master, angrily. "Don't talk such stuff to me! Be off with your lantern!" "I should think you did."

A new book about the Sultan describes that sovereign as the possessor of an overmastering hobby—the collection of animals. It is said that on one occasion, in 1882, Musurus Pacha, the Turkish Ambassador, waited three days in great anxiety for a reply to a communication to the Sultan, at the instance of Mr. Gladstone, on the subject of Egypt. At length a long despatch arrived; it was an order for some wild sheep which Abdul Hamid wanted for his park. The Sultan is very fond of parrots. But once a favorite bird called out the name of a eunuch, Djafer, who came in obedience, as he thought, to the voice of his master. Abdul Hamid, the bird's neck with his own hands, saying, "In this palace there must be only one voice to command."

Lord Justice Clark Braxfield of Scotland was a man of few words and a strong business habit. In court he was so quiet that his procedure was entirely illustrative of the peculiarities of his character. Calling on the lady, he said to her, without preliminary remarks: "Life. I'm looking out for a wife, and I thought you just the person that would suit me. Let me have your answer, 'Yes' or 'No,' the morn, and we may about it." The lady, the next day, replied in the affirmative. Perhaps he repented his precipitancy, for when a butler gave warning, on account of Mrs. Braxfield's scolding propensities, the judge replied: "Ladies, mon, ye've little to complain of; ye may be thankful ye're no married to her."

SERIES OF SIDELIGHTS

EDITED BY HELEN HALL.

Have you ever seen a troop of girls in bathing? If not, take a train to Erieau and get off at the first stopping place. Then take to the beach and walk to the pavilion. If you do not find somewhere along the route several screaming groups of humanity dressed in bathing suits of various colors the only reason will be that that formidable Erieau monster, hunter, has made a general attack on the whole bar at once instead of following his usual plan of unexpectedly attacking weak spots. It may be well to further explain the term "weak." As the only weapon needed in this warfare is a plentiful supply of provisions, the weak spots are those in which the inmates have not received the expected reinforcements and again that they wait not what is that that fed the Israelites in their need, though numerous conjectures have been made and discussions held on the matter.

The chief opinion which has way for a long time was that manna was a piece of bread which grew out of the earth, and that it was a gift from the gods. It is a piece of bread which grew out of the earth, and that it was a gift from the gods. The chief opinion which has way for a long time was that manna was a piece of bread which grew out of the earth, and that it was a gift from the gods. The chief opinion which has way for a long time was that manna was a piece of bread which grew out of the earth, and that it was a gift from the gods.

It may be asked how fresh manna-lilies arise, seeing that it is difficult to imagine a frequent coincident meeting of a particular fungus and a particular plant. But, granted the coincidence has once taken place, the rapid reproduction is easy to understand. At certain times in the year a yellowish dust appears in the cups growing on the surface of the plant, and the grains of dust is a minute bundle containing a few of the white filaments and few of the green cells wrapped together, so that wherever this dust may fall each grain can become a new manna-lily.

There is, moreover, a second method of reproduction, in which the fungus takes part, and enters out tiny offspring to take their chance in the wide world of finding a suitable host as their parent has done, but at present is complicated and at present involved in some obscurity.

Thus, then, Leconora esculenta—manna—is in its very nature one of the most remarkable phenomena in the vegetable world. Those over great tracks of southwest Asia, near Constantinople in the Crimea, the deserts of Arabia, in the Sahara and the deserts of Algeria.

It is easy to pass it by unnoticed, for it is greyish yellow in color and grows on grey limestone rocks and fragments of rock in the form of a wrinkled crust, which seems to be a casual observer part of the very rock itself, and needs care to distinguish it. Cut through, it is like coral within, dry and powdery; it is, moreover, extremely light and so that it is obvious that there is not much nutriment to be obtained from the bare face of the limestone rock, hence all the substance of the two plants must have been taken from the atmosphere and the rain by the little green plant, which must thus work doubly hard to be able to pass on sufficient food for its partner's living, in addition to providing its own.

By degrees, as it grows older, it becomes looser, or even detached from the rocks, and then, when the sudden rain comes and violent stormy which affect many of the regions blow, the featherweight pieces of lichen crust are torn up and blown into the air at the mercy of the wind, and carried, it may be, for immense distances.

The rains, too, that descend with such sudden violence, sweep it away from the rocks, and then, when the sudden rain comes and violent stormy which affect many of the regions blow, the featherweight pieces of lichen crust are torn up and blown into the air at the mercy of the wind, and carried, it may be, for immense distances.

At times, too, a waterspout will gather it up, carry it along and ultimately deposit it in a place where hitherto it had been practically unknown.

A PLEA.

John P. Spolander.

O vagrant feet that stray through wood and field, Be careful where you tread, Lost that sweet joy the living flower yield.

Beneath your heel lies dead, And idle hands, out-stretched in idleness, Oh! be you blest as such, So that no flowers fade when you Or wither at your touch.

O thoughtless hearts, that fond devotion pay, And low at beauty's shrine, Why will you bring dead flowers to array The human form divine?

And at your altar, strewn with petals, O soul, how can you pray That you may live, when God's own flowers lie dead, Still sweet in their decay?

Oh! leave them to be a beauty and a joy, Sweet messengers from God, The characters His loving thoughts employ To write them on the sod.

And happy is the heart the whole year round, And proof against all woes, That knows a little space of hollowed ground Where little flowers grow.

—Lee's Magazine.

The arrest of Admiral Mello in Rio de Janeiro the other day, on a charge of conspiracy against the government, recalls the story of a desperate and dramatic exploit some years ago, in which he was the central figure. In 1893 Admiral Mello was in command of the Brazilian navy; which was undoubtedly the queerest conglomeration in the world. It consisted of a dozen or so old crows, and one tip-top, bang-up, first class battleship—the Aquidaban—the equal at the time of anything afloat. It was the Admiral's and one fine day he astounded everybody—as much as people in that land of perpetual revolution can be astounded—by sailing into Rio Harbor, and calmly sending word to President Peixoto that he wanted his resignation. Peixoto promptly told him to go to the devil, whereupon Admiral Mello declared the city under blockade.

Rio lies on the inner side of large bay, with a very narrow entrance. There were no guns of the town heavy enough to do the big battleship any damage; but at the harbor mouth there were two forts that could easily blow her out of the water. So De Mello had really sailed into a rat-trap.

The proprietor of the Russell House, at Ottawa, did quite right in refusing to take in his shirt sleeves and trousers, the "Profronsters" who would teach you how to control others, to heal the sick by laying on hands, to amass a fortune, to win success in love. The magnetic man is all the things, or rather was all the things, a year or so ago the magnetic healers of Nevada, Mo., were a very cocky set, thought it was just about all theirs, and the rest of the world was their meat. Well, now—ah! I beg pardon, "Professor" Weltner—was about the biggest thing in town. The Commercial Club passed a choice set of ungrammatical resolutions in his endorsement, rolled in to such an extent that the Nevada postmaster got a raise of salary for the extra in cashing money orders for "absent treatment," and everything seemed to be going straight into the healer's pockets. At one time it was next to impossible to pick up an American daily paper, without seeing Weltner's name, and kindly visage staring from its pages.

But a little while ago the post office department decided that there was something a little bit rank about the "absent treatment" idea, and shut off the Professor from using the mails as a means for transmitting his vibrations—and bills for the same. The grand jury then returned, true bills for indictment against the Professor and his understudy, "one Kelly." And the latest is that these two worthies have pleaded guilty to using the United States mails with intention to defraud. This is nothing new to most people, for anyone with even a teaspoonful of brains could see that that is what they were doing all along.

Now Weltner is down; and we will let him be. But it is a sad commentary upon the venerated probity of the American press, that they could by accepting his advertisement, participate in his ill-gotten gains. We do not see how anyone who assists in perpetrating a fraud, knows it to be such, but "absent treatment" idea, even if the law has not been technically violated. Anyone could tell what the nature of Weltner's business was by reading his ads. People that conduct daily papers are supposed to have enough intelligence to understand plain English. So it would seem from this things have to be pretty rank before these great moral forces of the community," as the American papers style themselves, will decline good money.

But, after all, let those who live in glass houses be careful how they throw stones. I have a cousin who once stole a banana. "DIANTHUS."

"Why can a man never starve in the great desert?" "Because he can eat the sand which is there?" "But what brought the sandwiches there?" "Noah sent Ham, and his descendants ants mustered and bread."

It is not generally known that clippings from masculine heads of hair are used for making strainers through which syrups are clarified.

The Flanour writes eloquently about individual liberty and British freedom when he pleads for Sunday cars and Sunday excursions. In the very same issue of the Mail, on the third column of the same page, he supports the desire of Grocers' and Provision Dealers' Association of Toronto, to be "left alone" in the matter of early closing. But another kind of logic seemed to apply in the fifth column, where he argues against the request of common-sense, up-to-date people, who want to wear comfortable clothes.

However, the people will wear the clothes just the same whether Flanour, and for that matter, our own Banner-News, will or no. Meanwhile, the hotel in question might carry on the extravagant ideas which he has so ably started, a little further, and bar tan boots and golf-stocks, and black ties and Conservative and Roman Catholics, and hang out a sign, "No Irish need apply." Or it might, while about it, prescribe a special uniform to be worn by patrons of his dining room and special attention to the dress suggest, as an appropriate crest, a donkey rampant on a green field.

America is pre-eminently the "land of the fake and the home of the knave." This sentiment is not uttered in disparagement of the American people. It is a plain, every-day fact, due to no land can be found such a flourishing order of schemes for "doing" people out of their money; nor, apparently, such a lot of people willing to be done out of their money. Take up a cheap "magazine"—one of the "Household Sunshine" kind. "Fake" is plainly written in every advertisement you read. You wonder how people can possibly be taken in on such things.

The "magazine" itself is generally a fake; gotten up to advertise the fake agent's directory, the fake scheme for making a fortune at home; the fake puzzle contest; the fake correspondence school; the fake medicine man.

News of Another Success on the Part of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

An Alberta Man Reports his Entire Satisfaction With the World Famous Remedy—Blood Disorder the Cause of his Trouble—Dodd's Kidney Pills have Removed it and he is Thankful.

Blairmore, Alberta, July 26.—(Special)—Dodd's Kidney Pills are just as well thought of in the great Northwest as they are in any place else in the world. The people have confidence in them. They do as they are claimed to do. Nor is the claim a small one. Dodd's Kidney Pills are claimed to cure some of the most dangerous and deadly maladies that flesh is heir to, and what is more they do it. The proof is positive. Thousands and thousands of reputable people attest it.

For instance, every one knows Bright's disease at one time meant the sentence of death. Does it now? Ask Arthur Coley, of Somerset, Man. He was cured of Bright's disease, the last stages of it, by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure the lesser disorders of the human system arising from kidney disease with just as much certainty and an even greater promptness. Of these, Skin Eruptions, such as boils and pimples, arising from an impure state of the blood are not the most uncommon or the least distressing. Dodd's Kidney Pills by improving the action of the kidneys, purify the blood, and boils and pimples immediately disappear.

Walter H. A. Noble, of Blairmore, Alberta, writes in this connection: "I have been troubled with pimples all over my face, and backache. I tried everything to cure it, all kinds of medicine, but failed."

I was told to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and did so at once. I got three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and took one after every meal. They cured me. They are the only things that ever did me any good. I will always use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and advise all other sufferers to do so."

A woman does as she pleases during courtship, and after marriage her husband does as she pleases.

What does it profit a woman if she gains the whole world of knowledge and lose her own health? Young women students, and school teachers, eager, ambitious, and full of energy, very often neglect their health in the struggle to gain education. They eat insufficient food, and at irregular hours, they allow irregularity of the womanly functions to be established, and the result is that they strike the gulf of nervousness, and their education practically worthless. There is a plain road back to health for such as these, marked by the feet of thousands. It is the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Bronchitis Sufferers. Aet foolishly. If they improve ever so little when the fine weather comes, they relax effort, let drift back into the old condition which, if possible becomes more chronic. Hit Bronchitis hard in the summer and you'll get rid of it and drive it out of the system. In winter it is almost impossible to do this. Inhale Catarrhones regularly. It's a dead sure thing on Bronchitis. It goes into the most minute air cells of the lungs, bathes all parts of the bronchial tubes with its healing, germ-destroying vapor, and cures every time. Highly endorsed by all competent druggists and doctors. 25c and $1.00.

Author—I am troubled with insomnia. I lie awake at night hour after hour, thinking about my literary work. Friend—How very silly! Why don't you get up and read some of it?

If you are losing appetite, lying awake nights, take Blood's Sarsaparilla—it's just the tonic you need.

Johnny—Why do you say that—the pen is mightier than the sword? His father—Because you can't sign cheques with a sword.

Cure Yourself of Rheumatism. The application of Nerviline—nerve-pain cure—over all nerve pain, has proved a remarkable success in rheumatism and neuralgia. Nerviline acts on the nerves, soothes them, drives pain out and so gives relief. Try it and be convinced.

Fan Bearer to Your Feet....

"Holy Allah! how the Sahib's feet ache!

"How they burn—how they chafe—how they smart."

"How the great clammy floods of perspiration hath oozed out of their blistering pores; and hath threatened to float the Mem Sahib out of his reeking shoes!

"Behold the ruddy pair of lobsters which cometh forth from their airtight leather cages, to blush the glowing sun into eclipse, and carry dismay to the camels on the winds of the desert!

"Lo! if tenderness be the sign of a good heart the Sahib has indeed a noble heart, albeit lieth far down in his footwear where he has tenderness to burn.

"And Corns—aye, by the beard of the Prophet, he hath bushels of them, and hot weather coming promiseth to sprout a second crop of corks.

"Ho! fan him with a whirlwind!

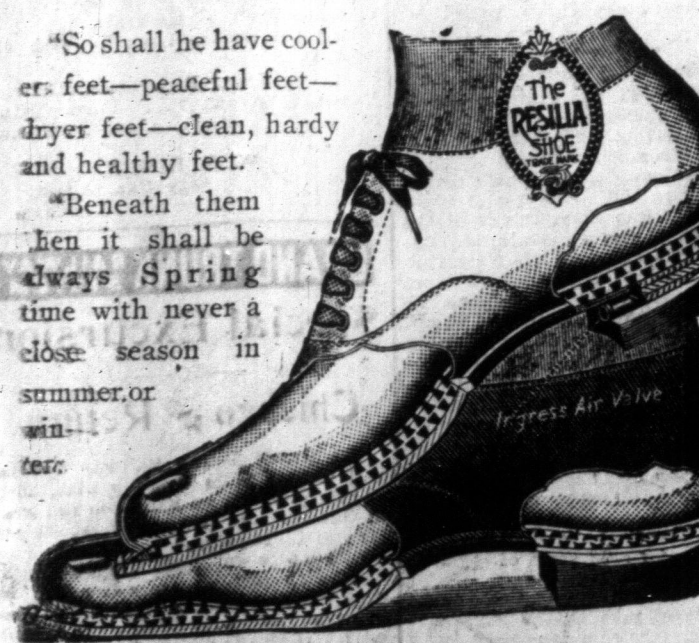

"Ho! bring him a pair of snowshoes for his sweltering feet, and eke the shoes of the iceman!

"Ho! send his Foot Coffins to the leather morgue.

"Bring forth the Fan Shoe!—the shoe that breathes the Resilia Soled Slater Shoe!

"So may the Sahib have lungs in his boots—yea, even a pair of busy air pumps within the shoe soles, to ventilate his stifling feet at every step, and to carry off the moisture.

KENT'S WELL OF ST. KEYNE

Charming Spring at Pardo's Grove to Which Indian Legend Attaches.

The Wishing Well a Popular Spot With Lovers and Young People of Sentimental Calibre.

There is at Pardo's Grove on the north shore of Lake Erie, a spring of water, wonderfully cold and pure. Even in the warmest days of summer the water that comes from this spring is almost dead in temperature. A willow tree shades this fountain, and a winding path from the high bank above leads to the spring, which is situated near the foot of the hill. The water comes from the bank and then is lost in the sands of the beach. This spring, however, has a more remarkable feature than the purity and frigidly of its waters. It is called the wishing spring, and it is said that whoever makes a wish and then drinks of the water will live to see the fulfillment of his desire. Nearly every one in Kent county has visited this spring and have wished, and many are the remarkable stories told of wishes that have come true.

The sport is the popular resort of lovers. There is a pretty little Indian legend attached to this wishing well. It is tradition in the neighborhood that in the days when Canada was all primeval forest, and the white man unknown, that a settlement of Indians was situated on the bank above this spring. The chief had a beautiful daughter who met and loved the brave young chief of a hostile tribe. Her father was so angry when he learned of this that he summoned all his warriors and sought in battle the tribe of the chief his daughter loved. The young Indian leader was killed and the father, a course brutal man, brought the scalp of her lover and threw it at the feet of his beautiful daughter. After that the Indian girl was never the same and she gradually faded away. Her favorite place was beside the spring, and she would sit there by the hour always wishing for death and seemingly receiving solace from the cool waters of the spring. One day she was found beside the spring dead, with such a happy smile on her face that those who found her said that she had found her lover and attained her wish.

Ever since this natural fountain has been known as the "wishing well," and all who drink of its waters may see the fulfillment of their desires.

International Bible School for Tomorrow—"God calls Abraham"—Gen. 12, 1-9.

At 75 years of age this childless man is called of God to leave his friends and kindred and become a religious missionary tramp. This is done to preserve the knowledge of the true God and eternal life and prevent the universal spread of idolatry. No soldier, law-giver, genius or philosopher, only a plain, every day tattle raiser—God honors this man's faith in leaving all and following his directions, for he is looked for a city whose builder and maker is God.—Heb. 11, 10. Jews, Mahometans and Christians honor his name to-day. Several times in Scripture he is called the "Friend of God." Jesus says, "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all things shall be added unto you.

Theatrical

P. H. McEwen, the Scottish hypnotist, is at his summer home in Detroit Minn. His season opens in September in Sydney, C. B.

Byron Bronte, who staged the "Pirates of Penzance," produced here, is appearing with his wife, in vaudeville on the Michigan circuit of parks.

The Shipman Bros. will next season present "Puddenhead Wilson," Walker Whiteside in a repertoire, and "The Prisoner of Zenda." All three of these attractions will visit Chatham. Douglas Paterson formerly a student at the C. C. I. here, is in the cast of "Puddenhead Wilson."

Bookings for the early fall at the Grand include the famous Bostonians, "The Telephone Girl," Walter Hedges in Roland Reed's great comedy "Humbug," H. Reeves Smith in "A Brace of Partridges," "The Span of Life," John Griffith, "A Breezy Time," Cleveland's Minstrels and H. Henry's Minstrels. Whiteside's "Que Vadis" comes in February, and Yale's great spectacle "The Devil's Auction" March 4th.

The Lyceum course will this season open in September or early in October, and run steadily at intervals of three or four weeks. The sale in Chatham this year has been very large and will test the capacity of the Grand. Over 1200 tickets have already been sold for the course arranged by Mr. Cairns at the new theatre in London. And it promises to be one of the best courses in America.

Ready-made That Rival Custom-made

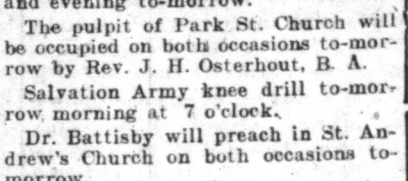

There are two or three signs that betray the usual ready-made suit wherever you find it. We've studied how to eliminate these signs.

One is the pocket. Most manufacturers will not take the time to do fine work on ready-made pockets. They think it doesn't pay, but we find that these beautifully finished pockets pay very well indeed. People are learning to know T. & D. work by the pockets. Compare the corners of our coat and vest pockets with those of other makes and you will see for yourself.

The edge of the garment is another sign. Well tailored edges are fine, thin, stitched with perfect evenness. Our ready-made edges are well tailored.

Still another important point is the inner linings—coat interlinings and the stay-bands of trousers. These unseen things decide whether the garment shall retain its fit or turn baggy and shapeless. We can show you exactly what interlinings are used in any garment from our factory. Rather you saw them than not. They're very creditable.

RONDEAU, SATURDAY, JULY 27, 1901.

Day's Doings At Rondeau, Maple City's Summer Resort.

How Cottagers and Campers are Spending The Season of Recreation on the Shores of Lake Erie.

The Nancy, Capt. Hutchinson, is anchored at the Eau.

Miss Minnie Samson, Drumtochty Lodge, is spending the day in Chatham.

A. H. VonGontang has enlarged his cottage, "Illicilliwart," and is now residing at the Eau.

Mrs. Howard has returned to Detroit after visiting her sister, Mrs. T. J. Rutley, Thursavilla.

A large party from Highgate picked the Eau yesterday. Miss Allie Humphrey, of this city, was with them.

There was a large crowd at the band concert last night. Chatham, Ridgeway, Highgate and Blenheim were all well represented.

Mrs. (Dr.) Baskerville, Mount Pleasant; Miss Nellie Briscoe, Napanee; Miss Eva Schwenker and Miss Lottie Thompson spent yesterday at Beverly Lodge, the summer residence of Arch. Park.

A merry party of Methodists picked at the Eau yesterday. Mrs. E. E. Brock chaperoned the party and Mr. Brock took them all sailing.

Clarence Terry, Willie McGeorge, John and Wilfrid Smith, are camping at the Eau. They have pitched their tent next to the Mushroom, J. E. Oldershaw's summer residence.

The boys are having a good time, although they carry away their canvas residence. John Smith says that he is always going to camp in the village of Ridgeway now as he finds that the people there are the best and splendid neighbors for boys camping out. Judge Houston furnished their dessert yesterday in the shape of pudding.

The pleasure seeking residents of Ridgeway are preparing for a picnic at Government Park next Tuesday. The outing promises to be the event of the season. The yacht "Pirate," Capt. W. H. Brock; Bonnie Belle, Capt. E. B. Jones; Osiris, Capt. Garnet Brackin, first mate Will Houston; Louise, Capt. Will Rutley; Klondyke, Capt. Ned Young, and the launch "Winkie" have all been chartered for the trip. Representatives from the following cottages will make up the party: Clearview, Thursavilla, Happy Days, Mushroom, Dangleys Lodge, Bonnie Doone, The Booby, Sandy-Knave, and Bellevedere.

The Seabird, of Port Stanley, reached the Eau yesterday somewhat of a wreck, and had this yacht not been all that her name says she is, the probabilities are that she would never have reached the Eau. Thursday night the wind was blowing so rough that even the Urania wouldn't attempt to leave Port Stanley. In the morning the wind went down and was blowing very lightly when the Seabird made her way out of the piers at Port Stanley. There was a heavy sea running and the yacht had no sooner got well out in the lake than a strong gale sprang up from the east. It was too late to make back into the shelter of the harbor and Capt. Queen had no choice but to run before the wind to the Eau. The yacht was racing along before the wind when the mainsail jibed and broke the boom. A few minutes afterward the top mast was carried away. The forward hatch had been battened down, and although huge seas broke over the yacht, no water was shipped. The crew at once set to work and spliced the boom. The run to the Eau was continued and the yacht is now there undergoing repairs. There were on board Capt. Frank Queen, W. Queen, Jos. Smith, Arthur Macpherson, I. Kerr, D. Walker and Tom Johnson.
